Most of the larger pools or "holes" on Knapps Creek have a name. The Ellick or Alex Hole near Minnehaha Springs is the deepest and perhaps most dangerous. A large rock on the far side of the stream with a ladder allows swimmers to jump or dive into the deep, cold water. Its depth is unknown but appears to be 20 feet [illegible] herky-jerky feet with the line dart-

Warmer weather and school vacation time turned our attention to a variety of outdoor games and swimming in the local swimming holes. Biking and hiking in the nearby woods were almost daily activities. Our most favorite activity, however, was rock fishin'. This required very little planning and minimal equipment.

Our prey in rock fishin' was the Rockbass or what we knew as the "goggle-eye" or sometimes as the "red-eye." They were abundant in the rocky, slower moving streams of the area. They were a tasty pan fish but received very little attention from most fishermen. The West Virginia fishing regulations don't even mention them and they are grouped with other fish in the "All Others" category.

All that it took for us was for someone to say "Let's go rock fishin' tomorrow." Three or four of us would agree to meet early the next morning to begin our outing.

We had an ideal place to fish. Knapps Creek, a clear, rocky stream flowed along the southeast edge of the town, made a large horseshoe loop of about a mile or so, and then flowed northwest ending a few hundred yards from the start of the horseshoe. This allowed us a short walk to our starting point and two or three hours of fishing before we arrived back near our homes. Knapps Creek was mostly shallow with lots of good fishing places for goggle-eyes.

Our equipment began with a stick, usually broken from a tree limb, pencil-sized and about the width of your hand. Onto this stick would be tied four to six feet of fishing line. The line would be wrapped around the stick and held loosely in one hand with one end of the line protruding between the fingers. The line could then be pulled or snapped from the stick as if from a reel. Hooks were bought in bulk and carried often in a metal aspirin box which caused a clink-clank sound as we walked. A dime's worth of hooks would last several outings.

A clean, empty can was next. This was for our bait. A number 2 1/2 was best but we would use whatever was available. Our clothing was usually cut-off jeans, no shoes, and shirts were optional.

Our first task when arriving at the creek was to catch our bait. The favorite bait was crawfish or "craw-dads" as we knew them. We began at the "In-take," where water [illegible] a good place. If you are lucky, you might grab them while they are swimming. Most of the time, you follow them and attempt to catch them as they enter their next hiding place. The smarter craws swam toward the swifter, deeper water and were lost. When our can was about half full, we were ready to begin fishing!

The technique for catching goggle-eyes was quite simple. They spend most of their daylight hours beneath rocks. All you have to do is convince your bait to crawl under the rock where it can be eaten. Well, maybe it is not so simple!

We would wade into the stream, stand on the rock, and fish under it. You must find an opening beneath the rock, usually on the upstream side, and drop the craw-dad so that it would be carried into the opening by the current. It often took several attempts to judge the current and have the bait arrive at the right spot. The idea was to have the bait crawl beneath the rock but the craw usually had other ideas! You could tell when a fish was under the rock when the craw raised its pinchers in defense and took off in the opposite direction. You would lift it up and again return it to the opening. After several returns, it would eventually go in the right direction.

If the fish was really hungry, it would come out to grab the bait and return to its lair. On the other hand, you could not afford to allow the craw-dad to venture too far beneath the rock. This would result in a sure-fire hang-up and a lost hook.

An observant fisherman can recognize certain signs to indicate that a fish does live beneath a particular rock. The first is at the opening beneath the rock. Fish going under [illegible] will often bring "fins-ed." The sharp spines cause a painful puncture which quickly becomes sore and lasts several days. One method of landing it was to swing the fish between your thighs, trap it with your legs, and stick your fingers in its mouth. You could then carry it to the bank. Some preferred to simply hold the fish aloft on the line and carry it to the bank. This method risked the loss of the fish before reaching the shore. Regardless of the method used, we all usually ended with finned hands.

The first fish caught required us to look for a "stringer." This was always a forked stick broken from a streamside alder. We would find a pencil sized stick with a similar size branch. The twigs would be stripped from it and a three-inch portion of the branch left attached. The small end is inserted through the gills and the fish allowed to slide down until it was stopped by the stub of the branch. The person catching the first fish was elected to carry the day's catch.

There were a number of hazards associated with rock fishin'. They ranged from irritating to dangerous. We were all fully aware of them and took steps to minimize these hazards.

The first hazard we encountered were the "periwinkles." These are very small snails which covered the submerged rocks throughout the length of the stream. They have very fragile shells which are easily crushed by our bare feet. They were not a problem unless your foot would slide along the rock. In this case, the circular opening in the shell would cut into the foot. The half-moon shaped cuts were not deep or serious but did cause sore feet for a few days.

Weeds along the banks could [illegible] den appearance. We knew they were harmless and usually just ignored them. A more serious threat were the rattlesnakes and copperheads, which were common in the hills along the stream. During the drier summer months, they sometimes migrated to the streams. To avoid them, we stayed in the water as much as possible. If we encountered one, we gave it plenty of room and hastily left that area. No one was ever bitten by one of these poisonous snakes.

One of our most dreaded hazards was neither poisonous nor dangerous. It was the "waterdog" or mudpuppy. They are large, ugly salamanders which spend their daylight hours beneath rocks in the stream. They also loved craw-dads! This sometimes resulted in an unwanted catch.

Waterdogs grow to two feet in length, have a hugh, rubbery mouth, and small beady eyes. It was easy to recognize a waterdog hook-up. When you set the hook, they would pull back with a steady firm pull. Only by exerting a constant, steady pressure could the catch be extracted from beneath the rock.

Once the waterdog was extracted, the catcher would wade to the bank where we would all gather. [illegible] ing about under the rock was the sign of a small fish. A firm steady pull was a good indication of a large fish. Sometimes with a larger fish, you could even hear an audible "chomp" as the fish took in the crawfish. This always caused my heart to beat a little faster!

Each of us had our own system for determining when to set the hook on a fish. We knew the smaller herky-jerky fish required more time to ingest the bait. We could set the hook on the larger fish much more quickly. I preferred the "count" method. A large fish might require a count of 5 to 10 while smaller fish needed a count of at least 15. Sometimes the count would start slowly and then accelerate as the excitement rose and I became impatient.

Most of the larger pools or "holes" on Knapps Creek have a name. The Ellick or Alex Hole near Minnehaha Springs is the deepest and perhaps most dangerous. A large rock on the far side of the stream with a ladder allows swimmers to jump or dive into the deep, cold water. Its depth is unknown but appears to be 20 feet [illegible] herky-jerky feet with the line dart-

[illegible] ing about under the rock was the sign of a small fish. A firm steady pull was a good indication of a large fish. Sometimes with a larger fish, you could even hear an audible "chomp" as the fish took in the crawfish. This always caused my heart to beat a little faster!

Each of us had our own system for determining when to set the hook on a fish. We knew the smaller herky-jerky fish required more time to ingest the bait. We could set the hook on the larger fish much more quickly. I preferred the "count" method. A large fish might require a count of 5 to 10 while smaller fish needed a count of at least 15. Sometimes the count would start slowly and then accelerate as the excitement rose and I became impatient.

Most of the larger pools or "holes" on Knapps Creek have a name. The Ellick or Alex Hole near Minnehaha Springs is the deepest and perhaps most dangerous. A large rock on the far side of the stream with a ladder allows swimmers to jump or dive into the deep, cold water. Its depth is unknown but appears to be 20 feet [illegible] [illegible] a good place. If you are lucky, you might grab them while they are swimming. Most of the time, you follow them and attempt to catch them as they enter their next hiding place. The smarter craws swam toward the swifter, deeper water and were lost. When our can was about half full, we were ready to begin fishing!

The technique for catching goggle-eyes was quite simple. They spend most of their daylight hours beneath rocks. All you have to do is convince your bait to crawl under the rock where it can be eaten. Well, maybe it is not so simple!

We would wade into the stream, stand on the rock, and fish under it. You must find an opening beneath the rock, usually on the upstream side, and drop the craw-dad so that it would be carried into the opening by the current. It often took several attempts to judge the current and have the bait arrive at the right spot. The idea was to have the bait crawl beneath the rock but the craw usually had other ideas! You could tell when a fish was under the rock when the craw raised its pinchers in defense and took off in the opposite direction. You would lift it up and again return it to the opening. After several returns, it would eventually go in the right direction.

If the fish was really hungry, it would come out to grab the bait and return to its lair. On the other hand, you could not afford to allow the craw-dad to venture too far beneath the rock. This would result in a sure-fire hang-up and a lost hook.

An observant fisherman can recognize certain signs to indicate that a fish does live beneath a particular rock. The first is at the opening beneath the rock. Fish going under [illegible] will often bring "fins-ed." The sharp spines cause a painful puncture which quickly becomes sore and lasts several days. One method of landing it was to swing the fish between your thighs, trap it with your legs, and stick your fingers in its mouth. You could then carry it to the bank. Some preferred to simply hold the fish aloft on the line and carry it to the bank. This method risked the loss of the fish before reaching the shore. Regardless of the method used, we all usually ended with finned hands.

The first fish caught required us to look for a "stringer." This was always a forked stick broken from a streamside alder. We would find a pencil sized stick with a similar size branch. The twigs would be stripped from it and a three-inch portion of the branch left attached. The small end is inserted through the gills and the fish allowed to slide down until it was stopped by the stub of the branch. The person catching the first fish was elected to carry the day's catch.

There were a number of hazards associated with rock fishin'. They ranged from irritating to dangerous. We were all fully aware of them and took steps to minimize these hazards.

The first hazard we encountered were the "periwinkles." These are very small snails which covered the submerged rocks throughout the length of the stream. They have very fragile shells which are easily crushed by our bare feet. They were not a problem unless your foot would slide along the rock. In this case, the circular opening in the shell would cut into the foot. The half-moon shaped cuts were not deep or serious but did cause sore feet for a few days.

Weeds along the banks could [illegible] den appearance. We knew they were harmless and usually just ignored them. A more serious threat were the rattlesnakes and copperheads, which were common in the hills along the stream. During the drier summer months, they sometimes migrated to the streams. To avoid them, we stayed in the water as much as possible. If we encountered one, we gave it plenty of room and hastily left that area. No one was ever bitten by one of these poisonous snakes.

One of our most dreaded hazards was neither poisonous nor dangerous. It was the "waterdog" or mudpuppy. They are large, ugly salamanders which spend their daylight hours beneath rocks in the stream. They also loved craw-dads! This sometimes resulted in an unwanted catch.

Waterdogs grow to two feet in length, have a hugh, rubbery mouth, and small beady eyes. It was easy to recognize a waterdog hook-up. When you set the hook, they would pull back with a steady firm pull. Only by exerting a constant, steady pressure could the catch be extracted from beneath the rock.

Once the waterdog was extracted, the catcher would wade to the bank where we would all gather. [illegible] ing about under the rock was the sign of a small fish. A firm steady pull was a good indication of a large fish. Sometimes with a larger fish, you could even hear an audible "chomp" as the fish took in the crawfish. This always caused my heart to beat a little faster!

Each of us had our own system for determining when to set the hook on a fish. We knew the smaller herky-jerky fish required more time to ingest the bait. We could set the hook on the larger fish much more quickly. I preferred the "count" method. A large fish might require a count of 5 to 10 while smaller fish needed a count of at least 15. Sometimes the count would start slowly and then accelerate as the excitement rose and I became impatient.

Most of the larger pools or "holes" on Knapps Creek have a name. The Ellick or Alex Hole near Minnehaha Springs is the deepest and perhaps most dangerous. A large rock on the far side of the stream with a ladder allows swimmers to jump or dive into the deep, cold water. Its depth is unknown but appears to be 20 feet [illegible] [illegible] a good place. If you are lucky, you might grab them while they are swimming. Most of the time, you follow them and attempt to catch them as they enter their next hiding place. The smarter craws swam toward the swifter, deeper water and were lost. When our can was about half full, we were ready to begin fishing!

The technique for catching goggle-eyes was quite simple. They spend most of their daylight hours beneath rocks. All you have to do is convince your bait to crawl under the rock where it can be eaten. Well, maybe it is not so simple!

We would wade into the stream, stand on the rock, and fish under it. You must find an opening beneath the rock, usually on the upstream side, and drop the craw-dad so that it would be carried into the opening by the current. It often took several attempts to judge the current and have the bait arrive at the right spot. The idea was to have the bait crawl beneath the rock but the craw usually had other ideas! You could tell when a fish was under the rock when the craw raised its pinchers in defense and took off in the opposite direction. You would lift it up and again return it to the opening. After several returns, it would eventually go in the right direction.

If the fish was really hungry, it would come out to grab the bait and return to its lair. On the other hand, you could not afford to allow the craw-dad to venture too far beneath the rock. This would result in a sure-fire hang-up and a lost hook.

An observant fisherman can recognize certain signs to indicate that a fish does live beneath a particular rock. The first is at the opening beneath the rock. Fish going under [illegible] will often bring "fins-ed." The sharp spines cause a painful puncture which quickly becomes sore and lasts several days. One method of landing it was to swing the fish between your thighs, trap it with your legs, and stick your fingers in its mouth. You could then carry it to the bank. Some preferred to simply hold the fish aloft on the line and carry it to the bank. This method risked the loss of the fish before reaching the shore. Regardless of the method used, we all usually ended with finned hands.

The first fish caught required us to look for a "stringer." This was always a forked stick broken from a streamside alder. We would find a pencil sized stick with a similar size branch. The twigs would be stripped from it and a three-inch portion of the branch left attached. The small end is inserted through the gills and the fish allowed to slide down until it was stopped by the stub of the branch. The person catching the first fish was elected to carry the day's catch.

There were a number of hazards associated with rock fishin'. They ranged from irritating to dangerous. We were all fully aware of them and took steps to minimize these hazards.

The first hazard we encountered were the "periwinkles." These are very small snails which covered the submerged rocks throughout the length of the stream. They have very fragile shells which are easily crushed by our bare feet. They were not a problem unless your foot would slide along the rock. In this case, the circular opening in the shell would cut into the foot. The half-moon shaped cuts were not deep or serious but did cause sore feet for a few days.

Weeds along the banks could [illegible] den appearance. We knew they were harmless and usually just ignored them. A more serious threat were the rattlesnakes and copperheads, which were common in the hills along the stream. During the drier summer months, they sometimes migrated to the streams. To avoid them, we stayed in the water as much as possible. If we encountered one, we gave it plenty of room and hastily left that area. No one was ever bitten by one of these poisonous snakes.

One of our most dreaded hazards was neither poisonous nor dangerous. It was the "waterdog" or mudpuppy. They are large, ugly salamanders which spend their daylight hours beneath rocks in the stream. They also loved craw-dads! This sometimes resulted in an unwanted catch.

Waterdogs grow to two feet in length, have a hugh, rubbery mouth, and small beady eyes. It was easy to recognize a waterdog hook-up. When you set the hook, they would pull back with a steady firm pull. Only by exerting a constant, steady pressure could the catch be extracted from beneath the rock.

Once the waterdog was extracted, the catcher would wade to the bank where we would all gather. [illegible] ing about under the rock was the sign of a small fish. A firm steady pull was a good indication of a large fish. Sometimes with a larger fish, you could even hear an audible "chomp" as the fish took in the crawfish. This always caused my heart to beat a little faster!

Each of us had our own system for determining when to set the hook on a fish. We knew the smaller herky-jerky fish required more time to ingest the bait. We could set the hook on the larger fish much more quickly. I preferred the "count" method. A large fish might require a count of 5 to 10 while smaller fish needed a count of at least 15. Sometimes the count would start slowly and then accelerate as the excitement rose and I became impatient.

Most of the larger pools or "holes" on Knapps Creek have a name. The Ellick or Alex Hole near Minnehaha Springs is the deepest and perhaps most dangerous. A large rock on the far side of the stream with a ladder allows swimmers to jump or dive into the deep, cold water. Its depth is unknown but appears to be 20 feet [illegible] herky-jerky feet with the line dart-

[

Rock Fishin' a boyhood story

By C. A. Curry

It was an ideal place for young boys to grow up. Located high in the mountains of West Virginia, the Town of Marlinton in the 1940's had a population of about 1200 people. There were no televisions, computers, or computer games, but we always had plenty of things to do.

The winters were often severe but this slowed us only slightly. There were sledding, snowball fights, and skating on the streams and ponds. For us kids, the winter snows brought lots of fun activities. On those unbearable days, there was Monopoly and matchstick poker.

Warmer weather and school vacation time turned our attention to a variety of outdoor games and swimming in the local swimming holes. Biking and hiking in the nearby woods were almost daily activities. Our most favorite activity, however, was rock fishin'. This required very little planning and minimal equipment.

Our prey in rock fishin' was the Rockbass or what we knew as the "goggle-eye" or sometimes as the "red-eye." They were abundant in the rocky, slower moving streams of the area. They were a tasty pan fish but received very little attention from most fishermen. The West Virginia fishing regulations don't even mention them and they are grouped with other fish in the "All Others" category.

All that it took for us was for someone to say "Let's go rock fishin' tomorrow." Three or four of us would agree to meet early the next morning to begin our outing.

We had an ideal place to fish. Knapps Creek, a clear, rocky stream flowed along the southeast edge of the town, made a large horseshoe loop of about a mile or so, and then flowed northwest ending a few hundred yards from the start of the horseshoe. This allowed us a short walk to our starting point and two was taken through a 36" pipe underground to the town water plant. Just below the in-take was an area of shallow water and an excellent place to catch craw-dads. Catching craw-dads was not easy but this was part of our fun. Craw-dads grow to five or six inches in length but we used those only two inches or less.

To catch craw-dads, we would lift rocks along the edge of the creek. Sometimes they would remain still, raising their pinchers in defense, and allow you to quickly grab them. More likely, however, they would swim away in reverse to seek another hiding place. If you are lucky, you might grab them while they are swimming. Most of the time, you follow them and attempt to catch them as they enter their next hiding place. The smarter craws swam toward the swifter, deeper water and were lost. When our can was about half full, we were ready to begin fishing!

The technique for catching goggle-eyes was quite simple. They spend most of their daylight hours beneath rocks. All you have to do is convince your bait to crawl under the rock where it can be eaten. Well, maybe it is not so simple!

We would wade into the stream, stand on the rock, and fish under it. You must find an opening beneath the rock, usually on the upstream side, and drop the craw-dad so that it would be carried into the opening by the current. It often took several attempts to judge the current and have the bait arrive at the right spot. The idea was to have the bait crawl beneath the rock but the craw usually had other ideas! You could tell when a fish was under the rock when the craw raised its pinchers in defense and took off in the opposite direction. You would lift it up and again return it to the opening. After several returns, it would eventually go in the right direction.

If the fish was really hungry, it would come out to grab the bait and return to its lair. On the other and out from rocks clean away the thin silt present on the rocks. This "slick" appearance is a sure sign of fish traffic. The other is to observe the area on the downstream side of the rock. Fish "waste" from beneath the rock washes out and collects on the downstream gravel. If neither sign is present, you are wasting your time.

Once you have hooked a goggle-eye, then comes the problem of "landing" it. The goggle-eye has 10 or 12 long spines in its dorsal fin. Simply grabbing it will result in being "finned." The sharp spines cause a painful puncture which quickly becomes sore and lasts several days. One method of landing it was to swing the fish between your thighs, trap it with your legs, and stick your finger in its mouth. You could then carry it to the bank. Some preferred to simply hold the fish aloft on the line and carry it to the bank. This method risked the loss of the fish before reaching the shore. Regardless of the method used, we all usually ended with finned hands.

The first fish caught required us to look for a "stringer." This was always a forked stick broken from a streamside alder. We would find a pencil sized stick with a similar size branch. The twigs would be stripped from it and a three-inch portion of the branch left attached. The small end is inserted through the gills and the fish allowed to slide down until it was stopped by the stub of the branch. The person catching the first fish was elected to carry the day's catch.

There were a number of hazards associated with rock fishin'. They ranged from irritating to dangerous. We were all fully aware of them and took steps to minimize these hazards.

The first hazard we encountered were the "periwinkles." These are very small snails which covered the submerged rocks throughout the length of the stream. They have also cause problems. One of the worst for me were the "nettles." Nettles grow to about three feet high and have stinging hairs along their stems. Walking bare legged through nettles results in itchy stings on the legs and can be quite painful for short periods of time. We tried to avoid nettles which were common along Knapps Creek. Poison ivy was also common and avoided.

Water snakes were abundant and we were often startled by their sudden appearance. We knew they were harmless and usually just ignored them. A more serious threat were the rattlesnakes and copperheads, which were common in the hills along the stream. During the drier summer months, they sometimes migrated to the streams. To avoid them, we stayed in the water as much as possible. If we encountered one, we gave it plenty of room and hastily left that area. No one was ever bitten by one of these poisonous snakes.

One of our most dreaded hazards was neither poisonous nor dangerous. It was the "waterdog" or mudpuppy. They are large, ugly salamanders which spend their daylight hours beneath rocks in the stream. They also loved craw-dads! This sometimes resulted in an unwanted catch.

Waterdogs grow to two feet in length, have a hugh, rubbery mouth, and small beady eyes. It was easy to recognize a waterdog look-up. When you set the hook, they would pull back with a steady firm pull. Only by exerting a constant, steady pressure could the catch be extracted from beneath the rock.

Once the waterdog was extracted, the catcher would wade to the bank where we would all gather. When we were armed with rocks the catcher would drop the waterdog to the ground and we would pelt it with the rocks until it was dead. We were familiar with an old saying which claimed no fish would bite on a hook once bitten by a waterdog. This gave us a good excuse to cut the line and abandon the hook.

With some experience, we could tell from the feel of the line in our hands and its movement the approximate size of the fish. A herky-jerky feel with the line darting about under the rock was the sign of a small fish. A firm steady pull was a good indication of a large fish. Sometimes with a larger fish, you could even hear an audible "chomp" as the fish took in the crawfish. This always caused my heart to beat a little faster!

Each of us had our own system for determining when to set the hook on a fish. We knew the smaller herky-jerky fish required more time to inject the bait. We could set the hook on the larger fish much more quickly. I preferred the "count" method. A large fish might require a count of 5 to 10 while smaller fish needed a count of at least 15. Sometimes the count would start slowly and then accelerate as the excitement rose and I became impatient.

Most of the larger pools or "holes" on Knapps Creek have a name. The Hilick or Alex Hole near Minnehaha Springs is the deepest and perhaps most dangerous. A large rock on the far side of the stream with a ladder allows swimmers to jump or dive into the deep, cold water. Its depth is unknown but appears to be 20 feet or so.

Downstream near Huntersville is the Devil's Backbone Hole, named for a geological structure where the earth's crust is exposed in a hugh, rocky arch. It is a favorite fishing spot but not suitable for swimming.

Nearer to Marlinton is the Indian Hole, named for a resident of American Indian ancestry. It is a long, quiet pool with waist deep water and easy access from Route #39. Just below it is the Pin Mill Hole where a mill once made the wooden "pins" on which glass insulators were placed for installation of telephone lines. It is also a long, shallow pool but difficult to access and lies mostly on private property.

The Curry Hole is next and is where I spent many happy hours as a child when visiting my Uncle Albert and his family. It is very small but ideal for beginner swimmers. Fishing was also quite good. The Jack Hole was downstream where Knapps Creek enters the Town of Marlinton. It is a beautiful hole with huge rocks and deep pockets of water. It always contained some large fish but is difficult to reach and fish. Both the Curry and Jack holes lie within private property. This takes us back to the Intake where our childhood fishing adventures always began.

Along the horseshoe the pools had names but we also had names for our fishing rocks! There was "peanut rock" comprised of many small, round pebbles and resembling peanuts glued together. The "chocolate rock" was a large, rectangular rock with a smooth brown surface which looked like a giant candy bar. My personal favorite

cont. to page 7

John's Paving
Driveways, Parking Lots, Patchwork, etc.

TALENT SHOW

stick poles.

Warmer weather and school vacation time turned our attention to a variety of outdoor games and swimming in the local swimming holes. Biking and hiking in the nearby woods were almost daily activities. Our most favorite activity, however, was rock fishin'. This required very little planning and minimal equipment.

Our prey in rock fishin' was the Rockbass or what we knew as the "goggle-eye" or sometimes as the "red-eye." They were abundant in the rocky, slower moving streams of the area. They were a tasty pan fish but received very little attention from most fishermen. The West Virginia fishing regulations don't even mention them and they are grouped with other fish in the "All Others" category.

All that it took for us was for someone to say "Let's go rock fishin' tomorrow." Three or four of us would agree to meet early the next morning to begin our outing.

We had an ideal place to fish. Knapps Creek, a clear, rocky stream flowed along the southeast edge of the town, made a large horseshoe loop of about a mile or so, and then flowed northwest ending a few hundred yards from the start of the horseshoe. This allowed us a short walk to our starting point and two or three hours of fishing before we arrived back near our homes. Knapps Creek was mostly shallow with lots of good fishing places for goggle-eyes.

Our equipment began with a stick, usually broken from a tree limb, pencil-sized and about the width of your hand. Onto this stick would be tied four to six feet of fishing line. The line would be wrapped around the stick and held loosely in one hand with one end of the line protruding between the fingers. This end could then be pulled or stripped from the stick as if from a reel. Hooks were bought in bulk and carried often in a metal aspirin box which caused a clink-clank sound as we walked. A dime's worth of hooks would last several outings.

A clean, empty can was next. This was for our bait. A number 2 1/2 was best but we would use whatever was available. Our clothing was usually cut-off jeans, no shoes, and shirts were optional.

Our first task when arriving at the creek was to catch our bait. The favorite bait was crawfish or "craw-dads" as we knew them. We began at the "In-take," where water

Warmer weather and school vacation time turned our attention to a variety of outdoor games and swimming in the local swimming holes. Hiking and biking in the nearby woods were almost daily activities. Our most favorite activity, however, was rock fishin'. This required very little planning and minimal equipment.

Our prey in rock fishin' was the Rockbass or what we knew as the "goggle-eye" or sometimes as the "red-eye." They were abundant in the rocky, slower moving streams of the area. They were a tasty pan fish but received very little attention from most fishermen. The West Virginia fishing regulations don't even mention them and they are grouped with other fish in the "All Others" category.

All that it took for us was for someone to say "Let's go rock fishin' tomorrow." Three or four of us would agree to meet early the next morning to begin our outing.

We had an ideal place to fish. Knapps Creek, a clear, rocky stream flowed along the southeast edge of the town, made a large horseshoe loop of about a mile or so, and then flowed northwest ending a few hundred yards from the start of the horseshoe. This allowed us a short walk to our starting point and two or three hours of fishing before we arrived back near our homes. Knapps Creek was mostly shallow with lots of good fishing places for goggle-eyes.

Our equipment began with a stick, usually broken from a tree limb, pencil-sized and about the width of your hand. Onto this stick would be tied four to six feet of fishing line. The line would be wrapped around the stick and held loosely in one hand with one end of the line protruding between the fingers. This end could then be pulled or stripped from the stick as if from a reel. Hooks were bought in bulk and carried often in a metal aspirin box which caused a clink-clank sound as we walked. A dime's worth of hooks would last several outings.

A clean, empty can was next. This was for our bait. A number 2 1/2 was best but we would use whatever was available. Our clothing was usually cut-off jeans, no shoes, and shirts were optional.

Our first task when arriving at the creek was to catch our bait. The favorite bait was crawfish or "craw-dads" as we knew them. We began at the "In-take," where water while they are swimming. Most of the time, you follow them and attempt to catch them as they enter their next hiding place. The smarter craws swam toward the swiftest, deeper water and were lost. When our can was about half full, we were ready to begin fishing!

The technique for catching goggle-eyes was quite simple. They spend most of their daylight hours beneath rocks. All you have to do is convince your bait to crawl under the rock where it can be eaten. Well, maybe it is not so simple!

We would wade into the stream, stand on the rock, and fish under it. You must find an opening beneath the rock, usually on the upstream side, and drop the craw-dad so that it would be carried into the opening by the current. It often took several attempts to judge the current and have the bait arrive at the right spot. The idea was to have the bait crawl beneath the rock but the craw usually had other ideas! You could tell when a fish was under the rock when the craw raised its pinchers in defense and took off in the opposite direction. You would lift it up and again return it to the opening. After several returns, it would eventually go in the right direction.

If the fish was really hungry, it would come out to grab the bait and return to its lair. On the other hand, you could not afford to allow the craw-dad to venture too far beneath the rock. This would result in a sure-fire hang-up and a lost hook.

An observant fisherman can recognize certain signs to indicate that a fish does live beneath a particular rock. The first is at the opening beneath the rock. Fish going under which quickly becomes sore and lasts several days. One method of landing it was to swing the fish between your thighs, trap it with your legs, and stick your finger in its mouth. You could then carry it to the bank. Some preferred to simply hold the fish aloft on the line and carry it to the bank. This method risked the loss of the fish before reaching the shore. Regardless of the method used, we all usually ended with finned hands.

The first fish caught required us to look for a "stringer." This was always a forked stick broken from a streamside alder. We would find a pencil sized stick with a similar size branch. The twigs would be stripped from it and a three-inch portion of the branch left attached. The small end is inserted through the gills and the fish allowed to slide down until it was stopped by the stub of the branch. The person catching the first fish was elected to carry the day's catch.

There were a number of hazards associated with rock fishin'. They ranged from irritating to dangerous. We were all fully aware of them and took steps to minimize these hazards.

The first hazard we encountered were the "periwinkles." These are very small snails which covered the submerged rocks throughout the length of the stream. They have very fragile shells which are easily crushed by our bare feet. They were not a problem unless your foot would slide along the rock. In this case, the circular opening in the shell would cut into the foot. The half-moon shaped cuts were not deep or serious but did cause sore feet for a few days.

Weeds along the banks could

which quickly becomes sore and lasts several days. One method of landing it was to swing the fish between your thighs, trap it with your legs, and stick your finger in its mouth. You could then carry it to the bank. Some preferred to simply hold the fish aloft on the line and carry it to the bank. This method risked the loss of the fish before reaching the shore. Regardless of the method used, we all usually ended with finned hands.

The first fish caught required us to look for a "stringer." This was always a forked stick broken from a streamside alder. We would find a pencil sized stick with a similar size branch. The twigs would be stripped from it and a three-inch portion of the branch left attached. The small end is inserted through the gills and the fish allowed to slide down until it was stopped by the stub of the branch. The person catching the first fish was elected to carry the day's catch.

There were a number of hazards associated with rock fishin'. They ranged from irritating to dangerous. We were all fully aware of them and took steps to minimize these hazards.

The first hazard we encountered were the "periwinkles." These are very small snails which covered the submerged rocks throughout the length of the stream. They have very fragile shells which are easily crushed by our bare feet. They were not a problem unless your foot would slide along the rock. In this case, the circular opening in the shell would cut into the foot. The half-moon shaped cuts were not deep or serious but did cause sore feet for a few days.

Weeds along the banks could ignored them. A more serious threat were the rattlesnakes and copperheads, which were common in the hills along the stream. During the drier summer months, they sometimes migrated to the streams. To avoid them, we stayed in the water as much as possible. If we encountered one, we gave it plenty of room and hastily left that area. No one was ever bitten by one of these poisonous snakes.

One of our most dreaded hazards was neither poisonous nor dangerous. It was the "waterdog" or mudpuppy. They are large, ugly salamanders which spend their daylight hours beneath rocks in the stream. They also loved craw-dads! This sometimes resulted in an unwanted catch.

Waterdogs grow to two feet in length, have a hugh, rubbery mouth, and small beady eyes. It was easy to recognize a waterdog hook-up. When you set the hook, they would pull back with a steady firm pull. Only by exerting a constant, steady pressure could the catch be extracted from beneath the rock.

Once the waterdog was extracted, the catcher would wade to the bank where we would all gather.

sign of a small fish. A firm steady pull was a good indication of a large fish. Sometimes with a larger fish, you could even hear an audible "chomp" as the fish took in the crawfish. This always caused my heart to beat a little faster!

Each of us had our own system for determining when to set the hook on a fish. We knew the smaller herky-jerky fish required more time to ingest the bait. We could set the hook on the larger fish much more quickly. I preferred the "count" method. A large fish might require a count of 5 to 10 while smaller fish needed a count of at least 15. Sometimes the count would start slowly and then accelerate as the excitement rose and I became impatient.

Most of the larger pools or "holes" on Knapps Creek have a name. The Ellick or Alex Hole near Minnehaha Springs is the deepest and perhaps most dangerous. A large rock on the far side of the stream with a ladder allows swimmers to jump or dive into the deep, cold water. Its depth is unknown but appears to be 20 feet

The Curry Hole is next and is where I spent many happy hours as a child when visiting my Uncle Albert and his family. It is very small but ideal for beginner swimmers. Fishing was also quite good. The Jack Hole was downstream where Knapps Creek enters the Town of Marlinton. It is a beautiful hole with huge rocks and deep pockets of water. It always contained some large fish but is difficult to reach and fish. Both the Curry and Jack holes lie within private property. This takes us back to the Intake where our childhood fishing adventures always began.

Along the horseshoe the pools had names but we also had names for our fishing rocks! There was "peanut rock" comprised of many small, round pebbles and resembling peanuts glued together. The "chocolate rock" was a large, rectangular rock with a smooth brown surface which looked like a giant candy bar. My personal favorite

cont. to page 7

John's Paving
Driveways, Parking Lots, Patchwork, etc.
Free Estimates
All Work Guaranteed
473-1011 WV#030766

Monroe Insurance Agency
Greg & Cathy Monroe, Agents
926 10th Avenue
Marlinton • (304) 799-6303
Farm Family

TALENT SHOW
Sponsored by the PCHS Cheerleaders
(singing, dancing, music, gymnastics, etc.)
January 6 - 6 p.m.
Marlinton Municipal Building
Doors open at 5 p.m.
Admission - $3
Youth division - 13 & under Adults 14 & up
1st, 2nd & 3rd place prizes to be awarded Entry fee - $5

Christmas Day
Allegheny Mt. Radio presents the Young Folks' Christmas
10 a.m. • Hillsboro Elementary School
Green Bank Elementary/Middle School
11 a.m. • Pocahontas County High School Band Noon • Marlinton Middle School
Marlinton Elementary School
2:15 p.m. • Highland Elementary School
3 p.m. • Highland High & Middle School Concert
4 p.m. • Bath Co. High School Band Concert
5 p.m. • Millboro Elementary Valley Elementary

Join us at the Marlinton Municipal Building
Saturday, December 23
9 a.m. - 6 p.m.
for an Open House CELLULAR ONE

Rock Fishin'

cont. from page 4

was "the ledge" which I will describe later.

Anyone could reserve one of these rocks simply by announcing at the beginning that "I get the peanut rock." Others would then select the rock of their choice. When we reached these rocks in the stream, the one who had selected the rock would proceed directly to it and be allowed to fish beneath it. This worked well except when "Jim" fished with us. Jim was older and stronger and he was "allowed" to fish under any or all of the favorite rocks!

The first hole we reached was "Yellowstone." No one knew who or why it was named since there were no yellow rocks in it. It was a beautiful hole with high cliffs on one side and a large flat rock beneath the cliffs. We once "camped out" on the large rock and fished at night. It was a horrible experience. Although we built a fire, it was still miserably cold. We did not have sleeping bags and the cold dampness from the water and rocks easily penetrated our blankets. Yellowstone was always good for three or four nice goggle-eyes.

Below Yellowstone the water dropped rapidly toward the next pool and there were few places to rock fish. We usually skipped these rapids and proceeded to the next pool.

"Brownies" was a good fishing hole but was also a popular swimming hole. There was a shallower portion in which we could fish but there were usually swimmers in the lower, deeper end. It was in the upper portion where I saw my biggest ever Smallmouth Bass! As I was wading through the pool I saw this monster bass swimming in the same direction. I watched as it approached a large flat rock in midstream and then turned on its side in order to slide beneath the rock. I hurriedly waded out onto the rock and began testing the current with my bait. After several tries, it finally drifted down into the opening where he had entered the rock. Nothing. I retrieved the bait and tried another opening. Still nothing. After several tries, I gave up. I told no one about this sighting and believed I would catch him on another day.

You can imagine my disappointment several days later when a neighbor announced his catching of a big bass at Brownies. He was an avid fly fisherman and had caught it late one evening on a big bass fly. It was 18 inches in length but he described it as very skinny. How could he catch MY bass! I congratulated him and went home. He WAS a good friend and I didn't even mention having seen the bass myself.

Below Brownies the creek flowed close to a hill and was shaded by the trees. This dark area did not produce very many fish but they were always larger than most others. We fished it very slowly and carefully and managed two or three fish each time.

We then reached a point where we had to make a decision. The creek branched and flowed around a large island. The right fork was swifter, shorter, and had few good fishing rocks. The left fork flowed along slowly with two more good fishing holes. If we had plenty of fish or were tired, we would take the shorter route home. Usually, we would decide on the longer route and continue to fish.

The island was a favorite playground for us. We often played "army"—a military hide-and-seek game with sticks used for guns. It was also where we had an infamous cook-out! We had "borrowed" about a dozen ears of field corn from a nearby farmer. Someone had brought a large pot and we built a fire on which to cook our corn. After several hours of watching the corn cook in creek water, we decided it was ready. We knawed on the hard kernels, absent salt and butter, and told each other how really good it was. Strangely, no one asked for seconds!

The next pool on the left branch was the "ledge hole." It was a long, shallow pool which always contained both bass and goggle-eyes. As we appraoched the pool, most of the fish would swim beneath the "ledge." Bedrock stretched across the pool and water had eroded an opening between the layers of rock. This was our ledge and the cavity between the rocks must have been large. We almost always caught four or five fish, including one or two nice bass.

The Wyatt Hole was named for a family which lived nearby. It was a small, knee-deep, circular pool with several rocks around its perimeter. It was not a very good pool but might yield a fish or two.

A short distance downstream, the two forks rejoined. From here the stream dropped swiftly for several hundred yards to "the dam" and the end of our journey. We could walk along a road to the dam or continue downstream and fish in the dam.

The "dam" was actually not a dam. It was a high flood wall behind which earth had been filled, creating an elevated lawn overlooking the creek. Fishermen, sunbathers, and swimmers flocked to the dam during the summer months. My home was just beyond the dam.

It was in the dam hole where my friend "Bubbles" caught the biggest goggle-eye I have ever seen. I was standing on the dam watching while he fished beneath a rock in midstream. He yanked the huge fish from beneath the rock but then had the problem of getting it to the shore. It was too large to grasp or even trap between his legs. He waded toward the dam and with one motion of the line heaved it over the dam. It landed on the grass and I pounced on it. He scrambled up the wall and we both celebrated.

This great fish measured thirteen and one-half inches. We had no scales for weighing it. We also knew nothing of record catches in those days and this prize catch soon was served on his mother's table. The West Virginia State Record for Rock Bass as shown in the 1999 regulations is 13.8 inches, caught in 1964!

At the dam, we would divide our fish and head home. My father would help me clean the fish and my mother would cook them. None was wasted. Goggle-eyes are very tasty and rival trout for goodness.

These lazy summer days with my friends on Knapps Creek were among the happiest of my life. I think often of them and long to hear someone say, "Let's go rock fishin' tomorrow."

List of WV's National Register of Historic Places available

The State Historic Preservation Office (SHPO) of the West Virginia Division of Culture and History has published "Historic West Virginia," a compendium of the state's listings in the National Register of Historic Places.

The 156 page soft-cover volume includes a brief description of each of the state's 755 buildings, structures, historic districts, objects and archeological sites listed in the National Register from 1966 through December 1999. Photographs accompany many of the listings, which are organized by county. In addition to the National Register listings, the book features an appendix with suggested publication and Internet websites related to archaeology, architecture and the National Register.

"Historic West Virginia" was funded in part by the National Park Service, Department of the Interior, and by West Virginia Celebration 2000. Other donors to the project include: Mr. and Mrs. Charles Behrens, of Romney; Mr. and Mrs. Harlan P. Carter III, of Wheeling; Mr. and Mrs. William Cook, of Ironton, Ohio; Nancy Daugherty, of Washington, D.C.; C. R. Davidson and Joan Lemons Higginbotham, of New Martinsville; Michael Gioulis, of Sutton; The Lewisburg Foundation; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Martin III, of Berkeley County; Mary Hock Morgan, of Lewisburg; Moundsville Historic Landmarks Commission; Jennifer I. Ours and Debbie O. Bishop, of Old Fields; Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Sleigh, of Lewis County; Carolyn Welcker, of Charleston; and Eugene Williams, of Romney.

The National Register of Historic Places is the nation's official list of cultural resources worthy of preservation. Authorized under the National Historic Preservation Act of 1966, the National Register is part of a national program to coordinate and support public and private efforts to identify, evaluate and protect the country's archaeological resources. Properties listed in the Register include districts, sites, buildings, structures and objects that are significant in American history, architecture, archaeology, engineering and culture. The National Register is administered by the National Park Service, which is part of the U.S. Department of the Interior. The SHPO coordinates the National Register in West Virginia.

"Historic West Virginia" is free while supplies last. To request a copy or for more information about the National Register of Historic Places in West Virginia, call Katherine Jourdan at (304) 558-0220, ext. 156.

The West Virginia Division of Culture and History, an agency of the West Virginia Department of [illegible] future through programs and services in the areas of archives and history, the arts, historic preservation and museums. The Cultural Center is West Virginia's official showcase for the arts. Visit the Division's website at www.wvculture.org for more information about programs of the Division.

Places In Pocahontas County on Historic Register

Camp Bartow Historic District (Traveler's Repose)

Cass Historic District

Cass Scenic Railroad

Reber Radio Telescope at National Radio Astronomy Observatory

Pearl S. Buck House

Locust Creek Covered Bridge

Huntersville Presbyterian Church

Frank and Anna Hunter House, housing Pocahontas County Historical Museum

Marlinton Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad Station and Bunkhouse, housing Pocahontas County Tourism Visitor's Center

Pocahontas County Courthouse and Jail

Pocahontas Times Print Shop

Droop Mountain Battlefield

McNeel Mill at Mill Point

Others places recently approved have been Historic Opera House and Lodge Building in Marlinton. The old Huntersville Jail is oric Places available future through programs and services in the areas of archives and history, the arts, historic preservation and museums. The Cultural Center is West Virginia's official showcase for the arts. Visit the Division's website at www.wvculture.org for more information about programs of the Division.

Places In Pocahontas County on Historic Register

Camp Bartow Historic District (Traveler's Repose)

Cass Historic District

Cass Scenic Railroad

Reber Radio Telescope at National Radio Astronomy Observatory

Pearl S. Buck House

Locust Creek Covered Bridge

Huntersville Presbyterian Church

Frank and Anna Hunter House, housing Pocahontas County Historical Museum

Marlinton Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad Station and Bunkhouse, housing Pocahontas County Tourism Visitor's Center

Pocahontas County Courthouse and Jail

Pocahontas Times Print Shop

Droop Mountain Battlefield

McNeel Mill at Mill Point

Others places recently approved have been Historic Opera House and Lodge Building in Mar-

Welcome to the Town of Marlinton
Millennium Party • December 31, 200
Downtown Marlinton

7 p.m.	Opening Gigantic Bon-fire & Marshmallow Roast & Hot Chocolate --- First Avenue
8 p.m. - 11:30 p.m.	First Night Welcome Center - American Legion --- Rt.39 & 4th Avenue
8 p.m. - 11:30 p.m.	Teen Dance - Municipal Building --- Second Avenue
8 p.m. - 10 p.m.	Kids Activities - Youth Center --- Third Avenue & Main Street
9 p.m. - 1 a.m.	Outdoor Entertainment - Town Square --- Third Avenue & 8th Street
8 p.m. - 11 p.m.	Bluegrass Music - Presbyterian Church Appalachian Express also Randy Benson, Dwight Diller, Doug VanGundy & Terry Richardson
8 p.m. - 11:30 p.m.	Miss Pocahontas; Teen Miss Pocahontas & Little Miss Pocahontas Reception Senior Citizens Center --- Third Avenue
9 p.m. - 1 p.m.	Opera House - Swing Band & Dance ---Third Avenue
11:15 p.m.	Party Favors - given out in front of Youth Center ---Town Square
11:15 p.m.	Free Hor d' oeuvres --- Town Square
11:55 p.m.	Magical 2001 Balloons Release --- Town Square
Midnight	Free Non-alcoholic Champagne --- Town Square
Midnight	Lighted Millennium Ball Drop --- Town Square
Midnight	Fabulous Millennium Fireworks Display

Welcome to the Town of Marlinton
Millennium Party • December 31, 2000
Downtown Marlinton

7 p.m.	Opening Gigantic Bon-fire & Marshmallow Roast & Hot Chocolate --- First Avenue
8 p.m. - 11:30 p.m.	First Night Welcome Center - American Legion --- Rt.39 & 4th Avenue
8 p.m. - 11:30 p.m.	Teen Dance - Municipal Building --- Second Avenue
8 p.m. - 10 p.m.	Kids Activities - Youth Center --- Third Avenue & Main Street
9 p.m. - 1 a.m.	Outdoor Entertainment - Town Square --- Third Avenue & 8th Street
8 p.m. - 11 p.m.	Bluegrass Music - Presbyterian Church Appalachian Express also Randy Benson, Dwight Diller, Doug VanGundy & Terry Richardson
8 p.m. - 11:30 p.m.	Miss Pocahontas; Teen Miss Pocahontas & Little Miss Pocahontas Reception Senior Citizens Center --- Third Avenue
9 p.m. - 1 p.m.	Opera House - Swing Band & Dance ---Third Avenue
11:15 p.m.	Party Favors - given out in front of Youth Center ---Town Square
11:15 p.m.	Free Hor d' oeuvres --- Town Square
11:55 p.m.	Magical 2001 Balloons Release --- Town Square
Midnight	Free Non-alcoholic Champagne --- Town Square
Midnight	Lighted Millennium Ball Drop --- Town Square
Midnight	Fabulous Millennium Fireworks Display

THE PCHS BUILDING class built this doghouse for the Humane Society. Duane Gibson, center rear, is the teacher.

PCHS Class builds doghouse for Humane Society

This made-to-last dog house has been a two year project in which many students of Pocahontas County High School Builders Class has learned carpentry skills taught to them by their teacher, Duane Gibson.

Mr. Gibson has been very thoughtful and has donated this wonderful and much needed house to the HSPC. The Humane Society receives many calls concerning neglect of dogs that have little or no shelter in summer or winter. Pet owners can find a shade tree in the summer or sit in a warm home in the winter while their pets are forced to endure and suffer outdoors. These folks are heartless and should not own pets.

Mr. Gibson and his students are to be recognized and commended for their compassion for animals and for their hard work. Their kindness and support is much appreciated.

SHEETS GARAGE, INC.

OLDSMOBILE / Aurora Sales and Service

Rt. 92 • GREEN BANK, WV

304-456-4484 • 800-767-3484

Fax 304-456-3484

Sheets Garage, Inc. Stands Behind "The Oldsmobiles"

New Oldsmobiles In Stock

1 - 2000 Bravada - Jewelcoat Red

3 - 2001 Alero - Ruby Red, Bronze, Sterling

3 - 2001 Intrigue -1 Forest, 2 Sterling

1 - 2001 Aurora V6 - Black

2 - 2001 Bravada - 1 Black, 1 White

Dear Customer:

General Motors recently announced the phase-out of the Oldsmobile Division over the next several years. This was shocking news to us, as it was to our many loyal customers. For the faithful friends of Olds, this announcement was very emotional. It is particularly difficult to understand why this country's oldest car brand (103 years), with one of the richest traditions in the industry, complete with several automotive firsts and legendary cars, is being phased-out. Oldsmobile will be announcing some important sales enhancements such as:

- 5-year/60,000 mile $0 Deductible warranty
- Cash incentives from $1750 to $3500
- Low APR financing
- Cash certificates

We wish to assure our many customers that we plan to continue to sell the Olds products and provide the same warranty service making customer satisfaction our top priority.

SHEETS GARAGE, INC.

Alfred C. Ervine & Charles A. Sheets, Owners

New Oldsmobiles In Stock

1 - 2000 Bravada - Jewelcoat Red

3 - 2001 Alero - Ruby Red, Bronze, Sterling

3 - 2001 Intrigue -1 Forest, 2 Sterling

1 - 2001 Aurora V6 - Black

2 - 2001 Bravada - 1 Black, 1 White

Dear Customer:

General Motors recently announced the phase-out of the Oldsmobile Division over the next several years. This was shocking news to us, as it was to our many loyal customers. For the faithful friends of Olds, this announcement was very emotional. It is particularly difficult to understand why this country's oldest car brand (103 years), with one of the richest traditions in the industry, complete with several automotive firsts and legendary cars, is being phased-out. Oldsmobile will be announcing some important sales enhancements such as:

- 5-year/60,000 mile $0 Deductible warranty
- Cash incentives from $1750 to $3500
- Low APR financing
- Cash certificates

We wish to assure our many customers that we plan to continue to sell the Olds products and provide the same warranty service making customer satisfaction our top priority.

SHEETS GARAGE, INC.

Alfred C. Ervine & Charles A. Sheets, Owners

In Loving Memory of Robert William Dunz
during the holidays

Dad

There is something in a man that makes him want to be a history-maker — a hero. Most men grow up with grand ideas of accomplishing great things. They hold visions of rescuing lives threatened by fire, winning major battles in wars, influencing the laws of the land through public office, defending the underdog in a court case, or finding a cure for cancer. They have a hungry ambition to be a hero who shapes the future.

Well, Dad, that's just what you were. Your heroics may not be recorded in a best-selling novel, a classic movie, or on the cover of a magazine, but your actions were recorded frequently in the hearts and minds of your children, grandchildren and your children's friends. They recorded your simple, but heroic, deeds everyday.

They have pictures in their minds of you smiling in a way that communicated how proud you were of them. They remember the times you wiped tears from their red and swollen faces and offered words of comfort. They recall how attentively you listened to them share their pain over failed romances and life's little disappointments. They hold everlasting memories of times spent at the beach, a good game of chase around the house, heart to heart talks on the porch at night, and your loving hugs. They remember your praying posture beside their bed and the life-changing instructions that came from your lips.

Dad, you were a history-maker and a future-shaper of the most important kind. You live on the front pages of the hearts of those you loved the most.

Author Unknown

I miss you, Tonya
Always in our Hearts, and never from our Minds--- Alice, children and grandchildren

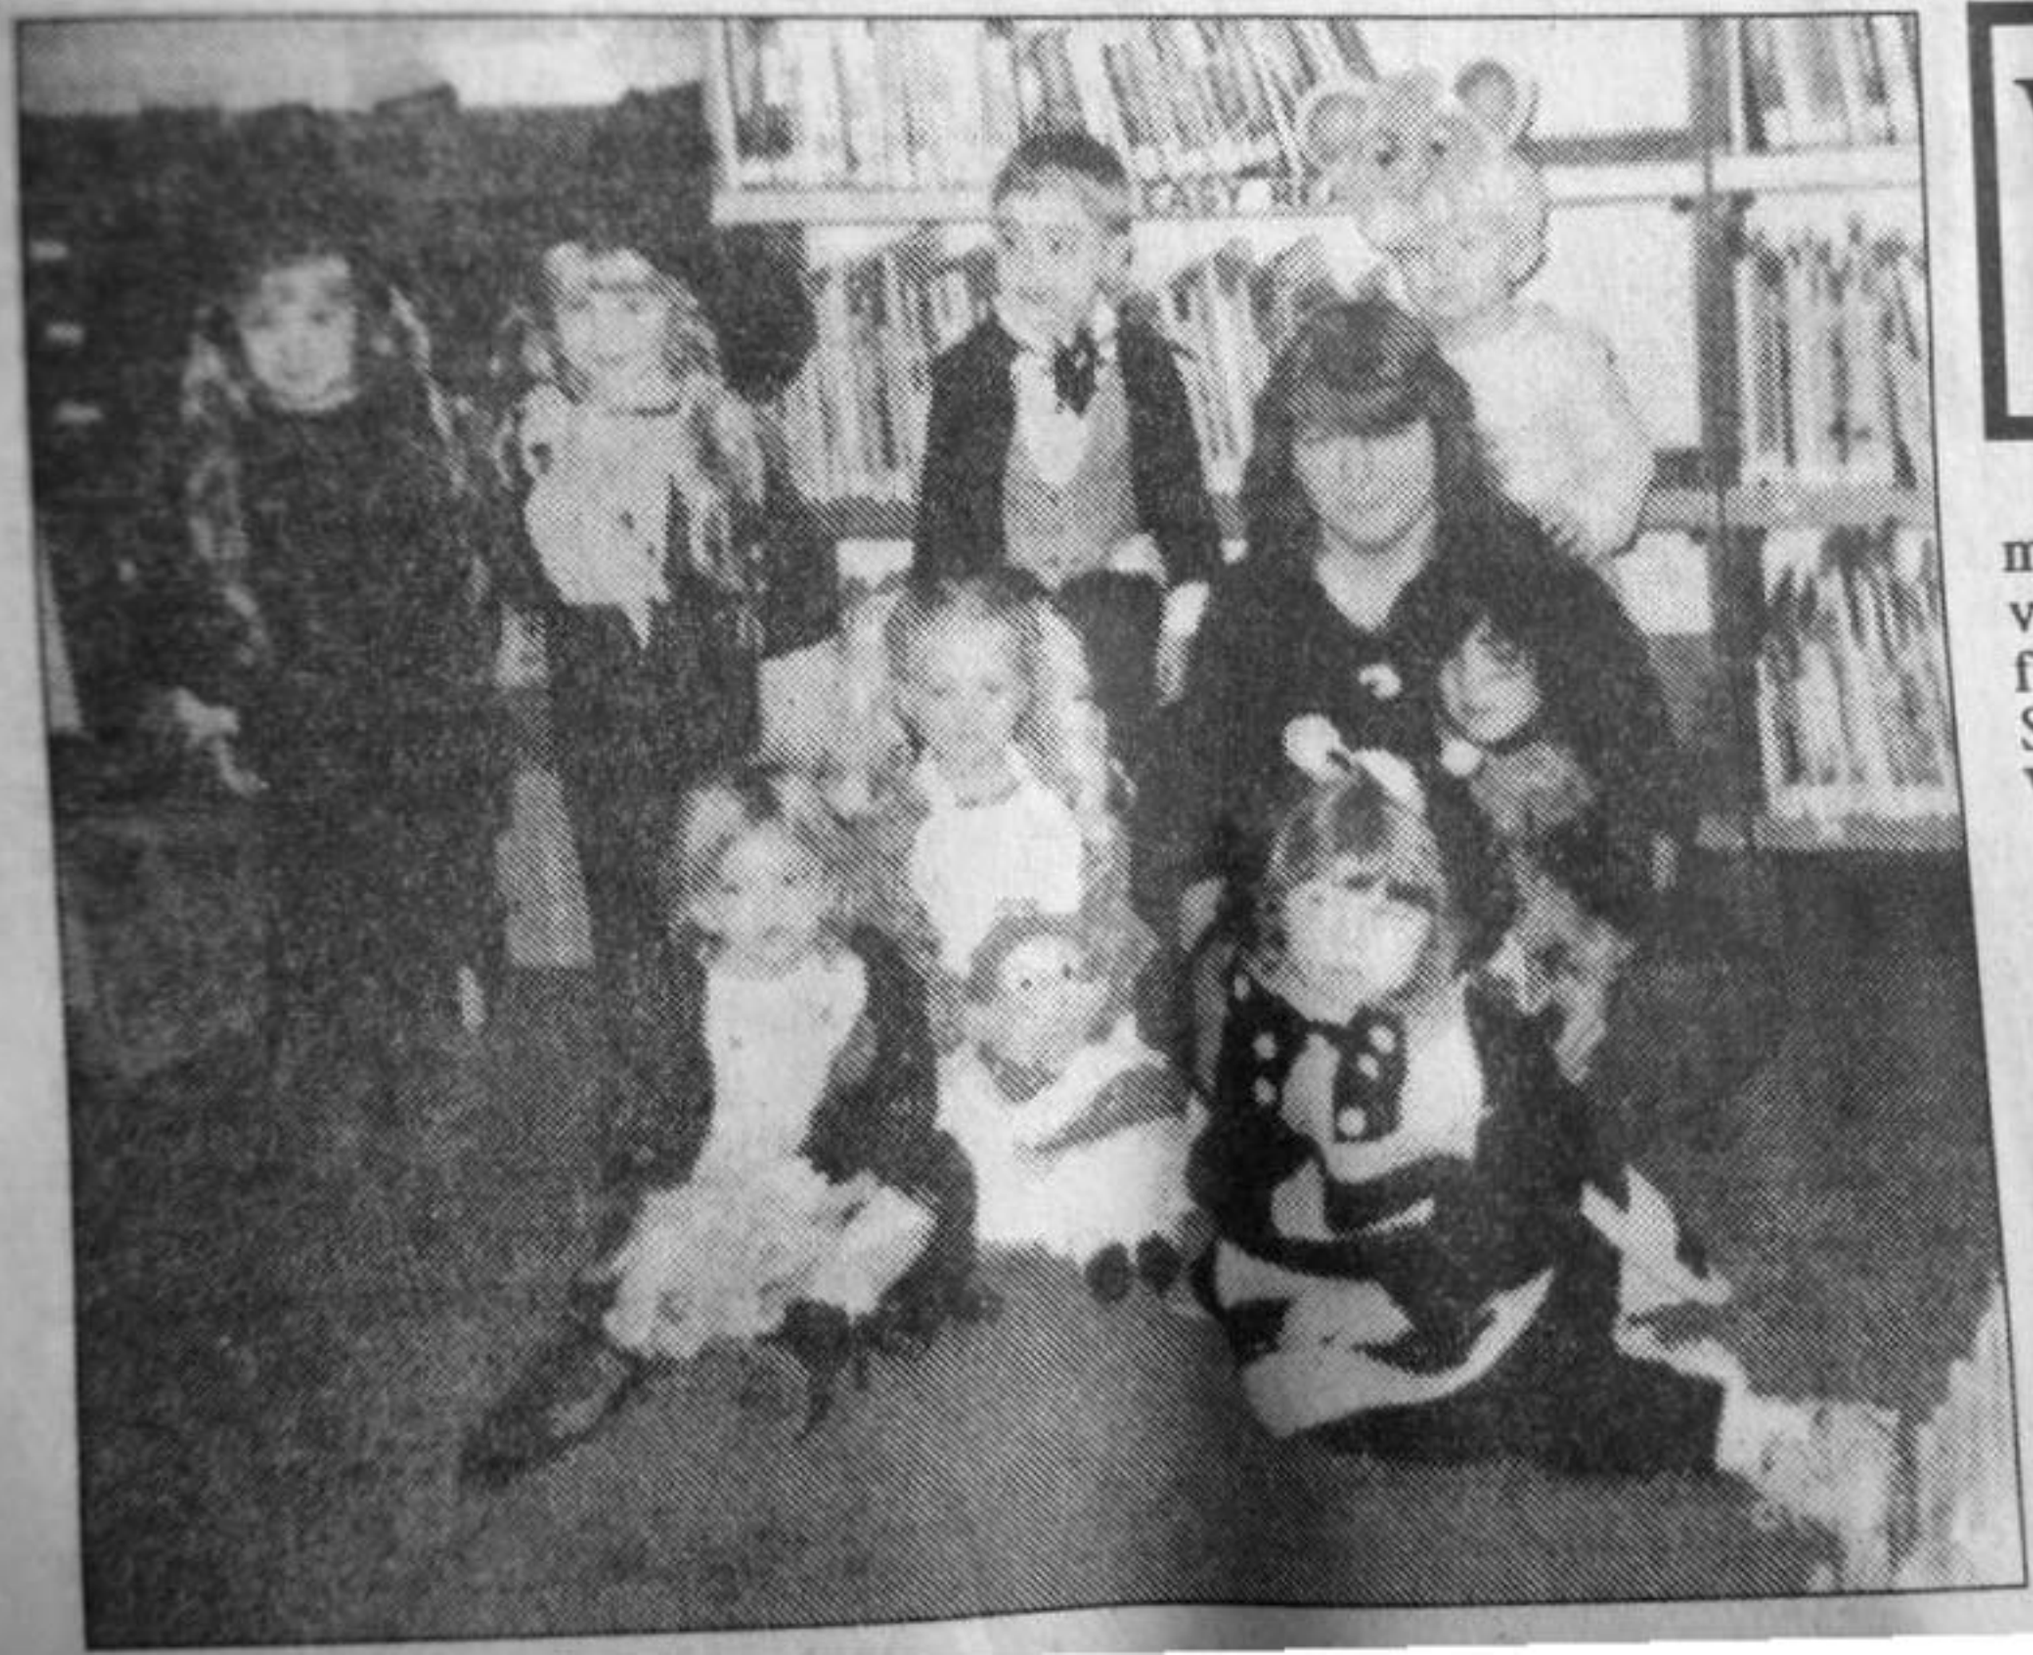
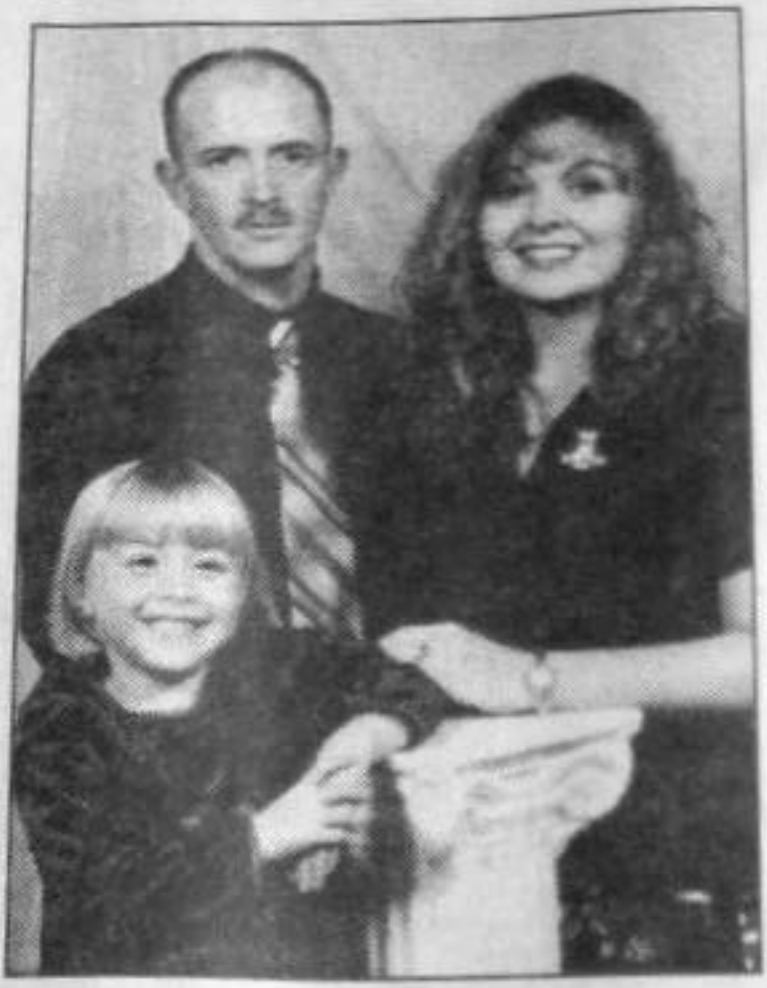
THE TWO LIBRARIES in upper Pocahontas County held Halloween parties for the children in their Play Groups. As can be seen in the photos of the children, Durbin Play Group in the top photo and Green Bank Play Group in the lower photo, the children were appropriately dressed for the parties.



WERE YOU THERE 86 years ago? Keith Moore brought in this picture belonging to Ella Pritt Kirby, 93, of the Pocahontas Center. She is fourth from left on the front row and she was about seven. She grew up in Marlinton. Jane Price, Teacher, is printed on the back. If you know anyone in the picture, let us know.



Liptrap joins Dr. Harper's staff

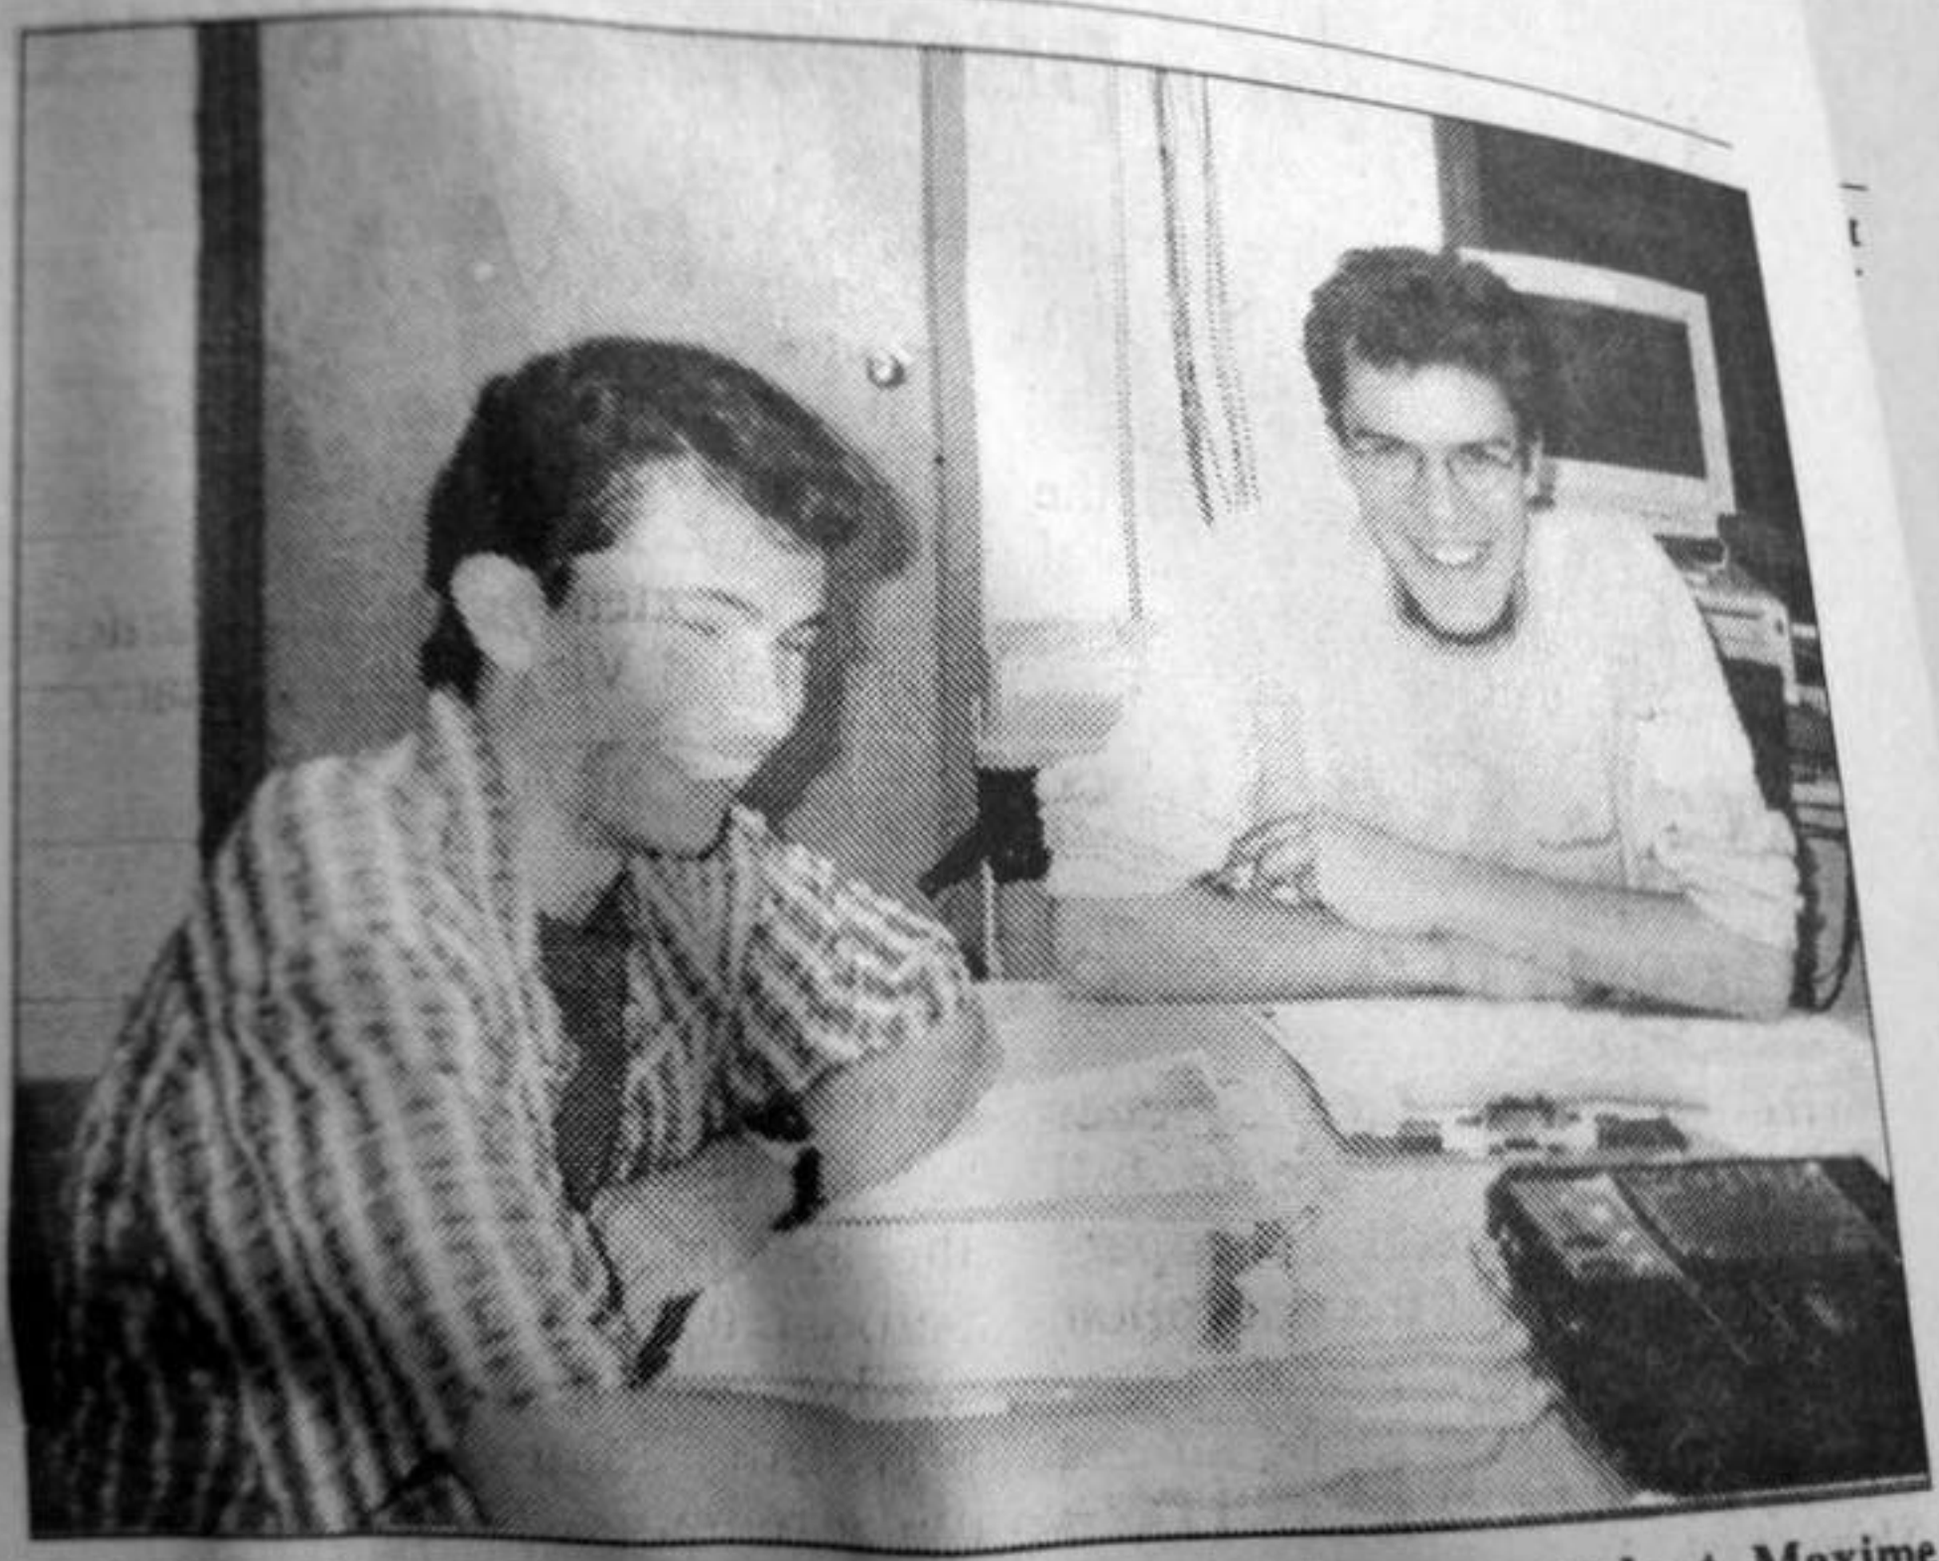
Cristina Armstrong Liptrap is the newest member of the dental staff of Dr. G. T. Harper at his office in Green Bank. She will be a full-time employee.

Cristina is a registered dental hygienist, having received her degree from York Technical College in Rock Hill, South Carolina, earlier this year. She is the daughter of Robert and Shirley Armstrong, of Buckeye, and married to Tim Liptrap, of Marlinton.

Tim is in the Active National Guard and currently stationed at Fort Sill, Oklahoma. He is being

JEFF BUTLER AND Sarah Eilers pose with their first place entry in the High School French Dessert Contest.

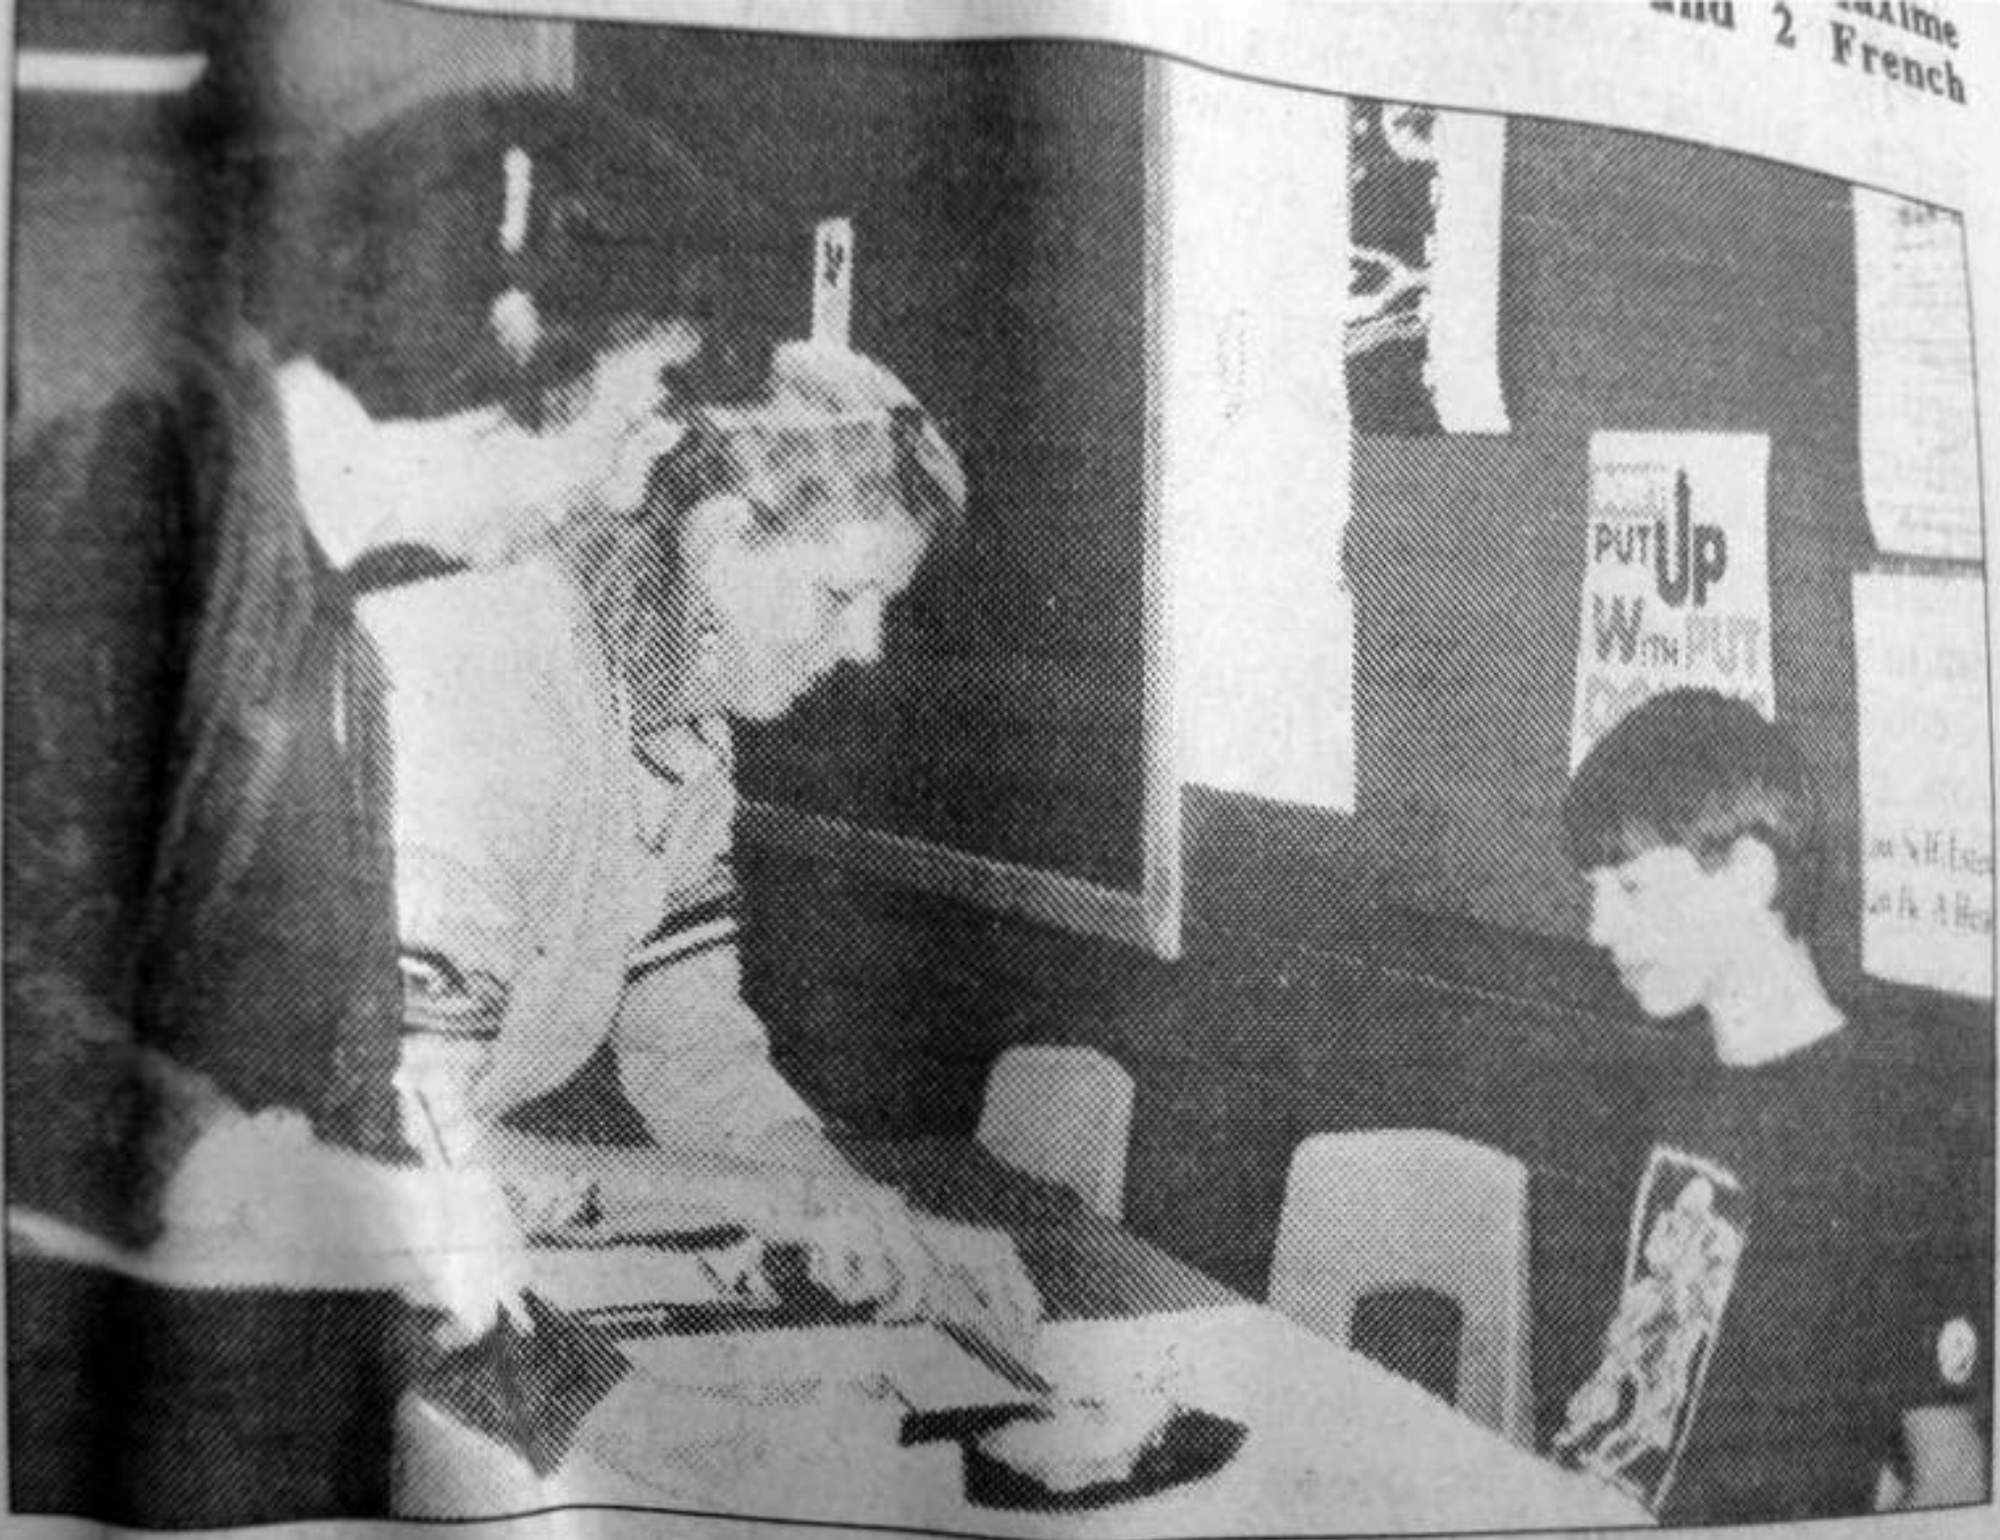
RENE BURKS AND Tiffany Hudson won first place in the Middle School French Savory Cooking Contest



TRAVIS JUERGANS AND French exchange student Maxime Mormand were the judges for the Level 1 and 2 French

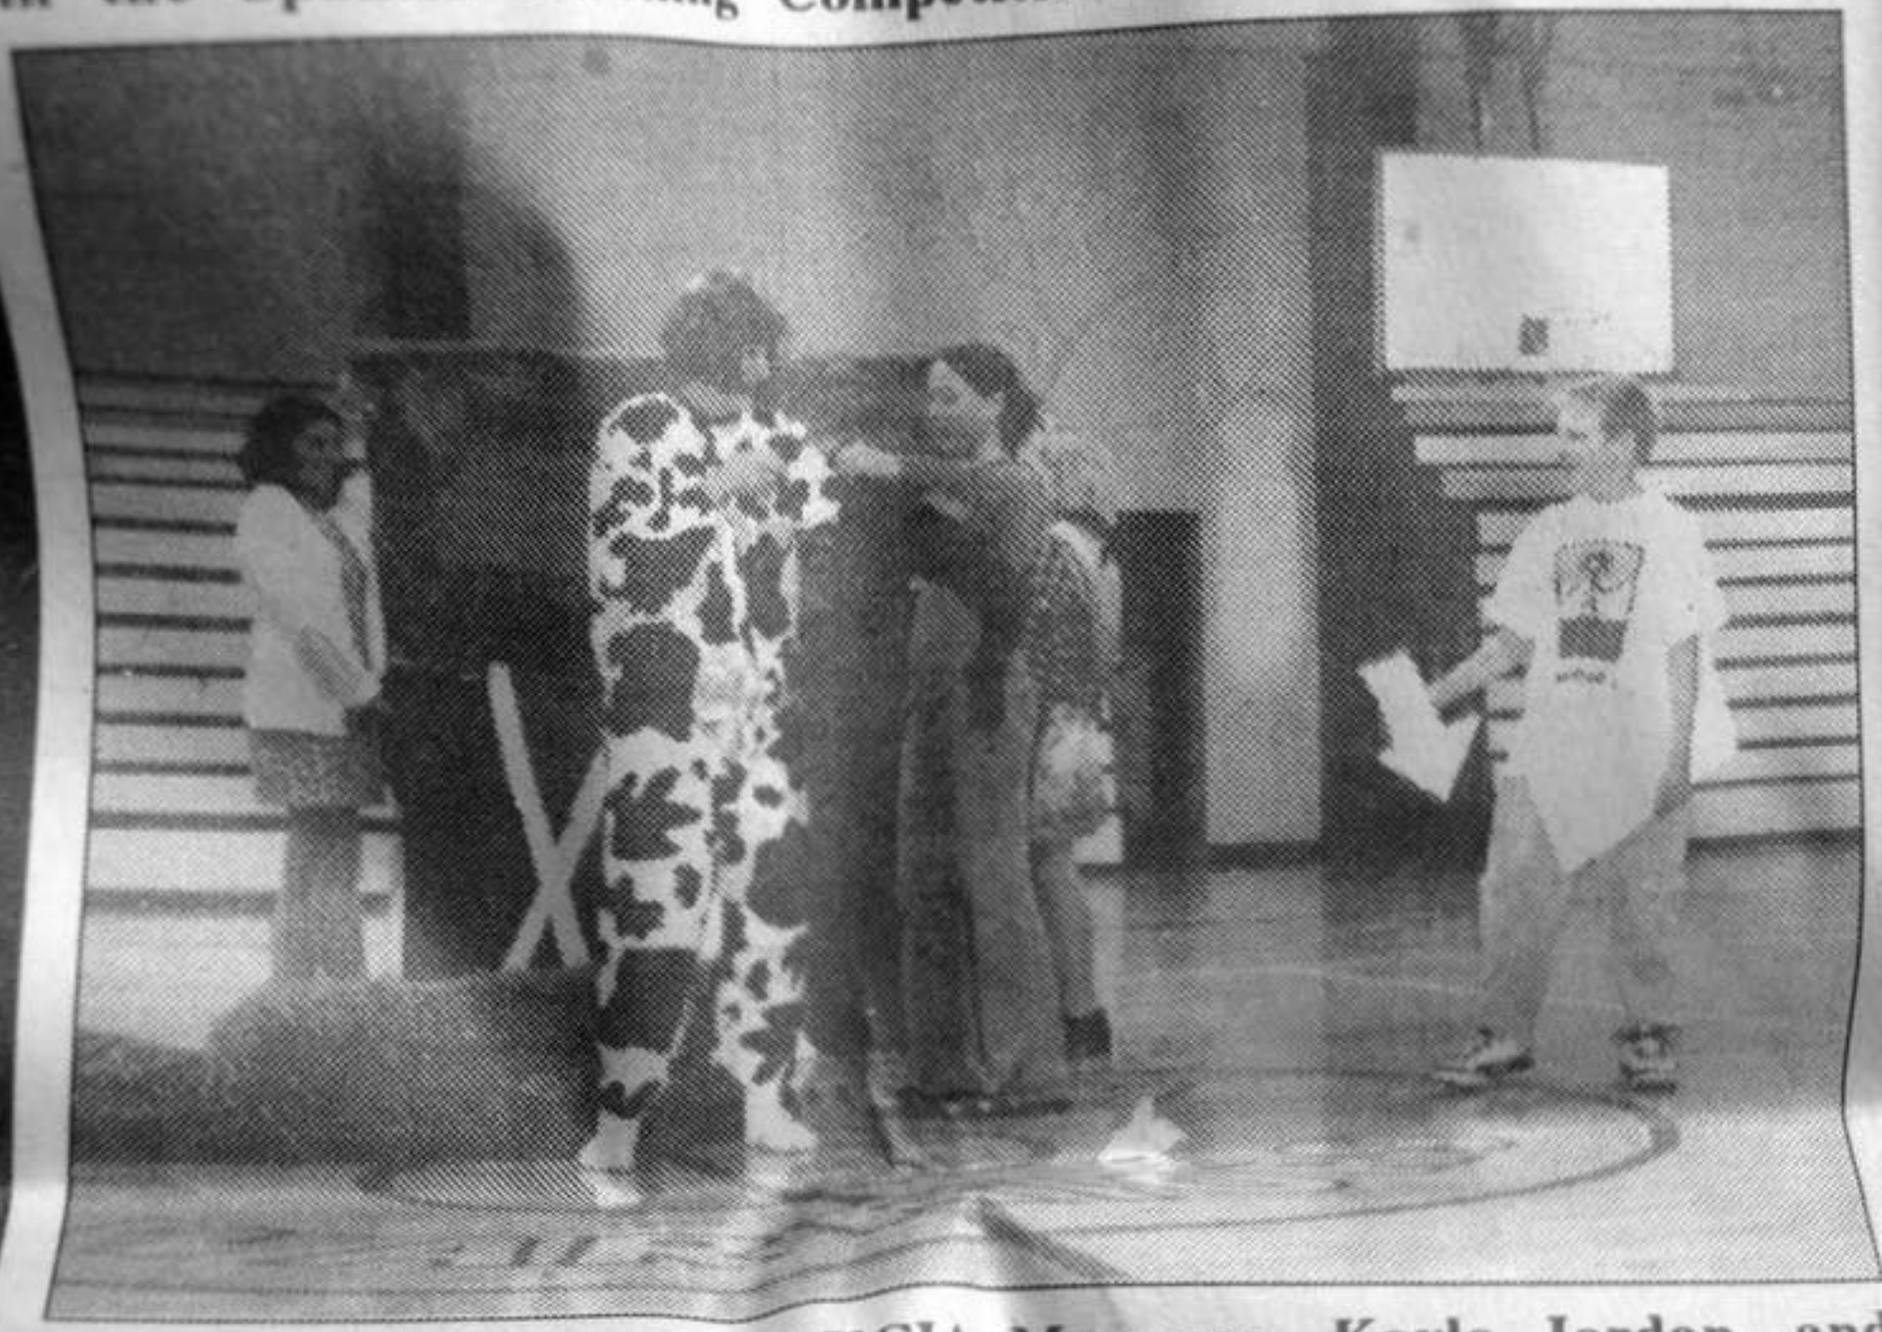
PCHS STUDENT MICAH Johnson was the first place winner in the Spanish Cooking Competition

and 2 French



GINGER MUS AND Hayes Eilers prepare to judge Evan Dale's entry in French cooking.

PCHS STUDENT MICAH Johnson was the first place winner in the Spanish Cooking Competition



RACHEL TRIBBETT, LUCIA Mossesso, Kayla Jordan, and Clay Bell place clothing on Thurston Willis in the Marlinton Middle School French play La Vache Sophie. (Why put clothes on a cow - it helps to learn parts of the body and items of clothing.)

DEATHS

Guy A. Bennett

Guy Anderson, Bennett, 73, of Marlinton, died Monday, December 4, 2000, at Roanoke Memorial Hospital after a sudden illness.

He was born on March 5, 1927, at Woodrow, the son of Eary James Bennett and Mattie Jackson Bennett.

Mr. Bennett was a logger and employee of Beckwith Lumber Company.

Survivors include his wife, Sue Mace Bennett; six sons, Randy D. Bennett, Eddie D. Bennett, John K. Bennett, Steven K. Bennett, all of Marlinton, Mark D. Bennett, of Franklin, and Kevin L. Bennett, of Roanoke, Virginia; eight daughters, Inez Bennett, Kimberly Finley, Karen Dee Bennett, all of Marlinton, Avis Seldomridge, of Cass, Yvetta Bennett, of Belpre, Ohio, Lucinda Foe, of Cass, Amber Waybright, of Harrisonburg, Virginia, and Christy Clendenen, of Indiana; five brothers, Robert Bennett, Stanley Bennett, both of Slaty Fork, Keith Bennett, George Bennett, both of Valley Head, and Glade Bennett, of Dunmore; one sister, Edna Arbogast, of Valley Head; 33 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

He was preceded in death by his parents and two sisters, Ruth Biggs and Agnes Trainer.

Friends may visit at VanReenen-Funeral Home on Wednesday from 6 to 9 p.m. The funeral will be held on Thursday at the funeral home at 1 p.m with the Rev. Julian Rittenhouse officiating. Burial will follow at the Cochran Cemetery.

- - -

at the Coalman Cemetery.

- - -

Terry Wayne Sheets, Jr.

Terry Wayne Sheets, Jr., three-year-old son of Terry Wayne Sheets, Sr., and Amanda Marie Gragg Sheets, of Marlinton, died November 29, 2000, in Children's Hospital of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

He was born May 30, 1997, at Buckeye.

In addition to his parents, he is survived by his maternal grandparents, Randy Mock and Barbara Gragg, of Marlinton, Owen and Karen Gragg, of Marlinton; paternal grandparents, Margaret Sheets, Sam and Mary Sheets, all of Marlinton; maternal great-grandfather, Woodrow Ray, of Marlinton; paternal great-grandmothers, Eve Gatford and Faye Sheets, both of Marlinton.

Services were held Saturday afternoon at VanReenen Funeral Home by the Rev. Norman Lee Alderman. Burial was in Clawson Cemetery.

- - -

George F. Brewster

George F. Brewster, age 56, of Lansdale, Pennsylvania, died November 17, 2000, in Grand View Hospital, West Rockhill Township, Pennsylvania, following an illness of several months.

He was the husband of Beverly J. Burner Brewster and they had observed their 35th wedding anniversary in August.

Mr. Brewster was born in Durbin, a son of the late Andrew and Emma Arbogast Brewster.

He was employed for 32 years by Lehigh Valley Dairies, Lansdale.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by a son, Barry A. Brewster, at home; a daughter, Laura M. Palermo, of Harleysville, and a grandson. Also surviving are three

HAPPY 100TH BIRTHDAY!

From The Pocahontas Times for November 8, 1900, comes this news item, "The Times has put in an 1800 pound job press of the Chandler & Price make. It signalized its advent into this office by promptly going through the floor, but it is now in place and we propose to make job work a specialty from this time."

At the time the press was obtained, the paper was not in the present building but operating out of the Temporary Court House Building. This structure was located where the parking lot for the Marlinton Elementary School is now. The present Times office was occupied in August 1901.

Today the press is not used as much as it has been for most of its 100 years, but still produces when called upon.

Commission considers charges for care of horses

A charge from a Greenbrier County resident for the care of horses confiscated in this county was a topic of the County Commission meeting on Tuesday.

Last year 30 horses were removed from the land of Lori Davis following allegations that they were not being properly taken care of. Seven people took the horses to care for them, including Keri Keating who received six. Ms. Keating has billed the county for over $3000 (initially over $6000) for expenses she alleges to have had in caring for the animals.

Discussing the issue with the Commission were county Animal [illegible]

All three told the commissioners that they feel the bill is terribly inflated. Sheriff Dale said he has tried several times to get a itemized bill from Ms. Keating but she has not submitted one. Ms. Mallow said the bill indicated "full stall care," but the care the horses received was far below that level.

A number of the horses have been returned to their original owners, including five that were flown to Jordan, Ms. Mallow reported. Finding all the owners has been difficult, she said, and the time period for them to be claimed has passed. The other horses have been now forfeited to their keepers. Some have been sold to meet boarding expenses. It was reported that some people plan to donate any money received from the sale of the horses above their expenses in keeping them to the Greenbrier County Humane Society.

Commission President Joel Callison said he understood the horses had been taken by people with an interest in horses and who had volunteered to take them. There was general agreement to this by the others.

Ms. Davis had been charged with cruelty to animals but the charges have been dropped. Mr. Weiford said while he was in the hospital earlier this year, Doug Arbuckle, who was special prosecutor for the case, had agreed for the charges to be dropped. Mr. Weiford said he would have preferred have the case prosecuted, but felt bound by the agreement.

In the absence of an itemized bill from Ms. Keating, the Commission took no action.

Gail Lowry, Executive Director of the Pocahontas County Convention and Visitors Bureau, gave the Commission a review of the activities of the CVB over the past year.

For the 1999-00 fiscal year the CVB received $299,703 in Hotel/Motel taxes and $2,257 in interest [illegible] $280,526 [illegible] visitor center, [illegible] visitor center, marketing county events, educational activities, brochure publication, matching funds for grants, advertising the county in over 40 magazines and newspapers, and participation in travel shows.

Ms. Lowry said the CVB now has eight full/part-time employees. In addition to staffing the office/visitor center at Marlinton, the CVB also staffs the Cass visitor center seven days a week during the season, operates a visitor center at Slaty Fork, and helps staff the Cranberry Visitor Center. This year public restrooms were opened at the depot and the CVB participated in repairs on the Greenbrier River Trail.

Over 80,000 people visited the CVB's website and over 13,000 requested information through the 800 telephone number, she stated. Over 900,000 visitors were reported to the CVB by the various attractions in the county that keep attendance records, Ms. Lowry said.

Pocahontas County presently generates the third highest amount of Hotel/Motel tax in the state, Ms. Lowry told the Commission, behind Kanawha County and the eight-county Southern W. Va. CVB. However, next year we will drop to fourth when Greenbrier County begins collecting its tax. That county will take over the top position.

40th Wedding Anniversary

Mike and Madelene Moses, of Ronceverte, will celebrate their 40th Wedding Anniversary on Sunday, December 17.

They were married on December 15, 1960, at Warm Springs, Virginia, by the Rev. R. Daniel Simmons.

Mike is a retired barber. Madelene is owner of U-R-Next Beauty Salon in Ronceverte.

Friends, relatives and neighbors are invited to help them celebrate this occasion on December 17 from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. at their home, 411 Walnut St., Ronceverte.

No gifts, please.

MMS CHEERLEADERS: front, Samantha Long, Priscilla Young, Valerie Pritt; middle, Brittany McMann, Allison Burns, Renae Burks; back, Scarlett Matheny, Lauren Trozzi, Jillian Weiford, Lisa Burns

Lisa Burns

GREEN BANK EAGLES CHEERLEADERS, second and third from left top, Vickie Ross and Laura Brandt; and MMS Cheerleaders, second, third and fourth, bottom, Priscilla Young, Lisa Burns and Valerie Pritt were awarded Outstanding Cheerleader trophies.

Times

NIA 24954 NOVEMBER 30, 2000 VOL.118

Membe

COME IN & SEE US

J. Richards

lware and Furniture • Marlint

DEATHS

Delbert H. Reed, Jr.

Delbert Hanson Reed, Jr., age 53, of Beaver Creek, died Wednesday, November 22, 2000, at his home of an apparent heart attack.

Delbert graduated from Marlinton High School and Nashville Auto Diesel College.He had worked in the automotive service field for 35 years. He was a member of the Marlinton United Methodist Church and was an Army veteran of the Vietnam era. He was involved in sports for much of his life, both as a football and softball player, and as a coach of Little League and Midget football. He was an avid outdoorsman and archer with many state archery titles. He was president of the Pocahontas Bowhunters and an active member and instructor for the Pocahontas County Shooting Sports.

The son of Norma Shrader Reed Gillis, of Marlinton, and the late Delbert Hanson Reed, Sr., he was born at Marlinton February 21, 1947.

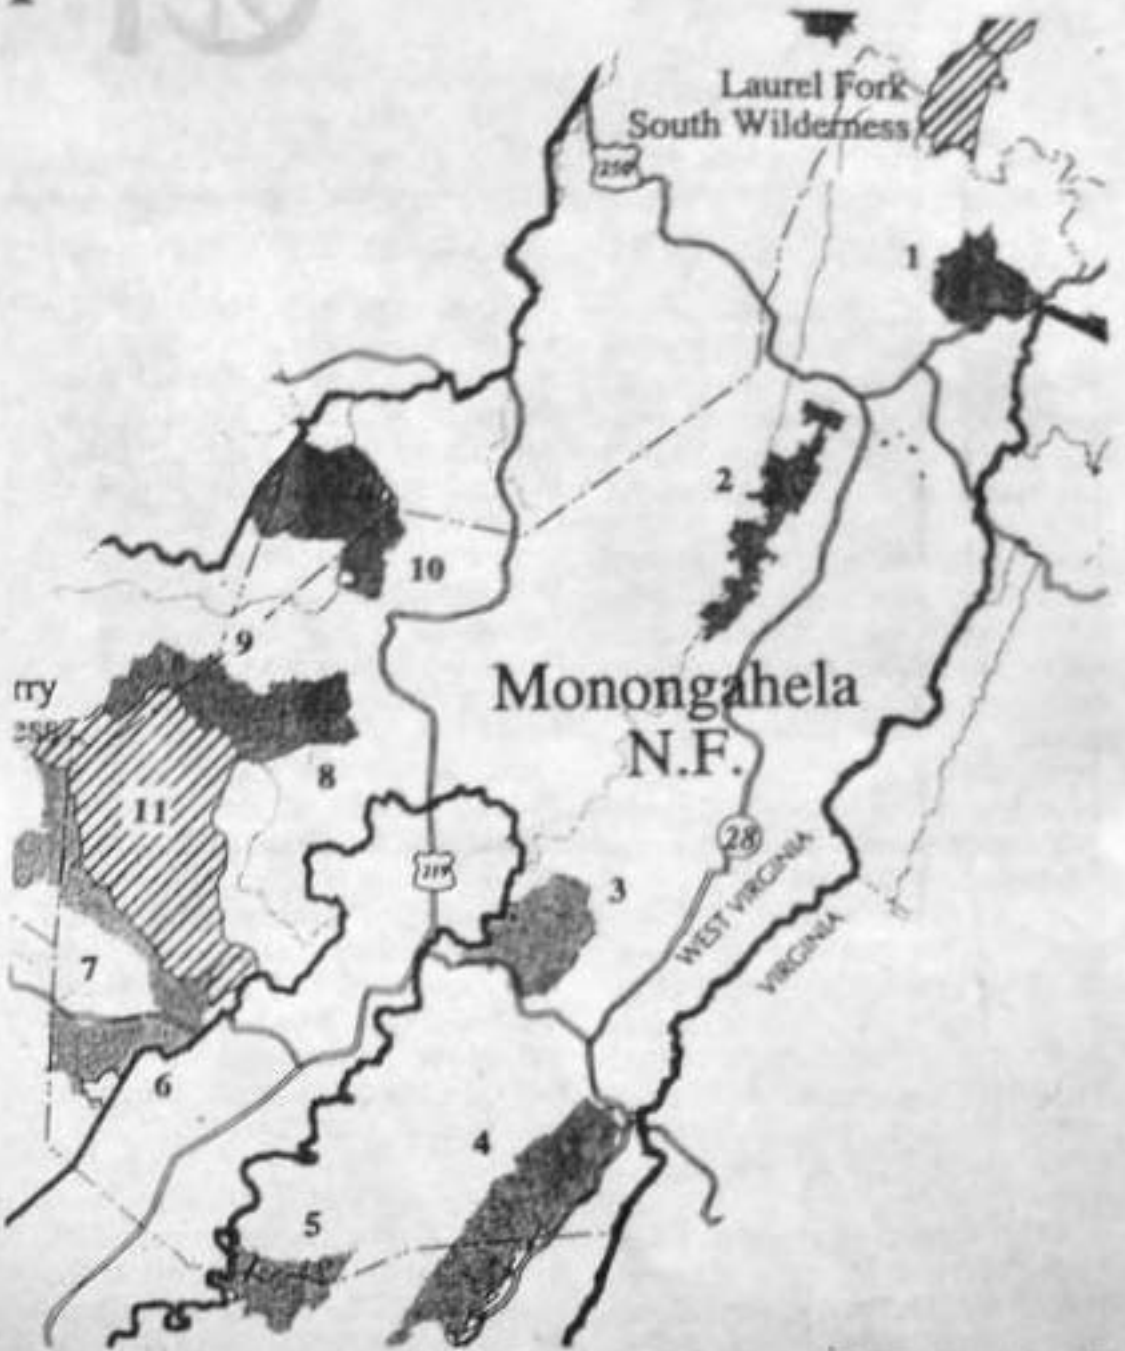
His father, a sister, Lois Ann Parsons, and two brothers, Duane Reed and Harold Reed, are deceased.

In addition to his mother, he is survived by his wife of 33 years, Vivian Leigh Sharp Reed, and their two sons, Brian Lee Reed and David Allen Reed, all of Beaver Creek.

Funeral services were held Saturday afternoon at the VanReenen Funeral Home by Pastor Robert Mann. Burial with military rites was in the Sharp Cemetery on Jericho Road

Memorial donations may be made to Pocahontas County Needy Children's Christmas Fund, c/o Sheriff's Department, or the American Heart Association, P. O. Box 12110, Charleston, West Virginia 25302.

report on Forest Service issues



MAP SHOWING THE inventoried roadless areas in Pocahontas County.

1. - East Fork of Greenbrier River, 7163 acres, 6.2 management
2. - Little Mountain, 8168 acres, 6.2 management
3. Marlin Mountain, 9337 acres, 6.1 management
4. - Middle Mountain, 6797 acres in 6.1 management and 4489 acres in 6.2 management
5. - Spice Run, 2504 acres, 6.2 management
6. - Falls of Hills Creek, 6698 acres, 3.0 and 6.1 management
7. Cranberry Addition, 6208 acres, 2.0 and 6.2 management
8. Tea Creek Mountain, 3221 acres in 6.1 management and 5058 acres in 6.2 management
9. Turkey Mountain, 2680 acres, 6.2 management
10. Gauley Mountain, 2789 acres, 6.1 management.
11. - Cranberry Wilderness Area

Notes: in those areas that are in two counties, the acreage is Pocahontas County only; 6.1 management includes timber cutting while 6.2 management allow timbering only under certain conditions.

Marlinton woman charged with felony by aiding escape attempt

A Marlinton woman had her own brush with the law after charges she aided the escape of her incarcerated husband were filed against her in Greenbrier County Court.

Christine Sue Price, 41, is alleged to have passed her husband, Dr. Harry Walkup, Jr., a handcuff key while they kissed in a holding facility outside the Greenbrier County Court House.

According to the complaint, Dr. Walkup was allowed to visit his wife after a bond reduction hearing on July 3.

Dr. Walkup was at the time charged with second degree arson, arson causing injury, breaking and entering and retaliation against a witness, all in connection with the June blaze which gutted the law offices of Lewisburg attorney Barry Bruce.

He was indicted on those charges as well as felony escape in October.

Bruce represents Dr. Walkup's former wife in divorce and child support proceedings.

The complaint said Dr. Walkup "shoved a (corrections officer) to the side and ran out the door" of the holding facility before he was placed in restraints for the trip back to the Southern Regional Jail.

Dr. Walkup had removed his restraints by the time he arrived at the regional jail, the complaint said. "A handcuff key was found in his possession," according to the complaint.

The complaint also said that Dr. Walkup told another inmate that his wife had delivered the handcuff key to him and "then waited three blocks away."

The complaint does not say where Sue Walkup may have gotten a handcuff key.

She is scheduled for a hearing in Greenbrier County on November 29.

Dr. Walkup is scheduled to stand trial in January.

Sue Walkup is free on $10,000 bond; her husband remains a prisoner in the Southern Regional Jail.

Board of Education

MMS CHEERLEADING SQUAD: Front row: Samantha Long, Priscilla Young, Valerie Pritt; Second row: Brittany McMann, Allison Burns, Renae Burks; Third row: Scarlett Matheny, Lauren Trozzi, Jillian Weiford, Lisa Burns.

GBMS CHEERLEADING SQUAD: Front row: Jessica Thompson; Back row: Vickie Ross, Tonya Reed, Miranda Means, Ashley Lambert, Morgan Taylor, Laura Brandt. Not pictured: Krystal Sisler

MR. WEE TOT AUTUMN HARVEST
L-R: Gavin Gilmore, Winner; Corey Cowger, First Runner-up; Joey Brice, Photogenic

DURING THE GOVERNOR'S Honors Academy, held July 9-30 at West Virginia University, the students were asked to choose their favorite educator or principal. These teachers were honored at a ceremony on July 23. The Pocahontas County High School students attending the Academy and their favorite educators were Robert Alonso - Ron Hall; Ben Wilfong - Tom Sanders; and Kate Blackman - Marsha Grimes.

In the photo are, l-r, Robert Alonso, Ben Wilfong, Kate Blackman, and Tom Sanders.

MISS WEE TOT
L-R: Tresten Taylor, Winner; Kailey Carpenter, Runner-up;

AUTUMN HARVEST
Hannah Shafer, First Phalgenic

MISS WEE LITTLE AUTUMN HARVEST
First Runner-up was Ash-

MR. WEE LITTLE AUTUMN HARVEST
First Runner-up was Jer-

MISS WEE LITTLE AUTUMN HARVEST
Morgan Jackson was Winner and Photogenic

MR. WEE LITTLE AUTUMN HARVEST
Winner and Photogenic was Alex Halterman

a Majesty and He loves you and me. Why else such beauty? Of U.S. Department of the Treasury

636-9579

227-4200

$1000 REWARD

A few minutes after midnight on the morning of November 17, someone driving a pickup with loud pipes spotlighted and shot a deer in my meadow 1/2 mile south of Boyer on WV Rt. 28. They cut off the deer's head just below the jaw and left the rest of the carcass in the field. A reward of $1000 will be paid for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons guilty of this crime. Anyone wishing to supply information should contact Conservation Officer Howard Shinaberry. In the event more than one person supplies material information, in the opinion of Officer Shinaberry, the reward will be divided between those persons.

Stephen P. Coonts

DEATHS

Catherine Rimel

Catherine Virginia Rimel, of River Road, Buckeye, age 74, died Monday morning, November 20, 2000, at Greenbrier Valley Medical Center, after several months' illness.

Mrs. Rimel was a member of the Order of Eastern Star, a member of the Board of V.F.W. Auxiliary, Pocahontas Center Auxiliary, Home Farm Advisory Committee, Pocahontas Cooperative Parish, Chairman of Trustees of Swago United Methodist Church, member of the Finance Committee, Pastor/Parish Relations representative to the Edray Charge from the Swago Church, and member of the Edray Charge Parish Committee.

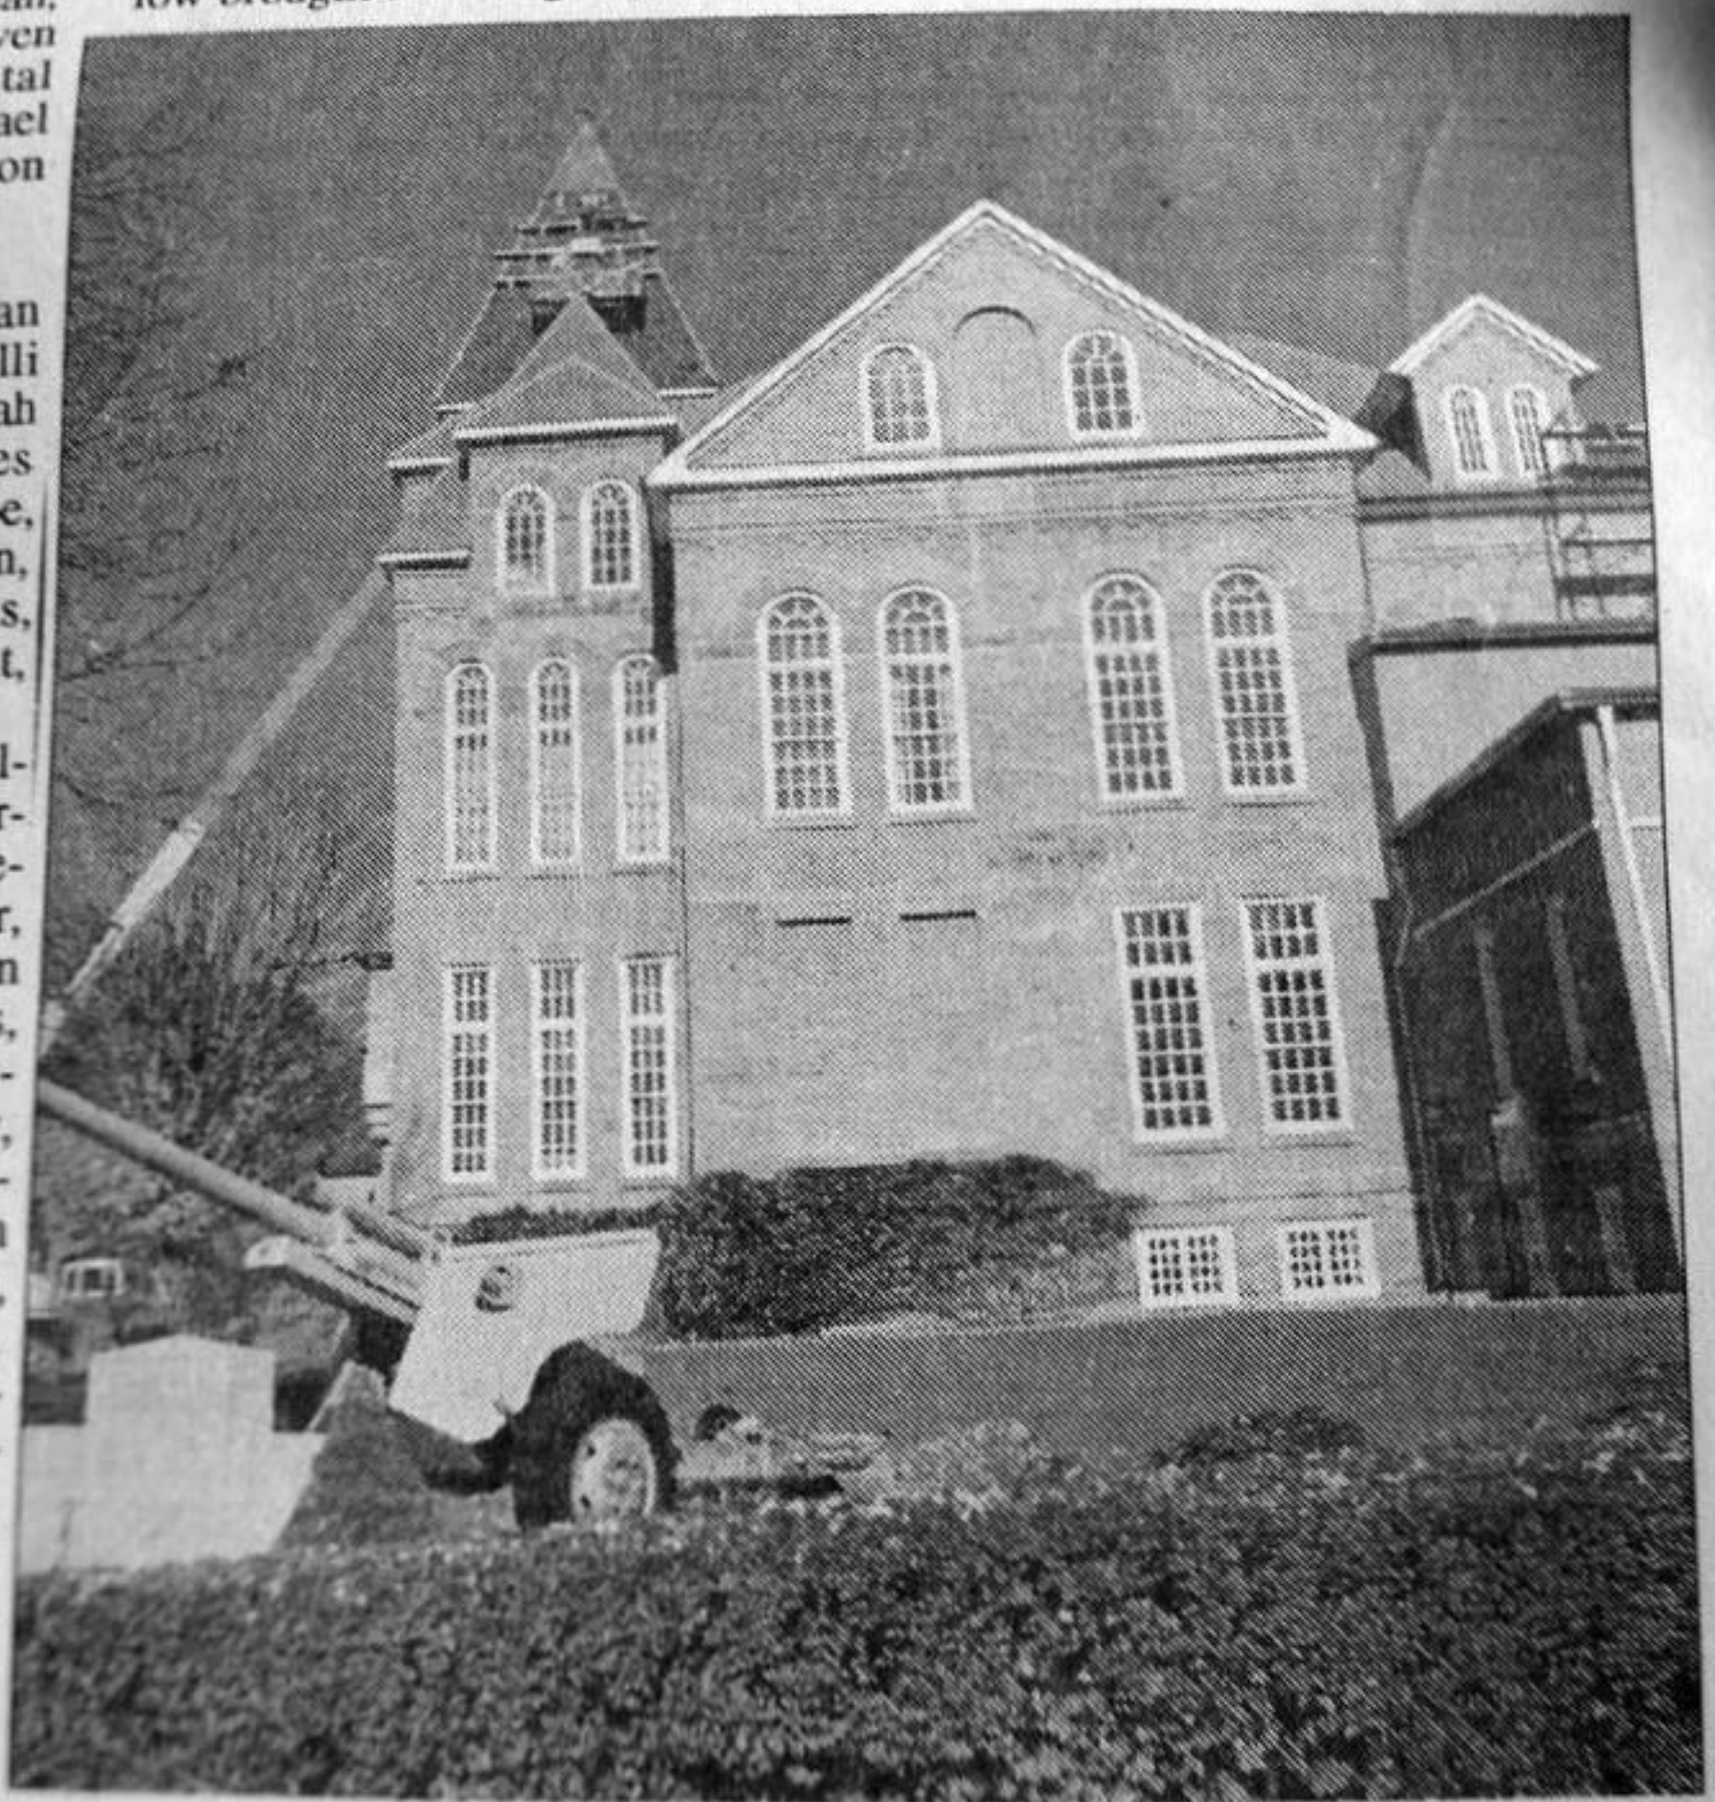
Born June 14, 1926, at Marlinton, she was the daughter of the late Seebert and Margie Wolfe Wilfong.

She was the widow of Dice McClintic Rimel. Others preceding her in death were a sister, Dorothy Boggs; five brothers, Michael Wolfe, Bill Wilfong, Clarence Wilfong, Richard Wilfong, and Harry Wilfong.

Survivors include three daughters, Carolyn Ann Landis, of Sistersville, Patricia Catherine Hill, of Frankford, and Hope McClintic Hamrick, of Webster Springs; three sisters, Eva Galford and Joan Cutlip, both of Marlinton, and Genevieve Wilfong, of Waynesboro, Virginia; a brother, Boyd Wilfong, of Marlinton; nine grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at VanReenen Funeral Home on Wednesday at 1 p. m. by Pastor Robert Mann. Burial will be in Mountain View Cemetery.

Visitation will be Tuesday from 2 to 9.



THIS FALL THE Court House had a new roof installed. The work was done by Worlledge Construction Company.

JIMMY RUCKMAN WAS the winner of the clock given away by Minnehaha Springs United Methodist Church. Kenneth Slagle, who handcrafted the clock, presented it to the Barboursville man. Ruckman is the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Moore.

In Loving Memory of Lori Armstrong Morrison on her birthday
November 22
and during the holidays.

REST

Beautiful toiler, thy work all done,
Beautiful soul into glory gone,
Beautiful life with its crown now won,
God giveth thee rest.
Rest from all sorrows and watching and fears,
Rest from all possible sighing and tears,
Rest through God's endless, wonderful years -
At home with the blest.
Beautiful spirit, free from all stain,
Ours the heartache, the sorrow and pain,
Thine is the glory and infinite gain-Thy slumber is sweet.
Peace on the brow and the eyelids so calm,
Peace in the heart, 'neath the white folded palms,
Peace dropping down like a wondrous balm
From the head to the feet.

Mary T. Lathrop

Sadly missed by Dad and Mom Sisters and Families

DEATHS

Clara Kellison

Clara "Sally" Kellison, of Hillsboro, died Tuesday, July 4, 2000.

The body is at VanVeenen Funeral Home. Arrangements are incomplete at press time.

Welcome to Pioneer Days

TRISTAN AKERS AND Jensen Dean, of Marlinton, celebrated the Fourth of July by decorating their dog, Rodeo, a Golden Retriever.

L-R: SCHOOL SUPERINDENTENT James Phares with new Board of Education members Bernard "Fuzzy" King and Diane Buzzard and re-elected member Kermit Friel.

Friel re-elected Board of Education President

At the Board of Education meeting on Monday night Kermit Friel was re-elected to the position of Board President. Bruce McKean was elected Vice-president. These are two year terms.

As the first order of business for the meeting, Superintendent James Phares gave the oath of office to the Board members elected at the Primary Election in May. Taking the oath were new members Diane Buzzard and Bernard King and re-elected member Kermit Friel. Mr. King and Mr. Friel will be serving four year terms and Ms. Buzzard will serve the remaining two years of Board seat originally filled by William Leary.

Gibbs Kinderman gave a brief report on the Pocahontas Woods Project. He said he recently talked with Dick Waybright of the W. Va. Forestry Association and received a commitment of help for the county project. Mr. Waybright is part of a new state-wide coalition to promote the use of the state's timber resources and liked the Pocahontas Woods plan to train young people and adults to produce high quality furniture, Mr. Kinderman told the Board.

Approval was given for the change of the name of Hillsboro Elementary-Middle School to Hillsboro Elementary School.

Dr. Phares reported that the county's Comprehensive Educational Facilities Plan for 2000-10 has been approved by the state Department of Education and state Board of Education. The Board gave its final approval to the plan. Dr. Phares commended Mike Holstine, Chairman of the county plan committee, and all staff and citizens who worked on the plan during the past school year.

Arts/Reading at Marlinton Middle

* transfer of Joyce McQuain from half-time custodian at Hillsboro to half-time custodian at PCHS

* employment of Dorothy Morgan, Teresa Potvin, and Mary Walton as cooks for the Energy Express Summer Reading Program

* employment of Lisa Foe as cheerleader coach as PCHS

* employment of James Wiley and Richard Walther as assistant football coaches at PCHS.

Dr. Phares said he hoped to have a recommendation for the Green Bank principal position at the next Board meeting.

In response to a question on vacancies for the coming school year, Dr. Phares said a math position at PCHS and contracted speech therapy position have been posted and not filled. He expressed particular concern about finding someone for the math teaching position, noting that other counties are having a problem finding math teachers.

A half-time French position at Marlinton Middle will be posted this week, Dr. Phares said.

The meeting ended with an executive session on personnel. Dr. Phares said the reason for the session is to receive information from the Board's attorney relative to the hearing in Circuit Court on Thursday on the grievance filed by Carol Alderman, Gary Beverage, Linda Beverage, Joanne Harmon, and Richard Thompson resulting from reductions--in-force decisions for the coming school year.

The next regular Board meeting will be on July 17.

- - -

Budget Digest funds coming

Dr. Phares reported that the county's Comprehensive Educational Facilities Plan for 2000-10 has been approved by the state Department of Education and state Board of Education. The Board gave its final approval to the plan. Dr. Phares commended Mike Holstine, Chairman of the county plan committee, and all staff and citizens who worked on the plan during the past school year.

Approval was given to the schedule of Board meeting dates for the 2000-01 school year.

Approval was given to place out on a 30-day comment period two new policies - Pocahontas County Schools Technology Policy and Pocahontas County Schools Employee Acceptable Use Procedures for Computers Neworks and the Internet. (An acceptable use policy for students already exists.)

Dr. Phares noted the importance of these polices both to give school system staff and students guidance on the use of school system technology and to protect the Board from liability claims from misuse of technology.

Roger Trusler presented a report on computer classes being offered by the school system under the Workforce Enchancement Program. Classes have been completed for Mike Doss Attorney Office, Mosesso Insurance Company, and WVMR. Classes are scheduled this month at Snowshoe and are to be scheduled for Denmar State Prison, H&R Block, Pocahontas Memorial Hospital, and additional ones at Snowshoe.

In personnel matters the Board approved:

* transfer of Lisa Sharp from teacher of Language Arts/ Reading at Marlinton Middle to Title I Reading Specialist at Marlinton

* employment of Joanne Harmon as teacher of Language

Thursday on the grievance filed by Carol Alderman, Gary Beverage, Linda Beverage, Joanne Harmon, and Richard Thompson resulting from reductions--in-force decisions for the coming school year.

The next regular Board meeting will be on July 17.

- - -

Budget Digest funds coming to Pocahontas County

The county is scheduled to receive the following funds from the Budget Digest:

* Durbin Days - $2,000
* Pioneer Days - $1,500
* School System for fixed costs, equipment, capital improvements - $12,000
* Pocahontas County High School for roof, $35,000
* Pocahontas County High School for fixed costs, equipment, capital improvements - $43,000
* McClintic Library - $25,000
* Pocahontas County Library - $25,000
* Pocahontas County EMS - $22,500
* Pocahontas County Commission for court house roof - $40,000
* Allegheny Echoes - $7,500
* Cass Homecoming - $2,000
* Opera House - $2,500
* Pocahontas County Senior Citizens Center - $50,000
* Pocahontas County Seniors/ Durbin - $20,000

- - -

Marlinton Town Council

The Town of Marlinton regular Town Council meeting for the month of July will be July 11 at 7 p. m. in the Marlinton Municipal Building in council chambers.

- - -

Orchids

To Sue Withers Schultz for her wonderful job with the flowers in the Marlinton Main Street boxes.

Trial continued to August

Gelis statement admissible, judge r

A Greenbrier County jury will hear the taped statement of the man accused of murdering his live-in companion and business partner in Pocahontas County last fall.

Circuit Judge Frank Jolliffe ruled Friday that Roger Gelis' September 11, 1999, statement is admissible because he was advised of his Miranda Rights twice and voluntarily made the statement.

Gelis is charged with murder in the first degree in connection with the September, 1999, murder of Melba Hickson Fitzgerald. Fitzgerald's nude, decapitated body was found in a hand-dug well on property in which Gelis claims to have an interest.

He was picked up at The Intersection, the pizza and submarine shop he and Fitzgerald owned and operated shortly after he body was discovered.

The issue, Jolliffe said is whether or not Gelis understood his rights.

"He indicated he did," the judge said.

The State has the right to have the jury consider Gelis's statement, Jolliffe said.

Officers are required to read suspects their Miranda Rights, a warning that they have the right to remain silent, that any statements they make may be held against them in court and that they have the right to have an attorney present during questioning.

Gelis testified at length during the hearing, maintaining he had repeatedly asked to make a telephone call after he was picked up by Lieutenant Ron Simmons and Pocahontas County Sheriff Jerry Dale on September 11 of last year.

The accused man said the law enforcement officers wanted to talk to him about Fitzgerald. "They placed me in the vehicle and took me," Gelis testified.

He said when Simmons and Dale stopped on Rt. 28 near the farm where the body was found, Dale got out and spoke with the deputies there. When he asked what was happening Dale wouldn't answer, he said. "They said they would discuss that with me when they got me downtown," he said.

Gelis said he told Dale he wanted to use the telephone, but the sheriff told him to wait until they were at the police station in Marlinton.

However, Gelis said, his requests to use the telephone at the police station met with procrastination from Simmons and Dale.

"I asked them if I could walk downtown to use the phone booth," he testified. Gelis said he was allowed to use the telephone at 11 p.m.

"They told you they found a body?" his attorney, Eugene Simmons asked.

"I didn't believe it," Gelis responded.

"Did they indicate you were a suspect?" Simmons asked.

"Yes, at the end of the conversation," Gelis replied.

Under cross examinatin by Special Prosecutor Mike Doss, Gelis identified his initials and signature on a Miranda Rights form. "That's probably my signature," he said. "I don't remember this piece of paper."

Doss asked if he understood his right to remain silent. "There was no purpose for me to remain silent," the defendant said.

Gelis also agreed that the officers had told him he had the right to an attorney; however, Gelis said he did not directly ask for an attorney, but said he believed it to be obvious when he asked to make a telephone call.

Doss asked Gelis if he thought Dale was lying in his testimony that Gelis did not ask for an attorney.

"Or I must be lying, one of the two," Gelis said.

Jolliffe himself briefly questioned Gelis about his knowledge of his rights.

"You understood you didn't have to answer their questions?" the judge asked.

"You could say that," Gelis responded.

Gelis also told the judge he understood his statements could be used against him, but cooperated with the officers.

Doss successfully argued that Gelis did understand his rights, but now wanted to "pick and choose which rights will suit him best."

Simmons said Gelis was a "believable individual" and it was not specifically necessary to ask to call an attorney, only to ask to use a telephone.

"Miranda (Rights) doesn't guarantee the right to use the phone," Doss responded.

Gelis was scheduled to stand trial in two weeks; however, because the prosecution will take four days to present its case and another two, Jolliffe m to August 22 since he jurisdictional case s July 25.

Gelis remains in c Southern Regional bond.

Judge refuses to lower do bond, orders evaluation

A circuit judge refused Monday to lower bond for the doctor accused of setting fire to a Lewisburg attorney's office last month.

Chief Judge Frank Jolliffe said he would not reduce Dr. Harry Walkup's bond until after Walkup undergoes a psychiatric/psychological evaluation by Charleston Psychiatrics.

Jolliffe said he wanted to be sure that Walkup was not a threat to other people.

Walkup's attorney, Eugene Simmons, said the doctor's own psychiatrist had provided documents to show Walkup was not a threat.

"He didn't find any danger to others," Simmons said. "We'll continue to have him examined by his own psychiatrist."

Simmons asked Jolliffe to reduce bond so the doctor could continue his practice. The attorney said Walk-up's psychiatrist had examined him in June and "didn't find any danger to others."

Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Kevin Hanson argued that Walkup needed a psychiatric evaluation and that his own psychiatrist may not be the best judge of the doctor's state of mind.

"He saw Dr. Walkup on June 14 and found him not to be a danger," Hanson said. The fire occurred three days later, he reminded the court.

Walkup is charged with starting the fire that gutted Lewisburg attorney Barry Bruce's office on West Randolph Street.

Bruce represents Walkup's ex-wife in divorce proceedings.

In a previous hearing, Hanson said according to the evidence in this case, Walkup left a 20-pound propane tank and a d of gas in Bruce's said the combinati caused a "tremendou

During that hearin a motion for Walk psychiatric evaluati he was concerned and safety of Walku ex-wife, the family Bruce.

Simmons argued tion then, saying t psychiatrist could uation.

"He's never be anything," Simmo completely out of Walkup."

Jolliffe said Sim his argument in fa motion. "You've real good argume Hanson's motion."

Jolliffe reminde motions for mentu tions were general ed.

The judge said W anywhere from 22 on if convicted on

"He has the ri bond," Simmons a

In addition to s son, Walkup is ch ing and entering during an arson re taliation. His to $250,000.

Jolliffe noted only the right to bond set.

Should the de make bond betwe

Continued

prosecution will take four days to Judge refuses to lower doctor's bond, orders evaluation

A circuit judge refused Monday to lower bond for the doctor accused of setting fire to a Lewisburg attorney's office last month.

Chief Judge Frank Jolliffe said he would not reduce Dr. Harry Walkup's bond until after Walkup undergoes a psychiatric/psychological evaluation by Charleston Psychiatrics.

Jolliffe said he wanted to be sure that Walkup was not a threat to other people.

Walkup's attorney, Eugene Simmons, said the doctor's own psychiatrist had provided documents to show Walkup was not a threat.

"He didn't find any danger to others," Simmons said. "We'll continue to have him examined by his own psychiatrist."

Simmons asked Jolliffe to reduce bond so the doctor could continue his practice. The attorney said Walk-up's psychiatrist had examined him in June and "didn't find any danger to others."

Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Kevin Hanson argued that Walkup needed a psychiatric evaluation and that his own psychiatrist may not be the best judge of the doctor's state of mind.

"He saw Dr. Walkup on June 14 and found him not to be a danger," Hanson said. The fire occurred three days later, he reminded the court.

Walkup is charged with starting the fire that gutted Lewisburg attorney Barry Bruce's office on West Randolph Street.

Bruce represents Walkup's ex-wife in divorce proceedings.

In a previous hearing, Hanson said according to the evidence in this case, Walkup left a 20-pound propane tank and a dozen containers of gas in Bruce's office. Hanson said the combination could have caused a "tremendous explosion."

During that hearing Hanson made a motion for Walkup to undergo psychiatric evaluation. Hanson said he was concerned about the health and safety of Walkup's children, his ex-wife, the family lawmaster and Bruce.

Simmons argued against the motion then, saying the doctor's own psychiatrist could provide an evaluation.

"He's never been involved in anything," Simmons said. "This is completely out of character for Dr. Walkup."

Jolliffe said Simmons had made his argument in favor of the state's motion. "You've just given me a real good argument to grant Mr. Hanson's motion," Jolliffe said.

Jolliffe reminded Simmons that motions for mental health evaluations were generally liberally granted.

The judge said Walkup could face anywhere from 22-30 years in prison if convicted on the charges.

"He has the right to be out on bond," Simmons argued Monday.

In addition to second degree arson, Walkup is charged with breaking and entering, causing injury during an arson related crime and retaliation. His total cash bond is $250,000.

Jolliffe noted that Walkup had only the right to have reasonable bond set.

Should the doctor be able to make bond between now and the

Continued to page 5

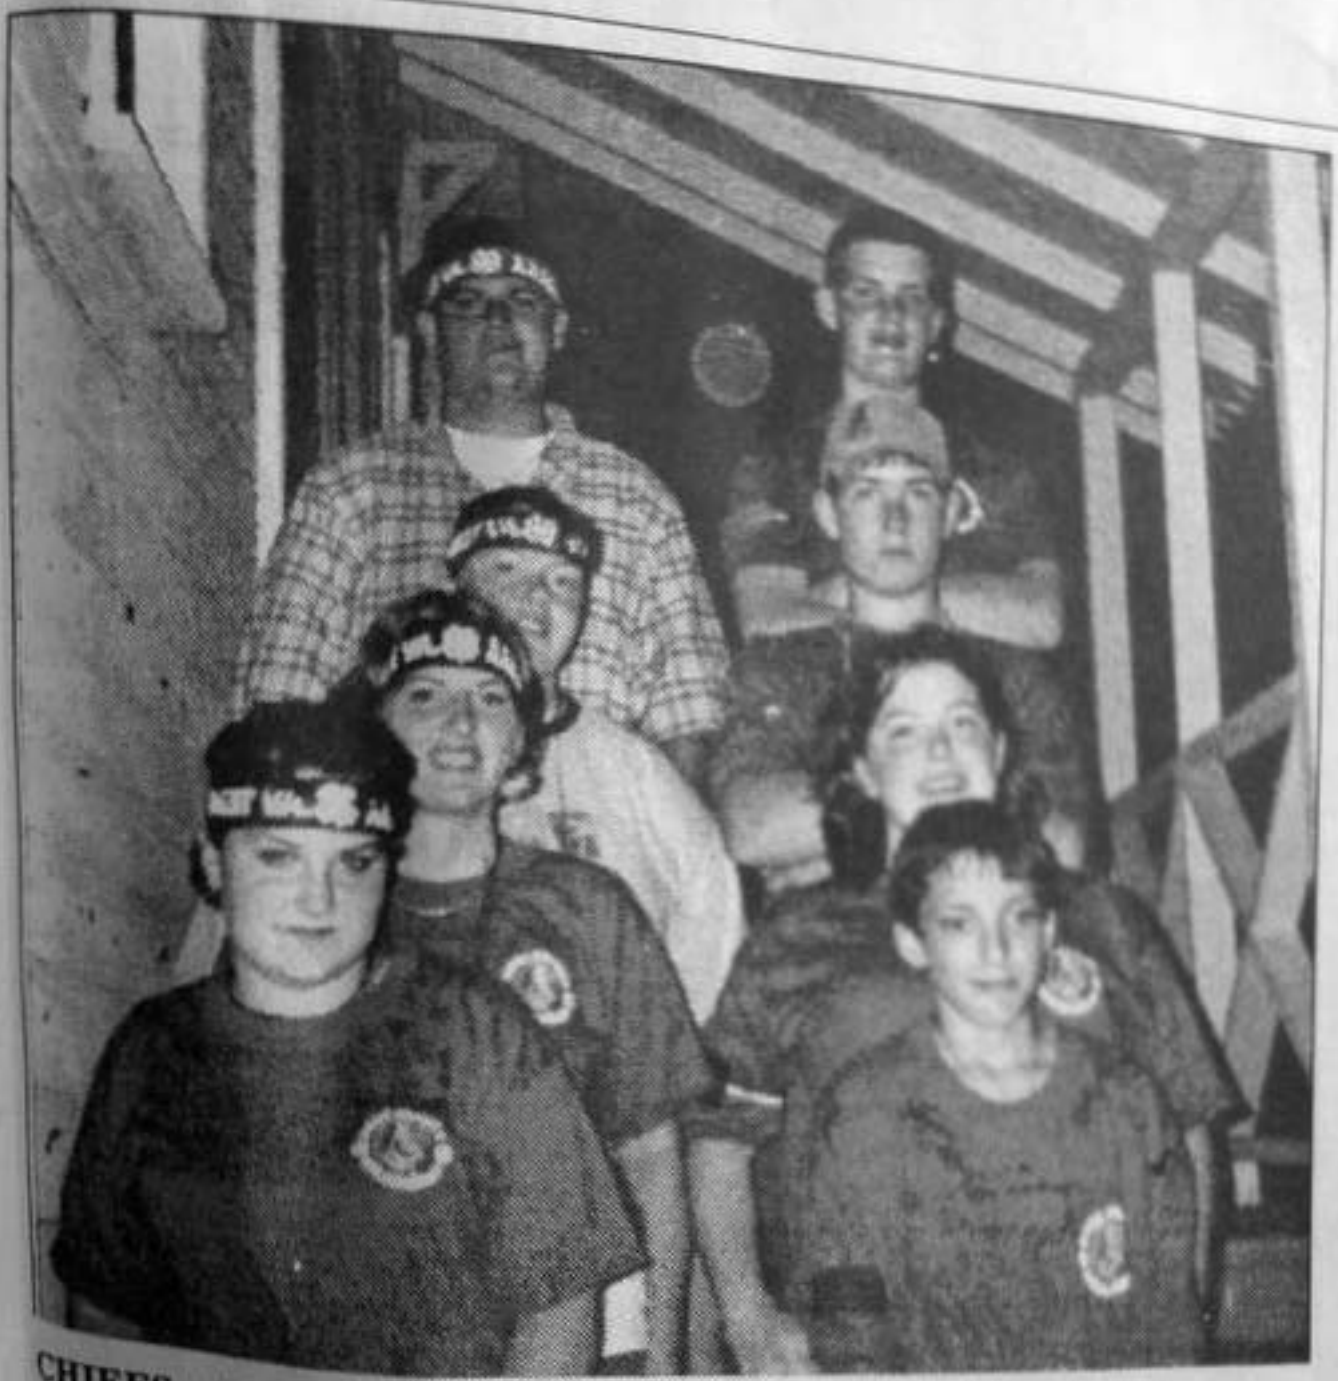
MR. AND MRS. Durward Roberts celebrated their 67th anniversary.

Surprise wedding anniversary celebration

A surprise wedding anniversary celebration was held Sunday, May 21, at 1 p.m., for Mr. and Mrs. Durward Roberts, of Covington, Virginia, formerly of Hillsboro, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Pyles, of Seebert. The reception was given by their six children, Irene Pyles, of Seebert, Carol Anderson, of Hillsboro, and Wanda Mooney of Arbovale, Karen Kelley, Juanita Bostic, and Jimmy Roberts, all of Covington.

Mr. and Mrs. Roberts were united in marriage on May 19, 1933, at Marlinton. This was their 67th Anniversary. Mr. and Mrs. Roberts have nine grandchildren, 10 great-grandchildren and two step-great-grandchildren.

U. S. NAVY PETTY OFFICER Rebecca Hall retired from active duty.



CHIEFS AND SAGAMORES at 4-H Camp this year were: Dana Combs, Chief, and Daniel Simmons, Sag, Seneca Tribe, Ginger Henry, Chief, and Rachel Barb, Sag, Delaware Tribe, Shannon McComb, Chief, and Derrick Irvine, Sag, and Matt Rhea, Chief, and Billy Herold, Sag, Cherokee Tribe.

4-H Camp has successful session

On June 11th, 112 youth gathered at Camp Thornwood to celebrate a week of 4-H camp. The theme of this year's camp was "Home of the Millennium Sock Monkey" and each camper made his or her own 2000 4-H Monkey from a sock. Much fun [illegible]

have never attended a state camping event and the scholarships provide money for that camp. This year's scholarships were given to Jake Bing, Jessica Dean, Dana Combs, Daniel Simmons and Felisha Pen-

4-H Camp has successful session

On June 11th, 112 youth gathered at Camp Thornwood to celebrate a week of 4-H camp. The theme of this year's camp was "Home of the Millennium Sock Monkey" and each camper made his or her own 2000 4-H Monkey from a sock. Much fun was had by all, as the week was packed full of exciting events.

On Sunday, campers settled in their cabins and played get-to- know-you games. Monday the campers started weekly classes choosing from the following: wood-burning, charting, softball, basket-making, basketball, tribal name tags, sign language, pottery, outdoor cooking, shotgun, mountain biking, horses, seashell angels, songs, wooden boxes, soccer, newspaper, volleyball, candle making, felt animals, squirrel feeders and bug catchers, stepping stones, archery, and fishing. Following class on Monday, the teen leaders led an assembly on drug education. On Tuesday, the campers participated in Outdoor Challenges, led by Doshia Webb. Tribes competed in events such as wood chopping, archery, casting, mock fishing, and an obstacle course. This event promoted comradeship and teamwork by the tribes. Wednesday the campers went to the Green Bank Observatory to swim and play basketball. Following on that night they danced the night away at the upgraded basketball courts, complete with lights and music. The camp ended on Thursday, as many tired campers cheered at the last council circle.

Freddy Hill, from Charleston, served as this year's volunteer camp

have never attended a state camping event and the scholarships provide money for that camp. This year's scholarships were given to Jake Bing, Jessica Dean, Dana Combs, Daniel Simmons and Felisha Pennington.

The Extension office would like to recognize the following people for their charitable help for this year's successful camp: Bill Jordan, Cheryl Beverage, Drema Sharp, Marvina Irvine, Wendy Summers, Brenda Williams, Dave Williams, Doshia Webb, Jan Starr, Arlene Cheek, Lauren Bennett, Kathy Henry, Linda VanReenen, Connie Burns, Coby Brown, Dustin Simmons, Lois Ann Beverage, JW Cheek, Kathy Irvine, Regina Woods, Jennifer Beverage, WVCEOS, David Simmons, Irene Varner, Ed White and Susie Wilfong.

2000 4-H Campers

Seneca Tribe - Chief, Dana Comb; Sagamore, Daniel Simmons; Kevin Beverage, Kendall Beverage, Heidi Beverage, Shawnna Mullenax, Kayla Jordan, Angela Jordan, Darrell Jordan, Pamela Jordan, Seth Nelson, Joe Mosesso, Lucia Mosesso, Mathias Callison, Mikey Callison, Justin Dilley, Abby McCoy, Jonathan Burns, Kristy Madron, Dana Combs, Jessica Dean, Patricia Glaser, Katie Grimes, Brenda Bolyard, Ashley Irvine, Katie Workman, and Brittany Hoke.

Mingo Tribe - Chief, Shanna McComb; Sagamore, Derrick Irvine; Natasha Trainer, Aaron Tumblin, Crystal Wilfong, Christina Holstine, Grace Ferrell, Kristen Ir-

course. This event promoted comradeship and teamwork by the tribes. Wednesday the campers went to the Green Bank Observatory to swim and play basketball. Following on that night they danced the night away at the upgraded basketball courts, complete with lights and music. The camp ended on Thursday, as many tired campers cheered at the last council circle.

Freddy Hill, from Charleston, served as this year's volunteer camp assistant. On Thursday he handed out awards at the last council circle. The Head H is given to a camper who uses his/her head wisely throughout camp. This year's Head H was awarded to Shanna McComb. The Heart H is given to a camper who shows the most care throughout the week and this year's Heart H went to Ginger Henry. The Health H is given to the camper who shows the most concern for his health as well as the health of others. This year's Health H was awarded to Daniel Simmons. The Hands H is given to the camper who is always willing to give a helping hand. This year's Hands H was given to Rachel Barb. The Spirit of Camp is given to the ideal camper, one who is always willing to give a helping hand, always has a positive attitude, and is an overall excellent camper. This year's Spirit of Camp was awarded to Matt Rhea. The Community Educational Outreach Service, CEOS, donated a scholarship to an outstanding young camper. This scholarship was given to Lizza Dilley. A first year camper award is given to a camper who shows outstanding leadership and service at their first year of camp. This year's Outstanding First Year Campers are Brittany Hoke and Ethan Lash. The Cool Camper award is given to a camper who shows devotion and leadership to the 4-H program. The 2000 Cool Camper is Robert Alonso. The Harold Carpenter award was given to Joee Galford. Challenge Scholarships are given to campers who

Gill, Seth Nelson, Joe Mosesso, Lucia Mosesso, Mathias Callison, Mikey Callison, Justin Dilley, Abby McCoy, Jonathan Burns, Kristy Madron, Dana Combs, Jessica Dean, Patricia Glaser, Katie Grimes, Brenda Bolyard, Ashley Irvine, Katie Workman, and Brittany Hoke.

Mingo Tribe - Chief, Shanna McComb; Sagamore, Derrick Irvine; Natasha Trainer, Aaron Tumblin, Crystal Wilfong, Christina Holstine, Grace Ferrell, Kristen Irvine, David Moore, Lizza Dilley, Jeremy Moore, Jonathan Moore, Nicole Rose, Robbie Calhoun, James Calhoun, Britney Barlow, Adrienne Juergens, Chris Halterman, Jennifer Morrison, Casey Horton, Hannah Giddings, Christina Buchanan, Samantha Friel, Ryan Ware, Morgan Taylor, Annie Laurie Richardson, and Clay Baxter

Delaware Tribe - Chief, Ginger Henry; Sagamore, Rachel Barb; Rebecca Neyman, Damon Brock, Jarrett McLaughlin, Cole Beverage, Abby Dilley, Will Pennington, Anne Stemple, Felicia Pennington, Brittany McMann, Nebraska Beverage, Jaclyn Crane, Kelly Starr, Robin Nelson, Holly Nelson, Robert Nelson, Justin Madron, Renae Burks, Andrew Rider, Hallie Herold, Timothy VanReenen, Randall Thompson, Ethan Lash, Adam Irvine, Nicholas Irvine, Robert Alonso, Ben Richardson, and Amy Henry

Cherokee Tribe - Chief, Matt Rhea; Sagamore, Billy Herold; Melissa Neyman, Kelsey Beverage, Rebecca Dilley, Amanda Wiley, Adam Wright, Susanna Diller, Jesse Blake, Natasha McMann, Jennifer Rose, Brian Warner, Danielle Holstine, Michelle Holstine, Michael Gerrell, Jodie Starr, Natasha Lambert, Tashina Lambert, Jesse Burns, Travis Juergens, Chris Woods, Joel Galford, Courtney Cochran, Allison Norrod, Jake Bing, Jessica Rhea, Sam Herold, Joshua Shinaberry, Deitra Totten, and Bryan Thompson.

- - -

POCAHONTAS CENTER "FATHERS," Bob Foster, Dewey McCarty, Joe Friel, Kyle Sharp, Dennis Wilfong, and Mr. Foster's wife, Martha, went on a fishing trip on June 9 at Handley Pond. Pictured are Dewey McCary, of Frost, and Joe Friel, of Marlinton.

Joe Friel, of Marlinton.

Durbin's sewage pond needs treatment

by Jason Bauserman

Durbin's sewage treatment plant was again the main topic of discussion at Monday night's council meeting.

The council spent most of its time discussing how to eradicate algae on the lagoon. Mayor Paula Dilley felt there were too few algae-eating geese for such a large lagoon. She suggested getting rid of the geese and using chemicals.

Newly hired sewer plant manager Jeff Wayne said he would ask Seneca State Forest Superintendent David Caplinger what chemical he used on the pond there.

Council said it did not want to get ride of the geese until it found a chemical that works.

Some long-time members noted that chemicals had not been satisfactory in the past.

Dilley announced that Durbin Liquor Store is now out of business. She said no one submitted bids for the state liquor license.

Both Dilley and Treasurer Nancy Benetato expressed concern about making up the lost liquor revenue which went into the town's dwindling general fund.

Other town business included:

•Buster Varner and Nancy Benetato were approved for building permits for their roofs.

•Town worker Earl Osier plans to quit and return to the U. S. Forest Service at Bartow.

•Greg Darden was hired to mow around the lagoon in place of David Dilley.

•Clifford Peck will do porch repair work for the rental unit above the Mayor's Office. councilmember Donna Rexrode was appointed to oversee this project.

•Dilley said the manhole risers still have not arrived for this summer's paving job.

•Benetato said an auditor from the state will be here next week to check the books.

•Benetato was given permission to ask for help from CPA Frank Proud to fill out the sewer fund report.

•Dilley noted that gravel for parking has been spread at the trailhead site.

•Council reminded everyone to enjoy Durbin Days the week of July 16-23.

Walkup from page 2

evaluations, Jolliffe ruled that he would be confined to the state of West Virginia, but be barred from Greenbrier County, and would be allowed no contact with his ex-wife or Bruce.

Walkup remains in custody in the Southern Regional Jail.

We Buy Anything of Value and in good condition Furniture • Antiques and Collectibles
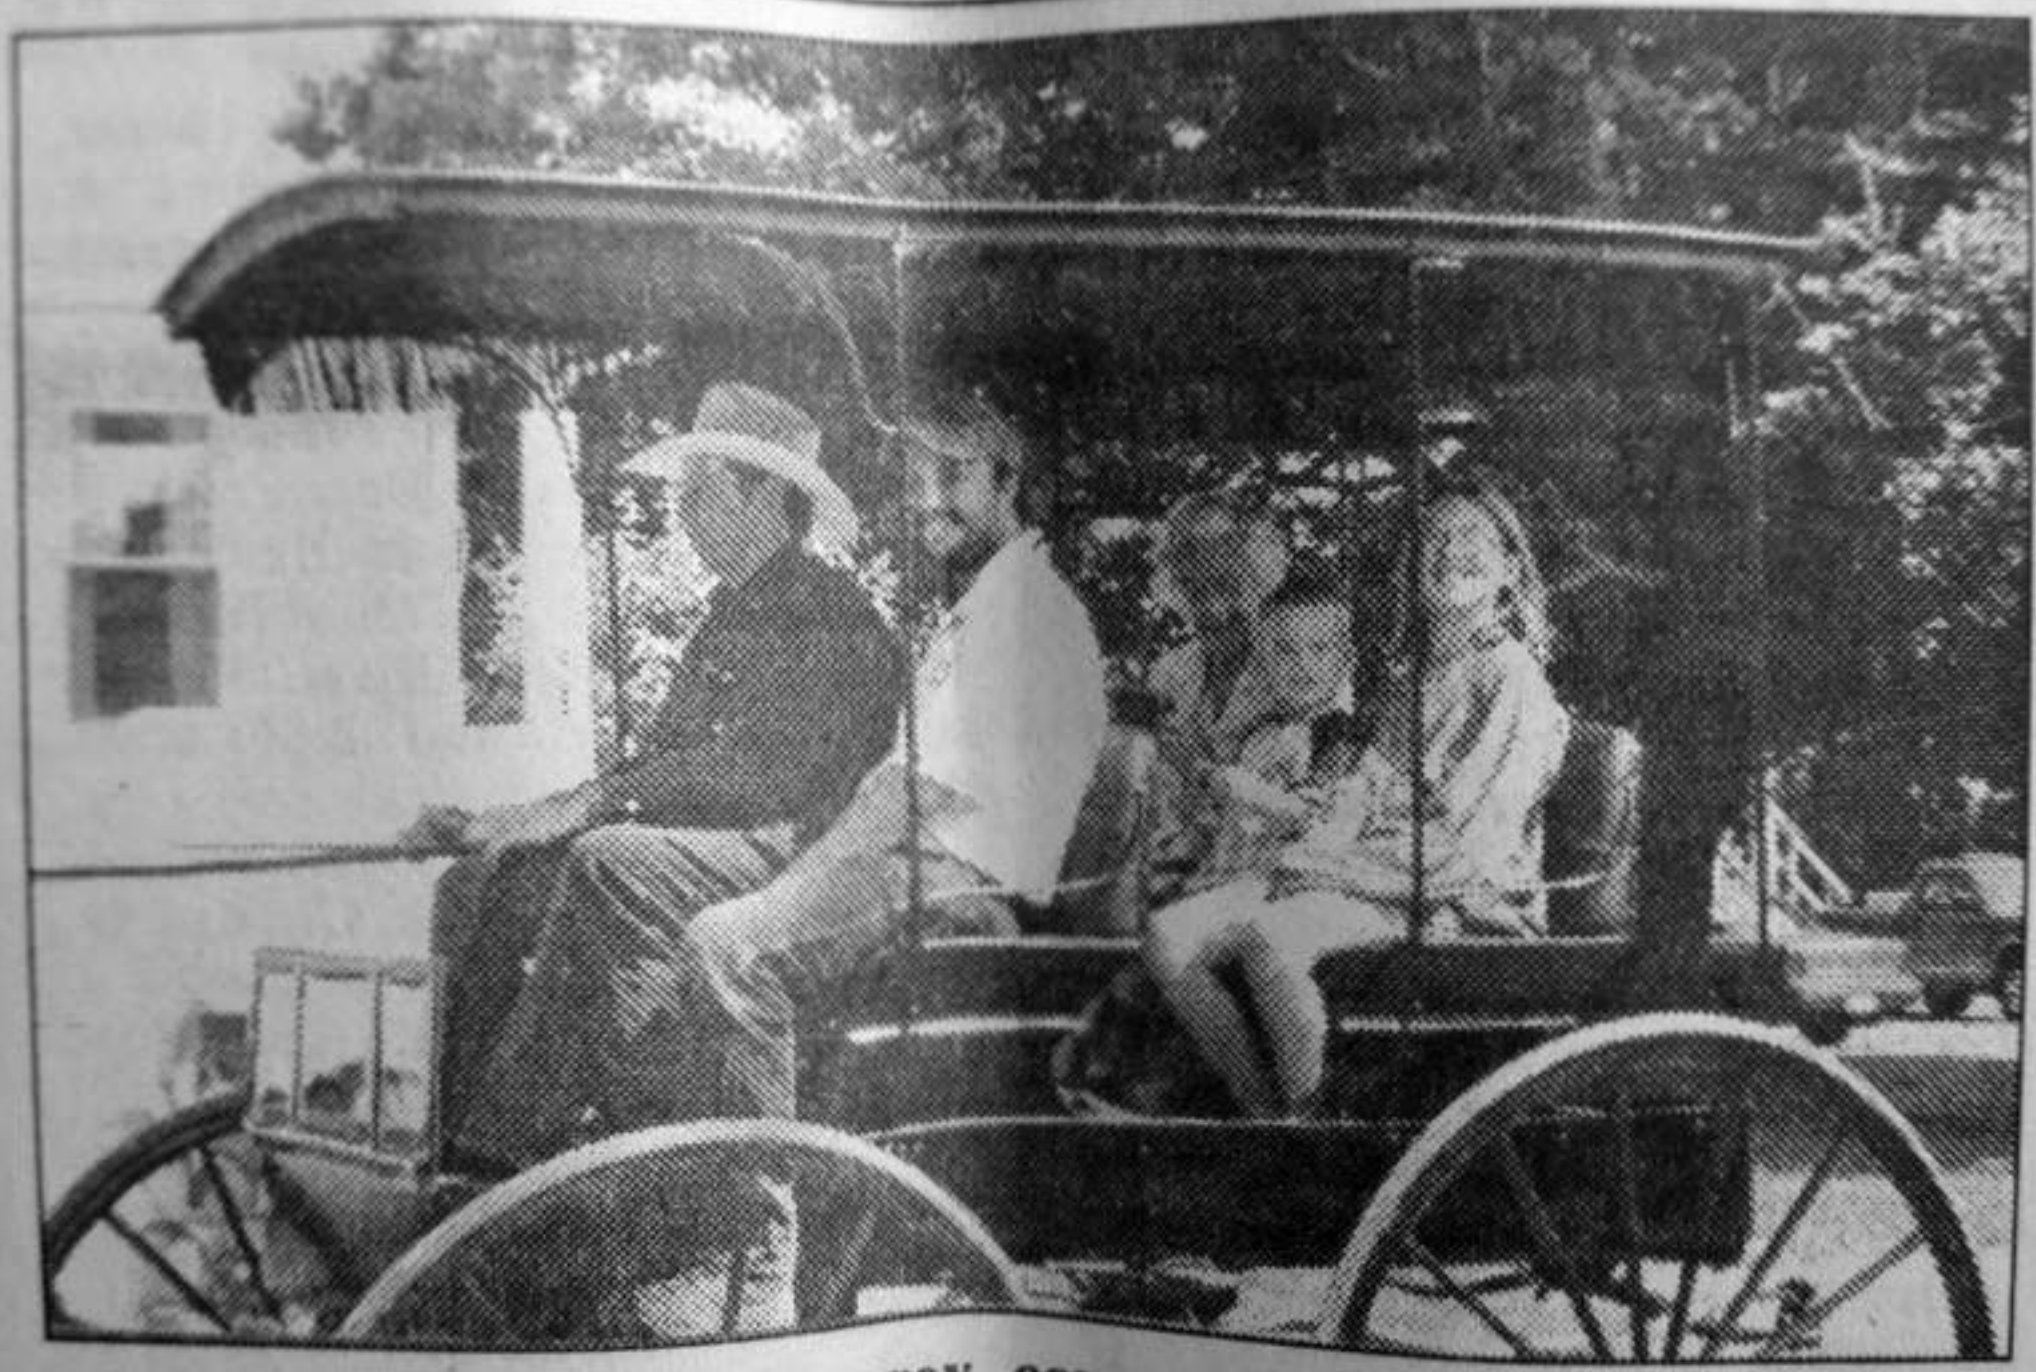
799-2237 or 799-0875
Marlinton Antique Mall

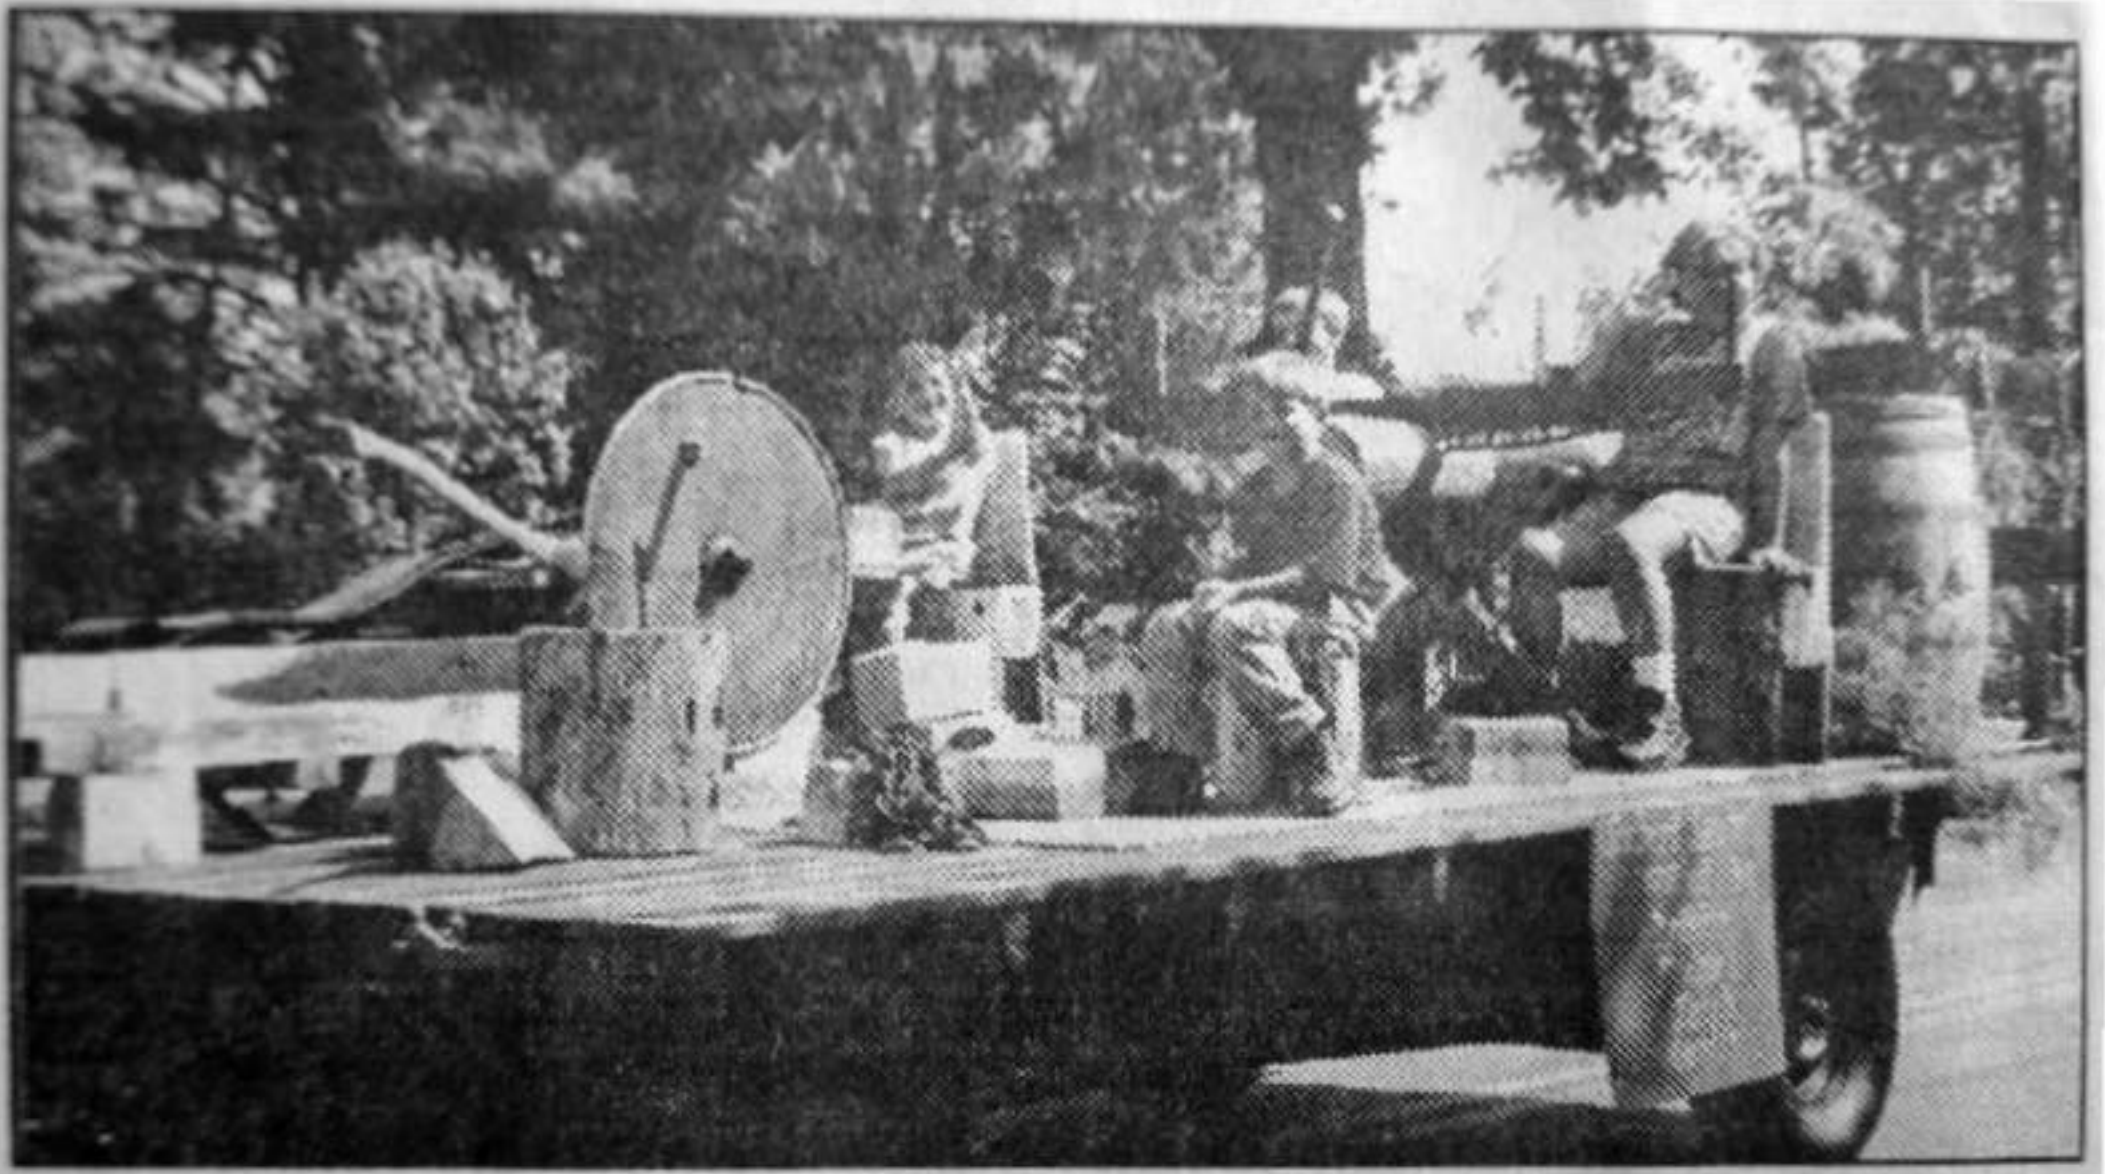


THIS SHINY LITTLE surrey conveyed Louise McNeel, (rear, left) and her family through the Little Levels Heritage Fair Parade. The surrey was driven by Lake Vaughan.

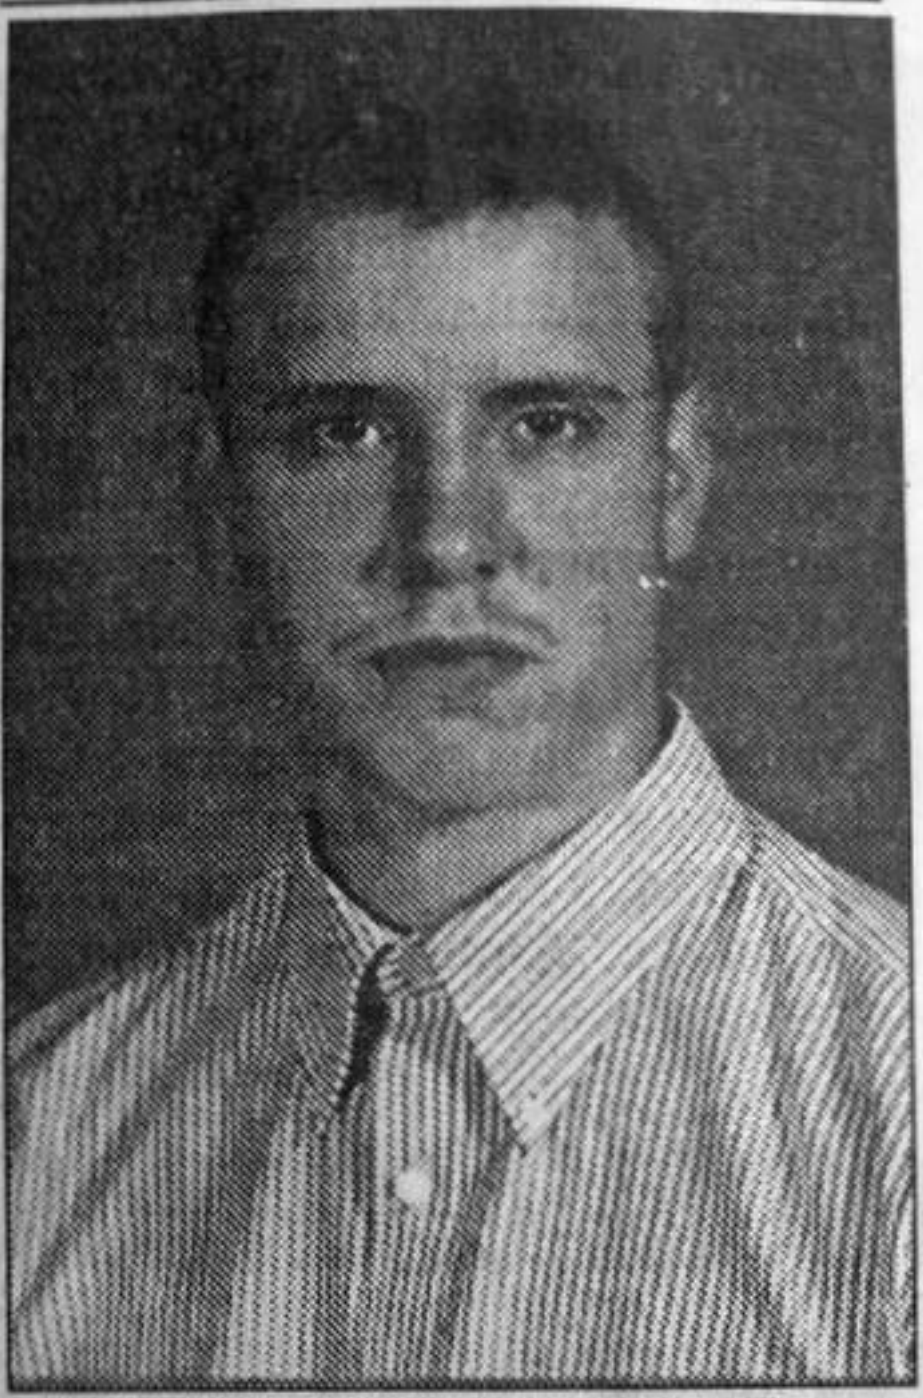
driven by Lake Vaughan.

THE CALLISON FAMILY celebrated Pocahontas County's bountiful beauty.

SPREADING IT AROUND are State Senator Walt Helmick, Bob Alkire, Dolan Irvine, C. C. Beck, John Simmons and Joel Callison.



THE PYLES FAMILY celebrated the heritage fair theme, Timber-Our Heritage with this float.



Taking Basic Training

Denny Wimer, a 2000 graduate of PCHS, has enlisted in the US Army and is now taking his basic training at Fort Knox. He would like to hear from his friends. His address is: Pvt Wimer Denny D 5/45 INF Bldg # 6543, 2nd Plt bushmasters, Fort Knox, KY 40121.

Denny Wimer, a 2000 graduate of PCHS, has enlisted in the US Army and is now taking his basic training at Fort Knox. He would like to hear from his friends. His address is: Pvt Wimer Denny
D 5/45 INF Bldg # 6543, 2nd Plt
bushmasters, Fort Knox, KY 40121.

County resident receives degree

Kelly F. Vaughan Schuhmann was among the 350 members of the graduating class of 2000 at Eastern Mennonite University, Harrisonburg, Virginia.

Ms. Schuhmann received a master of arts degree in counseling. She is the spouse of Jeffrey Schuhmann and the daughter of Lake and Irma Vaughan, of Hillsboro.

Dr. Ronald J. R. Mathies, executive director of Mennonite Central Committee, Akron, Pennsylvania, presented the graduating class with three gifts—"a ticket, a towel and a good set of lenses" - in challenging them to a lifetime of witness, service and peacebuilding. The ceremony was held April 30 on the front lawn of campus.

- - -

Times

Member

JUNE 29, 2000 VOL.

Sale!

Walkup charged with additional felonies

The Marlinton physician charged with second degree arson in Lewisburg last week faces three additional felony charges.

Dr. Harry Walkup, 51, is now also charged with breaking and entering, causing injury during an arson-related crime and retaliation.

Walkup is accused of setting the fire which gutted Lewisburg attorney Barry Bruce's office on June 17.

A firefighter was injured while helping extinguish the blaze.

According to the court file, one 20-pound propane tank and 14 metal containers believed to have contained gasoline were discovered in the building after the fire.

Bruce represented Walkup's ex-wife, Mary, in divorce proceedings.

The attorney estimated damages at $250,000.

In addition to the $100,000 cash bond set by Greenbrier County Magistrate Ernie Backus, visiting Magistrate Danieth Miller set bond on the other charges at $150,000.

Walkup has waived his preliminary hearing scheduled for Wednesday. A bond reduction hearing in circuit court has not been scheduled.

- - -

Test scores topic at Board of Education meeting

The Board of Education met for a regular meeting on Monday.

Superintendent James Phares gave the Board a summary of state Board of Education policy revisions and the possible implications for this school system.

Dr. Phares expressed concern about two of the policies. One will increase the required hours of instruction for students on alternative education from four to 16 hours a week and make other changes. He noted that this will be a major funding problem for this county.

The other policy that will have a major impact on this county is a requirement for high school courses to be 8100 minutes in length for credit to be given. Dr. Phares noted that the high school schedule now only allots 7200 minutes per course. Courses at the middle schools that earn high school credit will also have to meet the new requirement, he said.

Schools can seek a one year waiver before having to meet the 8100 minute length, Dr. Phares said. Kenneth Vance noted that PCHS is already working on a way to meet the new requirement.

Dr. Phares also presented information on the scores on the statewide Stanford Achievement Test. He noted with frustration that although the county scores have improved, with every grade level above the 50th precentile, Pocahontas ranked 55th in county rankings. "We went up, but other counties went up faster," one Board member commented. The county ranked 53rd last year.

Dr. Phares noted that teachers must be commended for their efforts in the improvements of test scores. He said the staff at the high school and Marlinton Middle need special mention for the students doing as well as they did, with the bomb threat disruptions at those schools.

Although he feels the county rankings are statistically invalid for a number of reasons, Dr. Phares said the reality is that the county must do better. Pocahontas spends the most money per student in the state and the low ranking has a negative political fallout for the county.

Dr. Phares said the effort to continue to improve test scores will include efforts to improve teacher ability, student attitude, and increased teaching time. He said the principals are to submit plans to the Board before the start of the coming school year.

A third report from the Superintendent had more happy news for the county school system. For the 1999 graduating class, the estimated college going rate for this county was 54.5%. Out of the 101 1999 PCHS graduates, 43 were reported to have gone on to college in West Virginia and 12 to out-of-state institutions. The Pocahontas college attendance rate was slightly above the state average of 53%. Of the counties surrounding Pocahontas, the county's college attendance rate for 1999 was ahead of Randolph, Webster, and Nicholas but under Greenbrier and [illegible] was the last meeting [illegible] members Gibbs Kinderman, who has served 14 years, and Lowell Galford, who was appointed last year to the unexpired term of William Leary. He thanked them for their service.

In personnel matters the Board approved:

* assignment of Carol Alderman as counselor at Hillsboro, Marlinton Elementary, and Marlinton Middle schools

* employment of Bernadette Rolleston and Louisa Kiner as summer school teachers at Marlinton Elementary School

* Kathryn Kolonay as teacher for the Pre-school/School-age Handicapped Extended Year Program

* employment of David Caplinger as head boys basketball coach at Green Bank.

Dr. Phares reported that six candidates for the principal's position at Green Bank will be interviewed on Thursday. He said he hoped to have a recommendation for the position by the second Board meeting in July.

The meeting ended with an executive session on personnel.

The next regular Board meeting will be on July 3.

ROY McPATERS, RIGHT, an employee at Seneca State Forest, receives his 30 year service award from Gov. Cecil Underwood.

McPaters receives 30 year award

Governor Cecil Underwood presented Pocahontas County native, Roy McPaters, a 30 year service award at a ceremony at the Cultural Center in Charleston on May 4. Roy, Building Maintenance Mechanic at Seneca State Forest, attended with his wife, Beverly.

Roy has worked his entire career at Seneca, having started work in July of 1969. "I've always liked what I do, so I kept with it," stated McPaters. "I enjoy working with the other employees there, and I get to do a different job most every day."

According to Forest Superintendent, Dave Caplinger, McPaters is a very special employee. "Roy's title is Building Maintenance Mechanic because we have to call him something," Caplinger says. "In reality, though, Roy is quite capable in virtually every area of maintenance, repair and construction. I'm sure there's something he can't fix or build, but in eleven years of working with him I haven't found it yet." Assistant Superintendent, Dave Wagner, a coworker of McPaters for 28 years at Seneca calls Roy "irreplaceable." "He's one of the best kept secrets in the park and forest system," says Wagner. "On top of that he's a great guy to work with and one of the best friends you could ever hope to have."

Roy is the son of Oliver and Betty McPaters of Marlinton. He has two children, Greg Gainer of Marlinton and Cindy Burks of Mill Point.

AMFM, Inc. Introduces Vice President of Operations

Dana Moyers has been named Vice President of Operations for AMFM, Inc., according to an announcement made by John Elliot, President. Mr. Moyers was formerly a Divisional Director for Genesis Health Ventures. "Dana's leadership and expertise are tremendous assets for our growing team," said Mr. Elliot. Moyers holds a Bachelor's degree in Administration from Marshall University and resides in Lewisburg with his wife, son, and two daughters.

AMFM, Inc., is West Virginia's largest privately owned and operated nursing home company with facilities located in Fayette, Wyoming, Lincoln, Marshall, [illegible] and Wyoming Counties. The company's mission is to exemplify excellence in quality care to our cus-

Leslie Cain Joins Old Spruce Realty

Jane Scott, Broker of Old Spruce Realty, announced that Leslie Cain recently joined the firm as a sales associate. Leslie will be involved with residential and commercial sales in Pocahontas County. "Leslie is extremely knowledgeable and enthusiastic about all of the wonderful things our area has to offer and we look forward to working with her. Leslie's dynamic and sincere personality brings to our firm the traits required to be a success in this industry," said Jane Scott.

Leslie Cain is originally from the Preston County area, and moved to Pocahontas County when she married Mike Cain in 1991. She has two children, Rachel, 7, and Ryan, 5. She and her husband run the Old Clark Inn B & B on Third Avenue in Marlinton. She graduated from West Virginia Wesleyan College in 1987 with a B.S. in Marketing. She is involved with many boards and organizations such as the Pocahontas County Convention and Visitors Bureau, Pocahontas County Chamber of Commerce, the Marlinton Business Association and the Pocahontas County Solid Waste Authority.

LOOK GOOD, FEEL GOOD

Browning graduates from WV School of Osteopathic Medicine

Patricia Matchett Browning, D.O., of Hillsboro, received her Doctor of Osteopathy (D.O.) degree from the West Virginia School of Osteopathic Medicine along with 56 of her classmates at the school's 23rd commencement ceremony on Saturday, May 27.

Dr. Browning was awarded her osteopathic medical degree after successfully completing the four-year WVSOM curriculum. The osteopathic medical school curriculum includes two years of basic science study and two years of clinical rotations.

She received a Bachelor of Science degree in Medical Technology from Ohio University in Athens, Ohio, and a Master of Science degree from West Virginia University.

While at WVSOM, Browning received the Health Sciences Scholarship, the Gates Pharmaceutical Award, and the Ram's Head Award. She plans to pursue an internship at Greenbrier Valley Medical Center in Lewisburg.

Browning and her husband, William Browning, D.O., have three children, Ariana, 21; Bill, 19; and Elizabeth, 16.

She is the daughter of Robert C. Matchett, of Whitehall, Ohio.

- - -

Pocahontas County students graduate from Glenville State College

The following students from recently completed their degree requirements and graduated from Glenville State College on May 13.

Jeremy Burks - Bachelor of Science

Della Cassell - Bachelor of Arts.

- - -

Times

Mem

JUNE 22, 2000

VO

America's Panels

DEATHS

Betty J. Brown

Betty J. Brown, age 69, of Beaver Creek, died Sunday, June 18, 2000, in Pocahontas Memorial Hospital.

She was a member of the Cummings Creek Victory Chapel.

Born February 6, 1931, on Beaver Creek, she was the daughter of the late Rev. Howard Underwood and Edna Grace Lewis Underwood.

In addition to her parents, she was preceded in death by her husband, Robert Brown; a son, Roger Scott; and seven brothers, Wade Gillispie, Conda Gillispie, Leo Underwood, Watson Underwood, Origen Underwood, Spurgeon Underwood, and Wallace Underwood.

She is survived by a son, Dexter Underwood, of Beaver Creek; a sister, Peachie Wilson, of Buckeye; and one grandchild.

Funeral services were held

...man Alderman, with burial in the Beaver Creek Cemetery.

- - -

Michael F. Shane

Michael F. Shane, age 51, of Nitro, formerly of Marlinton, died Monday night, June 12, 2000, at the home of his mother in Big Prairie, Ohio, after a long illness.

He was born November 20, 1948, in Wadsworth, Ohio, to Frederick and Martha Woyat Shane.

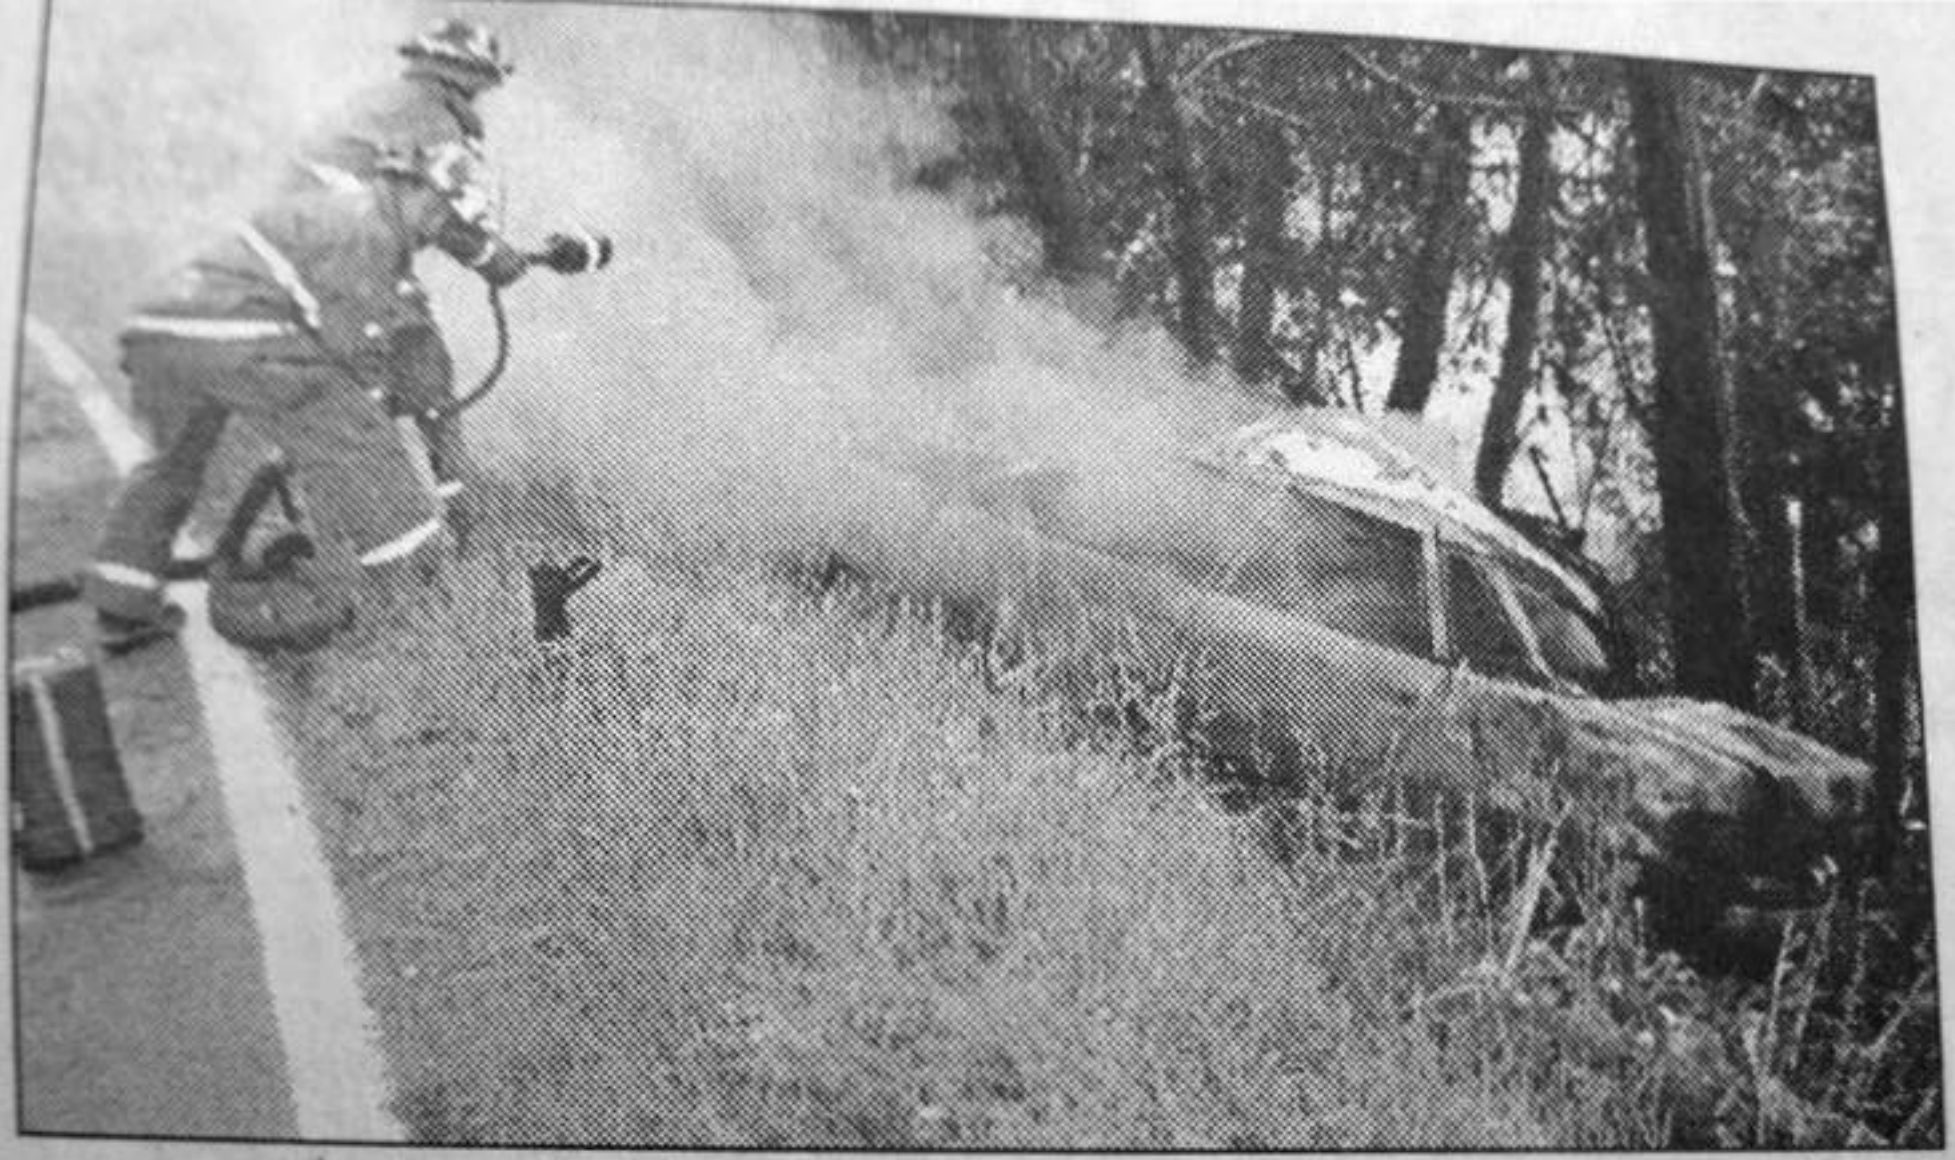
He was a 1966 graduate of Norwayne High School, and was a U. S. Army veteran of the Vietnam War, where he served as a warrant officer and helicopter pilot. He was currently employed as a salesman for Dunbar Building Products in Dunbar. While in the Marlinton area Mike was employed by Glades Building Supply. He was a member of the Moose Lodge, Eagles Lodge, American Legion, and Veterans of Foreign Wars, all in West Virginia.

Surviving are his mother and step-father, Martha and Dale Schmid; a son, Tyler Shane, of Eleanor; sisters, Connie Schaffter, of Wadsworth, Kitty Patterson, of Burbank, Ohio; step-brothers, Gregory Schmid, of Wooster, Ohio, Kevin Schmid, of Shreve, Ohio; step-sisters, Lynn Ransbottom, of Upper Arlington, Ohio, and Joan Schmid, of Wooster.

Preceding him in death were his

Memorial services were held Thursday in Rittman, Ohio, and in H Nitro on Saturday. A military ei service and burial was held at m Mountain View Cemetery in in Marlinton on Saturday at 5 p. m.

Memorial contributions may be P made to the Hospice of Wayne S County, 2525-A Back Orrville Road, J Wooster, Ohio 44691, or to the g Marlinton Library Fund at M Pocahontas County Free Libraries, P. O. Box 132, Hillsboro, WV 24946.



FIREFIGHTERS EXTINGUISH THE blaze caused by an accident Wednesday, June 14, on Rt. 28 2 1/2 miles north of the intersection with Rt. 39. Holly Sewell, the driver, was not seriously injured in the 1:45 p.m. accident. Sewell was kept overnight at Pocahontas Memorial Hospital.

Photo by James Baxter

Marlinton Council passes B & O tax on second reading

Marlinton Mayor Doug Dunbrack was more successful in pushing through the business and occupation tax on its second reading at a special town council meeting Friday night.

Council member Jim Kellison, who owns a business in the town, was the lone dissenting vote.

Recorder Dotty Kellison and council members Robin Mutschelleer, who also owns a Marlinton business, Keith Moore and Jim Gibb voted in favor of the ordinance after Gibb made a motion to amend the ordinance.

Those amendments were:

- no tax on manufacturing
- remove the cap of $6,000
- retail sales and services decreased to 5¢ on the $100
- eliminate the business advisory board.

Gibb said "people felt the town council would be obligated to vote the way they (the advisory board) said."

Gardner Shoe of West Virginia wrote a letter to the council asking that it reject the B&O tax proposal in its entirety. The shoe company falls under the manufacturing category, as does The Pocahontas Times.

Gardner is considering combining its shoe plants, the letter said, and additional tax burden will make Marlinton "not as competitive as it once was."

Councilmember Loretta Malcomb was absent.

Dunbrack broke a 3-3 tie at the first reading of the ordinance with all council members present.

The two hour meeting was attended by approximately 60 people, some of them business owners who spoke out against the tax.

Former town council member Joe Laskey, who owns a laundromat and video rental business on second avenue, said he wanted to sell his business.

"My business is for sale if I can find a sucker dumb enough to buy it," Laskey said.

He noted his customers generally do not wait for their laundry to cycle through, but walk to Main Street to shop.

Other business owners, including Arlene Armstrong, owner of French's Diner, said they would find it difficult, if not impossible to remain in business with the added burden of a B&O tax. "I can't do it with a B&O tax," Armstrong said. "It would be a shame not to see French's Diner on the corner."

Reid Mitchell told the council he had visited as many businesses as he could, asking owners and managers to attend the meeting to oppose the tax.

"The vast preponderance of the attitude is opposition to the tax," Mitchell said. Mitchell, a former town council member, said he would be willing to assist the council in finding other ways to raise revenue for the town.

Real Care owner Jona Irvin said losses might be in the form of jobs. "We could put 20 people out of work," she said. "That doesn't do anybody any good.

"Our employees haven't gotten raises, they don't have health insurance," she said.

Only three businesses represented said they provided health insurance to employees.

Council members said they had not devised a plan for amount of raises for the employees or for the health insurance plan they intended to provide.

Gibb said they needed to know how much money was available first. "The personnel committee didn't come up with a figure on the cost of raises," Gibb said.

Business owners in the audience argued that the council needed to know how much money it needed before trying to raise revenues.

Mitchell said several business owners had indicated to him they would simply refuse to pay the tax.

Pocahontas County resident John Leyzorek said he had no stake in the outcome of the vote, but wanted to tell the council of his affection for Marlinton and his fear for its demise.

"I'd be sorry to lose Marlinton," he said. "I'd miss it."

Nancy Curry, who owns Now and Then antique shop, said Tuesday morning, the proposed tax had cost her the sale of a building on Main Street, the former Pocahontas Pharmacy.

She said although contracts were already signed, the buyer backed out of the sale because he "didn't want to get involved in a town with a B&O tax."

Closing on the deal was to be July 1, she said.

"It's certainly going to hurt me," Curry said. "It already has."

The sale of the Now and Then building also hinges on the outcome of the B&O vote, she said.

Council will hear the third reading of the B&O tax ordinance Monday, June 26.

Editorial Comment

I have stayed somewhat away from the controversy over the proposal by the Marlinton Town Council to enact a Business and Occupation Tax. The council is not my "beat" in reporting the news and I have had no personal opposition to the tax. If we want services from town government, then they must be paid for.

A B&O tax is not a good one, but it is one of only the very few ways towns are allowed to raise income. A better method, for example, would be for the state to share a portion of the sales or income taxes collected within a municipality. But, until this miracle by the Legislature occurs, towns have but little choice to consider a B&O tax or a service fee.

I have been on the other side of the table (as a Board of Education member) and know what the members of the Town Council [illegible]

Town of Marlinton Special Meeting Notice

There will be a meeting of City Council at 7:30 p.m., Monday, June 26, in the City Building.

The said purpose of this public meeting is to have the third reading of our B & O Tax Ordinance.

Correction

A mistake was made in the price of admission to the Miss Pocahontas Pageants in the Pioneer Days Program. Admission is $4 without badge and $3 with badge.

Rabid Coon

The Health Department reports that a coon with rabies was found in May in the Brush Run area of upper Pocahontas County. The coon was out in the daytime and moving slowly. After being killed by a dog, the coon was sent for testing due to its unusual behavior.

The report came back positive for the disease, according to Ed Riley, County Sanitarian.

This is the first rabid animal found in the county since November of 1998.

Residents are reminded to be sure to treat any wild animal behaving in a strange manner with care and to keep their pets up-to-date with rabies shots.

Solid Waste Authority News

Reminder from the Solid Waste Authority: Solid Waste Assessment fees must be paid by June 30, to avoid additional interest charges. The bills for the year 2000 will be sent out mid-July.

Pocahontas County Parks and Recreation Board has Openings

The Pocahontas County Parks and Recreation Board has two vacancies for 3-year terms beginning July 1. Representation is especially needed from the Green Bank, Cass, Hillsboro or Slaty Fork areas but interested persons from anywhere within the county are welcome. If interested, call 799-7386.

DMN now handles driver examinations

The West Virginia Division of Motor Vehicles assumed the State Police driver's examination duties on June 16. The current scheduled dates will remain the same at your local DMV or State Police examination offices.

Marlinton physician charged with arson

A Marlinton physician faces arson charges after being arrested early Sunday morning in connection with the blaze that destroyed a Lewisburg attorney's office on Saturday afternoon.

Harry Walkup, 51, of Marlinton, was charged with second degree arson. Walkup is being held in the Southern Regional Jail on $100,000 cash bond.

Attorney Barry Bruce's Randolph Street office was gutted by the fire. Bruce represents Walkup's ex-wife in divorce proceedings.

Lewisburg's Volunteer Fire Department responded to the call shortly after 3 p.m. Saturday afternoon. Firefighters determined the blaze was of a suspicious nature.

According to Lewisburg Police Chief Tim Stover, the case is still under investigation. Stover said damages were estimated early on at over $100,000. Bruce estimated damages Monday at $250,000.

The fire is under investigation by Lewisburg City Police and the State Fire Marshal's Office.

Second degree arson carries a sentence of one-to-10 years in a state penitentiary.

The Pocahontas County Sheriff's Department assisted Lewisburg City Police in the early stages of the investigation.

Walkup is scheduled for a preliminary hearing in Lewisburg County Magistrate Court next Wednesday. His attorney, Eugene Simmons, is seeking to have the doctor's bond reduced.

Magistrate Court

Paul D. Lane, of Bartow, was arrested on Friday by Deputy Sheriff B. C. Totten and charged with second offense DUI and driving with his license suspended due to unpaid citations. He was released on $1000 bond on Saturday.

Corps of Engineers seeks comments on permit to fill stream bed

The U. S. Army Corps of Engineers is considering issuing a permit to Waco Oil and Gas Company givng the company permission to fill in an old stream channel on land it owns near Linwood. The stream involved is the Old Spring Fork of Elk River.

The land involved is adjacent to and east of the land containing Waco's quarry that has been a source of controversy since the company requested a permit to expand the quarry. The tract is often referred to as the Henley property, from the previous owner.

The company proposes to place fill in 1400 feet of what was the stream's original channel before the 1985 flood. To do the fill approximately 4,030 cubic yards of material will be needed.

It is also proposed to place fill in the area between the new and old channels, which includes filling 0.85 acre of wetland. Waco states that this fill is needed to prevent breaching of the stream back into the original channel and protect the structural integrity of the restored channel.

Waco's proposal includes the restoration and enhancement of the new channel. The applicant states that the proposed restoration work is intended to enhance stream fisheries and serve as mitigation for riparian wetland loss.

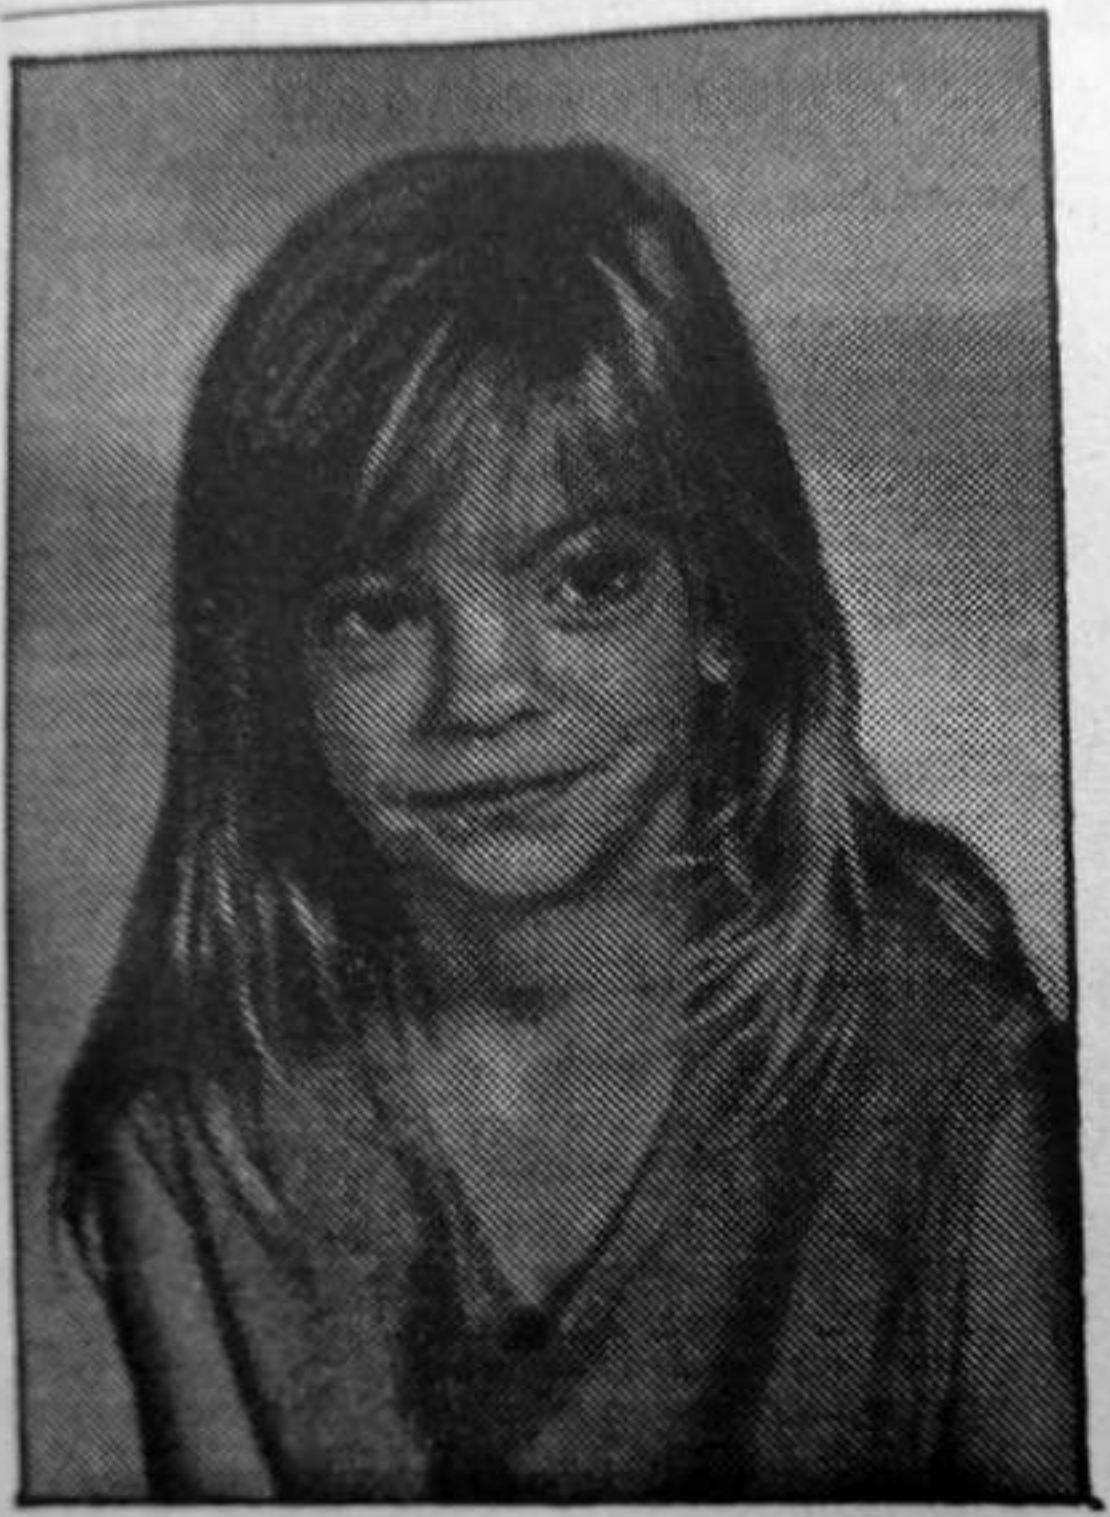
The Corps' public notice on the Waco request contains plans for various in-stream stuctures in the new channel the company claims are to improve conditions for fish and other aquatic life.

Waco already has permission to do some wetland fill on the property. It was given authorization in December 1999 to fill in 0.142 acre of a wetland on this property. Waco also had received a permit for a previous stream relocation proposal in February of last year, but the company declined to sign the permit and it was withdrawn.

The public notice states that the Corps knows of no historic or cultural resources that will be impacted by the project. Also, available information indicates that no endangered or threatened species will be affected.

The Corps seeks interested parties to state any objections they may have to the proposed work. The decision to issue a permit will be based on an evaulation of the probable impact of the activity on the public interest, according to the public notice.

PCHS WARRIOR BASEBALL Team: Row 1 - Josh McClure, Adrian McCarty, Andrew Rider, Justin Mayhew, Josh Wilfong, Josh Kelley. Row 2 - Kevin Withers, Justin Kerr, Eric Vandevender, Matt Rhea, Seth Moore, Coach Tom Jones, Mike Smith, Phillip Hedrick.



OMITTED FROM THE Pioneer Days Program was Jolee M. Starks, age 5. Her parents are Tom & Shelly Starks of Bartow, WV. She is sponsored by her grandparents.

Thursday, June 22, 1950
From the desk of
Calvin W. Price, Editor

Subscriber Rodney Buzzard sends word he read with interest the little news note in the late issue of the race between the Chesapeake & Ohio and the Western Maryland railways to occupy The Narrows of the East Fork of the Greenbrier, just fifty years ago.

The surveying parties of both railroads had projected lines through The Narrows. The C & I was coming down the West Fork; the C & O was coming up the river. The construction crews of the latter were just a bit nearer, but it was still a race. The lumbering firm of Smith & Whiting was operating on Whiting Run, just below Durbin, and Rodney was working in the woods for them. The Western Maryland outfit laid off over Sunday. The C & O mustered every available man and team, including the force of Smith and Whiting, and pushed Saturday night, Sunday and Sunday night. They graded, laid ties and spiked rails as they went. Monday morning saw railroad through The Narrows, with a box car at the end of construction holding possession. Mr. Buzzard is not quite sure, but he believes they were afraid to risk a locomotive on the hastily built bridges and track so the box car was pulled into position with heavy logging teams of horses.

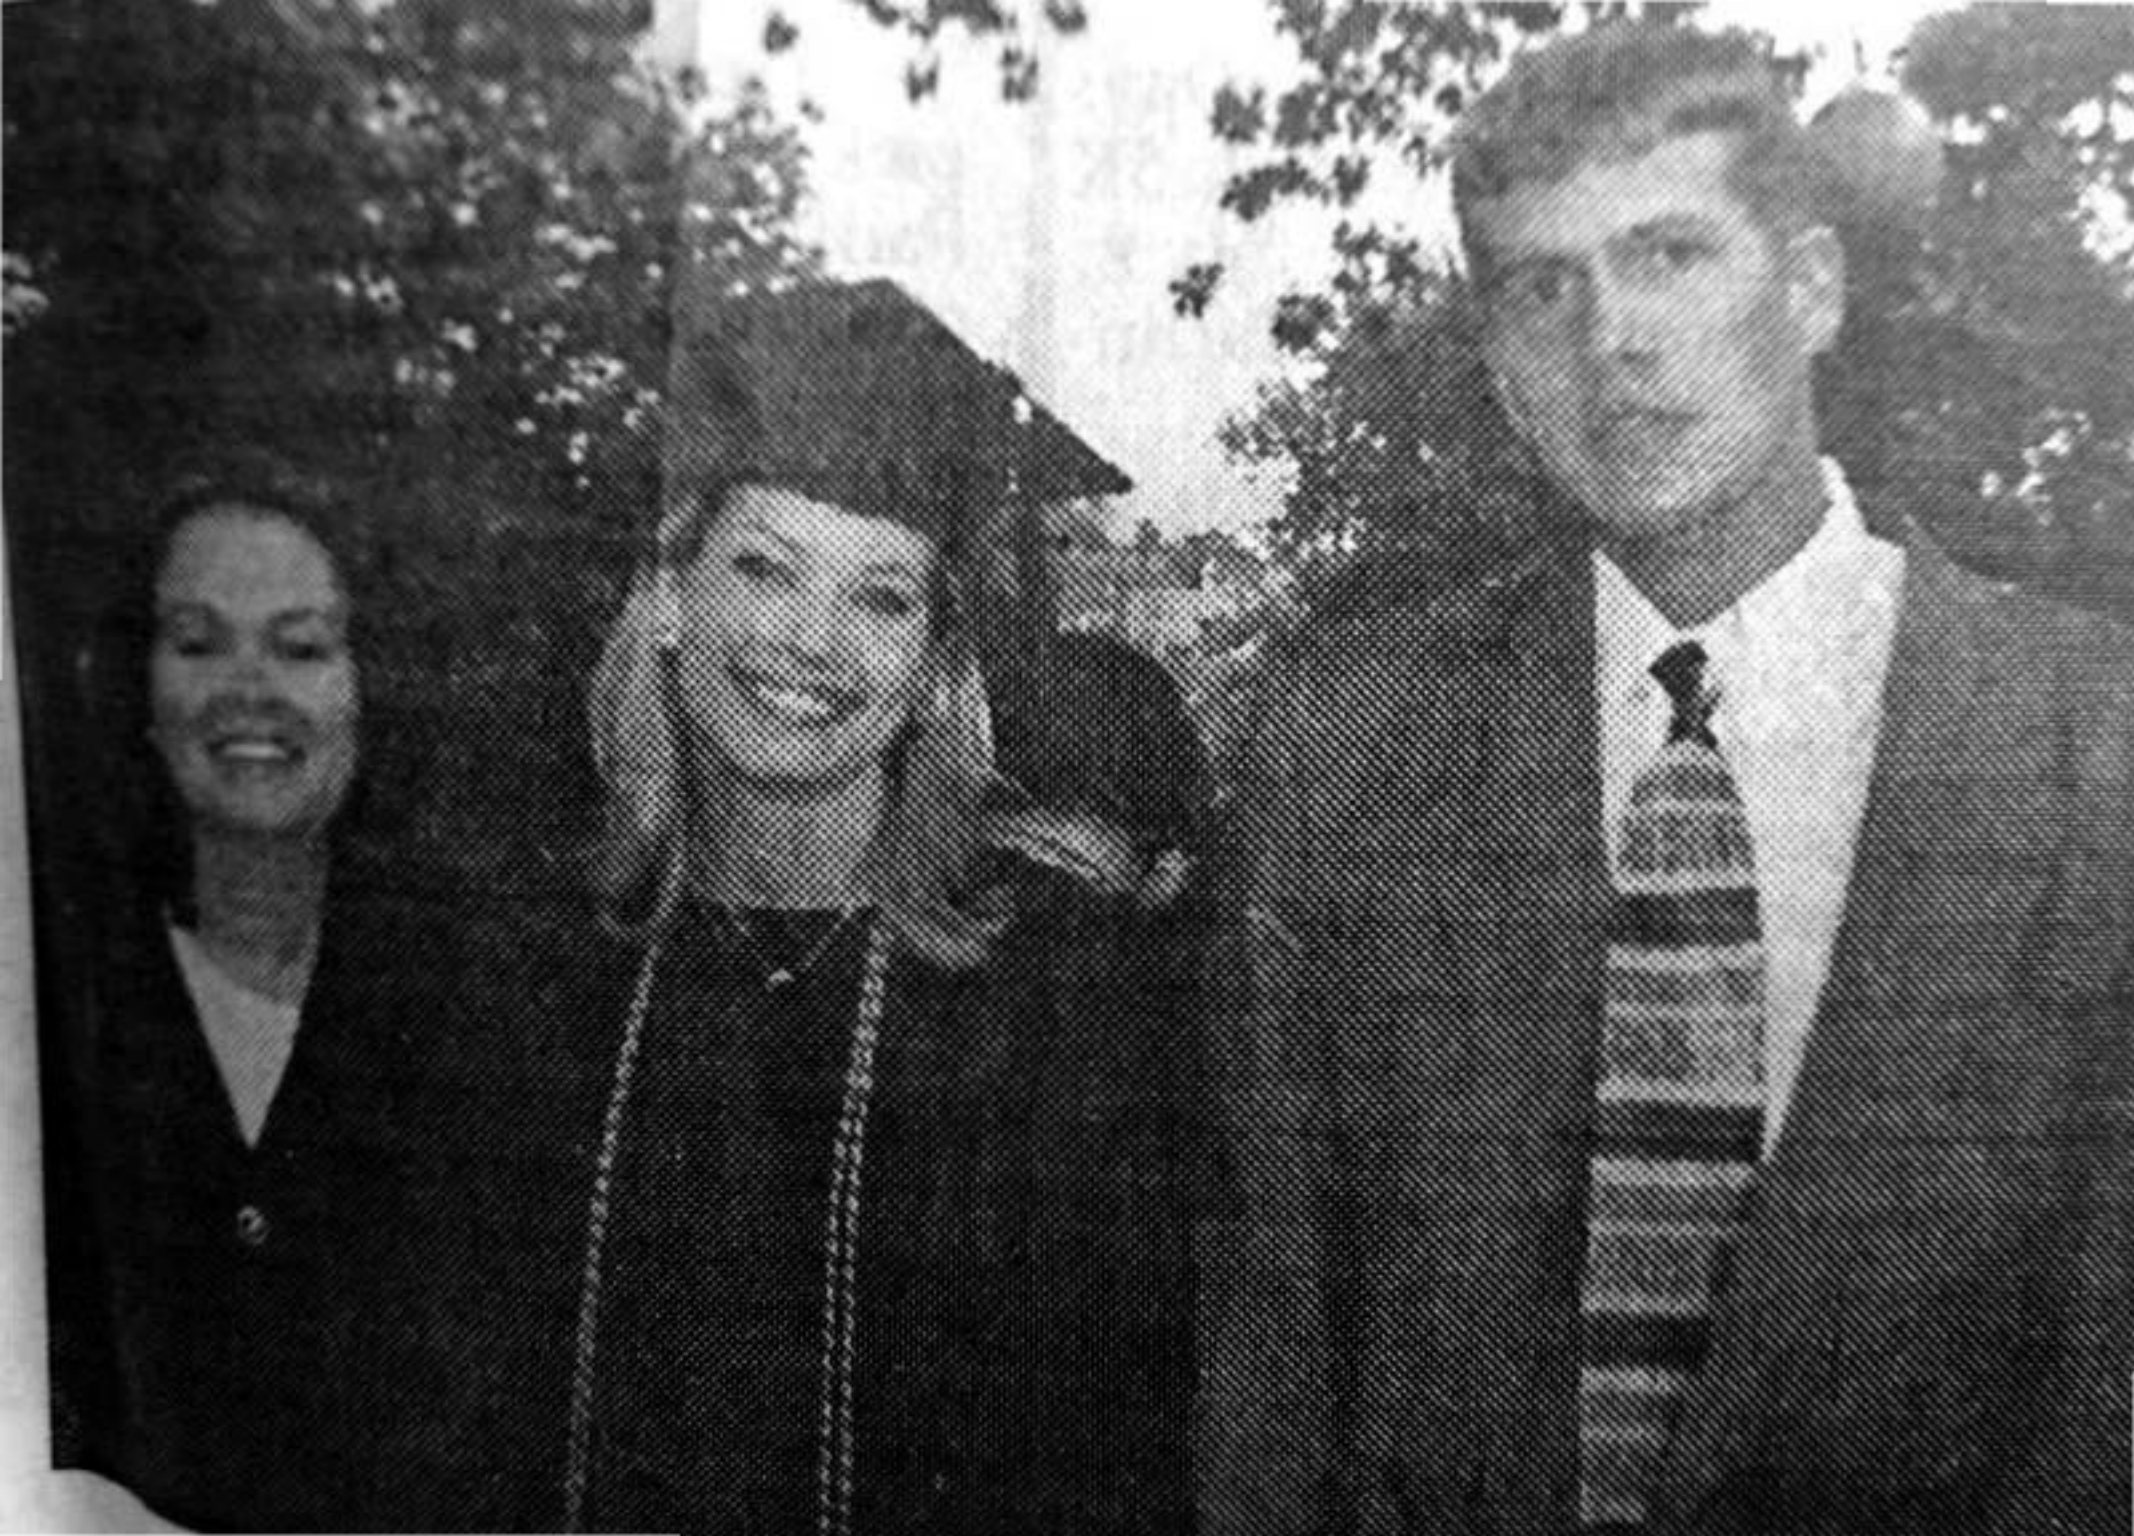
Richards receives degree from Bridgewater College

Quoting from a story from the Hasidic Jews of Eastern Europe, Dr. Robert W. Neff encouraged Bridgewater College's Class of 2000 to "discover the song etched on your heart."

Dr. Neff, President Emeritus of Juniata College in Huntingdon, Pennsylania, and a former faculty member at Bridgewater, said the Jewish story relates that before each child is born, angels write the song of the child's life on his or her heart. Just before birth, the song is forgotten and the "task of life" then becomes discovering "your song."

College provides guides to help young people find their songs, he added.

Among the 203 graduates was



Local Student Graduates

Amanda Snyder, of Marlinton, received a bachelor of arts degree at Washington and Jefferson College during the college's 201st commencement ceremony on Saturday, May 20. W&J awarded 261 graduates with bachelor of arts degrees, three graduates with associates of arts degrees, and five civic leaders with honorary degrees.

In the commencement address, former Senator George Mitchell, D-Maine, stressed the importance of giving something back to the community after graduation. "With benefit comes responsibility," Mitchell said. "Real fulfillment in life comes from striving with all of your physical and spiritual might for an objective that helps others," he added.

President Brian C. Mitchell, Ph.D., delivered the Valedictory to the new graduates. During commencement, W&J honored members of the Golden Anniversary class of 1950 on the occasion of their 50th reunion.

Amanda graduated Summa Cum Laude, was elected to Phi Beta Kappa, and received the Howard E. Goldfarb Prize in Political Science and the Vira I. Heinz '99 Travel Award. She will be attending the University of Pittsburgh School of Law this fall.

Attending the ceremony were her parents, John and Kathy Snyder, and her brother, Bryan.

- - -

Stewart graduates Magna Cum Laude

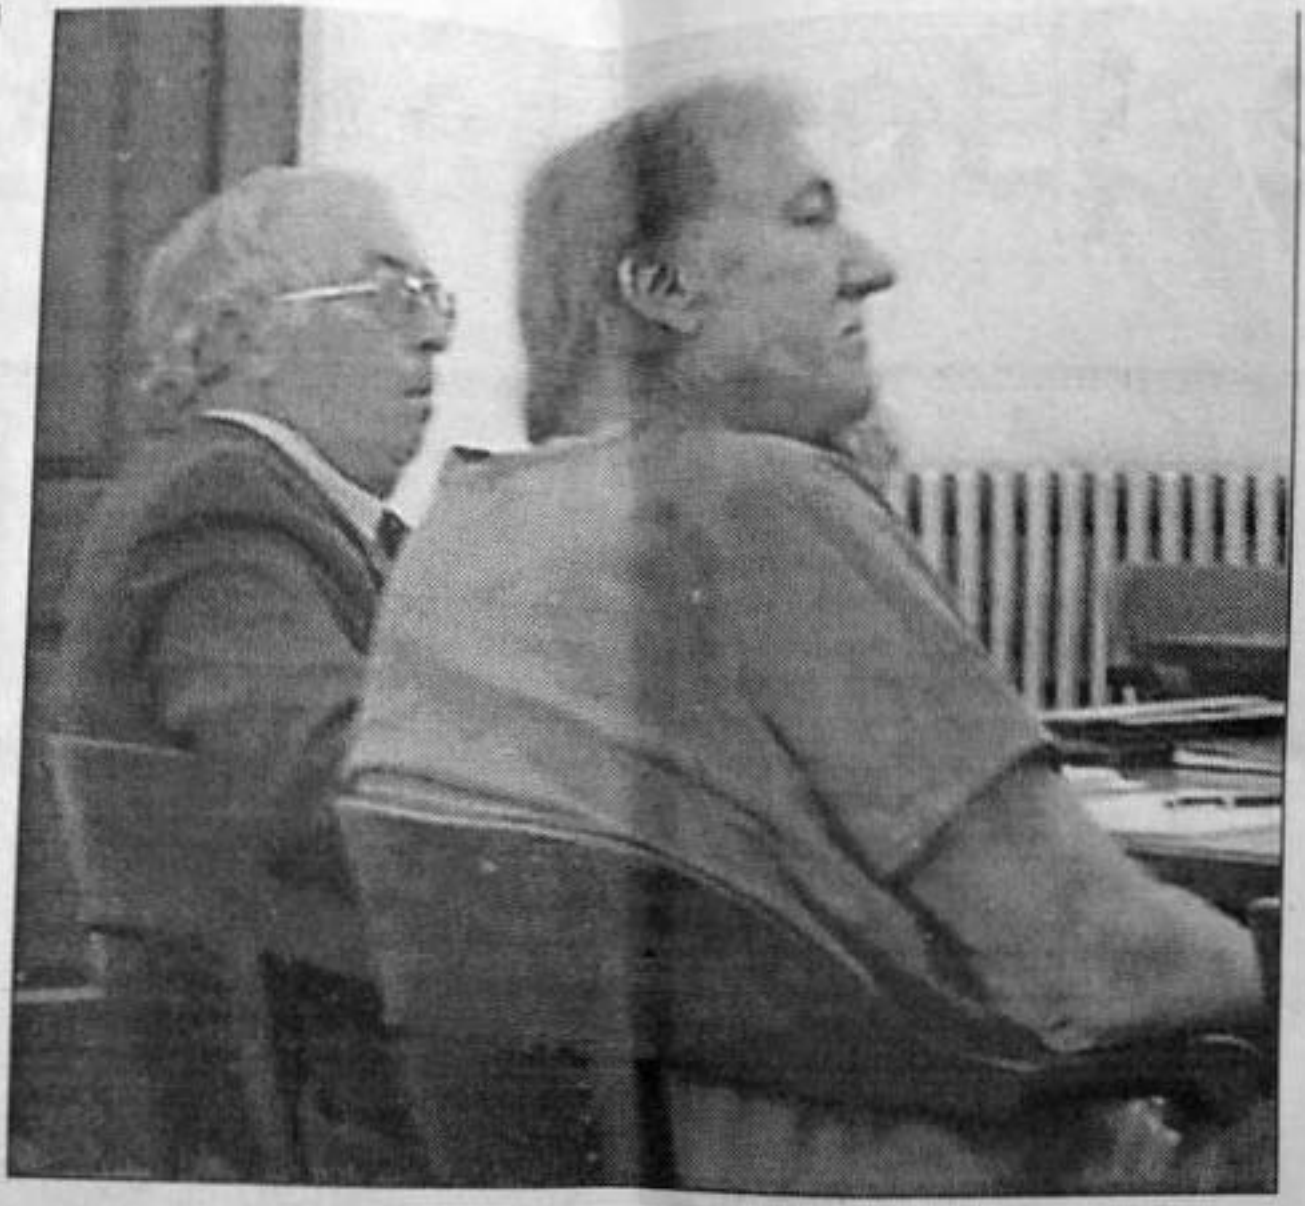
Tom Stewart was graduated Magna Cum Laude from the West Virginia University School of Pharmacy on Saturday, May 13, with a Bachelor of Science degree. While attending WVU Tom was a member of Rho Chi, pharmacy honor society, and Phi Lambda Sigma, leadership honorary. At commencement Tom received the Pfizer Pharmaceuticals Outstanding Leader Program Award, a $500 cash award. Beginning June 26, Tom will work at Moundsville Pharmacy and Follansbee Pharmacy as part of the first community pharmacy residency program at WVU.

Tom is the son of Quentin and Linda Stewart, of Green Bank. He is a 1995 graduate of Pocahontas County High School. Attending graduation from Pocahontas County were Quentin, Linda and Suzanne Stewart and Ruth Ann Mullenax.

and her brother, Bryan.

Jessica Ruth Walkup, recent graduate of PCHS, received the Top of the Mountain Award. This award is given to high school seniors who graduate with at least a 94 grade point average and who are also in the top ten percentile of ACT scores in the state of West Virginia.

Jessica attended Pocahontas County High School for the past three years. Pevious to that she was homeschooled. She was a member of the band and served as majorette in 1998-99 and as a flag girl in



ROGER GELIS (RIGHT) and defense attorney Eugene Simmons listen during a hearing held Friday in preparation for Gelis' trial for the murder of Melba Fitzgerald.

Leslie Hollandsworth photo

Fitzgerald murder

Gelis pretrial held in Lewisburg

by Leslie Hollandsworth
The West Virginia Daily News

Despite a number of issues affecting the trial of a Pocahontas County man accused of killing his live-in companion and business partner, Chief Circuit Judge Frank Jolliffe said the defense caused the biggest delay in the case by requesting Gelis undergo a psychiatric evaluation which effectively halted proceedings until the middle of February.

The judge ordered both sides to

Leslie Hollandsworth photo

Fitzgerald murder

Gelis pretrial held in Lewisburg

by Leslie Hollandsworth
The West Virginia Daily News

Despite a number of issues affecting the trial of a Pocahontas County man accused of killing his live-in companion and business partner, Chief Circuit Judge Frank Jolliffe told attorneys involved in the case Friday that he intends to leave it on the docket as scheduled for July 18.

During Friday's hearing, Eugene Simmons, one of two attorneys representing Roger Paul Gelis, 57, of Stony Bottom, requested that the state turn over its discovery material.

Acting Pocahontas County Prosecutor Michael Doss, who was assigned to the case after Prosecuting Attorney Walt Weiford was hospitalized, said he had only recently received the autopsy report on Melba Hickson Fitzgerald from the State Medical Examiner's Office in Morgantown, and had forwarded a copy of it to the defense team.

Fitzgerald, 41, had lived with Gelis for several years. The pair operated The Intersection, a pizza and submarine sandwich shop on Rt. 28/92.

She was reported missing on September 8, 1999. Her nude, decapitated body was found three days later in a hand-dug well on property near Dunmore.

According to defense attorney David Arrington, Gelis has a 50% ownership interest in that property.

Doss told the court he is trying to get up to speed with this case, noting he had spent 11 hours working on it Thursday.

He assured the court and the defense attorneys he would provide the requested discovery [illegible]

Jolliffe said the defense caused the biggest delay in the case by requesting Gelis undergo a psychiatric evaluation which effectively halted proceedings until the middle of February.

The judge ordered both sides to provide their discovery material in a timely fashion, and advised them to review West Virginia's trial rules.

Defense attorneys also made a motion to suppress evidence which they maintained was seized by law enforcement officers during a warrantless search.

Doss acknowledged that the officers did not have a warrant the first time they went onto the property where Fitzgerald's body was found.

He explained that the officers responded to the scene after receiving a 911 call and were, therefore, acting in response to an emergency.

According to the prosecutor, three individuals who knew Fitzgerald decided to search the Dunmore property and discovered her body in the well.

Doss said the woman who made the 911 call requested an ambulance and the State Police. He explained that at the time, the officers who responded to the call did not know the condition of the person involved.

"They were acting under emergency circumstance," he said.

The judge asked Doss if police had asked any of the three people who ultimately called investigators to the property to make such a call if they found anything amiss there. Doss responded in the negative.

Doss noted that after [illegible] was found [illegible]

signed to the case after Prosecuting Attorney Walt Weiford was hospitalized, said he had only recently received the autopsy report on Melba Hickson Fitzgerald from the State Medical Examiner's Office in Morgantown, and had forwarded a copy of it to the defense team.

Fitzgerald, 41, had lived with Gelis for several years. The pair operated The Intersection, a pizza and submarine sandwich shop on Rt. 28/92.

She was reported missing on September 8, 1999. Her nude, decapitated body was found three days later in a hand-dug well on property near Dunmore.

According to defense attorney R. David Arrington, Gelis has a 50% ownership interest in that property.

Doss told the court he is trying to get up to speed with this case, noting he had spent 11 hours working on it Thursday.

He assured the court and the defense attorneys he would provide the requested discovery material in one week.

Jolliffe noted that the state has encountered other difficulties in regard to this case, including the death of lead investigator Lieutenant Ron Simmons, of the Pocahontas County Sheriff's Department, on June 4.

The judge asked Doss if he had received discovery material from the defense. The prosecutor said he had not.

Jolliffe then informed Simmons and Arrington that they are required to provide discovery material to the prosecutor and admonished them for taking advantage of the state's unfortunate circumstances.

The judge also reminded them that their client had indicated he wanted the case tried as soon as possible.

found.

He explained that the officers sponded to the scene after receiv a 911 call and were, therefore, a ing in response to an emergency.

According to the prosecut three individuals who knew Fitzg ald decided to search the Dunmo property and discovered her body the well.

Doss said the woman who mad the 911 call requested an ambulanc and the State Police. He explaine that at the time, the officers wh responded to the call did not know the condition of the person involved.

"They were acting under emergency circumstance," he said.

The judge asked Doss if police had asked any of the three people who ultimately called investigators to the property to make such a call if they found anything amiss there. Doss responded in the negative.

Doss noted that after the body was found, Gelis was taken in for questioning and he had given the officers consent for a search.

Arrington maintained that Gelis consented to a search of only the A-frame cabin on the property, not the property itself.

After hearing arguments from both sides, Jolliffe said the search met the requirements of both the emergency doctrine and the inevitability of discovery rule.

He said the evidence the defense was seeking to suppress would be admissible during the trial.

Doss indicated he might need to request another hearing before this case goes to trial, but no date was set for the consideration of further motions.

Gelis' trial was moved from Pocahontas County in April due to public sentiment surrounding the case.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:

This letter concerns actions taken recently relating to Mr. Thompson, the Welding teacher at PCHS.

When I first arrived at PCHS I had a great deal to learn. Not only at the high school but also the nature of the community. I looked forward to that with much keen anticipation. When we first arrived in the county in 1978 we fell in love with it very, very early. People and businesses went out of their way to accommodate us and to relate in a positive way. It was stunning! To this day I still recall one of the most outstanding people we had to deal with. His name was Sonny Shinaberry. He reflected in the day-to-day homely activities the very essence of what Christianity is all about. He was our landlord. His wife Katherine exemplified these very things also. What a joy it was renting that house and living right next to them.

One of the first and major challenges I had at PCHS was trying to understand why one of the teachers was so frequently being "attacked and ridiculed." At first I thought my comprehension of the situation was too shallow and (I reasoned) if I could see the situation more clearly I would agree with what was going on. But the more I looked into it, the more the questions from me grew. To reduce it to a pragmatic level, let me state it as follows: Here was a person who was a teacher—not a classroom instructor!

Frankly, the biggest problem in the USA at the K-2 level is this: We have far too many classroom instructors and not enough classroom teachers! And what is the difference? Well, let me illustrate it. Let's say we are in a class that is called Algebra I. (I taught that course during my long tenure as a teacher). Indeed, I taught it in Massachusetts, California, and West Virginia.) If I were an instructor I would have taught Algebra to the students. And if they did not do well on a test, I would have "chewed" them out in front of the class and told them (among other things) they needed to do more homework, et cetera!

However, if I were teacher I would have taught students Algebra. And if things were not going well for a student I would have talked to that student quietly and asked if there were some time in his schedule where he could come down to the room and then we could work together and address the difficulty and, thereby, improve his performance.

The teacher was Mr. Richard Thompson. He related to students individually. If a student was having some difficulty in Welding he would talk with the student and see if he could come down to the welding room during a portion of the lunch period. If he could, Mr. Thompson would give up his lunch hour (including the food he needed) and work individually with that student to help him out. There were and still are times when he would meet with a student before school began or after school was out. He would help that student on a one-to-one situation. And if he met with a student after school he would take the student home in his own vehicle! with no mileage allowance—in other words at his own expense! This is a teacher not an instructor!

And look at it from another perspective. When a student graduates from the welding program at PCHS the certification he receives is recognized nation wide! When he is hired he will start at a rate between $17 to $21 an hour! Translate that folks. During a 40 hour week that would be a salary from $680 to $840. Based on a 52-week year those figures become $35,360 to $43,680!

Hey! How many adults that are employed by the School Board are making that kind of money each year! You're right...none!

So here is a person who is a teacher and is being reduced from full time to 1/2 time or most likely, terminated.

I have to confess I just do not understand why the people in Pocahontas County who are responsible for the school programs in the county are contemplating taking this course of action. Pocahontas County has a superb vocational program. Why sabotage it! Ziegler's electrical program is outstanding as are some of the other vocational offerings we have at PCHS. Hopefully, we can get the nursing program back again.

Well, it is easy to point the finger and find fault with things. But my motive her is save a program that will give students who graduate from PCHS a secure and stunning tomorrow. I learned from Sonny, Katherine and others that the people in Pocahontas County want only the best for the children who live in the County. Let's hope no decision will be made here that will end up militating against the realization of that.

mance.

The teacher was Mr. Richard Thompson. He related to students individually. If a student was having some difficulty in Welding he would talk with the student and see if he could come down to the welding room during a portion of the lunch period. If he could, Mr. Thompson would give up his lunch hour (including the food he needed) and work individually with that student to help him out. There were and still are times when he would meet with a student before school began or after school was out. He would help that student on a one-to-one situation. And if he met with a student after school he would take the student home in his own vehicle! with no mileage allowance—in other words at his own expense! This is a teacher not an instructor!

And look at it from another perspective. When a student graduates from the welding program at PCHS the certification he receives is recognized nation wide! When he is hired he will start at a rate between $17 to $21 an hour! Translate that folks. During a 40 hour week that would be a salary from $680 to $840. Based on a 52-week

...g room during a portion of the lunch period. If he could, Mr. Thompson would give up his lunch hour (including the food he needed) and work individually with that student to help him out. There were and still are times when he would meet with a student before school began or after school was out. He would help that student on a one-to-one situation. And if he met with a student after school he would take the student home in his own vehicle! with no mileage allowance—in other words at his own expense! This is a teacher not an instructor!

And look at it from another perspective. When a student graduates from the welding program at PCHS the certification he receives is recognized nation wide! When he is hired he will start at a rate between $17 to $21 an hour! Translate that folks. During a 40 hour week that would be a salary from $680 to $840. Based on a 52-week year those figures become $35,360 to $43,680!

Hey! How many adults that are employed by the School Board are making that kind of money each year! You're right...none!

So here is a person who is a teacher and is being reduced from full time to 1/2 time or most likely, terminated.

I have to confess I just do not understand why the people in Pocahontas County who are responsible week that would be a salary from $680 to $840. Based on a 52-week year those figures become $35,360 to $43,680!

Hey! How many adults that are employed by the School Board are making that kind of money each year! You're right...none!

So here is a person who is a teacher and is being reduced from full time to 1/2 time or most likely, terminated.

I have to confess I just do not understand why the people in Pocahontas County who are responsible for the school programs in the county are contemplating taking this course of action. Pocahontas County has a superb vocational program. Why sabotage it! Ziegler's electrical program is outstanding as are some of the other vocational offerings we have at PCHS. Hopefully, we can get the nursing program back again.

Well, it is easy to point the finger and find fault with things. But my motive her is save a program that will give students who graduate from PCHS a secure and stunning tomorrow. I learned from Sonny, Katherine and others that the people in Pocahontas County want only the best for the children who live in the County. Let's hope no decision will be made here that will end up militating against the realization of that.

J. William Leary

Letter to t

Dear Editor:

This letter concerns actions taken recently relating to Mr. Thompson, the Welding teacher at PCHS.

When I first arrived at PCHS I had a great deal to learn. Not only at the high school but also the nature of the community. I looked forward to that with much keen anticipation. When we first arrived in the county in 1978 we fell in love with it very, very early. People and businesses went out of their way to accommodate us and to relate in a positive way. It was stunning! To this day I still recall one of the most outstanding people we had to deal with. His name was Sonny Shinaberry. He reflected in the day-to-day homely activities the very essence of what Christianity is all about. He was our landlord. His wife Katherine exemplified these very things also. What a joy it was renting that house and living right next to them.

One of the first and major challenges I had at PCHS was trying to understand why one of the teachers was so frequently being "attacked and ridiculed." At first I thought my comprehension of the situation was too shallow and (I reasoned) if I could see the situation more clearly I would agree with what was going on. But the more I looked into it, the more the questions from me grew. To reduce it to a pragmatic level, let me state it as follows:

could see the situation more clearly I would agree with what was going on. But the more I looked into it, the more the questions from me grew. To reduce it to a pragmatic level, let me state it as follows: Here was a person who was a teacher—not a classroom instructor!

Frankly, the biggest problem in the USA at the K-2 level is this: We have far too many classroom instructors and not enough classroom teachers! And what is the difference? Well, let me illustrate it. Let's say we are in a class that is called Algebra I. (I taught that course during my long tenure as a teacher). Indeed, I taught it in Massachusetts, California, and West Virginia.) If I were an instructor I would have taught Algebra to the students. And if they did not do well on a test, I would have "chewed" them out in front of the class and told them (among other things) they needed to do more homework, et cetera!

However, if I were teacher I would have taught students Algebra. And if things were not going well for a student I would have talked to that student quietly and asked if there were some time in his schedule where he could come down to the room and then we could work together and address the difficulty and, thereby, improve his performance.

The teacher was Mr. Richard Thompson. He related to students individually. If a student was having some difficulty in Welding he would talk with the student and see if he could come down to the welding room during a portion of the lunch period. If he could, Mr. Thompson would give up his lunch hour (including the food he needed) and work individually with that student to help him out. There were and still are times when he would meet with a student before school began or after school was out. He would help that student on a one-to-one situation. And if he met with a student after school he would take the student home in his own vehicle! with no mileage allowance—in other words at his own expense! This is a teacher not an instructor!

And look at it from another perspective. When a student graduates from the welding program at PCHS the certification he receives is recognized nation wide! When he is hired he will start at a rate between $17 to $21 an hour! Translate that folks. During a 40 hour week that would be a salary from between $17 to $21 an hour! Translate that folks. During a 40 hour week that would be a salary from $680 to $840. Based on a 52-week year those figures become $35,360 to $43,680!

Hey! How many adults that are employed by the School Board are making that kind of money each year! You're right...none!

So here is a person who is a teacher and is being reduced from full time to 1/2 time or most likely, terminated.

I have to confess I just do not understand why the people in Pocahontas County who are responsible for the school programs in the county are contemplating taking this course of action. Pocahontas County has a superb vocational program. Why sabotage it! Ziegler's electrical program is outstanding as are some of the other vocational offerings we have at PCHS. Hopefully, we can get the nursing program back again.

Well, it is easy to point the finger and find fault with things. But my motive her is save a program that will give students who graduate from PCHS a secure and stunning tomorrow. I learned from Sonny, Katherine and others that the people in Pocahontas County want only the best for the children who live in the County. Let's hope no decision will be made here that will end up militating against the realization of that.

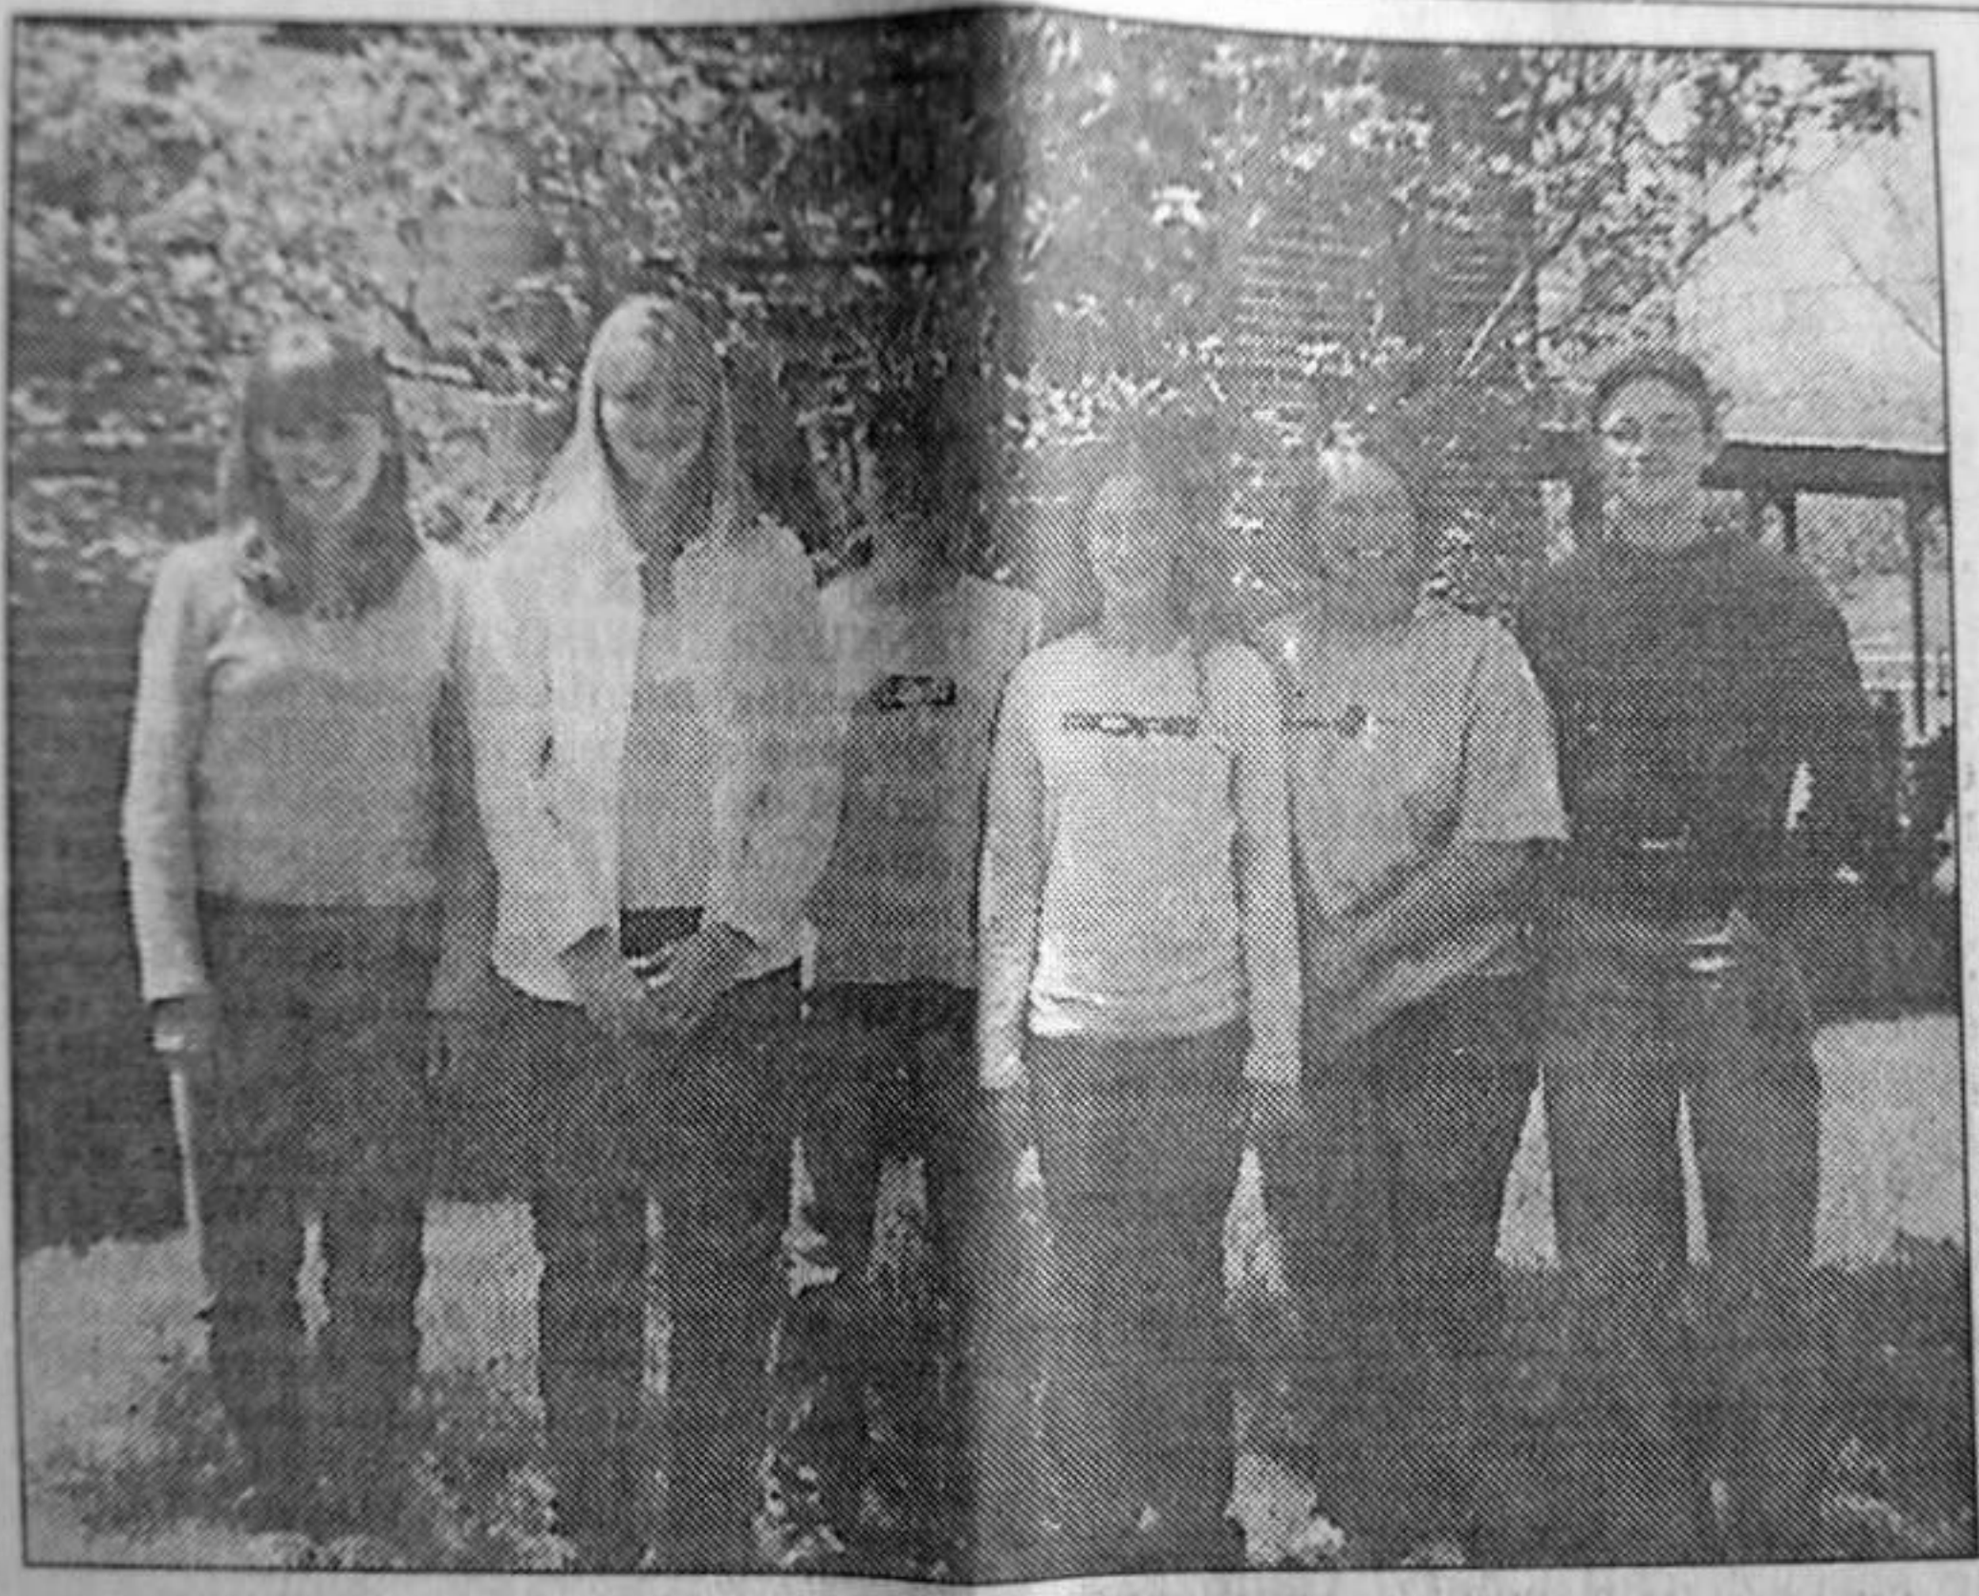
J. William Leary

county are contemplating taking this course of action. Pocahontas County has a superb vocational program. Why sabotage it! Ziegler's electrical program is outstanding as are some of the other vocational offerings we have at PCHS. Hopefully, we can get the nursing program back again.

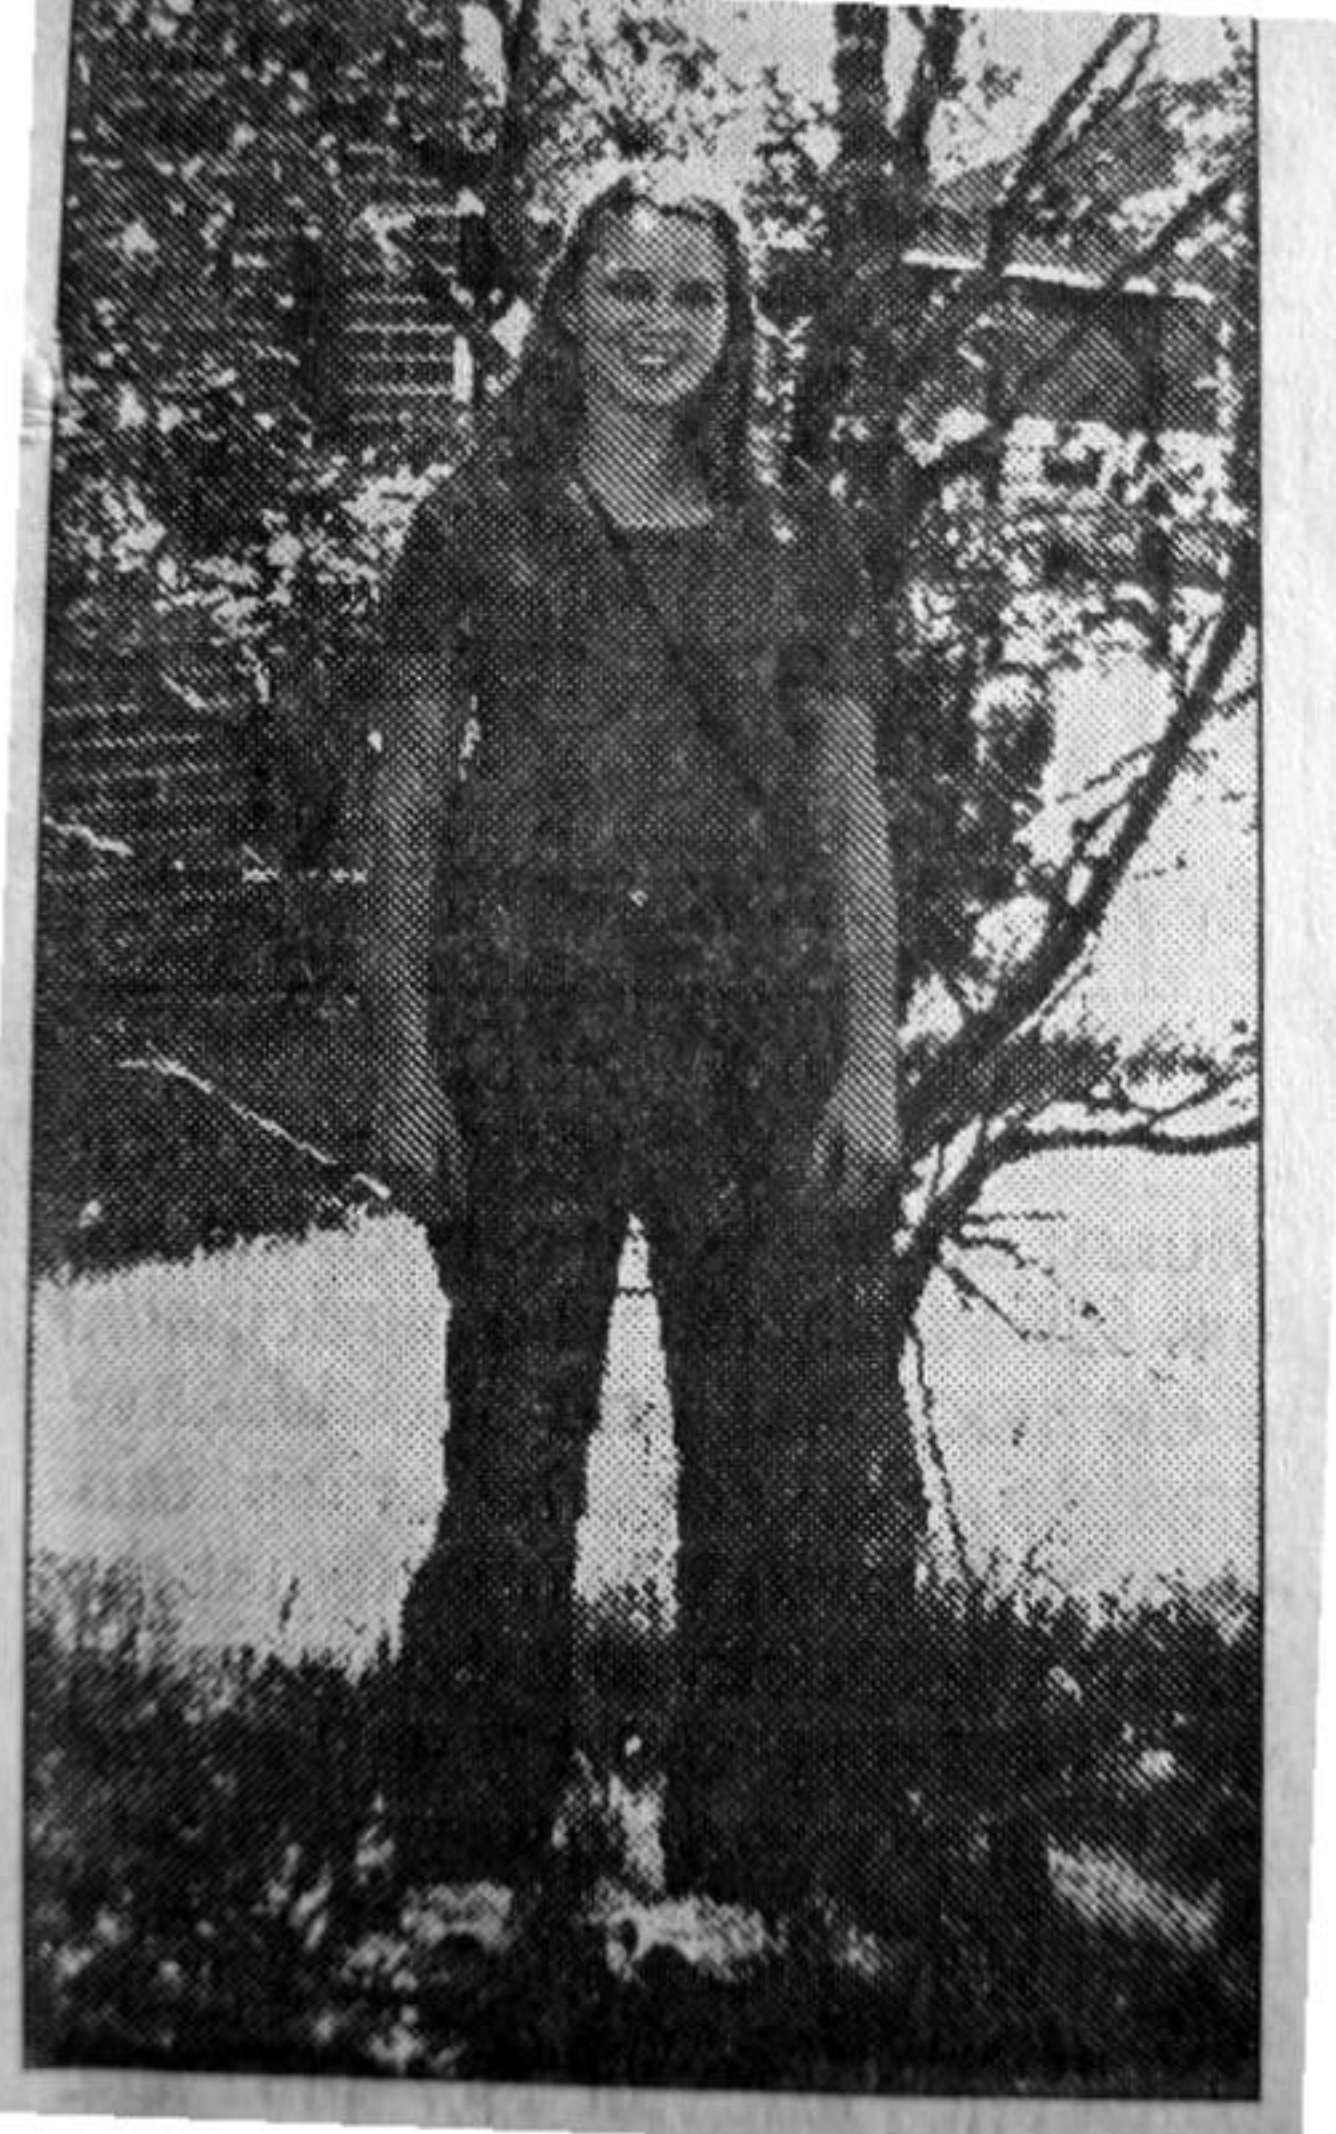
Well, it is easy to point the finger and find fault with things. But my motive her is save a program that will give students who graduate from PCHS a secure and stunning tomorrow. I learned from Sonny, Katherine and others that the people in Pocahontas County want only the best for the children who live in the County. Let's hope no decision will be made here that will end up militating against the realization of that.

J. William Leary

SEATED, L-R, KAMA Weatherholt, Jessica Dean, Rachel Garringer, Andrew Must; standing, Abigail Hannah, Kristen Irvine, Amanda Pritt, Jesse Burns, Azlen Jesselli



L-R, KATE BLACKMAN, TAUSHA Cassell, Rebecca Dilley, Adrienne Juergens, Natasha McMann, Serena Shaw



...ritt, Jesse Burns, Azlen Jesselli ... Dilley, Adrienne Juergens, Natasha

County schools compete in National French Contest

Students from Marlinton Middle School, Green Bank Middle School and Pocahontas County High School competed at PCHS on March 21 in the National French Contest, an academically challenging series of exams, sponsored by the American Association of Teachers of French. In Level 1A, open to students who studied French year long, Emily Malcom was 6th in West Virginia. Second place in the county was Joe Mosesso and third place went to Rachel Wayne.

Level 2E was open only to students on block scheduling who had completed the course in January and were no longer enrolled in French. Six students from PCHS took on this challenge, but received no outside competition, so their rankings are those for West Virginia in this division. 1st - Kate Blackman, 2nd - Adrienne Juergens, 3rd - Natasha McMann, 4th - Tausha Cassell, 5th - Rebecca Dilley, and 6th - Serena Shaw.

Because they only began their course in the second semester, the Level 3 students all fell in yet another division, 3D. Again, we were unchallenged, but these students deserve special recognition, since they had to take the same exam that students who began in August did and they had to contend with snow days and bomb threats, yet their scores were impressive. The state sends on the papers of the top 8 places in West Virginia to national competition; they were: 1st - Rachel Garringer, 2nd - Jessica Dean and Andrew Must, 3rd - Kama Weatherholt, 4th - Jesse Burns, 5th - Kristen Irvine, 6th - Abigail Hannah, 7th - Azlan Jesselli and 8th - Amanda Pritt.

County placings in Division 4A were: 1st - Billy Herold, 2nd - Caleb Smith, and 3rd - Christina Holstine, all from PCHS.

Congratulations to all the winners and also to all the students who took the exam and put in extra time to prepare it.

YFU looking for host families

Are you interested in hearing a new language, tasting another ...ulture or seeing with your own ...s how easy it is to "welcome the non-profit educational organization dedicated to international understanding and world peace. YFU carries out one of the world's Pocahontas Memorial Hospital is pleased to welcome on staff the Frontier Medical Group, servicing the hospital emergency room 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. Thomas Schmitt, M.D., Mario Lucero, M.D., Guy Leveaux, M.D., Sarita Bennett, D.O., Randy Lagoc, M.D., are available for your medical needs.

This week we profile Randy Raissa C. Lagoc, M.D.

Dr. Lagoc is a member of the emergency room group at PMH and also has a private practice in Marlinton. A native of the Philippines, she received a Bachelor of Science Degree in Biology from University of the Philippines in 1984 and her Doctor of Medicine Degree from West Viosayas State University-College of Medicine in 1988.

She did residency training in internal medicine at St. Paul's Hospital in the Philippines, 1990-1991, and at New York Hospital Medical Center of Queens, 1993-1995. While at the Medical Center, Dr. Lagoc was named the Most Outstanding Intern for 1992-93.

Before coming to PMH as an emergency room physician in April 1996, Dr. Lagoc served as Chief Resident in Internal Medicine at the New York Medical Center of Queens, 1995-1996. She opened her private practice in October 1998.

Dr. Lagoc has the following certifications:

* Board Certified in Internal Medicine
* American Board of Internal Medicine
* ACLS Certified
* PALS Certified
* ATLS Certified

Austin McCoy Sharp

Austin McCoy Sharp, age 80, of Route 1, Marlinton, died Thursday, June 1, 2000, in Greenbrier Valley Medical Center

He was born March 13, 1920, at Marlinton, the son of the late Paul Warwick and Mary Catherine Sharp.

Mr. Sharp served in the Army during World War II. He retired from Sewell Coal Company after 32 years and was a member of the United Mine Workers of America. He was a member and elder of the Assembly of God Church, Marlinton; for many years he was a deacon and Sunday School Superintendent of Stony Creek Presbyterian Church.

He was an avid hunter, fisherman, and gardener. He and his twin brother, Oscar, were widely known as the "Bear Hunting Sharp Twins." He was a lifetime member of the NRA.

Preceding him in death, in addition to his parents, were four brothers, Charles J. Sharp, twin Oscar Sharp, Lanty Sharp, and Layton Sharp; and five sisters, Hazel Russell, Polly May, Nettie Oscar Sharp, Lanty Sharp, and Layton Sharp; and five sisters, Hazel Russell, Polly May, Nettie VanReenen, Sylvia Moore, and Marlie Curry.

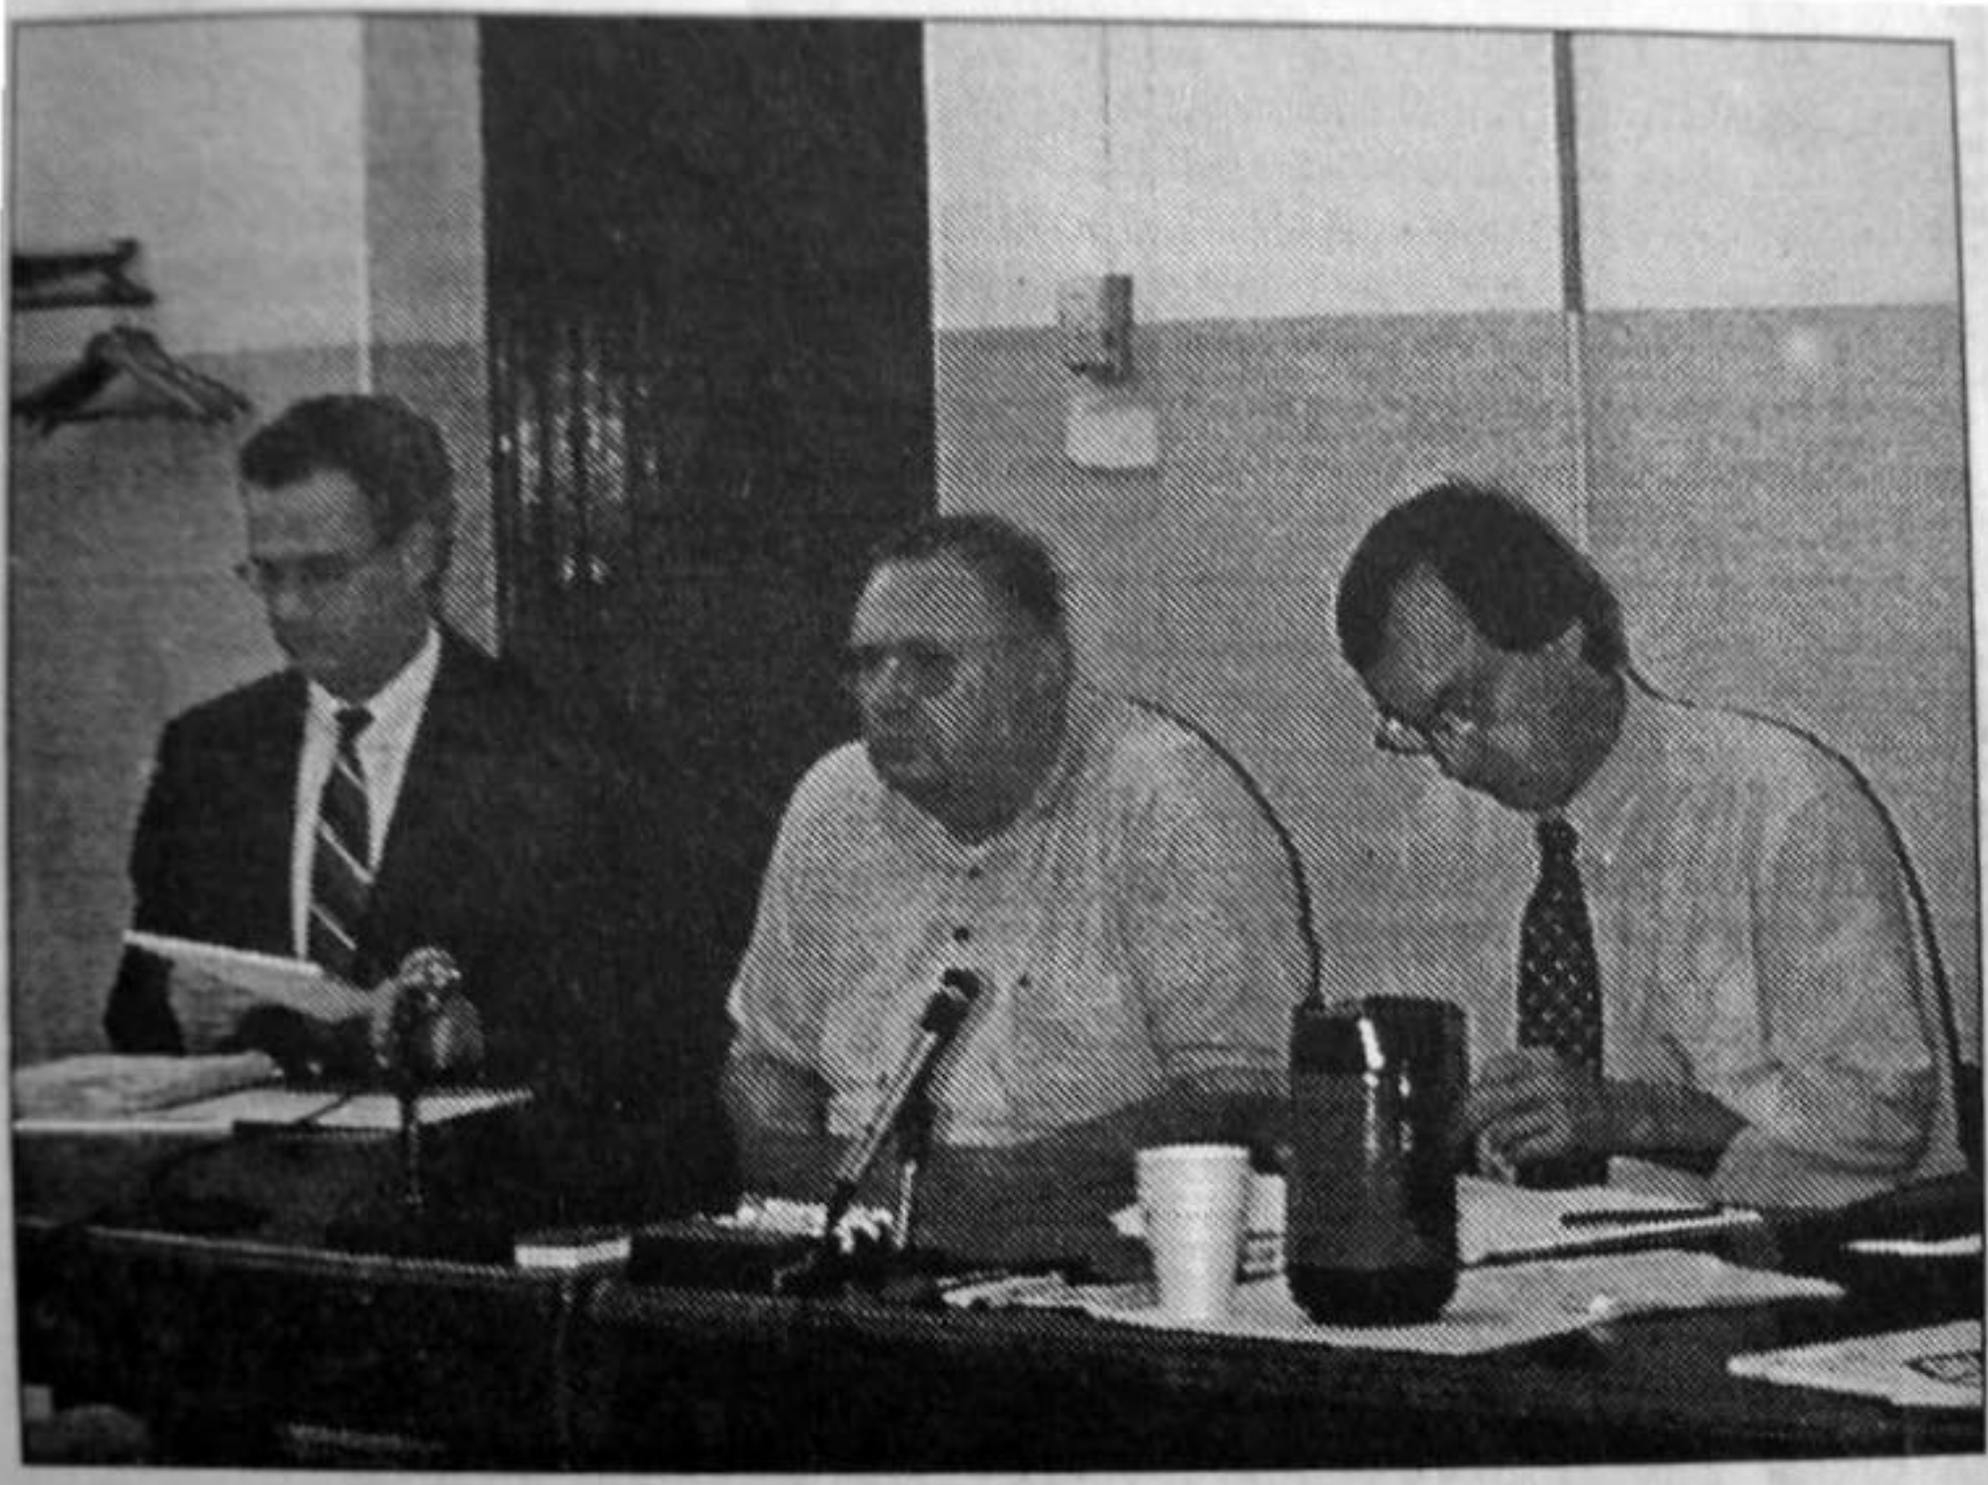
He is survived by his wife of 51 years, Eula Mae Underwood Sharp; four daughters, Elvina Arlene Nay, of LaGrange, Ohio, Vivian Leigh Reed, of Marlinton, Rebecca Ann Sharp, of Columbia, South Carolina, and Mary Rachel Sharp, of Aiken, South Carolina; three sons, Paul Warwick Sharp, of Marlinton, Gary Wayne Sharp, of Caldwell, and Randy Allen Sharp, of Marlinton; a sister, Nina Waybright, of Bluefield; eight grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Services were held Sunday afternoon at VanReenen Funeral Home by the Rev. John McKinney. Burial with military honors was in the Sharp Cemetery on Jericho Road.

The family suggest donations to the National Kidney Foundation, 30 East 33rd Street Suite 1100, New York, New York 10016; American Heart Association, West Virginia Office, P. O. Box 11062, Charleston, WV 25339; or First Assembly of God Building Fund, c/o Rev. John McKinney, Rt. 1, Box 390, Marlinton, WV 24954.

Times

JUNE 8, 2000



JACOB BEARD, FLANKED by defense attorneys Stephen Farmer, left, and George Castelle, right, prepares for what will be his final day in court.

Braxton County jury finds Beard

A Braxton County jury deliberated two-and-one-half hours last Wednesday before finding Jacob Beard not guilty of the locally infamous Rainbow Murders.

Beard was on trial for the second time in connection with the 1980 slayings of Nancy Santomero, 19, of Huntington, Long Island, New York, and Vicki Durian, 26, of Wellman, Iowa.

The jury heard eight days of testimony in the case that began on a summer evening in 1980 when the bodies of Santomero and Durian were found shot to death at close range on Briery Knob, remote section in southern Pocahontas County.

"Truth wins in the end," the 54-year-old Beard commented after the verdict. Beard said he would spend a few days relaxing and then celebrate with his daughters.

"I don't know that this will prove it to everyone," Beard said. "People who know me know I didn't do this. My conscience is clear."

Beard cannot again be charged with the crimes he was indicted for in 1993 and convicted of that same year by a Greenbrier County jury. That jury recommended no mercy meaning Beard would never be eligible for parole; however, five and one-half years into his sentence, Senior Status Judge Charles Lobban set aside the jury's verdict and granted Beard a new trial based on the deposition of a convicted serial killer and the affidavit of Beard's former co-defendants.

Serial killer Joseph Paul Franklin said he killed the women because one of them said she dated blacks and the other said she would have no problem doing so. Prosecutors disputed Franklin's confession, saying that his details of the crimes did not match the physical evidence in the case. Franklin also drew a map of the area which prosecutors called "vague" and defense attorneys called "detailed."

Arnold Cutlip, who was indicted along with Beard in 1993, testified he was with prosecution witness Johnnie Lewis on the day the women were murdered and they saw neither Beard nor the women.

Beard's defense team was tearful, and at the same time jubilant upon hearing the verdict, public defender George Castelle openly shedding tears while others hugged Beard and his wife, Linda.

Lead defense attorney Stephen Farmer, who represented Beard in his first trial, was happy with the verdict. "It's a great day," Farmer said. "The system took a long time to work. It's been eight years and now he gets to go home and live with his wife."

Beard was arrested for the murders in 1992.

Beard said he was "forever indebted" to Farmer, Miles Morgan and public defender George Castelle for the defense he was provided during his 11-day trial in Sutton and throughout the last eight years. Castelle has been a volunteer on the case for the past several months, Beard said.

Farmer said he had no doubts about the outcome of the case, particularly since Beard himself believed so strongly in his innocence. "Mr. Beard was so patient and so believing in the system," Farmer commented. "His belief and confidence in the system never wavered so mine couldn't either."

"They poured their hearts into it," Beard said of his defense team.

The prosecution team left the court room quickly after the jury was re-physical evidence in the case. Franklin also a map of the area which prosecutors called "vague" and defense attorneys called "detailed."

Arnold Cutlip, who was indicted along with Beard in 1993, testified he was with prosecution witness Johnnie Lewis on the day the women were murdered and they saw neither Beard nor the women.

Beard's defense team was tearful, and at the same time jubilant upon hearing the verdict, public defender George Castelle openly shedding tears while others hugged Beard and his wife, Linda.

Lead defense attorney Stephen Farmer, who represented Beard in his first trial, was happy with the verdict. "It's a great day," Farmer said. "The system took a long time to work. It's been eight years and now he gets to go home and live with his wife."

Beard was arrested for the murders in 1992.

Beard said he was "forever indebted" to Farmer, Miles Morgan and public defender George Castelle for the defense he was provided during his 11-day trial in Sutton and throughout the last eight years. Castelle has been a volunteer on the case for the past several months, Beard said.

Farmer said he had no doubts about the outcome of the case, particularly since Beard himself believed so strongly in his innocence. "Mr. Beard was so patient and so believing in the system," Farmer commented. "His belief and confidence in the system never wavered so mine couldn't either."

"They poured their hearts into it," Beard said of his defense team.

The prosecution team left the court room quickly after the jury was released. Later, lead investigator Robert Alkire, who has worked on the case since the evening of the murders, said he was disappointed, but accepting of the jury's verdict.

"The system we have is the best system in the world," Alkire said. "You've got to accept what the jury says. There's still one more judge Mr. Beard has to go through."

Although the outcome is not what Alkire said he expected, he was relieved that the case was finally over.

Two members of the jury said Thursday a lack of evidence from the prosecution sealed their decision. "We looked at all the points of contention," one jury member elaborated. "We went on the basis of the evidence. We felt the defense was correct and certain things were not convincing enough from the prosecution to merit a guilty verdict."

Beard said he was "optimistic about this jury from the beginning" and wanted to thank them for sifting through the evidence.

A few prosecution witnesses testified they withheld information from investigators because they had been threatened or felt threatened by Beard.

"There's not one witness the prosecution put up who has anything to fear from me," Beard said.

The former Hillsboro man said he will stay in the Lewisburg area with his wife for the next few weeks and return to farming, a former occupation. Beard said he will begin working for Charlie Long and Bill Irons. Long and Irons were two of three men who posted Beard's $100,000 bond in 1992.

Beard said he will return to Florida for a time, but has not ruled out the Lewisburg area as a permanent residence. His wife has employment near there; however, Beard's two daughters reside in Florida and he said he didn't know if he wanted to live so far from them. He will return to Florida later this month to tie up loose ends there, he said.

"We have a lot of talking to do in the next few weeks," he commented. "I'm glad it's over."

Over for Beard, but not for two families still grieving after 20 years and still looking for answers about the brutal murders of their daughters and

e Court

ughlin, of Marfagistrate Court
ges of driving spended and was released charges were lice Officer J.

nade several last week. s, of Marlinputy Sheriff arged with vas released 00 bond.
bs, of Hills-by Deputy r DUI and 5 grams of eleased on

of Bartow, rged with

...months, Beard said.

...no doubts about the outcome of the case, particularly ...himself believed so strongly in his innocence. "Mr. Beard was so patient and so believing in the system, never wavered so mine couldn't either."

...and confidence in the system never wavered so mine couldn't either."

"They poured their hearts into it," Beard said of his defense team.

The prosecution team left the court room quickly after the jury was released. Later, lead investigator Robert Alkire, who has worked on the case since the evening of the murders, said he was disappointed, but accepting of the jury's verdict.

"The system we have is the best system in the world," Alkire said. "You've got to accept what the jury says. There's still one more judge Mr. Beard has to go through."

Although the outcome is not what Alkire said he expected, he was relieved that the case was finally over.

Two members of the jury said Thursday a lack of evidence from the prosecution sealed their decision. "We looked at all the points of contention," one jury member elaborated. "We went on the basis of the evidence. We felt the defense was correct and certain things were not convincing enough from the prosecution to merit a guilty verdict."

Beard said he was "optimistic about this jury from the beginning" and wanted to thank them for sifting through the evidence.

A few prosecution witnesses testified they withheld information from investigators because they had been threatened or felt threatened by Beard.

"There's not one witness the prosecution put up who has anything to fear from me," Beard said.

The former Hillsboro man said he will stay in the Lewisburg area with his wife for the next few weeks and return to farming, a former occupation. Beard said he will begin working for Charlie Long and Bill Irons. Long and Irons were two of three men who posted Beard's $100,000 bond in 1992.

Beard said he will ...ds for a time, but has not ruled out the ...ife has employment near ...uld he didn't this month to be up [illegible] there, he said. "We have a lot of talking to do in the next few weeks," he commented. "I'm glad it's over."

Over for Beard, but not for two families still grieving after 20 years and still looking for answers about the brutal murders of their daughters and sisters.

Kathy Santomero-Meehan said Thursday she was still numb after hearing the jury's decision. "I wish the evidence was strong enough the jury didn't have any doubt," Santomero-Meehan said. "I hope the future brings us more enlightenment. Somebody killed her and it seemed like Beard was the one."

Santomero-Meehan said she hoped someone would still come forward with answers about the murder of her sister, Nancy.

She said her father was disappointed at the verdict.

Vicki Durian's sister, Mary Kauffman, said she was in shock when she heard the jury's verdict shortly after it was rendered.

Kauffman said from the evidence she had seen and heard over the years she felt the prosecution had the right man. "I feel a guilty man is now walking free," she said.

However, she said she appreciated the people who had worked so hard and so diligently on this case for the last 20 years and "to the people who had the courage to testify on Vicki's and Nancy's behalf."

"Your efforts will not be forgotten," Kauffman said.

"My hope is that we, the family, will now be able to remember Vicki for the loving, caring person she was and all the fun we shared with her in her 26 years of life. Now maybe we will not have to be constantly reminded of the fear and terror Vicki and Nancy must have felt in their last hours on earth," she said.

Kauffman said she had faith that God knows "exactly who was involved in this crime and the part they played."

"God's judgment and punishment for this act will be more severe than any punishment the courts could have," she said.

Santomero-Meehan and her mother traveled to Sutton for the first part of this trial. Kauffman attended a portion of Beard's 1993 trial, but was not able to come to West Virginia this year.

Both Santomero-Meehan and Kauffmann said their families had discussed

...uld not guilty of Rainbow Murders

JACOB BEARD, FLANKED by defense attorneys Stephen Farmer, left, and George Castelle, right, prepares for what will be his final day in court.

filing a civil suit, but had not decided to do so yet.

During closing arguments, Farmer pointed to Alkire as one of the 87 reasons Beard was innocent of the crimes.

Farmer alleged that Alkire had orchestrated the case against Beard and coerced several witnesses into changing their stories to incriminate his client.

The defense attorney listed several prosecution witnesses who had changed their stories after spending time with Alkire, including Santomero and Durian's traveling companion Elizabeth Johndrow, who first said she left the women at 1 p.m. on June 25, 1980, the day of the murders, and then changed her testimony in 1993, saying she believed she parted from them at Richmond, Virginia, on June 24.

"If Jacob Beard goes to jail in this case then none of us are free. Our families aren't free, our children aren't free. We'll all have to be scared that 20 years from now somebody is going to make up a story about us," the attorney argued. The prosecution's case is like a puff of smoke, Farmer said, "every time you get hold of it, it slips through your fingers."

Farmer said Beard's inability to recall exactly where he was on the afternoon of June 25, 1980, was not a reason to find him guilty. "He's been brutally honest about the fact he can't remember where he stopped," the attorney said. "If he wanted to he could have made up a story. The reason you should believe him is because he wouldn't do that."

Beard, Farmer told the jury, was just a man who worked hard as a mechanic and was taking care of a family, while the state would "have you believe Mr. Beard for no reason at all, and totally out of character, shot these women."

Farmer asked the jury to recall the confession of Joseph Paul Franklin, who "had the resume to do what he did. He traveled around the country doing it over and over," Farmer said.

The defense attorney noted that Franklin had confessed to the murders in filing a civil suit, but had not decided to do so yet.

JACOB BEARD, FLANKED by defense attorneys Stephen Farmer, left, and George Castelle, right, prepares for what will be his final day in court.

During closing arguments, Farmer pointed to Alkire as one of the 87 reasons Beard was innocent of the crimes.

Farmer alleged that Alkire had orchestrated the case against Beard and coerced several witnesses into changing their stories to incriminate his client.

The defense attorney listed several prosecution witnesses who had changed their stories after spending time with Alkire, including Santomero and Durian's traveling companion Elizabeth Johndrow, who first said she left the women at 1 p.m. on June 25, 1980, the day of the murders, and then changed her testimony in 1993, saying she believed she parted from them at Richmond, Virginia, on June 24.

"If Jacob Beard goes to jail in this case then none of us are free. Our families aren't free, our children aren't free. We'll all have to be scared that 20 years from now somebody is going to make up a story about us," the attorney argued. The prosecution's case is like a puff of smoke, Farmer said, "every time you get hold of it, it slips through your fingers."

Farmer said Beard's inability to recall exactly where he was on the afternoon of June 25, 1980, was not a reason to find him guilty. "He's been brutally honest about the fact he can't remember where he stopped," the attorney said. "If he wanted to he could have made up a story. The reason you should believe him is because he wouldn't do that."

Beard, Farmer told the jury, was just a man who worked hard as a mechanic and was taking care of a family, while the state would "have you believe Mr. Beard for no reason at all, and totally out of character, shot these women."

Farmer asked the jury to recall the confession of Joseph Paul Franklin, who "had the resume to do what he did. He traveled around the country doing it over and over," Farmer said.

The defense attorney noted that Franklin had confessed to the murders in 1984 and drew a map that detailed the area where the murders were committed.

Farmer touched on the defense's other theory of the case, that Santomero and Durian were killed by Beard's former co-defendant, Gerald Brown, and his companion Bobby Lee Morrison, more during closing arguments than he had throughout the defense case. Several people who testified for the prosecution did so to protect Brown and Morrison, the defense attorney alleged, including Mike and Odessa Hively, Brown's half-brother and sister-in-law, and Dale Morrison, Grace Hanna, and Betty Bennett Pritt, Bobby Lee Morrison's brother, mother and close friend.

None of those people came forward when Brown and Morrison were jailed for the murders in 1983, the defense attorney said, and did not speak with investigators until 1992 when Beard was charged.

Prosecutor Stephen Dolly, who took over closing arguments after Pocahontas County Prosecuting Attorney Walt Weiford was hospitalized Tues-

[illegible] against Beard wasn't believ-

"We wouldn't be here today if [illegible] innocent man. For all that BEARD, FLANKED by defense attorneys Stephen Farmer, left, and George Castelle, right, prepares for what will be his final day in court.

filing a civil suit, but had not decided to do so yet.

During closing arguments, Farmer pointed to Alkire as one of the 87 reasons Beard was innocent of the crimes.

Farmer alleged that Alkire had orchestrated the case against Beard and coerced several witnesses into changing their stories to incriminate his client.

The defense attorney listed several prosecution witnesses who had changed their stories after spending time with Alkire, including Santomero and Durian's traveling companion Elizabeth Johnsdrow, who first said she left the women at 1 p.m. on June 25, 1980, the day of the murders, and then changed her testimony in 1993, saying she believed she parted from them at Richmond, Virginia, on June 24.

"If Jacob Beard goes to jail in this case then none of us are free. Our families aren't free, our children aren't free. We'll all have to be scared that 20 years from now somebody is going to make up a story about us," the attorney argued. The prosecution's case is like a puff of smoke, Farmer said, "every time you get hold of it, it slips through your fingers."

Farmer said Beard's inability to recall exactly where he was on the afternoon of June 25, 1980, was not a reason to find him guilty. "He's been brutally honest about the fact he can't remember where he stopped," the attorney said. "If he wanted to he could have made up a story. The reason you should believe him is because he wouldn't do that."

Beard, Farmer told the jury, was just a man who worked hard as a mechanic and was taking care of a family, while the state would "have you believe Mr. Beard for no reason at all, and totally out of character, shot these women."

Farmer asked the jury to recall the confession of Joseph Paul Franklin, who "had the resume to do what he did. He traveled around the country doing it over and over," Farmer said.

The defense attorney noted that Franklin had confessed to the murders in 1984 and drew a map that detailed the area where the murders were committed.

Farmer touched on the defense's other theory of the case, that Santomero and Durian were killed by Beard's former co-defendant, Gerald Brown, and his companion Bobby Lee Morrison, more during closing arguments than he had throughout the defense case. Several people who testified for the prosecution did so to protect Brown and Morrison, the defense attorney alleged, including Mike and Odessa Hively, Brown's half-brother and sister-in-law, and Dale Morrison, Grace Hanna, and Betty Bennett Pritt, Bobby Lee Morrison's brother, mother and close friend.

None of those people came forward when Brown and Morrison were jailed for the murders in 1983, the defense attorney said, and did not speak with investigators until 1992 when Beard was charged.

Prosecutor Stephen Dolly, who took over closing arguments after Pocahontas County Prosecuting Attorney Walt Weiford was hospitalized Tuesday, told the jury the premise of a conspiracy against Beard wasn't believable, noting that Alkire was "not out to get an innocent man. For all that fingerpointing at Bob Alkire, where's the evidence to back it up?" Dolly asked the jury.

"We wouldn't be here today if it weren't for that phone call he made to [illegible]'s father," Dolly advised the jury. "And that's where [illegible] (Alkire) was put on to the defendant because of the defendant's confessions."

Franklin's confession was not credible and didn't work, Dolly said. Franklin, the prosecutor said, had some information and knew what people wanted to hear. "He's just like the guys who tell fortunes and read palms," Dolly argued. "He'll give you what you want to hear, but nothing you can verify."

Franklin's confession kept people coming to see him, Dolly said, and bought him more time on Missouri's death row. And if Franklin had been allowed to travel to West Virginia to testify in this case, as the prosecution planned, he'd have some "windshield therapy."

"He's not worth much belief," the prosecutor said.

As for the Brown/Morrison theory, Dolly reminded the jury they had heard no evidence about them. Dolly said Brown's former wife, Drema, was more likely the witness testifying to protect him. Drema Brown first told her story in 1983, Dolly said, and "now she's stuck."

The possibilites narrowed to Beard, Dolly said, reminding the jury that the prosecution witnesses had no stake in the outcome, while two notable defense witnesses, Beard and his wife, Linda, had much riding on the jury's verdict.

"It all comes down to the 'team,'" Dolly said, using Linda Beard's description of her marital relationship. "Tell me they don't have a stake in this."

"When you look at the face of Jacob Beard, you look at the face of a man who has already committed murder twice," Dolly told the jury. "There is not much that would stop him now to keep his freedom."

A female juror was dismissed Wednesday morning and replaced with a male alternate, causing the jury to have [illegible] to make up [illegible] for the last five years.

- - -

Walkup earns M.D. Degree

Robert Douglas Walkup, of Shallowater, Texas, was conferred a Doctor of Medicine (M.D.) degree by Texas Tech University on May 19, in Lubbock, Texas.

Robert, or 'Bob' Walkup, age 48, is the brother of Harry E. Walkup, Jr., M.D., who has practiced medicine in the Marlinton area for the past 18 years. By coincidence, our local Dr. Walkup earned his M.D. degree from West Virginia University School of Medicine almost exactly twenty-five years previous to his brother, on May 18, 1975.

Robert and Harry Jr., are the sons of Harry E. Walkup, M.D., of Worton, Maryland, who is 81 years old and is a West Virginia native, born and raised in Mount Hope. The elder Dr. Walkup went to undergraduate school in Chemistry at WVU in Morgantown, and earned his M.D. from University of Maryland, then went on into general surgery and ultimately Thoracic Surgery.

DEATHS

Vernon C. Dean

Vernon C. Dean, age 86, died Tuesday, May 30, 2000, at Plateau Area Medical Center at Oak Hill.

Visitation will be at the Beaver Creek Chapel on Thursday from 6 to 9 p. m.

Services will be at 11 a. m. on Friday at the Beaver Creek Chapel.

Burial will follow in the Beaver Creek Cemetery.

- - -

Prosecutor falls ill; mistrial motion denied

Testimony concludes in Beard trial

Testimony in the second trial of a former Hillsboro man accused of murdering two women hitchhiking to a Rainbow Family World Peace Gathering was completed on Friday of last week. After a long Memorial Day weekend, the trial of Jacob Wilson Beard resumed on Tuesday.

The trial was complicated Tuesday by the sudden illness of Prosecuting Attorney Walter Weiford early in the day. Weiford was taken to a Charleston hospital, reportedly with a lung infection. Stephen Dolly, who has been assisting Weiford, will complete the case for the state.

Tuesday also saw a motion by the defense for a mistrial. Senior Status Judge Charles Lobban denied the motion.

Beard, 54, is accused of the 1980 slayings of Nancy Santomero, 19, of Huntington, Long Island, New York, and Vicki Durian, 26, of Wellman, Iowa.

Santomero and Durian were found shot to death at close range by a high-powered weapon on Briery Knob, a remote section of southern Pocahontas County.

Beard's second trial was moved to Braxton County from Greenbrier County because of pre-trial publicity. The case was moved from Pocahontas County in 1993 because of public sentiment.

The Greenbrier County jury convicted Beard of two counts of murder in the first degree and recommended no mercy, meaning he had no possibility of parole.

In 1999, Lobban set aside the jury's verdict after a serial killer, Joseph Paul Franklin, confessed to the crimes under oath and Beard's former co-defendant, Arnold Cutlip filed an affidavit that potentially impeaches a key prosecution witness.

Beard has maintained his innocence since he was arrested in 1992.

Lobban will instruct the jury Wednesday morning and attorneys are expected to give closing arguments that afternoon.

The trial has lasted nine days and over three dozen witnesses have testified.

Tuesday, May 23

Eyewitnesses testify in Rainbow Murder Case

The prosecution presented its key witnesses Tuesday in the 20-year-old Rainbow Murder Case.

One of those witnesses said he saw Jacob Wilson Beard kill two young women on Briery Knob, a remote section of southern Pocahontas County.

Johnnie Washington Lewis, of Hillsboro, said on the witness stand he recalled hearing gun shots and seeing one girl fall and the other start running away from Beard. Beard shot the second girl then, Lewis testified.

"Did you see who shot her?" asked Prosecuting Attorney Walt Weiford.

"Jacob," replied Lewis.

Lewis said he believed Beard shot the women because he saw Beard's arm move at the same time he heard shots. Lewis testified he did not see a weapon because Beard's back was to him.

"Did you ever forget about what you'd seen?" Weiford asked.

"Tried to but I couldn't," Lewis said.

No one had to help him remember anything, he said.

The man testified he was seated in Arnold Cutlip's truck when he witnessed the murders. Lewis lived with Cutlip at the time.

He also placed Beard and former co-defendants Gerald Brown, Richard Fowler, Bill McCoy and Cutlip together at Droop Mountain Battlefield State Park as well as on Briery Knob in his testimony.

Lewis said after the murders occurred he and Cutlip went to Hillsboro to a beer joint. Lewis said he had only one beer, while Cutlip "got pretty well loaded."

He lived with Cutlip only two or three days after the murders occurred, Lewis said.

Lewis said he couldn't remember exactly when he told police he'd witnessed the murders.

But when he did tell police, Lewis testified that a "big" fellow shook his handcuffs at him and made him feel "nervous." Police did not tell him what to say about the murders, Lewis said.

Beard's defense attorney Stephen Farmer questioned Lewis extensively on his several statements to police, some of which reflect his being threatened when the murders occurred and some of which reflect a desire by him to [illegible]

"Scared," Lewis said.

The prosecutor briefly addressed Arnold Cutlip's affidavit that says he was with Lewis all day in [illegible], 1980, and they did not see Beard.

"If Arnie Cutlip claims it to have been the killings, is that true?" Weiford asked.

"No," Lewis said.

Then everyone jumped up in the van, Walton testified, he thought because of shots, but could not recall.

"I was pretty intoxicated by then," he said.

However, Walton said "there was a panic" and he remembered a girl run to the side door of the van.

"She was screaming, trying to get in," he testified. "She backed out."

The girl was not able to enter the van because the men inside were standing in her way, he believed.

"Do you know what happened after that?" Weiford asked.

"She was shot, I guess," Walton said.

Walton said he remembered a person in the door of the van with a gun, but could not remember who it was.

While he recalled Fowler and two Dean brothers, Larry, and a brother whose name he could not remember, were in the van with him, he could not say whether Beard or McCoy killed the women.

"Was it Bill?," the prosecutor asked.

"I'm not sure," Walton said.

"Was it Jake Beard?"

"He was the one with the gun," Walton testified.

Walton said after the shooting he "blacked out from the shock" and the combination of liquor and marijuana.

"Were you scared?" Weiford asked.

"Yes."

Walton said he later remembered McCoy awakening him in the field above where the girls were murdered.

"He asked me what I did it for," Walton said. "I said 'what?' He said 'shoot them girls.'"

Walton said he told McCoy he didn't shoot the women, but suggested they report the deaths to the police. This suggestion angered McCoy, Walton testified, and McCoy "got mad."

McCoy hit him in the stomach and said, "We ain't goin' to the law," he testified.

Walton said he didn't recall seeing the bodies of the women.

Under intense cross-examination by Farmer, Walton said he was telling the truth when he told investigators he knew nothing of the murders and only recalled details when a "big" police officer picked him up at his workplace and threatened him, hit him in the face, bending his glasses, and told him he could be hit so nothing would show.

The officer took him into the back room of the Marlinton State Police Detachment. In there, Walton testified, the officer, identified as Sergeant Robert Estepp, shoved him from his chair and placed his foot on Walton's neck. Walton said he was "intimidated" by Estepp's actions, and subsequently gave police a statement about the murders, but maintained that Estepp had not told him what to say that day when Weiford questioned him again.

As Farmer pummeled Walton with questions about his memory of the day the murders occurred and when and how it grew, Walton repeatedly said he remembered picking up the women.

"You're not afraid of Mr. Beard, are you?" Farmer asked.

Walton eyed Beard for several moments before answering in the negative. He also said he did not fear Fowler and McCoy.

"Because you don't know who shot these girls," Farmer said.

"Not for sure," Walton replied.

"You'd be afraid of somebody you saw kill two people," Farmer stated.

Walton agreed he would.

Farmer took each of Walton's several statements and dissected them before the jury, pointing out some inconsistencies in details, but Walton agreed with Weiford that the gist of all the statements was the same after 1992.

Walton said he began to recall the murders in 1985 after a conversation with a co-worker at Denmar State Hospital. "I remembered we stopped and picked up two girls," he testified.

He dwelt on the memory, he said. "I pretty well thought of it every day," he testified. He started to remember more things, he testified.

But Walton did not go to the police with his recollections. "I was holding back," he testified. "I didn't want to get involved."

When lead investigator Robert Alkire questioned him in March, 1992, Walton said he provided Alkire with a list of people who were on Briery Knob that day, including Beard.

[illegible] Alkire on occasion because he [illegible] guilt by association."

Lobban said the evidence was sufficient [illegible]

...ing of the ...k on optical ...fling on the ...rd ballots. ...ns of the ...affidavit that potentially impeaches a key ... witness.

Beard has maintained his innocence since he was arrested in 1992.

Lobban will instruct the jury Wednesday morning and attorneys are expected to give closing arguments that afternoon.

The trial has lasted nine days and over three dozen witnesses have testified.

Tuesday, May 23

Eyewitnesses testify in Rainbow Murder Case

The prosecution presented its key witnesses Tuesday in the 20-year-old Rainbow Murder Case.

One of those witnesses said he saw Jacob Wilson Beard kill two young women on Briery Knob, a remote section of southern Pocahontas County.

Johnnie Washington Lewis, of Hillsboro, said on the witness stand he recalled hearing gun shots and seeing one girl fall and the other start running away from Beard. Beard shot the second girl then, Lewis testified.

"Did you see who shot her?" asked Prosecuting Attorney Walt Weiford.

"Jacob," replied Lewis.

Lewis said he believed Beard shot the women because he saw Beard's arm move at the same time he heard shots. Lewis testified he did not see a weapon because Beard's back was to him.

"Did you ever forget about what you'd seen?" Weiford asked.

"Tried to but I couldn't," Lewis said.

No one had to help him remember anything, he said.

The man testified he was seated in Arnold Cutlip's truck when he witnessed the murders. Lewis lived with Cutlip at the time.

He also placed Beard and former co-defendants Gerald Brown, Richard Fowler, Bill McCoy and Cutlip together at Droop Mountain Battlefield State Park as well as on Briery Knob in his testimony.

Lewis said after the murders occurred he and Cutlip went to Hillsboro to a beer joint. Lewis said he had only one beer, while Cutlip "got pretty well kinked."

He lived with Cutlip only two or three days after the murders occurred, Lewis said.

Lewis said he couldn't remember exactly when he told police he'd witnessed the murders.

But when he did tell police, Lewis testified that a "big" fellow shook his handcuffs at him and made him feel "nervous." Police did not tell him what to say about the murders, Lewis said.

Beard's defense attorney Stephen Farmer questioned Lewis extensively on his several statements to police, some of which reflect his being there when the murders occurred and some of which reflect a denial he was there.

"Sometimes you think you were there and sometimes you think you weren't there?" Farmer inquired.

"I think I was there," Lewis said.

[illegible] he witness said he wasn't there.

"Why did you change your story?" Weiford asked.

"Scared," Lewis said.

The prosecutor briefly addressed Arnold Cutlip's affidavit that says he was with Lewis all day on June 25, 1980, and they did not see Beard.

"If Arnie Cutlip claims not to have seen the killings, is that true?" Weiford asked.

"No," Lewis said.

"Why would he say something that wasn't true?" the prosecutor asked.

"I don't know," Lewis said.

"Would you change your story?"

"No."

"If you didn't see those girls killed, now is the time to say," Weiford told Lewis.

"I seen it."

The prosecution's other witness, Winters Charles Walton, said he remembered being on Briery Knob that day and placed Beard there with a weapon; however, Walton stopped short of saying he saw Beard shoot the two girls.

Walton said he was with Fowler and McCoy when they found out two Rainbow Girls were in Rimel's Valley. Fowler drove to the area just south of the Pocahontas-Greenbrier county line and observed the women hitchhiking.

They picked up the girls, he said, and McCoy helped load their backpacks in the van.

From there they drove to Gerald Brown's trailer where McCoy made telephone calls to invite others to a party. The girls left the van, he said, and McCoy and Fowler retrieved it.

The group went to Droop Mountain Battlefield State Park where they met Preacher "Buddy" Adkins Christine Cook and Beard. Brown followed them to the park. Walton said Cutlip came along later with Lewis.

Walton recounted later trip to Briery Knob where the group drank, and all the men but Cutlip smoked marijuana. Fowler and McCoy wanted to have sex with the girls, Walton said.

Those advances were rejected, Walton testified, but McCoy and Fowler held the girls in the van. He fled from McCoy and asked him why they were doing this; he testified Walton said he told the woman he didn't know.

McCoy and Fowler gave up their pursuits, Walton testified, and left the van to "party."

Walton said he was told Fowler's van behind the driver's seat. He said he could see Beard [illegible] down the hill with a rifle.

Walton said he later remembered McCoy awakening him in the field above where the girls were murdered.

"He asked me what I did it for," Walton said. "I said 'what?' He said 'shoot them girls.'"

Walton said he told McCoy he didn't shoot the women, but suggested they report the deaths to the police. This suggestion angered McCoy, Walton testified, and McCoy "got mad."

McCoy hit him in the stomach and said, "We ain't goin' to the law," he testified.

Walton said he didn't recall seeing the bodies of the women.

Under intense cross-examination by Farmer, Walton said he was telling the truth when he told investigators he knew nothing of the murders and only recalled details when a "big" police officer picked him up at his workplace and threatened him, hit him in the face, bending his glasses, and told him he could be hit so nothing would show.

The officer took him into the back room of the Marlinton State Police Detachment. In there, Walton testified, the officer, identified as Sergeant Robert Estepp, shoved him from his chair and placed his foot on Walton's neck. Walton said he was "intimidated" by Estepp's actions, and subsequently gave police a statement about the murders, but maintained that Estepp had not told him what to say that day when Weiford questioned him again.

As Farmer pummeled Walton with questions about his memory of the day the murders occurred and when and how it grew, Walton repeatedly said he remembered picking up the women.

"You're not afraid of Mr. Beard, are you?" Farmer asked.

Walton eyed Beard for several moments before answering in the negative. He also said he did not fear Fowler and McCoy.

"Because you don't know who shot those girls," Farmer said.

"Not for sure," Walton replied.

"You'd be afraid of somebody you saw kill two people," Farmer stated.

Walton agreed he would.

Farmer took each of Walton's several statements and dissected them before the jury, pointing out some inconsistencies in details, but Walton agreed with Weiford that the gist of all the statements was the same after 1992.

Walton said he began to recall the murders in 1985 after a conversation with a co-worker at Denmar State Hospital. "I remembered we stopped and picked up two girls," he testified.

He dwelt on the memory, he said. "I pretty well thought of it every day," he testified. He started to remember more things, he testified.

But Walton did not go to the police with his recollections. "I was holding back," he testified. "I didn't want to get involved."

When lead investigator Robert Alkire questioned him in March, 1992, Walton said he provided Alkire with a list of people who were on Briery Knob that day, including Beard.

Walton also testified that he called Alkire on occasion because he "wanted to tell him about those two girls."

The prosecution rested its case Monday, but will call one witness out of order.

Senior Status Judge Charles Lobban [illegible] a directed verdict of acquittal. Farmer told the court the prosecution's case was "guilt by association."

Lobban said the evidence was sufficient to go to the jury.

Wednesday, May 24

Jury hears serial killer's confession to Rainbow Murders

The jury in the Rainbow Murder Case heard the confession of a convicted serial killer Wednesday. Joseph Paul Franklin, 50, confessed that he killed the women because one of them said she dated black men and the other said she would do that if she had the chance.

"So I just decided to waste them at that time," Franklin said.

Defense attorneys representing Jacob Beard played the video deposition that lasted over two hours.

Franklin has periodically confessed to and then denied committing the murders. The self-proclaimed white supremacist is now on death row in Missouri for the murder of a man outside a synagogue. Beard has always maintained his innocence in the June 25, 1980, murders.

During the 1997 deposition Franklin said he picked up the women on an Interstate highway when he was headed west out of Virginia. He turned the conversation toward their feelings about blacks, he said, and had already planned to kill both women when they stopped at a convenience store where he purchased gasoline.

Franklin said he drove to a remote area 10-15 minutes from the convenience store when he turned off onto a small road surrounded by trees and pulled a gun on the women as he told them he was going to rape them.

Both women refused his advances, he said, and he realized trying further would be futile; however, Franklin testified the threat of rape was a ruse just to get the women out of his car.

Franklin said he was either standing outside the car or on his way out of the car when he shot the first woman, then he fired a wild shot at the one in the back, shot the first woman again, then "whirled around and shot, aimed more carefully with both hands at the second one and shot her in the head that time." Franklin said he was a few feet from the women at the time.

He first said he pulled the woman in front out the driver's side, but then agreed with defense attorney Brandon Simms that he pulled them out on the passenger side and left their bodies beside the dirt road.

Franklin said he fled the scene and drove out in the same direction he arrived. He met a car and averted his head so the driver wouldn't recogn

Continued to page 4

Congratulations To The Class Of 2000
For All Y...

changes to Times
Hampton WV 24954
Fax (304) 799-6466
.com
.com
the last week of the year.
on, West Virginia 24954
38-8373
GES (including tax)
Out-of-State $25 RATES
ified—20¢ word
RITT, Managing Editor Emerita 000 ote totals for y Election

unty Commission met o canvass the results of Election. The process e hand counting of the ct as a check on optical er and deciding on the
of challenged ballots.
the canvass of the lts are:

lent - Gore, 1091;
, 119; LaRouche, 34;
84 Senator - Byrd, 1601

Testimony concludes in

Testimony in the second trial of a former Hillsboro man accused of murdering two women hitchhiking to a Rainbow Family World Peace Gathering was completed on Friday of last week. After a long Memorial Day weekend, the trial of Jacob Wilson Beard resumed on Tueday.

The trial was complicated Tuesday by the sudden illness of Prosecuting Attorney Walter Weiford early in the day. Weiford was taken to a Charleston hospital, reportedly with a lung infection. Stephen Dolly, who has been assisting Weiford, will complete the case for the state.

Tuesday also saw a motion by the defense for a mistrial. Senior Status Judge Charles Lobban denied the motion.

Beard, 54, is accused of the 1980 slayings of Nancy Santomero, 19, of Huntington, Long Island, New York, and Vicki Durian, 26, of Wellman, Iowa.

Santomero and Durian were found shot to death at close range by a high-powered weapon on Briery Knob, a remote section of southern Pocahontas County.

Beard's second trial was moved to Braxton County from Greenbrier County because of pre-trial publicity. The case was moved from Pocahontas County in 1993 because of public sentiment.

The Greenbrier County jury convicted Beard of two counts of murder in the first degree and recommended no mercy, meaning he had no possibility of parole.

In 1999, Lobban set aside the jury's verdict after a serial killer, Joseph Paul Franklin, confessed to the crimes under oath and Beard's former co-defendant, Arnold Cutlip filed an affidavit that potentially impeaches a key prosecution witness.

Beard has maintained his innocence since he was arrested in 1992.

Lobban will instruct the jury Wednesday morning and attorneys are expected to give closing arguments that afternoon.

The trial has lasted nine days and over three dozen witnesses have testified.

Tuesday, May 23

Eyewitnesses testify in Rainbow Murder Case

The prosecution presented its key witnesses Tuesday in the 20-year-old Rainbow Murder Case.

One of those witnesses said he saw Jacob Wilson Beard kill two young

Then everyone jumped up cause of shots, but could not re
"I was pretty intoxicated b However, Walton said "the
to the side door of the van.
"She was screaming, tryin
The girl was not able to standing in her way, he believe
"Do you know what happe
"She was shot, I guess," Walton said he remember but could not remember who While he recalled Fowle whose name he could not rem say whether Beard or McCoy
"Was it Bill?," the prosec
"I'm not sure," Walton s
"Was it Jake Beard?"
"He was the one with th Walton said after the sho combination of liquor and ma
"Were you scared?" Weif
"Yes."
Walton said he later re above where the girls were m
"He asked me what I d 'shoot them girls.'" Walton said he told M they report the deaths to th ton testified, and McCoy "g McCoy hit him in the testified.
Walton said he didn't Under intense cross-e the truth when he told i only recalled details whe place and threatened him

Groups make commitment for the protection of the Shavers Fork

Following a two day meeting last month, a variety of public, private, and non-profit organizations signed a document committing them to the protection of the upper Shavers Fork. The "Healing of the Headwaters Summit" was held at Snowshoe Mountain on May 18-19. Approximately 45 people were in attendance.

Co-sponsors of the meeting were the Shavers Fork Coalition, Canaan Valley Institute, Mountaineer Chapter of Trout Unlimited, Friends of the Cheat, and West Virginia University Division of Forestry. During the summit, a railbus tour of the river was taken, presentations were made on current studies and projects involving the river, and the action document for the protection of the river was prepared.

The Shavers Fork rises on Cheat Mountain in Pocahontas County and flows to a junction with the Black Fork at Parsons, forming the Cheat River. For the purposes of the summit, the "upper" Shavers Fork is the section of the river above the town of Bemis in Randolph County.

The upper Shavers Fork was severely impacted by timbering and coal mining during the early and middle years of the 20th Century. Today, however, the area shows signs of recovery. With the purchase of the Mower Tract in 1989 by the federal government, added to land purchased in the 1930s, the U.S. Forest Service became the owner of most of the watershed. Snowshoe Mountain is the other major land owner in the headwaters.

Zachary Henderson, of the Shavers Fork Coalition, said at the end of the meeting, "We wanted to highlight the wide variety of conservation initiatives that have already begun here, and to create a renewed interest in watershed stewardship. A unified and cohesive movement can be even more effective."

brook. The brook trout are found mostly in the cooler, side streams. (Also found in the Shavers Fork are rainbow trout, which are not native, but descendants of the first fish stocking done on the river, in the early 1900s.)

Although the upper Shavers Fork does not have acid mine drainage, the old surface mines in the watershed are sources of sediment. Existing old sediment ponds are a potential to break and cause massive sediment problems.

Mr. Brown said DNR is working cooperatively with Trout Unlimited and WVU in identifying the areas with fish habitat problems and what can be done to correct them.

The Forest Service is the largest landowner in the Upper Shavers Fork area and Ken Rago, District Ranger for the Greenbrier District, talked on his agency's activities and goals for the watershed, particularly the former Mower Tract.

Mr. Rago said that after the Mower land was acquired by the Forest Service an analyst of the area was done and an management plan developed in 1990. He noted that a number of projects outlined in the plan, such as erosion control and road management, have been carred out. However, the lack of funds has prevented the Forest Service from doing all the plan hoped to achieve, he said, including a number with a recreational goal.

As an example of how a project can be done where the Forest Service does not have the money, Mr. Rago mentioned a present joint project with Snowshoe for the rebuilding of a trail. He said Snowshoe was able to obtain a federal T21 grant to pay for the work.

After ten years the management plan for the Mower Tract is in need of revision, Mr. Rago stated. He said the Forest Serive will be holding a series of public open houses and meetings starting in the

some of them critical of the resort and its plans.

Following dinner Saturday evening, the group held a discussion session for the purpose of developing and refining the "Healing the Headwaters" action document. (The contents of the document are at the end of this article.)

Friday morning included a signing of the "Healing the Headwaters" document by representatives of a number of the groups attending the summit and a discussion on the steps to be taken to put the action plan into reality.

It was agreed that the Shavers Fork Coalition should play a lead role. Also, a steering committee will be formed and a number of people said that their group will appoint one of their members to the committee.

It was noted that since the Forest Service is the majority land owner in the Upper Shavers Fork, their management plan will be a most important part of the over-all plan for the river's future.

Signing the document on Friday morning were representatives from the Shavers Fork Coalition, The Mountain Institute, U. S. Forest Service, Canaan Valley Institute, Friends of the Cheat, Davis and Elkins College, W. Va. Stream Partners Program, WVU Extension Service, Snowshoe Mountain, W. Va. Trout Unlimited, Mountaineer Chapter of TU, Cheat Mountain Trust, Elk

Continued to page 5

Carmen's Nail Shop is now open at
"The Hair Design"
in Cooktown.
We will be doing artificial nails, manicures & pedicures.

were the Canaan Valley Institute, Mountaineer Chapter of Trout Unlimited, Friends of the Cheat, and West Virginia University Division of Forestry. During the summit, a railbus tour of the river was taken, presentations were made on current studies and projects involving the river, and the action document for the protection of the river was prepared.

The Shavers Fork rises on Cheat Mountain in Pocahontas County and flows to a junction with the Black Fork at Parsons, forming the Cheat River. For the purposes of the summit, the "upper" Shavers Fork is the section of the river above the town of Bemis in Randolph County.

The upper Shavers Fork was severely impacted by timbering and coal mining during the early and middle years of the 20th Century. Today, however, the area shows signs of recovery. With the purchase of the Mower Tract in 1989 by the federal government, added to land purchased in the 1930s, the U.S. Forest Service became the owner of most of the watershed. Snowshoe Mountain is the other major land owner in the headwaters.

Zachary Henderson, of the Shavers Fork Coalition, said at the end of the meeting, "We wanted to highlight the wide variety of conservation initiatives that have already begun here, and to create a renewed interest in watershed stewardship. A unified and cohesive movement can be even more effective."

The conference opened Thursday morning with a session at Snowshoe.

Following the opening session, the group was taken to the site of the old town of Spruce for lunch. After lunch, they were given a rail tour of the Shavers Fork on the Durbin and Greenbrier Valley Railroad's "Salamander" railcar.

The past and future of the Shavers Fork as a trout fishery was a major topic of [illegible] the railcar ride. Commenting on this topic were Dr. Todd Petty, [illegible] the W. Va. University [illegible] vision of Forestry, Steve Brown [illegible] Mike Shingleton, from the W. [illegible] ision of Natural Resources, [illegible] n Moore, with W. Va. [illegible] mited.

[illegible] ding to Mr. Moore, the [illegible] Fork was "historically, [illegible] legendary as a brook trout fishery." However, the impact of over a century of human activity in the watershed has greatly diminished the quality of stream as a fishery. Using the river to move logs, stripping the timber from the mountains along side the [illegible] sediment. Existing old sediment ponds are a potential to break and cause massive sediment problems.

Mr. Brown said DNR is working cooperatively with Trout Unlimited and WVU in identifying the areas with fish habitat problems and what can be done to correct them.

The Forest Service is the largest landowner in the Upper Shavers Fork area and Ken Rago, District Ranger for the Greenbrier District, talked on his agency's activities and goals for the watershed, particularly the former Mower Tract.

Mr. Rago said that after the Mower land was acquired by the Forest Service an analyst of the area was done and an management plan developed in 1990. He noted that a number of projects outlined in the plan, such as erosion control and road management, have been carred out. However, the lack of funds has prevented the Forest Service from doing all the plan hoped to achieve, he said, including a number with a recreational goal.

As an example of how a project can be done where the Forest Service does not have the money, Mr. Rago mentioned a present joint project with Snowshoe for the rebuilding of a trail. He said Snowshoe was able to obtain a federal T21 grant to pay for the work.

After ten years the management plan for the Mower Tract is in need of revision, Mr. Rago stated. He said the Forest Serive will be holding a series of public open houses and meetings starting in the next few months as the first step in bringing the Mower plan up-to-date.

Ruth Brinker, archaeologist for the Forest Service, gave the group some history of the town of Spruce and mentioned some of the other locations of historic interest in the upper Shavers Fork, such as the Staunton and Parkersburg Turnpike and the Civil War fortifications near [illegible] She noted that little has been done on the Mower Tract to this date.

Phyllis Baxter, with the Staunton-Parkersburg Turnpike Alliance, discussed the acitivities of her group

Reta Griffith, a member of the Pocahontas County Commission, was the only elected official at the summit.

The Executive Director of the State Rail Authority, John Philbrick, discussed the plans of the Authority for the railroad along the river. The rail line was purchased by the state from the CSX company several years ago.

Friday morning included signing of the "Healing the Headwaters" document by representatives of a number of the groups attending the summit and a discussion on the steps to be taken to put the action plan into reality.

It was agreed that the Shavers Fork Coalition should play a lead role. Also, a steering committee will be formed and a number of people said that their group will appoint one of their members to the committee.

It was noted that since the Forest Service is the majority land owner in the Upper Shavers Fork, their management plan will be a most important part of the over-all plan for the river's future.

Signing the document on Friday morning were representatives from the Shavers Fork Coalition, The Mountain Institute, U. S. Forest Service, Canaan Valley Institute, Friends of the Cheat, Davis and Elkins College, W. Va. Stream Partners Program, WVU Extension Service, Snowshoe Mountain, W. Va. Trout Unlimited, Mountaineer Chapter of TU, Cheat Mountain Trust, Elk

Continued to page 5

Carmen's Nail Shop
is now open at "The Hair Design" in Cooktown.
"I will be doing artificial nails, manicures & pedicures."

Call the Hair Design at 653-4994 for your appointment.

Vonnie Myers O'Brien
Independent Consultant

Famous handcrafted baskets and pottery. An elegant gift or addition to your home.

Call for more information.
799-4848

LONGABERGER®

Today, [illegible] signs of recovery. With the purchase of the Mower Tract in 1989 by the federal government, added to land purchased in the 1930s, the U.S. Forest Service became the owner of most of the watershed. Snowshoe Mountain is the other major land owner in the headwaters.

Zachary Henderson, of the Shavers Fork Coalition, said at the end of the meeting, "We wanted to highlight the wide variety of conservation initiatives that have already begun here, and to create a renewed interest in watershed stewardship. A unified and cohesive movement can be even more effective."

The conference opened Thursday morning with a session at Snowshoe.

Following the opening session, the group was taken to the site of the old town of Spruce for lunch. After lunch, they were given a rail tour of the Shavers Fork on the Durbin and Greenbrier Valley Railroad's "Salamander" railcar.

The past and future of the Shavers Fork as a trout fishery was a major topic of discussion during the railcar ride. Commenting on this topic were Dr. Todd Petty, from the W. Va. University Division of Forestry, Steve Brown and Mike Shingleton, from the W. Va. Division of Natural Resources, and Bryan Moore, with W. Va. Trout Unlimited.

According to Mr. Moore, the Shavers Fork was "historically, almost legendary as a brook trout fishery." However, the impact of over a century of human activity in the watershed has greatly diminished the quality of stream as a fishery. Using the river to move logs, stripping the timber from the mountains along side the river, and coal mining have all had an impact.

From a fish point of view, the Shavers Fork has several problems, including low gradient; lack of channel depth; lack of stream side vegetation to keep the water cooler; lack of instream cover, "fish hiding places;" and acid rain precipitation. Only the first can be blamed on Mother Nature; the others are changes caused by human activity in the watershed and, in the case of acid rain, elsewhere.

At this time, the DNR is stocking only brown trout in the main stream as they are more to live in warmer water than the native has prevented the Forest Service from doing all the plan hoped to achieve, he said, including a number with a recreational goal.

As an example of how a project can be done where the Forest Service does not have the money, Mr. Rago mentioned a present joint project with Snowshoe for the rebuilding of a trail. He said Snowshoe was able to obtain a federal T21 grant to pay for the work.

After ten years the management plan for the Mower Tract is in need of revision, Mr. Rago stated. He said the Forest Serive will be holding a series of public open houses and meetings starting in the next few months as the first step in bringing the Mower plan up-to-date.

Ruth Brinker, archaeologist for the Forest Service, gave the group some history of the town of Spruce and mentioned some of the other locations of historic interest in the upper Shavers Fork, such as the Staunton and Parkersburg Turnpike and the Civil War fortifications near Cheat Bridge. She noted that little [illegible] has been done on the Mower Tract to this date.

Phyllis Baxter, with the Staunton-Parkersburg Turnpike Alliance, discussed the acitivities of her group

Reta Griffith, a member of the Pocahontas County Commission, was the only elected official at the summit.

The Executive Director of the State Rail Authority, John Philbrick, discussed the plans of the Authority for the railroad along the river. The rail line was purchased by the state from the CSX company several years ago.

John Simmons, General Manager of the D&GV Railroad, gave a report on the "Salamander" tourist rail excursions.

(The D&GV has the contract to operate the state-owned rail line and provides freight service to the Elkins area as well as tourist train operations.)

Mr. Henderson described some of the ongoing assessment work being down to determine the conditions of the watershed.

Steve Rice, President of Snowshoe Mountain, reviewed for the group the resort's plans for its property in the watershed. Mr. Rice also answered questions,

W. Va. Stream Partners, WVU Extension Service, Snowshoe Mountain, W. Va. Trout Unlimited, Mountaineer Chapter of TU, Cheat Mountain Trust, Elk

Continued to page 5

Carmen's Nail Shop is now open at "The Hair Design" in Cooktown.

"I will be doing artificial nails, manicures & pedicures."

Call the Hair Design at 653-4994 for your appointment.

Vonnie Myers O'Brien
Independent Consultant

Famous handcrafted baskets and pottery. An elegant gift or addition to your home.

Call for more information.
799-4848

LONGABERGER® ALWAYS AT HOME IN YOUR HOME™

The Plaid P
Celtic Folkwinds Performing traditional Scottish, Iris music on Highland Bagpipes, Iri Pennywhistle & Fife

Bookings available for weddings, special events
For more information call Rob Taggart at 456-52

LITTLE LEVELS HERITA Saturday, June

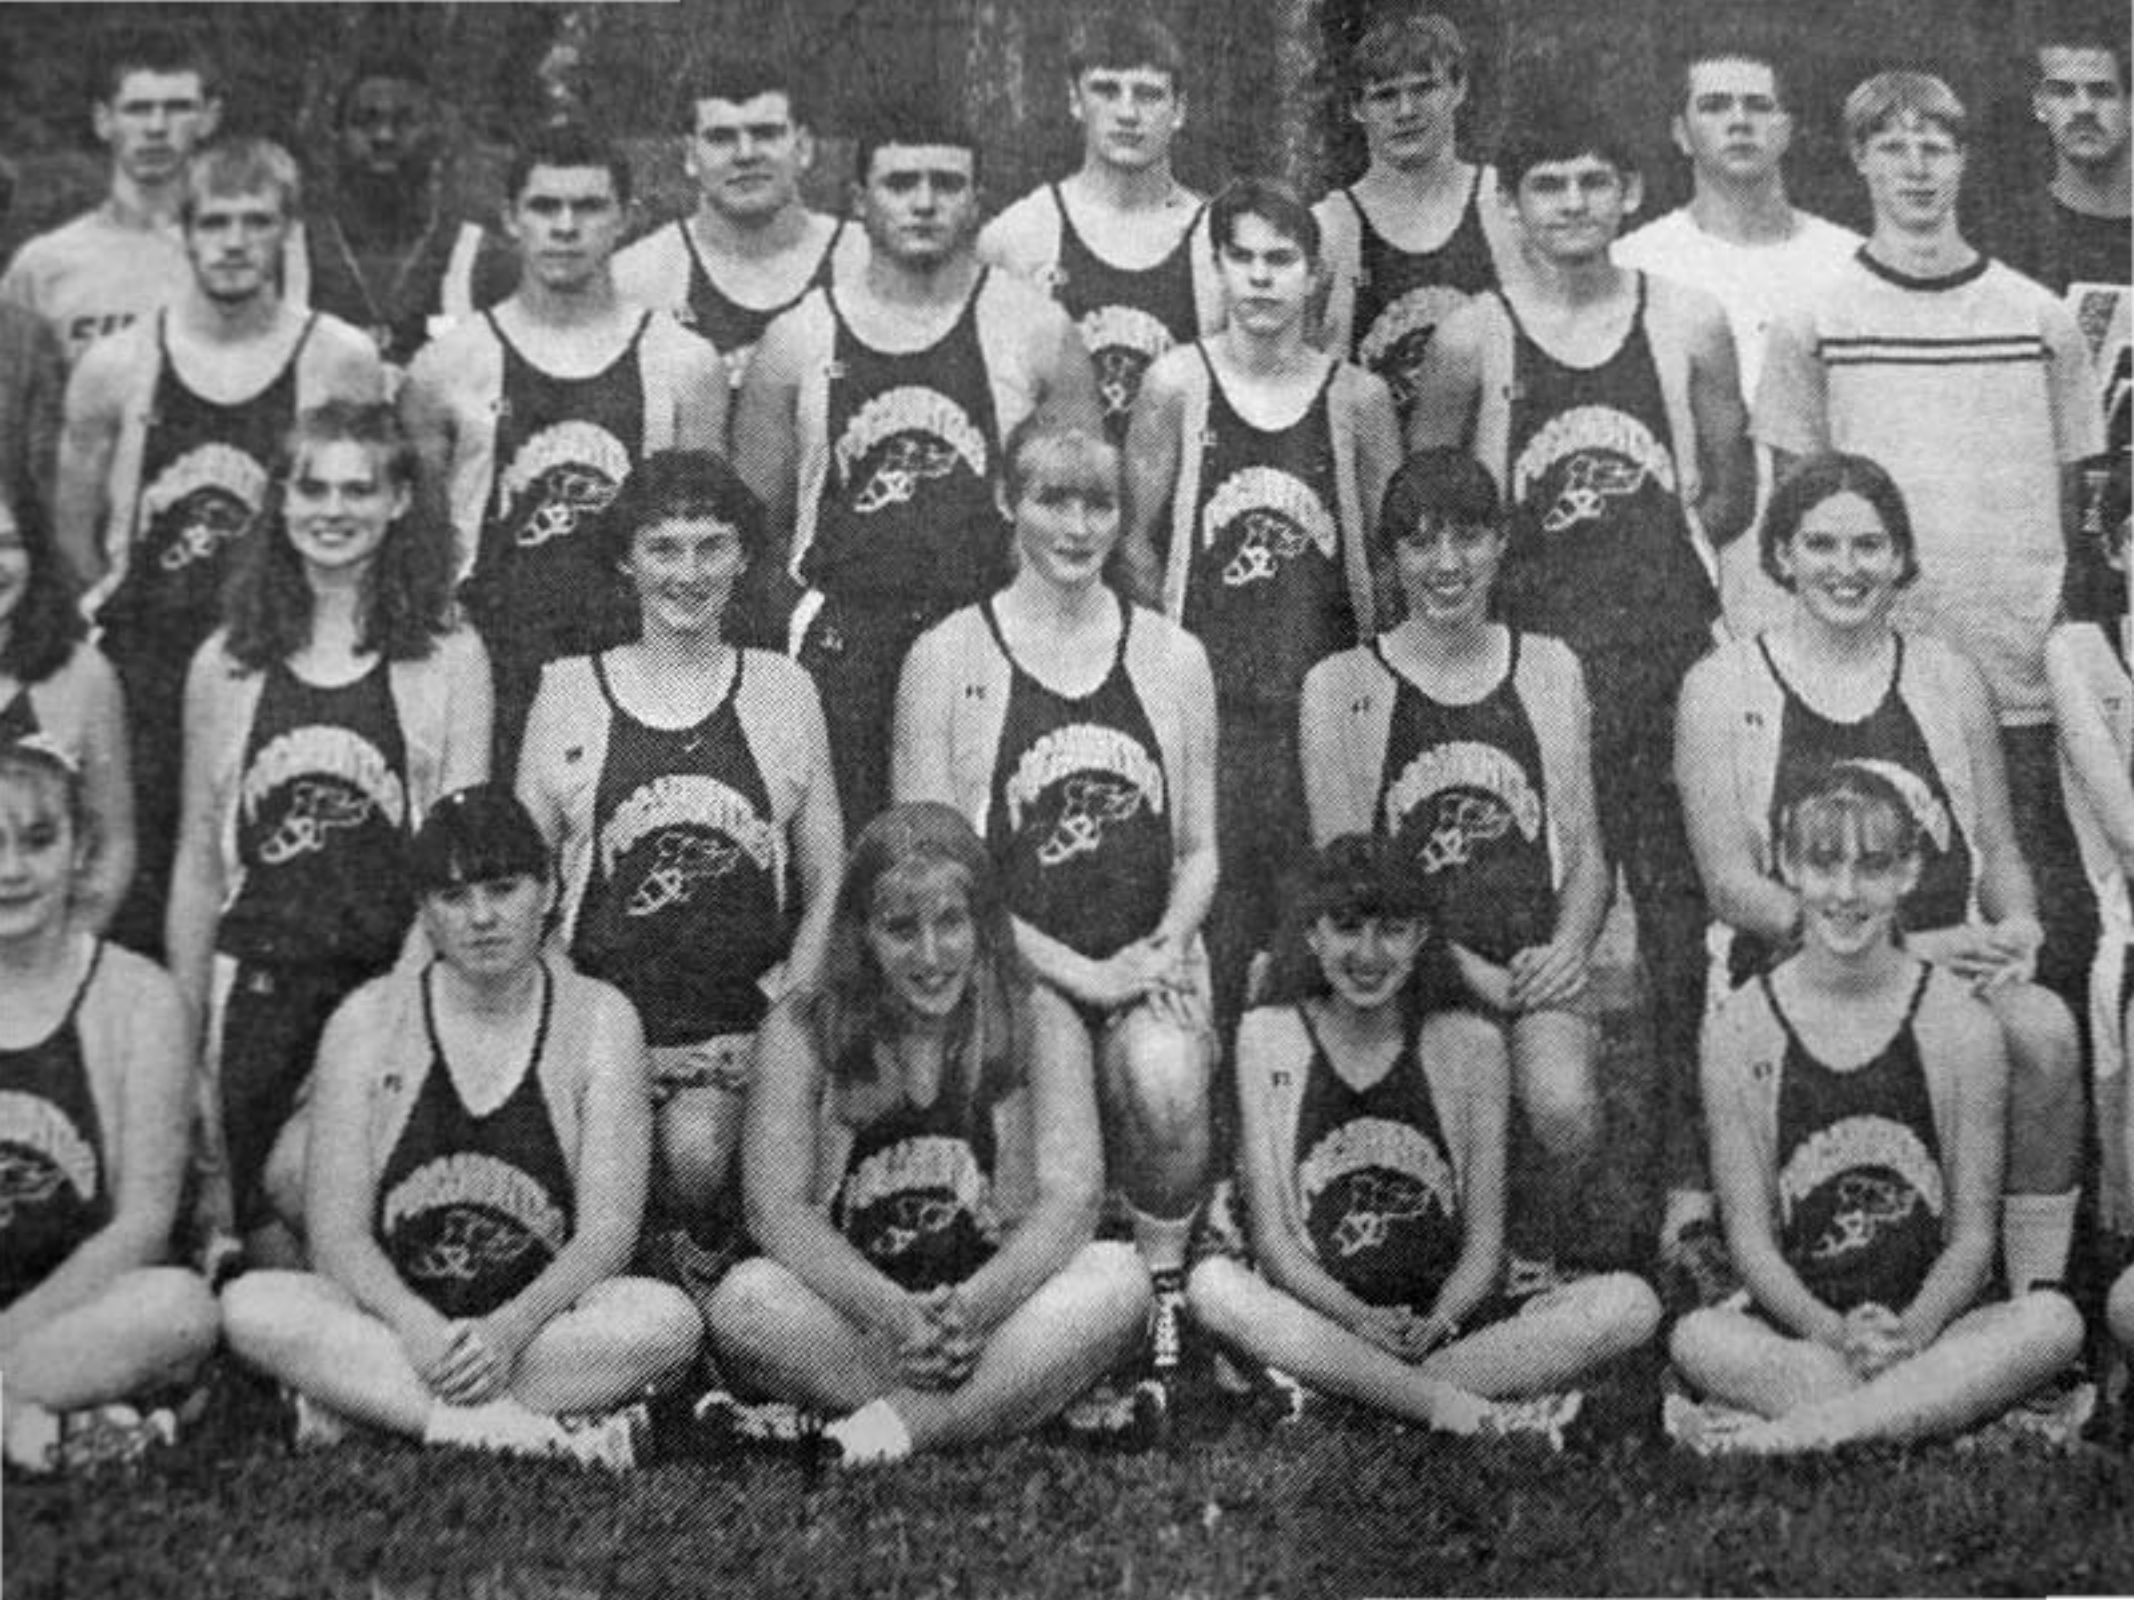
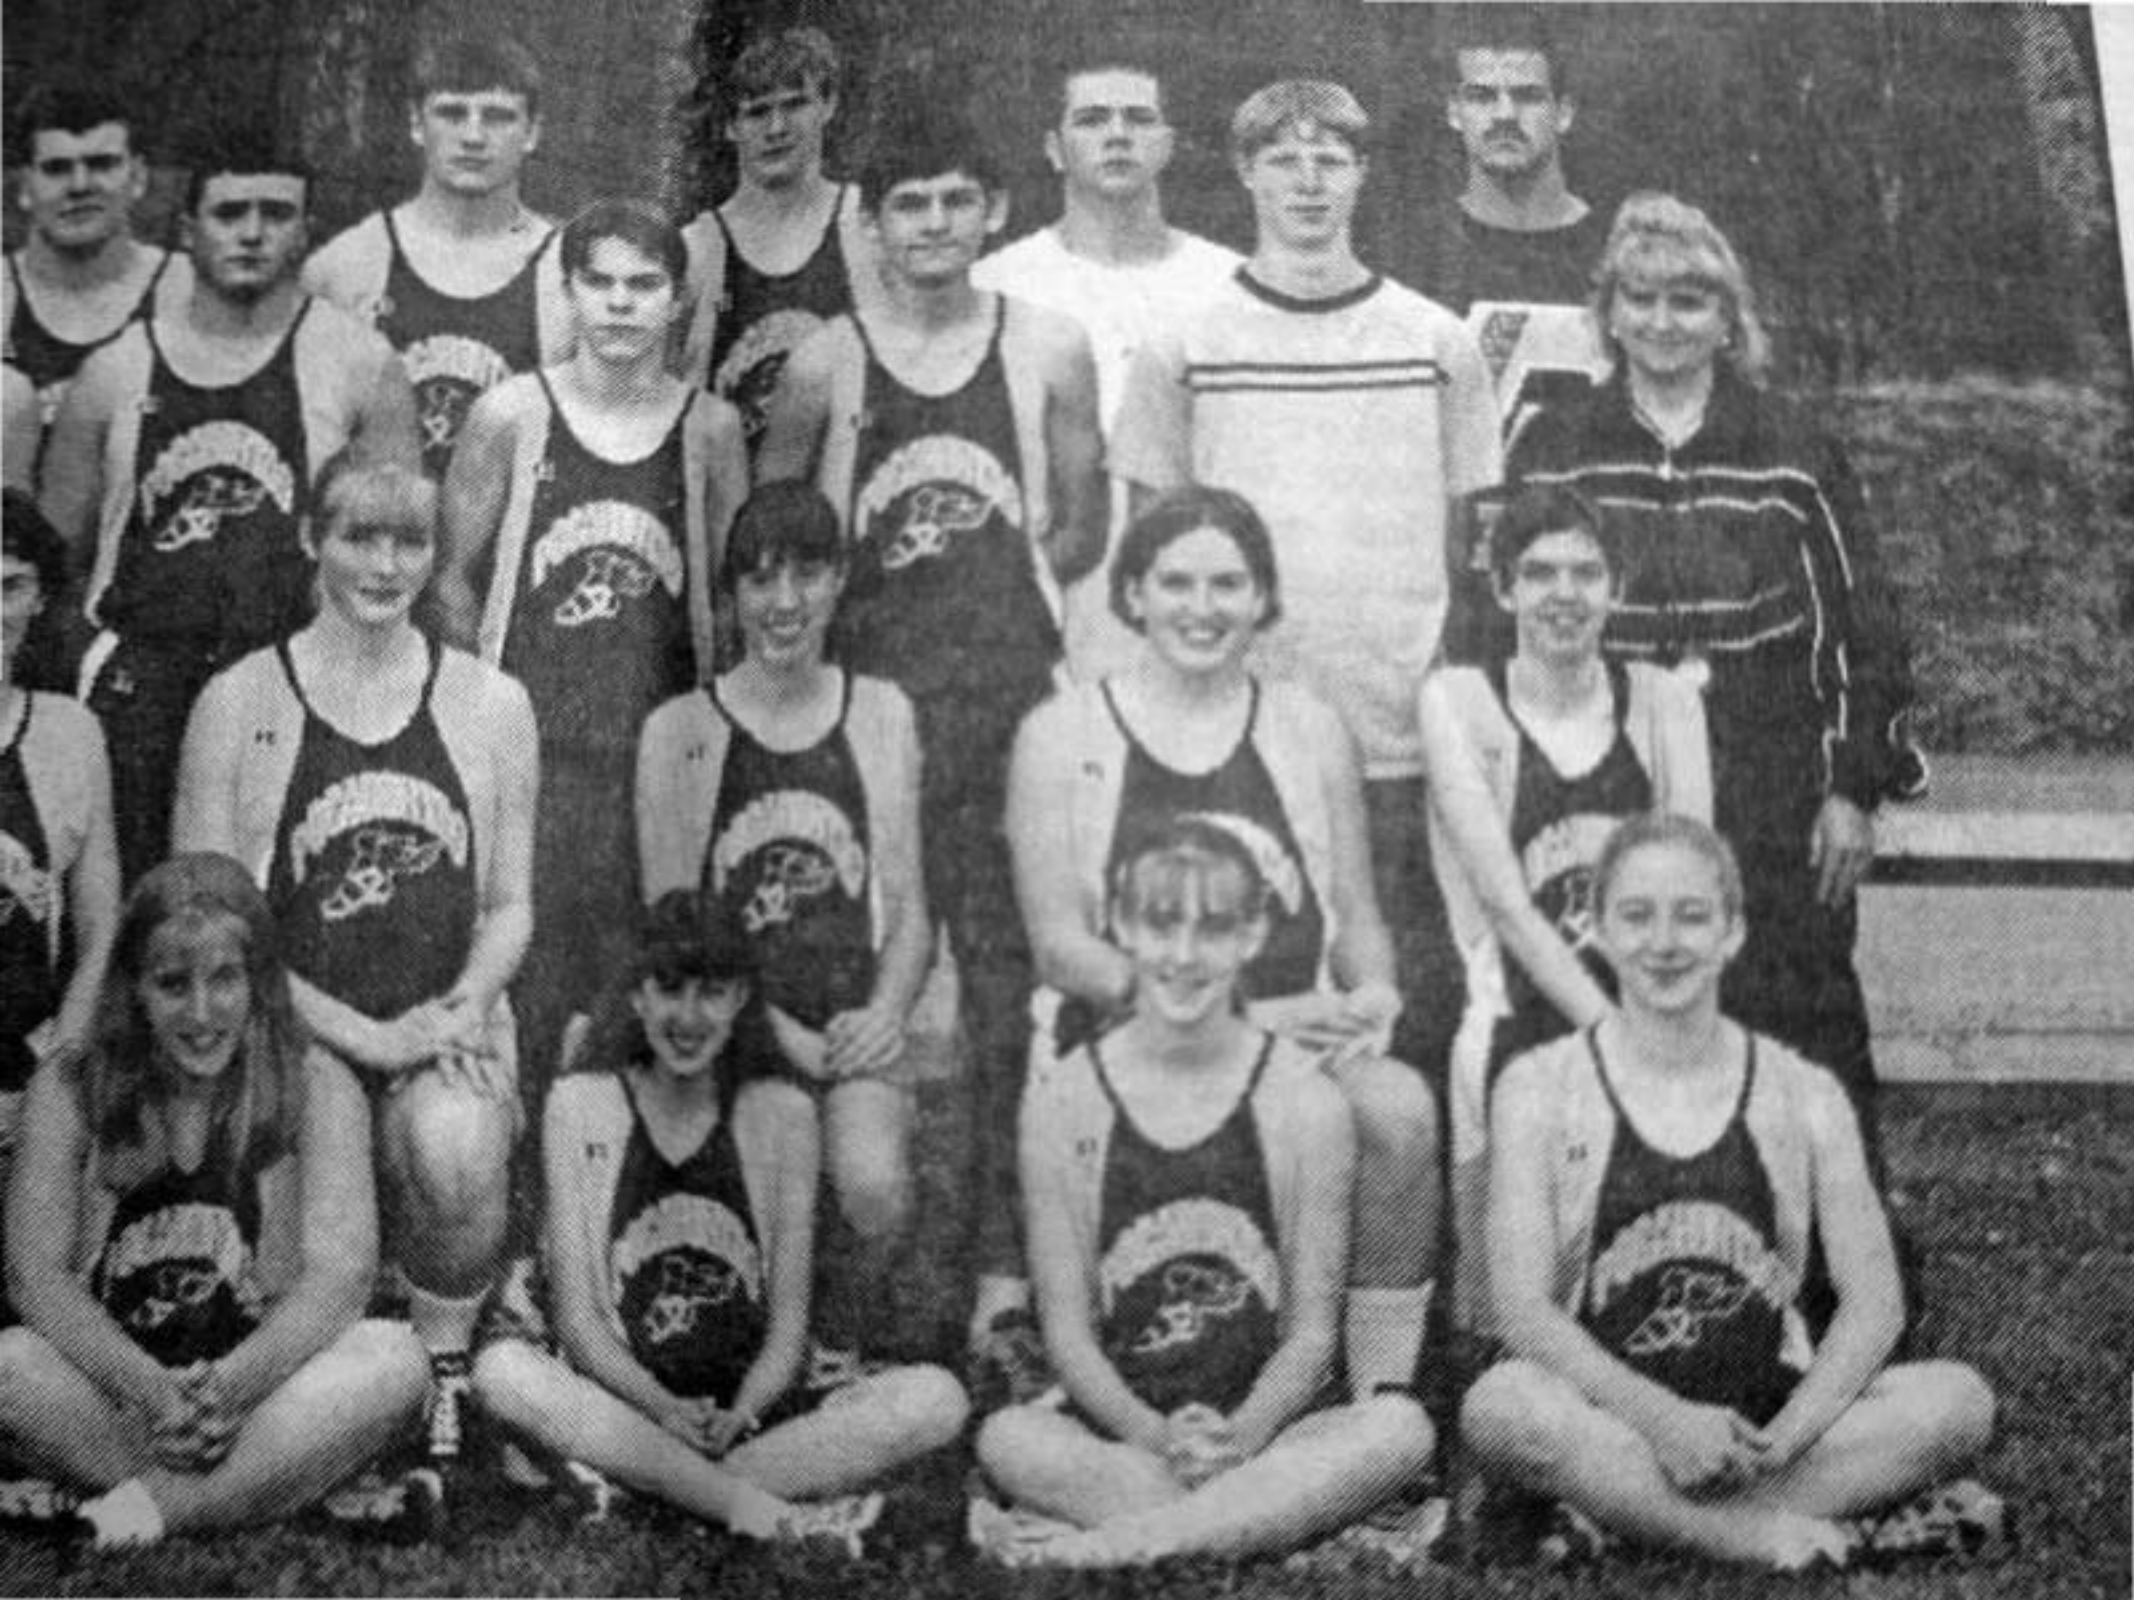
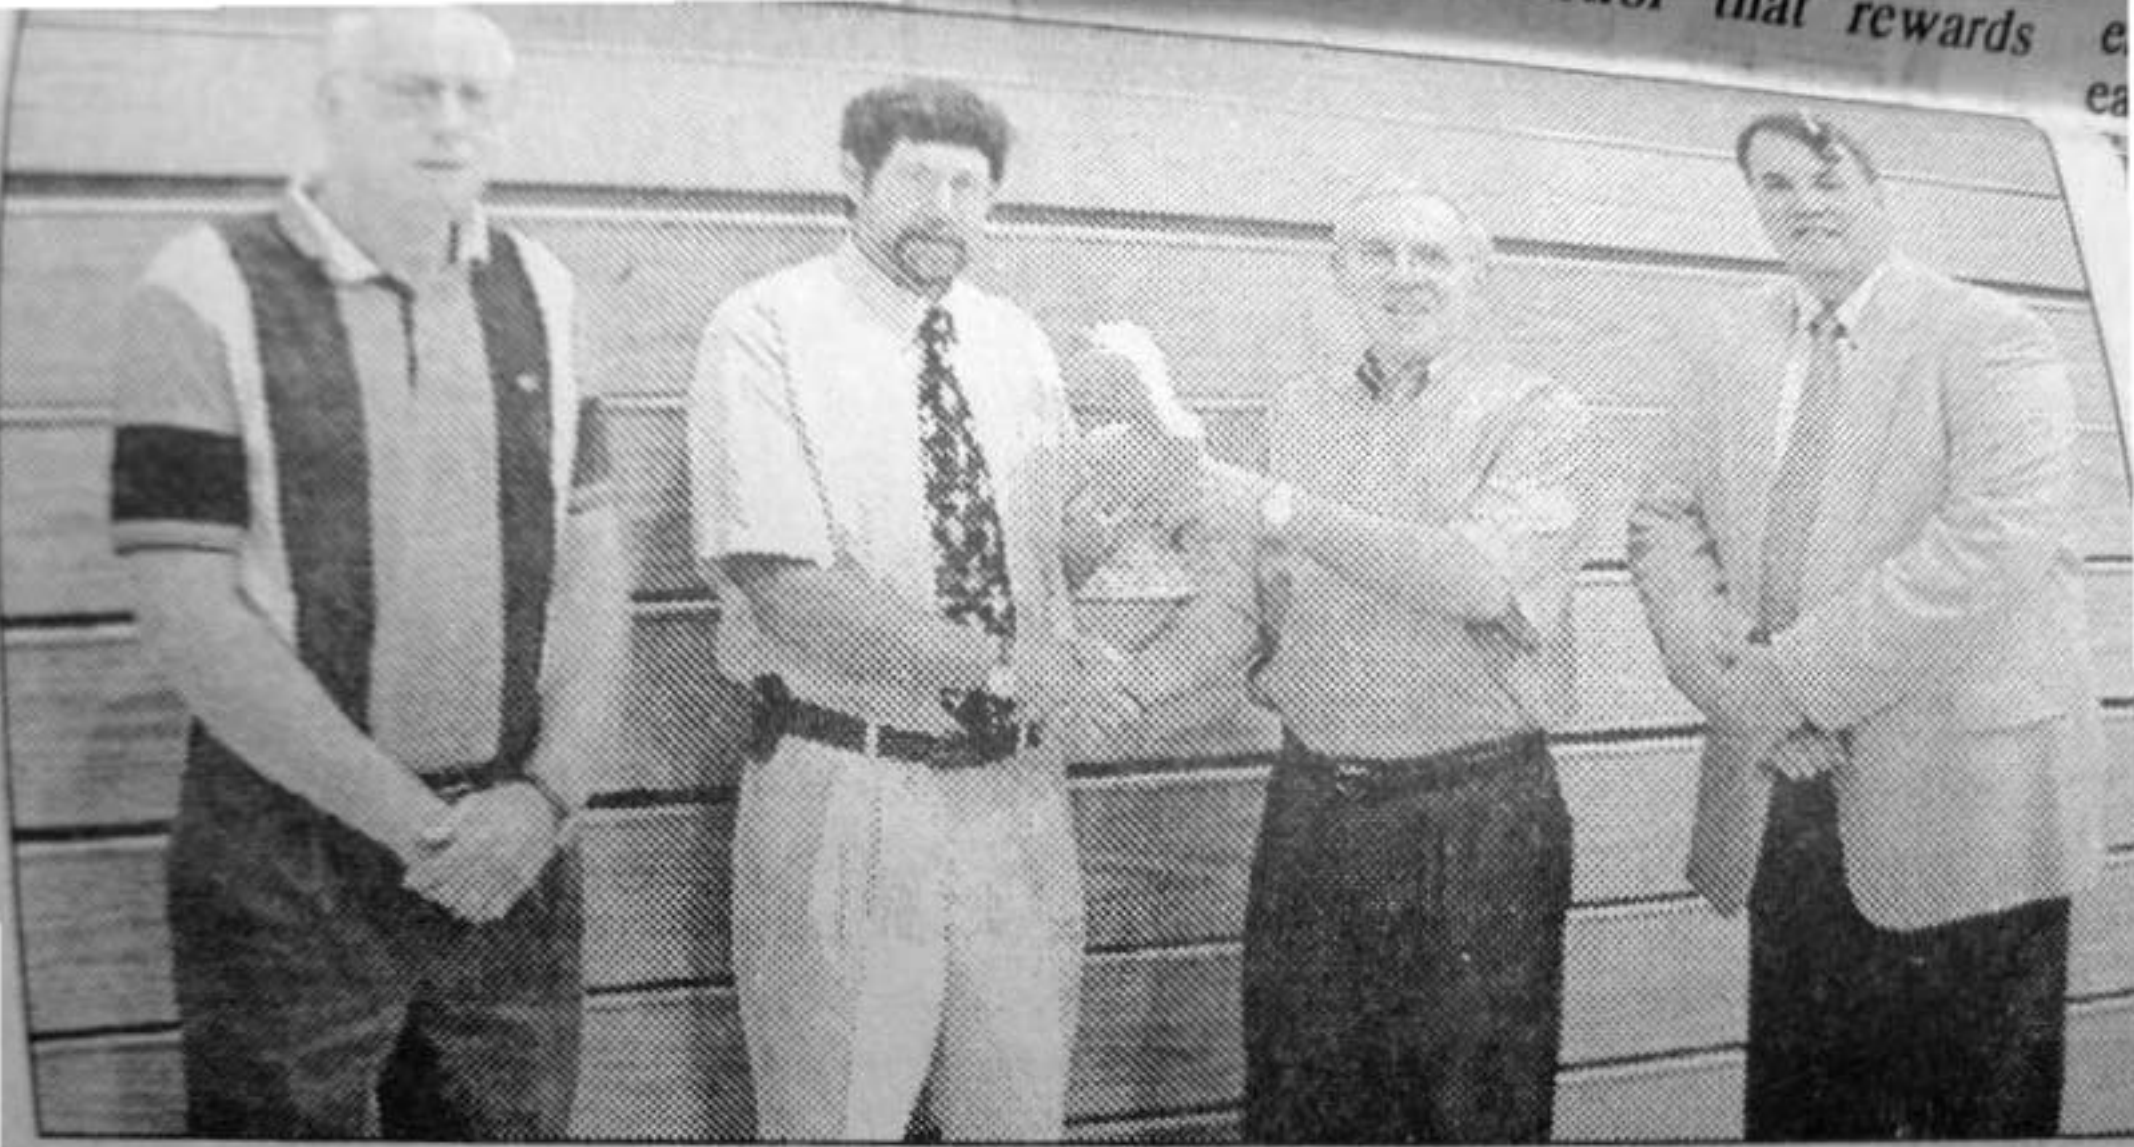
WARRIORS







GREEN BANK SCHOOL Principal Charles Young, second from left, accepts the eagle sculpture from Board of Education member Bruce McKean. Board member Kenneth Vance is at the left and Superintendent James Phares, right.

Employee of the Quarter

Pocahontas County Senior Center recognizes an employee each quarter who goes above and beyond their duties to provide for the Seniors of our County.

Sarah McComb has been selected as the employee for April, May and June. Sarah has worked on the Personal Care Program since its beginning in 1992 when Mabel Galford was the Director.

Sarah currently cares for two clients on the Beaver Creek Road, and also works on our new Medicaid Waiver Program.

Sarah lives in Hillsboro with her husband, James. She is also employed by Watoga State Park where she is a housekeeper.

Vicki Durian

Nancy Santomero

Nine man, 3 woman jury will decide Beard fate

The second trial of the man accused of the 20-year-old Rainbow Murders began Tuesday in Sutton, Braxton County. By the end of the first day a jury made up of nine men and three women had been seated for the trial.

Jurors underwent several hours of voir dire interviews, including individual voir dire interviews, before a jury was seated after after 6 p.m. Only a few members of the jury pool remained when the jury was completed.

The trial will get underway on Wednesday.

Jacob Wilson Beard, 54, was convicted in 1993 of the 1980 slayings of Nancy Santomero of Huntington Long Island NY and Vicki Durian of Wellman IA.

The women were traveling to an annual Rainbow Family Gathering held that year on the Monongahela National Forest. Their bodies were found on Briery Knob, a remote section of southern Pocahontas County. Santomero, 19, and Durian, 26, were shot to death at close range by a high-powered weapon.

Beard was sentenced to two concurrent life sentences for the killings, but was freed in 1999 after a circuit judge set aside the conviction based on the affidavit of one of Beard's co-defendants and the confession of a white supremacist serial killer.

That serial killer, Joseph Paul Franklin, awaits death by lethal injection in Missouri. The mid-western state would not allow Franklin to be brought to West Virginia to testify, nor would it allow him to be transported to St. Louis to be deposed by video-conference.

Franklin has been convicted of the murder of a man outside a synagogue in Missouri and two black youths in Cincinnati, OH. Franklin has said he killed the women because one of them admitted she had dated a black man.

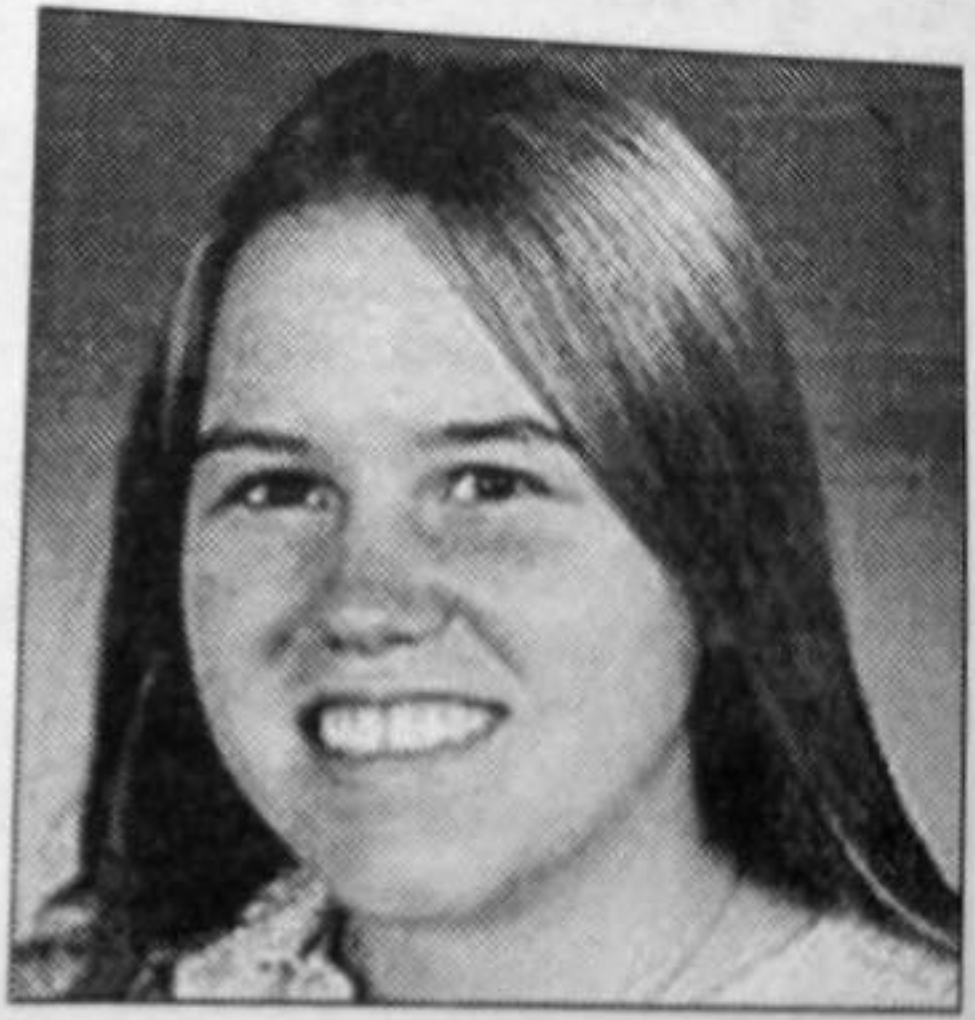
The trial was moved to Braxton County from Greenbrier County because of publicity. The 1993 trial was transferred from Pocahontas County because of public sentiment.

Beard has maintained his innocence in the 20-year-old case and has been free on $150,000 bond.

Buzzard will not take BOE

Appalachian Area Agency on Aging

Vicki Durian



Nancy Santomero

Nine man, 3 woman jury will decide Beard fate

54 66

year.
24954 tax) 5

Editor

Denmar escapees captured in Maine

Early Saturday morning two inmates at the Denmar Correctional Center escaped from the prison, but their freedom was short lived. About 24 hours later they were arrested in Windham, Maine.

According to State Police, Jeremy Brisendine and Sidney G. Owens, both 21, left their room at the prison between 2:30 and 4:20 am. To scale the fence around the facility, they used blankets to cover the barbed wire at the top.

The absence of the two from the prison was found during one of the sight bedchecks that are made during the night. How they got out of the prison building is still under investigation, according to Denmar Warden Mark Williamson.

Brisendine and Owens are believed to have broken into the Richard Hill residence, across from the prison, and located the keys to a 1998 Dodge truck. The truck was located in Maine by Windham Police following the arrest of the escapees.

Early Sunday morning information was obtained that enabled officials to learn the two were in a motel in Maine. The break came when the clerk at the motel required a phone call to be made to obtain some type of identification before he would rent the room.

Windham Police Department officers entered the motel room around 5:15 a.m. and arrested the two without incident.

On Tuesday the two men remain in Maine. Extradition proceedings are underway.

Brisendine, from Kanawha County, is serving a 1 - 15 year sentence for nightime burglary. Owens is from Wood County and has an 18 year sentence for aggravated robbery with the use of a firearm.

Warden Williamson said that both men had been in other units in the state prison system before being sent to Denmar. He noted that one was only six months away from seeking parole and the other about a year.

The Warden said that the prison will be reviewing policies in light of the escape and make any changes that are needed.

The investigating officer is Trooper W. A. Pendleton. He was assisted by other members of the Marlinton Detachment of the State Police, the Pocahontas County Sheriff's Department, Denmar Correctional Center officers, and Huttonsville Correctional officers and K-9 unit.

—

William Crigger is watchman on the fire tower at White Rocks on the Beaver Lick. This is his 23rd year of service there. It is rattlesnake country, and Mr. Crigger keeps his weather eye trained for rattlers. Particularly so in the spring fire season for to see and to report when rattlesnakes first come out of their winter dens in the rocks. Each season for twenty-three years he has seen and killed his rattlers. He has never seen them come forth earlier than May 4, nor later than May 7. This year it was the latter date, when two big black rattlers came out in the sun from under rocks.

Congratulations voters of Pocahontas County for voting "No" on the School Excess Levy & voting "No" on excessive waste in our school system.

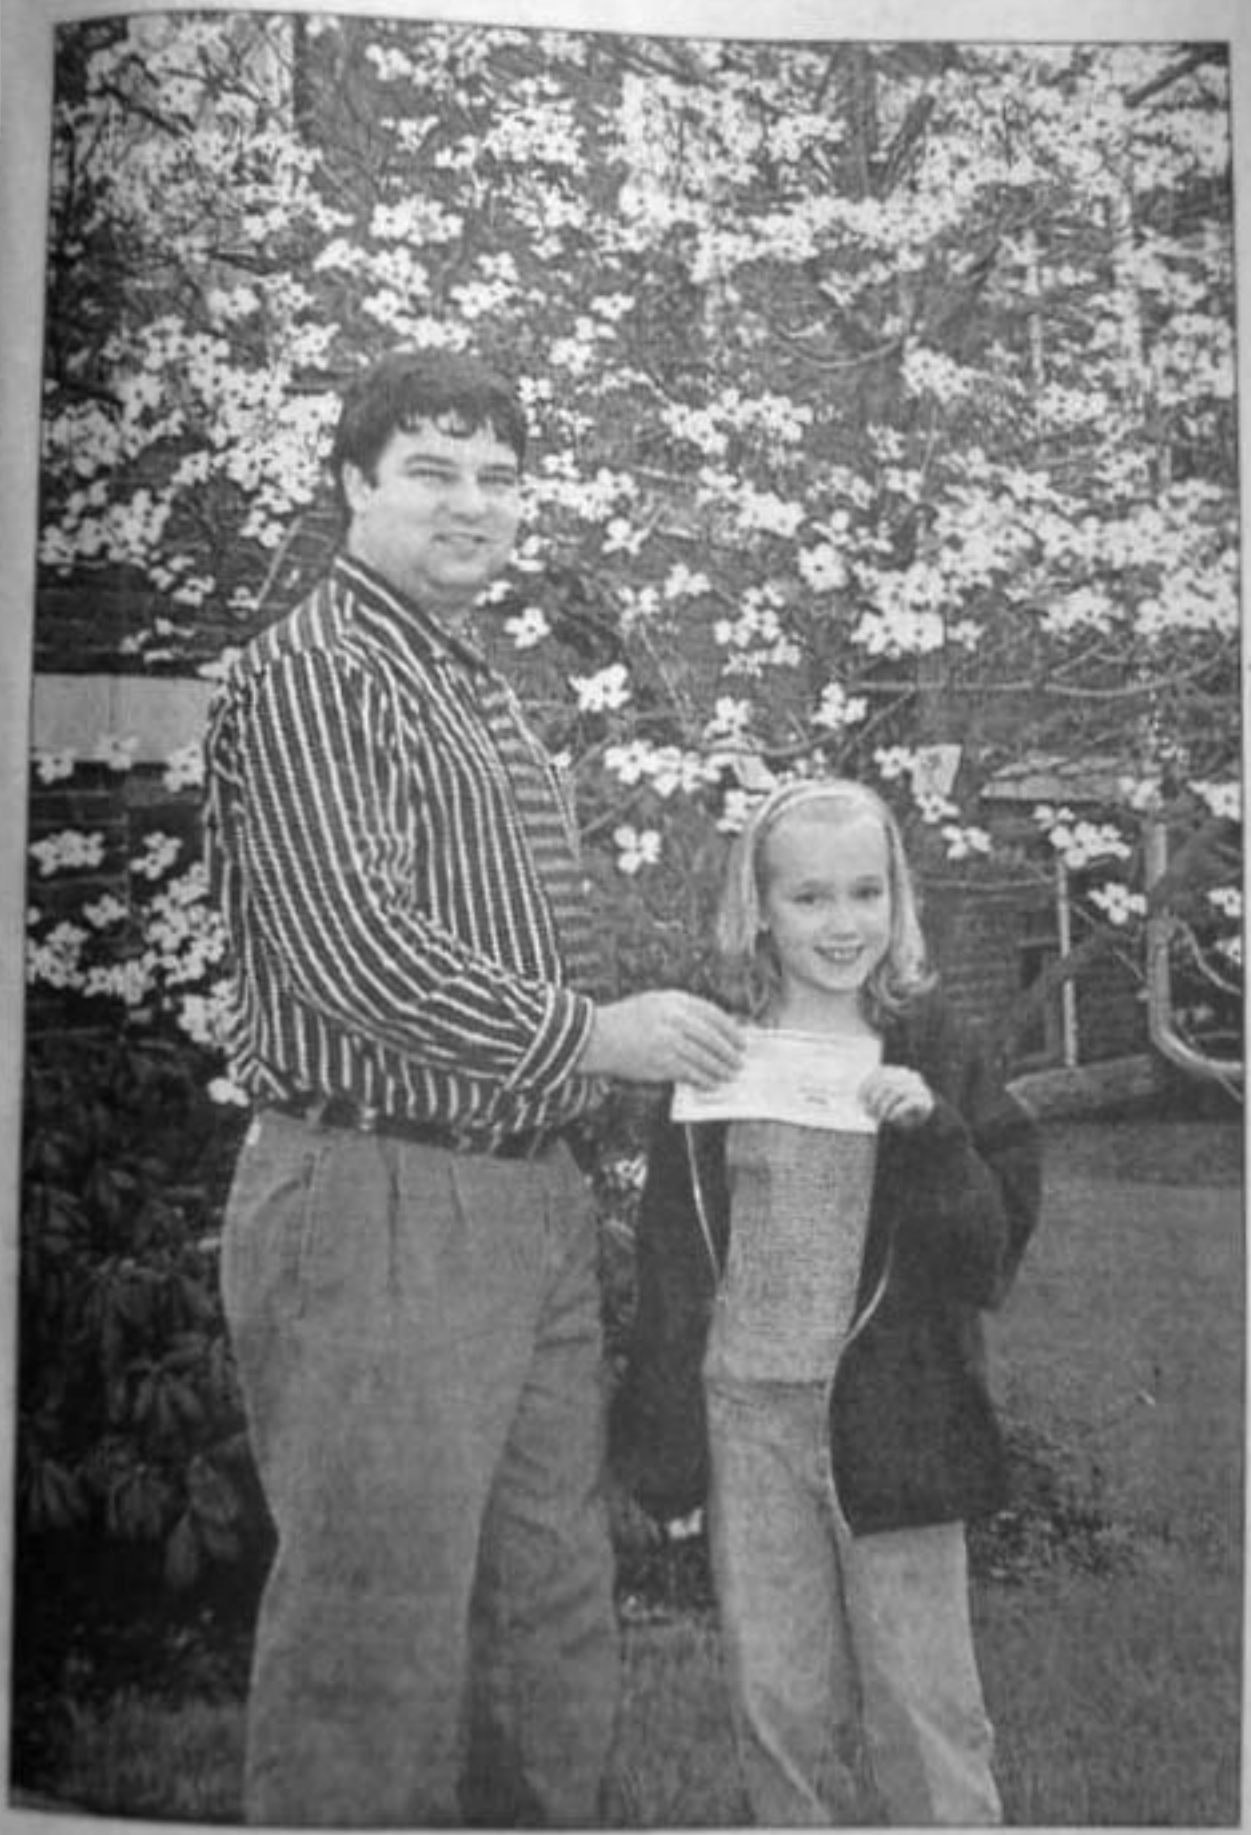
Don't be shamed by P.E.P. & W.P.M. You didn't vote against education, you voted against a bloated, incompetent, mismanaged system. Any one in the real world knows, large maintenance items have to be factored into the budget over a period of years. Evidently this wasn't being done over the last thirty years, now you expect the tax payers to bail you out. The tax payers spoke loud & clear May 9.

W.P.M. in his itemized cost of renovation shows a roof replacement cost at 2.28 million dollars. One of the numerous bomb threats must be factored into this cost.

I will take guidance from the Farm Bureau anytime over P.E.P. & W.P.M. This county is supported by property owners & not a newspaper.

Lyle Tallman

Eggstra Lucky!



POCAHONTAS COMMUNITY CLUB president Doug Friel presents a $500 check to nine-year-old Vanessa Malcomb, winner of the Great Easter Egg Race.

was completed. [illegible] of the work.

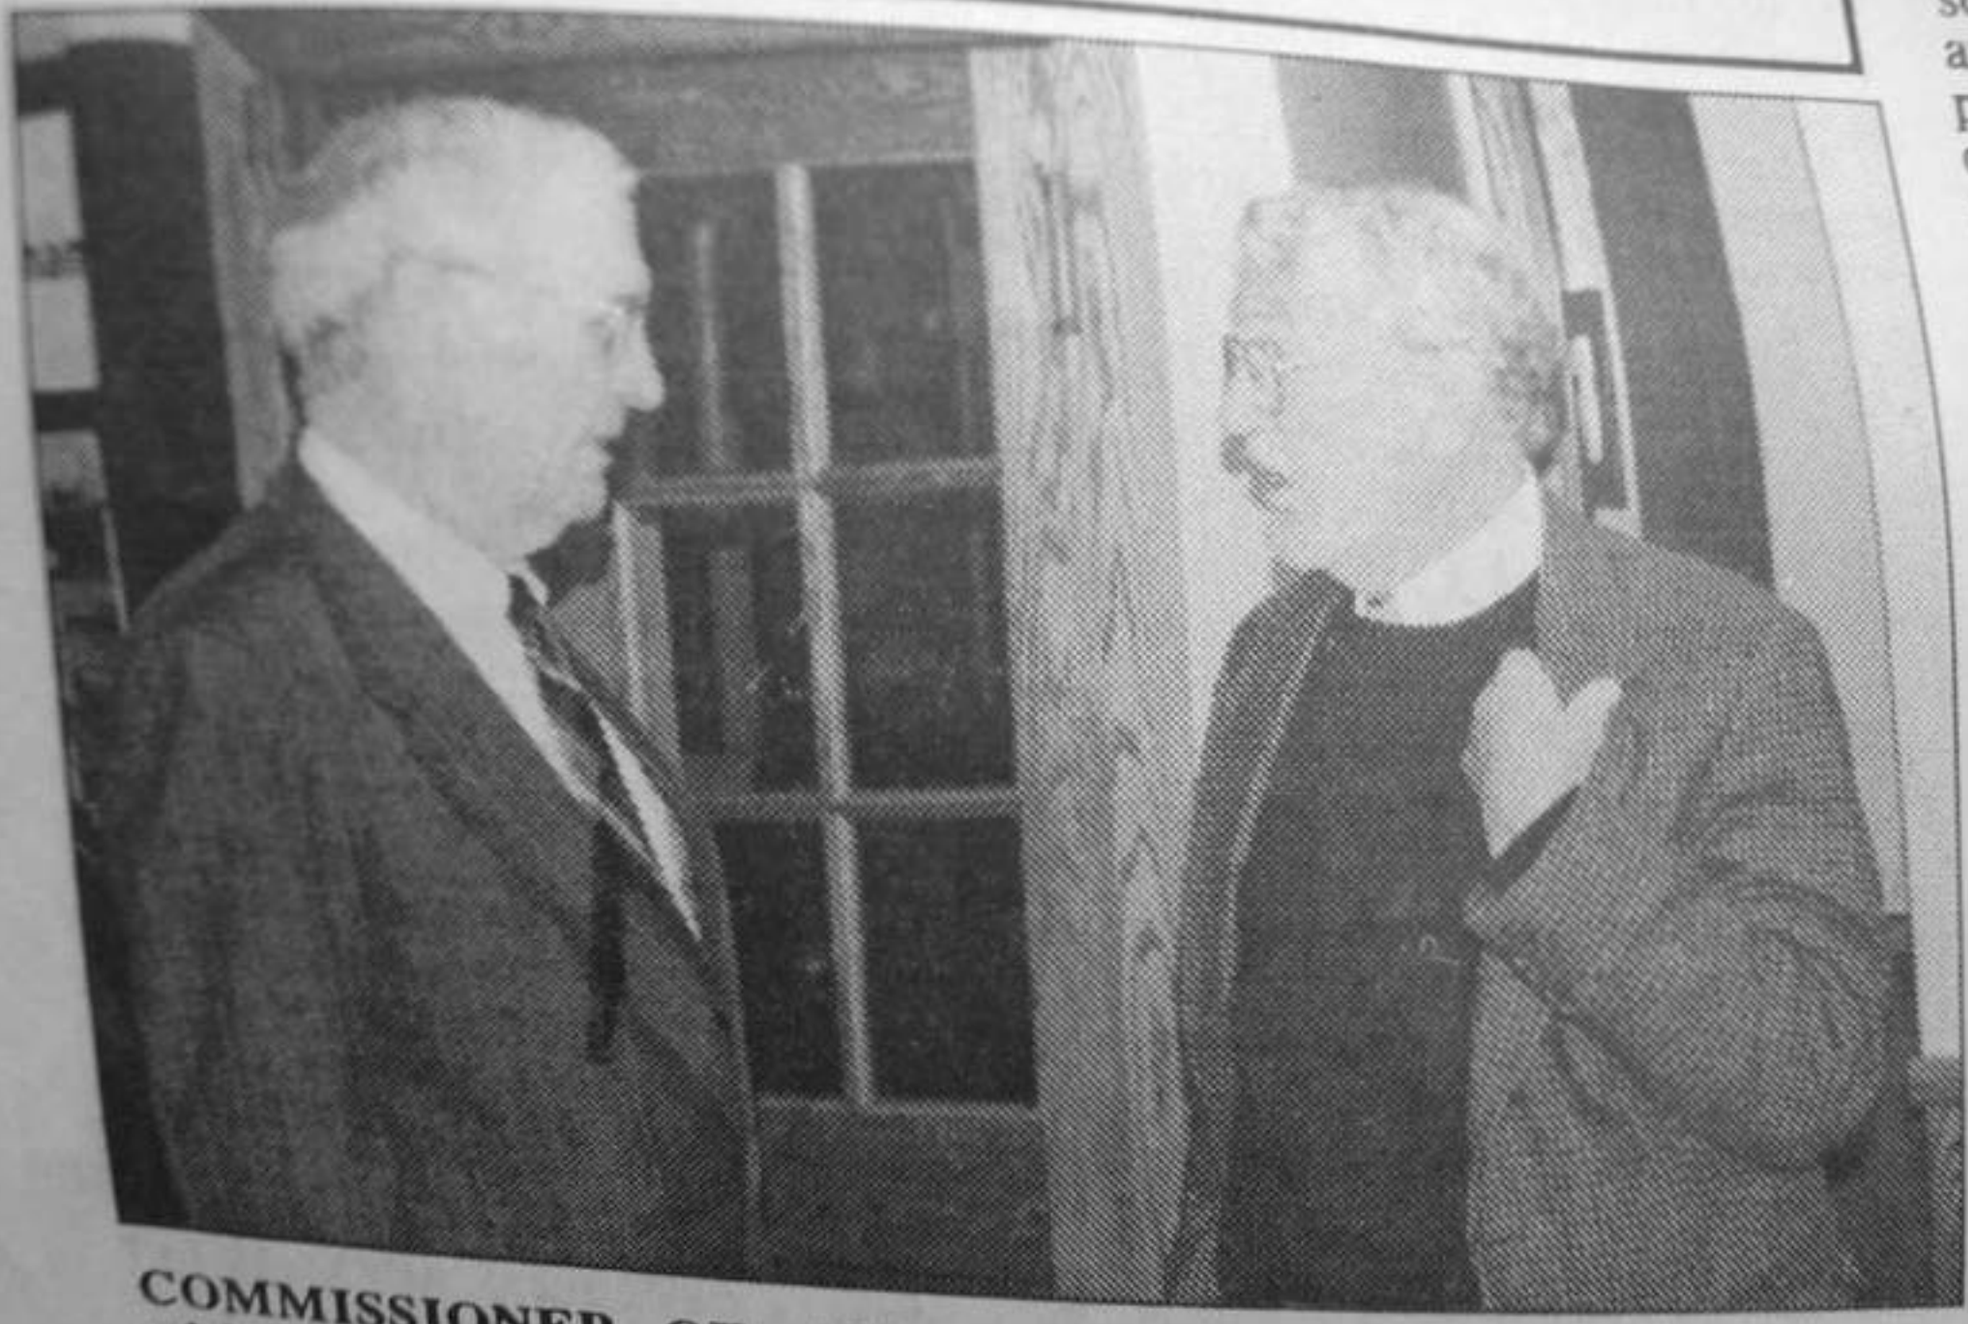
JOEL CALLISON

CINDY SCHIFFER

DON FLEGEL



COMMISSIONER OF AGRICULTURE Gus Douglass chats with Greenbrier Valley Soil Conservation District member Neil Kellison.

Pocahontas County Soil Survey presented to the Murder trial moved to Greenbrier County

The trial of a man indicted for the murder of his live-in companion and business partner will be held in neighboring Greenbrier County, a Circuit Judge ruled Tuesday.

Chief Judge Frank Jolliffe determined that Roger Paul Gelis could not get a fair trial in Pocahontas County based on public sentiment.

Gelis, 54, is accused of killing Melba Hickson Fitzgerald, 41. Fitzgerald's nude, decapitated body was found in a hand-dug well in September.

Jolliffe came to his decision based on the testimony of individuals who live throughout the county, some of whom testified that a fair an impartial jury could not be impaneled in Pocahontas County, and one of whom said he had formed an opinion he could not set aside.

"I would be hard-pressed to do that," said Kenneth Ervine, of Marlinton. Ervine did not reveal what his opinion was.

Gibbs Kinderman, of Mill Point, Alfred Ervine, of Green Bank, Lawrence Workman, of Hillsboro and Ervine all testified they believed public sentiment, while perhaps more intensely negative toward Gelis in the northern part of Pocahontas County, was still adverse in other areas.

"Some people don't have a real high opinion of him," Kinderman said. "Only a small number of people think he's innocent."

On the other hand, Irene Burks, of Hillsboro, Wanda Hedrick, Reid Mitchell, and Phillip Cain, all of Marlinton, and Jaynell Tibbs, of Buckeye, all testified they believed knowledge of Gelis was minor enough in areas other than northern Pocahontas County that a jury could be seated to hear Gelis' case.

"I believe people in Pocahontas County are honest, fair people," Cain said.

"It was a newsworthy event and a big topic of conversation at the time,' Mitchell stated. "But not much since."

The defense's private investigator, Charles Camper, testified that 100 people responded to a survey with 13 favorable opinions to Gelis, 78 unfavorable and nine stating no opinion.

According to Prosecuting Attorney Walt Weiford, Camper said he excluded certain areas of the county in the survey.

Prosecution witness Kevin White, a Pocahontas County Sheriff's Department Correctional Officer, testified that he recently overheard Camper discussing the case in a local convenience store.

White said Camper was at the counter telling the clerk about Fitzgerald's autopsy report.

"He said the autopsy report said 'massive head wound' and kind of laughed," White testified. "He said, 'I'm trying to get an autopsy report out of these people.'"

Camper characterized Medical Examiner Jack Frost as "an idiot," the correctional officer said.

White would not speculate on Camper's meaning in the statements.

Defense attorney Eugene Simmons objected to White's testimony, but Jolliffe allowed it.

"I'll allow it," Jolliffe said. "If the defendant has created unfavorable sentiment, the defendant can't take advantage of it."

White said three other people were in the store at the time.

Jolliffe said it was a "close question."

"The defense has fallen short of maintaining its burden," the judge said. "(But) I quite frankly wonder if we can get a jury, especially after it's written up today. It will be all over everything again."

The judge noted that during the survey, the defense did not determine whether or not it was speaking to potential jurors. "We may have had more damage done by this scientific survey," Jolliffe noted.

"The basic standards of have not been met (with the survey," the judge said. "there is no random determination. You eliminated a telephone exchange and segments of the community.

"There were six questions asked, but no individual record kept. This is not a scientific pool, this one doesn't even come close."

While Jolliffe berated the defense's methods, he praised Prosecuting Attorney Walt Weiford for his efforts in keeping the hearing a fair one.

"I applaude the prosecutor for his efforts," Jolliffe said. "The State did what the State is supposed to do. He brought in individuals from various parts of the county without seeking opinions.

"The only thing is, he lives and dies with the evidence that was received."

The judge said it was likely that an attempt to seat a jury in Pocahontas County would fail, thus, the county would have to bear the expense.

"While I have a great deal of confidence in the people of Pocahontas County, once they have made up their mind, they have made up their mind," Jolliffe said.

Gelis will face a Greenbrier County jury on July 18.

He remains in the Southern Regional Jail without bond.

NORMAN ALDERMAN

CANDIDATE FOR COUNTY COMMISSION

STATEMENT OF PRINCIPLES

√I am opposed to zoning. I do not believe that you have to force the citizens in Pocahontas County to use their property responsibly.

√I believe in a diversified economy. This county can't survive on tourism alone. We must broaden our employment base by recruiting a wider range of business and industry.

√Public funds should not be used to finance private business. Public property can be leased for business and industrial use, but the lease should be at fair market value.

√Public property should be disposed of by public auction not private sale.

√It is time to stop studying the problems in Pocahontas County and start solving them.

√It is time to lower the levy rate. A 10-20% increase in your local taxes is coming next year. Your county commissioners have the final say. Tell them to lower the rate to reduce your taxes.

√ Local government should be run by good business principles. Constant budget overruns take away from other areas of government service.

√It is better to stand up for the right even if you stand alone. Silence is not golden; it is plain undemocratic. A government in which all the officials agree all the time is a sick government.

√The public has a right to know how its elected officials operate. We must minimize the use of the executive session because it hides the workings of government behind a shroud of secrecy.

√I believe in holding government officials accountable for their actions. All public bodies must be required to maintain full and complete records.

√I believe in government participation by all the citizens, not just a few. Government should be of the people, by the people and for the people, not of the few, by the few and for the few.

√ Public officials must act in the interests of the public, not their own private business interests.

NORMAN ALDERMAN

CANDIDATE FOR COUNTY COMMISSION

STATEMENT OF PRINCIPLES

√I am opposed to zoning. I do not believe that you have to force the citizens in Pocahontas County to use their property responsibly.

√I believe in a diversified economy. This county can't survive on tourism alone. We must broaden our employment base by recruiting a wider range of business and industry.

√Public funds should not be used to finance private business. Public property can be leased for business and industrial use, but the lease should be at fair market value.

√Public property should be disposed of by public auction not private sale.

√It is time to stop studying the problems in Pocahontas County and start solving them.

√It is time to lower the levy rate. A 10-20% increase in your local taxes is coming next year. Your county commissioners have the final say. Tell them to lower the rate to reduce your taxes.

√ Local government should be run by good business principles. Constant budget overruns take away from other areas of government service.

√It is better to stand up for the right even if you stand alone. Silence is not golden; it is plain undemocratic. A government in which all the officials agree all the time is a sick government.

√The public has a right to know how its elected officials operate. We must minimize the use of the executive session because it hides the workings of government behind a shroud of secrecy.

√I believe in holding government officials accountable for their actions. All public bodies must be required to maintain full and complete records.

√I believe in government participation by all the citizens, not just a few. Government should be "of the people, by the people and for the people, not of the few, by the few and for the few.

√ Public officials must act in the interests of the public, not their own private business interests. No one should be appointed to any county board who owns a company over which that board has influence, voice or control.

Political advertisement paid for by

COUNTY TICKET

FOR COUNTY COMMISSIONER

(Vote For ONE)

Not more than one resident of any magisterial district may be elected

- C. C. BECK
  Marlinton — Southern Dist.

- NORMAN LEE ALDERMAN
  Marlinton — Southern Dist.

I, C. C. Beck, am a Republican candidate for County Commissioner. Jan and I live on Beaver Creek. I have four sons and a daughter. We are members of the First Baptist Church of Huntersville.

After high school, I served with the U. S. Marines, later with the WV State Police from which I retired. I then worked at construction previous to working seven and one-third years for Sheriff Jerry Dale. Later, I was elected sheriff. I chose not to seek a second term.

I am not going to make any promises; however, having served as sheriff, I pretty much know what is needed by the other offices, as well as requests outside the courthouse and can go from there.

I know I can work with the other commissioners as one of three votes. I never was a rubber stamp.

I feel the budget needs to be looked at closely. Without proper handling, our taxes are going up. Tourism is the backbone of our county but we also need to look at ways to establish better paying jobs. Our young people are leaving our county seeking employment which will provide some financial security. The young people are truly the backbone of the county. As a trooper, serving as sheriff and in the construction field, I have gained valuable working experience with reference to budgets. I am, at this time, involved with a significant addition to our church.

During my term as sheriff, the tax department was audited 11 times. Each of which were found to be in compliance. In fact, the auditor stated that his job would be a lot easier if all counties' records were kept as good as ours. I attribute this to the staff who were as good or even better than any tax department staff in the state. The results of these audits are on file.

As for the Hotel/Motel Tax—it was not in the thousands of dollars, but in the hundreds. It was not one of the big money hotels. The tax bill was turned over to the prosecuting attorney for collection. Mr. Dale should stay in the county long enough to do his research.

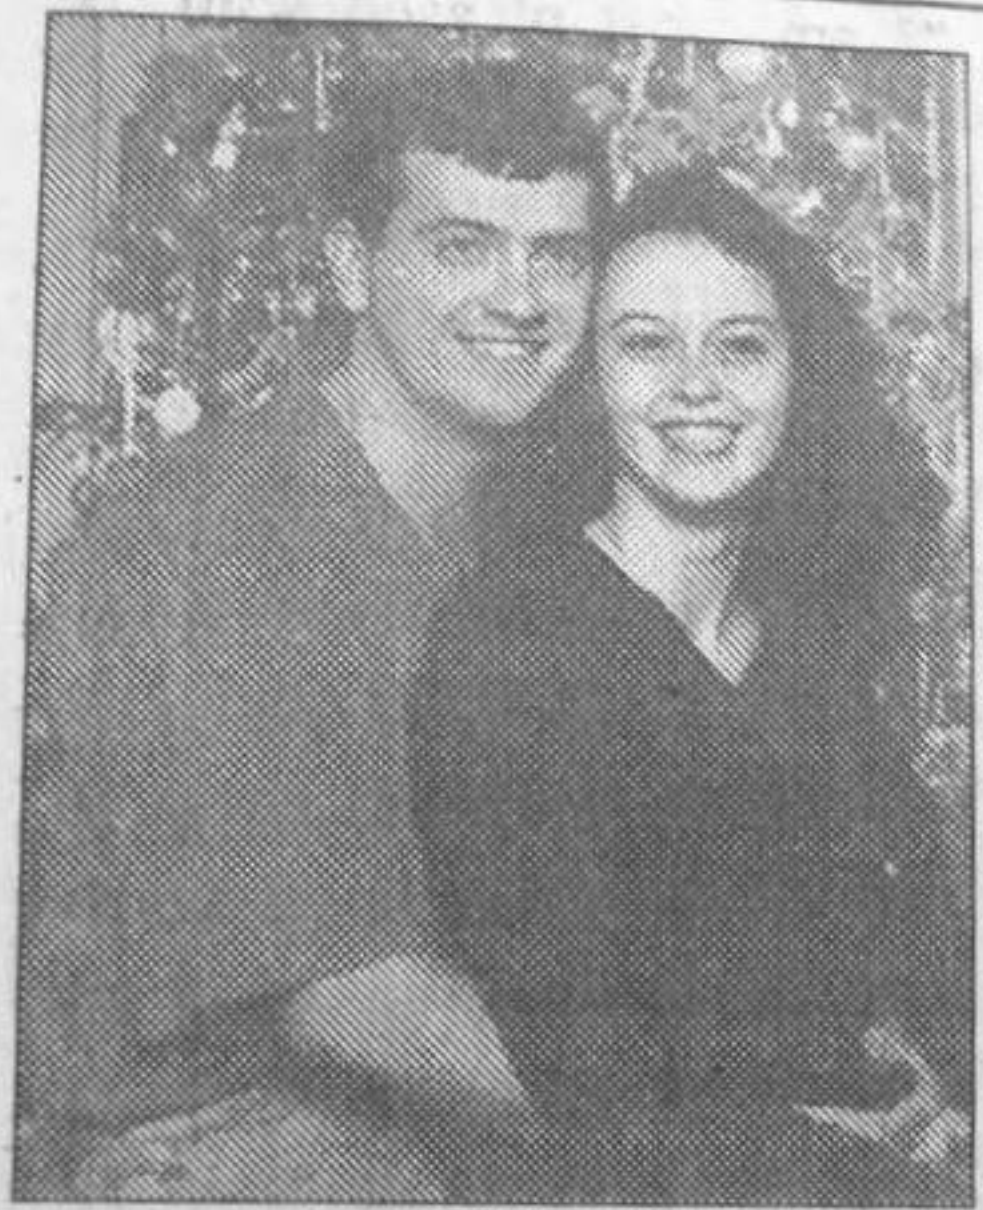
Whether you know me as a trooper, as sheriff, or working together on a construction project, I think you will agree that I am easy to get along with and work with. I will be fair to all. I will serve as a full-time commissioner as I have no other interests.

I am asking for your friendship and support in this endeavor. If you have any questions, feel free to call me at 799-4682.

God bless,
C. C. Beck

Political Advertisement, Paid for by Candidate

Engagement



Roy - Ray

John and Debra Roy, of Marlinton, wish to announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Susan Lynn, to Jason Michael Ray. Jason is the son of James and Kathy Ray, of Arbovale.

Letters to the Editor

continue. But to take a risk and, thereby, possibly cheat the children of Pocahontas County out of the more essential academic subjects they must have, I feel, is far too risky.

Bill Leary
Torrington, Wyoming

Dear Editor:

In last week's School Talk column, Mr. Kinderman asked the citizens of Pocahontas County to "rid our schools of Ritalin." As appealing as the idea sounded I would have to respond with "not yet."

Ritalin is definitely a problem medicine, but there is a positive side to it that the article neglected.

Mr. Kinderman's argument relied heavily on the views of Dr. Peter Breggin. Breggin has voiced some valid criticisms of our society's handling of children with behavior disorders, but he has failed to note the difference between Behavior Disorder (BD) and Attention-Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD).

Not all children with ADHD have bad behavior and not all children with bad behavior have ADHD. The problem is, a lot of kids have both and it's not easy to sort it all out.

The core problem in ADHD is the inability to maintain focus. This leads to restlessness and often on to disruptive behavior. With some training, such a child can learn to stay put, but he still day-dreams. Numerous studies (placebo controlled and double-blinded) have demonstrated that Ritalin makes a significant difference in helping such a child to focus, and there are numerous examples of marked improvement in academic performances as a result of Ritalin. But the Ritalin was not given for the plan that involves parents, teachers, counselors and community. Our local mental health professionals are to be commended for their daily efforts to that end.

Dr. Breggin is right. As a society we need to do much more.

Bob Must, DO
Hillsboro

Dear Editor,

I was greatly appalled to read Gibbs Kinderman's article in last week's paper that portrayed Pocahontas County School teachers as "Drug pushers that prey on fatherless children" and his portrayal of children being treated for ADHD/ ADD as "addicts" ("School Talk" 1-6-2000). Gibbs needs to become better educated on the subject of ADHD/ ADD, its treatment, and medical protocol, and avoid allowing himself to be educated by sensationalism, mass media, narrow minded individuals, and gossip.

To begin with, in Pocahontas County, and anywhere else in the United States, medication is only prescribed by licensed physicians. Teachers do not prescribe medications nor do they direct physicians to prescribe medications. In most cases, the contact between physician and teacher is minimal or nonexistent. If any change needs to be made it should be to increase the level of interaction between physician and teacher so that the physician can become better informed of the illness they are treating.

The "American Journal of Psychiatry" (10-98) states that: "Ritalin is unlikely to become addictive when taken orally. Methylphenidate (Ritalin) does not reach peak concentrations in the brain until 60 minutes after (oral) ingestion, compared with five minutes for co-

have bad behavior and not all children with bad behavior have ADHD. The problem is, a lot of kids have both and it's not easy to sort it all out.

The core problem in ADHD is the inability to maintain focus. This leads to restlessness and often on to disruptive behavior. With some training, such a child can learn to stay put, but he still day-dreams. Numerous studies (placebo controlled and double-blinded) have demonstrated that Ritalin makes a significant difference in helping such a child to focus, and there are numerous examples of marked improvement in academic performances as a result of Ritalin. But the Ritalin was not given for the behavior, it was given for the lack of focus. Other studies have shown that using behavioral techniques alone to improve focus did not work as well as using Ritalin in addition to behavioral techniques.

Unfortunately, the studies that show the positive effects of Ritalin (in ADHD) have mostly been short term studies. The long term benefits are not so clear yet. Debate is ongoing about whether long-term use of Ritalin actually decreases the risk of later drug abuse.

I also take issue with Dr. Breggin's statement that most ADHD is due to lack of attention from fathers. That certainly can be said for Behavior Disorder but not necessarily for ADHD. I have personal experience with families in which Dad was very closely and appropriately involved with the child (Mom, too) but the ADHD was none-the-less there.

Dr. Breggin stated that "we abuse our children with drugs rather than making the effort to find better ways to meet their needs." Actually, there's a big difference between the dose that's used for treating ADHD and the dose that's used in abuse. Compare 40 mg. with 500 mg.

ADHD is a real problem. There is no doubt that it is over-diagnosed and that inappropriate prescriptions for Ritalin are written. But I believe there is still a place for the judicious, well-controlled usage of Ritalin.

Teachers do not prescribe medications nor do they direct physicians to prescribe medications. In most cases, the contact between physician and teacher is minimal or non-existent. If any change needs to be made it should be to increase the level of interaction between physician and teacher so that the physician can become better informed of the illness they are treating.

The "American Journal of Psychiatry" (10-98) states that: "Ritalin is unlikely to become addictive when taken orally. Methylphenidate (Ritalin) does not reach peak concentrations in the brain until 60 minutes after (oral) ingestion, compared with five minutes for cocaine and nine minutes for methylphenidate taken intravenously. The slow intake of oral doses of methylphenidate into the brain protects against the drug's addiction." In addition, physicians will never prescribe Ritalin and suggest that the patient "take as much as you want—until you feel good." It is always prescribed in regulated doses, that, if taken as prescribed, avoids any addiction. Gibb's portrayal of children being treated for ADHD/ ADD as "drug addicts" is a farce.

The "Journal of the American Medical Association" (4-7-98) reports that "the over diagnosis of ADHD/ ADD and overprescription of stimulants are exaggerated." They further state that "...3-6 % of school age children have ADHD/

HUCKLEBERRY'S

Huckleberry's Steak & Trout House

Huckleberry's will now be open on Sunday's from 4 p.m. - 9 p.m. starting January 18

Fri. - Sat.
Jan. 14 & 15
D.J.
No cover charge Music by:
Huey

ADD. The percentage of U.S. youth being treated for ADHD/ ADD is, at most, at the lower end of this scale." The American Medical Association Council on Scientific Affairs concluded that "...there is little evidence of overdiagnosis or misdiagnosis of ADHD or of widespread overprescription of methylphenidate." The American Psychiatric Association's "Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Mental Disorder IV" clearly validates ADHD/ ADD as a psychiatric disorder and gives very clear diagnostic criteria. Teachers and parents do not diagnose or medically treat ADHD/ ADD. This is only done by physicians, psychiatrists and psychologists.

Currently, in Pocahontas County, as in many communities, Ritalin is being abused at a high level by youth and adults. This abuse comes from the illegal distribution and use of the drug. Our local Family Resource Network (FRN), directed by Karen McNeel, has already begun tackling this problem with the assistance of many local professionals (Gibbs has never attended). This group is working hard to eradicate Ritalin abuse in our county. Their efforts are noble and justified. Gibbs should attend one of these meetings if he would like to get on top of the problem, instead of slandering the school system, and "shooting from the hip" with invalid information.

Solving the Ritalin abuse problem will involve everyone in our community including pharmacists, physicians, parents, teachers, principals and, yes, school board members. Through constructive dialogue and problem solving our FRN is tackling this problem and I have the fullest faith that they will make a difference in our community.

Respectfully submitted,
Jud Worth
Marlinton

"Save our Schools" group to meet

A group of parents and other interested citizens will meet on Monday, January 31, at 6:45 in the PCHS cafeteria for an informational meeting on the possibility of requesting the Board of Education to call an election for a special tax levy for schools. The interest in a special levy comes from the school system financial situation that is making the Board of Education consider reducing staff and educational programs.

Anyone interested in this issue is urged to attend.

other interested citizens began the formation of a "Save our Schools"

Public sentiment, media coverage cited

Rainbow Case will move on

After hearing defense evidence that hostile public sentiment exists in Pocahontas and Greenbrier counties against the man convicted in 1993 of the Rainbow Murders and that press coverage of the case before, during and after the trial had created a too well-informed jury pool, Senior Status Judge Charles Lobban granted a defense motion for a change of venue Friday.

Jacob Wilson Beard, who was granted a new trial by Lobban last year, was found guilty by a Greenbrier County jury of the June, 1980, homicides of Nancy Santomero, 19, and Vicki Durian, 26.

The women, from Huntington, Long Island, New York, and Wellman, Iowa, respectively, were traveling to a Rainbow Family Gathering held that year on the Monongahela National Forest. Their bodies were found shot to death at close range beside a rutted lane on Briery Knob in a remote section of southern Pocahontas County.

According to a survey conducted by Charleston-based Ryan•McGinn•Samples Research in November, 1999, awareness of Beard is higher in Greenbrier and Pocahontas counties, with 45% of those polled having some to a lot of knowledge of him.

Also, 25% of those polled had a some(what) unfavorable to very unfavorable opinion of Beard, the survey said.

Further, that unfavorable opinion apparently translated into a considerable percentage of people who personally feel Beard is guilty of the murders.

Thirty-five percent of those polled locally believed Beard had murdered Santomero and Durian, the survey said, compared with four percent who said they believe Beard is innocent of the crimes.

Knowledge of the case declined in Kanawha County, where only five per cent of those polled had some to a lot of knowledge about Beard and no one had an unfavorable-

Prosecuting Attorney Walt Weiford objected to the motion to relocate the case to another jurisdiction.

"The issue is not about who might have heard about the case, but the number of individuals who have formed opinion about guilt or innocence," Weiford said. "Thirty percent in Greenbrier had formed some opinion. I don't know that provides for widespread hostile sentiment."

The State is already at some disadvantage because the case has been moved to Greenbrier County, Weiford pointed out.

Lobban concurred with Weiford's argument—at least initially.

"Publicity alone is not grounds for a change of venue," Lobban said. "(And) some hostile sentiment is not necessarily grounds for a change."

But the judge said that present hostile feeling combined with the level of publicity about the case was enough grounds for a change of venue.

Lobban also said he felt the heightened local publicity could be due to the remote location of the area and the lack of "big" news.

"It's a rural area; we don't have much news," the judge said. "This is big news."

"The danger is you don't know how a juror feels," he continued. "How can we avoid asking a new jury what they've heard?"

Lobban also commented that a sixth grade class he had spoken to in Pocahontas County had heard of the case.

Court of Appeals will decide what in the state the trial will be held and the scheduled February 8 trial date will be moved into the next term of court.

Lobban said Raleigh, Putnam and Monongalia counties have received other Greenbrier County cases. This case was moved

...ed, with 45% of those polled having some to a lot of knowledge of him.

Also, 25% of those polled had a some(what) unfavorable to very unfavorable opinion of Beard, the survey said.

Further, that unfavorable opinion apparently translated into a considerable percentage of people who personally feel Beard is guilty of the murders.

Thirty-five percent [illegible] murdered Santomero and Durian, the survey said, compared with four percent who said they believe Beard is innocent of the crimes.

Knowledge of the case declined in Kanawha County, where only five per cent of those polled had some to a lot of knowledge about Beard and no one had an unfavorable opinion of the man.

In Kanawha County, only eight percent of those polled said they believe Beard is guilty, but an even lower number—two percent— responded that they perceive he is innocent.

Forty-eight percent of those polled in Greenbrier and Pocahontas counties had read about the case in the newspaper, the survey said.

And that newspaper coverage of the case cast defense attorney Miles Morgan in the easy role of complimenting the present press corps on their work. Morgan noted that the Lewisburg-based newspaper, The West Virginia Daily News, had printed 56 stories about the case, while The Pocahontas Times had printed 45 stories, the weekly Mountain Messenger had 12 stories on the case and The Beckley Register-Herald, 39.

Morgan remarked that the defense had sent a "team" to the archives to collect the articles.

"I had no idea of the level of reporting going on about this case," Morgan said. "There is no issue that has not been canvassed to the last excruciating detail."

"The matters touched on are absolutely, positively prejudicial to the jury," Morgan said.

The defense attorney said descriptions of in camera hearings

...local publicity could be due to the remote location of the area and the lack of "big" news.

"It's a rural area; we don't have much news," the judge said. "This is big news."

"The danger is you don't know how a juror feels," he continued. "How can we avoid asking a new jury what they've heard?"

Lobban also commented that a sixth grade class he had spoken to in Pocahontas County had heard of the case [illegible] in the state the trial will be held and the scheduled February 8 trial date will be moved into the next term of court.

Lobban said Raleigh, Putnam and Monongalia counties had received other Greenbrier County cases. This case was moved from Pocahontas to Greenbrier County in 1993 because of public sentiment.

The judge did not rule on other motions concerning whether or not the State's new witnesses can testify at the new trial or if Alkire can continue in the case.

"My understanding of the ruling on Kastigar is to suggest it is not the mere exposure, but the use of the evidence," Weiford said. "The State has met its burden and should be allowed the evidence."

The Kastigar issue arose in the first pre-trial motions, but Lobban denied Beard the hearing at that time.

On appeal, the Supreme Court ruled that the hearing should be held and then supported the lower court's ruling that the State had not violated Beard's rights under a 1983 immunity agreement which forbade prosecution unless Beard was to be charged as the triggerman.

The State's objective in this trial is to prove that the new witnesses were assembled without using any information Beard provided while he cooperated with investigators in 1983.

The 53-year old Beard, who has maintained his innocence in the murders since his 1992 arrest, is free on bond.

PCHS Principal Tom Sanders said at the Board of Education meeting on Monday that the message said "I will kill you all Boom."

The students were evacuated from the school early in the afternoon and placed on buses. Since the high school buses are a big part of the highly inconnected bus system, it was decided to also dismiss the other schools.

Mr. Sanders reported that the building was given a sight search by staff, followed by a more detailed search by State Police and no bomb located.

Students returned to the high school on Tuesday to complete the term exams that were underway on Monday and to also begin the new term.

As the high school was getting back to normal, a bomb threat was received at Marlinton Middle School shortly after 9 a.m., according to Principal Glen Wade. He said the students were removed from the school and placed on buses. The MMS students were then transported to their homes.

Mr. Wade said everything went smoothly during the situation. He said MMS was checked in the same manner as the high school and nothing was found.

State Police and the Sheriff's office have the incidents under investigation.

- - -

Employment Opportunities

The Greenbrier Valley Job Service had the following job listings for Pocahontas County last week:

- Lumber handler - no experience required
- Nurse Aide - must be CAN or certified homemaker, part-time
- Homemaker - will visit homes to care for individuals, employer will provide training for certification
- Log truck driver - Class A CDL and two years driving experience
- Housecleaner - seasonal job to last through April, will work up to 40 hours a week
- Physical therapist - part-time, must be licensed physical therapist or occupational therapist

For more information, call the Job Service at 647-7415.

lieve Beard is guilty, but an even lower number—two percent— responded that they perceive he is innocent.

Forty-eight percent of those polled in Greenbrier and Pocahontas counties had read about the case in the newspaper, the survey said.

And that newspaper coverage of the case cast defense attorney Miles Morgan in the easy role of complimenting the present press corps on their work. Morgan noted that the Lewisburg-based newspaper, The West Virginia Daily News, had printed 56 stories about the case, while The Pocahontas Times had printed 45 stories, the weekly Mountain Messenger had 12 stories on the case and The Beckley Register-Herald, 39.

Morgan remarked that the defense had sent a "team" to the archives to collect the articles.

"I had no idea of the level of reporting going on about this case," Morgan said. "There is no issue that has not been canvassed to the last excruciating detail."

"The matters touched on are absolutely, positively prejudicial to the jury," Morgan said.

The defense attorney said descriptions of in camera hearings, the court's comments and lawyer's arguments comprised too much information for a jury pool. "I'll give it to these papers, they've gone and hit everything," he said.

"Given the tortured history this case has had in Greenbrier and Pocahontas counties, given the level of reporting in the print media, how is it possible for Mr. Beard to get a fair trial?" Morgan asked the court.

Lead counsel Stephen Farmer focused on one Pocahontas Times article in particular, February 11, 1999, in which lead investigator Robert Alkire was quoted as saying: "We are bound by law and our own consciences to tell the truth," Alkire said. "Defense attorneys are not."

"That quote implies we run around all the time not telling the truth," Farmer said to the court.

"Disgraceful," he stated in an aside to the press seated directly behind him.

The defense team produced copies of those 152 articles indexed by newspaper and date to supplement its motion.

motions concerning whether the State's new witnesses can testify at the new trial or if Alkire can continue in the case.

"My understanding of the ruling on Kastigar is to suggest it is not the mere exposure, but the use of the evidence," Weiford said. "The State has met its burden and should be allowed the evidence."

The Kastigar issue arose in the first pre-trial motions, but Lobban denied Beard the hearing at that time.

On appeal, the Supreme Court ruled that the hearing should be held and then supported the lower court's ruling that the State had not violated Beard's rights under a 1983 immunity agreement which forbade prosecution unless Beard was to be charged as the triggerman.

The State's objective in this trial is to prove that the new witnesses were assembled without using any information Beard provided while he cooperated with investigators in 1983.

The 53-year old Beard, who has maintained his innocence in the murders since his 1992 arrest, is free on bond.

Magistrate Court

Verlin L. Kelly, of Dunmore, appeared before Magistrate Daniel Miller on Thursday of last week on charges of illegal possession of wildlife, trapping out of season, and trapping without a license. He was found guilty on all three and fined a total of $150 with $201 in court costs.

Charges of domestic battery against Tina R. Garretson, of Marlinton; domestic battery and fleeing from an officer against James R. Shamblin, of Hillsboro; and battery against Carl E. Smith, of Marlinton, were dismissed on Thursday.

Tracy J. Herring, of Wilmington, Delaware, and Jason C. Burke, of Kelly, North Carolina, were both arrested on Friday by Deputy Sheriff B. C. Totten and each charged with three counts of battery. They were released on Saturday after $1000 bond was posted for each.

Hillsboro Middle School consolidation process begins

BOE moves toward staff cuts, group organizes to study special levy

The steady decline in the enrollment in the Pocahontas County school system with the resulting gap between the number of staff employed and the number supported by the state school aid formula had several repercussions at the Board of Education meeting on Monday.

The Board of Education took the first step in the process that could lead to the consolidation of the 6th, 7th and 8th grade students at Hillsboro with Marlinton Middle School and gave School Superintendent James Phares an idea of the number of staff cuts they would approve. A group of parents and other interested citizens began the formation of a "Save our Schools" group, which will look into the possibility of seeking voter approval of a special tax levy for school support.

Enrollment in the county's schools, in grades K-12, has gone from 1886 in the 1981-82 school year to 1380 for the present year. There have also been changes in the state school aid formula reducing the number of staff members it supports.

Staff reductions in the late 1980s and early 1990s and a few years of stable enrollment brought the number of staff generally in line with the number funded by the formula. Also helping to fund staff is the money the school system receives from the Forest Service for resource sales on the Monongahela National Forest.

However, the enrollment decline began again in the mid-1990s and staff levels have again become above the level funded by the state. Based on this year's enrollment, for the coming school year the number of professional personnel will be 14 over state funding and service personnel 16 over. (Without going into the complicated details of the state aid formula, the 16 service personnel overage is actually about ten people.)

As there has been an additional loss of students since the "official" count in October, the gap between staff and funding will be wider for the 2001-02 school year.

Hillsboro has gone from 251 in 1981-82 to 124 this school year. It is noted in the document that hoped-for enrollment increase from the establishment of the Denmar Correctional Center has not occurred.

Hillsboro Principal Sue Hollandsworth said the number of students in the Hillsboro 7th and 8th grades at this time is only 15.

The document states that the students from Hillsboro can be absorbed at Marlinton Middle without the need for additional staff at MMS. Financial data in the document shows that savings in personnel cost could be as high as $296,000, depending upon the number of positions cut from the Hillsboro School. According to the document, no additional staff will be needed at MMS to handle the Hillsboro students.

No additional buses will be needed to bring the HMS sudents to MMS, according to data in the document. Most Hillsboro students will have to leave home about 20 minutes earlier but will arrive home no later than now.

The public hearing on the consolidation will be on February 23 at 7 p.m. in the Hillsboro gym.

Dr. Phares stressed to the Board members that they will need to make their decision on whether to proceed with the consolidation either the night of the hearing or within a short time afterwards. He said that in order to get on the has received has ranged from $188,000 to $511,000), one proposal now in the Congress would assist the county.

This proposal would establish a stable payment to counties each year, based on the highest payments received since 1986. Ms. Shiffer said the House passed a version of the bill last year but a similar bill was tabled in the Senate. The Senate is now considering the concept in committee, she said.

Another action at the federal level that could impact forest service revenue to schools is the directive from Preident Clinton to protect roadless areas on federal land. Ms. Schiffer said until the criteria for determining "roadless" is released in May, it will not be possible to determine the impact on the Monongahela National Forest. She said that if the definition is similar to that used in the past, then there will be almost no impact since the present MNF plan precludes timbering in the areas considered roadless under previous rules.

Ms. Schiffer warned the Board against using high estimates for future funding from the MNF. She noted that although payments are high at this time, due to high value timber and sale contracts from pervious years, the number of timber sales have been down recently, due to a number of causes, and this will begin to be reflected in revenue to counties at some point in the future.

dia coverage cited

ase will move on

Prosecuting Attorney Walt Weiford objected to the motion to relocate the case to another jurisdiction.

"The issue is not about who might have heard about the case, but the number of individuals who have formed opinion about guilt or innocence," Weiford said. "Thirty percent in Greenbrier had formed some opinion. I don't know that provides for widespread hostile sentiment."

The State is already at some disadvantage because the case has been moved to Greenbrier County, se will move on

Prosecuting Attorney Walt Weiford objected to the motion to relocate the case to another jurisdiction.

"The issue is not about who might have heard about the case, but the number of individuals who have formed opinion about guilt or innocence," Weiford said. "Thirty percent in Greenbrier had formed some opinion. I don't know that provides for widespread hostile sentiment."

The State is already at some disadvantage because the case has been moved to Greenbrier County, Weiford pointed out.

Lobban concurred with Weiford's argument—at least initially.

"Publicity alone is not grounds for a change of venue," Lobban said. "(And) some hostile sentiment is not necessarily grounds for a change."

But the judge said that present hostile feeling combined with the level of publicity about the case was enough grounds for a change of venue.

Lobban also said he felt the heightened local publicity could be due to the remote location of the area and the lack of "big" news.

"It's a rural area; we don't have much news," the judge said. "This is big news."

"The danger is you don't know [illegible] jurors feels," he continued, [illegible] asking a new the case.

Court of Appeals [illegible] in the state the trial will be held and the scheduled February 8 trial date will be moved into the next term of court.

Lobban said Raleigh, Putnam

National Forest.

However, the enrollment decline began again in the mid-1990s and staff levels have again become above the level funded by the state. Based on this year's enrollment, for the coming school year the number of professional personnel will be 14 over state funding and service personnel 16 over. (Without going into the complicated details of the state aid formula, the 16 service personnel overage is actually about ten people.)

As there has been an additional loss of students since the "official" count in October, the gap between staff and funding will be wider for the 2001-02 school year.

In addition, the school system is facing a possible deficit at the end of this year. The amount of carry-over from the 1998-99 school year was less than $100,000 while the 1999-00 budget was based on having a $500,000 carry-over.

The Board approved by a 5-0 vote to begin the review process for the possible consolidation of Hillsboro Middle School with Marlinton Middle School. This process involves the public review of the document that outlines the justification for the action to consolidate and a public hearing.

Copies of the document supporting the consolidation will be available to the public at the Board office and at all schools in the county.

It contains data on the enrollment changes at Hillsboro, the facilities of the two schools, potential financial savings from the consolidation, changes in student transportation, and the educational

Hillsboro School. According to the document, no additional staff will be needed at MMS to handle the Hillsboro students.

No additional buses will be needed to bring the HMS sudents to MMS, according to data in the document. Most Hillsboro students will have to leave home about 20 minutes earlier but will arrive home no later than now.

The public hearing on the consolidation will be on February 23 at 7 p.m. in the Hillsboro gym.

Dr. Phares stressed to the Board members that they will need to make their decision on whether to proceed with the consolidation either the night of the hearing or within a short time afterwards. He said that in order to get on the agenda for the March meeting of the State Board of Education (which must also give its approval), the decision must be made before the end of February.

Cindy Schiffer, Ranger for the Forest Service's Marlinton District, gave the Board an update on two initiatives at the federal level that might impact on the money the county receives from resource sales on national forest land. At this time 25% of the revenue from sales is returned to counties with 80% going to school systems. The amount of money a county receives is based on the acres of national forest land within the county. As Pocahontas County has the largest amount of Monongahela National Forest land, this money has been important in helping the Board of Education keep its budget in the black and supporting staff and programs that otherwise would be cut.

Since the amount of money a county receives varies from year to [illegible] Pocahontas County school system

[illegible] on federal criteria for determining "roadless" is released in May, it will not be possible to determine the impact on the Monongahela National Forest. She said that if the definition is similar to that used in the past, then there will be almost no impact since the present MNF plan precludes timbering in the areas considered roadless under previous rules.

Ms. Schiffer warned the Board against using high estimates for future funding from the MNF. She noted that although payments are high at this time, due to high value timber and sale contracts from pervious years, the number of timber sales have been down recently, due to a number of causes, and this will begin to be reflected in revenue to counties at some point in the future.

A crowd of about 100 people, parents, students, school staff, and other interested citizens attended the meeting due to their concern about possible reduction in teachers and programs. At a special meeting on Wednesday of last week, Dr. Phares gave Board members a list of possible staff cuts at all levels, from the central office to the schools. (See following story for the list).

Those speaking expressed particular concern about possible cuts in the vocational, counseling, and music programs at the high school. The importance of the vocational classes for students who will not be going to higher education was stressed. PCHS Band Director Ron Hall noted how his program touches some students and the vocational program reaches out to others.

Dwight Diller commented that although he attended college, he wishes the vocational programs at PCHS had been available at [illegible] high school when he

Continued to page 3

our nation's tradition of local control of schools may well fade away.

is Saturday, January 29, 2000.

Board of Education from page 2

was a student there. Cheryl Beverage told the Board her fifth grade son is already looking forward to the vocational program.

The possible lost of the female counselor at PCHS was regretted by another speaker.

Others speaking included Duane Gibson, Jason Alderman, Ben Wilfong, Gary Beverage, Joe Riley, Pat Juergens, Sue Ann Heatherly, Liz Gay, Vicky Schaffner, Jane Lacasse, Shelly Brant, Elaine Diller, and Susan Chappell

Board members explained to the group that the state school aid funding formula allocates money to county school systems almost entirely based on enrollment with no consideration for the fact that the cost of educating a child in a large, rural county is more than for a child in a more populous county.

Also putting pressure on school system budgets are increased costs of employee benefits and state/federal mandates for new programs without the money to fund them.

New special education requirements may recreate a need for teachers in this area, Board member Bruce McKean noted. He also pointed out that the Board needs to find money to do major repair work on the roof and water system at the high school.

It was noted that increases in local property values due to Snowshoe Mountain and other new construction does not help the school system financially under the aid formula. The amount of money raised locally by property taxes is subtracted from the money counties receives from the state.

Cutting athletics and other extra-curricular activities would not have much impact either, Mr. McKean noted, as the money the Board puts into these programs is only about enough for one to one and a half teaching positions.

In reponse to discussion about the need for the need to lobby the Legislature for changes in the state aid formula that will benefit rural counties, Mr. McKean and Gibbs Kinderman related similar efforts a number of years ago to organize the rural school boards into a group to work for changes. However, it was difficult for even these counties to agree on what they wanted done. Mr. Kinderman noted that some progress was made in getting additional funding for rural counties but it was very minor. He noted that we are only 10,000 out of two million, with low political power.

Several people wondered what would happen if the county ran a deficit or cut a mandated program instead of one felt to be more important to our students. Although Board menbers pointed out this could lead to a takeover of the county school system by the state, the idea was not rejected outright. Perhaps a deficit would draw attention to our needs, one board member commented.

Mr. McKean said the Recht case on school funding, concerning whether the school funding system meets state constitutional requirements, is back before the courts.

As the hope of quick response to the county's needs for additional school funding from the either the Legislature or courts faded at the meeting, attention was turned toward raising the money from within, by seeking passage of special tax levy for schools.

Several noted that we are going to have to look to ourselves for the money needed to maintain the quality of the schools, at least for the near future. Board members noted that to have a chance for success, the push for a levy will Tan if you can!!!

Hillsboro Middle School consolidation process begins

BOE moves toward staff cuts, group organizes to study special levy

The steady decline in the enrollment in the Pocahontas County school system with the resulting gap between the number of staff employed and the number supported by the state school aid formula had several repercussions at the Board of Education meeting on Monday.

The Board of Education took the first step in the process that could lead to the consolidation of the 6th, 7th and 8th grade students at Hillsboro with Marlinton Middle School and gave School Superintendent James Phares an idea of the number of staff cuts they would approve. A group of parents and other interested citizens began the formation of a "Save our Schools" group, which will look into the possibility of seeking voter approval of a special tax levy for school support.

Enrollment in the county's schools, in grades K-12, has gone from 1886 in the 1981-82 school year to 1380 for the present year. There have also been changes in the state school aid formula reducing the number of staff members it supports.

Staff reductions in the late 1980s and early 1990s and a few years of stable enrollment brought the number of staff generally in line with the number funded by the formula. Also helping to fund staff is the money the school system receives from the Forest Service for resource sales on the Monongahela National Forest.

However, the enrollment decline began again in the mid-1990s and staff levels have again become above the level funded by the state. Based on this year's enrollment, for the coming school year the number of professional personnel will be 14 over state funding and service personnel 16 over. (Without going into the complicated details of the state aid formula, the 16 service personnel overage is actually about ten people.)

As there has been an additional loss of students since the "official" count in October, the gap between staff and funding will be wider for the 2001-02 school year.

In addition, the school system is facing a possible deficit at the end of this year. The amount of carry-over from the 1998-99 school year was less than $100,000 while the 1999-00 budget was based on having a $500,000 carry-over.

The Board approved by a 5-0 vote to begin the review process for Hillsboro has gone from 251 in 1981-82 to 124 this school year. It is noted in the document that hoped-for enrollment increase from the establishment of the Denmar Correctional Center has not occurred.

Hillsboro Principal Sue Hollandsworth said the number of students in the Hillsboro 7th and 8th grades at this time is only 15.

The document states that the students from Hillsboro can be absorbed at Marlinton Middle without the need for additional staff at MMS. Financial data in the document shows that savings in personnel cost could be as high as $296,000, depending upon the number of positions cut from the Hillsboro School. According to the document, no additional staff will be needed at MMS to handle the Hillsboro students.

No additional buses will be needed to bring the HMS sudents to MMS, according to data in the document. Most Hillsboro students will have to leave home about 20 minutes earlier but will arrive home no later than now.

The public hearing on the consolidation will be on February 23 at 7 p.m. in the Hillsboro gym.

Dr. Phares stressed to the Board members that they will need to make their decision on whether to proceed with the consolidation either the night of the hearing or within a short time afterwards. He said that in order to get on the agenda for the March meeting of the State Board of Education (which must also give its approval), the decision must be made before the end of February.

Cindy Schiffer, Ranger for the Forest Service's Marlinton District, gave the Board an update on two initiatives at the federal level that might impact on the

has received has ranged from $188,000 to $511,000), one proposal now in the Congress would assist the county.

This proposal would establish a stable payment to counties each year, based on the highest payments received since 1986. Ms. Shiffer said the House passed a version of the bill last year but a similar bill was tabled in the Senate. The Senate is now considering the concept in committee, she said.

Another action at the federal level that could impact forest service revenue to schools is the directive from Preident Clinton to protect roadless areas on federal land. Ms. Schiffer said until the criteria for determining "roadless" is released in May, it will not be possible to determine the impact on the Monongahela National Forest. She said that if the definition is similar to that used in the past, then there will be almost no impact since the present MNF plan precludes timbering in the areas considered roadless under previous rules.

Ms. Schiffer warned the Board against using high estimates for future funding from the MNF. She noted that although payments are high at this time, due to high value timber and sale contracts from pervious years, the number of timber sales have been down recently, due to a number of causes, and this will begin to be reflected in revenue to counties at some point in the future.

A crowd of about 100 people, parents, students, school staff, and other interested citizens attended the meeting due to their concern about possible reduction in teachers and programs. At a special meeting on Wednesday of last week, Dr. Phares gave Board members a list of possible staff cuts at all levels.

ia coverage cited

se will move on

Prosecuting Attorney Walt Weiford objected to the motion to relocate the case to another jurisdiction.

"The issue is not about who might have heard about the case, but the number of individuals who have formed opinion about guilt or innocence," Weiford said. "Thirty percent in Greenbrier had formed some opinion. I don't know that provides for widespread hostile sentiment."

The State is already at some disadvantage because the case has been moved to Greenbrier County, Weiford pointed out.

Lobban concurred with Weiford's argument—at least initially.

"Publicity alone is not grounds for a change of venue," Lobban said. "(And) some hostile sentiment is not necessarily grounds for a change."

But the judge said that present

...bow Case will move on

Prosecuting Attorney Walt Weiford objected to the motion to relocate the case to another jurisdiction.

"The issue is not about who might have heard about the case, but the number of individuals who have formed opinion about guilt or innocence," Weiford said. "Thirty percent in Greenbrier had formed some opinion. I don't know that provides for widespread hostile sentiment."

The State is already at some disadvantage because the case has been moved to Greenbrier County, Weiford pointed out.

Lobban concurred with Weiford's argument—at least initially.

"Publicity alone is not grounds for a change of venue," Lobban said. "(And) some hostile sentiment is not necessarily grounds for a change."

But the judge said that present hostile feeling combined with the level of publicity about the case was enough grounds for a change of venue.

Lobban also said he felt the heightened local publicity could be due to the remote location of the area and the lack of "big" news.

"It's a rural area; we don't have much news," the judge said. "This is big news."

"The danger is you don't know how a juror feels," he continued. "How can we avoid asking a new jury what they've heard?"

Lobban also comment...

...ounties. This case was moved from ...to Greenbrier County in ...public sentiment. ...rule on other ...not

...ecline began again in the mid-1990s and staff levels have again become above the level funded by the state. Based on this year's enrollment, for the coming school year the number of professional personnel will be 14 over state funding and service personnel 16 over. (Without going into the complicated details of the state aid formula, the 16 service personnel overage is actually about ten people.)

As there has been an additional loss of students since the "official" count in October, the gap between staff and funding will be wider for the 2001-02 school year.

In addition, the school system is facing a possible deficit at the end of this year. The amount of carry-over from the 1998-99 school year was less than $100,000 while the 1999-00 budget was based on having a $500,000 carry-over.

The Board approved by a 5-0 vote to begin the review process for the possible consolidation of Hillsboro Middle School with Marlinton Middle School. This process involves the public review of the document that outlines the justification for the action to consolidate and a public hearing.

Copies of the document supporting the consolidation will be available to the public at the Board office and at all schools in the county.

It contains data on the enrollment changes at Hillsboro, the facilities of the two schools,

...Hillsboro School. According to the document, no additional staff will be needed at MMS to handle the Hillsboro students.

No additional buses will be needed to bring the HMS students to MMS, according to data in the document. Most Hillsboro students will have to leave home about 20 minutes earlier but will arrive home no later than now.

The public hearing on the consolidation will be on February 23 at 7 p.m. in the Hillsboro gym.

Dr. Phares stressed to the Board members that they will need to make their decision on whether to proceed with the consolidation either the night of the hearing or within a short time afterwards. He said that in order to get on the agenda for the March meeting of the State Board of Education (which must also give its approval), the decision must be made before the end of February.

Cindy Schiffer, Ranger for the Forest Service's Marlinton District, gave the Board an update on two initiatives at the federal level that might impact on the money the county receives from resource sales on national forest land. At this time 25% of the revenue from sales is returned to counties with 80% going to school systems. The amount of money a county receives is based on the acres of national forest land within the county. As Pocahontas County has the largest amount of Monongabela National Forest land, this money has been important in helping the Board of Education keep its budget in the black and supporting staff and programs that otherwise would be cut.

...criteria for determining "roadless" is released in May, it will not be possible to determine the impact on the Monongahela National Forest. She said that if the definition is similar to that used in the past, then there will be almost no impact since the present MNF plan precludes timbering in the areas considered roadless under previous rules.

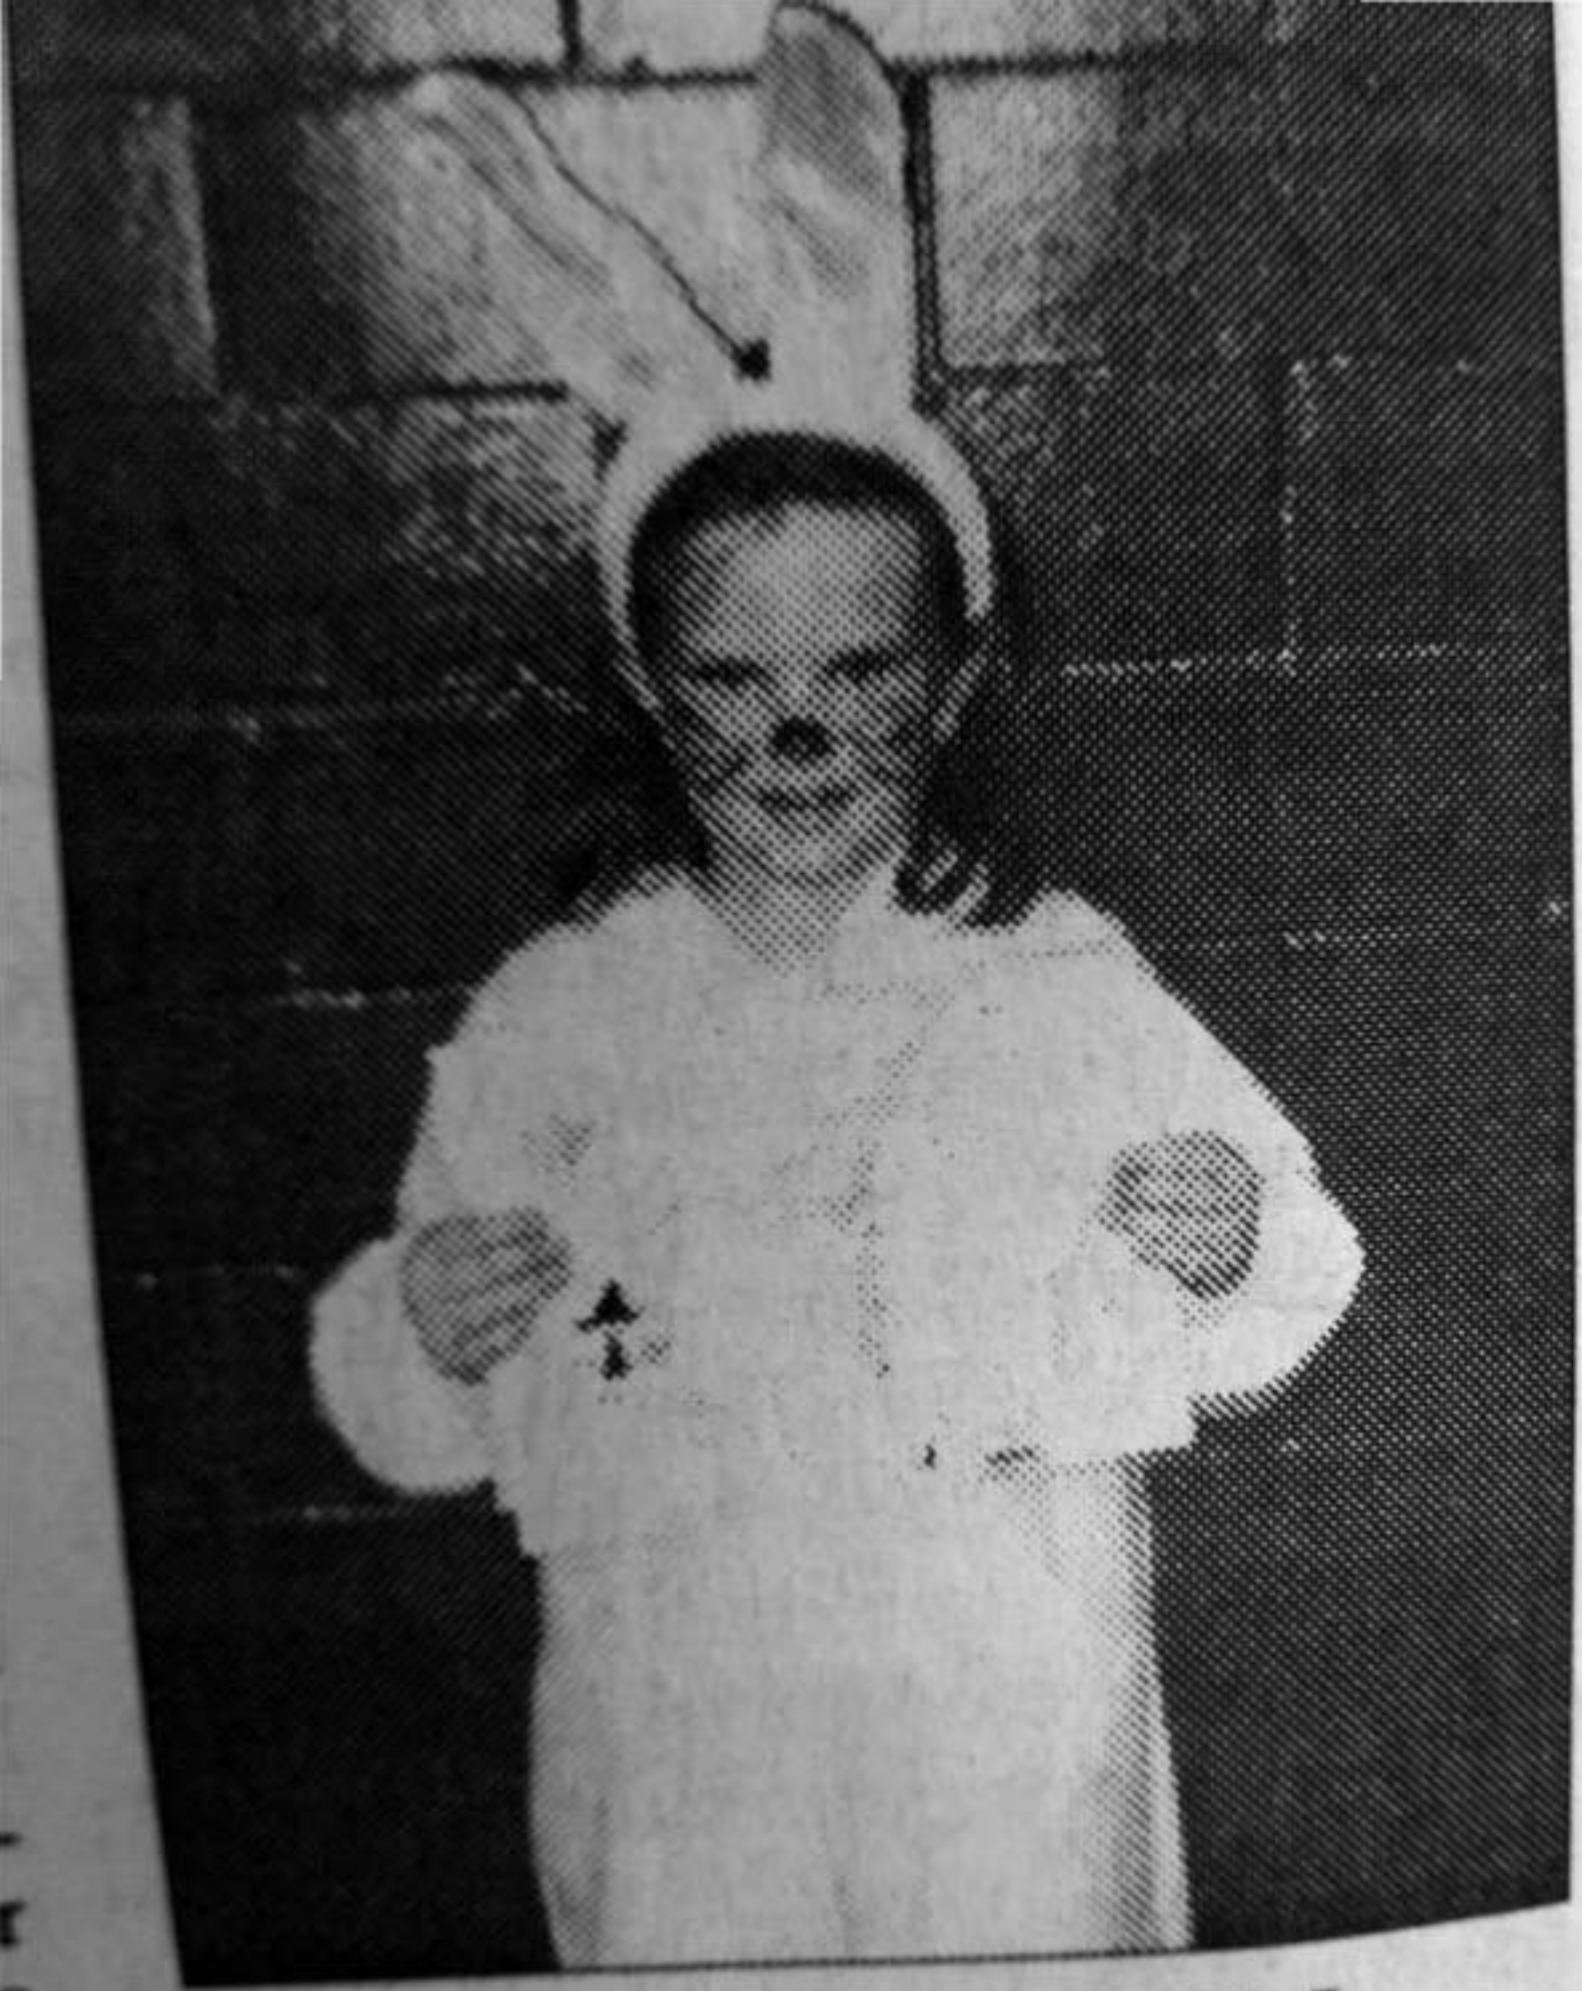
Ms. Schiffer warned the Board against using high estimates for future funding from the MNF. She noted that although payments are high at this time, due to high value timber and sale contracts from pervious years, the number of timber sales have been down recently, due to a number of causes, and this will begin to be reflected in revenue to counties at some point in the future.

A crowd of about 100 people, parents, students, school staff, and other interested citizens attended the meeting due to their concern about possible reduction in teachers and programs. At a special meeting on Wednesday of last week, Dr. Phares gave Board members a list of possible staff cuts at all levels, from the central office to the schools. (See following story for the list).

Those speaking expressed particular concern about possible cuts in the vocational, counseling, and music programs at the high school. The importance of the vocational classes for students who will not be going to higher education was stressed. PCHS Band Director Ron Hall noted how his program touches some students and the vocational program reaches out to others.

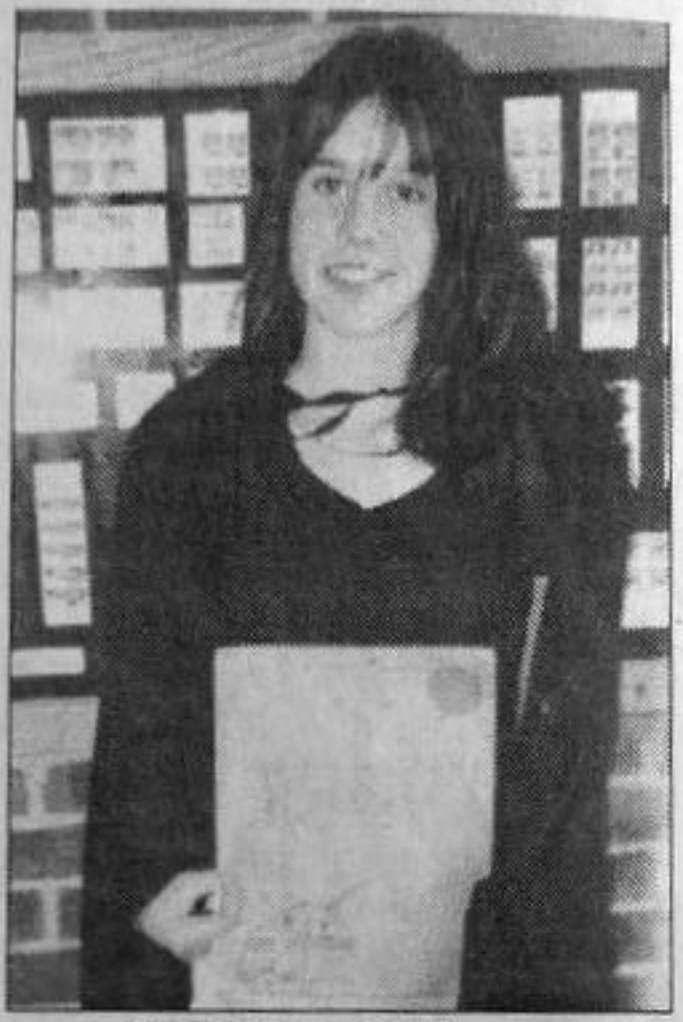
Dwight Diller commented that although he attended college, he ...vocational programs at

From Small Bills To Big Buck...



CHASITY GLADWELL

CHASITY GLADWELL



NICOLE ROSE

Renewable Energies sponsors Hillsboro Halloween Contest

Hillsboro School's Partner in Education, Renewable Energies, sponsored a Halloween Contest for the students. The children in K-4 were to draw a Halloween picture. The students in 5-8 were to write a true or fictional story with a minimum of 300 words. First place prizes of a coupon for one large pizza at the River Place Restaurant were awarded to Chasity Gladwell for her Halloween picture and Nicole Rose for her story. Sharon Robinson, from Renewable Energies, presented the awards at the Halloween parade.

WINNERS IN THE RIF Poster Contest at Green Bank School were, top row, l-r, Janney Lockman, second place, Chelsey Gum, first place; bottom row, l-r, Jacob Sheets, fourth place, Abram Rittenhouse, third place.

Third grader

Anniversary

50th Wedding Anniversary

Calvin and Mary Walker Clutter, of Hillsboro, would like to announce their 50th wedding anniversary.

They were married February 3, 1950, in Lewisburg, by Carden A. Hillman.

Calvin is the son of the late John Stewart and Clara Morrison Clutter, who lived at Robins Fork, Greenbrier County. Mrs. Clutter is the daughter of the late Ezra Edward and Frances McNulty Walker, who lived at Lobelia, and step-daughter of the late Leona Madeline Holmes Walker, who lived at Hillsboro.

Calvin worked for the Department of Highways for 25 years and retired in 1992. Mrs. Clutter worked at Denmar State Hospital and is a housewife.

They are the parents of two sons, Marshall D. Clutter, of Hillsboro, and Robert L. Clutter, of Wrightsville, Pennsylvania; four daughters, Cindy L. Johnson, of Hillsboro, Patricia A. Carpenter, of Dover, Pennsylvania, Phyllis Belcher, of Maryland, and the late Gloria Kaye Clutter.

The family has planned a May celebration for the couple.

FIVE GENERATIONS

At a reunion on Beaver Creek last fall, five generations of one family were able to gather for a photo. In this photo are, back row, l-r, Ramona Stephens, Floretta Gordon, both from Stuart, Virginia, and Ron Harris, of Mount Sidney, Virginia. In front Dollie Underwood holds Lauren Harris, with Christine Harris at her side. Also at the reunion were Kevin Harris and children Morgan, Levi, and Kristen.

Times

Membe

A 24954 FEBRUARY 3, 2000 VOL.11

ots. Mud, Rain,

Concrete, Asphalt.

Bomb threats continue at PCHS and MMS

Pocahontas County High School and Marlinton Middle School continue to be disrupted by bomb threats. The threats on Monday and Tuesday of last week were followed by warnings of bombs at both schools on Thursday, PCHS on Friday, and again both schools on Tuesday of this week. With one exception, the warnings have been in the form of notes.

In all cases the students at the schools were evacuated and sent home. The buildings have been searched each time with school staff doing a visual search and police officials doing a more thorough search. No bombs or other dangerous items have been found.

On Monday, Friday, and Tuesday all county schools were dismissed and students sent home due to the timing of the threats. On these days there would not have been sufficient time for the high school students to be taken home and the buses return for the students at the other schools.

School Superintendent James Phares said that on Thursday both schools again received bomb threats. The middle school received a call about 7:30 a.m. warning of a bomb in the building. The voice was that of a female and may have been an adult.

The location where the call originated has not been determined yet but Citizens Communications is working though computer records in hopes of finding the phone where the call was placed.

At 8:20 a.m. Thursday a note was found at the high school posted on a locker.

Both schools were cleared of students and they were sent home. Due to the time of the threats it was not necessary to disrupt the other schools in the county.

The final bomb threat last week was at the high school on Friday. Again a note was the method used and it was found about noon, Dr. Phares said.

On Tuesday notes were found about 11:40 a.m. at both PCHS and MMS. As before, Board of Education policy was followed and the students removed from the schools and sent home, Dr. Phares said.

For adults making a false bomb threat is a misdemeanor and carries a penalty of a fine of up to $1000, up to a year in jail, or both. With a second offense the crime becomes a felony with more severe penalties. Juveniles face expulsion from school and other penalties.

It is also possible to seek restitution through a civil court action for any costs the school system incurs from the threats.

For the incident at Marlinton Middle School on Tuesday of last week, a juvenile suspect has been identified, Dr. Phares said. A juvenile petition has been served against the MMS student.

Authorities have leads in some of the other cases.

Dr. Phares said that the situation has gone "beyond pranks and become a tragedy."

He said a meeting was held on Tuesday with principals, the Prosecuting Attorney, and state police and sheriff department officers to plan ways to respond to the situation. Finding alternate sites for the students instead of sending students home is one of the actions being worked on, Dr. Phares stated.

There have also been parents volunteering to serve as hall monitors at the schools, he said.

Pocahontas is not alone in having this problem recently, Dr. Phares said. There were three threats at schools in Randolph County last week and one in Greenbrier County, he said.

The Board of Education is offering a $250 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of anyone making a bomb threat, Dr. Phares stated. He also said the high school faculty is matching that amount for incidents involving their school.

State Police and Sheriff deputies continue the investigation. Although there is no federal crime involved, the FBI has made available its forensics services to the investigators.

PDA extends Gardner Shoe lease

In Memory of Maudeline Moses Galford
February 13, 1910
February 1, 1998

It's been two years since
He called you away,
and life goes on day by day.
We miss you more as time goes by and often utter a tearful cry.
We miss your sweet smile and tender care,
But, someday we hope to meet you there!
The road won't be long, or very far,
As one by one, we cross the bar.

Missing You!
Clark C. Galford and Family

...ity and the buses return for the about noon, Dr. Phares said.

PDA extends Gardner Shoe lease

The Pocahontas Development Authority extended Gardner Shoe Company's current six month lease for another four months at its meeting Wednesday night.

The lease with the Missouri shoemaker was to have ended February 28. The extension will be under the same terms as the previous lease.

According to PDA member Jay Otto, Gardner has provided health insurance to the 35 employees currently working at the shoe plant in Marlinton.

"He is in the midst of investigating what he wants to do," Otto said.

Gardner Shoes of West Virginia took over operations from the beleaguered West Virginia Shoe Company in August, 1999.

Gardner Shoe is pleased with its employees here, Otto said.

For the major portion of the meeting, the PDA met with representatives of the Lightstone Foundation, a Pendleton County organization that facilitates small business loans.

According to Lightstone's Executive Director Tony Smith, the foundation wants to focus on "place-based tourism."

Smith said the foundation used the cluster concept which focuses on the area as an "asset to create business based on tourism experiences that can regenerate rural mountain community economies."

Place-based tourism includes agro-tourism, eco-tourism, heritage tourism and outdoor recreational tourism.

Smith said the foundation had zero percent default on the 21 loans it now has, including four from Pocahontas County.

"The goal is not how many dollars can we spend, but how many jobs can we create," he said.

County Commissioner Reta Jackson Griffith presented the Small Business Technology Training Pilot Project to the PDA. Businesses may participate in this project free of charge. Technical consultants will work with businesses to provide consulting, training and purchasing. Although the consultants will make recommendations to the businesses, further commitment is voluntary.

PDA president Greg Riffe informed the PDA that the picnic shelter at East Cass is complete thanks to the work of the PCHS classes Agriculture, Electricity and Building Construction II. Joe Riley teaches agriculture, Rick Ziegler teaches the electricity course and Duane Gibson instructs the build...

PDA and GVEDA team up to provide technical assistance to small businesses in Pocahontas Co...

The Pocahontas Development and become a tragedy."

He said a meeting was held on Tuesday with principals, the involved, the FBI has made available its forensics services to the investigators.

Three defendants dismissed from lawsuit against the SWA

At the start of a hearing before Circuit Judge James Rowe on Friday there were five defendants in a suit involving the Pocahontas County Solid Waste Authority but three had their motions to be dismissed from the suit approved by the judge.

Removed from the suit were the West Virginia Public Service Com- mission (PSC), the West Virginia Soil Conservation Agency (SCA), and the West Virginia Division of Environmental Protection (DEP). Remaining in the suit are the SWA and the Pocahontas County Commission.

The suit against the SWA and the other agencies was filed by Jerome Heinemann. In his suit Mr. Heinemann alleges the County Commission and SWA have failed to carry out the mandates of the state's laws on recycling and solid waste management. The suit additionally alleges the SWA is in violation of the state open meetings act, the state ethics act, and illegally taxed the citizens of the county with the solid waste fee.

The suit asks the court to issue a writ of mandamus requiring the defendants to comply with all laws that apply and to a writ of prohibition to cease alleged unlawful activities.

The PSC, SCA and DEP were included in the suit because of their involvement in the appointment of the members of the SWA. (The PSC and DEP each appoint one member to solid waste authorities and the local soil conservation district another. County commissions appoint two members.) The suit alleges that this appointment power requires the agencies to assure that their appointments obey the law.

Attorneys present were Franklin Crabtree for the PSC, Senior Assistant Attorney General Rex Burford for the SCA, Martha Barber for the DEP, and David Sims for the SWA. Prosecuting Attorney Walt Weiford was also at the hearing.

All three of the agency attorneys argued that the duty to appoint members to solid waste authorities does not carry any jurisdiction over the actions of the appointees. Mr. Burford noted that the agency he was representing, the SCA, is not even the agency that makes the appointment since it is made by the local soil conservation district.

The three attorneys moved that their agencies be dismissed from the suit and Mr. Burford included a request for costs to be awarded.

Continued to page 3

SWA lawsuit

from page 2

In reponse Mr. Heinemann cited several cases he claimed gave the agencies the authority and respons-ibity over their appointees. He noted also "someone has to be overseeing" the solid waste authorities.

Judge Rowe agreed with the arguments of the agency attorneys and dismissed them from the suit. However, he did not grant the request for costs.

The second part of the hearing involved the allegations being made against the Commission and SWA.

Mr. Sims stated that a mandamus action is not the proper way to proceed in the allegations in the suit that both the ethics and open meeting acts are being violated. He said there are other remedies available.

Mr. Heinemann's suit alleges that the presence of James Burks on the SWA is a violation of the ethics act since he is part owner of County Disposal, LLC, a user of the landfill.

Mr. Sims argued that the Authority has no power to expel members even should there be a violation of the ethics act.

The allegations concerning the violation of the open meetings act is based on the lack of a reading of the minutes and financial records at SWA meetings. Mr. Sims said these items are available for inspection and any of the SWA's records can be obtained by use of a freedom of information request.

Ed Riley, Chairman of the SWA, was called to the stand to respond to allegations in the suit.

Mr. Riley told the court that the SWA has prepared a comprehensive solid waste and litter control plan as required by law. The plan was originally approved by the Solid Waste Management Board in March 1992 and an updated plan was approved in February of this year.

Mr. Riley discussed the Authority's recylcing efforts. He said the law requires the recycling of three items but the Pocahontas County SWA collects eight items for recycling, including tires. The others are newspapers, magazines, cardboard, plastics, glass, cans, and white goods, with collection facilities available at the green box sites.

The county has mandatory garbage disposal regulations which were most recently updated and adopted in August 1995, Mr. Riley said.

In response to questions from Mr. Sims on the ethic issue, Mr. Riley said the SWA has no contracts with County Disposal and Mr. Burks always abstains from voting on any item that might affect his business.

Mr. Riley said the SWA has a "free day" at the landfill as required by law, the last Tuesday of each month. He presented dates of this newspaper where the free day was announced.

During cross examination, Mr. Riley was asked about whether referendums are required on various aspects of the SWA's operations. In the case of the landfill, Mr. Riley said referendums are required only for large "Class A" landfills and not ones the size of the Pocahontas County landfill.

During Mr. Heinemann's discussion on the landfill law, Judge Rowe commented that he did not have to have the law explained to him, as "I helped write the law." (Judge Rowe is a former member of the Legislature.)

The cross examination also involved the way the SWA handles and disposes of recyclable items it collected and the solid waste fee. Mr. Heinemann's discussion on the fee was cut off by Judge Rowe following motions by Mr. Sims.

Mr. Heinemann told the court he wanted as a witness George Sheets, who has studied the records of the SWA, but Mr. Sheets was unable to be at the hearing due to car trouble. Judge Rowe stated that he feels that at this time the SWA has answered the allegations in the suit. However, he agreed to continue the hearing to February 25 to allow testimony from Mr. Sheets.

Circuit Court

to reconsider this decision.

The PCAC just revised its budget for the second half of the fiscal year, and have already begun projecting plans for June. Please understand, those of us who have recently become a part of the PCAC came into what we felt to be an extremely disorganized situation. Art, in its unique and variety of forms, would, and should be, considered to be sadly lacking and underdeveloped in Pocahontas County compared to counterparts who enhance their community with claims of culture and artistic value in their tourism draw. We are working very hard to upgrade the Art Council's image, as well as promoting all forms of art in this county. We are working to gain the interest, support, and participation of Pocahontas residents, paying considerable attention to the students of this community, and looking forward to extending Pocahontas County Arts into future tourism projects. Our existing budget of 2% is currently operating at a minimum. A further cut will make it impossible to continue, and we fear will discourage those who have spent a great deal of time and energy over the past months to help reorganize and build a new and better council.

Our meetings are open to the public, and Pocahontas residents are not only welcome, but urged to attend. The community's opinions and ideas are very important to us, and we have stressed that fact verbally in previous newspaper articles. We have found numerous, and extremely talented, artists in our community and schools. The help and support we are trying to provide is essential to those who lack confidence, funds for continued education, or the ability to display or express work for public appreciation or sale in any other form.

The PCAC, though in desperate need of additional funding, has refrained from pleading, badgering, even foregone a simple request to obtain an increase of our limited funding. We understand the number of organizations this commission works to support, and felt it our responsibility to prove our dedication and sincerity to building and maintaining our Art Council. This, we believe to be not only fair, but imperative, to the people of this county, and to you as responsible members of the commission. Please, give us the same courtesy, and a fair evaluation of what we are trying to accomplish.

Again, we urge the Commission to reconsider. Do not refuse the people of Pocahontas County a form of help we endeavor to provide. If anything, help us to build

Pocahontas County Art Guild Donna Gibson, Lola Crews, Rose Driver, Eric Werner, Loretta Malcomb, Ann Turner,
Diana Nelson, Elaine Diller, Nancy Smithson

Dear Editor:

Evolution: To be or not to be. Evolution is the theory that Charles Darwin invented in Humans, as well as other animals, all evolved from one creature. This theory includes the thought that humans, in specific, evolved from apes, monkeys, and the other primates. Though no factual scientific evidence has been brought to light over this controversial subject.

On the other hand, Creationism does have several different items of evidence that has been brought to light. In Texas, human and dinosaur bones were found side by side. Also, several of the other stories from the book of Genesis, which told the Creation story. Noah's ark has been found frozen in a mountaintop in an Asian mountain. Which, while disproving Evolution, it also helps to prove the Creationism Theory.

Creationism has been taught in most schools for over 1200 years. Some people say it is because of separation of church and state. If this is so, then why is Evolution still taught. Evolution is the basis for the "Scientific Christianity" religion. There is more scientific evidence to support Creationism than there is for Evolution, so Creationism should also be taught as a theory in schools.

Part of Education is the knowledge needed in the real world. If a student needs to know Evolution for the real world, then that particular student should also have to know Creationism. If students do not need to know Creationism, then they certainly don't need Evolution.

Creationism is an age-old theory proven by numerous scientists over and over again, while there is only circumstantial evidence to support Evolution. The one skeleton thought to be the "missing link" was found by at least three different archeologists to be a hoax.

The facts are simple and the solution is as equally simple. Evolution and Creationism should both be taught in public schools, or neither should be taught.

Sincerely,
Joshua P. Brofford

County Commission has little on meeting agenda inspection and any of the SWA's records can be obtained by use of a freedom of information request.

Ed Riley, Chairman of the SWA, was called to the stand to respond to allegations in the suit.

Mr. Riley told the court that the SWA has prepared a comprehensive solid waste and litter control plan as required by law. The plan was originally approved by the Solid Waste Management Board in March 1992 and an updated plan was approved in February of this year.

Mr. Riley discussed the Authority's recycling efforts. He said the law requires the recycling of three items but the Pocahontas County SWA collects eight items for recycling, including tires. The others are newspapers, magazines, cardboard, plastics, glass, cans, and white goods, with collection facilities available at the green box sites.

The county has mandatory garbage disposal regulations which were most recently updated and adopted in August 1995, Mr. Riley said.

In response to questions from Mr. Sims on the ethic issue, Mr Riley said the SWA has no contracts with County Disposal an Mr. Burks always abstains fro voting on any item that might affe his business.

Circuit Court

Civil Orders

November 3

State of West Virginia, ex rel Department of Health and Human Services vs. John A. Shinaberry - judgement for the plaintiff in the amount of $2321.

November 8

Lisa A. Schoolcraft vs. Timothy A. Schoolcraft - judgement for the plaintiff in the amount of $551 plus interest

Melissa K. Arbogast vs. Lewis R. Arbogast II - divorce granted

November 10

Rhonda K. Perkins vs. Donny L. Perkins - divorce granted and plaintiff restored to prior name of Rhonda Kay Hatfield

Coby J. Horton vs. Robert W. Horton - judgement for the plaintiff in the amount of $272 plus interest

Sandra D. Shearer v. Marshall E. Shearer - judgement for the Plaintiff in the amount of $2933 Plus interest

November 15

Discover Financial Serv Inc. vs. Carlton R. and Rebecc Tuttle - judgement for the pla in the amount of $5966 plus c

November 16

In Re Tax Sale, Jason an Bauserman - dismissed due of action

November 17

State of West Virginia Department of Health and Resources vs. Glen M. Mcl - judgement for the plainti amount of $3859 plus inter

State of West Virgin Department of Health an Resources vs. Mark K. judgement for the plain amount of $1139 plus in

November 1

Kenneth J. Casse Top of the World Unit Owners Assoc dismissed due to lac

Jeffrey W.

Chuck's Lunchbox
First Ave., Marlinton
Old Time Rock & Roll with David Nardi
Friday, February 4 8 p.m. to ?

HUCKLE Huckle
Stea
Trout Wedn HUCKLE
Hum Check Week

B&B Roadhouse

presents

Velda Warner

and

Bill & Harry McCloud playing their Bluegrass music

Thur., Feb. 3

8 p.m.- Midnight

DEATHS

Emery Kermit Wyatt

Emery Kermit Wyatt, age 86, of Dunmore, dies Monday, February 7, 2000, at his home after an extended illness.

He was born September 27, 1913, at Paynesville, the son of the late Thomas C. and Millie Jane Horn Wyatt.

He was a coal miner, teacher, farmer, and worked at the Newport News Shipyard from 1968 to 1979. He was a member of the Baxter Presbyterian Church at Dunmore, and was a member of Southern States Cooperative. He served in the CCC's.

Mr. Wyatt was preceded in death by a son, Thomas A. Wyatt, a brother, Olan Wyatt, and a sister, Lola Rowe.

Survivors include his wife, Nellie Perry Wyatt; a daughter, Judith Wyatt Schriner Estilow, of Hampton, Virginia; two sons, Emery F. Wyatt, of Dunmore, and Edward A. Wyatt, of Hampton; two sisters, Lenoa Keene and Mary Minnick, of Paynesville; three brothers, Lloyd Wyatt, of Paynesville, Troy and Roy Wyatt, of Appomattox, Virginia; eleven grandchildren, twenty-two great-grandchildren, and six great-great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held Thursday at 1 p. m. at the Baxter Presbyterian Church by the Rev. David Rittenhouse. Burial will follow in the McCutcheon Cemetery, Dunmore

Friends may call Wednesday from 6 to 8 p. m. at VanReenen Funeral Home.

PCHS student arrested for making bomb threat

A Pocahontas County High School student was arrested last Thursday in connection with a bomb threat the previous week.

Benjamin I. Withers, 19, of Marlinton, was picked up at the school and charged with one count of "unlawfully causing to be conveyed false information about a bomb or other explosive device in a public building."

Withers was charged in circuit court by a misdemeanor information filed by Prosecuting Attorney Walt Weiford.

The school system has been plagued with a series of bomb threats at both PCHS and Marlinton Middle School, incidents that have practically shut down Pocahontas County schools for two weeks.

According to school policy, the schools have been evacuated and on most days sent home; however, after a bomb threat on Friday, PCHS students were kept on buses for approximately two hours.

Monday's threat at PCHS again sent students home before noon. All other county schools remained in session.

After a bomb threat on Tuesday, the system's tenth, PCHS Principal Tom Sanders enacted the new school board policy to evacuate the school and search the building.

Students were given the choice to reenter the building or to call a parent to pick them up. Buses ran on schedule at 3:15 p.m.

Sanders said Monday that the high school staff is "disgusted."

"They can't get their work completed in third or fourth block," he said. "It's not good."

Sanders was dismayed at the continuing threats on the safety of students.

"I can't believe I've got that many kids that would do this," he said.

Weiford has filed two juvenile petitions against MMS students, he said.

"It's reasonable to believe we have at least as many kids as we've had tests," Weiford said.

According to Superintendent of Schools James Phares, a State Trooper was on site at PCHS when the bomb threat occurred Monday.

Parents were also patrolling the halls when the note was discovered, he said.

"We treat nothing as a joke," the superintendent said.

"We've got a real good lead on Friday's and today's," Phares said Monday.

The investigation has been a joint effort of both the Pocahontas County Sheriff's Department and the Marlinton Detachment of the West Virginia State Police, Weiford said.

"We've had situations of police in both schools at the same time," he commented.

The misdemeanor offense carries a fine of up to $1000 and up to one year in jail or both. A repeat offense is a felony. The students may also face expulsion and other penalties, such as restitution.

According to Assistant Superintendent Alice Irvine, the school system's estimated loss of services paid, lunches and other expenses is between $50,000 and $75,000.

Placing the threat by telephone is a federal offense.

Withers pleaded not guilty at his arraignment and was freed into the custody of his father on $1500 bond.

The Board of Education is offering a $250 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of persons responsible for making these threats. The PCHS faculty will match that amount for information leading to the arrest and conviction of persons responsible for making threats at that school.

Mitchell Chevrolet in Marlinton will also contribute $1000 into the reward pool, making the total reward $1500 for information concerning the bomb threats.

Notice

The landfill and Solid Waste office will be closed on Friday, February 11, for Lincoln's Birthday.

Program.

Bomb threats main topic at Board of Education meeting

The wave of bomb threats at Pocahontas County High School and Marlinton Middle School was the major topic at the Board of Education meeting on Monday night. About 100 parents, school staff, and other concerned citizens met with the Board to seek a solution to the situation that has distupted the school system for the over two weeks.

By the end of the meeting the Board had decided on a procedure to try at PCHS when a bomb threat occurs.

School Superintendent James Phares gave a summary of the events that began with the first bomb threat at PCHS on January 24. State Police 1st Sgt. W. S. Moore, District Commander for Webster and Pocahontas County, said police have several suspects but he cannot go into detail on the investigations. Evidence includes handwriting and fingerprints, Sgt. Moore said.

The comments from the audience and board members touched on a number of topics, with everyone looking for a way to end the threats.

It was noted that the schools have never been searched by a fully trained bomb squad but just "sight searched" by school personnel and local police officers. Sgt. Moore said it would take most of a day to assemble a fully trained bomb team and have them search the building.

Danny Arbogast suggested offering a reward for information and wondered about extending school into the summer to make up the lost classtime. Dr. Phares noted that a reward is being offered and said the law does not allow the option of going into the summer.

Metal detectors were mentioned but it was noted that not all explosive devices have metal parts.

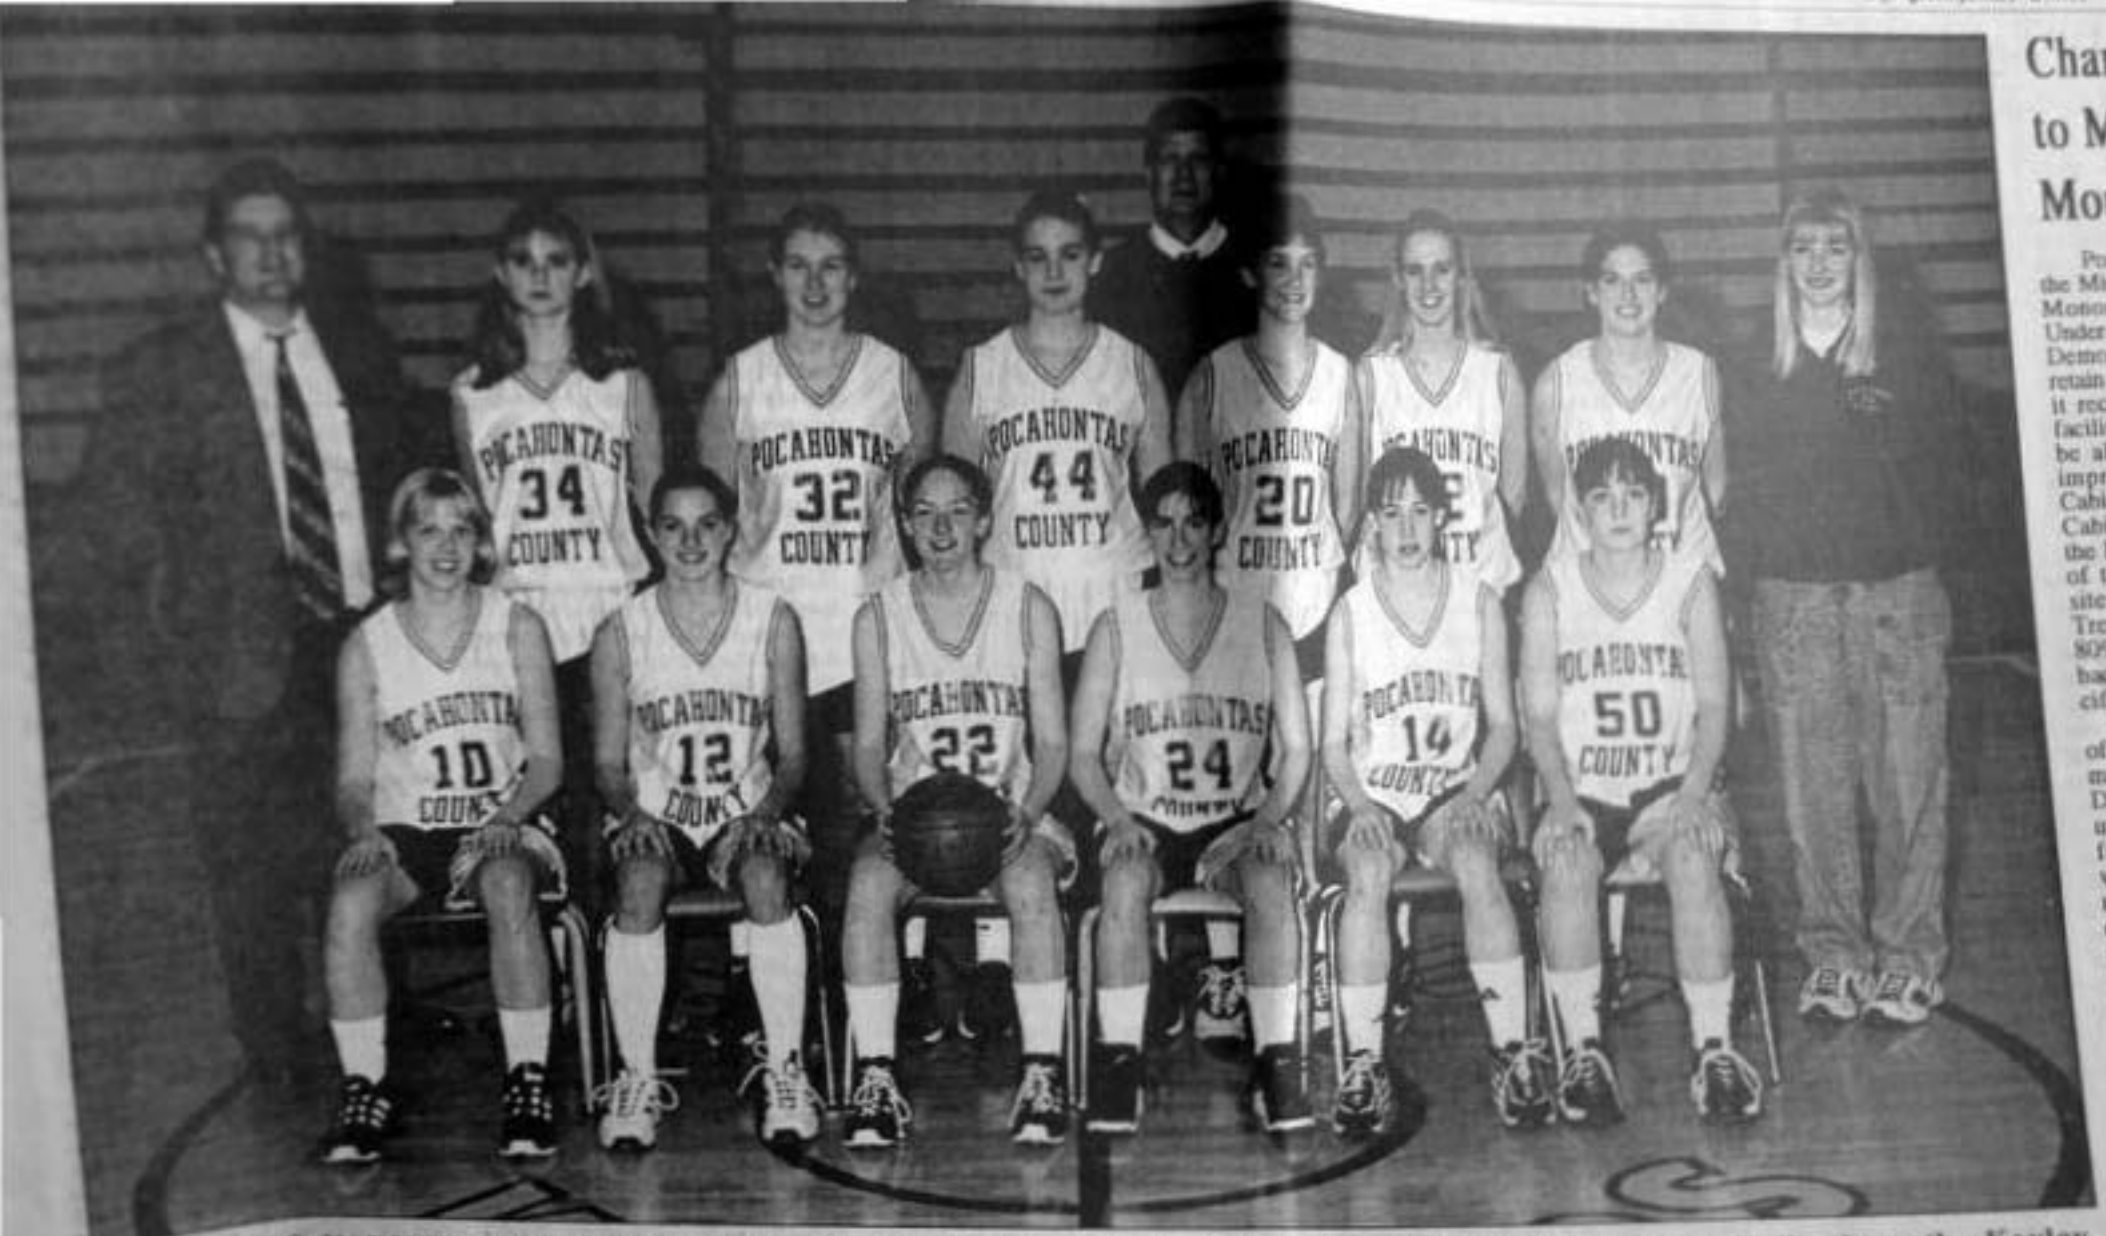
PCHS Principal Tom Sanders said he "was disappointed by the student body. I had higher expectations, but right now it is just a joke with many students." He said he knows, however, that 90% of the students would like to see the people making the threats be caught. Mr. Sanders said he does not feel there is any danger and the incidents are pranks.

Mr. Sanders stated that he feels plans to take the students to an alternate site after a bomb threat will not be of much value. He said he does not feel much education will take place if they are moved to another place, particularly when the threat comes later in the school day.

He noted that some high schools in West Virginia are handling bomb threat situation by searching the building and then going back in. Mr. Sanders suggested the same policy be adopted here, with students and staff having the right not to return to the building if they feel if would be unsafe. Students would be allowed to call from the bus garage for someone to come and pick them up.

Board member Bruce McKean agreed that an alternate site would

Continued to page 4



PCHS GIRLS VARSITY BASKETBALL Team: Megan Shearer, Valarie McLaughlin, Alison Flegel, Jaclyn Hollandsworth, Kayley Kolonay, Beth Young. Row 2, Asst. Coach Tim McClung, Melissa Hill, Christina Holstine, Amber Barker, Brandy Wayne, Malea Gum, Ginger Henry, Tausha Cassell. Row 3, Coach John Snyder

Chan to Mi Mou

Post the Midd Motong
Under a Demo, retain a it recei facility. be able improv Cabins Cabins
the Fo of the site.
Treas 80% back cifica of th man Dist upg fun wa nu ed po of ag a c s t

POCAHONTAS 34
COUNTY POCAHONTAS 32
COUNTY POCAHONTAS 44 COUNTY 10 12 22 24

POCAHONTAS 32
COUNTY POCAHONTAS 44 COUNTY POCAHONTAS 20
COUNTY POCAHONTAS
22 POCAHONTAS 24 POCAHONTAS
14 POCAHONTAS
50
COUNTY

POCAHONTAS 20
COUNTY POCAHONTAS 24 POCAHONTAS
14 POCAHONTAS
50
COUNTY

DEWEY SHARP POSES with van driver Sharon Lambert.

PCFC features transportation

Pocahontas County Senior Citizens, Inc., from time to time, will feature a service our agency is proud to offer. Our service feature in this article is our transportation department. PCSC is proud to say our fleet consists of 6 vehicles. We run three 16 (b)(2) grant vans as well as 3 residential size vans/cars. One of our residential vans is specifically used for our Multi Passenger Van Program or MPV. To be eligible to ride this van, you must have a valid WV Medicaid card and a scheduled medical appointment. We can even get you to dialysis and other types of procedures and appointments. Primarily this program transports in state, however, with prior approval may go out of state. The passenger is responsible for the approval for out of state travel, but we can give the information in order to get this accomplished. There is no age limitation for our MPV program.

Our grant vans are used to transport seniors and eligible disabled clients. These vans will transport you to and from our nutrition sites, as well as to activities and special events. Each area of the county has its own satellite group of seniors which meet monthly. These vans transport you to and from the area "satellite" meeting, as well as transporting you on shopping trips. Shopping trips usually travel to the Fairlea/Lewisburg area or to the Elkins area. Local shopping at both sites is provided on an as-needed basis. Essential errands and doctors' appointments can be kept; just call our offices and have your name added to the list of passengers for your area's specific day. Following is our schedule of vans; also watch the senior calendar published weekly for details concerning activities and trips.

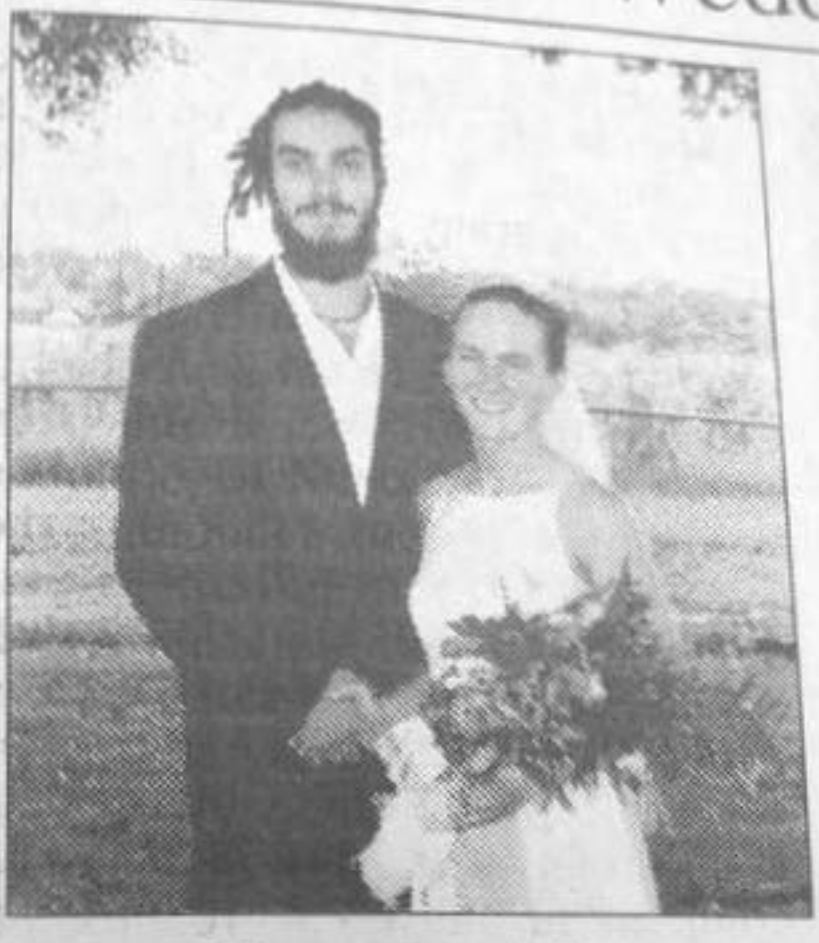
Second Monday - Marlinton Shopping; Third Monday - Lower Pocahontas to Marlinton; Fourth Monday - Cass Meeting; First Tuesday - Durbin Shopping; Second Tuesday - Cass Shopping; Third Tuesday - Green Bank Shopping; First Wednesday - Lower Pocahontas to Marlinton; Second Wednesday - Hillsboro Meeting at library at 11:30 a.m.; First Thursday - Beaver Creek to Marlinton; Second Thursday - Green Bank Meeting at library at 1 p.m.; Third Thursday - Hillsboro Shopping; Fifth Thursday - Beaver Creek to Marlinton; All Fridays - Upper Pocahontas/Cass to Marlinton.

In addition to providing grant van services and MPV, our center provides individual transportation. This transportation is provided by our Senior Support employees, Denise Burgess and Mary Lou Dilley, or our Outreach employee, Bill Browning. This service is reserved for individuals over sixty or eligible disabled persons unable to be transported on the vans. If you take advantage of this service, you must require physical assistance. All other passengers should take advantage of our grant vans running on regular scheduled routes.

Our transportation department employs a full-time van driver whose time is designated solely to meetings, shopping, activities, and special outings. This driver is Sharon Lambert.

Grant van drivers in the Marlinton area are Bill McCloud and William McCoy, providing transportation to and from the Marlinton site for people who wish to dine with us. They also deliver meals to eligible home-bound seniors. The Durbin grant van driver is Sam Cassell; she also provides a ride to and from the site for people to dine in. Sam also delivers meals in the Durbin area. Of course, our doors are always open to anyone wishing to dine at our Durbin or Marlinton site. We eat at noon, and our meal program will be a feature story in the weeks to come.

In closing, our transportation services have a variety of fee schedules or donation suggestions. These services are offered equally to any eligible individual wishing to have fun and enjoy themselves. Our agency will always strive to exceed your expectations. If you have questions, call one of our centers and watch for upcoming service feature articles. Marlinton 799-6337, Durbin 456-4261.



Sharpes - Adamo

Stacy Sharpes and Joshua Adamo were married in a private ceremony on September 5, 1999, at their home in Shepherdstown.

The ceremony, written entirely by Josh and Stacy, included wedding vows and traditions from many different cultures. The ceremony was conducted by Reverend Paul Sitko, father of the groom. Christian DiLiberto, nephew of the couple, was ringbearer. Nieces, Alexandra Sisler and Gabriella DiLiberto, served as flower girls. Sisters, Pascha Adamo, Michal Sitko, and Alison Sharpes, did readings. Charlotte Via and Vonnie O'Brien transformed the planned garden ceremony and reception into an indoor affair when hurricane Dennis visited.

Stacy is the daughter of Pam and Dave Sharpes

Adamo were married in a private ceremony on September 5, 1999, at their home in Shepherdstown.

The ceremony, written entirely by Josh and Stacy, included wedding vows and traditions from many different cultures. The ceremony was conducted by Reverend Paul Sitko, father of the groom. Christian DiLiberto, nephew of the couple, was ringbearer. Nieces, Alexandra Sisler and Gabriella DiLiberto, served as flower girls. Sisters, Pascha Adamo, Michal Sitko, and Alison Sharpes, did readings. Charlotte Via and Vonnie O'Brien transformed the planned garden ceremony and reception into an indoor affair when hurricane Dennis visited.

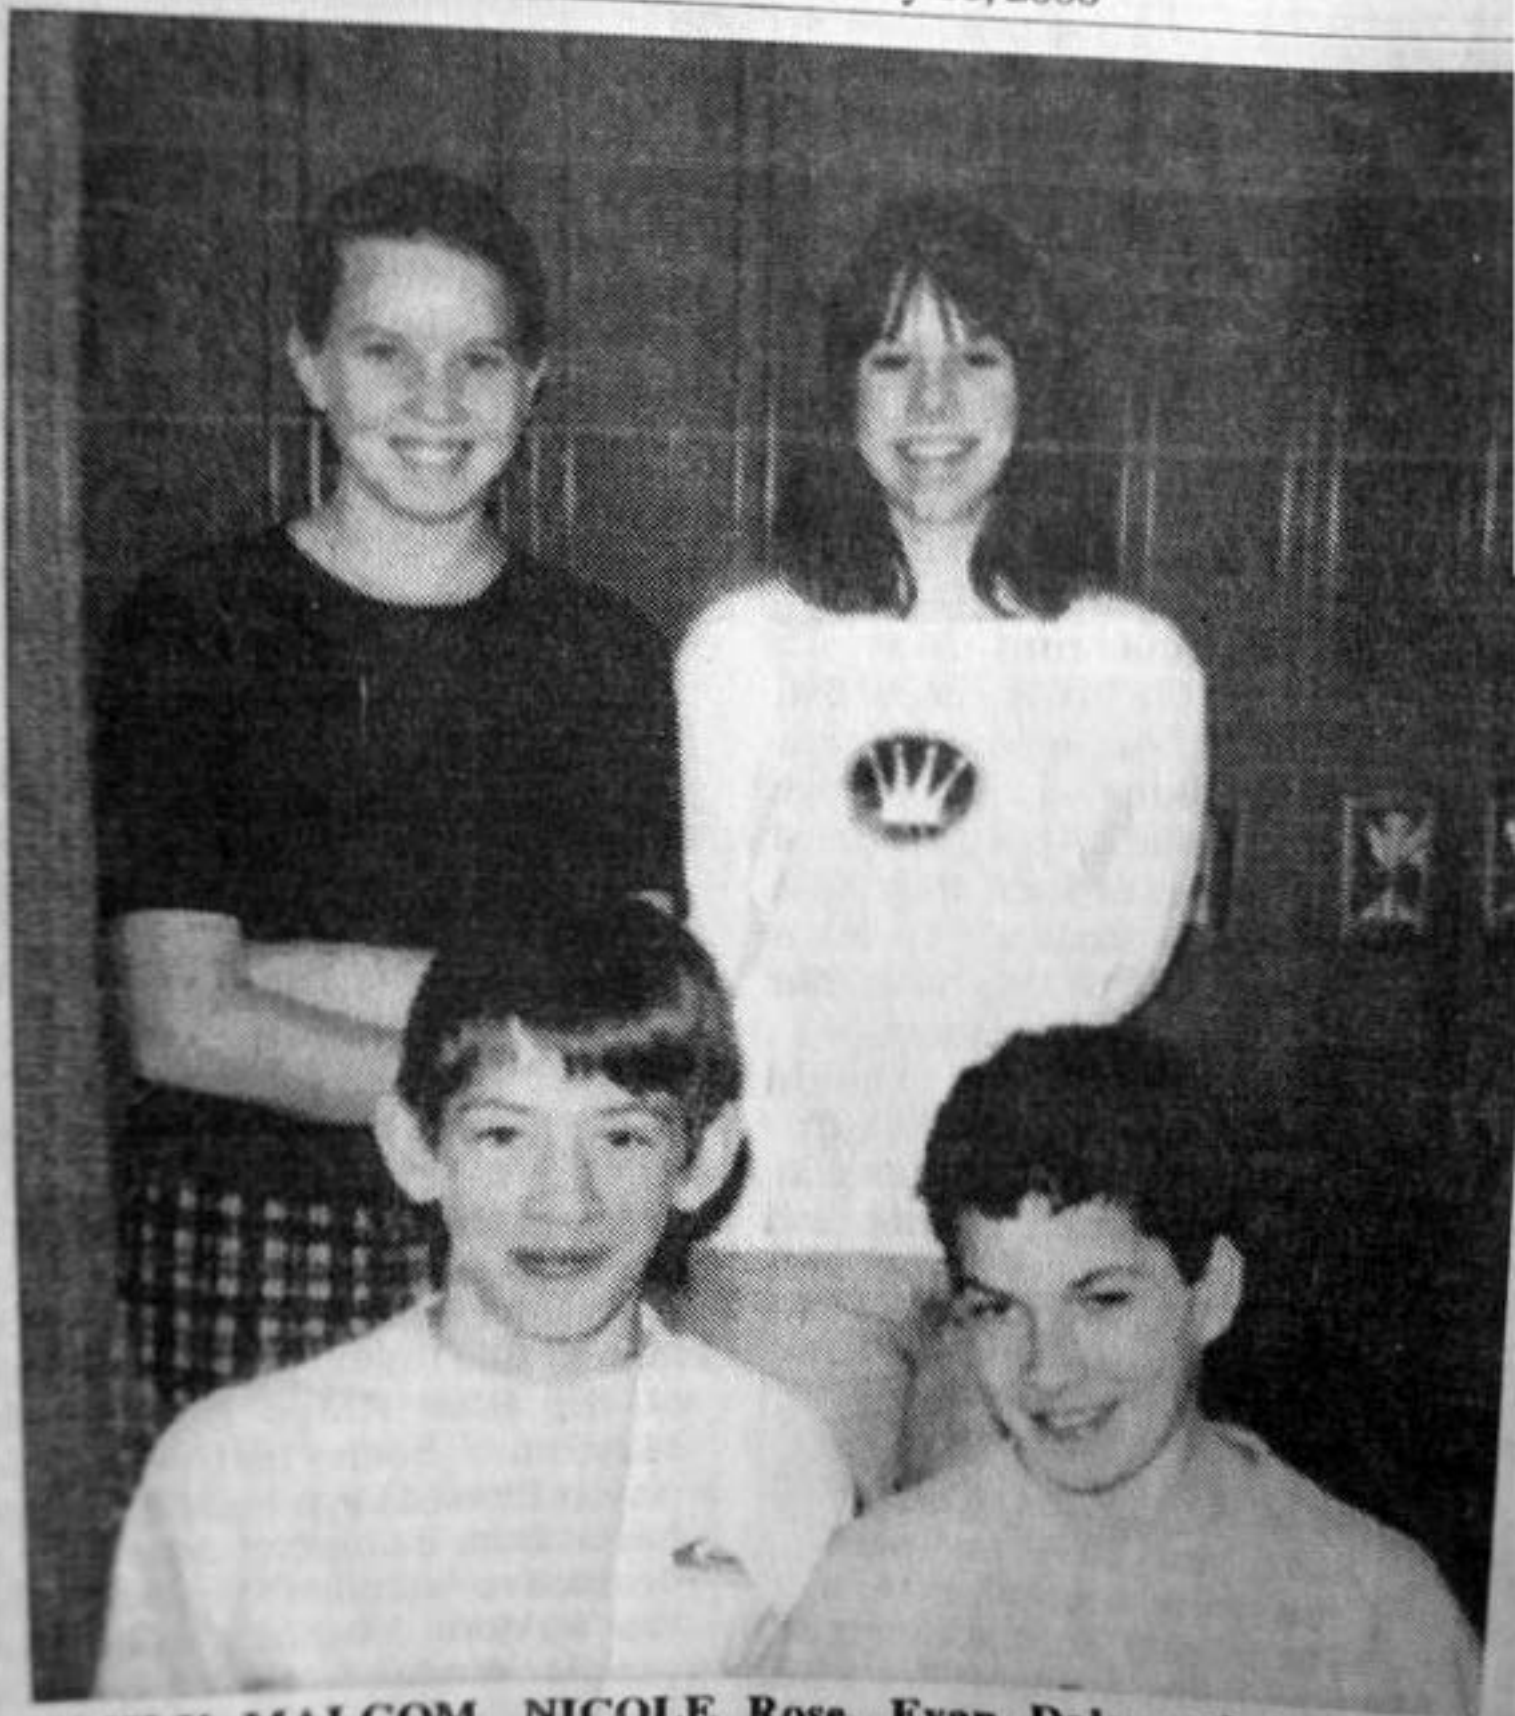
Stacy is the daughter of Pam and Dave Sharpes and the granddaughter of Mary Lou Dilley, of Marlinton, and the late Gordon Dilley. She is a 1998 graduate of Sweet Briar College. Stacy is employed as a technical writer for the United States Coast Guard and is working on a second degree in accounting at Shepherd College.

Joshua is the son of Paul and Edwina Sitko, of Wheeling. He is a Shepherd College graduate and runs his own business designing and building exhibition display cases and artifact mounts for museums, and also constructing one-of-a-kind furniture pieces. Stacy and Joshua enjoyed a quick trip to a health spa after the wedding. They will travel to Egypt for an extended honeymoon this spring. The couple resides in Shepherdstown.

Engagement

FIVE GENERATIONS

CANESSA PARKER HAS the honor of marking five generations. L to R: Carrie Gault, Julie Lamphear, Mary Jane Moses and Hazel Vandevender. Canessa is fortunate enough to have 5 generations on the side of her father, David Parker.



EMILY MALCOM, NICOLE Rose, Evan Dale and Joe Mosesso participated in the Golden Horseshoe Pre-Test.

Students take Golden Horseshoe pre-test participated in the Golden Horseshoe Pre-Test.

Students take Golden Horseshoe pre-test

On January 11, all Pocahontas County eighth graders took the Golden Horseshoe Pre-Test to determine which students would qualify to take the State Golden Horseshoe Test on February 9, at PCHS.

Congratulations to the following Golden Horseshoe participants who will represent Marlinton Middle School on February 9: Nicole Rose, Emily Malcom, Joe Mosesso, and Evan Dale. They will ride school buses to PCHS on Wednesday, and return to MMS by private vehicle after completing the Golden Horseshoe Test. The alternates for the test are Sarah Beard and Eric Stemple. The alternate snow date is February 10.

The first Golden Horseshoes were given to a group of explorers in 1716 by their leader, Virginia Lieutenant Governor Alexander Spotswood. These Golden Horseshoes were gifts to reward his men for daring to face the challenge of the unknown. Today's Golden Horseshoes are awarded to young men and women for their achievements in learning about the history and culture of West Virginia.

- - -

JOE MOSESSO

Mosesso wins MMS Geography Bee

Joe Mosesso, son of Cathy and Greg Mosesso, of Marlinton, is the champion of the MMS school-level competition of the National Geography Bee, held on December 16, 1999. Joe is currently an eighth grader at Marlinton Middle School.

The school-level bee, at which students answered oral questions on geography, was the first round in the annual National Geography Bee. The Bee is sponsored by the National Geographic Society and Sylvan Learning Centers.

Joe then was administered a written exam. The top 100 scorers (from each of the 50 states and territories) will compete in their state Bees held in April.

State champions will then participate in the National Geography Bee national championships in May. The first place national winner receives a $25,000 college scholarship.

Congratulations, Joe, on a job well done! Other students competing in the school level competition were: Heidi Beverage, Katie Moore, Hallie Herold, Clay Bell, Lucia Mosesso, Emily Malcom, and Brittany McMann.

Scholarship Awards Help Local Student

Concord College has announced several scholarship recipients for the 2000-2001 academic year. The following student from PCHS has earned recognition:

Erin Wimer has been awarded the Academic Achievement Scholarship and the Director's Scholarship. Erin is a senior at Pocahontas County High School where she has participated in Drama Club, Yearbook, Horse Club, Hi-Y, Prom Committee, and Secretary of Project Christmas. Her awards include membership in the National Honor Society and Honor Roll. Erin is the daughter of Katherine Wimer, of Hillsboro.

Concord accepts applications for scholarships until all funds are expanded. Call the admissions office at 1-888-384-5249 for more information.

Ricottilli makes Dean's List at WVU

Eric Scott Ricottilli, of Dunmore, received recognition of Academic excellence and was named to the Dean's List for the 1999 Fall Semester at WVU—Parkersburg. Eric is majoring in Welding.

Eric is a 1999 graduate of Pocahontas County High School.

Eric is the son of Melvin Ricottilli, of Marlinton, and Cindy Ricottilli, of Dunmore. He is the grandson of Madeline Galford, of Dunmore. Paternal grandmother is Lynda Ricottilli, of Marlinton.

DOTTY KELLISON (LEFT), 1999 President of AARP Chapter #1853, presents Jane Price Sharp, Fund Raising Chairman, a check for the McClintic Libary. AARP was happy to participate in this very worthwhile project.

MMS has two bomb threats this week

Prosecutor expects to charge four juveniles in school bomb threats

Prosecuting Attorney Walt Weiford said Tuesday he expects to file more juvenile petitions in circuit court against three male PCHS students and one female PCHS student in connection with several bomb threats which have plagued the Pocahontas County school system for several weeks.

"The petitions will be filed by Friday," Weiford said.

Two of the males are 16, Weiford said, while the other male and the female both are 15.

Two students were involved in multiple incidents, according to the prosecuting attorney.

One student was involved in placing threats on January 28 and February 4, he said.

Another student has implicated himself in three other threats, Weiford said.

Dates for those threats were not available since the prosecutor said he had not received reports from either the Pocahontas County Sheriff's Department or the Marlinton Detachment of the West Virginia State Police.

Those law enforcement agencies have been "covered up" by the recent rash of bomb threats which now have interrupted school over a four week period, he continued.

Weiford said he was acting on information provided to him by the school system.

Marlinton Middle School had two threats this week, a telephone call before 8 a.m. Monday and a note found at the school during the lunch shift Tuesday.

Students were not sent home, but bussed to alternative sites in Marlinton. MMS teachers had prepared packets for the students to work on in lieu of regular assignments.

Two juvenile petitions were filed last week in connection with two other threats at MMS.

One 19 year-old PCHS student has been arrested and is scheduled to appear before Chief Judge Frank Jolliffe on Friday.

area residents and building contractors.

On the issue of the reported property within the vicinity of the quarry."

Proposal for two county high schools made to BOE

Board of Education members heard a proposal for having two high schools in the county instead of one at a special board meeting on Wednesday of last week.

The meeting was called for budget and personnel matters. It opened with an executive session on a student discipline matter associated with the recent bomb threats in county schools.

Jimmie Cutlip suggested that the proposal to seek voter approval for an excess tax levy to avoid staff cuts be expanded to provide funds to create two K-12 schools in the county. Mr. Cutlip said he was speaking not only for himself but a number of other people interested in this idea.

Mr. Cutlip said the advantage would be to keep children closer to home and schools closer to the community. The present long bus ride to Pocahontas County High School that many students have would be eliminated.

He noted that a 100% excess levy will generate almost $2 million a year and that should be sufficient to both support programs threatened with being cut and provide money for the new high school facilities.

Mr. Cutlip expressed his fear that the present trend will end with all students in one school at a central location.

Board member Lowell Galford wondered if the two high schools could offer the same variety of programs that are presently available at PCHS.

Board member Gibbs Kinderman noted that he has been in favor of two high schools, but Mr. Cutlip's proposal will be a four-to-five year effort. He noted that state requirements make smaller schools hard to be approved by the state Board of Education. He said for the deconsolidation of schools to come about there will have to be "a new governor, new state superintendent of schools, new head of the School Building Authority, and new majority on the State Board of Education."

Board member Bruce McKean agreed that any plan to change to a two-high-school configuration in the county would take a number of years to become reality.

Elaine Diller reminded the Board of the immediate needs of the school system that must be addressed.

Mr. Cutlip emphasized that he does not want his daughter, when she reaches the seventh grade, to ride on a bus to the high school.

Jane Lacasse, representing the Save Our Schools committee, asked the Board on the status of the committee's request for the Board to submit a excess tax levy to the voters. She reminded board members they had received recommendations from the committee at Monday's Board meeting and said the committee would like to know if the members are in favor.

Ms. Lacasse commented that the SOS Committee wants to keep the middle schools and high school separate. She noted that in a K-12 setup, there will have to be 7th and 8th grade students in with older students for some classes, due to the small size of the high school portion of the school.

School Superintendent James Phares said that the central office has developed a possible levy call for review by the Board. He also said he wants to meet with the SOS Committee on Friday to get their input on the proposed levy.

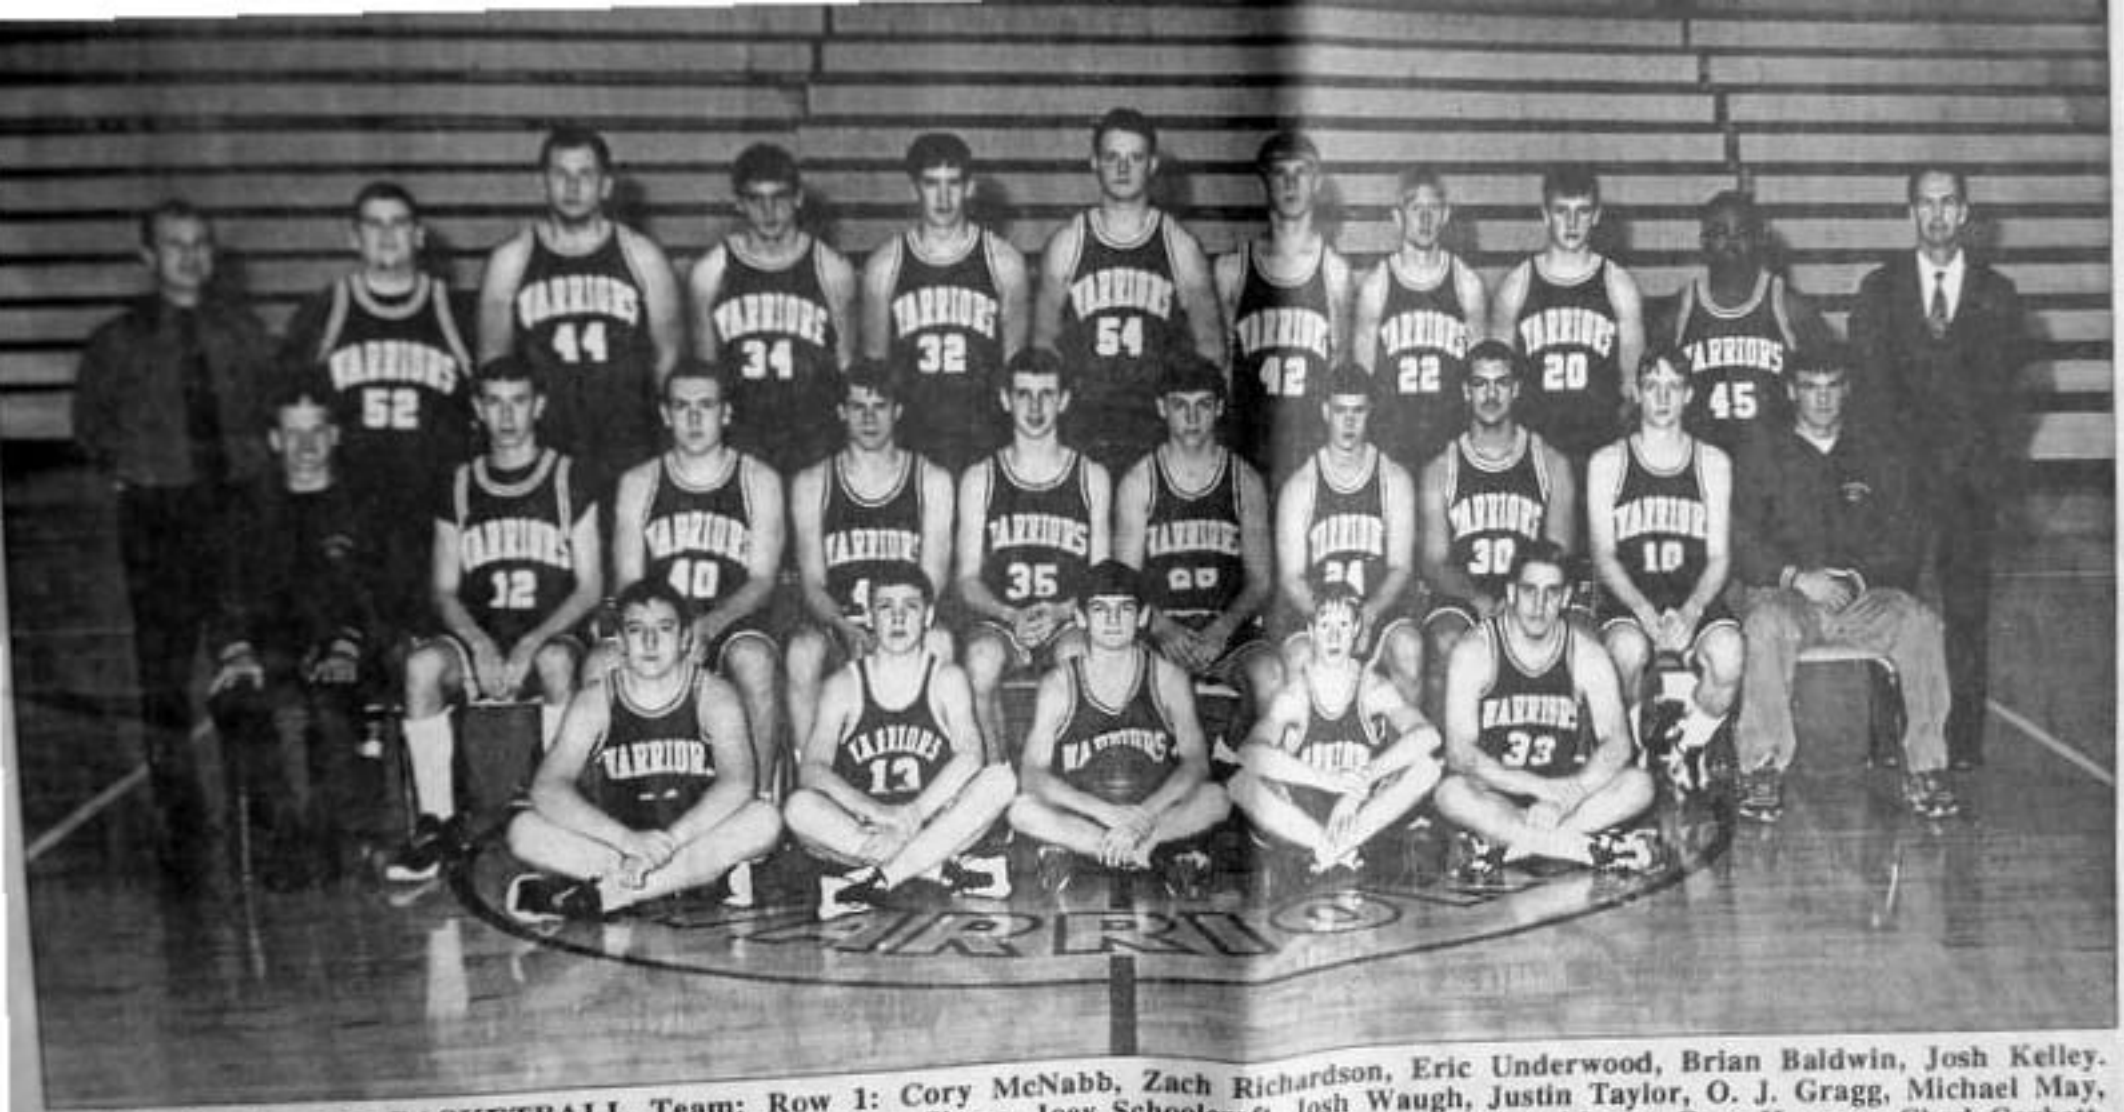
Board members indicated that they are not ready to make their decisions on the levy proposal yet.

Other members of the SOS Committee at the meeting were Ms. Diller, Virginia Must, and Maryann Alonso

Dr. Phares told the Board he has withdrawn the proposed plan for restructuring at the high school.

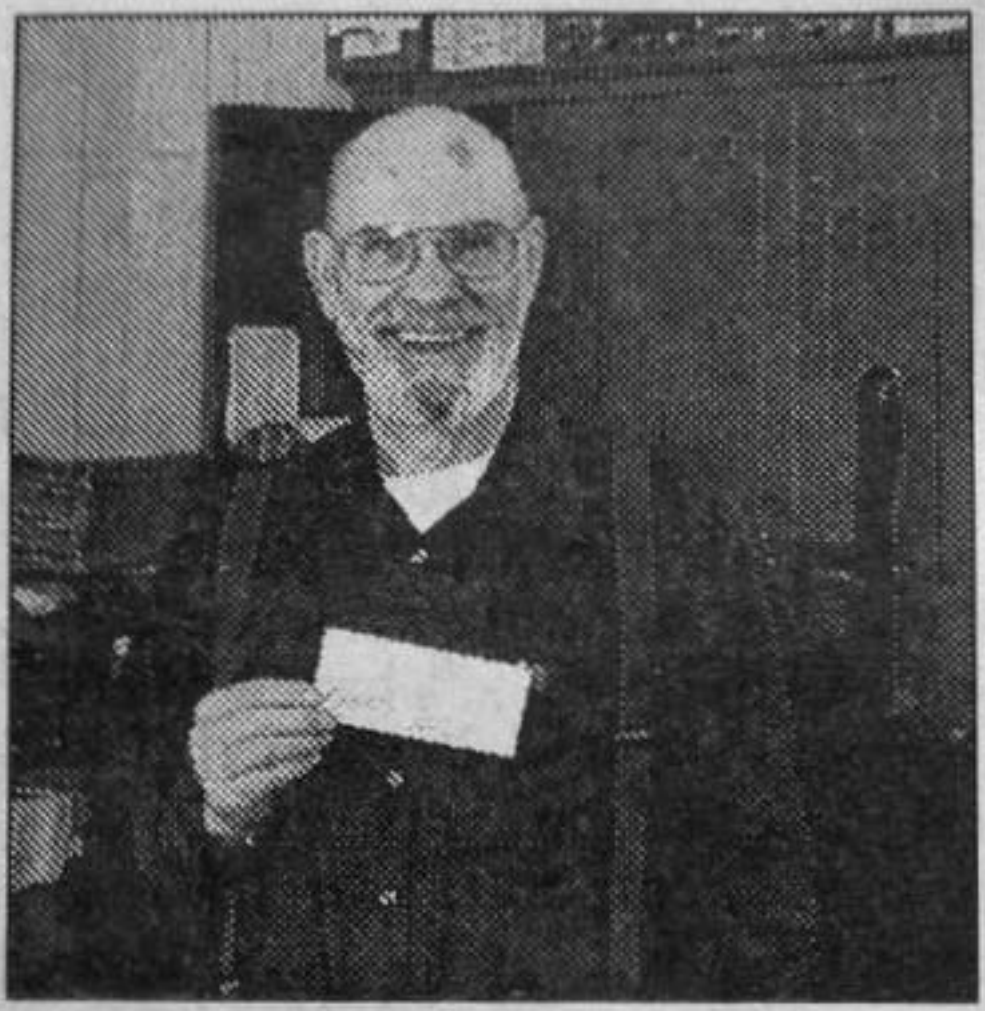
Dr. Phares said he and Board member Kenneth Vance were in Charleston and spoke before a legislative committee on the issue of a more flexible school schedule. They also discussed possible funding for the vocational program with the Department of Education. Senator Walt Helmick was not able to make a scheduled meeting with them to discuss budget digest funds due to other obligations, Dr. Phares said.

The Board met in its second executive session of the evening on personnel matters.



PCHS WARRIORS BASKETBALL Team: Row 1: Cory McNabb, Zach Richardson, Eric Underwood, Brian Baldwin, Josh Kelley. Row 2: Manager Andrew Rider, Jamie Long, Marcus Sharp, Joey Schoolcraft, Josh Waugh, Justin Taylor, O. J. Gragg, Michael May, Eli Sharp, Chris Simmons. Row 3: Assistant Coach Mike Shank, Matt Rhea, Eric Kelley, Jeremy Moore, Greg Hamons, Chad Corbett, Jonathan Parker, Clint Johnson, Kellyn Cassell, Ricky Tyson, Coach Bob Sheets

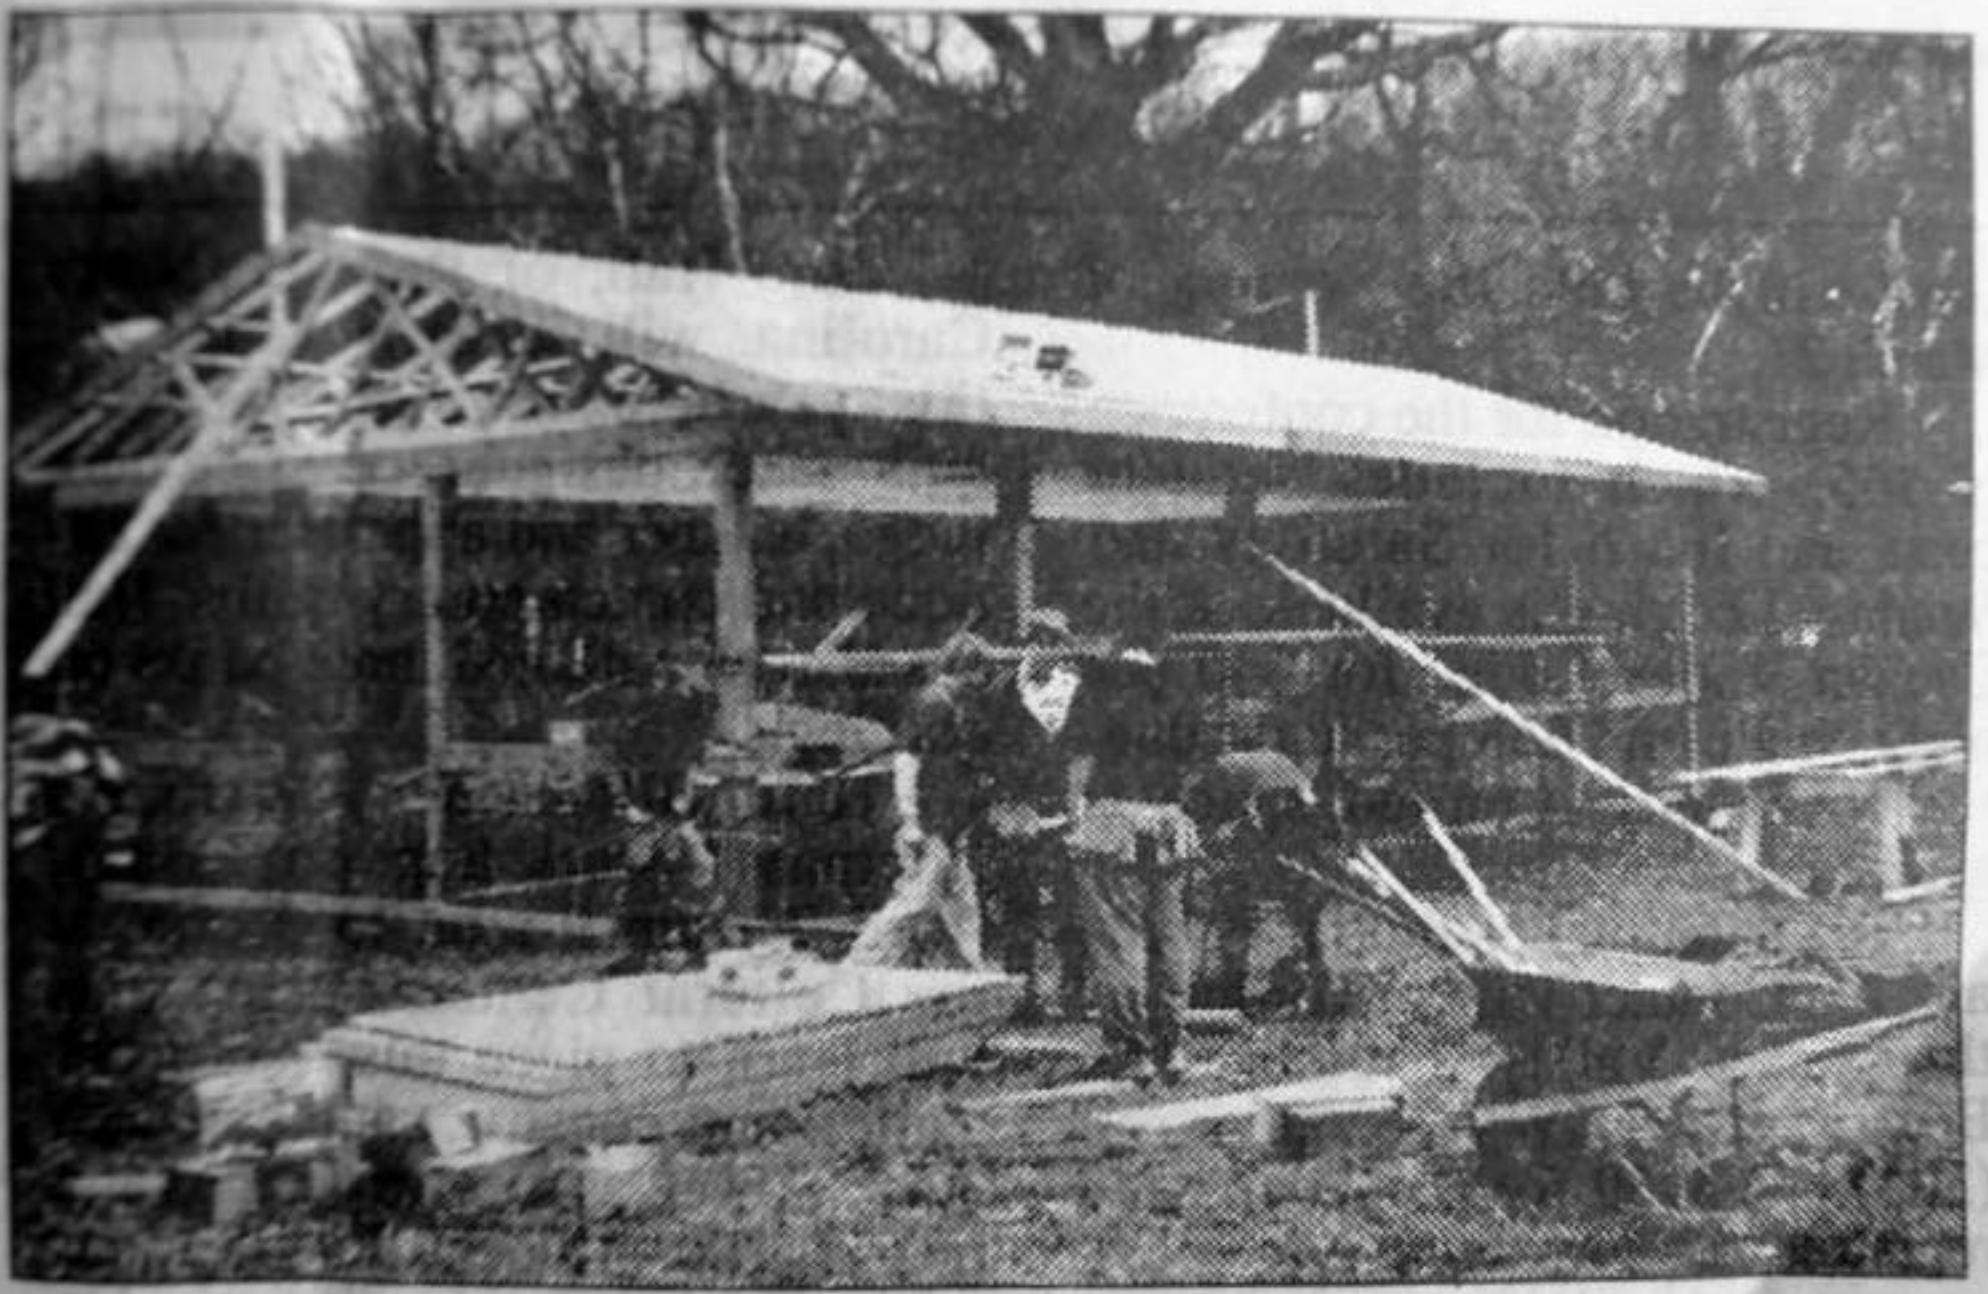
Kindergarten Registration



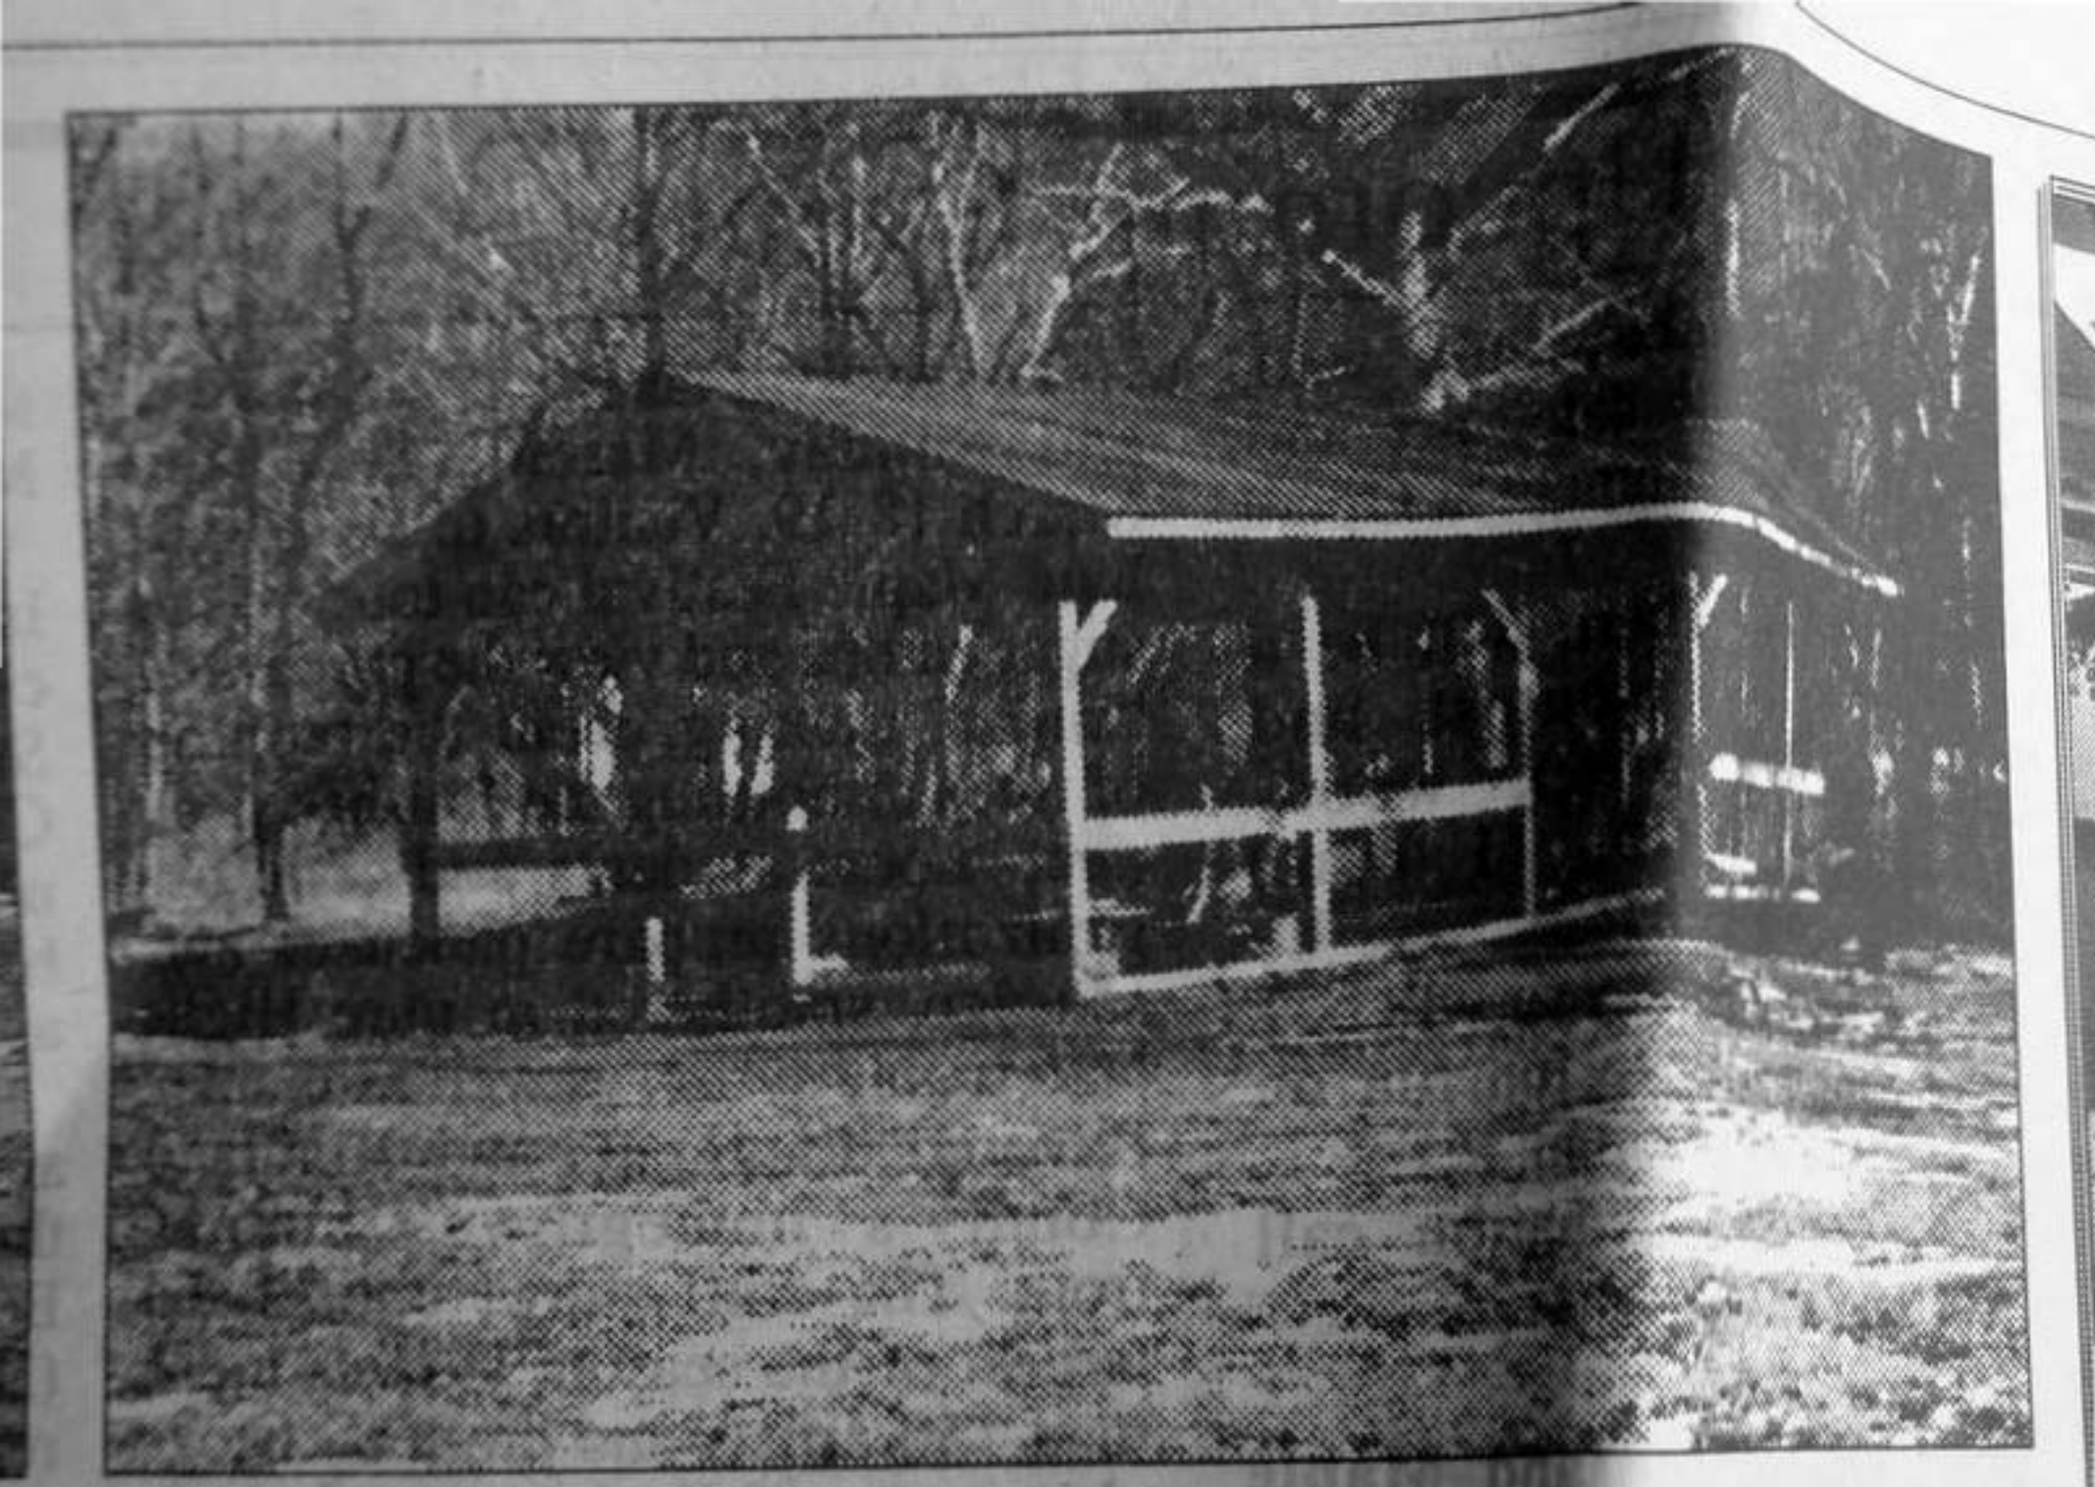
LONNIE L. DARNELL, Adjutant for Chapter 35 Disabled American Veterans, with a check from the group to the fund helping Mary Jane VanReenan, who is taking treatment for cancer.

Donations can be sent to the City National Bank, Marlinton, WV 24954. Att: Mary Jane Buzzard Van-Reenan Benefit Fund.

The DAV meets monthly on the third Saturday.



VOCATIONAL STUDENTS FROM PCHS are shown constructing a picnic shelter at the new park in East Cass.



THE SHELTER WAS completed early this year and is ready for use when spring arrives.

PCHS classes complete shelter at East Cass

In late September the Pocahontas Development Authority contacted Dwayne Gibson at PCHS about building a 20x40 picnic shelter on the East Cass Project. His Building Construction II class was willing to meet the challenge. The students in the class are: Jason Alderman, Harry Fisher, Preston Hedrick, Tim Madison, Luke Miller, Jeremiah Smith, Lee Tincher, Ben Withers, Anthony Woody, and Andrew Workman. They participated in the design of the structure, completed scale drawings for a front and side elevation, and estimated all materials needed. Materials for the shelter were priced (near $4700), approved and ordered by the deadline of September 30.

The next step was to get temporary power installed on the site. Roy Gibson, of Citizens Communications, was contacted and agreed to donate a pole and have it set for the electric service. Rick Ziegler's Electricity II class built a temporary service panel the following week. Aaron Huffman and Dustin Simmons, from the Electricity class, traveled to the site on the first trip with the BCII class and installed the service panel, while the construction class laid out the structure to determine post hole locations. Once the panel was inspected and approved, Allegheny Power made the necessary connections, and the project was under way.

Once the class got the routine together of traveling to the site and managing the tools and equipment needed, the project went smoothly. Materials were delivered as needed and unloaded on site by the students. Posts were set, braced and concreted. Headers were placed, braces were notched into the posts, and the entire supporting structure was bolted together for extra strength. Trusses were set, sheathing applied and the roof shingled. Finishing details were the handrails, siding on the gable ends and some trim.

To finish off the project, Joseph Riley's Agriculture Mechanics class built several picnic tables to be used for the new shelter.

During the project, some of the Introduction to Building Construction students were given the opportunity to be excused from their afternoon classes and go along to experience the project. This was done on a rotation basis, with several being involved.

...Cass

Mr. Gib... the site for 3... days to com... ing time on ... one half hou... travel time ...

The p... been succes... Glades Buil... several sm... material on ... nication for ... allowing ... storage of ... the teacher... students ... more esp... PCHS. ... diligence ... job would ...

...would not have ...without the help of ... happily for making ... companies to limit the ... Citizens Commu... pole. Don Hise for ... the use of his garage for ... and some materials, ... who allowed the Intro ... to run their classes, and ... especially to the students at ... Without their cooperation, ... dedication, a quality ... have been completed.

Go...

pr...

PCHS student pleads guilty to making bomb threats

A Pocahontas County High School student plead guilty Friday to falsely making a bomb threat on January 27 in Pocahontas County Circuit Court.

Benjamin I. Withers, 19, of Marlinton, admitted to Chief Judge Frank Jolliffe that he had written a note that said, "Everyone is going to pay. Kaboom."

The note was found on locker 217, according to the court records.

Jolliffe referred the case to the probation department.

"Ben just joined in on what appears to be happening on a regular basis," Withers' attorney, Tony Tatano, told the court. Tatano said Withers is a "prime candidate" for probation.

Possible penalties for the crime include a $1000 fine and up to one year in jail, or both.

Jolliffe will sentence Withers on March 17.

Another 11 juvenile petitions have been filed with the court concerning a rash of bomb threats which have plagued county schools for a month.

According to Prosecuting Attorney Walt Weiford, no bombs or implements necessary in making bombs have been found in the investigation.

Marlinton Middle School and Pocahontas County High School were closed Friday and Monday. West Virginia Department of Safety personnel searched the buildings and teachers received counseling and stress management training.

According to PCHS principal Tom Sanders, six counselors from Morgantown and Charleston counseled teachers in stress management, "particularly in dealing with bomb threats."

"They've faced the same problems we're facing here," Sanders said.

Teachers and administrators also developed plans for resuming academics and security to diminish the number of bomb threats at the schools.

Afternoon blocks will be increased to 100 minutes on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, Sanders said. Lunch periods on those days will be reduced to 30 minutes, he said.

The school has also increased security by locking all doors but the front door, parents are in the halls watching doorways and bathrooms, Sanders said. Students' bookbags and pockets will be searched, as well as every stranger on the premises, he continued.

Further, the building will have 24 hours security, Sanders said.

Sanders said the measures had improved the staff morale.

Staff morale had improved at MMS, as well, according to principal Glen Wade.

"I'm really proud of my staff," he said. "They've pulled together."

MMS will provide academic acceleration in the form of better classroom planning and moving to a nine week grading period for this semester only, Wade said.

MMS will also offer tutoring after school, he continued.

"Teachers are making themselves readily availble," Wade said.

Parent volunteers are also monitoring halls and bathrooms at MMS and front doors are the only access to the building, he said.

Students' backpacks, purses and lunch packs were searched Tuesday morning also, he added.

MMS had security personnel on site 24 hours a day since last Thursday's bomb threat, Wade said.

School resumed on its regular schedule Tuesday.

Marlinton Middle School student expelled from school for 1 year

At a special Board of Education meeting on Wednesday of last week a 14-year-old Marlinton Middle School student was expelled from school for one calendar year. The expulsion is for one of the bomb threats at the school.

The action, which was approved on a 5-0 vote, came following a hearing in executive session.

PCHS/MMS closed for bomb search; staffs meet

by Terrell McSweeny

Pocahontas Superintendent Jim Phares closed Pocahontas County High School and Marlinton Middle School for two days after the bomb threat number 15.

The decision to close the two schools came after Marlinton Middle Schoolers were evacuated for the fourth consecutive day to "alternative sites" in Marlinton—the Marlinton Presbyterian Church and the Municipal Building.

MMS Principal Glen Wade estimated that between 40%- 50% of his students were picked up early from the alternative sites; those who remained worked on specially prepared "evacuation packets."

The student population at the high school also diminished over the course of the week.

Principal Tom Sanders estimated that around 60% of PCHS students re-entered the building after a threat Tuesday, but rumors kept many students away for the rest of the week. By Thursday 1/3 of the students were missing.

Superintendent Phares canceled school at PCHS and MMS Thursday afternoon, citing the low morale of students, faculty and administrators.

"We're giving serious consideration to the stress and anxiety of our students. The learning environment in these two schools has detereorated to the point where this seems like the best option," said Phares Thursday afternoon when he announced the closings on WVMR.

Phares also noted that faculty needed time to get help managing stress and planning make-up work.

"The frustration level is very high. Teachers need some additional help themselves," Phares told parents at a public meeting.

Almost 150 parents and students attended an emergency meeting at PCHS Thursday night to discuss the threats. Many worried that their children would be too afraid to return to the schools if they were reopened.

Phares recommended that parents bring students in for counseling at "crisis centers" held at Marlinton Middle School, the Marlinton Municipal Building, and Pocahontas County High School Monday.

"We have to heal these wounds and go on," said Phares.

Phares cautioned against an "us versus them" attitude. "The students who are doing this are a very small group; 99.9% of our students are good kids and we don't want to punish them," he said.

Faculty are working on plans to tighten security in schools that include searching students as they enter school buildings, limiting locker and hall privileges, and installing surveillance cameras.

Phares said he supported increasing security measures at the schools but he added, "our schools aren't designed to be jails."

Instead Phares emphasized that part of the solution lies with parents. He encouraged parents to be supportive of their kids and of the schools.

"Please reassure your children that they are safe. That we will keep them safe. I trust our teachers and our administrators and I can tell you that they care about the safety of your kids as much as you do. We all do," he said.

Friday, a special West Virginia State police K-9 unit combed both schools and found no traces of explosive devices.

Orchids...

To Bob Mann and First Citizens Bank for all they do to support Hillsboro School.

to Eugene Beverage for plowing his neighbors' driveways on Drennen Ridge.

to Kermit Friel for helping neighbors with frozen pipes.

To the Minnehaha Springs Extension Homemakers for the nice Valentine treats for others.

To Henry Taylor, A. J. Taylor and Dewey Hoover for helping the Senior Citizens van in a snowstorm!

to Claude Sharp, Barry Sharp, and Lewis Sharp for cleaning driveways on Jericho Road.

Upper Knapps Creek Watershed Association receives funds

U.S. Senator Robert C. Byrd announced last week that the U.S. Department of Agriculture Natural Resource Conservation Service (NRCS) has released $400,000 for stream restoration efforts of the Upper Tygart Valley River Watershed Association and for the Upper Knapps Creek Watershed Association. Byrd added the funds to an appropriations bill last year.

"Ensuring a quality, plentiful water supply is a major priority in West Virginia. Part of that effort must involve restoring and protecting watersheds, many of which have been damaged by severe flooding, while others have been strained by months of drought," Byrd said.

"The $400,000 that I added last year for these projects will provide important assistance to the efforts to preserve and protect these West Virginia watersheds," Byrd said.

In the Upper Tygart Valley Watershed Partnership, local, state, and federal agencies are addressing water resources related concerns. Specifically, the groups are examining how to alleviate the lack of a quality water supply for communities in Randolph and Pocahontas counties. In addition, the agencies are examining erosion of forest lands and fish and wildlife habitat.

"A clean, consistent water supply is a basic building block for communities. Reliable clean water supplies give communities a tool to ensuring a brighter future, a future flowing as bright and clear as this water out of these taps," Byrd [illegible] Creek watershed initiative, agencies are working to develop a comprehensive plan to restore the health of the Pocahontas County [illegible] an appropriations bill last year.

"Ensuring a quality, plentiful water supply is a major priority in West Virginia. Part of that effort must involve restoring and protecting watersheds, many of which have been damaged by severe flooding, while others have been strained by months of drought," Byrd said.

"The $400,000 that I added last year for these projects will provide important assistance to the efforts to preserve and protect these West Virginia watersheds," Byrd said.

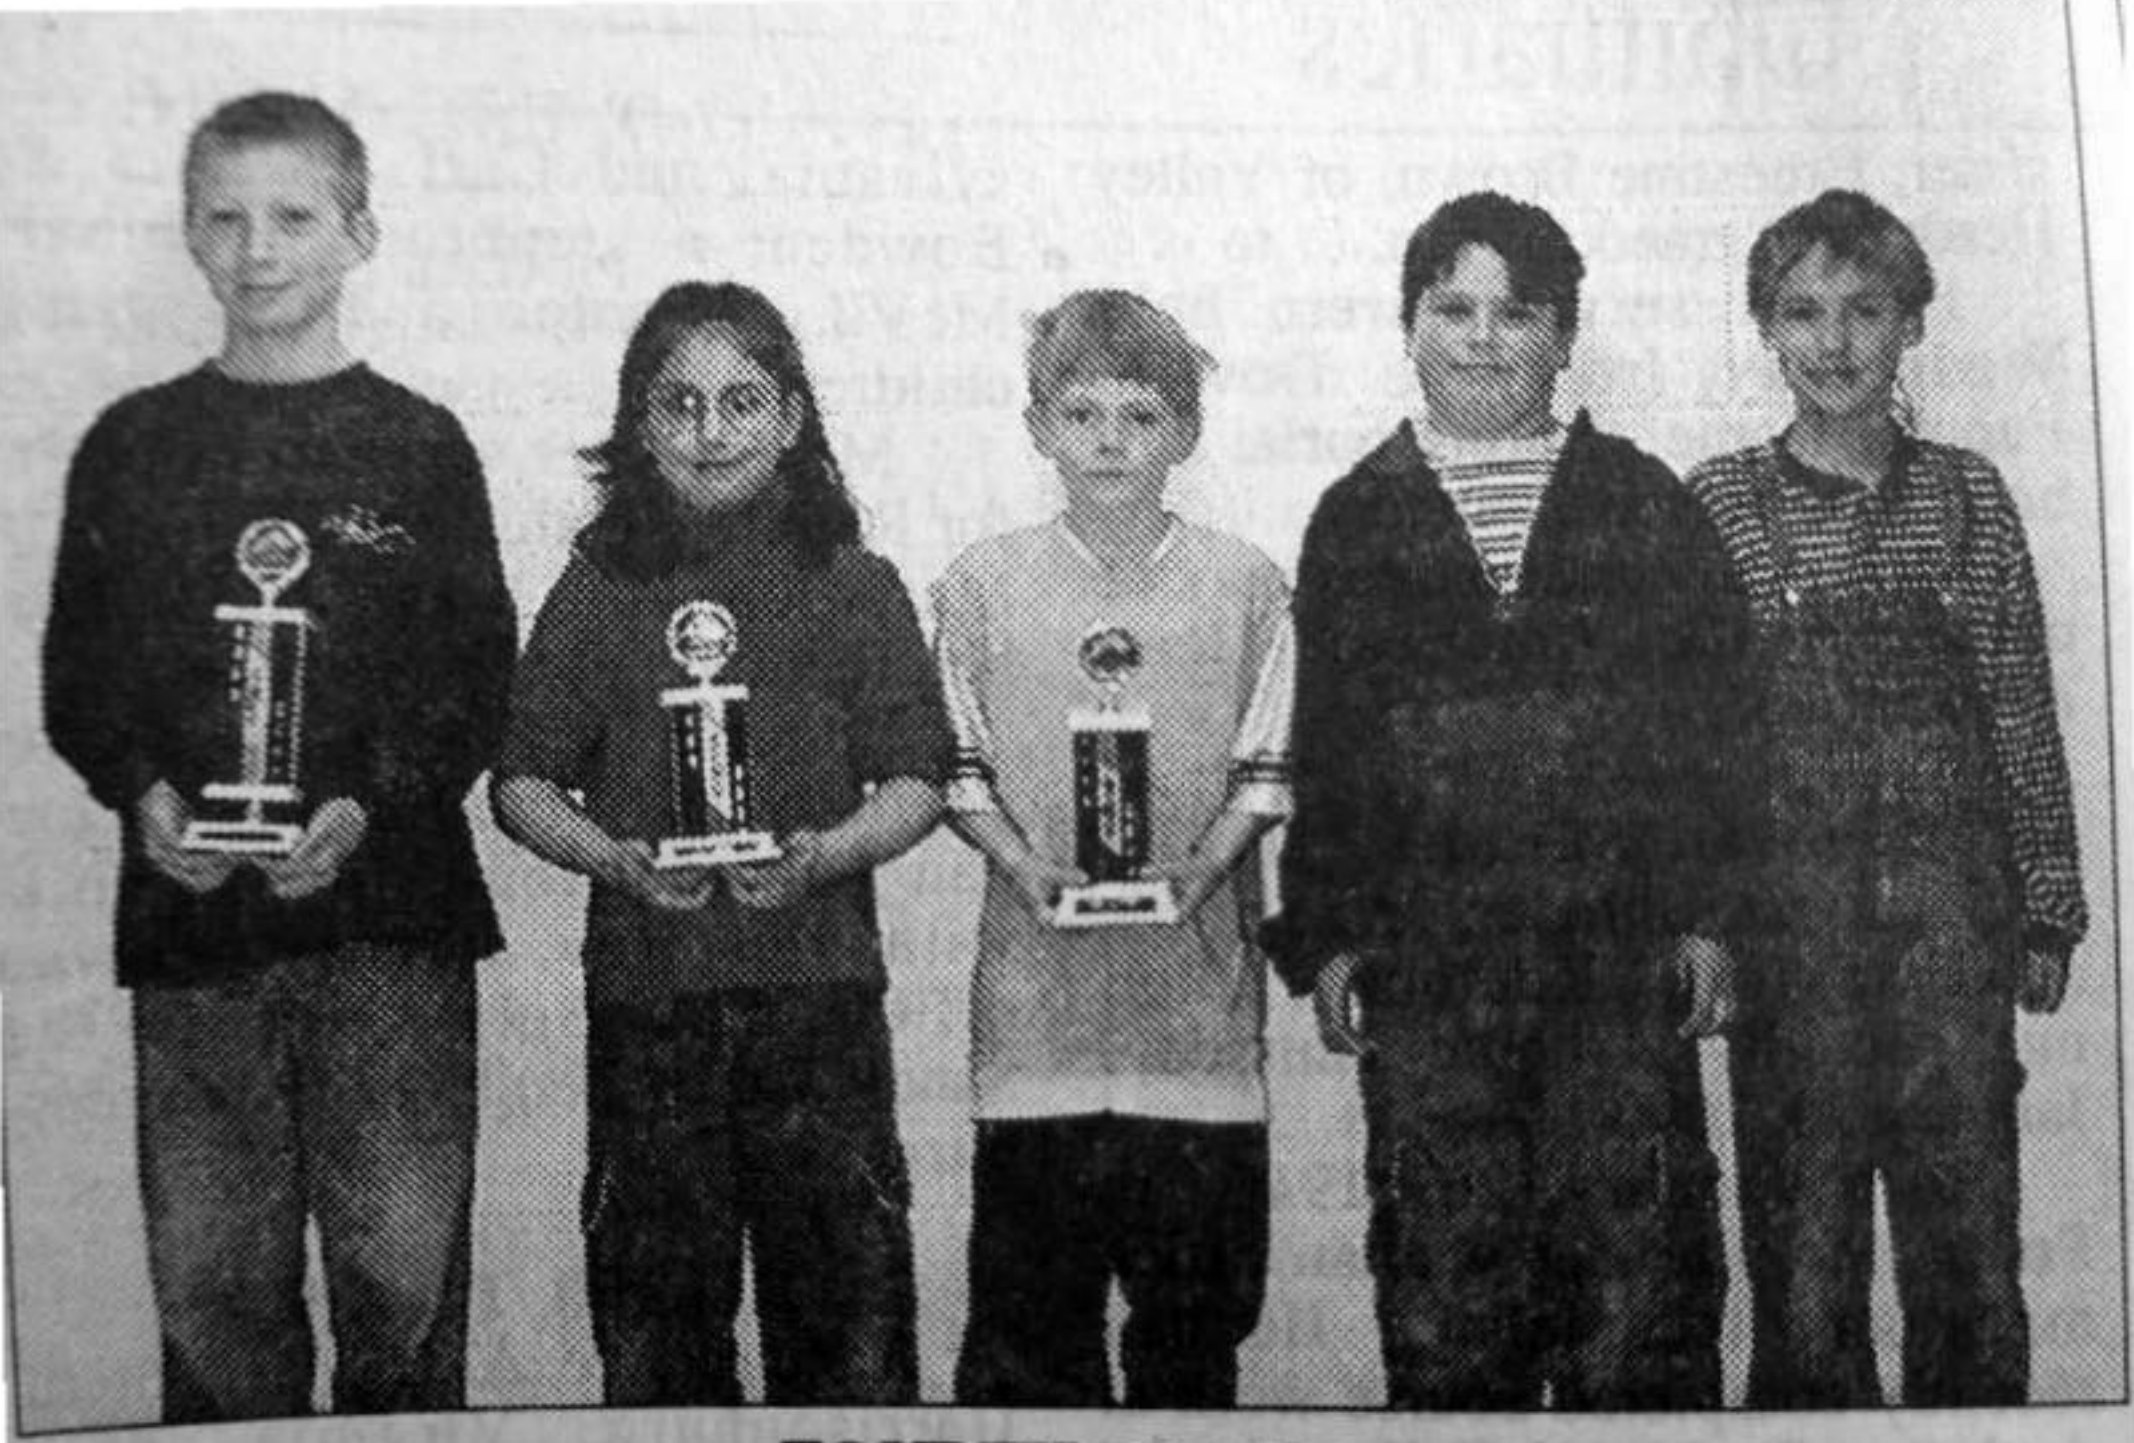
In the Upper Tygart Valley Watershed Partnership, local, state, and federal agencies are addressing water resources related concerns. Specifically, the groups are examining how to alleviate the lack of a quality water supply for communities in Randolph and Pocahontas counties. In addition, the agencies are examining erosion of forest lands and fish and wildlife habitat.

"A clean, consistent water supply is a basic building block for communities. Reliable clean water supplies give communities a tool to ensuring a brighter future, a future flowing as bright and clear as the water out of their taps," Byrd said.

As part of the Upper Knapps Creek Watershed initiative, agencies are working to develop a comprehensive plan to restore the health of the Pocahontas County Watershed by utilizing natural stream restoration techniques coupled with modern conservation methods.

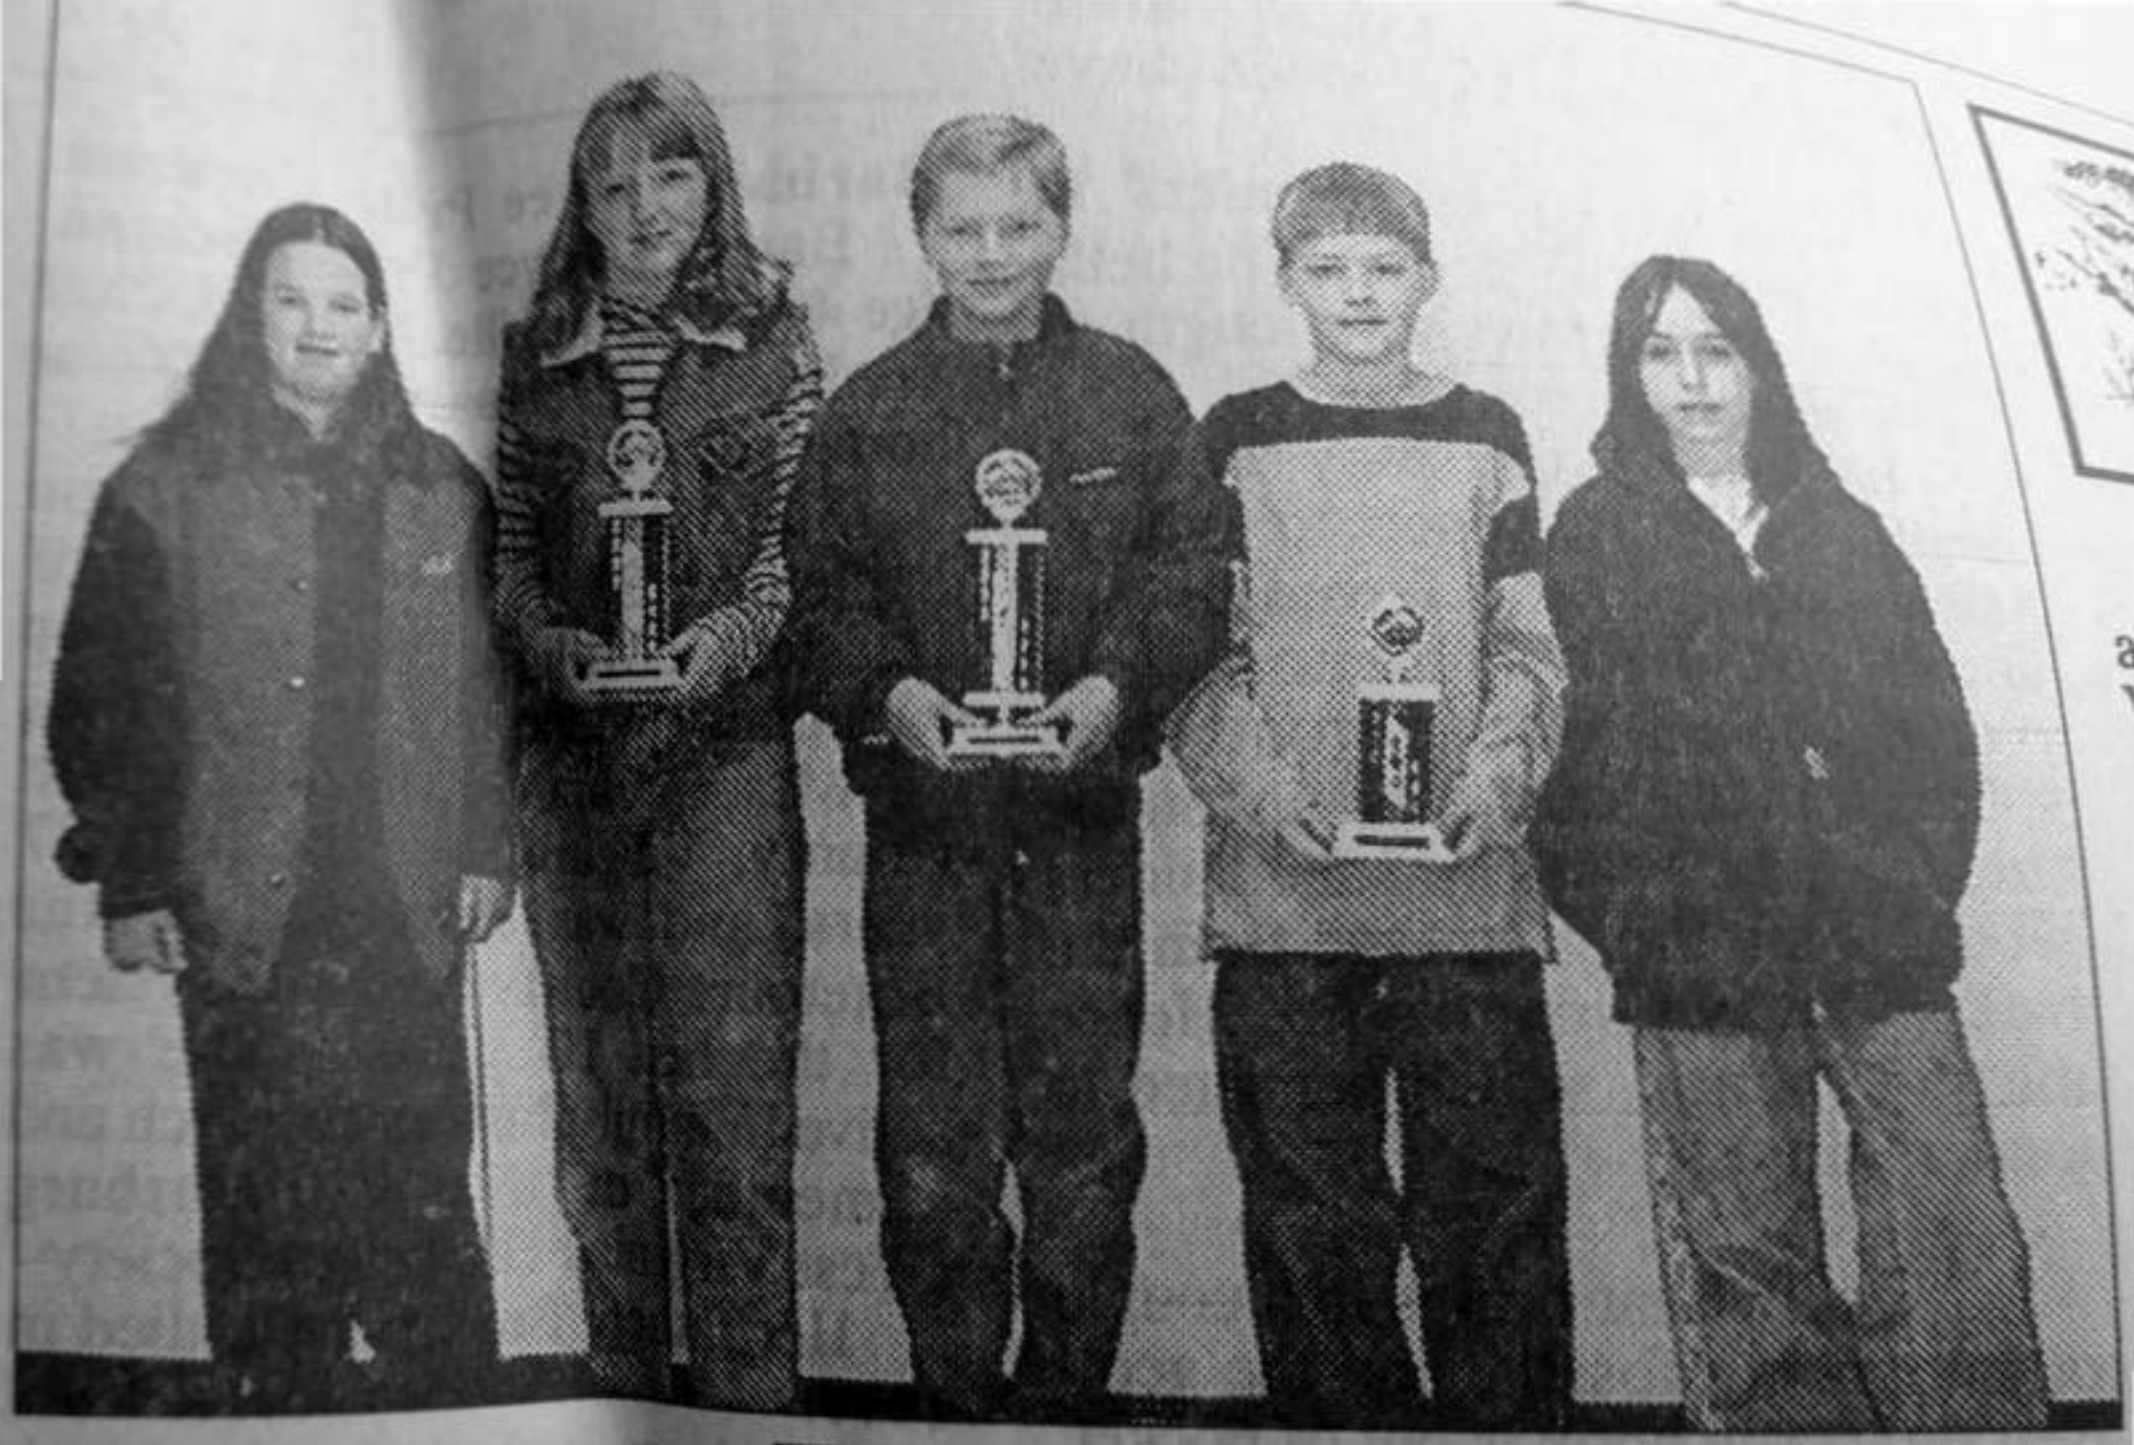
"Flood damage has caused significant changes to area property, from lost agricultural land to excessive erosion to a loss of high-quality fish and wildlife habitat," Byrd said.

"This initiative is a charter program. The agencies involved hope that it will prove successful in the Upper Knapps Creek Watershed and can be adapted for areas throughout the mid-Atlantic region," Byrd explained.



FOURTH GRADE

David Mitchell, Catherine Beverage, Aaron Moore, Kurt Mothes, Cory Lawrence



FIFTH GRADE

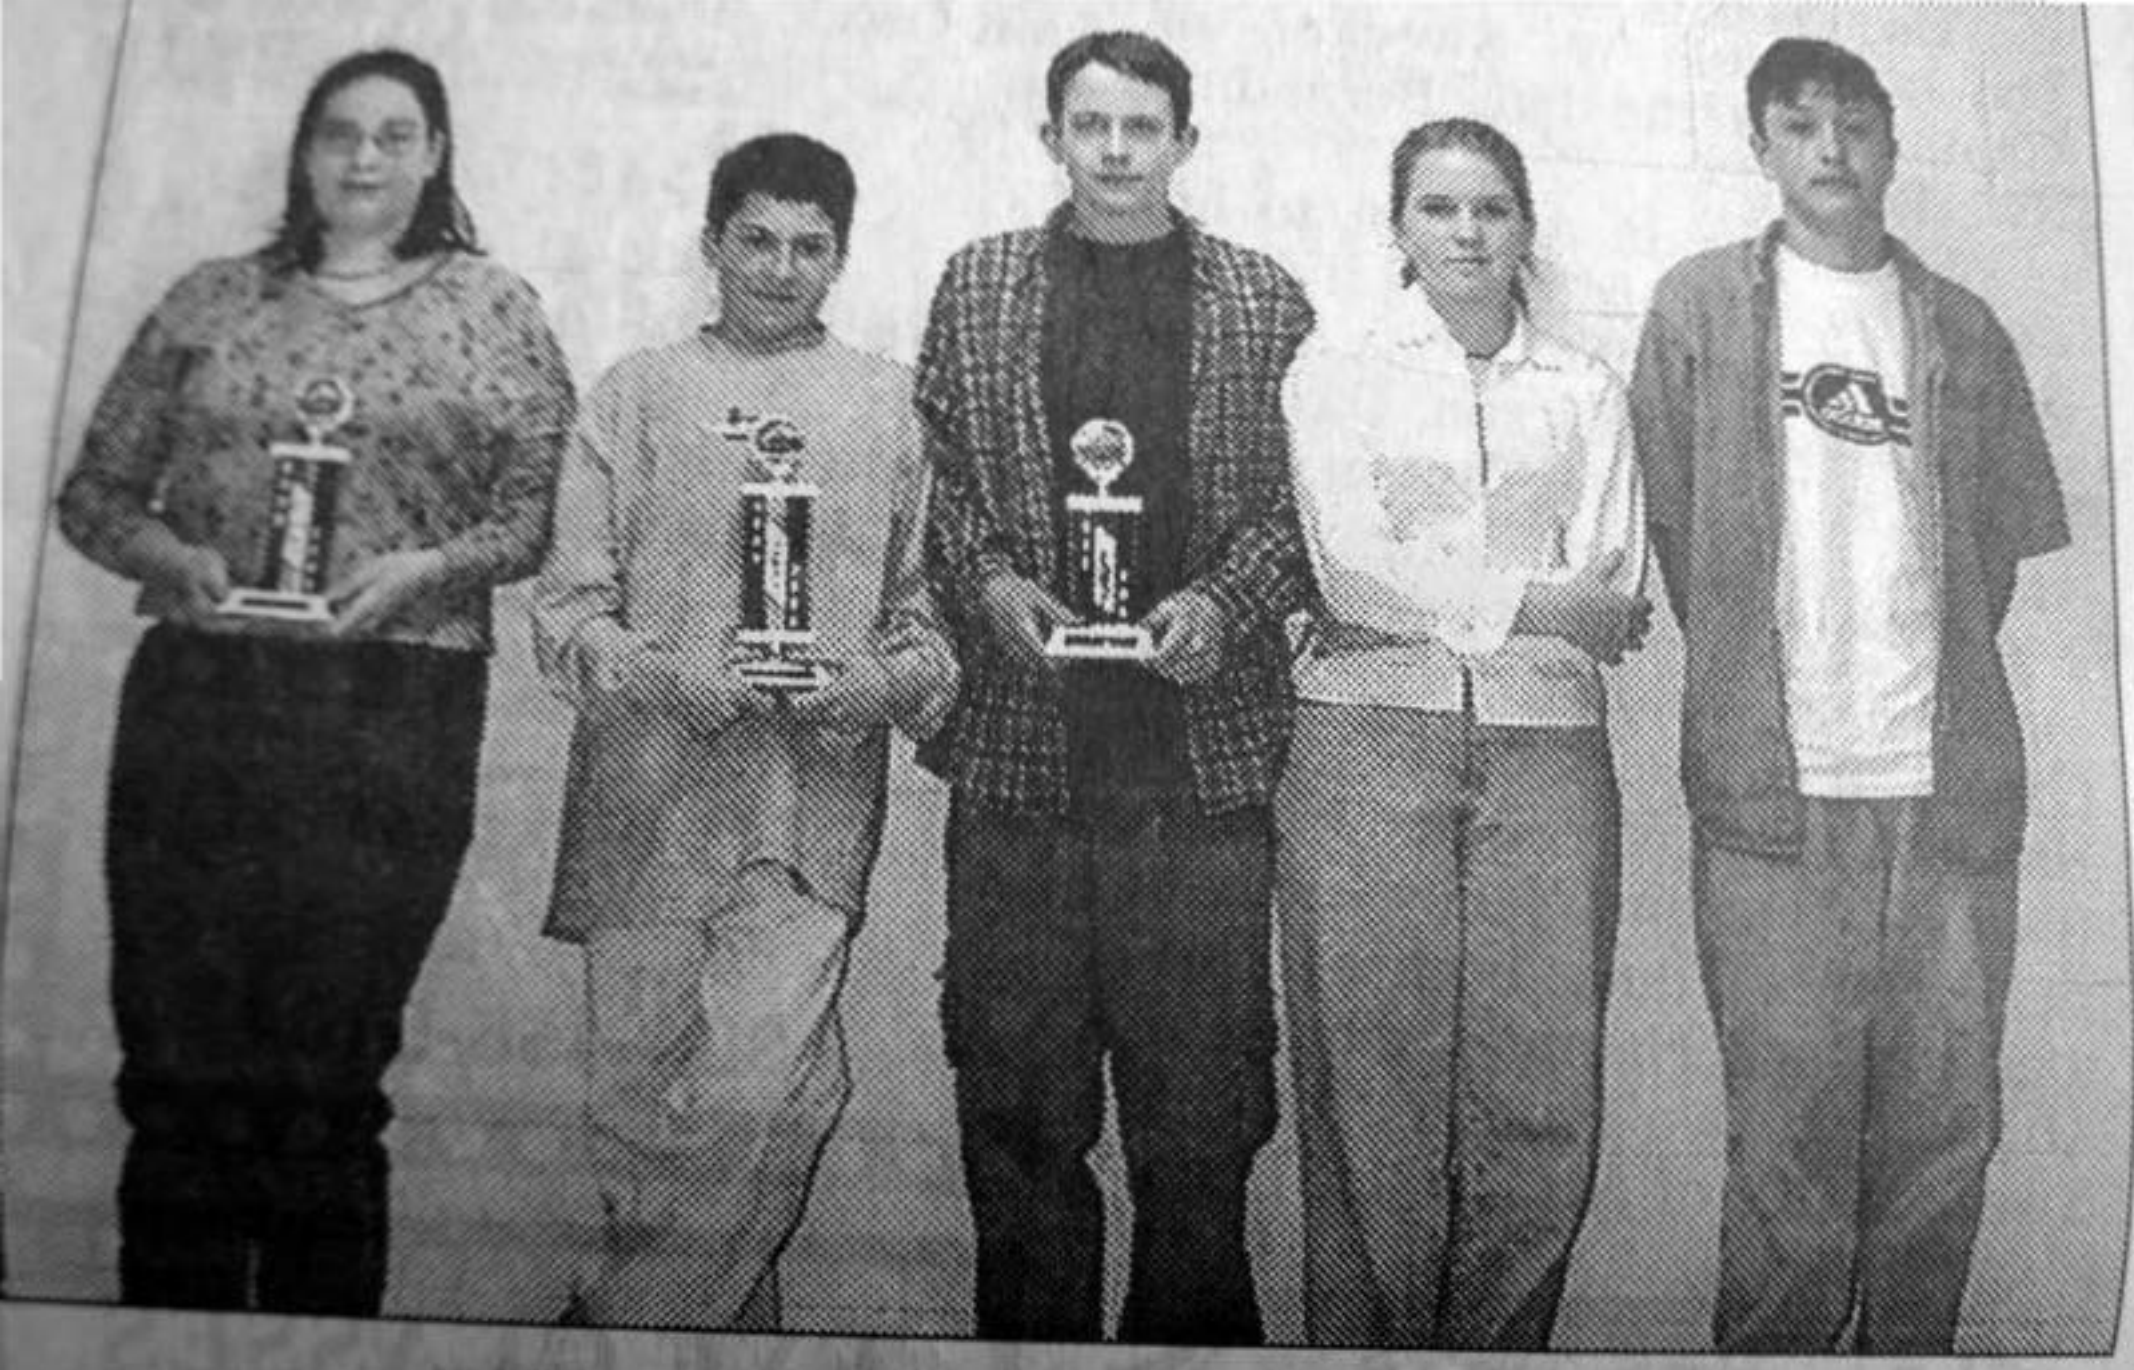
Katie Ford, Sarah Wilkins, Jacob Sheets, Ross Morgan, Nebraska Beverage

SIXTH GRADE

Emily Egan, Rurik Tywoniw, Dustin Cutlip, Josh VanReenen, Daniel Lacasse

SEVENTH GRADE

Amanda Wiley, Danielle Holstine, Nathan Rittenhouse, Kenneth Janz, Clay Bell



EIGHTH GRADE

Marlena Chestnut, Joe Mosesso, Jonathan Wilkins, Emily Malcom, Corey Simmons

NINTH GRADE

Andrea Jordan, Olin Heinenang, Kristen Irvine, Natasha
McMann, Patrick Brandt

Pocahontas County Math

The Pocahontas County Math Field Day was held on February 10 with approximately 100 students in competition at Marlinton Middle School. The winners are eligible to compete in the Regional Math Field Day against six counties to be held on March 24, at WV Tech in Montgomery:

The winners are:

Grade 4: 1st - David Mitchell, Marlinton Elementary; 2nd - Aaron Moore, Marlinton Elementary; 3rd - Katherine Beverage, Marlinton Elementary; 1st Alt. - Kurt Mothes, Hillsboro Elementary; 2nd Alt. - Cory Lawrence, Green Bank Elementary.

Grade 5: 1st - Jacob Sheets, Green Bank Middle; 2nd - Sarah Wilkins, Hillsboro Middle; 3rd - Ross Morgan, Marlinton Middle; 1st Alt. - Nebraska Beverage, Marlinton Middle; 2nd Alt. - Katie Ford, Green Bank Middle.

Grade 6: 1st - Josh VanReenan, Marlinton Middle; 2nd - Dustin Cutlip, Marlinton Middle; 3rd - Rurik Tywoniw, Hillsboro Middle; 1st Alt. - Daniel Lacasse, Green Bank Middle; 2nd Alt. - Emily Egan, Green Bank Middle.

Grade 7: 1st - Clay Bell, Marlinton Middle; 2nd - Danielle Holstine, Green Bank Middle; 3rd - Kenneth Janz, Hillsboro Middle; 1st Alt. - Amanda Wiley, Green

McMann, Patrick Brandt

Math Field Day winners

Bank Middle; 2nd Alt. - Nathan Rittenhouse, Green Bank Middle.

Grade 8: 1st - Joe Mosesso, Marlinton Middle; 2nd - Marlene Chestnut, Green Bank Middle; 3rd - Jonathan Wilkins, Hillsboro Middle; 1st Alt. - Corey Simmons, Hillsboro Middle; 2nd Alt. - Emily Malcom, Marlinton Middle.

Grade 9: 1st - Patrick Brandt ; 2nd - Kristen Irvine; 3rd - Natasha McMann; 1st Alt. - Andrea Jordan; 2nd Alt. - Olin Heinemann, all PCHS.

days from Friday to earlier in the Marlinton native writes book

"The Adventure of Being Human" is the title of a book written by Basil P. Sharp, of Washington, D. C., a native of Marlinton.

The book is called a guide to living a fuller life, how to get the most out of our time here on this planet. Living is characterized as the "Dance" and suggestions are for making the most of each day, living the adventure that is your life, reflections of a new "Kosmic" age and a global outlook, full of fast talk, guides to meditative time—deep breathing and talking to the trees, rocks, and the like. It is full of fun, psychology, and theology, with this present stage of maturing of the mind and future maturing of the spirit.

Some comments in reviews:

". . . provides a framework to help deal with—and even challenges—our basic assumptions of life. The process he has come up with is as unique as it is playful and the result gives us the way to savor the wonder of our daily lives . . . an illuminating, revelatory book."—Robert Vance, Clergyman, Business Consultant.

"Nothing less than a roadmap to cut through the hazards, detours, bottlenecks and speed traps of life in the next millennium. His approach to spirituality is refreshing and insightful . . . book is filled with wisdom, honesty and love."—Glenda Gnade, Author, Return to Paradise in New Heights of Glory.

Basil Sharp grew up in Marlinton, graduated from Davidson College and Union Theological Seminary. After becoming an ordained Presbyterian minister and serving in Oklahoma, Kentucky and Tennessee, he went as a missionary to Taiwan, serving as a Professor of now is a computer system designer, assists in a Taiwanese church, and serves as a consultant in the field of Information Systems Engineering.

The book will be offered nationally at book stores in April but advance copies are available at the Rock House Book Store and Antiques in Marlinton.

Auto Jeric Jacki
Rebuild engines, transm
All types of me

JORDAN
Full Service Elec Residential an Licensed, Experienc
799-6520 • 7
Earl Jordan

$ $ Use your inc to get mo
Bring in this ad and get $ purchase of any new home 90 Day
No Payment Option
Home
• Vinyl Siding • Shingled

life, reflections of a new "Kosmic" age and a global outlook, full of fast talk, guides to meditative time—deep breathing and talking to the trees, rocks, and the like. It is full of fun, psychology, and theology, with this present stage of maturing of the mind and future maturing of the spirit.

Some comments in reviews:

". . . provides a framework to help deal with—and even challenges—our basic assumptions of life. The process he has come up with is as unique as it is playful and the result gives us the way to savor the wonder of our daily lives . . . an illuminating, revelatory book."—Robert Vance, Clergyman, Business Consultant.

"Nothing less than a roadmap to cut through the hazards, detours, bottlenecks and speed traps of life in the next millennium. His approach to spirituality is refreshing and insightful . . . book is filled with wisdom, honesty and love."—Glenda Gnade, Author, Return to Paradise in New Heights of Glory.

Basil Sharp grew up in Marlinton, graduated from Davidson College and Union Theological Seminary. After becoming an ordained Presbyterian minister and serving in Oklahoma, Kentucky and Tennessee, he went as a missionary to Taiwan, serving as a Professor of Religion and Society at the Tainan and Taipei Theological Colleges. He became a regional director for the Institute of Cultural Affairs, a global effort of church, community and organizational renewal. He

No location set for new trial

Judge denies motions on both sides of Rainbow Case

Senior Status Judge Charles Lobban played no favorites Monday at what was supposed to be Jacob Beard's final appearance in Greenbrier County Circuit Court. Instead, Lobban denied motions made by both the State and the defense.

Beard was convicted in 1993 of the notorious Rainbow Murders—the shooting deaths of 19-year-old Nancy Santomero, of Huntington, Long Island, New York, and 26-year-old Vicki Durian, of Wellman, Iowa—which occurred in Pocahontas County in 1980.

The women were apparently traveling to a Rainbow Family Gathering when they were shot to death at close range with a high-powered weapon. The weapon has never been recovered.

Beard was released from prison last year after Lobban found reason to grant the former Hillsboro man a new trial based on the on-again-off-again confessions of a convicted serial killer and the affidavit of Beard's former co-defendant, Arnold Cutlip.

Beard's previous trial was moved to Greenbrier County in 1993 because of perceived public sentiment in Pocahontas County.

At Monday's hearing, Lobban quickly denied a defense motion to exclude the testimony of State's eyewitnesses Johnnie Washington Lewis and Winters Charles Walton based on what defense attorney Miles Morgan called "scientific evidence relating to repressed memory."

Morgan said he had the affidavit of Elizabeth Loftis, who he said was "the leader in the field if not the leader on earth" in repressed memory.

Prosecuting Attorney Walt Weiford said he would like the opportunity to offer his own expert on repressed memory, but preferred that the judge made a ruling that day.

"The court could make a finding now as to reliability," Weiford said. "(Reliability) has been tested by examination, cross-examination at length and jury deliberation."

The judge did rule immediately in Weiford's favor with a lecture to the defense on the case's record.

"Two things bother me," Lobban said. "One: we've done it all. A day's testimony with Mr. Walton and Mr. Lewis with respect to competency and their ability to remember, their conflicting statements, the withdrawal of those statements and the return of those statements.

"We've had extensive evaluation and major arguments about competency examined endlessly on cross-examination."

Lobban said he was also concerned with an "expert witness" invading the province of the jury's decision of competency.

Morgan continued an effort to sway the judge to no avail.

"Based on the testimony we already have, science says is presumptively unreliable," Morgan ventured.

Lobban denied the motion anyway. "It's not a theory in West Virginia at this point," he said. "We've already done that. It's for the jury to determine."

But Lobban did not leave the prosecution's case inviolate, either, denying Weiford the use of two witnesses that place Beard in the Hillsboro area on the afternoon of June 25, 1980.

Mary and Irma Vaughan were expected to testify that Beard returned a tractor to Mary Vaughan's Hillsboro residence on that day. That testimony would potentially impeach Beard's alibi, which is that he worked until 5:15 p.m. and then attended a Pocahontas County Board of Education meeting to argue against the closing of Hillsboro School.

Beard's time card from Greenbrier Tractor Sales in Lewisburg showed that he clocked in at 1 p.m. and clocked out at 5:15 p.m., according to court records. The court records also show that the latter time is hand-written.

He testified at his 1993 trial that he worked in the field for a customer whose name he could not remember.

Weiford may also not be able to use any new information Odessa Hively may have given investigators. Hively testified that she had seen Beard's vehicle at the entrance to Droop Mountain Battlefield State Park along with vehicles belonging to Gerald Brown and Richie Fowler, Beard's former co-defendants. She also testified she saw Beard later at the Board of Education meeting.

Lobban said the Vaughans' statements go directly in the face of Justice (Margaret) Workman's finding at the end of Kastigar.

Under the Kastigar rule, the prosecution may not attack the defendant's alibi if it was given under an immunity agreement. Although the witnesses were not found to have come through information Beard gave investigators, the investigators' awareness of his alibi could have tainted the direction of the investigation, Lobban said.

Beard was granted partial use immunity by former Pocahontas County Prosecuting Attorney J. Steven Hunter.

Serial killer Joseph Paul Franklin could have an opportunity to convince a jury he committed the murders, either in the form of another deposition or as a witness at trial.

Lobban granted a prosecution motion to have Franklin deposed again, although Weiford said he was not unfavorable to having Franklin brought to West Virginia to testify.

"I'd much prefer to have Franklin here at trial, as would the defense," Weiford said.

Franklin was deposed in October, 1997, and confessed to the murders, giving some correct details to the crime, while making other statements that do not match the physical evidence in the case.

Franklin, an avowed white supremacist, is awaiting death by lethal injection in the state of Missouri where he was convicted of murdering a man outside a synagogue.

His imprisonment poses a problem for bringing the man to West Virginia.

"Missouri is pondering whether they could force him to come here to testify," Weiford said.

The prosecutor said that while Franklin has said he will cooperate, he may have changed his mind.

On the issues of when and where the trial will be held, Lobban said those matters are not yet confirmed.

The judge mentioned four possible places for the trial and tentative trial dates of mid- to late May.

Morgan made one more plea for Kanawha County, mentioning the state's capital city has six court rooms available.

Since the venue is not established, Beard will have one more Greenbrier County hearing on March 31.

County Commission discusses animal control program

The County Commission met for a regular meeting on February 15.

County Animal Control Officer Sandy Mallow and several members of the Pocahontas County write a letter to the state Attorney General's office on the problems with the company. Executone of West Virginia.

The Commission

Gardner Shoe Company

HAPPY 1ST BIRTHDAY, BRANDON WILFONG

MARCH 4

LOVE YA, GRANDMAW & GRANDPAW CASSELL
AND MOM & DAD

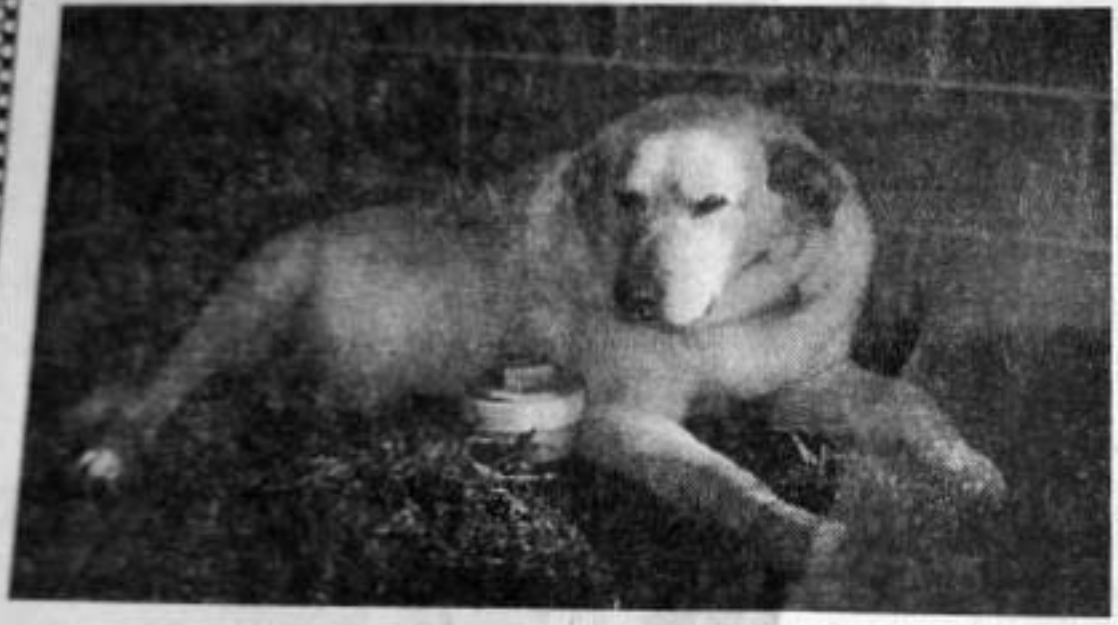
Lordy, Lordy, Guess who's turning 40 on March 7?

Love,
Mandy & Selina



Reward

$500

I am lost. My Name is Jessy.
I am a yellow Lab mix.
I am 12 years old, and weigh 135 lbs.
I will not hurt you !!!
Please contact: Tom or Gloria (304) 799-2344

RE-ELECT Jerry Dale Sheriff

I will be in the Marlinton area on Saturday, March 25

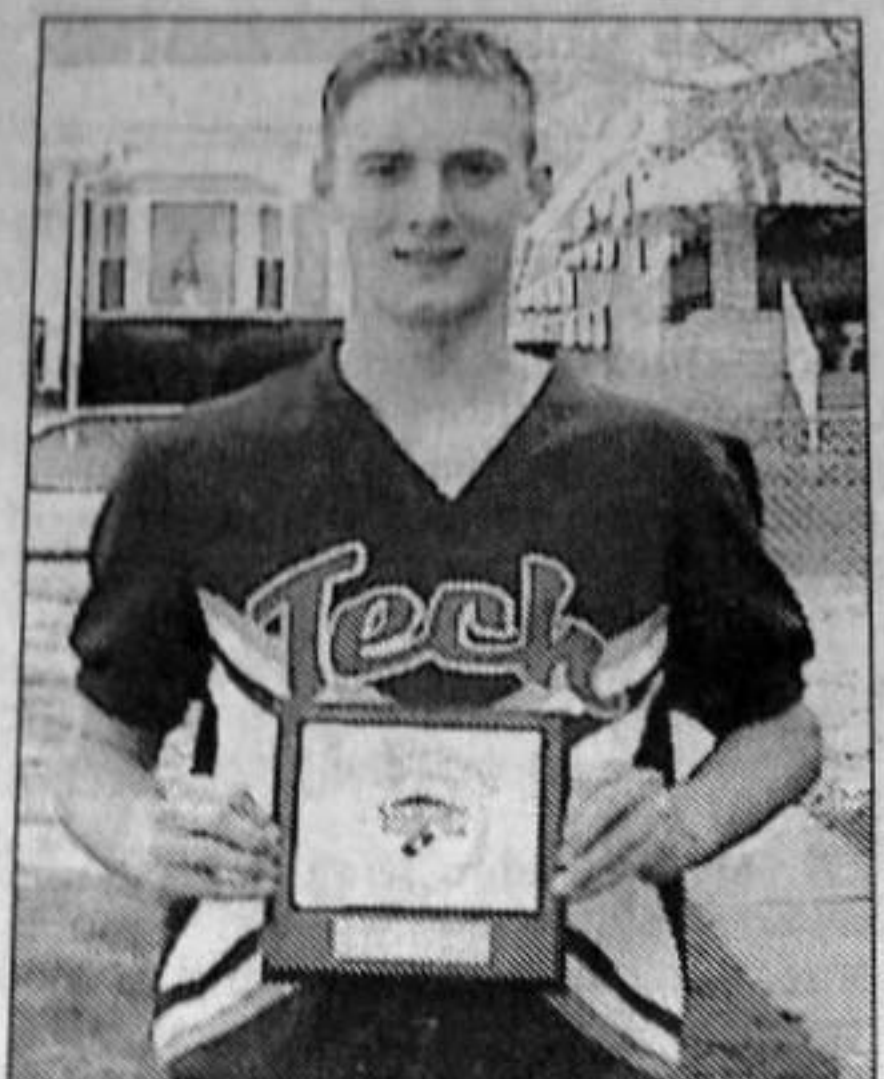
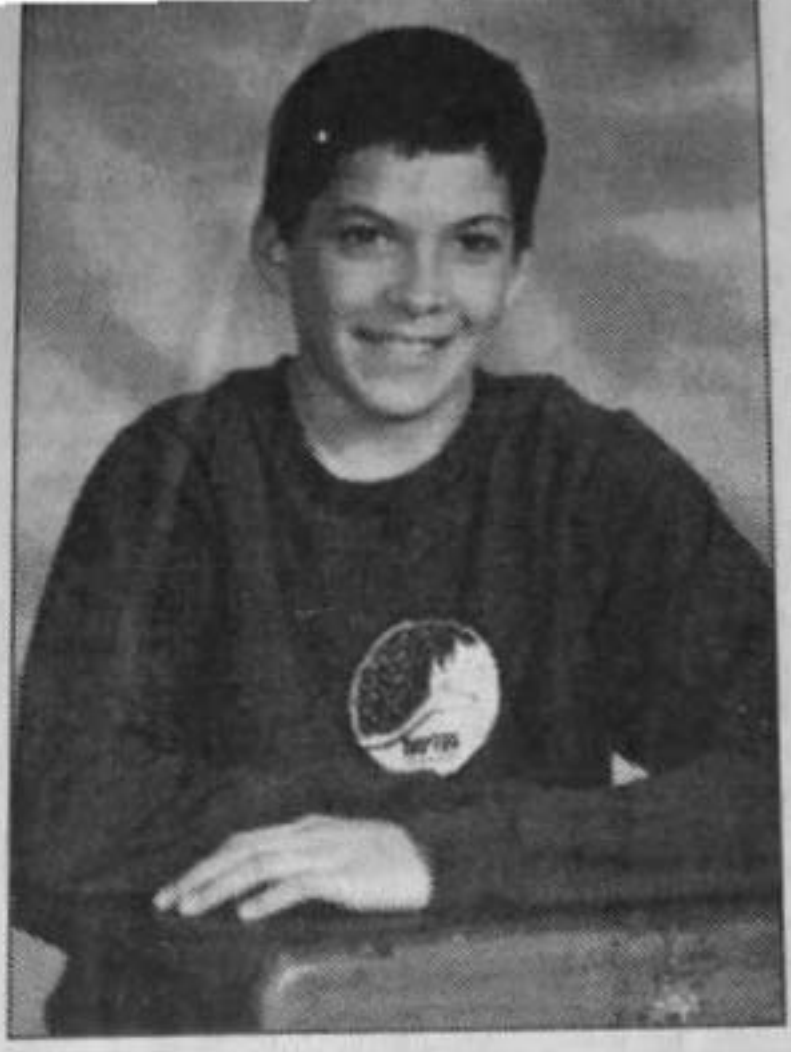
Political Advertisement Paid For By Candidate



Kane wins cheerleading award

Eric T. Kane, son of Mark and Marsha Kane, of Boyer, received WVIAC All Conference Cheerleader. The WVIAC Cheerleading competition was held on March 2. He scored the highest of all the cheerleaders in the competition. Eric is a 1999 graduate of Pocahontas County High School and is a freshman at WVU Tech in Montgomery. He is majoring in Management Information Systems.



Mosesso Going to State Geography Bee

Joseph Mosesso, son of Cathy and Greg Mosesso, of Marlinton, has qualified to participate in the state competition of the National Geography Bee. Joe is currently an eighth grader at Marlinton Middle School.

Joe earned this honor by winning the school level competition at MMS and by scoring high on a written exam.

He will travel to Charleston on April 7, for the State Bee. One winner from each state and territory will advance to the national competition in Washington, D.C. on May 23-24.

Buzzard to make bid for board of education

I am Diane Buzzard, candidate for the Pocahontas County Board of Education for the Southern District. I reside with my husband, Jim, and two sons, Dana, a sixth grader, and Loren, a fourth grader, on Beaver Creek. I am an employee at French's Diner. My husband commutes weekly to Virginia to work. Our family knows the difficulty of trying to make a living in Pocahontas County and raise two sons at the same time. Like many parents, we envision a brighter future for our sons through the best education we can provide.

I believe that our school system should consider carefully its role as a service provider to the community. I will have students in our school system for several years into the future. My children and I, as well as you and your children, are customers in this system. It is important for the customers to have an active role in governing what happens in our school system. As a mother and a homemaker, I bring to the Board of Education a perspective that is not currently available on the board. I am ready to speak to the issues of raising children in our county and educating them locally. I would like to see more parental involvement in the school system.

into the future. My children, as well as you and your children, are customers in this system. It is important for the customers to have an active role in governing what happens in our school system. As a mother and a homemaker, I bring to the Board of Education a perspective that is not currently available on the board. I am ready to speak to the issues of raising children in our county and educating them locally. I would like to see more parental involvement in the school system. We need to open a line of communication between the board, teachers and parents.

As a mother, I am very concerned that our public schools properly prepare my children for the future. As yet, I do not know if my sons will go to college, enter vocational training, or go straight from high school into the work force. With that in mind, I will support efforts to keep our vocational programs intact. The citizens of Pocahontas County are hard working and they want to make an honest living. Some are not financially able to further their education, but they have a right to make a good living like anyone else and they should be able to prepare to do so in our public schools.

Because our county is so isolated, without music in the schools, most students would not have the opportunity to be involved in music or the fine arts. Through music, children are better learners, more creative, have higher self-esteem and learn the benefits of teamwork. It invites them to have pride in most students would not have the opportunity to be involved in music or the fine arts. Through music, children are better learners, more creative, have higher self-esteem and learn the benefits of teamwork. It invites them to have pride in their community and we in turn are proud of them as they march in parades and perform at band competitions and concerts. I know I could not afford private lessons for my sons. I would like to see continued board support of music in our schools at all levels.

Each child is a unique individual and should be treated as such. We need to be aware of students in the school system who do not fall under the categories mandated for special education and gifted programs. These students in the middle also have special needs, but often fall through the cracks. We need to provide ways for them to reach their fullest potential through tutoring programs, mentoring, individual attention and allowance for unique learning styles. All our children are our future.

As board members, we should be able to do our job diligently but also with compassion. There are tough decisions to be made, but that does not mean we have to make those decisions in a way that invites people to feel dehumanized. In my job at French's Diner, I have an ear to the issues and concerns of the public. I will continue to be available to hear and respond to your concerns.

I would appreciate your vote and support.

* * *

have special needs, but often [illegible] through the cracks. We need to provide ways for them to reach their fullest potential through tutoring programs, mentoring, individual attention and allowance for unique learning styles. All our children are our future.

As board members, we should be able to do our job diligently but also with compassion. There are tough decisions to be made, but that does not mean we have to make those decisions in a way that invites people to feel dehumanized. In my job at French's Diner, I have an ear to the issues and concerns of the public. I will continue to be available to hear and respond to your concerns.

I would appreciate your vote and support.

Norman Alderman— Candidate for County Commission

I am Norman Alderman and I am asking you to vote for me as your county commissioner. I have always tried to be issue-oriented, to stay informed about the current trends and to work for the betterment of Pocahontas County. You know from my prior service on the commission that I do not place myself above the law, nor do I permit the county commission as a body to act above and beyond the law. You also know that I believe strongly in right and wrong and am not afraid to stand up for what I believe to be right. My beliefs have not changed. It is hard to predict the issues that will surface in the next six years, but whatever the issues may be, I will still take a stand on what I believe to be right.

I do believe that we can predict the next major issue to come upon our county and that issue is zoning. I feel very strongly that a major effort will be made to impose zoning upon the county within the next two years. Zoning raised its ugly head recently with the controversy over the quarry. I passionately support the right of Snowshoe Ski Resort to develop its property to its full potential, I support the right of Waco to develop its property to its

I do believe that we can predict the next major issue to come upon our county and that issue is zoning. I feel very strongly that a major effort will be made to impose zoning upon the county within the next two years. Zoning raised its ugly head recently with the controversy over the quarry. I passionately support the right of Snowshoe Ski Resort to develop its property to its full potential, I support the right of Waco to develop its property to its full potential and I support the rights of all farmers and landowners in Pocahontas County to maximize the potential of their property. Keep in mind that zoning requires only the vote of two of three county commissioners. I will never vote to impose zoning upon my friends and neighbors in this county!

During my previous term in office, I was able to accomplish two important and sustainable objectives of which I am quite proud. I was the first candidate to suggest that one-half of the hotel-motel tax should be distributed to our local groups other than the tourism bureau. My first act in office was to make a motion to do this. It was approved. Today, this concept is so deeply embedded in the political process that wild horses couldn't undo it.

Since then, hundreds of thousand of dollars have funded such things as the Parks and Recreation Department, 4-H, the shelter at undo it.

Since then, hundreds of thousand of dollars have funded such things as the Parks and Recreation Department, 4-H, the shelter at Stillwell park, our public libraries and various local festivals. The validity of the concept is supported by the fact that all county commissioners have supported it since then.

I would like to see a greater share of the hotel/motel tax money put into the local libraries. Their needs are greater, but their service is even greater. Secondly, I support a move toward more capital outlays of the hotel/motel tax money. We still need a reunion shelter at Droop Mountain and a comprehensive community center at the old Howes Leather office.

The second objective I accomplished was the establishment of the Denmar Corrections facility. You will remember that I initiated the concept of Denmar as a private prison in 1992. The naysayers said that we didn't have enough available employees to man a 650 employee prison. (Ironically, we lost nearly 600 jobs at Hanover and Howes shortly thereafter.) I never gave up on the idea, but the majority of the county commission voted to turn over the project to the Pocahontas Development Authority. The idea died a quick death.

In an effort to keep a little of the idea alive, I suggested that Denmar would be a good place for the state to have a prison. And today we have a prison. I still believe that the corrections business is good business. If elected, I will ask the state to consider the Durbin area as the site for the regional jail. There is opposition currently to its proposed location in another county. We have the site and we need the jobs. Denmar has proved to be successful; this can, too. The county commission has not taken an active interest in this, but I think that they should.

For five years, I have fought a long, hard, exhausting battle to keep Howes Leather and the Hanover Shoe facilities in public hands. We need the Howes facility to restate to have a prison. And today we have a prison. I still believe that the corrections business is good business. If elected, I will ask the state to consider the Durbin area as the site for the regional jail. There is opposition currently to its proposed location in another county. We have the site and we need the jobs. Denmar has proved to be successful; this can, too. The county commission has not taken an active interest in this, but I think that they should.

For five years, I have fought a long, hard, exhausting battle to keep Howes Leather and the Hanover Shoe facilities in public hands. We need the Howes facility to remain in public hands so that it will be available as a site for future businesses. We need a real industry at Howes. We must target industries that hire more employees than you can count on the fingers of your hand.

Recently I was involved in a lawsuit which sought to return nearly $4,000,000 worth of public property to the county. The Hanover property had been illegally transferred into private hands and mortgaged heavily. The creditors were baying at the door. The courts agreed with our arguments and ruled in our favor. If the lawsuit had not been filed, Hanover Shoe might be idle today. The facility is now back in public hands, completely free of debt and providing jobs for our community. I am convinced that there was no other way to preserve the assets of this county except to go to court. This county cannot afford to give away its industrial sites.

From my experience in successfully petitioning the courts to get Hanover back, I now know that I could have gone to court and saved Denmar from being sold into private hands. We could have won, the facility would have been available to the state directly and the county would be $250,000 richer. But I didn't go to court. I was just too inexperienced to know how to deal with the situation. To me, Denmar was a turning point. Never again would I let facilities like Howes and Hanover go without a fight. And we have not lost them! They are still in public hands and shall continue to be if I have any power in my body to fight for them. I shall fight just as hard to get businesses in them as I did to keep the sites as public assets.

These properties desperately need to remain in public ownership. Our county's experience in the last five years with the transfer of public assets into private hands has proved disastrous. As commissioner, I will work hard to ensure that public property remains public property and that every effort is made to get business to locate on that property. I support the concept of making public property available for industrial use with the county retaining title to the property. I support multiple use of the Hanover site.

Lastly, your property taxes will be going up this year by virtue of reevaluation. Every four years you can expect a 10% to 20% jump. This is too much! Your assessor can't help this; your county commission can! You are taxed at the maximum rate now. Ask your current commission to vote for the lower rate next so that you won't have to bear the brunt of this at one time. This is a small adjustment to make for the financially strapped citizens of our county.

Please consider me as your Republican candidate for county commissioner in the primary election!

- - -

Sharp Celebrates 85th Birthday

Kyle Sharp celebrated his 85th birthday at the home of his step-daughter and son-in-law, Jim and Carol Spade, of Frost, on February 26.

Surprise Birthday Party

On Sunday, February 27, a surprise 80th birthday party was held for Ida Carpenter at the Dunmore Community Center. She was welcomed at the party by about 80 family members and friends who wanted to help celebrate her special day. Family members came from around the county, as well as from Morgantown; Clifton Forge, Virginia; Cleveland, Ohio; and Greensboro, North Carolina.

She said that her surprise party was such a fun time and that she thoroughly enjoyed the afternoon. Ida is the mother of three children: Manota Hively, James Carpenter, and Jane Gordon, all of Pocahontas County. She also has six grandchildren and a new great-grandchild.

GREEN BANK MIDDLE SCHOOL BOYS TEAM

Front row, l-r, Chris Caplinger, Andrew Morton, Dustin Reynolds, Nathan Rittenhouse, Brandon Kerr, Jesse Stull

Standing, l-r, Darrell Wright, Jason Goddard, Ryan Ware, Evan Sheets, Brian Norrod, Derek Taylor, Andy Wayne, Ben Jewell, Travis Waybright, Assistant Coach Jesse Peck, Matt Williamson, Trevor Caplinger, Coach Dave Caplinger, Ben Rittenhouse

GREEN BANK MIDDLE SCHOOL GIRLS TEAM

Front row, l-r, Brooke Dickenson, Jessica Gilardi, Tiffany McFalls, Rachel Wayne, Jessica Lehman, Angela Foe, Ashley Sheets, Kelley Cassell, Jerrie Curry, Amy Coleman

Standing, l-r, Ahsley Long, Virginia Hoover, Whitney Curry, Natasha Lambert, Emily Bland, Jessica Lawson, Brittany Burner, Marlena Chestnut, Hollie Barker, Caroline McKean, Erin Coleman, Jessica Roberts, Amanda Wiley, Cressie Shears, Patricia Glasser, Danielle Holstine

Not pictured, Patty Kelley

HILLSBORO MIDDLE SCHOOL

Front row, l-r, Phillip Wiltrout, Brandon Mace, Coach Ronnie Auldridge

Back row, l-r, Coach Beth Auldridge, John Mace, Devin McCoy, Wes Burks, Corey Simmons, Wesley Adkison

Not pictured, Shannon Saffer, Clay Condon, Kenneth Janz, Doug McCarty

Condon, Kenneth

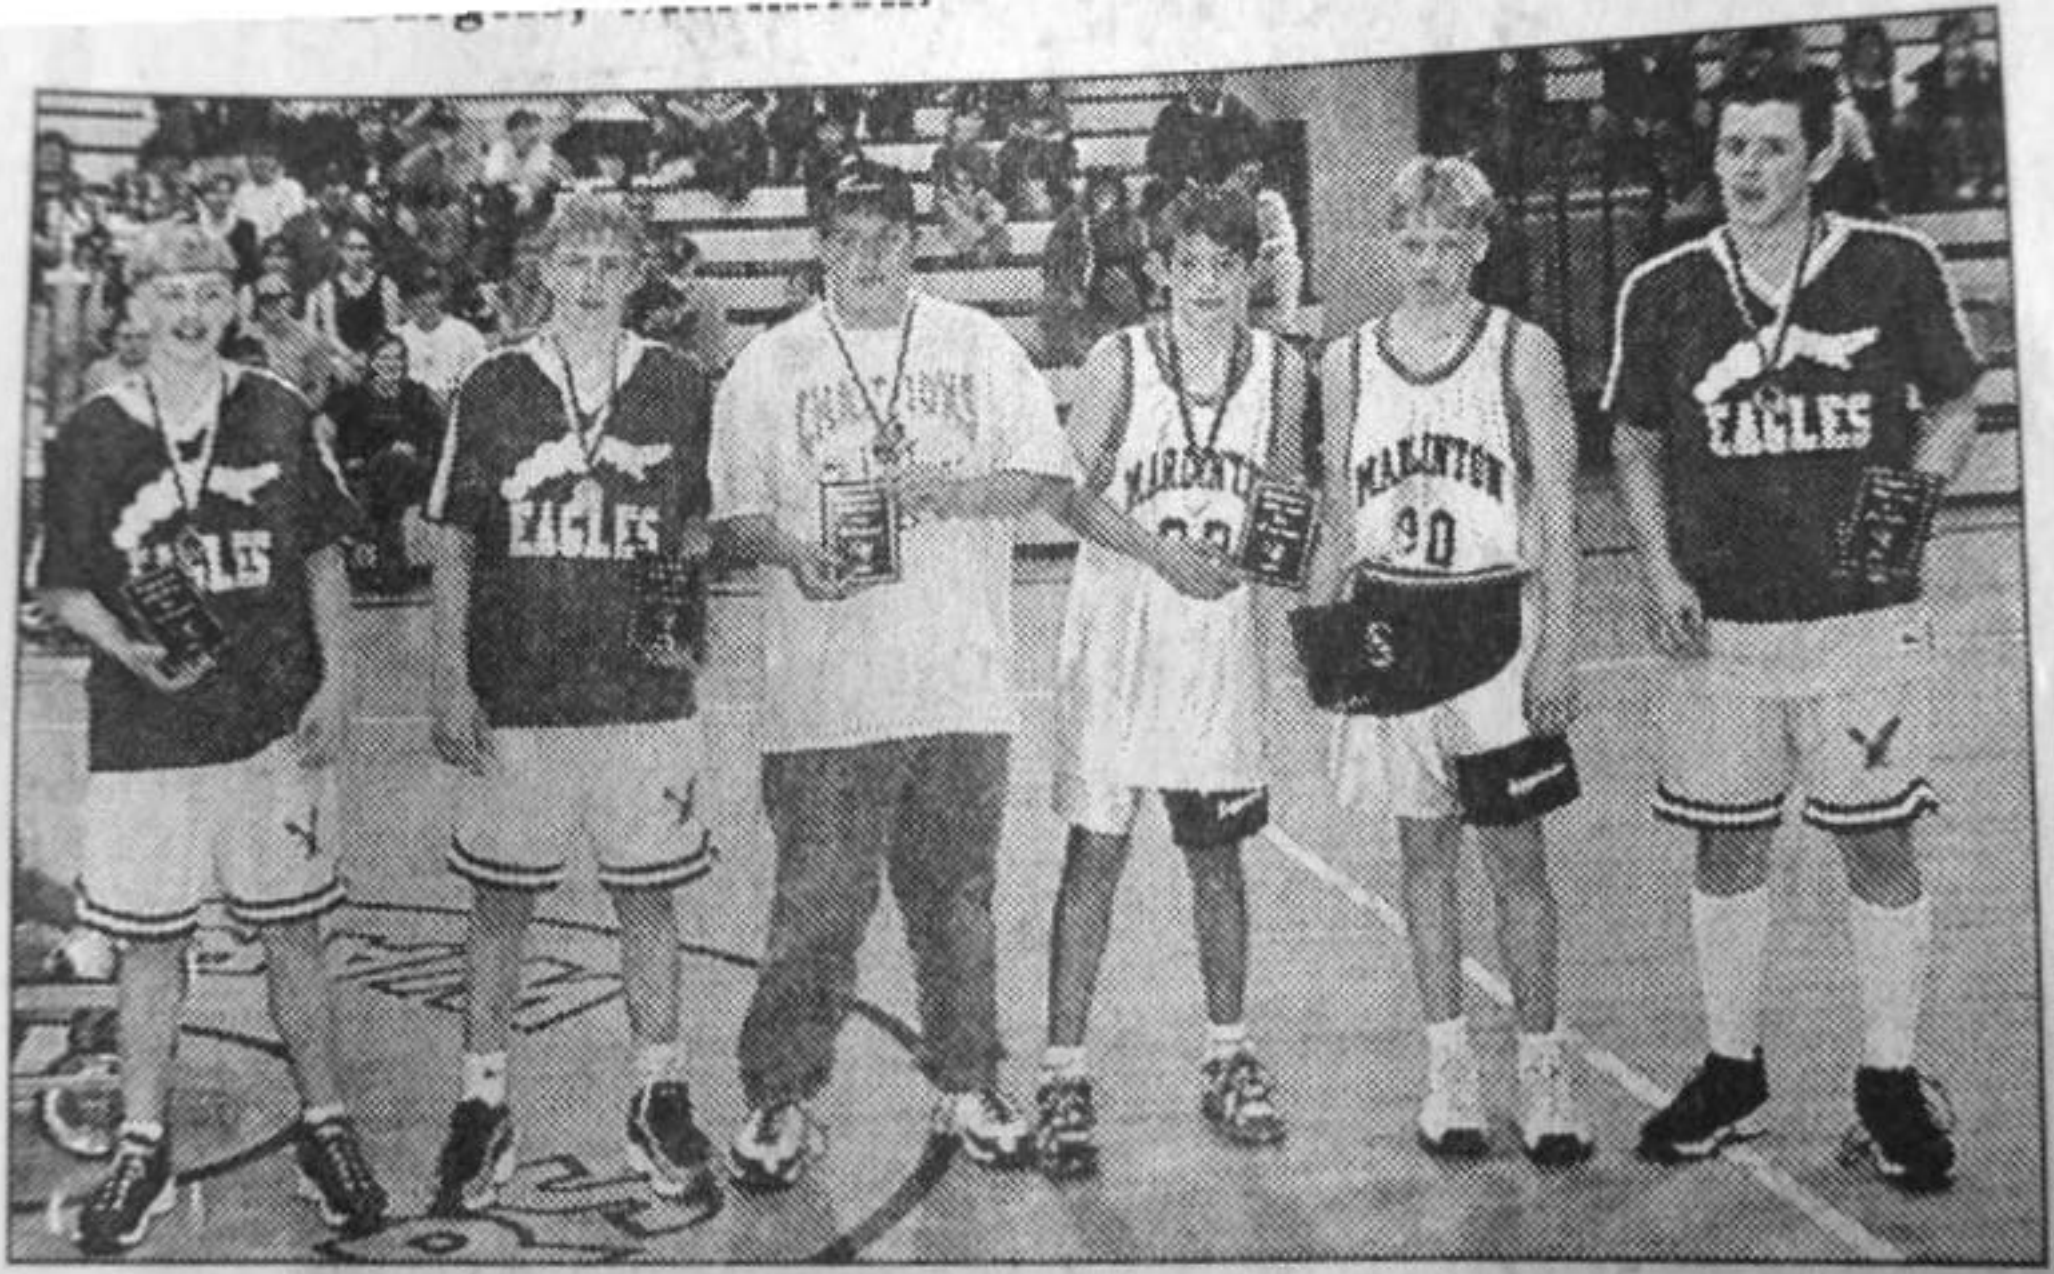
MARLINTON MIDDLE SCHOOL BOYS TEAM

Front row, l-r, Seth Nelson, Jonathon Burns, Adam Irvine, Billy Burdette, Zach Warner, D. J. Jones

Back row, l-r, Jonathan Taylor, Adam Matheny, Josh Smith, Troy McLaughlin, Thurston Willis, Chris Beverage, Evan Dale, Ben Richardson, Aaron Cutlip

ALL TOURNAMENT GIRLS TEAM

L-R: Hollie Barker and Erin Coleman, Green Bank, LeeAnn Dilley, Marlinton, Rachel Wayne, Green Bank, Amanda Burgess, Marlinton.



ALL TOURNAMENT BOYS TEAM

L-R, Travis Waybright and Derek Taylor, Green Bank, Devin McCoy, Hillsboro, Evan Dale and Josh Smith, Marlinton, Evan Sheets, Green Bank

Green Bank sweeps county middle school basketball tournament

The basketball teams from Green Bank Middle School were the winners, academically as well as athletically, in the county basketball tournament, held February 28 and March 1. The tournament was held at the Pocahontas County High School gym.

On Monday, the Marlinton Middle School boys team defeated the team from Hillsboro by a score of 45 to 32. The score was tied 10-10 at the end of the first quarter, but Marlinton controlled the game in the second and third quarters, making 25 points to their opponent's 9. Hillsboro had 13 points in the final quarter to Marlinton's 10.

High scorer for Marlinton and the game was Josh Smith with 15. The other Copperhead points were made by Adam Matheny, 10, Thurston Willis, 8, Evan Dale, 6, and Billy Burdette, Adam Irvine and Seth Nelson, 2 each.

Devin McCoy was the leading scorer for the Red Devils with 10. Other Hillsboro points were made by Wesley Adkison, 7, Doug McCarty, 4, Phillip Wiltrout, 4, Wes Burks, 3, Corey Simmons, 2, and John Mace, 2.

In the games on Wednesday, both the boys and girls teams from Green Bank defeated the teams from Marlinton Middle School.

The game between the girls teams was held first with Green Bank taking control in the first quarter and never being threatened. The score was 35 to 9 in favor of Green Bank at the half and the game ended with an Eagles victory, 41 to 16.

High scorer for the winning team and the game was Hollie Barker with 18. Completing the scoring for the Eagles were Rachel Wayne, 12 (including two 3-point shots), Jessica Lehman, 4, and Brittany Burner, Erin Coleman and Tiffany McFalls, all 2.

Amanda Burgess made the most points for Marlinton with 6 points. The other Copperhead points were made by LeeAnn Dilley, 4, Kelly Smith, 3, Ashley McNabb, 2, and Anna Barnisky.

Named to the girls all-tournament team were Hollie Barker, Erin Coleman, and Rachel Wayne, from Green Bank and LeeAnn Dilley and Amanda Burgess from Marlinton.

The first quarter of the game between the Marlinton and Green Bank boys teams saw the lead go back and forth and ended with a 14-14 tie. At the half, the Eagles had gained a 27 to 21 advantage in the game.

The Eagles were in control during the second half of the game, which ended 55 to 34 in favor of Green Bank.

Leading in points was Green Bank's Travis Waybright, who had 16 points. Making the other Eagle points were Evan Sheets, 13, Derek Taylor, 9, Darrell Wright, 7, Ryan Ware, 6, Matt Williamson, 1, and Ben Jewell, 1.

Marlinton's high scorer was Josh Smith with 13, followed by Adam Matheny, 7, Thurston Willis, 6, Evan Dale, 4, Seth Nelson, 3, Aaron Cutlip, 2, and Troy McLaughlin, 1.

The boys all-tournament team was made up of Travis Waybright, Evan Sheets, and Derek Taylor, of the Green Bank team, Josh Smith and Evan Dale from Marlinton, and Devin McCoy of the Hillsboro team.

Joel Callison, representing Greenbrier Investment Company, made the presentation of the academic awards. The company provided trophies for the boys and girls team with the highest academic average. The trophies are kept each year at the school or schools having these teams.

Both awards went to the Green Bank teams this year.

In making the awards, Mr. Callison announced that the Green Bank girls basketball team's 3.60 average was the highest average achieved by either boys or girls teams in the nine years the trophies have been presented. The boys team average of 3.39 was the second highest for the boys

Both cheerleading squads performed speical routines on Wednesday.

THREE FBLA MEMBERS qualified for National Competition

The following students participated in the State FBLA Leadership Conference in Charleston on March 10 and 11, with three qualifying to go to national competition in Long Beach, California, in July.

They placed as follows:

Jessica Hamman - Desktop Publishing, 2nd place (Nationals); Hillary McLaughlin - Desktop Publishing, 2nd place (Nationals); Kristin Morris - Accounting II, 6th place; Jennifer Sheets - Impromptu Speaking, 10th place; Christina Fischl - Future Business Leader, 5th place; Amanda Thomas - Computer Applications, 5th place; Eric Kelley - Future Business Leader - 6th place; Jessica Rhea - Introduction to Business Communications, 5th place; Courtney Taylor - Business Procedures, 3rd place; Selina Burgess - FBLA Principles and Procedures, 3rd place; Melinda Hannah - FBLA Principles and Procedures, 2nd place (Nationals); Patrick Lambert - Economics, 5th place.

Other students participating were:

Matt Gay - Public Speaking; Janet Biggs - Introduction to Business Communications; Jessica Dean - Business Communications; Tausha Cassell - Business Communications; Katie Smith - Business Calculation; LaNay Dilley - Business Mathematics; Tonya Waybright - Word Processing II; Melanie Roberts - Machine Transcription; Jennifer Simmons - Machine Transcription; Stephanie Meeks - Word Processing I; Jenny Dockery - Word Processing I; Voting Delegates - Steven Bennett and Jayme Crane; Chaperones - Linda Stewart, Teresa Rhea, Jerdina Mullenax, and Debbie Hamman; Bus Driver - Lefort Kidd.

MMS STUDENTS BILLY Rogers, Jillian Weiford, and Anna Barnisky (in front, l-r) were at the Legislature as pages for Sen. Walt Helmick (back row, left). They are pictured with family members and Sen. Mike Ross (right)

...members and Sen. Mike Ross (right)

MMS students go to Charleston

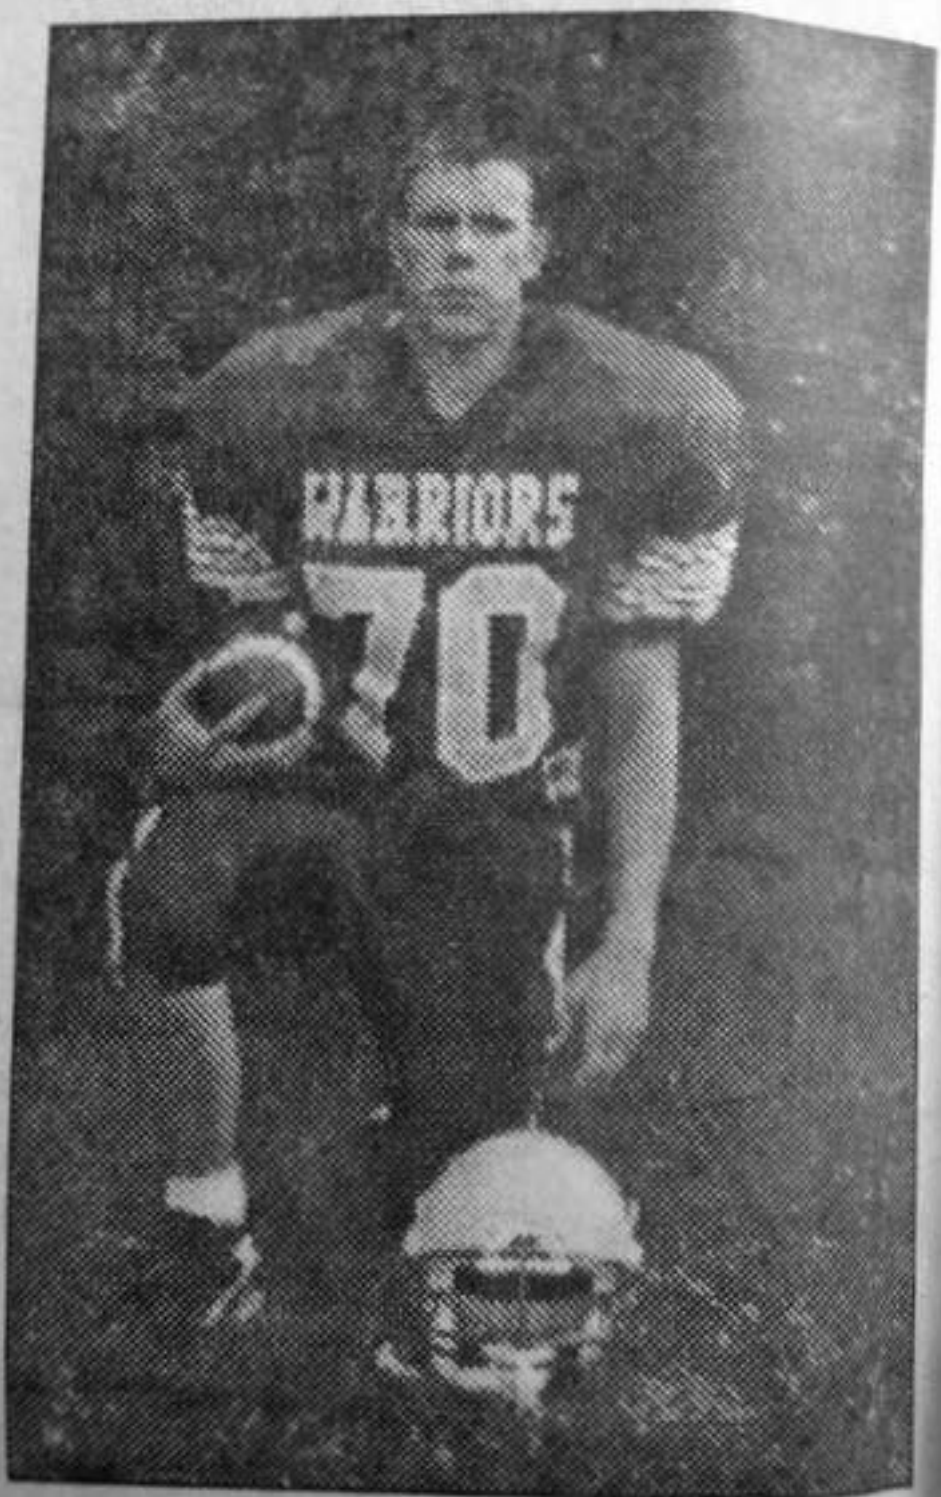
Marlinton Middle School students Billy Rogers, Anna Barnisky, and Jillian Weiford had the opportunity to travel to Charleston to work as Pages for Senator Walt Helmick. The students ran errands throughout the legislative session for different senators. They had the opportunity to meet government officials and witness our political system in action.

- - -

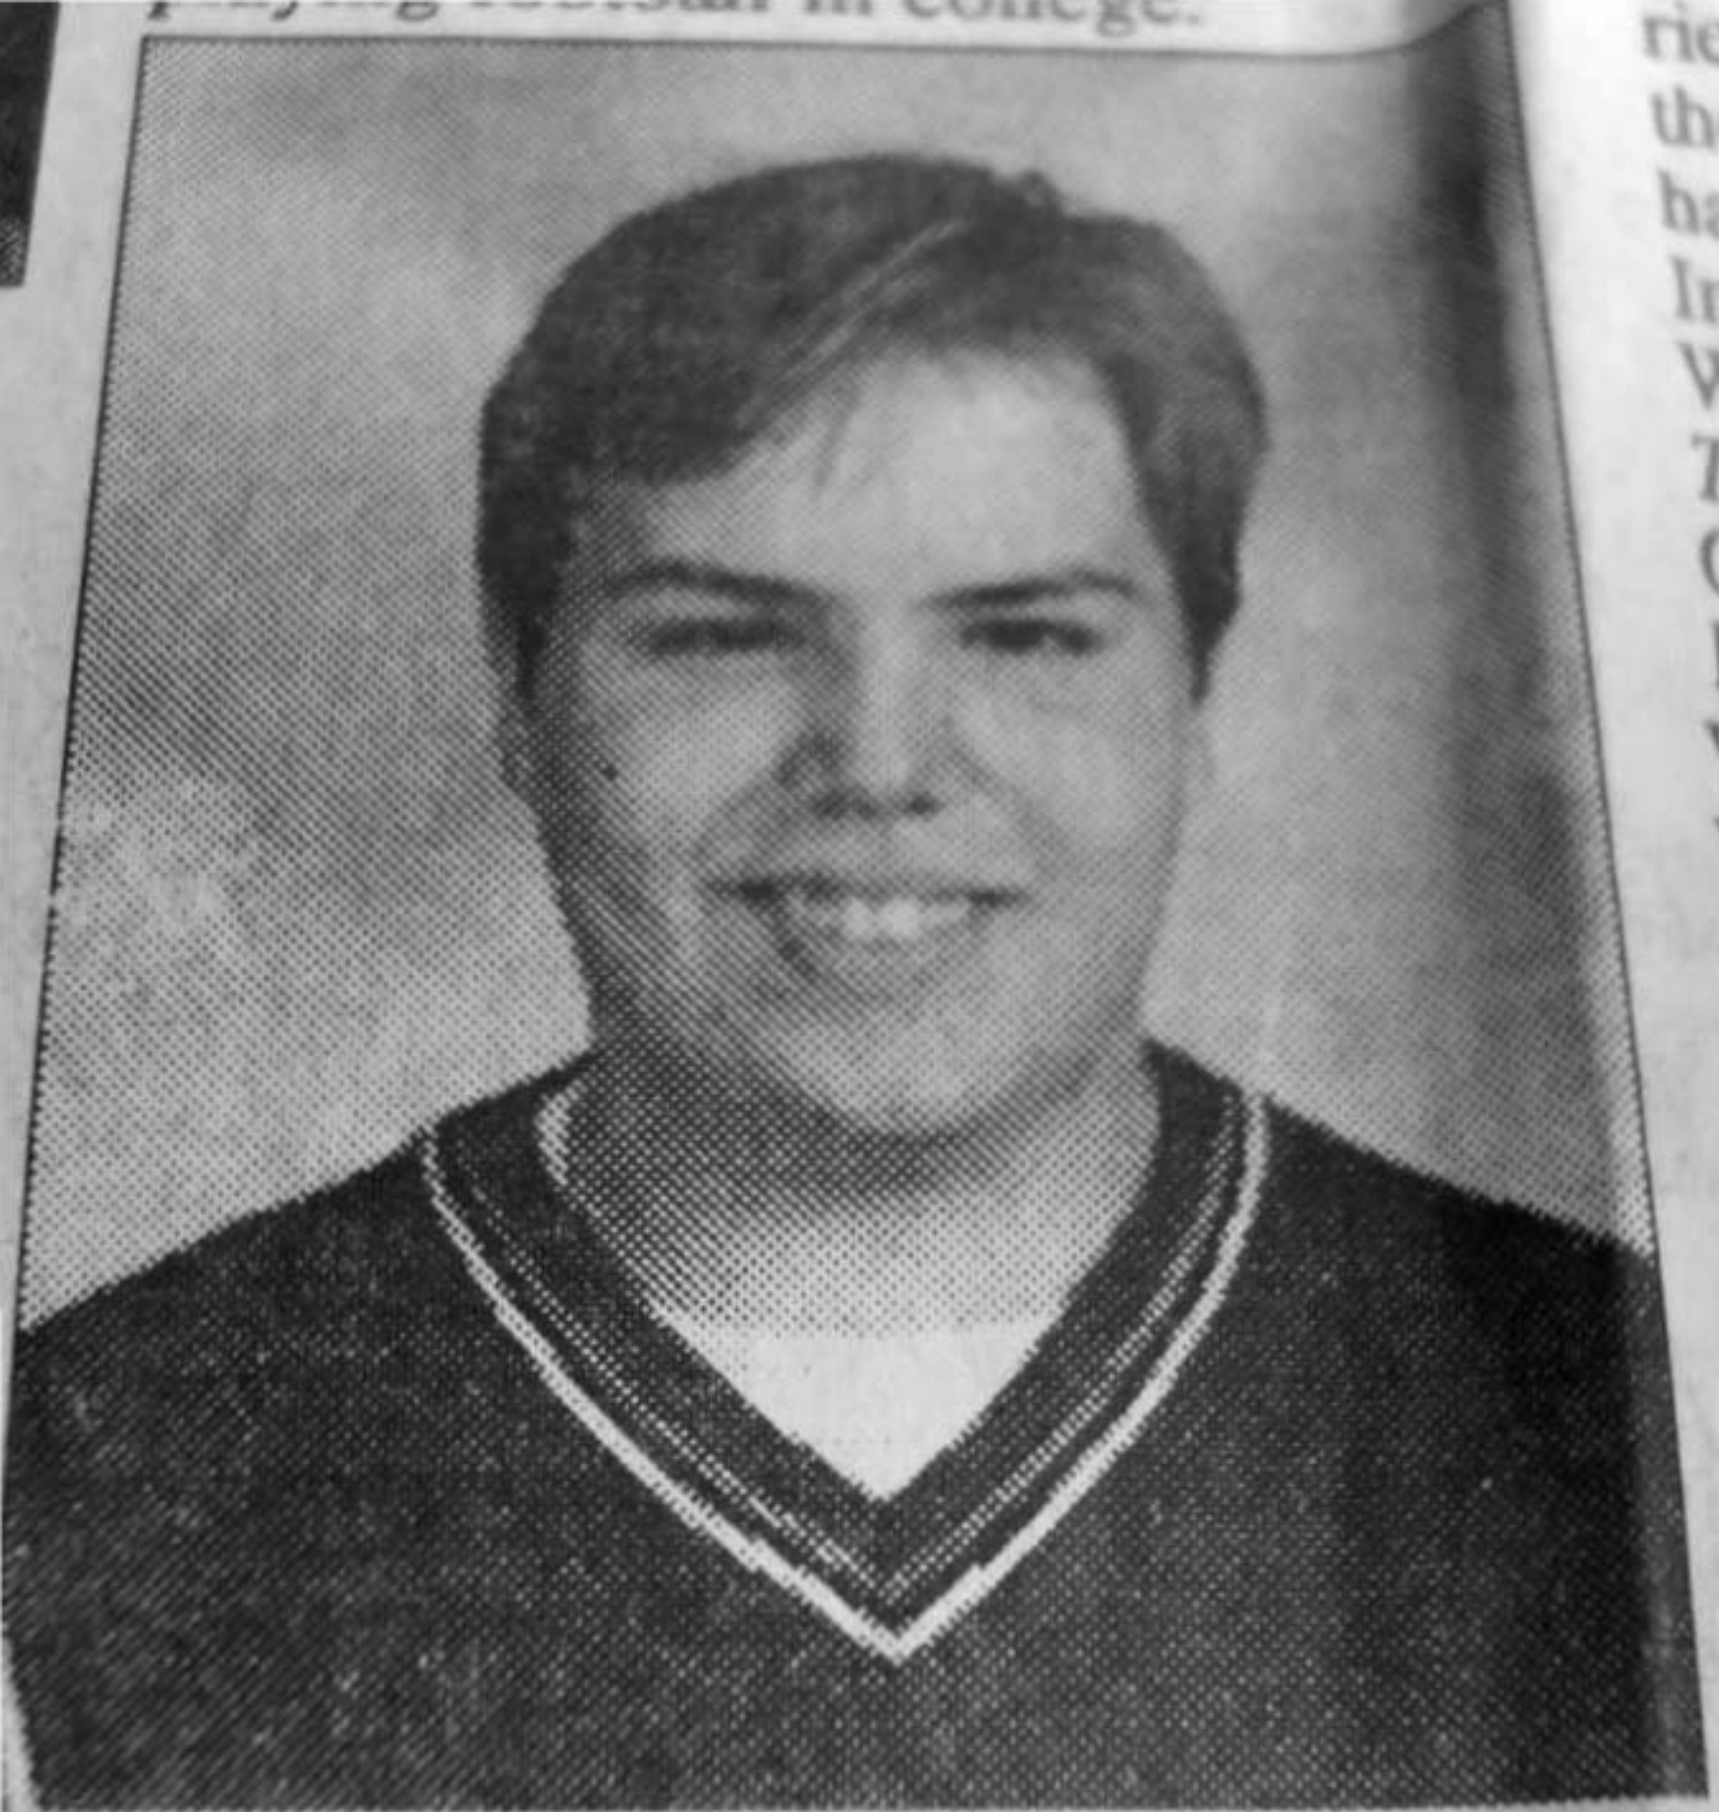
countywide speech contest. Due to the rash of bomb threats, VISTA was unable to hear and judge the MMS students within the contest deadline. On March 8, VISTA made a special trip to MMS to hear speeches. Anna Barnisky won 1st place; Danny Hoke 2nd place; and Joe Mosesso and Casey Goldstrom tied for 3rd place.

Sara Shinaberry is a freshman at PCHS, she is the daughter of Henry and Nancy Shinaberry, of Durbin. Sara is a member of Project Christmas. In her spare time she enjoys watching movies and playing basketball. She plans to one day become a real estate broker.

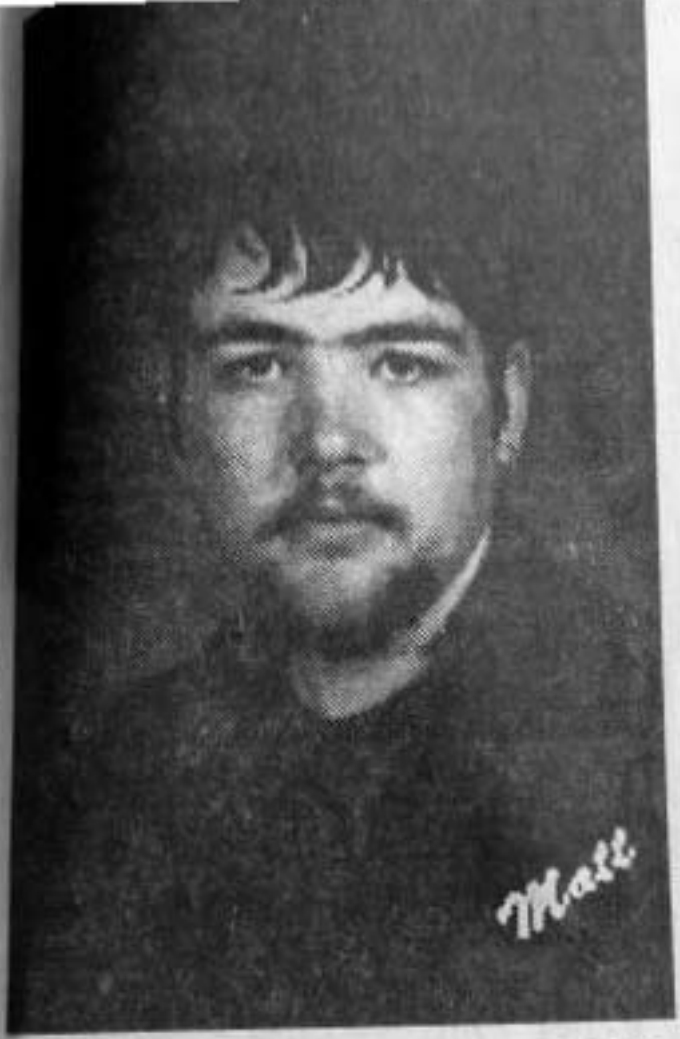
become a real estate broker.



Sophomore Justin Kerr is the son of Kathy and J. B. Kerr, of Green Bank. Justin has played football for three years and has been involved with VICA for two. He has also been in FFA and track for a year. He would like to continue playing football in college.



James Edward Roush is a junior



Matt White, a senior at PCHS is the son of Tammy White and Richard Lewis, of Droop, and Edward and Sherry White, of Bowling Green, Kentucky. This past summer Matt helped build a storage building at the green box site in Marlinton. In the evenings and on Saturday's he works as a farm hand. His hobbies include hunting, fishing, and being with friends. His future plans are to attend the Academy of Careers and Technology in Beckley and major in electronics and one day hopes to own a business in electronic repair.

Matt was nominated because he is very dependable, polite, and actively participates in class. He always gives that little "extra" which sets him apart from the rest of the students.

family members and Sen. Mike Ross (right)

MMS students go to Charlesto

Marlinton Middle School students Billy Rogers, Anna Barnisky, and Jillian Weiford had the opportunity to travel to Charleston to work as Pages for Senator Walt Helmick. The students ran errands throughout the legislative sessi for different senators. They had t opportunity to meet governme officials and witness our polit system in action.

- - -

ANNA BARNISKY

MMS students participate in VISTA speech contest

In honor of Martin Luther King, Jr., VISTA organized a countywide speech contest. Du the rash of bomb threats, VIS was unable to hear and judge MMS students within the con deadline. On March 8, VISTA m a special trip to MMS to h speeches. Anna Barnisky won place; Danny Hoke 2nd place; Joe Mosesso and Casey Goldst tied for 3rd place.

Tom's Garage
Galford's Creek Road
304-456-5104

Frank's Tax Service

MMS students go to Charleston

Marlinton Middle School students Billy Rogers, Anna Barnisky, and Jillian Weiford had the opportunity to travel to Charleston to work as Pages for Senator Walt Helmick. The students ran errands throughout the legislative session for different senators. They had the opportunity to meet government officials and witness our political system in action.

- - -

ANNA BARNISKY

MMS students participate in VISTA speech contest

In honor of Martin Luther King, Jr., VISTA organized a countywide speech contest. Due to the rash of bomb threats, VISTA was unable to hear and judge the MMS students within the contest deadline. On March 8, VISTA made a special trip to MMS to hear speeches. Anna Barnisky won 1st place; Danny Hoke 2nd place; and Joe Mosesso and Casey Goldstrom tied for 3rd place.

Tom's Garage
Galford's Creek Road
304-456-5104

Frank's Tax Service

Help McClintic Library develop Appalachian collection

Do you love Appalachian history and literature? Be a part of developing an Appalachian/West Virginian collection at the new McClintic Library. An introductory meeting will be held Wednesday, March 29, at 7 p.m. at the new McClintic Library in Marlinton. For more information, call LeAnna at 799-6004 or email leanna.alderman@yahoo.com.

- - -

Wilson C. Biggs

Wilson C. Biggs, age 92, died Sunday, April 16, 2000, at Pocahontas Center.

Mr. Biggs was a Methodist and a retired vat man at International Shoe Company.

The son of the late Jasper William Biggs and Sally Jackson Biggs, he was born at Hinton February 22, 1908.

His wife, Ruby Wardell Biggs, is deceased. Also preceding him in death were three sons, Freddy and Curtis Biggs and an infant boy; three sisters, Grace Broyles and Effie Michael and an infant girl; and seven brothers, Jim, Charlie, John, Albert, Lamer, Henry, and Paul Biggs.

Surviving him are three daughters, Mary Ann Beverage, of Eldora, Iowa, and Linda Woolard, of Independence, Ohio; two sons, Thomas Biggs and Roger Biggs, both of Marlinton; twelve grandchildren and fourteen great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 11 a. m. Thursday at VanReenen Funeral Home Chapel by Sam Felton, with burial in Mountain View Cemetery.

- - -

Elizabeth Daniell Hill

Elizabeth Daniell Hill, age 68, of Orlando, Florida, died Friday, April 14, 2000, in Orlando.

Ms. Hill was a retired Special Education Teacher and member of First Presbyterian Church in Orlando. She was a member of Chi Omega, REOS (Lockheed Martin Wives Club), and Tiger Bay Club of Orlando. A special interest of hers was autism and she helped found the American Autism

Alkire is Democrat Candidate for Sheriff & Treasurer

To the Citizens of Pocahontas County:

As a Candidate for Sheriff, I fully realize the duties and responsi-

as your Sheriff with no other employment; you deserve nothing less.

Please take time to review my background, education and experience I have listed for you. Your

Alkire is Democrat Candidate for Sheriff & Treasurer

To the Citizens of Pocahontas County:

As a Candidate for Sheriff, I fully realize the duties and responsibilities of the office. The Sheriff must be an administrator, a strong supervisor and a decisive leader. I believe a strong supervisor must be able to do the job as well or better than the people he is supervising. A decisive leader must also have once been a good follower.

I have investigated about every crime that we have a law against. From embezzlements, burglaries, breaking and enterings, grand larcenies and armed robberies to malicious woundings, rapes and murders all over our state, as well as illegal drugs in this state and other states. I have testified in Magistrate Courts, Grand Juries, Circuit Courts, Federal Grand Juries and Federal Courts. In all these cases over the years that I have investigate, I lost one due to a plea bargain agreement. I have supervised Drug Units, Criminal Investigation Units, State Police Detachments and State Police Districts. After working nearly three years in the Pocahontas County Jail, I feel that I have a good working knowledge as to how the jail and 911/Communications Center is operated. I believe it would be difficult to manage as your Sheriff with no other employment; you deserve nothing less.

Please take time to review my background, education and experience I have listed for you. Your consideration for me for this very important position would be greatly appreciated. If you will be there for me on May 9, when I need you, I'll be there for you when you need me.

If you have any questions, suggestions or comments, please contact me.

Bob Alkire

About Bob Alkire:

Born the son of a career Army officer, Bob has lived in Wisconsin, Oklahoma, Alabama, Florida, West Virginia and Germany. He graduated from Buckhannon-Upshur High School and entered the United States Navy nine days later at the age of 17. He served in the Navy as a Communications Technician before being honorably discharged. He went on to enter West Virginia University in Morgantown.

He married Elaine Conrad, of Barbour County, on May 1, 1970. They have lived in Buckeye since 1984.

The Alkires have two sons, Rob and Corey. Rob graduated from Pocahontas County High School with the class of 1990. He is married to the former Teresa McCarty, able to do the job as well or better than the people he is supervising. A decisive leader must also have once been a good follower.

I have investigated about every crime that we have a law against. From embezzlements, burglaries, breaking and enterings, grand larcenies and armed robberies to malicious woundings, rapes and murders all over our state, as well as illegal drugs in this state and other states. I have testified in Magistrate Courts, Grand Juries, Circuit Courts, Federal Grand Juries and Federal Courts. In all these cases over the years that I have investigate, I lost one due to a plea bargain agreement. I have supervised Drug Units, Criminal Investigation Units, State Police Detachments and State Police Districts. After working nearly three years in the Pocahontas County Jail, I feel that I have a good working knowledge as to how the jail and 911/Communications Center is operated. I believe it would be difficult to supervise people if you have not done their job, as I have tried to do.

If given the opportunity to be your Sheriff, I would insist on fair and equal law enforcement throughout the county. From Edray to Frost and from Droop Mountain to Durbin, all of Pocahontas County and each citizen deserves equal law enforcement.

If given the opportunity to be your Sheriff, I would try to educate the young people of our county on the dangers of drugs, alcohol and cigarettes. I would also offer classes to parents on how to recognize the symptoms of drug and alcohol abuse. Our children are our future.

If given the opportunity to be your Sheriff, I would treat each citizen equally under the law. That is why our Lady Justice is blind-folded.

I believe that over my career, my honesty, integrity and high moral and ethical standards have helped me perform

If you have any questions, suggestions or comments, please contact me.

Bob Alkire

About Bob Alkire:

Born the son of a career Army officer, Bob has lived in Wisconsin, Oklahoma, Alabama, Florida, West Virginia and Germany. He graduated from Buckhannon-Upshur High School and entered the United States Navy nine days later at the age of 17. He served in the Navy as a Communications Technician before being honorably discharged. He went on to enter West Virginia University in Morgantown.

He married Elaine Conrad, of Barbour County, on May 1, 1970. They have lived in Buckeye since 1984.

The Alkires have two sons, Rob and Corey. Rob graduated from Pocahontas County High School with the class of 1990. He is married to the former Teresa McCarty, of Frost. They have two children, Kyleen, 3, and Chase, 1. They reside in Minnehaha Springs. Rob is the owner of his own business, Rob-Cor Security. Corey graduated from Pocahontas County High School with the class of 1996. He is engaged to Jessie Estep, of Beaver Creek. Corey plans to attend the Art Institute of Pittsburgh in the fall.

Bob entered the West Virginia State Police Academy in 1973. He was one of the first officers chosen to form the Criminal Investigation Section of the State Police and has served as the coordinator of the Criminal Investigation Section of Company C at Elkins. He formed and served as the coordinator of the Criminal Investigation Section of Company B at South Charleston and the Detachment Commander of the Marlinton Detachment. Deputized as a Deputy United States Marshal to serve on the Federal Drug Task Force, he was assigned to the Drug Enforcement

ing knowledge as to how the jail and 911/Communications Center is operated. I believe it would be difficult to supervise people if you have not done their job, as I have tried to do.

If given the opportunity to be your Sheriff, I would insist on fair and equal law enforcement throughout the county. From Edray to Frost and from Droop Mountain to Durbin, all of Pocahontas County and each citizen deserves equal law enforcement.

If given the opportunity to be your Sheriff, I would try to educate the young people of our county on the dangers of drugs, alcohol and cigarettes. I would also offer classes to parents on how to recognize the symptoms of drug and alcohol abuse. Our children are our future.

If given the opportunity to be your Sheriff, I would treat each citizen equally under the law. That is why our Lady Justice is blind-folded.

I believe that over my career, my honesty, integrity and high moral and ethical standards have helped me perform my duties to a higher degree. I would like to bring these attributes to your Sheriff's Department. I would work full-time

Pocahontas County High School with the class of 1990. He is married to the former Teresa McCarty, of Frost. They have two children, Kyleen, 3, and Chase, 1. They reside in Minnehaha Springs. Rob is the owner of his own business, Rob-Cor Security. Corey graduated from Pocahontas County High School with the class of 1996. He is engaged to Jessie Estep, of Beaver Creek. Corey plans to attend the Art Institute of Pittsburgh in the fall.

Bob entered the West Virginia State Police Academy in 1973. He was one of the first officers chosen to form the Criminal Investigation Section of the State Police and has served as the coordinator of the Criminal Investigation Section in Company C at Elkins. He formed and served as the coordinator of the Criminal Investigation Section in Company B at South Charleston and the Detachment Commander of the Marlinton Detachment. Deputized as a Deputy United States Marshal to serve on the Federal Drug Task Force, he was assigned to the Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA) to work illegal drug trafficking nationwide. He excelled in Criminal Investigations, especially homicides and illegal dru

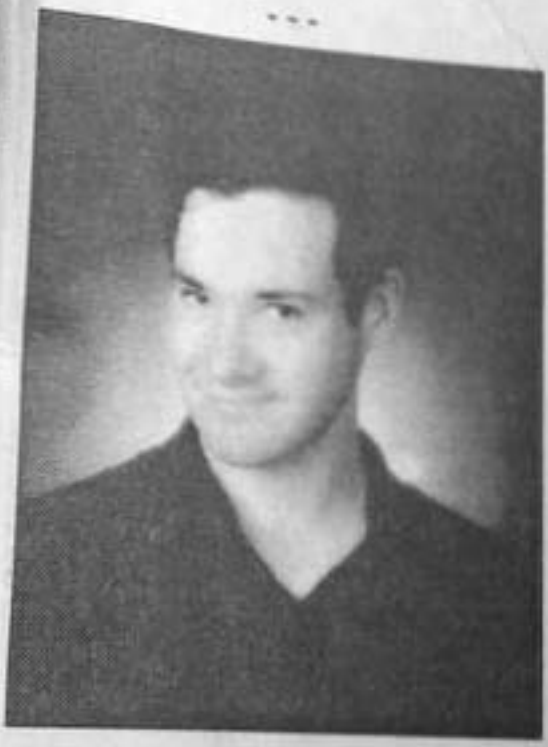
Bob has received numerous letters of commendation and awards during his career, including Young Police Officer of the Year, Achievement Award from the Troopers Association. He was the third police officer in West Virginia to be awarded the Distinguished Service Medal. He ended his career with the State Police as the District Commander for Webster Springs and Marlinton.

Bob is currently a temporary Special Investigator for the Prosecuting Attorney of Pocahontas County

After retiring from the State Police in 1994, Bob was employed by the Pocahontas County Sheriff's Office as a Correctional Officer/911 Operator for nearly three years. Bob graduated from the State Corrections Academy in Montgomery and became a state-certified Corrections Officer and also a state-certified 911 Telecommunicator.

Training and Education:

West Virginia State Police Academy, Explosive Ordnance Reconnaissance Training Program, Search and Evacuation Procedures, Improvised Explosive devices by 71st Ordnance Detachment, Medico Legal Investigation of Death, Specialized School in Auto Theft, International Association of Auto Theft Investigators, Baltimore Maryland, Auto Theft and Prevention, Criminal Psychology, Federal Bureau of Investigation, Radar Operation, Radar Operator Recertification Instructor, Governor's Committee on Crime, Delinquency and Correction, Intoxilizer 5000 Training School, Basic Narcotics and Dangerous Drug Law Enforcement, Crater Criminal Justice Academy, Advanced Drug Law Enforcement, Institute of Police Technology and Management, University of North Florida, Street Survival Tactics, Shreveport, Louisiana Karate Club, Dangerous Motorcycle Gangs, U. S. Marshal Service, Drug Interdiction on our Highways, New York State Police Academy, Drug Interdiction on our Highways, U. S. Marshal Service, Executive Development Management Training, Northwestern University, Alco Sensor III Preliminary Breath Testing Instrument Training, American Disabilities Act and Sexual Harassment Course, Human Rights Commission, Law Enforcement Officers Instructors Certificate issued by the Governor of West Virginia, 53 hours Criminal Justice at Marshall University, State Certified Telecommunicator, State Certified Corrections Officer.



Bauserman for Republican National Convention Delegate

Jeremy Donald Bauserman, of Bartow, Pocahontas County, is running for Republican National Convention Delegate for the 3rd Dis-

HUCK Huckleberry's Steak & Trout House
Wednesdays
HUCKLEBERRY'S

trict. He is committed for George W. Bush.

Bauserman is a 1994 graduate of Pocahontas County High School. He attended Bridgewater College where he majored in Political Science. He was a member of the debate team, College Republicans and Fellowship of Christian Athletes. Bauserman has lived in Pocahontas County for 20 of his 24 years. He works for Snowshoe Ski Resort's housekeeping department in the winter and J & J Associates general contracting in the summer. He is an active member of The Durserman in the May 9 primary. Vote for a young person with enthusiasm for the new millenium!

- - -

Kathy Beverage for Magistrate

I am Kathy Underwood Beverage, of Marlinton, and wife of Eugene Beverage. I graduated from Pocahontas County High School in 1980, and Bluefield State College in 1995.

I have worked as a Magistrate Assistant for five years. I have worked in various law offices as a Legal Secretary and Paralegal for thirteen years.

I have completed all required certification classes and training while serving as a Magistrate Assistant.

I have been very active in helping with the Pocahontas County Needy Children's Christmas Fund for several years. I have also helped the Pocahontas County Humane in 1995.

I have worked as a Magistrate Assistant for five years. I have worked in various law offices as a Legal Secretary and Paralegal for thirteen years.

I have completed all required certification classes and training while serving as a Magistrate Assistant.

I have been very active in helping with the Pocahontas County Needy Children's Christmas Fund for several years. I have also helped the Pocahontas County Humane Society.

A Magistrate must be impartial. Family or other relationships must not influence judgment.

A Magistrate's job consists of at least one Magistrate being on call for 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. Some of the issues that Magistrates deal with are: issue warrants, search warrants, hold trials, issue Domestic Violence Petitions and Protective Orders.

The Judicial Court of Ethics requires Magistrates to comply with the law, always conducting themselves professionally and in such a manner that gains the respect of those whom we serve and promotes public confidence in the integrity and impartiality of the Judiciary.

If you want an honest, caring person for Magistrate who will be available when needed, impartial on decisions and interested in the jobs and the people it serves, I am the candidate you seek.

I ask that you vote for me on May 9, 2000.

Kathy Underwood Beverage

- - -

Re-elect
Jerry Dale for Sheriff

I am again asking for your vote for Sheriff of Pocahontas County. My wife, Wilma, is the principal of Marlinton Elementary School. We live on our farm in Huntersville with our sons, Evan, 14, Grant, 12 and Logan, 9.

I have been involved in Pocahontas County since childhood. I was taught that an important part of life is to give back to the community. My father, Richard Dale, worked for the State Parks for over 37 years and was Superintendent of Watoga and Cass. My strong sense of service was formed in those early years by living and working in the park system with my family.

After graduating from the Pocahontas County School system, I went on to earn a Bachelor's Degree in Business and Criminal Justice and a Master's Degree in Behavioral Science and Criminal Justice. I am proud of my Pocahontas education and I will do all I can to help in the education of the young people of this county. I am and will be very active with drug education classes in the county schools.

Working with children is a very important part of being Sheriff. We all must do what we can to keep our young people on the right track. I was actively involved in the recent bomb threat investigations and helped write a grant to fund a position that would work in the schools with the young people. I am a charter member of the Child Advocate Task Force and was director of the Youth Opportunity Camp for five summers. I also serve on the Safe Schools Committee, the Students Against Drunk Driving Committee (SADD), the School Bus Safety Committee, Youth Health Services Board of Dir[illegible] and have [illegible]

den at Huttonsville Correctional Center, certified magistrate of Pocahontas County, a therapist and counselor, a college instructor in criminal justice, and, currently, Sheriff of Pocahontas County.

I have been trained to deal with domestic violence and domestic terrorism, which includes hostage negotiation and bomb detection. I am also educated in drug identification and eradication.

My record speaks for itself. In 1981 while Warden at Huttonsville Prison, I brought inmates ot Frank to help build Widney Park. In 1985 I used my influence with the Department of Corrections to bring inmate labor for flood recovery in Pocahontas County. In 1986 I helped write and lobby to pass legislation to curb White Supremacist paramilitary activity at Mill Point.

If re-elected I will continue to work hard for you. Since taking office in January 1997, eight felony drug arrests have been made. Four of these individuals have been convicted and the other four are pending. I have written grants for a Durbin police officer and two new deputies, one assigned to Snowshoe and one who lives and works in Northern Pocahontas County. Since 1997, 120 drunk drivers have been arrested and our home confinement program has saved the county $150,000. Our corrections and dispatch staff has done an excellent [illegible] in the operation of the jail and in providing the life line in communicating with our emergency service providers.

Being the Treasurer of the County is one of the most important aspects of my job. Making sure the tax records are in order is a top priority. In 1995-96, before I and Cass. My strong sense of service was formed in those early years by living and working in the park system with my family.

After graduating from the Pocahontas County School system, I went on to earn a Bachelor's Degree in Business and Criminal Justice and a Master's Degree in Behavioral Science and Criminal Justice. I am proud of my Pocahontas education and I will do all I can to help in the education of the young people of this county. I am and will be very active with drug education classes in the county schools.

Working with children is a very important part of being Sheriff. We all must do what we can to keep our young people on the right track. I was actively involved in the recent bomb threat investigations and helped write a grant to fund a position that would work in the schools with the young people. I am a charter member of the Child Advocate Task Force and was director of the Youth Opportunity Camp for five summers. I also serve on the Safe Schools Committee, the Students Against Drunk Driving Committee (SADD), the School Bus Safety Committee, Youth Health Services Board of Directors and have been a soccer coach for seven years.

I have used my education in serving the community and the State of West Virginia. I was a war-to help build Widney Park. In 1985 I used my influence with the Department of Corrections to bring inmate labor for flood recovery in Pocahontas County. In 1986 I helped write and lobby to pass legislation to curb White Supremacist paramilitary activity at Mill Point.

If re-elected I will continue to work hard for you. Since taking office in January 1997, eight felony drug arrests have been made. Four of these individuals have been convicted and the other four are pending. I have written grants for a Durbin police officer and two new deputies, one assigned to Snowshoe and one who lives and works in Northern Pocahontas County. Since 1997, 120 drunk drivers have been arrested and our home confinement program has saved the county $150,000. Our corrections and dispatch staff has done an excellent job in the operation of the jail and in providing the life line in communicating with our emergency services providers.

Being the Treasurer of the County is one of the most important aspects of my job. Making sure the tax records are in order is a top priority. In 1995-96, before I returned as Sheriff, the tax office was not in compliance with the State Auditor's office. Consequently, checks to the Board of Education and our three municipalities were not submitted on a timely basis. Also, thousands of dollars were not collected in hotel/motel tax. This adversely affected the Board of Education, local municipalities, our libraries, parks and recreation, our hospital, and the promotion of tourism in Pocahontas County. The tax office was totally reorganized. As of June 1998, the tax office was again in compliance with the State Auditor's office.

Please take the time to compare my education, experience, record and proven commitment to this County to that of my opponent. With over 26 years of public service, I look forward to 4 more years as your Sheriff. I have always maintained an "open" door policy and will continue to listen to your concerns.

Your vote and support will be appreciated on May 9.

concerns.

Your vote and support will be appreciated on May 9.

Dolan Irvine Democratic Candidate for Assessor

I am asking for your support and vote on May 9 and November 7, 2000, for the following reasons:

I am qualified. I graduated from WVU with a BS Degree in Agriculture, I am a state certified real estate appraiser, past president of the West Virginia Assessors Association, and received the Outstanding Assessor of the Year Award. This award is presented to the assessor who received the most votes from the State Assessors Association as the outstanding assessor of the year. The Ralph C. Boyles Award is presented by the State Tax Department to the assessor who has done the best job statewide. I received this award for the 1996-97 year. The assessor who receives this award has done the best job with compliance of the laws and tax regulations.

I am a member of many county organizations and groups, and am president of the Pocahontas Producers Co-op, a member of the advisory board of City Holding, a third degree Mason, a member of the Moose Lodge and the Farm Bureau.

The Assessor's Office is conducted professionally with one of the best-trained staffs in the state. I will always be [illegible] people the 1990 [illegible] receives this award has done the best job with compliance of the laws and tax regulations.

I am a member of many county organizations and groups, and am president of the Pocahontas Producers Co-op, a member of the advisory board of City Holding, a third degree Mason, a member of the Moose Lodge and the Farm Bureau.

The Assessor's Office is conducted professionally with one of the best-trained staffs in the state. I will always be fair, impartial, treat people equally and do the job according to the law. We are innovative and willing to change as better systems are developed and computer programs are enhanced.

If you need an answer or explanation about your taxes, or if you believe you are being treated unfairly, we will always be able to explain the law and our decisions. I will assure you that you will be treated with respect, dignity, fairness and equality even though we may disagree.

I have been your Assessor for 19 years and am asking for your vote and support.

Sincerely,
Dolan Irvine

- - -

B. 'Fuzzy' King for Board of Education

I go by my nickname because that is what most people know me by, born and raised in the county; I am married to the former Sandra Kay Wilfong. We have two sons, Mark and Kevin. I graduated from Marlinton High School.

We are life-time residents of Pocahontas County. I am employed by the U.S. Postal Service in Marlinton. In my past service on the Board of Education money was

Board of Education

I go by my nickname because that is what most people know me by, born and raised in the county; I am married to the former Sandra Kay Wilfong. We have two sons, Mark and Kevin. I graduated from Marlinton High School.

We are life-time residents of Pocahontas County. I am employed by the U.S. Postal Service in Marlinton. In my past service on the Board of Education money was applied for and received for the cafeteria at Marlinton Elementary School, the addition at Green Bank, and the auditorium at PCHS. This was accomplished by givng through the State School Building Authority.

As a school board member the most important goal is to give our students the best education possible with the money that is available. If cuts must be made, it is essential to be objective. I have no relatives employed by the school system and would be able to make a decison without prejudice. When deciding what programs are to be cut, you should look first at the supplements being paid and then at the extra-curriculum activities before cutting staff.

We have to ask ourselves some very important questions. "Are we trying to teach too much, too fast in with the money that is available. If cuts must be made, it is essential to be objective. I have no relatives employed by the school system and would be able to make a decison without prejudice. When deciding what programs are to be cut, you should look first at the supplements being paid and then at the extra-curriculum activities before cutting staff.

We have to ask ourselves some very important questions. "Are we trying to teach too much, too fast in the elementary schools?" Are we giving our students a good foundation on which to build.

Do we need to have keyboarding classes in the middle schools, so students don't have to hunt and peck on the high school level.

Also I feel there is a definite need for two full-time counselors at PCHS, one male and one female. There are many situations that arise when a student feels more comfortable talking to a female counselor, and vice versa.

I support vocational programs

as well as the academic. The reason I think this is so important is we have a lot of students who decide not to go into higher education programs. I would like to see all of our students further their education past the high school level, but for one reason or another some decide not to. It is the board member's job to provide all of our students the best education possible, be it academic or vocational.

I believe in a strong maintenance program. The schools are just like our homes. If you don't keep them up as you go along all at once you have a big problem which is real expensive. These buildings belong to all the people. The board is just caretakers of them. So as a board member it is your responsibility to see that the maintenance needed is provided as you go along.

If you have any questions or concerns please feel free to call at 799-7349.

Your consideration and vote would be appreciated.

B. "Fuzzy" King

board member it is your responsibility to see that the maintenance needed is provided as you go along.

If you have any questions or concerns please feel free to call at 799-7349.

Your consideration and vote would be appreciated.

B. "Fuzzy" King

- - -

Candidate for Board of Education

Hello! I am Debra Waugh Schoolcraft. I am running for Board of Education for the Southern District. I am married to Terry, of Buckeye, and have two children still in school, Joey, 10th grade, and Teressa, 9th grade. I also have Leannna Woodhouse, who graduated in 1993, Terri Auldridge, who graduated in 1997, and Phoebe Auldridge, of Stony Bottom. I also have two granddaughters, Kiana and Phabi Ona. Both are two years old.

continued to page 5

rethren.
als is to increase pecially among n dismayed that ge are discouraged ue to negative
ording to Bauser-

Tampa, Florida, and Tamela Margraf, of Braunsels, Texas.

- - -

Everette Earl Carr

Everette Earl Carr, age 70, of Hayesville, North Carolina, formerly of Marlinton, died April 11, 2000, in Murphy Medical Center, Murphy, North Carolina, after a long illness.

He was a member of the United Methodist Church, a miner and a member of the United Mine Workers of America.

The son of Ernest N. Carr, Sr., and Mittie Irene Snead Carr, he was born September 29, 1929, at Clawson.

Preceding him in death were his parents; a son, Everette E. Carr, Jr.; two sisters, Violia Allman and Genivive Carr; and nine brothers, Ernest N. Carr, Jr., Bernard, Leonard, Leo, Lawrence, Robert, Leslie, Carlyle, and Eugene Carr.

Surviving are three sons, Christopher C. Carr, of Vacaville, California, Monte Ray Carr, of Hayesville, and Terry A. Carr, of Marlinton; a daughter, Erin Myers, of London, Kentucky; two sisters, Thelma Bussard, of Redick, Florida, and Beulah Grimes Wake, of Prattsville, Alabama; and six grandchildren.

Services were held Saturday at VanReenen Funeral Home, Marlinton, by the Rev. Jerry Moore. Burial was in Clawson Cemetery.

- - -

Joe Eddie Blackburn

Joe Eddie Blackburn, age 39, of Marmet, died April 13, 2000, at home after a short illness.

He was an employee of the

MEET THE CANDIDATES DOUBLE-HEADER

10 a.m. Democratic Candidates for Magistrate

Kathy Beverage

Betty Wall

Bill Hevener

Patricia Crane

Ron Simmons

11 a.m. Democrat Candidate for House of Delegates

Philip Hudok

Incumbents Joe Martin and Bill Proudfoot will not attend Meet the Candidates for House of Delegates.

Congratulations to our PCHS VICA members for winning at the State Competition

Good Luck this summer at Nationals

Don't let our vocational projects disappear. ✓ Vote YES for the levy.

Political Advertisement Paid for By SOS Committee, W.P. McNeel, Treasurer

Appalachian Sport 2000 Spring Gobbler Contest

GRAND PRIZE: Ruger 10/22 Magnum "1999 Gun Of The Year"

ENTRY FEE: $5 ENTRY DEADLINE: April 23, 2000 (304) 799-1050

Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. David Cason, of Harrisonburg, Virginia, wish to announce the engagement of their daughter, Kimberly Anne Cason, to Richard Fredrick Crews, the son of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Crews, of Arbovale.

Ms. Cason, of Harrisonburg, is a graduate of Harrisonburg High School and Blue Ridge Community College where she received an AAS degree in Business Management/ Merchandising. She is employed as an administrative clerk by Watkins Motor Lines.

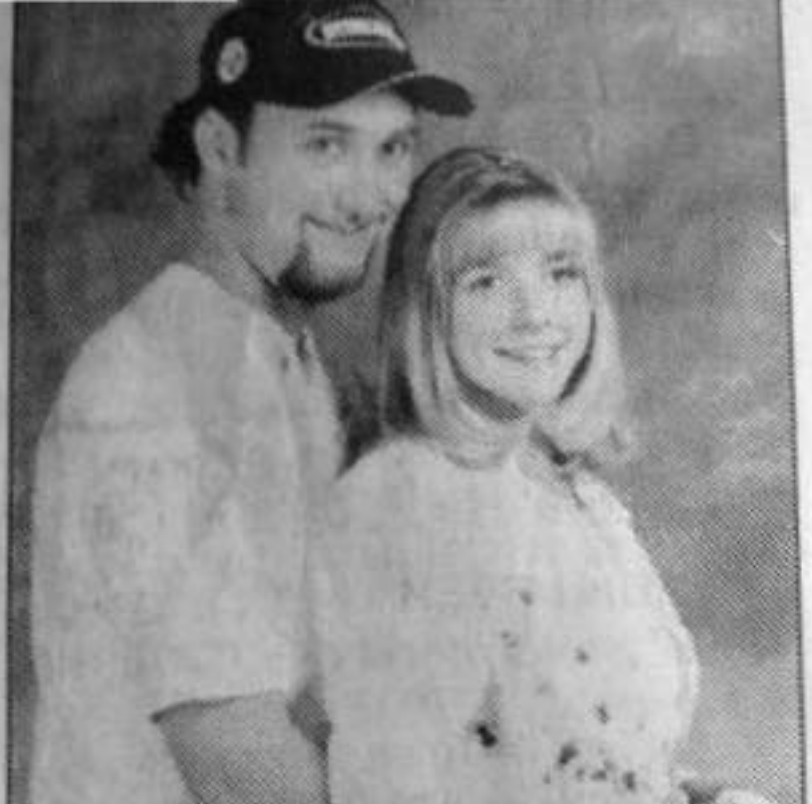
The groom-to-be also lives in Harrisonburg and is employed as a reconditioning technician by Harrisonburg Nissan. He is a graduate of Pocahontas County High School and has auto technician degree from Nashville Diesel College.

A May 2000 wedding is planned.

Engagement and Forthcoming Marriage

Mr. and Mrs. James D. Warner, of Green Bank, are pleased to announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Brooke Ann Taylor to Travis Ray Vandevander. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ray Vandevander, of Arbovale.

The wedding ceremony will take place September 16, 2000, at the Pine Grove Brethren Church in Arbovale.



Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. William D. Nottingham, of Ahoskie, North Carolina, announce the engagement of their daughter, Devona Faith, to Edward Keith Lassiter, the son of Edward and Brenda Lassiter, of Woodland, North Carolina.

Devona is the maternal granddaughter of Myrtle Baker, of Roxobel, North Carolina, and the late Joseph Baker. She is the paternal granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis D. Nottingham, of Durbin.

Keith is the maternal grandson of Lucille Hoggard, of Woodland, North Carolina, and the late Marvin Hoggard. He is the paternal grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jorden Lassiter.

A May 20th wedding is planned.

PICTURED ARE RETA Griffith, John R. Simmons, Bonnie Fuoco, and Joel Callison

Pocahontas County participates in national flag campaign

Pocahontas County will participate in a national campaign and fly the Children's Memorial Flag during the month of April. According to the Child Welfare League of America the purpose of the campaign is "to direct attention to the scandal of violent child deaths, as part of a national effort to reduce child mortality and keep children healthy, safe and thriving."

"The United States leads the world in homicides against children and youth under age 15, accounting for 73% of all homicides—and 54% of all suicides of children from birth to age 15 in the world's top 26 industrialized countries. The causes include guns, motor vehicles and child abuse. To call attention to the shamefully high number of preventable deaths of children in the U.S. the CWLA promotes display of the Children's Memorial Flag at any time that a child dies from violence and throughout April, which is Child Abuse Prevention Month."

Pocahontas County Commissioners Joel Callison, Reta J. Griffith, John R. Simmons responded to a request from WE CAN Volunteer Coordinator Bonnie Fuoco to fly the flag during April. Flags will also be flown at the Monroe County Courthouse in Union and the Greenbrier Community College Center of Bluefield State College in Lewisburg. Memorial flags were purchased through a grant from Rotary International. The WE CAN Program received the grant, part of which, Training for Change, helps families and communities learn more about child abuse and neglect issues.

The WE CAN Program recruits, trains, places, and supervises volunteer mentors. Mentoring assists children in meeting development needs and helps them grow into responsible, caring adults. WE CAN is a service of the Children's Home Society of West Virginia and is funded in part by the United Way of Greenbrier Valley. For more information on mentoring contact: Bonnie Fuoco 645-4452.

- - -

Ron Simmons for Magistrate

Hello, I am Ron Simmons, Democratic candidate for the office of Magistrate. I am 36 years old and a lifelong resident of this county. I graduated from Pocahontas County High School in 1982, and was employed by the Pocahontas County Sheriff's Department in 1986, where I'm currently still employed. My wife, Debbie, and I own and operate A Second Look Consignment Shop in Marlinton. We have three children, Michelle - 14, Ronnie (Bud) - 12, and Hilary - 9. I am very active within the community. This will be my third year coaching Little League Baseball in Hillsboro. I am President and one of the founders of "The Needy Children's Christmas Fund."

Being in the position that I am in now, I have seen numerous incidents involving repeat offenders, such as domestic violence where penalties and fines are not harsh enough to break the pattern of this. I believe that the court system has a purpose: To impose sentences that would make a person think twice before committing a crime and still keeping the issue of treating every individual equally and fairly.

In the past 14 years, I have been actively involved with the Sheriff's Department and have gained much knowledge and experience from this position. I feel that with this change, I can put prior experiences to use in the Magistrate's office. Being involved in the Law Enforcement area of the Criminal Justice System, I feel that I would be an asset to the court system and to the people of this County. I have built my reputation on treating everyone fairly and equally, and, with this in mind, I would carry it on to the Magistrate's position.

On May 9, I would appreciate your vote and support to continue serving Pocahontas County as one of your next Magistrates. Thank You.

Baker for Magistrate

I am Elizabeth Wall, a lot of you know me as Betty Baker. I have been your Magistrate Court Clerk since 1977. I am running on the Democrat ticket for Magistrate.

As Court Clerk I am the keeper of the records. I am accountable for all files and financial records. I process criminal and civil files, applies for the Magistrate Court. I maintain the court's bank account. I keep all records required for audits.

For the last 23 years all work done by other Magistrate Court personnel has flowed into and out of my office at some point. I run an efficient and organized office.

My childhood was spent on a farm in western Greenbrier County. I graduated from Smoot High School, attended WV Tech in Montgomery, Greenbrier Community College in Lewisburg, and received my degree from Bluefield State College.

I have two children, Arlene and Will Baker, who graduated from Pocahontas County High School. Arlene was in the band, 4-H, and played soccer. Will played baseball, football, basketball, soccer, and ran track. Today, Arlene is married and works as a police officer. Her love of this county and 4-H brings her back to 4-H Camp as counselor when her job will allow. Will is married and the father of two children. They live in the Eastern Panhandle.

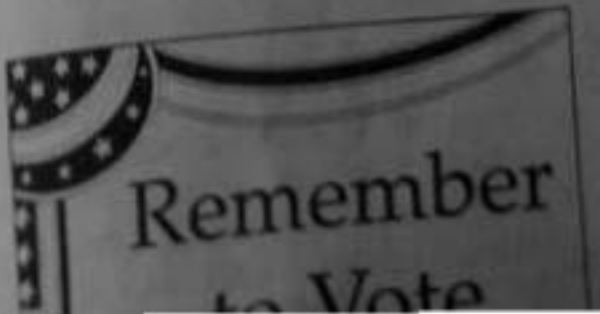
I am a member of the Methodist Church and Treasurer of Marlinton Chapter O.E.S.

If elected I will bring my 23 years of experience as Magistrate Court Clerk to the office of Magistrate. I will work hard to provide Pocahontas County with fairness and impartiality.

Fairness to all vote for Betty Wall.

Your vote will be appreciated

E. Betty "Baker" Wall



works as a police officer. Her love of this county and 4-H brings her back to 4-H Camp as counselor when her job will allow. Will is married and the father of two children. They live in the Eastern Panhandle.

I am a member of the Methodist Church and Treasurer of Marlinton Chapter O.E.S.

If elected I will bring my 23 years of experience as Magistrate Court Clerk to the office of Magistrate. I will work hard to provide Pocahontas County with fairness and impartiality.

Fairness to all vote for Betty Wall.

Your vote will be appreciated

E. Betty "Baker" Wall

Baker for Magistrate

I am Elizabeth Wall, a lot of you know me as Betty Baker. I have been your Magistrate Court Clerk since 1977. I am running on the Democrat ticket for Magistrate.

As Court Clerk I am the keeper of the records. I am accountable for all files and financial records. I process criminal and civil files, issue all civil post-judgment documents for enforcement, issue appropriate notices and records in criminal cases to state agencies. I purchase all supplies for the Magistrate Court. I maintain the court's bank account. I keep all records required for audits.

For the last 23 years all work done by other Magistrate Court personnel has flowed into and out of my office at some point. I run an efficient and organized office.

My childhood was spent on a farm in western Greenbrier County. I graduated from Smoot High School, attended WV Tech in Montgomery, Greenbrier Community College in Lewisburg, and received my degree from Bluefield State College.

I have two children, Arlene and Will Baker, who graduated from Pocahontas County High School. Arlene was in the band, 4-H, and played soccer. Will played baseball, football, basketball, soccer, and ran track. Today, Arlene is married and works as a police officer. Her love of this county and 4-H brings her back to 4-H Camp as counselor when her job will allow. Will is married and the father of two children. They live in the Eastern Panhandle.

I am a member of the Methodist Church and Treasurer of Marlinton Chapter O.E.S.

If elected I will bring my 23 years of experience as Magistrate Court Clerk to the office of Magistrate. I will work hard to provide Pocahontas County with fairness and impartiality.

Fairness to all vote for Betty Wall.

Your vote will be appreciated

E. Betty "Baker" Wall

- - -

here, so what else are they to do?

I also want to say I will be fair and honest in everything I do for all of you. Just remember our Children Are Our Future and we need to protect them and make sure they all get an education.

Don't forget to go out and vote May 9th. Make every vote count.

Thank you for your support and votes.

Jason Sharp vying for BOE seat

I am Jason N. Sharp and I am a candidate for the Board of Education. I am a 1986 graduate of Pocahontas County High School and a 1990 graduate of West Virginia Institute of Technology. I have a degree in Computer Management and Data Processing and a degree in Business Management. I am the son of Tom and Garnett Sharp and I am married to Shelia Sharp. I have two sons, Brad Cassell and Aaron Sharp. After college, I worked for Columbia Gas, U. S. Steel and Weirton Steel before returning home to work for The Bacova Guild, now Burlington House Floor Accents.

I believe that our schools should educate all students, includ-

from page 4

So I have had my share of the school system and still have a few more years ahead of me.

With your support I will do my best for our children—all of them, not just a few who are better off than others, but all of them. It doesn't matter to me if you wear baggy clothes, have long hair or no hair. The children are our future, and without them we will be no more. Everyone condemns and criticizes others. But they all need a chance to learn and be happy. The teachers have a job and they need to do it. The parents need to make sure they do their job, too!

I have lived here all my life and things have changed so much. The children do not get taught the way I was. I was lucky. I can read, write, spell, and do math. But there are some out there who can't. Why? Good question. I do not want any of the vocational programs cut, because the children need something to help get training; some can't go on to college, but they can learn to weld or build things; and electricity—some get jobs at Snowshoe or get their own businesses started. There are no jobs here, so what else are they to do?

I also want to say I will be fair and honest in everything I do for all of you. Just remember our Children Are Our Future and we need to protect them and make sure they all get an education.

Don't forget to go out and vote May 9th. Make every vote count.

Thank you for your support and votes.

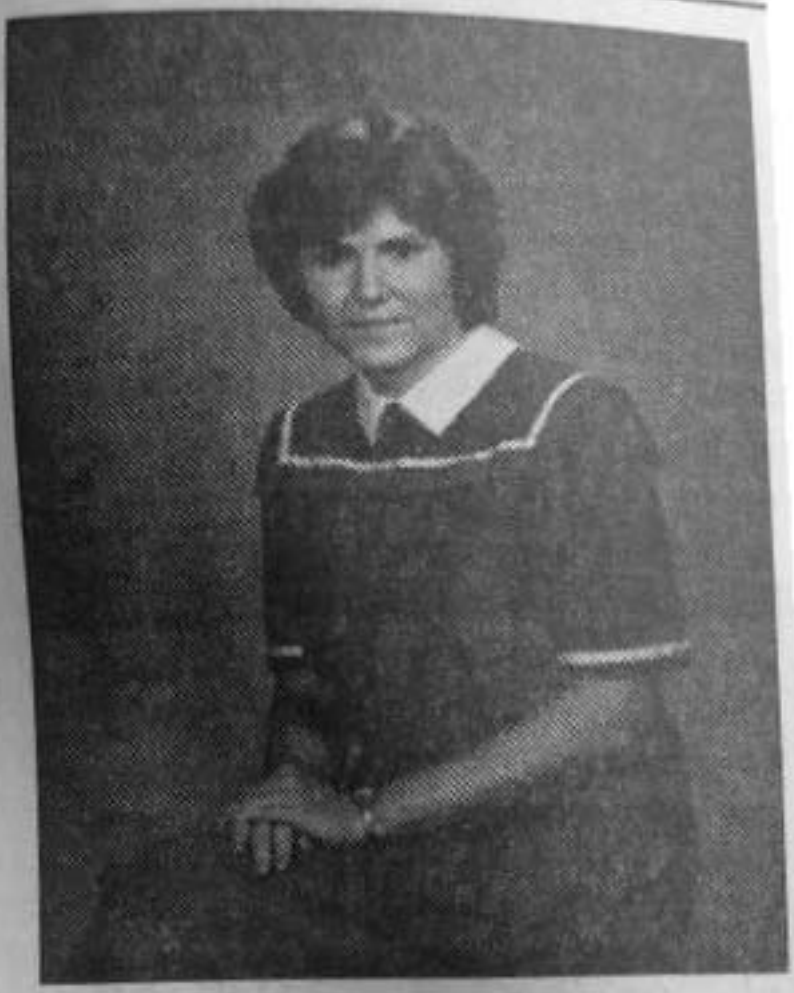
Hevener for Magistrate

I'm William H. Hevener and a Democratic candidate for Magistrate. I was re-elected to the position in 1996 after serving from 1985 to 1993. I have attended numerous educational conferences held by the West Virginia Supreme Court and have completed the Magistrate Certification program. I'm a lifelong resident of Pocahontas County and live in Arbovale.

The position of Magistrate is quite involved. We handle all misdemeanors, preliminary hearings for felonies, domestic violence petitions, issue search warrants, and have jurisdiction on civil matters up to $5,000. There must be one Magistrate on call and available 24 hours a day, every day of the year.

Each person who appears before you must be treated fairly and impartially, no matter what the charge. Every person's rights must be explained including their right to an attorney, right to a trial by Magistrate or jury, not to say anything about the offense, and the right to make bail.

It has been my pleasure to have served as your Magistrate for over 10 years. I feel I have been fair and just in the decisions that I have made and I ask for your support for re-election to another term.



Crane candidate for Magistrate

My name is Patty Crane and I am a Democratic Candidate for the office of Magistrate. I am a lifelong resident of Pocahontas County and a graduate of Pocahontas County High School.

I am the daughter of Helen Cutlip Irvine and the late Buck Irvine. I am married to John and have two daughters, Jayme and Jaclyn.

I am a former employee of The First National Bank in Marlinton and am presently employed by the Family Refuge Center in Lewisburg.

I would appreciate your support on May 9, 2000.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,

I wish to express my concern about a proposed cut by the Board of Education in elementary counseling services in Pocahontas County. In 1995 I was hired as an elementary counselor. Since then I have served Marlinton Elementary School and Hillsboro Elementary/Middle School. Last year I also served Green Bank Elementary one day each week. Needless to say these services are barely adequate to serve the needs of our young children. Recently I was asked to sign a paper agreeing to provide services next year to Marlinton Middle School daily for one-half a day. In the afternoons I would provide services for all elementary schools AS NEEDED. This would, for all intents and purposes, eliminate the elementary school counseling program. I would be serving a student population of over 800. My time would be spread so thin that I could not provide even minimum services to the children in Pocahontas County. I could not sign this paper.

I received a letter informing me that I would be on transfer for the next school year. I requested a hearing and received a written reason for transfer. I quote: "The superintendent recommends reorganization due to a greater need for services at the middle school level and lesser services at the elementary level." Sending me to Marlinton Middle School would not increase their counseling time. Since 1995, they have had a half-a-day counselor. However, counseling at the elementary schools would be cut drastically.

I expressed my position at the hearing and wish to share some of my beliefs with you. I taught at Marlinton Elementary School for fourteen years. I have a Bachelor's degree in elementary education and a Master's degree in education with an early childhood specialty. I also have a Master's degree in Counseling and I am a Licensed Professional Counselor. For almost five years now, I have spent day after day as a counselor working with our children mostly on a one to one basis. I believe this experience and education gives me the authority to speak on behalf of counseling younger children.

Think about children between the ages of five and ten years old. This should be a carefree time of life, but that isn't always the case. Children come to school with problems bigger than they can handle. I am talking about death, divorce, illness, safety, suicide threats, and a host of other serious issues. It still surprises me the depth and seriousness of the problems our little ones face. I have been able to provide services from nurturing all the way to therapy. Early years are the time for prevention as well as intervention. If children are provided adequate services early it will make a difference. Research shows that the younger years are the formative years. Frederick Douglass once said, "It is easier to build a strong child than to mend a broken man." I have made a big investment of myself to work with younger children during these crucial years. I believe it has been my calling in life to try to make a difference in young lives. I have compassion and concern for students of ALL ages. I do not wish to see our counseling services cut back at any school in our county. In my adult life I have never known a time when counseling was more important. In the last few weeks, one six-year-old shot and killed another. This happened in another state but we are not immune to this kind of violence. I disagree with the statement that we have a need for lesser services at the elementary level.

Thursday night, March 30, the Board of Education voted to approve my transfer with the stipulation "to be assigned later." This leads me to believe that I will still be asked to serve in the position with Marlinton Middle School, Marlinton Elementary School, Hillsboro Elementary School, and Green Bank Elementary School.

It was expressed at the board meeting that the programs could be continued next year if we receive a grant or the levy passes. I believe the elementary counseling program is much too important to be dependent on a grant or a levy. Children cannot learn if their little minds are so overwrought with problems that they cannot concentrate. This is not the type of program that can just be stopped. The problems are there whether we admit them or not. The case of the problems is not the issue, but rather how can we do our part to help them learn. If this gap for next year becomes a reality, elementary schools will have very hit and miss counseling program. I am still committed to counseling younger children. I believe the Board of Education should make this a priority in the budget and not something "we will do if we get the money."

This letter is not about money for myself. I would receive the same salary as a counselor or a teacher. I need input from the community whether or not you have a child in school. I would appreciate your taking the time to contact me. Written comments will be welcomed by Carol Alderman, HC 82 Box 223A, Marlinton, WV 24954, or call me at 799-7374. Elementary school counseling hangs in the balance.

Carol Alderman, LPC
Marlinton

Dear Editor:

In the 1920's Mr. Battershell built Rt. 119 (now 219) at Slatyfork. He used dozens of mules to pull wooden dump wagons, through deep mud, loaded with dirt and rocks that were loaded by a steam shovel. The mules had enormous running sores on shoulders (no skin or hair). There were no shoulder pads under the harness collars. Drivers would use long buggy whips to beat to death the mules struggling against the harnesses. Brutality! Death was their friend! There was no humane society. For years there were piles of mule bones along the Slatyfork creek.

The Humane Society is great in that its noble aim is to prevent unnecessary pain to aninals.

In the April 6th article in the Times it seems the society is accepting advice of the Alley Cats Allies that, apparently, is specifically interested in promoting feral (wild) cats. It is obvious that they influenced the Humane Society to actively promote neutering feral cats to continue to live in the wild.

In every issue, common sense tells us to choose the least of two evils. Feral cats in the wild are in "Seventh Heaven" when they can enjoy the tasty songbirds that are

Letters to the Editor

Board of Education should make this a priority in the budget and not something "we will do if we get the money."

This letter is not about money for myself. I would receive the same salary as a counselor or a teacher. I need input from the community whether or not you have a child in school. I would appreciate your taking the time to contact me. Written comments will be welcomed by Carol Alderman, HC 82 Box 223A, Marlinton, WV 24954, or call me at 799-7374. Elementary school counseling hangs in the balance.

Carol Alderman, LPC
Marlinton

Dear Editor:

In the 1920's Mr. Battershell built Rt. 119 (now 219) at Slatyfork. He used dozens of mules to pull wooden dump wagons, through deep mud, loaded with dirt and rocks that were loaded by a steam shovel. The mules had enormous running sores on shoulders (no skin or hair). There were no shoulder pads under the harness collars. Drivers would use long buggy whips to beat to death the mules struggling against the harnesses. Brutality! Death was their friend! There was no humane society. For years there were piles of mule bones along the Slatyfork creek.

The Humane Society is great in that its noble aim is to prevent unnecessary pain to aninals.

In the April 6th article in the Times it seems the society is accepting advice of the Alley Cats Allies that, apparently, is specifically interested in promoting feral (wild) cats. It is obvious that they influenced the Humane Society to actively promote neutering feral cats to continue to live in the wild.

In every issue, common sense tells us to choose the least of two evils. Feral cats in the wild are in "Seventh Heaven" when they can enjoy the tasty songbirds that are struggling to exist.

There are perhaps millions of unwanted bird-eating cats in the wild and in cities. These excessive predatory feral cats are unproductive parasites devouring helpless baby birds as well as mother birds. It doesn't take a King Solomon to rationalize what is more important—diminishing defenseless song birds, or predatory feral cats that have no earthly benefit to nature or mankind. There was a surprise question in the article: "Why not euthanize the feral cats?" King Solomon would grant it. Let's prevent brutal deaths of birds by feral cats. That would be human!

This discourse is in regard to feral cats—not lovable house pets.

Dave Sharp, Cincinnati

Dear Editor:

I am doing family history and in particular researching Leonard Propst and Elizabeth Ward, Leonard Propst and Caroline Hicklin, Susan Elizabeth Propst and Charles James Elliott, Mary Bishop and Robert R. Hiner.

Etta M. Constable
5535 W. Sioux Trail
Peoria, IL 61607-1174

Spring Tune-up

Get your bike ready for spring. Call Elk River for an appointment.
572-3771

ELECT
E. BETTY "BAKER" WALL
MAGISTRATE DEMOCRAT

22 YEARS COURT EXPERIENCE

Political Ad Paid By Candidate

Camden Ave. and Gauley Bridge, Marlinton, West Va.

HERE'S A VIEW of Marlinton taken before 1910. The postcard was from Harriet Ryder to Miss Rhoda Hiner in Monterey, Virginia and was brought to The Pocahontas Times office by Lynn Townsend. The postcard has a penny stamp and is marked December 31, 5:30 p.m.

Town of Marlinton celebrates centennial of incorporation

The Town of Marlinton was incorporated April 4, 1900, by order entered by the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County.

To go back a little earlier to the settlement of the site of the town, we copy from Memoirs of Indian Wars, and other Occurrences, by Colonel Stuart, of Greenbrier, as presented to the Virginia Historical and Philosophical Society by Chas. A. Stuart, of Augusta, Son of the Narrator, as reprinted by McClain Printing Company.

"About the year 1749, a person who was a citizen of the county of Frederick, (Note: Nap Gregory), and subject of paroxysms of lunacy, when influenced by such fits, usually made excursions into the wilderness, and in his rambles westwardly, fell in on the waters of Greenbrier river. At that time, the country on the western waters were but little known to the English inhabitants of the ten colonies of America, being claimed by the French, who had commenced settlements on the Ohio and its waters, west of the Alleghany mountains. The lunatic being surprised to find waters running a different course from any he had before known, returned with the intelligence of his discovery, which did abound with game. This soon excited the enterprise of others. Two men from New England, of the name of Jacob Marlin and Stephen Sewell, took up a residence upon Greenbrier river; but soon disagreeing in sentiment a quarrel occasioned their separation, and Sewell, for the sake of peace, quit their cabin and made his abode in a large hollow tree. In this situation great house and he from his hollow tree, they saluted each other, saying—good morning, Mr. Marlin, and good morning, Mr. Sewell, so that a good understanding then existed between them; but it did not last long, for Sewell removed about forty miles further west, to a creek that still bears his name. There the Indians found him and killed him." (Note: Sewell first moved to Sewell's Cave, near Marvin Chapel, at the head of Stephen Hole Run.]

"Previous to the year 1755, Mr. Lewis had completed for the grantees, under the order of council, upwards of fifty thousand acres;—and the war then commencing between England and France, nothing further was done in the business until the year 1761, when his majesty issued his proclamation commanding all his subjects within the bounds of the colony of Virginia, who were living, or who had made settlements on the western waters, to remove from them, as the lands were claimed by the Indians, and good policy required that a peaceable understanding should be preserved with them, to prevent hostilities on their part. The order of council was never afterwards carried into effect, or his majesty's consent obtained to confirm it.

"..... commissioners were appointed, in 1777, to grant certificates to each individual who had made settlements on the western waters, in the state of Virginia, previous to the year 1768 and since, with preference according to the time of improvements, which [illegible]

Camden Ave. and Gerge Bryan River, Marlinton, West Va.

HERE'S A VIEW of Marlinton taken before 1910. The postcard was from Harriet Ryder to Miss Rhoda Hiner in Monterey, Virginia and was brought to The Pocahontas Times office by Lynn Townsend. The postcard has a penny stamp and is marked December 31, 5:30 p.m.

the Indians was killed, and the boy was relieved, which ended our wars in Greenbrier with the Indians, in the year 1780. (signed) John Stuart."

March 1904-500 ft. of spruce was shipped from Cass to the Wright Brothers Cycling company to be used in aircrafts.

VanReenen Funeral Home

Ivan VanReenen, Owner
James Smith, Manager
Marlinton, WV 24954

Office—799-4553
Home—799-4074

John W. Eilers, D.O.

wilderness, and in his rambles westwardly, fell in on the waters of Greenbrier river. At that time, the country on the western waters were but little known to the English inhabitants of the ten colonies of America, being claimed by the French, who had commenced settlements on the Ohio and its waters, west of the Alleghany mountains. The lunatic being surprised to find waters running a different course from any he had before known, returned with the intelligence of his discovery, which did abound with game. This soon excited the enterprise of others. Two men from New England, of the name of Jacob Marlin and Stephen Sewell, took up a residence upon Greenbrier river; but soon disagreeing in sentiment a quarrel occasioned their separation, and Sewell, for the sake of peace, quit their cabin and made his abode in a large hollow tree. In this situation they were found by the late General Andrew Lewis, in the year 1751. Mr. Lewis was appointed agent for a company of grantees, who obtained from the Governor and Council of Virginia an order for one hundred thousand acres of land lying on the waters of Greenbrier river,—and did, this year, proceed to make surveys to complete the quantity of said granted lands; and finding Marlin and Sewell living in the neighborhood of each other, inquired what could induce them to live separate in a wilderness so distant from the habitations of any other human beings. They informed him that difference of opinion had occasioned their separation, and that they had since enjoyed more tranquility and a better understanding; for Sewell said, that each morning when they arose and Marlin came out of the Frankl, nothing further was done in the business until the year 1761, when his majesty issued his proclamation commanding all his subjects within the bounds of the colony of Virginia, who were living, or who had made settlements on the western waters, to remove from them, as the lands were claimed by the Indians, and good policy required that a peaceable understanding should be preserved with them, to prevent hostilities on their part. The order of council was never afterwards carried into effect, or his majesty's consent obtained to confirm it.

". . . . . commissioners were appointed, in 1777, to grant certificates to each individual who had made settlements on the western waters, in the state of Virginia, previous to the year 1768 and since, with preference according to the time of improvements, which certificates gave the holder a right to four hundred acres for his settlement claim, and the pre-emption of one thousand more, if so much were found clear of prior claims, and the holder chose to accept it. The folowing year, 1778, Greenbrier was separated from Botetourt county,—and the county took its name from the river, which was so named by old Colonel John Lewis, father to the late General, and one of the grantees under the order of council, who, in company with his son Andrew, exploring the country in 1751, entangled himself in a bunch of green briers on the river, and declared he would ever after call the river Greenbrier river."

There follows an account of all Indian activities including Point Pleasant until "The last person killed was Thomas Griffith,—his son was taken, but going down the Kenawha, they were pursued, one of the Indians was killed, and the boy was relieved, which ended our wars in Greenbrier with the Indians, in the year 1780. (signed) John Stuart."

William McNeel Browning, Jr., D.O.

HERE'S A VIEW of Marlinton taken before 1910. The postcard was from Harriet Ryder to Miss Rhoda Hiner in Monterey, Virginia and was brought to The Pocahontas Times office by Lynn Townsend. The postcard has a penny stamp and is marked December 31, 5:30 p.m.

March 1904-500 ft. of spruce was shipped from Cass to the Wright Brothers Cycling company to be used in aircrafts.

VanReenen Funeral Home
Ivan VanReenen, Owner
James Smith, Manager
Marlinton, WV 24954
Office—799-4553
Home—799-4074

John W. Eilers, D.O.
Board Certified Family Practice

Big Spring Clinic	Green Bank Clinic
572-4410	456-4714
Mon. & Fri. 8:30 - 5:00	Tuesday 8:30 - 12:00
Tuesday 1:30 - 5:00	Thursday 8:30 - 5:00
Wednesday 8:30 -1:00	Please call for an appointment.

Luis E. Soriano, MD, FAAFP Family Practice & Internal Medicine Board Certified F.P.
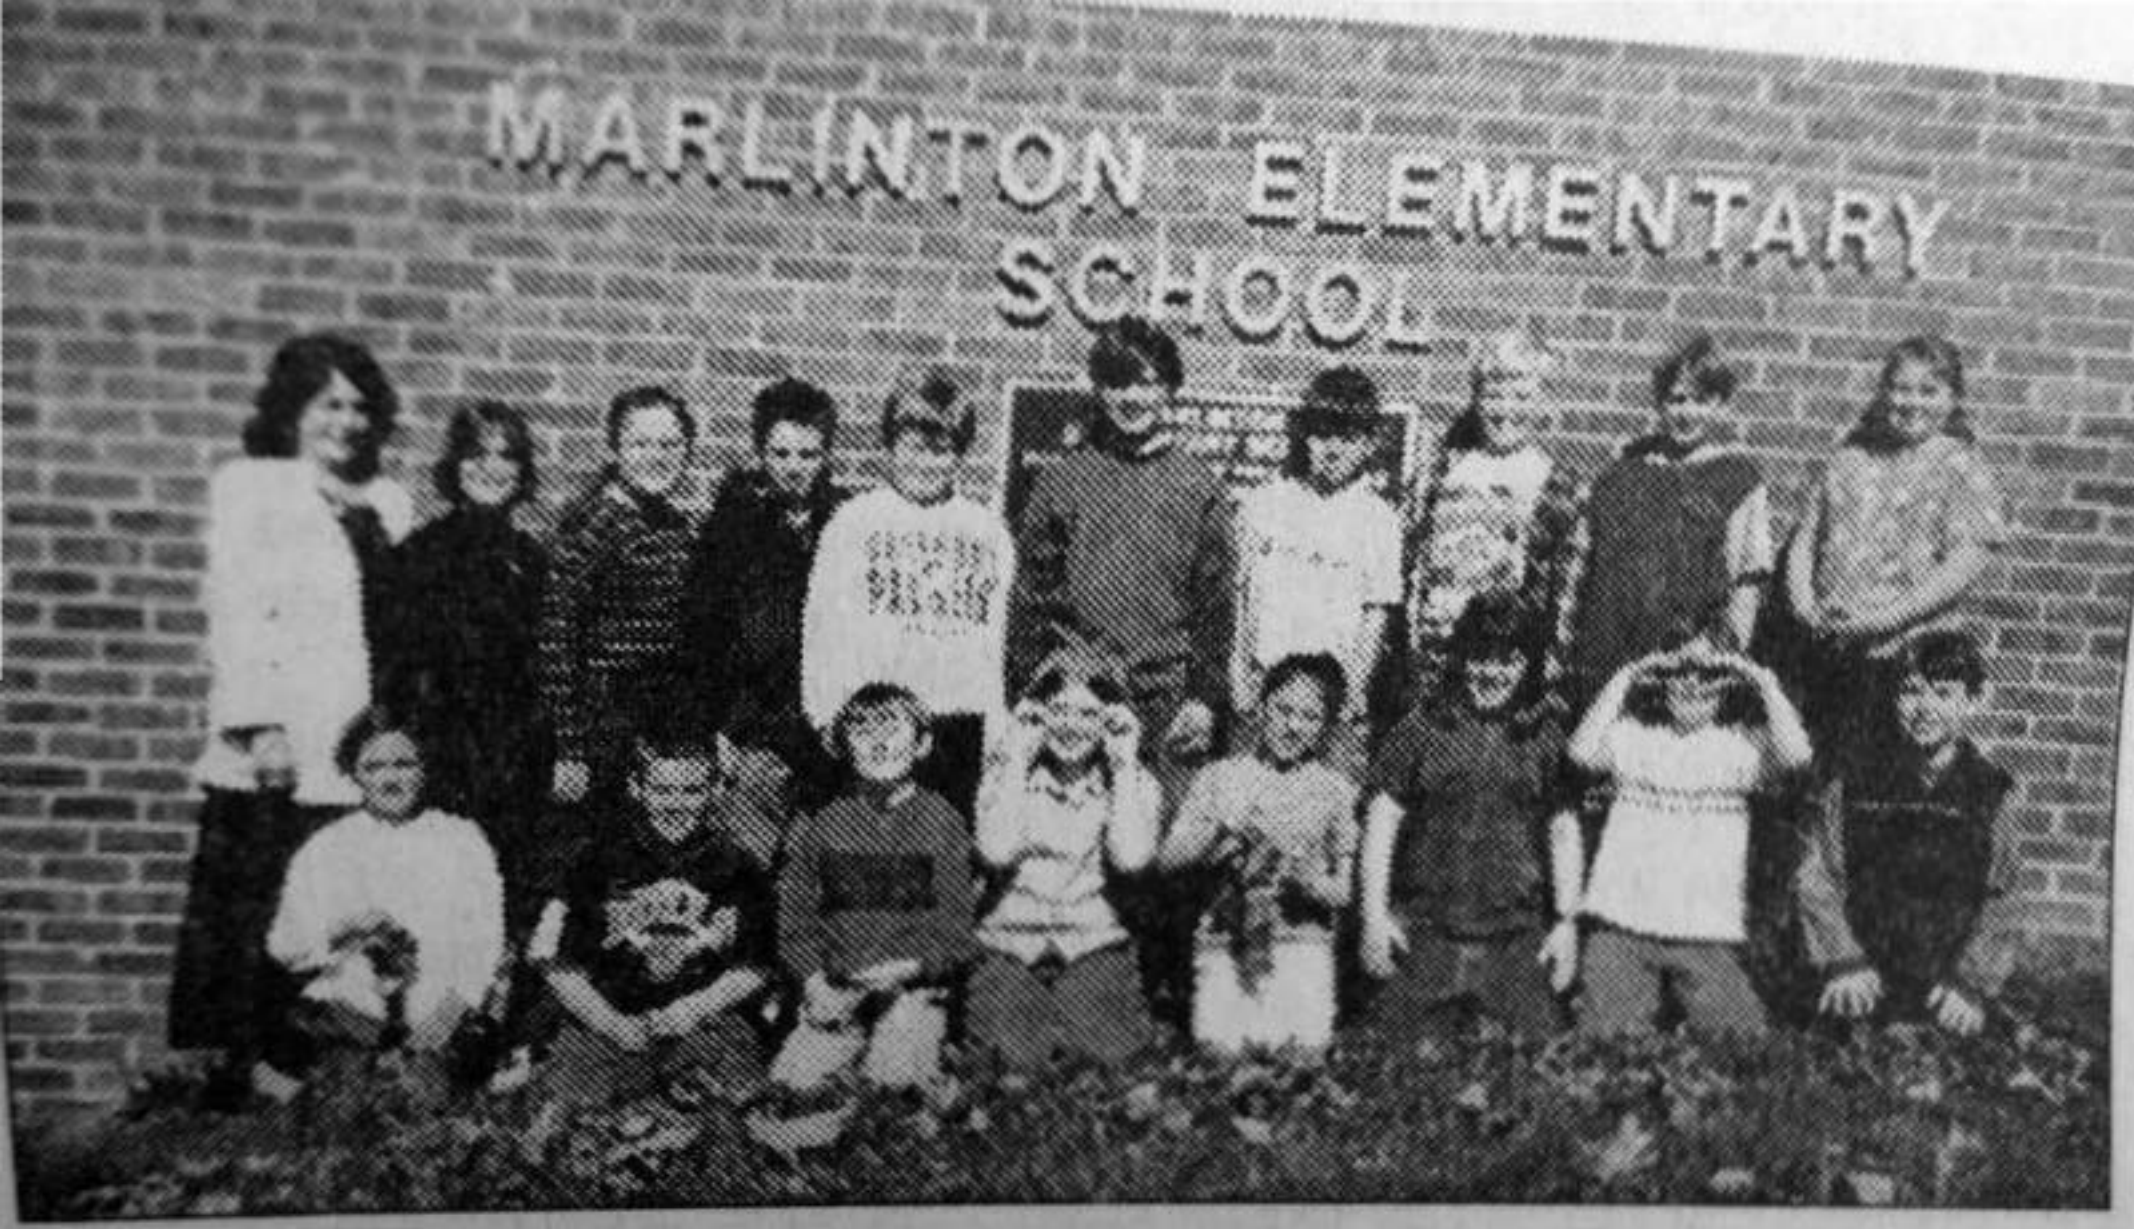
Lois McElwee Memorial Clinic
RR 2 Box 54G, Buckeye WV 24924
Next to Pocahontas Memorial Hospital
–Office Hours–
Monday Through Friday 9 a.m. - 5 p.m.
FOR YOUR CONVENIENCE, PLEASE CALL
799-6695 OR 799-6696 FOR AN APPOINTMENT



FOURTH GRADE STUDENTS at Marlinton Elementary School who participated in the school's social studies fair.

MES holds Social Studies Fair

by Sue Dale

Each year in Pocahontas County, students in grades 4-12 participate in developing and presenting Social Studies Fair projects. Developing a Social Studies Fair project offers a student a unique opportunity to do in-depth study on a topic of their interest while learning research and presentation skills. A student may present an individual project or a pair project in which they work with one other student who is in 4th, 5th, or 6th grade. The fourth grade students compete in Division I (grades 4-6), in one of nine categories. The students are judged by a pair of judges. This year, Lauren Bennett and Pam Pritt, judged our Marlinton Elementary Social Studies Fair.

If a student scores 80 points or above in our M.E.S. School Fair, they go on to the County Fair. We had 17 students from Marlinton Elementary who prepared and presented projects. Of those, all were judged eligible to go on to the Pocahontas County Fair.

The Pocahontas County Social Studies Fair was held on Saturday, March 25, at Pocahontas County High School. Sixteen of our students participated with more high quality projects than I have seen in one year. Of these students, seven scored top in their category and will participate at the West Virginia Social Studies Fair in Charleston on May 12-13. Another student scored second from the top in his category. (See the results on the table) This is fantastic, considering that this is the first time these students have prepared Social Studies Fair projects and that they competed against fifth and sixth graders.

The students, parents, and Sue Dale, M.E.S. Social Studies Fair Coordinator, arrived at PCHS between 8 and 8:45 a.m. to set up projects. After a group meeting in the gym, the students and adults adjourned to their assigned classrooms to spend the day until the judging was completed. An Open House was held so that everyone could see the projects, followed by the Awards Ceremony conducted by Cheryl Nelson, Pocahontas County Social Studies Fair Coordinator, and Pat Keller.

Ethan Johnson and Jason Born, college students, served to fill our school's quota of judges at the County Fair. We had over 14 parents and Ginny Shaw who stayed to chaperone, work at the check-in table, tally scores, and clean up the classrooms. Without these volunteers, we would not be able to hold our Social Studies Fairs.

Students participating in the MES social studies fair and their projects were:

Ethan Lash - "The Economics of the Ohio River"

Amber Johnson - "West Virginia"

*Caitlin Sharp - "Barbie - the Timeless Teenager"

Jeremy Burns - "The United States Marine Corps"

Kelly Starr - "The Salem Witch Trials"

*Katherine Beverage and Katie Workman - "Pueblo Communities"

*Rebecca Neyman and Amy Sharp - "W. Va. Old Time Music: Who Will Carry It On?"

Zach Grimes and Nicholas Irvine - " A Rocket Won't Fly Unless Someone Lights the Fuse"

*Hannah Giddings and Casey Horton - "Rush for Gold"

Lee Brown and Lucas Faulknier - "Chuck Yeager"

Brandon Clendenen and Billy Lacek - "The Development of Jets Over Time"

* Going to the State Social Studies Fair.

Wesley Landis (1.5)

Rachel Wayne

Kevin Weimer

Two Green Bank Middle School students capture the WV Golden Horseshoe Award

Green Bank Middle School is pleased to announce that two of its eighth grade students have won the 2000 West Virginia Golden Horseshoe Award for Pocahontas County.

Rachel Wayne, daughter of John and Alesia Wayne, of Arbovale, and Kevin Weimer, son of Ron and Teresa Weimer, of Green Bank, were the top scoring students from the county on an examination that covers the student's knowledge of West Virginia history.

The WV Golden Horseshoe ceremony is held each spring in Charleston at the Capitol building. Over 250 eighth grade students took the exam in February. The award consists of a miniature golden horseshoe and is presented to eighth grade students from every county who have scored the highest on the exam.

Philip Conley started the award in 1931 to persuade students to develop an interest in West Virginia and its history.

Congratulations to Rachel and Kevin, students of Benjamin Campbell, social studies teacher at Green Bank Middle School.

- - -

Intrawest promotes Rice

Hugh Smythe, President, Resort Operations for Intrawest Corporation, announced Tuesday the promotion of Steve Rice to the position of Senior Vice President, Eastern Region. Rice has been with Intrawest for the past two years as President of Snowshoe Mountain and replaces Roger McCarthy, who left Intrawest in February.

"Steve's depth of experience prior to joining Snowshoe, and the strengths he has demonstrated over the past two years, will be invaluable for Intrawest's planned growth of our eastern resorts," Smythe said. Rice will assume responsibility for Tremblant, Mont Ste. Marie, Stratton and Mountain Creek, in addition to Snowshoe, and will be involved as a Director on the Board of Blue Mountain.

Under Rice's leadership, Snowshoe Mountain has just completed its largest winter season ever in terms of skier visits. Rice came to Snowshoe Mountain in 1998 after heading up Whitetail's operation in southern Pennsylvania for five years. Prior to that Rice followed his position of Director of Marketing at Mount Cranmore in New Hampshire with five years as Commissioner for New Hampshire's Department of Resources and Economic Development.

"Snowshoe's current and future growth opportunities have tremendous potential and I am pleased that I will still be connected with that growth," Rice said. Rice's time will be spread among all of the eastern resorts and he will be closely involved in Snowshoe's operations. Rice will be starting his new duties effective April 24 and will establish an office base in Mercersburg, Pennsylvania, working from there as well as Snowshoe.

Intrawest is the leading developer and operator of village-centered resorts across North America. The company owns Panorama in British Columbia, Blue Mountain in Ontario (50%), Tremblant and Mont Ste. Marie in Quebec, Copper in Colorado, Stratton in Vermont, Snowshoe in West Virginia, Mountain Creek in New Jersey, Mammoth in California (59%), and Sandestin, a golf beach resort in Florida. The company is creating world-class, four-season resort villages at Keystone, Colorado, Solitude, Utah and Squaw Valley near Lake Tahoe, California, and has a premier timeshare business. Intrawest has a significant investment in Compagnie des Alpes, the largest ski company in the world in terms of skier visits and a 45% interest in Alpine Helicopters Ltd., owner of Canadian Mountain Holidays, the largest heli-skiing operation in the world.

Intrawest Corporation's shares are traded on the New York (IDR) and Toronto (ITW) stock exchanges. The company is headquarter in Vancouver, British Columbia.

THANK YOU

I cannot begin to thank all the people, friends, and family, who have donated, supported, prayed and sent cards. I know without God and your prayers, I wouldn't be where I am today.

Special thanks to Sharon Goldizen, for the excellent effort to help organize and set up a bake sale, dinner, jars at local businesses, and just being there as a friend. Also to the ones who helped her, Marie Alderman, Diane Buzzard, Tracy McCoy, Becky Hannah, Margie Blankenship, Helen Carr for the afghan, Foodland for letting us have the bake sale, City National Bank, for opening an account, advertising from the Pocahontas Times, WVMR, WKCJ-Lewisburg, all the bakers, I cannot list all who donated because of so many, but you know who you are, and I can't thank you enough. Also to Shawn McDaniels, Guy and Nettie, and Jim for his special poem. Suzie's Chick Inn, and all the businesses who let us have jars. Cummins Creek Victory Ladies Circle and Church.

Thanks, Doug and Mary Jane B. VanReenen

THANKS

I would like to thank all my friends, family and the First Baptist Church of Huntersville for all the cards, phone calls, and gifts. They are very much appreciated. May God be with you.

Dolly Underwood

NOTE OF THANKS

Words cannot express the appreciation we feel for the acts of kindness, visits, flowers, memorial contributions and prayers during the illness and death of our loved one, Virginia Shafer. We also want to thank all who had a part in the Memorial Service. May God richly bless each of you.

Bill, Billy, Beverly, William, Shirley and Lori

THANK YOU

The Pocahontas County CVB and The Greenbrier River Trail Association would like to thank everyone who came out to help with The Greenbrier River Trail clean-up on April 1. Over 8 tons of trash were picked up. We would also like to thank Foodland, Fas Check, and Fast Break for providing drinks for the clean-up crew. A special thanks to the Town of Marlinton for helping pick up and haul trash. Teamwork!! Coming together is a beginning...Keeping together is Progress...Working together is a success.

DEATHS

Flora Bell Armstrong

Flora Bell Armstrong, age 78, of Buckeye, died Friday, March 24, 2000, at Greenbrier Valley Medical Center.

Mrs. Armstrong was a skilled pianist and active entertainment volunteer for Pocahontas Senior Citizens Center and Pocahontas Center, and was a member of Swago Farm Women's Club, VFW Auxiliary, and a 4-H Adult Counselor. She was a retired school cook and a member of Swago United Methodist Church.

She was born in Monongalia County March 14, 1922, the daughter of the late Rev. Roland Henry Skaggs and Laura May White Skaggs.

Mrs. Armstrong was the widow of John C. Armstrong. Also preceding her in death were four infant siblings and six brothers, Tom Skaggs, Francis Skaggs, Earl Skaggs, Richard Skaggs, Roy Skaggs, and Dan Skaggs.

Surviving her are three sons, the Rev. L. Roland Armstrong, of Durbin, Larry Paul Armstrong, of Buckeye, and Danny Wayne Armstrong, of Caldwell; a sister, Zelma Ruth Keen, of Marlinton, and a brother, Paul Skaggs, of Lorraine, Ohio; ten grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were held at 2 p. m. Monday at the Edray United Methodist Church by the Rev. Jay Hicks, with burial in the Armstrong Cemetery at Buckeye.

Memorial gifts may be made to WVMR Allegheny Mountain Radio.

- - -

Rulings made in suits involving county agencies

PDA not in contempt of court, judge rules

The Pocahontas Development Authority did not violate a judge's order when it turned in its financial records in transactional order.

Circuit Judge James Rowe did order the authority to have its records certified.

Rowe said it was apparent that plaintiffs Jerome Heinemann, of Dunmore, and Norman Alderman, of Beaver Creek, were appealing to the court for the dual purpose of tracing both grant money from the Greenbrier Valley Soil Conservation District and money from the Governor's Contingency Fund.

"That's out of the scope of this case," Rowe said. "This is not the forum for that type of discovery."

The judge told Heinemann and Alderman's attorney, R. David Arrington, that they were free to file another complaint.

"And I'm sure you will," he said.

Rowe denied Arrington's motion for the county to pay his attorney's fees.

The PDA must continue to supply quarterly financial statements to the county commission and the three municipalities.

Suit against Solid Waste Authority dismissed

Following a second hearing in the suit Jerome Heinemann filed against the Pocahontas County Solid Waste Authority, Circuit Judge James Rowe ruled there were no grounds for the allegations made in the suit and dismissed it. The hearing was held on Friday of last week.

ever, the motions of these agencies to be dismissed from the suit were granted by Judge Rowe at the first hearing, held on January 28. The County Commission is also a defendant in the lawsuit.

Also, at the January hearing the judge stated he felt the SWA had answered the allegations made in the suit. However, he agreed for a continuance due to the inability of George Sheets, a witness for Mr. Heinemann, to appear then.

Mr. Sheets was on the stand on Friday. Mr. Heinemann sought to use Mr. Sheets' research into the records of the SWA to prove his allegations against the agency.

However, David Sims, the attorney for the SWA, raised objections to most of areas of testimony from Mr. Sheets as not being relevant and the objections were sustained by Judge Rowe. Only in the area of whether the proper amount of recycling was being done did the judge allow much testimony.

Judge Rowe repeatedly told Mr. Heinemann to"move on" with his presentation. As he did at the January hearing, the judge reminded Mr. Heinemann that he did not need to be informed about the state solid waste law, since he had helped to write it when he was a member of the Legislature.

Judge Rowe did agree that Mr. Heinemann might have a valid complaint on the seeming lack of anyone willing to be responsible for the people they appoint to a solid waste authority. However, he suggested that if Mr. Heinemann does not like the law, then he should go to the Legislature and seek changes.

Mr. Simms, in making his successful motion for dismissal of the suit, noted that the court is not the "place to address the fact Mr. Heinemann and Mr. Sheets do not like the way the Authority is run."

Judge Rowe ruled that Mr. Heinemann had failed to substantiate the allegations in this suit and dismissed it against the SWA.

Prosecuting Attorney Walt Weiford noted that the County Commission, although named as a defendant, had never been served and asked for the suit to also be dismissed against it.

Commission approves two new voting places for Bartow and East Marlinton

Only routine matters were on the agenda of the County Commission at its meeting on Tuesday of last week.

Approval was given for the polling places for the Primary Election in May and the poll workers. County Clerk Pat Dunbrack said there are two changes in polling places. Bartow Precinct polling place will be at Ryders Restaurant in Boyer and East Marlinton will vote in the conference room at the court house.

Ms. Dunbrack also informed the Commission that the growth in property values in the county has changed it from a Class 9 to a Class 7 county, which will mean required

Several items involved the tannery site at Frank.

Commissioner John Simmons recommended that a 1978 Dodge pickup that had been used there be sold and this was approved.

Mr. Simmons also recommended that a number of other items on the site be considered as surplus and advertised for sale. Included are two turbines, a sludge filter press, an air flotation unit at the waste treatment plant, and four stainless steel evaporators. He said he would get with Don Bailey, the engineer for the site clean-up, to review these items and prepare a list to advertise for sale. The money raised from this sale will be used as part of the local match for the Jody Bolyard was added to the Local Emergency Planning Committee. He will represent the Observatory and the Green Bank area.

Approval was given to offer a dental/vision health plan to the county employees who are interested. There will be no cost to the county. The plan is provided by the W. Va. Association of Counties.

The terms for the members of the Pocahontas County Public Service District were set as follows: Kermit Friel, six years, William Kisner, four years, and William Rexrode, two years.

Approval was given for the renewal of the COPS MORE '98

Withers sentenced to two months in jail

The 19-year-old Marlinton ma who last month pleaded guilty t making a false bomb threat at Pc cahontas County High School i January will spend two months i jail.

Benjamin L. Withers, 19, wa remanded to the custody of the she iff immediately after he was sen tenced by Chief Judge Frank Jolli fe.

Jolliffe said Withers' offens was "significant and serious," which along with the actions o other individuals "led to a great dea of disruption to the school system."

Withers will also spend two months in home incarceration and be on probation for one year. He was fined $500 plus court costs and ordered to perform 200 hours community service.

The judge originally sentenced Withers to a full year in jail, but suspended 10 months of that sentence in favor of the alternative.

Jolliffe told Withers that he would be required to write an apology to PCHS and the Pocahontas County Board of Education, as well as pay to have it published in the newspaper. He also must complete his education through some alternative program during his probation, the judge ordered.

The judge said Withers would not be allowed on school property without permission and must submit to random drug and alcohol screens at his own expense.

Jolliffe warned Withers that if he violated any of the rules during his home confinement or probation, he would serve the full year in jail.

"What you did was senseless and despicable and cannot be tolerated," Jolliffe said.

Withers was the only adult convicted of making false bomb threats; however, 10 juveniles have appeared in court on similar charges.

The rash of bomb threats paralyzed Pocahontas County schools for nearly a month until the board of education changed its policy and allowed each school's principal to determine whether or not the students were in any real danger.

PCHS and MMS were closed for two days in February while counseling was made available to both students and teachers.

Herold named new librarian for McClintic Public Library

Sue Herold, of Frost, began work last week at the new McClintic Public Library.

Sue, a native of Erie, Pennsylvania, graduated from Edinboro State College in 1974 with a BS in Elementary Education. She moved to West Virginia that fall as a kindergarten teacher in Richwood and worked there for eight years. While in Richwood, she met and married fellow teacher Tom Herold.

In 1980, their first child, Sam, came along and after the next school year ended Sue decided to become a stay-at-home mom, so the Herolds moved to Tom's family homeplace on upper Knapps Creek.

The property has been in the Herold family since before the Civil War. Sue, Tom and their children live in a reconstructed log house which dates back to right after the War, the previous family home having been burned during that conflict. For 12 years Sue worked at home as a wife and mother, returning to public employment when Hallie, her youngest child, started kindergarten.

Since 1994 she has worked part-time with troubled children through Timberline Health Services. Tom is a teacher with Pocahontas County schools; Sam is a freshman at West Virginia University; Billy is a sophomore at PCHS; and Hallie is a sixth grader at Marlinton Middle School.

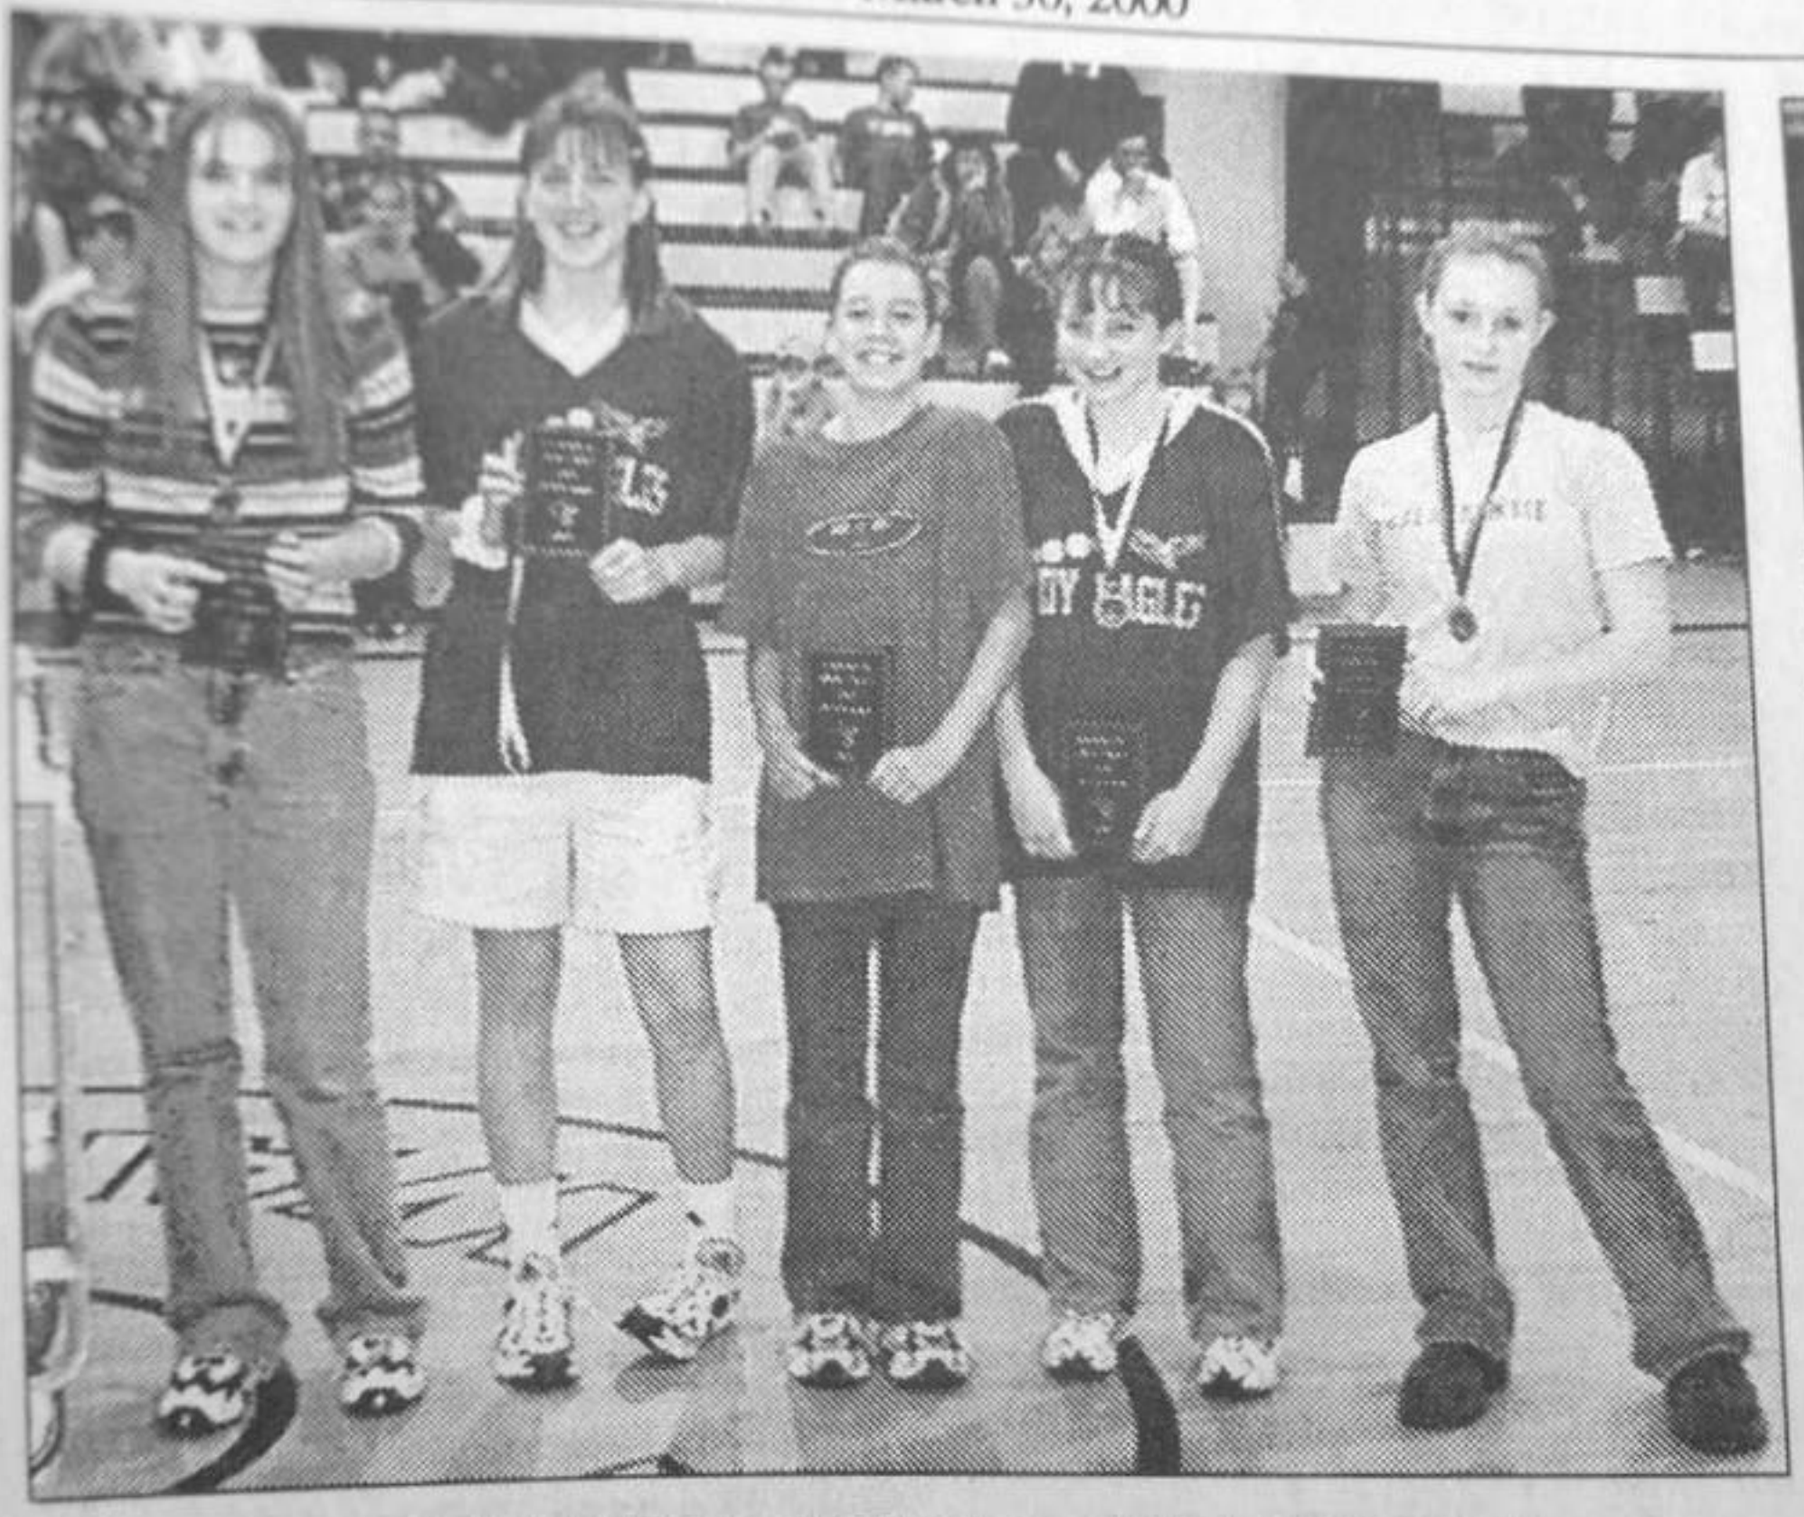
Sue's interest in libraries dates back to childhood; she was an avid reader and library goer. In high school she volunteered in the school library. At age 18, her career goals were to be either a kindergarten teacher or a librarian. The teaching came first, but she never lost the dream of becoming a librarian one day. When in 1998 the Pocahontas County Free Libraries encouraged local residents to study for their Masters Degree in Library Science degree through a distance learning program sponsored by the University of South Carolina, Sue was the first person to enroll. She plans to finish work for her Masters degree in December.

Until she completes her education, Sue will work for the library system half-time, with the hope that she will go to a full-time basis in the new year. She will have good assistance in the library with volunteers like Liz Gay and Library VISTA worker Pam Johnson who has done great work in helping to computerize the county library system membership and fundraising systems. More volunteers are needed; call Sue at 799-4165 if you'd like to help.

"I'm thrilled to be the new McClintic Librarian and I look forward to getting everything moved into the new library building and starting new, exciting programs to serve our patrons," Sue said.

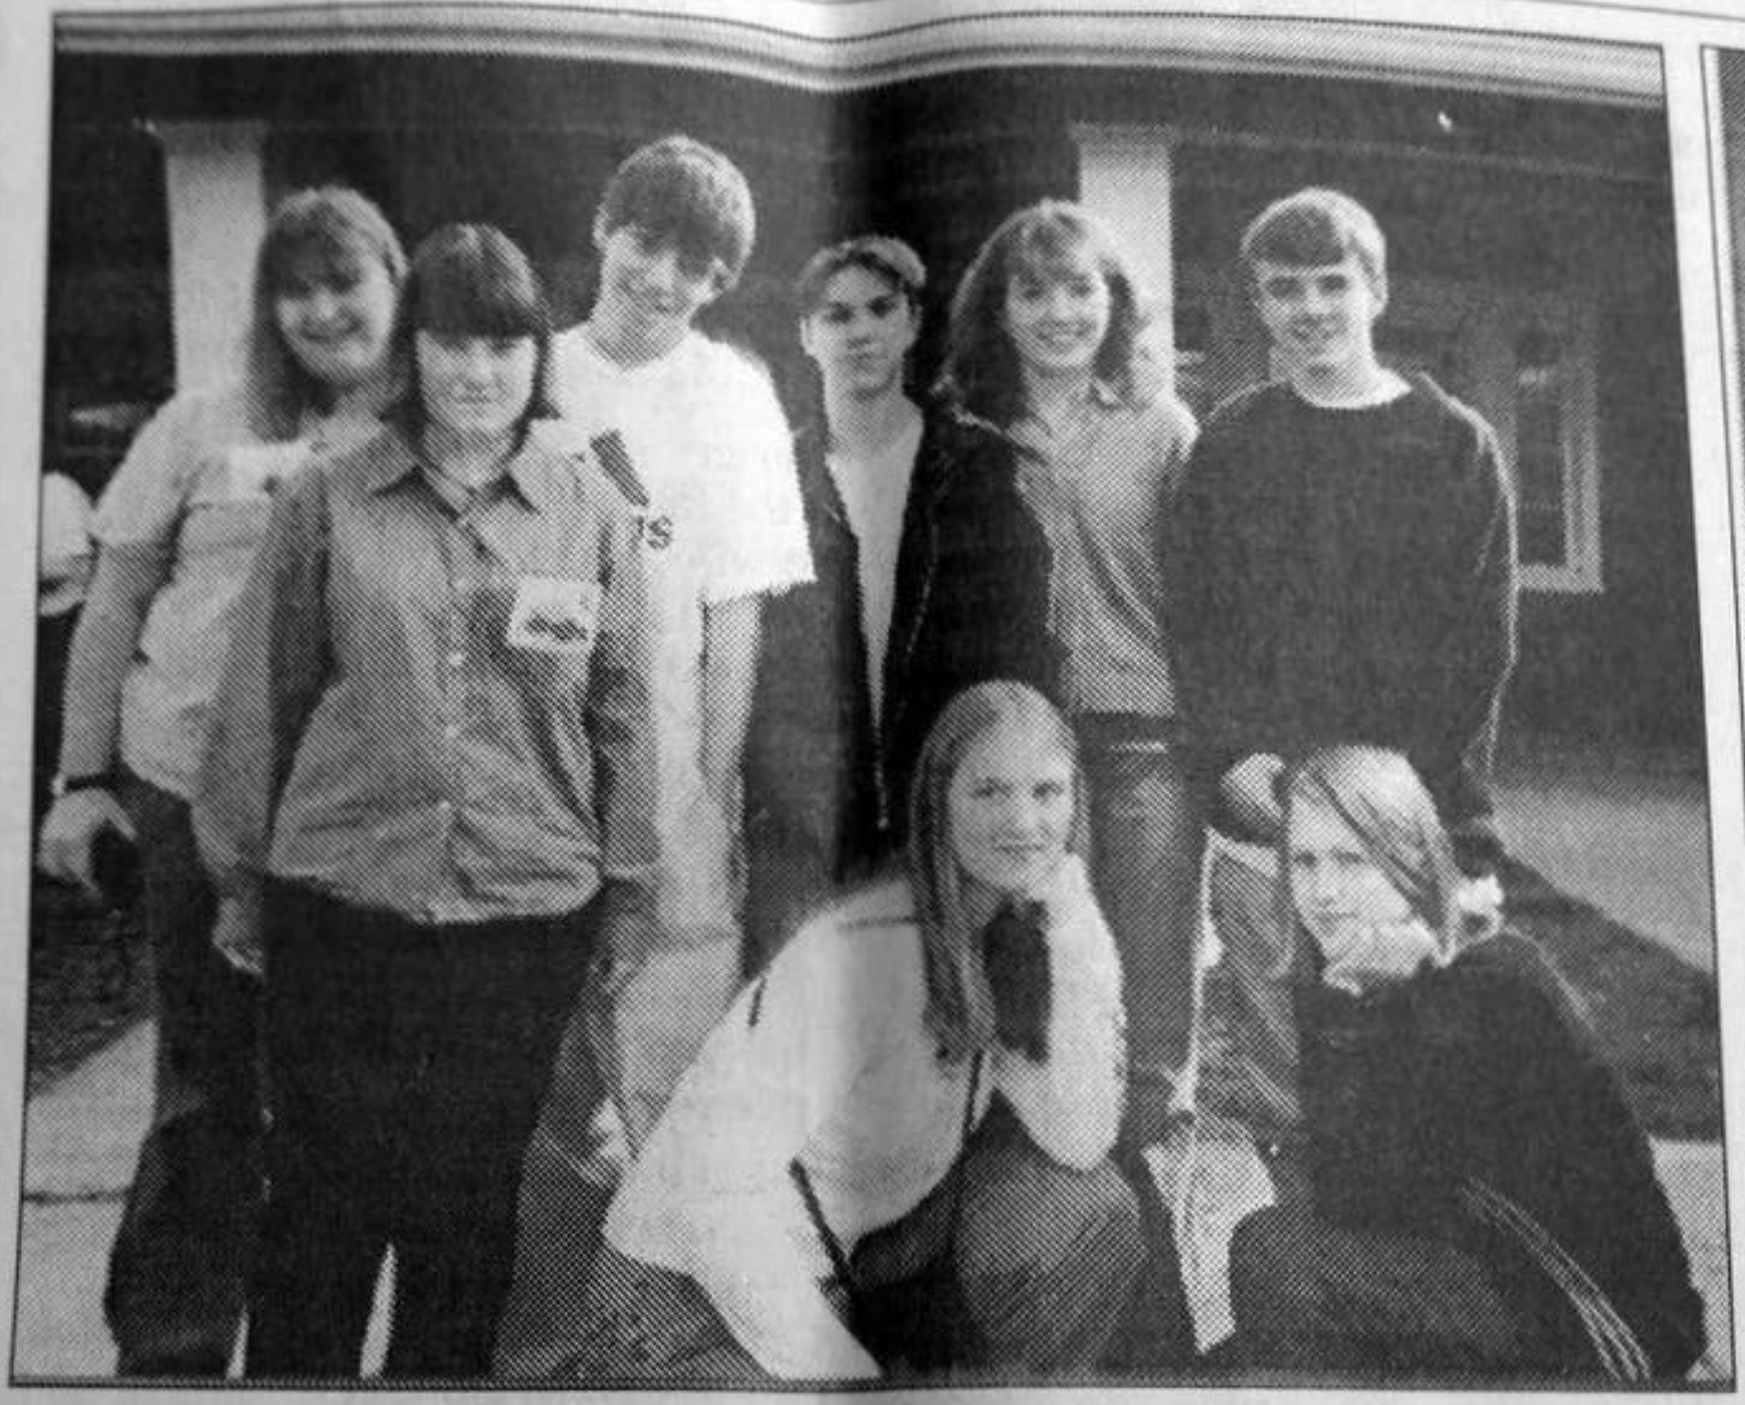
The Pocahontas County Free Libraries headquarters will also be housed in the new facility and Head Librarian Charlene Beverage will relocate there from her present office in Hillsboro.

Still on the fence?
This should push you off.



COUNTY MIDDLE SCHOOL TOURNAMENT
ALL TOURNAMENT GIRLS TEAM

L-R: Hollie Barker and Caroline McKean, Green Bank, LeeAnn Dilley, Marlinton, Rachel Wayne, Green Bank, Amanda Burgress, Marlinton. (Our apologies for the mistake in a name in last week's paper.)



POCAHONTAS COUNTY 4-H Teen Leaders at Jackson's Mill during the State Teen Leader/Charting Weekend 2000. Standing, l-r, Jessica Dean, Holly Nelson, Jesse Burns, Jonathon Moore, Kristen Irvine, Robert Alonso. Kneeling, l-r, Christina Holstine and Jodi Starr. The Pocahontas 4-H members joined 420 other 4-H teens from across the state for this weekend. All of the Pocahontas County 4-H'ers participated in the Charting program.

WINNERS IN THE REGIONAL Math Field Day competition were Marlinton Elementary School Students, l-r, Katherine Beverage, Aaron Moore, and David Mitchell.

MES students compete at Regional Math Field Day

Wedding

Schuhmann - Vaughan

Jeff Schuhmann and Kelly Vaughan were united in marriage on December 11, 1999, at Oak Grove Presbyterian Church, in Hillsboro. Reverend Dan Arbogast married the couple in a traditional Christian ceremony.

The bride wore an off-the-shoulder Gloria Vanderbilt dress. The fitted bodice was decorated with an intricate bead design. The full skirt of layered tulle was trimmed in satin with a cathedral length train.

A reception was held at the Marlinton Moose Lodge and after honeymooning in Cancun, Mexico, the couple resides in Bridgewater, Virginia.

- - -

Time

FEBRUARY 10, 1994

ath were two and Arvel B.
, Rosy Lee
.
a nephew,
adow Creek, mith.
at 2 p. m. en Funeral an Johnson, ntain View

rman Halterman, Thursday, Alleghany ow Moor,

a member a retired wmill.
as born oyer, the and Ida

l Teter in death.
o sisters, bin, and ore. ere held Wallace Home at vid Fuller.
emetery.

page 8

volunteer to help, call Lori Wayne at 456-3447.

Drama Workshop To Present "Love Letters"

Yes! There is something to do in the dead of winter. Something fun, something romantic, something different.

You can take your Valentine, your mother, your great aunt Ethel, or anyone tired of staring at icicles to see "Love Letters" presented by the Pocahontas County Drama Workshop Valentine's Day weekend.

"Love Letters" will be presented at the Rosewood Cafe in Hillsboro on Friday, February 11, at 8 p.m. Five dollars is the charge for the performance plus a sumptuous Rosewood dessert and beverage.

On Saturday February 12, the Four Season's restaurant in Green Bank will host "Love Letters". The charge for the performance alone is three dollars, but a special sweetheart's dinner is available before the show. Please call the Four Seasons for dinner reservations.

Besides being a lively, heart melting entertainment, four out of five doctors recommend "Love Letters" as the perfect cure for cabin fever.

The subject matter of "Love Letters" is best suited for teenagers to adult. Snow cancellation number is 456-0023.

---

recuperating from back
His address is HC82 B
Marlinton.

Correction

Leona A. Ray is surviv sister, Evelyn Long Aberdeen, Maryland. H was given as Evelyn Hur obituary last week.

Mrs. Ray was precede by a sister, Donna Lon and two brothers, Leo Arlie Long.

Revision of Obitu
Betty L. Scot

In addition to her mo survived by her husban Scott; stepfather Willa
Sr., of Marlinton; t
Randall Scott, o
Pennsylvania, Mike Sc Grove, Pennsylvania,
Scott, with the Uni
Marines; two daughte Picker, of Seven Pennsylvania, an Wynkoop, of Soldotn
one brother, Eugene Seebert; and one sis
Harris, of Havre d
Maryland; one step-brot
Wilson, Jr., and one Carolyn Baxter, both of and eleven grandchildre

Landfill Holid

Pocahontas Landfil closed Friday, Februa observance of Lincoln's

County Spelling Bee Winners
L-R: Jessica Cain, Matt Rhea, Michelle Wimer, Margaret Clark, Josh Carpenter and Martha Snyder

Michelle Wimer is top speller

Sixth, seventh and eighth grade students from the Green Bank, Hillsboro and Marlinton schools gathered at Hillsboro Elementary/Middle school on Thursday of last week to participate in the County Spelling Bee. By spelling correctly the word "atrium," Michelle Wimer, of Hillsboro, won first place ahead of Margaret Clark, of Green Bank. Coming in third was Martha Snyder, of Green Bank, followed by Matt Rhea, of Marlinton, Jessica Cain, of Marlinton, and Josh Carpenter, of Green Bank.

The top five county winners will take part in the Regional Spelling Bee at Summersville on March 16. Michelle and Margaret, along with winners from the Regional Bee, will take part in the State Spelling Bee in Charleston on March 26. Josh will serve as an alternate for the Regional Bee.

- - -

Winning from an

Catherine Arbovale, w Bond in an es by the Conse
the Marlinto will be ente national conte

The En Reflectin
I fumble clasp and pu Shoving the open, I inhale clean air. Shu unzipped my

"That's th 20th century my travel ba I found my j
I wrote:

Today I n new Time Investigate childhood h had forgotte was like, ho the Lands A remember Amendmen environmen to be issue cared about changes ha lifetime. I thinking of big picture, back. I w segmented

Farm News

Members of Pocahontas County Farm Bureau were among those visiting their delegates at the State Capitol on January 26. Attending the "Taste of West Virginia Reception" at the Charleston House that evening were: (back L-R) Bill Beard, Jr., Thomas VanReenen, Charles VanReenen, Greg Mosesso, (front L-R) Delegate Joe Martin, D. (Pocahontas and Randolph) J. M. McNeel, Jr. and Charles Wilfong

Agriculture Leaders Lobby Legislators

In a show of mutual support over 300 members of the West Virginia Farm Bureau (WVFB), the West Virginia Forestry Association trout, beef, lamb, ham, chicken and turkey, Yukon Gold potatoes, milk punch, a Waldorf salad made with West Virginia apples, jellies, and honey mustard and other condiments.

WVMR duo grabs national award

"Country Plus with Garlin and Cherryl", WVMR's 11 a.m. Friday morning music variety program hosted by Garlin Groves and Cherryl Ellison, has been honored by the National Federation of Community Broadcasters with the 1994 Golden Reel Award as the outstanding local music and entertainment series on a non-commercial community radio station. The Golden Reel is only presented to programs of exceptional merit; it was not awarded in 1993. WVMR's John Geiger attended the NFCB National Conference at Clearwater, Florida, last week and accepted the award on behalf of Garlin and Cherryl. He reports that the taped excerpts played at the awards ceremony were received with hearty laughter and sustained applause by the 300 radio professionals in attendance.

Garlin Groves, a native of Nicholas County, first appeared on WVMR in the mid 80's as leader of the "Minnehaha Tabernacle Choir" when he was pastor of the Minnehaha Charge of the United Methodist Church. Cherryl Ellison, a native of Georgia, moved to the area when her husband Spooky found work on the Back Creek pumped storage project construction job. The two began singing together in 1985, and from 1986 on have appeared throughout the area as "Heaven's Echoes". In 1987 Heaven's Echoes began a weekly all-live music Gospel Hour switched over to pre-recorded music, but what you hear each Friday morning at 9 a.m. is pure Garlin and Cherryl - speaking live and singing on tape.

In February, 1992, WVMR "Country Plus" DJ Eleanor Estilow took a leave of absence for a hip replacement operation, and Garlin and Cherryl agreed to fill in for her at 11 a.m. Friday mornings. Their infectious mix of cornball humor, gentle teasing, an infallibly upbeat attitude and a wide selection of old time bluegrass and country music, enlivened from time to time with a little live singing, soon proved a hit with WVMR listeners. When Mrs. Estilow returned to the air, Station Manager Glenda VanReenan asked Garlin and Cherryl to host their own regular hour "Country Plus" program.

After their start on WVMR, Garlin and Cherryl began to appear on other area radio stations. Currently they host weekly bluegrass and Gospel programs on WVAR, Richwood and WYKM, Rupert. They are looking forward to appearing on WVLS, Monterey, and the new Bath county station when these go on the air. At the present time the pair is working with WVMR Program Director Doug Van Gundy to develop a pilot for an hour long weekly program designed for national distribution to community stations and small market commercial country music stations via satellite and cassette.

Making it v

by Pam Pritt

It's all here in northern Pocahontas County, but it's not by accident. Businesses developed here because area residents saw needs, developed interests and diversified their existing establishments based on their acumen and hunches.

Doing business above Arbovale in northern Pocahontas County takes some creativity, some vision, some willingness to take risks. And if there's one thing all the business people agree on, diversification is the key to success.

For William "Red" Kane, the patriarch of the Kane family, who began with a grocery store in Durbin 32 years ago, staying in business also meant seven-day work weeks. Kane says his work week has shortened to six days since he sold his television cable business, which he'd owned since 1957. His other endeavors include a hardware store—the Durbin Mercantile Company (DMC) —which retails greeting cards, yarn, lumber, clothing, shoes and a variety of other merchandise; a carwash; and a laundromat.

Kane says his biggest challeng in business has been the build-up o discount stores in the Elkins area because "People will drive acros the mountain to shop." Bu generally, he says, he has busines from all areas of the county. An the 68-year-old businessman ha had a seat on the Board of Directo of the First National Bank i Marlinton for 27 years, where he now president.

One of Kane's secrets fo success may be that he refuses discuss politics. "I don't fool wi county government," Kan remarked. "I never mixed in politi at all—it's not good for business.

That sentiment isn't shared b all of Kane's peers; Jimmy Ryde Sr. of Bartow has run for th House of Delegates several times.

Ryder began in busine between Arbovale and Bartow wi a grocery store, and he now al owns a restaurant, a car dealersh and a wrecker service. "Eve business we started was because a need here in the upper end Ryder said.

His gregarious nature has had part in his business success.

eenen Home
nen, Owner
, Manager Va. 24954
99-4553
99-4074

Ammo Supplies - rplus Trade raders ersville 6279
n, used guns Terry ember

D OPERATED LARGEST TING 1958 SIONALS VA. AND GINIA PERIENCE Discount lere Financing vailable CHED
S AND CALL
-4034
Lewisburg 647-3337
465-0471
0126

WVMR duo grabs national award

"Country Plus with Garlin and Cherryl", WVMR's 11 a.m. Friday morning music variety program hosted by Garlin Groves and Cherryl Ellison, has been honored by the National Federation of Community Broadcasters with the 1994 Golden Reel Award as the outstanding local music and entertainment series on a non-commercial community radio station. The Golden Reel is only presented to programs of exceptional merit; it was not awarded in 1993. WVMR's John Geiger attended the NFCB National Conference at Clearwater, Florida, last week and accepted the award on behalf of Garlin and Cherryl. He reports that the taped excerpts played at the awards ceremony were received with hearty laughter and sustained applause by the 300 radio professionals in attendance.

Garlin Groves, a native of Nicholas County, first appeared on WVMR in the mid 80's as leader of the "Minnehaha Tabernacle Choir" when he was pastor of the Minnehaha Charge of the United Methodist Church. Cherryl Ellison, a native of Georgia, moved to the area when her husband Spooky found work on the Back Creek pumped storage project construction job. The two began singing together in 1985, and from 1986 on have appeared throughout the area as "Heaven's Echoes". In 1987 Heaven's Echoes began a weekly all-live music Gospel Hour on WMVR. After several years they switched over to pre-recorded music, but what you hear each Friday morning at 9 a.m. is pure Garlin and Cherryl - speaking live and singing on tape.

In February, 1992, WVMR "Country Plus" DJ Eleanor Estilow took a leave of absence for a hip replacement operation, and Garlin and Cherryl agreed to fill in for her at 11 a.m. Friday mornings. Their infectious mix of cornball humor, gentle teasing, an infallibly upbeat attitude and a wide selection of old time bluegrass and country music, enlivened from time to time with a little live singing, soon proved a hit with WVMR listeners. When Mrs. Estilow returned to the air, Station Manager Glenda VanReenan asked Garlin and Cherryl to host their own regular hour "Country Plus" program.

After their start on WVMR, Garlin and Cherryl began to appear on other area radio stations. Currently they host weekly bluegrass and Gospel programs on WVAR, Richwood and WYKM, Rupert. They are looking forward to appearing on WVLS, Monterey, and the new Bath county station when these go on the air. At the present time the pair is working with WVMR Program Director Doug Van Gundy to develop a pilot for an hour long weekly program designed for national distribution to community stations and small market commercial country music stations via satellite and cassette.

- - -

Making it v

by Pam Pritt

It's all here in northern Pocahontas County, but it's not by accident. Businesses developed here because area residents saw needs, developed interests and diversified their existing establishments based on their acumen and hunches.

Doing business above Arbovale in northern Pocahontas County takes some creativity, some vision, some willingness to take risks. And if there's one thing all the business people agree on, diversification is the key to success.

For William "Red" Kane, the patriarch of the Kane family, who began with a grocery store in Durbin 32 years ago, staying in business also meant seven-day work weeks. Kane says his work week has shortened to six days since he sold his television cable business, which he'd owned since 1957. His other endeavors include a hardware store—the Durbin Mercantile Company (DMC) —which retails greeting cards, yarn, lumber, clothing, shoes and a variety of other merchandise; a carwash; and a laundromat.

Kane says his biggest challenge in business has been the build-up of discount stores in the Elkins area because "People will drive across the mountain to shop." But generally, he says, he has business from all areas of the county. And the 68-year-old businessman has had a seat on the Board of Directors of the First National Bank in Marlinton for 27 years, where he is now president.

One of Kane's secrets for success may be that he refuses to discuss politics. "I don't fool with county government," Kane remarked. "I never mixed in politics at all—it's not good for business."

That sentiment isn't shared by all of Kane's peers; Jimmy Ryder Sr. of Bartow has run for the House of Delegates several times.

Ryder began in business between Arbovale and Bartow with a grocery store, and he now also owns a restaurant, a car dealership and a wrecker service. "Every business we started was because of a need here in the upper end," Ryder said.

His gregarious nature has had part in his business success. He says he has lots of friends, and gave him an excuse to start another venture, the Snack Shack. The

rd

-recorded hear each
m. is pure aking live

, WVMR or Estilow for a hip and Garlin l in for her ngs. Their ull humor, ily upbeat tion of old ury music, ime with a reward a hit w/hus bits,

Making it work in the Upp

by Pam Pritt

It's all here in northern Pocahontas County, but it's not by accident. Businesses developed here because area residents saw needs, developed interests and diversified their existing establishments based on their acumen and hunches.

Doing business above Arbovale in northern Pocahontas County takes some creativity, some vision, some willingness to take risks. And if there's one thing all the business people agree on, diversification is the key to success.

For William "Red" Kane, the patriarch of the Kane family, who began with a grocery store in Durbin 32 years ago, staying in business also meant seven-day work weeks. Kane says his work week has shortened to six days since he sold his television cable business, which he'd owned since 1957. His other endeavors include a hardware store—the Durbin Mercantile Company (DMC) —which retails greeting cards, yarn, lumber, clothing, shoes and a variety of other merchandise; a carwash; and a laundromat.

Kane says his biggest challenge in business has been the build-up of discount stores in the Elkins area, because "People will drive across the mountain to shop." But generally, he says, he has business from all areas of the county. And the 68-year-old businessman has approach to doing business in the upper end of Pocahontas County and he said he enjoys the challenge of competition.

When he bought the building at an auction, it was practically in shambles, he said. Ryder and his father did most of the fixing up required and Jim Jr. rewired the building with over 6,000 feet of new electrical wire. The building was constructed in 1946, Ryder said, and one of the former owners presented him with a clock on opening day.

The younger Ryder said his father's help had allowed him to stay in the area where he grew up. Ryder Jr. said he stayed here because he "likes the people and likes the country."

The Ryders' love of cars took them into another venture, racing, which gave another Boyer businessman an opportunity.

Mike Murphy, who operates a body shop nestled in a small valley between Boyer and Bartow, got into the business by helping the Ryders at the races. "We tore up so much stuff. Someone had to fix it," Murphy stated. The Ryders raced 4-wheel drive vehicles, flat drags and motorcross vehicles.

Murphy's Body Shop doesn't rely totally on local busines. He's the body man for NASCAR driver Ricky Darnell's #21. And Murphy will be seeing that car soon, he says since Darnell "hit the wall in [illegible]" last month.

that the lo use more p her ideas situation booth in county to with direc

But th not just the quie melting River ro
"The pl commit and star said, " take a c

Nov Ryder expan people here," for th fortun these
"The missi

of cornball humor, an infallibly upbeat ide selection of old and country music, time to time with a , soon proved a hit eners. When Mrs. to the air, Station VanReenan asked ryl to host their "Country Plus" rt on WVMR, began to appear adio stations. host weekly el programs on and WYKM, oking forward LS, Monterey, ounty station e air. At the r is working am Director evelop a pilot kly program distribution s and small untry music cassette.

duled

Sweet, hinks he's a bugle at d Officer doing their fight scene

A wright who for either

Tough. Well, not Highly stuffy and daughter, nonsense

in business has been the build-up of discount stores in the Elkins area, because "People will drive across the mountain to shop." But generally, he says, he has business from all areas of the county. And the 68-year-old businessman has had a seat on the Board of Directors of the First National Bank in Marlinton for 27 years, where he is now president.

One of Kane's secrets for success may be that he refuses to discuss politics. "I don't fool with county government," Kane remarked. "I never mixed in politics at all—it's not good for business."

That sentiment isn't shared by all of Kane's peers; Jimmy Ryder, Sr. of Bartow has run for the House of Delegates several times.

Ryder began in business between Arbovale and Bartow with a grocery store, and he now also owns a restaurant, a car dealership and a wrecker service. "Every business we started was because of a need here in the upper end," Ryder said.

His gregarious nature has had a part in his business success. He says he has lots of friends, and it gave him an excuse to start another venture, the Snack Shack. The Snack Shack is an offshoot of Ryder's Restaurant and it's truly fast food—you have to catch it.

The rolling restaurant in a van offers customers everything from french fries to fresh desserts as it travels daily north from Boyer to Durbin, making scheduled stops and flag-downs. Last Wednesday when it returned to its last stop at Ryder's Auto Sales in Bartow, all that remained were two orders of french fries, two pieces of homemade pie and two sodas.

Ryder said that he began the Snack Shack three years ago to sell food at Durbin Days and Pioneer Days but took the restaurant on the road as "an excuse to get out and talk to people." He operated the Snack Shack himself until he went to work on the farm for author Stephen Coonts and now hires an employee to deliver the food.

drive vehicles, flat drags motorcross vehicles.

Murphy's Body Shop doesn't totally on local busines. He's body man for NASCAR driver Darnell's #21. And Murphy be seeing that car soon, he since Darnell "hit the wall in Charlotte" last month.

Murphy said that the race car driver was just in the area and stopped in to ask if he'd be interested in working on the race car on a regular basis.

The body shop owner said that isolation is the area's biggest detriment, and that combined with lack of support from county government leaves the area with a "We're on our own, no doubt about it," Murphy stated.

The Ryders and Murphy credited the wood industry—Interstate Lumber Company and Judy Fencecraft—with "taking up the slack" in an area still feeling the effects of a strike at Howes Leather Company last summer.

Bonnie Plyler, who began selling Avon 30 years ago and expanded from there, agreed that the area is lucky to have the wood industry, but still wishes for a large industry in the upper end of the county that would support satellite businesses.

Plyler now operates a convenience store/ laundromat and is involved in Archer Real Estate Company with Pocahontas County native Julia Elbon, now of Elkins. Plyler said that the real estate trends fluctuate from year to year. Some years more local people are buying homes and some years "there's a real demand for cabins and camps."

Her store is a legacy of her father who had a grocery store in Durbin, Plyler said, and claims the beauty of the area is why she has stayed. The store is also a venue for used books and movie rentals, as well as contemporary magazines. But as for challenges, this busy woman can't place her finger on just one. "Every day has a different challenge," Plyler said. "And every day I meet them."

Carolyn's H 908 Secon Marlinton, W
799-As of Febru
I will be clos
Thank you
10 years o Carolyn Owne

Friday N

K Ser Route

Snack Shack is an offshoot of Ryder's Restaurant and it's truly fast food—you have to catch it.

The rolling restaurant in a van offers customers everything from french fries to fresh desserts as it travels daily north from Boyer to Durbin, making scheduled stops and flag-downs. Last Wednesday when it returned to its last stop at Ryder's Auto Sales in Bartow, all that remained were two orders of french fries, two pieces of homemade pie and two sodas.

Ryder said that he began the Snack Shack three years ago to sell food at Durbin Days and Pioneer Days but took the restaurant on the road as "an excuse to get out and talk to people." He operated the Snack Shack himself until he went to work on the farm for author Stephen Coonts and now hires an employee to deliver the food.

The Snack Shack makes its final stop at Ryder's Auto Sales to accommodate Jimmy Ryder, Jr. who shares what's left with a cat named, rather appropriately, "GM."

"GM came with the place," Ryder laughed. The junior Ryder bought the former Bartow Motors building and opened the car dealership last fall when Ryder's Auto Sales needed more room than it had beside the restaurant/ convenience store/service station.

"My main problem so far is that good used vehicles are hard to find," the younger Ryder said.

But selling them isn't that difficult. During the course of the interview Ryder sold a Ford Explorer. That was the good news. The bad news? It was the Ford Explorer his mom wanted. As the interview concluded, Ryder Jr. was on the phone in search of another.

Ryder uses an energetic, amiable

Plyler now operates a convenience store/ laundromat and is involved in Archer Real Estate Company with Pocahontas County native Julia Elbon, now of Elkins. Plyler said that the real estate trends fluctuate from year to year. Some years more local people are buying homes and some years "there's a real demand for cabins and camps."

Her store is a legacy of her father who had a grocery store in Durbin, Plyler said, and claims the beauty of the area is why she has stayed. The store is also a venue for used books and movie rentals, as well as contemporary magazines. But as for challenges, this busy woman can't place her finger on just one. "Every day has a different challenge," Plyler said. "And every day I meet them."

Plyler said that the "serenity of the area" is its biggest draw, but

g it work in the Upper End

approach to doing business in the upper end of Pocahontas County and he said he enjoys the challenge of competition.

When he bought the building at an auction, it was practically in shambles, he said. Ryder and his father did most of the fixing up required and Jim Jr. rewired the building with over 6,000 feet of new electrical wire. The building was constructed in 1946, Ryder said, and one of the former owners presented him with a clock on opening day.

The younger Ryder said his father's help had allowed him to stay in the area where he grew up. Ryder Jr. said he stayed here because he "likes the people and likes the country."

The Ryders' love of cars took them into another venture, racing, which gave another Boyer businessman an opportunity.

Mike Murphy, who operates a body shop nestled in a small valley between Boyer and Bartow, got into the business by helping the Ryders at the races. "We tore up so much stuff. Someone had to fix it," Murphy stated. The Ryders raced 4-wheel drive vehicles, flat drags and motorcross vehicles.

Murphy's Body Shop doesn't rely totally on local busines. He's the body man for NASCAR driver Glenn Darnell's #21. And Murphy will be seeing that car soon, he said, since Darnell "hit the wall in Charlotte" last month.

Murphy said that the race car was just in the area and that the low-crime rate area could use more publicity. She said one of her ideas for remedying that situation is a tourist information booth in the northern part of the county to help the out-of-towners with directions and information.

But the real plus of the area is not just its steeply rolling hills, or the quiet hollows still laced with melting snow or the Greenbrier River rolling on its way southward. "The plus is the people who have committed themselves to the area and started their businesses," Plyler said, "People who are willing to take a chance."

Now there's a sentiment Jim Ryder, Sr. will agree with—and expand on. "Some of the finest people in West Virginia are right here," Ryder said confidently. And for those who aren't quite so fortunate to discover what lies in these particular West Virginia hills, "They don't know what they're missing," he says.

Carolyn's Hairstyling
908 Second Avenue
Marlinton, WV 24954
799-4762

As of February 3, 1994,
I will be closing my shop.
Thank you for the past 10 years of patronage.

Carolyn Carpenter
Owner/Stylist

Dur
July 1
For Informat

WALLAC
Chap
Pho Roncev

Home
Availa

...at the races. "We tore up so much stuff. Someone had to fix it," Murphy stated. The Ryders raced 4-wheel drive vehicles, flat drags and motorcross vehicles.

Murphy's Body Shop doesn't rely totally on local busines. He's the body man for NASCAR driver Glenn Darnell's #21. And Murphy will be seeing that car soon, he said, since Darnell "hit the wall in Charlotte" last month.

Murphy said that the race car driver was just in the area and stopped in to ask if he'd be interested in working on the race car on a regular basis.

The body shop owner said that isolation is the area's biggest detriment, and that combined with lack of support from county government leaves the area with a "We're on our own, no doubt about it," Murphy stated.

The Ryders and Murphy credited the wood industry—Interstate Lumber Company and Judy Fencecraft—with "taking up the slack" in an area still feeling the effects of a strike at Howes Leather Company last summer.

Bonnie Plyler, who began selling Avon 30 years ago and expanded from there, agreed that the area is lucky to have the wood industry, but still wishes for a large industry in the upper end of the county that would support satellite businesses.

Plyler now operates a convenience store/ laundromat and is involved in Archer Real Estate Company with Pocahontas County native Julia Elbon, now of Elkins. Plyler said that the real estate trends fluctuate from year to year. Some years more local people are buying homes and some years "there's a real demand for cabins and camps."

Her store is a legacy of her father who had a grocery store in Durbin, Plyler said, and claims the beauty of the area is why she has stayed. The store is also a venue for used books and movie rentals, as well as contemporary magazines. But as for challenges, this busy woman can't place her finger on

Carolyn's Hairstyling
908 Second Avenue
Marlinton, WV 24954
799-4762

As of February 3, 1994, I will be closing my shop. Thank you for the past 10 years of patronage.

Carolyn Carpenter
Owner/Stylist

Homegrown Pocahontas Po

Dreams
By Andrew Price
First published in 192
Now available in paperb
$6 + 36¢ tax
Add $1.50 for mail or

Available at The Pocahon
810 Second Aven
Marlinton, WV 24

NATALIE' RESTAURANT & LO
[Located in the Marlinton M

Friday Night Seafood Buffet: Crab Legs, Steame

In the Lounge This Weekend: Fate

A TOUCH OF GLASS
219 8th St. (Main Street), Marlinton, WV
(304)799-4896 • 8:30 - 5:00 Mon. - Sat.
UNIQUELY DIFFERENT ONE OF A KIND GIFTS
Your Valentine Gemstone Heart Jewelry Amethyst, Jade, Leopardskin, Rose Quartz, More!
Valentine's Day Special Dreamcatchers $5.00 and up ring Custom-Designed Jewelry by Patti Hoover

Kerr's Service Station Route 92, Green Bank

•Vehicle Insp •Custom Exh
•Welding in shop o

Upper End

☆ Durbin Days ☆
July 13 - 16, 1994
For Information Call 456-40

that the low-crime rate area could use more publicity. She said one of her ideas for remedying that situation is a tourist information booth in the northern part of the county to help the out-of-towners with directions and information.

But the real plus of the area is not just its steeply rolling hills, or the quiet hollows still laced with melting snow or the Greenbrier River rolling on its way southward. "The plus is the people who have committed themselves to the area and started their businesses," Plyler said, "People who are willing to take a chance."

Now there's a sentiment Jim Ryder, Sr. will agree with—and expand on. "Some of the finest people in West Virginia are right here," Ryder said confidently. And for those who aren't quite so fortunate to discover what lies in these particular West Virginia hills, "They don't know what they're missing," he says.

WALLACE & WALLA

Chapel in Arbovale
Phone 456-4277

Lewisburg
Ronceverte • E. Raine
Ansted

Homegrown Pocahontas Dreams

Carolyn's Hairstyling
908 Second Avenue

he past because they to a "model of t" that does not conform culture.

heory goes like this: use they were most in academic settings in ative years, tend to he "academic model of t." Boys, who were comfortable in physical nternalize a "sports chievement." Tear t the sports model ealities of corporate rs, she notes that rts emphasize team ver may be good, but best efforts of his may lose the game rue in business. A ve a good idea for a it will never be a ae market without the entire company. er play sports may lesson. In school, nents are typically idual effort. If a girl gets an A, no matter nates do. Girls also work hard enough, get A's. "In the del girls learn that ou deserve," Tear an get an A. There f A's."

ho play sports, kly learn that no rd they work and lay, they may lose e are serendipitous says. For instance, was blowing in the irection, and that for them to score cause of the model zed, can brush off nd move on to the says.

model of success portant difference model. In school, ivate endeavor. A . for instance, is ly by a teacher. r drafts - the speak - are not all. In sports, all full view of d coaches. ids who play re comfortable a trait essential and career

50 Years Ago In

The Pocahontas Times

Durbin—Under the leadership of their principal Max Poscover, the Durbin Graded School set out to sell fifteen thousand dollars worth of War Bonds, Series E. If this is done, the name of the Durbin school will go on the wing of a fighting plane. On February 1, they lacked a few thousand dollars of going over the top, and with two weeks more to go it looks like the children are going to make it.

Soldier John Townsend, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Burlis Townsend, heard what his old home town school was doing to back the attack, so he wrote to his mother to buy a thousand dollar bond out of the money he had been saving up from his Army pay for an education after the war is over and he is back home again. Soldier John said this would not only help the school but his county and the freedom for which he is fighting.

This is what I call real post-war planning.

—

Friend Charles Washburn of Lost Creek, Harrison County, sent me one of his "Rural Rambles" as follows about a rare visitor:

Is West Virginia the meeting place between east and west, north and south? It would so seem. For R. C. Helmick, retired businessman of West Milford, has just seen what appears to be an arctic three-toed woodpecker feeding at his bird cafeteria.

No other of the 64 forms of woodpeckers found in the United States and Canada answers the description of this visitor. Slightly larger than a downy, solid black from the top of its head to the tip of its longer tail, this fits the arctic three-toed's description exactly. This bird normally ranges from the northern tier of states to central Alaska. Its closest habitat is New York state.

Most woodpeckers have four toes, but a few stream-lined types have only three, the arctic among them. And most woodpeckers are more or less barred. So this looks like a find, and places the arctic far south of its known range.

I tell you, folks, there are more queer things in bird, plant and animal life sticking around among these West Virginia hills than we can fully realize. Just keep your eyes and ears open, like Mr. Helmick, and you will hear and see such oddities as would page Mr. Ripley.

Editor's Note—Only once have I seen the three-toed arctic woodpecker. A dozen or so years ago about this time of year, I happened to see a strange looking woodpecker. It was pecking on a marrow bone near the Marlinton bridge. I immediately looked up the late Dr. Hunter Kee, who was a considerable of a bird expert. With the help of a field glass and a bird book the identification was positive. As I recall, we went within a few yards of the little stranger, and he paid us no mind at all.

—

On Wednesday, February 2, just at 1 o'clock, H. L. Kincaid saw a small red parachute come drifting down to the ground near his home on Douthards Creek. Investigation proved it to be a "weather" balloon, sent up by the Huntington Weather Station just three hours previously. Mr. Kincaid immediately brought the balloon and instruments to Marlinton to be mailed back as per instructions. The place the balloon landed was about twelve miles southeast of Marlinton, about a hundred and fifty miles air line east of Huntington.

—

The Alpine Theater in Marlinton showed "My Kingdom For A Cook" on Wednesday and Thursday, "First Comes Courage and "Thundering Hoofs" on Friday and Saturday and "Let's Face It" with Bob Hope and Betty Hutton on Monday and Tuesday.

—

Deeds

Naomi L. and Glen D. Howard Samuel Gibson, Jr., 2 Field Fork of Elk, Edray Distric

John K. and Virginia Sk Jack L. and Theresa L. Fli Green Townhouse Unit No. 1, Resort.

Joe C. Hereford, Trustee, Trust Company of Californ Trustee, Unit 51H, P Condominium. Snowshoe.

Ricky L. and Karen Hou James G. Landis and Eldon J acres, Green Bank District.

Howard Hevener and Pat Cummings to Ricky L. an Houdersheldt, 4.44 acres, District.

Allen W. Ferrell, Sr., an Ferrell to Ferrell Family Part 15, Tree Top Condomini District.

Guy and Amy VanReens C. Hudson and Diane A. Hur Alderny Woods Subdivi District.

George D. and Nancy C Mary Ann Tomasik and La 4 acres, Edray District.

Town of Marlinton to Miller, 2 cemetery plots.

Town of Marlinton Miller, 2 cemetery plots.

Town of Marlinton t Sharol V. Campbell, 2 ceme

Town of Marlinton to H 2 cemetery plots.

Jeffrey G. Tumblin t Tumblin, interest in 12 Henches Run, Green Bank D

Murrel and Ruth Ann Ruth Ann Mullenax, 14.94 Bank District.

Murrel and Ruth Ann Murrel Mullenax, 14.876 Bank District.

Power of attorney, Eliz to Roger W. Reed.

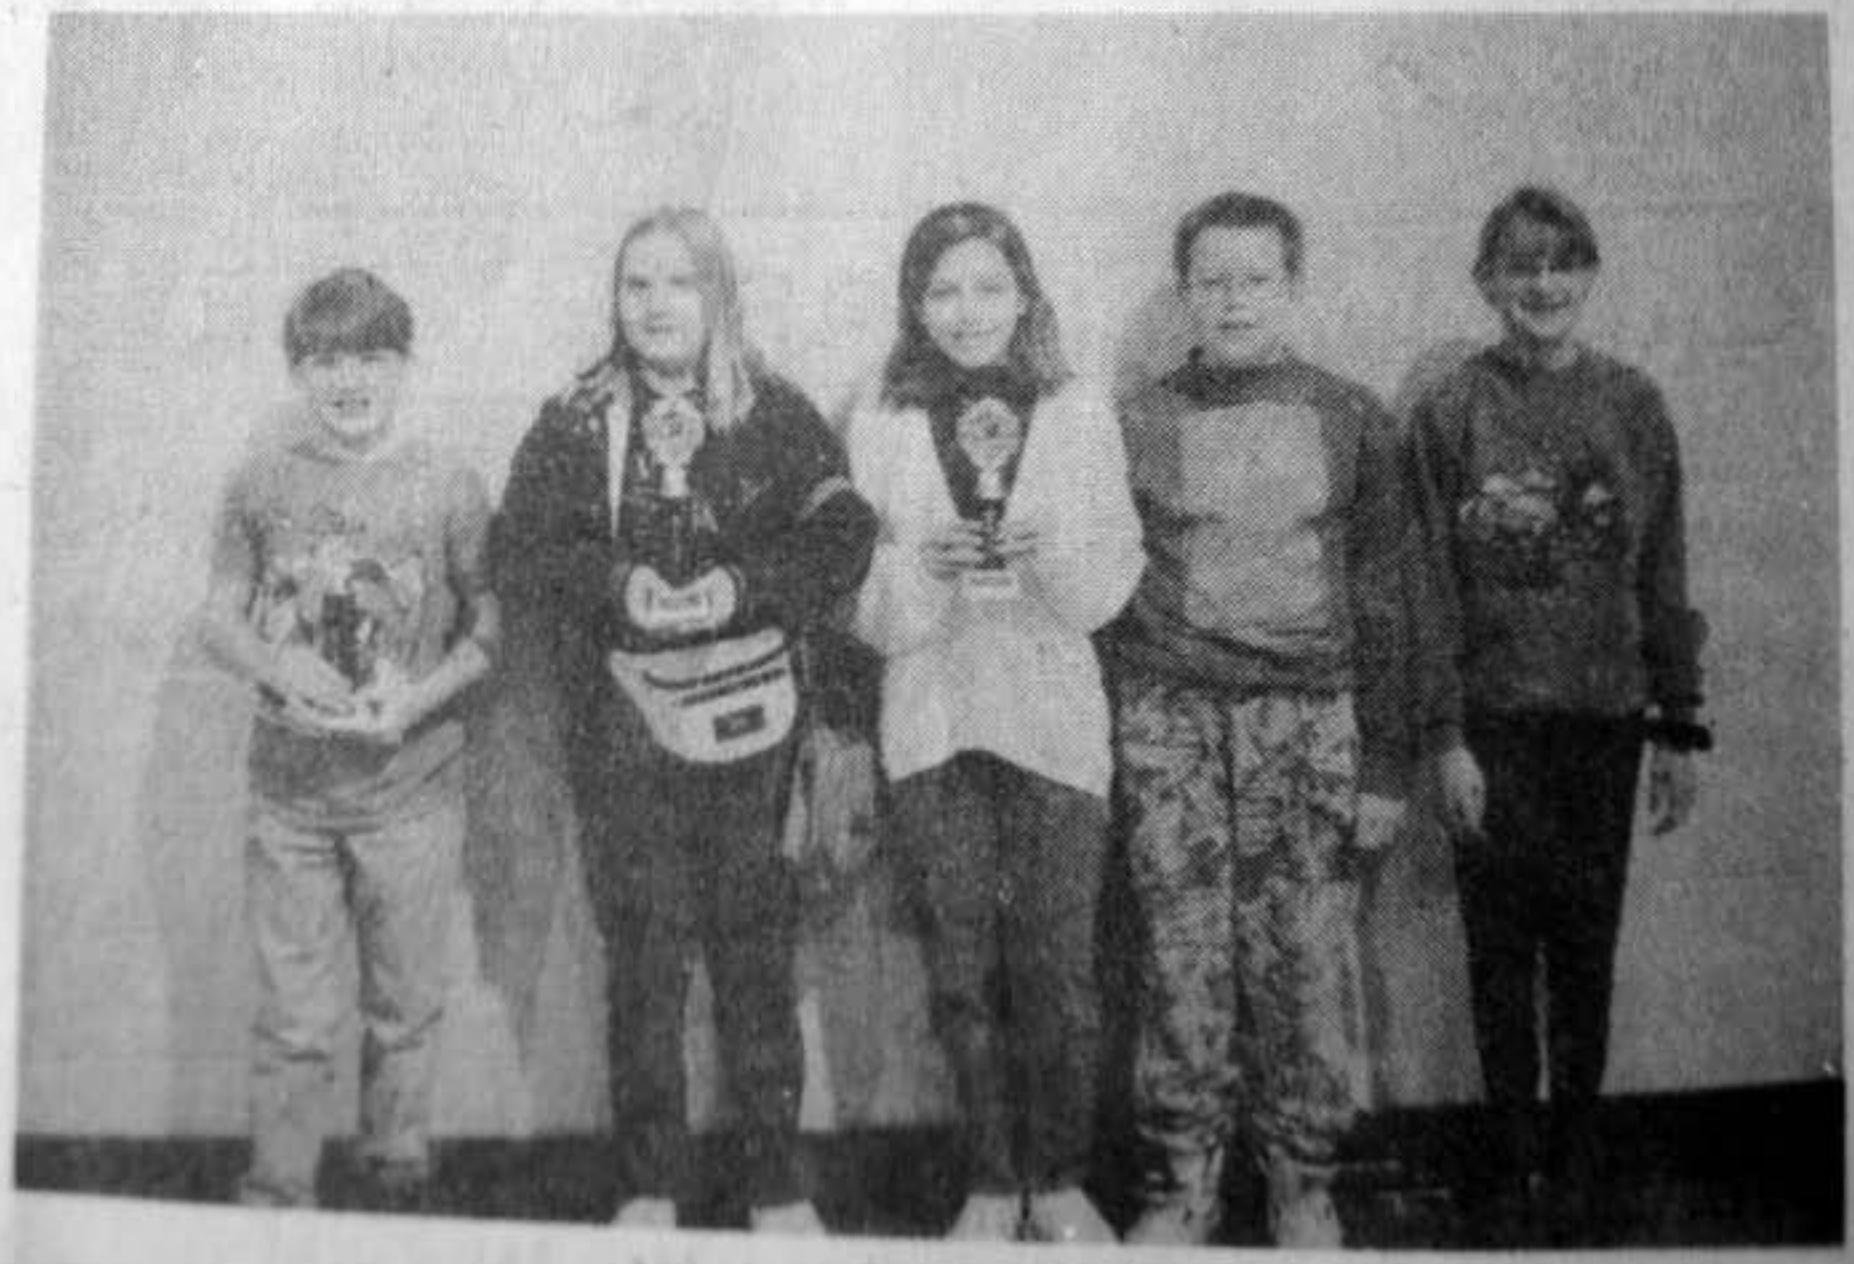
Delbert D. and Reube Charles Puffenbarger, 0.8 Bank District.

General power of attor Dilley to Ruby E. Dilley.

Gary H. and Martha A. to June M. Forbes, 4.01 a acres, Sitlington Creek, District.

More than 35

Fourth Grade
L-R: Andrew LaCasse, Kama Weatherholt, Jesse Burns, Jennifer Sheets, Brandy Wayne



Fifth Grade

Sixth Grade
L-R: Samantha Simmons, Hollie Hollandsworth, Ginger Henry, Tina Fischl, Kellyn Cassell

Seventh Grade
L-R: Amanda Shinaberry, Krissy Keller, Margaret Clark, Michael LaCasse, Josh Carpenter

4th - (alte
Marlinton
5th - (alt
Green Bar

1st - Davi 2nd - Nat
3rd - Tati

Appro students mathema helped v scoring. member Mike Sh
Hall, M Burns,
Rhea, N McGee, Green, Ja Bernadett
Thomas
Allen Bro following Saturday activities:
McNeel, I Moore, T
Clark. I Pocahont pictures.

A

State P accidents the 30th.

The fi the interse and Fifth Involved pickup dr Marlinton driven by also of ving f

Seventh Grade
L-R: Amanda Shinaberry, Krissy Keller, Margaret Clark, Michael LaCasse, Josh Carpenter

Eighth Grade
L-R: Michael Stewart, Travis Sharp, Jessica Estep, Ginger Beverage, Chad Baldwin

Ninth Grade
L-R: David Young, Nathaniel Sizemore, Tatiana Mynuk

and Fifth Involved w pickup drive Marlinton, driven by also of M turning fro Second Av path of the was comi Avenue. Th car and the were no i vehicle dam

The sec involved occurred west of Michael Beach, Vi control of off the ro Polini ap vehicle sli the embar pole. M passengers p.m. accid
Ford Explo

A 1994 damaged i It occurred of the Ran a.m. The Blooming of the ve roads. It w hit the emb onto its dr road. Ther

The Deadlin

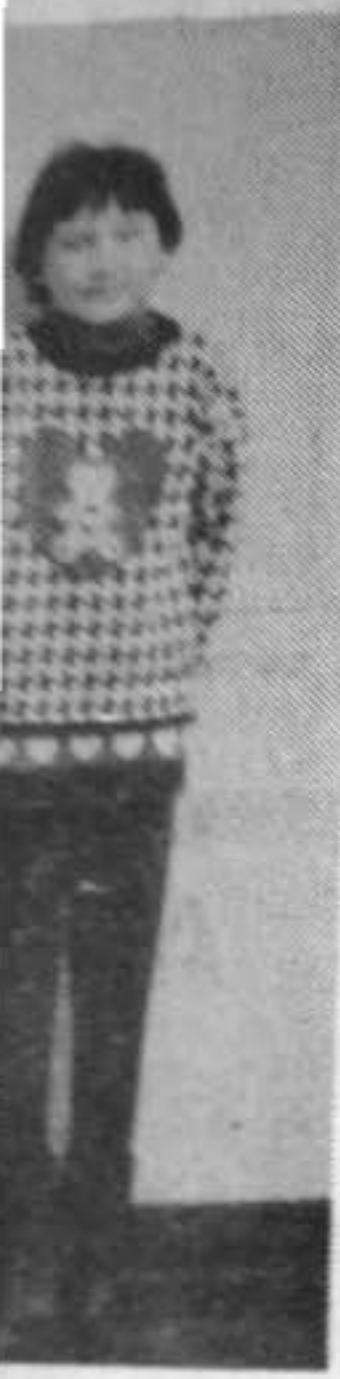
make it all add up



e Burns,

The County Math Field Day was held on Saturday, February 5, at Pocahontas County High School. The top three students at grade levels fourth through ninth were selected to participate at the Regional Math Field Day to be held on March 12 in Summersville.

Fourth Grade

1st - Jesse Burns, Marlinton
2nd - Andrew LaCasse, Green Bank
3rd - Kama Weatherholt, Marlinton
4th - (alternate) - Brandy Wayne, Green Bank 5th - (alternate) Jennifer Sheets, Green Bank

Fifth Grade

1st - Josh Wilfong, Marlinton
2nd - Laurinda Armstrong, Marlinton
3rd - Samantha Mitchell, Marlinton
4th - (alternate) Jason Prather, Marlinton
5th - (alternate) Valerie McLaughlin, Green Bank

Sixth Grade

1st - Samantha Simmons, Marlinton
2nd - Hollie Hollandsworth, Marlinton
3rd - Ginger Henry, Marlinton
4th - (alternate) Tina Fischl, Green Bank

Leslie V. Ca

Leslie V. Carr, Hinton, died Februa Appalachian Regio after a long illness.

Mr. Carr was bo the son of the late Er Irene Carr.

He was a retired for C &O Railway a Brotherhood of M Way.

Surviving sons, Roanoke, Virgini Tommy, both of Florida, and Price brothers, Lawre Reddick, Florida, Carr, of Haye Carolina; two s Wake, of Clinto Thelma Bussard, grandchildren; and children.

Services were Pivont Funeral Ho the Rev. Benny Pe Burial was in the Cemetery in Marlin

--

Miss Teen

amantha

Ginger

5th - (alternate) Amanda Shinaberry, Green Bank

Eighth Grade

1st - Michael Stewart, Hillsboro
2nd - Travis Sharp, Marlinton
3rd - Jessica Estep, Marlinton
4th - (alternate) Ginger Beverage, Marlinton
5th - (alternate) Chad Baldwin, Green Bank

Ninth Grade

1st - David Young 2nd - Nathaniel Sizemore
3rd - Tatiana Mynuk

Approximately one hundred students competed in the mathematics tests. Many parents helped with giving the tests and scoring. The following staff members worked on Saturday: Mike Shank, Gene Rexrode, Traci Hall, Mike Burns, Mary Sue Burns, Linda Stewart, Teresa Rhea, Nancy O'Bryan, Kathy McGee, Kenneth Vance, Nancy Green, Janet Warner, Wilma Dale, Bernadette Rolleston, Erin Last, Thomas Long, Wanda Wymer, Allen Brock and David Tupper. The following students also took their Saturday to come help with the activities: Marion McKean, Chris McNeel, Ruthana McNeel, Jennifer Moore, Tom Stewart, and Katy Clark. Bill McNeel of the Pocahontas Times came to take pictures.

- - -

13 or are in the 5th - welcome to participa having several competitions: The ir girl will have a 1 t with all three judge this is to be a Sun absolutely no form wear dresses. Casu to be something n wear to school. The will determine the Pocahontas 1994. F

Name_____

Address____

Phone_____

Sponsor___
(

Send a wallet

Roses are Red Violets are Blue
Once You Were Cute
What Happened to You?

Happy 21st Birthday, Joey Gragg
February 16th

Love, Your Little Sis, Jodi

☆ Durbin Days ☆
July 13 - 16, 1994
For Information Call 456-4027

Time

FEBRUARY 3, 1994

to attend.

595 Post and its l meet on 0, at 7:30 gion Hall in s are urged

#50
n and Unit Tuesday,
m. at the nton. All nd.

eeting Extension Council ebruary 8, urt House l County rpersons, d Club id.

p tension or a craft ebruary 8,
the Court
m. Craft kshop are Brazilian kets and a ncy Bows. nfinished workshop,
ish. Please

- - -

Drama Workshop To Present "Love Letters"

Yes! There is something to do in the dead of winter. Something fun, something romantic, something different.

You can take your Valentine, your mother, your great aunt Ethel, or anyone tired of staring at icicles to see "Love Letters" presented by the Pocahontas County Drama Workshop Valentine's Day weekend.

"Love Letters" will be presented at the Rosewood Cafe in Hillsboro on Friday, February 11, at 8 p.m. Five dollars is the charge for the performance plus a sumptuous Rosewood dessert and beverage.

On Saturday February 12, the Four Season's restaurant in Green Bank will host "Love Letters". The charge for the performance alone is three dollars, but a special sweetheart's dinner is available before the show. Please call the Four Seasons for dinner reservations.

Besides being a lively, heart melting entertainment, four out of five doctors recommend "Love Letters" as the perfect cure for cabin fever.

The subject matter of "Love Letters" is best suited for teenagers to adult. Snow cancellation number is 456-0023.

- - -

Filed for Office

Since last week's paper the following have filed as candidates for the Primary Election:

County Commission

Norman Alderman, Republican (Incumbent)

Board of Education

Debra Lea Pyles, Southern District

J. Bruce McKean, Northern District (Incumbent)

Julia Jackson, Southern District

Democrat Executive Committee

Harvey Galford, Central District

Dana Moyers, Northern District

Bill Palmer, Southern District

Dottie McLaughlin, Central District

Bertha Plyler, Northern District

Ira Wilder, Southern District

Republican Executive Committee

Myrtle Lee Jones, Northern District

Carlos Jones, Northern District

Jennie M. Cutlip, Central District

- - -

NOTICE

The last day to file as a candidate for the Primary Election is this Saturday, February 5. For the convenience of anyone wishing to file for a local office on this day the office of the Circuit Clerk at the C[illegible]ouse will be open for

Judge Or Escap
b

Monday deferred th people who felony aidin Commission

Joliffe o 21, returne where she Layton's deferred u 60-day pre-s Prunytown. pleaded gu County Circ escape of former boyfr

Jay Fayettevill deferred sent evaluation Correctional

His attor Fayetteville, years as an many defend jail, but thou
"lured into thi Keenan cont understand o

ladies of the Seneca Trail VFW Auxiliary #4595.

- - -

Clarification

Lieutenant David Walton, Pocahontas County Sheriff's Department, commented Monday that the Sheriff's Department was not at fault concerning the failure to serve a subpoena for a preliminary hearing last week.

Walton said that the first date for the Casey hearing, January 17, was cancelled due to bad weather.

The lieutenant said that a new subpoena was not reordered by the Magistrate's office for Marty Beverage for the second court date, January 28.

Beverage was originally subpoenaed by Frank Casey's defense attorney, Martin Saffer, to testify in a preliminary hearing concerning the alleged stabbing of Bobby Lee Morrison on December 27. Casey has been charged with malicious wounding and will appear before the Grand Jury.

- - -

Gasoline Price Differential Survey

The Consumer Protection Division of the West Virgini

dule

l Basketball nuary 28
rade Frankford 13
rade Frankford 10

anuary 31
aity Marlinton 33

School Notes

Named to Who's Who

Christopher L. Tenney, a student at Davis and Elkins College, has been elected to Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges in recognition of outstanding merit and accomplishment as a student.

Mr. Tenney is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Tenney, of Frank, and a 1990 graduate of PCHS.

- - -

Jennifer Lynn Young

Dean

Seven Poc residents were n list at Fairmont December, acc Dean Peters, academic affairs

Receiving a were Matthew Jennifer L. Bl
Ann Grimes, M
Tina Palmer
Morgan and Le

National

Marlinton
its school lev National Ge January 13
students partic
Matt Gay, R
Herold, Lau
Travis Juerge and Laticia Ev

Students a a variety of g
the final roun two students Mandy Bever Pierce. The

Ice trickle

The middle and lower falls of The Falls of Hills Creek nearly froze solid during the recent cold spell. Otto Sharp, grandson of retired Editor Jane P. Sharp, ventured down the new boardwalk at The Falls to take these wintry photos.

Birthdays

ere are nine members three year terms; each epresentative of the d two representatives are elected.

---

ness counseling Elkins

o one counseling business issues will he Small Business Center (SBDC) in out the state.
ess Development Older will be el small business
e interested in nesses. Possible ssion include ensing, tax rdkeeping, and o be available to bidding on state o contractors
ling assistance.
dvance for an n closest to is:

ice Office reet 41
uary 10, 9 a.m. bruary, 24, 9

5 division of the opment Office, s with colleges provide free and technical ions statewide.
gements for lities will be at least two Contact Liz ll Business n Charleston 960.

New café in Marlinton is already busy

by Pam Pritt

If you like the food here and want the recipe so you can prepare it yourself, forget it. This chef doesn't tell.

Chef George Murphy, of Renicks Valley, has recently opened the Country Roads Café in downtown Marlinton where the old Poolroom once served Marlinton's best hot dog.

It's no secret he likes the people he serves or the food he prepares. But some of the recipes he has developed over the last ten years are not for public consumption.

"If a really good customer needs a hand with something, I'll help out," said Murphy, "but some of these recipes are copyrighted."

Murphy boasts that everything he prepares is on-site. The bread, from biscuits to dinner rolls, and salad dressings are all made in the small kitchen opposite the lunch counter and booths.

The dining room will seat about 100 at its booths and tables, usually bedecked with fresh flowers. And on weekends, local talent has provided entertainment for the cafés customers.

The menu boasts items from several countries and Murphy claims that once the restaurant got started, "People are depending on the low prices and large portions."

Murphy, a certified chef with the Hotel Hershey in Pennsylvania, said in an interview Wednesday that he can't predict how much food the restaurant will need or how good business will be. "It's very busy and paying its own bills," the chef said. In fact, Murphy said, the restaurant has ten employees and is still hiring.

If Murphy himself can't predict the future of the restaurant, then his son, he says, certainly has a take on what's to come. "It's all going to be mine one day, so I'd better learn the ropes," George III told his dad.

Murphy has been in the restaurant business since he was sixteen. The Country Roads Café opened December 27.

IRS offers Problem Resolution Program

For taxpayers who feel they have reached the last straw in a chronic tax problem, the Internal Revenue Service suggests contacting their Problem Resolution Program (PRP) staff.

The Problem Resolution Officer, Patsy Helms, suggests taxpayers handle tax problems as soon as possible. Taxpayers should respond to notices quickly and try to resolve any problem through normal channels. PRP is designed to handle difficult situations that persist after attempts have been made to solve them.

When a taxpayer is suffering a significant hardship as a result of a Federal tax problem, a problem resolution officer can be helpful. A "significant hardship" could mean that the taxpayer is unable to keep a job, a home, or is unable to buy needed medication.

To contact the IRS Problem Resolution Office (PRO), call the IRS toll-free number 1-800-829-1040 and ask for the Problem Resolution Office or write to your local IRS office.

The Pocahontas Times
799-4973

Poc 30 Pl

play will be received, he speaks

Ellen Galford and Dotty Kellison to join WVMR Board of Directors

Ellen Galford of Buckeye and Dotty Kellison of Marlinton will become members of the Pocahontas Communications Cooperative WVMR Board of Directors at the annual meeting, on Sunday, March 6. They will serve three year terms, representing the people who donate in support of the station. The two were the only candidates to file for the office by the deadline, January 20. Last year six candidates contested the WVMR election.

Ellen Galford operates Hannah Insurance Agency and is affiliated with Country Nework/Pocahontas Realty. She feels that her twenty years business experience is her main qualification for the Board. "We need a radio station not only for entertainment but as an additional news source" Ellen said. "WVMR's role is to provide information to make the community aware."

Dotty Kellison, a former Sheriff of Pocahontas County who is currently employed by the Board of Education, served on the WVMR Board from 1981 to 1983. "I believe WVMR is important to everyone because it keeps us posted on a daily basis. And being in a remote area and a county of elderly citizens, WVMR provides daily weather, death notices, and a "mixed bag" of things that interest all citizens," Kellison said. "Also it is invaluable in times of emergencies; even in power outages if you have a battery operated radio you will still know what is happening."

Dotty feels the Board has an important role to play in the organization: "I think it is very important that WVMR has a continuing role in Pocahontas County and that Board members should work hard to see that WVMR is always available to continue its work in Pocahontas and surrounding counties."

During February one additional Board member will be selected to represent the WVMR volunteer workers. There are nine members in all, serving three year terms; each year one representative of the volunteers and two representatives of the donors are elected.

- - -

Small business counseling offered in Elkins

Free one to one counseling regarding small business issues will be offered by the Small Business Development Center (SBDC) in February throughout the state.

Small Business Development Specialist Liz Older will be available to counsel small business owners and those interested in starting small businesses. Possible topics for discussion include financing, licensing, tax requirements, recordkeeping, and more. Help will also be available to those interested in bidding on state contracts and to contractors interested in bonding assistance. Please call in advance for an appointment.

The location closest to Pocahontas County is:

Elkins Job Service Office 11 Randolph Street
Elkins WV 26241
Thursday, February 10, 9 a.m. and 3 p.m.
Thursday, February, 24, 9 a.m. and 3 p.m.
Phone, 637-0255

The SBDC, a division of the West Virginia Development Office, works in cooperation with colleges and universities to provide free business counseling and technical assistance at 11 locations statewide. Reasonable arrangements for persons with disabilities will be made, if requested at least two weeks in advance. Contact Liz Older at the Small Business Development Center in Charleston by calling (304) 558-2960.

For the past tw elected officials have deal of time looking f costs in our state which consumes one-third of 1% of budget. Think. On

New café i

by Pam P

If you like the want the recipe so y it yourself, forget doesn't tell.

Chef George Renicks Valley, opened the Country
downtown Marlinton
Poolroom once serv best hot dog.

It's no secret people he serves o prepares. But some he has developed o years are not consumption.

"If a really g needs a hand with help out," said Murp of these recipes are c

Murphy boasts t he prepares is on-si from biscuits to din salad dressings are a small kitchen oppos counter and booths.

The dining room 100 at its booths and bedecked with fresh on weekends, loca provided entertainme customers.

The menu boast several countries claims that once the started, "People are the low prices and lar

Murphy, a certifi
the Hotel Hershey in said in an interview W he can't predict how restaurant will need business will be. "It'
and paying its own bi said. In fact, Murph restaurant has ten emp still hiring.

If Murphy himself
the future of the restau

• Ammo oting Supplies - y Surplus ell • Trade Traders untersville 99-6279
clean, used guns like Terry Member S g ing
WV002417

Getting to know Seneca Mental Health

Durbin Manor is an eight bed facility for the elderly who are at least 60 years of age and are homeless or at risk of becoming homeless. It is owned and operated by Seneca Mental Health and sits in the heart of Durbin. The home is a four bedroom co-ed facility with two male and two female bedrooms with ample space for indoor and outdoor activities. The Manor is staffed 24 hours a day, seven days a week by eleven staff members who are fully trained to provide personal care, basic living skills, and other services as needed allowing the residents to continue to live in the community as normally as possible in a home-like atmosphere.

Durbin Manor is staffed by (back row) Barbara Ryder, Allen Lambert, Richard Mullenax, (middle) Laura Hoover, Gloria Morris, Connie Johnson, Debbie Lambert, group home manager; (front) Callie Hise, Connie Douglas, and Bertha Davis. Not pictured: Peggy Sapp and Phyllis Romine.

If you would like more information regarding Durbin Manor, please call 456-3399.

- - -

County rescue s

1993 R
Marlinton Fir

No. or Area	Type of Ca
1 A.	Structure F
1 C	Grass - Br
	Water Hea
6 A.	Extraction
6 A.	Extraction
	Alarm Ma Child Locke Tire Expl Search
63	Total Run

97 1/2 Hours Spe
850 Man Hours
5,407 Miles Trav
14,445 Miles Tr
5.2 Average Ma
2,400 Hours Spe
Total Loss

	Mut
Hillsboro	2
Frost	1
Shavers Fork

EMS 1
551 Runs 549 Patients
5 Assists To O
1.57 Calls per 13,947 Miles
2054 Total Ma 244 Transport
and

B-F-D Repo

Buster V
Chief, reporte calls by month department ar

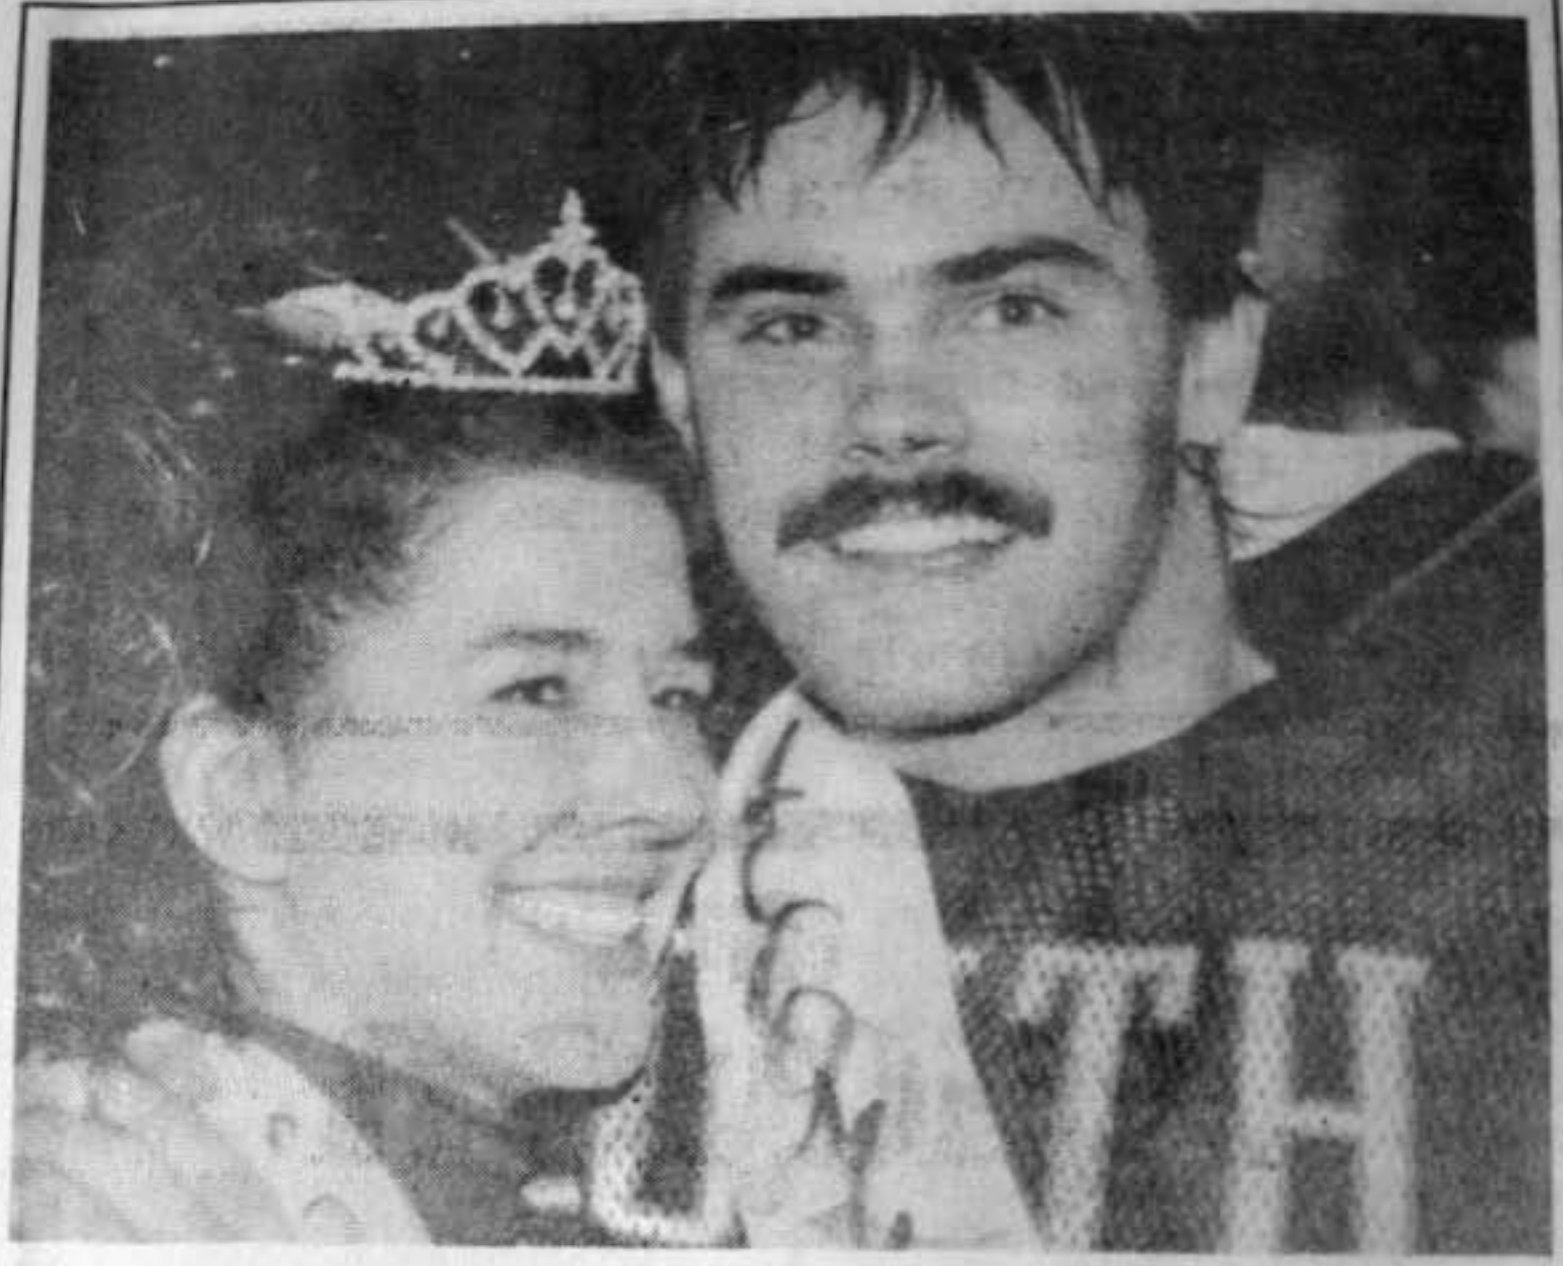
Miss Te

The time
1993 Miss



Jody Carmichael and Brian Beverage were selected as the Homecoming Queen and King at Parkersburg South High School on October 15, of last year. Brian is the son of Mark and Carolyn Beverage, and the grandson of Dick and Joann Eddy, of Marlinton.

Obituaries

Mrs. Catherine Cantrell

Mrs. Catherine Rossetta Cantrell, 74, of Ormond Beach, Florida, formerly of Charleston, died December 9, 1993, at home. She was the daughter of Forrest and Lillie McClure, of Marlinton, and a graduate of Marlinton High School. She was retired from the former Kanawha Valley Bank and Greenbrier County, he was the son of the late Boyce C. and Goldie North McClure. He was also preceded in death by a brother Normand McClure.

Surviving are three daughters, Sandra Maag, of Mountain Grove, Virginia, Sherrie Crisman and Tracy Bennett, of Boise, Idaho; two sons, Steven, of Mountain

CHEVROLET.

GEO.

Astro All-Wheel Drive Extended Passenger Van

94 Astro All-Wheel Drive Extended Van Features:

4-Wheel Anti-Lock Brakes (ABS)
4.3 Liter V6 Engine (Central Port Fuel Injection)
Air Conditioning
8 Passenger Seating AM-FM Cassette Tilt Wheel/Cruise Control Power Windows/Power Door Locks
Driver's Side Air Bag
Aluminum Wheels
White Letter Tires
Luggage Carrier

$376.44 per month

STICKER PRICE	$22,331.00
Rebate	$500.00
Trade In or Down Payment	$3,000.00
Amount to Finance	$18,831.00
Interest Rate 7.40% APR
60 Month Finance

Does not include tax, title, license or insurance.

The Most Dependable Longest Lasting Trucks.

Tim

JANUARY 27, 1994

ard of Education
rd of Education met for eting on Monday.
ntatives from the Extension Service et with the Board to ding for a second ent in the county for as explained to the nder the Extension
g formula this county wo agents providing vides an office and the agents and he salary for the Traditionally, the ssion has provided secretary and the amount.
years, however,
ms have forced the its contribution to ervice. This year, ount is $3,000. In the one-third
,200 is needed.
he Commission's t is about $5000 unt needed to he office. This local funding for vice was a factor ond agent, Linda transferring to a rier County. Ms.
en leading the akers and 4-H ers of the group, present 4-H eller and Beth he value of the

to the young unty and the g an extension responsibility e Board was in its 1994-95 nsion Service
ured that the considered but at the Board's mains tight.
y Thornwood act a pipeline oduction from r Pocahontas
d. Should the ion the school nancially since owned by the Forest Service s on the gas f this money ool system in Forest Service formula that ld assume so ages much

Philip Dean, Fred C. Burns, Jr., Pearl Smith, Hazel Wilfong and Margaret VanReenen watch as Thomas Barnisky raises the flags on the new flagpole at the Marlinton Elementary School.

MES gets new flagpole

Marlinton Elementary School's Business Partnership Committee hosted a reception at the school on December 16th for employees from Burns Motor Freight and members of the Ladies of the VFW. Burns Motor Freight was represented by Fred Burns, Jr., Sam Felton, Rhonda Withers, and Phillip Dean. The Ladies of the VFW were represented by Pearl Smith, Margaret VanReenan, and Hazel Wilfong. Tom Long, Superintendent of Schools, and Carolyn Burns, President of the Board of Education, were also in attendance.

Many organizations had helped in obtaining and installing the flags and flagpole for the school. Special recognition goes to Burns Motor Freight, Monongahela Power Company, the Marlinton Moose Lodge, the Ladies of the VFW and students from Marlinton Elementary School. When the flags were raised for the first time, all the students were present and the Pledge of Allegiance was said. It was a very heart warming event.

We hope the community enjoys our flags as much as we do.

- - -

Student New

Anne Coe receive degree in Counseling Services from Davis College in Decemb Previous degrees are Psychology & Human S an A. S. in Nursing.

Nancy Coe William from the State Univer York at Plattsburg in with a B.S. degree in C

John Coe finished h Mountain Managemen Mountain College,
Colorado, in Decembe

- - -

Conley In Se

Army Pfc. Donal has returned from dut in support of Operati Hope.

The on-going NA provides humanitaria Somali people in acco
United Nations Secur

Conley is the son
and Carolyn S.
Buckeye.

- - -

Krehbiel Earns Award

Stephen M. Kre Beltone Hearing A Central and Southwe has received the Pac

Spaghetti

Friday, Jan. 28
Marlinton Middl
School, 4:00 to 7

Adults $4.00
Children 12 & un
$2.00
Sponsored by M Boys Basketba (Carry outs availa

PCHS Schedule

Postcard from the New Arctic

by Pam Pritt

Global warming theorists were given pause last week when temperatures all over the eastern United States dropped well below zero.

Official temperatures here didn't break any records, but nearly all thermometers in Pocahontas County registered temperatures below -20°F on Wednesday morning. The official state record of -37°F recorded in Lewisburg in 1917 still stands after last week when the coldest official temperature was -33°F in Tyler County.

Unofficially, however, Plyler's in Bartow reported -40°F and Bill Buzzard on Beaver Creek reported -37°F.

Increased demand for electricity during the cold snap forced Monongahela Power Company, which serves most of Pocahontas County, to ask local businesses to shut down and residential customers to turn back thermostats and not use major appliances.

"We were faced with a situation where the Allegheny Power System's demand for electricity could have exceeded the amount it had available or could purchase for use," Benjamin H. Hayes, spokesperson for Mon Power, said in a press release. He continued that "voluntary conservation of electricity in significant amounts" afforded Mon Power to provide power to its customers without the rotation power interruptions the company used for a stand-by plan.

"All non-essential businesses and industries were asked to conserve electricity—and even close their doors if possible," the press release said.

As temperatures dipped to -22°F in Marlinton and -32°F in Durbin, Mon Power requested early Wednesday morning that Hanover Shoe Company and Howes Leather stop production.

Hanover sent employees home at 10:30 Wednesday morning and the plant spent the next day dormant, also. According to Plant Manager Tim Huffman, this is the first time that a Hanover plant has shut down to conserve power.

"If it helps the residences, we're all for it," Huffman said Wednesday, even though the closure request meant lost time and production for the shoe factory. He said that the plant in Franklin was also closed during the power crunch. Although both plants could have been back to work on Thursday, the decision to close had already been made. Huffman reported no problems at either plant when Hanover was able to go back into production Friday.

Howes Leather voluntarily shut down one day and lost another due to the sub-zero temperatures Thursday. Martha Burner, a spokesperson for Howes, said Monday that this was the first time she could remember the tannery closing at the request of the power company.

Sawmills were also affected by the non-essential cutback request. Beckwith Lumber Company in Slatyfork voluntarily shut down Wednesday since its fifty employees "couldn't work out in the cold," said mill owner Ralph Beckwith.

Beckwith said that on Thursday his employees returned to work producing their average 60,000 feet of lumber per day. Beckwith said that the winter weather had affected the mill's production which is now off by about 35%. The mill owner said that Beckwith Lumber will return to ten-hour work days when the temperature remains over 25° F. Temperatures below that make the job difficult.

Cramer Lumber Company in Marlinton also shut down last week, missing a shift and a half, according to Foreman Barry Clutter.

Snowshoe Mountain Resort shut down snow making machines to aid the possible power shortage. B. J. Hungate, Vice-President of Marketing at Snowshoe, said that the snowmaking machines were the big power users on the mountain. The eleven ski lifts, on the other hand, do not use much power, according to Hungate. "Shutting down the lifts was never discussed," Hungate said.

Mid-week skiing was down due to the severe cold, Hungate said, but the units were full. Some water pipes in a few condominiums froze, but other than that the resort experienced no other problems during the freezing weather. Now Snowshoe is experiencing a meltdown. "It's the muck and the yuck in the big thaw," Hungate said.

Bursting water pipes were the norm, not the exception, last week and another resort had its own problems.

Cass Scenic Railroad State Park's thirteen cabins were completely shut down by frozen water lines and according to Superintendent Stan Beaford, the crew is "still dealing with it."

Eight of the cabins had water Monday, Beaford said, and more guests were scheduled to arrive Wednesday. The superintendent said that the cabins were rented fairly consistently during the winter and the park had to cancel reservations for last week. Beaford also said a water line broke at the locomotive shop.

While not worrying about saving electricity, farmers had to worry about saving their animals.

At Pine Knot Farm in Hillsboro Stella Callison said that they watered their animals, "if we could." She said their tanks were frozen and she and her husband carried hot water to the barn to thaw the frozen spigots.

The Callisons' first set of lambs this year arrived Thursday night, after the worst of the freeze. They were born in the barn where the temperature had risen to 8°F. The lambs now reside in the farm house, Callison said, where her son Michael is enjoying them.

Minnehaha Springs farmer Dolan Irvine reported no loss of animals during the deep freeze even though two calves were born, luckily on piles of hay. Irvine said he was feeding one pet calf. "It's not much more trouble than usual," Irvine said. "It takes more time to feed and get around."

And on the Pleasant Valley Farm, Sam Gibson said, "It's been tough. You just have to work harder. The lambs born on Gibson's farm in Slaty Fork are doing well, he said. And his gravity spring system didn't freeze. "We're set up for bad weather," Gibson commented. "Now we're dealing with the mud."

As temperatures this week warm up to double digits on the other side of zero, power companies, manufacturers, resorts and farmers alike are breathing sighs of relief and listening to the rhythm of the rain. Let's hope it doesn't flood.

B-ville Veterans Home has openings

The Barboursville Veterans Home, West Virginia's only state-operated veterans home, has openings for honorably discharged men and women veterans from any period of service. They must be able to bathe, dress, feed themselves and attend the cafeteria for meals. Please phone the nearest Division of Veterans Affairs Field Office or phone the home at either 304-736-1027 or 1-800-452-0810 for more information.

Don

Donations Church, at Bo in memory of
and Mrs.
Cumberland, Mrs. William Maryland, M Bittle, LaVale
Vere Tracy, A

Donation
County Buil

In memory and Virginia Dorothea Mc and Isabel M
Emma Satter
Hazel Hamrick

In memory
Phillip A. Ryd
Assunta M. Ry

In memory Michael by Harper, Ever Hedrick, Ernest

In memory
by McClung & Robert "Chuck" Brownie "Bee" and Beth Ann C Nancy Lee Ri
Gutshall, Johnn
Walker, Charles Smith, Kathleen
L. Mallow, Wi
Patricia A. Mall and Kay Harpe
Merle Wimer, O
William H.
Cathleen Hoover Erskine

In memory of Christine Irvine

Donations ma
Lovelace, c/o Po
New Hospital Bu
8th Street, Marlint

36th An Highland Map
March 12-13, M

Mon
for

50 Years Ago In

The Pocahontas Times

World War II dominated the editorial and advertising content of the January 27, 1944, issue of The Pocahontas Times.

In addition to updates and letters from "Our Army and Navy Boys," the newspaper carried a front-page article promoting the sale of bonds for the Fourth War Loan. "I have no selling argument to present in this Fourth War Bond campaign which has not been presented before," Editor Cal Price wrote. "Buying bonds is patriotism; it is good business. They back the attack of those who have gone out to insure the retention of American liberties. They are the safest securities in this world; they pay interest."

At a meeting of the National Defense Committee of Pocahontas, Oley Jackson was appointed as county junk agent. "Mr. Jackson will devote his full time to the job of rounding up scrap paper, metals and what not, to get this vital war material back in circulation."

Grady L. Moore, who left his job as Clerk of the Circuit Court in 1942 to join the army, announced he was running for the post again in 1944. Cal Price wrote, "It is not at all likely that he will be back from the army in time to take his part in the primary campaign. So he will have to depend upon the activity of his friends to uphold his end of the contest." J.E. Hamrick also announced he would run for Circuit Clerk.

Fred C. Allen, the incumbent 12th district state senator from Pocahontas County, announced he would seek another term. W.O. Ruckman announced he would run for Sheriff, and incumbent Moody

Marlinton was showing "I Dood it" with Eleanor Powell and Red Skelton on Wednesday and Thursday. Friday and Saturday saw a double feature of "Nobody's Darling" and Tex Ritter's "Cheyene Roundup." Red Skelton appeared on the Alpine's screen again on Monday and Tuesday with Lucille Ball in "Du Barry Was A Lady."

The Durbin Theatre showed "Dixie" with Bing Crosby and Dorothy Lamour on Thursday in Durbin and Friday in Cass. Saturday was a double feature in Durbin of "Undercover Man" and "Prairie Chicken." In Cass on Monday and Durbin on Tuesday Charles Coburn and Margaret Chapman starred in "My Kingdom For A Cook," and the next Thursday in Durbin and Friday in Cass Humphrey Bogart came to the screen in "Action In The North Atlantic."

One classified ad stood out for its curiousness: "LOST—Liquor sales permit Number 012942. Finder please return to State Liquor Store."

G.D. McNeill advertised that a limited number of copies of his book "The Last Forest" were available at Royal Drug Store in Marlinton reduced from $2 to $1.50. In 1989 WVMR reprinted the book and copies are still for sale.

- - -

Affidavit, G notice to pari Episcopal Chur
19, 20, 21, Bloc to Glen E. and S Distributio Monongahela
Julian C. and S
Margaret Cass Faulknier, The Dunbrack, Her and Libby Bell Reuberta J. H
Arbogast, Harr Gum, and Leal
Vickie Lee Sm
A. and Angel
Jennifer L. Ry
Sharp, Tony Michael W. an L. and Tianna and Georgette and Lisa E. Ta
A. Gardner, Slatyfork Villa Trustee's
Richard A. P Mellon Ban Powderidge C Town of Cunningham, Town of McLaughlin,
Tower leas
Wise, Daniel Pocahontas C
Services Boa megahertz tele of Thomastow Bernard Beckwith Lu acres, Crooke Distrct.
Paul B.
Kinnison, 3.8
Little Levels D
William St Sandra K. Hah and Dorothy E of the World C Elk River Partnership

contest." J.E. Hamrick also announced he would run for Circuit Clerk.

Fred C. Allen, the incumbent 12th district state senator from Pocahontas County, announced he would seek another term. W.O. Ruckman announced he would run for Sheriff, and incumbent Moody Kincaid announced he would run again for County Clerk.

West Virginia Pulp & Paper Company's Wood Department in Covington, Virginia, ran a large advertisement to "All Our Boys All Over The World" from "The Folks Back Home." The letter in the ad said everyone who possibly could had gotten out with axe and saw. "It would do you good to see the way the truckloads of pulpwood are rolling into town," the ad said. Monongahela System's ad was headlined "American Electric Power Brings Peace Nearer."

On the homefront, Marvin Taylor killed a bear at Green Bank:

"On last Wednesday, the Galfords and the Taylors and other neighbors on Galford's Creek, up in Green Bank killed a good-sized bear. Marvin Taylor did the shooting: he took ten shots and landed in five of them. The bear was a three-year-old and fat.

"To begin at the beginning, six weeks ago during deer season, Robert Taylor found a bear track on the Alleghany, coming from the Virginia side and heading into the Gwinn Ridge somewhere. The weather was cold then, and they figured that the bear was going to his holing up place.

"One day last week, this bear's track was again found in the snow. He had been travelling around some through the snow that was from eighteen inches to two feet deep on the mountian.

"Last Tuesday there was a general rounding up of hunters and dogs. Wednesday morning the hunters came out in number of about fifteen and the dogs were eight. The dogs soon routed the bear out of his bed under a ledge of rocks. The bear made for the sale.

Helen Wilfong, of Hillsboro, sent in the following article which came from The Pocahontas Times for October 12, 1939.

Perry Townsend was up from Lobelia on business Saturday. He tells me he is a bit on the back ground, not having a hound dog to his name any more. He is one of the few men who have the distinction of having killed a bear with a rock. More than fifty years ago he was helping to herd a great band of cattle on the summer range on Williams River. One day he was standing on a high cliff near the Red Hole, and his dog jumped a chunk of a bear. The bear passed by the cliff on which Mr. Townsend was standing and he dropped a big rock on it. The stone landed right and put the bear out of business.

Tammy Wright, of Durbin, saw a robin January 9 and two on January 24. She says spring must be on its way.

Ferrell Kelley, of Clover Lick, saw robins on Sunday and a big flock of turkeys coming to the pines along the river on the Seneca State Park side.

Kinnison, 3.80 a Little Levels Dist
William Stepl
Sandra K. Hahne and Dorothy E. H of the World Co Elk River L Partnership, Company, Inc.
District, also

'Love I con

Just mad It's nev making pla
The Pocal Workshop Valentine' on the 12 restaurant sweethe followed play, "Lo the NR Reservati calling The On Feb Cafe in performanc their regul for this pe the door.

Both e light, delic bitterswee take the w February

NATA RESTAURA [Located in the

Friday: All You Can Eat Seafood Buffet
Shrimp, Perch and Much More Saturday: Prime Rib Feast

landed in five of
was a three-year-old and fat.

"To begin at the beginning, six weeks ago during deer season, Robert Taylor found a bear track on the Alleghany, coming from the Virginia side and heading into the Gwinn Ridge somewhere. The weather was cold then, and they figured that the bear was going to his holing up place.

"One day last week, this bear's track was again found in the snow. He had been travelling around some through the snow that was from eighteen inches to two feet deep on the mountian.

"Last Tuesday there was a general rounding up of hunters and dogs. Wednesday morning the hunters came out in number of about fifteen and the dogs were eight. The dogs soon routed the bear out of his bed under a ledge of rocks. The bear made for the Virginia side of the Alleghanies by way of Posten Ridge, the way he came in six weeks ago. It was a running fight with the dogs, for the bear knew better than to go up a tree. He caught one dog and bit it so badly it will probably die.

"After about three miles of running fight, the bear come to the Big Blind on Posten on the state line. Young Marvin Taylor was standing here, and whenever he could shoot without endangering a dog, he took the chance. The bear did make it to the state line only to fall dead on the Virginia side."

The Alpine Theatre in saw a robin January

January 24. She says spring must be on its way.

Ferrell Kelley, of Clover Lick, saw robins on Sunday and a big flock of turkeys coming to the pines along the river on the Seneca State Park side.

for this perfo
the door.

Both ev light, delici bittersweet take the wi February bl

NATA RESTAURAN [Located in the

Friday: All You Can Eat Seafood Buffet
Shrimp, Perch and Much More

Saturday: Prime Rib Feast

Lounge
Friday and Saturday Nig
Moonshine Expres

Super Bowl Part
Sunday, January 30

• Wide Screen Projection TV • First Hun
Door Eligible to Win $100 Given Awa Quarter • $1 Buys a Never Empty Cu beverages) • Hot Wings, Nachos and Lots

Rosewood Café

653-4335

Specials

Friday: Deep Fried Catfish, Baked Potato, Choice of Vegetable, Slaw and Roll $7.95

Saturday: All You Can Eat Steamed Crab Legs and Shrimp, Baked Potato, Choice of Vegetable, Tossed Salad and Hushpuppies

$13.95

Sunday: Ham Dinner, Mashed Potatoes and Gravy, Pintos or Green Beans, Tossed Salad and Roll $5.50

"Oh, no! The clocks are blinking again!"

People

Pocahontas County's newest dentist, Dr. Eric Snyder, his wife Ann and son Derek will move to the area in the next two months.

New Dentist Coming To County; Clinic Expanding

County residents may find it easier to greet spring with a smile when a new dentist begins practicing at the Deer Creek Clinic.

Eric Snyder, DDS, a 1993 WVU dentistry graduate, will join Dr. Tom Harper in Green Bank.

Dr. Snyder, 28, his wife Ann, 29, and their son Derek, 7, were in the county last week looking for a new place to live. Dr. Snyder said he has passed his boards and will begin practicing some time in March.

Originally from St. Marys, Dr. Snyder currently lives in Barrackville, and he said he hopes to stay in Pocahontas County for a long time. "This is where I want to be," he said. He also said he enjoys hunting and fishing.

Should people think he took the first associate to come along, Dr. Harper said he spent two years scrutinizing the WVU dentistry classes. "He's got good hands," Dr. Harper said.

Dr. Harper, who will have practiced at his Green Bank site for 20 years this summer, said he plans to build an addition to the Deer Creek Clinic that will double the building's size. Construction will begin as soon as the weather breaks.

With the addition and all new equipment, the clinic will be ready to serve the community with four doctors, Dr. Harper said. In addition to the dentists, Dr. John Sharp and Dr. John Eilers have medical offices at the clinic.

Visi

Robert Shar Texas, spent a parents, Herbert at Mill Point.

Charles and Topeka, Kansas with his brothe Walker Sharp, at

The Rev. Ri attending Sprunt Theological Richmond, Virgi

Mr. and M
returned to their h
the past weekend their home and radiators frozen.
at Graham's Mo
They had been i since before Chri
Morgan's leg prob

Euva R. Day visited her daughter-in-law, Webb, of Millers through the holid visited her gran family, William a and daughters, Nicole, 8, An Marriottsville, Mar granddaughter and
and Mike Overt Scheuyler, have mo
Maryland, after liv three years. Mrs. I of Georgene Cutlip

She sends us a s that regularly at services at Belingto Church. Socks, bl with four white feet Clinton's cat, was lef her family moved.
adopted by the staff Clinic. They built he shingled roof, lights, feeder, and a comf
Even with the new ho in the cold weather to services as usual, si regular pew.

Those coming from attend the funeral of G were: John S. Jones, Florida, Jina Robbins, Maryland, Lisa Bittle, Maryland, David Bittle
Travis, Roanoke, Virgi Bittle, Charlottesville, Steve Fancredi, Ba

be," he said. He also said he enjoys

Sharp and Dr. John Ehlers have medical offices at the clinic.

Two Go To Charleston

Two Pocahontas County High School juniors participated in the annual Miss West Virginia Fairs and Festivals Pageant at the Charleston Marriott and Civic Center on January 13, 14 and 15.

Miss Durbin Days, Mary Ann Carter, daughter of Janice Carter, of Boyer and Richard Carter, of Norristown, Pennsylvania, and Miss Pocahontas, Kelly Landis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Landis, of Marlinton, had a fun filled weekend while competing in three categories: costume, streetwear and evening gown.

They met many fine performers such as Connie Smith, The Van-Dells and The Vogues during the showcase performance.

Seminar teaches mushroom growing

A special conference will be held on Saturday, February 5th, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Pipestem State Park on growing Shiitake Mushrooms.

The cost of the conference is $30. You will learn all the tips on preparing the logs, inoculating them, soaking them, storing the logs and harvesting your crop.

If you need additional information, contact John Scott, Jr., West Virginia University Extension Service at 425-3079 or 487-1439; or Paul Goland at 358-2921.

Luis E. Sorian

Time

FEBRUARY 17, 1994

Engagements

Engagment

Richard and Patricia Thompson, of Green Bank, are very proud to announce the engagement of their daughter, Tanya Rene Thompson, to Mr. Paul F. Hicks, Jr., of Wheeling.

The bride-elect is a 1984 graduate of Pocahontas County High School and a 1988 graduate of Glenville State College with a B.A. Degree in Education. She is employed by the Pocahontas County Board of Education and is currently teaching fifth grade at Hillsboro Elementary school.

Her fiance is a 1984 graduate of Linsley Institute of Wheeling and a 1988 graduate of Virginia Military Institute with a B.S. Degree in Civil Engineering. He is currently employed by the West Virginia Division of Highways Department of Transportation as a Civil Engineer. He is also a captain in the Army Reserves.

The couple is planning a July second wedding at the Presbyterian Church of Hillsboro, and will reside near Wheeling.

- - -

Engagment

Mr. Tim McDaniels and Ms. Norma McDaniels, of Marlinton

Birthdays

Mrs. Hoover's 1st grade class at Green Bank Elementary School surprised custodian Rosie Slavens on her birthday with a cake they had decorated. Rosie and Danielle Holstine (whose birthday was the same day) served the cake. Rosie is very special and always has time for a hug or a smile for the children. Pictured with Rosie is Robert Turner. The children were as excited as Rosie was surprised.

- - -

Mrs. Horner's 96th Birthday

On February 6, 1994, a birthday dinner was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Neil Horner in honor of Mrs. Inez Horner's 96th birthday. All four of her children were present: Harry, Gertrude, Naomi and Neil.

Those present were: Harry and Violet Horner, of Baltimore, Maryland, Bedford and Gertrude Taylor, Rusty and Shawn Taylor, of Green Bank, Michael Carpenter, of Washington, D. C., Cheryl Long and Erica Cromer, of gements

nent icia Thompson, very proud to gement of their ne Thompson, Hicks, Jr., of

is a 1984
ontas County 1988 graduate ollege with a cation. She is Pocahontas
ication and is ifth grade at school.
4 graduate of heeling and a ginia Military egree in Civil

Birthdays

Mrs. Hoover's 1st grade class at Green Bank Elementary School surprised custodian Rosie Slavens on her birthday with a cake they had decorated. Rosie and Danielle Holstine (whose birthday was the same day) served the cake. Rosie is very special and always has time for a hug or a smile for the children. Pictured with Rosie is Robert Turner. The children were as excited as Rosie was surprised.

Mrs. Horner's 96th Birthday

Men

Pocahontas
Senior C
Lunch M
February

Thursday - Baked beans, corn puddi butter, apple, milk Friday - Meat potatoes, choice o
peas or kale, peach
Monday - Holi
Tuesday - C sandwich, corn pudding, milk Wednesday
w/onions, harvard potatoes, applesauc Thursday - Bake beans, stewed to biscuits, butter, mil Friday - Oven b o'brian, hominy, p milk
Monday - Pork c potatoes, green butter, baked apples

Peo

is a 1984 graduate of te of Wheeling and a of Virginia Military B.S. Degree in Civil
He is currently the West Virginia
ghways Department tion as a Civil also a captain in the s planning a July at the Presbyterian lsboro, and will ling.

gment Daniels and Ms.
ls, of Marlinton, a Matthews, of would like to agement of their Dawn, to Joseph Joe and Patty

1 graduate of y High School working in a.
3 graduate of High School nursing school

ings

iibson

Hefner family and wedding

- - -

Mrs. Horner's 96th Birthday

On February 6, 1994, a birthday dinner was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Neil Horner in honor of Mrs. Inez Horner's 96th birthday. All four of her children were present: Harry, Gertrude, Naomi and Neil.

Those present were: Harry and Violet Horner, of Baltimore, Maryland, Bedford and Gertrude Taylor, Rusty and Shawn Taylor, of Green Bank, Michael Carpenter, of Washington, D. C., Cheryl Long and Erica Cromer, of Arbovale, Naomi McQuain, of Dunmore, Terry Riggs, Justin and Lindsay Riggs, of Buckhannon, Pam Jefferies, Jessie and Jacob Jefferies, of Hinton, Doug and Jean Sharp, of Lahamsville, Brian and Denesa Sharp, of Culpeper, Virginia, Leslie Sharp, of Harrisonburg, Virginia, Robert and Tammy Kessel, of Moorefield, Neil Horner, Jr., of Charlottesville, Virginia, Hubert and Sharon Coulter, Dale and Barbara VanMeter, Daniel, Dale, Derrick and Darrel VanMeter, of Clintonville, Randy and Kathy Farley, Nathaniel and Ashley Farley and Karen Horner, of Fairlea, Phyllis Shirley, Samuel and Kristina Shirley, of Williamsburg, Jack and Diana Horner, Stewart Horner, of Green Bank, Cynthia Horner, of Elkins, and her sister Onedia Collins, of Bartow.

- - -

Local Youth Ag Youth Leaders Northern

Linda Simmon has been selected the British Counci Study Tour to from February 20
This study tour w to fifteen U.S. Y administrators w risk" youth or co or youth project levels.

The aim opportunity is to organizations, systems in North investigate youth special projects operation there, a dialogue and the e between U. S.
Ireland professiona

Hunter Education Classes

The Department of Natural Resources Law Enforcement Section will sponsor Hunter Education Courses as follows:

February 22, 23, 24, and 25, from 6 to 9 p. m., at Hillsboro Library; and,

Saturday, February 26, from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m., and Sunday, February 27, from 1 to 5 p. m., at the Durbin Fire House.

For further information and registration details, please contact D.N.R. Law Enforcement Section at French Creek, 1-924-6211.

- - -

National Forest Site Named to National Register of Historic Places

A prehistoric Indian camp on the West Virginia-Virginia line has been listed on the National Register of Historic Places, according to Monongahela National Forest archeologist Ruth Brinker. Stone tools were produced on the site from 5,000 to 1,000 years ago. The age of the site and the fact that it has not been disturbed by modern activities make the site an important one.

Located mostly in the Monongahela National Forest

River Trail Group Meets

The Greenbrier River Trail Association met February 8 at the Marlinton Hotel. Coordination of the improvements to the trail which will take place this summer was discussed. To be reviewed with the State at a March meeting will be placement of drinking water facilities, barricades, Clover Lick Depot restoration, and ideas for the next round of funding.

The stated date of May 1 for completion of FEMA repairs was discussed. As work is only completed to Buckeye, and will not resume until March 15, it was felt that this date was not realistic and the July 1 date seemed more reasonable.

River cleanup on April 9 sponsored by the Greenbrier River Watershed Association was discussed. Local groups will be asked to participate. The annual Great Greenbrier River Race April 28th will go from Anthony to Ronceverte this year, with coordination assisted by runner and bicycling groups in Greenbrier County.

Several in the group will attend a State-sponsored workshop at Pipestem on promoting bicycling from 3,000 to 1,000 years ago. The age of the site and the fact that it has not been disturbed by modern activities make the site an important one.

Located mostly in the Monongahela National Forest in Pocahontas County, the site stretches into the neighboring George Washington National Forest in Virginia.

Despite the age of the site it has a distinctly modern name. Archeologists name sites for some quality or characteristic of the area. Since Forest Service employees who first recorded the site saw a Jeep belonging to the George Washington National Forest in the area, they named the site GW Jeep.

"Heritage specialists hope to learn more about the first people in this area from the site," said Brinker. "We also hope to preserve the site for future generations by protecting it from modern impacts."

- - -

The New Elk River Catch and Release Trout Fishing Area

Trout anglers fishing Elk River in Randolph County this spring have a new catch and release trout fishing area, according to Don Phares, Assistant Chief of the DNR's Wildlife Resources Section.

The new special regulation area begins at the Elk Springs Trout Hatchery and extends downstream 2 miles to the Rose Run bridge just upstream of Whittaker Falls. The area is clearly marked by signs and regulations are posted along the stream. Access to this area is by secondary route 49 off of US route 15.

"This section of Elk River was selected because of good habitat, excellent water quality and the presence of stream-spawned brown trout," Phares said. "Initially hatchery trout will be stocked in this area. It is hoped that by protecting additional sexually bicycling groups in Greenbrier County.

Several in the group will attend a State-sponsored workshop at Pipestem on promoting bicycling in West Virginia.

For more information about the group's activities, write Greenbrier River Trail Association, Slatyfork WV 26291.

- - -

Annual Bear Dinner

The Williamsburg Community Action Group will hold the 31st annual Bear Dinner on Saturday, March 5, from 1 to 6 p.m. at the Williamsburg Elementary School. Nine bears were donated this year which is the largest number in recent history. Proceeds from the dinner will go towards the building of the new community building as well as other community projects. Membership in the Community Action Group include: Trout Community, Friars Hill Community, New Salem Church, Williamsburg Ruritian Club, Homemaker's Club, Senior Club, Fire Department, Volunteer Rescue Squad, PTO, Historical Club, Andrew Chapel Church, and Cornstalk Community.

The menu for the dinner includes: ham, brown beans, potatoes, slaw, corn, cornpone, bread, cakes, coffee, tea and milk. Free bear meat with every meal. The cost of the meal is $5 for adults, and $2.50 for children 12 and under.

Anyone wishing to contribute food, help, money or for more information may call Ellen McCoy at 645-6715.

The Williamsburg Community Action Group meets every third Monday of the month at 7:30 p.m. at the Williamsburg Firehouse. Everyone is welcome to attend the meetings.

- - -

begins at the Elk Springs Fish Hatchery and extends downstream 2 miles to the Rose Run bridge just upstream of Whittaker Falls. The area is clearly marked by signs and regulations are posted along the stream. Access to this area is by secondary route 49 off of US route 15.

"This section of Elk River was selected because of good habitat, excellent water quality and the presence of stream-spawned brown trout," Phares said. "Initially hatchery trout will be stocked in this area. It is hoped that by protecting additional sexually mature trout under these regulations that stream reproduction and annual fingerling trout stockings will be sufficient to support an excellent wild trout fishery."

Regulations for the Elk River Catch and Release Trout Fishing Area will be the same as for the other such areas already established in West Virginia. These include the following:

*Only artificial flies and lures made of metal, wood, feathers, hair or synthetic material may be used or possessed while fishing these areas.

*While single hook lures must be barbed, all multiple hook lures must be barbless.

*All fish caught must be released immediately and fishing is permitted only during daylight hours (one hour before sunrise to one hour after sunset).

- - -

Free bear meat with every meal. The cost of the meal is $5 for adults, and $2.50 for children 12 and under.

Anyone wishing to contribute food, help, money or for more information may call Ellen McCoy at 645-6715.

The Williamsburg Community Action Group meets every third Monday of the month at 7:30 p.m. at the Williamsburg Firehouse. Everyone is welcome to attend the meetings.

- - -

Deeds

Thomas K. and Susan E. Herold to West Virginia Department of Transportation, Division of Highways, three noncontrolled access rights of way and temporary construction easement.

MRS Condos Limited Liability Company to Robert K. and Doris E. Gillispie, Unit 5701 Lodge at Silver Creek, Green Bank District

Report of Joe C. Hereford, Trustee of Sale to Bankers Trust Company of California, Unit 5114 Powderidge Condominium Snowshoe

Robert and Betty J. Bunger to Terry D. and Belinda A. Smith, Lot 7, Riverfront Subdivision of Seneca Estates, Ltd. 1.08 acres

- - -

Radon is a deadly, radioactive gas which cannot be seen, tasted or smelled toll-free hotline
1-800-922-1255

Pocahontas's Matewan Massacre connection

by Rev. L. Roland Armstrong

A recent course in Appalachian Studies at West Virginia Wesleyan College gave me access to a very interesting and almost unknown fact about the history of Pocahontas County. This study also piqued my curiosity to a point, which prompted further research and study. As a result of my findings in this study I felt compelled to share what was uncovered with you, my fellow citizens of Pocahontas, past and present.

In May of 1920, an incident occurred in the town of Matewan in Mingo County which resulted in the death of two striking miners, Robert Mullins and Tot Tinsley. Seven Baldwin-Felts mine guards and Mayor Testerman were also killed. Three striking miners and a bystander were seriously wounded. Much of this was depicted in a movie called Matewan which was released a few years ago.

As a result of this battle, Sid Hatfield, (Two Gun Sid), Chief of Police of Matewan, and twenty-two other participants were indicted for the murder of the seven mine guards. The alleged killers and union leaders knew that unfriendly witnesses had to be silenced. In most cases, fear sealed their lips. With others, a simple warning was sufficient to convince them that they saw nothing. On January 28, 1921, (ironically seventy-three years to the day of when I began writing this paper), the first trial of those accused of the murder Albert Felts, a mine guard, began in the town of Williamson.

After nine weeks, regardless of eye witness testimony (by persons who had not been persuaded that they had seen nothing), the jury found them not guilty. The jurors, who had to return to their homes in the community, and whose life depended on a "not guilty vote" so voted.

Seven mine guards had died in the Massacre and the killers still faced six indictments for murder. However, it was common knowledge that any jury of Mingo county citizens would be afraid to convict them. Under the State's Constitution, only a defendant could ask for a change of venue.

talk about the incident.

Bill McNeel and Gibbs Kinderman were in Charleston later. They supplied me with copies of the articles pertaining to the trial from The Charleston Gazette and The (Huntington) Advertiser.

After surveying a photocopy of The Pocahontas Times August 21, 1921, I find the following persons were selected for jury duty in Mingo County: Paul Overholt, Otho Gum, Clark Young, Sterling McElwee, Harry Acord, A.W. Lightner, Gilbert Wade, Summers Galford, Marvin Dunbrack, Uriah Kramer, Auburn Friel, John H. Beverage, Clarence Jordan, W. H. VanReenan, Emory Adkison, Harry L. Byers, Austin Tallman, F. A. Snyder, Meade Arbogast, Jay Buckley, Ed M. Richardson, Ed C. Cogar, E. F. Curry, Strickler Hoover, Page Sutton, Egbert N. LaRue, I. R. Beard, J. P. Townsend, C. P. McNeill, Sandy Rose, J. P. Swisher, Miffin Gilmore, W. K. Good, U. S. Gilmore, A. E. Irvine, Sandy Aldridge, W. A. Brill, Luther Helmendollar, Forrest Malcomb, Fred Wade, Meade Curry, J. W. Kramer, Cecil Sheets, Frank Rock, Charley Ray, Sherman Moore, T. S. Dulany, Howard Buzzard, and Frank King.

Out ot these fifty, the following were chosen as the jury to try the case against Reese Chambers and Fred Burgruff, charged in the slaying of J. W. Furguson, a mine guard with Baldwin-Felts detective agency, in the Matewan battle of May 1920: Emory Adkison, a lumber inspector; Fred Wade, a farmer; Clark Young, a farmer; Uriah Kramer, a concrete bridge builder; Sandy Auldridge, a veterinarian and farmer; Gilbert Wade, a farmer and lumberman; A. W. Lightner, a blacksmith; Frank Moore, a farmer; Sterling McElwee, a farmer; C. P. McNeill, a farmer and truck-man; Cecil Sheets, a sawyer; and Frank Rock, a cook. Two alternates were also chosen.

There were others indicted in the slayings, but most were acquitted by postponement. Two of the alleged killers, Sid Hatfield and Ed Chambers citizens hang thir heads and vow to never speak of this again? I hope not. If you have any information about this trial and especially stories from your ancestors who were involved, I sure would like to hear from you. It is not every day Pocahontas County gets to impact the history of our state and nation like these folks did that September in 1921.

My thanks to Bill McNeel, Gibbs Kinderman and Amanda Armstrong for their help in researching and writing this paper.

My address is Rt. 1 Box 36, Philippi, WV 26416.

Sources: Blood Letting In Appalachia by Howard B. Lee McClain, Parsons, WV 1969; Life Work and Rebellion in The Coal Fields, David Alan Corbin University of Illinois press, 1981; The Charleston Gazette; The Advertiser; and The Pocahontas Times.

Legal Advertisements

NOTICE OF UNADMINISTERED ESTATE

Notice is hereby given that, there being only one beneficiary of the estate of JO CAMERON DILLEY, deceased, there will be no subdivision of said estate unless within ninety days demand for administration be made by a party in interest or an unpaid creditor.

Dated this 2nd day of February, 1994.
Carmella K. Combs
Clerk of the County Commission of Pocahontas County, West Virginia
By: Sandra Friel, Deputy

2-10-2

PUBLIC NOTICE
CORRECTIVE ACTION PLAN FOR PETROLEUM CONTAMINATED SITE

LUST NOTICE #: CN001-94
DATE OF NOTICE: February 17, 1994
NEWSPAPER: The Pocahontas Times

In response to a release of petroleum products from regulated tanks, the Leaking Underground Storage Tank (LUST) Section of the Division of Environmental Protection (DEP) has had a draft Corrective Action Plan (CAP) developed for the following site:

Johnny's Garage
Leak ID #: 92-37-L38
U.S. Route 219
Edray, WV

The CAP briefly describes the extent of the release and details the proposed eye witness testimony (by persons who had not been persuaded that they had seen nothing), the jury found them not guilty. The jurors, who had to return to their homes in the community, and whose life depended on a "not guilty vote" so voted.

Seven mine guards had died in the Massacre and the killers still faced six indictments for murder. However, it was common knowledge that any jury of Mingo county citizens would be afraid to convict them. Under the State's Constitution, only a defendant could ask for a change of venue. This was not going to happen. It appeared that the State was completely blocked from bringing the defendants to justice.

In January 1921, however, the Legislature enacted a general law which authorized a judge to summons a jury from another county whenever he deemed it necessary. Immediately, Judge R. Bailey, the Circuit Judge of Mingo County, ordered a jury from Pocahontas County to try the defendants.

On September 5, 1921, fifty men from Pocahontas County departed from Marlinton by train enroute to the town of Williamson. These brave citizens, chosen by Judge R. D. Bailey "for their honesty and integrity", would play a major part in shaping the history of West Virginia, and the history of mine conflict in the State. Twelve of them, and two alternates, would be chosen as the jury to try the men accused of killing six Baldwin-Felts mine guards in the Matewan Massacre. The story of the trial, perhaps the subject of a later paper, is a very interesting one indeed. What seems ironic, however, is that no one living in Pocahontas County in 1993 had any knowledge of this event ever happening.

I placed a call to the editor of The Pocahontas Times, Bill McNeel, and he began a search of the archives of the paper. He found some very interesting articles pertaining to the jurors, even the travel plans.

I had made a call to Williamson, and found no help at all. It seems that people there still don't want to farmer; Clark Young, a farmer; Uriah Kramer, a concrete bridge builder; Sandy Auldridge, a veterinarian and farmer; Gilbert Wade, a farmer and lumberman; A. W. Lightner, a blacksmith; Frank Moore, a farmer; Sterling McElwee, a farmer; C. P. McNeill, a farmer and truck-man; Cecil Sheets, a sawyer; and Frank Rock, a cook. Two alternates were also chosen.

There were others indicted in the slayings, but most were acquitted by postponement. Two of the alleged killers, Sid Hatfield and Ed Chambers, were gunned down in Welch on August 1, 1921, at the courthouse. They were on their way to be tried on a charge of shooting into the town of Mohawk.

The trial of Reese Chambers and Fred Burgruff lasted for about three weeks and ended in a hung jury.

When one reads history the accounts are usually influenced by the writer. The first account I read of this trial was in a book Blood Letting In Appalachia by Howard B. Lee (former Attorney General of West Virginia 1925-1933). In chapter eight, page 64, paragraph three, Lee states "It was the general opinion that the juror who voted not guilty had been bribed by an agent of the miner's union before he left Pocahontas County." To this I say "BULL". The Charleston Gazette, September 20, 1921 states "The jury of Pocahontas residents trying Fred Burgruff and Reese Chambers, who had been indicted on a charge of complicity in connection with the death of W. J. Ferguson, one of Seven Baldwin-Felts detectives slain in a gun fight in Matewan in May 1920, failed to agree and was discharged by trial Judge R. D. Bailey late today. From authoritative, but unofficial sources it was learned that the jury stood six to six for and against acquittal."

One thing still puzzles me about this whole story. Why was the apparent last word spoken of the great job those courageous citizens did, until now, a paragraph in The Pocahontas Times, September 9, 1921. "The jurors came back from the Mingo trial today. It was a case of a hung jury." Did these great

'Historically Speaking' will be Highland-Bath Radio Project's first local program

The new radio station for

PUBLIC NOTICE
CORRECTIVE ACTION PLAN FOR PETROLEUM CONTAMINATED SITE

LUST NOTICE #: CN001-94
DATE OF NOTICE: February 17, 1994
NEWSPAPER: The Pocahontas Times

In response to a release of petroleum products from regulated tanks, the Leaking Underground Storage Tank (LUST) Section of the Division of Environmental Protection (DEP) has had a draft Corrective Action Plan (CAP) developed for the following site:

Johnny's Garage
Leak ID #: 92-37-L38
U.S. Route 219
Edray, WV

The CAP briefly describes the extent of the release and details the proposed cleanup methods for contamination at the site. Copies of the CAP are available for public review at the following locations:

Office of Waste Management
1356 Hansford Street
Charleston, WV 25301
(304)558-5929
8:30 - 4:00 p.m.

DEP District III Office
P.O. Box 38
State Route 20 South
French Creek, WV 26218
(304)924-6211
8:30 - 4:00 p.m.

Interested parties may submit written comments during a 45-day period beginning Thursday, February 17 and ending Saturday, April 2.

Correspondence should include the name, address and telephone number of the writer. It also should include the leak ID number and a concise statement regarding the CAP. Comments and/or questions should be directed to:

DEP-Office of Waste Management
1356 Hansford Street
Charleston, WV 25301
Attention: Kenneth Davidson Information Specialist (304)558-5929

2-17-1

PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION OF WEST VIRGINIA CHARLESTON

CASE NO. 94-0035-E-42T
MONONGAHELA POWER COMPANY, a corporation.
Rule 42T tariff filing to increase electric rates and charges by 13.2% annually.

NOTICE OF FILING AND OPPORTUNITY TO INTERVENE

On January 18, 1994, Monongahela Power Company, a corporation, tendered for filing revised tariff sheets reflecting increased rates and charges of approximately $61,275,000 or 13.2% annually, for furnishing electric service to approximately 313,331 customers in the Counties of Barbour, Braxton, Brooke, Clahoun, Clay, Doddridge, Gilmer, Grant, Greenbrier, Hancock, Harrison, Jackson, Lewis, Marion, Mineral, Monongalia, Nicholas, Pendleton, Pleasants, Pocahontas, Preston, Randolph, Ritchie, Roane, Taylor, Tucker, Tyler, Upshur, Webster, Wetzel, Wirt and Wood, to become effective February 18, 1994.

By order entered January 26, 1994, the use of the requested rates and charges was suspended until 12:01 a.m., November 16, 1994, unless otherwise ordered by the Commission.

Persons or corporations wishing to participate in this proceeding, for the purpose other than filing a protest to the requested rate increase, must file a written petition to

Pocahontas's Matewan Massacre c

by Rev. L. Roland Armstrong

A recent course in Appalachian Studies at West Virginia Wesleyan College gave me access to a very interesting and almost unknown fact about the history of Pocahontas County. This study also piqued my curiosity to a point, which prompted further research and study. As a result of my findings in this study I felt compelled to share what was uncovered with you, my fellow citizens of Pocahontas, past and present.

In May of 1920, an incident occurred in the town of Matewan in Mingo County which resulted in the death of two striking miners, Robert Mullins and Tot Tinsley. Seven Baldwin-Felts mine guards and Mayor Testerman were also killed. Three striking miners and a bystander were seriously wounded. Much of this was depicted in a movie called Matewan which was released a few years ago.

As a result of this battle, Sid Hatfield, (Two Gun Sid), Chief of Police of Matewan, and twenty-two other participants were indicted for the murder of the seven mine guards. The alleged killers and union leaders knew that unfriendly witnesses had to be silenced. In most cases, fear sealed their lips. With others, a simple warning was sufficient to convince them that they saw nothing. On January 28, 1921, (ironically seventy-three years to the day of when I began talk about the incident.

Bill McNeel and Gibbs Kinderman were in Charleston later. They supplied me with copies of the articles pertaining to the trial from The Charleston Gazette and The (Huntington) Advertiser.

After surveying a photocopy of The Pocahontas Times August 21, 1921, I find the following persons were selected for jury duty in Mingo County: Paul Overholt, Otho Gum, Clark Young, Sterling McElwee, Harry Acord, A.W. Lightner, Gilbert Wade, Summers Galford, Marvin Dunbrack, Uriah Kramer, Auburn Friel, John H. Beverage, Clarence Jordan, W. H. VanReenan, Emory Adkison, Harry L. Byers, Austin Tallman, F. A. Snyder, Meade Arbogast, Jay Buckley, Ed M. Richardson, Ed C. Cogar, E. F. Curry, Strickler Hoover, Page Sutton, Egbert N. LaRue, I. R. Beard, J. P. Townsend, C. P. McNeill, Sandy Rose, J. P. Swisher, Miffin Gilmore, W. K. Good, U. S. Gilmore, A. E. Irvine, Sandy Aldridge, W. A. Brill, Luther Helmendollar, Forrest Malcomb, Fred Wade, Meade Curry, J. W. Kramer, Cecil Sheets, Frank Rock, Charley Ray, Sherman Moore, T. S. Dulany, Howard Buzzard, and Frank King.

Out ot these fifty, the following were chosen as the jury to try the case against Reese Chambers and Fred Burgruff, charged in the years to the day of when I began writing this paper), the first trial of those accused of the murder Albert Felts, a mine guard, began in the town of Williamson.

After nine weeks, regardless of eye witness testimony (by persons who had not been persuaded that they had seen nothing), the jury found them not guilty. The jurors, who had to return to their homes in the community, and whose life depended on a "not guilty vote" so voted.

Seven mine guards had died in the Massacre and the killers still faced six indictments for murder. However, it was common knowledge that any jury of Mingo county citizens would be afraid to convict them. Under the State's Constitution, only a defendant could ask for a change of venue. This was not going to happen. It appeared that the State was completely blocked from bringing the defendants to justice.

In January 1921, however, the Legislature enacted a general law which authorized a judge to summons a jury from another county whenever he deemed it necessary. Immediately, Judge R. Bailey, the Circuit Judge of Mingo County, ordered a jury from Pocahontas County to try the defendants.

On September 5, 1921, fifty men from Pocahontas County departed from Marlinton by train enroute to the town of Williamson. These brave citizens, chosen by Judge R. D. Bailey "for their honesty and integrity", would play a major part in shaping the history of West Virginia, and the history of mine conflict in the State. Twelve of them, and two alternates, would be chosen as the jury to try the men accused of killing six Baldwin-Felts

State against Reese Chambers and Fred Burgruff, charged in the slaying of J. W. Furguson, a mine guard with Baldwin-Felts detective agency, in the Matewan battle of May 1920: Emory Adkison, a lumber inspector; Fred Wade, a farmer; Clark Young, a farmer; Uriah Kramer, a concrete bridge builder; Sandy Auldridge, a veterinarian and farmer; Gilbert Wade, a farmer and lumberman; A. W. Lightner, a blacksmith; Frank Moore, a farmer; Sterling McElwee, a farmer; C. P. McNeill, a farmer and truck-man; Cecil Sheets, a sawyer; and Frank Rock, a cook. Two alternates were also chosen.

There were others indicted in the slayings, but most were acquitted by postponement. Two of the alleged killers, Sid Hatfield and Ed Chambers, were gunned down in Welch on August 1, 1921, at the courthouse. They were on their way to be tried on a charge of shooting into the town of Mohawk.

The trial of Reese Chambers and Fred Burgruff lasted for about three weeks and ended in a hung jury.

When one reads history the accounts are usually influenced by the writer. The first account I read of this trial was in a book Blood Letting In Appalachia by Howard B. Lee (former Attorney General of West Virginia 1925-1933). In chapter eight, page 64, paragraph three, Lee states "It was the general opinion that the juror who voted not guilty had been bribed by an agent of the miner's union before he left Pocahontas County." To this I say "BULL". The Charleston Gazette, September 20, 1921 states "The jury of Pocahontas residents trying Fred Burgruff and Reese Chambers, who had been indicted on a charge of complicity in

In January 1921, however, the Legislature enacted a general law which authorized a judge to summons a jury from another county whenever he deemed it necessary. Immediately, Judge R. Bailey, the Circuit Judge of Mingo County, ordered a jury from Pocahontas County to try the defendants.

On September 5, 1921, fifty men from Pocahontas County departed from Marlinton by train enroute to the town of Williamson. These brave citizens, chosen by Judge R. D. Bailey "for their honesty and integrity", would play a major part in shaping the history of West Virginia, and the history of mine conflict in the State. Twelve of them, and two alternates, would be chosen as the jury to try the men accused of killing six Baldwin-Felts mine guards in the Matewan Massacre. The story of the trial, perhaps the subject of a later paper, is a very interesting one indeed. What seems ironic, however, is that no one living in Pocahontas County in 1993 had any knowledge of this event ever happening.

I placed a call to the editor of The Pocahontas Times, Bill McNeel, and he began a search of the archives of the paper. He found some very interesting articles pertaining to the jurors, even the travel plans.

I had made a call to Williamson, and found no help at all. It seems that people there still don't want to

The trial of Reese Chambers and Fred Burgruff lasted for about three weeks and ended in a hung jury.

When one reads history the accounts are usually influenced by the writer. The first account I read of this trial was in a book Blood Letting In Appalachia by Howard B. Lee (former Attorney General of West Virginia 1925-1933). In chapter eight, page 64, paragraph three, Lee states "It was the general opinion that the juror who voted not guilty had been bribed by an agent of the miner's union before he left Pocahontas County." To this I say "BULL". The Charleston Gazette, September 20, 1921 states "The jury of Pocahontas residents trying Fred Burgruff and Reese Chambers, who had been indicted on a charge of complicity in connection with the death of W. J. Ferguson, one of Seven Baldwin-Felts detectives slain in a gun fight in Matewan in May 1920, failed to agree and was discharged by trial Judge R. D. Bailey late today. From authoritative, but unofficial sources it was learned that the jury stood six to six for and against acquittal."

One thing still puzzles me about this whole story. Why was the apparent last word spoken of the great job those courageous citizens did, until now, a paragraph in The Pocahontas Times, September 9, 1921. "The jurors came back from the Mingo trial today. It was a case of a hung jury." Did these great

'Historically Speaking' will be Highland-Bath Radio Project's first local program

The new radio stations for new Bath County station is on the Massacre connection

ent.
and Gibbs in Charleston l me with copies ining to the trial on Gazette and dvertiser.
a photocopy of mes August 21, lowing persons jury duty in Overholt, Otho ıng, Sterling Acord, A.W. ade, Summers ınbrack, Uriah
riel, John H.
Jordan, W. H.
ry Adkison,
in Tallman, F.
Arbogast, Jay
ıardson, Ed C. ry, Strickler on, Egbert N.
eard, J. P. cNeill, Sandy sher, Miffin Good, U. S. rvine, Sandy Brill, Luther est Malcomb, Curry, J. W. s, Frank Rock

citizens hang thir heads and vow to never speak of this again? I hope not. If you have any information about this trial and especially stories from your ancestors who were involved, I sure would like to hear from you. It is not every day Pocahontas County gets to impact the history of our state and nation like these folks did that September in 1921.

My thanks to Bill McNeel, Gibbs Kinderman and Amanda Armstrong for their help in researching and writing this paper.

My address is Rt. 1 Box 36, Philippi, WV 26416.

Sources: Blood Letting In Appalachia by Howard B. Lee McClain, Parsons, WV 1969; Life Work and Rebellion in The Coal Fields, David Alan Corbin University of Illinois press, 1981; The Charleston Gazette; The Advertiser; and The Pocahontas Times.

- - -

Legal Advertisements

BID
Sealed bids are being Frank-Durbin Volu Company for a we should include price for casing, as well specifics as may b will be accepted u 1994. They can b in Durbin on any to: BFD - Bids, P 26264.
2-10-5

NOTICE OF
I have befo Fiduciary of the E STELLA
Any person havin of such deceased beneficial interes me or the county within thirty day this notice, and re to a fiduciary confirmation of absence of such accounting may commission.
Given und of February, 199 Carmella K
Clerk of th
Pocahontas
By: Sandr
2-17-2

NOTICE O
I have bef Fiduciary of the EDWARD

The Times

JANUARY 13, 1994

Oleta Baker

ta Baker died Tuesday, y 11, 1994, at Pocahontas rial Hospital. She was a ne resident of Pocahontas ous Care Center.

tative arrangements are for ral services to be held at 11 Saturday at VanReenen Home.

- - -

Elbert Hull Cromer

rt Hull Cromer, 75, of e, died Thursday, January at Pocahontas Memorial after a long illness.

as a member of the Trinity Church.

son of the late George and Sarah Ann Collins he was born at Durbin 3, 1918.

ding him in death were a rt Wayne Cromer; a sister, Wanless; and three Edgar, Alfred and Earl ving him are his wife, rene Wanless Cromer; a Sandra Friel, of Buckeye; Alfred Lee Cromer, of e, Ohio; a sister, Emma Baltimore, Maryland; andchildren and eight dchildren.

es were held at 2 p. m. at VanReenen Funeral the Rev. Samuel Byler, l in the Gibson Cemetery

- - -

Paul A. Irvine

Adam Irvine, 77, of , died Thursday, January at Alleghany Regional Low Moor, Virginia.

s a retired plumber, an teran of World War II, f the Disabled American AARP, and Woodmen of born June 30, 1916, at near Marlinton. He was of the late Frank and Shinaberry Irvine. Also him in death was a sister, Alderman, and five Gale, Dale

Dr. John M. Mallow, Sr.

Dr. John M. Mallow, Sr., age 73, of Marlinton, died Wednesday, January 5, 1994, at Pocahontas Memorial Hospital after a short illness.

He was a dentist in Marlinton for 49 years. He attended Shepherd College and graduated third in his class from the University of Maryland, Baltimore College of Dental Surgery. He was a member of the National Honorary Dental Society, Omicron Kappa Upsilon, Odontological Honorary Society, American Dental Association, West Virginia Dental Association and Greenbrier Valley Dental Society.

Dr. Mallow was a 40 year member of Rotary International, a member of American Legion, Masonic Lodge, Marlinton Chamber of Commerce, Loyal Order of the Moose. He was a retired Colonel from the Army, having served in the Philippines during World War II.

He was a member of the Marlinton Presbyterian Church, having served as a Deacon and Elder.

He was born in Upper Tract September 9, 1920, the son of Olin and Sara Riggleman Mallow. His parents and one sister, Elaine Mallow, preceded him in death.

Surviving him are his wife, Anita E. Miller Mallow; a son, Dr. John M. Mallow, Jr., of Marlinton; a daughter, Anne M. Workman, of Barboursville; two brothers, Stanley and Morris Mallow, both of Upper Tract; three grandchildren, Bryan and Emily Workman and John Steven Mallow.

Funeral services were held at 2 p. m. Saturday, January 8, by the Rev. Richard Newkirk at the Marlinton Presbyterian Church, with burial in Mountain View Cemetery.

Memorial gifts may be made to the Pocahontas Memorial Hospital Building Fund.

- - -

W. O Ruckman

Ruckman, 96, formerly

RED WING SHOES® Made in Comfort and dependability trusted for RUG PROTE from pai
For safety toe water-repellen fit, wear and 4418 VISA MasterCard COME IN & SEE
C. J. Richa
Hardware and Furniture •

BIRTHS

Mr. and Mrs. Israel Shane Pritt of Marlinton, are proud to announce the birth of their first child, a son, Zachery Shane Pritt, born December 29, 1993, at 9:05 p.m. in the Davis Memorial, Elkins, Hospital weighing 5 pounds, 9 ounces. The mother is

POCA

Don Cather Gladys Mathe Vance, Smith

Miss Pocahontas 1994 Kelly Landis will be competing in Charleston for the title of Miss WV Association of Fairs and Festivals this weekend, January 14 & 15, during the annual convention held at the Civic Center.

Miss Landis is the daughter of Roy Lee and Susie Landis of Minnehaha Springs, and was crowned at the annual pageant held during Pioneer Days 1993. She will be competing with over 60 queens representing the various fairs and festivals from West Virginia.

Miss West Virginia Association of Fairs and Festivals 1994 will be the official hostess of the 1994 West Virginia State Fair. To be eligible to compete for this prestigious title, each girl must have entered and won the title of her local festival or fair. The new Miss Pocahontas 1994 will be crowned by Kelly on July 7, 1994. Miss Pocahontas is sponsored by her crowning festival, Pioneer Days in Pocahontas County.

- - -

Patricia Dunbrack Named

Winners

The winners of the prizes given away at C. J. Richardson's during Christmas were: VCR - Danny Cain; gun cabinet - Alfred Dilley vacuum - Jerry Duncan.

- - -

Birthdays

Card Shower

Mrs. Nettie Vance is beit honored with a card shower for h 101st birthday, which will be January 29, 1994. She is t mother of Ann Ware, of Marlinto Mrs. Vance's address is Rt. 3 B 68, Hurricane, WV 25526.

- - -

In Service

Beverage Completes Basic Training

Navy Seaman Recru Christopher C. Beverage, son Gary C. and Linda S. Beverage, Dunmore, recently completed bas training at Recruit Trainin Command, Great Lakes, Illinois.

During the cycle, recruits a taught general military subjec designed to prepare them for furth academic and on-the-job training one of the Navy's 85 occupation fields.

Studies include seamanshi close-order drill, naval history an first aid.

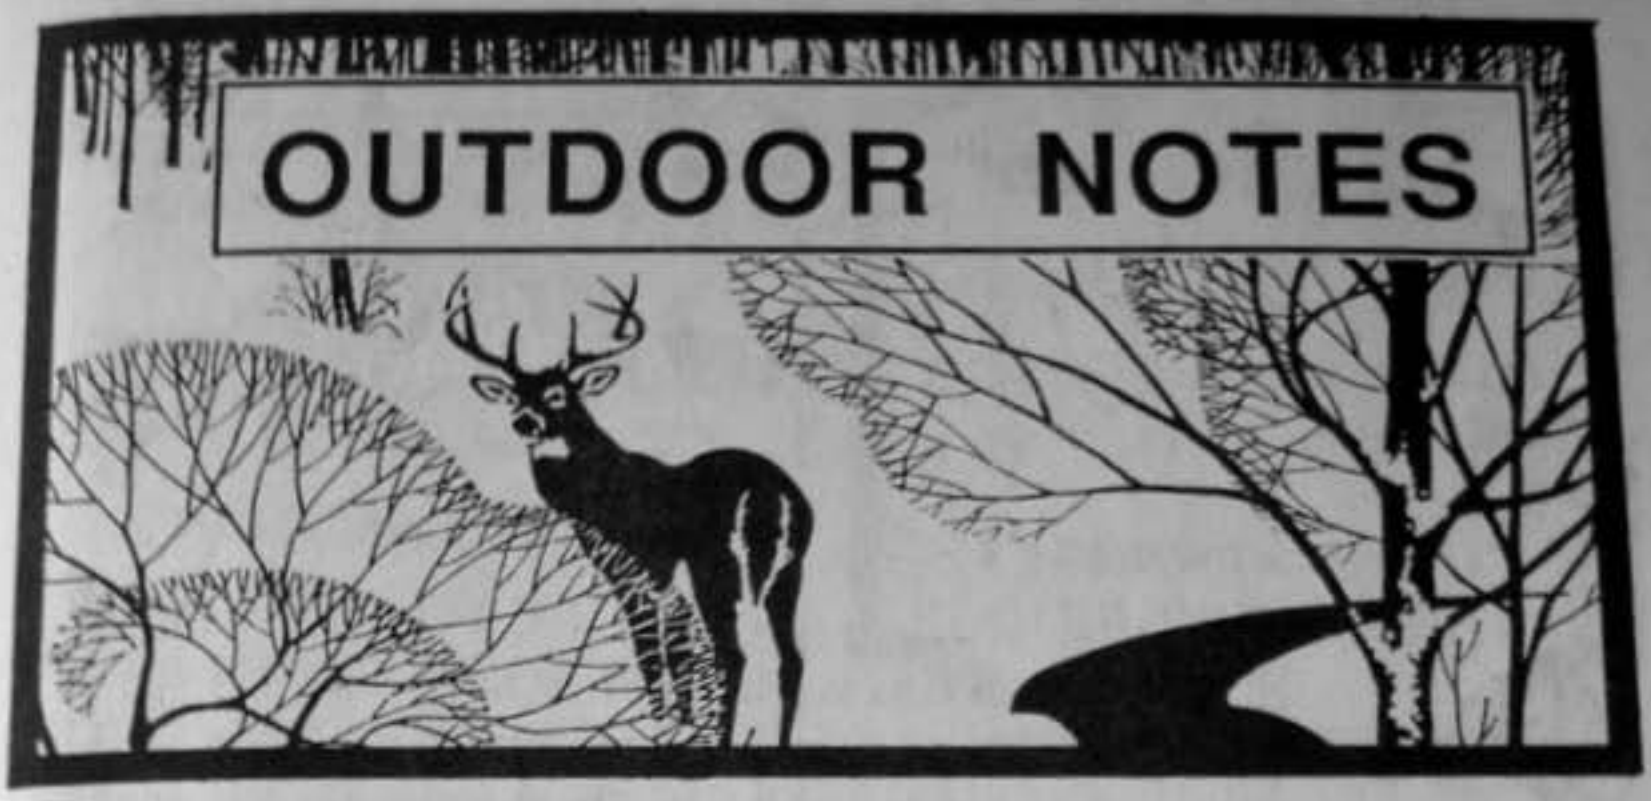
Although the Navy is gettin smaller, the state-of-the-art ships aircraft and high tech systems i today's fleet require bright, talente young men and women to operat them. The Navy has over 60,00 job openings this year, most o which include guaranteed training.

GREENBRIER VALLEY HOSPICE, INC. IS PLEASED TO WELCOME DR. WILLIAM BROWNING AS POCAHONTAS COUNTY MEDICAL DIRECTOR.

Dr. Browning graduated from Greenbrier East in 1972 and from West Virginia University in 1976. He attended the West Virginia School of Osteopathic Medicine, graduating in 1983 and following an internship at Parkview Hospital in Toledo, Ohio, entered into family practice at Richwood with Dr. Groves. After a year in Richwood, Dr. Browning settled into private practice in Pocahontas County. Dr. Browning is the son of William Browning, Sr. and Jane Browning of Lewisburg. He and his wife Pat have three children: Arianna, 14 years old, Billy, 12 years old, and Elizabeth, 9 years old.

As Hospice Medical Director, Dr. Browning serves as a resource to the nursing staff, hosts and attends patient care conferences monthly, assists the Hospice Care Team in meeting the patient's medical needs and is a liaison regarding hospice care within the local community. Greenbrier Valley Hospice, Inc., is a non-profit corporation serving the needs of patients who have a life-limiting illness in Greenbrier, Pocahontas and Monroe Counties since 1991. Greenbrier Valley Hospice provides home care with nurses, physicians, social workers, chaplains, nurses aides, therapists and grief support staff at no charge to patients or their families.

Dr. Browning volunteers his time for Hospice as a service to the community and is to be highly commended for his commitment to the well-being of the residents of Pocahontas County.



Wendy Perrone of the Three Rivers Raptor Rehabilitation Center gets ready to release the hawk that had been treated for a broken wing at the Center. The bird was found near Lone Tree Knob.

Injured Hawk Released After Treatment

A serious injury to a wild animal usually has only one result—the death of the animal. However, one Pocahontas County red-tailed hawk was luckier than most after bad shape are humanely put to sleep.

The Center is located near the town of Brooks, on land adjacent to the New River Gorge National River. The work of the Center is supported partially by member-

Injured Hawk Released After Treatment

A serious injury to a wild animal usually has only one result—the death of the animal. However, one Pocahontas County red-tailed hawk was luckier than most after suffering a broken wing in late November.

The bird was found by John Moore and his father Tom on the mountain below Lone Tree Knob near Marlinton. The bird showed its appreciation for being captured by sinking a claw into John's hand. Through information given by a conservation officer, the Moores made contact with the Three Rivers Raptor Center in Summers County. The center, operated by Wendy and Ron Perrone, provides veterinary and rehabilitative care to sick, orphaned and injured birds of prey.

The Perrones came to get the hawk found by the Moores and took it back to their facility for treatment. On Friday of last week the Perrones brought the recovered hawk back to the county to be released into its natural habitat.

The bird was released at the back of the Jerico Bed and Breakfast, below where it was found. Mrs. Perrone took the hawk from the box it was transported in and held it up. It stayed briefly in her hands and then flew off to a tree next to the B&B.

The Raptor Center began operation in 1990 with a two-fold mission. One is the care of birds of prey such as the hawk found by the Moores. The Perrones also care for herons at their facility.

The other mission is to educate and involve the public in natural resource conservation. They have environmental education programs that are taken to groups, schools and public events. A school program for grades 5-7 that will focus on the New River Gorge bad shape are humanely put to sleep.

The Center is located near the town of Brooks, on land adjacent to the New River Gorge National River. The work of the Center is supported partially by memberships. Memberships are $5 for students, $10 for individuals, $25 for families, $50 supporting and $100 patron. The address is HC 74, Box 299, Brooks, WV 25951, phone 466-4683. Visitors are welcome. Please call in advance to schedule a tour of the Center.

- - -

Bicycle Race Likely For Pocahontas County

West Virginia's only professional bicycle race will probably pass through Pocahontas County again this year.

Although the 1994 course for the Kmart West Virginia Classic stage race has not been finalized, tentative plans were announced Thursday in Charleston. The race will run from May 24 through 29.

This year's race, its third running, will start in Wheeling rather than Morgantown as it has the past two years, and Clarksburg will replace Huntington as a stage site.

Elkins and Beckley, both sites of circuit races last year, will be a major part of the race for the second straight year, the event's director said. A stage will also run through Lewisburg instead of White Sulphur Springs, director Steve Luciano said.

For the last two years, the stage of the race that passed through Pocahontas County finished in White Sulphur Springs. Assuming this year a stage begins in Elkins and finishes in Lewisburg, most of that stage's mileage would be in Pocahontas County.

flew off to a tree next to

The Raptor Center began operation in 1990 with a two-fold mission. One is the care of birds of prey such as the hawk found by the Moores. The Perrones also care for herons at their facility.

The other mission is to educate and involve the public in natural resource conservation. They have environmental education programs that are taken to groups, schools and public events. A school program for grades 5-7 that will focus on the New River Gorge ecosystem is being developed with a grant from the World Wildlife Fund. The program will have an emphasis on habitat protection and predator/prey relationships.

Out of the injured birds brought to the Center in the past three years, the average annual release rate has been 41%. The national average is about 33%. Birds that can be saved but cannot be released back into the wild due to a chronic condition are either kept at the Center as part of the education program or given to some reputable organization. The education birds also can act as surrogate parents to orphaned birds that come to the Center in the Spring. Birds in very straight year, the event's director said. A stage will also run through Lewisburg instead of White Sulphur Springs, director Steve Luciano said.

For the last two years, the stage of the race that passed through Pocahontas County finished in White Sulphur Springs. Assuming this year a stage begins in Elkins and finishes in Lewisburg, most of that stage's mileage would be in Pocahontas County.

Whether last year's winner, Lance Armstrong, will compete is still a question mark. In 1993 the Texas rider on the Motorola team won the Thrift Drug Classic in Pittsburgh, the CoreStates USPRO Championship in Philadelphia and the Kmart Classic to take the Thrift Drug Triple Crown, ostensibly worth $1,000,000. Actually, the $1,000,000 would have been paid out over 20 years, so Armstrong opted for a lump-sum payment of $600,000.

Armstrong later went on to win a stage of the Tour de France and the World Championship road race, all in his first year as a professional bicycle racer.

- - -

Country Roads Café
212 Eighth Street
Marlinton, WV 24954
799-7495
Sunday Buffet

program or given to some reputable organization. The education birds also can act as surrogate parents to orphaned birds that come to the Center in the Spring. Birds in very a stage of the Tour de France and the World Championship road race, all in his first year as a professional bicycle racer.

- - -

Country Roads Café

212 Eighth Street
Marlinton, WV 24954
799-7495

Sunday Buffet

11 am - 3 pm

Salad w/Dressings, Soup, Baked Ham w/Cherries Jubilee Sauce, Roast Sirloin of Beef, Lemon Buttered Fish, Brown
Rice Pilaf, Potatoes AuGratin, Creamed Sweet Peas,
Green Beans Almondine,
Succotash, Assorted Desserts

$5.95

Daily Lunch and Dinner Specials

Bright Christmas

The home of Mrs. Bertha Galford at Campbelltown was dressed in white Christmas lights. She was the winner of the Christmas lighting contest in the Marlinton area sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce.

Marlinton Church of God welcomes Dr. I.W. Morgan as new pastor

Dr. I. W. Morgan is the new pastor for the Marlinton Church of God on Beard Heights. Dr. Morgan and his wife Sallie arrived in the county late last month.

Rev. Morgan is a West Virginia native. He was born in Wyoming County and grew up in Logan. He has a Doctorate in Religious Education and has also earned a Master of Ministry in Christian Counseling, specializing with the family. He received his education from Lee College, in Cleveland, Tennessee, Trinity Theological Seminary, in Indiana, Bethany Theological Seminary, in Alabama, and Mennonite Theological Seminary and Azusa Pacific University, both in California.

A veteran, Rev. Morgan has served in both the Navy and Air Force.

Rev. Morgan began his work as a minister in June 1951 and has served his church as a pastor, teacher, evangelist and administrator. He was in California for ten years and five years in North Carolina. In West Virginia Rev. Morgan has served churches in Buckhannon, Moorefield and Moundsville.

He has membership in the Association of Professional Counselors and Therapists.

Mrs. Morgan is also a West Virginian, born and reared in Welch. They are the parents of three grown children. A son and a daughter live in Princeton. The Morgans have six grandchildren and two great-grandchildren, the second born only last week.

Rev. Morgan extends a welcome to all people, of whatever background, to come to the Marlinton Church of God.

Deeds

Head Start is tak

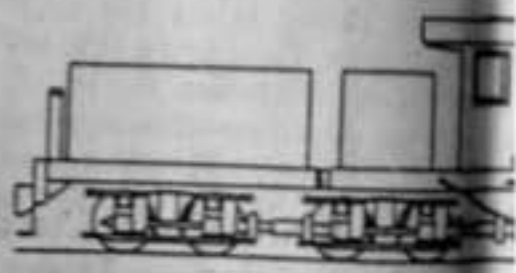
Dear Parents of Preschool Age Children:

This is to inform you of the Head Start Program available to your family in Pocahontas County.

Pocahontas Head Start is a Home Based program - which means a family educator comes to your home once a week and supports you as you teach your preschooler the skills she/he will need to be successful in life - and just Kindergarten. We will aid you in teaching socialization skills by providing a structured setting with other children their own age.

Head Start is a national, federally funded program whose purpose is to bring about a greater degree of social competency in children, particularly those in low income families. Ninety percent of our slots are mandated to be filled by families with income at or below the federal poverty guidelines.

In Pocahontas County, Head Start employs two Family Educators. Each is allowed a maximum of ten families with



SHAY LOCOMOTIVE, (

Cheat logging book

"Logging South Cheat," a history of the logging of the area surrounding the headwaters of the Shavers Fork of Cheat River, is now back in print. The book is by Dr. George H. Deike, of Cass, and was originally published in 1978. It has been out of print for a number of years.

The book gives a general overview of the extensive lumber operation begun by the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company in 1900. The main purpose of the operation was to supply pulp wood to the company's paper mill in Covington, Virginia. However, the large quanity of timber suitable for lumber caused WVP&P to establish a sawmill at Cass. The reached a peak in

Time

NOVEMBER 10, 1994

ELECTION

The Democrats regained control of the County Commission as Tuesday's election brought to an end the hard fought race for the Southern District position in that body. Democrat Joel Callison won a narrow victory over incumbent Republican Norman Alderman. According to unofficial results, Mr. Callison won by 91 votes, 1528 to 1437.

In the other election issue of strictly county interest, the special levy for renovations at Pocahontas County High School, voters turned it down by almost 2 to 1 margin. The unofficial vote was 1098 for and 2024 against. It was defeated in all 16 precincts.

County voters joined the other voters in the state and region in supporting Democrats. U. S. Senator Robert Byrd, Representative Nick Rahall, State Senator Walt Helmick, and Delegates Bill Proudfoot and Joe Martin all won re-election.

All three proposed amendments to the state constitution were defeated in the county, although on a state-wide basis, Amendments I and III won.

In the county 60% of the eligible voters came to the polls, a very good turn out for an election that was expected to have a low turnout of voters.

Complete unofficial returns are on page 9. The County Commission will meet on Monday at 9 am to canvass the results of the election. A potential problem the Commission will have to deal with is missing tally sheets from Precinct 10 (Marlinton). They may have been placed in the sealed envelopes with the ballots by mistake but that will not be known until Monday.

PARKS & RECREATION

Children 12 and under can get an early start on Christmas by making gifts for moms, dads, grandparents and others at Santa's Workshop, sponsored by Parks and Recreation. Workshops will be held at four locations across the county.

Dunmore Community Center— Monday, November 21, 9 a.m.-12 noon

Durbin Senior Center— Monday, November 21, 2 p.m.-5 p.m.

Hillsboro Library— Tuesday, November 22, 9:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m.

Marlinton Elementary— Wednesday, November 23, 9 a.m.-12 noon.

Cost of the workshop is $1 per child. For more information, call 799-7386.

PCHS Senior Yearbook Ads

The PCHS yearbook staff is now accepting personal ads in the 1995 yearbook for Seniors. You can write a short message and submit a small picture if you wish.

Forms were given to Seniors, but if you don't have one, just write you message on plain paper and send it, along with $12, to Mrs. Rhea at PCHS.

- - -

Eagles Football Banquet Covered Dish Dinner

The Banquet for the Eagles Football players and cheerleaders will be held Sunday, November 13, at 1:30 p.m. at the Arbovale Community Center. This banquet is for players, cheerleaders, parents and their children only. Everyone needs to bring a covered dish. Meat, drinks and dessert will be

Job Service names Hanover Shoe 1994 Employer of the Year

On October 5, Hanover Shoe Company in Marlinton was presented with the 1994 Outstanding Employer of the Year Award by the West Virginia Job Service Employer Committee at the Annual JSEC Meeting held in Canaan Valley. This is the second year in a row that HSC in Marlinton has been the recipient of this prestigious award.

The Outstanding Employer of the Year Award recognizes employers who have implemented special or innovative activities in the areas of Total Quality Management, Business/Education Link, Labor/Management Cooperation, and Improving Employee Benefits to name a few.

Accepting the award on behalf of the company was Melinda Gibson, Quality Assurance Manager. Also attending the banquet was Ruth Smith, Education Coordinator for the Marlinton Plant.

Hanover expresses its appreciation to Betty Carola and John Gherman of the Ronceverte Job Service for the nomination and for their continued support through the ever-changing and often difficult economic times facing the manufacturing industry today.

Special appreciation goes out to the hard working, dedicated employees who make up Hanover Shoe Company in Marlinton, without whose support and cooperation our goals could not be realized. It is to them that this award truly belongs.

Birthdays

Visiting

Jim Kershner and wife, Virginia, of Titusville, Florida

Local Artist Wins A

For two years in a Hoover, owner of A Glass, has received a b for outstanding jewelry ribbons were awarde Greenbrier Federated Clubs of White Sulphur their 26th annual Arts Festival.

In March, Patti was finalists chosen to c international competiti Gemini Award in jewel
Her entry was a necklac lapis lazuli featuring a b centerpiece.

Pocahontas County Graduate Plays Hav College Women's Vo

A National Merit Fi former varsity volleyball Pocahontas County Hig Joanna Burt-Kinderm selected for the Haverfor women's varsity volleyba first year student, Joan daughter of Gibbs Kinde Susan Burt, of Mill Point.

At Pocahontas Coun
School she played volleyball, was membe marching and trumpet con and performed in the drama program.

Jcanna played on a F that, despite a disappoint season, will continue playi competitive Centennial C and looks forward to a s future.

Located 10 miles ou
Philadelphia in Ha Pennsylvania, Haverford C one of the nation's leadin arts colleges.

A New Voice at WV

WVMR news has a ne
It's that of Reta Jackson who recently began wor station's main reporter.
Pocahontas native, is the
of Robert and Freda Jac Brownsburg. A graduate o Reta was selected outstanding woman i graduating class at Berea C Kentucky, where she sociology major and also s president of the senior cla then took a year of gradua

Youth Sports

Senior Players Recognized

Before the start of the basketball game on Monday with Webster Springs, the Senior members of the team and their parents were honored. This was the last home game for the 1994 girls basketball season.

L-R: Laura Simmons and her parents, Larry and Sandy Simmons; Janice Carter, mother of Mary Ann Carter, who is in Kansas City for the FFA Convention this week; and Rachel Sheets and her parents, Robert and Elaine Sheets.

- - -

High School Girls' Basketball

T. Valley 80, Pocahontas 48

Class A No. 6 Tygarts Valley rolled over Pocahontas last Tuesday, November 1, in Mill Creek.

Trailing Tygarts Valley 15-8 at the end of the first quarter, the Lady Warriors never recovered. Tygarts Valley's lead climbed to nine at the half, 27-18, and 30 by the end of the third quarter 61-31.

Crystal McCarty scored a team

Marlinton Vikings Banquet Held

Approximately 280 Vikings players, cheerleaders and fans descended upon Pocahontas County High School on Sunday, November 6, for their annual awards banquet. A delicious meal was enjoyed by all.

The 11 cheerleaders and 46 players received individual trophies and service bars. The following also received specialty trophies.

for cotton tail quail opens 11. The limit
, 35 a season;
40 a season;
season. The and turkeys
; on grouse

she bear with on Williams Deadwater, off of any or two ago other young p Williams ome for the
the Big Slip ld she bear
s. The boys the mother trees. She n and the put her to her. That ut turn her ow up for unaway in e discreet

ut a week l a young ga, were ey had a rifle and ge was on dogs.
the dogs
to bark.
ack, and of it.
he dogs animal . They
r and would rashed rs into the leg on the time to is great tried to th but . Then apped of the

for the 1994 girls basketball season.

L-R: Laura Simmons and her parents, Larry and Sandy Simmons; Janice Carter, mother of Mary Ann Carter, who is in Kansas City for the FFA Convention this week; and Rachel Sheets and her parents, Robert and Elaine Sheets.

High School Girls' Basketball

T. Valley 80, Pocahontas 48

Class A No. 6 Tygarts Valley rolled over Pocahontas last Tuesday, November 1, in Mill Creek.

Trailing Tygarts Valley 15-8 at the end of the first quarter, the Lady Warriors never recovered. Tygarts Valley's lead climbed to nine at the half, 27-18, and 30 by the end of the third quarter 61-31.

Crystal McCarty scored a team-high 14 points for Pocahontas while Mandy Snyder added 12 for the Lady Warriors.

The Pocahontas County junior varsity fell to the Tygarts Valley JV squad 52-46.

Pocahontas 57, G. West 51

Pocahontas rebounded from its loss to Tygarts Valley with a 57-51 win over host Greenbrier West on Thursday.

Pocahontas took a two-point lead in the first quarter, 15-13, but Greenbrier West didn't let the Lady Warriors pull any further away during a 10-10 second quarter or a 13-13 third quarter. The Lady Warriors then cemented the win with a 19-15 fourth quarter.

Laura Calhoun dropped in 23 points for Pocahontas, and Mary Ann Carter scored 14 for the Lady Warriors, who improved their record to 6-10.

Girls Basketball

Webster County 67 - PCHS 46

Webster County defeated PCHS on Monday by a 67-46 score but the Warriors played a good game against one of the top ranked teams in the state. The PCHS girls led for a time in the first quarter and the

Marlinton Vikings Banquet Held

Approximately 280 Vikings players, cheerleaders and fans descended upon Pocahontas County High School on Sunday, November 6, for their annual awards banquet. A delicious meal was enjoyed by all.

The 11 cheerleaders and 46 players received individual trophies and service bars. The following also received specialty trophies.

A Team - Offensive most valuable player, Joe Rider; Defensive most valuable player, Leo Cain; Football for most years of service, (7), Jared Cain; Outstanding offensive lineman, Jamie Burgess; Outstanding defensive lineman, Curtis Phillips; Outstanding offensive back, Darron Enderby; Outstanding defensive back, Bradley Sewell; Big Heart award, Daniel Marrs

B Team - Outstanding back, Alan Ryder; Outstanding lineman, Dewey Burr; Big Heart award, Jeremiah Marrs

C Team - Outstanding back, Josh Kramer; Outstanding lineman, Lacy Crookshanks; Big Heart award, Devin McCoy

All coaches and cheerleader sponsors received gifts, 15 parents got "Above and Beyond" awards, and Susie and Roy Lee Landis were presented with a plaque for their unending dedication to midget football.

The Vikings again express sincere gratitude to the many individuals, businesses, and organizations who contributed to their banquet as well as to their successful season.

Frida Saturday
o

Three PCHS FFA teams tops in State

Left to Right: The #1 State FFA Floriculture Team, Mike Burns, Advisor, Samuel Jackson, David Armstrong, Mary K. Pennington, Beverly Gragg, Steven Bland, Advisor.

Left to Right: 1st State Forestry Team, Mike Burns, Advisor, Chris Taylor, Jamie Warner, Johnnie Boggs, Travis Warner, Steve Bland, Advisor.

Left to Right: The #1 State FFA Judging Team, Mike Burns, Advisor, Andrea Kinnison, Amy Knicely, Chris Rush, Mary Ann Carter, Steven Bland, Advisor.

Left to Right: Mike Burns, Advisor, Mary K. Pennington, [illegible]

FFA Teams To Compete in National Events

Members of the Pocahontas County Floriculture Team and the Pocahontas County Poultry Team will compete in National Floriculture and Poultry events in Kansas City, Missouri, during the National FFA Convention.

Members of the Poultry team are Amy Knicely, Andrea Kinnsion, Chris Rush and Mary Ann Carter. The team is coached by Steve Bland.

Students evaluate production, processing and merchandising phases of the poultry industry as well as identify various parts and apply sound management practices. Contestants evaluate live birds, present oral reasons and place a class of ready-to cook-broilers.

In the processing and merchandising phase of the event, students will judge and grade ready-to-cook turkeys, breaded chicken patties, cartons of eggs; identifying broiler parts; and grading broiler parts.

The poultry event is co-sponsored by American Proteins, Inc. and Sanofi Animal Health, Inc. as a special project of the National FFA Foundation.

Members of the Floriculture team are Sam Jackson, David Armstrong and Mary K. Pennington. The team is coached by Steve Bland.

The floriculture event is comprised of four parts. Students [illegible] asked to identify plants and make pertinent decisions in solving the day-to-day problems that occur in any part of the floriculture industry. They are also tested on their general knowledge through an exam. Skill activities are one of the best ways students can showcase what they've learned in their high school agricultural education classes.

The floriculture event is co-sponsored by American Floral Endowment; George J. Ball, Inc.; and Grace-Sierra as a special project of the National FFA Foundation. It is one of 17 national competitive events held each year at the national FFA convention. Special scholarships are sponsored by Syn Company for top winners.

FFA is a national organization of 423,109 members preparing for leadership and careers in the science, business and technology of agriculture. The organization has 7,238 local chapters located throughout the United States, Puerto Rico, Guam and the Virgin Islands. FFA's mission is to make a positive difference in the lives of students by developing their potential for premier leadership, personal growth and career success through agricultural education. Local, state and national activities and award programs provide opportunities for students to apply knowledge and skills learned in the classroom.

Left to Right: The #1 State FFA Floriculture Team, Mike Burns, Advisor, Samuel Jackson, David Armstrong, Mary K. Pennington, Beverly Gragg, Steven Bland, Advisor.

Left to Right: The #1 State FFA Judging Team, Mike Burns, Advisor, Andrea Kinnison, Amy Knicely, Chris Rush, Mary Ann Carter, Steven Bland, Advisor.

Left to Right: Mike Burns, Advisor, Mary K. Pennington, #1 Individual State FFA Floriculture Contest, Steven Bland Advisor.

Left to Right: Mike Burns, Advisor, Johnnie Boggs, 1st Individual State Forestry Contest, Steven Bland, Advisor.

FFA teams tops i[illegible]tate

are Team, Mike Armstrong, Mary nd, Advisor.

Left to Right: 1st State Forestry Team, Mike Burns, Advisor, Chris Taylor, Jamie Warner, Johnnie Boggs, Travis Warner, Steve Bland, Advisor.

Team, Mike nicely, Chris er.

FFA Teams To Compete in National Events

Members of the Pocahontas County Floriculture Team and the Pocahontas County Poultry Team will compete in National Floriculture and Poultry events in Kansas City, Missouri, during the National FFA Convention.

Members of the Poultry team are Amy Knicely, Andrea Kinnsion, Chris Rush and Mary Ann Carter. The team is coached by Steve Bland.

Students evaluate production, processing and merchandising phases of the poultry industry as well as identify various parts and apply sound management practices. Contestants evaluate live birds, present oral reasons and place a class of ready-to cook-broilers.

In the processing and merchandising phase of the event, students will judge and grade ready-to-cook turkeys, breaded chicken patties, cartons of eggs; identifying broiler parts; and grading broiler parts.

The poultry event is co-sponsored by American Proteins, Inc. and Sanofi Animal Health, Inc. as a special project of the National FFA Foundation.

Members of the Floriculture team are Sam Jackson, David Armstrong and Mary K[illegible]

are asked to identify plants and make pertinent decisions in solving the day-to-day problems that occur in any part of the floriculture industry. They are also tested on their general knowledge through an exam. Skill activities are one of the best ways students can showcase what they've learned in their high school agricultural education classes.

The floriculture event is co-sponsored by American Floral Endowment; George J. Ball, Inc.; and Grace-Sierra as a special project of the National FFA Foundation. It is one of 17 national competitive events held each year at the national FFA convention. Special scholarships are sponsored by Sun Company for top winners.

FFA is a national organization of 428,109 members preparing for leadership and careers in the science, business and technology of agriculture. The organization has 7,238 local chapters located throughout the United States, Puerto Rico, Guam and the Virgin Islands. FFA's mission is to make a positive difference in the lives of students by developing their potential for premier leadership, personal growth and career success through agricultural education. Local, state and national activities

GB stude

Students at Elementary Schoo of National Fire
by reviewing pre and learning abou roll," fire escape detectors. Some st

Left to Right: Mike Burns, Advisor, Johnnie Boggs, 1st Individual State Forestry Contest, Steven Bland, Advisor.

The Pocahontas FFA Chapter traveled to Morgantown in early October to compete in state judging contests of different types. Ten different teams were taken to compete three of which won first place. The ten teams taken competed in Dairy Cattle, Dairy Products, Poultry & Eggs, Agronomy, Entomology, Floriculture, Plant Pathology, Forestry, Agribusiness, and Agricultural Mechanics. The three that won first place at the state level were: Forestry, Poultry & Eggs, and Floriculture. These three teams will go on to compete nationally in Kansas City, Missouri, at the National FFA Convention on November 9 - 12. Of these three teams the individuals who competed and placed are: The Forestry team: Johnny Boggs, 1st, Chris Taylor, 2nd, Jamie Warren, 3rd, and Travis Warner, 4th; the Poultry & Egg team: Andrea Kinnison, 3rd, Mary Ann Carter, 4th, and Chris Rush, 5th; the Floriculture team: Mary Kate Pennington, 1st, David Armstrong, 4th, and Sam Jackson, 5th. Other teams and individuals who placed in the top ten were: Dairy Products: 4th as a team, Leticia Evans, 7th, individually, and Tara Rexrode, 9th; Agronomy, 4th as a team, Lonnie Perdue, 4th, and Seth Shinaberry, 8th; Entomology, 8th as a team, Jason Ulderich, 9th; Plant Pathology, 2nd as a team, Cassandra Hamilton, 2nd, Kathy Nutter, 8th, and Sherry Ryder, 9th; and Agribusiness, 2nd as a team, Sam Jackson, 5th, and David Armstrong, 8th.

As well as these teams winning, the Pocahontas FFA Chapter also won the Sweepstakes. The Sweepstakes is presented to the school with the overall highest percentage of judging.

Andrea Kinnison, Reporter
Pocahontas County FFA Chapter

- - -

Personalized Christmas Cards

Stop by and look at our large selection.

The Pocahontas Times
Second Ave., Marlinton

Nine

He's on He ride miles a champion he brings

Nine-got his fi a kid" an Now he and com often tha

Valac a prof professi like bei mountai

He's pals and Special Atlanta of 20 t season compe Road (NOR junior

Va nervo plans pre-ra there, the fir
he fini

Nine-year-old is a top racer

by Pam Pritt

He's one energetic kid.

He rides his mountain bike 30 miles a day one season. He's a championship skier in another. And he brings home great grades.

Nine-year-old Mike Valach, Jr., got his first bike "when he was just a kid" and skied when he was two. Now he competes in both sports and comes home a winner more often than not.

Valach, of Snowshoe, trains like a professional, eats like a professional and sets high goals, like being a world champion in mountain biking.

He's "Baby Swiss" to his biking pals and his latest victory was in the Specialized Cactus Cup Race in Atlanta, Georgia. That race is one of 20 that Valach competes in per season. Next year he hopes to compete in the larger National Off Road Bicycle Association (NORBA) races and bump up to the junior division.

Valach admits to getting a little nervous before races, but said he plans strategies to get over those pre-race butterflies. Once he gets in there, though, nothing matters but the finish. In his most recent race he finished the last three miles on a flat tire, but he didn't finish last.

The younger Valach gives his dad, Mike, Sr., credit for helping him get ready to compete. "I beat my dad now," he said with a grin. His mom, Sharon, gets a plug for packing his low-fat lunches every day.

He is the state champion downhill racer in his age division. And to think he waited until he was four to ski Cupp Run, Snowshoe's famous mile-long slope that has a 1500 foot vertical drop.

Valach trains in the off season by working out on a LifeCycle and stairsteppers. And junk food is not on the menu at the Valach home, he said.

Snowshoe's trails, including a fire trail that goes to Bald Knob, compare favorably with other trails, Valach said.

Some kids his age want Nintendo. Others want sleds or puppies. Mike Valach wants hydraulic brakes.

Valach encourages other kids to enter the mountain bike racing forum; competition is not a problem.

"Whoever wants to get into competition with me," Valach proclaims, "Bring it on."

Senior N Novembe
Monday - Chees & onion slice, tato pears, milk
Tuesday - Grille sandwich, potato salad, dessert, milk Wednesday - buttered noodles homemade rolls, m Thursday - Chili
cheese, bread,
milk
Friday - Navy w onion, tossed sa cornbread, milk

HU
Sen Tues

Chi

•Rep
We c CAL

This Week on WVMR

Reunion Report

Tracy - Ervine Reunion

Across the miles, descendants of George and Mary A. Tracy and Edward and Polly Ervine travelled to the community center in Arbovale on September 10, for our 6th reunion in celebration of our common heritage.

As the guests enjoyed the refreshments, David Parmer, Secretary/Treasurer, was busy with the registration.

The morning program was led by co-chairpersons, Tina Robbins and Betty Lambert. Anna Lee T. Jerred served as pianist and her sister, Wanda Tacy, led the singing.

A lovely new custom of celebration of births and marriages was combined with our memorial service. Each of us shared in the joys and sorrows of our extended family since our last reunion.

This sixth reunion was dedicated to Glenn Tracy who founded the Tracy-Ervine Reunion in 1984. A remembrance table of his photos, writings and momentos was included in the family exhibits.

Betty Lambert presented a memorial to her aunt, Lila Orndorff. Together Lila and Glenn Tracy taught eighty-five years in the schools of Pocahontas County.

Marian and Bob Bittle gave an update on their continued search in the early history of George W. Tracy. Several families had brought new genealogy information.

Tina was proud to introduce the Tracy-Ervine cookbook which had been in the "Thinking Stage" for much too long. The cookbook was compiled and edited by Helen T. Lomas and produced by Tina Robbins and Lisa Bittle, Tancredi -. Without our family and friends, this collection of recipes would never have been completed.

A vote was taken to place the War of 1812 bronze marker for Edward Ervine at the burial site on the hill behind the home of Arlene and Hubert Rexrode in Pine Grove. Another memorial will be placed in the Pine Grove Cemetery for Polly and Edward. We feel it is fitting to remember one of the early leaders in our county as well as our ancestors.

Prizes were given to the following: Logan Bittle, youngest; Gustava Hiner, our senior citizen; the Warner and Thompson families, farthest, travelled from Florida.

Eugene once again managed to take the group picture - not an easy task at high noon. Phyllis Romaine prepared the reunion meal. Our 7th reunion will be held Labor Day Saturday, 1996, with the same officers presiding.

At the end of another gathering we quote from our new cookbook "Precious Reunions; Precious Memories."

News from the First National Bank

Pocahontas Cou out of the walls

by Pam Pritt

In this new age, ever g for ways to conserve resour maintain our environm Greenbrier County build found an alternative com across the Atlantic where r were depleted long ago.

Aerated concrete bloc developed in Germany intent of conserving products. Although the str the house is mainly lig concrete, wood products the ornamental touch in ac with the owner's tastes.

Florian Schlieff, of constructing two houses concrete, one in the Hills

Schlieff, who came t from Germany seven ye sold on the idea energy-conscious ap building new houses. "I good woods. I believ homes," Schlieff said si

The former engineer, who also ha said he liked to see the work . The blocks, h more energy efficient and cooling purposes a a few special tools. Sch only drawback he can that the blocks must ordered from Hebel Atlanta, meaning that a few blocks shy, it

MSR Condos Lin Company to Joyce C. L Silver Creek Lodge, Gre

Tinn

DECEMBER 15, 1994

Send address changes to

ontas Times

cond Avenue
n, WV 24954
04 799-4973

ry Thursday except eek of the year.
st Office at Marlinton, rginia 24954
l class matter.
0738-8373

TION CHARGES
nty, $11 a year plus tax
, $14 a year plus tax te, $16 a year

SING RATES
.00 per column inch
r word (15c if billed)

E McNEEL, Editor
EE, Managing Editor

C. 15, 1994

July 6-9, 1995

her reports from he thermometer s both Monday ings. The high On Sunday be h of snow. He s of rain on the ned Saturday, which opened

Navy Plane Hits Power Line in Pocahotnas County

by Reta Griffith, WVMR News

The power outage on November 23, the day before Thanksgiving, was caused by a Navy plane flying too close to a main line near the Thorny Creek power subdivision. Hugh Hitchcock, a representative of Monogahela Power, stated that on Wednesday morning Navy planes were in the area near the Greenbrier River Valley in Thorny Creek. One of the planes contacted the static wire above the main line and stretched it into two pieces. The static wire then fell onto the main line causing the electric current to short, fluctuating the power off and on in the Dunmore and Marlinton areas. Eventually the current shorted and became so hot that it triggered the Thorny Creek Power Subdivision to cut the current from the mainline. The power outage affected the Thorny Creek area and southern lines going toward the high school and the town of Marlinton including several of the surrounding areas.

Monongahela Power had been investigating the cause of the power outage since it occurred, but confirmation of an airplane contacting the wires was not obtained until Friday, December 9th. On Friday the Oceana Naval Air Base near Norfolk, Virginia, confirmed that a Navy A-6 Intruder from their base had contacted the power lines over the Greenbrier Valley.

Electricity was restored to the area after removing the damaged static wire on Wednesday afternoon, allowing plenty of time for holiday baking for

Circu

A number of cases were before Circuit Judge Charles Lobban when he was at Pocahontas County Circuit Court on Tuesday of last week.

George W. Mason, II, was sentenced to one year in the county jail and fined $1000 plus court costs on a larceny charge. The sentence was modified to four months in jail with work release Monday through Saturday, to be followed by 16 months probation.

Steven Kelly Bennett appeared before Judge Lobban and entered a plea of not guilty to two indictments for sexual assault. He was indicted on these charges by the October Grand Jury. A bond amount was set and trial date set for February 9.

Bennett also was in court for sentencing on 1993 indictments for sexual assault and malicious wounding. He previously entered guilty pleas to these charges and has been at Anthony Correctional Center. He was sentenced to one to five years in prison on each. The prison time was then suspended and Bennett was placed on 18 months probation under a number of conditions.

Bennett remains in jail in lieu of bond.

A February 10th trial date was set for John W. Casto. He was indicted by the June Grand Jury for burglary and grand larceny.

Bruce A. Cook appeared for arraignment on his indictment for escape from the custody of the Commissioner of Corrections. He entered a plea of not guilty and a defense motion for a continuance to the next term of court was granted. Cook is incarcerated at on September 18.

Mrs. Jordan was nominated by the Marlinton Middle School staff for her willingness to help out in church and community activities. Her cheerful smile and gentle nature are an asset to both our school and our community.

Student of the Month

The Pocahontas County Chapter of the National Honor Society has begun a Student of the Month program, beginning in December 1994. Up to four students will be honored each month by an article in the Times, a bulletin board display and possible other special awards.

Students are nominated by faculty members based on exceptional character, service, leadership or scholarship; improvement in classroom endeavors, attendance or attitude; or willingness to "go the extra mile."

NHS members instituted the program to provide an avenue for publicly praising fellow students for positive contributions to their education, school or community.

Leanna Alderman, a Pocahontas County High School Senior, was chosen as the NHS student of the Month. Her achievements and activities include: National Merit Semi-Finalist, WV Honor Roll, Woodlands Mountain Institute Scholars Academy, Know Your State Government Day, Bethany Foreign Language Festival winner in creative writing, drama and music, Essay published in WV Senior High Magazine, Member o the Science Club, Future Educator of America, French Honor Societ and National Honor Society.

School Personnel Association meet

The Pocahontas County School

was seconded by Hollis Ryde

Jordan named GEM of the Year

The GEM of the Year Award for the 1993-94 school year was presented to Corenia Jordan. The presentation was made by Jane Beverage, President of Pocahontas County School Service Personnel Association, at their annual picnic, on September 18.

Mrs. Jordan was nominated by the Marlinton Middle School staff for her willingness to help out in many ways at the school such as stapling newsletters, helping to prepare food for the ball teams before an away game and the personal interest she takes in the faculty and students of the school.

Corenia is also active in her church and community activities. Her cheerful smile and gentle nature are an asset to both our school and our community.

Student of the Month

Tim

OCTOBER 6, 1994

ssion ission met Monday.
k Jay Tibbs nission on t will go in 5. The end r work for
.
allow the e registrat-the Com-whether a er the new l become a citizen enged.
ave their registra-vote for a ns. The taken off moves or ion lists Clerk - ve, and xpense) ill be to l voters heck on mputer 1996 to he new

Dana ing he ick had e state Protec-at the P has ental
Mr. n the he site land ldings ng to t will waste

DROOP MOUNTAIN BATTLE REENACTMENT

Droop Mountain Battlefield State Park

Saturday, October 8
7 a.m.	Registration Open-Battlefield
8 a.m.	Reveille-camps
8:30 a.m.	Officers & NCO's meeting-Wellhouse
9 a.m.	Colors-camps
9:30 a.m.	Safety Inspection-camps
	Organize companies & Tactical briefing
10 a.m.	Tactical begins-camps
11 a.m.	Ladies Social-U. S. Camp Children's Games
12:30 p.m.	Tactical ends
2 p.m.	Registration Closed
2:30 p.m.	Safety Inspection
3 p.m.	SKIRMISH AT MILL POINT
5:30 p.m.	Dinner-U. S. Camp
8-10 p.m.	Open Air Cotillion Ball-Museum
Sunday, October 9
9 a.m.-noon	Registration Open
10 a.m.	Period Church Service-C. S. Camp
11 a.m.	Ladies Camp Visits
11:30 a.m.	Officers and NCO meeting-Shop building
12 noon	Safety Inspection
1 p.m.	BATTLE OF DROOP MOUNTAIN
2 p.m.	Battle Ends-break camps
6 p.m.	Park closes

Marlinton Town Council

Two Enter Pleas in Circuit

FATAL ACCIDENT

Harold E. Moore, 37, of Buckeye, was killed in an accident involving an all-terrain vehicle early Saturday morning. William M. Daniels, also of Marlinton, was injured in the wreck.

The accident occurred about 2:30 a.m. on the road leading to the bridge over the Greenbrier River [the Blue Bridge] near Buckeye, about 0.3 miles from the Old Buckeye Road.

Mr. Moore is believed to have been driving the ATV at the time of the accident. The vehicle went off the road, along the berm and then hit a rock pile in the ditchline. This caused the ATV to flip over backward and both men were pinned underneath. Mr. Moore died at the scene.

The accident was not discovered until about 6 a.m. Mr. Daniels was transported to the Pocahontas Memorial Hospital by Marlinton ambulance where he was admitted.

The accident was investigated by the Sheriff's Department.

- - -

Man Accused of Animal Abuse in Greenbrier Stands

County Cor

The County C
for a regular meetin

Deputy County reported to the election law chang effect on January 1 result will be mor
the County Clerk's

One change wil County Clerk to ch tions. At this tim mission can chall registration is valid law, the Commiss
the first step of ap whose registration

No longer will names removed f
tion lists due to fa certain number o only ways a name of the lists is if the is deceased. Four are to be kept pending, active, cancelled.

A major task
every odd numbere make a mass mail on the registration addresses.

d at Edray in case of

Wedding
my friend
, live for,
OVE. parents uglas evender

th them ve held on October ty-four ernoon Church
ginia ollow at Durbin.
card.

l Brian ounce 1994.
3 p.m. h in iving

Anniversaries

50th Wedding Anniversary

Virgil and Orpha Vance, of Marlinton, will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary on Sunday, Oct. 16, from 3:00 to 6:00 p.m. at the Marlinton Senior Center with an open house reception. No gifts, please.

Reunion

Moldova, a former repu
Soviet Union. The Dep
State mission is carried United States European to provide humanitarian to the former republics o Union in their transitio market system.

The mission was ca
a 46 member medical te of the Air Force, Army military members whic deliver and install contingency hospital fr
Germany and the Unite

Carr is a biomedical technician assigned Lakenheath, England.

He is the son of Phy Richwood, and Everet Hayesville, North Ca
brother to Terry A.
Huntersville, Mon Hayesville, and Erin Richwood.

Donatio

Donations to Pocal Memorial Hospital E Fund

In Memory of E Batchelder: Hubert A. I
and Mrs. Jack L. Miller

In Memory of McLaughlin: Marshal Charlotte Deputy.

New Jersey, and Johnny Slatyfork.
McCoy was the flower
vin McCoy was the ring of Hillsboro.
as provided by Linda pianist, and Rhonda
oist.
directors were Tabitha Tammy Barton.
tion followed the
the home of Mr. and
R. Burns, with music Terry Gunther and the d. employd by Rite-Off ord, Delaware, and ployed by Atlantic lin, Maryland.
a honeymoon to Virginia, the couple home in Salisbury,

---

ersaries

In Service

Sgt. Carr Participates in Operation Provide Hope IV

Air Force Sgt. Christopher C. Carr participated in Operation Provide Hope IV in Chisinau, Moldova, a former republic of the Soviet Union. The Department of State mission is carried out by the United States European Command to provide humanitarian assistance to the former republics of the Soviet Union in their transition to a free market system.

The mission was carried out by a 46 member medical team made up of the Air Force, Army and Navy military members which arrived to deliver and install a 602-bed contingency hospital from bases in Germany and the United Kingdom.

Carr is a biomedical equipment technician assigned at RAF Lakenheath, England.

He is the son of Phyllis Carr, of Richwood, and Everette Carr, of Hayesville, North Carolina, and brother to Terry A. Carr, of Huntersville, Monte Carr, Hayesville, and Erin Carr, of

Visiting

Nora Lou Workman, o Hillsboro, spent several days wit her sister, Martha White Braddoc in Anderson, Indiana, who recent had surgery on the frontal bones o her head.

Jane and Jimmy Oliver hav returned from a week's visit wit their daughter, Stacey, of L Vegas, Nevada. Stacy is in the A Force and is stationed at Nell A.F.B., Nevada.

Nina Brooks, of Dunmor accompanied her son, Lynde Brooks, to Denver, Colorado, for week's visit with her granddaugh Natalie and Mike Francis recently.

Joseph Parsons has purchas the Bill Moses house on Hamilt Hill in Marlinton and has mov here from Grottoes, Virginia. T Parsons family lived in Marlinton good many years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry May, Silver Spring, Maryland, spent weekend in Marlinton with aunt, Edna Bear.

Deeds

Trustees of Arbovale Cemetery to and Mary Wooddell, cemetery lot

Mary Sue Alderman, Larry W. Remona Alderman, Perry and J Ryder, to Daris Alderman, interest i acres, (middle section) North For Anthony's Creek, Huntersville Distric

Mary Sue Alderman, Daris and Sa Alderman, Larry W. and Rem Alderman to Perry Ryder, interest i acres, (northern end) North For Anthony's Creek, Huntersville Distric

Walter M. and Joyce E. Alderma

in Cass.

Barton -:- McCoy

Heather Ann McCoy and Jason Emory Barton celebrated their love for one another on Saturday, August 6, 1994, at the Wesley Chapel United Methodist Church in Hillsboro.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Doug Baker, of Hillsboro, and Mr. and Mrs. Don McCoy, of White Sulphur Springs. The groom is the son of Ms. Diana Barton of Webster Springs and Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Barton, of Slatyfork.

Reverend Roy Gwinn performed the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her parents and escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a white sheath gown with lace overlay. The gown was enhanced by the coronet neckline and embellished with sequins and pearls. The cathedral length detachable train was accented with Alcenon lace trim.

Matron of honor was Stephanie Burns, of Marlinton, and maid of honor was Kandi Hall, of Buckeye.

Serving as bridesmaids were Connie Burns, of McGaheysville, Virginia, and Jeanette Felton, of Stony Bottom.

The best man was John Barton, of Wheeling. Serving as groomsmen were Doug Burns, of Marlinton, Rich Marinucci, of Oct. 16, from 3:00 to 6:00 p.m. at the Marlinton Senior Center with an open house reception. No gifts, please.

Reunion

Hoover Family Reunion

The descendants of Arch, Pete, Bill, Jess and Joe will hold their 1st reunion on October 8, at Woodmen of the World Building on Rt. 612 outside of Verona, Virginia, at 1 p.m. Utensils will be provided. Bring a picnic lunch. Come share and renew acquaintances and bring old photos.

For more information call 703-248-3968 or 703-234-0941.

Senior Menus

October 10 - 14

Monday - Beef noodles, baked corn, cole slaw, jello, bread, milk

Tuesday - Dried pinto beans, fresh onion, potato salad, pudding, cornbread, milk

Wednesday - Baked macaroni & cheese, kale, cake, biscuit, milk

Thursday - Chicken salad sandwich, tomato soup, cottage cheese, peaches, milk

Friday - Spaghetti w/meat sauce, tossed salad, pears, garlic bread, milk

---

Moving?

Send label and new address to
The Pocahontas Times
810 Second Ave.
Marlinton, WV 24954

Pocahontas Me Hospital

with

24 Hour Emergency

High School to celebrate its 25th Homecoming

Queen and King candidates Debbie Beverage and Andy Beverage.

Queen and King candidates Laura Simmons and Willie Ellers.

Queen and King candidates Mary Ann Carter and Jason Sharp.

Senior Class representatives Natalie Mickle and Chris Rose.

...County High School ... join in the festivities ... its 25th ... on Saturday, October ...

... begins with a 10 a.m. ... at the Marlinton ... at Stillwell between ... PCHS Warriors and ... High School.

... School will hold an ... from 11 a.m. to 1 ... Athletic Boosters will ... barbecue dinner for ... includes drinks, ... concession stand and ... on an afghan. Children ... by an adult will eat ... will be used for the ... football bleachers.

... parade will feature ... Marching Band, the ... Court and ... queens and kings ... past 25 years.

... against Tygarts Valley ... at 1:30. Alumni may ... and a drawing for prizes ... held. There will be an ... room in the commons area ... the Open House and in the ... during the dance.

... Homecoming Dance ... held from 8 to 11 p.m. in ... gymnasium and will be ... anyone high school age and ... Admission will be $3 per ... Music will be by DJ ... Alderman and will feature ... from the past and present. ... extends a special invitation ... former faculty and staff ... members.

Vying for 1994 Homecoming Queen are Debbie Beverage, daughter of Wayne and Pam Beverage of Marlinton; Mary Ann Carter, daughter of Janice Carter of Arbovale and Richard Carter of Pennsylvania; and Laura Simmons, daughter of Larry and Sandy Simmons of Hillsboro.

King candidates are Andy Beverage, son of Roy and Evilene Beverage of Marlinton; Willie Ellers, son of John and Hayes Ellers of Mingo; and Jason Sharp, son of Johnnie and Trish Sharp of Marlinton.

Serving as Senior Attendant will be Natalie Mickle, daughter of Mary Mickle of Hillsboro and the late Tom Mickle. She will be escorted by Chris Rose, son of Debbie and Vicki Rose of Hillsboro. Junior attendant will be Mandy Snyder, daughter of John and Kathy Snyder of Marlinton, escorted by Morgan Dale, son of Tom and Sue Dale of Marlinton.

Representing the sophomore class will be attendant Cheryl Simmons, daughter of Larry and Sandy Simmons, escorted by Christopher Campbell, son of Fran Armstrong of Marlinton and Morris Campbell. The freshmen selected Amanda Irvine as their attendant.

Meetin...

Swago Extension Homemakers Club

The Swago Extension Homemakers Club held the August meeting in the Marlinton Senior Center.

A committee report on "Global Issues" by Juanita McNeill—During this time she asked members to continue bringing cancelled stamps, old hearing aides, old eye glasses, and UPS symbols from Scott Paper Company products. These are for cancer research, recycling, and benefit for the McDonald House in Roanoke, Virginia.

Social Service Chairman Ruth Cornelius will send cards to sick

Letters

Not long ago I wrote an article on over-population and the diminishing supply of food and water. Now, it seems that governments world wide are real concerned about this problem. A few day's ago a social gathering of people was held to address the problem. After wrangling for several days the thing they mostly agreed on was to disagree on how to deal with the problem, which is the way most gatherings end up. We have a lot of that right at home. The truth is the problem is so big and so complex that little or nothing will be done about it. History shows other societies let this bring ruin upon themselves.

Just to name a few things going on. Each day one 160 acre farm floats down the Mississippi river. Each year world farmers are trying to feed 90 million more people with 24 billion less tons of top soil. Ove... grazing and inefficient farming methods take 15 million acres ou... of use each year. Increased demand... for water reduces supply b... trillions of gallons each year.

Information says water tables ... China are falling 12-15 feet pe... year. Parts of Mexico City a... sinking as underground water ... pumped out. In six years, repor... say, Mexico City will have ... million people. Harvard Universi... reports that today's population ... consuming the world's resources ... an alarming rate. But how ma... people give this serious probl... much thought? How many peo... take time to look in the well un... goes dry? It is you who need ... face up to this probl... Conversation is not going to ... this world-wide problem go... The 2000 year habit of w... water is that coming to an... China doubled the price of ... food a short time ago. It is ... causing big problems. This ma... the beginning of a world w... problem.

Remember the person who ...

Queen and King candidates Mary Ann Carter and Jason Sharp.

Senior Class representatives Natalie Mickle and Chris Rose.

Junior Class representatives Mandy Snyder and Morgan Dale.

Sophomore Class representatives Cheryl Simmons and Chris Campbell.

Freshman Class representatives Amanda Ervine and Drew Taylor.

...

Representing the sophomore class will be attendant Cheryl Simmons, daughter of Larry and Sandy Simmons, escorted by Christopher Campbell, son of Fran Armstrong of Marlinton and Morris Campbell. The freshmen selected Amanda Ervine as their attendant. Amanda is the daughter of Clarence and Patty Ervine of Arbovale. She will be escorted by Drew Taylor, son of Mike and Cindy Taylor of Dunmore.

...

Parks & Recreation

Reunion Reports

Pocahontas County Club Charleston Area

The fifteenth annual Charleston Area Pochaontas County Club was held on October 1, 1994, at Rose City Cafeteria in South Charleston.

After registration and social hour, our president, Harry Duncan, welcomed those attending. Naomi Arrington gave the blessing.

The program consisted of a songfest, led by Paul Craft, accompanied by Kathleen Potter Tutman, painist; a talk by Polly Diller, Consumer Advocate in the Charleston Area; Secretary report by Helen Duncan; eulogy by our president to our departed members, James Binford, Guy McElwee, Ross Miller, Eugene Morgan and Katherine Seitz; distribution of door prizes by Mildred King; reading by Frank Blackhurst and our president's closing remarks.

Those attending were: Helen Bassett, Gladyse and Elmer McClure, Elizabeth Alderman, Naomi Arrington, Guy and Eleanor Cassell, Kathleen Potter and Bud Tutman, Mary Jo Sharp, Phyllis Barnett, Betty Rogers Carpenter, Ida and Milton Harr, Icie and Kenneth Cross, Frank Blackhurst, Willard and Helen Addleman, Lillian and Kenneth Taylor, Gladyse and Harry Duncan, Paul and Helen Craft, Ruth Pugh and granddaughter Pam Harvit, Nola Propst Fain, Fred Roy, Harry and Helen Duncan, Aileen Dodrill, Don Harouff, Lucy Puffenbarger, Harry and Evaleigh Foster, Milburn Wilfong, Mildred B. King, Fred and Hazel Pritchard, Ida Binford, Jim and Betty Kirkpatrick, Gilmer and Gussie Hoke, Arnold Weiford, Arden J. Curry and Polly Diller.

Arts and Crafts Fair at Fairlea

The place to be on October 7, 8 and 9, is the State Fairgrounds in Fairlea, where the Fourteenth Annual Arts and Crafts Fair, sponsored by the Lewisburg Business and Professional Women's Club will be held. It will be held in the West Virginia Building.

Admission is free to the public and there will be ample parking to all. Both gates to the fairgrounds will be open for better access. For space reservations or more information, call Nadine L. Smith, at 304-645-1276.

ARLIE'S BACKHOE SERVICE

WILL DO
- Backhoe & Dozer Work
- Septic Systems
- Footers
- Roads
- Driveways, Etc.

NATALIE'S RESTAURANT & LOUNGE [Located in the Marlinton Motor Inn]

Friday—BBQ Pork Chops, Honey Dipped Chicken, Chicken Chow Mein, Vegetable, Soup and Salad Bar
$7.95

Saturday—Prime Rib of Sirloin or Hawaiian Chicken, Vegetable, Soup and Salad Bar $8.95

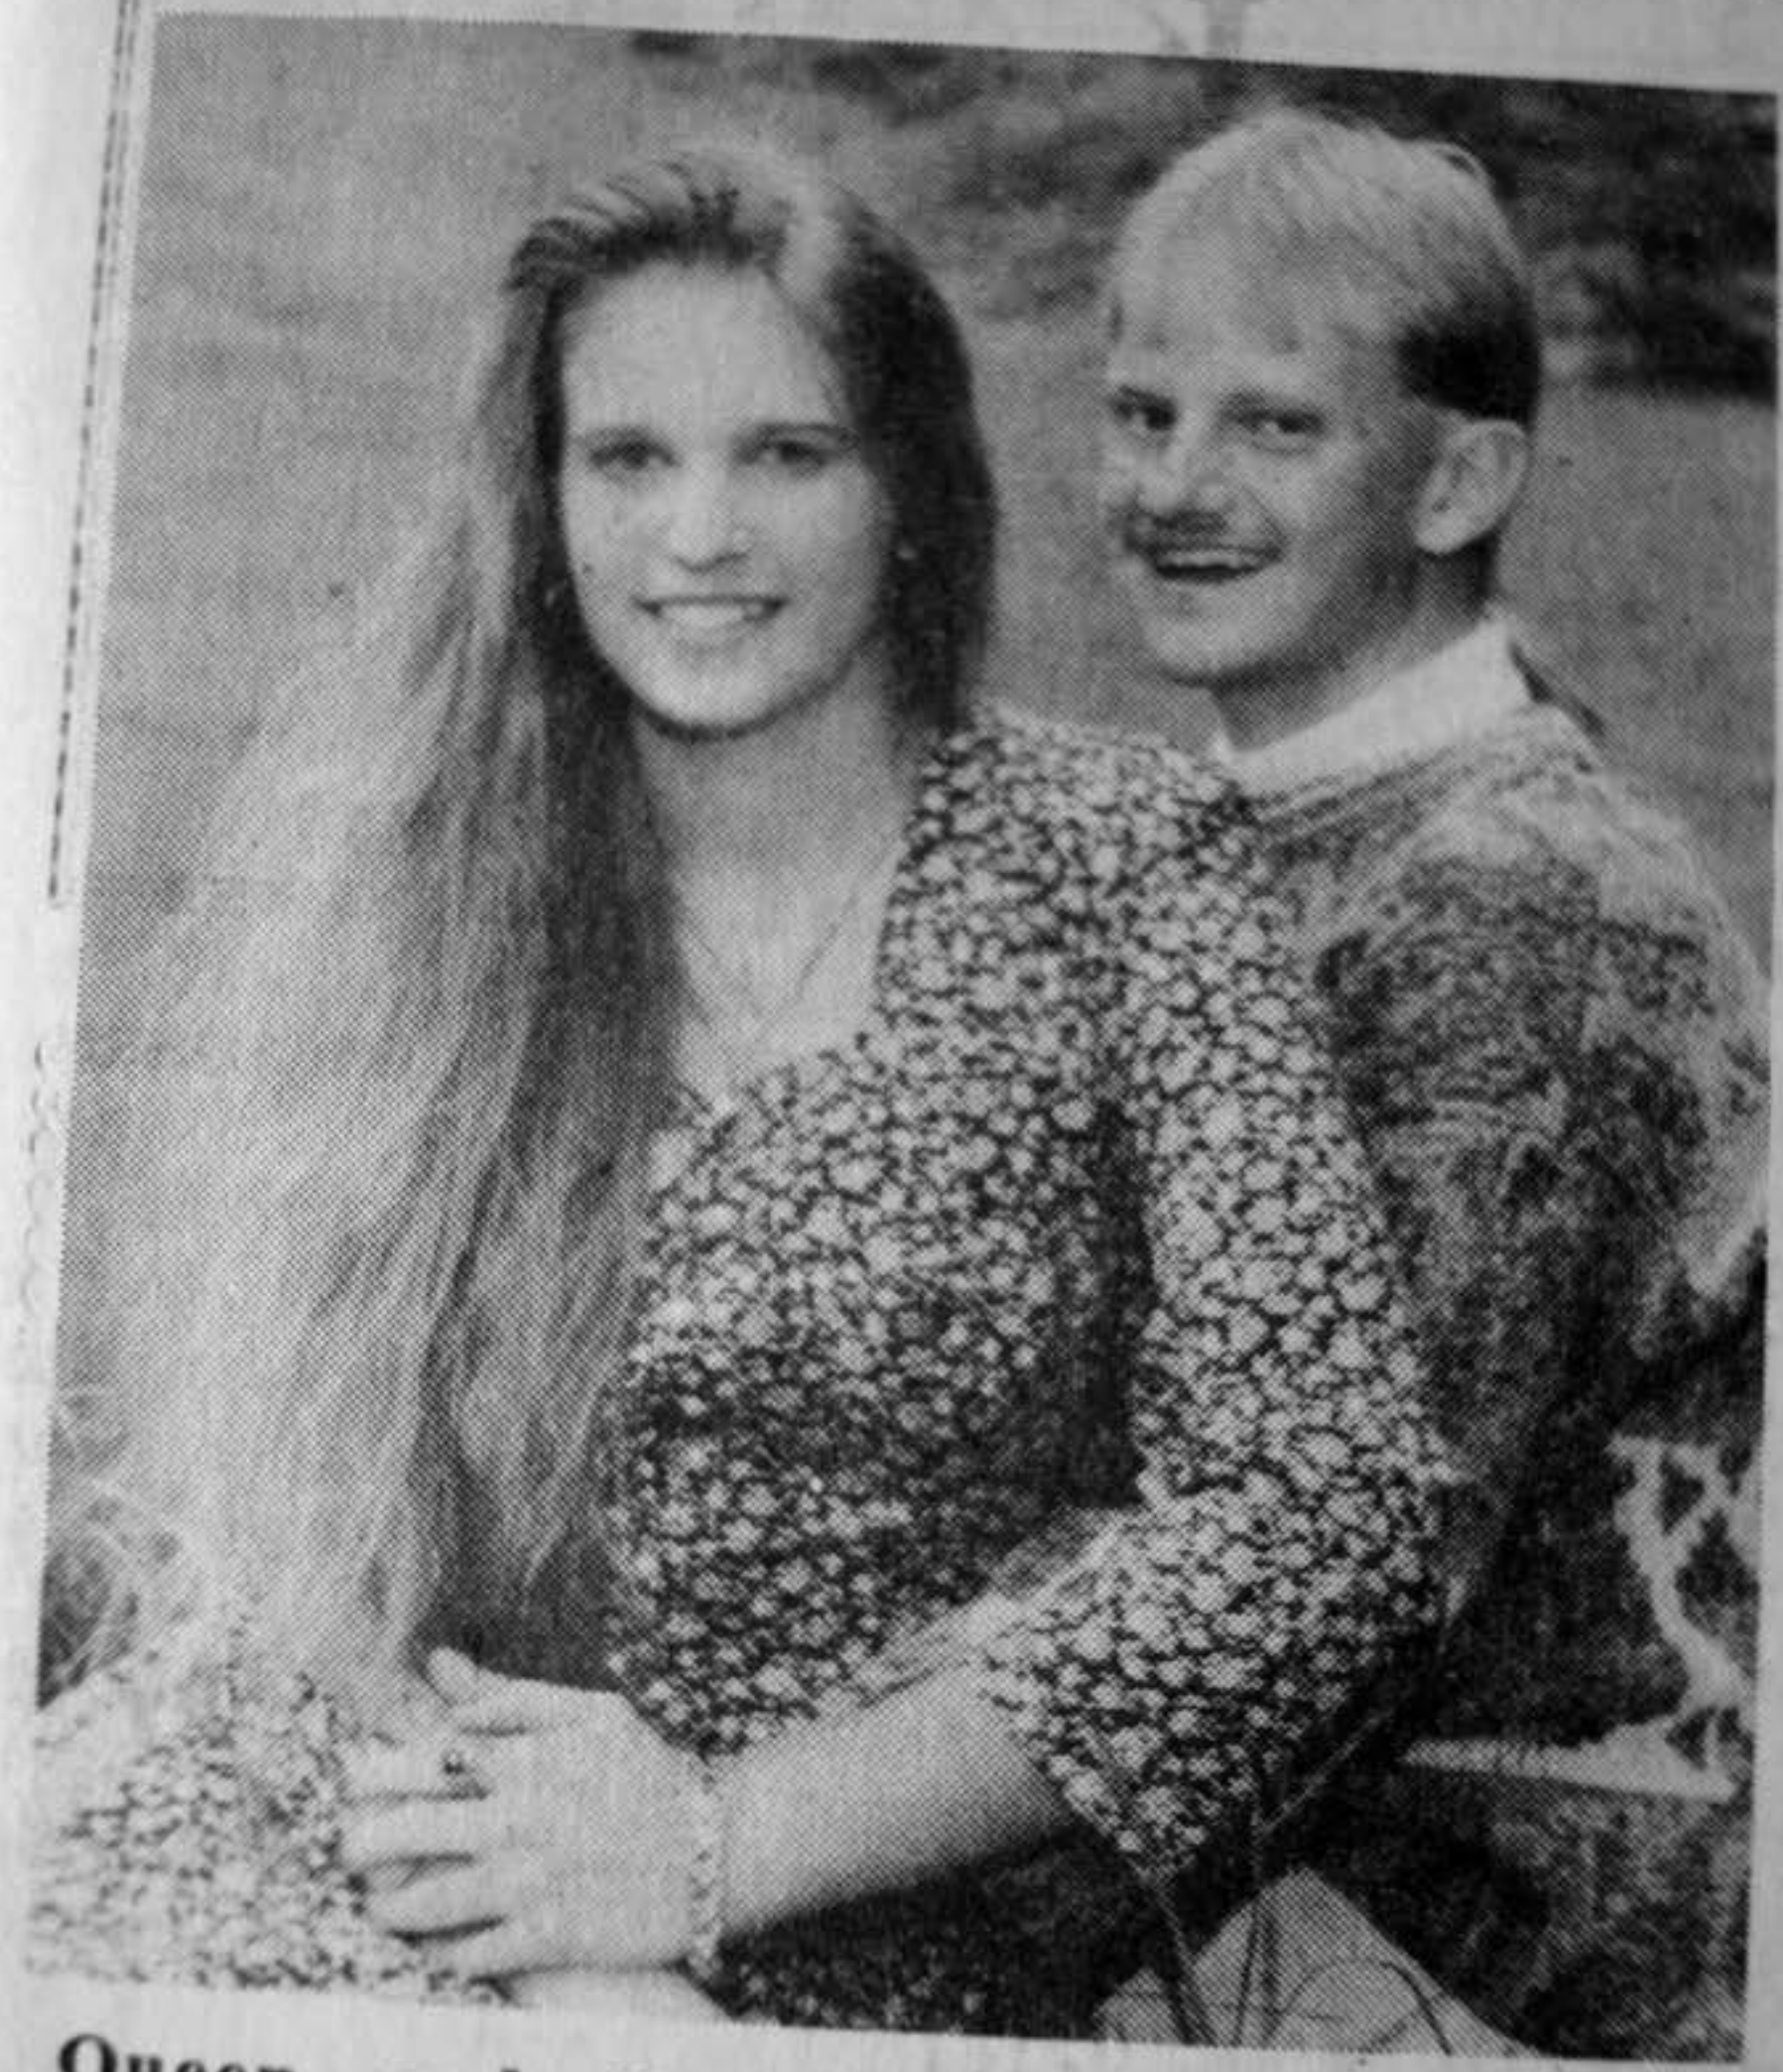
Saturday and Sunday Mornings—All-You-Can-Eat Breakfast Buffet

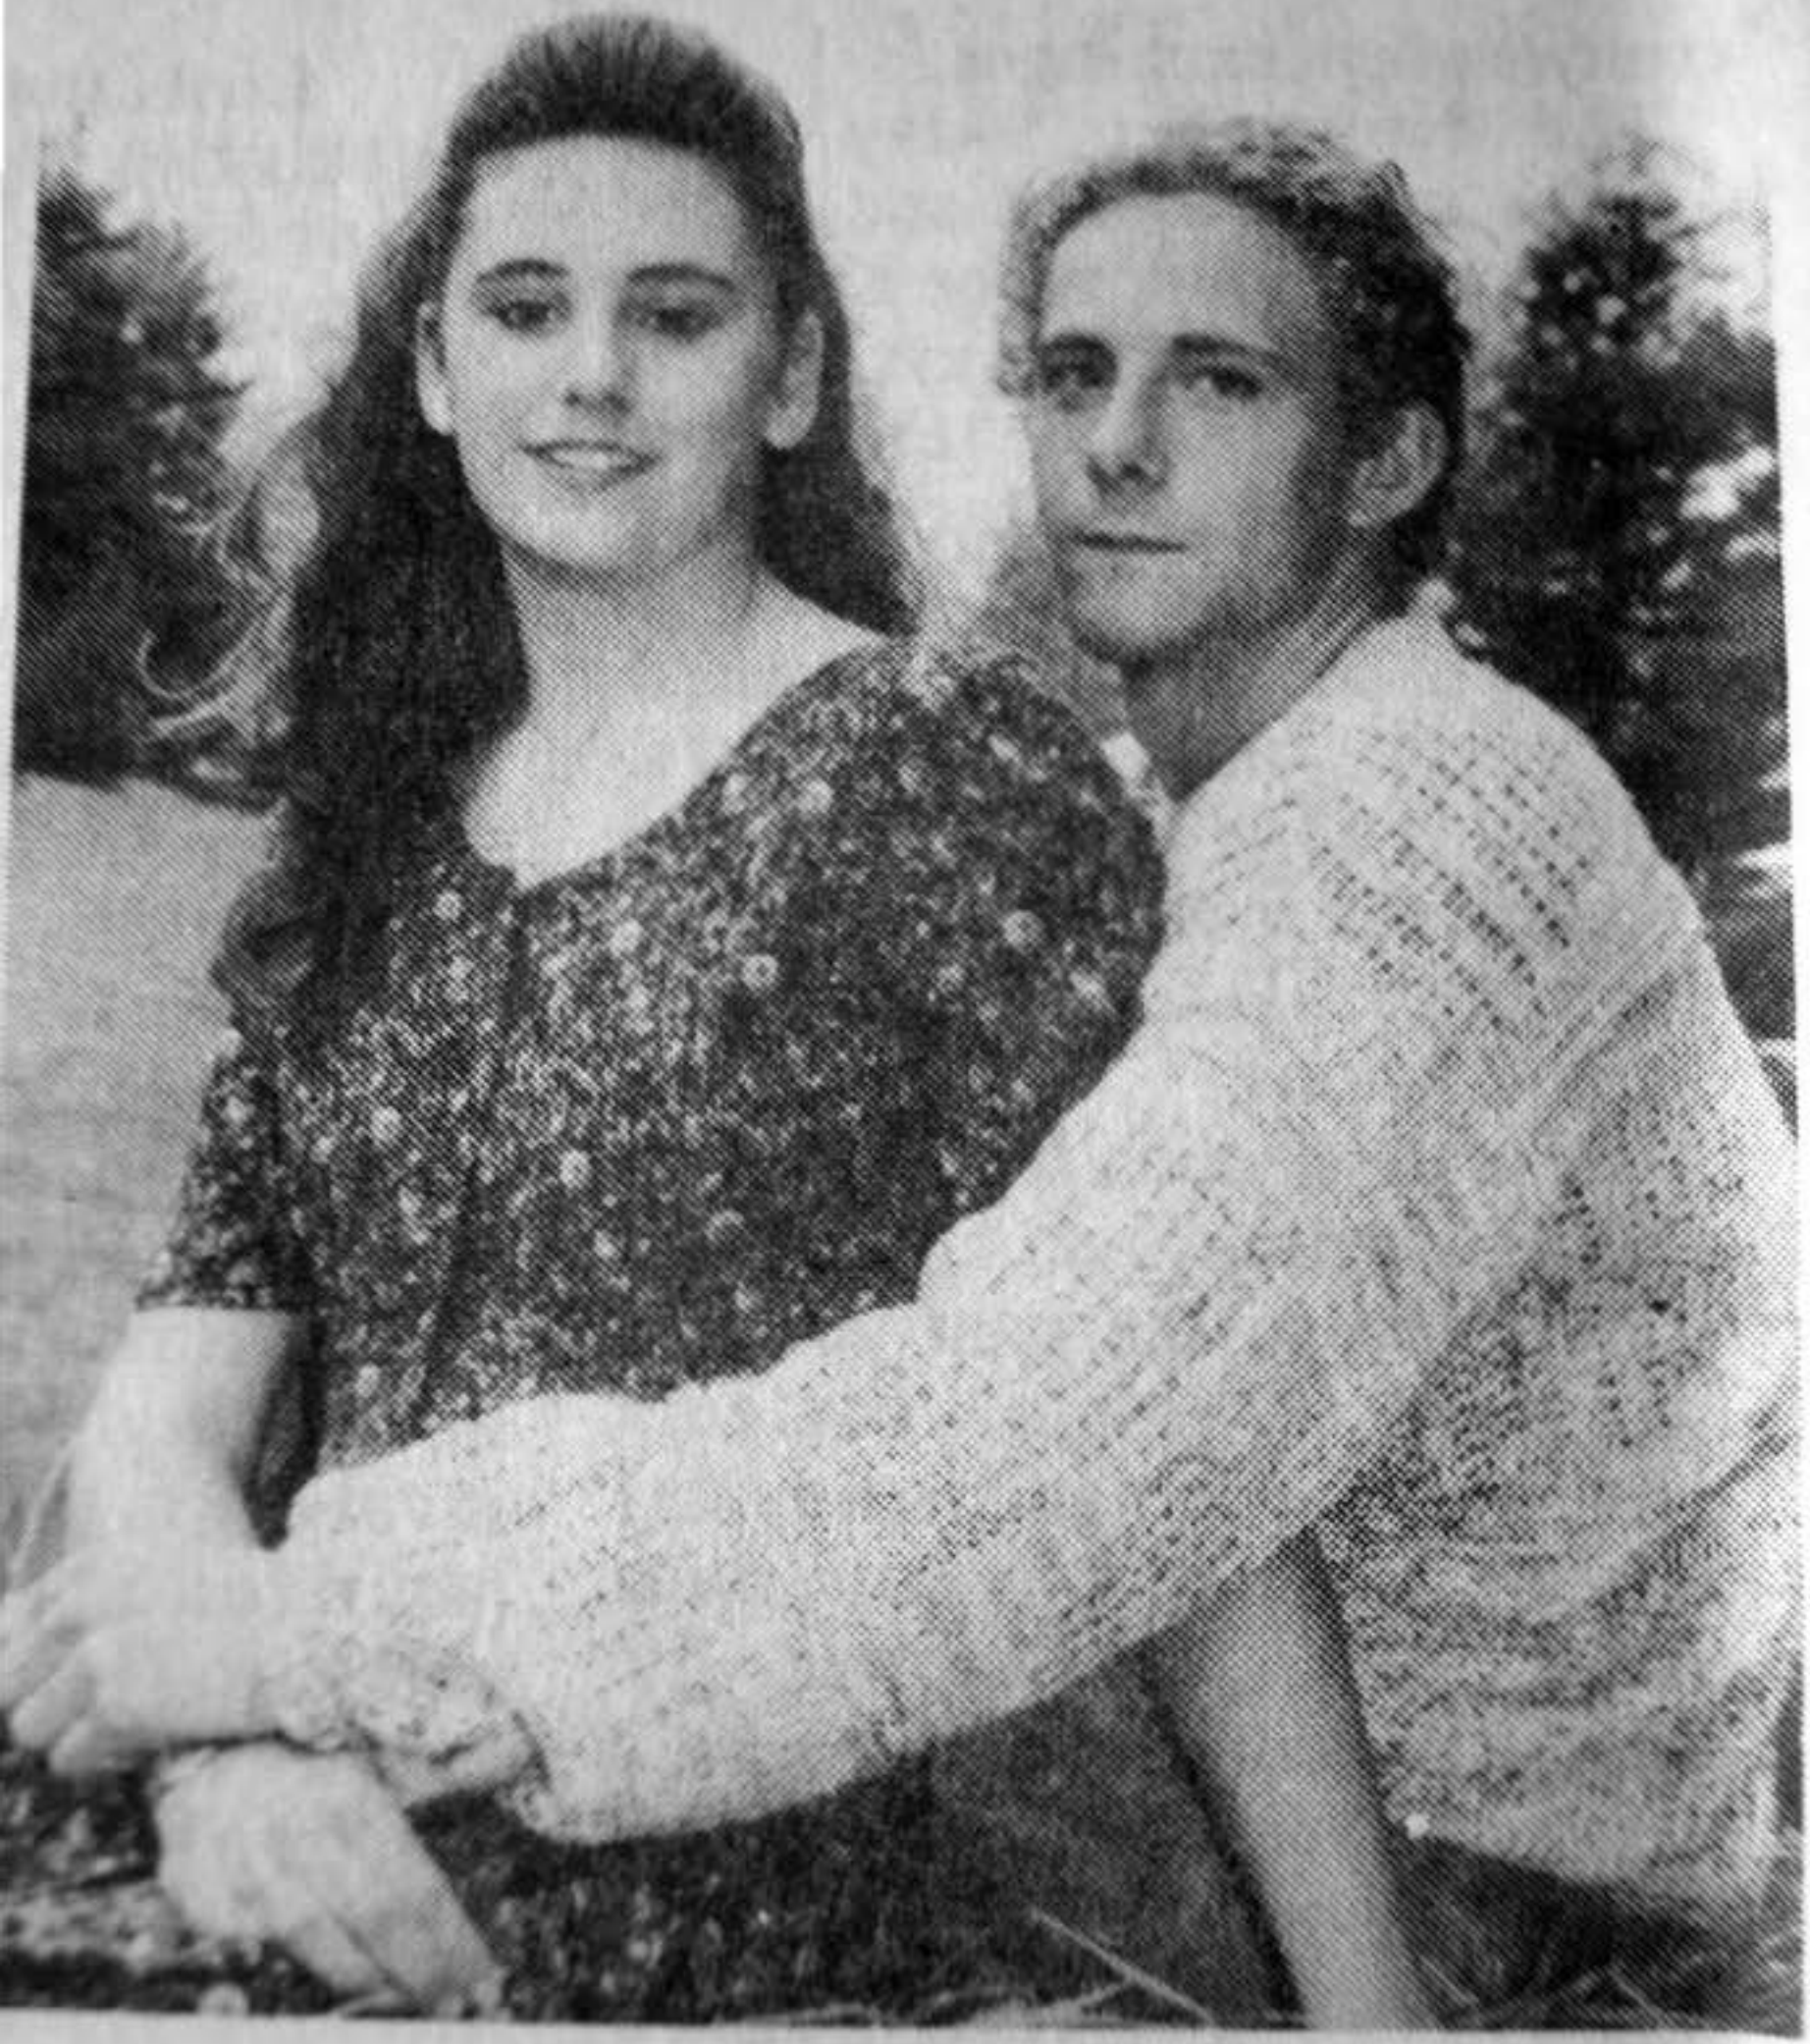
SNOW

High School to cel



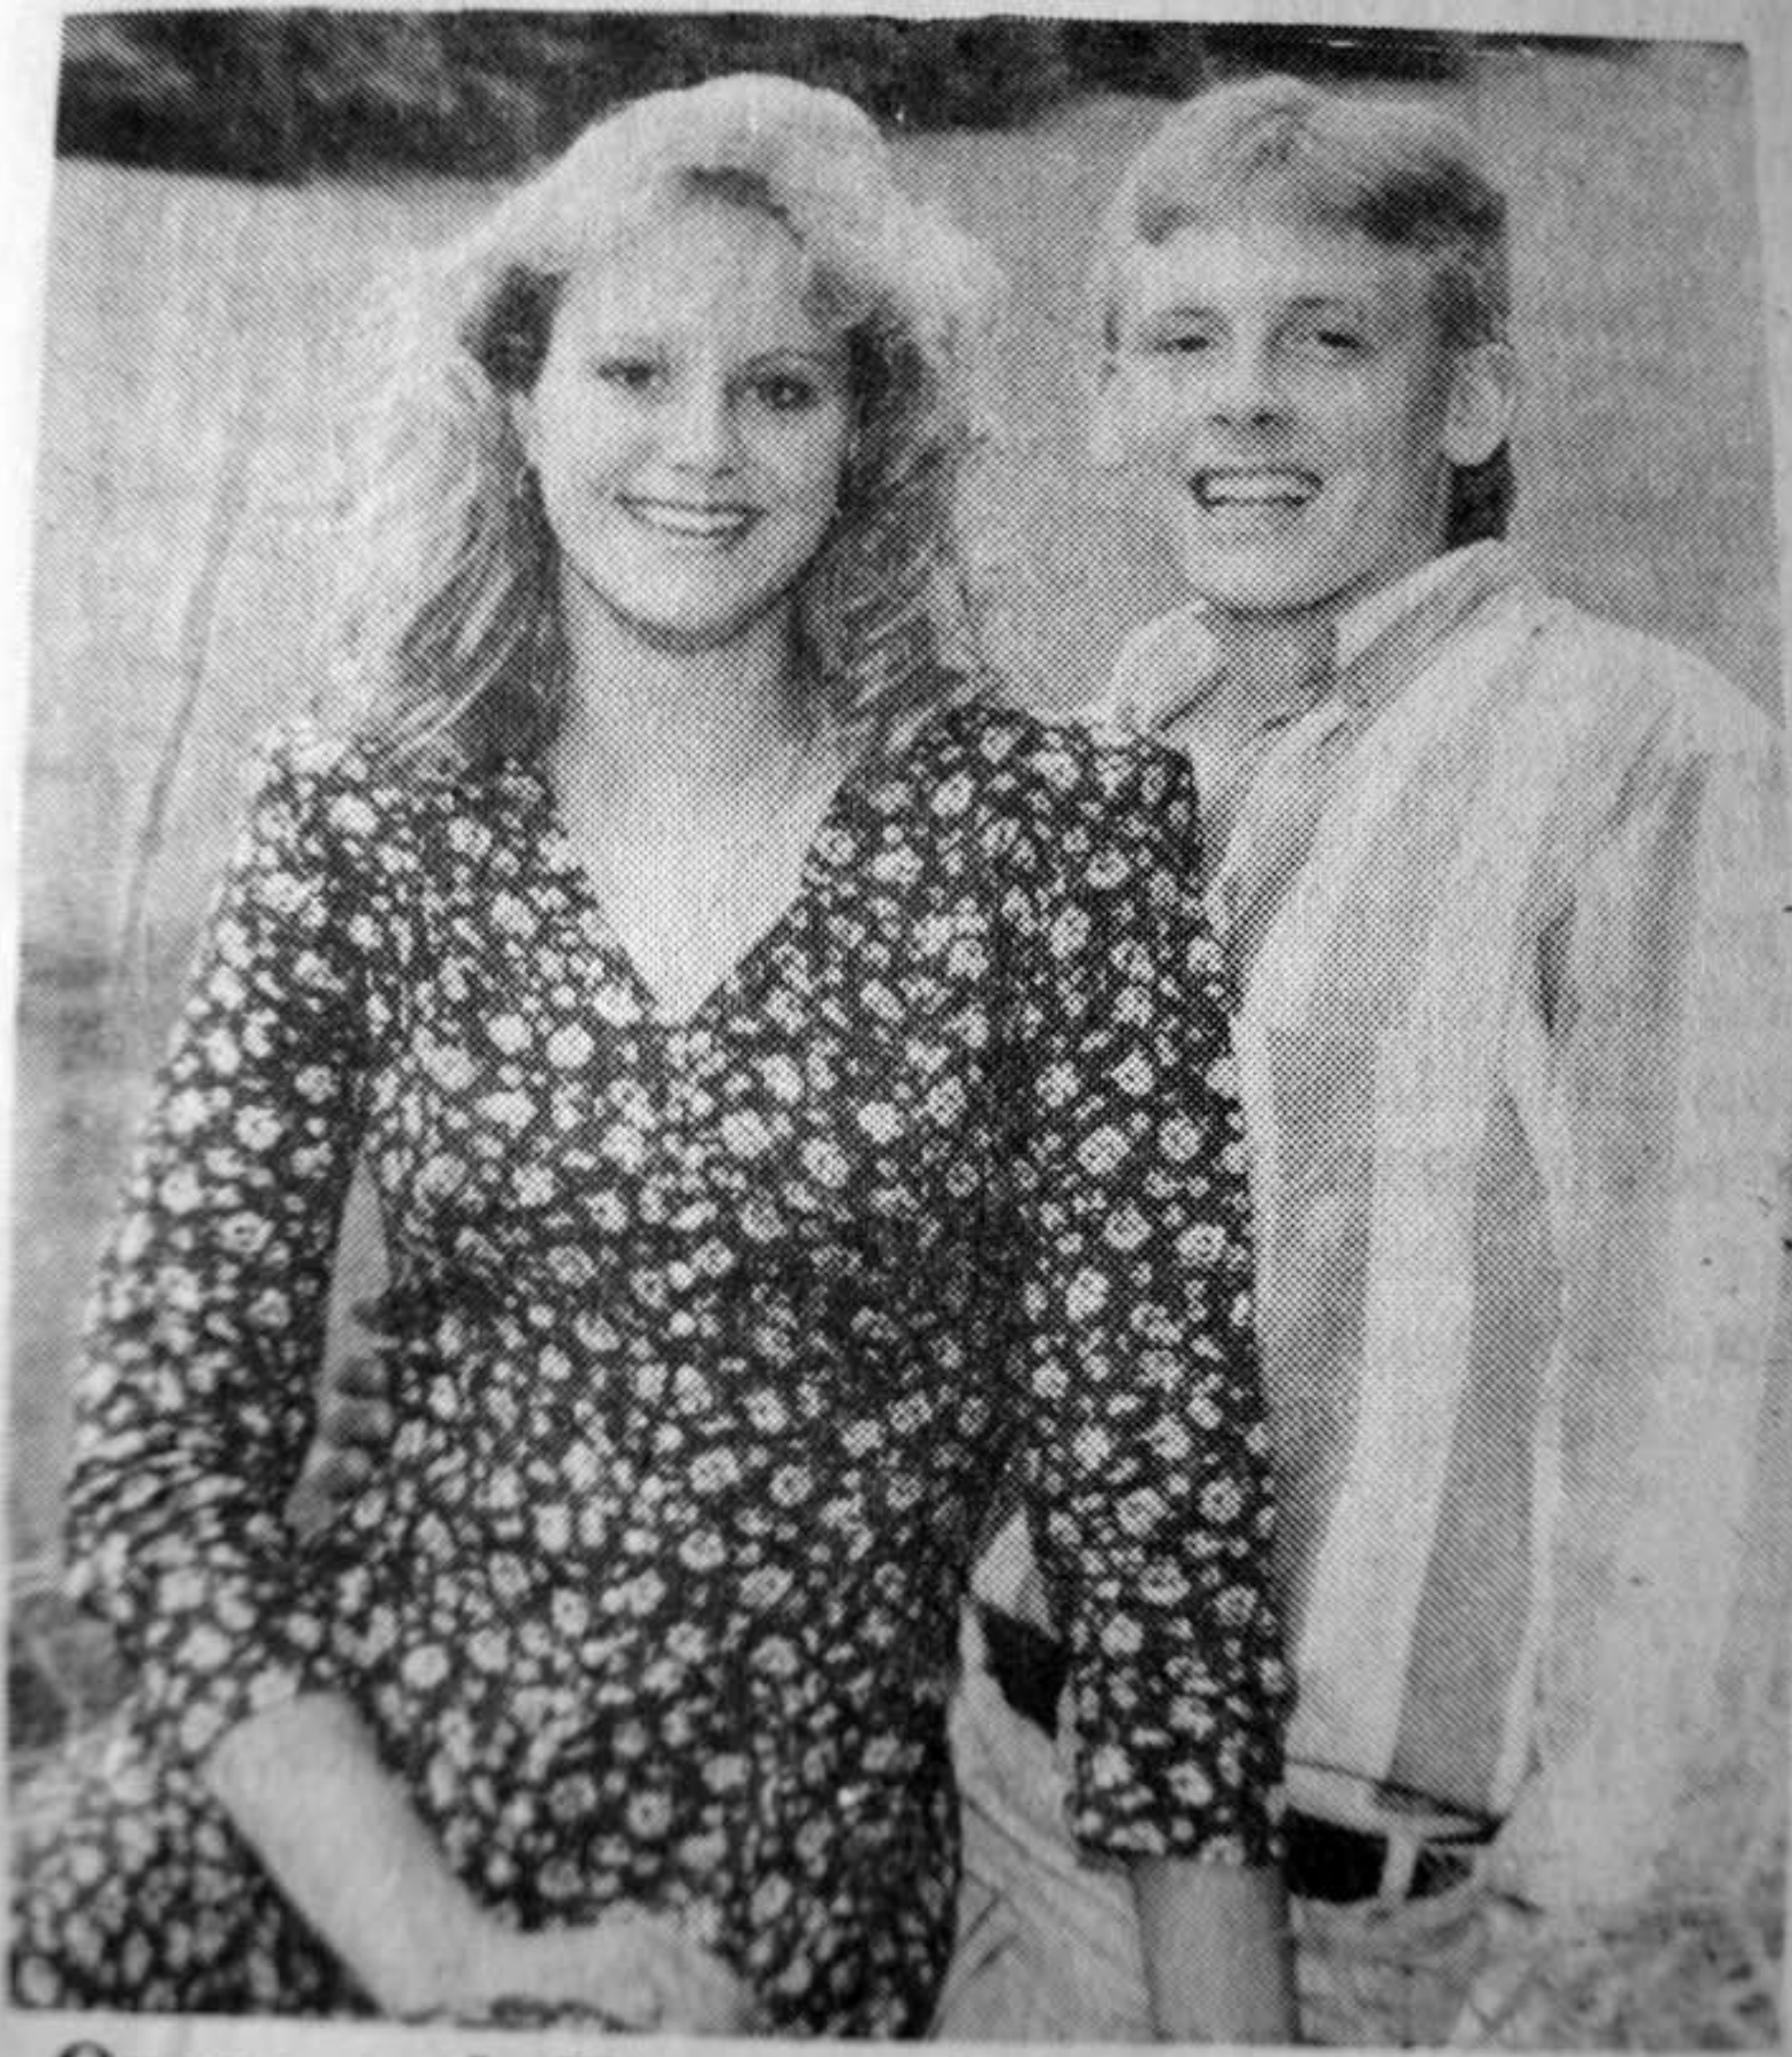
Queen and King candidates Debbie Beverage and Andy Beverage.

elebrate its 25th Homec



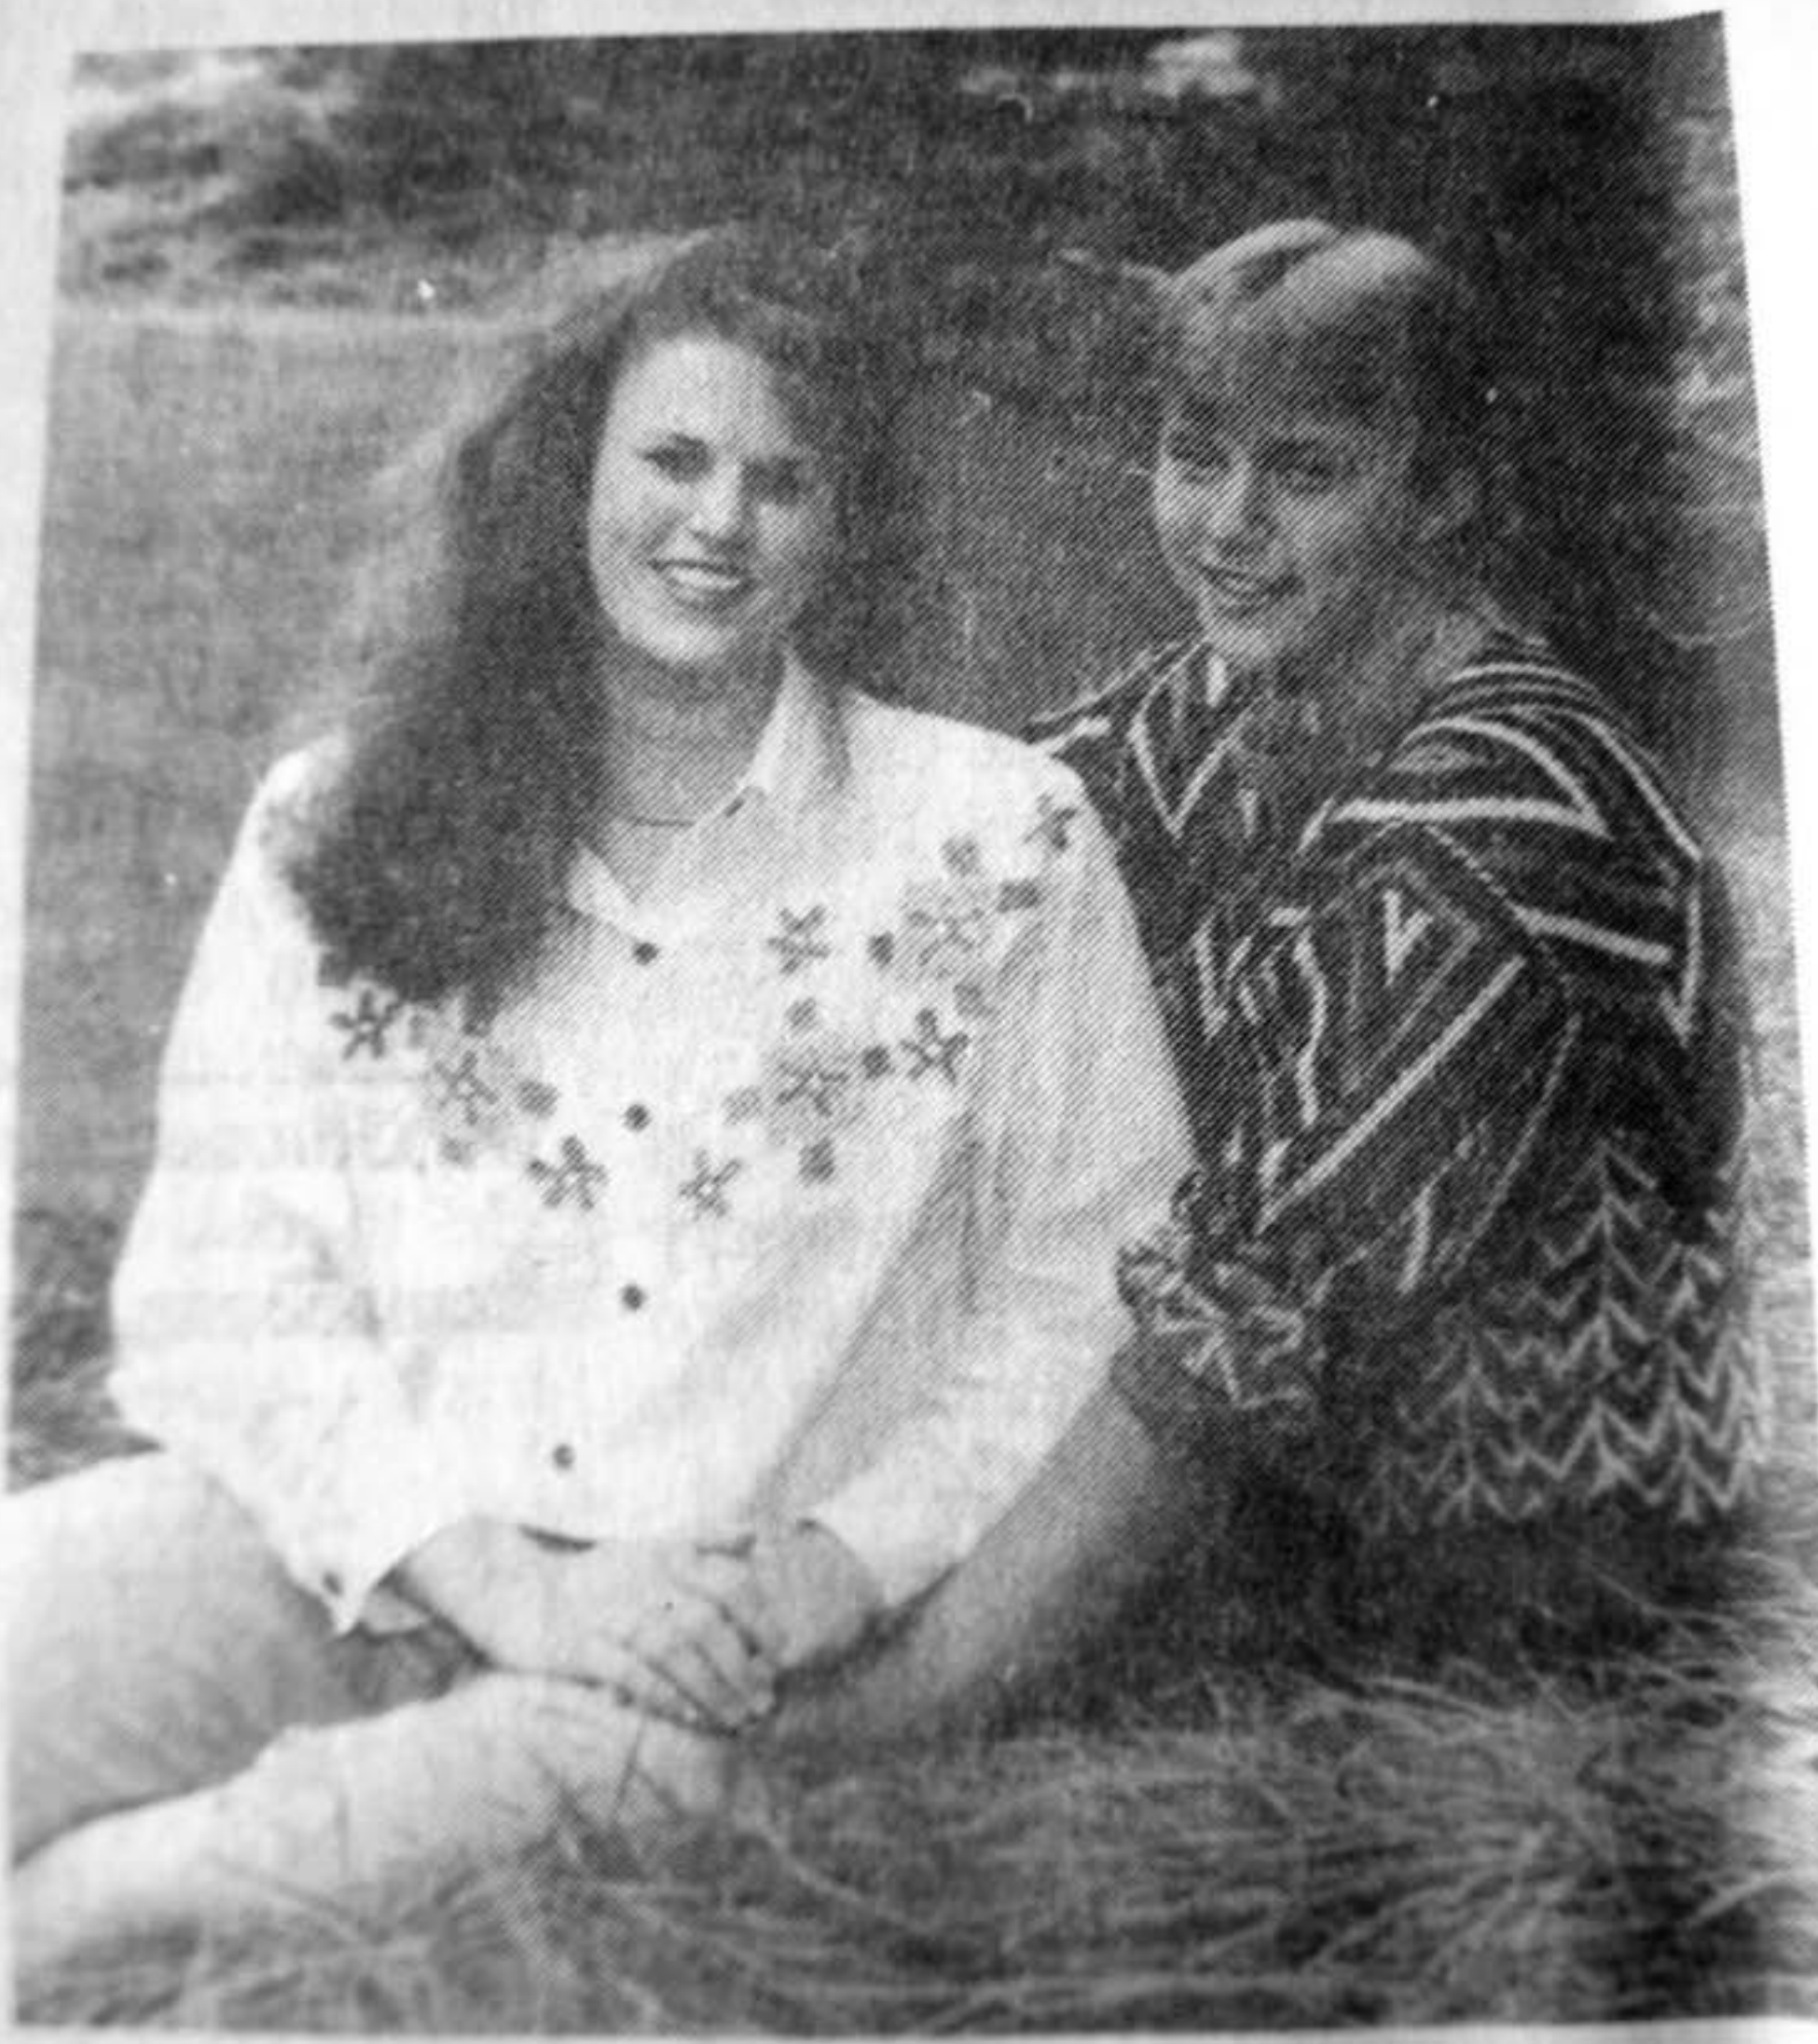
Queen and King candidates Laura Simmons and Willie Eilers.

Queen and King candidates Debbie Beverage and Andy Beverage.



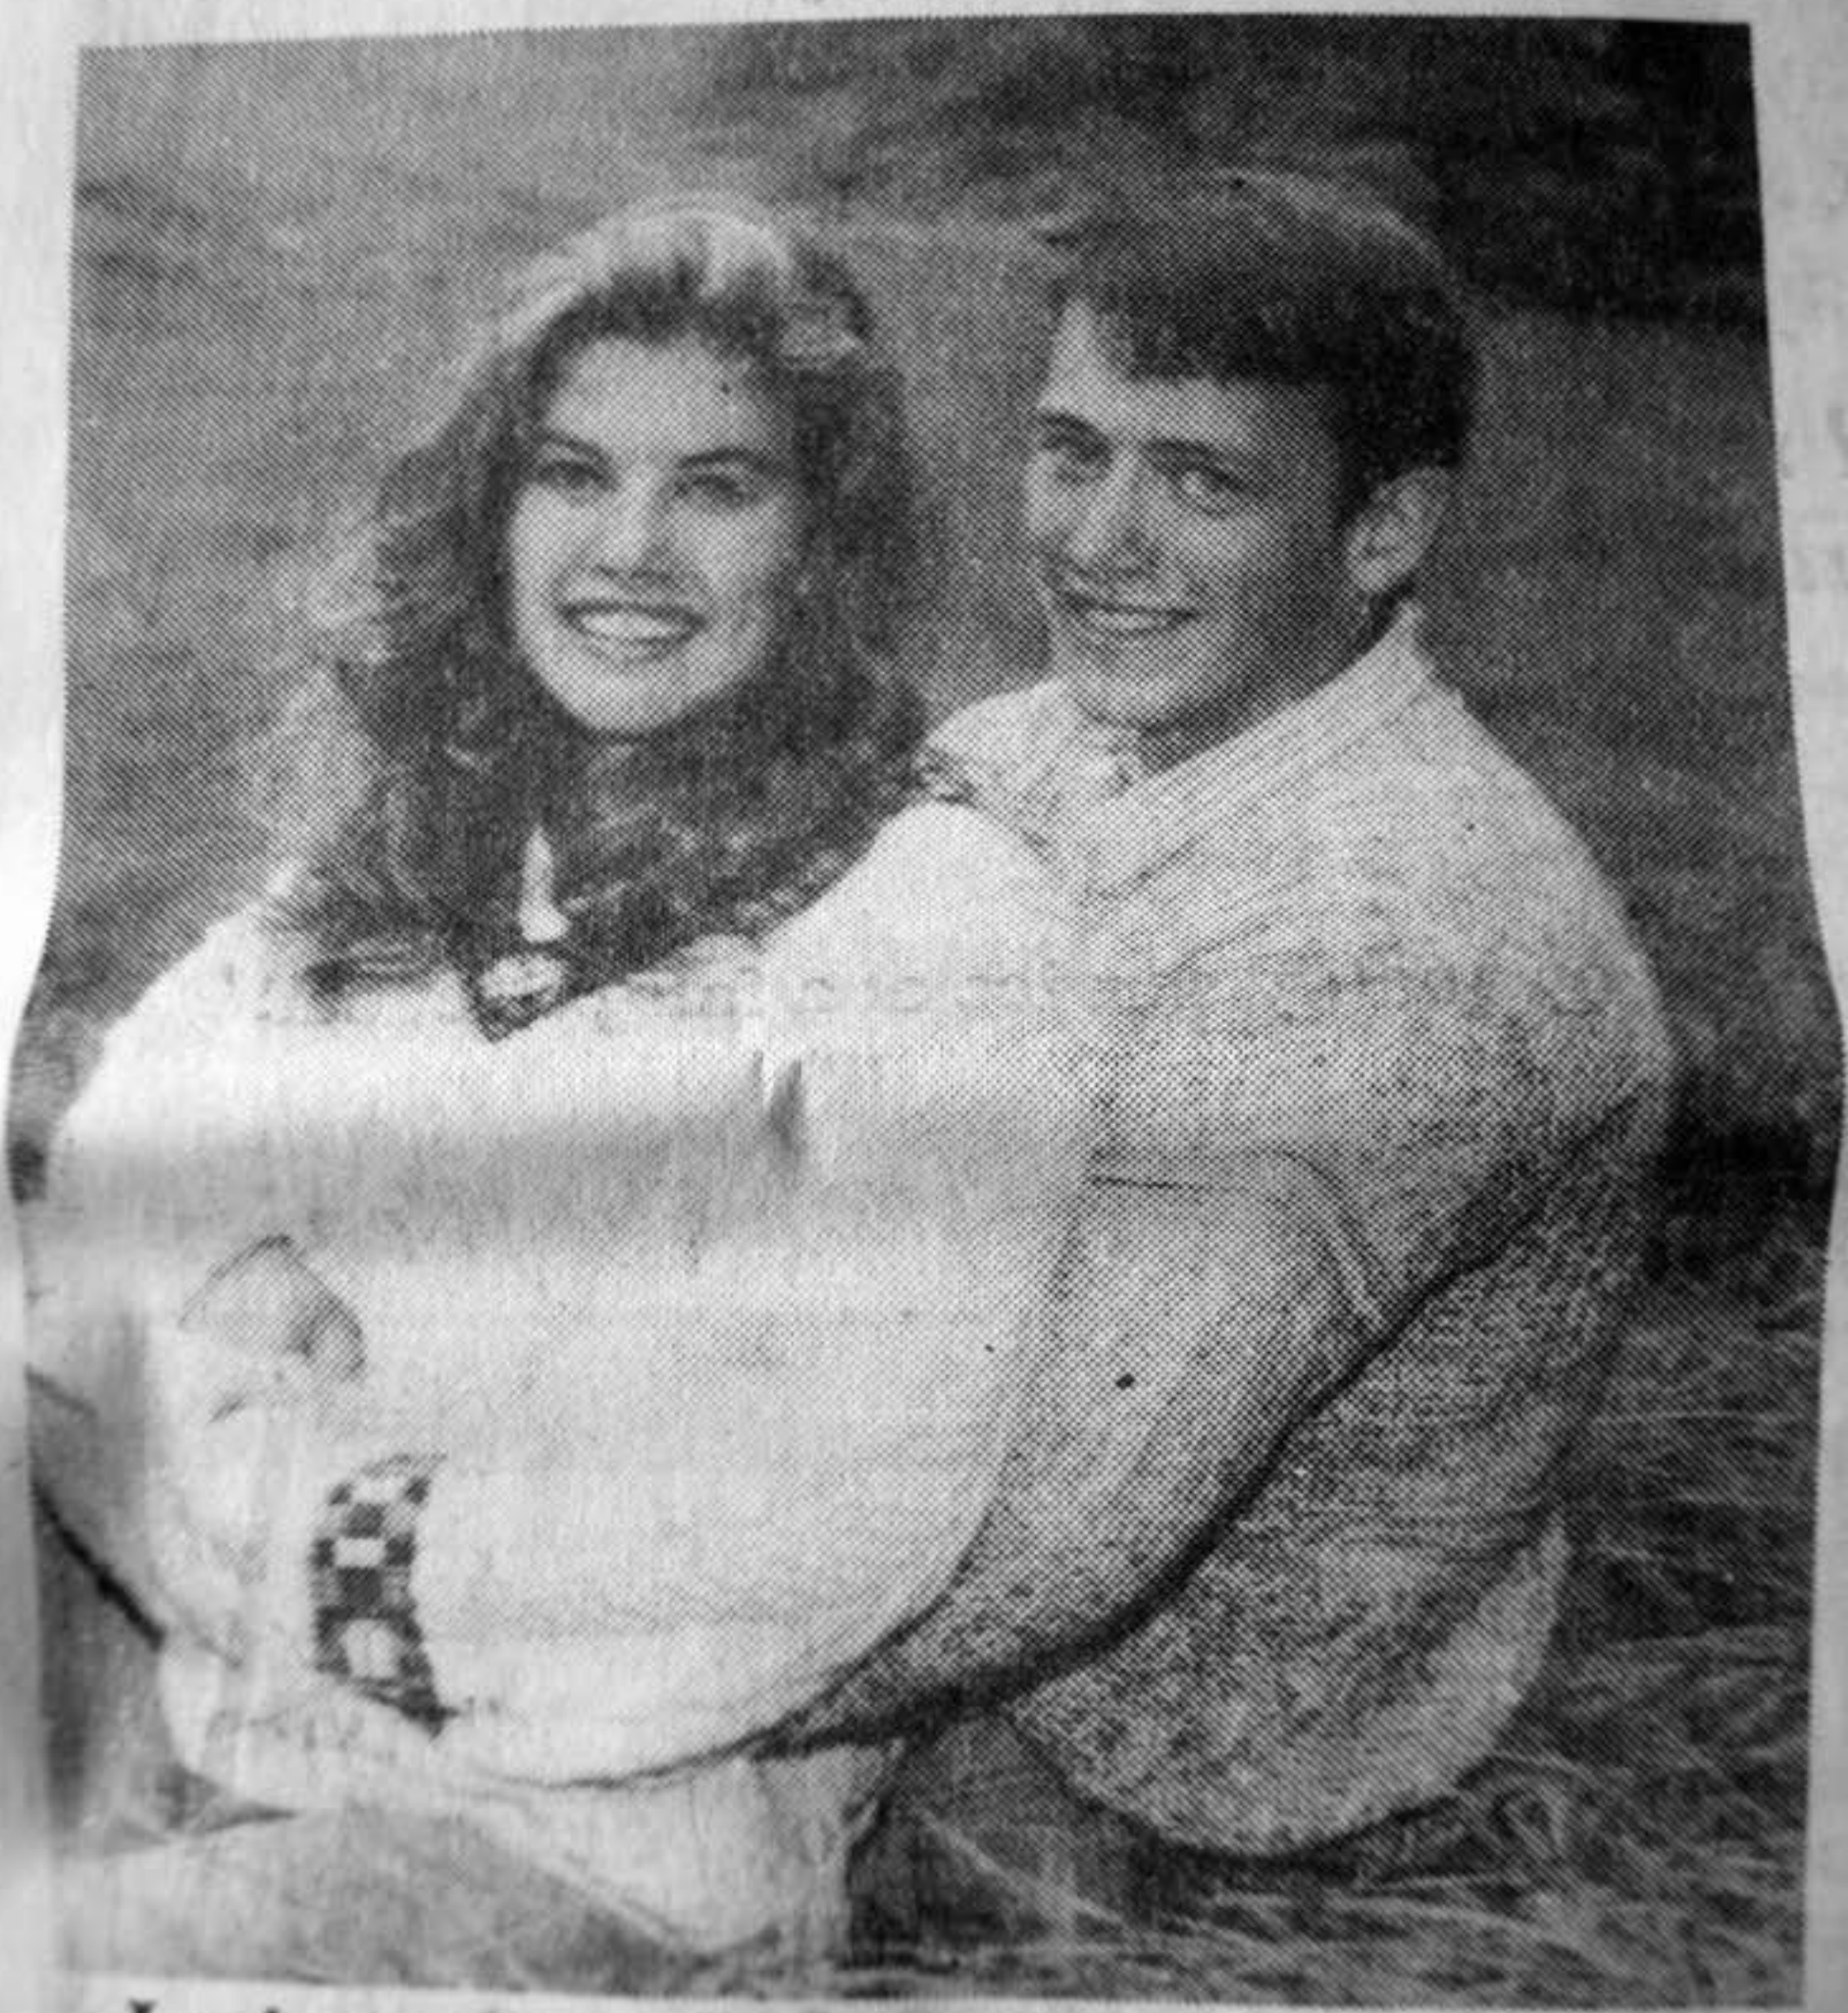
Queen and King candidates Mary Ann Carter and Jason Sharp.

Queen and King candidates Laura Simmons and Willie Eilers.



Senior Class representatives Natalie Mickle and Chris Rose.

Queen and King candidates Mary Ann Carter and Jason Sharp.



Junior Class representatives Mandy Snyder and Morgan Dale.

Senior Class [illegible] Mickle and Chris Rose.

Sophomore Class representatives Cheryl Simmons and Chris Campbell.

Junior Class representatives Mandy Snyder and Morgan Dale.

Sophom Simmon

Freshman Class representatives Amanda Ervine and Drew Taylor.

Pocahontas County High School invites you to join in the festivities as it celebrates its 25th Homecoming on Saturday, October 15.

The action begins with a 10 a.m. soccer game at the Marlinton Municipal Park at Stillwell between the dynamic PCHS Warriors and James Monroe High School.

The High School will hold an Open House from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m., and the Athletic Boosters will serve a pork tenderloin dinner for $10 which includes drinks, popcorn at the concession stand and a chance on an afghan. Children accompanied by an adult will eat free. Proceeds will be used for the much-needed football bleachers.

A pregame parade will feature the PCHS Marching Band, the 1994 Homecoming Court and Homecoming queens and kings from the past 25 years.

The game against Tygarts Valley will begin at 1:30. Alumni may will be held. There will be an Alumni Room in the commons area during the Open House and in the library during the dance.

The annual Homecoming Dance will be held from 8 to 11 p.m. in the PCHS gymnasium and will be open to anyone high school age and older. Admission will be $3 per person. Music will be by DJ Norman Alderman and will feature songs from the past and present. PCHS extends a special invitation to former faculty and staff members.

Vying for 1994 Homecoming Queen are Debbie Beverage, daughter of Wayne and Pam Beverage of Marlinton; Mary Ann Carter, daughter of Janice Carter of Arbovale and Richard Carter of Pennsylvania; and Laura Simmons, daughter of Larry and Sandy Simmons of Hillsboro.

King candidates are Andy Beverage, son of Roy and Evilene Beverage of Marlinton; Willie Eilers, son of John and Hayes

atalie

eryl

Simmons of Hillsboro.

King candidates are Andy Beverage, son of Roy and Evilene Beverage of Marlinton; Willie Eilers, son of John and Hayes Eilers of Mingo; and Jason Sharp, son of Johnnie and Trish Sharp of Marlinton.

Serving as Senior Attendant will be Natalie Mickle, daughter of Mary Mickle of Hillsboro and the late Tom Mickle. She will be escorted by Chris Rose, son of Donnie and Vicki Rose of Hillsboro. Junior attendant will be Mandy Snyder, daughter of John and Kathy Snyder of Marlinton, escorted by Morgan Dale, son of Tom and Sue Dale of Marlinton.

Representing the sophomore class will be attendant Cheryl Simmons, daughter of Larry and Sandy Simmons, escorted by Christopher Campbell, son of Fran Armstrong of Marlinton and Morris Campbell. The freshmen selected Amanda Ervine as their attendant. Amanda is the daughter of Clarence and Patty Ervine of Arbovale. She will be escorted by Drew Taylor, son of Mike and Cindy Taylor of Dunmore.

grazing and in methods take 1 of use each year for water re trillions of gallo

Information China are fall year. Parts of sinking as un pumped out. I say, Mexico million people reports that t consuming th an alarming people give much though take time to goes dry? It face up Conversatio this world-
The 2000
water is fa China doub food a shor causing big the beginni problem.

Rememb into a huge and said, "W look at all th

Tim

OCTOBER 13, 1994

HURCH NOTICES

rview Church Revival
ctober 18-23, 7 p.m. e invited. Evangelist Jim

Revival
Pocahontas Cooperative having a revival from 16 through 21 at the n United Methodist ervices begin at 7:30 each by United Methodist the parish. Food for the l be collected nightly.
elcome.

Revival
ity Baptist Church will gelistic services each om Sunday, Oct. 16, day, Oct. 21, with the otter preaching. The be held each evening
y will be provided for r four at each service.

ctober 16, will be the a carry-in dinner at rs are expected and elcome to come and great week. Trinity praying for an
the Holy Spirit and t of real revival.

---

aptist Chruch luntersville Manna, a Gospel up from Dallas, sing this Sunday
First Baptist Fred Proctor and extend a warm
eryone to attend.

DEATHS

Glade Fertig

Glade Raymond Fertig, age 78, of Fairview, near Marlinton, died October 9, 1994, in Pocahontas Memorial Hospital following a heart attack.

Mr. Fertig was a retired merchant. He worked for Williams Supply for many years, then bought it for Glades Supply. He was an Army veteran of World War II.

The son of the late Newman and Nola Sharp Fertig, he was born at Marlinton April 15, 1916.

A sister, Velma Fertig Sharp, preceded him in death.

Surviving him are his wife, Maxine Hollen Fertig; a son, Glade Fertig, Jr., of Bridgewater, Virginia; two step-daughters, Ruth Sharp, of Marlinton, and Margie Graham, of Cleveland, Ohio; three brothers, Dale Fertig, of Belington, Stan Fertig, of Laurel, Maryland, and Noyle Fertig, of Baltimore, Maryland; two sisters, Veda Fertig Hamrick, of Hinkley, Ohio, and Madge Fertig Palmer, of Cleveland, Ohio; two grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Services were held at 2 p. m. Wednesday at VanReenen Funeral Home by the Rev. Terry Cunningham, with burial in Fairview Cemetery.

Memorial gifts may be given to the Pocahontas Memorial Hospital Building Fund.

Elizabeth Shreve

Elizabeth "Betsy" Barnett Shreve, 75, of Elkins, died October

We Inst
Water H FAST!
H
W
F VISA
C
C. J

POCAHONTAS COUNTY TEACHER OF THE YEAR

Pocahontas County Teacher of The Year for 1994-95 is Marlinton Elementary School Teacher Denise Burns, left. With Mrs. Burns are, left to right, her children, Lisa and Stephen, her husband, John, Board of Education President Carolyn Burns, and School Superintendent Tom Long.

At the Board of Education meeting on Monday night it was announced that Denise Burns has been selected as the Pocahontas County Teacher of the Year for 1994-95. Mrs. Burns is a second grade teacher at Marlinton Elementary School

In making the introduction of One of her colleagues expressed it in this manner. 'Not only is the environment in her classroom relaxed and comfortable, it is also alive with discovery and creativity. Her learning centers encourage exploration and self-expression. She is so artistic and creative, I

tion on met for day. iness was intendent Burns as er of the separate n Leary he has in use ay be udents rther s on a state ed on or F. ed to s to a itage

sues lso that ulty
and

ing ool be

Greenbrier Man Convicted Here on Six Counts of Cruelty to Animals

by Pam Pritt

It took a Pocahontas County jury only 22 minutes Wednesday to reach a guilty verdict in the case of a Greenbrier County man charged with six counts of failure to provide proper sustenance to his horses.

Charles Omechinski, 42, could face up to three years in jail and fined up to $6,000.

The defense presented only one witness Wednesday, a veterinarian who testified that Omechinski's horses were on the "low end of average" weight and may have suffered from a parasitic infestation from which they could have recovered quickly with treatment.

Omechinski was appealing a previous magistrate court conviction.

The Quinwood man will be sentenced by Circuit Judge Charles Lobban in Greenbrier County on October 31.

- - -

Magistrate Court

Joseph D. Jesselli, of Hillsboro

POCAH

Pocahontas
Marlinton
With Mrs.
Stephen, h
President C Long.

during her eight years of tenure.

Upon becoming a teacher she expressed her goal as 'I want to make a difference.' She makes every effort to get to know each student's needs and lifestyle. By her knowledge of each individual student, she is able to provide a classroom environment that encourages learning by each child.

chaired committees for "National Education Week" and Business Partnership.

Through Ms. Burns' devoted efforts in supporting Pocahontas County Schools, she is certainly an asset in helping to make a difference in the education of our youth."

Stephie Jones and her mother, Jane, center, presented a gift to Mrs. Burns on behalf of her second grade class. Others in the photo watching her open the gift are, left to right, Fred Wolfersheim, Alice Irvine, Logan Dale, Wilma Dale, Sue Dale, Janet McNeel, Rita Griffith, John Geiger, Sue Shupe, and Mrs. Burns' son, Stephen.

Fire At PCCC Causes Minimal Damage

by Pam Pritt

A small fire in the laundry room at Pocahontas Continuous Care Center Monday night caused minimal damage, according to Dana Moyers, Administrator.

Moyers said that although the

New CDL Manual Available

Motor Vehicles Commissioner Jane L. Cline announces a fee reduction for the Commercial Driver License Knowledge Examination. The fees have been reduced for first time applicants for the basic CDL, from $75 to $60. The new CDL manual explains all any danger; the laundry room is at the extreme end of the building, Moyers said.

Moyers complimented the staff of PCCC and the Marlinton Volunteer Fire Department for their quick response.

for the Commercial Driver's License should study from the updated version of the CDL manual in order to prepare for the CDL Knowledge Exam. The test will be based on the new manual.

The Kenny Cutlip home at Riverside was badly damaged by fire on Thursday of last week. Marlinton firemen were called out at 1:51 p.m. The fire is believed to have started in a cellar house at the back of the home and then caught the house on fire. The cellar house was destroyed and the home received heavy damage from fire and smoke. There was no one home at the time. The cause of the fire has not yet been determined.

...12, Petersburg 7

PCHS gears up for Homecoming

Pocahontas County High School invites you to join in the festivities as it celebrates its 25th Homecoming on Saturday, October 15.

The action begins with a 10 a.m. soccer game at the Marlinton Municipal Park at Stillwell between the dynamic PCHS Warriors and James Monroe High School.

The High School will hold an Open House from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m., and the Athletic Boosters will serve a pork tenderloin dinner for $10 which includes drinks, popcorn at the concession stand and a chance on an afghan. Children accompanied by an adult will eat free. Proceeds will be used for the much-needed football bleachers.

A pregame parade will feature the PCHS Marching Band, the 1994 Homecoming Court and Homecoming queens and kings from the past 25 years.

The game against Tygarts Valley will begin at 1:30. Alumni may register and a drawing for prizes will be held. There will be an Alumni Room in the commons area

Laura Calho scoring with 1 Snyder added Barnisky had 1
now 5-6.

McNeill bo

The Univer Press proudl publication of collection of p late Louise Virginia's Poet until her death

Louise M national prom essayist and born in 1911, Appalachian hi in her family McNeill was College, Mian Virginia Uni

FERMI published in priced at $29 edition price available fro the Universit North Be

during the Open House library during the dance.
The annual Homecoming Dance

the PCHS gymnasium and will be open to anyone high school age and older. Admission will be $3 per person. Music will be by DJ Norman Alderman and will feature songs from the past and present. PCHS extends a special invitation to former faculty and staff members.

Vying for 1994 Homecoming Queen are Debbie Beverage, daughter of Wayne and Pam Beverage of Marlinton; Mary Ann Carter, daughter of Janice Carter of Arbovale and Richard Carter of Pennsylvania; and Laura Simmons, daughter of Larry and Sandy Simmons of Hillsboro.

King candidates are Andy Beverage, son of Roy and Evilene Beverage of Marlinton; Willie Eilers, son of John and Hayes Eilers of Mingo; and Jason Sharp, son of Johnnie and Trish Sharp of Marlinton.

Serving as Senior Attendant will be Natalie Mickle, daughter of Mary Mickle of Hillsboro and the late Tom Mickle. She will be escorted by Chris Rose, son of Donnie and Vicki Rose of Hillsboro. Junior attendant will be Mandy Snyder, daughter of John and Kathy Snyder of Marlinton, escorted by Morgan Dale, son of Tom and Sue Dale of Marlinton.

Representing the sophomore class will be attendant Cheryl

Mail orders, add book and 50 additional copy.

Paperback co locally at the Tim Rock House.

MO Last Tim
2 CH
WITH Y PRESENT C

NO EXTRA CHARGE FOR GROUP
KODAK PA
Will not stick

Beverage, son of Roy and Evilene Beverage of Marlinton; Willie Eilers, son of John and Hayes Eilers of Mingo; and Jason Sharp, son of Johnnie and Trish Sharp of Marlinton.

Serving as Senior Attendant will be Natalie Mickle, daughter of Mary Mickle of Hillsboro and the late Tom Mickle. She will be escorted by Chris Rose, son of Donnie and Vicki Rose of Hillsboro. Junior attendant will be Mandy Snyder, daughter of John and Kathy Snyder of Marlinton, escorted by Morgan Dale, son of Tom and Sue Dale of Marlinton.

Representing the sophomore class will be attendant Cheryl Simmons, daughter of Larry and Sandy Simmons, escorted by Christopher Campbell, son of Fran Armstrong of Marlinton and Morris Campbell. The freshmen selected Amanda Ervine as their attendant. Amanda is the daughter of Clarence and Patty Ervine of Arbovale. She will be escorted by Drew Taylor, son of Mike and Cindy Taylor of Dunmore.

WITH Y PRESENT C

NO EXTR CHARGE
FOR GROU
KODAK P
Will not stick 2 - 8 x 1
4 - 5 x
31 -WAL Per ONE SPEC
• Look! Chris CHR Fa

Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. Toney Samon, of Green Bank, and Mr. and Mrs. Blaine Tolle, of Kokomo, Indiana, would like to announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their children, Chadwick Lee Samons and Beth Anne Tolle.

Chad attended God's Bible College in Cincinnati and Lexington Community College, Lexington, Kentucky. He presently lives in Springfield, Missouri, where he is employed by the D & E Plumbing Company.

Beth resides in Cincinnati, Ohio. She also attended God's Bible College. She presently works at the Hollister Center in Cincinnati.

The wedding [illegible]

50th Wedding Ann

Virgil and Orpha
Marlinton, will celebra wedding anniversary
Oct. 16, from 3:00 to the Marlinton Senior C open house reception please.

Birthda

93rd Birth

Mrs. Lilly K Marlinton, celebrate birthday on Septemb family and friends at h

Birthdays

93rd Birthday

Mrs. Lilly Kellison of Marlinton, celebrated her 93rd birthday on September 23, with family and friends at her home.

- - -

90th Birthday

The family of Midge Hill

Sponsored by Cass Vol. Fire & Rescue Co., Inc.

Paid Political Advertisement

Paid Political Advertisement

NORMAN LEE ALDERMAN WASN'T THE ONLY ONE WHO THOUGHT $495,000 WAS TOO MUCH FOR DENMAR!!!

When attempts were being made to buy back Denmar from Joel Callison and his partners, Mr. Dolan Irvine and Phillip Cain attempted to negotiate a reasonable price for the re-purchase. The partners wanted to split the property, with the county buying back only the hospital part, with Dean-Callison keeping the farmland. Failing that, they were insisting on a price of $495,000 or $245,000 more than they paid for it less than a year ago. Dolan and Phillip worked hard to get a lower price, but ultimately failed. Joel and his partners refused to take a penny less than $495,000. The state insisted on immediate possession or it would find another site, so the county was forced to pay $495,000.

Following is a letter dated February 4, 1993, in which Dolan and Phillip concluded their efforts to negotiate a reasonable price. In this letter, you will see that the universal consensus was that the price of $495,000 was unreasonable. In this letter you will see that businessmen, accountants, two local government bodies and two major county leaders, Mr. Dolan Irvine, our assessor, and Mr. Phillip Cain, a prominent banker, were convinced that $360,000 was "more than a fair return" on Dean-Callison's investment. Joel has tried over the past weeks to convince the voters of this county that it was reasonable to make such a profit. But you be the judge. If you feel that Joel was reasonable, then vote for Joel. If you feel that I as well as the people referenced in this letter were right, then I ask you to vote for Norman Lee Alderman. I believe that you will agree that $495,000 was too much and that Joel took advantage of his own friends, neighbors and fellow citizens and does not deserve to be elected to the County Commission.

(Letter to Dean-Callison, Inc., from Dolan Irvine and Phillip Cain dated February 4, 1993)

Letter Begins

Dear Sir:

We have met with the presidents of the Development Authority and the County Commission, and contacted a state representative to try to resolve the problem we have with the purchase of the Denmar property. The state has plans for the land and will not accept the division of the property as you have

Dear Sir:

We have met with the presidents of the Development Authority and the County Commission, and contacted a state representative to try to resolve the problem we have with the purchase of the Denmar property. The state has plans for the land and will not accept the division of the property as you have proposed it. The state needs all of the property for their future plans. Other areas are available in the state at this time.

It is the unanimous opinion of the County Commission and the majority of the Development Authority that $325,000 was a reasonable price, but we were able to get more money than most thought to be reasonable to pay for the Denmar property.

The County Commission has indicated that the land could be obtained cheaper by condemnation. Their opinion indicates that 12 jurors would not even pay $325,000, and they may pursue this alternative.

The Development Authority price went from $300,000 to $365,000 as reasonable. There is some dissention among these 15 members and their views range from condemnation to getting more money. An additional $10,000 has been obtained for the purchase of Denmar.

The Development Authority was of the opinion when Denmar was sold to the Dean-Callison group that if an opportunity to employ people became available, the group would be receptive and would not try to make an excessive profit. It was the Authority's opinion that the Dean-Callison group had the county's interest in mind when they purchased the property. We have talked with several individuals, businesses and accountants, in addition to the Development Authority and County Commission, and believe a $360,000 offer is more than a fair return on your investment. It is our opinion that if this opportunity is lost, all of us and all of Pocahontas County will suffer for many years to come, and the Hillsboro area will suffer the most. This project will have a major effect on businesses, schools, public utilities and the hospital in this area. If this state opportunity is passed by, we feel sure no other offer will be considered by the state in the near future, and possibly never.

Our final offer is $360,000 for all the land that was transferred. We have finalized our negotiation, and a copy of this report will be sent to the County Commission, Development Authority and the state. We regret that a reasonable price could not be negotiated. Any future action or negotiation will have to be done by the appropriate governing body after Friday noon, February 5, 1993.

End of Letter

Please consider voting for Norman Lee Alderman
A voice against greed and selfishness!

Political Advertisement Paid by Norman Lee Alderman, Candidate for County Commission

Jan Schim to appear on TNN

by Pam Pritt

For several years, she cooked up burritos and pizzas and the occasional ramp dishes at her restaurant in Hillsboro while she dreamed of a career in Nashville. What Jan Schim is cooking up now is music to the ears.

Schim left for Nashville a few years back with the encouragement of her friends back home in Pocahontas County. Now, she says she understands the meaning of the phrase "paying dues."

"When I left, my goal was to make it in the music business," said Schim, the Rosewood Café's former owner. "But I didn't have a clue at what was involved."

Schim said she approached the open mike circuit in Nashville with an open heart and an open mind. "You can want to sing, but you have to figure out where you fit," Schim said.

One big advantage is being both an artist and a writer, she said. Schim began her career at the tender age of four, when she got her first guitar. Her all-girl band at age 13 moved on to coffee houses and pizza places in college.

Nashville has more opportunities to perform in famous places. One of those is the Bluebird Café, where at first she took her turn at the open mike and then became a featured writer on "Bluebird's Writers Night."

When she first arrived in the county music capital, she said she "star-gazed a lot" and now has actually met such superstars as Garth Brooks, Marty Stuart, Susie Boggess and Willie Nelson.

Although the career is going rather well for her now, Schim said she has to keep her day job. She is currently a switchboard operator at a car dealership.

Her next step is to get a manager, keep improving her voice and develop her stage presence, all the while finding time to write and work and perform. She is also involved in the World Peace Choir, singing alto.

Schim said she will perform at the Rosewood on her visits home.

Local Schim fans can catch her

Reunion

Sharp McCloud Reunion

Attending the Sharp-McCloud reunion and visiting with the McCloud family through the 4th of July weekend and Pioneer Days were: Joe and Lenore McCloud Donovan, of New Castle, California, Bob and Nancy McCloud Baldwin, of Woodland, California; and her son, Don Kershner, of the U.S. Army in Ft. Sill, Oklahoma; James McCloud and wife, Lee and his son, David McCloud, of East Stroudsburg, Pennsylvania; Lucille McCloud Withers, Ivan Jr. and Wanda Withers and family, Ben, Kevin and Sierra Withers, Brent Withers, Brett and Rhonda Withers and sons, Adam and Casey, of Marlinton; Matt and Carol Withers, of Roanoke, Virginia; Orman Tyree and friend, of Springfield, Virginia; his daughter, Brenda Jay, of Spottsylvania, Virginia; his son, Bob Tyree, and daughters, Carol, Laura and Amy, of Cleveland, Tennessee; Warren and Linda McCloud, of Elyria, Ohio; Warren, Linda, and girls, Traci and Tami, had been down a few weeks earlier to attend the funeral of Linda's grandmother, Flossie Friel. Bil McCloud, Harry McCloud Sharon, Cynthia and David Broce all of Marlinton; Mike Kelley an brother, Brian, and friend, Marlinton; Arlie and Elizabet Sharp, Harold and Terry Sharp an his daughter, Pam Perritt, husban Dan and daughters, Danielle an Sarah, Julian and Betty Sharp an daughters, Diane and husban Rick Defino, and children, Gi and Ricky, Julie Johnson a daughters, Amy, Julia, An Jennifer and friend, Chris, Bett sister, Helen and husband, R Smith, all of Baltimore, Maryla Regena Dumire and Hazel She of Marlinton; Delbert Underwo of Gainesville, Florida; a daughter, Marcy and Art Kreft, South Carolina; the former Cre Shoemaker (Wilson), of Virgin Mayona McLaughlin, of Marlint (Lucille's school buddies of a f years ago.) John and Virgi Irvine, of Hillsboro, their daugh and husband and son, La Kennedy Kershner, and s Vanden, her sister, Pat and son

Fire Prevention W

Every day of the year, ho

Club Meeti

Several Salvation Army volunteers were honored at a September meeting of the Marlinton Rotary Club.

(Left to right)—Connie Wise, DSS/SE Salvation Army Divisional Headquarters; Marie Doyle, Salvation Army Volunteer (Appreciation Award); Margaret VanReenan, Salvation Army Volunteer (Appreciation Award); Edith Triplett, Salvation Army Volunteer (Appreciation Award).

Po
T Club at a Poc Aut bea cide alw
the
and busi mar goo brea clu fina con Mo trai par offi cou goo esp foo fam chi bre bis app tea
we

Salvation Army Volunteer (Appre
Triplett, Salvation Army Volunteer

Joel Callison, Salvation Army Volunteer and Outgoing Treasurer, receives an award plaque from Connie Wise.

Ed S Coun an a Wise

Award); Margaret VanReenan, r (Appreciation Award); Edith olunteer (Appreciation Award).

Ed Stemple, Salvation Army County Chairman, receives an award plaque from Connie Wise.

famous co chili, chili bread, s biscuits, apple cide tea, coffe weather w provided business.

The ne Commun will be t tenderloi stand du Football 15. The will bene
High Sc Bleacher includes high sch p.m. fre the conc football winning a

The ti (childre accompan

plaque from Connie Wise.

Connie Wise presents and Conn Appreciation Award to Appre
Lowell Galford, new Kelly Salvation Army County Volun
Treasurer.

...lvation
...Outgoing
...n award
...Wise.

County Chairman, receives an award plaque from Connie Wise.

...and
...to
...new
...unty

Connie Wise presents an Appreciation Award to Robert Kelly, Salvation Army Volunteer.

to the Family Refuge Center in ...football

...winnin
...The
...(child
...accom
...per stu
...are av
...includ
...Pocah
...If y
...the Po
...would
...occasi
...the me
...meetin
...Wedne
...in the
...prepari
...will be
...Curr
...George
...Ralph
...Carmel
...Cindy
...Lake Va

The County

Time

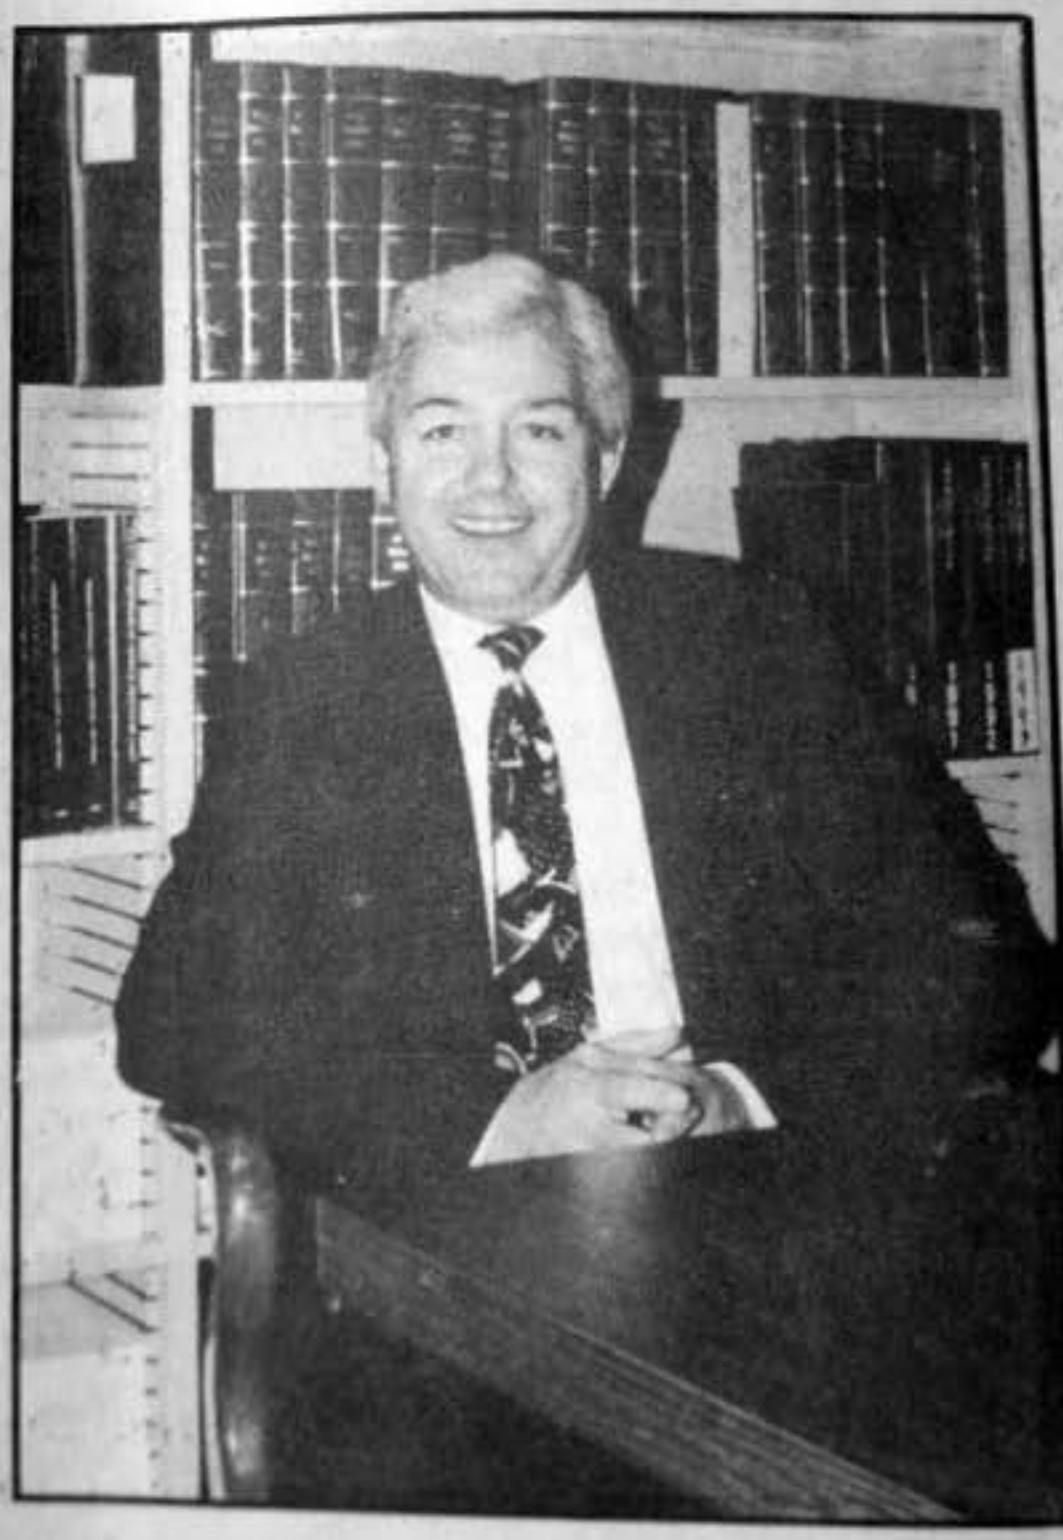
NOVEMBER 3, 1994

Paid Political Advertisement

Paid Political Advertisement

Paid Political Advertisement

Vote For Senator Walt Helmick



Your Vote and Support Will Be Appreciated

ELECTION OPINIONS FROM THE POCAHONTAS TIMES

Election From My Corner

By Jane Price Sharp

The first thing is to be sure to vote next Tuesday. Off-year elections are notorious for low voter turnout. What a record if every eligible voter votes!

I recommend a vote for the Democrat ticket, which comes as no surprise. I have no hesitation in supporting every candidate. I think it is important to have a team to work together, from Pocahontas County to Charleston to Washington.

Senator Robert C. Byrd heads the Democratic Ticket. He is a legend and is in a powerful position in the Senate as chairman of the Appropriations Committee. He is a good senator and good for West Virginia—and Pocahontas County. Think of the things we can thank him for: from the Cranberry Mountain Visitors Center to the new telescope at the Green Bank Observatory, Hills Creek Falls road and walkway, appropriations for Monongahela National Forest, highways, bridges, high school graduates' scholarships, to name a few.

Congressman Nick Joe Rahall came to represent us as Pocahontas was moved into the southern Third District a few years ago and he has paid a lot of attention to us. He is chairman of the sub-committee on roads in Congress plus he works with parks, rivers, etc.

Our own Walt Helmick needs a big vote from Pocahontas because he has to run in a big territory of eight counties. Pocahontas is 1/12 of the Fifteenth District, which includes Grant, Hampshire, Hardy, Mineral, Pendleton, Randolph, Upshur, and Pocahontas. Senator Helmick knows his way around Charleston and Washington and has proved valuable in bringing help for the hospital and other projects. He works tirelessly week in and week out, staying in contact with people and events that affect our county. He has a practical vision of the future and if our county leaders cooperate in planning with him and other leaders we can move ahead.

A vote for Joe Martin and Bill Proudfoot are votes to send a message to these delegates who represent us in Charleston that we are important in their campaign—as important as Randolph County, the other county in our Delegate District. They have no opposition.

Joel Callison is our choice for the one opening this year on the County Commission. This member needs to come from the Southern District but the whole County votes for that position.

Mr. Callison was educated in agriculture and has practical experience in the farming business, has taught school, has worked in a job helping people in a practical way to work, plant gardens, and take care of families, and volunteer work in building and repairing homes. He can work with and lead people, can stretch money, and has ideas for the future of the county. We need a team worker.

His opponent is also well educated and well liked, is a teacher, a preacher, and a photographer, but I feel he hasn't shown capability in governing or joining with those on the Commission or those above or below in cooperative effort. My personal conviction is that he has too many jobs to give proper attention to his main job of teaching our young people in the high school.

On the amendments, a For on No. 1 will take some useless language out of the State Constitution.

No. 2 I will vote Against. We need to create a county treasurer to separate the law enforcement from tax collection but that will have to come in the future. A new broom in the Sheriff's office is a good idea every eight years.

A Yes on No. 3 to bring more needed work on water and sewerage services — infrastructure —with help on industrial sites.

On the school levy I will vote Yes. The money is needed and the amount will not be excessive. It is limited to $200,000 for two years, and we in Pocahontas can be depended on to take care of our schools.

The View From Where I Sit

By Russell Jesser, Managing Editor

Norman Alderman would have you believe he is a victim. In one of his advertisements last week he complains about some circulars commenting on his performance as a county commissioner. "They contain a mixture of truth and falsehood cleverly designed to mislead the reader," he says.

Alderman, himself, is not a stranger to this tactic. His earlier ads would have you believe Joel Callison personally netted $245,000 in the [illegible] sale. We think Callison was the primary decision-maker and beneficiary. In fact, Callison had only a 4% interest. Alderman never [illegible] that.

Alderman would also have you believe the people of Pocahontas County are nothing but victims. We can't have a major chicken farm, he says, because some [illegible] in Greenbrier County won't let us. Does a plan for a large chicken farming operation in Pocahontas exist other than in Alderman's mind?

We have no four-lane road nor railroad nor bargeable river into this county. A big chicken farm has big transportation needs. We are hampered by geography and a lack of infrastructure, not by some faceless persecutors from another county. It seems as if Alderman continues pushing his idea of a chicken farm only so he can tell us what victims we are.

A county-wide floodplain ordinance will make you a victim, he says. We have a floodplain ordinance in Marlinton and it allowed me to borrow money to purchase my home. Without the ordinance I couldn't insure my home and no bank would have loaned me money for it. The ordinance allowed me to join the ranks of homeowners. It did not make me a victim.

Alderman doesn't stop there in trying to scare you. He has repeatedly criticized the professionals, businessmen, farmers and retirees—your friends and neighbors—who served on the county's Economic Development Authority. The same people who work in this county every day, who employ people in this county, who make up this county's civic and volunteer organizations are nothing but self-interested, greedy people ready to take advantage of the "common man," Alderman says. This kind of illogical distrust of your fellow man has no place in the County Commission.

Norman Alderman asks for your vote because he hopes he has made you afraid, afraid of employers, afraid of businessmen, afraid of Greenbrier turkey farmers, afraid of responsible government, afraid of your neighbor.

We need leadership, not fear.

Joel Callison wants you to fear nothing but Alderman's cult of victimization. Callison has no track record in public office, but he has well-thought-out plans. Above all he is a reasonable, non-combative man who seeks solutions without placing blame.

Vote for Joel Callison. Ask a friend to vote for him. Take action. Don't be a victim.

Callison for County Commission

Only someone who has been in a cave for the past several months can not be aware that the race for County Commission this year has been a hotly contested one between the incumbent, Norman Alderman, and his challenger, Joel Callison.

The position of county commissioner is somewhat of a paradox. On one hand it is a position with very little actual power. This means it will be difficult for either winner to carry out promises that are made in the heat of a campaign. Economic development is a good example. The Commission has little influence over the coming and going of jobs in the county. Budgetary promises are also usually hollow as new commissioners find they have but small control over how money is spent. Law and court rulings mean that almost all the county's money will go to fund the offices at the Court House.

On the other hand, the County Commission has great power (and responsibilty) in setting the atmosphere for the functioning of county government and as a facilitator for economic growth. The actual power may not be there, but a cooperative group of commissioners can mean the difference between progress and stagnation. A company seeking a location for a facility will quickly be turned away by county leaders in disarray.

The last six years have seen anything but a cooperative commission. The commissioners have battled among themselves and other county offices and agencies. Meetings have featured "surprise" agenda items of importance, with an immediate decision demanded. Decisions have been made, not based on thoughtful consideration of what is best for the county, but based on whichever side of an issue has the largest group at a meeting. The trust between commissioners necessary for respectful disagreement has been lacking.

Relations with the Sheriff's office has been abysmal (although the blame is probably about equally divided between the Commission and whoever is Sheriff). Treatment of groups appointed or partially appointed by the Commission, such as the Economic Development Authority, hospital Board of Trustees, and Solid Waste Authority, has been disgusting at times. There is no excuse for the abuse that has been heaped upon private citizens who have been trying to do difficult jobs at the request of the Commission.

I'm not going to say Mr. Alderman is the sole blame for this situation. After all, too many people have heard me remark upon leaving Commission meetings, that all three members should be immediately removed from office for the good of the county. However, he must accept his share which I believe to be more than one-third.

I'm not suggesting I want commissioners who always agree and think alike. Commissioners have a duty to vote as they feel is the best for the

Continued to page 13

emely farsighted decision for county's youth when they voted ax themselves for a new, olidated high school. That the voters approved a bond of $1,195,000 to build the mic and vocational buildings
lay's Pocahontas County High
ol. Today it would probably t least $4,000,000 to con-
the same facility.

s the quality of the program
taff that is vital to a good
, of course. However, a facility makes teaching and g easier and for the past 25
that's right, 25 - the high students and staff in this have had such a facility. In tudents and staff have done rt to help keep PCHS in ndition. Many visitors to ol cannot believe the school ears old due to the fine
n of the buildings. Many visits to schools in other that are not as old but look
der. We can be proud in tas County.

is the time to protect our nt of a quarter of a century
get it ready for the next century. Even with care and maintenance,
ar out and need replaced
ed. This is the case with it is with our homes.
ears the facility has needs
hat the regular county
ce budget can afford.
f, heating system,
nd restrooms are among eeding major work.

reason the Board of s asking for a special 0,000 for two years to ready for another 25 lents.

make the mistake of s deterioration begin at previous high school
d the misfortune of heir quarter century epression and World when there was no
ep the buildings up
By the 1960's the these buildings was y could have been nd brought up to standards only at know, I taught at School in the 60's.
school, but it could ter with a more lity. The fire at rced the county to and I believe the ic.

By Jane Price Sharp

The first thing is to be sure to vote next Tuesday. Off-year elections are notorious for low voter turnout. What a record if every eligible voter votes!

I recommend a vote for the Democrat ticket, which comes as no surprise. I have no hesitation in supporting every candidate. I think it is important to have a team to work together, from Pocahontas County to Charleston to Washington.

Senator Robert C. Byrd heads the Democratic Ticket. He is a legend and is in a powerful position in the Senate as chairman of the Appropriations Committee. He is a good senator and good for West Virginia—and Pocahontas County. Think of the things we can thank him for: from the Cranberry Mountain Visitors Center to the new telescope at the Green Bank Observatory, Hills Creek Falls road and walkway, appropriations for Monongahela National Forest, highways, bridges, high school graduates' scholarships, to name a few.

Congressman Nick Joe Rahall came to represent us as Pocahontas was moved into the southern Third District a few years ago and he has paid a lot of attention to us. He is chairman of the sub-committee on roads in Congress plus he works with parks, rivers, etc.

Our own Walt Helmick needs a big vote from Pocahontas because he has to run in a big territory of eight counties. Pocahontas is 1/12 of the Fifteenth District, which includes Grant, Hampshire, Hardy, Mineral, Pendleton, Randolph, Upshur, and Pocahontas. Senator Helmick knows his way around Charleston and Washington and has proved valuable in bringing help for the hospital and other projects. He works tirelessly week in and week out, staying in contact with people and events that affect our county. He has a practical vision of the future and if our county leaders cooperate in planning with him and other leaders we can move ahead.

A vote for Joe Martin and Bill Proudfoot are votes to send a message to these delegates who represent us in Charleston that we are important in their campaign—as important as Randolph County, the other county in our Delegate District. They have no opposition.

Joel Callison is our choice for the one opening this year on the County Commission. This member needs to come from the Southern District but the whole County votes for that position.

Mr. Callison was educated in agriculture and has practical experience in the farming business, has taught school, has worked in a job helping people in a practical way to work, plant gardens, and take care of families, and volunteer work in building and repairing homes. He can work with and lead people, can stretch money, and has ideas for the future of the county. We need a team worker.

His opponent is also well educated and well liked, is a teacher, a preacher, and a photographer, but I feel he hasn't shown capability in governing or joining with those on the Commission or those above or below in cooperative effort. My personal conviction is that he has too many jobs to give proper attention to his main job of teaching our young people in the high school.

On the amendments, a For on No. 1 will take some useless language out of the State Constitution.

No. 2 I will vote Against. We need to create a county treasurer to separate the law enforcement from tax collection but that will have to come in the future. A new broom in the Sheriff's office is a good idea every eight years.

A Yes on No. 3 to bring more needed work on water and sewerage services — infrastructure —with help on industrial sites.

On the school levy I will vote Yes. The money is needed and the amount will not be excessive. It is limited to $200,000 for two years, and we in Pocahontas can be depended on to take care of our schools.

* * *

The View From Where I Sit

By Russell Jessee, Managing Editor

Norman Alderman would have you believe he is a victim. In one of his advertisements last week he complains about some circulars commenting on his performance as a county commissioner. "They contain a mixture of truth and falsehood cleverly designed to mislead the reader," he says.

Alderman, himself, is not a stranger to this

We have no four-la county. A big chicke hampered by geograp faceless persecutors f continues pushing his i victims we are.

A county-wide flo says. We have a floodp borrow money to purc insure my home and n ordinance allowed me me a victim.

Alderman doesn't repeatedly criticized retirees—your friend Economic Developme county every day, who county's civic and self-interested, greedy man," Alderman says.
has no place in the Co

Norman Alderman
you afraid, afraid of Greenbrier turkey farm
your neighbor.

We need leadership Joel Callison want victimization. Callison well-thought-out plan man who seeks solutio

Vote for Joel Calli
Don't be a victim.

Cal

Only someone who not be aware that the hotly contested one be challenger, Joel Calliso

The position of cou
one hand it is a positio be difficult for either heat of a campaign.
Commission has little county. Budgetary p missioners find they h Law and court rulings fund the offices at the

On the other hand responsibilty) in settin government and as a f may not be there, but a difference between p location for a facility disarray.

The last six years h
The commissioners h offices and agencies. M importance, with an im made, not based on t county, but based on w meeting. The trust b disagreement has been

Relations with the blame is probably abo whoever is Sheriff). Tr
by the Commission, hospital Board of Tr disgusting at times. The says. We have a floodplain ordinance in Marlinton and it allowed me to borrow money to purchase my home. Without the ordinance I couldn't insure my home and no bank would have loaned me money for it. The ordinance allowed me to join the ranks of homeowners. It did not make me a victim.

Alderman doesn't stop there in trying to scare you. He has repeatedly criticized the professionals, businessmen, farmers and retirees—your friends and neighbors—who served on the county's Economic Development Authority. The same people who work in this county every day, who employ people in this county, who make up this county's civic and volunteer organizations are nothing but self-interested, greedy people ready to take advantage of the "common man," Alderman says. This kind of illogical distrust of your fellow man has no place in the County Commission.

Norman Alderman asks for your vote because he hopes he has made you afraid, afraid of employers, afraid of businessmen, afraid of Greenbrier turkey farmers, afraid of responsible government, afraid of your neighbor.

We need leadership, not fear.

Joel Callison wants you to fear nothing but Alderman's cult of victimization. Callison has no track record in public office, but he has well-thought-out plans. Above all he is a reasonable, non-combative man who seeks solutions without placing blame.

Vote for Joel Callison. Ask a friend to vote for him. Take action. Don't be a victim.

Callison for County Commission

Only someone who has been in a cave for the past several months can not be aware that the race for County Commission this year has been a hotly contested one between the incumbent, Norman Alderman, and his challenger, Joel Callison.

The position of county commissioner is somewhat of a paradox. On one hand it is a position with very little actual power. This means it will be difficult for either winner to carry out promises that are made in the heat of a campaign. Economic development is a good example. The Commission has little influence over the coming and going of jobs in the county. Budgetary promises are also usually hollow as new commissioners find they have but small control over how money is spent. Law and court rulings mean that almost all the county's money will go to fund the offices at the Court House.

On the other hand, the County Commission has great power (and responsibilty) in setting the atmosphere for the functioning of county government and as a facilitator for economic growth. The actual power may not be there, but a cooperative group of commissioners can mean the difference between progress and stagnation. A company seeking a location for a facility will quickly be turned away by county leaders in disarray.

The last six years have seen anything but a cooperative commission. The commissioners have battled among themselves and other county offices and agencies. Meetings have featured "surprise" agenda items of importance, with an immediate decision demanded. Decisions have been made, not based on thoughtful consideration of what is best for the county, but based on whichever side of an issue has the largest group at a meeting. The trust between commissioners necessary for respectful disagreement has been lacking.

Relations with the Sheriff's office has been abysmal (although the blame is probably about equally divided between the Commission and whoever is Sheriff). Treatment of groups appointed or partially appointed by the Commission, such as the Economic Development Authority, hospital Board of Trustees, and Solid Waste Authority, has been disgusting at times. There is no excuse for the abuse that has been heaped upon private citizens who have been trying to do difficult jobs at the request of the Commission.

I'm not going to say Mr. Alderman is the sole blame for this situation. After all, too many people have heard me remark upon leaving Commission meetings, that all three members should be immediately removed from office for the good of the county. However, he must cahontas County made an emely farsighted decision for county's youth when they voted

ax themselves for a new, olidated high school. That the voters approved a bond
of $1,195,000 to build the mic and vocational buildings
lay's Pocahontas County High
l. Today it would probably
t least $4,000,000 to con-
the same facility.
s the quality of the program
aff that is vital to a good
, of course. However, a acility makes teaching and
g easier and for the past 25
that's right, 25 - the high
students and staff in this
have had such a facility. In tudents and staff have done
rt to help keep PCHS in ndition. Many visitors to ol cannot believe the school
ears old due to the fine
n of the buildings. Many isits to schools in other that are not as old but look
der. We can be proud in as County.
is the time to protect our nt of a quarter of a century
get it ready for the next century. Even with care and maintenance,
ar out and need replaced
ed. This is the case with it is with our homes.
ears the facility has needs
hat the regular county
ce budget can afford.
, heating system,
d restrooms are among eding major work.
reason the Board of asking for a special
,000 for two years to eady for another 25
nts.
make the mistake of deterioration begin at revious high school the misfortune of ir quarter century pression and World
when there was no
the buildings up the 1960's the se buildings was could have been brought up to standards only at
now. I taught at school in the 60's.
hool, but it could with a more
The fire at nd the county to nd I believe the Election From My Corner

By Jane Price Sharp

The first thing is to be sure to vote next Tuesday. Off-year elections are notorious for low voter turnout. What a record if every eligible voter votes!

I recommend a vote for the Democrat ticket, which comes as no surprise. I have no hesitation in supporting every candidate. I think it is important to have a team to work together, from Pocahontas County to Charleston to Washington.

Senator Robert C. Byrd heads the Democratic Ticket. He is a legend and is in a powerful position in the Senate as chairman of the Appropriations Committee. He is a good senator and good for West Virginia—and Pocahontas County. Think of the things we can thank him for: from the Cranberry Mountain Visitors Center to the new telescope at the Green Bank Observatory, Hills Creek Falls road and walkway, appropriations for Monongahela National Forest, highways, bridges, high school graduates' scholarships, to name a few.

Congressman Nick Joe Rahall came to represent us as Pocahontas was moved into the southern Third District a few years ago and he has paid a lot of attention to us. He is chairman of the sub-committee on roads in Congress plus he works with parks, rivers, etc.

Our own Walt Helmick needs a big vote from Pocahontas because he has to run in a big territory of eight counties. Pocahontas is 1/12 of the Fifteenth District, which includes Grant, Hampshire, Hardy, Mineral, Pendleton, Randolph, Upshur, and Pocahontas. Senator Helmick knows his way around Charleston and Washington and has proved valuable in bringing help for the hospital and other projects. He works tirelessly week in and week out, staying in contact with people and events that affect our county. He has a practical vision of the future and if our county leaders cooperate in planning with him and other leaders we can move ahead.

A vote for Joe Martin and Bill Proudfoot are votes to send a message to these delegates who represent us in Charleston that we are important in their campaign—as important as Randolph County, the other county in our Delegate District. They have no opposition.

Joel Callison is our choice for the one opening this year on the County Commission. This member needs to come from the Southern District but the whole County votes for that position.

Mr. Callison was educated in agriculture and has practical experience in the farming business, has taught school, has worked in a job helping people in a practical way to work, plant gardens, and take care of families, and volunteer work in building and repairing homes. He can work with and lead people, can stretch money, and has ideas for the future of the county. We need a team worker.

His opponent is also well educated and well liked, is a teacher, a preacher, and a photographer, but I feel he hasn't shown capability in governing or joining with those on the Commission or those above or below in cooperative effort. My personal conviction is that he has too many jobs to give proper attention to his main job of teaching our young people in the high school.

On the amendments, a For on No. 1 will take some useless language out of the State Constitution.

No. 2 I will vote Against. We need to create a county treasurer to separate the law enforcement from tax collection but that will have to come in the future. A new broom in the Sheriff's office is a good idea every eight years.

A Yes on No. 3 to bring more needed work on water and sewerage services — infrastructure —with help on industrial sites.

On the school levy I will vote Yes. The money is needed and the amount will not be excessive. It is limited to $200,000 for two years, and we in Pocahontas can be depended on to take care of our schools.

* * *

The View From Where I Sit

By Russell Jessee, Managing Editor

Norman Alderman would have you believe he is a victim. In one of his advertisements last week he complains about some circulars commenting on his performance as a county commissioner. "They contain a mixture of truth and falsehood cleverly designed to mislead the reader," he says.

Alderman, himself, is not a stranger to this tactic. His earlier ads would have you believe Joel Callison personally netted $245,000 in the

than in Alderman's mind?

We have no four-lane road county. A big chicken farm hampered by geography and faceless persecutors from an continues pushing his idea of victims we are.

A county-wide floodplain says. We have a floodplain ord borrow money to purchase my insure my home and no bank ordinance allowed me to join me a victim.

Alderman doesn't stop t repeatedly criticized the pr retirees—your friends and n Economic Development Auth county every day, who employ county's civic and volunt self-interested, greedy people man," Alderman says. This kin has no place in the County Co

Norman Alderman asks for you afraid, afraid of emplo Greenbrier turkey farmers, afr
your neighbor.

We need leadership, not fea

Joel Callison wants you t victimization. Callison has no well-thought-out plans. Abov man who seeks solutions witho

Vote for Joel Callison. As Don't be a victim.

Callison fo

Only someone who has bee not be aware that the race for hotly contested one between t challenger, Joel Callison.

The position of county com one hand it is a position with be difficult for either winner heat of a campaign. Econom Commission has little influenc county. Budgetary promise missioners find they have bu Law and court rulings mean th fund the offices at the Court H

On the other hand, the C responsibilty) in setting the government and as a facilitat may not be there, but a cooper difference between progress location for a facility will qu disarray.

The last six years have se
The commissioners have ba offices and agencies. Meeting importance, with an immedia made, not based on thought county, but based on whichev meeting. The trust between disagreement has been lacking

Relations with the Sherif blame is probably about equ whoever is Sheriff). Treatmen by the Commission, such a hospital Board of Trustees disgusting at times. There is n upon private citizens who ha request of the Commission.

I'm not going to say Mr. Al

than in Alderman's mind?

We have no four-lane road nor railroad nor bargeable river into this county. A big chicken farm has big transportation needs. We are hampered by geography and a lack of infrastructure, not by some faceless persecutors from another county. It seems as if Alderman continues pushing his idea of a chicken farm only so he can tell us what victims we are.

A county-wide floodplain ordinance will make you a victim, he says. We have a floodplain ordinance in Marlinton and it allowed me to borrow money to purchase my home. Without the ordinance I couldn't insure my home and no bank would have loaned me money for it. The ordinance allowed me to join the ranks of homeowners. It did not make me a victim.

Alderman doesn't stop there in trying to scare you. He has repeatedly criticized the professionals, businessmen, farmers and retirees—your friends and neighbors—who served on the county's Economic Development Authority. The same people who work in this county every day, who employ people in this county, who make up this county's civic and volunteer organizations are nothing but self-interested, greedy people ready to take advantage of the "common man," Alderman says. This kind of illogical distrust of your fellow man has no place in the County Commission.

Norman Alderman asks for your vote because he hopes he has made you afraid, afraid of employers, afraid of businessmen, afraid of Greenbrier turkey farmers, afraid of responsible government, afraid of your neighbor.

We need leadership, not fear.

Joel Callison wants you to fear nothing but Alderman's cult of victimization. Callison has no track record in public office, but he has well-thought-out plans. Above all he is a reasonable, non-combative man who seeks solutions without placing blame.

Vote for Joel Callison. Ask a friend to vote for him. Take action. Don't be a victim.

Callison for County Commission

Only someone who has been in a cave for the past several months can not be aware that the race for County Commission this year has been a hotly contested one between the incumbent, Norman Alderman, and his challenger, Joel Callison.

The position of county commissioner is somewhat of a paradox. On one hand it is a position with very little actual power. This means it will be difficult for either winner to carry out promises that are made in the heat of a campaign. Economic development is a good example. The Commission has little influence over the coming and going of jobs in the county. Budgetary promises are also usually hollow as new commissioners find they have but small control over how money is spent. Law and court rulings mean that almost all the county's money will go to fund the offices at the Court House.

On the other hand, the County Commission has great power (and responsibilty) in setting the atmosphere for the functioning of county government and as a facilitator for economic growth. The actual power may not be there, but a cooperative group of commissioners can mean the difference between progress and stagnation. A company seeking a location for a facility will quickly be turned away by county leaders in disarray.

The last six years have seen anything but a cooperative commission. The commissioners have battled among themselves and other county offices and agencies. Meetings have featured "surprise" agenda items of importance, with an immediate decision demanded. Decisions have been made, not based on thoughtful consideration of what is best for the county, but based on whichever side of an issue has the largest group at a meeting. The trust between commissioners necessary for respectful disagreement has been lacking.

Relations with the Sheriff's office has been abysmal (although the blame is probably about equally divided between the Commission and whoever is Sheriff). Treatment of groups appointed or partially appointed by the Commission, such as the Economic Development Authority, hospital Board of Trustees, and Solid Waste Authority, has been disgusting at times. There is no excuse for the abuse that has been heaped upon private citizens who have been trying to do difficult jobs at the request of the Commission.

I'm not going to say Mr. Alderman is the sole blame for this situation. After all, too many people have heard me remark upon leaving Commission meetings, that all three members should be immediately removed from office for the good of the county. However, he must accept his share which I believe to be more than one third.

Paid Political Advertisement Paid Political Advertisement

A SINCERE REQUEST FOR YOUR SUPPORT

NORMAN LEE ALDERMAN

As you go to the polls please keep two things in mind, my record and my stand on the issues. You will see that my actions and my words match. I back up my talk with my walk. I take any decision deadly serious. I see issues generally in matters of black and white—right or wrong. I approach decisions with the seriousness of battle, I take them home in my head, worry about them in my heart, debate them thoroughly and vote according to what I think is right.

Over the last six years I have acted upon what I believed was right—not merely legally right, but morally right. Many times the alternatives are all legal and the only distinction is the moral correctness of one or the other. I have never gone along with the crowd. I fit into nobody's mold. I am not one of the good old boys. I am part of no clique. I vote independently upon each issue and by myself if necessary! I am not afraid to say no!

issue and by myself if necessary! I am not afraid to say no!

In 1989 the commission was asked to pass a zoning ordinance which affected the property rights of everyone with land in the floodplain. The towns of Marlinton and Durbin voted for that ordinance and they have it today. If you live in town your vote for county commissioner will not affect the city ordinance in any way. Only your elected town officials can change that.

I could not vote for that ordinance because it covers all land lying in the floodplain (much of it was farmland) including many common farming practices such as fencing, drilling and dredging. Even things that are not normally insured or insurable are controlled and you must obtain a permit for any manmade change. Nearly every stream is included. Much farmland would have fallen under government control. This is not a harmless ordinance; it is the beginning of full-fledged county-wide zoning in this county. Zoning never stays small! I don't want anybody telling me what to do with my property. Please help me keep it that way. We need each other. Together we can bind the hands of those who would take control of our land leaving us with the taxes alone to pay.

Hundreds of you signed petitions in 1989 to stop the county floodplain zoning ordinance. I humbly ask all of you who signed those petitions to come out to the polls on election day and vote for Norman Lee Alderman. I need your help again and together we can keep zoning dead and buried in Pocahontas County. Let's cut the head off this stinking monster before it destroys the rest of our freedom.

You are free today to use your property as you deem fit. You may not be come January 1995. The balance on the commission now stands at 2 against 1 for this ordinance. I am against this ordinance. Seldom has there been an election in this county that could so dramatically affect your freedom and your pocketbook.

A vote for Norman Lee Alderman is a vote to tell the zoners to take a long walk on a short plank. Tell those who would regulate your land that you are sick and tired of others telling you what to do with the property you own. You tie the hands of the zoning regulators this election, and I will vote to keep them tied for the next six years.

Political Advertisement Paid by Norman Lee Alderman, Candidate for County Commission

Green Bank Eagles
1994 Girls' Middle School Champs
Back Row (L-R) Henry Shinaberry, Coach, Alison Flegel, Kimberly McLaughlin, Jennifer Gum, Christine Fischl, Margaret Clark, Amanda Shinaberry, Pamela Mick, Jesse Peck, Coach Front Row (L-R) Jennifer Simmons, Melanie Roberts, Christine Holstine, Valerie McLaughlin, Pam Grimes, Allison Dickenson

Marlinton Copperheads
Back Row (L-R) Bernadette Rolleston, Coach, Laticia Evans, Student Assistant, Jennifer Evans, Rachel Barb, Hollie Hollandsworth, Ginger Henry, Kristin Bennett, Hope May, Leanne Holbert, John Snyder, Coach Front Row (L-R) Lena Ray, Samantha Simmons, Krissy Keller, Amanda Bronson, Shanna McComb

Miss Bran
Marlinton
October 14,

Midget Champion

Th Vikings w three games on were not easy vic

In the C game with only 41 seco the game. Their e failed. With only o the clock, Josh Kr
the Vikings on a lo
Waugh added an ex
7-6 win.

In the B game, P scored first, then scored 6 for the Vik extra point by Alan Kramer added anothe
the final score 13-7 i Vikings. Fumble reco made by Josh Kramer, and Michael Lester.

The A game was als

PCHS Footbal

The Pocahontas
Warriors ended their seas

Marlinton Copperheads
Back Row (L-R) Bernadette Rolleston, Coach, Laticia Evans, Student Assistant, Jennifer Evans, Rachel Barb, Hollie Hollandsworth, Ginger Henry, Kristin Bennett, Hope May, Leanne Holbert, John Snyder, Coach Front Row (L-R) Lena Ray, Samantha Simmons, Krissy Keller, Amanda Bronson, Shanna McComb

All Tournament Team
Back Row (L-R) Katrina Goehner, Carman Pennington, Ginger Henry, Kristin Bennett, Shanna McComb Front Row (L-R) Kimberly McLaughlin, Alison Flegel, Christine Fischl

Green Bank Wins Tournament

The Green Bank Eagles Girls' Basketball team became the county champions by defeating Marlinton in the final game of the county tournament on Monday. The score was 36-23 in the game played at PCHS. The first game of the tournament was held last Friday between Green Bank and Hillsboro with the Eagles defeating the Red Devils.

In Monday's game, Green Bank jumped out to an early lead and retained the scoring advantage throughout the game. At the half the score was 18-9 in favor of was Green Bank's Alison Flegel with 12. Shanna McComb shot for 8 points and was the lead scorer for Marlinton. Making the other points for Green Bank were Christine Fischl, 8, Kimberly McLaughlin, 6, Amanda Shinaberry, 5 and Pamela Mick, 3. For Marlinton, Kristen Bennett, Ginger Henry and Leanne Holbert each had 4 points and Hope May, 3.

Named to the All-Tournament Team were Katrina Beth Goehner and Carmen Pennington, of Hillsboro; Ginger Henry, Kristen Bennett and Shanna Mc

Youth Sports

Miss Brandy Burdette and Mr. Joe Rider were named Marlinton Vikings Homecoming Queen and King on October 14, 1994.

h, Alison Christine ela Mick,

Roberts, Grimes,

Laticia Barb, nnett,

Krissy

Midget Football Championship Games

Th Vikings were victorious in all three games on Sunday, but they were not easy victories.

In the C game, Highland scored with only 41 seconds remaining in the game. Their extra point attempt failed. With only one second left on the clock, Josh Kramer scored for the Vikings on a long run and Josh Waugh added an extra point for the 7-6 win.

In the B game, Highland again scored first, then Michael May scored 6 for the Vikings, with an extra point by Alan Ryder. Josh Kramer added another TD to make the final score 13-7 in favor of the Vikings. Fumble recoveries were made by Josh Kramer, Dewey Burr and Michael Lester.

The A game was also a thriller. The Vikings scored first on a TD pass from Joe Rider to Curtis Phillips with an extra point added by Joe Rider. After fumble recoveries by Curtis Phillips and Jared Cain, Joe Rider added 7 more points.

The Eagles got on the score board with a TD pass from Brandon Fedak to Craig Baldwin. The extra point was no good. Seth Ferrell scored another TD for the Eagles and they decided to try to kick for 2 points. Jamie Burgess blocked Eric Ricottilli's kick, but there was a penalty called and a rekick. Jamie again blocked the kick, which left the final score 14-12 in favor of the Vikings.

All three teams are to be commended for their good sportsmanship and fine efforts.

- - -

PCHS Football

The Pocahontas County Warriors ended their season with a hard fought loss to the Rams of season with a 5-5 record. Jonathan Hicks scored the Warriors' lone TD on a five-yard run. Brad Mille would kick the extra point.

Hono

Marlinton M

Mr. Tom San Marlinton Midd like to announc List, Honor Roll
the first six wee school year. To Principal's List a all A's, a four-pc listed on the Ho must have a gpa
3.999. To be li Roll, a student between 3.0 and

Princi

Eighth Gr
Hannah, Warr
Megan McGee, J

Seventh
Henry, James B Hollandsworth

Sixth Gra
Armstrong, T
Samantha Mitch Ben Wilfong

Fifth Grade
Billy Herold, K
Emily Poore

Hon

Eighth G Browning, Just Lowe, Matthew Deputy, Chris Perry, Joe Rider
Sam Herold, An McComb, B
Sherman Taylor,

Seventh Gra Matthew Gay, Samantha S
Smallridge, Jona Anderson, Cat
Rhea, Brad Sewe

Sixth Grad
Ashley Keatley,
Eli Sharp, Ada
Wilfong, Leslie
Boggs, Kirsten
Henry, K. C.
Elizabet Jason orth, ng.
Rhea

Elizabeth Clark and Molly Ivins on the steps of the Governor's Mansion.

Clark attends Leadership Lecture

On September 26, renowned journalist, author, and nationally syndicated columnist Molly Ivins was the speaker at the first W. E. Chilton III Leadership Lecture Series in Charleston. Pocahontas County High School sophomore Elizabeth Clark was invited to attend Ms. Ivins' press conference and her lecture. Afterwards, Elizabeth met and spoke with Ms. Ivins. Elizabeth is researching a social studies project that compares the mainstream media and the alternative press; Ms. Ivins is unique in that she writes for both. In her lecture, Ms. Ivins discussed the "pernicious ideal of objectivity" in journalism today. With examples she explained that objectivity does not guarantee truth and, in fact, usually hides the truth.

Elizabeth had contacted the journalist in August when the PCHS student learned that Ms. Ivins was to be speaking at the Cultural Center in Charleston. Elizabeth considered meeting Ms. Ivins as "the high point of my entire school year."

PCHS Schedule

Thursday, November 3 — Girls' Basketball vs. Greenbrier West, away, 7 p.m.

Monday, November 7 — Girls' Basketball vs. Webster County, home, 7 p.m.

Tuesday, November 8 — Election Day Holiday

Friday, November 11 — Veterans' Day Holiday

Friday, November 18 — Faculty Senate, students dismissed at 12:45

November 21-25 — Thanksgiving Break

Parks & Recreation • 799-7386

Railroad ate Park 56-4300

Callison for County Commission

Continued from page 2.

County regardless of the opinions of the other members. (and the loudest voices at meeings.) However, this can be done without the disgraceful scenes we have observed at Commission meetings in recent years. It is possible for intelligent adults to discuss, disagree, vote, accept a decision once it's made, and then move on to other issues without rancor and to retain trust in each other. This has not been the case with the Commission, however.

The two candidates have each taken credit for the idea of a prison at Denmar. They each, as well as many others, can take their share of the credit for the success there. The Commission did the right things in selling the property - it was sucking up money for maintenance that the county did not have - and in buying it back. The owners had the right to sell it for what they felt they needed out of it. (As a strong believer in property rights, at least according to his campaign ads, Mr. Alderman should support this.)

Mr. Alderman has made a big issue out of zoning, which I wasn't aware was an issue in the county at this time, except in Mr. Alderman's mind. There is no county-wide zoning ordinance being proposed by anyone that I know of. That is not to say the issue might not come up in the future. It surely will someday, probably as a mandate from a higher governing level. When that time comes, I want commissioners who are capable of compromise and working out the best arrangement for our county. People who stand and say No, absolutely No, on any given issue are not unlike a child standing at the shore trying to stop the tide from washing away a sand castle.

The flood plain ordinance has been an issue for a number of years. Mr. Alderman claims, somehow, to know that if Mr. Callison is elected the ordinance will again be put into effect in the county. I personally hope it will be if Mr. Callison is elected, to put the issue behind us, but neither I nor Mr. Alderman can predict the future. Whether to call the ordinance zoning is a useless argument about the definition of a word. It does involve some restrictions, mainly of a common sense nature, to protect against flooding. It is an insurance program - both for people who want to buy flood insurance and for the county to obtain federal help if an '85 disaster happens again. All insurance policies have some restrictions, read some of yours. Your fire insurance will probably not pay off if the fire came from a campfire in your living room.

As a member of that small, but powerful (?) group of Marlinton businessmen, I am anxious to hear from Mr. Alderman how I am to profit if the Commission passes the flood plain ordinance.

I am mystified by his attack on Marlinton businesses. After all, we do supply a number of jobs for the county and I thought jobs was one of Mr. Alderman's main concerns. Included among the Marlinton businesses is Hanover Shoe, the largest private employer in the county.

I am also anxious to know exactly who he found to be the hogs at the trough when he became a commissioner. The county's fire and rescue squads perhaps?

I dislike writing this article as I value Mr. Alderman as a friend, know he has worked harder than many commissioners, and is deeply concerned for Pocahontas County and its people. Unfortunately, he has not been able to develop the necessary abilities for working in a democratic system of governing that requires compromise. He has let his very strong, and I believe, sincere, beliefs on certain issues become passions that have made him unable to accept decisions contrary to his views and to cloud his opinion on the motives of other people. He at times as shown more trust in people from out of the county, such as Sonny Emerson of private prison fame, than his fellow Pocahontas County citizens.

I urge the support of Joel Callison for County Commission. I feel he has the ability to work with others which is needed on the Commission at

Legal Advertisements

Blankenship, Harvey
Boggs, J.C. & Wife
Buzbee, Wm. M. & Jo Marie Casto, Arnold (et als)
Casto, Arnold G. & Ethel C.
Casto, Ethel
Culver, Craig & Eleanor M.
Duvall, J. Sprigg IV & Eleanor Elk River Land Co.
Fitzsimmons, Timothy T.
Garrett, Mary E.
Garrett, Mary E.
Goodwin, Frederick K. & Rosemar
Grabeel, Daniel E. & Marjorie M.
Griffis, Carol Jr. & Francis Louis Grimes, Ida B. & U.S. Heirs
Hankins, John Henry & Mitzie Hennigan, Thomas X. & Stella L.
Herndon, Larry W. & Pamelia Hollenbeck, Larry E. & Ann L.
Holt, J.M.
Journey's End, Inc.
" "
" "
Keesey, Robert L.
Larch, Robert Lee
Lehman Family Estate
Loux, Theodore C. & Constance
" "
Magann, Connie L. & Donald E.
Riggenback, Willis D & Wanda Rutherford, John David & Cheryl Ryder, Mary L.
Schnabel Foundation Co.
Scoville, Warren N. & Nancy C.
Shane, Michael F.
Sharp, Debbie Miller
Sharp, Ronald R.
Sharpe, W.D. & Mary Ann Shenandoah Federal Savings
Solliday, Martin Jr. & Donna
Turnage, John O. & Anna L.
Vernon, Graham D. & Susan N.
Warner, W.W. & Pearl
Warwick, Robert W.
West Virginia Mountain Properti
" "
" "
" "
" "
" "
" "
" "
" "
" "
" "
" "
" "
" "
" "

performed by creatures from Quiddity, the dream-sea, which leads to a confrontation with malignant forces from the land Ouroboros.

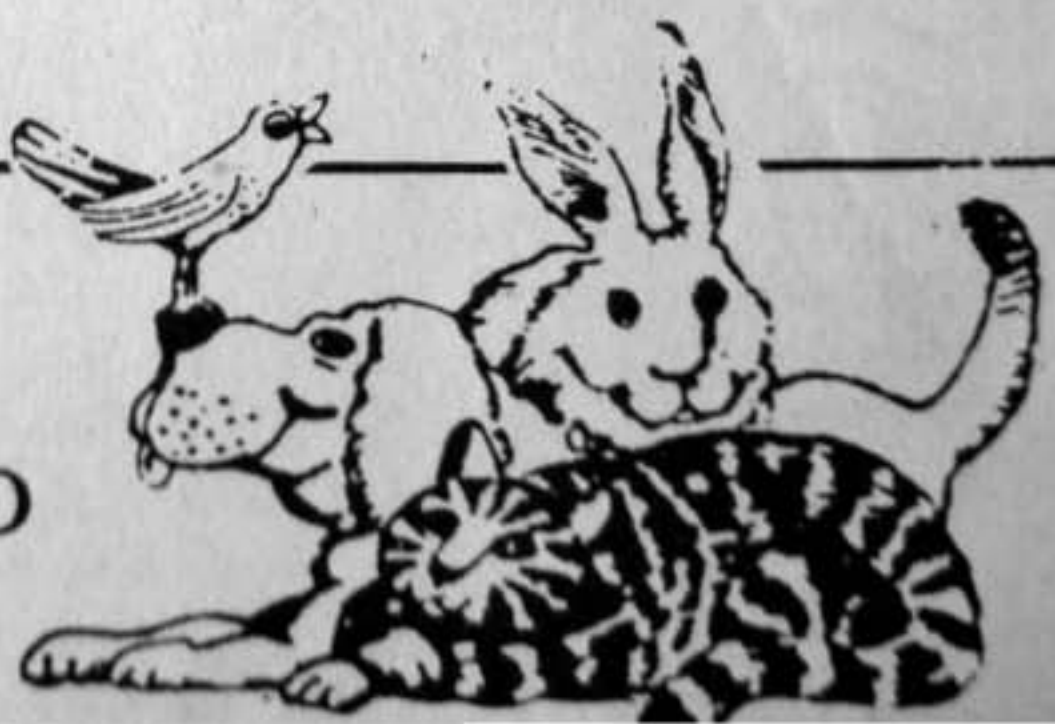
Call 1-800-237-0842 for more information

"Shall the throne of iniquity have fellowship with Thee, which frameth mischief by a law?"
(Psalm 94:20)

"Justice being taken away, then, what are kingdoms but great robberies? For what are robberies themselves but little kingdoms?"

(St. Augustine, The City of God)

Submitted by H. Walkup, M.D.



WHEN YOU NEED A PRO

Time

OCTOBER 27, 1994

BIRTHS

Steve and Lauren Bennett are proud to announce the birth of their daughter, Amy Lynn, on October 12, 1994, at Greenbrier Valley Hospital in Fairlea. She weighed 7 lbs. 12 ozs. and was 19 1/2 inches long.

Paternal grandparents are Allen and Pat Bennett, of Marlinton.

Maternal grandparents are Richard and Roberta Stanfield, of Baltimore, Maryland. Maternal great-grandmothers are Phyllis Lerch, of Sykesville, Maryland, and Marge Stanfield, of Randallstown, Maryland.

- - -

Lillian E. Wilfong, of Bartow, announces the birth of a son, Brian Allen, in the Davis Memorial Hospital. Brian was born October 10, 1994, and weighed 5 pounds,

Letters

Dear Editor,

Our small, rural hospital has struggled over the years to provide health care to the poor, the elderly, the disabled, the distressed in our isolated county. Devastated by the Flood of November '85, our people have struggled and toiled to obtain funding, mostly through a private loan, for a desperately needed new hospital, out of the flood zone. As of this date, construction is half completed, and especially our elderly were rejoicing in the hope of this new hospital.

But then Big Labor entered the picture, caught wind that we were not using the exorbitant prevailing wage rates, and have moved rather successfully to stop our construction.

The reason we cannot afford prevailing wage rates is that over 80% of our hospital's business is government claims. Medicare and Medicaid reimbursement rates are extremely poor for hospital services. This precludes prosperity, yet our employees have sacrificed and gone without in order to keep this hospital going.

The reason the government has such marginal reimbursements is that over 40% of the Medicare budget goes to support the massive, regulatory bureaucracy of the federal government, which does earn prevailing wage rates. Little is left for poor West Virginia.

The reason billions of dollars leave West Virginia every year in federal taxes, never to return, is because our federal Senators have, over the years, abandoned the constraints of the U.S. Constitution and helped create this gigantic federal beast which is devouring our resources and our liberties.

West Virginia, if you continue to put in to power such people, it shall no longer be said of you, "Montani your taxes were $150, your taxes will increase about $15 per year for two years. Is this really a lot to ask of the parents and grandparents of present and future PCHS students for much needed repairs and renovations?

We know that lots of times when projects are considered in the county, we hear about studies being done, architects being used, and engineers being hired. Money from the levy will not be spent in these ways. 100% of all the money from the levy will be spent at PCHS with as much work as possible being done by the county maintenance crew and the high school vocational department to increase the buying power of the money received.

I did not attend PCHS, but my sister graduated from there. I have talked to other students and the staff at the school. The single-pane windows make for uncomfortable classrooms during our cold winters. And one of the teachers shared with me that she was afraid for the students to lean against the windows because the glass tends to fall out. Not only do the windows need replacing, but we have to think of 25 year old plumbing, wiring, and heating systems. Also, the roof is in much need of maintenance work. Very few people, if any, can say that after 25 years their private homes are not in need of some type of maintenance or repair.

The installation of new windows alone would pay for itself in 3.7 years from savings in heating costs. Can we, as voters, not make it possible for the county to take advantage of these savings in these rough economic times?

So, as I said in the beginning, I think we need to closely look at this levy and what it can do for "our" children to make their educational no longer be said of you, "Montani semper liberi", but rather "Montani semper tyrannus".

Sincerely,
Harry Walkup, M.D.
Friend of Pocahontas Memorial Hospital, Marlinton, WV

- - -

Dear Editor:

As election day draws near, I feel we, as parents, grandparents, and concerned citizens in Pocahontas County should take time to closely look at the special levy proposed by the Pocahontas County Board of Education.

When the word "levy" is mentioned, the first thing people ask is, "How much is it gonna cost me?" If the levy passes, property taxes will increase by about 10% for the 2 years it is in effect. So if

Paid Political Advertisement

ATTENTION V

Two anonymous circulars are being circ

Letters

al hospital has years to provide oor, the elderly, istressed in our evastated by the
'85, our people toiled to obtain rough a private ely needed new flood zone. As ruction is half especially our g in the hope of bor entered the d that we were tant prevailing moved rather stop our cannot afford es is that over r's business is Medicare and ment rates are for hospital des prosperity, ave sacrificed order to keep overnment has ursements is the Medicare on the massive, racy of the

your taxes were $150, your taxes will increase about $15 per year for two years. Is this really a lot to ask of the parents and grandparents of present and future PCHS students for much needed repairs and renovations?

We know that lots of times when projects are considered in the county, we hear about studies being done, architects being used, and engineers being hired. Money from the levy will not be spent in these ways. 100% of all the money from the levy will be spent at PCHS with as much work as possible being done by the county maintenance crew and the high school vocational department to increase the buying power of the money received.

I did not attend PCHS, but my sister graduated from there. I have talked to other students and the staff at the school. The single-pane windows make for uncomfortable classrooms during our cold winters. And one of the teachers shared with me that she was afraid for the students to lean against the windows because the glass tends to fall out. Not only do the windows need replacing, but we have to think of 25 year old plumbing, wiring, and heating systems. Also, the roof is in much need of maintenance work. Very few

Window replacement is hi the Board's list of needs. A meeting, I asked, "Have windows been considered, lower-cost energy-sa alternative?" No, they h
"How about re-glazing insulating glass?" No.

Total replacement someone's first thought, s simple, somebody's friend g off-the-cuff estimate of $1, replace each double windo
this is what went into the f for the levy.

We're told that the motor the classroom heating un ready to go, and need replaced. Well, I work on some, so this caught my i maybe I can learn someth asked, "How many already f
Only a few, was the ansv asked, "What part of the on failed was at fault? A mo two bearings, a rotor, s winding, running winding, switch, capacitor . . . in som replacement of the bad part i cheaper than a whole new m

But no one at the meetin of the administrators or members who are asking

...ital's business is
...ms. Medicare and
...rsement rates are
...r for hospital
...cludes prosperity,
...es have sacrificed
... in order to keep
...g.
...e government has
...imbursements is
...of the Medicare
...pport the massive,
...aucracy of the
...ent, which does
...age rates. Little is
... Virginia.
...llions of dollars
...nia every year in
...ver to return, is
...al Senators have,
... abandoned the
... U.S. Constitution
...te this gigantic
...ch is devouring
...our liberties.
...f you continue to
...h people, it shall
...f you, "Montani
... rather "Montani

Sincerely,
...y Walkup, M.D.
...ontas Memorial
..., WV

...y draws near, I
..., grandparents,
... citizens in
...y should take
...k at the special
...the Pocahontas

...linked to other students and the staff at the school. The single-pane windows make for uncomfortable classrooms during our cold winters. And one of the teachers shared with me that she was afraid for the students to lean against the windows because the glass tends to fall out. Not only do the windows need replacing, but we have to think of 25 year old plumbing, wiring, and heating systems. Also, the roof is in much need of maintenance work. Very few people, if any, can say that after 25 years their private homes are not in need of some type of maintenance or repair.

The installation of new windows alone would pay for itself in 3.7 years from savings in heating costs. Can we, as voters, not make it possible for the county to take advantage of these savings in these rough economic times?

So, as I said in the beginning, I think we need to closely look at this levy and what it can do for "our" children to make their educational environment more comfortable and safe as they prepare for the future.

I would encourage all voters to approach the polls on November 8 with these things in mind. Support WARRIOR PRIDE, Twenty-Five. Vote "YES" on the special levy for PCHS.

Joann Estep

Dear Editor:

Protection of public assets like our high school is important. The

Only a few, was the asked, "What part of t failed was at fault? A two bearings, a rot winding, running win switch, capacitor . . . i replacement of the bad cheaper than a whole

But no one at the n
of the administrato members who are a

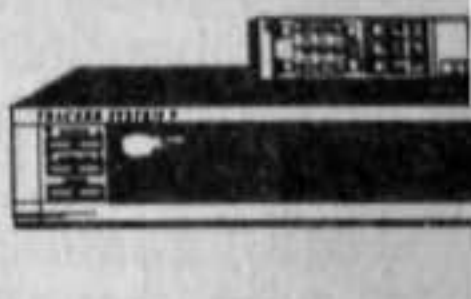
TRACKER SYST
BY HTS



• UHF Remote Control • C
• On-Screen Graphics C
• 20 Favorite Programs • D
• Front Panel Display V
C

Complete systems
$29/mo. w

Jerry's Electroni
Monterey, Va.
703-468-2000
Offering complete sale sales and service.

's Restaurant
October 30
Eucharist

Paid Political Advertisement

Paid Political Advertisement

ATTENTION VOTERS

Two anonymous circulars are being circulated in the Marlinton area entitled "Facts About Norman Alderman." These are unsigned except for the terms Concerned Pocahontas County Citizens. These are not authored by me; nor are they published by the local anti-zoning group formed in the 1970s that I am currently a member of called Pocahontas County Concerned Citizens, Inc. These circulars are, in fact, the exact opposite. They should more accurately be entitled, "Lies About Norman Alderman." They contain a mixture of truth and falsehood cleverly designed to mislead the reader. It is harder to find the truth in these circulars than to find the pork in a can of pork and beans or the prize in a cracker jack box. It is against WV law to publish or circulate any anonymous campaign literature.

This campaign tactic harks back to a dark time in Pocahontas County history in which another anonymous circular was circulated several years ago the night before the election entitled "Are we sheep?" Many older folks will remember those dark times.

My stand against zoning has offended a few businessmen in the town of Marlinton who stand to make a financial gain with the imposition of the floodplain zoning ordinance. This is a small, but very powerful group. They cannot afford to see Norman Alderman re-elected.

If you would like to see these circulars, two businesses had these posted Saturday in their storefronts on Main Street in Marlinton. I hope that you will study them carefully to separate the fact from the fiction. If you have any questions please call me at 799-7374.

I had hoped to publish the first of these for your own examination; but now with the publication of the second circular, I am certain I can't compete with the prolific Xerox of the author. It is too easy to produce these and the process is too fast. An ad in The Pocahontas Times costs $3 a column inch; a Xerox copy costs about 3 cents a page. For example, this ad will cost $54 or more.

I am only concerned that you know who my opponents are, that they get their facts straight, and that they have the courage to sign their names to their statements. I have never been ashamed to sign anything I publish; neither should they. Truth doesn't need to hide behind a cloak of secrecy. I fully expect that you will receive some type of correspondence, perhaps on a car window, on a doorstep, or through the mail a day or so before the election. Check to see if it is signed and who signed it and give me a call. It is difficult to deal with lies when one doesn't know the liar.

Vote Norman Lee Alderman— Unashamed to sign his name!

Political Advertisement Paid by Norman Lee Alderman, Candidate for County Commission

PHARMA

SUAVE
SHAMPOO OR CONDITIONER - 22.5 oz.
MOUSSE - 7.5 oz.
HAIR SPRAY - 10.5 oz.
Economy Size

LEON MACA & CHE
7.25 oz.

VASELINE INTENSIVE CARE LOTION
10 oz.
All formulas

COLGA
Reg. $

WE RESERVE THE RIGHT TO LIMIT QUANTITIES

For the Rite Al

In Service

Lt. Gen. John Coburn pins Major General stars on George Friel at a ceremony at the Aberdeen Proving Ground on October 11. Assisting is Maj. Gen. Friel's wife, Audrey.

Friel Promoted To Major General

For the first time in the history of Aberdeen Proving Ground, there are more than two major generals billeted here.

Brig. Gen. George E. Friel, commander of the Chemical and Biological Defense Command, was advanced to the grade of major general October 11 at the Edgewood Area Parade Field.

Two-star slots at APG have traditionally been held by post commanders and generals at the Ordnance Center and School. Now, the Edgewood Area will also have a major general commanding Headquarters CBDCOM, bringing the U. S. Army chemical Destruction Agency and the storage function of the eight U. S. chemical weapons stockpiles under CBDCOM, resulting in a merger that will destroy the nation's obsolete chemical weapons. He also serves as deputy chief of staff for Chemical and Biological Matters of AMC, Alexandria, Virginia.

Friel, 52, arrived in Edgewood in 1992 to command what was then the Chemical Research, Development and Engineering Center.

In January 1993, AMC's first emergency service response force was dispatched to Spring Valley, Washington, D.C.

Lt. Gen. John G. Coburn, deputy commanding general of the U. S. Army Materiel Command and former OC&S commander at APG, pinned Friel's stars during the advancement ritual.

"If you and I were allowed to tailor make a soldier or to tailor make an ideal Army couple we couldn't do better than George and Audrey Friel," Coburn said. "Everywhere they've gone in our Army they've been leaders of and contributors to our way of life."

"It's been my observation over the years that all of our great leaders, whoever they may be, are inbued with some sort of wonderful combination of toughness and tenderness within - an ability to be as tough as nails when need be but an ability to sincerely empathize with soldiers," Coburn said. "George Friel is imbued with those qualities, for everywhere he goes, he's recognized as a strong, caring leader - a leader who gets things done by getting extraordinary effort out of ordinary people."

Coburn told the audience that what our country needs today is dedication, perseverance, and concern - all qualities which George and Audrey Friel possess.

Friel ranked number two on President Clinton's nomination list of 29 brigadier generals for promotion to major general.

"General Coburn, thanks for being here today. Sir, it was an honor to have you put the stars on. I want to thank all those great people in this organization who make a general's job fun and rewarding," Friel said. "I believe that I, along with you, have been given a great window of opportunity - a fleeting jump outside the shackles of bureaucracy - to make a real difference for our country. I'm committed to that goal!"

His duties at CBDCOM include World War I-era chemical munitions in a new housing development. Friel has been commended for managing CBDCOM's Technical Escort Unit during Operation Safe Removal.

A Marlinton native, Friel began his military career in 1965 at the Officer Candidate School, Fort Benning, Georgia. He holds a bachelor's degree from the University of Nebraska and a master's degree from Northwest Missouri State University. His military education includes the U.S. Army Chemical School Basic and Advanced courses, the Army Command and General Staff College, and the Industrial College of the Armed Forces. He is the son of Joseph and Leanna Friel, of Marlinton.

His awards and decorations include the Distinguished Service Medal, the Legion of Merit (with three Oak Leaf Clusters), the Bronze Star, the Meritorious Service Medal (with Oak Leaf Cluster), and the Air Medal (five awards).

Brig. Gen. Friel and his wife, Audrey, live in the Edgewood area of APG. They have two daughters, Theresa Davis and Tammy Connor, a son, Bradley, and two grandchildren, Kristina and Jacob.

Paid Political Advertisement

Vot

Senator W

L-R: Tom Sanders, Joe Mitchell, Nancy Martin, and Cathy Mitchell

Mitchell teams up with 6th graders

The Marlinton Middle School sixth graders recently signed a business partnership agreement with Mitchell Chevrolet, Inc. Tentative plans include a student shadow who will be chosen once each month to experience educational applications in the business world at the job site. Students will also use their language and artistic talents to develop an advertisement for publication in the news. The sixth graders look forward to a fruitful relationship with their new partner in learning.

each month to experience educational applications in the graders look forward to a fruitful relationship with their new partner in learning.

Local Service Forester, John Rossell, of the West Virginia Division of Forestry, presented the $500 check to Cass Chief Jimmy Sheets.

Cass VF&R Conpany gets $500

The Cass Volunteer Fire and Rescue received $500 through the federal Rural Community Fire Protection program. Funds for the grant come from the Federal Cooperative Forestry Assistance Act and are channeled through state forestry agencies. The purpose of the program is to assist volunteer fire departments in providing rural fire protection.

Obituaries

Violet Whitmire Botkin

Violet Whitmire Botkin, of Verona, Virginia, died Saturday, October 22, 1994, at the Rockingham Memorial Hospital in

Ethel V. Crummett Foster

Ethel V. Crummet Foster, 82, of Mountain Grove, Virginia, died Wednesday, October 19, 1994, a Bath County Community Hospi

Paid Political Advertisement Paid Political Advertisement

SIX REASONS TO FIGHT COUNTY-WIDE ZONING

by Norman Lee Alderman

Joel Callison says that he is not for county-wide zoning. But what parts of our county does he want to zone? He has already declared support for floodplain zoning. Now he has added another dimension, industrial zoning. He wants to have some local regulations to go with the thousands of other state and federal ones. First, it was a permit system for land in the floodplain, now even before this election is over and within a few months of his original declaration he has evolved to the point of support for an industrial regulation system. If he evolves that quickly, he won't have any trouble expanding zoning to other areas in six years, will he?

1. Zoners deny that property owners know how to manage their property. You must get a permit to develop your property. That permit is granted if other people, who have no investment in your property, agree with you about what you want to do with your land. They don't think you are competent to develop your property without their guidance.

2. Zoning is costly. Taxes are high enough as is. Zoning costs property owners a lot of money—$$$ for permits, $$$ for compliance, $$$ in penalties. I know of a case in another community where a couple spent $25,000 in legal fees alone trying to resolve a zoning dispute. Why should you pay taxes and someone else tell you what to do with your property?

3. Zoning threatens your freedom. Synagogues, churches, civic clubs have been denied their right to assembly or to serve in a community because of zoning laws. One church got in trouble with the law because it tried to run a soup kitchen to feed the hungry. One man got in trouble for flying the U.S. flag.

4. Zoning is a threat to home offices, home businesses and crafting work. Home offices or craft shops in the home or as an adjunct to the home are often the target of zoners. Pocahontas County has many home crafters and a great future in home office facilities, but these are targets of zoners.

5. Zoning threatens farming. It is no accident that the July, 1994, edition of the West Virginia Farm Bureau News has three articles devoted to property rights. Farmers have scored a victory recently with a U.S. Supreme Court decision regarding property rights. But the victories are scarce. We must work hard to keep zoning away from our farming

zoners. Pocahontas County has many home crafters and a great future in home office facilities, but these are targets of zoners.

5. Zoning threatens farming. It is no accident that the July, 1994, edition of the West Virginia Farm Bureau News has three articles devoted to property rights. Farmers have scored a victory recently with a U.S. Supreme Court decision regarding property rights. But the victories are scarce. We must work hard to keep zoning away from our farming communities, even those in the floodplain. Zoners want to restrict farming for zoning is inherently a "restrictive" system. Your property rights are decreased by zoning, not increased. Pocahontas farmers should be especially concerned located in the heart of the tourism stream of WV. Zoning makes it harder to farm, not easier.

6. Zoning threatens jobs. Many industries are driven away from a community as laws get tighter and tighter. Pocahontas has so little development land left that with zoning it will be nearly impossible to get new businesses to come to our county. Some businesses are "grandfathered in" originally, but then the trap closes as future expansion or remodeling occurs. Joel Callison openly declares that he supports industrial zoning and that it will help get jobs. I know that he sincerely believes that, but he is sincerely wrong. Just look at the trouble Howes Leather had with the EPA regulations. Those regulations did not make it easier for them to stay in business; it made it much harder. Industrial zoners attempt to set up a permit system which an industry must trudge through before it is licensed to set up in a community. This creates a barrier making a community less attractive to a prospective employer. For established industries such as Interstate Lumber, Hanover Shoe, or Judy Fencecraft, industrial zoning develops a system of regulations which creates a very expensive burden upon them as well as making it harder for them to do business in general. Let's not drive away the jobs we do have.

"I support keeping all our property rights and saving our jobs at the same time!"

Norman Lee Alderman

Political Advertisement Paid by Norman Lee Alderman, Candidate for County Commission

example of what EPA ns did." Alderman said the ituation was made bad by ulations. Alderman said it for some "regulations to led."
man said that the flood nance was a restriction of ts of property owners.
said that not only did and Durbin have a flood inance, but so did almost ner county in the state.
said that the flood plain e was not zoning, but otection for people who during floods and crises.

itical Advertisement

ory SON nate egislature) a vote for:

e of the information

m body.

vote NO to k's:
at will surely lead to ife, capable route to gheny front. s doubled our trash

m. cators. Farmers don't ant to farm with the

sive way to fund the commerce into large st Paid for by Candidate

Paid Political Advertisement Paid Political Advertisement

OPEN LETTER TO THE POCAHONTAS COUNTY BOARD OF EDUCATION AND FELLOW CITIZENS

HOWDY FOLKS ... MAYBE IT'S TIME ...TO JUST SAY ...'NO!'

Once again, WE THE PEOPLE are being asked 'to bite the bullet', 'tighten our belts' and 'sacrifice more', etc.! For what? Oh . . . just another school TAX INCREASE! This time the occasion is 'paint and such' since the high school is now 25 years old!

The rhetoric for all this began over a year ago when the so-called 'school budget' was decided upon. Remember the graciousness of the Superintendent when he agreed to forgo a $3,000 pay increase ON TOP of his current $50,000 salary! For all those who had to suffer through it, the climax came when the key-note address at graduation told everyone that a tax increase was the decision of the Board of Education . . . and everyone was expected to agree!

Does anyone still remember the condition of the one-room schoolhouses before 'consolidation'? Does anyone remember when it was the QUALITY OF EDUCATION and not the building that mattered? Does anyone remember when teaching was a 'called profession' and not just a 'job'?

As local citizens, we're not opposed to new and well kept buildings . . . but we question the methods and motives being directed towards us by a self-serving clique! Quite frankly, we'd like to see the Board of Education show a little more 'fiscal responsibility'! HOW? Not by trying to reduce "Aid In Lieu of Transportation' to parents! Not by raising school taxes! BUT by simply paying the administration and staff, etc., IN PROPORTION to the average family income of the county . . . and not 4 - 5 times such as is currently done! For instance, the above example of $50,000 PER YEAR, when divided by 52 weeks equals $962 PER WEEK, and when divided by 40 hours equals $24 PER HOUR, times 8 hours . . . equals $192 PER DAY! With the postponed pay raise, that'll be $203 PER DAY! And that's just the superintendent alone and does not count his assistant, staff, nor the rest of the 'Fat Cats' in the administration, many of whom average over $170 PER DAY . . . EACH . . . and these are so-called 'public servants'! If put IN PROPORTION to the per family income average of this county . . . there's no need for any tax increase!

Are there any 'full time' employment opportunities in this county at present that pay that much in a week? Are the above salaries IN PROPORTION to 'the minimum wages' of the majority in the general community? As such we ask the Board of Education to reconsider its 'school budget' and begin to 'trim the fat' , 'downsize', 'cut back', reevaluate the 'top heavy administration', etc., as is being done by the corporate and business world against WE THE PEOPLE in a 'shrinking economic scenario'! With unemployment in this county higher than ever . . . we can not afford 'Fat Cat Bureaucrats' and TAX INCREASES too!

WHAT CAN WE THE PEOPLE DO? It's simple. We tell our children to JUST SAY 'NO' to drug pushers . . . so why don't we JUST SAY 'NO' to 'Bureaucratic Junkies' and their 'Tax Increase Habits'? Let the Board of Education 'recompute its budget' accordingly!

Paid for by Citizens for Common Sense Alternatives
P.O. Box 5, Dunmore, WV 24934, Jerry Heinemann, Associate Director and Financial Agent costs prop complianc communit trying to taxes an property

3. Zo churches, to serve i in troubl feed the 4. Z business in the ho zoners.
future i zoners.
5. Z
July, 19
three ar victory property hard commu restrict Your increas located makes 6. Z away Pocaho will be county.
origin expans declare will hel is since with th easier f Industri industry commu attractiv such as industri a very e for them jobs we

"I s

Youth Sports

Vikings A Team: Row 1 - Jeremy Moore, Adam Burgess, Joey Tawney, Jason Broce, Marcus Pondexter, Samuel Cochrum; Row 2 - Jamie Long, Matthew Rhea, Warren McLaughlin, Daniel Marrs, Dewey Burr, Johnny Landis; Row 3 - Danny McGee, O. J. Gragg, Jamie Burgess, Jamie Kellison, Jeremiah Powell, Darron Enderby; Row 4 - Jeremiah Smith, Curtis Phillips, Jared Cain, Bradley Sewell, Danny Buchanan, Nick Payne; Row 5 - Joe Rider, Coach DeWayne Rhea, and Leo Cain; not pictured - Coaches Buck Moore and Doug Burns

Jamie Kellison, Jeremiah Powell, Darron Enderby; Row 4 - Jeremiah Smith, Curtis Phillips, Jared Cain, Bradley Sewell, Danny Buchanan, Nick Payne; Row 5 - Joe Rider, Coach DeWayne Rhea, and Leo Cain; not pictured - Coaches Buck Moore and Doug Burns

Combined B and C Teams

Row 1 - Josh Waugh, Josh Wilfong, David Moore, Ricky Tyson, Daniel Barnisky, Michael Lester, Lacy Crookshanks; Row 2 - Chris Halterman, Billy Burdette, Cory Alderman, Devin McCoy, Zach Richardson, Michael May, Jeremiah Marrs; Row 3 - Josh Kramer, Alan Ryder, Dewey Burr, Cory McNabb, Justin Rhea, Andre' Pondexter, O. J. Gragg; Row 4 - J. D. Burgess, Coach DeLayne Rhea, Coach John Wilfong, Ashley McNabb; not pictured - Coaches Mike Grubb, Albert Pondexter, and Pete Burdette

Dewey Burr, Cory McNabb, Justin Rhea, Andre Pondexter, O. J. Gragg; Row 4 - J. D. Burgess, Coach DeLayne Rhea, Coach John Wilfong, Ashley McNabb; not pictured - Coaches Mike Grubb, Albert Pondexter, and Pete Burdette

Vikings Cheerleaders

Back row - Brandy Burdette, (head), Sarah Perry, (co-head); Front - Alexa Alderman, Holly Sewell, Megan Pitzer, Pamela Alderman, Natasha McMann, Courtney Wilfong, Selina Burgess, Jessica Rhea, Katy Smith; Not pictured - Sponsors, Susie Landis and Connie Sharp, Coach, Mandy Landis

Midget Football Results
Sunday October 23
Playoff Games

C Team

Marlinton 32 - Green Bank 0

B Team

Highland 6 - Green Bank 0

A Team

Highland 6 - Green Bank 12

All three league teams will see action in next Sunday's

A Team

Green Bank vs Marlinton, 3:30

In C Team action on Sunday, Josh Waugh scored three touchdowns, and Josh Kramer, 2, with extra points by Billy Burdette and Josh Kramer. Zach Richardson had 2 fumble recoveries with J. D. Burgess 1, and Cory McNabb 1, while Josh Kramer had one show.

Pocahontas County's Democrat of the Year

ntly ahead of ning season, he

Virginia should y have in their d said. "West a niche in the itheast."

ches For Licenses
ded that the ditional deer be purchased )th. After ense will no Class RG and er firearms d to take a e "bucks only nal antlerless lerless deer unties or, a ex during the n counties or ntlerless deer nay be taken to antlerless consult the eer Hunting or specific B and RRB es in which pamphlet is and fishing NR offices.

es Perry irector of

Pocahontas County's Democrat of the Year Honored at Jefferson Day Dinner

Pocahontas County's Outstanding Democrat of the Year, Wilbur O. Curry, of Marlinton, was honored at the annual Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner in Charleston on Saturday, October 15. Mr. Curry received recognition for outstanding leadership, service and dedication to the West Virginia Democratic Party. The Pocahontas Countian was honored during the ceremony with an award presented by Leff Moore, Chairman of the Ninth Annual Democrat of the Year awards. Moore said that Mr. Curry was selected for his service and hard work on behalf of the Democratic Party. "Elections are the cornerstones of our democracy," Moore said, "and Wilbur O. Curry is one of the cornerstones of the election process." Moore pointed out that the honorees were selected because they had distinguished themselves by extraordinary work for their local political parties and that each had, as an individual, demonstrated their support for the philosophy and ideals of the Democratic Party.

Democratic State Chairman George Carenbauer said that the Democratic Party officials were lavish in their praise for Mr. Curry. "These are the people who clearly

Cakes-R-Us Bakery

Ulderich To Attend Na Youth Conferenc

Jeremy Ulderich, of Du been selected to attend The Young Leaders Conferen November 1-6, in Washin C. The National Young Conference is a unique le development program school students wh demonstrated leadership and scholastic merit. J Junior at Pocahontas Cou School, will be amo outstanding National attending the conferen across America.

The theme of the Young Leaders Conferen Leaders of Tomorrow M Leaders of Today. Throu six-day conference, Jer interact with key lea

FALL CLEAN-

Model 36 Chainsaw with

• Clean running Air Injecti
• 3.9 cu. in. 36cc

ıtas County's at of the Year
t Jefferson Day Dinner

as County's mocrat of the Year,
ry, of Marlinton, at the annual on Day dinner in Saturday, October
ceived recognition eadership, service
the West Virginia
. The Pocahontas
nored during the n award presented Chairman of the nocrat of the Year
id that Mr. Curry his service and behalf of the "Elections are the our democracy," Wilbur O. Curry
nerstones of the Moore pointed es were selected d distinguished raordinary work tical parties and an individual, support for the ideals of the tate Chairman er said that the officials were e for Mr. Curry.

Ulderich To Attend National Youth Conference

Jeremy Ulderich, of Durbin, has been selected to attend The National Young Leaders Conference from November 1-6, in Washington, D. C. The National Young Leaders Conference is a unique leadership development program for high school students who have demonstrated leadership potential and scholastic merit. Jeremy, a Junior at Pocahontas County High School, will be among 350 outstanding National Scholars attending the conference from across America.

The theme of the National Young Leaders Conference is The Leaders of Tomorrow Meeting the Leaders of Today. Throughout the six-day conference, Jeremy will interact with key leaders and FALL CLEAN-UP...

Department of Defens Inspector General's Office Arlington, Virginia, recent received three superi Accomplishment Awards for t specific audit field work on Ba Realignment and Closure Aud and organization of the annual 19 picnic. She also received promotion and an outstand performance award for her effec teamwork and contribution auditing throughout the y Shelley is the daughter of Ph
Sr., and Carolyn Dean
Marlinton.

- - -

Attend Meeting

Sue Herold, Moderator
Marlinton Presbyterian W
Helen Davis, Frances Gr Edna Bear, and Jane Price attended the Fall Gatheri Presbyterian Women at Sulphur Springs on Saturday

- - -

Wins Trip

Bill Hevener, of Arbova a trip to the Caribbean helping at the World Solhe golf tournament at The Gr last weekend.

- - -

Cranberry Mount Visitors Center
653-4826

Antiqu
A collection o

Sat., Octob

es

hery Bear

0 0 0 0 2 0 3 0 1 0 0 0 1 2 0 0 2 0 0 0
Q
11

Roselyn Stewart Leary had two paintings judged into the Mountain State Forest Festival Fine Art Exhibit in Elkins. The first titled, "Will There Be Another Winter", is her largest watercolor to date, 26 x 40, image size. The scene depicts the Shue home on Droop Mountain, shown above. Her second painting, "Choices," a pure landscape, won the Citizens National Bank Merit Award. Both paintings will be on display at her Thanksgiving week show.

---

know this outstanding Democrat best. To be singled out and selected by the Pocahontas County Democratic leadership clearly demonstrates that we are honoring a citizen who has sincerely demonstrated a concern about who leads his county, our state and our nation", Carenbauer said.

Approximately 1,400 Democrats attended this year's Jefferson-Jackson Day Dinner. The statewide elected Board of Public Works and the West Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals joined with labor leaders, party leaders and dignitaries from throughout West Virginia to honor Pocahontas County's Outstanding Democrat of the Year. Ohio Senator John Glenn was keynote speaker for the Democratic fete.

---

newsmakers fro branches of governm and the diplomatic c

Highlights of include welcoming the floor of the Unit of Representative discussion wit journalists at the Club. Scholars wi embassies and briefings from sen officials. Jeremy with Senator Ro
Senator John D.
Representative Ni an appointed mem to discuss import Pocahontas Count

The National Conference is s Congressional Y Council, a non-p educational orga in 1985, the Cou to "fostering an people to ac leadership pote members of t Congress join t members of Honorary Cong Advisors. Each outstanding you pariticipate in th
National Y Conference.

Jeremy is th
Dee Ulderich.

Recelv

Shelley De
the Departm Inspector Ge Arlington, V received t Accomplishme specific audit

pped to inning said. pecial g until had a g its ming ski

223

Time

OCTOBER 20, 1994

second class matter
ISSN 0738-8373

CRIPTION CHARGES
tas County, $11/year + tax Virginia, $14/year + tax
Of State, $16/year

ERTISING RATES (Per Week)
—$3 per column inch
—10¢/word (15¢ if billed)

PRICE McNEEL, Editor
D. JESSEE, Managing Ed.

S., OCT. 20, 1994

ays — July 6 - 9, 1995

sentee Voting

who will not be in the General Election Day, , may vote an absentee erson at the Circuit ce at the Court House n Monday, October 24. day to vote an absentee rson will be Saturday, , from 9 a.m. to 4:30 gs have returned in ey have been noticed ds against the sides of warm sun. This is the in Pocahontas but this particular kind of lybug, called the bug, arrived in 991. These bugs like ouses and sheltered the native bugs who ree bark or in litter e good bugs, eating aging insects.

Ladybugs

---

otice

news release from Motor Vehicles in er stated that the ils are available at ces, the Marlinton receive a supply. the manuals have aking a trip to the

---

Hillsboro Man Sentenced To One Year In Jail

by Pam Pritt

A Hillsboro man was sentenced to one year in the Pocahontas County Jail Monday in Greenbrier County Circuit Court.

Lester David Goode, 36, previously pleaded guilty to battery and dropped an appeal of a magistrate court conviction for brandishing.

Circuit Judge Frank Jolliffe sentenced Goode to six month sentences on each charge and fined the man $1,000 plus court costs. Goode will receive credit for time served.

Goode was indicted on three felony counts of breaking and entering with intent to commit burglary, malicious wounding and attempted murder.

Jolliffe declared a mistrial in the case in May when two impaneled jurors were determined ineligible to serve after a full day of testimony. He moved the case to Greenbrier County because of possible pre-trial publicity.

The case took a surprising twist in August when Goode's wife, Laura, changed her statement and volunteered information which apparently incriminated her husband.

Due to spousal privilege, the state did not pursue felony charges against Lester Goode and accepted the plea agreement.

Laura Burkes Goode accompanied her husband to court Monday.

Lester Goode was on federal parole for drug violations at the time he allegedly entered his former wife's home in Marlinton, struck her with a pistol and threatened the man she was seeing.

Jolliffe said that federal issues are not resolved and the man's parole may be revoked.

Goode was transported to Pocahontas County Monday.

Accident

One accident report was on file at the State Police office.

The wreck involved two vehicles and occurred on October 6 at the Rt. 219/39 intersection in Marlinton. The vehicles were a

Included in the group will be George Pedersen, the company's Chief Executive Officer. Man Tech has been asked to look at the county as a possible business location by Senator Robert Byrd.

Commission President Dana Moyers reported that he had been invited by the state Division of Environmental Protection to join an inspection of the tannery site on Thursday of last week. However, Howes Leather refused to allow him to be on the property. Mr. Moyers said he has asked DEP to include the Commission in all correspondence on the tannery site.

A letter was received outlining a concern about a junk vehicle situation at Campbelltown. The concern was passed on to Conservation Officer Howard Shinaberry for his investigation.

The Commission held a hearing in the proposed expansion of the boundary of the Upper Greenbrier Public Service District to include all of the Northern Magisterial District. The reason for the expansion of the PSD is to provide an operating agency for the planned sewer system in East Cass. No one attended the hearing.

---

and hit the Mercury in the rear. There were no injuries and only minor damage in the 2:05 p. m. accident.

The curve in Rt. 219 at the south end of Buckeye was the site of two accidents on Wednesday morning, but we have no details as we go to press.

West Virginia Delegation to the United States Congress

Senate

The Honorable Robert C. Byrd
311 Hart Senate Office Building
Washington, D. C. 20510
(202) 224-3954

The Honorable John D. Rockefeller, IV
109 Hart Senate Office Building
Washington, DC 20510
(202) 224-6472

U. S. House of Representatives

The Honorable Nick Joe Rahall, II

arraigned on a with second citation was Sheriff M. C accident in A pleas of not g and was relea David Pr arrested late Deputy Sheri charges of pu disorderly released on $ Harry L. was arrested Doss and cl offense DUI breath test. H until $1,000
Monday.
Ronald R was arrested Police Tpr. J
DUI charge. guilty before was sentence with $100 fi costs.
Franklin Monterville, Magistrate D pled guilty t property charg with $62 in co

West Vir
Federal Fu Food and Senator (D-WV), ann that $1,223,9 within the sta the Emergen National Pocahontas
those funds t
The Em Shelter (EFS operation intended t non-disaster, real emerge over 10,000 government areas and la EFS supplem emergency f who are h Through t Program has $1.4 billio nationwide, millions of

at Marlinton, West Virginia 24954
as second class matter
ISSN 0738-8373

SUBSCRIPTION CHARGES
In Pocahontas County, $11/year + tax
In West Virginia, $14/year + tax
Out Of State, $16/year

ADVERTISING RATES (Per Week)
Display—$3 per column inch Classified—10¢/word (15¢ if billed)

WILLIAM PRICE McNEEL, Editor
RUSSELL D. JESSEE, Managing Ed.

THURS., OCT. 20, 1994

Pioneer Days — July 6 - 9, 1995

Absentee Voting

Voters who will not be in the unty on General Election Day, vember 8, may vote an absentee lot in person at the Circuit rk's Office at the Court House inning on Monday, October 24. The last day to vote an absentee ot in person will be Saturday, ember 5, from 9 a.m. to 4:30

Ladybugs

Ladybugs have returned in ms. They have been noticed e hundreds against the sides of s in the warm sun. This is the d year in Pocahontas but nts say this particular kind of tal ladybug, called the ween bug, arrived in ana in 1991. These bugs like ter in houses and sheltered unlike the native bugs who under tree bark or in litter They are good bugs, eating and damaging insects.

Notice

ough the news release from sion of Motor Vehicles in k's paper stated that the manuals are available at ice offices, the Marlinton yet to receive a supply

Senior Lunch Week. Great work, ladies.

Hillsboro Man Sentenced To One Year In Jail

by Pam Pritt

A Hillsboro man was sentenced to one year in the Pocahontas County Jail Monday in Greenbrier County Circuit Court.

Lester David Goode, 36, previously pleaded guilty to battery and dropped an appeal of a magistrate court conviction for brandishing.

Circuit Judge Frank Jolliffe sentenced Goode to six month sentences on each charge and fined the man $1,000 plus court costs. Goode will receive credit for time served.

Goode was indicted on three felony counts of breaking and entering with intent to commit burglary, malicious wounding and attempted murder.

Jolliffe declared a mistrial in the case in May when two impaneled jurors were determined ineligible to serve after a full day of testimony. He moved the case to Greenbrier County because of possible pre-trial publicity.

The case took a surprising twist in August when Goode's wife, Laura, changed her statement and volunteered information which apparently incriminated her husband.

Due to spousal privilege, the state did not pursue felony charges against Lester Goode and accepted the plea agreement.

Laura Burkes Goode accompanied her husband to court Monday.

Lester Goode was on federal parole for drug violations at the time he allegedly entered his former wife's home in Marlinton, struck her with a pistol and threatened the man she was seeing.

Jolliffe said that federal issues are not resolved and the man's parole may be revoked.

Goode was transported to Pocahontas County Monday.

---

representatives from the compa
will be in the county on Thursd Included in the group will George Pedersen, the compan
Chief Executive Officer. Man T has been asked to look at the cou as a possible business location Senator Robert Byrd.

Commission President D
Moyers reported that he had b invited by the state Division Environmental Protection to join inspection of the tannery site Thursday of last week. Howe Howes Leather refused to all him to be on the property.
Moyers said he has asked DEP include the Commission in correspondence on the tannery si

A letter was received outlin a concern about a junk vehi situation at Campbelltown.
concern was passed on Conservation Officer How Shinaberry for his investigation.

The Commission held a hear in the proposed expansion of boundary of the Upper Greenbr Public Service District to include of the Northern Magisterial Distr
The reason for the expansion of PSD is to provide an operati agency for the planned sew system in East Cass. No o attended the hearing.

---

and hit the Mercury in the r
There were no injuries and o minor damage in the 2:05 p. accident.

The curve in Rt. 219 at south end of Buckeye was the of two accidents on Wednes morning, but we have no details we go to press.

West Virginia Delegation to the United States Congress

Senate

The Honorable Robert C. Byrd
311 Hart Senate Office Building
Washington, D. C. 20510
(202) 224-3954

The Honorable

Adults $3 • Ages 6 - 12 $2 • Ages 5 & Under FREE
Ages 10 and under must be accompanied by an adult
Sponsored by Hanover Activities Team
Not responsible for accidents

Paid Political Advertisement

Paid Political Advertisement

VIOLATION

This structure has been found in violation of the Pocahontas County Floodplain Permit Ordinance. You must contact the Pocahontas County Floodplain Permit Officer within five (5) calendar days of the date of this notice. Failure to respond will subject you to a fine of up to $300.00 per each day following this notification period. You may respond to this notice by contacting:

POCAHONTAS COUNTY FLOODPLAIN ORDINANCE OFFICER Court House 900 Tenth Avenue
Marlinton, WV 24954
(304)799-6063

The above is a copy of the actual floodplain violation notification which was in effect for two years until abolished by the present County Commission. Mr. Joel Callison supports the floodplain zoning ordinance which gives the county the authority to require a permit for any manmade development in the floodplain.

It is 8x11 in size, bright red, and would cost the county about 50¢ to post on your property. It could cost you $5,000 to get it off.

Mr. Callison wants to require you to get a permit to develop your land in the floodplain. If you don't get the permit, you get a copy of the above posted on your property! Your development can be destroyed and you can be jailed. You and I can't afford this kind of government control! If elected, Mr. Callison will have the votes to re-authorize the use of the above notification. Just say no to zoning by voting for Norman Lee Alderman.

Norman Lee Alderman
Opposed to all Forms of Zoning

Political Advertisement Paid by
Norman Lee Alderman, Candidate for County Commission

Political Advertisement Political Advertisement Political Advertisement

Callison For County Commission

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT

I can bring jobs to Pocahontas County! Denmar is a success, I was part of that success. Whether or not you agree with the process by which Denmar became a state prison, the fact is that my idea worked. Norman Alderman's idea of Private Prisons of America did not.

For the past eighteen months, I have helped the CEO and President of Renewable Energies, Inc. locate and build a plant in Slaty Fork. This industry will use by-products of a local lumber mill to produce wood pellets, thereby producing jobs and taxes for Pocahontas County.

Norman Alderman promised jobs during his campaign, six years ago. But Pocahontas County doesn't have one new industry or business to show for the $60,000 in tax dollars that you have invested in Mr. Alderman.

If economic development can take place at the Howes Leather property, I will be there, working with our local, state and national officials to bring jobs to this area. VOTE CALLISON!

FLOOD PROTECTION

Pocahontas County can not develop or hold its dwindling economic base if we do not provide protection for people and businesses in its flood prone areas.

Six years ago, Norman Alderman promised you flood protection. Today, we have less than before he made his promises. We don't even have the support of FEMA that spent thousands of dollars helping flood victims recover from the flood of '85.

ZONING

I do not support county-wide zoning. Norman Alderman states that he is opposed to all zoning. Let's be reasonable. The Observatory at Green Bank depends on zoning of airways in order to exist. Hanover

FLOOD PROTECTION

Pocahontas County can not develop or hold its dwindling economic base if we do not provide protection for people and businesses in its flood prone areas.

Six years ago, Norman Alderman promised you flood protection. Today, we have less than before he made his promises. We don't even have the support of FEMA that spent thousands of dollars helping flood victims recover from the flood of '85.

ZONING

I do not support county-wide zoning. Norman Alderman states that he is opposed to all zoning. Let's be reasonable. The Observatory at Green Bank depends on zoning of airways in order to exist. Hanover Shoe Co. exists in an industrial zone in Marlinton. Snowshoe is privately zoned, so that the best interests of their property owners can be protected.

I support school zones, hospital quiet zones and speed zones. I would also support an industrial zone of Howes Leather property, if that is what it takes to bring jobs to that area.

VOTE JOEL CALLISON!

In last week's paper, Norman Alderman used the names of two of my friends in a political advertisement against me. My father is a deputy assessor employed by Dolan Irvine; my wife's immediate supervisor at the First National Bank in Marlinton is Phillip Cain. Both Dolan and Phillip support me for County Commissioner.

I have restrained from any political activity that would involve Mr. Alderman's family or friends. His comments of last week, if not unethical, were certainly misleading. Norman's political ads read very much like the minutes of the County Commission meetings: ridiculous. Pocahontas County deserves better.

VOTE CALLISON FOR COUNTY COMMISSION

Political Advertisement Paid for by Callison for County Commission, Max White, Treasurer

Paid Political Advertisement

If Joel Callison is elected, the only builder who will be able to develop property in the floodplain without a permit will be a beaver!!!

Say no to floodplain zoning—Vote Norman Lee Alderman—Keep all your property rights!

Paid Political Advertisement

Legal Advertisements

NOTICE OF PUBLIC SALE

Notice is hereby given that on the 21st day of October, 1994, at 11:00 a.m., a Public Sale will be held at Burns Mobile Home Park, Hillsboro, West Virginia. The purpose to sell for cash to the highest bidder at Public Auction the following collateral, to wit:

One (1) 1988 Craftsman Mobile Home Ser. #CMH154478C

Said collateral being held to secure an obligation arising under a security agreement held by the Greenbrier Valley National Bank as secured party. The undersigned reserves the right to bid at the sale. Interested parties may contact Houston Napier at phone 645-2500 to view the collateral before the sale.

Greenbrier Valley National Bank
Houston A. Napier, Trustee 10-13-2

FOR SALE

AVAILABLE—Louise McNeill's book of poetry "Fermi Buffalo", at The Pocahontas Times and The Rock House, across from the museum. 10-13-2nc

SALE—1984 Oldsmobile Omega, runs good, needs some work. 799-6429. 10-6-3p

SALE—Oak kitchen cabinets 60% off list price. Free in-home estimates; solid cedar bedroom suite, $899; financing available to qualified buyers. Tri-County Distributors, Inc., 1-800-352-3147 or 226-5293. 10-6-4c

FOR SALE

FOR SALE OR TRADE—John Deere 440C log skidder, runs and works perfect; John Deere 450 dozer, 6 way blade, good undercarriage winch available; John Deere 350C track loader, 1600 actual hours, good as new; Case 450B dozer, 6 way blade, 3,000 actual hours, good as new condition; Massey Ferguson 3165 backhoe, new engine, good working condition. Days 304-772-5741, evenings 304-772-5578. 10-20-3c

FOR SALE—Slaughter hogs, $100 each, 220 pounds. Bonnie Blue Farms, Hillsboro, 653-4095. 10-20-8p

FOR SALE—Kenmore washer, $100; Maytag dryer $25. 456-3244. 10-20-1p

FOR SALE—Antique parlor wood stove, very good condition, black with chrome hardware, $200. 653-4514. 10-20-2c

FOR SALE—Two wood stoves, $225 and $300. 456-3354. 10-20-4c

WOOD FOR SALE—Firewood, 3/4 $40. Also small refrigerator. 456-4670. 10-20-2c

FOR SALE—6" motorized Delta jointer, like new, $280; radial arm hookup for Skill saw, $50. Call Chris Jordan, 799-7186, leave message. 10-6-4c

FOR SALE

FOR SALE—1986 Olds, excellent shape. 799-6429. 10-6-3p

SALE—Oak kitchen cabinets 60% off list price. Free in-home estimates; solid cedar bedroom suite, $899; financing available to qualified buyers. Tri-County Distributors, Inc., 1-800-352-3147 or 226-5293. 10-6-4c

Wood For Sale
Call Troy Wilson
799-6299

FOR SALE
Pumpkins, at Stefanie's Hair Station in Durbin.
456-4532

For Sale

WANTED

ATTENTION—Wanted Indian or Harley Davidson motorcycles, running or non-running for parts, will pay cash, call collect, 513-871-6771. 10-13-4c

WANTED—Upright freezer in good condition. Call 799-6106. 10-20-2p

HELP WANTED—Maple Leaf Realty in Slaty Fork is looking for a licensed real estate salesperson. Please call 572-5265. 10-20-2c

WANTED—House or apartment to rent Marlinton/Hillsboro area. Will provide references. 799-4883, 799-7282 or 653-4900. 10-20-2c

OFFICE ADMINISTRATION, CUSTOMER SERVICE SKILLS AND COMPUTER LITERACY—class offered at the Computer Training Center, Elkins, WV. Classes daily 9 a.m. to 2:45 p.m. for 10 weeks starting November 28th. FREE tuition, books and supplies. Applicants must be JTPA eligible. Income does not necessarily determine program eligibility. Apply by November 16th at Elkins Job Service, 7 Randolph Ave. 637-0255. EOE. 10-13-4p

WANT TO BUY—OLD COFFEE CANS, ZINC LIDS, WHITE HOUSE

Pocahontas Re
Top Prices Pa
Aluminum Ca
Aluminum, Cast Copper, Brass Transmissio Converte
Bill Shafer Located 5 M Saturday

W
$

Times

Wade, of received this Elton, who is n. nber 21, 1944

a few lines s thinking of our letter and you were all g good. This ll able to go, haven't been tters as I did, n okay. I do as often as I the pictures nd they are went to the time. I'll bet ats.
ow, another s a very nice have some

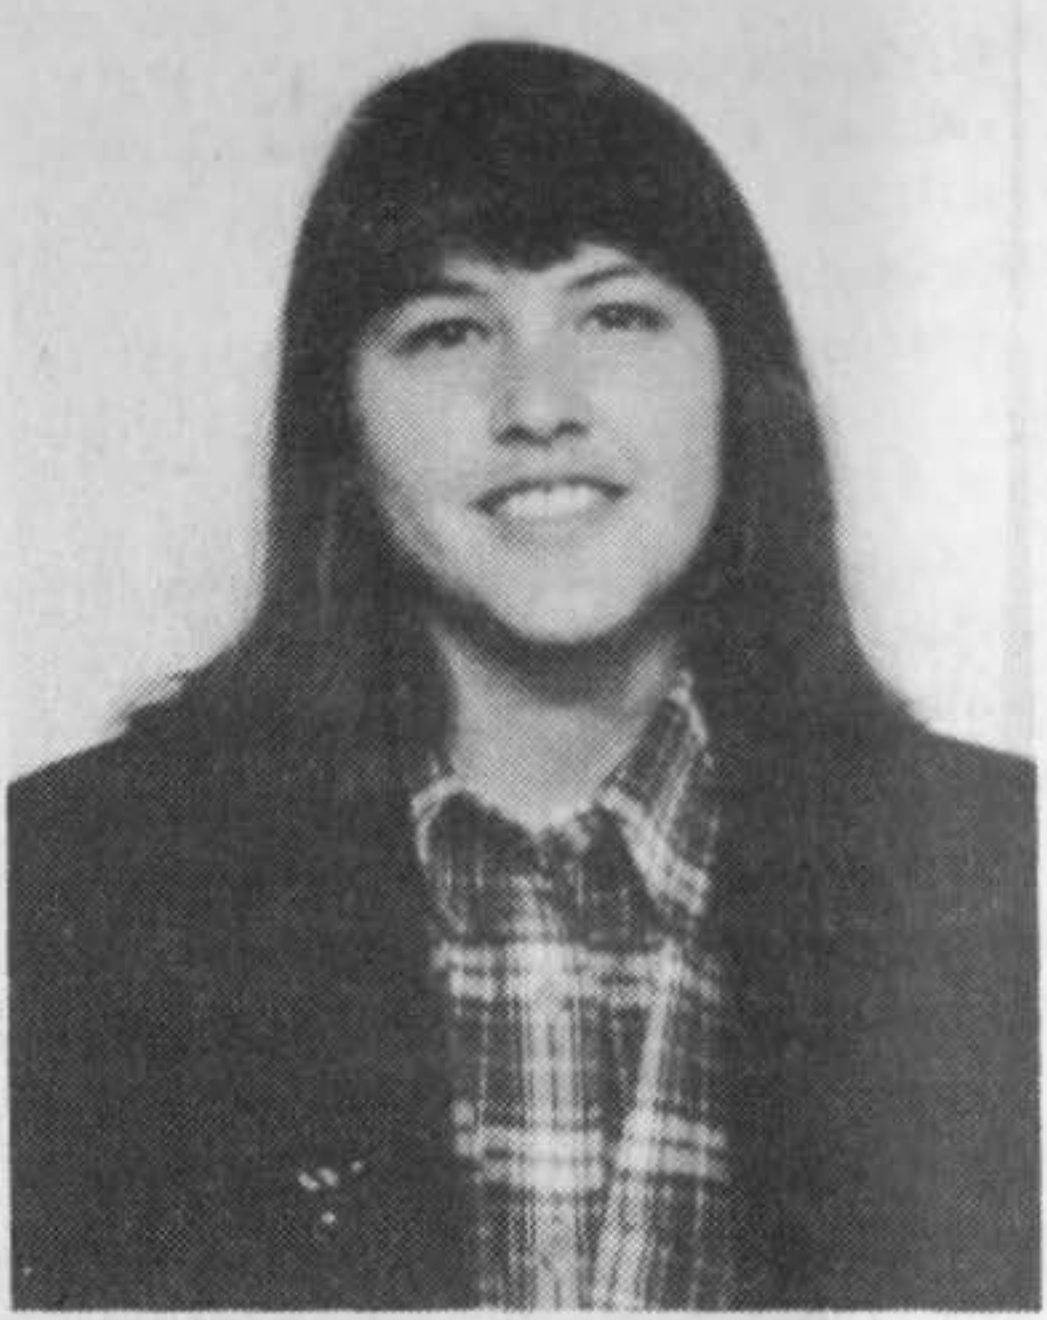
he Fair this



New 4-H Agent Hired

The West Virginia Extension Service and Pocahontas Extension Service Committee are proud to announce the hiring of Miss Tracy Samples as the new Extension Agent responsible for the 4-H and Extension Homemaker programs in Pocahontas County. Tracy will begin work here on November 1st.

Selected from a field of some thirty-six applicants, Tracy has extremely outstanding credentials to be selected as agent. As a youth

New Soil C Lee Godbe has been selec
District Soil C Pocahontas Co
3. Lee has conservationis County for near been filling Pocahontas C retirement of D
this past April.
After receiv
from Vi

...iess you all are
...n the fall work by
...t a good price for

...ey getting along
...ope they have
...by now.
... you worry so
..., for I still trust
... spare me and I
...lay to take care
... for me. Since
...o write, will
...s us all. Lots

Your son,
Elton

...elebrating its
...ring Iceberg
...eggs at 49¢ a
... package of
...for 30¢ and a
... for $1.05

...re
...co
...a
... Cupid
...a Lynn

...n
...sel
...e Day

...tre

Gilmer County.
accomplishments as a 4-H member included being a state winner in visual presentations, a member of the 1988 National 4-H Championship Land Judging Team, and many leadership positions. After achieving a B. A. Degree in Journalism, English and Political Science from Glenville State College in 1992, Tracy has been working as Gilmer County 4-H Program Assistant, responsible for that county's 4-H program.

Ms. Samples has a strong background in organized youth camping, not only attending many state and county 4-H Camps, but also directing and organizing Gilmer County's 4-H Camp and spending the summer of 1988 as an instructor and counselor at New Hampshire 4-H Camps. She was also selected as a youth ambassador to the United Nations.

While in college, Tracy was involved in dramatic productions and held several major roles in theater productions. Her journalism experience includes working for the Glenville Democrat/Pathfinder newspaper as staff writer, photography and layout design and she has been published in various publicaitons. Tracy also

...West
...In Ca
...pr
...ration
...degree
...Virgini
...then
...tural
...ley u
...gr
...unity
...an
...Scho
...). H
...y, is
...We
...a H
...yed
...chil
...6.
...ee is ...positi
...and
...y.
...eat
...rgi
...rae
...of C
...at
...for
...din
...niss

experience includes working for the Glenville Democrat/Pathfinder newspaper as staff writer, photography and layout design and she has been published in various publicaitons. Tracy also has musical talents as a fiddler.

Tracy's attitude is well reflected by this quote: "The main reason I work with 4-H and Extension is because I want to see it continue to thrive in West Virginia. When I was growing up in rural West Virginia, 4-H changed my life and I want to help ensure those opportunities continue to exist for others."

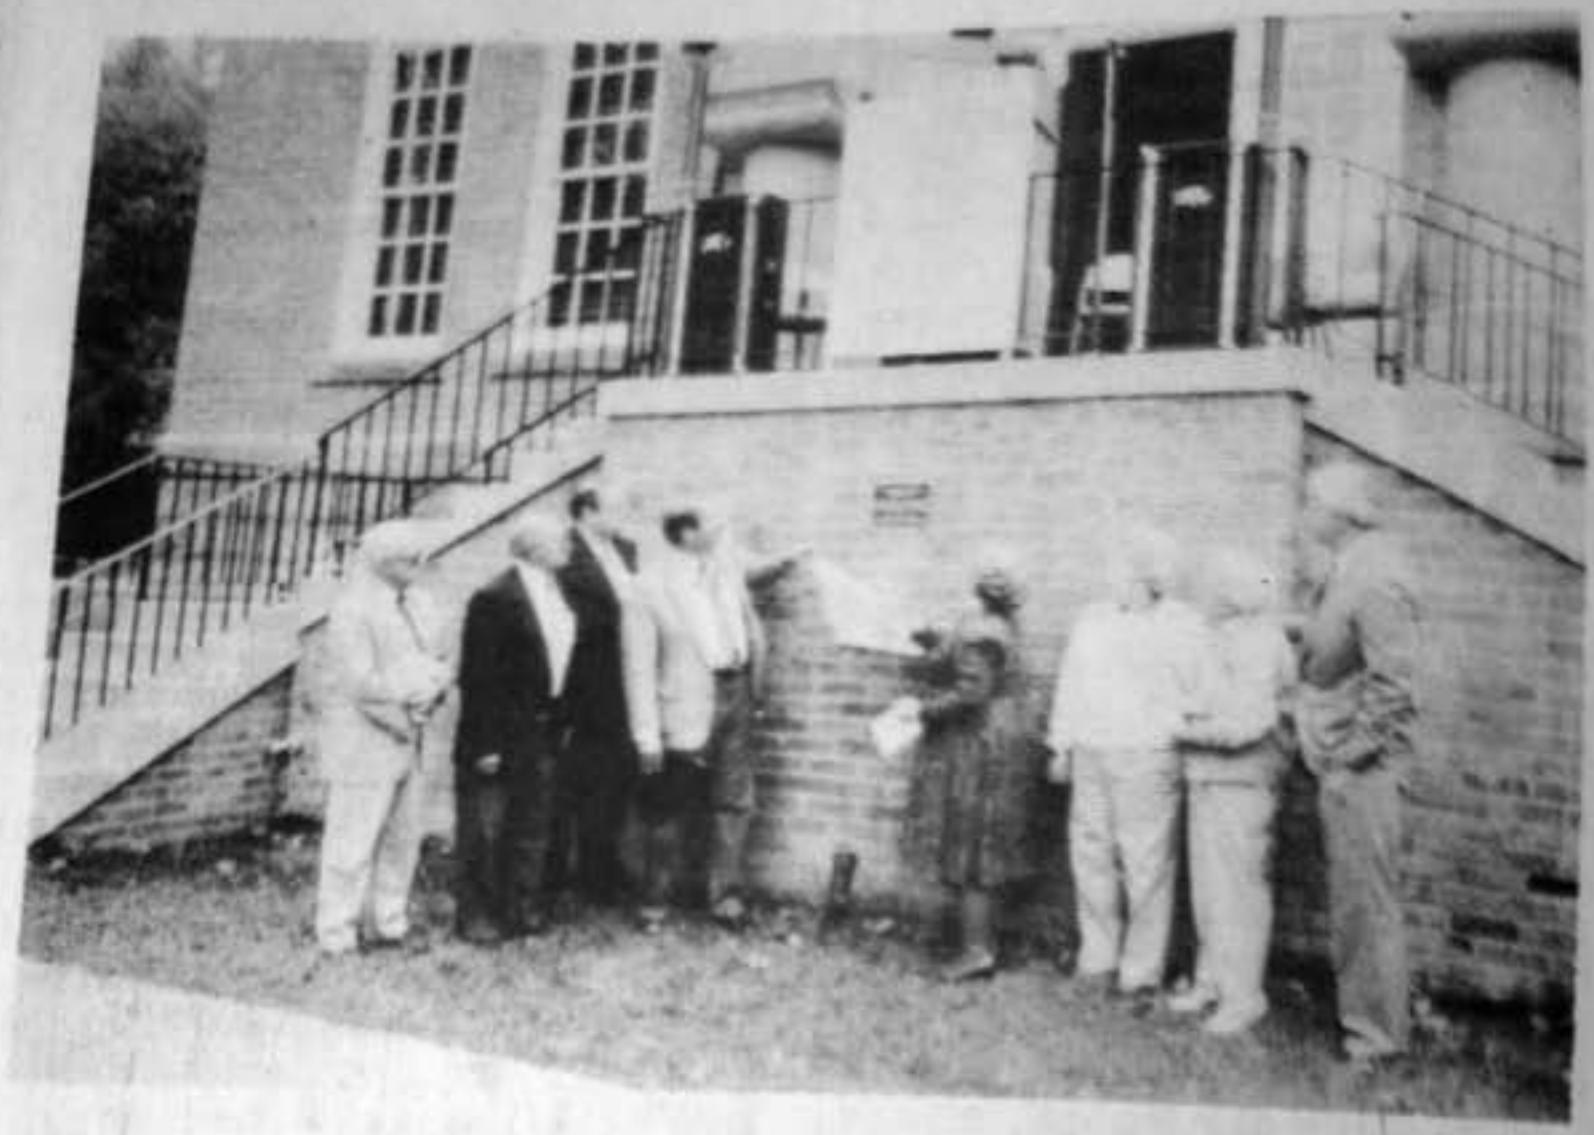
County Extension Agent Bob Keller said, "Tracy comes to us with all the tools and experiences to be an outstanding agent. She is energetic, enthusiastic, vivacious and has exhibited strong leadership skills. I'm very enthusiastic about her and expect her to be a very effective agent and real asset to the Extension program, our school system and the county."

- - -

Gospel Tape Released

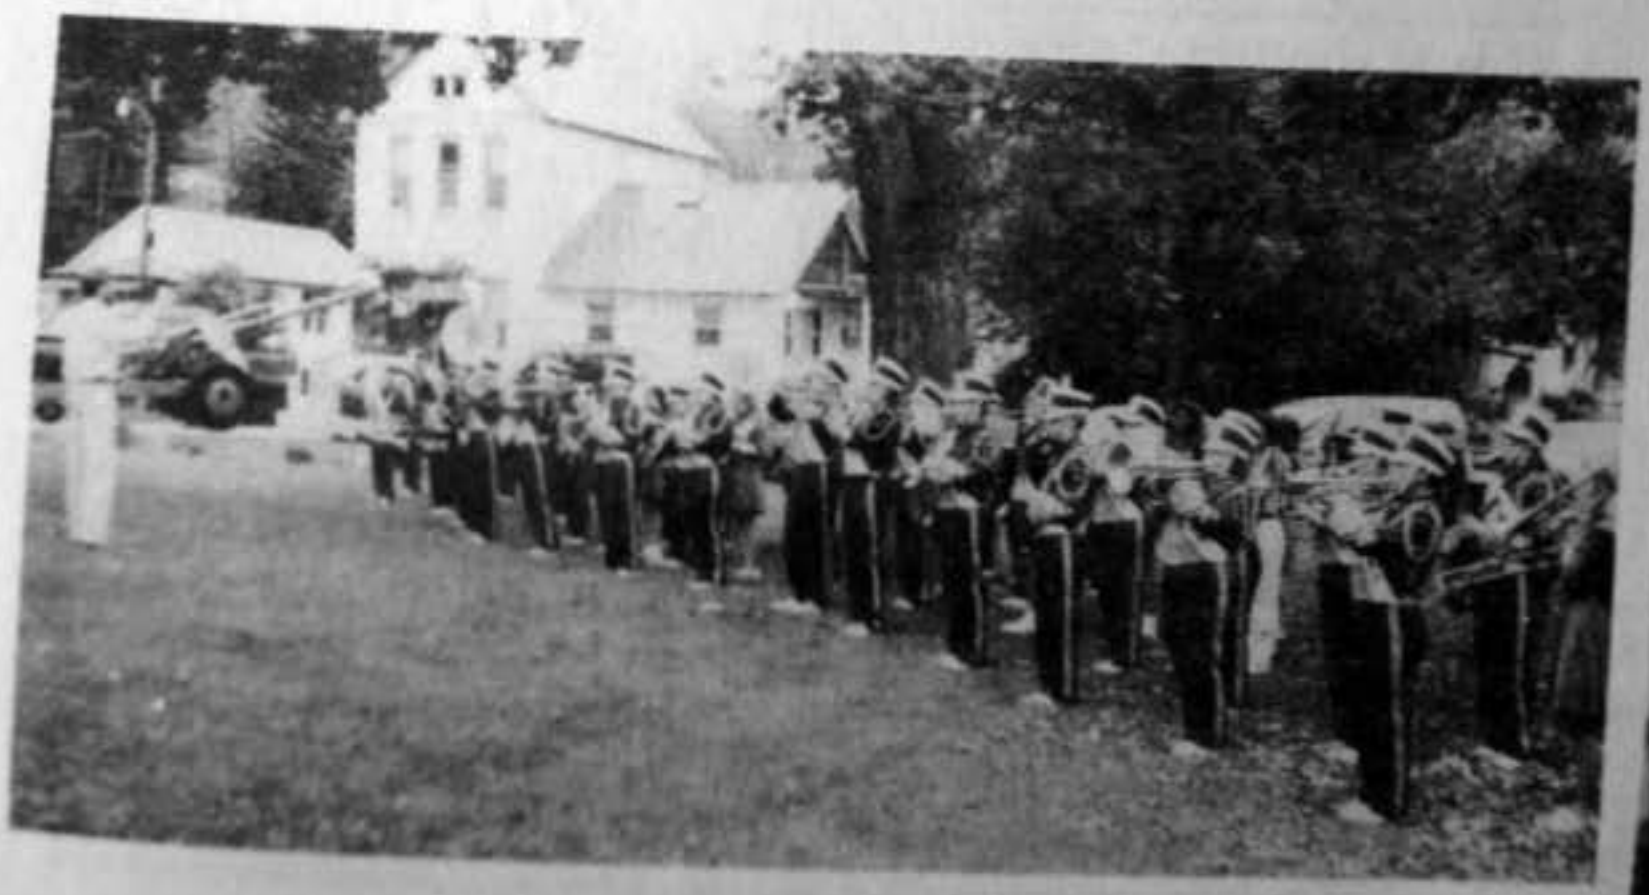
Marlinton native Joe Darnell has released a gospel casette tape titled "The Homeplace."

Currently playing on local radio station WVMR (1370 AM) as well as on gospel stations in Roanoke



County Commission President Dana Moyers and Historic Landmarks Commission Chairperson Ruth Morgan unveil the plaque that identifies the Court House and Jail as being on the National Register of Historic Places.

Others in the photo are, L-R, HLC members Moffett McNeel, Jr. Commissioners Mike Mynuk and Norman Alderman, HLC members Madge Bledsoe, Jessie Powell and Anthony Vydra.



The PCHS Band provided music for the Court House celebration.

Bertha N
4,980 sq.
Marlinton
Agreeme
Lori Mall adjustment o Slaty Fo
Rehberg, Section, Edn
General
Burton Smit
B. J. and
P. and Barbe acres, Deer C Arden Th to Lewis and 1,197 1/4 sq
Mountain, Li
Mary Sue Alderman, Pe
W. Alderman Fork of Anth District
Larry W.
James B. an interest in 30 Creek, Hunter
William H
to Brandy Jan

The PCHS Band provided music for the Court House celebration.

Courthouse marks 100th year

Climaxing a centennial celebration and ceremony held October 3 on the Court House lawn in Marlinton was the unveiling of a plaque designating placement of the Court House and Jail on the National Register of Historic Places. The Court House is the 12th entry from Pocahontas County on the Register.

The three to four hundred persons in attendance enjoyed musical selections provided by the Pocahontas County High School Warrior Band under the direction of Ron Hall.

Ruth Morgan, Chairperson of the Pocahontas Historic Landmarks Commission, welcomed the visitors, followed by the invocation by the Rev. David B. Rittenhouse, Pastor of the New Hope Church of the Brethren.

Highlighting the program was a most interesting and informative talk by Jessie Beard Powell on the "History of the Pocahontas County Court House" with many anecdotes about the times and people one hundred years ago.

Following the history and a musical selection, Dana Moyers, President of the County Commission, delivered a short message. He also presented his fellow members of the Commission as well as past members who were present. Mr. Moyers' message was followed by the unveiling of the National Register of Historic Places Plaque. Closing remarks were made by Mrs. Morgan.

Autumn colors decorated the tables from which the 100th Anniversary Cake, baked by Jean McClure, was served to the guests along with punch made by Betty Jo Vydra.

Anthony L. Vydra, HLC member, was chairperson of the affair, assisting Pocahontas County Commissioners, Mr. Moyers, Norman Lee Alderman and Mike Mynuk, and members of the HLC, Mrs. Morgan, Moffett McNeel, Madge Bledsoe and Mrs. Powell.

In 1894 some of the officers serving Pocahontas County were: William L. McNeel, West Virginia Senator, elected in 1883, served until 1897; Representative in the House of Delegates was Dr. J. P. Moomau; Circuit Clerk J. H. Patterson; Sheriff J. C. Arbogast; Circuit Judge A. N. Campbell, 1889-1897; County Clerk S. L. Brown, 1891-1908; and Davis L. Barlow was Superintendent of Schools.

Meeting

Paid Political Advertisement

Paid Political Advertisement

Paid Political Advertisement

Paid Political Advertisement

Paid Political Advertisement

The Floodplain Zoning Ordinance involves more than providing insurance. It controls much more than building houses. A vo it is a vote for government control of fencing, drilling, excavating, and any other "manmade change" to property in the floo
You will be told what you can and cannot do with your property there! It doesn't matter whether you buy insurance or n whether you use cash or credit! It takes only two county commissioners to make this the law of the land. On the same hand the same time, these same two county commissioners could vote to zone the entire county instead of just the floodplain. A election, it is their call, not yours!

Vote: Norman Lee Alderman

Opposed to the government controlling my land and yours!

Norman Lee Alderman,

...y's Arts & Letters series is free to all

...Lehrer, ...ng and ...lafonte ...Arts & ...at the ...lady ...ue ...e

...Governor's Mansion and enjoy these special events." Worby said.

...Lehrer is best-known as one-half of the MacNeil-Lehrer NewsHour on public television. This highly respected journalist will visit the Governor's mansion on April 28.

...Young, who will be the Arts & Letters season finale on May 22, carries several titles ranging from civil rights activist to community leader. He has devoted more than ...5 years of his life to public ...rvice, including service in ...ngress, as mayor of Atlanta, and ...S. ambassador to the United ...ns.

...lafonte is known throughout ...rld as the ...

Huntington native McVey, with a voice of gold, has made it big on and off Broadway. McVey will demonstrate his golden tones on October 28.

Benedict is winning rave reviews with his recent first novel, Dogs of God. This West Virginia native, who is internationally published, will be in Charleston on March 24.

Adams has appeard numerous times on Mountain Stage, including when she was part of The Fabulous Twister Sisters and Stark Raven. Bring a blanket, a picnic, grab your family or friends and come relax at an Arts & Letters on the Governor's Ma...

LEGAL ADVERTISEMENT

NOTICE OF GRANT APPLICATION AND HANDICAPPED ACCESSIBLE TRANSPORTATION SERVICES

Notice is hereby given that the Mountain Transit Authority is applying for a grant under the 49 U.S.C. Section 5311 (formerly Section 18) of the Federal Transit Act, as amended. A general description of the grant proposal is as follows: the Mountain Transit Authority is seeking approximately $364,241 of FTA Section 18, State, and Local funding to provide operating assistance for the MTA during Fiscal Year 1996. The Authority intends to offer deviated fixed-route service (including work runs) and services tailored to meet the needs of the elderly and handicapped. These services will be provided in the Region 4 counties of Fayette, Nicholas, Greenbrier, Pochahontas and Webster. The MTA provides:

1) a dial-a-ride service on Tuesdays in the Greenbrier County area. 2) daily services to and from a Sheltered Workshop near Craigsville for the benefit of people in the Summersville-Richwood ...

LEGAL ADVERTISEMENT LEG...

POCAHONTAS MEMORIAL ...
BALANCE SHEE...
June 30, 1994
GENERAL FU...

ASSETS CURRENT ASSETS
Cash
Patient receivables, net
Due from intermediary
Supplies, Inventory and prepaid expenses
Due from capital improvement fund
Total current assets ASSETS WHOSE USE IS LIMITE...
Bond related deposits
OTHER ASSETS
Certificate of deposit
Bond issue cost, net PROPERTY AND EQUIPMEN...
Land

Paid Political Advertisement Paid Political Advertisement Paid Political Advertisement

JOEL CALLISON HAS ANOTHER LAND DEAL GOING AND GUESS WHOSE LAND IS INVOLVED?

When I voted to abolish the floodplain zoning ordinance in 1993, only 35 people outside the [illegible] explained everyone with property in the floodplain to get a permit for any manmade change fences, dredging, drilling or excavating. Any change made by a human being is covered.

This ordinance covered nearly every stream in this county. And there remains yet more land to be included when the maps are revised in two years. The floodplain zoning ordinance is not merely a vehicle for purchasing insurance, it is a tool to restrict control of what you do with your property in the floodplain. You will have to live with this law even if you develop with cash and don't want insurance.

Joel Callison wants to make a deal with the government. He would sell your present right to control your land in the floodplain in exchange for the floodplain insurance program in which only 35 people took advantage. Hundreds of acres and many farms in our county will be subjected to floodplain zoning so that a few camps, summer homes, and a few county residents outside the city limits can have flood insurance on their property in the floodplain. What good is a piece of land if someone else controls it? What good is it if you can't afford to use it because of government regulations? We need every inch of land in this county! With 74% already under government ownership, why do we need to submit nearly every stream and the Greenbrier River to government control.

The floodplain zoning ordinance which Joel Callison wants to re-implement will make using property along the streams of Pocahontas more difficult and expensive! Such common things as building a fence or putting in a water gap are controlled by this ordinance. You must have permission to perform ordinary, everyday activities in the floodplain. Even activities you don't insure are controlled. You can't drill, dredge, or put in a bridge without a permit.

el wants to make a deal with the Federal government. In return for their insurance program, he will sell your right to control your land in the floodplain. Hundreds of ners and county landowners will lose their rights to control their land. This is your personal property, your own real estate, and your own farm that Joel is dling with now. For some farmers, this is their livelihood. Joel wants to barter that away. If you thought the deal at Denmar was bad, you ain't ing yet! Joel wants the Federal government to control your land!!! And he will deal!!!

Tell Joel Callison you don't want any more deals.
Vote for Someone who won't deal—Norman Lee Alderman

Paid Political Advertisement
Norman Lee Alderman, Candidate

Thank You, Friends

Nancy Benetato

ENT | SERVICES | FREE | SALES | In Memory

Paid Political Advertisement

JOEL CALLISON HAS A[NOTHER LAND DEAL] GOING AND GUESS WHO[SE LAND IS INVOLVED?]

When I voted to abolish the floodplain zoning ordinance in 1993, only 35 people outside the city limits had flood insurance. I opposed everyone with property in the floodplain to get a permit for any manmade change, such as building, dredging, drilling or excavating. Any change made by a human being is covered.

This ordinance covered nearly every stream in this county. And there remains yet more land to be included when the maps are revised in two years. The floodplain zoning ordinance is not merely a vehicle for providing insurance, it is a tool to restrict control of what you do with your property in the floodplain. You will have to live with this law even if you develop with cash and don't want insurance.

Joel Callison wants to make a deal with the government. He would sell your present right to control your land in the floodplain in exchange for the floodplain insurance program in which only 35 people took advantage. Hundreds of acres and many farms in the county will be subjected to floodplain zoning so that a few camps, summer homes, and a few county residents outside the city limits can have flood insurance on their property in the floodplain. What good is a piece of land if someone else controls it? What good is it if you can't afford to use it because of government regulations? We need every inch of land in this county! With 74% already under government ownership, why do we need to submit nearly every stream and the Greenbrier River to government control.

The floodplain zoning ordinance which Joel Callison wants to re-implement will make using property along the streams of Pocahontas more difficult and expensive! Such common things as building a fence or putting in a water gap are controlled by this ordinance. You must have permission to perform ordinary, everyday activities in the floodplain. Even activities you don't insure are controlled. You can't drill, dredge, or put in a bridge without a permit.

Joel wants to make a deal with the Federal government. In return for their insurance program, he will sell your right to control your land in the floodplain. Hundreds of farmers and county landowners will lose their rights to control their land. This is your personal property, your own real estate, and your own farm that Joel is dealing with now. For some farmers, this is their livelihood. Joel wants to barter that away. If you thought the deal at Denmar was bad, you ain't seen nothing yet! Joel wants the Federal government to control your land!!! And he will deal!!!

Tell Joel Callison you don't want any more deals.
Vote for Someone who won't deal*—Norman Lee Alderman

Political Advertisement Paid for by Norman Lee Alderman, Candidate for County Commission

Thank You, Friends Nancy Benetato

FOR RENT

ABLE TO RENT—By month. Call 799-6388. 1-6-tfn

...e in Durbin, partially ...h. Call 335-4546.

SERVICES

WANTED—I will be available November 1 as nanny or household manager, private health care. Non-smoker, reliable and dedicated. 304-339-4925 Tuesday through Friday; 304-335-6387 Weekends; excellent references. 10-20-1c

FIREWOOD—cold john, good deal. 456-3451. 10-13-2c

...FOR THE BEST VALUE in ... at 799-4118. Licensed & insured. WV 037360. 4-28-tfn

PROFESSIONAL JEWELRY REPAIR
Gold - Platinum - Silver

FREE

FREE—Kittens. 799-7450. 10-20-1p

FREE—Roosters. 799-6378. 10-20-3p

FREE—Male English Sheep dog. 799-7273. 10-20-2c

SALES

YARD SALE
Fri. & Sat., October 21 & 22, 9 - 2
Thomastown Road
Baby bed and other baby items, large afghan, clothing and misc. items

SALES

YARD SALE
Sat., October 22, 9 - 12
Behind Motor Parts
Wolff tanning bed, clothing all sizes, bedspreads

INDOOR COMMUNITY YARD SALE
Sat., October 22
Dunmore Community Center
Anyone who would like to reserve a table can do so by calling Cindy at 456-3237 or Sherry at 456-4457 for more information

POCAHONTAS PRODUCERS
Tuesday, October 18, 1994
$63.25

In Memory

To remember a very special person
I look for you everywhere I go, see your smile in someone's kind face, feel your warm heart when someone reaches out to lend a helping hand, and try to understand why your life had to end so soon. There's pain where you gave so much joy. I am so thankful to have always had you in my life to love and know that we will be together again someday in a very special place.
In remembrance of our Grandfather,
Father and friend,
Albert M. Kelley, on his birthday, October 18
You will always be loved.

Times

NOVEMBER 24, 1994

Letters

Letter

Dear Editor,

I was dismayed that the voters of Pocahontas County didn't approve amendment No. 1 on the November 8th ballot. As you know the purpose of this amendment was to change some of the inappropriate wording in early West Virginia legistation that was severely outdated.

The only explanation I can accept for the refusal to approve amendment No. 1 is that most of those voting against it didn't fully understand the purpose of the proposal.

Since the Pocahontas Times is our only county newspaper and includes among its staff an editor and reporters, I feel that you should provide expanded coverage on election issues and candidates to keep our county residents informed. This responsibility should also be shared by the WVMR radio station staff.

As with most rural counties the newspaper is the only mass media source to get local information into our homes. A concerted effort on behalf of the paper is necessary to get our citizens informed and involved. [Letters to the editor and editorials related to political and constitutional issues have proven in the past to get people involved and subsequently informed.]

The same philosophy holds true for political candidates that flood the county with exaggerated "untruths." The Pocahontas Times should be a tool in informing and involving citizens against "heresy."

Steve Smith

Letter

For many months people have been talking about jobs, jobs, jobs. The national news media seem to want to publish glamor, crime, murder, people's personal problems. All kinds of sports and pleasures. It seems most all kinds of advertising has some kind of sports attached to the products. If someone created, say, ten jobs that people could work and earn a living and started acting like some of these characters around those sporting events, people very likely would say have that person arrested—he seems crazy. Recently two very important articles were published. They were buried so deep in the news few people even noticed them.

#1 said — The world has a job crisis. One in every three people does not have a job. Do people pay much attention to something this serious? Hardly. But they keep talking about jobs as if conversation will somehow start creating jobs. Today government rules, regulations, bureaucracy make it very difficult to do anything. Today it takes an average of $125,000 of capital to create a job. Yes, the world has a job crisis. Some drastic changes must be made.

News item #2 — For months and months people have been hearing and reading about the great health care program in Canada. Someone has forgotten to publish the facts. Read this—dateline Toronto, Canada — Canada is broke. After decades of heavy spending in social programs the vast northern land has run up a national debt of $550 billion and is accumulating more debt at a rate of $85,000 per minute. Add debts owed by the provinces and the debt leaps to $700 billion—$25,000 for each person in the country. This is how the great health care plan and social things have worked. As U. S. President John Adams said long ago: "Just remember democracies never last long. None ever have." This condition prevails in many places in the world. They will come to a head.

Phil McComb

Deeds

Deeds

James T. Spencer, Jr., and Francis

Robert Gay, Frank N. and Elizabeth Jane McCallister, John I. Sharp, Jr. and 5

The P
November 23

Sixth War L

The Sixth War Lo Monday, November from Pocahontas is $ investment is di $100,000 from ind
$43,000 from corpo the investment by i divided between $7 bonds and $26,000 in bonds. The E bond is of moderate means, r face value of $25 up, $5,000 in any one ye person. The purchas bonds is three-fourth value; $18.75 for $2 $50 and $75 for $10
payable at full face years. In case of nee bonds can be cashed i any time.

With patriotism ru pitch, with every fami
in the armed forces, finally going our way never so plentiful wit percentage of our pe seem natural that this Loan would be eas place with investors.

However, it is ex
Sixth War Loan is g hardest one of all to simple reason that American feels that war is in sight, a naturally going to e get ready to blow hi things peace will fl which war deprived

This is truly sim boys are still in the
be no slacking of them with the tho things they must ha and exist on.

Our County headed by Senator
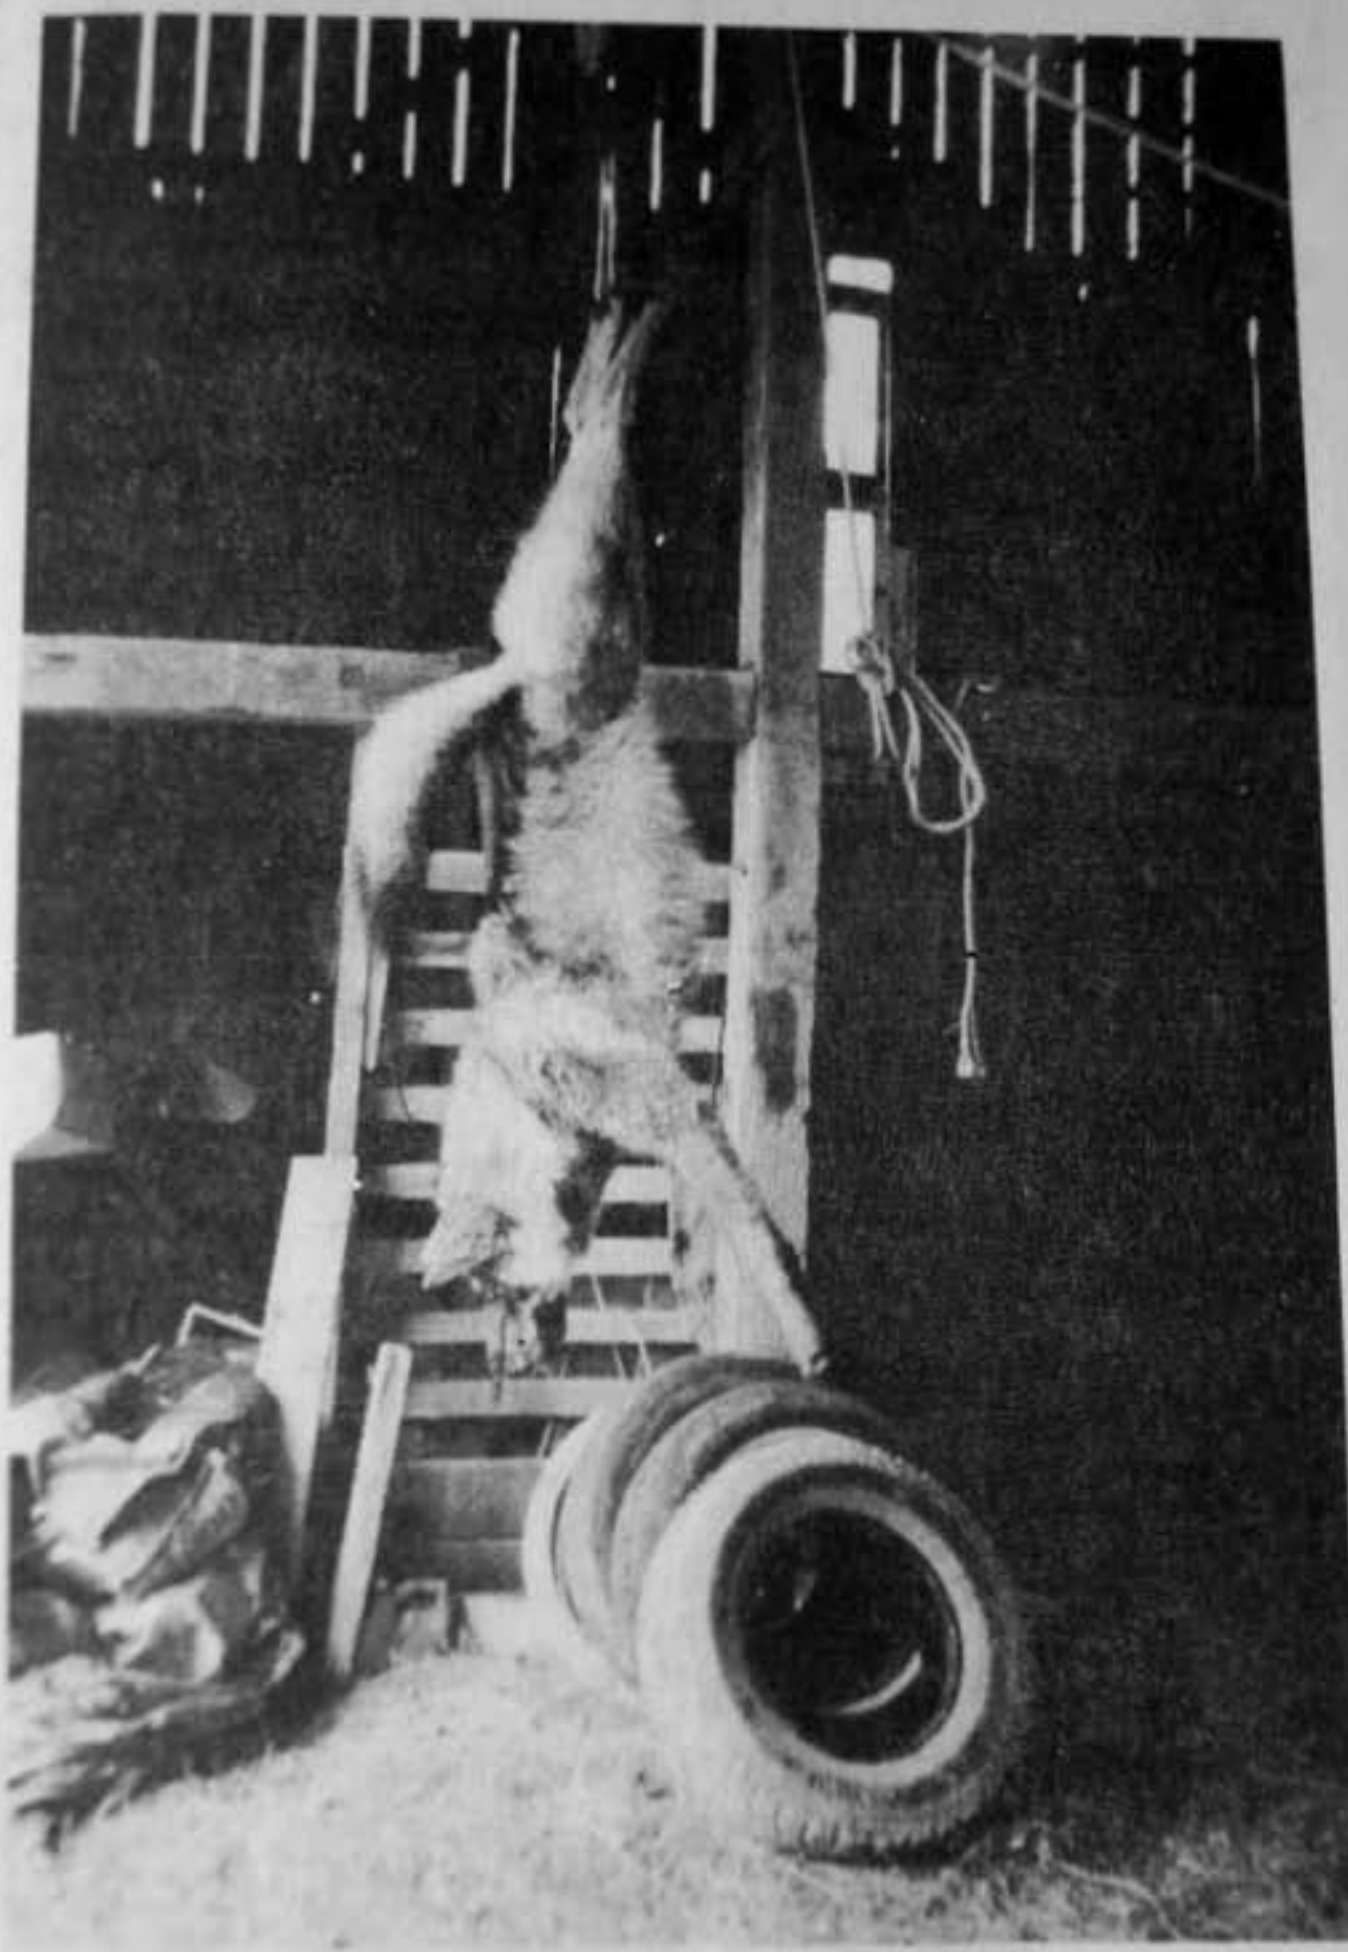
every effort is bein



Alfred Kesler sent in this photo of a coyote (or coyote-dog, the identification is not certain) that was killed on Clover Creek. Six coyotes have been killed in the Clover Lick area recently.

Kevin Doyle, of Elkins, killed a 60 pound coyote on Wesley and Retha Doyle's land near Slaty Fork. The coyote was chasing deer. Kevin is the grandson of the Doyles.

First Day Deer Count

Service officials wish both a safe and law
Most hunters know valid West Virginia to hunt within the but not enough a permanent tree prohibited, say Fore

Tree stands are by deer hunters bird's eye view of woods. While use stands is permissi Forest lands, perm are illegal. Perma pose a number of which are damage may contain nai reduce the value tree is harveste cause serious in other tool bites i Many tree stands their builders, w
the natural lan visitors find a visually littered structures. As th weather and fa hazards to hike

To curb th permanent Monongahela prohibits "occ permanently a for hunting pu this prohibitio fine of up to $
of up to six m

Forest Ser that portable

Far

It's time 1995 cropp planning to no highly e has been determinatio FSA, form former, SCS time. You determinati

News From Our Sc

Mrs. Rabel's Green Bank Kindergarten Class at Seneca

Mrs. Wilfong's Green Bank Kindergarten at Bear Town

Green Bank Elementary Students Visit Various Places In County

Green Bank Elementary students traveled to many interesting places during September and October. Mrs. Rabel's Kindergarten visited the Cass Railroad and Cass Scenic State Park. They rode the train and saw the steam engine. They also visited the battlefield, too.

Later in the month, Mrs. Wilfong's Kindergarten visited the Marlinton Fire Department. They

Green Ba

The Green Monday, Nove
m. The reaso meeting time v meeting which Bank at 7:30.

After the Treasurer's Re spice sale w success, t organizationa
Coleman, ma counted and s who sold so m and school recognition w Motor Freigh provided tran spices from N Bank. Speci everyone who year and to t providing a fo
at the school.

A report w committee for idea of a n building or ad Broad question building's u ownership, up of the buildin estimates and were discusse thought that th to the school f recess time otherwise occu is too bad to g this would ad whole comm recreational fac stage and/or f more basketb skating or other being sought.
any of the abov a note in the Project to Promote and Mark Civil War Corridor Along Staunton-Parkersburg Pike

Staunton Parkersburg Turnpike

Plans are underway in several counties in West Virginia and Virginia to preserve and publicize the Staunton-Parkersburg Pike and the Civil War Discovery Trail along this corridor. The Pike was built in about 1840 through the northern part of this county, opening a way to the Ohio River and then to the frontier west by water.

Organizations in each county will join to tell the story of the Civil War battles and skirmishes from Philippi to McDowell, to preserve the road, and have uniform signs to guide visitors. This corridor is the location of the Mountain Campaign of 1861, including Philippi, which was off the Turnpike, Rich Mountain at Beverly, Cheat Mountain Summit, Greenbrier Ford at Bartow, Top of Allegheny, on to McDowell in May 1862.

A tour from Philippi to the Top of Allegheny was held on September 15 to learn more about what is there and to coordinate efforts to preserve and interpret the Pike and Story. Knowledgeable people from West Virginia University, the National Forest and the National Park Service, and Department of Highways were present. Barbour, Randolph, and Highland Counties were represented; they are already ahead of Pocahontas experiences. The county seat was at Huntersville, where General Lee had headquarters and where soldiers came from Virginia, and soldiers traveled north and south through the Green Bank area to and from Huntersville, south over Beaver Creek to the Levels, and east through Marlinton to the Tygarts Valley, the Linwood and Elkwater camps and engagements. There was troop foraging, families refugeeing, and the like. The battle at Droop Mountain didn't occur until 1863, so the action in the county extended beyond the Mountain Campaign of 1861.

There is some money remaining in an account to study economic opportunities in forest related fields, and the Forest Service has approved its use for this project. It has to be matched. The Tourism Commission has agreed to give $5,000 in matching money. The Historical Society and the Landmarks Commission will be asked to give a lesser amount and anyone who wishes may contribute.

The Turnpike was laid out for the State of Virginia by Claude Crozet, one of Napoleon's engineers who refugeed to the United States. The road from the Top of Allegheny to Traveller's Repose is in good condition and has not been altered.

of 1861, including Philippi, which was off the Turnpike, Rich Mountain at Beverly, Cheat Mountain Summit, Greenbrier Ford at Bartow, Top of Allegheny, on to McDowell in May 1862.

A tour from Philippi to the Top of Allegheny was held on September 15 to learn more about what is there and to coordinate efforts to preserve and interpret the Pike and Story. Knowledgeable people from West Virginia University, the National Forest and the National Park Service, and Department of Highways were present. Barbour, Randolph, and Highland Counties were represented; they are already ahead of Pocahontas.

Rich Mountain Battlefield Foundation is organized and has received a grant. Highland County has made some surveys and plans and has a grant. McDowell Battlefield Corridor Project has a grant. Representatives of the Highland Chamber of Commerce and the McDowell Battlefield organization were on the tour.

Joining the tour from Pocahontas County were Cara Hefner Rose, Gibbs Kinderman, Jessie Beard Powell, William McNeel, Hayes Eilers, Christine Cumashot, and Jane Price Sharp.

From Beverly the tour came to Cheat Summit, which is in Randolph County, and on to the Bartow Ranger Station to see its Civil War exhibit. The artillery battle of Greenbrier Ford at Bartow is the first battle in Pocahontas County. Camp Barteau was located on the hills here. Then Mrs. Powell was host to the group at Traveller's Repose, a 1866 replacement of the inn burned in the War. She shared her stories, maps, books, and memorabilia — with refreshments — before a tour of the entrenchments on her farm and then to the Top of Allegheny opportunities in forest related fields, and the Forest Service has approved its use for this project. It has to be matched. The Tourism Commission has agreed to give $5,000 in matching money. The Historical Society and the Landmarks Commission will be asked to give a lesser amount and anyone who wishes may contribute.

The Turnpike was laid out for the State of Virginia by Claude Crozet, one of Napoleon's engineers who refugeed to the United States. The road from the Top of Allegheny to Traveller's Repose is in good condition and has not been altered.

Joining that first group in working on this project have been Ed Riley, who owns part of the Top of Allegheny Battlefield, Bill Hevener, and Mike Smith, of Droop Mountain Battlefield State Park. Mr. Riley is interested and willing to join his land for the tours while still farming it but he does not want to sell it. The fact that sheep have been grazed here through the years has kept the battlefield open and accessible.

The actual location of the Pike and adjoining land along the corridor are being mapped.

Those who have Civil War artifacts and stories are invited to submit them, or at least tell what they have, and adjoining land owners are asked to join in the project.

Suggestions for a sign or logo to mark this trail are also requested.

A national Civil War Discovery Trail is being prepared so that tourists and students of the conflict can get an overall guide to the happenings of the war years throughout the various states and this project will tie in with it.

Call Cara Rose, 799-4634 (799-INFO), or Gibbs Kinderman,

Battlefield Corridor Project ... grant. Representatives of the Highland Chamber of Commerce and the McDowell Battlefield organization were on the tour.

Joining the tour from Pocahontas County were Cara Hefner Rose, Gibbs Kinderman, Jessie Beard Powell, William McNeel, Hayes Eilers, Christine Cumashot, and Jane Price Sharp.

From Beverly the tour came to Cheat Summit, which is in Randolph County, and on to the Bartow Ranger Station to see its Civil War exhibit. The artillery battle of Greenbrier Ford at Bartow is the first battle in Pocahontas County. Camp Barteau was located on the hills here. Then Mrs. Powell was host to the group at Traveller's Repose, a 1866 replacement of the inn burned in the War. She shared her stories, maps, books, and memorabilia — with refreshments — before a tour of the entrenchments on her farm and then to the Top of Allegheny camps and trenches. Travellers's Repose was the first post office in Pocahontas County in 1814 and a stagecoach stop and inn.

Jessie Beard Powell has many interesting stories; her grandmother, at 9 years of age, helped treat wounded soldiers and passed on first hand accounts of the battle and damage at Bartow. Some of these are now on video.

In Pocahontas it is hoped to tie in the whole county's Civil War willing to join his land for the tours while still farming it but he does not want to sell it. The fact that sheep have been grazed here through the years has kept the battlefield open and accessible.

The actual location of the Pike and adjoining land along the corridor are being mapped.

Those who have Civil War artifacts and stories are invited to submit them, or at least tell what they have, and adjoining land owners are asked to join in the project.

Suggestions for a sign or logo to mark this trail are also requested.

A national Civil War Discovery Trail is being prepared so that tourists and students of the conflict can get an overall guide to the happenings of the war years throughout the various states and this project will tie in with it.

Call Cara Rose, 799-4636 (799-INFO), or Gibbs Kinderman, 799-6004.

WALLACE & WALLACE

Chapel in Arbovale
Phone 456-4277

Lewisburg
Ronceverte • E. Rainelle
Ansted

The Times

NOVEMBER 17, 1994

nelp. She is also volved in helping aid parents were vith her. Mrs.
chool has new is getting classes

parents and fans ents was a topic n among Board le attending the id that although erned for some of a number of ecent county between Green was particular-e age of the nade the poor nber of adults

ssion on who jor responsifan behavior, ool principal.
icials have a, the Board n should be eed to clearly and non-
ed. Board an agreed to establish the ior. In the dent Carolyn ncipals and s needed to problems boys basket

Update On The Green Bank Substation

One year after the Bartow-Frank-Durbin Volunteer Fire & Rescue Company began responding from the Green Bank substation with fire trucks and an ambulance, the station still has a few things left to complete. When the building and equipment meet all the State Fire Marshal's new standards, the ISO will be invited out to review the fire rating for the surrounding area. It is hoped that their review will bring the long-awaited 20-30% reduction in fire insurance rates. The BFD is very grateful to Sam Taylor, the PCHS Carpentry students, Rick Ziegler and the PCHS Electricity students for the work they are doing on the inside of the building. With the help of lumber donations from Inter-state Hardwood, that work is going well. The ambulance is well equipped for Advanced Life Support and the fire trucks have been brought up to code. Installation of a well and septic system are being worked on. Extra donations from the community can now be used to purchase more breathing apparatuses and more pagers to meet the new State Fire regulations. Extra donations have been received in the past two months from the following individuals and their familes: G. T. Harper, John Wayne, Mark Kane

County Comm

The County Com
for a regular meetin
Only a few items consideration.

The Commission possible need for a district on Beard Hei to provide water and new hospital. State Helmick is workin funding but if he is n a PSD may be necess body to seek funding been discussions Heights PSD for a years, beginning whe school was constructe has been established.

Deputy County Cl discussed the need office will have for sp storage. He said months the existin storage rooms will discussion follow immediate solution t was found.

Circuit Clerk E discussed with the Co mandate from the s
Court that circuit clerk computer capability 1995. Mr. Micha estimated cost is $ includes both equi training. It was noted $34,000 left in the balance. The Com

individuals and their familes: G. T. Harper, John Wayne, Mark Kane, "Red" Kane, Edward Hise, George Grove, Roy Fitzgerald, Anna Ware, Leonard Howell, John Berky, Warren Sheets, Martin Barkley, Randolph Bledsoe, G. N. Casto, J. M. Hamed, Juanita Hunter, Bill Kisner, Bonnie Plyler, Dwayne Schiebel, Edward Stewart, Homer Sutton, Charles Taylor, Lucian Walton and J. D. Rockefeller. Appreciation goes to these and to everyone else who has supported the department this year and in the past. Rural emergency services could not exist without your generosity. The substation continues to need community support in the form of personnel. We have three new paramedics in the area and more EMTs in training. There is, however, still a great need for drivers for both the fire trucks and the ambulance and for firefighters. The BFD also welcomes members who will help with fundraising but do not want to be involved with fires or ambulance runs. Interested people are encouraged to talk with BFD members about membership and to call 456-3298 for membership application forms.

Orchids...

To the people of Upper Pocahontas County who donated their eye glasses to Vision-Habitat so others can see.

---

financial matters sponsored by the State School Boards Association.

Magistrate

Ferrell Kelly, of S was found guilty of a to chase deer followin Magistrate Jerry Da
November 9. Kelly w to ten days in jail with costs.

Dale R. Morrison entered guilty pleas having no vehicle insu to stop for an emerge and improper reg
Magistrate Dale's cour
He was fined a total court costs of $206 revoked due to DUI dismissed.

Donna Eddi
Craigsville, was fou
DUI following a Monday. She was se hours in jail with $ $102 in court costs.

Kenny Feury, c entered guilty pleas procuring water w defraud and petit Monday. The charges against Feury by t Marlinton. Magis sentenced him to four on each charge to concurrently, with a plus court costs

Spring?

Blanche and John Geiger report two bluebirds in their birdhouse on Drennen Ridge.

- - -

Election Made Official

The results of the General Election last week were made official Monday when the County Commission carried out its duty to canvass the ballots. The function of the canvass is to compare the number of ballots and poll slips and to decide if ballots that were challenged on election day should be counted.

The most closely contested race in the county was for County Commission with Joel Callison the apparent winner over incumbent Commissioner Norman Alderman based on the unofficial results. With both Mr. Alderman and Mr. Callison present for the canvass, any sign of something that was not done according to election rules was checked carefully.

In two precincts note was made of tape that was placed across the flap of the envelope holding the ballots, over top of the signatures of the poll workers. The poll workers sign their names across the flap after sealing it. In another precinct there was tape on the envelope holding the challenged ballots. In two precincts, the number of ballots and poll slips were slightly different.

The three missing tally sheets for Precinct 10, Marlinton, were found, as expected, in the sealed in the kindergarten students arrive.

The Board discu have a better
pre-school children it will be known begins how man classes will be school. It was not new families as Snowshoe and th
The Superintenden work on this for ne

Mrs. Brock gav
update on her wor Bank School. He new one at the described how she have students tut
students and worki

envelope holding the challenged ballots. In two precincts, the number of ballots and poll slips were slightly different.

The three missing tally sheets for Precinct 10, Marlinton, were found, as expected, in the sealed envelope with the ballots.

There were 47 challenged ballots to be considered. Of these, it was decided to count 13. Most of the challenges were for voters whose names the poll workers could not find in their precinct voter lists or who voted in the wrong precinct. The ballots counted were for voters whose names were found in the master voter file at the Court House, a registration error had been made, or who were poll workers who had to work out of their home precinct.

One absentee ballot which had been mailed in time, but received late, was counted.

Following the canvass the official election results for the county are:

U. S. Senate

Byrd — 2263
Klos — 757

House of Representatives

Rahall — 1866
Waldman — 868

State Senate

Helmick — 2252
Wilson — 765

House of Delegates

Forest Dickard, of Champion International Corporation, congratulates PCHS Forestry Team members Chris Taylor, Jamie Warner, Johnny Boggs, and Travis Warner. The team was accompanied by their advisor/coach, Mike Burns, of Dunmore.

Pocahontas Ranks Second in National FFA Forestry Career Development Event

The PCHS Forestry Team placed second in the nation recently at the National FFA Competition in Kansas City, Missouri. Arkansas placed first and Mississippi placed third. Thirty-four teams of four competed. Ranking fourth individually was Johnnie Boggs, seventh Jamie Warner, eighth Travis Warner, and fifteenth Chris Taylor.

The National FFA Forestry Career Development Event is sponsored by Champion International Corporation, Stamford, Connecticut, and Stihl, Inc., of Virginia Beach, Virginia, as a special project of the National FFA Foundation. The event was held at Burr Oak Woods, Blue Springs, Missorui.

- - -

PCCC Update

L-R: JoAnn Perine, Sue Kinnison and Wilma Rimel

Pocahontas Continuous Care Center celebrated Halloween on October 31. Residents and staff enjoyed the Halloween Parade with ghosts and goblins led by the Marlinton Middle School Band.

The costumes were great. Volunteers at PCCC presented parade participants with bags of Halloween Treats. Following the parade, employees participated in a costume contest which was judged by residents. Winners of the contest were as follows: Prettiest - Wilma Rimel; Funniest - JoAnn Perine; and Ugliest - Sue Kinnison. Ms. Ursula Long among other residents dressed in their best Halloween attire to join the festivities. The celebration was enjoyed by everyone at Pocahontas Continuous Care Center.

Schoolcraft Sales

1-1/4 mile on River Rd.
Buckeye

New load of material, toys, handles, tarps, tools, CBs, stereos, glassware, three sizes of quilt batting and lots of antiques.

799-6006 or 799-4684

Starcher, Sou
Samuel H. M
Ski Bike and G Special Po
Starcher t
Special P Blevins to Sa
General
Edgar to G
Martha Edgar Inter-Stat
to Garrett L.
Bank District
Mary K.
80 acres, L District
Larry W
William H. acres, Little William Donald W.
18 and 19,
lots east sid Power Ball to Jam

Wedding

Douglas - Yard

Mary and i Lumbe At Bartow locatin spring.

Marin son of S Bank, re training.
Durin
Marine C Island, So taught th survival,

On Saturday, October 15, 1994, at two o'clock in the afternoon, Traci Michelle Douglas, daughter of Michael and Connie Douglas, of Frank, became the bride of William B. Vandevender, son of David and Donna Vandevender, of Bartow, at a double ring ceremony held in the Thornwood Community Church, Thornwood. The Reverend William C. Vandevender, uncle of the groom, officiated.

Given in marriage by her parents and escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a floor length sequined gown with a detachable cathedral train.

Heather Mullenax, cousin of the bride, served as Maid of Honor. Serving as bridesmaids were Michelle Labonich, friend of the couple, Chelsie Kincaid and Shena Cassell, neices of the bride. Alecia Lambert and Bradley Cassell, neice and nephew of the bride, served as flower girl and ring bearer.

The best man was David Vandevender, brother of the groom. Ushers were Joey Vandevender, brother of the groom, Jamie Hubbert and Joshua Kincaid, nephews of the bride.

Music was provided by Ellen Stafford, Crissy Lambert attended the guestbook, Ray Hess was video coordinator and Lauri Taylor was the photographer. The church was decorated by her family using wedding colors of light pink and mint green in flowers, candles, and ribbons.

A private reception followed at the Upper Inn Club in Durbin, after which Traci and Billy spent a relaxing two day honeymoon.

Traci is the granddaughter of Richard and Crystal Mullenax, of Boyer, and is a sophomore at Fairmont State College in Fairmont. Billy is the grandson of Mac and

All recruits participate in an active physical conditioning program and gain proficiency in a variety of military skills including first aid, rifle marksmanship and close-order drill. Teamwork and self-discipline are emphasized throughout the cycle.

Although the Marine Corps is scaling back, its investment in high-quality recruits continues. The Marine Corps has more than 38,000 job openings this year.

Bailey is a 1994 graduate of Pocahontas County High School.

Donations

Donations To PMH Auxiliary

In memory of Stephen Barnisky by Friends on Hamilton Hill: Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. McElwee, Jean Lockridge, Mr. and Mrs. Hardy Varner, Rev. and Mrs. Fred Proctor, James Michael, Mr. and Mrs. Jody Moses, Mr. and Mrs. William Harper, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Wimer, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bell, Nancy Curry, Jab Ervine, Lena Weatherholt, Veva Gilmore, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Brill, Dotty McMillian, Edna Bear, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Burns, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Doug Burns, Margaret Barlow, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Eskridge, Kathleen Hoover, Anita Mallow, Ruby Moses, and Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Hamrick

---

Visiting

Vinton and Catherine Moore and Mark and Terry Wagner, all of Marlinton, recently spent a week in Florida sightseeing and visiting with friends.

Weddings

Mary Vandevender of Thornwood and is employed at Interstate Lumber Company in Bartow.

At present, the couple reside in Bartow and Fairmont with plans of locating in the Elkins vicinity come spring.

- - -

In Service

Bailey In Service

Marine Pvt. Travis A. Bailey, son of Steve A. Bailey, of Green Bank, recently completed recruit training.

During the training cycle at Marine Corps Recruit Depot, Parris Island, South Carolina, recruits are taught the basics of battlefield survival, introduced to typical military daily routine, and personal and professional standards.

All recruits partici

West Virgi Swee

Natasha Bre
Green Bank, wo

Hermitage Exxon, and 2 at Buckeye Cou

Beavers Plentiful

For a while beavers have had a dam built across Knapps Creek about 100 yards below the train trestle in Marlinton. Now they have taken to felling trees across the Greenbrier River Trail. One of their biggest successes so far was a poplar about 10 inches in diameter at the base.

Farther down the River Trail for many miles one can see where beavers are cutting small trees on the hillsides and dragging them across the trail and down to the Greenbrier River.

- - -

Gun Season For Deer Opens

Hunters will take to the woods on Monday, November 21, for the beginning of West Virginia's two-week bucks only gun season.

Class R or RR gun stamps,

Thank You Pocahontas County Voters for Your Show of Support

Joel S. Callison

Your County Commissioner

Political Advertisement Paid for by Callison for County Commission, Max White, Treasurer

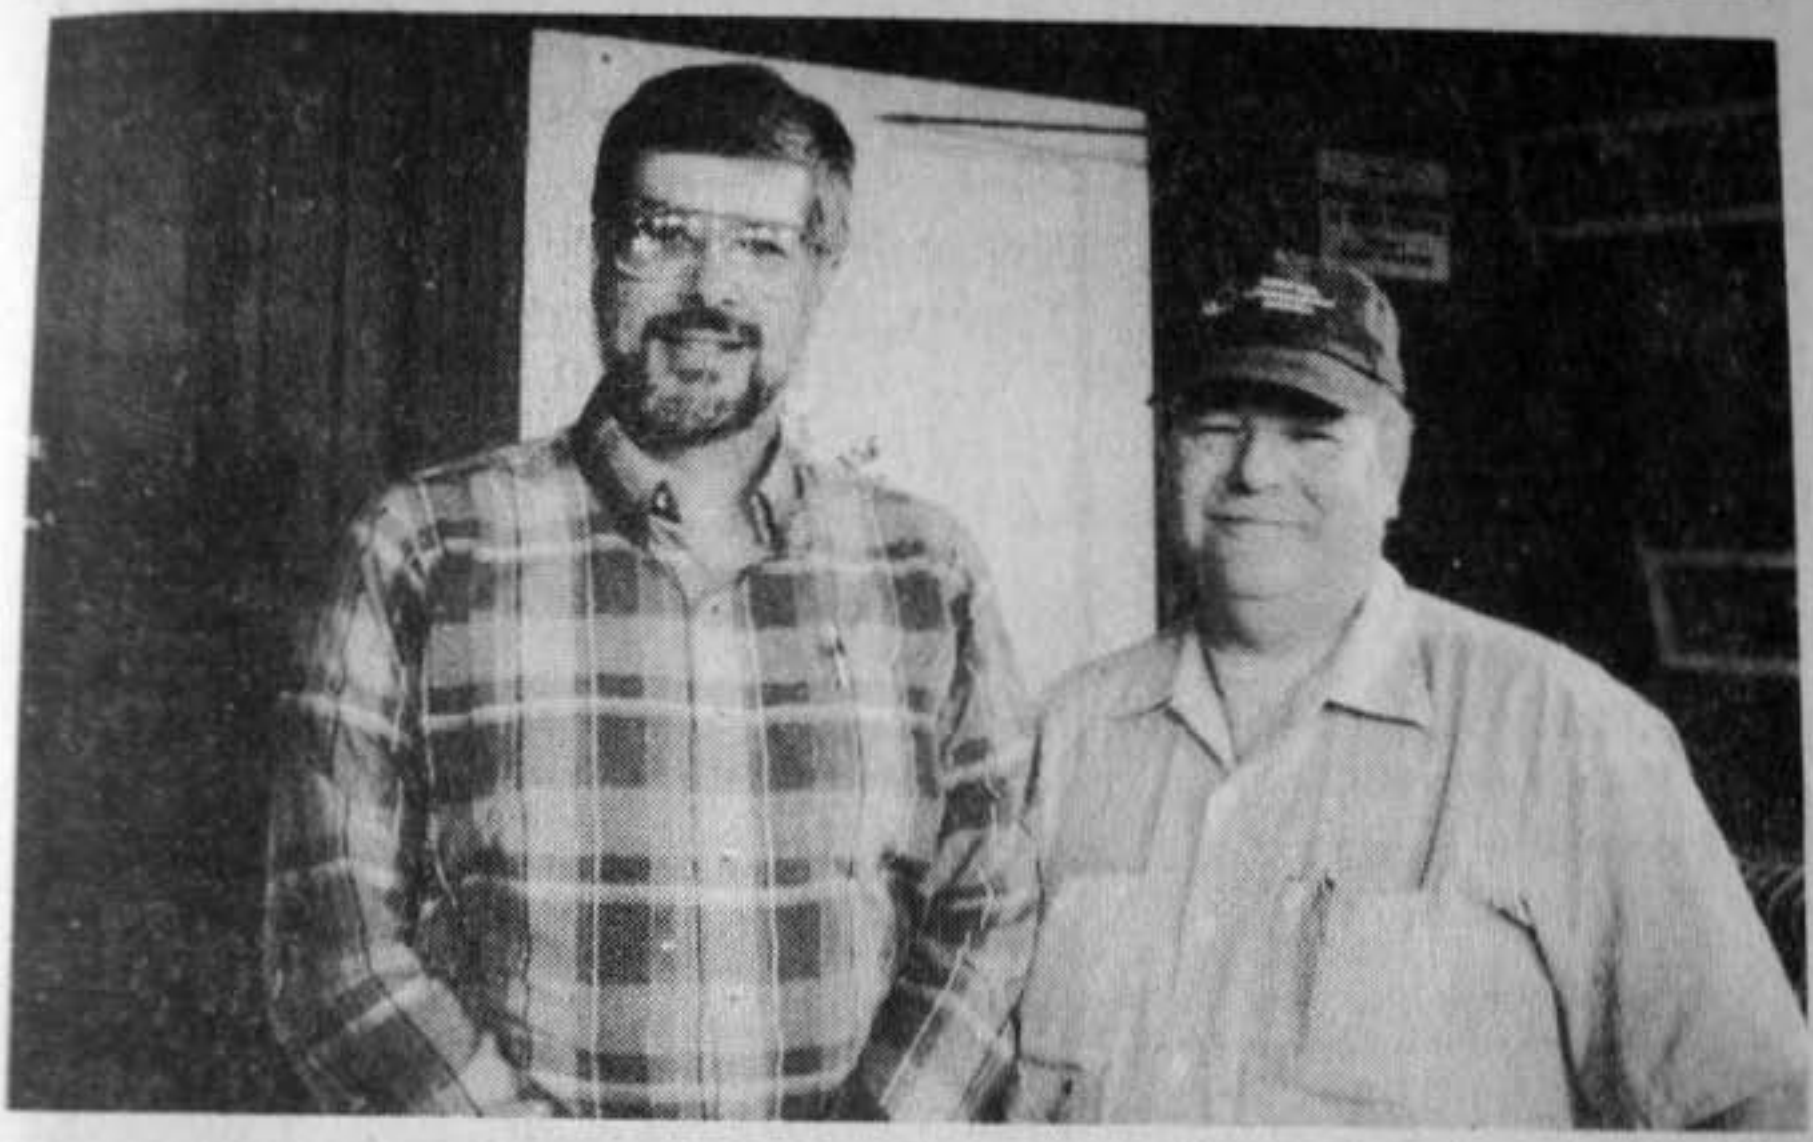
Farm News



On left, Lee Godbey, District Conservationist, and on right, Norris Long, Soil Conservation Technician

New Name for Soil Conservation Service

The USDA Soil Conservation Service, (SCS), has undergone a name change to USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service, (NRCS), according to Lee Godbey, District Conservationist, and Norris Long, Soil Conservation Technician. We will continue to do business as usual by providing technical services to landowners in conservation farm planning and livestock water developments. This new name to Natural Resources Conservation Service more correctly reflects what we already do. We will continue to build on the already 60 years of experience, technical assistance expertise and partnerships with soil conservation districts.

conservation farm planning and livestock water developments. This new name to Natural Resources Conservation Service more correctly reflects what we already do. We will continue to build on the already 60 years of experience, technical assistance expertise and partnerships with soil conservation districts.

Left to right, Trudy Friel, Evilene Beverage, Patty Triplett

Farm Service Agency

Instead of the familiar "ASCS Office," callers will now hear "Farm Service Agency" when telephoning this office. In an effort to reorganize and streamline the U. S. Department of Agriculture, the consolidation of agencies has resulted in a name change. Evilene Beverage continues to serve as Acting County Executive Director of Farm Service Agency. Trudy Friel and Patty Triplett will continue to assist producers with the various programs. Stop by the office located on Thrid Avenue in Marlinton or call 799-4317 if you have questions on available programs.

- - -

FSA Notes

It's time to think about your 1995 cropping plans. If you are planning to crop a field for which no highly erodible determination has been made, has been determination made, you need to let FSA, former ASCS or NRCS, former, SCS, know before planting time. You must have this determination made to remain eligible for most USDA programs.

- - -

Youth Sports

High School Girls' Basketball

Nicholas 68, Pocahontas 42

Nicholas County's Chrissy Bischoff scored 23 points to lead the Lady Grizzlies past Pocahontas 68-42 last Thursday.

Mandy Snyder led the Lady Warriors in scoring with 14 in this great season. They [illegible] the Arbovale Community Center with election of officers. They are as follows: Area Director - Tom Dickenson; Secretary - Alice McCray; Treasurer - Lou Taylor; Concession Stand - Julia Grimes; and Complaint Committee - Barbara Seldomridge, Glen Arbogast & Sharon Greathouse.

- - -

ATTENTION POCAHONTAS COUNTY LANDOWNER

Are you tired of being ripped off with a fake trash bill by people who don't want your trash, just your hard earned money?

Now is the time to stand up against those who would like for you to pay for a service that you don't receive in order to lower the bills of those who do receive a service.

The Public Service Commission of West Virginia supports a user fee for trash service. Pocahontas County only wants businesses to be in the group that pays for actual usage. If you are not a business owner in Pocahontas County, shame on you. You don't count. If you happen to be a camp owner, you're fair game because you can't vote here (remember the Boston Tea Party?).

I propose to start a trash service in Pocahontas County designed to give camp owners and other low volume users a fair break. If approved by the PSC, you may subscribe to my service for a fee of $12 per year with a per bag fee of $2 for each bag of trash that is to be delivered to my pickup points. If you take your trash home with you as you are now doing, you would only be paying the yearly $12 fee.

I also plan on forming a group that will locate honest citizens of Pocahontas County who will run for public offices and represent all interested parties in an equal manner. We need to find these people and support them when they do run for office.

If you are interested in this trash service or if you would be willing to represent all Pocahontas County users in an equal manner, please contact:

Fred Ray (304)776-8440
5218 Walnut Valley Dr.
Cross Lanes, WV 25313

Tim

DECEMBER 1, 1994

Eureka Vacuum

Ballot Recount Held for County Commission Race

The County Commission met for a special meeting on Monday to recount the ballots in the race for County Commissioner. The recount was requested by incumbent Commissioner Norman Alderman, who was the loser to Joel Callison in the election results certified by the Commission at its official canvass of the ballots. The results of the canvass were 1534 votes for Mr. Callison and 1445 for Mr. Alderman.

At the end of a long day for those involved in the recount, the results were 1539 votes for Mr. Callison and still 1445 votes for the incumbent.

At the beginning of the meeting, Mr. Alderman stated that he would not take part in the meeting as a member of the Commission.

Commissioners Dana Moyers and Mike Mynuk handled the ballots and Deputy County Clerks Sandy Friel and Jay Tibbs recorded the results. Court reporter Amy Honaker was present to make an official transcript of the results should it be needed. Tabitha Beale kept a separate count for Mr. Alderman. Mr. Callison was represented by Attorney Walt Weiford.

Mr. Alderman said should there not be tangible changes in the results, he would be open to conceding the election.

The morning session was slowed by a concern Mr. Alderman had over knowing the exact number of ballots sent to the precincts and how the figure is documented. In re-counting the first few precincts, no form was found that gave the number of ballots as counted by the poll workers before the voting record of the ballot count.

Mr. Michael said that he was in 14 of the 16 precincts on election day delivering the absentee ballots and asked if the number of ballots actually in the sealed package varied from the number indicated on the package. He said in all cases there was none. Mr. Michael did note that this is not always the case and occasionally there is a difference of a very few.

Mr. Michael's list of the number of ballots ordered from the printer for each precinct was made a part of the record of the recount.

Mr. Alderman was also concerned about two precincts where the envelopes containing the used ballots were sealed with tape. He noted that in both cases the tape seemed to be over the signatures written across the seal. For both precincts a call was made to a poll worker. In both cases the explanation was simple, the glue on the flap did not stick and so tape was used to seal the envelope.

The recount moved more quickly in the afternoon but still it was almost 6 before it was completed. Minor differences were found with the original count done on election night with a gain in one precinct and a loss in another for each candidate. At the end Mr. Alderman's total did not change but Mr. Callison had gained five votes.

At the end of the recount Mr. Alderman expressed his congratulations to Mr. Callison and conceded the victory to him.

The Commission voted to accept the results of the recount as the official vote for the County Commission race.

had over knowing the exact number of ballots sent to the precincts and how the figure is documented. In re-counting the first few precincts, no form was found that gave the number of ballots as counted by the poll workers before the voting began. Mr. Alderman made note of this for the court reporter to include in the official record of the recount for the first several precincts. (The recount began with the Southern District.)

A call was placed to a worker in the Hillsboro Precinct and she stated that the ballots had been counted as one of the first things done when the workers arrived. She did not know if the number was officially recorded.

Circuit Clerk Earl Michael, who is responsible for obtaining the ballots, explained the procedure used in ordering them. He said he supplies the printer with the number needed for each precinct and the ballots come in sealed packages already counted. The packages are unopened until done so by the precinct workers.

Mr. Michael said he knows the workers count the ballots but he is not aware of what they do about recording the count. He said he knows of no form prescribed by the Secretary of State to record this figure. Mr. Michael said the Prosecuting Attorney did not find any requirement in the law to keep a congratulations to Mr. Callison and conceded the victory to him.

The Commission voted to accept the results of the recount as the official vote for the County Commission race.

The County Commission results following the recount are as follows:

Precinct	Alderman	Callison
Durbin	78	55
Bartow	109	90
Green Bank	145	162
Cass	53	61
Dunmore	79	58
Marlinton	90	181
West Marlinton	49	118
Campbelltown	151	160
Brushy Flats	55	37
Slaty Fork	47	42
Frost	92	58
Buckeye	87	77
Huntersville	181	139
Mill Point	77	64
Hillsboro	86	154
Droop	66	83

Volunteer All-Stars

Several people have already been nominated for recognition as Pocahontas County Volunteer All-Stars. If you would like to nominate someone who deserves recognition for outstanding volunteer service to the community, call WVMR at 799-6004 to get a nomination form. Deadline is Friday, December 16.

irector, and June, Dewey and Dorothy er 11 a.m. lunteering.
rs was held.
committee
n of Gladys Laura Jean esident; and y/Treasurer. ations from journed and rved by the g #1853 of Saturday,

Marlinton president meeting to the 26
esent. Our
rs. Robert riplett and ledge of x by Erma bountiful ith turkey and roasted by Betty e question h answers Mark 8: Revelation Still and was read.

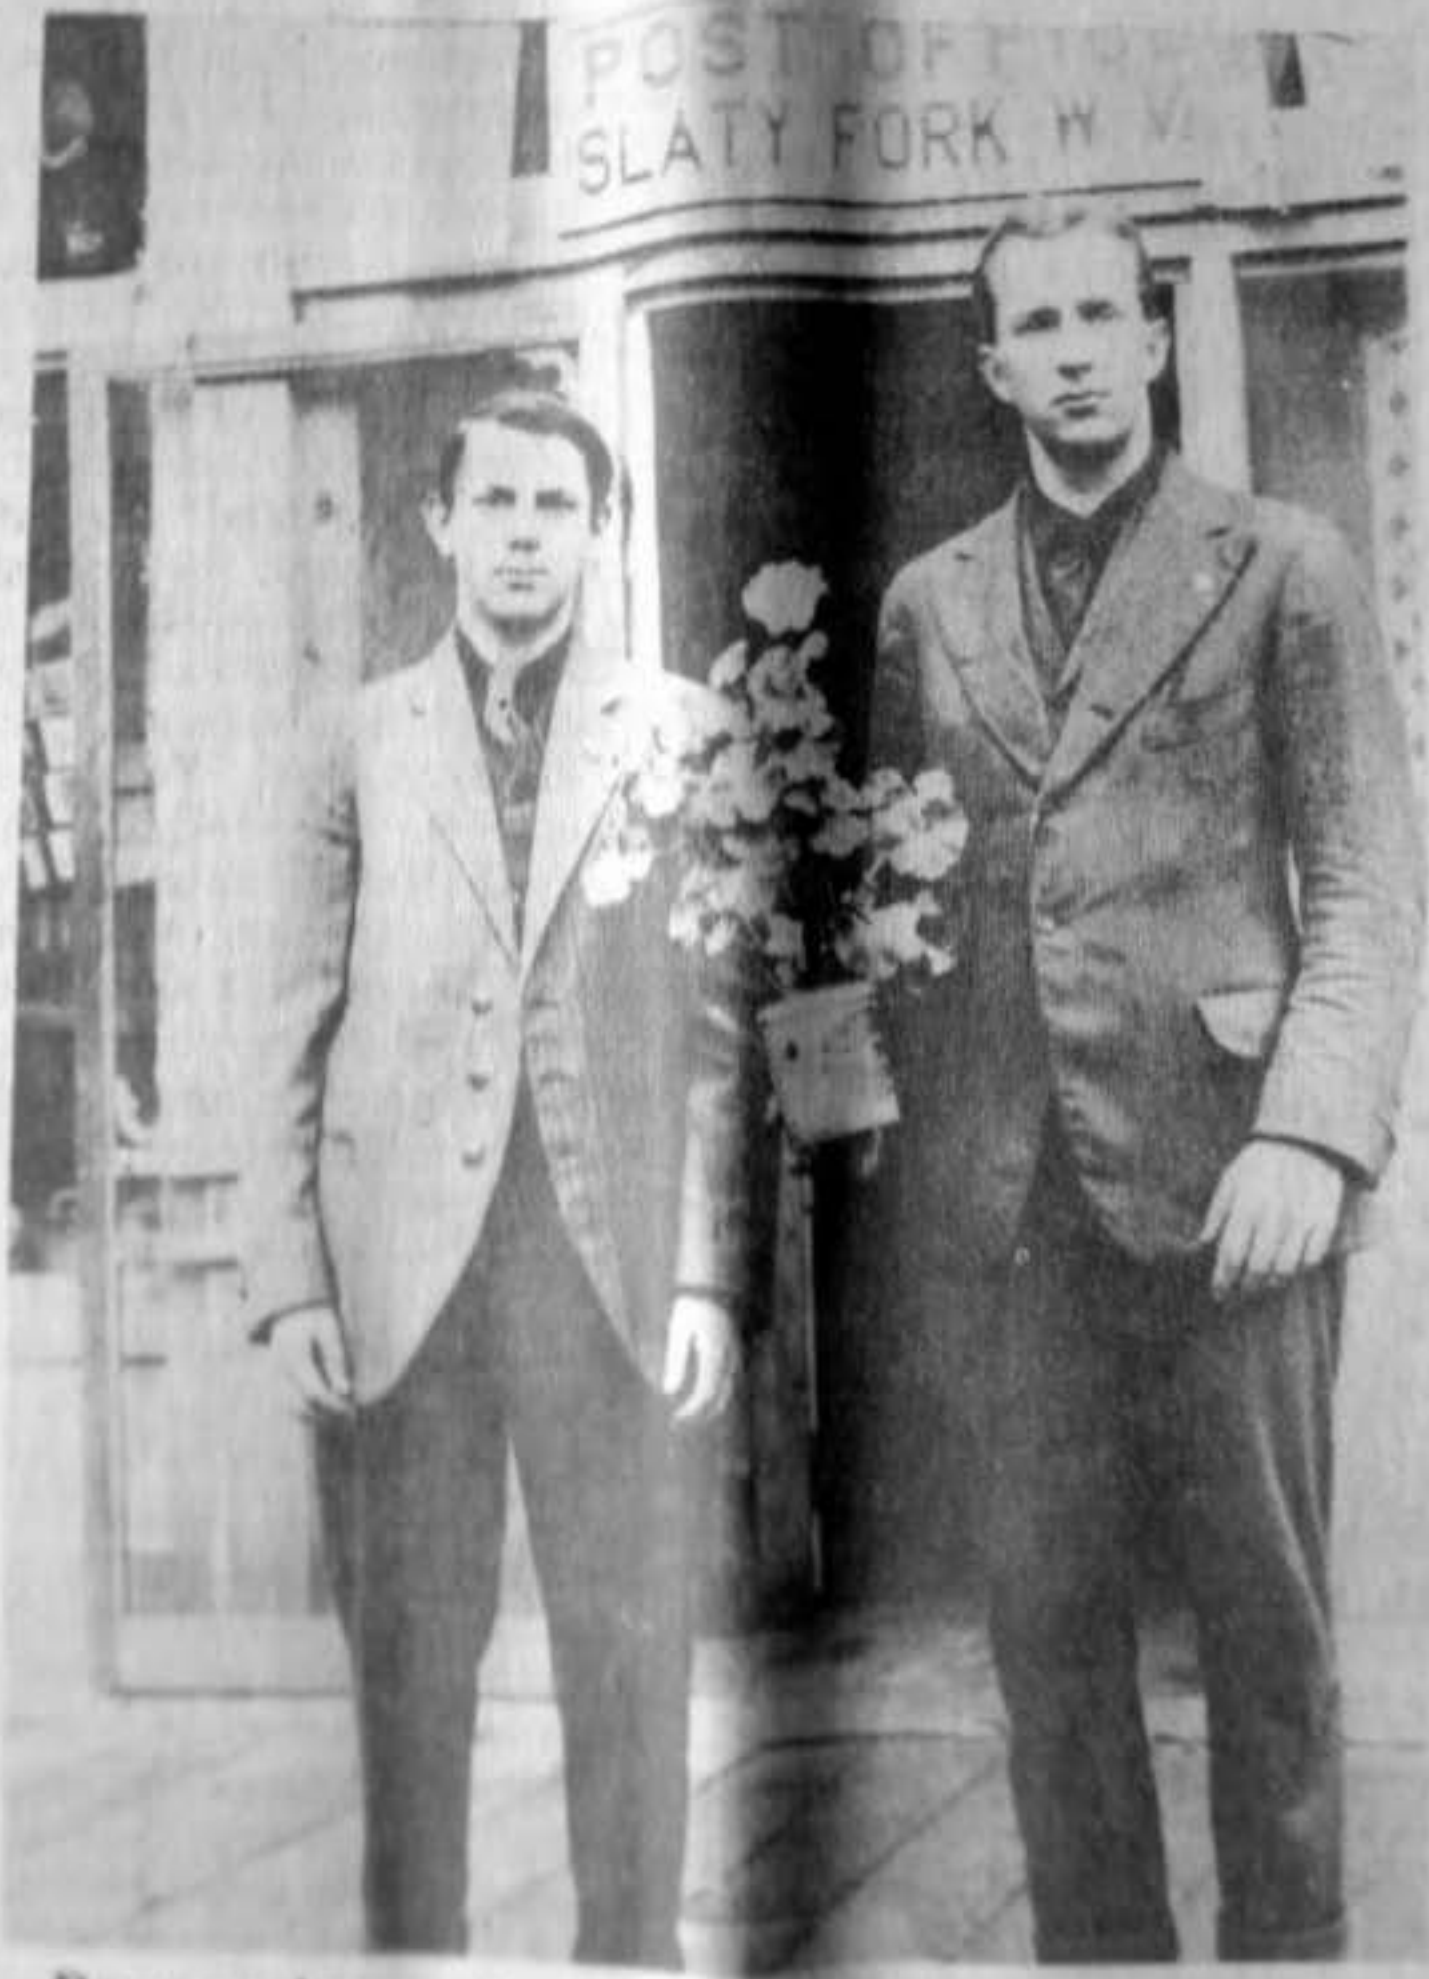
e Hunter

Do you know these men?



Do you know these men? This is a picture of a postcard. Contact Dorothy Fertig, Route 1 Box 338-A, Dunmore, WV 24934

F
N O
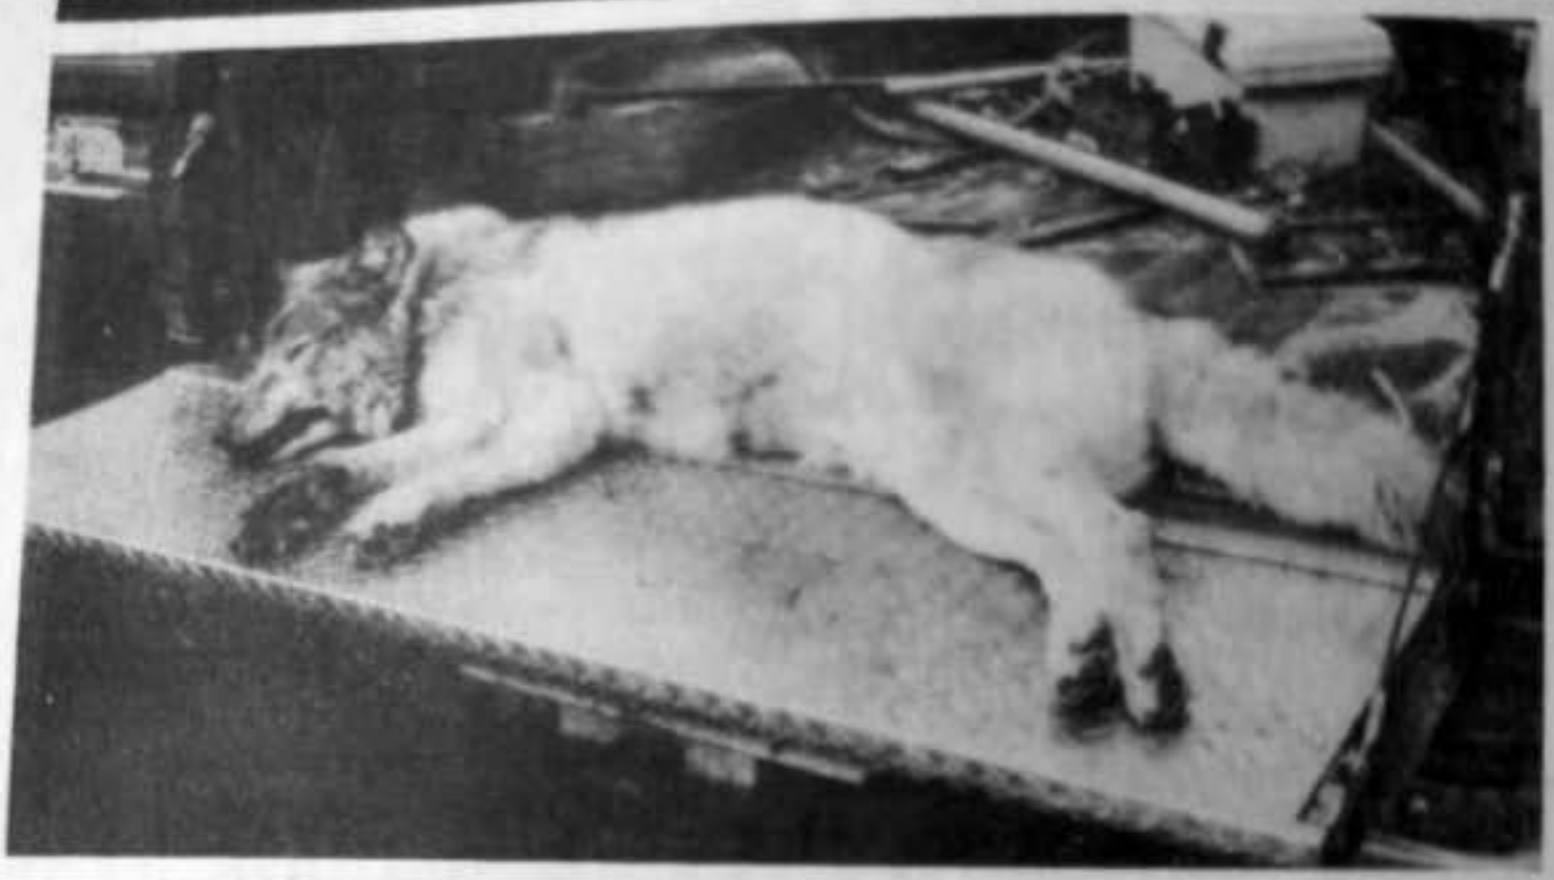
H

W

R

OUTDOOR NOTES



This wolf-like animal was killed on November 23 on the farm owned by Fred Burns, Sr., (Hevener Place) at Clover Lick. It was shot by Steve Johnson. Mr. Johnson was deer hunting and keeping an eye on three does, thinking a buck might be nearby, when he saw this animal and another stalking the deer.

The animal weighs 76 pounds, is 5 1/2 feet long, and 27 inches from the ground to the shoulder. The Division of Natural Resources presently has the animal to determine if it actually is a wolf. As of Wednesday morning, no decision has been made if it is a wolf or not.

Pocahontas County Game Checking Stations

		Deer
Appalachian Sport	Marlinton	29
Cross Roads Sporting Goods	Mill Point	29
Droop Mountain Grocery	Droop	28
Dunmore Country Mart	Dunmore	159
Edray Kwik Stop	Edray	124
Gray's Groceries	Frost	113

nking a buck and another long, and 27 Division of etermine if it no decision

ons

ats this week

brought along General Mark Clark, the commaning general of the Italian area.

-

Letter from Staff Sergeant Dewey F. Sharp:

Dear Cal:

Well, not often do you hear of a county paper all over the world.

By now I guess the bears are helping you battle the Conservation Commission, and I would almost be tempted to help you from somewhere in Belgium. If I would have had lamb stew for supper I probably would be helping to conserve them. But the tables were BEAR. I can see you do not quite get the object of the five day season. You had never thought of the additional bear it is going to take after we all get back home for target practice. These Infantry boys would not think of shooting at one less than eight hundred yards. And that airport there; think what you could do with light guns harmonized just right for bear. Why, they don't have a chance!

And after all, the farmer ought to be good for something so let him raise the feed for them. Mast and blackberries do not hit every year and we don't want poor bear. Most everyone who ever worked behind a desk could figure out why we need more bear. . .

-

From an article about a trip by

Winterlude C

The Highland C of Commerce alo
merchants is spon annual "Highlan Celebration", a no experience geared t family outing.

As many peo aware, holiday hus
the big city can "Wintertide" was a relaxing funfille Virginia's countryside. The good old fashione

On December
fine shops featu gifts, fine art, a will be filled wi
The shopkeepers to enjoy homem and holiday musi

Visitors will yule log as the
their own fragra and wreaths at tree plantation.

On the eveni guests will Christmases pas the courthous traditional tree Seasonal music community ch school band be this week ocahontas ssion said f the maps the PCTC arlinton as erans

y Cruiser v actively swell our en to all Marine ision and ed or are Associate e for past women, als. For onald J. orcester CSA, 55
on, MA

be good for something so let him raise the feed for them. Mast and blackberries do not hit every year and we don't want poor bear. Most everyone who ever worked behind a desk could figure out why we need more bear. . .

-

From an article about a trip by Calvin W. Price:

Speaking about Moorefield, here is where the South Fork of the South Branch joins the South Branch of the Potomac. Some years since, the National geographers got the bright idea such a name was cumbersome. Official action was taken and the name changed to Moorefield River. The change did not take worth a cent. The local uproar reached to Washington with the result the new name of Moorefield River was dropped and the South Fork of the South Branch restored in all its cumbersomeness.

Speaking about uproars, at the present time the South Branch is in Christmases past the courthouse traditional tree Seasonal music community ch school band be

Vonnie M

Independe

Famous hand and pottery gift or additi

Call me for m 799

LONGA

Always At Hom

Pocahontas Times

30, 1944 ıd were sold for l from $3.81 to f, oranges 27¢ a rs 23¢, Northern ¢, Rinso, large go, Major John h Army in Italy, in the City of leading parts in thrie McClintic rine Cornell. It

ered that Mr.
on of the late lintic, of the ı Swago. After Neel went back self known as a ty man. He cs to his Eighth al for a West
The next day
th their whole addition they ral Mark Clark, eneral of the

a state of insurrection and is possibly considering secession over the attempt of the State Conservation Commission to head off the local winter sport of catching the humble sucker fish out from under the ice. They take this sport so seriously, a lot of good bass fishing went out of circulation to the general fishing public. Just as a gentle kick in the slats in way of reminder that mountaineers feel ever free to play the game as they please and make the rules as they go along. Over on this side of the ridge, we do not take sucker fishing seriously, but we do have aught against the Conservation Commission for trying to put the marauding black bear upon the song bird list.

- - -

Highland County to hold Winterlude Celebration

The Highland County Chamber of Commerce along with local

Openi

AR

CA

Staunton-Parkersburg Turnpike history

Below is an account of roads from Historical Sketches, 1901:

As to the means of travel and communication in pioneer times, it seems that for years the pass-ways to and from places in our county and elsewhere beyond were the trails made by buffaloes and Indians. At first the brush was trimmed away and widened for packhorses, then for sleds, then for wagons, as progress required. The pioneers seem to have noticed that it would be advisable to avoid the trails along the streams and valleys, and follow the crests of leading ridges, and so new paths were blazed accordingly and came to be used, hence the steepness of the old roads may be accounted for in great measure. It was much more practicable to escape an ambuscade on a crest or summit than when hemmed in by a valley hillside. With a tenacity worth of a better purpose the pioneers clung to the old paths with marked conservatism. The sons prided themselves with the idea that what was good enough for their fathers was good enough for them. About 1836, however, there seems to have been an awakening on the matter of better roads to and from the county. The Warm Springs & Huntersville Turnpike was projected, and completed about 1838, with Henry Harper and Wm. Gibson, a Huntersville merchant, contractors. It was a grand highway for that period. and awoke a sensation much like our people felt at seeing cars coming to Marlinton. Every stream was bridged from Huntersville to the Warm Springs, and the means of communication at the time between those places seemed to be all that was desired or could be reasonably expected. Capt. William Cackley was in the Legislature that authorized and chartered the road, and, to use his own terse language, he had a "time of it log-rolling his bill through:" the expletives are here respectfully omitted.

The Staunton and Parkersburg Pike was made two or three years present pike. But from this point his own route followed Shaw's Fork to its mouth, and there crossed Bullpasture Mountain, reaching the river of the same name near the mouth of Davis Run. This stream was followed to the Sounding Knob Gap. The next range was passed through Vanderpool Gap, and a course was then traced through the Great Valley of Back Creek to the Townsend Draft near the Bath line. Here it began the ascent of Alleghany Mountain. The entire route was excellent, the grades being as easy as the contour of the country would permit, and three barriers wholly eliminated.

But the survey did not become a road. In 1838 the Staunton and Parkersburg Turnpike was built under the supervision of Claude Crozet, a civil engineer of the first Napoleon, who worked in Russia as well as France. Influential citizens induced him to abandon the easier route which nature indicated, and to adopt the one by which the road was actually constructed. The specifications of Crozet required a track twenty feet wide, exclusive of side ditches, and ten inches higher in the center than on the border. Every visible rock or stump was to be taken out, and no grade was to exceed four degrees.

The road became at once the avenue of a large traffic between the valley and the transalleghany country, and was a large factor in the further development of the Highland area. Though still a very fair road, it has declined from its early estate and importance. That no bridges were ever thrown across Shaw's Fork and the Cowpasture is a strange and needless neglect.

The turnpike paralleled and crossed a common road constructed by the state, and the long-abandoned track is sometimes in full view for quite a distance. . . .

- - -

Prepared Childbirth Classes
For mothers due date before February 28

Full Series for first time Moms or if you have not attended a childbirth class before - five weeks, Tuesday evenings, 7 to 9, begins December 13.

Refresher class for Moms who have attended class in past four years - classes 1,2, 4, 5 of the full course, Tuesday evenings, 7 to 9, begins December 13.

Held at Professional Building, Rt. 60 West, Lewisburg. Bring pillow, blanket and support person.

Please call 647-6017 to register for classes. Classes are free.

- - -

Personalized Christmas Cards

Stop by and look at our large selection.

The Pocahontas Times
Second Ave., Marlinton

Legal Advertisements

NOTICE OF UNADMINISTERED ESTATE

Notice is hereby give, that there being only one beneficiary of the estate of STEPHEN BARNISKY, deceased, there will be no subdivisionof said estate unless within ninety days demand for administration be made by a party in interest or an unpaid creditor.

Dated this 22nd day of November, 1994.

Carmella K. Combs
Clerk of the County Commission of Pocahontas County, West Virginia
By: Sandra Friel, Deputy

12-1-2

Legal Advertisements

LEGAL NOTICE

Pike was made two or three years later. It was located by the celebrated Crozet, one of the great Napoleon's loyal engineers, who refugeed to the United States after Waterloo had made it rather uncomfortable for him in the old country.

About 1854 the Huttonsville and Marlinton Turnpike was located by Engineer Haymond. In the same year he engineered the Lewisburg and Marlinton Turnpike, and the Greenbrier Bridge at Marlinton. Colonel William Hamilton, of Randolph County, contracted for the road work from Huttonsville to Marlin's Bottom. Lemuel Chenoweth, from Beverly, built the bridge in 1854-56. Captain William Cochran superintended the Lewisburg Road, and all of these enterprises were completed by 1856. During the war between the States these highways, like so many other things, were virtually laid waste. The efforts to repair and keep them in proper condition have been many and varied, and much unfriendly criticism evoked as to the policy and management of the county authorities. As to road affairs, times change and people with them, and it seems citizens need time for living and learning. No doubt the time will come sooner or later when the interests of the public highways will be committed to the management of persons specially qualified for the business, like law, medicine, or politics.

From History of Highland County, 1911:

. . . . For some years before this date (1830), and for some years later, the need of better highways for the growing American people became a very live topic. If actual distance could not be shortened, it was necessary to shorten the hours of travel. The people beyond the mountains were in particular need of better roads to the Eastern markets.

In 1822, James B. Campbell, an experienced surveyor, returned from the West to Crabbottom, and soon began to plan a turnpike to connect Staunton with Parkersburg. The route he selected was from the top of Shenandoah Mountain to Shaw's Ford nearly the same as the

You will take notice that the undersigned will, on the 9th day of December, 1994, at 12:00 offer for sale to the highest responsible bidder thereat, one 1985 Ford EXP SN 1FABP0146FW202343 at the front steps of the First National Bank in Marlinton, Marlinton, Pocahontas County, W. Va., the same as offered for sale pursuant to a security interest secured under the Uniform Commercial Code of the state of West Virginia securing the First National Bank in Marlinton, a National Banking Institution, and given as collateral under a note dated April 27, 1993, and default having been made in the obligations thereunder, the collateral will be sold "as is" without warranty. The said bank reserves the right to refuse any or all bids. The bank reserves the right to bid at said sale.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK IN MARLINTON
12-1-2

LEGAL NOTICE

You will take notice that the undersigned will, on the 9th day of December, 1994, at 12:00 offer for sale to the highest responsible bidder thereat, one 1986 Chevrolet Chevette SN 1G1TB68C9GA157502 at the front steps of the First National Bank in Marlinton, Marlinton, Pocahontas County, W. Va., the same as offered for sale pursuant to a security interest secured under the Uniform Commercial Code of the state of West Virginia securing the First National Bank in Marlinton, a National Banking Institution, and given as collateral under a note dated February 18, 1993, and default having been made in the obligations thereunder, the collateral will be sold "as is" without warranty. The said bank reserves the right to refuse any or all bids. The bank reserves the right to bid at said sale.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK IN MARLINTON
12-1-2

NOTICE OF UNADMINISTERED ESTATE

Notice is hereby given that, there being only one beneficiary of the estate of OLIVE C. HOLLANDSWORTH, deceased, there will be no subdivision of said estate unless within ninety days demand for administration be made by a party in interest or an unpaid creditor.

Dated this 15th day of November, 1994.

CARMELLA K. COMBS, Clerk
of the County Commission of Pocahontas County, West Virginia
By: Sandra Friel, Deputy 11-24-2

LEGAL NOTICE
FOREST SERVICE APPROVES
2.5 MILES OF BURIED CABLE

Marlinton District Ranger Cindy Schiffer signed a Decision Notice on November 28, 1994, approving 2.5 miles of buried telephone line for service to the Hightop area. The applicant was Mountain State Telephone Company. The line will be buried 24 - 30 inches deep along the edge of Woods Road M-184 which is near Widemouth Run. For more information, please contact Tim Henry at the Marlinton Ranger Station located on Cemetery Road, telephone 304-799-4334. 12-1-1c

---

NOTICE OF FILING OF ESTATE ACCOUNTS

I have before me the accounts of the Fiduciary of the Estate of ALEXANDRA S. SHARP

Any person having a claim against the estate of such deceased person, or who has any beneficial interest therein, may appear before me or the county commission at any time within thirty days after first publication of this notice, and request reference of said estate to a fiduciary commissioner, or object to confirmation of said accounting. In the absence of such request or objection, the accounting may be approved by the county commission.

Given under my hand this the 22nd day of November 1994.

Carmella K. Combs
Clerk of the County Commission of Pocahontas County, West Virginia
By; Sandra Friel, Deputy
12-1-2

COMMISSIONER'S NOTICE OF FINAL SETTLEMENT

To the Creditors and Beneficiaries of the Estate of ANN T. RICHARDSON

All persons having claims against the Estate of the said Ann T. Richardson, deceased, whether due or not, are notified to exhibit the same, with the voucher thereof legally verified, to the undersigned, at his office at 824 Second Avenue, in the Town of Marlinton, West Virginia, on or before the 24th day of January, 1995, otherwise they may by law be excluded from all benefits of said Estate.

All beneficiaries of said Estate are notified to be present on said day to protect their interests.

Given under my hand, this the 18th day of November, 1994.

MICHAEL C. DOSS Fiduciary Commissioner for Pocahontas County, West Virginia
11-24-2

FREE

FREE PUPPIES—Black Lab mother, Golden Retreiver mix father, born Oct. 22, 2 tan females, 5 black males, 2 black females. 456-3498. 12-1-2c

---

FREE CHRISTMAS GIFTS—7 kittens looking for a good home, ranging in age from 3 - 6 months old, Tabby, Calico, Tiger and mixture. Inquire at 799-6103 after 6 p.m., or 799-4271 daytime. 12-1-1p

---

FOR SALE

White Pine Christmas Trees

Daniel & Naomi Ryder
799-4768

MICHAEL C. DOSS
ATTORNEY AT LAW

Staunton-Parkersburg Turn

Below is an account of roads from Historical Sketches, 1901:

As to the means of travel and communication in pioneer times, it seems that for years the pass-ways to and from places in our county and elsewhere beyond were the trails made by buffaloes and Indians. At first the brush was trimmed away and widened for packhorses, then for sleds, then for wagons, as progress required. The pioneers seem to have noticed that it would be advisable to avoid the trails along the streams and valleys, and follow the crests of leading ridges, and so new paths were blazed accordingly and came to be used, hence the steepness of the old roads may be accounted for in great measure. It was much more practicable to escape an ambuscade on a crest or summit than when hemmed in by a valley hillside. With a tenacity worth of a better purpose the pioneers clung to the old paths with marked conservatism. The sons prided themselves with the idea that what was good enough for their fathers was good enough for them. About 1836, however, there seems to have been an awakening on the matter of better roads to and from the county. The Warm Springs & Huntersville Turnpike was projected, and completed about 1838, with Henry Harper and Wm. Gibson, a Huntersville merchant, contractors. It was a grand highway for that period, and practically followed the present pike. But from this point his own route followed Shaw's Fork to its mouth, and there crossed Bullpasture Mountain, reaching the river of the same name near the mouth of Davis Run. This stream was followed to the Sounding Knob Gap. The next range was passed through Vanderpool Gap, and a course was then traced through the Great Valley of Back Creek to the Townsend Draft near the Bath line. Here it began the ascent of Alleghany Mountain. The entire route was excellent, the grades being as easy as the contour of the country would permit, and three barriers wholly eliminated.

But the survey did not become road. In 1838 the Staunton and Parkersburg Turnpike was built under the supervision of Claud Crozet, a civil engineer of the first Napoleon, who worked in Russia as well as France. Influential citizens induced him to abandon the easier route which nature indicated and to adopt the one by which the road was actually constructed. The specifications of Crozet required a track twenty feet wide, exclusive of side ditches, and ten inches higher in the center than on the borders. Every visible rock or stump was to be taken out, and no grade was to exceed four degrees.

Personalized

have been an awakening on the matter of better roads to and from the county. The Warm Springs & Huntersville Turnpike was projected, and completed about 1838, with Henry Harper and Wm. Gibson, a Huntersville merchant, contractors. It was a grand highway for that period and awoke a sensation much like our people felt at seeing cars coming to Marlinton. Every stream was bridged from Huntersville to the Warm Springs, and the means of communication at the time between those places seemed to be all that was desired or could be reasonably expected. Capt. William Cackley was in the Legislature that authorized and chartered the road, and, to use his own terse language, he had a "time of it log-rolling his bill through;" the expletives are here respectfully omitted.

The Staunton and Parkersburg Pike was made two or three years later. It was located by the celebrated Crozet, one of the great Napoleon's loyal engineers, who refugeed to the United States after Waterloo had made it rather uncomfortable for him in the old country.

About 1854 the Huttonsville and Marlinton Turnpike was located by Engineer Haymond. In the same year he engineered the Lewisburg and Marlinton Turnpike, and the Greenbrier Bridge at Marlinton. Colonel William Hamilton, of Randolph County, contracted for the road work from Huttonsville to Marlin's Bottom. Lemuel Chenoweth, from Beverly, built the bridge in 1854-56. Captain side ditches, and ten inches higher in the center than on the border. Every visible rock or stump was to be taken out, and no grade was to exceed four degrees.

Personalized Christmas Cards

Stop by and look at our large selection.

The Pocahontas Times

Second Ave., Marlinton

Legal Advertisements

LEGAL NOTICE

You will take notice that the undersigned will, on the 9th day of December, 1994, at 12:00 offer for sale to the highest responsible bidder thereat, one 1985 Ford EXP SN 1FABP0146FW202343 at the front steps of the First National Bank in Marlinton, Marlinton, Pocahontas County, W. Va., the same as offered for sale pursuant to a security interest secured under the Uniform Commercial Code of the state of West Virginia securing the First National Bank in Marlinton, a National Banking Institution, and given as collateral under a note dated April 27, 1993, and default having been made in the obligations thereunder, the collateral will be sold "as is" without warranty. The said bank reserves the right to refuse any or all bids. The bank reserves the right to bid at said sale.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK IN MARLINTON

12-1-2

LEGAL NOTICE

You will take notice that the undersigned will, on the 9th day of 1850. During the war between the States these highways, like so many other things, were virtually laid waste. The efforts to repair and keep them in proper condition have been many and varied, and much unfriendly criticism evoked as to the policy and management of the county authorities. As to road affairs, times change and people with them, and it seems citizens need time for living and learning. No doubt the time will come sooner or later when the interests of the public highways will be committed to the management of persons specially qualified for the business, like law, medicine, or politics.

-

From History of Highland County, 1911:

. . . . For some years before this date (1830), and for some years later, the need of better highways for the growing American people became a very live topic. If actual distance could not be shortened, it was necessary to shorten the hours of travel. The people beyond the mountains were in particular need of better roads to the Eastern markets.

In 1822, James B. Campbell, an experienced surveyor, returned from the West to Crabbottom, and soon began to plan a turnpike to connect Staunton with Parkersburg. The route he selected was from the top of Shenandoah Mountain to Shaw's Ford nearly the same as the

the First National Bank in Marlinton, Marlinton, Pocahontas County, W. Va., the same as offered for sale pursuant to a security interest secured under the Uniform Commercial Code of the state of West Virginia securing the First National Bank in Marlinton, a National Banking Institution, and given as collateral under a note dated February 18, 1993, and default having been made in the obligations thereunder, the collateral will be sold "as is" without warranty. The said bank reserves the right to refuse any or all bids. The bank reserves the right to bid at said sale.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK IN MARLINTON
12-1-2

NOTICE OF UNADMINISTERED ESTATE

Notice is hereby given that, there being only one beneficiary of the estate of OLIVE C. HOLLANDSWORTH, deceased, there will be no subdivision of said estate unless within ninety days demand for administration be made by a party in interest or an unpaid creditor.

Dated this 15th day of November, 1994.

CARMELLA K. COMBS, Clerk
of the County Commission of Pocahontas County, West Virginia
By: Sandra Friel, Deputy 11-24-2

LEGAL NOTICE
FOREST SERVICE APPROVES 2.5 MILES OF BURIED CABLE

Marlinton District Ranger Cindy Schiffer signed a Decision Notice on November 28, 1994, approving 2.5 miles of buried telephone line for service to the Hightop area. The applicant was Mountain State Telephone Company. The line will be buried 24 - 30 inches deep along the edge of Woods Road M-184 which is near Widemouth Run. For more information, please contact Tim Henry at the Marlinton Ranger Station located on Cemetery Road, telephone 304-799-4334. 12-1-1c

---

MICHAE

g Turnpike history

t from this point ollowed Shaw's uth, and there ture Mountain, of the same name Davis Run. This llowed to the Gap. The next ssed through nd a course was the Great Valley the Townsend
h line. Here it of Alleghany ntire route was s being as easy
e country would barriers wholly id not become a Staunton and ike was built ion of Claude neer of the first rked in Russia . Influential to abandon the ature indicated, e by which the nstructed. The ozet required a k, exclusive of inches higher

The road became at once the avenue of a large traffic between the valley and the transalleghany country, and was a large factor in the further development of the Highland area. Though still a very fair road, it has declined from its early estate and importance. That no bridges were ever thrown across Shaw's Fork and the Cowpasture is a strange and needless neglect.

The turnpike paralleled and crossed a common road constructed by the state, and the long-abandoned track is sometimes in full view for quite a distance. . . .

- - -

Prepared Childbirth Classes
For mothers due date before
February 28

Full Series for first time Moms or if you have not attended a childbirth class before - five weeks, Tuesday evenings, 7 to 9, begins December 13.

Refresher class for Moms who have attended class in past four years - classes 1,2, 4, 5 of the full course, Tuesday evenings, 7 to 9, begins December 13.

Held at Professional Building, Rt. 60 West, Lewisburg. Bring

GE Classes to prep test are continuin Education Buildi School on Tuesd evenings from 6 Anyone may en any of the classe for the classes.

On January Coccoli will be i the GED test. least 10 people cost is $25. Th 10:00 a.m. in t room on the g Board Building

The next ti given in Pocah sometime in M

Battle of Th
Com
National C 50th Anni ever-famous Louis, Misso
All veterans Battle of the a part of th Louis. Follo
major activiti Complete available fro Battle of the

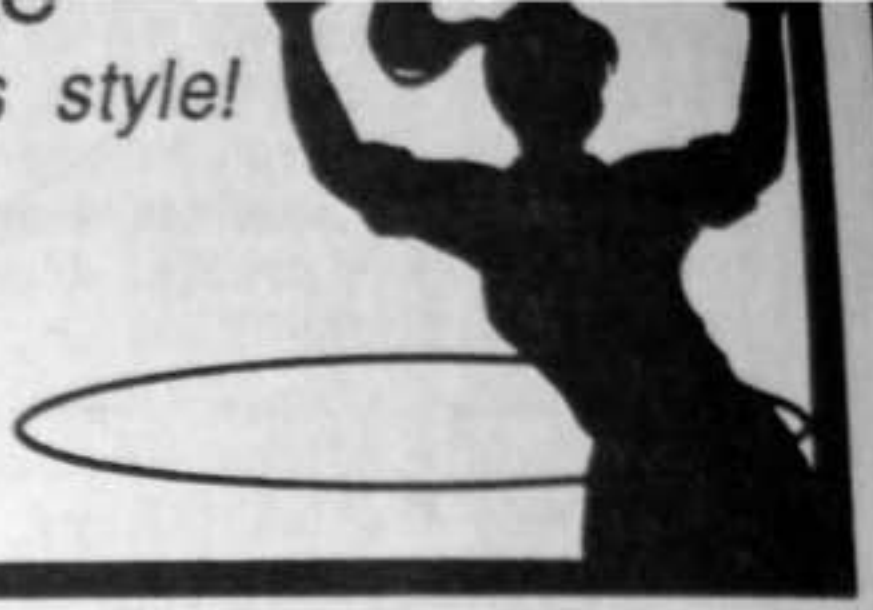
DJ: Dr. White

Come dressed in 50s style!



Bill Hefner and WVMR Proudly Present

The Fall 1994 Guitar Summit Broadcast

Live, from WVMR's studios Saturday,
December 3 • 1 - 5 p.m.

Artists invited to perform include:

Terry Richardson
Mike Totten
John Ridenbaugh
Rich Bovee
Jim Prater Danny Marrs
Doug Scott
Ted Stone Larry Combs
Glen Phillips
Bill McCloud
Bill Lovelace
Ronald Baldwin
Doug Van Gundy
John Sullivan

You're invited to come out to WVMR and enjoy the music in person, or bring your guitar and strum along!

Time

DECEMBER 8, 1994

Furniture Tra

near Ryder's Ashland, Boyer. For more information or to schedule a different time to pick up a tree, call

Jeff Wayne 456-3447

This Week on WVMR

Operating Hours for December: 7:30 a.m. - 5:00 p.m.

- Thursday—Special Fundraiser edition of Country Plus from 10:00 until Noon featuring Janet, Jeannie and lots of jawing. At 2 p.m., live from our studio, the piano artistry of Ellen Stafford.
- Saturday—From 11 a.m. until 1 p.m., the return of the George Jones Fan Club, with president Bill Campbell and vice president Janet Queen. From 1 - 3 p.m., PCHS students will be doing live radio karaoke, singing some of your favorite songs. At 3 p.m., James McNeel presents a tribute to Bob Dylan.
- Sunday—WVMR's second Sunday Fundraiser program begins with live gospel music from 7:30 a.m. - Noon. From Noon until 5 p.m., tune in or stop by for live bluegrass and old-time music from the studios of WVMR.

Thanks to everyone who has pledged their financial support to WVMR during the Fall Fundraiser thus far. Special thanks to all the volunteers who donated their time to help make our Fundraiser happen.

FFECTIVE DECEMBER 5 THRU 11, 1994

Ryder's Ashland	Boyer, no new report	75
Seneca State Forest	Dunmore	12
Sharp's Store	Slatyfork	127
Taylor's Grocery	Hillsboro	46
Trent's Store	Arbovale	89
Watoga State Park	Huntersville	5
Total 12-5-94 (unofficial)		2058

Four bears were checked Monday at Sharp's Store.

Letter

Dear Editor,

Why was the "Wolf-like animal" (photo and article in December 1, Outdoor Notes) shot and killed in the first place? It was neither threatening Mr. Johnson nor stalking or attacking anybody's livestock. There are ample deer in this county for all the wild animals which naturally prey on them, or won't we even allow that? I see the prevailing attitude toward predators has changed very little in at least half a century, judging by the gleeful tales of their wanton slaughter in practically every one of your 50 years ago columns.

Sincerely,
Gwen Powell Balogh
Hillsboro

Animal Not Considered Full-blooded Wolf

At this time the Division of Natural Resources does not consider the animal killed last month in Pocahontas County to be a full-blooded wolf. This preliminary identification of the animal has been made by the staff at the DNR's Elkins Operations Center. For a definite identification the skull and hide of the animal are being sent to a wolf specialist at the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Services laboratory in Ashland, Oregon.

DNR Wildlife biologist Jim Crum is calling the animal wolf-like. He bases his opinion on the animal's skull, which has the structural characteristics of a dog, not a wolf. It could certainly be a hybrid between a dog and wolf, Crum said. He said his measurements for the animal are 72 pounds in weight and 5 feet in length, from nose to the tip of its tail. Mr. Crum said the animal was an adult, probably two years old at Oregon facility, Mr. Crum said he doesn't expect to get an identification report before February. He said he feels sure it will not turn out to be a full-blooded wolf. Another factor against the animal being a full-blooded wolf is the location of the kill. Mr. Crum noted that the nearest area where wolves occur naturally is Minnesota, a long way from Pocahontas County.

Rumors that wolves could be in the state because of stocking by the DNR are denied by state officials. Mr. Crum noted that the DNR is accused of stocking everything from ladybugs to wolves. However, the only animals that have been stocked are the river otter and the fisher.

Full-blooded gray wolves are an endangered species in the lower 48 states. Killing a gray wolf can bring penalties of up to a $10,000 fine and a year in prison, under federal law.

It is possible that this animal is a hybrid, a cross between a dog and a wolf, that has been released. The June issue of Smithsonian magazine has an ariticle on keeping wolves and wolf hybrids as pets becoming popular. The thrust of the article is that having these animals as pets is a very bad idea—both for people and the animals.

People are attracted to these animals by their intelligence and independence as well as being a symbol of wilderness—and then expect them to behave as normal pets. This is fine until the animal matures. From this time on there is no way to predict the behavior of pet wolves and dog/wolf hybrids. The vast majority begin to behave as the pack-hunting, wide-ranging, highly territorial predators their wild genes have predisposed them

Gwen Powell Balogh
Hillsboro

Animal Not Considered Full-blooded Wolf

At this time the Division of Natural Resources does not consider the animal killed last month in Pocahontas County to be a full-blooded wolf. This preliminary identification of the animal has been made by the staff at the DNR's Elkins Operations Center. For a definite identification the skull and hide of the animal are being sent to a wolf specialist at the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Services laboratory in Ashland, Oregon.

DNR Wildlife biologist Jim Crum is calling the animal wolf-like. He bases his opinion on the animal's skull, which has the structural characteristics of a dog, not a wolf. It could certainly be a hybrid between a dog and wolf, Crum said. He said his measurements for the animal are 72 pounds in weight and 5 feet in length, from nose to the tip of its tail. Mr. Crum said the animal was an adult, probably two years old at most.

He said he was interested to find a lack of visible parasites in the animal's digestive tract, which is very unusual in wild animals. The last meal this animal had was a sheep, based on stomach contents. The left front leg has a healed fracture.

Due to the workload at the

have been stocked are the river otter and the fisher.

Full-blooded gray wolves are an endangered species in the lower 48 states. Killing a gray wolf can bring penalties of up to a $10,000 fine and a year in prison, under federal law.

It is possible that this animal is a hybrid, a cross between a dog and a wolf, that has been released. The June issue of Smithsonian magazine has an ariticle on keeping wolves and wolf hybrids as pets becoming popular. The thrust of the article is that having these animals as pets is a very bad idea—both for people and the animals.

People are attracted to these animals by their intelligence and independence as well as being a symbol of wilderness—and then expect them to behave as normal pets. This is fine until the animal matures. From this time on there is no way to predict the behavior of pet wolves and dog/wolf hybrids. The vast majority begin to behave as the pack-hunting, wide-ranging, highly territorial predators their wild genes have predisposed them to be. This is reflected in the great number of the animals that are turned over to shelters or just turned loose.

Since 1986 nine children in the United States have been killed by wolf and wolf-dog pets. Many more people, children and adults, have been injured. A four-year-old was killed in 1988 in Florida by a

The officers and staff of the Bank of Marlinton cordially invite you to our annual Christmas Op House at the Marlinton

5 2058

Rosemary Bugas, Madeline and Wesley Price, C. Michael Williams,

Crum said he to get an port before e feels sure it t to be a nother factor l being a e location of oted that the olves occur a long way
y.
could be in king by the te officials.
ne DNR is everything wolves. imals that e river otter

olves are an he lower 48 y wolf can o a $10,000 son, under animal is a dog and a ased. The hsonian on keeping ids as pets ne thrust of ving these very bad

hybrid that had been proclaimed "Pet of the Week" only a few hours before.

Biologists and other experts involved in the study of wolves are generally totally opposed to having wolves and wolf dogs as pets. Incidents involving these animals only increase public prejudice against wolves, unfairly, according to those who study wolves in the wild. Wolves in the wild are shy of humans and work in packs to capture their food. Wolves and wolf dogs raised as pets do not have the skills or the pack structure needed to pursue wild prey. If they escape or are turned loose, they can survive only by feeding at sites where humans provide food, such as campgrounds and picnic areas, or attacking livestock.

Wildlife biologists are also worried about the possibility of escaped or released wolf hybrids interbreeding with wild wolves. This will dilute their gene pool with the instincts and behaviors of domestic dogs with unpredictable changes in the nature of wolves.

- - -

Coyotes

Albert Wilfong, farmer of Dunmore, lost two calves last year

gray wolf can to a $10,000 prison, under is animal is a a dog and a eased. The thsonian e on keeping rids as pets he thrust of aving these a very bad le and the ed to these ligence and as being a —and then as normal the animal ne on there behavior of lf hybrids.

to behave
e-ranging, tors their osed them n the great that are s or just ren in the killed by s. Many worried about the possibility of escaped or released wolf hybrids interbreeding with wild wolves. This will dilute their gene pool with the instincts and behaviors of domestic dogs with unpredictable changes in the nature of wolves.

Coyotes

Albert Wilfong, farmer of Dunmore, lost two calves last year and two calves this fall—about a month ago—to coyotes. They pulled the intestines right out their sides and the calves died instantly. He had Paul Hilleary come to help trap last year; one was trapped and one was killed. He says four stayed in a pack on Rockefeller's farm last year. Just a few days ago he received a call asking if he had any sheep at Stony Bottom. He didn't, because he had been squeezed out there by the coyotes. The caller reported seeing five coyotes in the road at Wilfong's cattle loading pen.

SA PE
Hi DI Oal 219

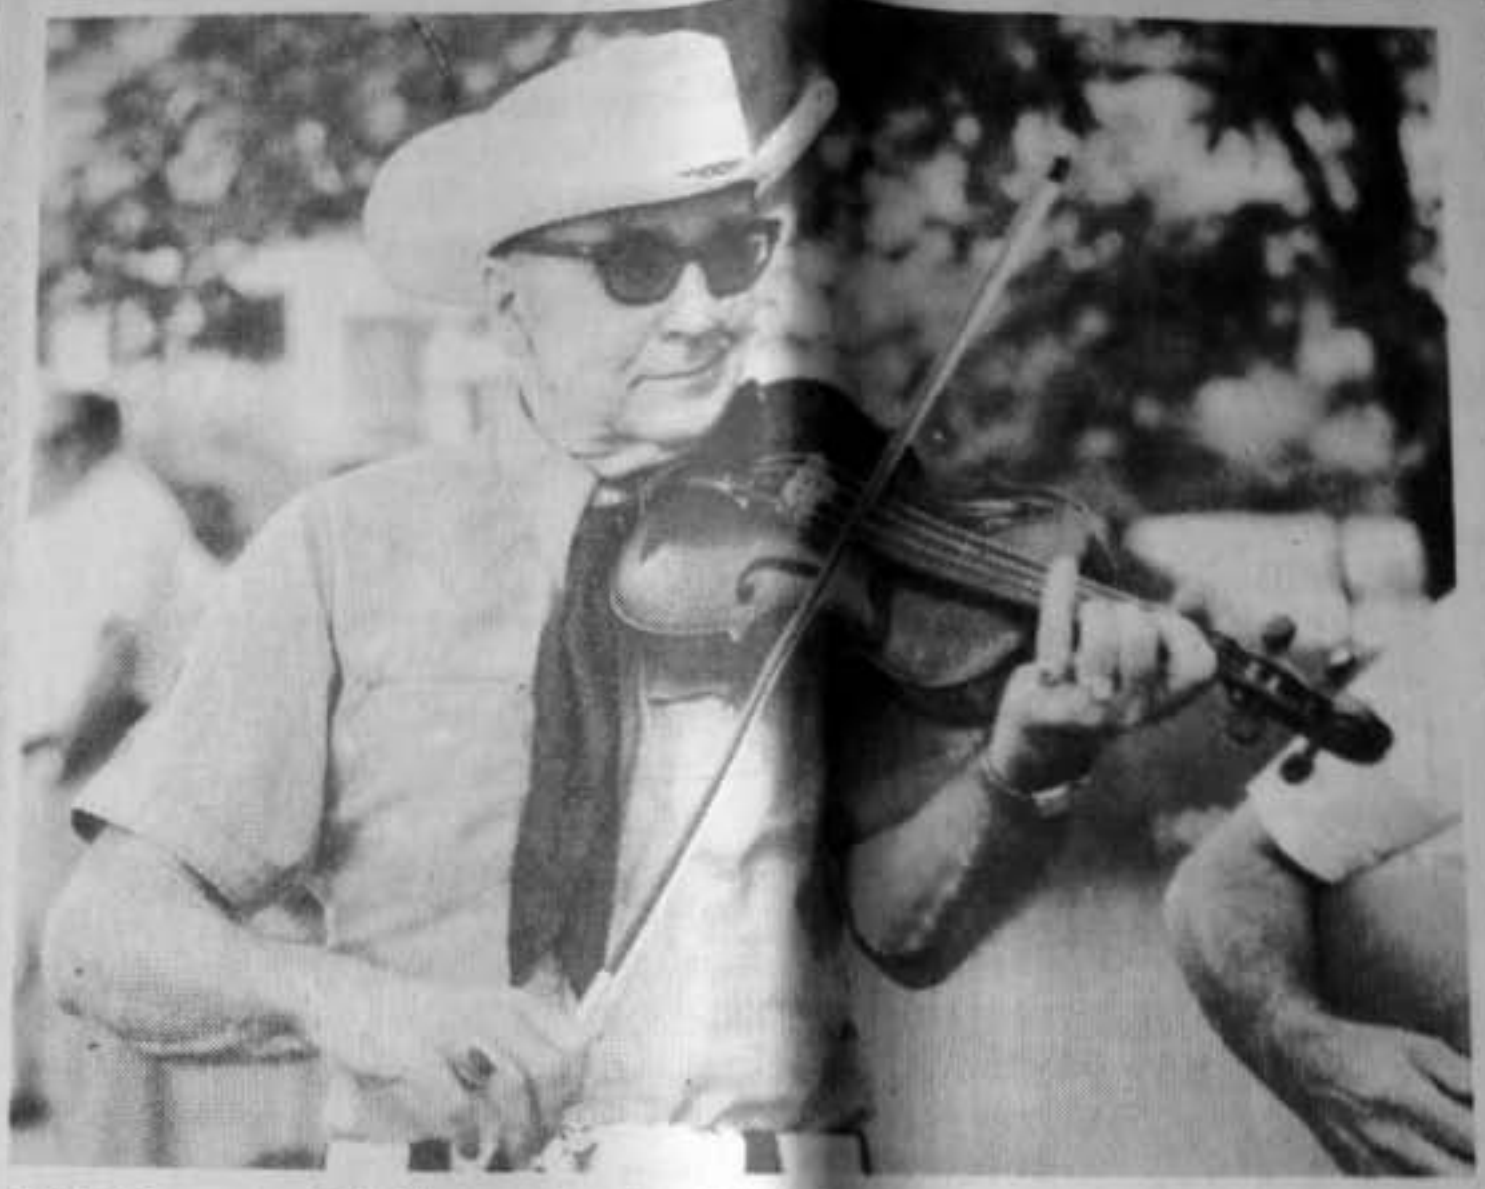
Santa visited Marlinton

Miss Pocahontas and Little Miss Pocahontas help Santa Claus give candy treats to the children on Saturday in Marlinton.

50 Years Ago In

Music Round-Up



Whether on fiddle or banjo, Woody Simmons is a hard man to beat.

Woody Simmons Wins Many Fiddle and Banjo Competitions

Woody Simmons, of Mill Creek, had a busy summer competing in fiddle and banjo competitions across West Virginia and in Maryland.

At the Wool Fair in Mingo he took first place on fiddle. At the Vandalia Gathering in Charleston he took first place fiddle and second place old-time banjo.

At the Folk Festival in Glenville he again took first place fiddle and second place banjo. At the Cowen Railroad Festival he took first place old-time banjo and second place bluegrass banjo. At Pendleton County's Treasure Mountain Festival he took second place on fiddle.

He took first place in the fiddle contest of the Buckwheat Festival in Kingwood and first place in a competition in Friendsville, Maryland.

Most recently, Woody won the Maryland State Championship on fiddle. From the competition in Cumberland he took home a three-feet high trophy, a cash prize and a free trip to the Grand Ole Opry.

Woody will be on WVMR 1370 AM on Sunday, December 11. He says he also is going to try to finish up a recording on December 10.

50 Years Ago In
The Pocahontas Times

December 7, 1944

Last week I pulled about as big a boner of the many which have marked my newspaper experience by announcing the opening of the deer season on Friday, December 1. The actual date was Monday, December 4. Maybe you think the telephone did not begin to work overtime with calls to this office as soon as the paper was out. This was just one of those mental slips which do happen to people, but when it gets in the paper, it is just too bad.

As these lines are written on Friday morning, it is a good thing for the deer that the opening day was not today with a good four inches and more of snow in the hunting woods.

Jack Buzzard, of Minnehaha Springs, killed a bear on Saturday, November 18. A week later his neighbor, Turk McLaughlin, killed a bear. These were big old bears; one fat, the other lean. They were hunting on the Alleghanies, down toward Meadow Creek.

Clifford L. Sharp was at the head of Greenbrier last week with his bear dogs. All it amounted to was jumping a skinny little old bear, which after a good chase found refuge under the wire around the big game preserve.

Robert Miller reports seeing a powerful big fine buck deer crossing the road on Shavers Cheat just west of the Kerr Top. He carried one noble pair of antlers. What is more this deer was white. Last week, John Bear saw a white Pocahontas and adjoining counties, white deer are reported almost every year, and occasionally one is killed.

That same Robert Miller reports seeing more deer in the small, thickly settled county of Barbour than he sees along the road in the much larger, less populous county of Pocahontas. He expresses the wonder if we have the deer here we have been blowing around about. I have heard the same wonder expressed before. It is usually by a national forestry man. He will say that he has been here for several weeks; that he has driven over much of our public roads, and he has yet to see a deer in the fields; that in such old, thickly settled states as Massachusetts, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, deer in the fields are a common sight. I assure the gentlemen that we do have deer; that for a century and a half any deer a grazing in the fields of day time was just sure to get shot up for venison if he persisted in the habit until his meat was fit to eat.

Further than that one of the smart things we all had been guilty of was to get other counties to claim the larger share of the semi-domesticated deer the conservation commission has had for distribution down through the years. Our native deer, thoroughly wild, had learned better than to stay too much in the open, and for the good of the farmers, I expressed hope they would so continue. If the forestry man stayed with us long enough to do some woods

November 18. A week later his neighbor, Turk McLaughlin, killed a bear. These were big old bears; one fat, the other lean. They were hunting on the Alleghanies, down toward Meadow Creek.

Clifford I. Sharp was at the head of Greenbrier last week with his bear dogs. All it amounted to was jumping a skinny little old bear, which after a good chase found refuge under the wire around the big game preserve.

Robert Miller reports seeing a powerful big fine buck deer crossing the road on Shavers Cheat just west of the Kerr Top. He carried one noble pair of antlers. What is more this deer was white. Last week, John Bear saw a white deer on Cranberry; last fall a white deer was killed on Watoga State Park; two years ago, an albino buck was killed near Mt. Grove, three years ago a white deer was killed near Bolar Springs in Highland county.

In the old days in these parts, a white deer would be reported about once in a generation.

Years ago I read an account of the white deer in Grand Island somewhere off the coast of the State of Michigan. They traced the line back to one powerful white buck which had swum the several miles of water to the island to escape a pack of wolves. There he had taken over a big harem of does, and many of his offspring were marked with white. Occasionally the rough water betwen the mainland and the island freezes over and some of his strain of deer drifted over to the main woods.

Whether there is a thing in the tale or not I do not know. However, since the big gray deer of Michigan have been brought to have deer; that for a century and a half any deer a grazing in the fields of day time was just sure to get shot up for venison if he persisted in the habit until his meat was fit to eat.

Further than that one of the smart things we all had been guilty of was to get other counties to claim the larger share of the semi-domesticated deer the conservation commission has had for distribution down through the years. Our native deer, thoroughly wild, had learned better than to stay too much in the open, and for the good of the farmers, I expressed hope they would so continue. If the forestry man stayed with us long enough to do some woods ranging he would report seeing much deer sign in the forests.

Now the report comes of many deer in and around Durbin. There have always been deer on Shavers Cheat Mountain, but they never seem to spread out in the fields. If one did, as a rule, it was just too bad if it was deer eating season. Then a few years ago a game refuge of many thousand acres was set aside in the Little River area between the West and East Forks of Greenbrier River. Some deer—no big number for that great area—were turned out. They increased in number so rapidly, we all figured that deer from Shavers Cheat had finally crossed the railroad track and the West Fork. I guess they did that all right, but I have another guess coming. I expect the spread of deer from Pennsylvania has finally reached Pocahontas county. About three years ago, deer spread over Tucker county; you could tell by the complaint of the farmers over crop damage.

---

standing:
and Eric Wilma Rin Ryder.

Pictured Sojourners", group from Fi Huntersville.
singing toge 1994, and will Station on Su from 9 a.m. to Live Blueg

Sunday, J noon to 5 p.m will once outstanding bluegrass and live from the Two first pla year's Vand appear, mas Simmons fro bluegrass ba

WE'R

Model feature • Large 2 • Chrome engine li • 14" redu guide ba low-kick • Automa
• 1-year

Mode featu
• Super • Power

POCAHONTAS PHARMACY

Accuracy

PMH Fundraising Committee Chairman, Ira Wilder and Quilters Guild member Sherron Waybright hold the quilt donated to the hospital.

Buffalo Cabin Quilters donate quilt

The Buffalo Cabin Quilters have presented the Pocahontas Memorial

McDonald House in Morgantown.

Our next meeting will be held

Times

JANUARY 20, 1994

Tim

JANUARY 20, 1994

Holding
o Buy Bank ton ncShares Inc., A) based in olina, plans to Marlinton, announcement

. Hyler Jr., nt, and Lanty n of Bank of letion of due approvals and a definitive t, BancShares full-service e third quarter

on has $51 6 million in fices in the towns of ovale. The staff and place, Hyler

Hyler, the st Virginia provides portunity to outside of its wholly t Citizens view this investment
he said.

Gas Pipeline Proposed for Upper Pocahontas County

The Monongahela and George Washington National Forests have each received a request from a company named Thornwood Gas, Inc., for authorization to construct and operate a buried natural gas pipe across Forest Service land in Randolph, Pendleton, Pocahontas and Highland Counties. The purpose of the pipeline will be to allow natural gas production from six existing gas wells in the upper part of Pocahontas County. These wells were drilled in the 1960's but, except for a small amount of gas transported by truck, have never been in production due to the lack of a pipeline.

The proposed pipeline will be approximately 31.9 miles long and consist of 3, 4, or 8 inch pipe, depending upon location. At the request of the Forest Service about 27.5 miles of the pipe will be buried in the ditchline of existing roads, either state or Forest Service. The remaining miles will be on their own right-of-way. Where the pipe is laid off of a road, a 60 foot wide strip will be cleared during the construction period. Following construction a ten foot wide corridor will be kept clear for operation of the pipeline. Where

Pocahontas
Hosp

The meeting of of Trustees wa Tuesday. Unless a is needed, the Boa until February 15.

Columbia Gas Company pipeline well on Gandy Cr in production but place and it wa Thornwood.

The new pipel
the Gandy Creek near the mouth
From there the pi the headwaters of way of existing r
29/1, 916, and 11
Pocahontas Coun
112 near the Pocahontas, R
Pendleton Countie

From that po roughly follows Pendleton line Pocahontas/Highl of USFS Rt. 112, USFS Rt. 106. Ne intersection a bra along USFS Rts. 5
well on Abes Run.
line goes along US well near Smoke C

s a good way for any to test the
of our state's believed Bank be well served First Citizens he holding e of the safest in the United ery successful hich is one of ve banking country," he ve operating mphasis on mer service our own

f Marlinton
:able future y from First d operate as ite wholly ncShares.
hares Inc. is corporation Raleigh. It is ny of First Carolina's sets of $5.9 ices in 181 Citizens has since 1898.

---

ecause salt rage stated.
ad a winter follows:

—along Rt. 250 about 0.2 miles south of Old House Run

—below Grassy Knob on the ridge between the two branches of Old House Run

—near the Buffalo Lake picnic area

—on a branch of Big Run

—along the road to Smoke Camp Knob

—on Abes Run near its headwaters (See map).

A seventh well, located at head of Lick Run, is a dry well and thus not being connected to the pipeline.

According to Jim McFarland, Vice-president of Thornwood Gas, the wells were drilled in the 1960's by the Cities Services Company but that company never built the pipeline needed to get the gas to market. Cities Service moved out the Appalachian region and their interests in the wells were taken over by Pennzoil. Mr. McFarland said a problem that made it difficult to develop this gas field was lack of ownership of all the rights to the gas by a single company. He said this problem has been solved by his company. In March and April of last year Thornwood purchased the rights to the wells and minerals in the 15,000 acre "Horton Block" from Pennzoil and various other owners. Most of this acreage is in West Virginia.

Buffalo Lake, th
Rt. 54 and goes mountain to the Knob. From thi follows the roa Run (USFS Rt.
Rt. 250. At the goes up the mo continues alon beside Buffalo

The main Creek to the planned to be From there to inches. All th be 3 inches.
pressure in the be 1,100 pour

The pipel requests per several are work/storage sites are p pipeline, ran acres in siz revegetated
During the c will be delay roads involv that traffic flo

Mr. Mc permission is line, it can be two months.
production, t local crew pipeline in op

An envir

ion because salt
, Beverage stated.
ut as bad a winter
t keeps coming,"

ld have arrived snowstorm that that morning delivery, he

ued that traffic g a snowstorm vplow driver's

rs on the road ki resorts and p coming, too.
t and General e answered the be too much lay was, "Be for, you just ne.

g lots open is m at West sort, but the ortressed by d up snow, f shoveling task, Seme

ent, who of the vations are cring the

the 15,000 acre "Horton Block" from Pennzoil and various other owners. Most of this acreage is in West Virginia.

Mr. McFarland said Thornwood Gas is a privately owned company and not a subsidary of another company. It is headquartered in Bradford, Pennsylvania. He said the stockholders of Thornwood feel the increasing use of clean burning natural gas (when compared to other fuels) to meet ever higher environmental standards make the pipeline project an economically viable investment. Although it is difficult to predict the life of a gas field, Mr. McFarland said Thornwood is looking for 20 to 30 years of production.

The wells range in depth from 4800 to 5200 feet to reach the gas in the Oriskany Formation. Mr. McFarland said his company has no plans at this time to drill any additional wells.

In addition to the increasing value of natural gas for environmental reasons, another advantage for Thornwood is a pipeline built in the mid 1980's from Whitmer to gas well on Gandy Creek, putting a pipeline closer to upper Pocahontas County than before. This line joins with a production, th local crew n pipeline in ope

An enviro now underwa Gas Company on the project Forest Super National Fo Street, Elki 26241, by Fe insure that th in the enviro Forest Servic be more usef to a particula rather than g

The Fore making t Thornwood's
1, 1994.

sk for, you just Seme.
king lots open is blem at West
i resort, but the y fortressed by piled up snow, s of shoveling ne task, Seme

sident, who top of the servations are idering the t skiing has e warnings es in severe us at times
.

ers on the roximately rison with ear, Seme le income narkets to east are weather had nches of er, Seme elling to omobile risingly ges nor undated anxious at F & ersville roblems th were nes and ated the he late t calls at inimal in ditions.

3

Mcfarland said his company has no plans at this time to drill any additional wells.

In addition to the increasing value of natural gas for environmental reasons, another advantage for Thornwood is a pipeline built in the mid 1980's from Whitmer to gas well on Gandy Creek, putting a pipeline closer to upper Pocahontas County than before. This line joins with a Jericho Road.

- - -

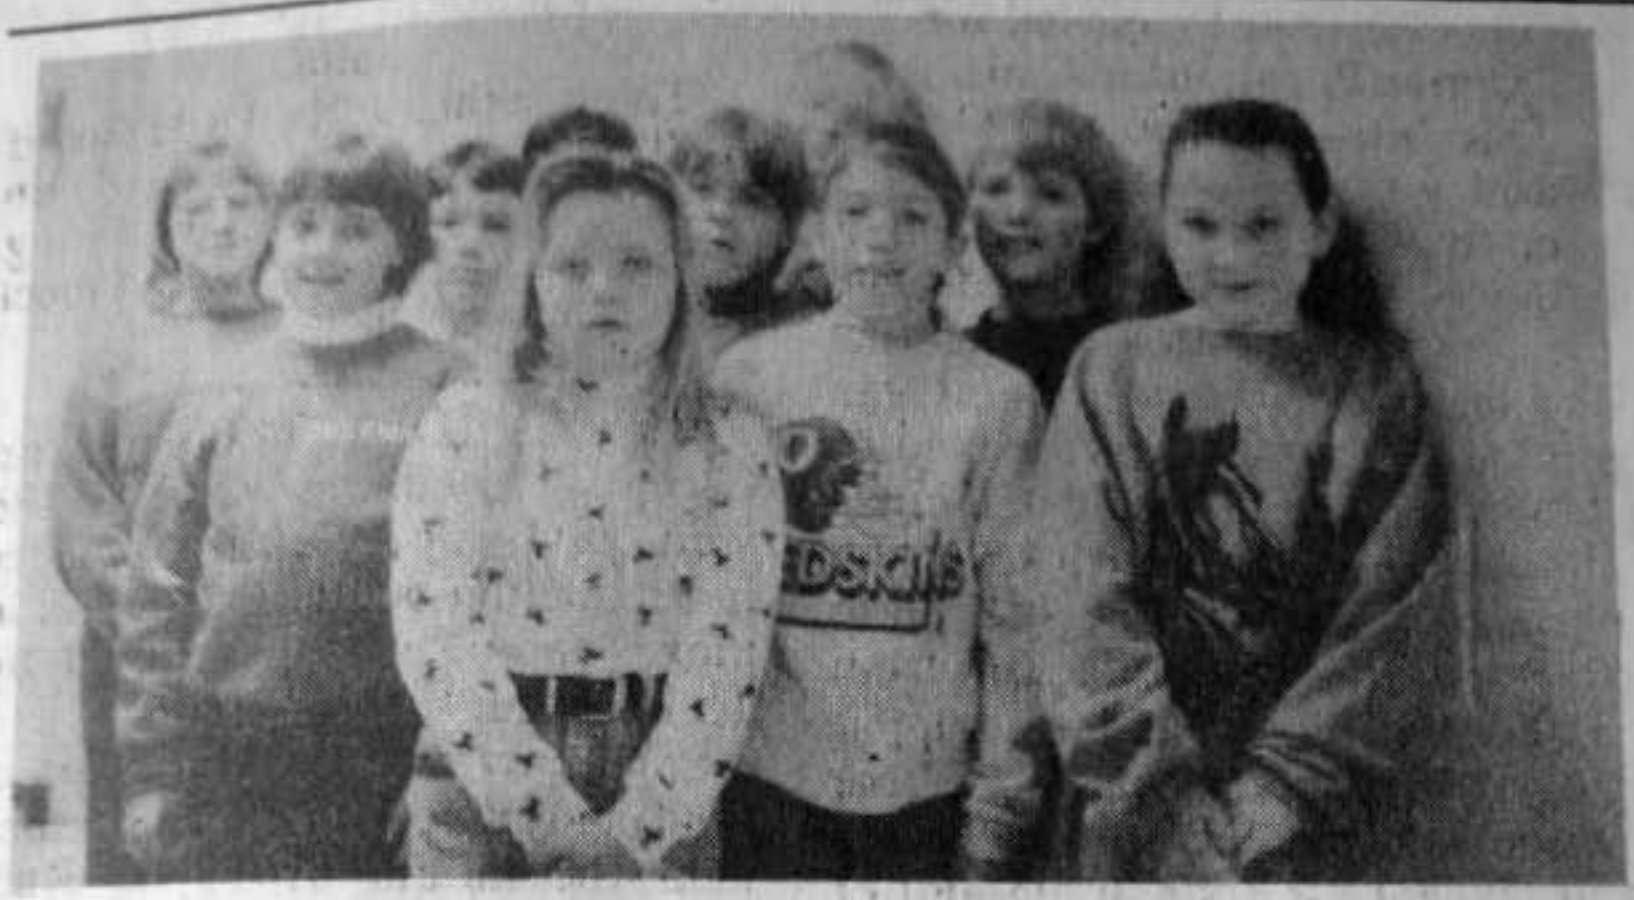
Jury Awards Plaintiff in Civil Suit

In a Civil Suit last week, a jury awarded Roland Cutlip over $18,000 in his suit against William Shafer and Taylor Products for an injury he received while using a wood burning furnace manufactured by Taylor. The jury found the company to be 100% liable in the case. It assigned no liability to Mr. Shafer (who sold the furnace to Mr. Cutlip). It also found that Mr. Cutlip was not comparitively negligent in his injury.

The jury awarded $14,153.79 for past and present medical expenses, $2000 for pain and suffering, and $2056.10 for lost earnings.

- - -

Power Company Employees Help in Ritchie County



Dana Combs, right, was the Marlinton Elementary School Geography Bee winner.

Dana Combs wins Geography Bee

Dana Combs, a fourth-grader at Marlinton Elementary School won the school level competition of the National Geography Bee on January 11, and a chance at a $25,000 college scholarship. The school-level Bee, at which students answered oral questions on geography, was the first round in the sixth annual National Geography Bee, which is sponsored by National Geographic World, the society's magazine for children, and Amtrak.

The kick-off for this year's Bee was the week of December 13, with thousands of schools around the U.S., the District of Columbia and five U. S. territories participating. This was Marlinton Elementary School's first time to take part in the Bee, at which time, during the preliminary round, all fourth-graders participated and ten finalists came forward for the final round in January. These students were: Dana Combs, Damon Owen, Kevin Withers, Joey Schoolcraft, Janet Biggs, Julia Phillips, Selina Burgess, Billy Herold, Alexa Alderman and Jesse Burns. All students are to be commended since they were answering the same questions as other 4th-8th grade contestants around the nation.

- - -

Glenn P. Tracy

Glenn Parker Tracy, 87, of Boyer, died Sunday, January 2, 1994, in the Davis Memorial Hospital in Elkins following a short illness.

Mr. Tracy was born September 28, 1906, in the early lumbering town of Boyer. He was the son of Snowden Talbott and Lenora Waybright Tracy. His mother told him he was born during a snowstorm. He was laid to rest on a snowy hillside in the Boyer Cemetery near the place of his birth.

He is survived by his wife, Vere Bly Moore Tracy, and two daughters, Marian Bittle, of LaVale, Maryland, and Helen Loman, of Boyer; three grandsons, two granddaughters cream socials, cakewalks and Sunday school picnics remind each of us of his talent for organization.

For 28 years he was associated with the West Virginia University Extension Service as a 4-H camp director and club agent at large. For 25 years he directed 4-H camps across the state encompassing over 20,000 boys and girls. He was a member of the 4-H All Stars, the highest award bestowed to a 4-H leader.

In his often requested speaking appearances, his 4-H sayings and experiences were always woven into his speech. His love for poetry was always exhibited, as well. Even now his often repeated "I Know Something Good About You" will live with all of those who knew him:

Wouldn't this old world be better,
If the folks we meet would say,
"I know something good about you,"
And treat us just that way.
Wouldn't it be fine and dandy,
If each hand clasped warm and true,
Gave us this answer,
"I know something good about you."

In January, 1972, there was a lengthy article on his retirement from the Post Office Dapartment after being a contract and part-time carrier for 46 years. He carried the mail in the summer and weekends, and his father and other part-time carriers were part of this team. His contract included service to Cheat Bridge and Lenora Waybright Tracy. His mother told him he was born during a snowstorm. He was laid to rest on a snowy hillside in the Boyer Cemetery near the place of his birth.

He is survived by his wife, Vere Bly Moore Tracy, and two daughters, Marian Bittle, of LaVale, Maryland, and Helen Loman, of Boyer; three grandsons, two granddaughters, two step- granddaughters, four great-grand- children, five step-great-grand- children, and one step-great-great- grandson.

He was preceded in death by his sisters, Hazel Steele and Pearl Goodsell, and brother, Leonard.

Mr. Tracy attended the one-room school in Boyer and graduated from Green Bank High School. His deep love for GBHS remained a life-long commitment. In 1981 he published an article in The Times titled "GBHS, A Precious Memory" to raise funds for a bronze commemorative marker for his former school. The marker reads, "In remembrance of the teachers, students, custodians, cooks, bus drivers, and friends of Green Bank High School 1918-1970." He helped to keep in touch with his high school classmates by chairing their reunion every five years. The Class of 1926 held its 65th gathering in June 1991.

Mr. Tracy graduated from Davis and Elkins College and did his post graduate work at West Virginia University. He was a faithful member of the D&E Alumni Association and was proud of the new additions made over the years at his alma mater.

He began his 45 years as a teacher and principal in the

you."

In January, 1972, there was a lengthy article on his retirement from the Post Office Dapartment after being a contract and part-time carrier for 46 years. He carried the mail in the summer and weekends, and his father and other part-time carriers were part of this team. His contract included service to Cheat Bridge for 22 years—the first 15 years there were two deliveries daily. The first five years there was only a dirt road, the old Staunton-Parkersburg Turnpike. Sometimes a helper would be called on to carry the mail by horseback until the snow plow could get through the drifts. There were mail runs from Boyer to Bartow and Arbovale to Buffalo Mountain. Mr. Tracy said, "To the many mail workers all over the country who work very hard in all kinds of weather to deliver the mail, they can rightly be called the 'unsung heroes.'"

With his many work enterprises, there was little time for other endeavors. He was a member of the Modern Woodmen of America for 50 years.

When the Tracys retired from teaching schools they began operating Tracy's Hilltop Motor Lodge in 1971. With tourists pouring into the area to ski, hunt, fish and visit the Cass Scenic Railroad, there was a need for lodging. Customers came from every state and several foreign countries. They would continue 11 years of operation as part of their retirement. When strangers came seeking a room for the night they often became life-long friends.

school classmates by [illegible] their reunion every five years. The Class of 1926 held its 65th gathering in June 1991.

Mr. Tracy graduated from Davis and Elkins College and did his post graduate work at West Virginia University. He was a faithful member of the D&E Alumni Association and was proud of the new additions made over the years at his alma mater.

He began his 45 years as a teacher and principal in the one-room school of Summit on Allegheny Mountain. When he retired, "Mr. Tracy" had indeed touched the learning years of boys and girls in most of the schools in Pocahontas County. The close bonds formed between students, parents, and teacher continued until his death.

While he was teaching, he opened his Auto Repair Shop, where he worked until late in the evenings and weekends. He truly loved this mechanical side of his nature, and his customers always knew an abundant meal would be a bonus to their car repair job.

Mr. Tracy was a member of the Methodist Church for 53 years. He taught Sunday School at the Kerr Memorial Church in Boyer, and was in charge of the Christmas program for years. The memory of box suppers, ice operating Tracy's Hilltop Motor Lodge in 1971. With tourists pouring into the area to ski, hunt, fish and visit the Cass Scenic Railroad, there was a need for lodging. Customers came from every state and several foreign countries. They would continue 11 years of operation as part of their retirement. When strangers came seeking a room for the night they often became life-long friends.

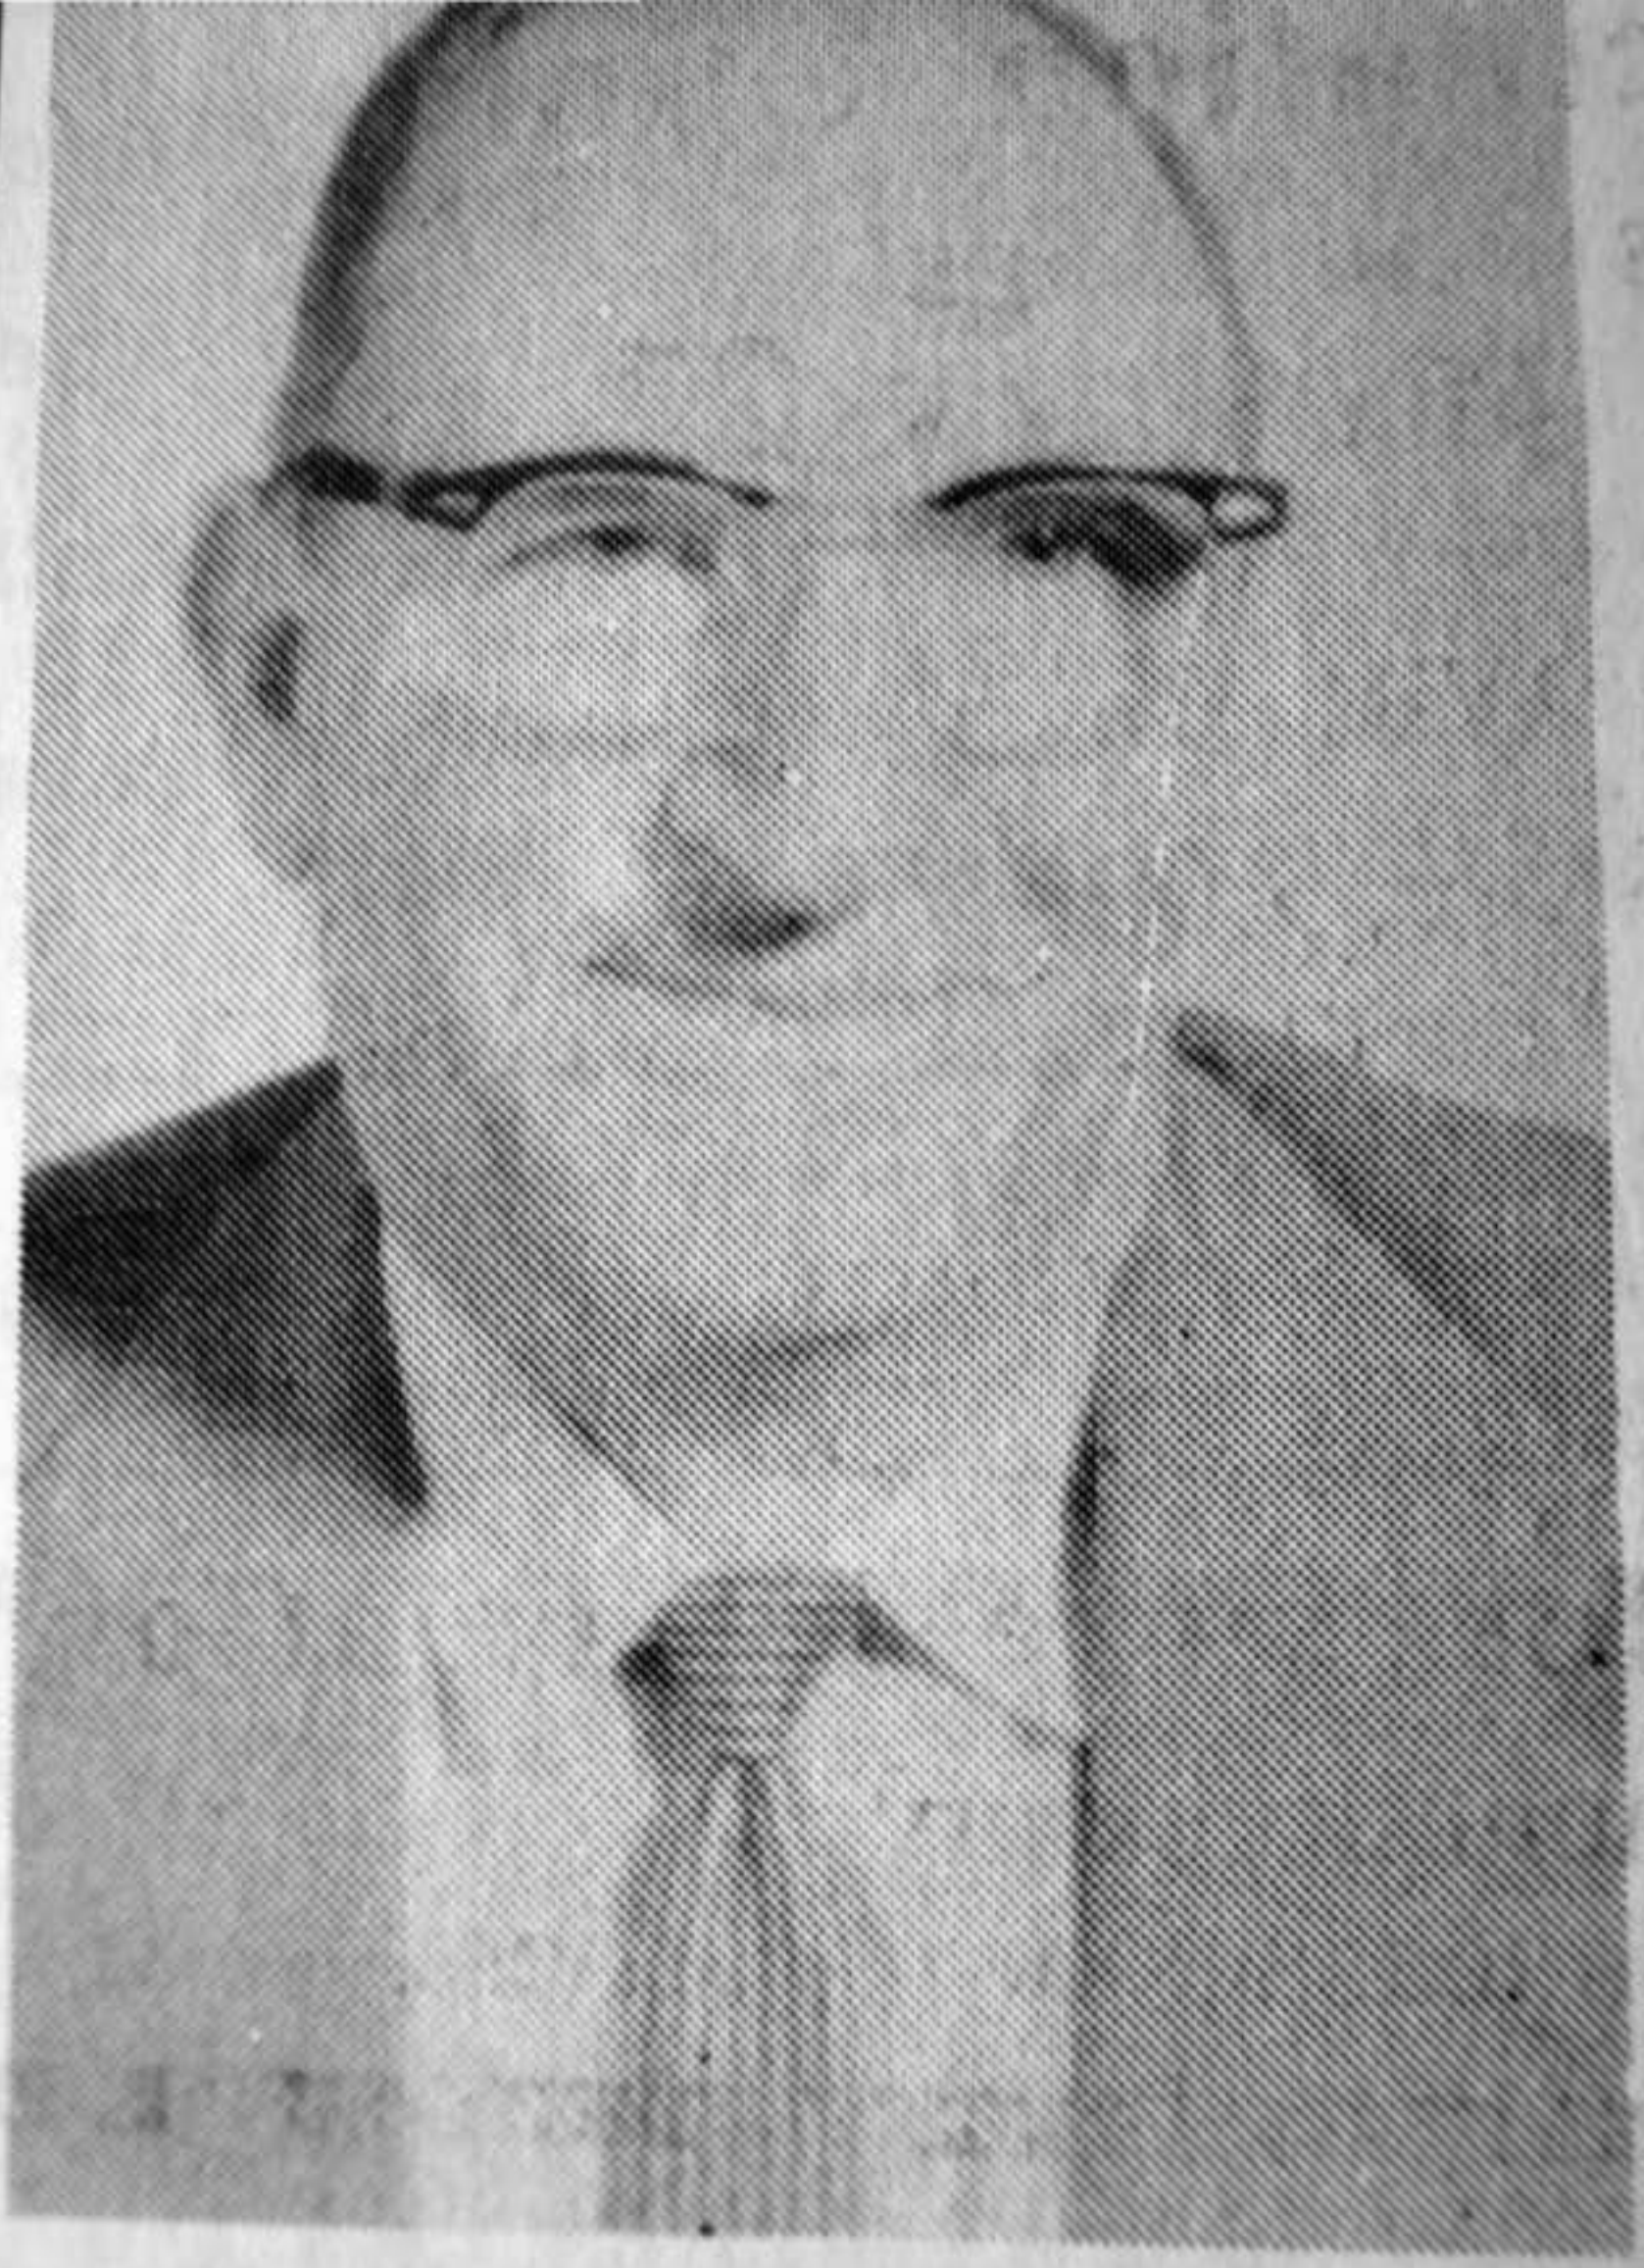
In 1984, Mr. Tracy organized the first Tracy Reunion. In searching for his early ancestors, he passed this spark of enthusiasm on to hundreds of family members in the Tracy-Ervine line. From his early beginnings he has left a legacy for generations to come.

Each morning in teaching, Mr. Tracy began with a thought for today—"Use everything as if it belongs to God;" "Make the world a better place in which to live, a place where all men shall be free;" "Work and your American dream will come true." He rose from humble pioneer roots but truly did achieve his life-long American Dream.

Contributions in memory of Mr. Tracy can be sent to the Kerr Memorial Church, c/o Mrs. Orpha Monk, Arbovale, WV 24915.



Glenn P. Tracy

Glenn Parker Tracy, 87, of

Letters from 50 years ago in The Po

Our Army and Navy Boys

This letter was sent in by Mrs. E. H. Galford, of Charleston, from her son, Earl, who has been in the South Pacific 20 months.

December 26, 1943

Hello Mom:

How is everybody? As for me, I am all right. I hope Old Santa was good to you all. We worked all day. We had a very good dinner, the packages haven't arrived yet. I expect they are in the bottom of the ocean; but don't you worry about me not getting them; that is a small worry. I will have to say it isn't near as dangerous as it was when I came over.

I am glad you got to go to Cass to see Grandma. Hope they stay well this winter.

I sure would have liked to have seen Hunter when he killed the deer. I bet he was one proud boy. I haven't written to them now for some time.

I am glad Dad has inside work this winter. Is Marie still working? I had a letter from Lorene yesterday, she seemed to be getting along well.

I am getting your letters very regular now. The Air mail comes faster than the V mail.

Well, Mom, I hope you all stay well, and don't worry about me. I will be home before long.

Lovingly,
Your Son, Earl

—

Cpl. Cecil L. Gaylor was home

December 15,

Hello Brother:

I received your letter today sure was glad to hear from yo Well, these few lines leave m and I hope this will find yo same.

How is everything back Fine, I hope. The weather is g cold here of nights. I suppos snowing there by now.

Boy! I wish I was back h don't like this over here in There is no place like home, home and I'll really appr being home. Well, tell the k hello for me.

I guess times are lonesome back there. I wil for this time. So answer real

So long and g

Imon

—

The following lette received by Miss Nancy F January 6, 1944, from her Pvt. James H. Phillips, somewhere in Alaska:

December 2

Dearest Sis:

Just a few lines to let y from me. I am OK and h are the same. How is eve back home? Tell everyone h me.

How is Buddy getting a school? Fine, I guess. Tel will answer his letter soon I sure would love to see hi he is a great big boy by n Lanty still working at well, and don't worry about me. I will be home before long.

Lovingly,
Your Son, Earl

—

Cpl. Cecil L. Gaylor was home on a furlough to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Gaylor, of the Pyles Mountain vicinity. He is in the Coast Artillery.

This was his first furlough since he was inducted into the Army, on June 3, 1941, at Manchester, New Hampshire. He has been in foreign service the past two years. He left the U. S. on December 16, 1941. The sailing was rough and stormy. Their ship was torpedoed once, but no damage resulted. He arrived back in the United States on December 19, 1943. The voyage home was pleasant. They were unmolested by torpedo and submarines.

He returned to duty Saturday, January 8th and is stationed in California.

His youngest brother, Norman R. Gaylor, is also in the Service, serving in Field Artillery and is stationed at Camp Shelby, Mississippi. His parents received word that he has been promoted to P.F.C.

—

This letter was received by Henry Walton, on January 4, 1944 from his brother, P.F.C. Imon Walton, who is in Italy:

How is Budd school? Fine, I will answer his l I sure would lov
he is a great big Lanty still wo Edgar's? I wrote both, but have answer.

Tell Macle h love to be there good slaw.

I wrote Imo have not had tim

I got another Russell the othe
all I can think to Answer soon.

Y

Mrs. M.
Marlinton, ha following lett Marvin, who is probably in the has been in the years.

Dear Mother:

This evenin letter and sure from you. Wel along just fine Christmas, but been home for Christmas here dinner today.

I guess ever

Walton, who is in Italy:

November 30, 1943

Hello Brother:

I will try and answer your letter I received today. I sure was glad to hear from you. Well, this leaves me OK for this time and I hope it will find you the same.

Well, how is Buddy? Well, I hope. Tell him hello for me.

Well, I guess it is getting pretty cold back at my good old home town by now.

I sure hope this war ends soon, we can come to stay. I am getting along fine so far. News is scarce, so I will have to close pretty soon.

I hope you all have a Merry Christmas and a very Happy New Year. I guess I'll not have a Merry Christmas over here.

I guess you know just about how I feel and would like to know where I am located. I am in Italy and it is awful wet.

I will close for this time.

Tell everybody to write to me. It is lonesome over here.

So long and goodbye,

Your brother, Imon

This letter was received by Mrs. Edgar Walton, from her brother, P. F. C. Harlan Dean, who is somewhere overseas:

December 2, 1943

I guess e had a nice Christmas. H getting along Alice that I g and enjoyed

Mother, seen Frank him yet. I d he is located

Is Edna s is she work staying over

Tell Da would like for this tim next time. S

P. S. I re yesterday—pretty nice

Just bef Mrs. M. F. from their s is a prison Military Pr was capture is in fair improving.

Mr. and another son i in Alabama.
Private Dea CAN

So long and goodbye,
Your brother, Imon

—

This letter was received by Mrs. Edgar Walton, from her brother, P. F. C. Harlan Dean, who is somewhere overseas:

December 2, 1943

I will write you again in answer to your letter I received yesterday. I was real glad to hear from you and to know you were all well. It seems odd to hear of Floyd going to school. He was so small when I left. I bet Wilburn is awfully cute now, too.

How much is Edgar making now? Do you still live on the George Edgar farm? Well, when I get back you will have to get ready to bake a lot of good crusty biscuits, for I think I will spend about a month visiting my people and eating, ha!

It was pretty cold here this morning and it gets cold in the evening, although it is not near as cold here as there.

Yes, we all pray for this war to end soon. I would say five front lines soldiers pray more in a month's time than one hundred soldiers in the States. Well, they are just lucky I guess to be in the States.

Well, I will close. Answer real soon and kiss the kiddies for me.

Love,
Harlan

—

is in fair heal improving.

Mr. and M another son in in Alabama. Hi Private Fred (ASN 3575
Co. B., 13t
Fort McCle

Carl Curry received from

Iran

Hello Joe:

I receive
November 13
hear from you getting along along all right now. I have n kitchen since T

I was on gu
the Conferenc Roosevelt the have heard all more about it t

I am gala t
Bell are gettin not heard fro while. I have have not had an

Did you ge hunting this fal did and that you know that you d place very ofte discouraged for s and eating, ha!

It was pretty cold here this morning and it gets cold in the evening, although it is not near as cold here as there.

Yes, we all pray for this war to end soon. I would say five front lines soldiers pray more in a month's time than one hundred soldiers in the States. Well, they are just lucky I guess to be in the States.

Well, I will close. Answer real soon and kiss the kiddies for me,

Love,
Harlan

—

This letter was received by Edgar Walton from his brother, P. F. C. Imon Walton, who is in Italy.

I was the Con Roosev have he more ab

I am Bell are not hea while. I have not

Did hunting did and t know tha place ve discourag the war w be back h

I guess
there now

) years ago in The Pocahonta

December 15, 1943

Hello Brother:

I received your letter today and sure was glad to hear from you all. Well, these few lines leave me OK and I hope this will find you the same.

How is everything back there? Fine, I hope. The weather is getting cold here of nights. I suppose it is snowing there by now.

Boy! I wish I was back home. I don't like this over here in Italy. There is no place like home, sweet home and I'll really appreciate being home. Well, tell the kiddies hello for me.

I guess times are pretty lonesome back there. I will close for this time. So answer real soon.

So long and goodbye,

Imon Walton

—

The following letter was

Imon Walton

—

The following letter was received by Miss Nancy Phillips, January 6, 1944, from her brother Pvt. James H. Phillips, who is somewhere in Alaska:

December 28, 1943

Dearest Sis:

Just a few lines to let you hear from me. I am OK and hope you are the same. How is everybody back home? Tell everyone hello for me.

How is Buddy getting along in school? Fine, I guess. Tell him I will answer his letter soon as I can. I sure would love to see him. I bet he is a great big boy by now. Is Lanty still working at George Edgar's? I wrote to him and Albert both, but have not received any answer.

Tell Macle hello! I sure would love to be there and eat some of her good slaw.

I wrote Imon another letter. I have not had time to get a reply.

I got another letter from Uncle

pedded once, but ted. He arrived ited States on 43. The voyage
nt. They were torpedo and duty Saturday, s stationed in other, Norman n the Service, tillery and is np Shelby, ents received promoted to received by nuary 4, 1944

P.F.C. Imon

y: nber 30, 1943

er your letter e was glad to nis leaves me
I hope it will dy? Well, I r me. etting pretty d old home r ends soon, am getting

's is scarce,
retty soon.
ve a Merry Happy New ave a Merry

Answer soon.

Your loving brother, James

—

Mrs. M. F. Jeffries, of Marlinton, has received the following letter from her son, Marvin, who is serving overseas, probably in the South Pacific. He has been in the Army nearly three years.

December 25, 1943

Dear Mother:

This evening will answer your letter and sure was glad to hear from you. Well, I am still getting along just fine. I had a very nice Christmas, but I wish I could have been home for it did not seem like Christmas here. We had a nice dinner today.

I guess everybody back home had a nice time and enjoyed Christmas. How are Paul and Ruby getting along by now? Tell Carl and Alice that I got their Christmas card and enjoyed it very much.

Mother, you asked me if I had seen Frank Hayes. I have not seen him yet. I do not know just where he is located.

Is Edna still staying with you or is she working anywhere? Who is staying over at Waugh's now?

Tell Dad hello for me and I would like to see him. I will close for this time, but will write more next time. So answer soon.

Your son,
Marvin

P. S. I received another rating

Accid

State Police
several accidents.

An accident o sent one person to wreck occurred
Rt. 28 about 3 m
250. Donna War lost control of a the car went off embankment distance. Ms. W
the Davis Me Elkins by BF passenger was had moderate da

Rt. 219 abou of Mill Point accident on the a 1987 Dodge Robert L. Ma and a 1989
Gregory A. Trin Both cars were accident occurr came up behin to reduce spee rear. There wer drivers and thr BMW. The ve damage in the

Two accide on the 21st. Th a.m. on Rt. 2 south of the 21

A 1993 For Sue Ann Sta

is she working anywhere? Who is staying over at Waugh's now?

Tell Dad hello for me and I would like to see him. I will close for this time, but will write more next time. So answer soon.

Your son,
Marvin

P. S. I received another rating yesterday—to Tech Sergeant—a pretty nice Christmas present.

—

Just before Christmas Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Jeffries received a card from their son, Ira L. Jeffries, who is a prisoner in the Philippine Military Prison Camp No. 1. He was captured when Bataan fell. He is in fair health, uninjured and improving.

—

Mr. and Mrs. Jeffries have another son in the Army, stationed in Alabama. His address is:

Private Fred R. Jeffries
(ASN 35759414)
Co. B., 13th Bn., 4th Regt
Fort McClellan, Alabama

—

Carl Curry sends in this letter received from his brother:

Iran, December 12, 1943

Hello Joe:

I received your letter of November 13th and was glad to hear from you and that you all were

Dean, who is rseas:
December 2, 1943
ou again in answer ceived yesterday. I hear from you and e all well. It seems Floyd going to so small when I n is awfully cute

s Edgar making till live on the m? Well, when I have to get ready of good crusty nk I will spend iting my people

cold here this ets cold in the
it is not near as for this war to I say five front ay more in a n one hundred s. Well, they are s to be in the

se. Answer real iddies for me.
Love,
Harlan

is received by n his brother, P.
, who is in Italy.

another son in the Army, stationed in Alabama. His address is:

Private Fred R. Jeffries
(ASN 35759414)
Co. B., 13th Bn., 4th Regt
Fort McClellan, Alabama

—

Carl Curry sends in this letter received from his brother:

Iran, December 12, 1943

Hello Joe:

I received your letter of November 13th and was glad to hear from you and that you all were getting along OK. I am getting along all right. I am on guard duty now. I have not worked any in the kitchen since Thanksgiving.

I was on guard in Tehran during the Conference. I saw Franklin D. Roosevelt there. I guess you all have heard all about it and know more about it than I do.

I am gala to hear that Pete and Bell are getting along OK. I have not heard from Bill for quite a while. I have written to him, but have not had an answer.

Did you get to do any deer hunting this fall? I hope that you did and that you got to kill one for I know that you do not get to go any place very often, but do not get discouraged for some of these days the war will be over and we will all be back home.

I guess there is plenty of snow there now and you are getting to

North Carolina, an driven by Christoph of Madison, A Partridge, coming s control in a curve,
the center line and Hughes had gotte road as possible bu
avoid being hit.
injuries to the driv passengers. The v damage.

Rt. 219 was th accident on Janu
occurred at 12:2
Hill. A tractor/tra Randall Sande Michigan, came line and hit a 197 driven by Da Buckeye. Mr. K road when his
There were no i damage.

Yet another a occurred at 4:50
at the intersect Involved were a driven by Jame Head, and a 19
Kristen Ko Cincinnati, Ohio pulled out of Rt.
Mr. Jones, who She had minor i not injured. T moderate damag

cember 15, 1943

letter today and ar from you all.
s leave me OK ll find you the ng back there?

ather is getting
I suppose it is
w. s back home. I here in Italy.
e home, sweet ly appreciate ell the kiddies are pretty

. I will close er real soon.
and goodbye, Imon Walton

letter was ncy Phillips, n her brother ips, who is

nber 28, 1943

let you hear nd hope you s everybody one hello for ting along in . Tell him I soon as I can.

hunt some rabbits. There has not been any snow here yet but I can see some on the top of the mountains.

You wanted to know if I was getting fat. No, I am just about the same as when I left home.

Well, that is about all for this time. Write real soon.

Your brother,
Pvt. James B. Curry

—

My friend, Staff Sergeant Charles E. Wilson, son of Moody Wilson, of Marlinton, writes me as follows from Italy:

December 27, 1943

Dear Mr. Price:

I am writing to inform you of my change of address so that my papers will come directly to me in Italy. I do not want to miss any of the good old hometown news. It would be almost like losing my right arm.

I sincerely hope that you folks at home did not slow up the Christmas spirit because we boys were away. We were with you in heart and mind though we could not be with you in person.

Say hello to all our friends and neighbors and many thanks to you for the Times.

Sincerely yours,
Staff Sergeant Charles E. Wilson

—

Movies at the Alpine Theatre in Digging out

Chris Jessee, lil spent Tuesday dig

GVT offe

Greenbrier Valle announces plans to c designed for adults w learn more about acting is open to beginners those who have had experience. The clas Mondays from 6 p.m.
six weeks beginnin

neighbors and many thanks to you for the Times.

Sincerely yours,
Staff Sergeant Charles E. Wilson

—

Movies at the Alpine Theatre in Marlinton were In Which We Serve with Noel Coward, Footlight Glamour with Penny Singleton, Calling Wild Bill Elliott with Bill Elliott and "Gabby" Hayes, and Phantom of the Opera with Nelson Eddy and Susanna Foster.

The Durbin Theatre had Union Pacific with Joel McCrea, Billy the Kid, Sheriff of Saga Valley with Buster Crabbe and Salute for Three, and Dixie with Bing Crosby and Dorothy Lanour.

- - -

Accidents

Times

JANUARY 6, 1994

N

DEAT

Glenn Tracy

Glenn Tracy, 87, of Boyer, died Monday, January 3, 1994, at Davis Memorial Hospital in Elkins after a short illness.

Services will be held at 2 p. m. Thursday at Kerr Memorial Chapel, Boyer, by the Rev. David Rittenhouse and the Rev. David Fuller, with burial in Boyer Cemetery.

A full obituary will be published next week.

Maynard Alderman

Maynard Alderman, 63, 131 Anderson Avenue, Winchester, Virginia, died Tuesday, November 23, 1993 at Bath County Community Hospital, Hot Springs, Virginia.

Born April 14, 1930 in Pocahontas County, he was the son of the late Clarence and Susan Woldridge Alderman.

He was employed by Cammers Tire and Sunoco Oil Company in Winchester. He was a member of Glad Tidings Assembly of God Church.

Surviving are his wife, Wanda Lee Alderman, whom he married October 8, 1949 in Romney; three daughters, Rachael Harding, Paw Paw; Fayetta Martin, Winchester, Virginia and Shannon Alderman, at home; one brother, Vern Alderman, Delray; three sisters, Thelma Brinkley, Millboro, Virginia, Elva Lineberry, Buena Vista, Virginia, and Evelyn Quick, Roanoke, Virginia; six grandchildren.

Services were conducted Saturday, November 27, at the Giffin Funeral Home, Capon Bridge, with Rev. Sam Reynolds officiating. Burial was in Green Lane Cemetery, Delray.

st Virginia 24954
lass matter 38-8373

N CHARGES
ity, $11/year + tax $14/year + tax
, $16/year

G RATES eek) column inch rd (15¢ if billed)

McNEEL, Editor
E, Managing Ed.

N. 6, 1994

uly 7-10, 1994

er reports his or Buckeye for nber and totals

cember, 4.94
ll for the year over average).
, 20.8 inches.
ne, 8 inches on wfall for 1993,

for December,
.
for December,
.
on Greenbrier on December
the next day.
bout 3 feet for All the smooth

Will Have Day in Court

by Pam Pritt

A young man charged with escape from the custody of the Commissioner of Corrections in Pocahontas County and three murder and kidnapping charges in other counties will go to trial here in March.

Billy Joe Hottle, 21, will have a trial here March 1 on the escape charge. His trial was delayed until then to allow his attorney "time to adequately prepare," according to Circuit Clerk Earl Michael. Hottle is incarcerated in Moundsville.

Hottle allegedly escaped from the Cass Work Center in early August and joined his cousin, Craig Swick, also an alleged escapee. The pair were not considered dangerous by authorities at the time of their escapes, but then allegedly killed three people in the Eastern Panhandle and reportedly kidnapped three others from Fayette County. They were apprehended after a shootout with police in Petersburg, their hometown.

If convicted on all counts, Hottle could face up to six life sentences without mercy.

One young man who aided in the escape, Jay Morgan, 19, pleaded guilty as charged and has agreed to testify against Hottle, according to Prosecuting Attorney David Arrington.

Hottle's girlfriend, Beverly Layton, 21, also charged with aiding escape, previously agreed to testify against him.

- - -

from the Central and S Districts. The law allows than two members to be district and the two meml are not up for election these districts. Board mer elected to four year terms.

Also elected this members of the Demo Republican Executive Co at the state, district, an level. The State E Committees are made u men and two women ele each state senatorial d Pocahontas County th executive committees con women and two men ele
each magisterial district.
and county executive c are active in the ongoin their respective political p

Also selected in Ma members of the cong senatorial, and delega executive committees. O one woman are elected county in a district committees. These c usually only function vacancy occurs on a during a legislative term

Filing for election to commission, board of county executive comm district executive com done at the office of t Clerk at the Courthouse.
all other offices to be v
May is done with the Se
State in Charleston.

People thinking abou for county office this ye be aware of the changes

Wagons, Ho!

Mrs. Arbogast's third grade class went on a trip in a covered wagon down the Greenbrier River Trail to Stillwell Park. Wilderness Outfitters took us. We have been studying the Westward Movement so we imagined we were pioneers. We think it must have been hard because they couldn't take a lot of things, Indians could have attacked or the wagon could have broken. It was cold for us but we had fun!

We appreciate Lewis Sharp and Lake Vaughan for taking us on this ride.

- - -

Love Letters' to be performed

Just made it through Christmas? It's never too early to start aking plans for Valentine's day. he Pocahontas County Drama Vorkshop is planning two romantic alentine's Day events in February n the 12th at the Four Seasons' estaurant in Green Bank. A special weetheart's dinner will be llowed by a performance of the lay, "Love Letters," directed by ne NRAO's Lew Macknik. eservations can be made by alling The Four Seasons.

On February 11 the Rosewood afe in Hillsboro will host a erformance of "Love Letters" after eir regular dinner hour. Tickets for this performance will be sold at the door.

"Love Letters" traces the lives of two childhood sweethearts as they follow very different career and love life choices while still maintaining a fond relationship through written correspondence. Carol Zeigler, John Davis, Ron Maddalena, Sue Shears, Dawn Benett, and Aron Benett have been cast in the roles. Each performance will feature a different set of actors.

Both events will feature soft light, delicious food, and a tale of bittersweet romance all designed to take the wind chill factor out of the February blahs.

Mountain Resource Conservation board meets

The Board of Directors of the ountain Resource Conservation d Development Area, Inc., met Hillsboro on December 6. This ganization serves twelve counties southeastern West Virginia. The oup accepted the resignation of wood Vaughn and Ruth Taylor as appointed to fill his unexpired m as Vice Chair. Clyde Bowling

The Pocahontas Times
799-4973

More than 35 years combined experience can be on your side.

Roger D. Forman
formerly with the UMWA

Michael R. Crane
former legal director of

Local Underwriter Recipient of National Awards

Members of the Tygart Valley Association of Life Underwriters attended a ceremony on October 15, 1993, during their luncheon at the Western Steer Steak House in Elkins for presentation of the National Sales Achievement Award and National Quality Awards.

Local underwriter Helen G. Woolridge, of Marlinton, representing Franklin Life Insurance Company, was presented both awards. Helen's commitment to insurance sales is demonstrated by the significant amount of life insurance she has written on a large number of individuals or businesses and her excellent record of maintaining a business in force. These awards are conferred by The National Association of Life Underwriters (NALU).

The Tygart Valley Underwriters sponsors programs of professional and consumer education, community service and public information. It is committed to enhancing the professional federation of 1,000 state and local associations. The 140,000 members of these local associations are sales professionals in life and health insurance and other related financial services.

- - -

Donations

BFD Volunteer Fire Department and Rescue Squad received a memorial donation in memory of Harold Calhoun from Mrs. Meg Calhoun of Sugar Grove, Virginia.

- - -

Donations To PMH Auxiliary

In memory of Sis Michael by friends on Hamilton Hill: Carolyn and Fred Burns, Jr., Margaret Barlow, Isabel and Charles McElwee, Frances and Willard Eskridge, "Mike" Gibson, Lillian Cole, Evah and Bill Harper, Nancy Curry, Wanda and Everette Hedrick, Lena Weatherholt, Rebecca and Marvin Perry and Dotty McMillian.

- - -

WALLACE & WALLACE

Chapel in Arbovale
Phone 456-4277

Lewisburg
Ronceverte • E. Rainelle
Ansted

Marlinton's streets were nearly deserted Tuesday as most motorists sensibly stayed home.

Nearly a foot of snow bowed branches and brought a sense of quiet and calm to the landscape. Here, snow-covered branches frame a view of Marlinton Presbyterian Church.

Sean and Car
Cod, Massac Christmas with Jean Hite.

Mr. and Lindarood, of Virginia, visite Delmar Dilley, the Christmas h

Martha Bar Pennsylvania, Broadway, V Barlow, who truck driver, w holidays with Mrs. Sam Barl

Dinner gu Waughs on C Kenneth and Ridgeway, F and Norv Fredricksburg Nuckoles an Kernersville, and Jona I McLaughlin, the deep sn everyone up Cherokee. So night but ev certainly w Christmas.

Visiting w and Margare holidays VanReenen,
Larita Kellis
Carolina, Kimberly, an Frank, of Sou

Julia Plac spent the Ch holidays w Karen and Bi Beach, Virgi

Sunday g
Mabel Irvine
Mr. and M

In Loving Memory of

Brian Edward Vandevender

Oct 30, 1983 - Dec. 23, 1988

Honey, it's been five years now since we've seen your little face.
But the sweet memories of you, time can never erase.
We'll love you forever and we miss you every day.
For it broke all our hearts when you were called away.
When you left us little darlin, you didn't go alone
For part of us went with you to your Heavenly Home.
We didn't know you were leaving us,
but God was looking your way
He must have wanted you home in time to celebrate His birthday.
We know our Lord was pleased to have you, because your heart was full of love.
And someday we all plan to meet you in that big house up above.

Love, Dad, Mommy, Brother Tommy, and all your loved ones

Time

AUGUST 25, 1994

County Commission

The County Commission met on Thursday of last week in a reconvened meeting to further consider the boundary line problem at the landfill. The Solid Waste Authority is about to begin construction of a new trash collection "cell" at the landfill which must be complete by the end of the year if the landfill is to remain open. However, the new cell is partly on land that falls with in the area involved in the boundary line disagreement between Elden Fertig, who owns the land leased for the landfill, and Steve Dilley, who owns the adjoining land.

SWA Chairman Ed Riley discussed the problem with the Commission at its meeting on Tuesday. At that meeting it was decided to ask Mr. Fertig and Mr. Dilley to meet with the Commission and SWA to see if an agreement on the boundary line could be reached. The Commission did not adjourn its meeting on Tuesday so it could reconvene if the meeting with the landowners was arranged.

Attending the meeting Thursday were Mr. Fertig, Mr. Dilley, SWA members Ed Riley, Kathy Owens, Minnie Faye Taylor, and Gina Mullenax, and SWA Office Manager Jan Nelson.

A solution to the boundary line problem both came and went within the first few minutes of the meeting.

The meeting opened with Mr. Riley displaying plat drawings of the property showing the disputed area and the old barbed wire fence and new fence that are now being questioned as boundary lines. Neither party will accept the survey

Dilley suggested the property owner who was wrong should pay. Mr. Fertig said he would not pay regardless. Mr. Alderman said neither the Solid Waste nor the County Commission would pay and that not one county dollar would be used for such purposes since the lease agreement makes it Mr. Fertig's responsibility to furnish a clear deed for the property. Mr. Fertig replied that his copy of the lease apparently does not agree with Mr. Alderman's copy and makes the county responsible for any liability from the landfill to any surrounding landowner. At this point, Mr. Dilley left the meeting.

Mr. Alderman asked Mr. Fertig what his solution to the problem would be; Mr. Fertig said: "The only solution to any problem in this county is to get you out of office."

Mr. Moyers reminded Mr. Alderman during the discussion that Mr. Alderman was not speaking for the Commission but only as one commissioner. Mr. Moyers said: "I feel a crime has been committed here today." Mr. Moyers also said that the solution offered by Mr. Fertig and agreed to by Mr. Dilley early in the meeting might have cost the county a few hundred dollars, but the deadlock as a result of further haggling would likely result in closure of the landfill and, if not, would cost the county thousands of dollars to solve the problem.

Kathy Owens reminded the Commission that a draft permit cannot be obtained to begin construction of the new cell at the landfill witout a clear deed to the property and that construction

The Board
a regular meeti
Fred Wolf
Student Servi Board the Comprehensi Skills taken b grade students Wolfersheim s the third gra county's stude 58th percent Skills. On the the test, Rea Mathematics, the 54th, 58th respectively.

However, concern abou sixth grade le of the studen Total Basic percentile. In test, the rank 49th percent percentile an Of particular at Green Ban was the 39 Marlinton M percentile ra rank for sixth percentile.

Mr. Wolf discussed th principals at School Supe noted that th always respo years to pro students in ar

Treasurer
the financia Board. Unli number of o

were Mr. Fertig, Mr. Dilley, members Ed Riley, Kathy Owens, Minnie Faye Taylor, and Gina Mullenax, and SWA Office Manager Jan Nelson.

A solution to the boundary line problem both came and went within the first few minutes of the meeting.

The meeting opened with Mr. Riley displaying plat drawings of the property showing the disputed area and the old barbed wire fence and new fence that are now being questioned as boundary lines. Neither party will accept the survey done for the other.

After only a few minutes of discussion, Mr. Fertig said he would be willing to split the disputed property "down the middle" and Mr. Dilley said that he was also willing to do this.

At this time, Commissioner Norman Alderman said he had been researching the problem and had determined that Mr. Fertig in 1986 had leased property to the county for 20 years at $10,000 per year which the county presumed was based on a good deed and now discovers it to be in question. Mr. Alderman said he believes it is Mr. Fertig's responsibility to prove his ownership of the land. If it is found that he does not own the land, it is his responsibility to provide other land or some other means of making recompense for the fact that Mr. Fertig leased land to the county that was not his. Mr. Alderman said the county had a right to the use of "every inch" of land it leased and the county could lay claim to other land Mr. Fertig owns to compensate. Mr. Alderman asked Mr. Fertig if he would be willing to give the county an extra year on the lease at no charge as a recompense, and Mr. Fertig said he would not.

Mr. Alderman told Mr. Fertig the county might take him to court and end up owning all of his land

Fertig and agreed to by Mr. Dilley early in the meeting might have cost the county a few hundred dollars, but the deadlock as a result of further haggling would likely result in closure of the landfill and, if not, would cost the county thousands of dollars to solve the problem.

Kathy Owens reminded the Commission that a draft permit cannot be obtained to begin construction of the new cell at the landfill witout a clear deed to the property and that construction must begin very quickly if the cell is to be completed by the December 31, 1994, deadline. Failure to meet the deadline will result in closure of the landfill by the Department of Environmental Protection. Members of the SWA also reminded Mr. Alderman that they do not need the Commission's approval to pay for a survey and will do so if necessary.

Commissioner Mike Mynuk had not participated in the discussion to this point. Mr. Mynuk asked Mr. Riley why he had come to the Commission in the first place. Mr. Riley said that the Authority was working under such a time restriction it had decided to purchase the disputed land from Mr. Dilley rather than risk losing the landfill, and Mr. Dilley required that the deed be put in the name of the Pocahontas County Commission with a further stipulation that it could never be sold to anyone else. Mr. Riley said the only thing the SWA was asking from the County Commission was that the deed be made according to Mr. Dilley's condition.

Mr. Mynuk moved that the problem be left to the Solid Waste Authority for solution. Mr. Alderman seconded the motion. Mr. Moyers voted against the motion on the grounds that it was an unnecessary motion since the rank for sixth percentile.

Mr. Wolf discussed t principals a School Supe noted that t always resp years to p students in Treasur the financ Board. Ur number of boards of year with the schoo revenue almost surplus of the su the 199 approve surplus accoun and the means of making recompense for the fact that Mr. Fertig leased land to the county that was not his. Mr. Alderman said the county had a right to the use of "every inch" of land it leased and the county could lay claim to other land Mr. Fertig owns to compensate. Mr. Alderman asked Mr. Fertig if he would be willing to give the county an extra year on the lease at no charge as a recompense, and Mr. Fertig said he would not.

The dairy Only o items, White accept bids o of El Schoo Comp were a willing the cou from S Parkersb The with Ho provide maintaini the count majority be at PC replacem installat provide heating

Mr. Alderman told Mr. Fertig the county might take him to court and end up owning all of his land. Mr. Alderman also indicated the County Commission could exercise its right of eminent domain and take possession of the land immediately. The matter of the boundary dispute would then be resolved in the court and a settlement agreed on.

Mr. Riley pointed out to Mr. Alderman that the lease agreement reads like deeds which always state the amount of property as "more or less." Thus, Mr. Fertig could not be held accountable for a specific amount of property but only for the description of the property as stated in the deed.

There was some discussion back and forth between Mr. Dilley and Mr. Fertig involving problems over the years in dividing properties from different estates. Finally Mr. Dilley rescinded his agreement to divide the property "down the middle" and stated that the only solution he would accept would be for the property to be surveyed by a disinterested surveyor from outside the county. Mr. Fertig objected because there are no acceptable beginning points and this is what created the problem to begin with. Mr. Riley also said another survey would probably even produce that the deed be put in the name of the Pocahontas County Commission with a further stipulation that it could never be sold to anyone else. Mr. Riley said the only thing the SWA was asking from the County Commission was that the deed be made according to Mr. Dilley's condition.

Mr. Mynuk moved that the problem be left to the Solid Waste Authority for solution. Mr. Alderman seconded the motion. Mr. Moyers voted against the motion on the grounds that it was an unnecessary motion since the SWA already had authority to do so. Mr. Mynuk then moved that the Commission be willing to accept a deed in its name should such a step be deemed necessary by the SWA. Mr. Alderman seconded and the motion passed unanimously.

Mr. Alderman then moved that the Commission remain in unadjourned status in case further action is needed. The other commissioners agreed and the meeting ended.

On Monday Mr. Riley reported that Mr. Dilley has agreed not to object to the SWA beginning work on the new trash cell while the new survey of the property is underway. If the end result of the boundary line disagreement comes out in his favor then the county will have to make a land purchase.

Mr. Riley also noted that if the split down the middle agreement had become reality, the part of the disputed area needed for the new cell would have been on Mr. Fertig's side of the line. Thus, the only cost to the county would have been a few hundred dollars to survey the line between the two existing lines.

solution he would accept would be for the property to be surveyed by a disinterested surveyor from outside the county. Mr. Fertig objected because there are no acceptable beginning points and this is what created the problem to begin with. Mr. Riley also said another survey would probably even produce another property line.

The question arose as to who would pay for a new survey. Mr.

- - -

Alcoholics Anonymous

Alcoholics Anonymous is happy to say they have four meetings a week in Pocahontas County.

Monday night from 8p.m.-9 p.m. at the Baxter Presbyterian Church in Dunmore. Al-Anon meets at the same time and place.

Wednesday night 7:30 p.m.-8:30 p.m. at St. John Neumann Catholic Church in Marlinton.

Thursday night 7:30 p.m.-8:30 p.m. at Hanover Shoe Factory in Marlinton.

Saturday night 7:30 p.m.-8:30 p.m. at the Volunteer Fire Department in Hillsboro.

---

immediately after the hearing was scheduled for August 22. The defense attorney asked Dale to order a process server to testify Friday at Bennett's rescheduled hearing if new subpoenas are not served.

Bennett remains incarcerated on three counts of first degree sexual assault involving minors.

down the middle agreement had become reality, the part of the disputed area needed for the new cell would have been on Mr. Fertig's side of the line. Thus, the only cost to the county would have been a few hundred dollars to survey the line between the two existing lines.

(The majority of this report was provided by John Geiger of WVMR News.)

- - -

Jobs Available in Pocahontas County

The following job openings are available through the Ronceverte Job Service.

LPN - Must be licensed in West Virginia

Carpenter - 5 years experience and own tools

Breakfast Cook - 2 years experience

JTPA Openings - classroom training is available in abestos removal skills, computerized, legal and medical office skills.

For more information, please contact the Ronceverte Job Service at 647-7415. Office hours are 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. on Friday.

- - -

Pocahontas Memorial Hospital Board

The report on the August 16 meeting of the Pocahontas Memorial Hospital Board of Trustess is on page 8.

Widney Park, Frank, 11 a.m.
Meat will be provided, please bring a covered dish.

Vaughan Reunion

The Vaughan Reunion will be held Sunday, September 4, at Droop Mountain State Park. Bring a picnic lunch and enjoy the day with friends and family.

Tracy-Ervine-Reunion

Descendants of George Washington Tracy and Edward Ervine will meet for their sixth reunion September 10 at 9:30 a.m. at the Arbovale Community Center in Arbovale. Reservations for the dinner (select ham or turkey) should be sent to David Parmer, treasurer, P. O. Box 39, Hinton, WV 25921. Cost is $7.50 for adults; $4 for children under 12. Deadline is August 30.

Note: All Ervine descendants please be present to vote on the location of Memorial Marker for Edward Ervine commemorating his service during the War of 1812.

Don't forget to bring family photos for display table and any additions to update the family tree.

We invite you to join with us in celebratation of our common heritage.

For further information call Betty Lambert at 456-4295 or Helen Tracy Loman at 456-3154.

28th Annual Pocahontas County Picnic

The annual Pocahontas County picnic held at Warren, Ohio, will be Sunday, September 11, at 1 p.m. Plan to attend and bring a basket lunch. Come to the round shelter house (electricity provided) at Packard Park on Route 45 in Warren. All are welcome! We like to meet new friends.

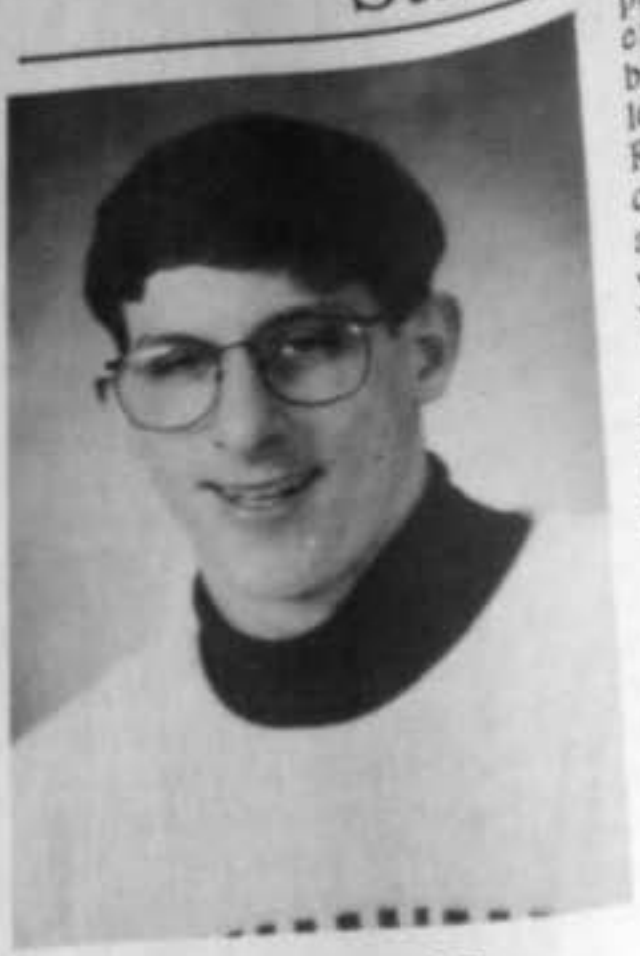
Back Mountain Reunion

The Back Mountain Reunion will be held on Sunday, September 4 at Cassell's Sugar Shack on Back Mountain, beginning at 1 p.m. Bring a pot luck dish and a lawn chair.

CHS Schedule

Aug. 26—First day for ... football home, V. East ...

Student...



Reigel is Named To Who's Who

Scott Reigel, a graduate of Pocahontas County High School for the 1993-94 school year, has been nominated to receive honorary award recognition. His photograph and biography will be published in the 28th annual edition of Who's Who among American High School Students.

Only five percent of the students from our nation's 22,000 high schools are honored in Who's Who.

While a student at Pocahontas County High School, Scott maintained a 3.0 GPA. He was a member of National Honor Society, lettered in basketball, was an avid soccer player, attended Know Your State Government in Charleston and received outstanding achievements at both state and national levels in Forestry.

Scott is pursuing a career in Forestry at West Virginia University.

He is the son of Richard and Henrietta Reigel, of Arbovale. He is the grandson of Henry and Melvina Shinnberry, of Durbin, and Newton and Clarice Reigel, of Troy, Pennsylvania.

Students Honored in Scholar's Graduation

LeAnna Alderman, or ... and Rachel Sheets, or ...

...ies

...pre... for successful college ...ex... ...be... ...on the way to ...lea... ...the next generation of ...Ro... Members of the Honor ...chi... and Scholars Academy are ...abo... to share what they learn ...with... the college-going process ...Vir... peers to benefit West ...students.

...ating an extensive ...auto...graphical thesis was the ...mos... long challenge for the ...Sch... ...400... while living on the ...Spruce Knob campus.

...During the month the Scholars ...also participated in writing ...work...ops, programs centering on ...Appa...chian culture, field trips to ...histo...cal and business sites around ...West Virginia, and whitewater ...raft...down the New River.

Woodlands: The Mountain Institute, an educational and scientific not-for-profit organization based in Franklin, West Virginia, is committed to preserving mountain environments and advancing mountain cultures. The Honor Roll and Scholars Academy are offered free through the generous support of a variety of donations and grants.

Students Off To College

Alderson Broaddus College - Leslie Goldizen, Kim Dean

Fairmont State College - Tina Palmer Lewis, Traci Michelle Douglas

Davis and Elkins College - Christie Rose

Glenville College — Darren Galford, Misty Cochran

Alderson-Broaddus School of Nursing — Jill Bing

Visiting

Sandy, Gary and son, Andrew, of Hobetown, Florida, got back home safely after their visit with Sandy's mother, Louise Kennison.

We W...
Ar...
8:...
UN...
New ...
• G...
A...
Figu...
Fea...
DE...

Celebrates 100th Birthday

Mrs. Carnie D. Perkins Underwood, formerly of Marlinton, est Virginia

---

iting

urned to Marlinton six-week vacation.
son, Terry, in and then went to her sister. She dsville for the granddaughter, e Johnson, of sas, on August t to see her en, at Camp Carolina. l, Michael, a from Haiti to ursday.

re at Hillsboro
sister-in-law, Albans, Daniel and Erica, of David and l Sara, of Bill and Eula Aubrey and Lewisburg, son, Alan, Kingsport, Burke, of Dundalk, y with her es, and acker, of , before

Celebrates 100th Birthday

Mrs. Carnie D. Perkins Underwood, formerly of Marlinton, celebrated her 100th birthday at the home of her daughter and son-in-law, Olive and Robert Braham, of Lewisburg. Mrs. Underwood was born in Morgan County in Kentucky July 29, 1894. She was married to Penick W. Underwood who passed away in October, 1982, at age 93.

Mrs. Underwood has four children, eight grandchildren and eleven great-grandchildren, all of whom were present to help make her day a very special one. Various lawn games were available for both the children and adults. The family enjoyed a covered-dish dinner together at 1 p.m. Special guests at dinner were Mr. & Mrs. Richard Elam, of Dayton, Ohio, and Mrs. Underwood's pastor and his wife, Rev. and Mrs. Alvie Edwards. Mrs. Underwood's four children and their families were in attendance as follows: her son, Hoil, and wife, Truda, of Marlinton, and their three children, Bruce Underwood and wife, Peggy, of Orlean, Virginia, Leslie Underwood and wife, Jeanne, of Fairfax, Virginia, and daughter, Shelia Cauley, and her three children, Peter, Nicholas and Kristin, of Oshkosh, Wisconsin. Her husband, Dr. James Cauley,

Hazel Walton, Carrie Erskine and Mrs. Bob Zopp, Gloria Jennifer VanHoy, Mr. and Robert Mitchell, Mr. and Mr
Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. Fr
Hammond, Mr. and Mrs. Cla Hinkle, Mr. and Mrs. A Taylor, Sr., Shirley Perrine, Orr, Dean Suiter, Nelva Ston and Mrs. Autis Wriston, M Mrs. Richard Byrd, and Deskins, all of the Lewisbur
Mr. and Mrs. Royce Mil Sarasota, Florida, Mr. an Myles Bittinger and Mr. ar Joseph Bittinger, all of Sulphur Springs, Mr. an John Buly, of Hillsboro
Mary Lou Smith, of Vir
Indiana and Mr. and Mrs.
Goodall, of Alderson.

Mrs. Underwood receiv
cards, flowers and other gi

Olive L.

D Chi Starts T Ends W

ldred Music, a he guest book
ted personally

Ina Montgomery was a highlight of the afternoon.

- - -

lay d his 90th pril 12. He , celebrated Fred Tibbs, Cory, of Fred baked
Mrs. Tibbs 1944 from ia.
t Mountain 4, the son l Eugenia nton. He er Gladys 926.

was unable to attend. Also her son, Elton and wife Alice, of Warrenton, Virginia, and their three children, Kelvin Underwood and wife, Teresa, and their daughter, Heather, of Warrenton, and a daughter, Karen Henry, and her two children, Joshua and Vanessa, of Warrenton. Mrs. Underwood's daughter, Glanna Bonnell, and husband, Glen, of White Sulphur Springs and their two daughters, Alda Ours and husband, Jack, and their two daughters, Cheryln and Arlene, of Stafford, Virginia and Damaris Rohrbough and her three children, Candice, John and Allison, of Casanova, Virginia; her husband Mark was unable to attend. And Mrs. Underwood's other daughter, Olive Graham and husband Robert, of Lewisburg.

The dining table was made ready with a beautiful floral center piece, delicious salads, mints, nuts and a beautiful three-tier birthday cake made and decorated with pink roses and the words "Happy 100th Birthday" by Mrs. Underwood's daughter-in-law, Truda Underwood. Friends

Hill reunion, to Pennsylva McKeever i here, visiting

Pearl Bur visited with Hayes. W daughter, Ch daughter, N Hampton, Vi her home w before she Florida.

Blanche V
New York, Wellsville,
Ross, of D
Linda Kling a Spring Grove here for the Sunday. The Bed and Brea which is the f house for th school house great-grandfat

Keith Moo Billy Brownin Kentucky last and places wh work.

Mr. and M Shenda, Jonat spent last thday Perkins erly of er 100th of her Olive and visburg.

born in ky July ried to passed e 93. four n and all of make arious r both family linner sts at

and the words "Happy 100th Birthday" by Mrs. Underwood's daughter-in-law, Truda Underwood. Friends who came in the afternoon to wish Mrs. Underwood a happy birthday were:

Lorena Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Tom McCormack, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Waddell, Mr. and Mrs. Hazel Walton, Carrie Erskine, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Zopp, Gloria and Jennifer VanHoy, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Hammond, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hinkle, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Taylor, Sr., Shirley Perrine, Anna Orr, Dean Suiter, Nelva Stone, Mr. and Mrs. Autis Wriston, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Byrd, and Jerry Deskins, all of the Lewisburg area. Mr. and Mrs. Royce Miller, of Sarasota, Florida, Mr. and Mrs. Myles Bittinger and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bittinger, all of Whitie Sulphur Springs, Mr. and Mrs. John Buly, of Hillsboro, Mrs. Mary Lou Smith, of Vincinnes, Indiana and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Goodall, of Alderson.

Mrs. Underwood received many cards, flowers and other gifts.

Olive L. Graham

Mr. and Shenda, Jon spent last brother-in-la Annette Kran
Ellyn, Illinoi

Sabrina M her home i couple of m children i Colorado.

Emma Je Baltimore, M
her son, Dr.
his wife vacationing in Cromer, En ancestors can Shire of Nor northeast c channel coas interesting, b speed limit.

James L fiance, visit Tyree and M and went to Pennington and daughte

Leo Cai from heart s

Mr. and are here visi

Birthdays

R: Carla Totten, Bee Gladwell and Sharla Sherman

80th Birthday

)ver one hundred friends and ly attended the 80th birthday)tion of Bee Howard Gladwell unday, July 31, from 2 - 5 in the fellowship hall of the nton Presbyterian Church.

ıe event was hosted by her daughters, Carla Totten and ı Sherman. Mildred Music, a presided at the guest book ıests were greeted personally by the honoree. The cake was cut and served by Lucille Burns, and another niece, Juanita McNeill, presided at the punch bowl. Other aides were Louise Broyles, Edna Graham and Becky McLaughlin.

Many beautiful cards and tributes were received. A banner of Bee's "Younger Years" made by Ina Montgomery was a highlight of the afternoon.

- - -

90th Birthday

ton Tibbs had his 90th y on Friday, April 12. He s wife, Gladys, celebrated with their son, Fred Tibbs, grandson, Cory, of ville, Florida. Fred baked e. Mr. and Mrs. Tibbs to Marlinton in 1944 from was unable to attend. Also her son, Elton and wife Alice, of Warrenton, Virginia, and their three children, Kelvin Underwood and wife, Teresa, and their daughter, Heather, of Warrenton, and a daughter, Karen Henry, and her two children, Joshua and Vanessa, of Warrenton. Mrs. Underwood's dings

Wedding
nneth Lehman Mary Leonard, would like to ng marriage of Ruth Lehman aid.
graduate of igh School. graduate of h School and in the United is currently Air Station yland, where ic. e the tenth of hundred and

Birthdays

L-R: Carla Totten, Bee Gladwell and Sharla Sherman

80th Birthday

Over one hundred friends and family attended the 80th birthday reception of Bee Howard Gladwell on Sunday, July 31, from 2 - 5 p.m. in the fellowship hall of the Marlinton Presbyterian Church.

The event was hosted by her twin daughters, Carla Totten and Sharla Sherman. Mildred Music, a niece, presided at the guest book and guests were greeted personally by the honoree. The cake was cut and served by Lucille Burns, and another niece, Juanita McNeill, presided at the punch bowl. Other aides were Louise Broyles, Edna Graham and Becky McLaughlin.

Many beautiful cards and tributes were received. A banner of Bee's "Younger Years" made by Ina Montgomery was a highlight of the afternoon.

- - -

90th Birthday

Gaston Tibbs had his 90th birthday on Friday, April 12. He and his wife, Gladys, celebrated quietly with their son, Fred Tibbs, and grandson, Cory, of Jacksonville, Florida. Fred baked the cake. Mr. and Mrs. Tibbs moved to Marlinton in 1944 from Augusta Springs, Virginia.

was unable to attend. Also her son, Elton and wife Alice, of Warrenton, Virginia, and their three children, Kelvin Underwood and wife, Teresa, and their daughter, Heather, of Warrenton, and a daughter, Karen Henry, and her two children, Joshua and Vanessa, of Warrenton. Mrs. Underwood's daughter, Glanna Bonnell, and

Open Church Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Lehman of Durbin, and Ms. Mary Leonard, of Webster Springs, would like to announce the upcoming marriage of their children, Sarah Ruth Lehman and Robert Paul Leonard.

Sarah is a 1993 graduate of Pocahontas County High School.

Rob is a 1993 graduate of Webster County High School and is a Dental Technician in the United States Navy. He is currently stationed at Naval Air Station Patuxent River, Maryland, where the couple plan to reside.

The wedding will be the tenth of September, nineteen hundred and ninety-four at fou o'clock in the afternoon at the First Baptist Church, Webster Springs. A reception will follow.

All friends and family are invited to the open church ceremony.

- - -

L-R: Carla Totten, Bee G

80th Birthday

Over one hundred friends family attended the 80th birth reception of Bee Howard Glad on Sunday, July 31, from 2 p.m. in the fellowship hall of Marlinton Presbyterian Church.

The event was hosted by twin daughters, Carla Totten Sharla Sherman. Mildred Musi niece, presided at the guest bo and guests were greeted persona

90th Birthday

Gaston Tibbs had his 9 birthday on Friday, April 12. and his wife, Gladys, celebra quietly with their son, Fred Tib and grandson, Cory, Jacksonville, Florida. Fred ba the cake. Mr. and Mrs. Til moved to Marlinton in 1944 fr Augusta Springs, Virginia.

Mr. Tibbs was born at Mount Grove, Virginia, in 1904, the s of the late Walter and Euge Gilmer Tibbs, of Marlinton. was married to the former Gla Jackson on October 13, 1926.

- - -

Anniversaries

Notes

VEDC Receives Local Development Grant

vernor Gaston Caperton has ed a $75,000 grant to the brier Economic Development ration (GVEDC) for nic development activities in brier, Monroe and ntas counties.

se funds were awarded from cal Economic Development Grant Program sponsored West Virginia Development GVEDC provided $37,500 ching funds.

der the LED program, C must meet specific criteria Certified Development unity initiative, a program prepares communities for ss and economic growth. To for the grant, GVEDC sfully completed three (3) of e (5) program components: ation of a lead economic pment organization and t handling team; preparation mmunity assessment, action d community profile; and of a business retention and ion program.

id Hambrick, president of C, expresed appreciation to nor Caperton and the West ia Development Office for upport of local economic pment efforts. "We're to work in partnership with ate of West Virginia in ng new jobs for the rier Valley," he said. "This g will enable our three es to become certified ss locations this year and us fulfill additional itments of our Greenbrier Vision program."

mona Goutiere, executive r of GVEDC, agreed with rick's comments and thanked Greenbrier, Monroe and ontas county commissions VEDC members for their ing support. "Without the of our county commissioners

Art News

Aaron Davis, of Bartow, holding a letter from Bert Klein, animator at Disney Studios.

Aaron made a decision last school year to try and pursue his talent in art. He began drawing from a Disney cartoon book filling several sketch pads with accurate and sensitive drawings. His art teacher, Ms. Leary, suggested getting in touch with someone at Disney Studios to look over the drawings.

After contacting "Moses", head animator at Disney Studios in Burbank California, he put Aaron in touch with his associate, Bert Klein. Bert studied Aaron's drawings and sent a letter full of encouragement and advice on becoming an animator. He thought Aaron had talent and closed his letter with a drawing of himself and an interesting statement. "It's important to realize that when drawing it helps to deal with anger and gets rid of hostile feelings, and I hope to see you soon at Disney."

Encouraged by the letter, Aaron became the Most Improved Student at Green Bank Middle School for

Pocahontas County
Tourism Commission
1-800-336-7009

West Virginia
Hunting & Fishing Hotline
1-558-3399

SUBSCRIBE
The Pocahontas Times
810 Second Avenue
Marlinton, WV

☐ In County - $11.66
☐ In State - $14.84
☐ Out of State - $16.00
☐ New ☐ Renewal

Name

Address

City, State ZIP

Affordable, Economical, Reliab Belarus Sensible, Down-to-Earth Tractor
57 HP . . . $10,950

A nation mourns

A dastardly, cowardly act

by Julia Carreon-Lagoc

Tuesday, September 11, as CNN showed Democrat and Republican legislators singing God Bless America, singing their hearts out sadly and spontaneously, I couldn't help the tears. These are a people in deep mourning over the death of their countrymen in the aftermath of the airplane crashes on the World Trade Center and on the Pentagon. These are a people who love their country as much as many of us Filipinos love our own. These are a people with whom victims of human rights violations can easily find common causes, because what happened is a gross, malevolent, outrageous, terrifying, beastly killing of human beings. It seems redundancy is never enough.

Was America caught flat-footed? Has the super power, richest nation in the world become over-confident? Is it because it doesn't think one can do evil of such magnitude? Has America underestimated the fanaticism of suicide pilots who consider these dastardly, cowardly deeds as acts of heroism? We can only surmise.

As of this writing, the death toll has mounted to the thousands. It is too early to know who is responsible. The soonest the plotters are identified, let the wheels of justice crush them "to the full extent of the law" as legalese would have it.

It is sick of some Palestinians to be joyfully dancing in the streets over these suicide attacks. While we sympathize with Palestine in its claim of territory against Israel, and even as we strongly deplore America's imperialistic policies, we feel it abhorrent to condone any violation of human rights.

In the three occasions that I have had to visit New York (my two daughters were then taking postgraduate studies there), the twin towers of the World Trade Center had always been a welcome sight as the plane nears the JFK International Airport. I remember my Uncle Hilario suggesting to dine in its restaurant at the top. But the hubby and I never set foot in the World Trade Center (110 floors) because we preferred to go up to the 102nd floor observatory of the Empire State Building.

Also prominent in the New York skyline are the Chrysler Building, representative of corporate America, and the Statue of Liberty, America's national monument. We had ferried to Liberty Island, about the size of three football fields, where Lady Liberty stands in all her majestic glory as a universal symbol of freedom. We gazed at the colossal figure, our idealism soaring high with the statue exuding the ideals of Liberte, Fraternite, and Equalite as the founders had envisioned it.

Dubbed the "Capitol of the World," New York is a congregation of races, a melting pot of cultures like no other city. We walked in its Central Park, an oasis in the concrete jungle. We saw Les Miserables in its Broadway which, in a poetic sense, is considered the longest street in the world by the concentration of theaters in one strip. We sauntered in Times Square, enriched ourselves in the city's libraries and museums, hence, the feeling of being devastated as we saw the ruins on TV.

My daughter Randy called up from West Virginia to say they're following up the telecast of the "dastardly, cowardly act." She told me how she opposes the remarks of Alexander Haig, former Reagan's Secretary of State, in connection with the tragedy—something like justifying America's encroachment on other nation's rights if this would mean protecting the American people. Faithful to her values, Randy agrees with Clinton's Secretary of State William Cohen who, when interviewed, stood firm about America not to be like the people who violate human rights, which means to distinguish itself from the people who sow terror.

Randy recently became a mother of a baby girl. She said there was time when she had second thoughts about having a child in a world getting cruel. Her husband David, a full-blooded American, thinks otherwise. David believes it is the children who will make a better world. Ours is only to hope he is right.

Managing Editor's Notebook

by Pamela E. Pritt

Like many Americans last week, I watched the news in stunned silence, with a vague sense of disbelief and the realization that America is about to change forever.

Tuesday's skies were calm and blue over Pocahontas County, but that calm belied the state of our minds and our hearts all across the nation when two commercial airliners crashed into the World Trade Center Towers in New York City, another into the Pentagon in Washington, D. C. and yet another mysteriously into the ground in Pennsylvania.

I've done a great deal of thinking about what motivates violence in humankind. And I've come up with no answers. Only questions.

Who lives only to kill other human beings?

Who lives only to destroy and not create?

What kind of miserable existence must that be?

What kind of response will be the right one for America?

I've lived through two wars and a few military conflicts, not to mention three heartbreaking assassinations. I've seen the nation in mourning for its losses.

But never like this; nothing like this incomprehensible act of terrorism that has germinated the grief we feel this week.

I watched story after story on television news, until I could watch no more. The wounds are too great, too raw right now.

The moment they began to put faces with the numbers my gut began to react in anger, hoping for violence in retaliation.

And that will in turn breed more violence, perhaps again on our shores.

My heart began to react as any mother's would.

I worry about our young people in an all-out war, against an enemy with no particular country. I'm afraid the attack was only the beginning of startling change in America.

And so the only answer, the only peace I have found, has been to pray—many rambling, some founded in service liturgy, some simply a cry for help, for protection for our children who have to see a side of humankind that would otherwise been invisible to them.

One small comfort came in the words of Lincoln's Gettysburg Address... "that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain, that this Government of the People, by the People, for the People, shall not perish from the earth."

But in America, even in the face of darkness, hope can spring from small acts of patriotism and large acts of kindness.

Next Friday, September 28, the American Red Cross will take donations of blood at the Marlinton Municipal Building. In spite of my perpetual fear of needles, I plan to be there. I hope you will, too.

The unity in this country since the tragedies is inspiring to me.

Perhaps now we will be only Americans without qualification.

Perhaps now we will cherish the rights we are granted, the liberty we we partake of, the freedom of being American.

If we are forever changed, then let it be for the better.

"West Virginia Gives" to coordinate volunteer aid; New York seeks donations

At the request of the White House, Governor Bob Wise has designated the West Virginia Gives organization to coordinated all West Virginia offers of volunteers to the victims of terrorism in New York and at the Pentagon.

"If you have resources to offer, please call 888-WVGIVES (888-984-4837) to see how to best get the help to the people in need," Wise said.

The phone bank will be staffed from 8 a.m.-6 p.m. seven days a week for at least the next several weeks.

Wise participated in a White House conference call Thursday with governors from across the nation. FEMA Director Joe Allbaugh, Secretary of Transportation Norm Mineta, FAA Director Jane Garvey and Deputy Attorney General Larry Thomson each briefed the governors on the recovery effort and offered the President's thanks for efforts the states had initiated.

Federal officials asked each gov-

God is Our Hope and Our Strength

by Reverend Randy Bond, Pastor, Marlinton Presbyterian Church

As I sat down to write, I found it very difficult to get past the feeling of being speechless at the magnitude of what is happening to us as a nation. It has been very difficult to come up with a sense of what it means so much more to prepare that we just get together and pray. Yet, I realize that many have done this to us but we quell God's loving Spirit in us and make vain the cross of Christ. We must be even more careful not to hate all Arabs and Muslims simply because they share the same race and religion as the terrorists who attacked us. Otherwise, we become as evil as the terrorists.

Monday morning, I felt compelled to open my Bible and read many hymns and, most importantly, how could God have allowed this to happen? That is a most difficult question. But when I think of how much God protected this nation Tuesday and take into account that there were at least three other sites that were going to be attacked, I realize I have no right to question God. Even Billy Graham—I listened to Billy Graham's sermon

Thursday. She was released on bond the following day.

Robert D. Sharp, of Hillsboro, was arrested on Friday by Deputy Tomes and State Police Tprs. D. A. Evans and D. M. McMillan and charged with DUI, failure to keep right, possession of less than 15 grams of marijuana, providing alcohol to a minor, and having a concealed weapon. He appeared before Magistrate Beverage and entered pleas of no contest to each offense. For the possession charge Sharp was placed on probation for six months. He was sentenced to jail for 24 hours for DUI. Fines came to a total of $275 with court costs totaling $561.

Raymond J. Cochran and Betty J. Cochran, of Marlinton, were arrested on Monday by Deputy Sheriff J. L. Clifton and charged with manufacturing a controlled substance and possession of a controlled substance with intent to deliver. They were released on $20,000 bond each. Both offenses involve marijuana and are felonies.

Lee R. Cain, II, of Marlinton, was arrested by Deputy Clifton on Monday on a charge of battery. He was released on $500 bond.

Harper W. McCoy, of Hillsboro, was found guilty of DUI following a hearing before Magistrate Beverage on Monday. He was sentenced to 24 hours in jail with a fine of $150 and court costs of $240.25.

Wendell E. Johnson, of Cass, was found not guilty on Monday of a charge of providing beer to minors.

A charge of possession of a controlled substance against Bryan Thompson, of Hillsboro, was dismissed Monday since he is presently in the state prison. Two counts of domestic battery against Douglas J. Tarwiler, of Snowshoe, were dismissed at the request of the victim.

Concealed weapons permits issued

According to records from the Pocahontas County Sheriff's Department, the following county residents have been issued concealed handgun permits:

Paul R. Arbogast, Jr., Evan J. Bosley, Daniel J. Castellon, John A. Crane, Franklin A. Curry, Eugene K. Dean, Ivan D. Goodnight, Alroy S. Irvin, Ruth A. Ludeman, Charles A. Malcom, Sandra L. Mayfield, Brooklynn K. McLaughlin, William L. Pierce, Harry B. Price, Joseph W. Riley, Robert A. Riley, James W. Roush, Jr., William W. Ryder, Marshall G. Shinaberry, Willard C. Smith, Quannie R. Sprouse, Michael P. Tripp, Lester M. Turner.

Orchids...

To John Thompson, of Marlinton, for sharing his delicious vegetables with his friends and family.

To Amos Tracy, Richard Kramer and Earl Sharp for cleaning the Varner Cemetery at Split Rock.

To Don Morrison for donating his time to be the auctioneer at the Dunmore Methodist Church Harvest Day Sale.

To Randy Stinson and the Presbyterian Church, Autumn Graham, Jaynell Tabit, Brenda Ricciffi, and Linda Frist for the support and help they gave to the Girl Scout Choir.

God is Our Hope and Our Strength

by Reverend Jonah Bowyer Marlinton Presbyterian Church

As I sat down to write this I found it very difficult to put into the feeling of being speechless at the magnitude of what is happening to us as a nation. It has been very difficult to come up with a term or phrase that we just got together and pray. Yet, I realize that it is at times such as these that we do need to hear a word from God and so I have labored prayerfully over these words which are thoughts on Psalm 33.

It is hard to imagine the full impact Tuesday's terrorist attacks will have on our lives. What changes will we have to make to feel safe? How long will it take to recover economically? When will we actually be fighting this war? I was fully expecting to get up Wednesday morning to hear that we were engaged in combat. Instead, I was awakened about 3:30 a.m. by one of our cats wailing her victory cry over the mouse she had just caught. I took the mouse from her and as I sure spent the rest of the night awake due to her periodic interests in the hunt for her mouse. Being now unable to sleep, I prayed. That's what sleepless nights are for anyway. When I finally got up around 5:30 a.m., I checked my e-mail. It was full of mass mailed prayers from friends and even from "spammers." It seems I wasn't the only one up praying.

Later Wednesday, just before lunch, I received a call from some exuberant Jehovah's Witnesses who were "just going around with a word of encouragement." I just listened to them. I wasn't much in the mood for debating the Bible. Actually, I was moved by their dedication. Only it was ironic that they were working from Matthew 24 where Jesus warns us prior to the end of human history.

Anyway, these two Jehovah's Witnesses remarked on how much of an impact Tuesday's attack was having even here in Marlinton. They were absolutely right about that. I know I could go around the community and everyone of us could tell of how a friend or relative and in some cases ourselves were directly affected by these attacks. The impact of Tuesday, September 11, 2001 will be remembered on all.

We've all been glued to our TV sets wondering what's going to happen next. Some have said it could have happened on the 50th anniversary of Pearl Harbor, and, most importantly, how could God have allowed this to happen? That is a most difficult question. But when I think of how much God protected this nation Tuesday and take into account those there were at least three other sites that were going to be attacked, I realize I have no right to question God. Even Billy Graham—I listened to Billy Graham's sermon Friday on the radio—said even he could not give an explanation for why God allows things like this to happen. He said the important thing to know is that God loves us, that God loves all people—the cross that Jesus Christ died on reminds us of that.

Personally, I think that the important thing for us to remember is that God will work good from all this and I stand resolutely on that. This world will be a better place when this is all over. God who is truly all-powerful will turn these horrible acts of evil into an unreasonable good. The Apostle Paul writes in his letter to the Romans (8:28) "We know that God works all things together for good for those who love God, who are called according to his purpose." By a word God spoke and created this whole universe for God's glory so that He could love it. God created us so that He could love us. God became human in Jesus Christ and lived as one of us, suffered evil innocently, and died as we do simply because he loves. God has poured his Spirit into us that we might know Him personally and experience a taste of how much he loves us. His Spirit is now at work comforting us, comforting especially those whom evil has grossly stung by these attacks.

The people who carried out these acts are not working according to God's purposes. They were sin and are not operating according even to reasoned truth and goodness. Though psychologists say they are sane, their sanity is twisted, indeed evil and evil makes no sense. Evil is our true enemy here—indeed the Evil one, the Satan, has struck us—the one who, like a terrorist, hides in secrecy and lies and makes accusations against the righteous.

We are not at war with a nation or a religion. We are at war with the evil one and his evil ideas that have possessed some people. When people organize themselves around hate or any form of prejudice evil is the root and the fruit of it. We must be careful not to hate those who have done this to us but we spell God's loving Spirit in us and make sure the cross of Christ. We must be even more careful not to hate all Arabs and Muslims simply because they share the same race and religion as the terrorists who attacked us. Otherwise, we become as evil as the terrorists.

Monday morning, I felt compelled to open my Bible and read and I kept returning to John the Baptist and the message that he preached—the message Jesus also preached—"Repent, for the kingdom of heaven has come near." I did not understand it then, but I think I do now. I think the most profound impact of these attacks will be that the people of this nation who call themselves Christian have and will repent, will return to our God, the Father of Jesus Christ to pray for his help. The enemy we are at war with is invisible both literally in these terrorist cells and spiritually. Only prayer will smoke them out and defeat them. In Ephesians chapter 6 Paul writes, "Finally be strong in the Lord and in the strength of his power. Put on the whole armor of God, so that you may be able to stand against the wiles of the devil. For our struggle is not against enemies of blood and flesh, but against the rulers, against the authorities, against the cosmic powers of this present darkness, against the spiritual powers of evil in the heavenly places.

Therefore take up the whole armor of God, so that you may be able to withstand on that evil day, and having done everything, to stand firm...Pray in the Spirit at all times in every prayer and supplication. To that end keep alert and always persevere in supplication for the saints."

If I were to venture a guess as to why God didn't stop these acts of evil, I would say that maybe today, as in the days of Noah and more so as in the days preceding World War II, evil has relented so so that God has decided it is time to mobilize governments and militaries in His service to cleanse the world of the influence of this evil before it becomes too horrible. In this war prayer is our greatest weapon.

Therefore, pray that our world leaders will trust in and wait on God who is our help and shield, that they will hear God's upright word, that they will be led by faith to be righteous and to love justice

Continued to page 3

"West Virginia Gives" to coordinate volunteer aid; New York seeks donations

At the request of the White House, Governor Bob Wise has designated the West Virginia Commission for National and Community Service as coordinator of all West Virginia efforts of volunteers to the victims of terrorism in New York and at the Pentagon.

"If you have resources to offer, please call 888-WVGIVES (888-984-4837) to let us know so we can get the help to the people in need," Wise said.

The phone bank will be staffed from 8 a.m.-8 p.m. seven days a week for at least the next several weeks.

Wise participated in a White House conference call Thursday with governors from across the nation. FEMA Director Joe Allbaugh, Secretary of Transportation Norm Mineta, FAA Director Jane Garvey and Deputy Attorney General Larry Thompson each briefed the governors on the recovery effort and offered the President's thanks for efforts the states had initiated.

Federal officials asked each governor to designate a coordinator and a single point of contact for people and organizations in their states that want to help. Wise has appointed Military Affairs and Public Safety Secretary Joe Martin to coordinate West Virginia volunteers.

"Hundreds of emergency and medical professionals have already indicated their willingness to help wherever they are needed," Wise said. "By establishing a coordinating agency to organize their efforts, we can help eliminate confusion and bottlenecks in getting help to those who need it."

Those who wish to make a cash contribution to disaster relief can direct it to: New York State World Trade Center Relief Fund, P. O. Box 8028, Albany NY 12208.

"We welcome all pledges of support to the newly established New York State World Trade Center Relief Fund, which will provide critical support for our ongoing disaster relief and victim assistance efforts," Panki said. "The support we receive from compassionate and patriotic residents of West Virginia will never be forgotten by the people of New York State."

The fund will support the World Trade Center emergency response and victim support. New York has established a toll-free donations line, (800) 801-8092, however, I'd take suggested mailing donations rather than calling because the line has been swamped with callers from across the country.

Durbin Days donates to disaster fund

Durbin Days Committee had a fundraiser on Saturday, instead of using the proceeds for Durbin Days we decided to turn it over to the New York Disaster Fund. The amount raised was $415.80.

We would like for all surrounding fire departments, police stations, and businesses to donate whatever they can to the New York Fundraiser.

If you need information contact Donald Pack 456-4281.

Area children attend soccer camp

From Monday, August 6 through Friday, August 10, children from the county were treated to a soccer camp at the Green Bank Soccer fields. Children from the ages of 5 to 19 were welcome and about 35 were in attendance. Camp Director was Dave Brun. Dave stepped in for friend and coach of the Davis and Elkins Soccer Team, Mark Stollsteimer, while he was on his honeymoon. Other teachers were the following members of the team: Jason Miller, Juan Sebastian Leguizamo (from Columbia), Jason Assam (from Trinadad and Tobago), Jas. Woolrine and James Wong. Campers had skill drills and were grouped in teams for competition during this week of fun and learning. The afternoon break at the NRAO pool was also a highlight during this excessively hot week. Regardless of the weather, the campers had a great time and can't wait until next year.

- - -

The followin part in the soc

Katherine Blackwelder, Bland, Shawn Zachary Ches Emily Egan,
Ford, Hannah
Holstine, Er
Jewell, Gran
Langston, E Lash, Jairus son, Logan liam, Christ Sheets, Jedi Simmons, Small, Roma er, David We Grayson Whi

'The Gorilla's Problem' to be presented by Hillsboro Elementary students

The Drama of the Month Program opens this month with a production created by Ms. Beck's 1st and 2nd graders from Hillsboro Elementary. The Gorilla's Problem will be presented on Monday, September 24, at 11 a.m. and at 2:05 journey looking for a home, but every available tree, nest and burrow is already occupied by an assortment of snakes, cheetahs and elephants. Finally, the gorilla gives up on the jungle and gets a dolphin to escort

Warrior Sports

by Eric Underwood

The PCHS Golf Team had losses on both Wednesday, September 12, played so wel

ATTENTION!!

Due to last weeks horrific terrorist attacks, all Cupp's Furniture letter holders with dated materials are extended through Saturday, September 22, 2001.
May God bless and comfort the victims and their families & friends.
We will overcome.

Crystal Smith Gre
having her first b Crystal is unable shower at this tin need of all ba diapers to a crib for Crystal can b Smith at her hon below Amo's gar will be accep gratitude and a to Crystal at the Crystal says h friends in Pocah at Fas Chek. Us be we Thank you Cry

Mit send wel

Hillsboro • 653-4562
Evenings 653-4467

Free Estimates
All Work Guaranteed
473-1011 WV#030269

The Marlinton Fire Department will hold a "Boot Drive" on Saturday, September 29. All donations will be sent to the firefighters and their families in New York City who have been devastated by the September 11 terrorist attacks on the World Trade Center towers. Members of the M.V.F.D. will be stationed on U.S. 219 close to Burns Motor Freight, on Rt. 39 close to Mitchell Chevrolet and at the fire house from 12 noon until 4 p.m. Citizens may also drop off donations at the fire department or the town office Monday - Friday the week before the drive. Checks can be made out to the Marlinton Volunteer Fire Department. Please come by these locations and support these American Heroes and the families they left behind while answering the call to duty and making the ultimate sacrifice while trying to save others. Any and all contributions will be greatly appreciated.

ATTENTION!!

WEEKLY ADVERTISING RATES
Display—$4.50 column inch—Classified—20¢ word
WILLIAM P. McNEEL, Editor • PAMELA E. PRITT, Managing Editor
JANE PRICE SHARP, Editor Emerita

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 13, 2001

Horror

Pocahontas County residents joined the rest of the nation Tuesday watching in horror and disbelief as tragedy took place in New York, Washington, and Pennsylvania. The only immediate impact on the county came with the early end to the school day in the county. State Police recommended that Green Bank Elementary/Middle School be closed as a safety measure on the remote change that the Observatory become a target of the day's madness. With the way the bus system is interconnected, it was decided to close all schools early. Schools were back in session Wednesday.

More personal impact on Pocahontas County will come as we learn of friends and relatives that became victim to the terrorist attacks.

Our prayers are for the victims and their families and for all those who are working as this is written to save any survivors.

Statement from Governor Bob Wise

The United States has been the target of a terrorist attack. But we are a free people and we will not be defeated by violence.

West Virginia's public safety officials have been in constant contact with the FBI and other federal agencies since early this (Tuesday) morning and we have worked with them to idenify and secure any potential targets of terror attacks in this state. I have ordered the activation of the state's Emergency Operations Center and the placement of increased security at the Capitol Complex and at other state buildings.

Our thoughts and prayers are with the victims of these cowardly attacks.

Statement of Senator John D. Rockefeller, IV

The American way of life has suffered an unprecedented, coordinated, and clearly intentional act of terrorism. Our prayers are with all of the families who have suffered the loss of a loved one.

We are all harmed by this evil, and America will not rest until those responsible for these actions are brought to justice.

This is an unparalleled act of terrorism on America, and all civilized peoples. It will be days and weeks before we will know the full extent of the damage, destruction, and consequences. For the foreseeable future we must be wary of additional terrorist events across the Nation.

I join all West Virginians to pray for the lives lost today, for the families who have been victimized by these monstrous events, for the welfare of the Nation, and for President Bush and all of the nation's leadership who must guide us in this hour of crisis.

This is an unforgivable act of intentional murder, and the people responsible should know that this country will not be deterred from its mission to bring justice upon those who would seek to destroy it.

May God bless and protect America in this dark hour.

Solid Waste

Magistrate

Most of the 567 f gathered in the south
the county, according lease provided by the County Sheriff's Depa
The release said tha
"largest find in this pa this year."
According to the Sheriff's Department and destroyed a mari
the central region of t West Virginia Re
and Interdiction Detac pated in both raids, th
A ground crew sei Northern Pocahontas release said.
No arrests have bee ever, the cases are un

Board o for regu

The Board of Educ
regular meeting on M
As the first item o
Veteran's Diploma
Thomas Madison, military in the 1960 Madison from rec school diploma f
High School.
Linda Bretz, rep
Allen & Hamilton
Board that her co
National Associati
Education are spo
National Youth Le Seminar. The sem in conjunction w Symposium on Education, whic
Anchorage, Alask
November 4.
that two of the 25
to attend are fro Tausha Cassell and She said the yo discuss issues facin the 1200 educators a community leaders country and around will be attending th
The theme of the m corporate America

3.78 • In-State $23.32 • Out-of-State $25
KLY ADVERTISING RATES
0 column inch—Classified—20¢ word
., Editor • PAMELA E. PRITT, Managing Editor
PRICE SHARP, Editor Emerita

Y, SEPTEMBER 13, 2001

Horror

sidents Complex and at other state b

s changes to Times
on WV 24954 304) 799-6466
st week of the year.
West Virginia 24954
8373 ES (including tax) ut-of-State $25 RATES
ed—20¢ word ITT, Managing Editor
nerita
, 2001

d at other state build-ts and prayers are with of these cowardly

---

of Senator John ckefeller, IV rican way of life has precedented, coordiarly intentional act of r prayers are with all s who have suffered ved one.
harmed by this evil, will not rest until hble for these actions justice.
unparalleled act of Law enforcement nets over $1 million in marijuana

by Pamela Pritt

Pocahontas County Law Enforcement officers netted over $1 million in marijuana last week in a three-day eradication raid that took place throughout the area.

Most of the 567 plants were gathered in the southern region of the county, according to a press release provided by the Pocahontas County Sheriff's Department.

The release said that raid was the "largest find in this part of the state this year."

According to the release, the Sheriff's Department also located and destroyed a marijuana patch in the central region of the county.

West Virginia Reconnaissance and Interdiction Detachment participated in both raids, the release said.

A ground crew seized plants in Northern Pocahontas County, the release said.

No arrests have been made; however, the cases are under investigation and steps are being taken to apprehend those responsible, Deputy Sheriff J. L. Clifton said Tuesday.

"The Sheriff's Department is committed to combating the drug problem facing this county," the release said. "Last week proved successful against marijuana cultivation, however, our anti-drug campaign focuses on the entire drug problem.

"We are asking for your assistance in battling all forms of drug abuse and misuse, as well as manufacturing, cultivation and delivery of all drugs."

The Sheriff's Department requests that persons with information concerning any drug activity call 304-799-4445 or 304-799-4101 or write PCSD, 900 Tenth Avenue, Marlinton WV 24954.

Drug activity may also be reported anonymously at www.prosaty.com.

MARIJUANA PLANTS LEAN against the side of a cruiser while Deputy Sheriff J. L. Clifton, Trooper F. H. Barlow, Deputy Sheriff Brad Totten, Chief Deputy Craig Doss, and Deputy Sheriff Rob Alkire stand beside the 10'-14' tall plants.

Board of Education meets for regular session

The Board of Education met for a regular meeting on Monday.

As the first item on the agenda, a Veteran's Diploma was presented to Thomas Madison. Service the teachers seeking master's degrees are not provided with either benefit. The vote was unanimous in rejecting the request.

nt
ion ng taken to ible. Depu-said Tues-artment is g the drug y," the reroved suca cultiva-drug cam-tire drug our assiss of drug as manu-delivery

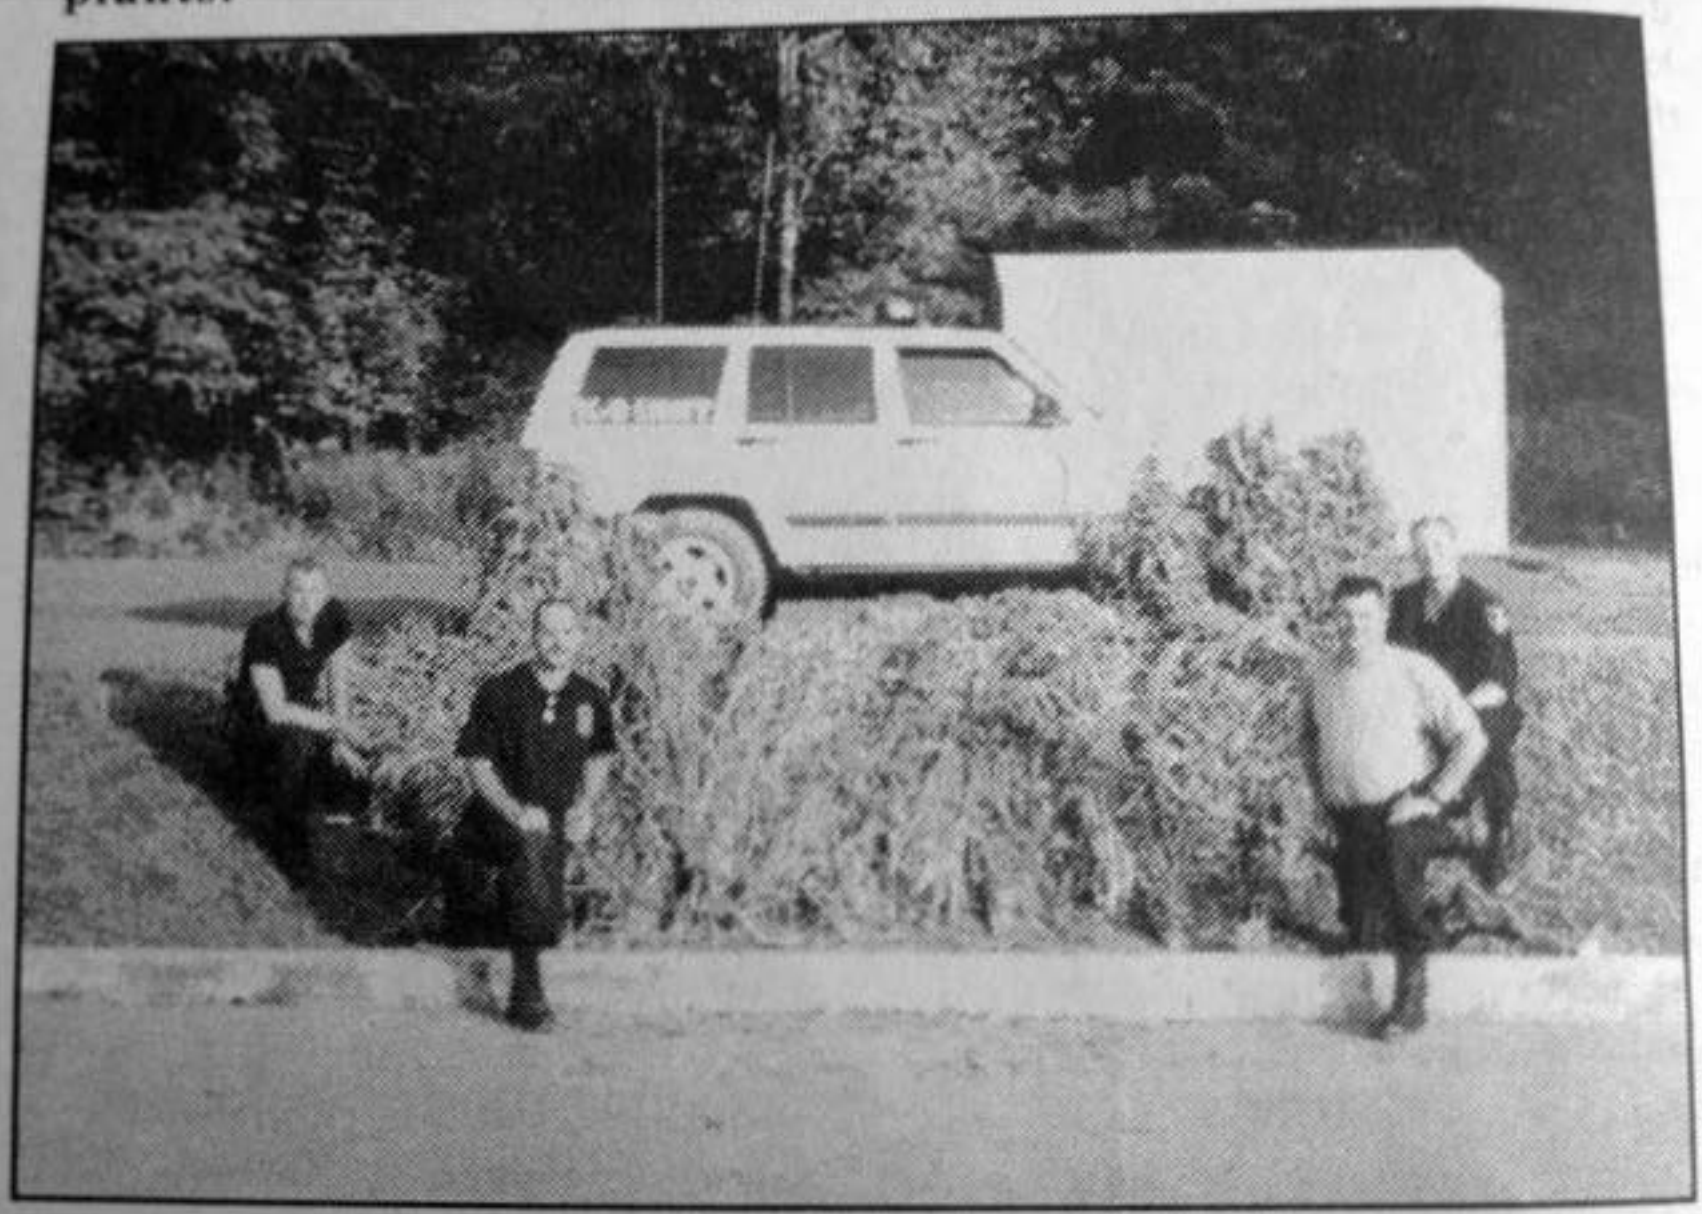
t requests

MARIJUANA PLANTS LEAN against the side of a cruiser while Deputy Sheriff J. L. Clifton, Trooper F. H. Barlow, Deputy Sheriff Brad Totten, Chief Deputy Craig Doss, and Deputy Sheriff Rob Alkire stand beside the 10'-14' tall plants.

plants.



PILES OF MARIJUANA on the jail lawn. Deputy Sheriff Rob Alkire, Deputy Sheriff Brad Totten, Chief Deputy Craig Doss and Deputy Sheriff J. L. Clifton kneel beside the plants.

- - -

Prosecutor hopes web page

PILES OF MARIJUANA on the jail lawn. Deputy Sheriff Rob Alkire, Deputy Sheriff Brad Totten, Chief Deputy Craig Doss and Deputy Sheriff J. L. Clifton kneel beside the plants.

Prosecutor hopes web page will promote crime reports, interaction

by Pamela Pritt

The county's chief law enforcement official is taking a new approach to fighting crime using new technology and the Internet.

Prosecuting Attorney Walt Weiford has developed a web site, www.prosatty.com, a tool for law enforcement as well as citizens.

The home page offers navigation to several pages on the site, including a Crime Watch page and a page anyone can report crime anonymously.

"The thing I'm most hopeful about is the Crime Watch page," Weiford said.

Officers post information there about their investigations, both informing the public of their activities and progress and encouraging that public to help out.

Two breaking and entering cases are posted there now, and according to Weiford, more cases will follow as officers become more acquainted with using the Internet as a tool.

People already contact his office anonymously by telephone and the U. S. Mail, Weiford said, and adding the ability to do so via email should give people more incentive to report crime.

Those messages are routed through a host and only fields with information get to Weiford's desk. The user is in control of the data he sends.

"Any information anyone provides will have to be corroborated," the prosecutor said. "But, it may lead to something important.

"It's about communication."

However, Weiford said, the page is not intended for crime reports altogether. The public can provide input to him and other law enforcement officials on "how they perceive we're doing our job. That's important," Weiford said. "Encouragement doesn't hurt."

Weiford said his goal is to make law enforcement "as good as it can be."

The web site has information on domestic violence and provides links to the West Virginia Code, the U. S. Code, the Pocahontas County Sheriff's Department and the West Virginia State Police.

Although Internet use is not widespread in Pocahontas County, all Pocahontas County Free Libraries have access so that anyone can visit the site.

"My thought was more and more people are taking advantage of [the Internet]," Weiford said. "It's a good way to get information anytime of day and gives folks an opportunity to communicate with me when it's convenient for them."

Weiford developed www.prosatty.com himself.

Autumn Harvest Festival Cookoff set for this month

bus time and are asking for a waiver of the new parking fee at PCHS.

In personnel matters the Board approved:

* employment of Mali S. Minter as long-term substitute teacher of social studies, half-time, at Green Bank.

* employment of Mary K. Biller as substitute teacher as officers become more acquainted with using the Internet as a tool.

Continued to page 11

People already contact his office anonymously by telephone and the U. S. Mail, Weiford said, and adding the ability to do so via email should give people more incentive to report crime.

Those messages are routed through a host and only fields with information get to Weiford's desk. The user is in control of the data he all Pocahontas County Free Libraries have access so that anyone can visit the site.

"My thought was more and more people are taking advantage of [the Internet]," Weiford said. "It's a good way to get information anytime of day and gives folks an opportunity to communicate with me when it's convenient for them."

Weiford developed www.prosatty.com himself.

15th annual & Road Kill Autumn Harvest Festival Cookoff set for this month

Ready for some fun? Then join us in Marlinton, for the 15th Annual Autumn Harvest Festival and Roadkill Cook-off. The festivities start on Friday night September 28, with the crowning of the Autumn Harvest Wee Tots and finishes on Saturday, September 29, afternoon by honoring the best Roadkill Cooks in the region.

The kick-off on Saturday starts with the Grand Parade in Marlinton at 10 a.m., which finishes at Marlinton Municipal Park. Non-profit food vendors will be set up to tempt your taste buds with West Virginia barbecue, homemade vegetable soup and sweets galore. Listen to Bluegrass Music played by Norris Long and friends starting at noon. Get your Christmas shopping started early with the large arts and craft show located under the park pavilion. There will be harvest games for the children and county soccer matches to enjoy.

There are two new exciting features to this year's festival. The Autumn Harvest Horse Show will be held at the horse ring near the pavilion. Susan Davis, of Marlinton, has organized a 27-class show for riders of all levels. There will be Pleasure classes, Barrel Races, Pole Bending and fun events for adults and children. Also this year, performance artist Mick Souter, will perform "Celebrate West Virginia," a one-man history show for young and young at heart. Listen to the history of West Virginia as interpreted through the talent of one of West Virginia's finest artists. The play will start at 2:30 p.m. with the second performance located at the Opera House in Marlinton Saturday evening. "This program is presented with financial assistance through a Grant from the West Virginia Division of Culture and History and the National Endowment for the Arts, with approval from the West Virginia Commission on the Arts."

The highlight of the Festival will be the 11th Annual Roadkill Cook-off. Adventurous cooks from all over the region vie for prizes in this unique and fun event. Prizes are awarded on taste, originality and showmanship. The main ingredient must be an animal that can be found along the side of the road. All cooking must be done on-sight with tasty dishes such as, "Bumped and Rolled Bambi" and "Wild Rattlesnake Surprise." The best part is watching the process and for those bravest souls—tasting the fare.

There is something for everyone at the 15th Annual Autumn Harvest Festival and Roadkill Cook-off. So bring your family and friends and join in the fun. The Pocahontas County Chamber of Commerce sponsors this event with help from area civic organizations. For more information contact the Pocahontas County CVB at 1-800-336-7009.

Advisory Council for Education of Exceptional Children to meet in Marlinton

The West Virginia Advisory Council for the Education of Exceptional Children will meet on Thursday, September 20, at the McClintic Public Library in Marlinton at 7 p.m.

All members of the public are invited to attend this meeting and to share concerns about the unmet needs of children identified as exceptional under Policy 2419 and the IDEA.

The Council depends of the attendance and input of the public to help identify the unmet needs of exceptional children. For more information about the meeting, call this region representative, James Farley, 304 846-4799, or the Council at 800 642-3642.

The Council will meet on Friday from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Pamela Pritt

be her first year at Mardle School and her first incipal, but Fran Mc-no amateur in education ranger to Pocahontas

n teaching since 1978
at learned about the art and being a principal er.

lived in Huntersville several years, so she's the area, either.

seems at home in the S as if she'd always

ugh she's aware the l has had it's share of blems and morale di-Laughlin is convinced es can be overcome
oint plan.

cy, consistency, cone said emphatically.
as the same set of one gets treated the

ose rules were created emselves and are part ntract designed to help ld respect for them-others.

MMS PRINCIPAL FRAN McLaughlin is flanked by seventh graders Amber Smith and Michael Miller. Below, McLaughlin sits at her desk.

As part of her consistency plan, McLaughlin said she plans to remain at MMS until her retirement in about 22 years.

rupted 90 minute blocks for language arts, with 60 minute blocks for math, plus tutoring or enrich-

Elementary S Breakfast/Lunch
September
Monday: Ham sli
w/syrup, or cereal, juic rito w/lettuce & to corn, peach half, pretz Tuesday: Breakfast browns, or cereal, Chicken nuggets,
pinto beans, kiwi,
milk.
Wednesday: Cinna al, juice, milk. Pizza potato wedges, powe
Thursday: Health C Friday: Scrambled pattie, toast, or cere Submarine sandwi
tomato, green beans,

PCHS M
September
Grab-N-Go Me
Salads Offered Monday: Taco cookie, pears, milk Tuesday: Beef
beans, Italian br chunks, milk (varie Wednesday: Sa mashed potatoes, b sauce, sweetened a

Marlinton Middle School 'last' nev principal stresses consistency

by Pamela Pritt

It might be her first year at Marlinton Middle School and her first year as principal, but Fran McLaughlin is no amateur in education and no stranger to Pocahontas County.

She's been teaching since 1978 and before that learned about the art of teaching and being a principal from her father.

And she's lived in Huntersville for the past several years, so she's no stranger to the area, either.

In fact, she seems at home in the halls of MMS as if she'd always been there.

And although she's aware the middle school has had it's share of discipline problems and morale dilemmas, McLaughlin is convinced those obstacles can be overcome with a three-point plan.

"Consistency, consistency, consistency," she said emphatically. "Everyone has the same set of rules. Everyone gets treated the same."

Some of those rules were created by students themselves and are part of a social contract designed to help students build respect for themselves and for others.

"We're building skills that should have been taught [earlier]," McLaughlin said.

Students shake hands with their teachers as they enter a classroom and are allowed no sarcasm, no foul language, no chewing gum and only constructive criticism while they are in classes.

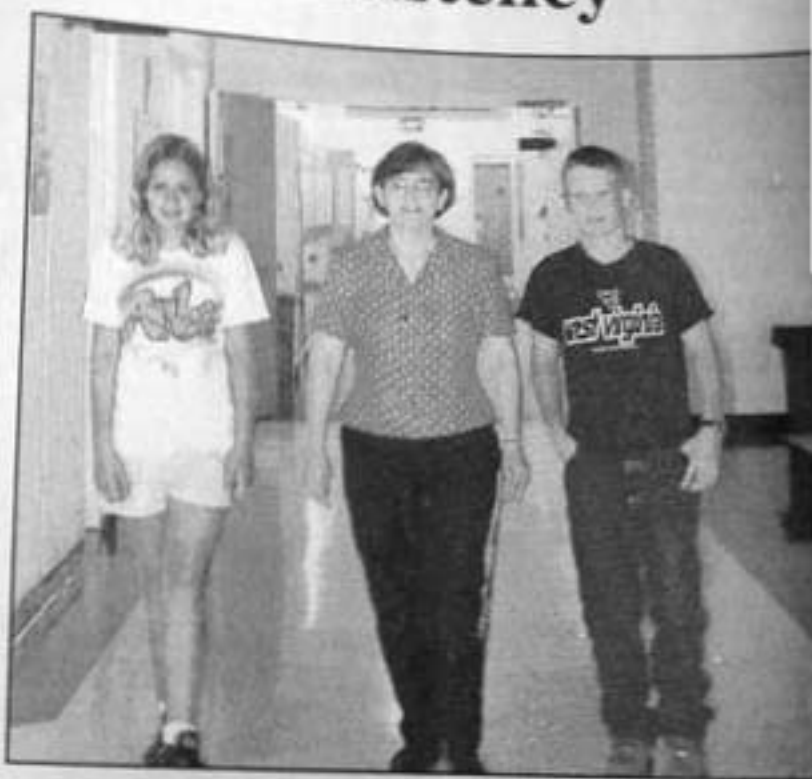
Consequences range from stand-up apology to a trip to McLaughlin's office where she asks questions.

What were you doing?

What were you supposed to be doing?

What are you going to do about it?

Her philosophy relies heavily on making the student responsible for his or her own actions, while creating an atmosphere of respect, kind-



MMS PRINCIPAL FRAN McLaughlin is flanked by seve graders Amber Smith and Michael Miller. Bel McLaughlin sits at her desk.

As part of her consistency plan, McLaughlin said she plans to remain at MMS until her retirement in about 22 years.

"I knew walking in [there were] seven principals in seven years," she said. "You're stuck with me. This job is not a stepping stone; I'm going to be here.

School of Excellence and McLaughlin said it can be again.

Because, she said, MMS' "wonderful staff" had the ability to carry on without a consistent leader. "That says something about their love of children, their love of teaching," the principal said. "It's a credit to the teachers, cooks and janitors for keeping it together."

The school's plan of attack on low test scores is to have uninter-

"I'm your last new principal."

rupted 90 minute blocks for guage arts, with 60 minute bl for math, plus tutoring or en ment; 30 minute blocks for p cal education, health, art, m French and study halls; scienc math have 45 minute blocks; grade is 75% self-contained.

McLaughlin graduated from vis and Elkins College and di graduate work at West Virg University.

Marlinton Middle School 'last' new principal stresses consistency

by Pamela Pritt

It might be her first year at Marlinton Middle School and her first year as principal, but Fran McLaughlin is no amateur in education and no stranger to Pocahontas County.

She's been teaching since 1978 and before that learned about the art of teaching and being a principal from her father.

And she's lived in Huntersville for the past several years, so she's no stranger to the area, either.

In fact, she seems at home in the halls of MMS as if she'd always been there.

And although she's aware the middle school has had it's share of discipline problems and morale dilemmas, McLaughlin is convinced those obstacles can be overcome with a three-point plan.

"Consistency, consistency, consistency," she said emphatically. "Everyone has the same set of rules. Everyone gets treated the same."

Some of those rules were created by students themselves and are part of a social contract designed to help students build respect for themselves and for others.

"We're building skills that should have been taught [earlier]," McLaughlin said.

Students shake hands with their teachers as they enter a classroom and are allowed no sarcasm, no foul language, no chewing gum and only constructive criticism while they are in classes.

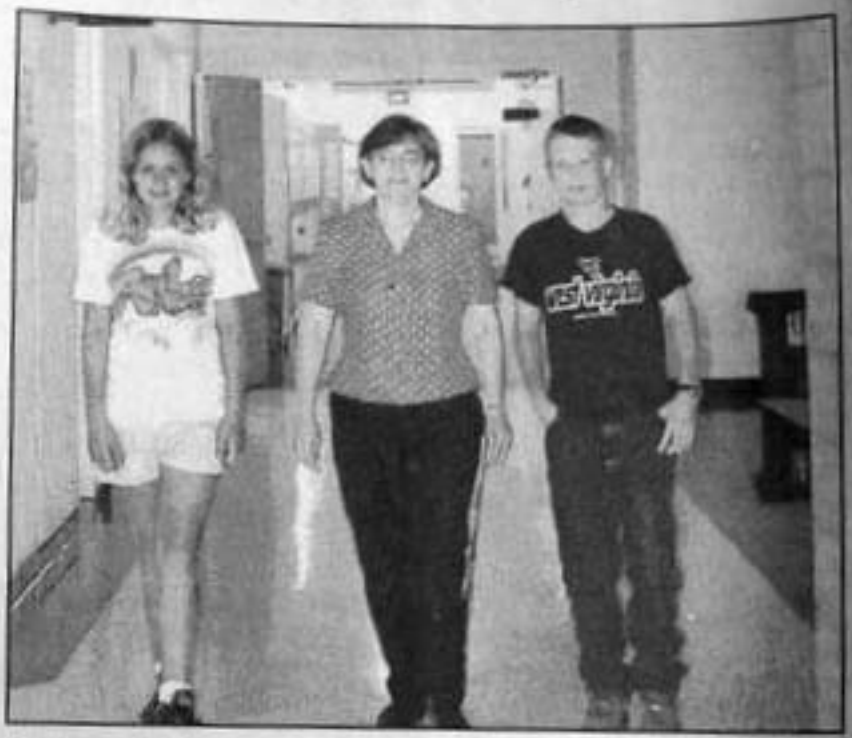
Consequences range from stand-up apology to a trip to McLaughlin's office where she asks questions:

What were you doing?

What were you supposed to be doing?

What are you going to do about it?

Her philosophy relies heavily on making the student responsible for his or her own actions, while creating an atmosphere of respect, kindness and support.



MMS PRINCIPAL FRAN McLaughlin is flanked by seventh graders Amber Smith and Michael Miller. Below, McLaughlin sits at her desk.

As part of her consistency plan, McLaughlin said she plans to remain at MMS until her retirement in about 22 years.

"I knew walking in [there were] seven principals in seven years," she said. "You're stuck with me. This job is not a stepping stone; I'm gong to be here.

School of Excellence and McLaughlin said it can be again.

Because, she said, MMS' "wonderful staff" had the ability to carry on without a consistent leader. "That says something about their love of children, their love of teaching," the principal said. "It's a credit to the teachers, cooks and janitors for keeping it together."

The school's plan of attack on low test scores is to have uninterrupted 90 minute blocks for language arts, with 60 minute blocks for math, plus tutoring or enrichment; 30 minute blocks for physical education, health, art, music, French and study halls; science and math have 45 minute blocks; fifth grade is 75% self-contained.

McLaughlin graduated from Davis and Elkins College and did her graduate work at West Virginia University.

"I'm your last new principal."

MMS was once a West Virginia

Warrior Sports

by Eric Underwood

Scholars Academ graduation

University.

gain.
l, MMS' e ability to tent leader.
bout their love of aid. "It's a ooks and ether."

attack on uninter-ipal."
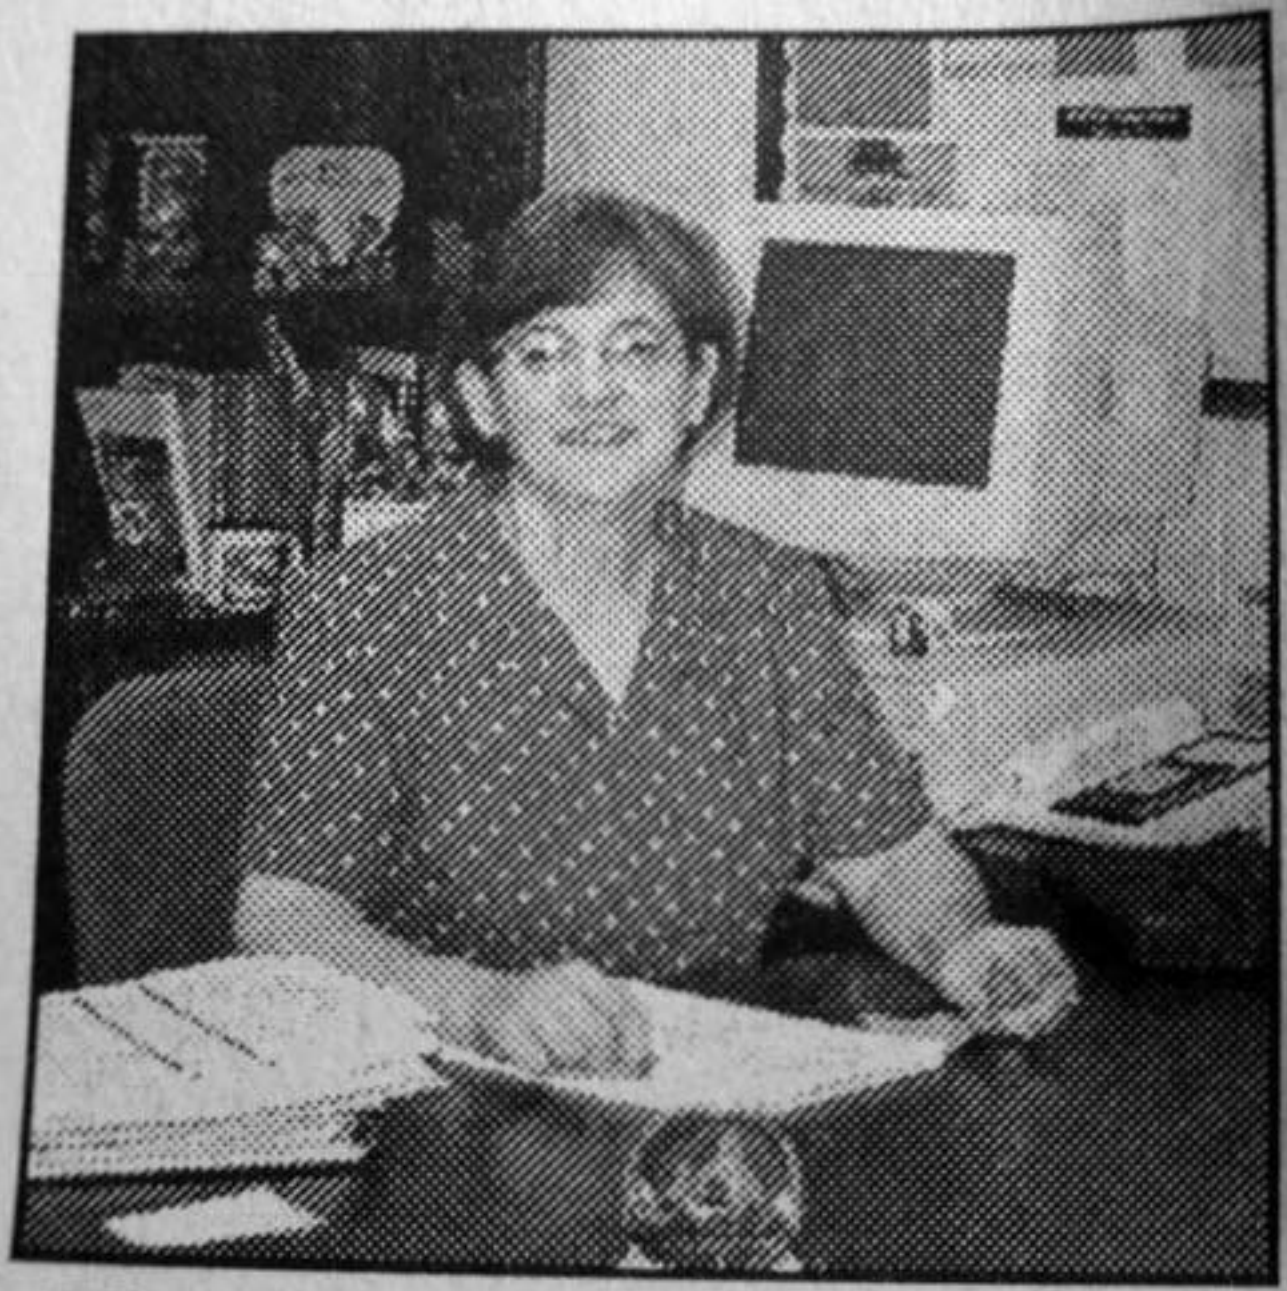
Virginia



Scholars Academ

Off T

Marshal
Doss; Kat School
West Vi
Sumner, Da Correction:
Marsha Seldomridg WVU
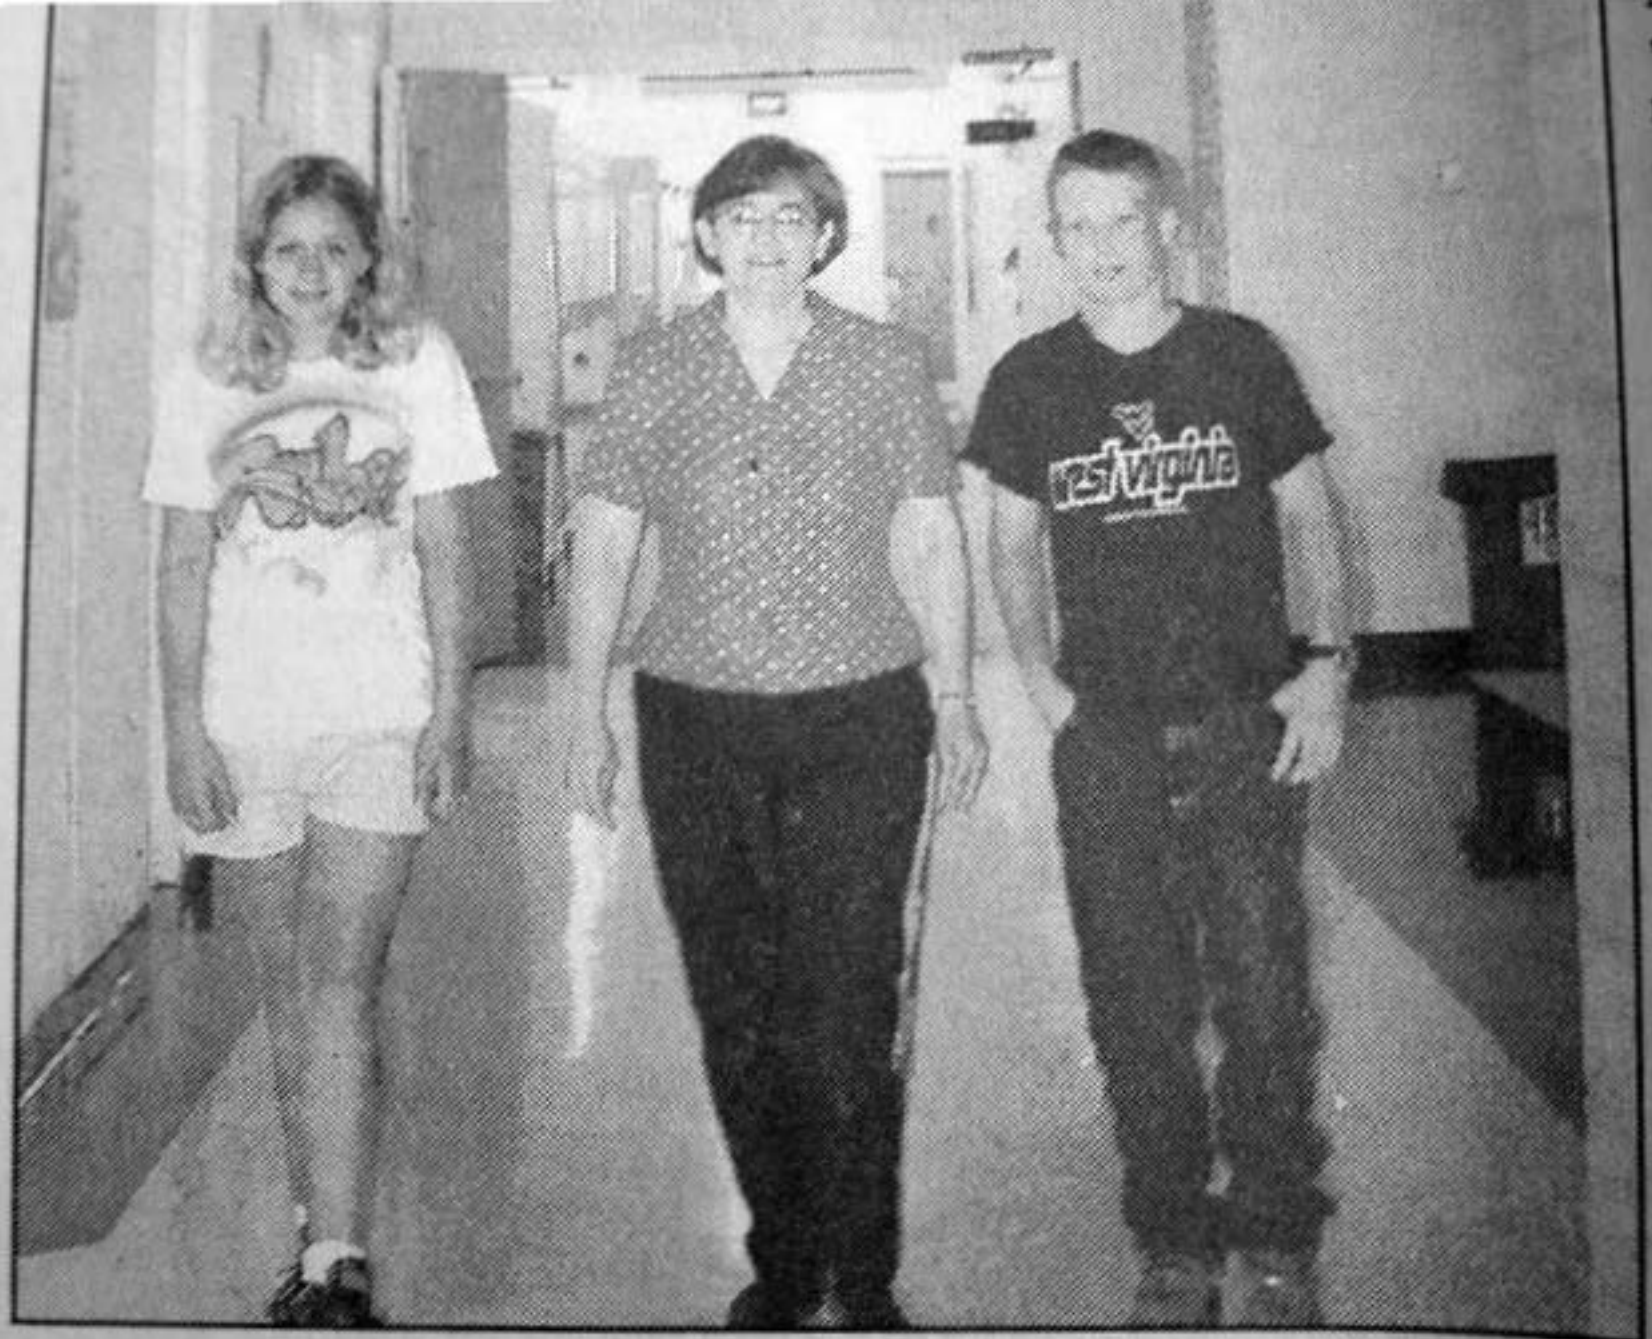
sandra Sim



MMS PRINCIPAL FRAN McLaughlin is flanked by seventh graders Amber Smith and Michael Miller. Below, McLaughlin sits at her desk.

Outdoor Notes

As Rev. Samuel L. Dean was trimming overgrown bushes around his place, he found this branch full of apple-like fruit—nine in all—on a burning bush shrub, deep in the middle, like a message from heaven, he thinks. He had never seen fruits on it. They don't match the quinces on a branch from a quince tree he brought with him but are similar. It doesn't usually have fruit. He knows this shrub as a burning bush which blooms the first thing in the spring with bright reddish blooms and we think must be like one we know as Japanese quince or Japonica. The shrub with leaves now turning bright shades of red for fall is also known as a burning bush. Flora of West Virginia lists burning bush also as wahoo, a shrub with dark purple bloom. The book lists Japanese quince or Japonica as an ornamental shrub introduced from eastern Asia, which may persist about old home sites; it is a member of the Pyrus family which contains pear, apple, crabapple, chokeberry, and mountainash trees.

* * *

Bear seen in Marlinton

Marjorie Blackwelder and her son,

September 29 will mark the beginning of West Virginia's small game season, providing an excellent opportunity for adults to introduce a youngster to the pleasures and challenges of hunting. To participate in the youth squirrel season, hunters must be no more than 14 years of age and must be accompanied by an adult with a hunting license during this special one day season. The accompanying adult cannot hunt and must remain near enough to render advice. Though not required, the DNR recommends that all participants wear blaze orange for safety purposes.

The traditional small game season begins October 6 with the opening of squirrel season and runs through January 31, 2002. "Because of the abundance of acorns, hickory nuts, beech and other food species last year, squirrel populations will be higher this year, providing excellent hunting opportunities," Taylor said.

October 13 opens the ruffed grouse season. Higher brood reports have been reported this year, particularly in the eastern panhandle and mountain counties. Mast reports indicate that food, especially grape and greenbrier, is spotty, so grouse hunting will require mo walking this fall.

"Raccoon hunting will begi 6 p.m. on October 13, and wi significant increase in the po tion growth over the past few hunters shouldn't have any lems locating these ma bandits," Taylor said. "Ev southern counties, which tra ally have had lower popul have experienced a rapid g raccoon numbers."

Cottontail rabbit, s hare, Bobwhite quail, ri pheasant, bobcat, red fox fox hunting seasons beg ber 3. Rabbit hunting early successional hab

Engagements

Engagement

Loretta Sipe is proud to announce the engagement of her brother, Jonathan Lee Mallow, to Jessica Ann Buzzard.

Wedding plans are incomplete.

25 Gal
The 2 Reunion wa linton Muni
The followin
Robert H
Otis Galford
Perkins Bul
Smith, Ivan
Withrow, Es
Withrow, D Galford, Elm ford, Ernest ford, Dennis den, Corenia man, Naomi ford, Brenda ford, Keith Alderman, Ja
Alderman, J
Galford, Meli ford, Stephan Galford, Ka McCoy, Ab
Lewis, Ashl
Lewis, Shann

Engagements

Engagement

Loretta Sipe is proud to announce the engagement of her brother, Jonathan Lee Mallow, to Jessica Ann Buzzard.

Wedding plans are incomplete.

Ga

The Reunion w

linton Mur

The followi

Robert

Otis Galfor

Perkins Bu

Smith, Iva

Withrow, E

Withrow, D

Galford, El

ford, Ernes

ford, Dennis

den, Coreni

man, Naomi

ford, Brend

ford, Keith

Alderman, J

Alderman,

Galford, Me

ford, Stepha

Galford, K

McCoy, A

Lewis, Ash

Lewis, Shan

Dean ~ Kurnath Engagement

Bobby and Brenda Dean, of Buckeye, would like to announce the engagement of their daughter, Kimberly Ann Dean, to Gregory D. Kurnath, son of Dean and Ruth Kurnath, of Millboro, Virginia.

Kim is a 1993 graduate of Pocahontas County High School and a 1997 graduate of Alderson-Broaddus College. She is employed by Seneca Health Services in Marlinton.

Greg is a 1990 graduate of Bath County High School and a 1992 graduate of Dabney Lancaster College. He is employed by Lear Corporation in Covington, Virginia.

Wedding plans are incomplete at this time.

Engagement

Phillip Varner would like to announce the engagement of his mother, Monica Varner, to Allen Green.

Maternal parents are James and Karen Varner, of Boyer. Grandparents are Irene Varner, of Boyer, and the late Leslie Varner, and Arlene Landis, of Harleysville, Pennsylvania, and the late Richard Landis. Great-grandmother is Annie Benner, of Harleysville.

Paternal parents are Jerry and Nancy Green, of Frost. Grandpar-

Lewis, Ashley Lewis, Natha
Lewis, Shannon Galford, Norm
Shaffer, Louise Galford Conne
Randall Galford, Robert Galfor
Lowell Galford, Joel Galfor
Wanita Carter, Brian Galford, Hei
Galford, Kent Conner, Diane Con
er, Arminda Galford, Mable Ga
ford, Gary Galford, Abby Galfor Gladys Gray, Bobby Fisher, Barba
Fisher, Mitchell Fisher, Quin
Galford, Debbie Galford, Micha
Galford, Bruce Galford, Sr., Bruc
Galford, Jr., Joe Galford, Elwoo
Galford, Thelma Galford, Lawrenc
Price, Mabel Price, Tim Tribbe
Sonya Persinger, Debra Walke
Carol Galford.

Hillsboro School Reunion held

The Hillsboro School Reunio was held September 2.

Those in attendance were:

Kyle Hause, Plumia Hause

Birthday

Visiting Evva B. Shelton, Slatyfork, on September 1 for birthday (belated) were To Allie Cook, T. Tom Cook a ney, of Summersville, D Melissa Cook, of Mt. Ho and Diana Skaggs, Za Rachel, of Spartansb
Carolina, Ed and Aile Lewisburg, Eddie and of Ronceverte, Jam
Woodbridge, Virgini Vass, of Alexandria, V rest and Regena Rhea Teresa Rhea, Justin a Wayne and Teresa and Jessica, of Rodger Hannah, of ryone enjoyed yummy birthd cream.

ON YO

e, "the firm's lawyers have ed as members of the Delaware rt of Chancery-considered the ing business court in the couns well as the Delaware Sue Court, federal bench, and the d States Senate.
mbers also have held key pos with the American and Dee State Bar Associations.
.potteranderson.com
www.potteranderson.com ontacted our library board ers who quickly advised to obtaining the shelves. I con-John Burns of Burns Motor t, who assured me that they have been glad to bring the g down but simply were not g a northeastern route at this
The best solution therefore l to go with the storage com-Hopkins & Sons of Wil-n, Delaware. They also dou-a moving van company, so a t was immediately entered so ld secure the shelving. The

STUDENTS TAKING PART in the Emerging Scholars Program at the Greenbrier Community College Center were, row 1, Joel O'Dell, Theresa Vance; row 2, Courtney McCoy, Holly Nelson, Lisa Cornell, Jeremy Moore, Lynda Dilley; row 3, Chrissy Cook Letha Allman, Bobby Sims, Shannon Holly; row 4, Carolyn Turner (program director), Jennifer Underwood, Lisa Grubb, Carrie Hickson; row 5, John Cardwell (college staff), Linda Workman, Justin Taylor; row 6, Judy Stennett (instructor), Sandra Reid (instructor), Elizabeth Bailey (tutor).

Emerging Scholars Program Graduation held July 31

FIVE GENERAT of her mother, back row, from grandmother, B Syliva Orndorff

STUDENTS TAKING PART in the Emerging Scholars Program at the Greenbrier Community College Center were, row

Emerging Scholars Pro-College Center were, row w 2, Courtney McCoy, Moore, Lynda Dilley; Bobby Sims, Shannon ram director), Jennifer son; row 5, John Card-Justin Taylor; row 6, eid (instructor), Eliza-

FIVE GENERATIONS GATHER for a photograph. In the lap of her mother, Amy Barkley Paul, is Dyana Joy Paul. On the back row, from left, is grandmother, Diana Barkley, great-grandmother, Betty Lambert, and great-great-grandmother, Syliva Orndorff.

's Program

Treasure Mountain Festival this weekend in Pendleton County

FIVE GENERATIONS GATHER for a photograph. In the lap of her mother, Amy Barkley Paul, is Dyana Joy Paul. On the back row, from left, is grandmother, Diana Barkley, great-grandmother, Betty Lambert, and great-great-grandmother, Syliva Orndorff.

SECOND RUNNER-UP in the Durbin Days Pageant, age 0 - six months, was Shayla McKensey Rose Arbogast

Treasure Mountain Festival this weekend in Pendleton County

Pendleton County's 33rd annual Treasure Mountain Festival will be held September 13 - 16 in Franklin. This year's theme is "Foot Prints Back in Time." Features include a lumberjack contest, a chainsaw wood carving demonstration, heritage parade (Saturday), quilts, an art show, as well as arts and crafts.

Contest include fiddler, banjo, mustache, muzzle loaders, jousting, and horseshoe. For your listening pleasure, a number of musical groups will perform, starting with Mick Souter and Country Music Jamboree on Thursday. Smith Mountain Playhouse will present the comedy, "Its Never Too Late" and there will be a reenactment of the "Burning of Fort Seybert."

For more information, call 304 358-2668 or 3630.

William McNeel Browning, Jr., D.O.

Family Practice Physician

HILLSBORO

Monday 9 a.m. - 7 p.m.

Tuesday , Wednesday, Thursday 9 a.m. - 4 p.m.

Friday 9 a.m. - Noon, Closed Friday Afternoon

Closed for Lunch, 12:00 - 1:15

653-4209

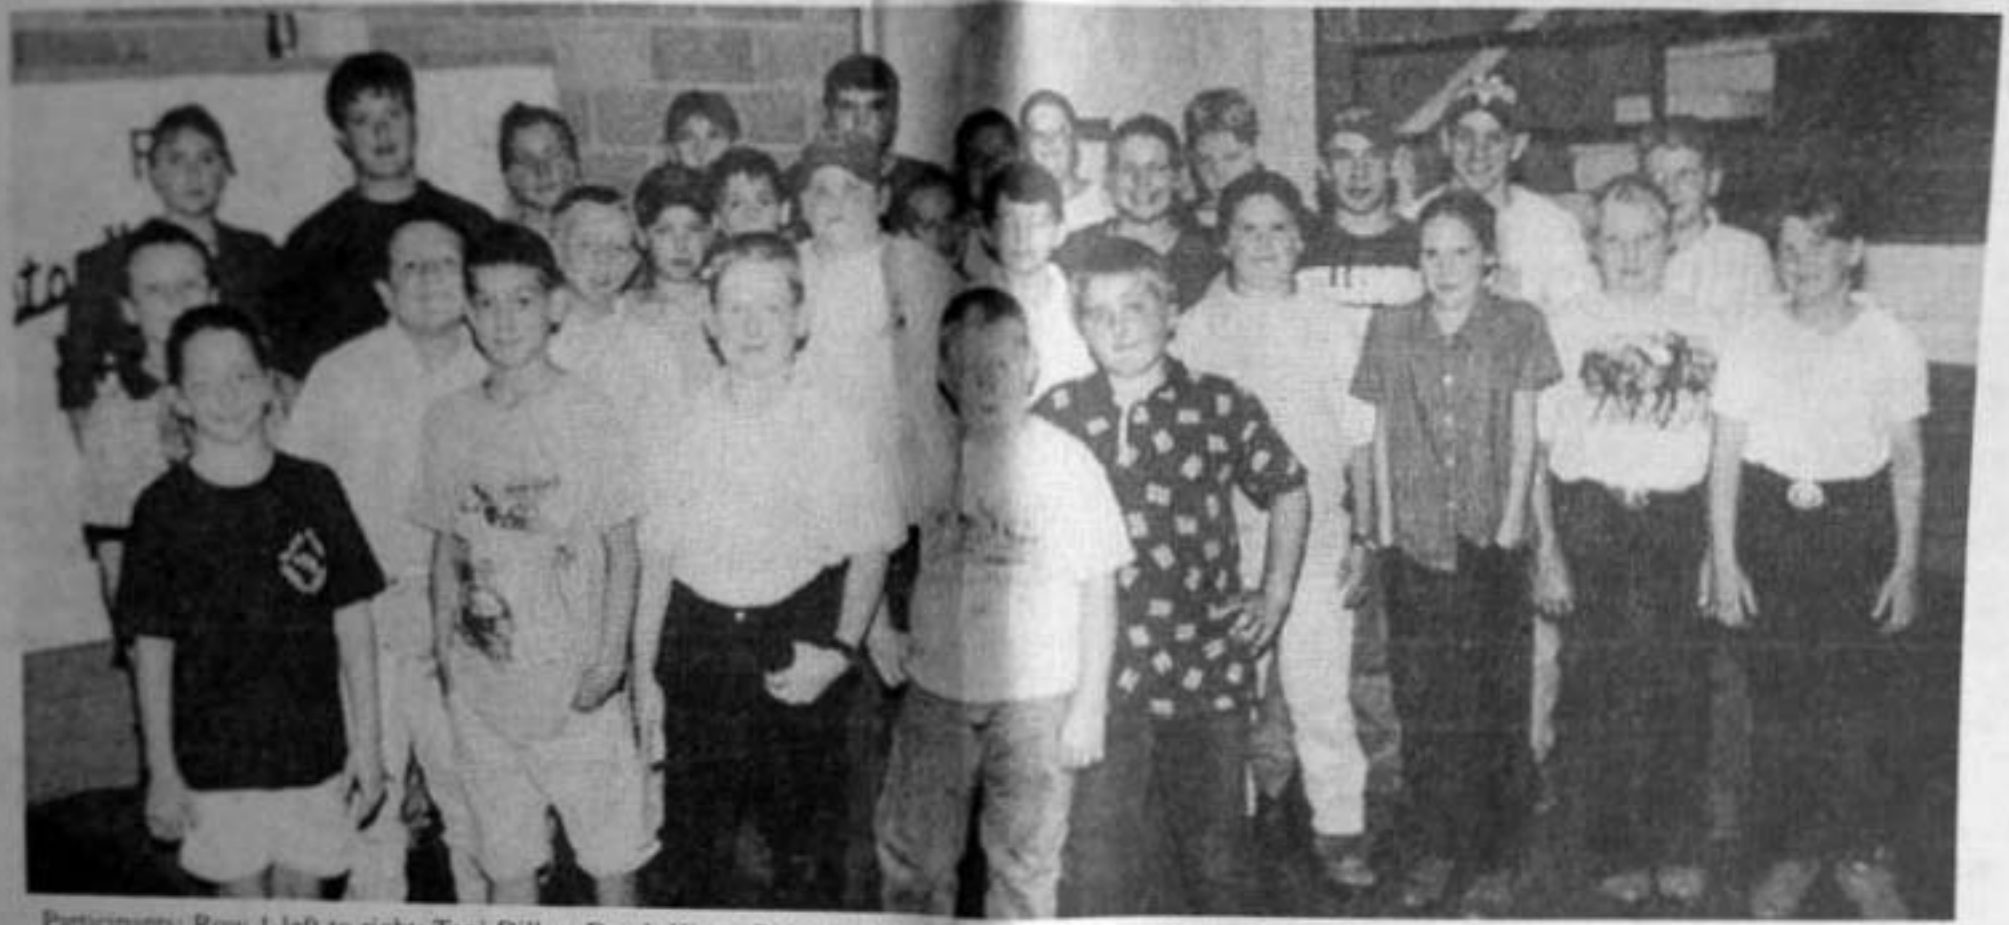
Urgent news for people who took

Senior Beef Showmanship Winner, Ben Wilfong.

Senior Swine Showmanship Winner, Lynn Jordan.

Senior Sheep Showmanship Winner, Brian McNeel.

Junior Swine Showmanship Winner, Evan Rose.



Participants: Row 1-left to right: Toni Dilley, Derek Kiner, Robert Nelson, Evan Rose, Jesse Walker Row 2: Joel Galford, Gregory Ervine, Eric Rose, Jarrett McLaughlin, Kevin McNeel, Kurt Mothes, Abby Dilley, Pamela Jordan, Angela Jordan Row 3: Rebecca Dilley, Brian McNeel, Cole Beverage, Justin Dilley, Kelsey Beverage, Jillian Rose, Steven Beard, Ben Wilfong, Zack Graham. Row 4: Jennifer Rose, Sarah Beard, Abraham Jordan, Abby McCoy, Darrell Jordan, Lynn Jordan. Not pictured: Jenny Rose, Jason McNeel, Mikey Callison, Mathias Callison, Timothy VanReenen

ongratulations winne

from

4-H / FFA Livestock Show and Sale

Grand Champion Market Steer, exhibited by Kevin McNeel, and purchased by Snowshoe Mountain, Inc. Kevin was also the Junior Beef Showmanship Winner.

Reserve Grand Champion Market Steer, exhibited by Sarah Beard, and purchased by Pocahontas Foodland.

Grand Champion Market Hog, exhibited by Mikey Callison, and purchased by McCoy's Market. Supervised by Abby McCoy.

Reserve Grand Champion Market Hog, exhibited by Jennifer Rupp, and purchased by David Rupp of Harvest Equipment.

Cooperative Market Hog Project, exhibited by Zack Graham, and purchased by Dr. John Eilers. Sherri Quisenberry donated the pig for this cooperative project and the feed was donated by Southern States, with sale proceeds going to the exhibitor and the 4-H Leader's Association.

Grand Champion Market Lamb/Cooperative Market Lamb Project, exhibited by Robert Nelson and purchased by Steve Wooddell. Rita McNeil (pictured) donated the 3 lambs for the cooperative lamb project, and Gibson's Feed & Grain donated the feed.

Reserve Grand Champion Market Lamb/Cooperative Market Lamb Project, exhibited by Robert Nelson and purchased by Allegheny Motors. Robert also exhibited the Reserve Grand Champion Pair of Lambs, with the remaining lamb purchased by Mizpora Farms (Dr. & Mrs. Fort).

Grand Champion Pair of Lambs, exhibited by Lynn Jordan, and purchased by Rose's Excavating. Abby McCoy helped Lynn show his lambs.)

Grand Champion Feeder Steer, exhibited by Jesse Walker.

Reserve Grand Champion Feeder Steer, exhibited by Jesse Walker. He also exhibited the Grand Champion Heifer, but no picture was available.

Cooperative Market Hog Project, exhibited by Zack Graham and purchased by Dr. John Eckert, Maple Chamber donated the pig for this cooperative project and the sale was arranged by Kimberly Bates, with sale proceeds going to the exhibitor and the 4-H Leader's Association.

Grand Champion Market Lamb/Cooperative Market Lamb Project, exhibited by Robert Nelson and purchased by Steve Standifird. Jim McNeil auctioned donated the 3 lambs in the cooperative lamb project, and Lehner's Feed & Grain donated the feed.

Reserve Grand Champion Market Lamb/Cooperative Market Lamb Project, exhibited by Robert Nelson and purchased by Allegheny Motors. Robert also exhibited the Reserve Grand Champion Pair of Lambs, with the remaining lamb purchased by Mospens Farms (Dr. & Mrs. Fott).

Grand Champion Pair of Lambs, exhibited by Lynn Jordan, and purchased by Rose's Excavating. Abby McCoy helped Lynn show his lambs.)

Grand Champion Feeder Steer, exhibited by Jesse Walker.

Reserve Grand Champion Feeder Steer, exhibited by Jesse Walker. Jesse also exhibited the Grand Champion Heifer, but no picture was available.

Reserve Grand Champion Heifer, exhibited by Sarah Beard.

Senior Beef Showmanship Winner, Ben Willing.

Senior Swine Showmanship Winner, Lynn Jordan.

Senior Sheep Showmanship Winner, Jason McNeil.

Junior Swine Showmanship Winner, Evan Rose.

Junior Sheep Showmanship Winner, Abby McCoy.

Participants: Row 1-left to right, Toni Dilley, Derek Kizer, Robert Nelson, Evan Rose, Jesse Walker Row 2: Joel Gallant, Gregory Ewens, Eric Rose, Jarrett McLaughlin, Kevin McNeil, Kurt Mosher, Abby Dilley, Pamela Jordan, Angela Jordan Row 3: Rebecca Dilley, Brian McNeil, Cole Beveridge, Justin Dilley, Kelsey Beveridge, Jillian Rose, Steven Beard, Ben Willing, Zack Graham, Row 4: Jennifer Rose, Sarah Beard, Abraham Jordan, Abby McCoy, Darrell Jordan, Lynn Jordan. Not pictured: Jenny Rose, Jason McNeil, Mikey Calleson, Matthew Calleson, Timothy VanBrocklin

Congratulations winners!

from anges to mes

WV 24954
4) 799-6466

week of the year.
st Virginia 24954
73 (including tax)
-of-State $25
TES
—20¢ word
T. Managing Editor
ita

2001 ation on alitis

ing information on ephalitis is provided Virginia Bureau of ncephalitis (inflam-brain) is caused by a ily by the bite of the quito. Children and k between July and year, when this mos-active.

f the disease develop 15 days after a person
n infected mosquito.
t often affects child-er 16. Symptoms ache, fever, nausea, wsiness and disorien-ere cases, seizures or ur.
ncephalitis is rarely ly requires hospitali-

Conspiracy defendant bound over to grand jury

by Pamela Pritt

The man accused of plotting to kill Pocahontas County Prosecuting Attorney Walt Weiford will face the December grand jury, Magistrate Kathy Beverage ruled Thursday in a preliminary hearing.

Danny Evans, 48, of Beaver Creek, is accused of conspiracy to murder a public official and intent to retaliate.

He was sentenced last month to one-to-five years in a state penitentiary for third offense domestic battery.

According to testimony by Deputy Sheriff Brad Totten, Evans' scheme to assassinate Weiford was to be carried out before Evans was sentenced for that offense.

Totten said that he sent a confidential informant who was wearing a wire into the jail to speak with Evans.

During that monitored conversation, Evans wrote a check for $500 as a down payment for the deed and promised more money would follow once the plan was executed, Totten testified.

"[The informant] was to obtain a gun and kill Walt Weiford" in exchange for that monetary promise, Totten continued.

Later, Evans contacted the informant again to increase the offer with $1000 supposedly contributed by another inmate in the jail, the deputy said.

During each of the conversations, the plot was called "a motorcycle" that Evans was purchasing from the informant, he testified.

Evans has refused to talk with police, Totten stated.

Public Defender Dewitt Daniell, of Lewisburg, argued that if the confidential informant had no intention to kill Weiford, then grounds to find probable cause for conspiracy did not exist.

No one else has been charged in connection with the charges against Evans.

Chief Judge James Rowe denied a defense motion that Beverage be recused because of her professional relationship with Weiford. Rowe ruled the defense's "reasons [were] insufficient."

Greenbrier County Assistant Prosecutor Steve Dolly is handling the case for the State.

Dolly has said that other charges may be pending.

Evans, a repeat domestic violence offender, is housed in the Southern Regional Jail. Bond for these charges is set at $300,000.

County Commission begins planning for court house improvements

The County Commission met for regular meeting on Tuesday conserve space. In the past two

Toddler Librar Is your child b of 18 months and you like your child with other children'
Toddler Library Pl
you.
Hillsboro Libr
Mondays from 10:
Marlinton Libr
Tuesdays from 10:
Green Bank a are pending at this Each group h which include sin a story, having a activity, and play Please com
child for a great t Library grou
September 10.
A small do cover snack and appreciated.

Square D
Join the Poc ers!
When: Sep
25. Classes
tember through Where: M Building, across Time: Star Cost: FREE! $1 per Try this mo square dancing lowship, fun, a The Pocah Square Dance in 1983 and h experience leve enced dancers a For further

PCHS SENIORS TAUSHA Cassell and Amanda Pritt will attend the National Youth Leadershop Summit Seminar in Anchorage Alaska.

PCHS seniors chosen to attend Partnership in Education Symosium

Foreig

Two Pocahontas Coun were among the 20 We educators who recently t
sia for two weeks on a organized by the Wes Consortium for Faculty Development in Interna
ies (FACDIS). Inclu group were county forei teachers Karen Friel McNeel.

FACDIS is a statewi
tion, housed in West V
versity's Eberly Colleg Sciences, and is devote ing the teaching of i studies at all levels in t

Since 1987, campus-mer institutes on a vari national topics have b over 300 West Virginia

These alumni of pre DIS Summer Institutes
the opportunity to ap year's study-tour to I July 7-21.

The group of teach attend the National Youth Leadershop Summit Seminar in Anchorage Alaska.

PCHS seniors chosen to attend Partnership in Education Symosium

PCHS Seniors Tausha Cassell, of Dunmore, and Amanda Pritt, of Hillsboro, have been chosen to attend the National Youth Leadership Summit Seminar to be held in Anchorage, Alaska, from October 30-November 2.

The summit is a youth initiative developed collaboratively by the National Association of Partners in Education and Booz-Allen Hamilton, Inc.

Cassell and Pritt are two of 25 students chosen to attend the First Annual Leadership Summit.

Those youth leaders will attend the symposium along with approximately 1200 educators, school administrators and business and community leaders from across the country and around the world.

Youth leaders will help business and community leaders and school administrators to understand the issues that students want to see addressed on improving the quality of business/community/education partnerships in the nation.

Transportation, lodging and other expenses will be the responsibility of the youth, their families, school and/or community partners.

Warrior Sports

by Eric Underwood

Warriors defeat Gilmer County 26-8

The Warrior Football Team

goals in the first quarter, but the Warriors held them scoreless for the

These alumni o
DIS Summer Insti
the opportunity t year's study-tour
July 7-21.

The group of Ann Levine, FA Director, traveled the Volga River sailed from Mosc
burg on the rive
M.S. Litvinov. T
Moscow, seeing Kremlin, and o were followed by with stops in the and Yaroslavl, b and monasteries dieval times.

The cruise also
tiful Kizhi Island

September
September
September
September
October 6

Weddings

Jennings ~ Kershner Wedding

Amy Catherine Jennings and Curtis Rylan Kershner, both of San Marcos, Texas, were married on Saturday, August 25, 2001, at the First United Methodist Church in Austin, Texas. The Reverend Martus Miley officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John Christopher Jennings, of Amarillo, Texas. Grandparents of the bride are Evelyn Glisson, who attended the wedding, the late Wade Glisson and the late Mr. and Mrs. Jesse M. Jennings.

Parents of the groom are Joesphine Kershner, of Green Mountain, North Carolina, and Henry Lewis Kershner, of Droop. Grandparents of the groom are the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Peterson and the late Mr. and Mrs. George Kershner.

Maid-of-honor was Erica Fielder, of Austin. Bridal attendants were Beth Jennings Fowler, of Houston, Texas, Allison Jennings Poston, of Dallas, Texas, Jennifer Johnson, of State College, Pennsylvania, and

Ministers now re with the Secretar

Effective September 1, all persons performing marriages in West Virginia are required to file with the West Virginia Secretary of State's office as a result of the passage by the legislature in April 2001 of Senate Bill 59. The purpose of this bill was to create a centralized statewide list of registered ministers.

Unlike previous law which required ministers to register in person with their local county clerk's office, the new requirement allows for ministers to register with the Secretary of State's office by mail; they do not need to register in person. Those ministers who have filed with their county clerk prior to September 1 will already be included on the central list and do not need to take further action.

Following September 1, if a minister needs to register with the Rate your diet

Adults completing dietary surveys will receive:

* feedback on fat, fiber, and protein in their diets

* changes for $250 cash drawing

Please Emil jboury@wvu.edu or contact Janis Boury, Psychology Department, West Virginia University, P. O. Box 6040, Morgantown, WV 26505, 304 293-2001, ext. 827.

Research conducted by Janis Boury is sponsored by the Department of Psychology at West Virginia University.

Senior Calendar

The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John Christopher Jennings, of Amarillo, Texas. Grandparents of the bride are Evelyn Glisson, who attended the wedding, the late Wade Glisson and the late Mr. and Mrs. Jesse M. Jennings.

Parents of the groom are Joesphine Kershner, of Green Mountain, North Carolina, and Henry Lewis Kershner, of Droop. Grandparents of the groom are the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Peterson and the late Mr. and Mrs. George Kershner.

Maid-of-honor was Erica Fielder, of Austin. Bridal attendants were Beth Jennings Fowler, of Houston, Texas, Allison Jennings Poston, of Dallas, Texas, Jennifer Johnson, of State College, Pennsylvania, and Morgan Fielder, of Austin, Texas.

Best man was John Burmeister, of Austin. Groom's attendants were Matthew Hollenbeck, of Severn, Maryland, Thomas Susany, of El Paso, Texas, Martin Martinez, of Lubbock, Texas. Ushers were Chris Fowler, of Houston, Texas, and Paul Poston, of Dallas.

The wedding reception was held at the ballroom of the Omni Austin Hotel at Southpark. Reception attendants were Teri Kershner Hollenbeck, of Severn, Jessica Gaston and Keely Sadler, both of San Marcos, and Melody Kraus, of Houston.

The bride graduated from Clear Creek High School in League City, Texas. She earned a bachelor of science degree in interdisciplinary studies and a master's degree in education from Southwest Texas State University in San Marcos. She is a fifth grade teacher with the Cypress-Fairbanks Independent School District in Houston.

The groom graduated from Central High School in San Ange-

Rate your d

Adults completing diet veys will receive:

* feedback on fat, fiber, tein in their diets

* changes for $250 cash

Please Emil jboury@wv contact Janis Boury, Psy Department, West Virgi versity, P. O. Box 6040, town, WV 26505, 304 2
ext. 827.

Research conducted Boury is sponsored by th
ment of Psychology at W ginia University.

Senior Cale

September 10-1

Monday: Harry will Marlinton and Beaver Cr seniors to Lewisburg. C 5370. Exercise in Green B the new exercise room

Tuesday: Cass seniors spending a fun day in Elk Harry. Call 456-5370. Shi be walking GRT in Marlin

Wednesday: Hillsboro will meet today at Watoga rant. If you need a ride c 5370. Green Bank will be trip to Buckhannon to th Farm, limited seating. Don $5 for the van plus your m admission.

Thursday: Green Bank Sa will be meeting at 1 p.m. VA gram, all Veterans welcome.
linton Center will be pai gourds and creating gourd peop

Friday: Upper Pocahontas w coming to Marlinton to take c business. Call 456-5370 for a Sharon will be having ba volleyball in Green Bank. Ma ton Center will be hosting a

Groom's attendants were Matthew Hollenbeck, of Severn, Maryland, Thomas Susany, of El Paso, Texas, Martin Martinez, of Lubbock, Texas. Ushers were Chris Fowler, of Houston, Texas, and Paul Poston, of Dallas.

The wedding reception was held at the ballroom of the Omni Austin Hotel at Southpark. Reception attendants were Teri Kershner Hollenbeck, of Severn, Jessica Gaston and Keely Sadler, both of San Marcos, and Melody Kraus, of Houston.

The bride graduated from Clear Creek High School in League City, Texas. She earned a bachelor of science degree in interdisciplinary studies and a master's degree in education from Southwest Texas State University in San Marcos. She is a fifth grade teacher with the Cypress-Fairbanks Independent School District in Houston.

The groom graduated from Central High School in San Angelo, Texas. He earned a Bachelor of Science degree in biology from Southwest Texas State University.

The couple plan a honeymoon to Negril, Jamaica. They will reside in Houston.

Marlin senior 5370.
the nev Tuesd spendi Harry. be wal Wedn will m rant. I 5370. trip to Farm, $5 for admissi Thursd will be m gram, all linton C gourds an Friday: coming to business.
Sharon volleyball ton Cente signing wi a.m. to 1

Ther book signin ter on Frida

MICHAEL C. I
ATTORNEY AT LAW
921 TENTH AVENUE, MARLINTON, W

Reunion Reports

ANNE BAXTER'S grandson Morgan was one of the people at the Adkison-Carpenter reunion. He is the grandson the late Ernest Baxter, and the great-great-great-grandson of Allen and Margaret Adkison and Joseph and Belzora Williamson.

Adkison - Carpenter Reunion

Droop Mountain Battlefield State Park was the setting for the twelfth reunion of family and friends of the late Allen and Margaret Payne Adkison, of Seebert; John Wesley and Mary Harris Carpenter, of Buckeye; and Jospeh and Belzora Bishop Williamson, of Lick Creek, Kentucky, on June 16, 2001.

As usual, we enjoyed good food and company. While the adults visited the children played together nicely.

There were about 56 in attendance. We had new faces but missed the old faces who were unable to be there. Five of the remaining seven cousins were present: Anne Adkison Baxter, of Hillsboro, Leona Carpenter Buterbaugh, of Jacksonville, Florida, Genevieve Adkison Hunt, of Glen Jean, Jacoba Carpenter Thompson, of Hayes, Virginia, and Lucille Carpenter Whitt, of Williamsburg, Virginia.

We had our auction, which supports the reunion, and collected for the family newsletter (our lifeline). We need more news.

The next reunion will be held Saturday, June 15, 2002, at the same place.

Anne Baxter

William and Rose Family Reunion Report

These attending the Williams and Rose family reunion on July 15, at Droop Mountain Battlefield [illegible] and Bonnie Shears.

We hope we didn't leave anyone out.

Annual Sharp Family Reunion held July 20-21-22

"Story Book" was the theme for the Sharp Family Reunion. We asked for stories about growing up on the farm or visiting at "Grandma Sharp's House." Several contributed to our book of "Stories by Sharp People."

What transpired during the reunion was a story in itself, beginning with Friday's making of potato soup and 15-bean soup, affectionately dubbed "Grinch Soup." Now the chili was a different story. Charlotte's reputation is not in danger. She still can't cook and, as she puts it, "she has a reputation to uphold." The chili began to scorch and it took Kay, Garnet, Craig and Betty to rescue it. They added Worcestershire Sauce, A1 Sauce, Texas Pete, three pound of hot dogs and finally threw in an old dishrag to soak up the scorched taste. That did the trick!

Can you believe that naughty Grinch showed up again this year?

Somehow he convinced Raggedy "Jane Ann" to join him. They looked pretty real and the kids (big kids, too) sure enjoyed them.

The kids participated in games on Saturday while many old and young visited and caught up on the past. We noticed the red-legged Grinch was helping Tom and Charma Carr with the children's games. Do you suppose he had in mind to steal the games or the prizes Marvina brought for all the kids? Craig's daughter, Cindy, and her husband brought their horses from Montpelier, Virginia, and allowed the kids and, anyone who wanted, to go horseback riding.

Saturday evening we had a parade of "Story Book Characters." Grandma Sharp sat on her front porch as each of the characters was introduced for her approval. Then the parade wound around the drink table and the pavilion. Characters on parade were Old Mother Hubbard, Sherlock Holmes, Snow White and five of the Dwarfs along with a big dwarf named Doc in Progress. (Doug's Brian is studying for his doctorate); Hiawatha, Chevy Robins and Tigger, Tooth Fairy, Little Red tells all as "De table (much playing with casionally, loo es, he used his to bring order volved. The P went to play up for the trial to fill his shoes pointed at the against the defe son, Mike). Co tify for the pro Sharp (First L Stickley (Secon Seth Doss (Thi the defending sworn in twice of his mother i Testifying fo Dr. Steve Child medical doctor) to tell some of the truth, "s Clinton." DeJu doctor remove room but quick his hat back on look at his hairl

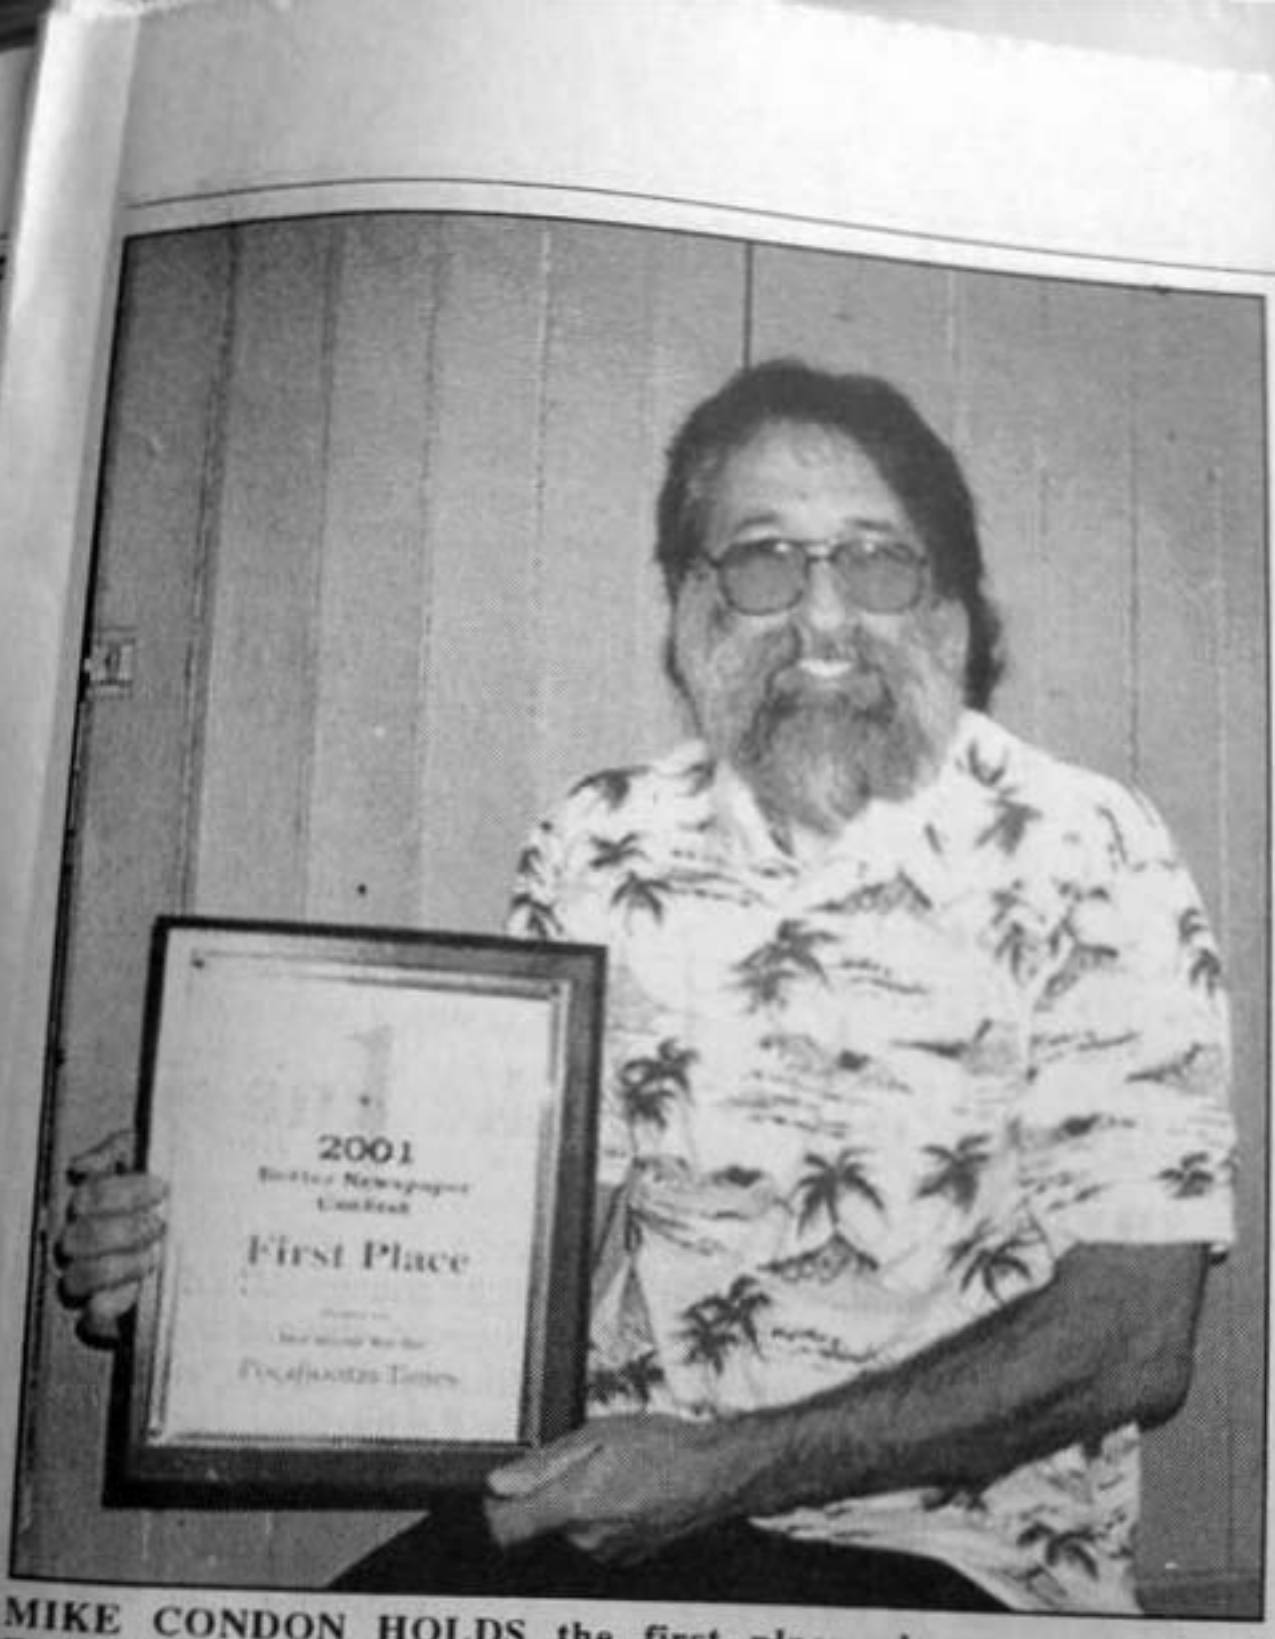
Dr. Childers when asked if he law. We suspect because his fat Judge. He testifie Wolf is his patien blowing down houses could no them because Bi "pork intolerant."

Big Shaggy W took the stand in His reply to DeJu was, "Yeah Man." ture frame out o and claimed he pulled out a stal munched on it w reasoned that Big S a "vegetarian." Hi

C Las



MIKE CONDON HOLDS the first place plaque awarded to The Pocahontas Times by the West Virginia Press Association for the best web site for a weekly newspaper.

Pocahontas Times wins Best Web Site award

The Pocahontas Times website, www.pocahontastimes.com, was and has averaged 1,100 hits per

MIKE CONDON HOLDS the first place plaque awarded to The Pocahontas Times by the West Virginia Press Association for the best web site for a weekly newspaper.

Pocahontas Times wins Best Web Site award

The Pocahontas Times website, www.pocahontastimes.com, was selected as Best Internet Website for a weekly newspaper in the Better Newspaper Awards ceremony held Saturday night at Pipestem State Park.

Although the judge said he viewed other, higher tech sites, he liked The Pocahontas Times site because it did more than tease readers into a print subscription.

"This site somehow 'feels' like a local source that is striving to be the best it can be with the resources at its command," wrote David Merrill, Computer Specialist for the Oregon Newspaper Publishers Association. "In sum, this site is thorough, refreshingly simple and surprisingly agile, and I feel that it deserves high praise and encouragement."

pocahontastimes.com is designed and updated every week by Mike Condon, Eight Rivers Web Design, and has averaged 1,100 hits per week for the last several months.

The site includes daily weather information and links to the National Weather Service daily stream flow data, as well as local news and sports.

Editor Bill McNeel and Managing Editor Pamela Pritt attended the three-day event which included meetings on political advertising and selling advertising in slow economic times.

Pritt, a member of the West Virginia Press Association Board of Directors, was elected secretary/treasurer of West Virginia Press Services, Inc. for a one year term.

Former Pocahontas Times intern Leslie Hollandsworth, who now is a reporter for the West Virginia Daily News, won second place for Best Feature and an honorable mention for a story dealing with an unidentified body found on Cold Knob.

and Glen I derman, Jc ki, Reon J Dorothy I dell, Clyde In Mem
by John L
In Mem
Anna B. A In Mer lips, Jr. b General
Adolph
G.N. Cas Peacock, Burns, M Bob and George H and Jenni Diann ar
Loyd, Ar Peck, Sr.
Vogel,

L TO and T

PO

s to 24954 9-6466

f the year.
inia 24954

ling tax)
e $25

word ging Editor ate

f Renick, rate Kathy last week charge of t was sen-with a fine
t costs.
keye, was tate Police charge of illed sub-he follow-

arrow, was Alkire on h destruccless drivnesday on nowshoe, Brown-

Beaver Creek man charged with conspiracy to murder public official

by Pamela Pritt

A Beaver Creek man is lodged in the Southern Regional Jail after being charged last week with conspiracy to murder a public official and intent to retaliate.

Danny Evans, 48, is alleged to have spoken to "a third party about paying him or anyone else money to kill Walt Weiford," according to the arrest report.

Weiford, a three-term Pocahontas County Prosecuting Attorney, was to preside in that capacity Friday when Evans was sentenced for felony third offense domestic battery.

According to the arrest report, Evans made a second offer to this individual in exchange for killing Weiford and wrote a check intended to be a down payment, with the "agreement that more money would [follow] after the job was complete."

On August 20, Evans contacted the unnamed individual again, apprising him that "the price on Walt Weiford had went up, due to someone else putting in money, also," the report continued.

No charges have been filed against any other prisoner in the Pocahontas County Jail.

"There's always a risk in doing this job," Weiford said Tuesday. "But I try not to give it a lot of thought. I have an even greater understanding of what it's like to be a victim."

DANNY EVANS, of Marlinton, is charged with conspiring to murder Prosecuting Attorney Walt Weiford.

Quenton Wade Funk, of Morgantown, was sentenced Friday to one-to-five years for conspiracy to deliver a controlled substance, LSD.

That sentence was suspended and the 21-year-old Funk was committed to the Youthful Offender Program at Anthony Correctional Center for a six month-to-24 month sentence.

THIS MARI estimated to State

juana

The men Detachment State Police fight on drug ty.

On Tues
bers of the M eradicated 2 valued at $4

BOE approves pa

The Board of Education met for a regular meeting on Monday at Pocahontas County High School.

Following a lengthy discussion on students driving to school, the Board gave its approval to a request by PCHS Principal Tom Sanders to charge students to park at the proposed was with Ms. Bu casting the no

Jim VanRe met with the Patriotism sponsored b Mayme Mc

2001 gistrate

coberts, of Renick, re Magistrate Kathy Monday of last week g on a charge of officer. He was sen- ys in jail with a fine 50 in court costs.

tt, of Buckeye, was sday by State Police ans on a charge of a controlled sub- released the follow- 000 bond.

mer, of Bartow, was riff R. R. Alkire on arged with destruc- and reckless driv- ased Wednesday on ry, of Snowshoe, Magistrate Bever- y and pled guilty of less than 15 a. He was placed x months.

r, of Bartow, was on a DUI offense appeared before Hevener on Fri- a plea of guilty. sentenced to 24 a fine of $100 urt costs.

atley, of Marlin- Magistrate Heven- rsday and entered driving with his ith a measurable l and possession ms of marijuana. d to 24 hours in $100 and court 5 on the first on probation for the second. A ing alcohol less smissed.

nationals, Andres ar Alvarado (real mes unknown), Saturday in Ran-

County Prosecuting Attorney, was to preside in that capacity Friday when Evans was sentenced for felony third offense domestic battery.

According to the arrest report, Evans made a second offer to this individual in exchange for killing Weiford and wrote a check intended to be a down payment, with the "agreement that more money would [follow] after the job was complete."

On August 20, Evans contacted the unnamed individual again, apprising him that "the price on Walt Weiford had went up, due to someone else putting in money, also," the report continued.

No charges have been filed against any other prisoner in the Pocahontas County Jail.

"There's always a risk in doing this job," Weiford said Tuesday. "But I try not to give it a lot of thought. I have an even greater understanding of what it's like to be a victim."

Evans, a repeat domestic violence offender, also has domestic violence charges pending against him in Boone County.

He is scheduled to stand trial there in October.

Evans has been charged with domestic battery or domestic assault a total of 11 times. While some of those charges have been withdrawn and some have been dismissed, he was found not guilty of one offense and convicted of three others.

He was sentenced Friday to one-to-five years in a state facility for third offense domestic battery.

Greenbrier County Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Steve Dolly acted as Special Prosecutor, and will continue in that capacity on Evans' current charges, along with Greenbrier County Prosecuting Attorney Kevin Hanson.

"We don't intend to tolerate it," Dolly said Tuesday. "All law enforcement, including the special prosecutor, intend to treat it seriously and take it as far as it needs to go."

Dolly said other charges may be

DANNY EVANS, of Marlinton, is charged with conspiring to murder Prosecuting Attorney Walt Weiford.

Quenton Wade Funk, of Morgantown, was sentenced Friday to one-to-five years for conspiracy to deliver a controlled substance, LSD.

That sentence was suspended and the 21-year-old Funk was committed to the Youthful Offender Program at Anthony Correctional Center for a six month-to-24 month sentence.

State juana

The membe Detachment of State Police a fight on drugs i ty.

On Tuesda bers of the M eradicated 21 valued at $42

BOE approves pa

The Board of Education met for a regular meeting on Monday at Pocahontas County High School.

Following a lengthy discussion on students driving to school, the Board gave its approval to a request by PCHS Principal Tom Sanders to charge students to park at the school.

Under the proposal there will be an annual fee of $20. For students who have occasion to drive to school infrequently, there will be a daily permit of $1.

Mr. Sanders there will be no charge for seniors who are driving solely to do the mentorship that is required for graduation.

The school's policy on students driving to school stresses that it is a privilege and not a right. It requires parental permission to drive a vehicle to school and for a student to be in a vehicle driven by another student.

PCHS Assistant Principal Allen Brock noted that riders is the biggest problem the school has with student drivers.

The money from the parking fee will be used to pay for the parking permit decals, maintain the parking lot, and for other academic expenses, Mr. Sanders said.

It was noted that under a policy that has been in place since the school opened, students are not allowed to drive to school except by proposed was with Ms. Bu casting the no

Jim VanR met with th Patriotism sponsored Masons. Mr members a patriotic the grade level will provid school sys speakers wi

The Boa be reviewe pals to find them used

At the Deputy S cussed a Sheriff's D provide t coming s would pre grade clas drug and conflict res proper deci

The Boa opinion of t sought befor on using the reported tha in favor.

The Boar ton Elemer Wilma Dale victim."

Evans, a repeat domestic violence offender, also has domestic violence charges pending against him in Boone County.

He is scheduled to stand trial there in October.

Evans has been charged with domestic battery or domestic assault a total of 11 times. While some of those charges have been withdrawn and some have been dismissed, he was found not guilty of one offense and convicted of three others.

He was sentenced Friday to one-to-five years in a state facility for third offense domestic battery.

Greenbrier County Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Steve Dolly acted as Special Prosecutor, and will continue in that capacity on Evans' current charges, along with Greenbrier County Prosecuting Attorney Kevin Hanson.

"We don't intend to tolerate it," Dolly said Tuesday. "All law enforcement, including the special prosecutor, intend to treat it seriously and take it as far as it needs to go."

Dolly said other charges may be brought, depending on the investigation by Deputy Sheriff Brad Totten.

Evans is in the Southern Regional Jail on $300,000 cash bond.

He was represented by Lewisburg attorney E. Lavoyd Morgan Friday.

Morgan said Tuesday he was unsure whether or not he would continue to represent Evans in further proceedings.

In other court action Friday:

County Commission

The County Commission met for special meeting Tuesday.

Approval was given [illegible] the charge students to park at the school.

Under the proposal there will be an annual fee of $20. For students who have occasion to drive to school infrequently, there will be a daily permit of $1.

Mr. Sanders there will be no charge for seniors who are driving solely to do the mentorship that is required for graduation.

The school's policy on students driving to school stresses that it is a privilege and not a right. It requires parental permission to drive a vehicle to school and for a student to be in a vehicle driven by another student.

PCHS Assistant Principal Allen Brock noted that riders is the biggest problem the school has with student drivers.

The money from the parking fee will be used to pay for the parking permit decals, maintain the parking lot, and for other academic expenses, Mr. Sanders said.

It was noted that under a policy that has been in place since the school opened, students are not allowed to drive to school except by permission for a limited number of reasons. However, over the years the reasons and pressures to allow students to drive have greatly increased. More students have jobs after school, the new required mentorship program for seniors, more extra-curricular activities, and many more students owning cars than 31 years ago have put more student driven cars on the road.

Mr. Sanders and School Superintendent James Phares said schools in surrounding counties all have a parking fee for students, with the amount varied. Mr. Sanders said he would prefer that there are no students drivers, but that is not possible in this day and age. He said he feels the fee will help limit students racy ficial

, of Marlin-with conspir-Prosecuting eiford.

nk, of Morgan-Friday to onenspiracy to destance, LSD. suspended and t was commit-Offender Prorrectional Cen-
-to-24 month

THIS MARIJUANA WAS seized by the State Police and is estimated to have a value of about $42,000.

State Police make marijuana bust

The members of the Marlinton Detachment of the West Virginia State Police are continuing their fight on drugs in Pocahontas County.

On Tuesday, August 21, members of the Marlinton Detachment eradicated 21 plants of marijuana valued at $42,000 in the southern part of the county. Alfred Pritt, of Buckeye, was arrested by Trooper D. A. Evans and charged with cultivation of marijuana.

If you have any information regarding a marijuana grow contact the West Virginia State Police; any tips will be kept confidential; phone 799-4101.

pproves parking fee at PCHS cation met for a n Monday at High School.

thy discussion to school, the al to a request

proposed was passed on a 3-2 vote, with Ms. Buzzard and Mr. King casting the no votes.

Jim VanReenen and Don Casto met with the Board to discuss a Patriotism Education Program spoke about the tutors the money has provided for the students at his school. They also said that many of the individuals are already on the substitute teacher list and thus have liability coverage. Others work of reques interest permit(s) the publi ther infor

Lega

The a required appointm sources Greenbr between days. Co tained fr Indiv tion De cy by c be mad through

FOR S AK, C 4490

FOR S $265, 6247

FOR S 4884

FOR S er, $67 for sto

FOR S rything good for Ma

FOR S runs g

FOR S horse, nice colts a

FOR S

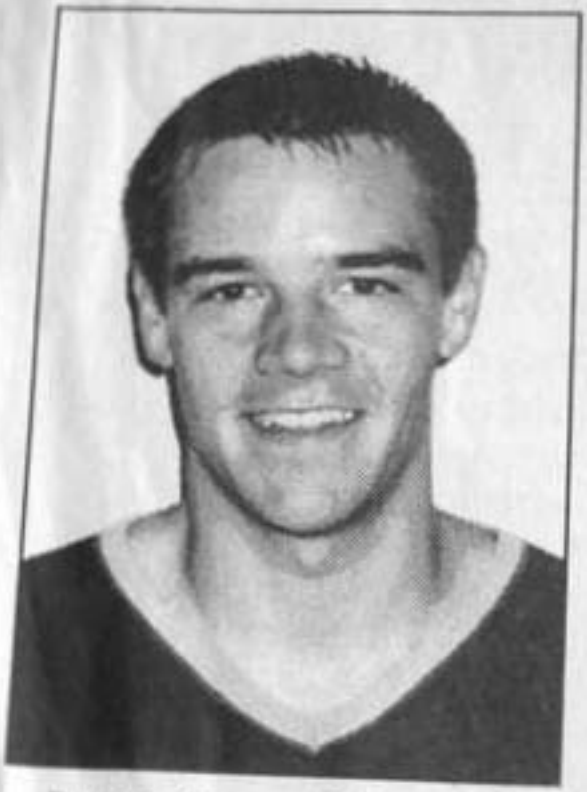
counties. For more information, contact the office at (304) 645-2700 or visit the office at 203 South Jefferson Street, Suite A.



David Young Volunteers with Youth/Young Adult Ministries of the Church of the Brethren

David Young, of Dunmore, has recently undertaken a one year Church of the Brethren Volunteer Service (BVS) assignment with Youth/Young Adult Ministries of the Church of the Brethren in Elgin, Illinois.

Young will be working in the Youth and Young Adult Ministries Office of the Church of the Brethren to support, assist, and continue to develop the church's youth and young adult programs. His job will include coordinating as many as nine denominational summer youth workcamps, serving as an ex-officio member of the National Youth Cabinet and the Young Adult Steering Committee, and aiding in vari-

William McNeel Brow Family Practice P HILLSBOR
Monday 9 a.m. - Tuesday , Wednesday, Thurs
Friday 9 a.m. - Noon, Close

Closed for Lunch, 1
653-420

Announcing Pocahontas Mem
Buckeye, West Vi
Startin
10 a.m. - 4:
Friday, Sept
Dr. Scott W. Bern (Beckley Foot & A

Me Ankl Arthr
Bunio
Corns Callo Warts Fractu

Call the hospital busi appointment at 3

Times

ounty—The Birthplace of River

4 AUGUST 23, 2001 VOL.119 - eady.

New coach looks forward to season

by Kim Totten

Things could be looking up for Warrior Football.

New Head Coach Mike Knisley has been working hard to improve the quality of the Warrior football program.

Knisley, a 1992 graduate of North Marion County High School, began his first head coaching position confident that the Warriors can make a turn-around from past seasons.

Following three pre-season scrimmage games in the past two weeks, the PCHS Warriors will open the 2001 football season Friday at 7:30 p.m. against Marion County on Warrior Field.

The Warriors, having improved under Knisley, scrimmaged August 11 against Hundred, the Wetzel County school where Knisley first started coaching right after his college graduation.

The team "played well," according to Knisley.

They again scrimmaged on August 17 against Covington, Virginia, and Narrows, Virginia, in one-hour contests each.

Covington proved to be a tough program.

Both first teams were held scoreless with Pocahontas scoring against Covington's reserve team late in the scrimmage.

The Warriors were not scored on in any of the three scrimmages.

"Our line play has been very well," in addition to having a "strong offensive line" and a "most impressive defensive line," he commented.

The season opens with 18 players on the varsity squad and according to Knisley, "all can play."

Senior Michael May plays an outstanding spot at running back, as well as Junior Mike Smith at receiver.

Returning seniors are Ronald Plaugher and May, both running backs and linebackers, Justin Kerr, on the offensive line and as defensive back; Clay Fuller, Justin Turner, James Puffenbarger and Justin Mayhew on the offensive line and defensive lines, and Justin Taylor at split end and defensive back. The Warriors gained Senior Isaac Bennett on the offensive and defensive lines and recruited Senior Ben Goehner as place kicker from the socce: team.

The team has been working extremely hard, adjusting to a brand new offensive and defensive through July.

"You can have the best coach in the world," said Knisley. "But without the dedication of the team, it doesn't mean anything."

The dedication doesn't stop there, Knisley stated that a lot of support has come from Dr. James Phares, Principal Tom Sanders, Athletic Director Teresa Rhea and the Athletic Boosters in getting for him what he needs to get things going in the right direction.

Knisley isn't promising any miracles, but said he hopes that people will be able to see improvements weekly.

PCHS Athletics has exciting fall lineup

The honor of your presence is re-

Burns Saturday at 2 p.m. when they

on September 4 at Greenbrier East

Menus

PCHS Menus
August 27-31
Grab-N-Go Menu & Salads Offered as Monday: Pepperoni r beans, watermelon chun chips (flavored), milk (va Tuesday: Turkey & w/lettuce & tomato, mac gelatin (prepared plain milk (variety).
Wednesday: Pizza w ping, tossed salad, gra
w/peanut butter, p (variety).
Thursday: Salisb
mashed potatoes, broc sauce, wheat rolls, swe sauce.
Friday: Chicken pa lettuce & tomato, po fresh assorted fruit, mi

Elementary/Midd Menus August Monday: French
w/syrup or cereal, juic
dogs, French fries, cantaloupe wedges, m Tuesday: Egg & h
cereal, juice, milk.
w/lettuce & tomato,
peach half, bread stick Wednesday: Cinn
cereal, juice, milk.
cheese, ham slice, gre

ts travel to Québec

n Burns, y Must, Jordan,
Burns,
r, Clay Lucia yla Jor-ne Juer-tcalm Eng-Jesse their

STEPPING INTO A MURAL in Old Quebec are, l-r, Thurston Willis, Joe Mosesso, Eric Underwood, Lucia Mosesso, Lisa Burns, Alison Burns, Kayla Jordan, Clay Bell.

William Fitch Forest Products Custom Millwork

iends—and try out the

about this! Nearly eve-ale to tell, mostly fun-hers in the state quesan continue to travel after year with such of students. I concur ts in Quebec; Poca-

students are special,
he other chaperones, to have fun. Hats off ents and community
pported our venture.
ood investment and resented you well!

-

d adults making the were Eric Underrns, Ben Goehner,
, Mary Sue Burns,
n, Nick Blackman, Steven Gravely,
, Suzie McMann,
lison Burns, Serena
mand, Mary Jaco-

sso, Kristen Irvine, Kayla Jordan, Denise McNeel, Adrienne Juer-gens, and Robin Nelson.

FRENCH General Montcalm (Maxime Normand) and English General Wolfe (Jesse Burns) meet before their fateful battle.

STEPPING INT
ston Willis, Joe Lisa Burns, Alis

SERENA SHAW AND Rachel Garringer make a copper engraving.

...nger found her-
...onduct the audi-
...dition of "Happy
...—addressed to
...ured Montreal,
...ed in a histori-
...on amazingly
...ninth grade
Kayla Jor-

DANCING AT THE farmhouse at Sainte Anne de Beaupre are, l-r, Alison Burns, Lisa Burns, Mathias Callison, Mich Blackman, Clay Bell, Rachel Garringer, Molly Must, Jonathon Burns.

ADRIENNE Jurgens meets her host for the family stay portion of the trip.

Birthday to You" —addressed to herself. Students toured Montreal, Quebec City, competed in a historical scavenger hunt (won amazingly by and eighth and ninth grade group. Rachel Wayne, Kayla Jor-

DANCI are, l-Blackma thon Bu

ADRIEN her host portion

(Maxime Normand) and English General Wolfe (Jesse Burns) meet before their fateful battle.

STEPPING INTO
ston Willis, Joe Lisa Burns, Alison

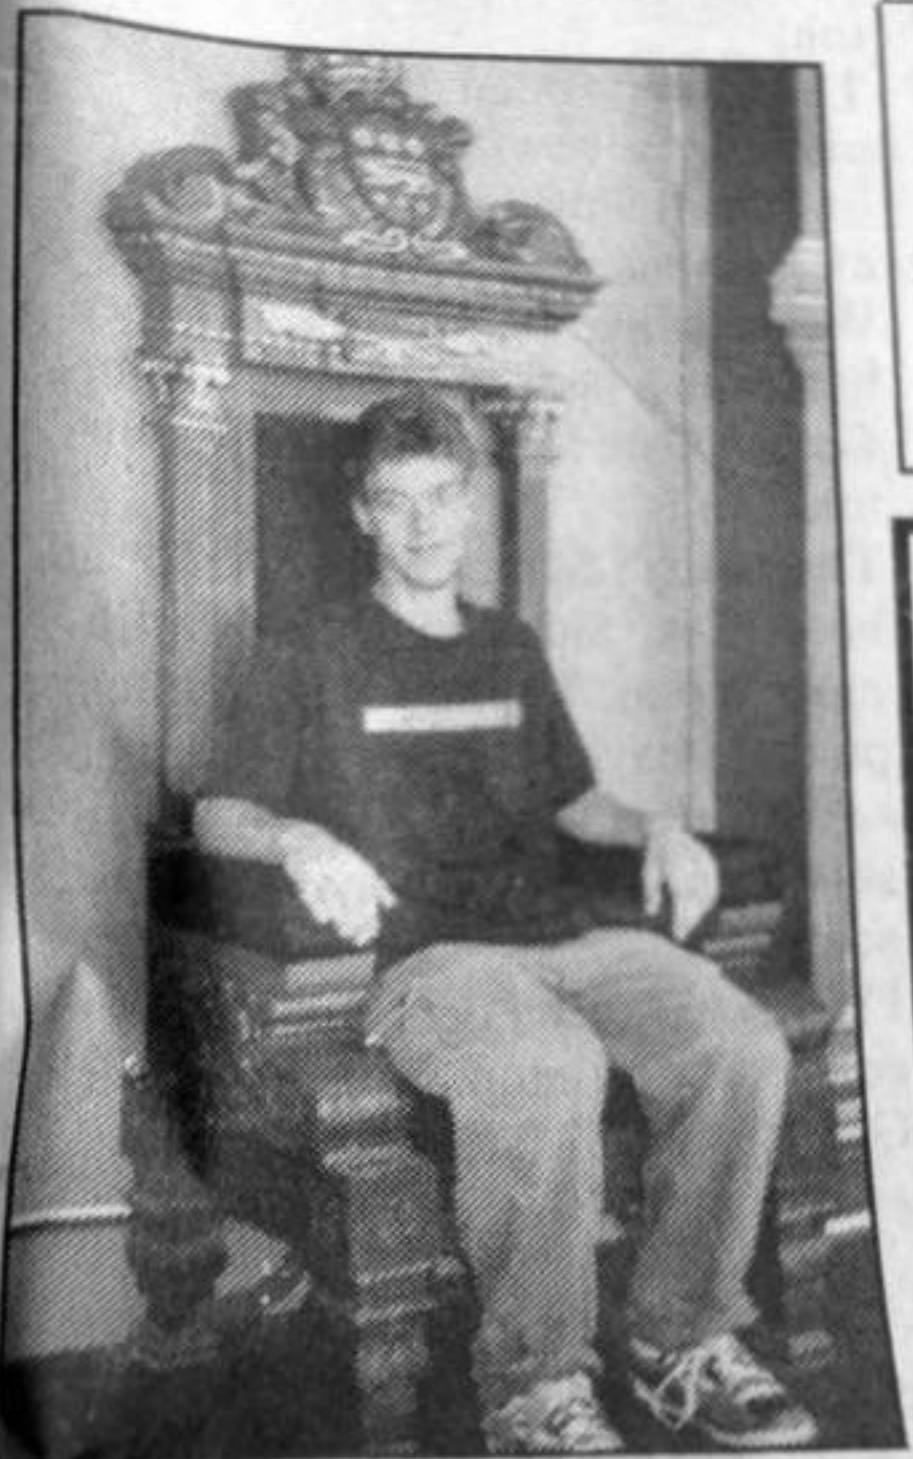
copper



La Nouvelle France (New France) for his country.

JEB

Ju I'd like to th the decision basemen

Durbin Days Reigning Queens & Ki

DURBIN DAYS 2001 Pageant winners—Front row: Tiny Miss Queen Durbin Days, Lyndsey Barlow (5 to 7); back row left to right: Teen Miss Durbin Days, Felicia Pennington (14 to 16); Miss Durbin Days, Jennifer Gum (17 to 21); Junior Miss Durbin Days, Brandy Sharp (11 to 13)

LITTLE MA Days, Jason
(8 to 10)

DURBIN DA
Photogenic, Repea

left to right: Teen Miss Durbin Days, Felicia Pennington (14 to 16); Miss Durbin Days, Jennifer Gum (17 to 21); Junior Miss Durbin Days, Brandy Sharp (11 to 13)

JUNIOR MASTER DURBIN Days, Rodney Mallow (11 to 13).

LITTLE MISS DURBIN Days Queen, Robbie Sipe (8 to 10)

OLD SPRUCE

Rt. 66 PO Box 278
Slaty Fork, WV 26291

Queens & Kings

LITTLE MASTER DURBIN Days, Jason Thomas Mallow (8 to 10)

A GROU McLean, project fo Members Einstein, Parke Ho Pickens, Wendall
$3000 don

Days, Jason Thomas Mallow
(8 to 10)

DURBIN DAYS MISS Photogenic, Renae Burks

row: Tiny back row ington (14 1); Junior

Wendall
$3000 d

HOUSI vided b ville.
for Chr this ph of Littl house.

Congrats to all the ngs

R DURBIN
mas Mallow

A GROUP FROM the Immanuel Presbyterian Church, McLean, Virginia, spent a week in June in the county on a project for the Pocahontas County Habitat For Humanity. Members of the group were Sara Bish, the Rev. Gay Lee Einstein, Rachael Erdmann, Dawn Hamilton, Ruth Hamilton, Parke Holtman, Bob Hunter, Nikki Kiffi, Dennis Kopp, Ed Pickens, Doug Powell, Emlyn Pratt, Michael Schafrick, Wendall Wallace, and Matt Wilson. The group also made a $3000 donation to the local Habitat organization.

Local area WVU alu chapter sponsors football b

The Greenbrier V the WVU Alumni organized a bus Mountaineers unde guez in action again Terrapins on Satu 15. Due to the an the WVU vs. Mary off on Saturday, Se be at 6 p.m., som been made to the nounced itinerary.

The trip to Coll land, will begin i the morning of Se lowing the game overnight at the W Baltimore and ret late afternoon on ber 16.

HOUSING FOR THE Habitat for Humanity group was provided by the Ambassadors for Christ Campground at Huntersville. Don Nordstrom and Don Shifflett from Ambassadors for Christ provided job site supervision for the project. In this photo, Don Shifflett (left) is pictured with Chris Furr, of Little Hocking, Ohio, who did the wiring on the Habitat house.

ber 16.

The cost is $225 for for triple oc ruple occu transportat College P portation f timore for at the Wy Harbor; a day to Le game tick breakfast

Please your spot by email or by sen able to Chapter-to 103
WV 249
first-com

MISS
ks

ts

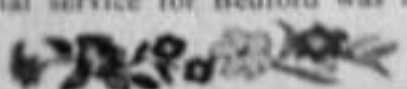
In Memoriam

We will miss you...

Wednesday morning, August 9, 2001, our county awakened to find that we had lost a native to this county of eighty-one years. Moser Bedford Herold, Jr., most often referred to as "The Mayor of Minnehaha" or "The Cigar Man". I have only had the extreme privilege of knowing him for three years. Three years that will remain with me forever. Mr. B, as he was to me, welcomed me to this county and became as he called it "My Guardian Angel". Over the years I learned a lot of history about Pocahontas County, the people, the land, the flood devastation and, of course, Bedford's favorite topic - politics. Being from Minnehaha he spoke of the Moore family, of Minnehaha, having the first powered generator and radio and how the families and children used to flock to their home. He couldn't say enough about the Max White family, but one of my most touching memories was when Mr. B spoke of Sarah Worth, daughter of Judd and Margaret, who was able to hug him and when she asked him to bring her some more oranges, he cried. Katie Workman always having a smile and hug for him; he always came to Seneca Trail Physical Therapy to see Morgan Kershner, daughter of Penny and Kirk Kershner, he called her "Snowflake", but to him she was a ray of sunshine. That was the Bedford I knew and loved. As the few days have passed I have had several people come to reminisce. Tracy McCoy and her brother remember as children how all the kids from around Minnehaha loved to come to his home where he allowed them to play, have pizza, and he took them to Lake Moomau to swim. Rick McCarty said the same except that Bedford always told them "okay" to play as much as you want in the house, just don't break anything. I know his mom and dad always had hunters at their home and his mom kept them and cooked for them through the hunting season. Bedford always referred to his mom as "Mother" and I always respected him for that, but the loving tone in which he said it always touched me. I am sure that there are many more stories out there to be told and hope that they will be remembered. This article is not to say that there weren't many other sides to Bedford - I, in particular, loved his jokes. But his knowledge and intellect were as sharp before his passing as they were years ago. He could tell me stories of the war, Washington DC, his travels through Europe and spout off the month and year as if it were yesterday; and Freddy Small, if I could only tell you of the respect that Bedford had for you. Often speaking of the many friends you had helped so willingly and without reserve at the hospital and even afterwards. He always enjoyed the many curious conversations you had together. There is so much more that I could write but for all of you who knew him, we will miss your many hats and fashion, your wonderful jokes, the many wonderful deeds you did for so many. In closing, I would like to say that one particular man that Bedford never went a day without speaking of was Dr. John Sharp, he admired you so much. He loved the intellectual challenge you always presented to him, the caring and time you always gave to him. He always seemed like the cat that swallowed the canary after seeing you. You contributed so much to his daily life. Mr. B, we will miss you - I already do!

Mary Jobe

P.S. Reverend Benson, your memorial service for Bedford was absolutely Bedford! A wonderful service.



In Loving Memory

Support your local Fire & Rescue Service and sympathy.

BINGO

Grahams Motel
you.

The family calls, cards, fo at PMH, Rev. service.

We want mother. Your and memorial Rittenhouse ar ment, Wallace to Frank and S meal after the When we loved us dear friends. We ar to Durbin. We

To all of the Brier Patc heartfelt thank

Barto

45

Saturd

Little Mo Ra Boa
We High T

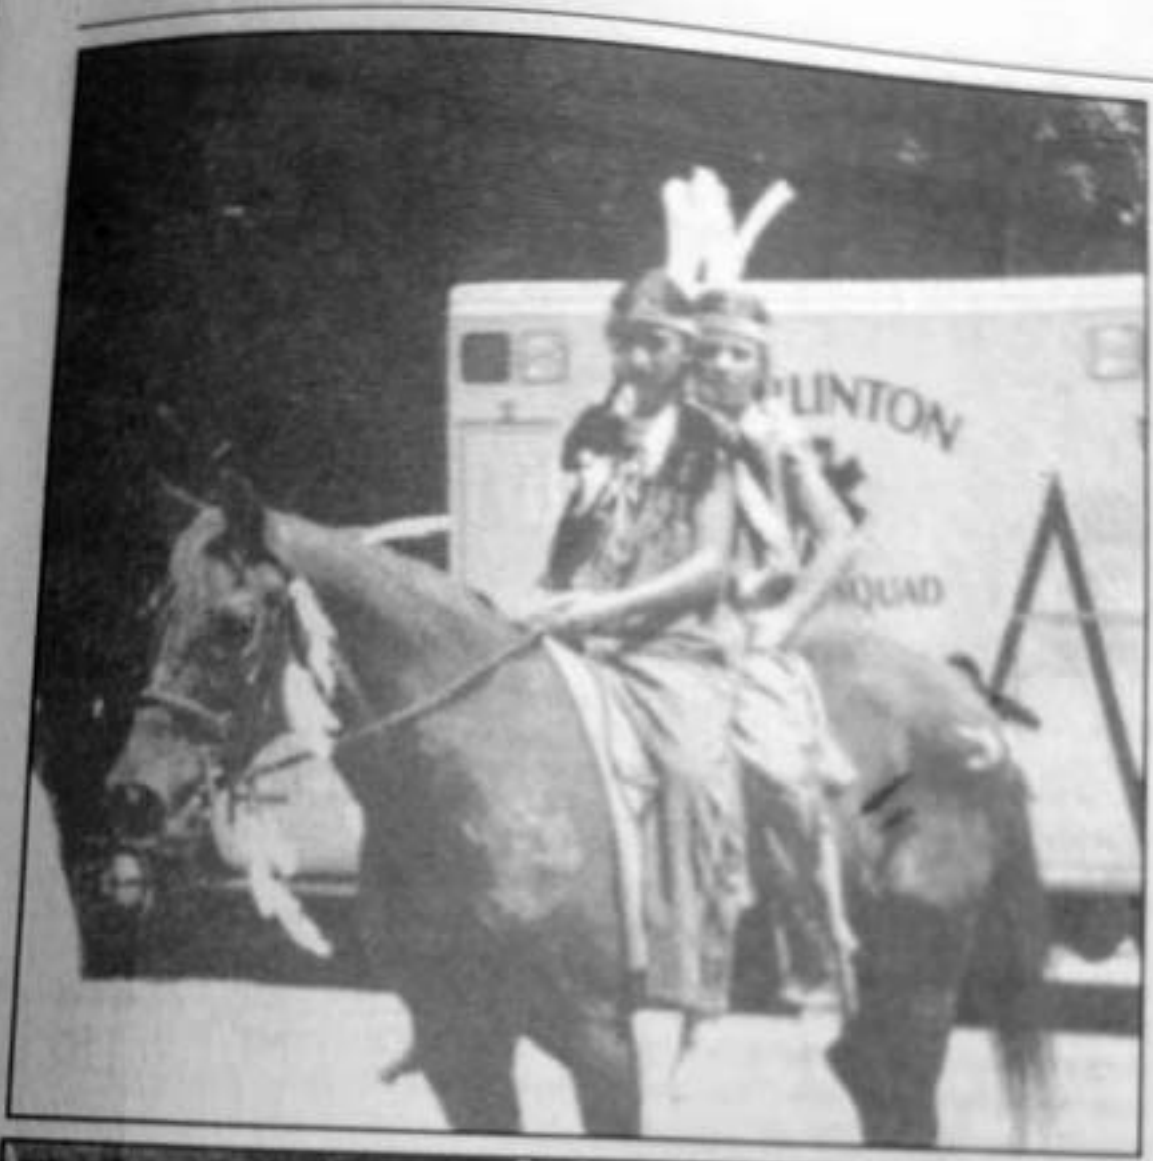
Call For



Dear Editor

Hello to all my

I used to live county. Spent mo from Dunmore to Virginia.

I am the the so nett and Betty Ja died in 1994. He Dunmore cemete
We moved to Cha attended Green school and went Hillsboro.

We moved in am hoping that th
the path to some went to school wi

Mom and Dad
Denmar State Hos

Would love to h Edgar, daughter of Hillsboro, and Jue man, twins, as I

Anyone who us Creek or Hills C favorite fishing sp do miss the fishin

I am now livi
Indiana. You ma Farmdaddy@aol.c heart a world of (Condon), love yo

Keep up the goo

M

Dear Editor:

Justice in Pocah

Reference a rece battery and domest of our deputy sherif

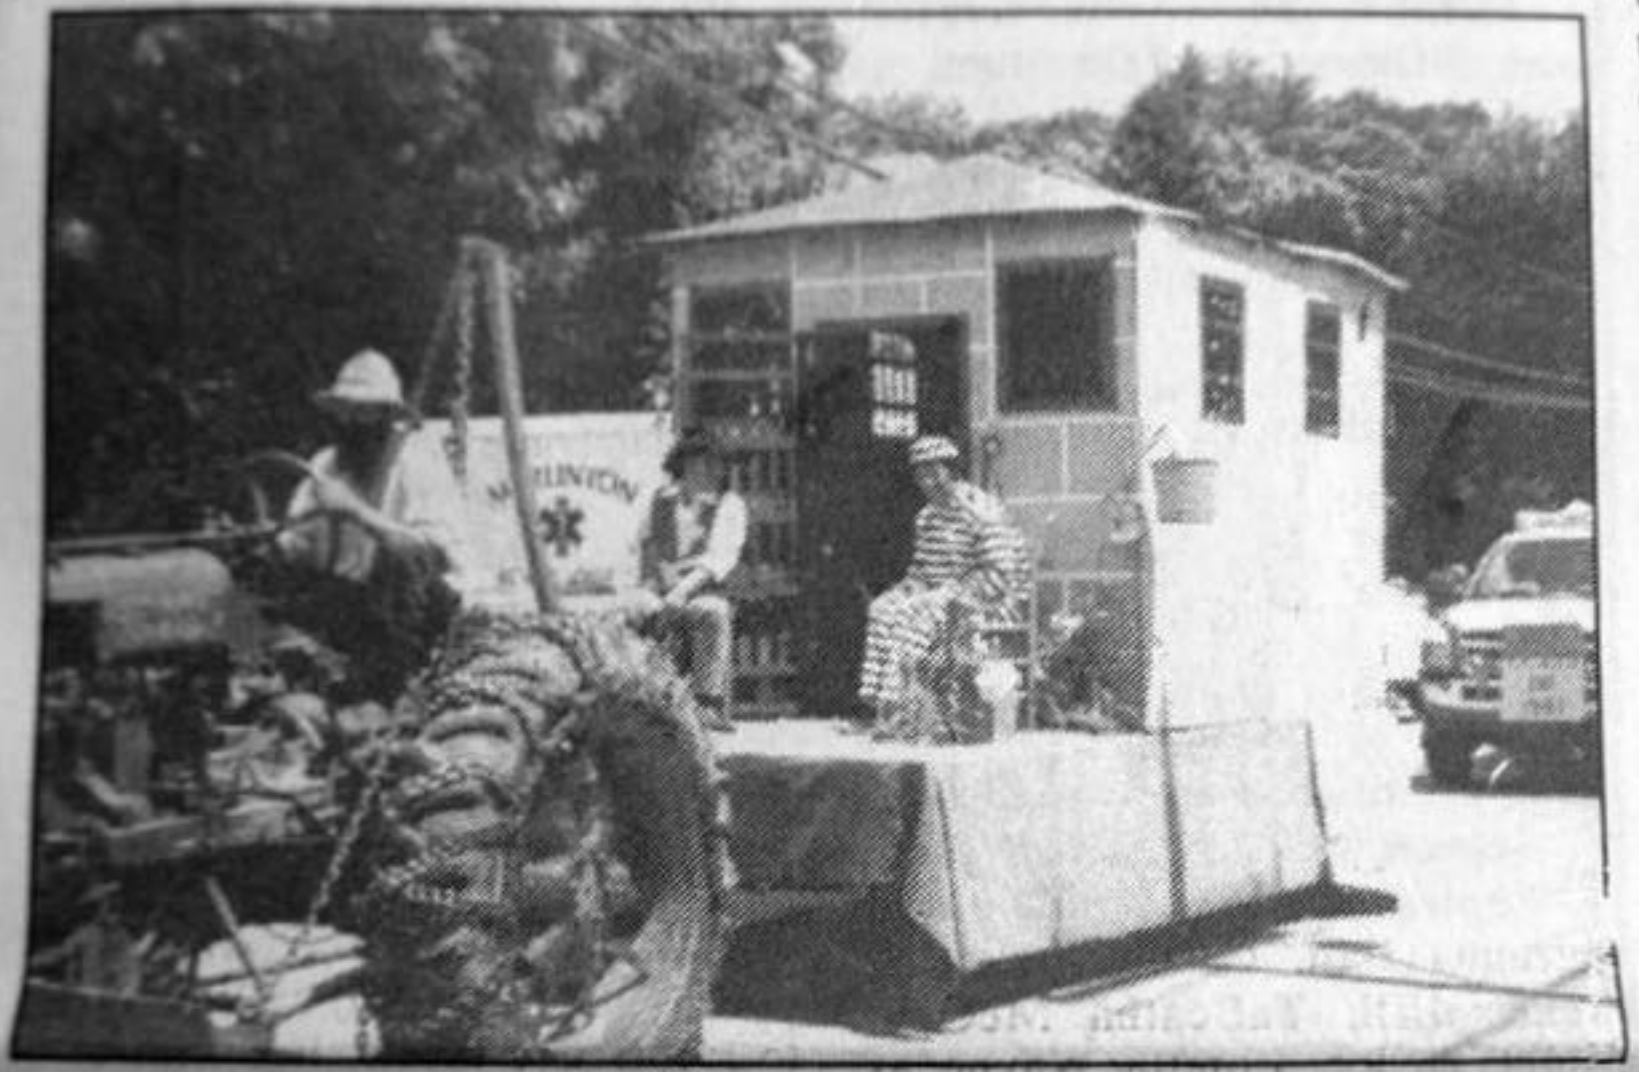
I was the plainti
case and my son wa
the domestic batter
the trial, upon our



THE GRAND PARADE for Pioneer Days 2001 included a variety of entries, from horseback riders to floats. In the lower photo John Leyzorek pulls the Pocahontas County Historical Society's Huntersville Jail replica with his 1931 tractor.

Winners for 2001 Pioneer Days Grand Parade

the trial, upon trate court, my deputy were a room, leaving Hevener, the d torney Tony T ing Attorney V

After app minutes, all i court and Mr.
three of us to

We were th charges had Magistrate He
Mr. Tatano th report did not formation t claims.

I later vis discussed thi formed me he dismissal bu had ruled for

I then vis Alkire to que port. He re there was with it.
tial re

High Rocks Academy hosts day camp for Nicholas and Pocahontas counties' youth

by Jodie Lewis

You can't hear what Holli is saying, but you can see that she is teaching.

Really teaching.

She smiles. She emphasizes points with expressive hands. She leans toward the third- and fourth-grade girls in her "class," engaging them in the lesson.

The often-shy Holli Barker, 14, has blossomed into an enthusiastic teacher. As her voice rises and falls, you can imagine her words.

"And then what happened to the Swamp Angel?" she might be asking.

The four students shout answers. Together they are writing a tall tale about Hills Creek Falls to publish in a children's travel brochure.

The class is but one microcosm in the High Rocks Academy's "Use Your Noodle in the Sun" day camp, elsewhere around camp, similar scenes unfold. Science teachers lead children into the woods to make leaf prints with crayons and identify the trees the leaves came from. A group of drama teachers, wearing T-shirts blazing "Wiggle," "Crazy," and "Bigger" call for more exaggeration from their young actors and actresses.

About 30 children from Nicholas and Pocahontas counties attended the five-day mini-camp, plus an overnight campout the last night, in late June. By the end of camp, the high school girls of High Rocks had helped them make travel brochures, learn about the life cycle of trees and write and perform a skit.

"We had them pick favorite characters from fables we read through the week," said Richwood High School student and mini-camp drama teacher Shay Fields. "Then we wrote a story for each class with all their characters in it. I think they had a lot of fun."

After classes each day, the children had snacks and rotated through games stations run by the High Rocks Girls. It didn't take long for the older and younger campers to become friends.

"I liked everything," said Heather Thompson, a 10-year-old who goes to school in Hillsboro. "I liked drama with the plays. I liked language arts for writing and I liked [illegible] just looking at the leaves and stuff."

High Rocks Academy was founded in 1996 as a leadership and academic program for high school girls from Pocahontas, Nicholas and Greenbrier counties.

Girls continue to attend their respective high schools, but come to High Rocks once a week during the school year for tutoring overnights.

In the summer, High Rocks hosts two camps: one to welcome new girls into the program, the other to challenge girls already in the program.

In the latter camp, a 10-day experience known as "Alumnae Camp," girls take on a gargantuan group project, which in the past has included making a film about growing up in West Virginia and performing Shakespeare's "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

"Every year, we try to do something that's way too hard for us. And then we do it," said Susan Burr, High Rocks' founder and director. "The girls really get into this idea with us. We never know what the next year will be."

The "Use your Noodle in the Sun" mini-camp was chosen for Alumnae Camp 2001 as a way to give back to the area's communities and as an extension of the "Use Your Noodle Club" after-school program taught by High Rocks Girls each spring at Hillsboro Elementary School.

Twenty-nine High Rocks Girls came to Alumnae Camp three days before the mini-camp was to begin. Assigned to language arts, drama or outdoor science, they worked in teams to brainstorm projects and write lesson plans. They learned about teaching theory and practiced their delivery in front of other High Rocks Girls. They even had administrators designated among them to write schedules and make sure everything ran smoothly. A team of four other High Rocks girls toted video cameras around the campground documenting the experience.

By the time the young campers arrived, the High Rocks girls were ready and the adult staff who had been serving as mentors slipped into the background.

Though the mini-camp lasted less than five hours each day, High Rocks girls weren't short of activities to keep them busy morning, noon and night. In addition to teaching, the girls were attending classes in which they thought and wrote about their own experiences as children.

Dr. Heather Hagerman, a counseling professor at Marshall University, led discussions about the stages of childhood development, providing ideas that would be helpful to the high school girls as they thought about the children they were teaching and about their memories of themselves at the same age.

High Rocks Girls spent at least three hours writing each day. They attended intensive workshop classes modeled after college courses, studying narrative voice, descriptive detail, symbolism and other topics as they wrote a series of memory-based pieces.

"In high school, you're challenged to write, and just write," said Cassandra Channell, who will be a senior this fall at Pocahontas County High School. "Here, they challenge you to write while you're continuously learning things about yourself."

Ultimately, each girl chose a single narrative to focus on, undergoing an extensive writing and editing process. High Rocks hopes to publish an anthology of the girls' writing this fall.

It is inevitable that a person will grow from the Alumnae Camp experience, said Ally Triplett, a sophomore at Greenbrier East High School.

"It challenged us emotionally, it challenged us physically, it challenged our knowledge," she said. "We're in such a close situation we're going to have problems. We just need to learn to accept people for the way they are. We have to depend on each other."

High Rocks Academy is a non-profit corporation supported by private donors and by grants from the following organizations, among others: National Endowment for the Arts, the Bernard McDonough Foundation, the Margaret Hall Foundation, JJDP, the Hollowell Foundation, Inc.

Lewis is an AmeriCorps VISTA volunteer at High Rocks Academy.

HOLLIE BARKER (LEFT) and Jodi Star (right) help boys in language arts class to write tall tales at High Rocks day camp.

School Lunch Program Guidelines Announced

The Pocahontas County Board of Education has announced its policy for free and reduced price meals for participants who are unable to pay the full price for meals or milk served in schools, that participate in the National School Lunch or Breakfast Programs.

The Board of Education has adopted the following family size income criteria for use in determining the eligibility of participants for free and reduced price meals or free milk.

lenged to write, and just write," said Cassandra Channell, who will be a senior this fall at Pocahontas County High School. "Here, they challenge you to write while you're continuously learning things about yourself."

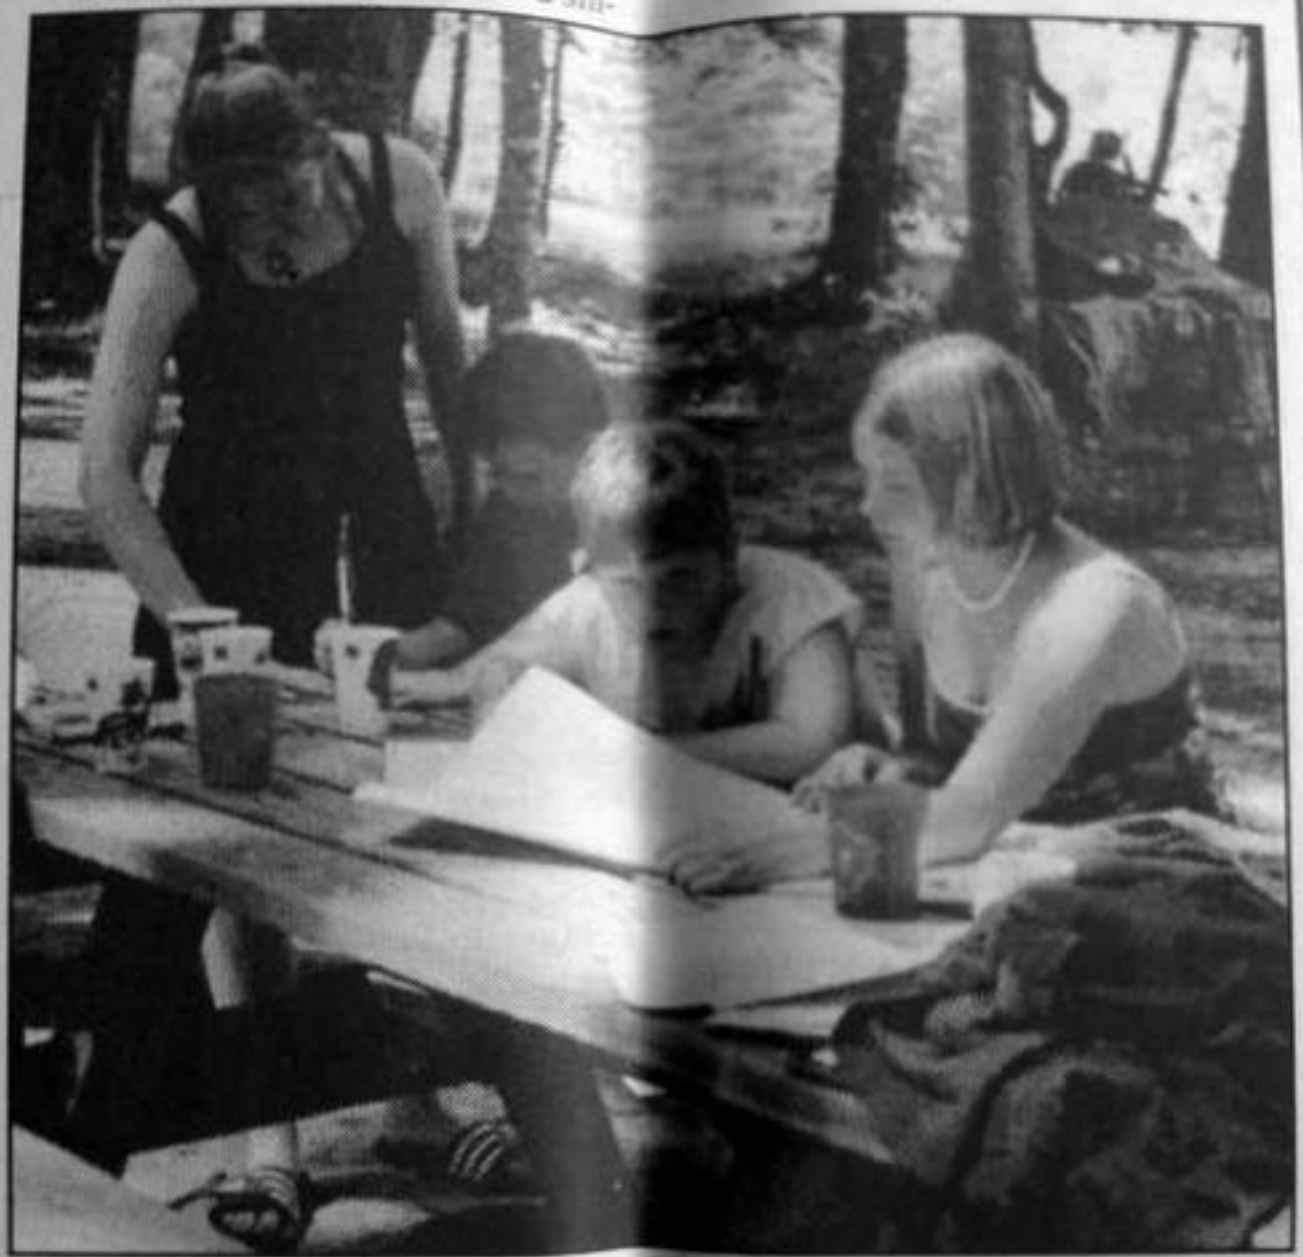
Ultimately, each girl chose a sin-following ... among others: National Endowment for the Arts, the Bernard McDonough Foundation, the Margaret Hall Foundation, JJDP, the Hollowell Foundation, Inc.

Lewis is an AmeriCorps VISTA volunteer at High Rocks Academy.

- - -



HOLLIE BARKER (LEFT) and Jodi Star (right) help boys in language arts class to write tall tales at High Rocks day camp.

School Lunch
Program Guidelines Announced

The Pocahontas County Board of Education has announced its policy for free and reduced price meals for participants who are unable to pay the full price for meals or milk served in schools, that participate in the National School Lunch or Breakfast Programs.

The Board of Education has adopted the following family size income criteria for use in determining the eligibility of participants for free and reduced price meals and free milk:

DRAMA TEACHERS KAYLEY Kolonay (left) and Courtney Wilfong (right) lead a class in unraveling at High Rock's Academy's "Use Your Noddle in the Sun" day camp in June.

Kindergarten Orientation Scheduled

All children who will be five years old prior to September 1, 2001 are eligible to attend

for free and re the full price f National Scho

The Boar income criteri free and reduc

Family Size
One Two Three Four Five Six Seven Eight

For Each Add Family Memb

Participan shown are elig

Applicatio parents/guardi reduced price home by the s all sites and co is confidential
ing eligibility and signed, in application ma

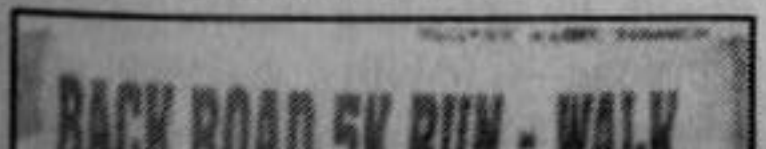
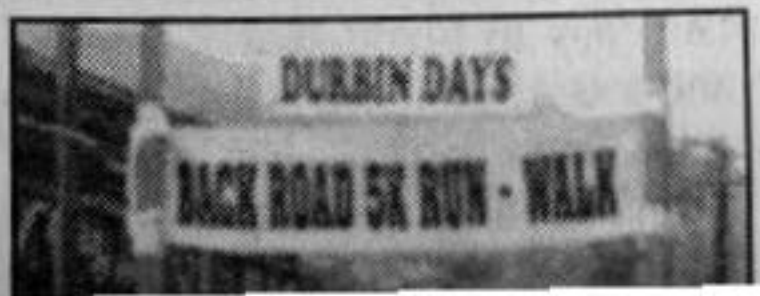
RACERS LINE UP at the start of the Durbin Days Back Road 5K Run/Walk 2001.

Gleeful to serious racers cross the finish line in Durbin.





LINDSA

RACERS LINE UP at the start of the Durbin Days Back Road 5K Run/Walk 2001.

Gleeful to serious racers cross the finish line in Durbin.

CINDY BIRCHFIELD

CAMERON BARKLEY, 1st place male overall.

AMBER REXRODE AND Neil McLaughlin.

DANNY KEATLEY

LINDSAY place femal

TRISTA
T-shirt lo winner.

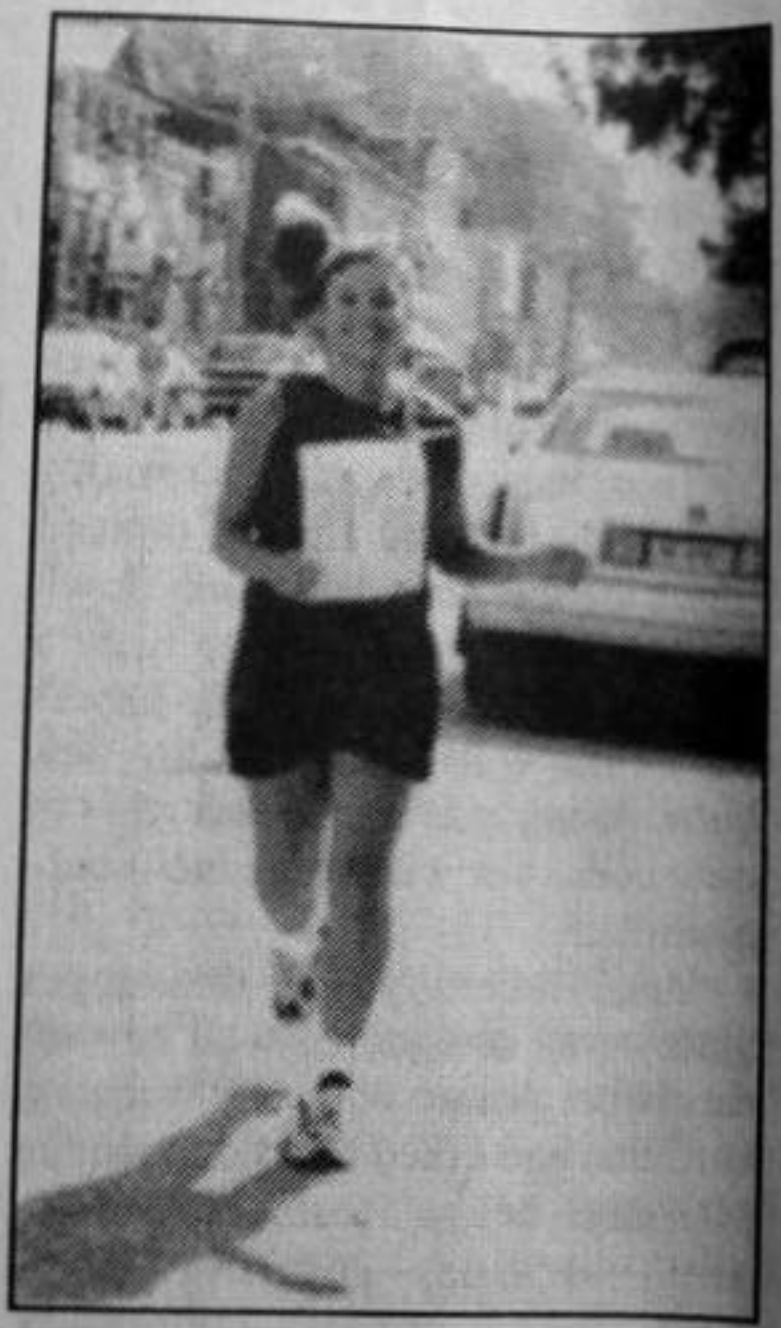
EY, 1st

LINDSAY WIMER, 1st place female overall.



TRISTA REXRODE, RACE T-shirt logo design contest winner.

Charlottesville and Roano
nia.

In total, 16 prizes were In addition to the overall fi male and female, prize wi the various categories were lows:

20 years and younger, m place, Tim Weadon, 19:
place, Nathan Rittenhouse,

Senior Menus
August 20-24

Monday: Chicken live baked potatoes, cole slaw biscuits, milk.

Tuesday: BBQ beef
w/slaw, potatoes au grati cake w/peaches, garden
milk.

Wednesday: Chicken p baked corn, garlic brea salad, fresh fruit, milk.

Thursday: Savory blac deviled eggs, tossed strawberries, cornbread, mi

Friday: Lasagna, lettuce peach crisp, garlic bread, m

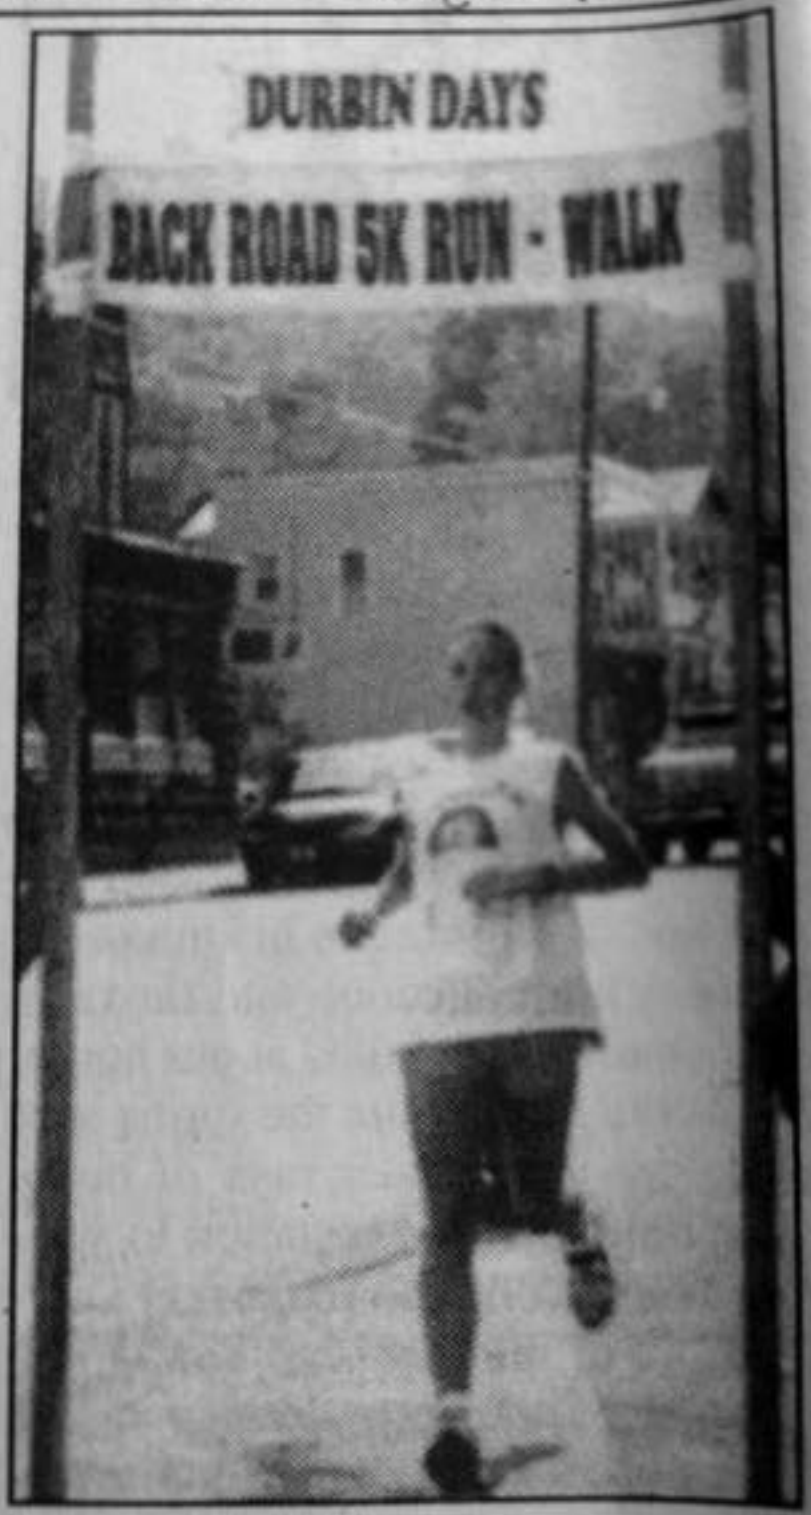
Marlinton Satellite
The Marlinton Satell

This Is The Calling

Durbin Days Back Road 5K

Days Back



LINDSAY WIMER, 1st place female overall.

Durbin Days Road 5K Run/W

The Durbin Days B kilometer Run/Walk c fifth year as a Durbi and for the fifth year fact, over the whole race—Cameron Bark vale, finished first. year was 17 minutes Lindsay Wimer, of the fastest female co ishing in 23 minute These folks each w package that include donated by Snows Resort.

Twenty-two racers did both along the rolling Back Road Durbin on Saturday folks who participa Pocahontas and ne But, there were al Charlottesville and nia.

In total, 16 prizes In addition to the ov male and female, p the various categori lows:

20 years and you Tim Weado younger, female:

exrode, 44:56.
s old, male: 1st
nison, 18:13. old, female: 1st
orne, 26:44. s old, male: 1st
son, 20:14; 2nd frey, 20:56. old, female: 1st
wry, 25:42; 2nd 37:12. old, male: 1st 19:52. older, male: 1st
tley, 18:23; 2nd 23:05.
d Abram Rittenze for the oldest petitors, respec-

ceived a T-shirt
e footrace. This s extra special resident Trista competed in the place in her age
the logo. Trista vings Bond from Corporation as a he Durbin Days
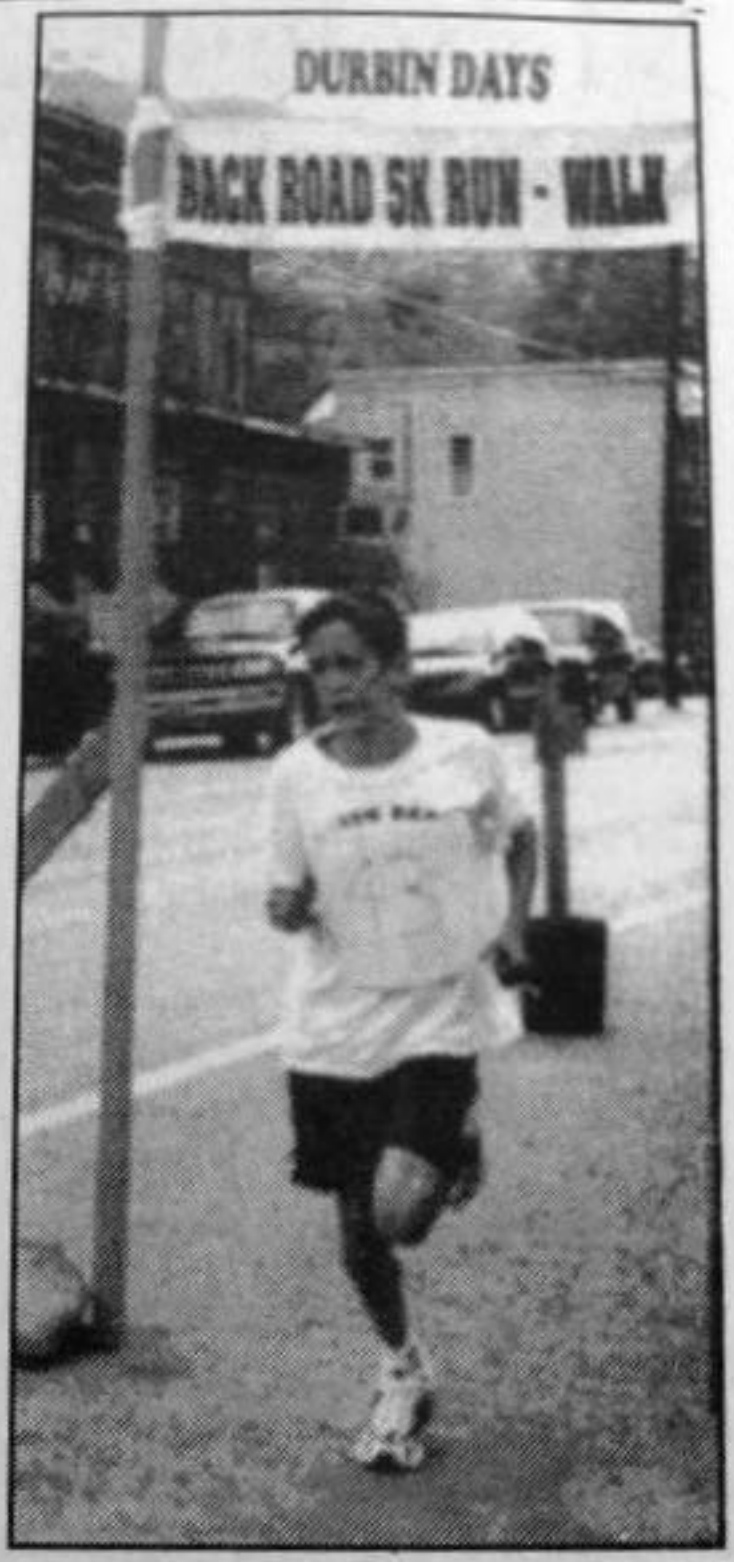
logo design con-



NATHAN RITTENHOUSE

News

sday, September Senior Center, tions. A second is not required for nominations. Further, a member may cast a vote for someone not

s Back Road 5K Winners

1st

Durbin Days Back Road 5K Run/Walk 2001

The Durbin Days Back Road 5-kilometer Run/Walk celebrated its fifth year as a Durbin Days event and for the fifth year in a row—in fact, over the whole history of the race—Cameron Barkley, of Arbovale, finished first. His time this year was 17 minutes, 45 seconds. Lindsay Wimer, of Franklin, was the fastest female competitor, finishing in 23 minutes, 43 seconds. These folks each won an award package that included a great prize donated by Snowshoe Mountain Resort.

Twenty-two racers ran, walked or did both along the three-mile long rolling Back Road from Bartow to Durbin on Saturday, July 21. Many folks who participated came from Pocahontas and nearby counties. But, there were also racers from Charlottesville and Roanoke, Virginia.

In total, 16 prizes were awarded. In addition to the overall first place male and female, prize winners in the various categories were as follows:

20 years and younger, male: 1st place, Tim Weadon, 19:35; 2nd place, Nathan Rittenhouse, 19:42.

20 years and younger, female: 1st place, Trista Rexrode, 44:56.

21 to 30 years old, male: 1st place, Charles Kinnison, 18:13.

21 to 30 years old, female: 1st place, Lynette Osborne, 26:44.

31 to 40 years old, male: 1st place, Joel Harrison, 20:14; 2nd place, Patrick Godfrey, 20:56.

31 to 40 years old, female: 1st place, Sandra Lowry, 25:42; 2nd place, Rita Moss, 37:12.

41 to 50 years old, male: 1st place, Kent Moss, 19:52.

51 years and older, male: 1st place, Danny Keatley, 18:23; 2nd place, Bob Sheets, 23:05.

Robert Cole and Abram Rittenhouse won the prize for the oldest and youngest competitors, respectively.

All entrants received a T-shirt commemorating the footrace. This year's T-shirt was extra special because Durbin resident Trista Rexrode, who also competed in the race and won first place in her age category, designed the logo. Trista received a U.S. Savings Bond from the Durbin Days Corporation as a prize for winning the Durbin Days Back Road T-shirt logo design contest.

- - -

NATHAN R

Senior News

Senior Menus
August 20-24

Monday: Chicken livers, oven baked potatoes, cole slaw w/carrots, biscuits, milk.

Tuesday: BBQ beef on bun w/slaw, potatoes au gratin, yellow cake w/peaches, garden vegetable, iors will meet Thursday, September 6, at the Marlinton Senior Center, at 12:45 p.m.

Our program will be by Darren Jackson, State Farm Insurance Agent. He will discuss long term care insurance policies and other items of interest to senior citizens.

tions. A secon nominations. may cast a v nominated by sons name. Y serve as an other qualifie office is o

AMBER REXRODE AND Neil McLaughlin.

Visiti

Charles Busch and his son-in-law, Larry Babcock, of Stow, Ohio, visited in the county over the week-end. Mr. Busch was born and raised in what is now Watoga State Park. His father came in with the lumber industry and married a daughter of the Sims Family who owned land at the head of Island Lick Run. Mr. Busch lived in a house located just below the present horse barn. His father sold their land to the state in 1934 and they left the county.

Visiting recently in the county, guests of their brother, Nelson Spinks, of Lobelia and Maryland, were the daughters and sons of the late Teddy and Pearl Alderman, all

Times

tas County - Birthplace of R

AUGUST 9. 2001 VO

RUST?

Let Mac Treatm for all were Mr. Dotson and Paul Hill, Sr. Both received leg wounds, Mr.

The Sheriff's Department has the incident under investigation.

Board violated Sunshine Law, judge rules

by Pamela Pritt

The Pocahontas County Board of Education violated West Virginia's Open Meetings Act when it convened in private sessions to discuss reductions in force, a circuit judge ruled last week.

Chief Judge James Rowe also ruled that Gary and Linda Beverage, Cynthia Morrison, Justin and Kelley Salvati, Melissa Shank, Richard Thompson and Leda Williams, the plaintiffs in the case, be awarded attorneys fees and court costs incurred during the litigation.

The plaintiffs had also asked for injunctive relief—or relief designed to protect a plaintiff from irreparable injury— and damages; however, Rowe did not grant those remedies.

Kermit Friel, Lowell Galford, Gibbs Kinderman, J. Bruce McKean and Kenneth Vance, the board members who were seated when the closed sessions occurred during 2000, either declined comment or were unavailable Tuesday.

The Open Meetings Act, or Sunshine Law, provides that "public agencies in this state exist for the singular purpose of representing citizens of this state in governmental affairs, and it is, therefore, in the best interests of the people of this state for the proceedings of public agencies to be conducted openly, with only a few clearly defined exceptions.

One of those exceptions is commonly called "personnel;" however the exception is specifically for matters arising from the appointment, employment, retirement, promotion, transfer, demotion, disciplining, dismissal or compensation of a public officer or employee or prospective public officer or employee, unless such person requests an open meeting.

Criminal violations of the Open Meetings Act are a misdemeanor and carry a $500 fine for the first offense.

Morrison, both Salvatis, Shank and Williams have "secured alternate employment," according to the order.

Both Beverages and Thompson have filed grievances based on code violations, the order said.

Gary Beverage is working in a half-time position for the board.

Thompson expressed an interest in a board of education seat after McKean's May resignation.

The board chose Ruth Taylor, of Hillsboro, to fill that seat last month.

Rowe ordered the plaintiffs to submit a detailed account of their fees and costs for review and approval.

The board meets August 13.

Febru
March
March April April April
May May
May June
June

Con for

The Co ed three b disposal Industrial Tuesday.
The lo submitted of Ridgew
The ot Henson $444,560
ing, of D
The pr of the slu nery, dry in a line water pol the projec will be t rier on th
The bi Don Bail ject, and lem wit awarded meeting
The fir mental c was the i

Durbin Town Council lool

nges to es V 24954
799-6466

k of the year.
Virginia 24954

luding tax)
State $25
S ¢ word anaging Editor

Two injured in shooting incident on Beaver Creek

All units of State Police and the Sheriff's Department responded to a shooting incident that occurred on Beaver Creek Tuesday afternoon.

According to Prosecuting Attorney Walt Weiford two men were wounded in the shooting, which occurred at the home of Henry Wayne Dotson. Injured were Mr. Dotson and Paul Hill, Sr. Both received leg wounds, Mr. Weiford said.

After treatment at Pocahontas Memorial Hospital, Mr. Hill was flown to Roanoke and Mr. Dotson was transported ot Charleston Area Medical Center, the Prosecutor stated.

The cause of the shooting is thought to been a dispute over a debt, Mr. Weiford said.

The Sheriff's Department has the incident under investigation.

Board violated Sun-shine Law, judge rules

June 6 - last day for students
June 11 - last day for staff

Commission receives bids for tannery clean-up

The County Commission received three bids for the tannery sludge disposal project at the East Fork Industrial Park at its meeting on Tuesday.

The low bid of $396,330 was submitted by Manno Construction, of Ridgeway, Pennsylvania.

The other two bids were from Henson Brothers, Inc., of Nitro, $444,560, and S and D Contracting, of Dunmore, $691,000.

The project involves the removal of the sludge from ponds at the tannery, drying it, and then placing it in a lined pond to prevent ground water pollution. A final phase of the project, not included in this bid, will be to place a water proof barrier on the top of the dried sludge.

The bids will be reviewed by the Don Bailey, engineer for the project, and providing there is no problem with the low, it will be awarded at a special Commission meeting on Friday at 10 a.m.

The first phase of the environmental cleanup at the tannery site was the installation of a liner at the bottom of the pond were the dried sludge will be entombed. This was bid out and done earlier this year.

Estimated cost of the entire project is $634,000. The biggest part of the funding is from an Appalachian Regional Commission grant along with 20% local match.

Tom Allen, Plant Manager at the Gardner Shoe plant in Marlinton, and Frank Proud met with the Commission concerning needed work on the building occupied by the company. Repairs to the heating and cooling system and the parking lot are the number one priorities the Commission was told. Mr. Allen said the condition of the cooling system is such that the company has been forced to send employees home early on some very hot days.

Commissioner Reta Griffith said she is obtaining estimates on these two items, in preparation for an application for funding from the Governor's Community Partnership Program. The Commission will make the application on behalf of the Development Authority, which owns the building.

The county has received a $17,112 grant from the West Virginia Court Security Board for several items to improve security in the circuit and magistrate courts. The money will be used to purchase a metal detector, antiballistic material for the circuit court room, panic alarms, and blinds for the circuit court room to block off the view into the room from the hillside behind the court house.

The Commission approved signing the required contract for the grant.

The bid from Laserfiesch for the imaging system for the electronic filing of records in the County Clerk's office was approved. The bid is $22,966 and includes the hardware, software, and training on use of the equipment.

ouncil looks for ue

the Municipal League provided for its $75 annual fee. Council will monitor the league's activities during the next year.

•A building permit was signed for the remodling of the Durbin Library.

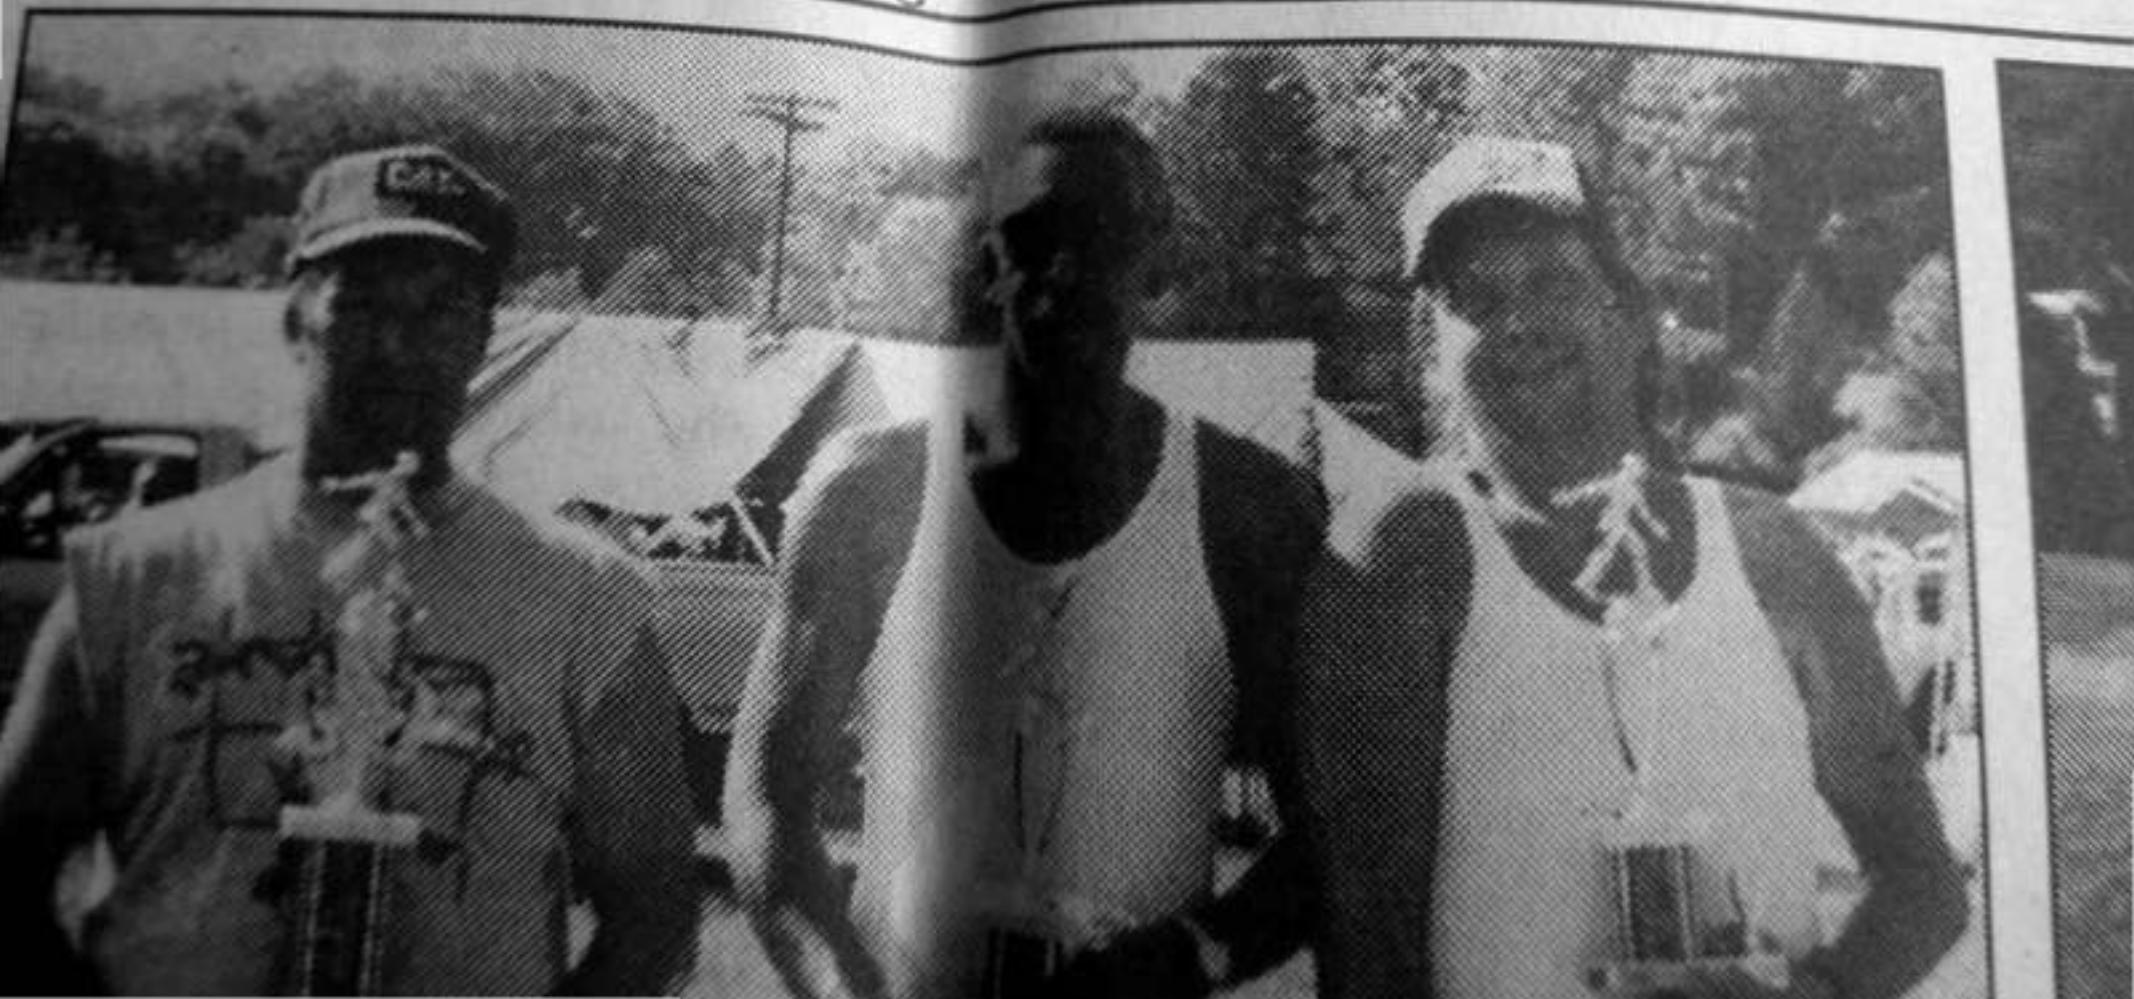
•Bosley suggested ditching be done between the railroad tracks and Main Street.

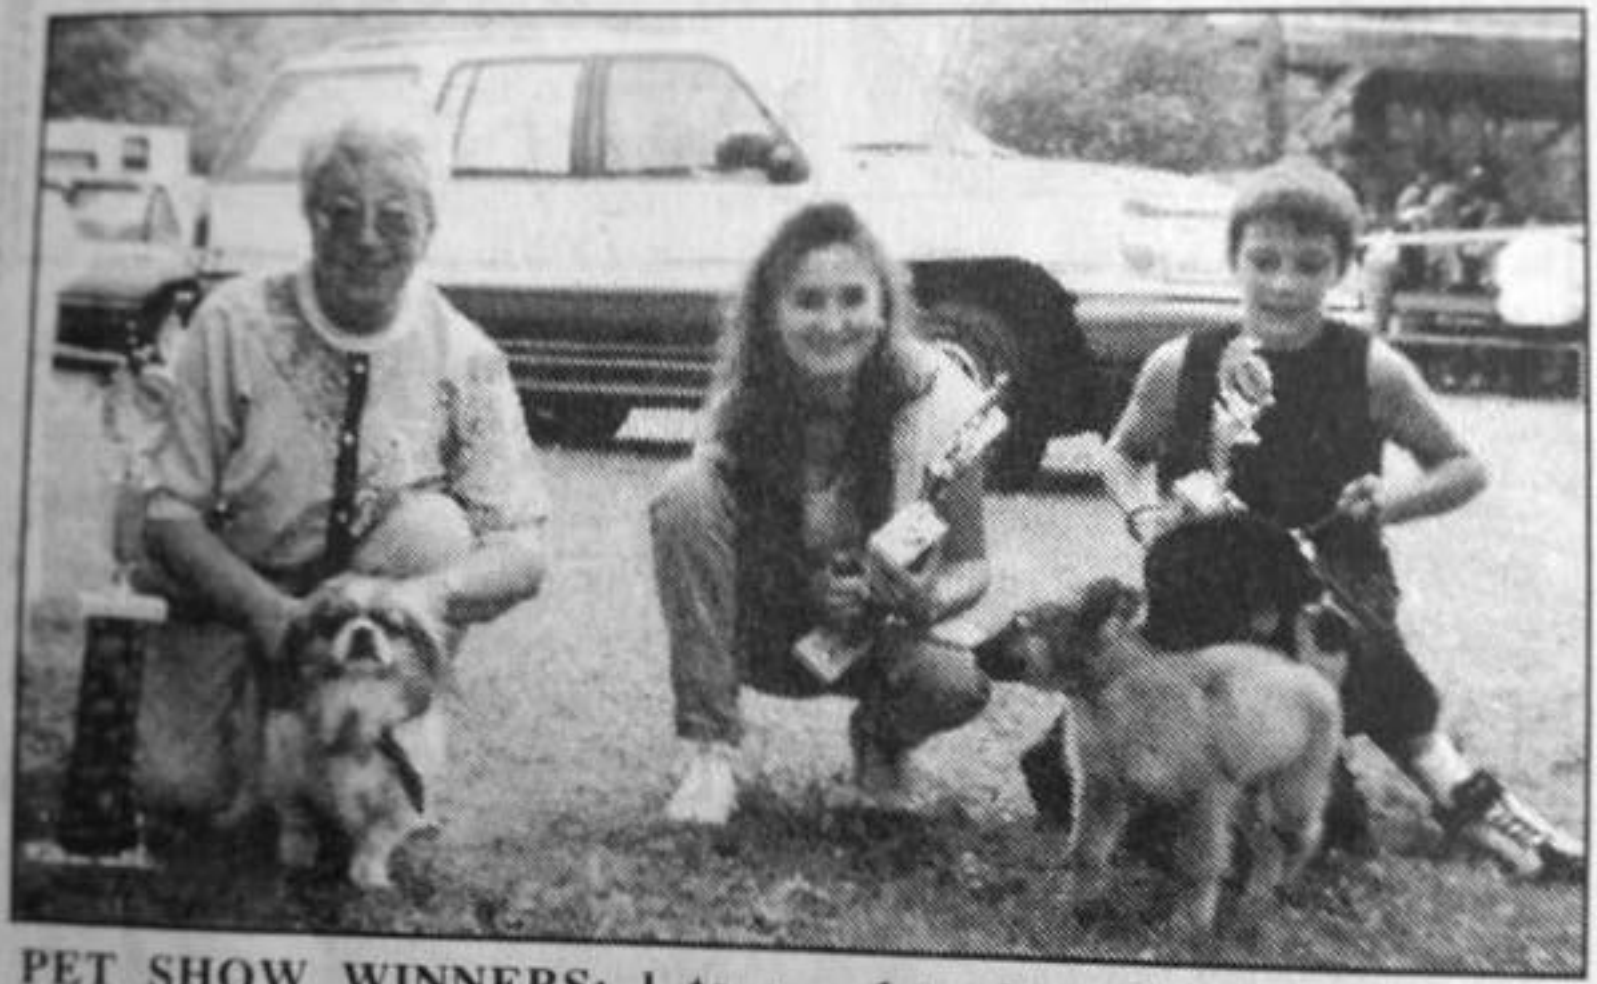
•CPA Frank Proud, of Durbin, will complete the Annual Sewer Report.

•Council hired Roger Mick as full-time town employee.

•Standing water in front of the Northern Pocahontas County Health Clinic was to be checked.

Durbin Days 2001 Events





PET SHOW WINNERS: l to r - 1st place, Mary Paul, 2nd place, Angela Warner, 3rd place, Chance Wathers.

MEN'S Eric Wh Marlinto

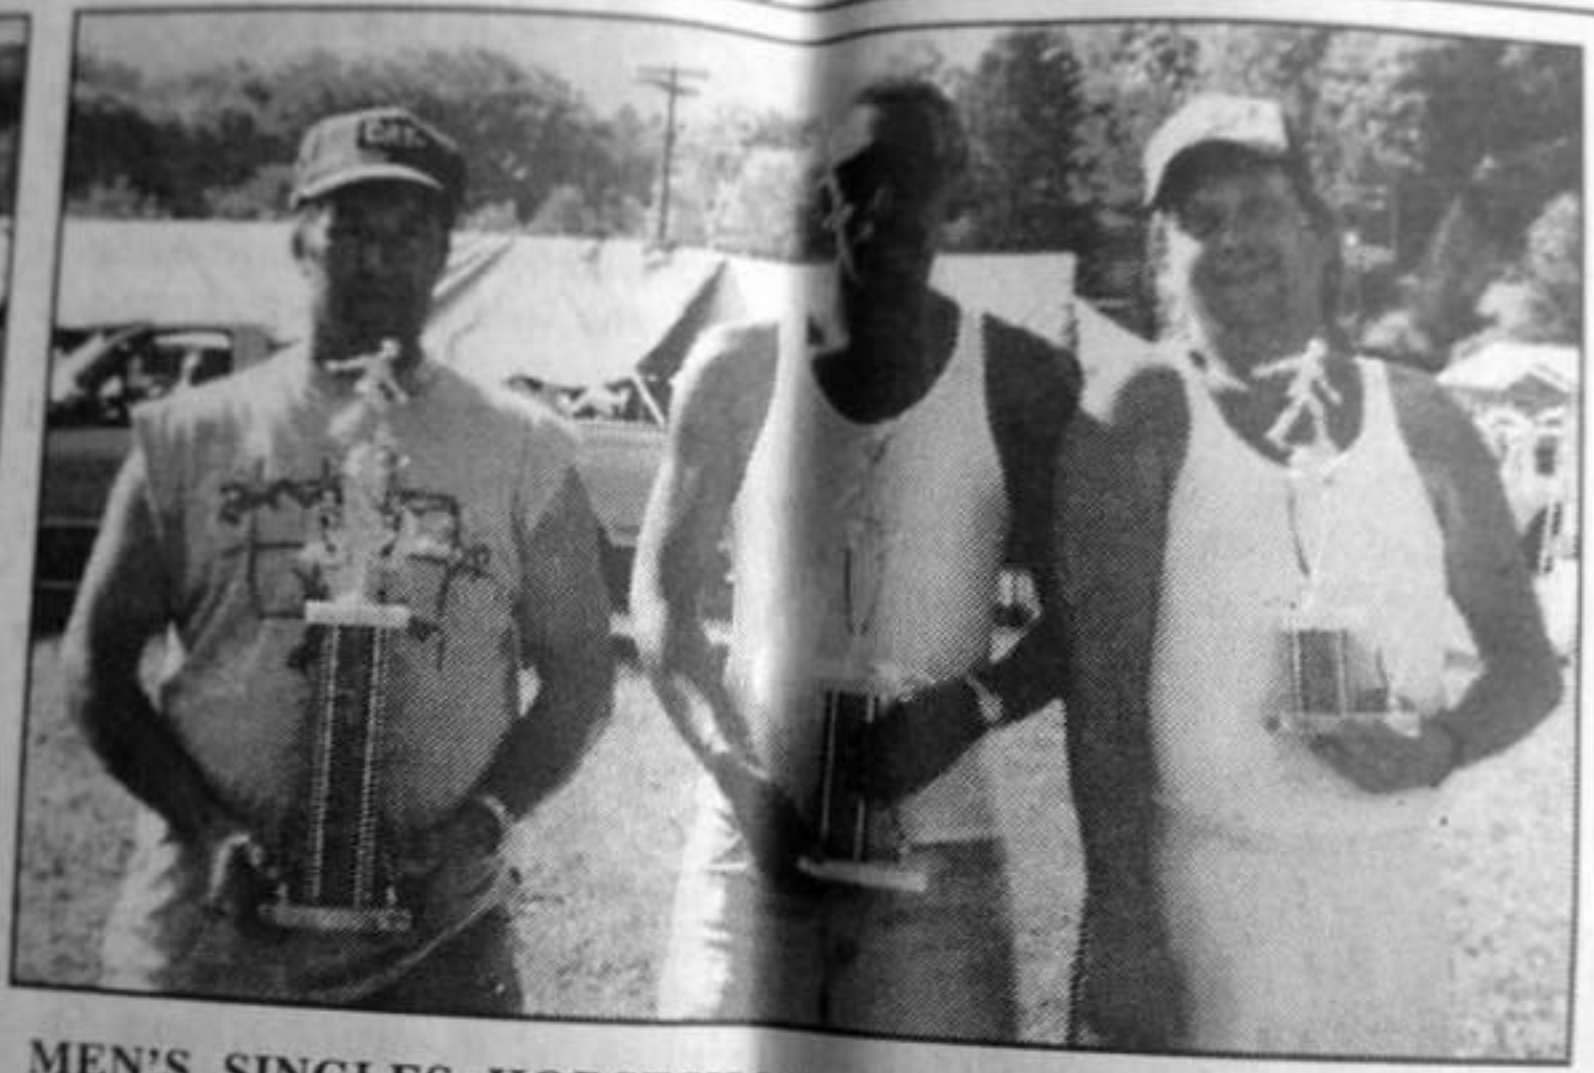
y Paul, 2nd
,



MEN'S SINGLES HORSESHOE winners: l to r - 1st place, Eric Wheeler, of Cherry Grove; 2nd place, Jerry Stewart, of Marlinton; 3rd place, Doug Vandevander, of Bartow.

ROLLE Chance
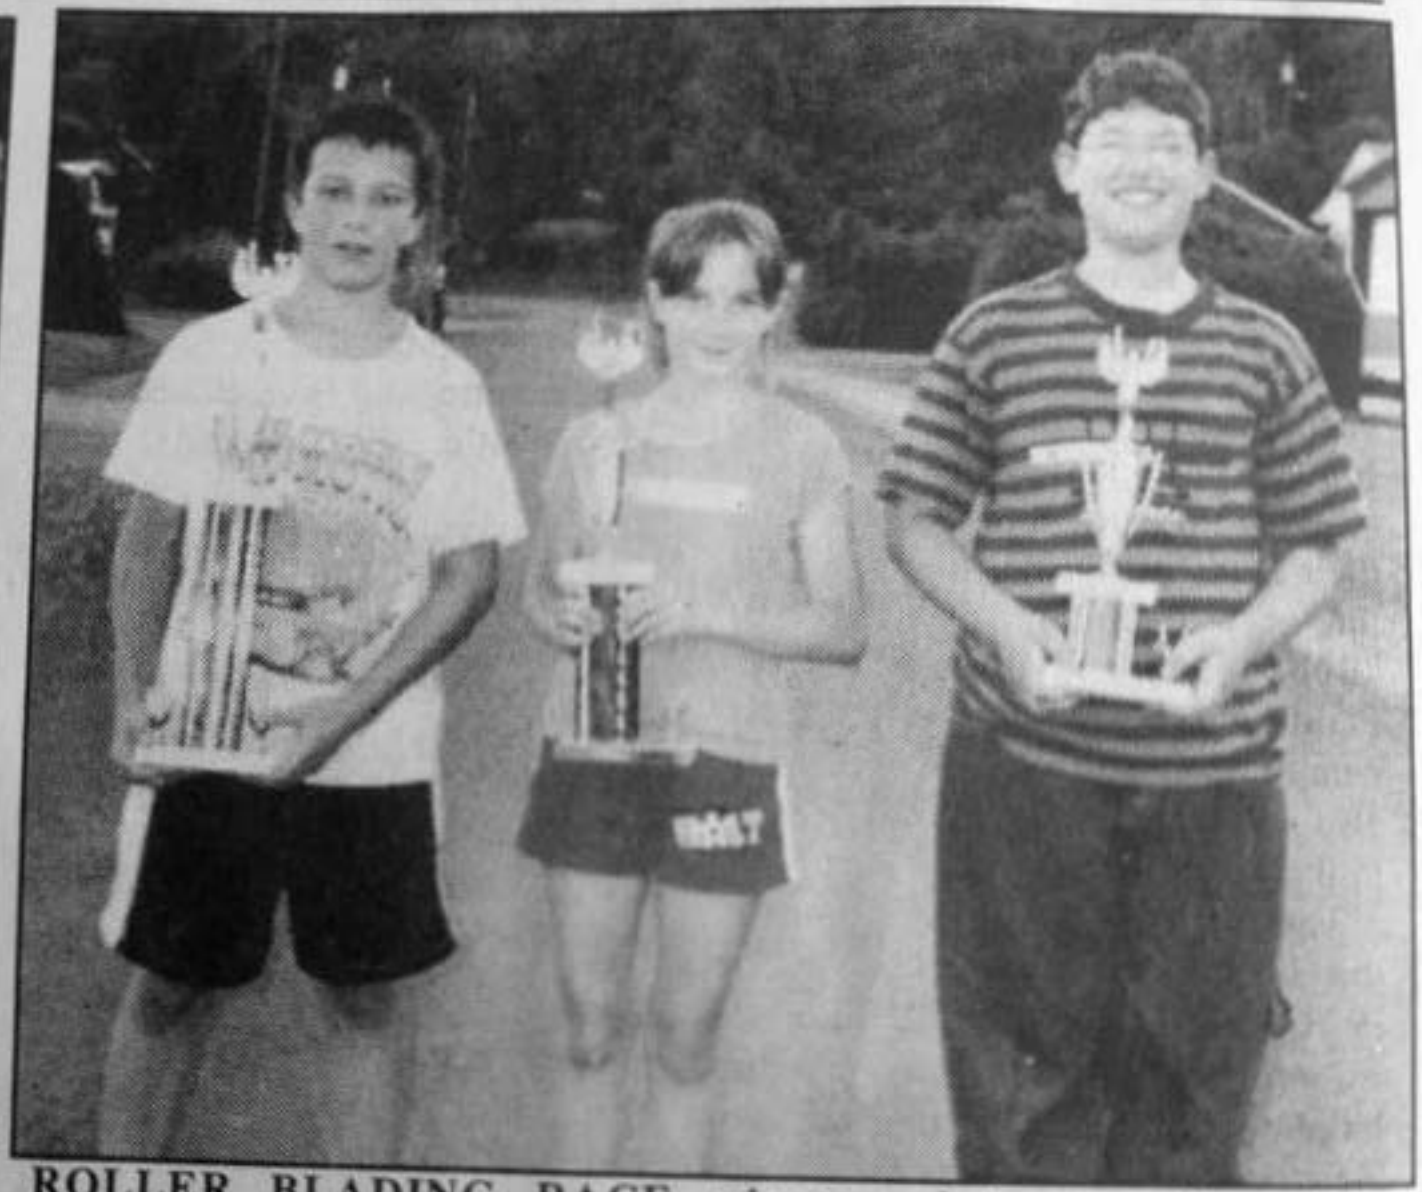
Virginia

l to r - 1st place, , Jerry Stewart, of of Bartow.



ROLLER BLADING RACE winners: l to r - 1st place, Chance Wathers, of Durbin; 2nd place, Lisa Cogar, of Virginia; 3rd place, Jason Dilley, of Durbin.

Durbin Days 2001
Horseshoe Winners

Men's Doubles:

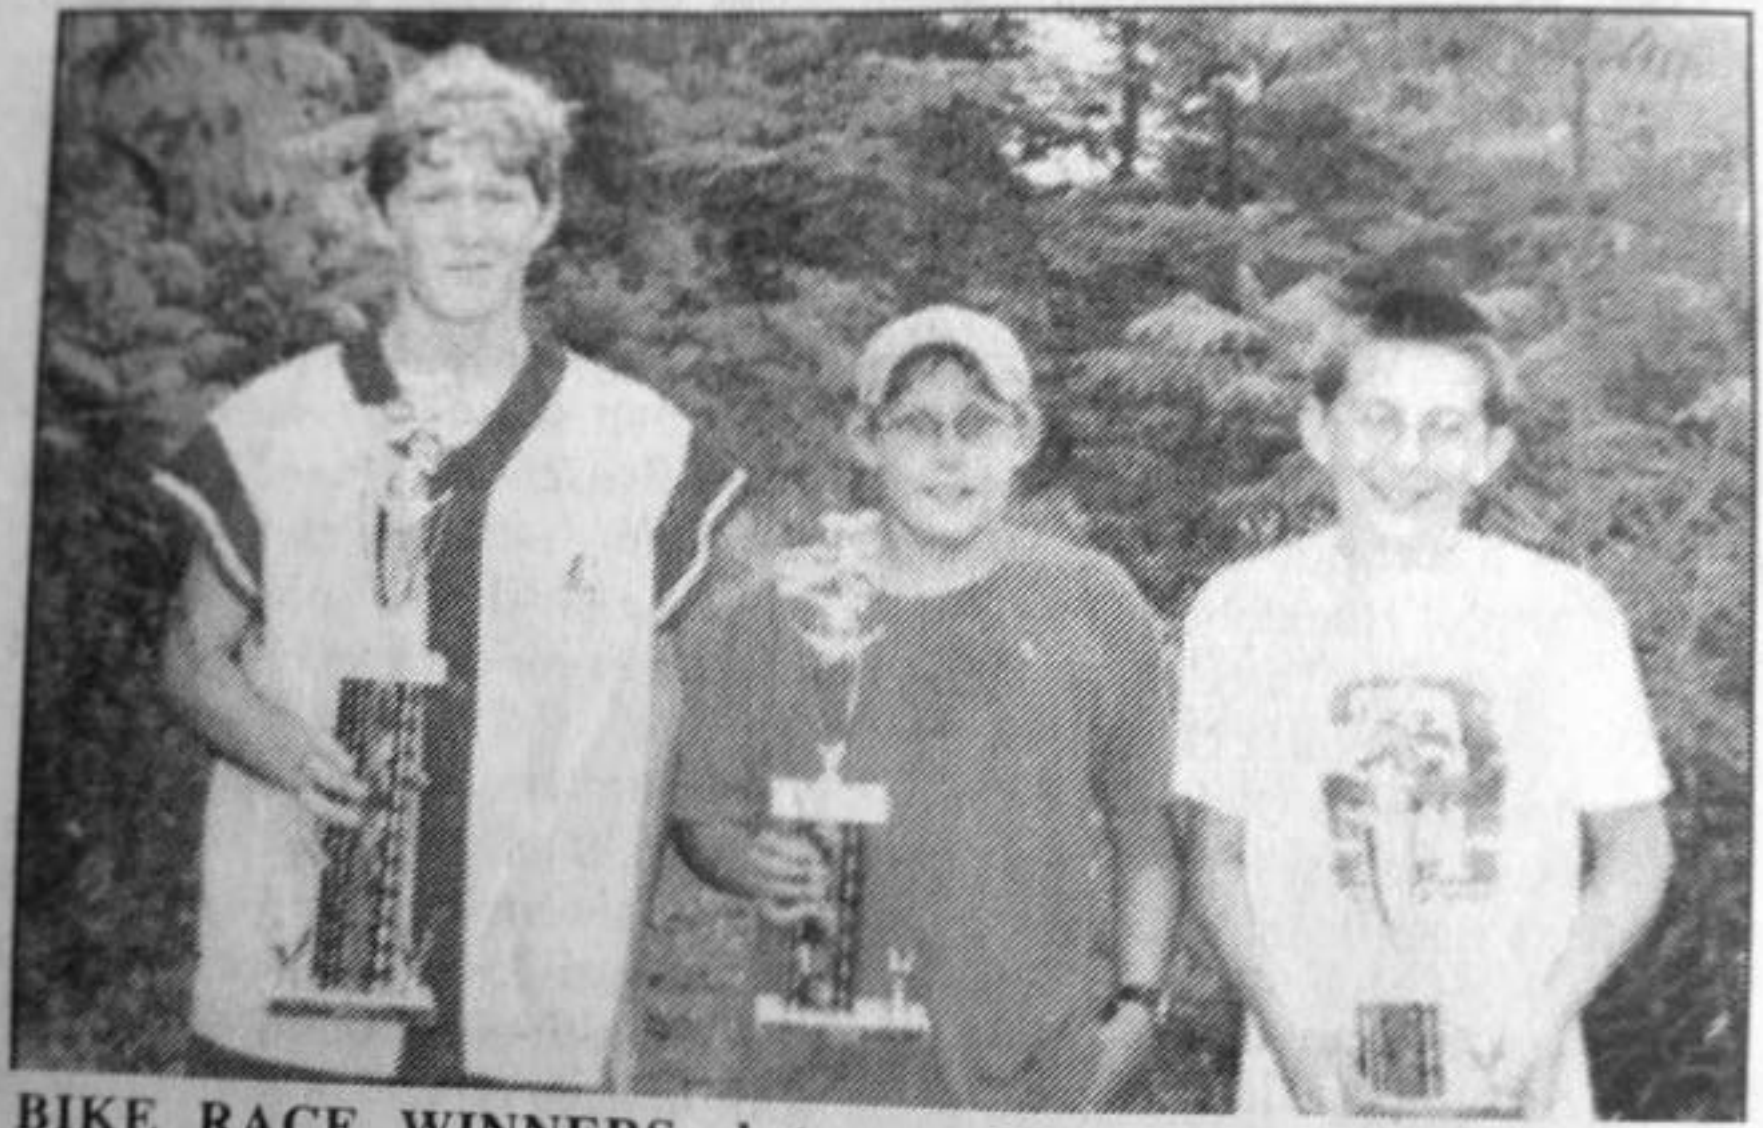
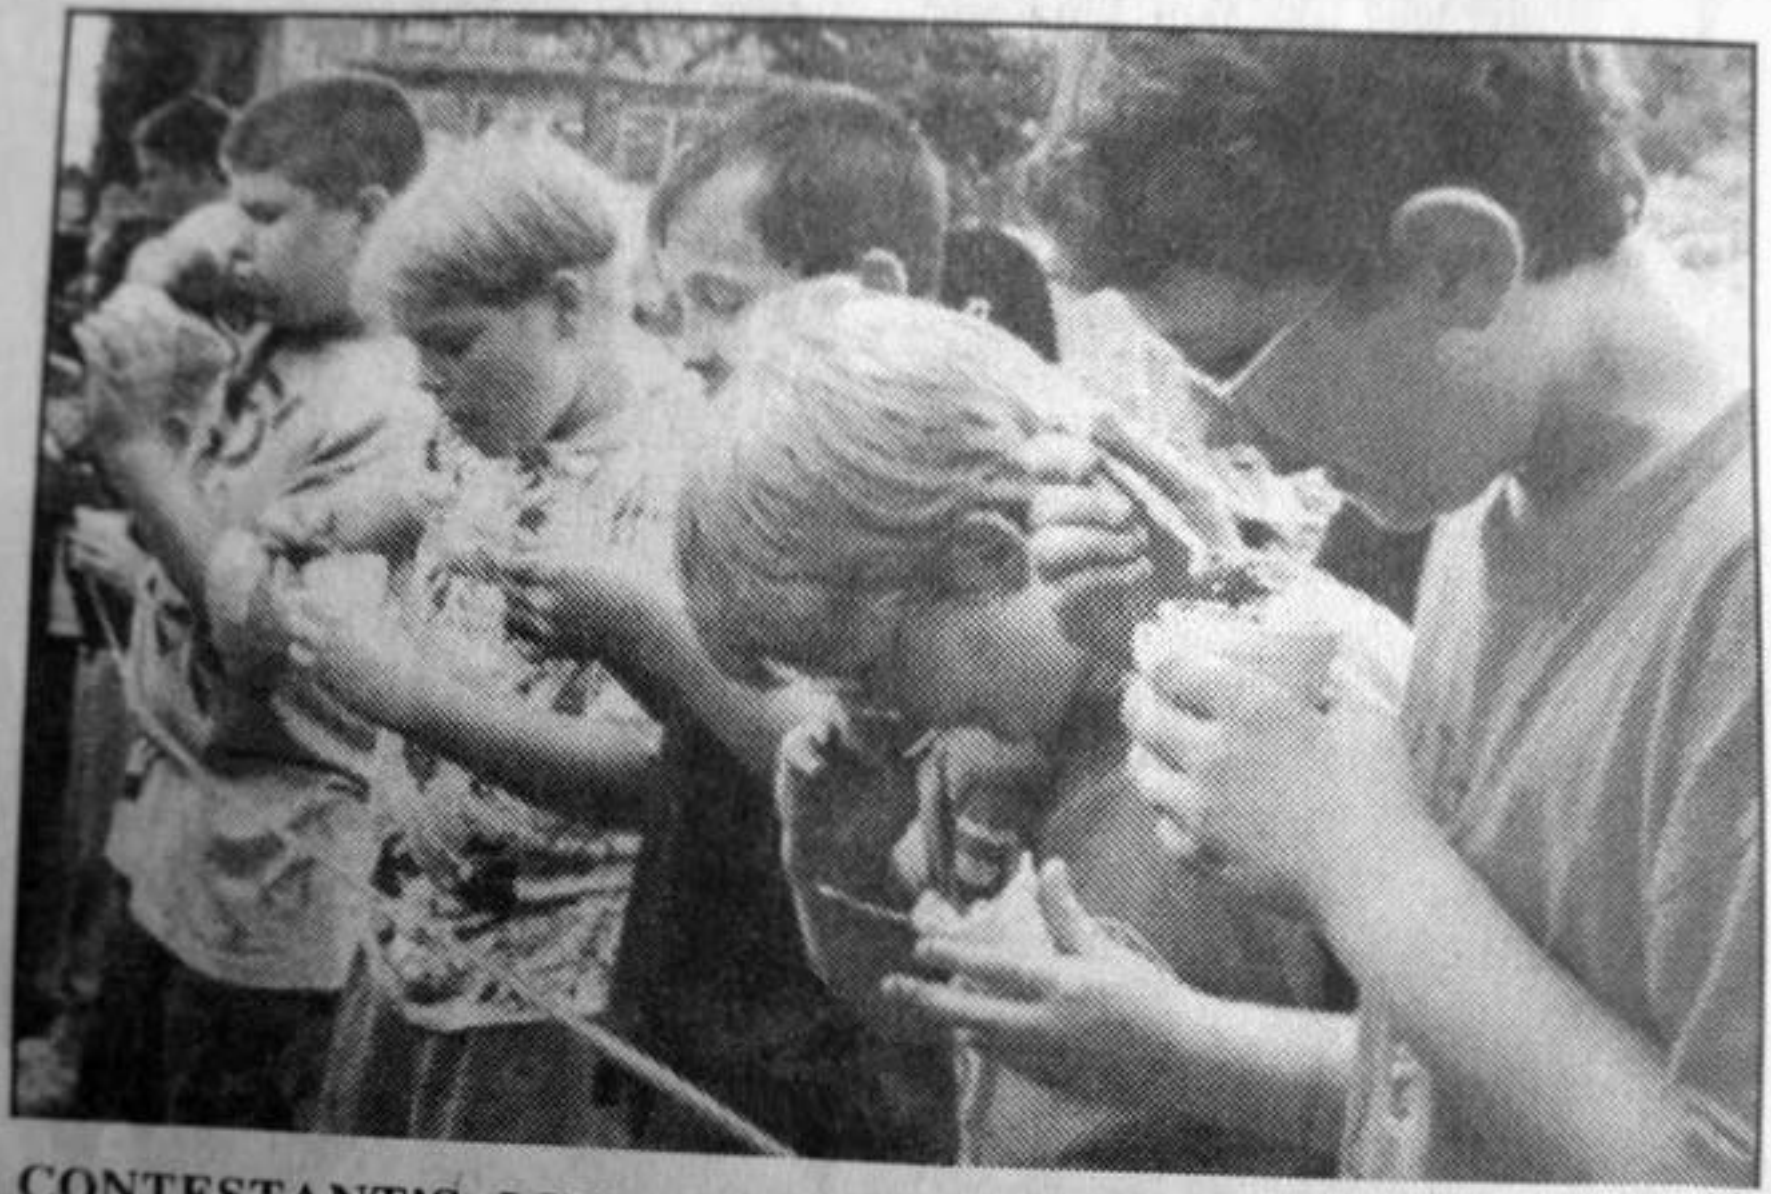
1st place: Ron Gear and Jerl place, Angela Warner, 3rd place, Chance Wathers.



BIKE RACE WINNERS: l to r - 1st place, Nekitta Ward, 2nd place, Mike Cromer, 3rd place, Cole Kreme.

2nd place, Mike Cromer, 3rd place, Cole Kreme.



CONTESTANT'S LINE UP for Pie Eating Contest

SHAWN CARR, OF Bartow, wins the Greased Pig Contest, 20 years old and up event.

Problem Gambling Symptom #10

Borrows money to gamble.

Marlinton; 3rd place, Doug Vandevander, of Bartow.

WOMEN'S SINGLES HORSESHOE winners: l to r - 1st place, Maranda Vandevander, of Bartow; 2nd place, Ruth Weber, of South Charleston.

WOMEN'S DOUBLES HORSESHOE winners: l to r - 1st place, Maranda Vandevander, of Bartow, and Patsy Nicholas, of Cherry Grove; 2nd place, Ashley Weber, of Charleston, and Amy Burns, of Bartow; 3rd place, Tara Cutlip and Shirley Dunbrack, both of Marlinton.

ROLLER Chance W Virginia; 3

GREASED
winner: Taylor, of years old

Fanta-S Jeff 304-

RE
If you ha

Chance Wathers, of Durbin; 2nd place, Lis Virginia; 3rd place, Jason Dilley, of Durbin.

Durbin Da Horseshoe

Men's Doubles:

1st place: Ron Louk, of New Jers

2nd place: Har
and Slab Bennett,

3rd place: Rus Herschel Cooper,

Durbin
Tug-of-Wa

1st place - Int
2nd place - Mi place - Clearwate es; 4th place - Gr

r - 1st ce, Ruth

GREASED PIG CONTEST winner: 1st place, Justin Taylor, of Durbin, 14 to 19 years old age group.

Fanta-Sea Solar Pool

J Quality

Liqui Sa 2001 on Only 2002

ROLLER BLADING RACE winners: l to r - 1st place, Chance Walters, of Durbin; 2nd place, Lisa Cogar, of Virginia; 3rd place, Jason Dilley, of Durbin.

Durbin Days 2001
Horseshoe Winners

Men's Doubles:

1st place: Ron Gear and Jerl Louk, of New Jersey.

2nd place: Harold Vandevander and Slab Bennett, of Cherry Grove.

3rd place: Russell Cooper and Horschel Cooper, of Charleston.

Durbin Days 2001
Tug-of-War Winners

1st place - Interstate Hardwood; 2nd place - Micks Logging; 3rd place - Clearwater Timber Resources; 4th place - Grimes Enterprise

Birth

Birthday

On June 23, Be children, Martha Thomas honored a birthday celeb their cousins fro family.

Most of these each other for y fun getting to k to be with an their Aunt Bet
the only men
"Bob" Jordan families livin aunt these you also invited al
in the county.

The birthd
the Oak Grov in Hillsboro.
Elmore bles birthday wish Ness's dau Amazing G Martha gave her mother's

Friends, r to the recre birthday cak sin, Jean M Burdette bl evening the
at The Brie Sunday nephews a breakfast a

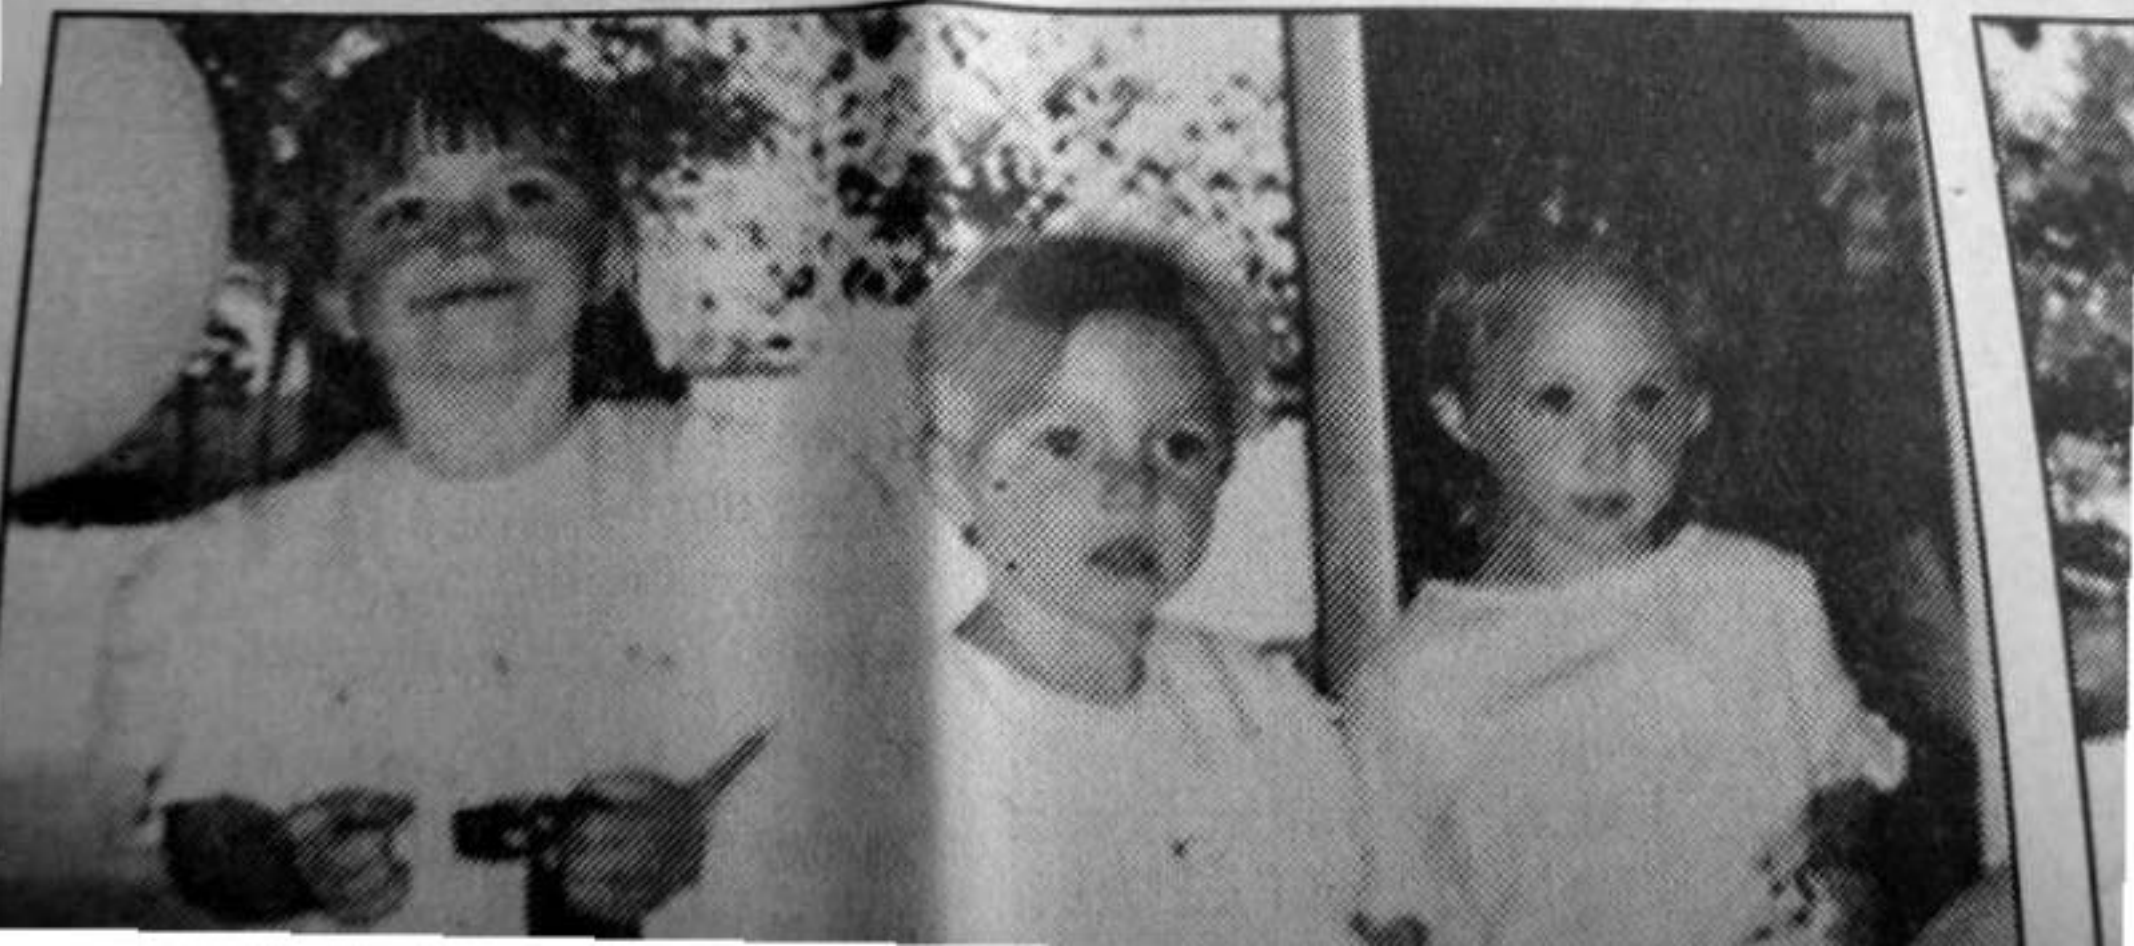
Durbin Days Pageant 2001



QUEEN FOR 0 - 6 month age group, Diana Birchfield

HAR Runn girls month field

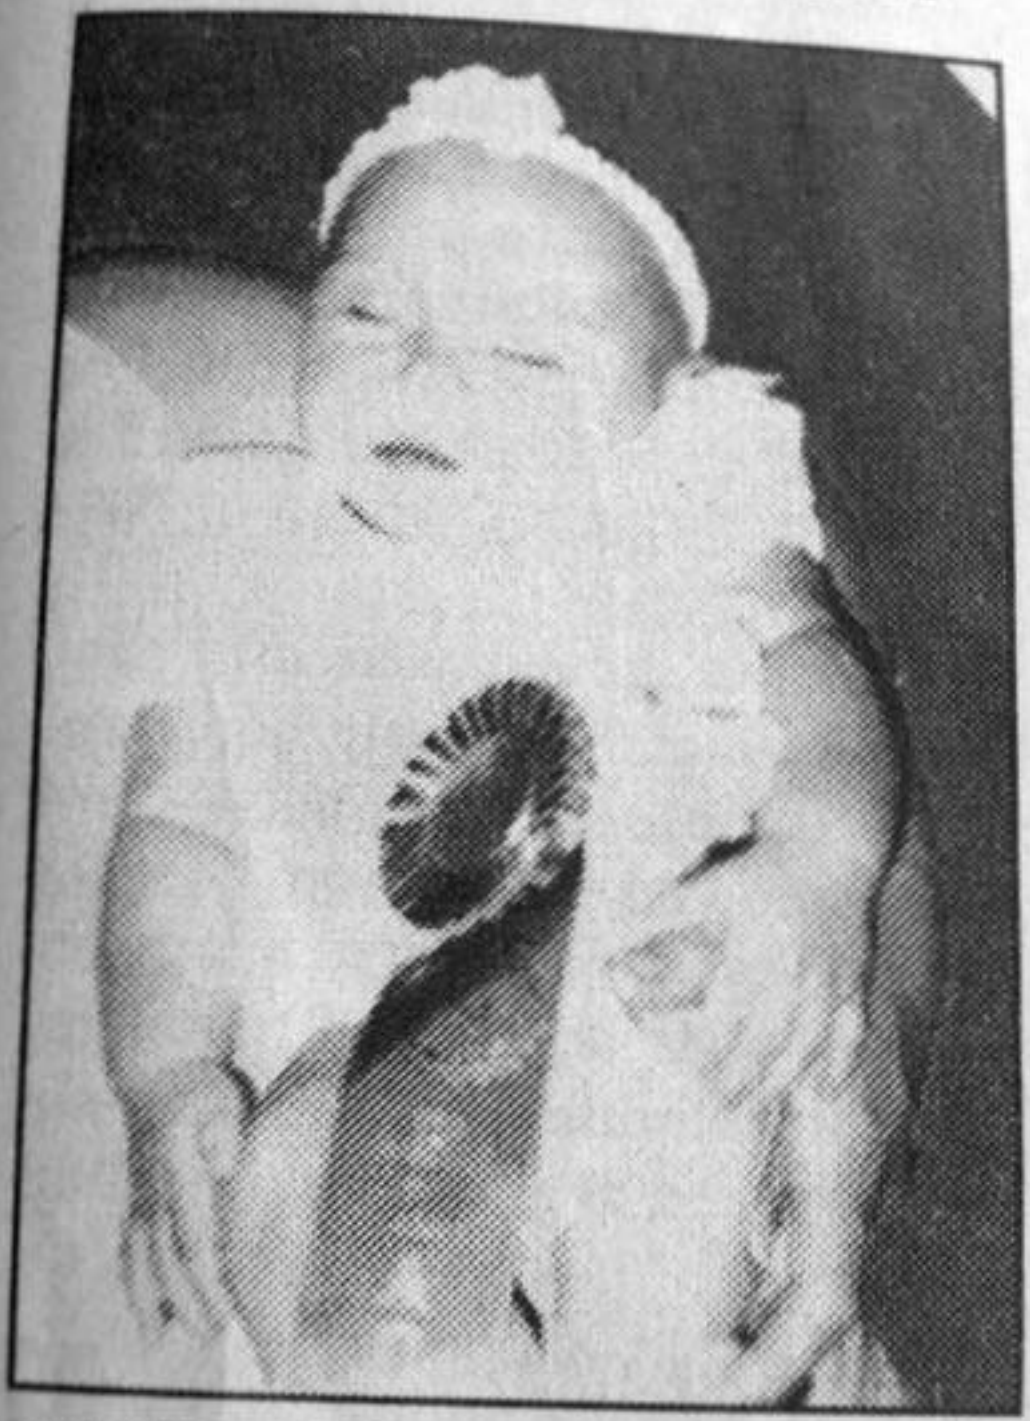
HARLEY BENNETT, First Runner-up, one-year old girls

QUEEN FOR 0 - 6 month age group, Diana Birchfield



FIRST RUNNER-UP for the 0 - 6 month age was Elisabeth McDaniel

HARLE Runner girls

SECO
one-y Savan

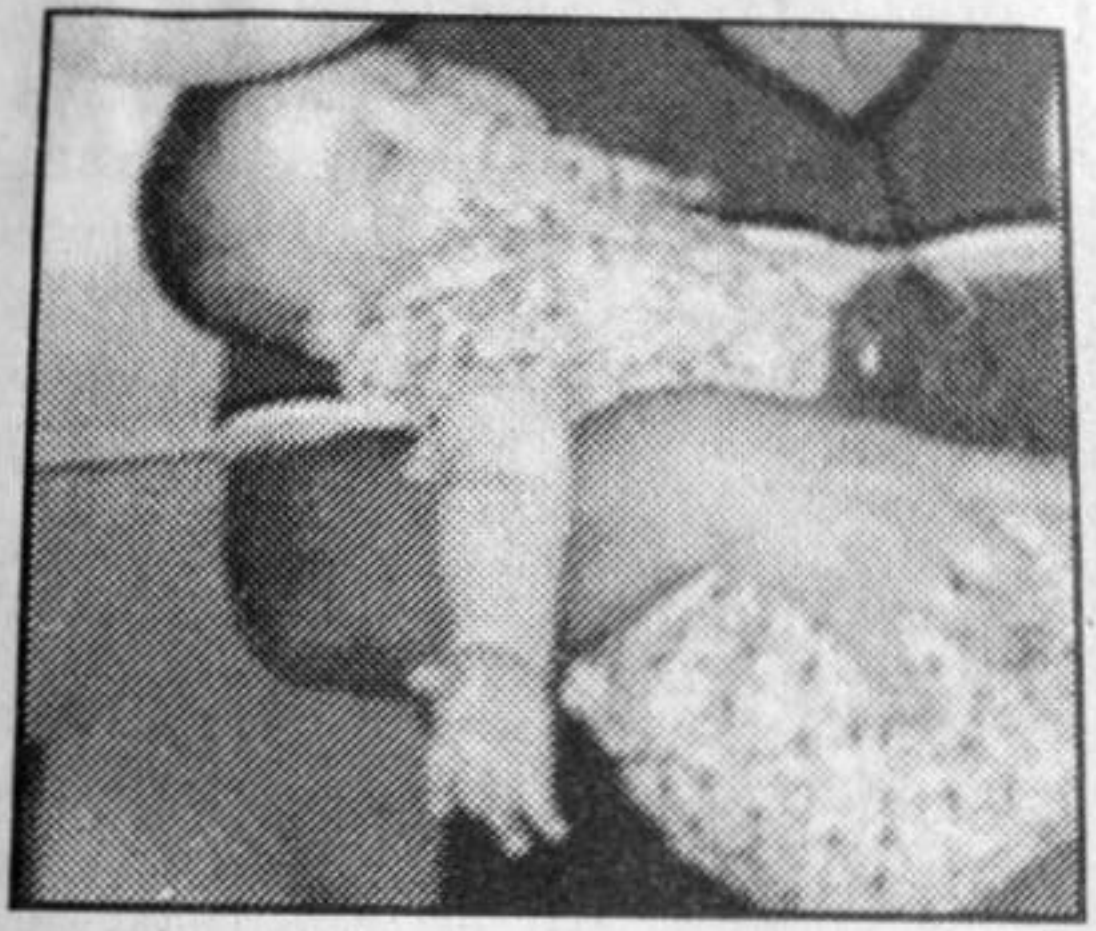
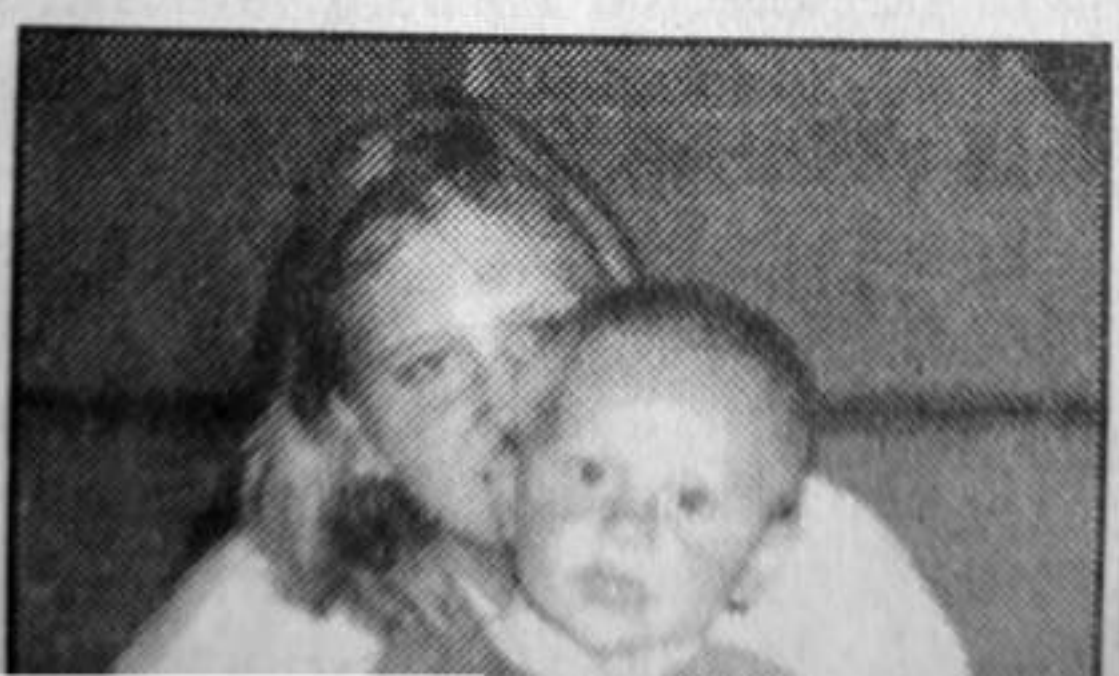
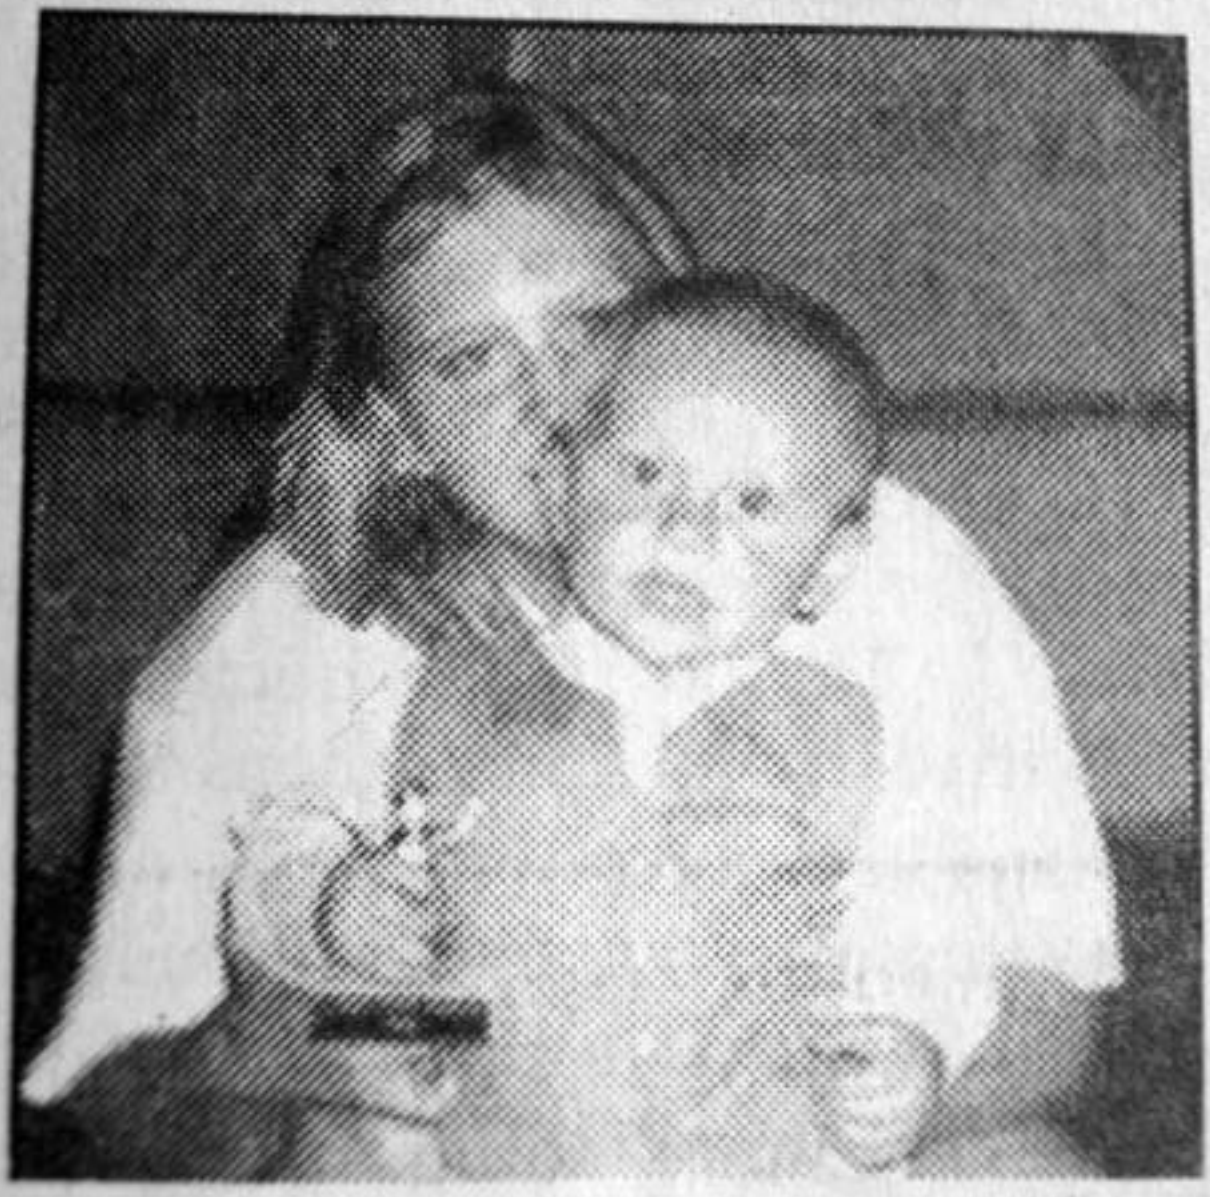
HARLEY BENNETT, First Runner-up, one-year old girls



SECOND RUNNER-UP for one-year old girls was Savannah Arbogast

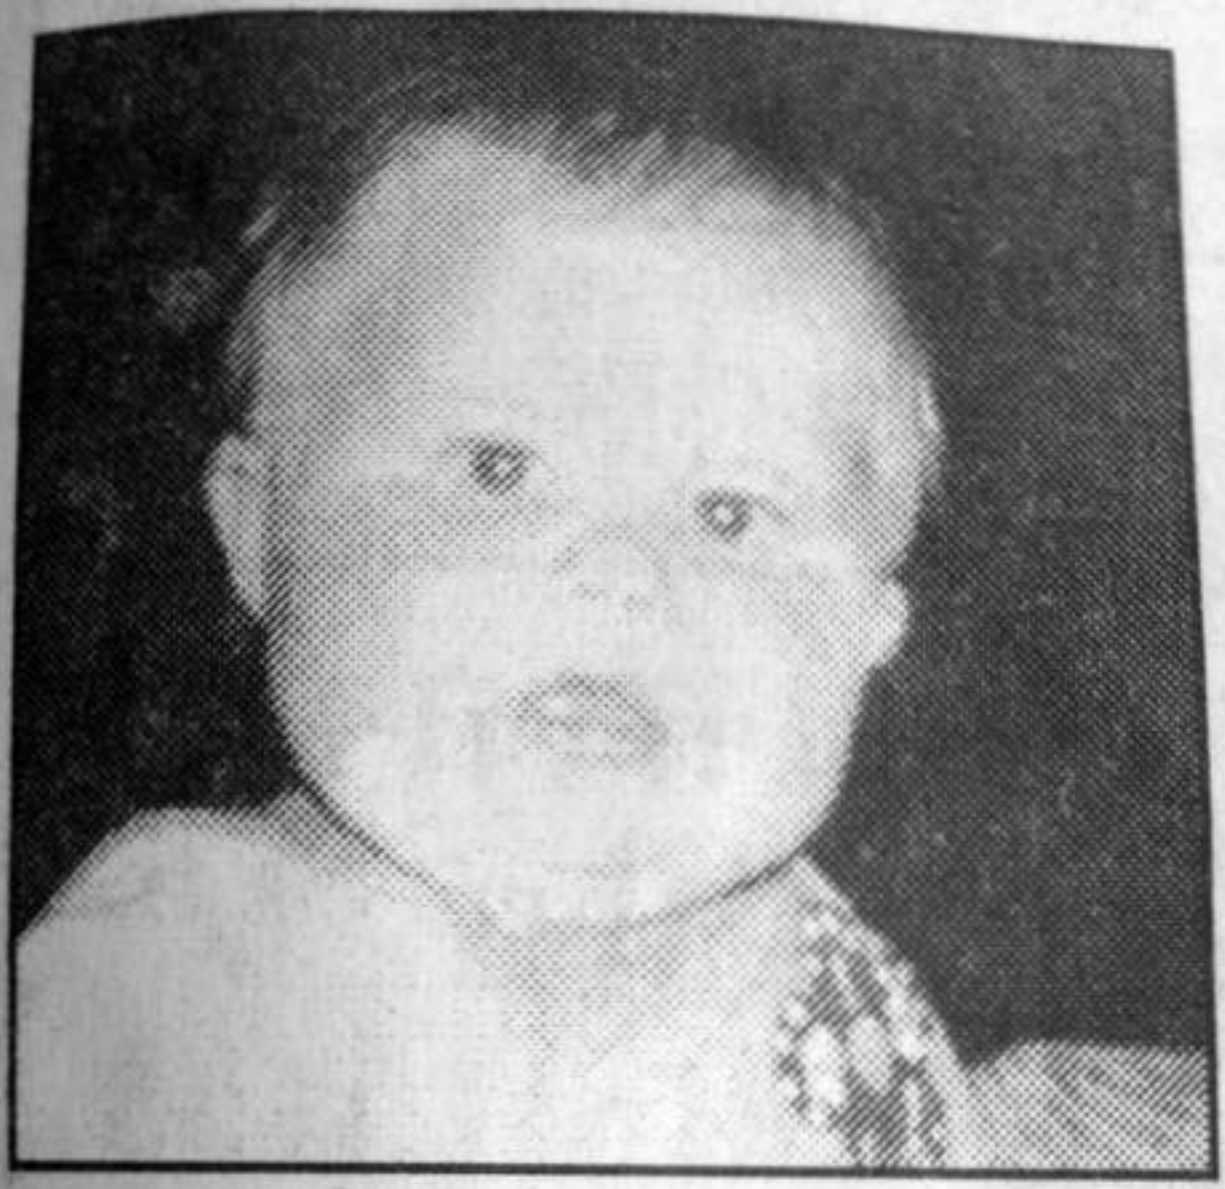


SECOND RUNNER-UP for one-year old girls was Savannah Arbogast



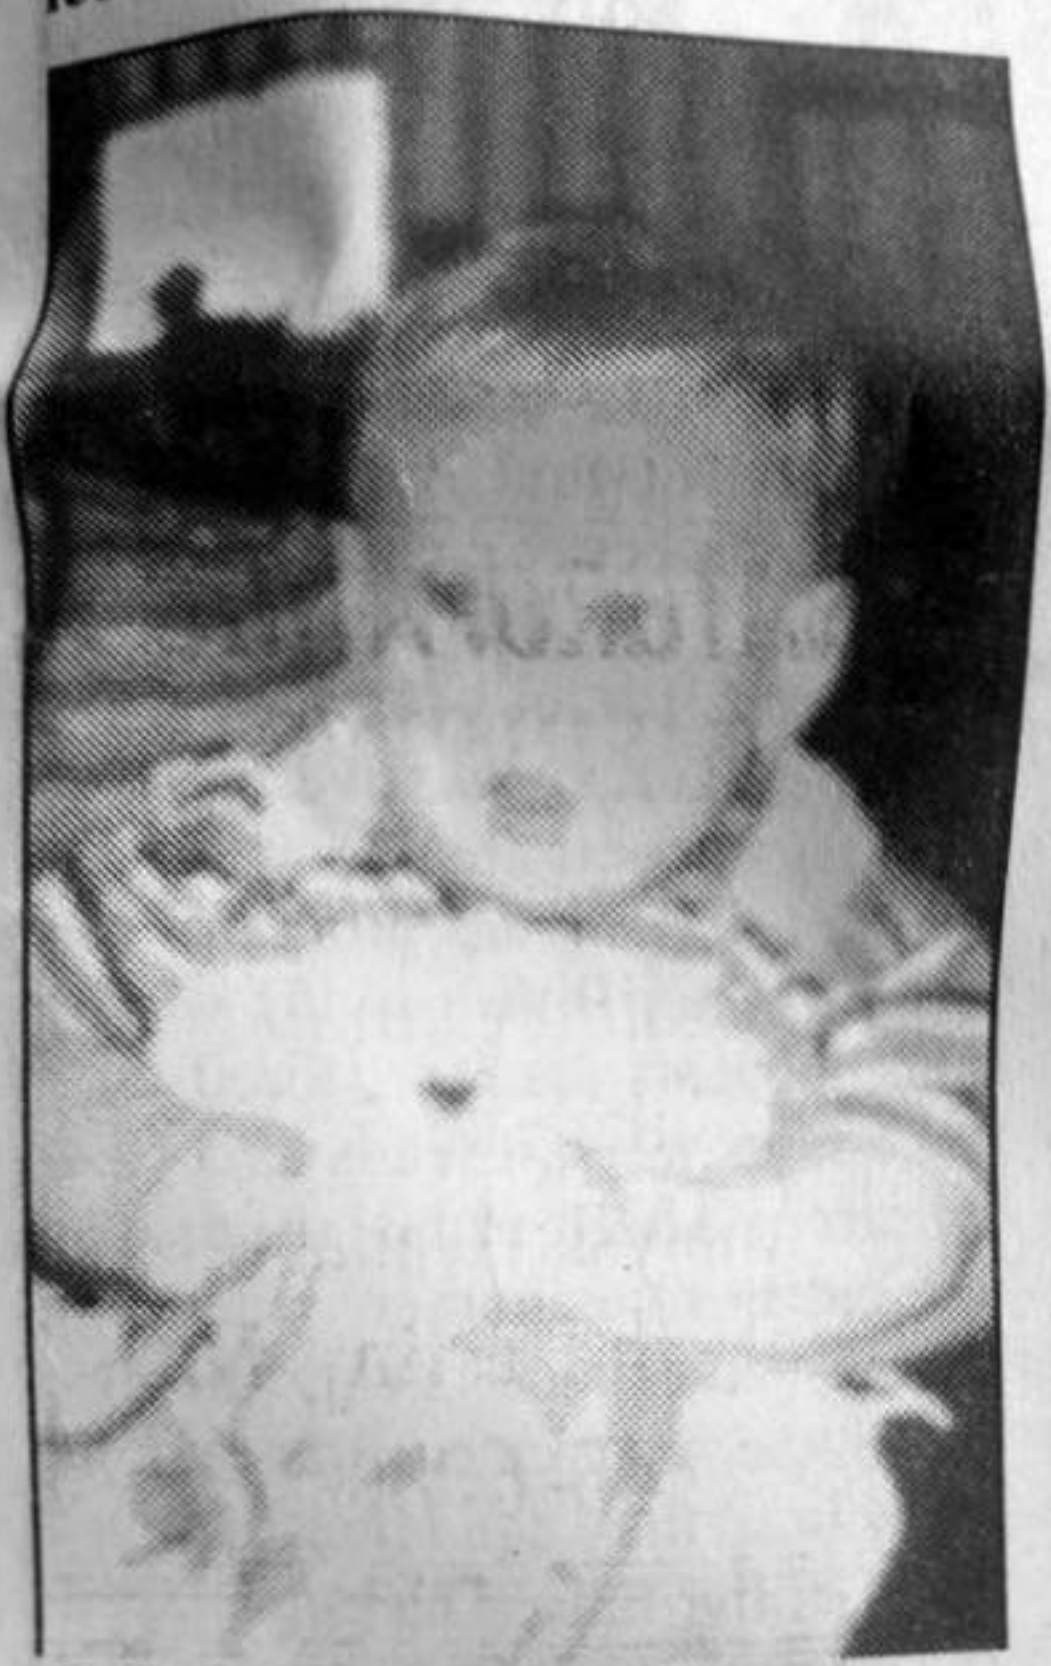
DALTON McDANIELS, King for one-year old age group

Beth McDaniel



THIRD RUNNER-UP for 0 - 6 age group, girls, was Kaylee Halterman

lee Ha



SEAN WILFONG, King, 7 - 11, month age group

TRAV for tw

DALTON McDANIELS, King for one-year old age group

TRAVIS ARBOGAST, King for two-year old boys

TRAVIS ARBOGAST, King for two-year old boys

JEFFERY TETER, King for three-year old age group

SEAN WILFONG, King, 7 - 11, month age group

KENYA BURNER, Queen, 7 - 11 month age group

JEFF
three

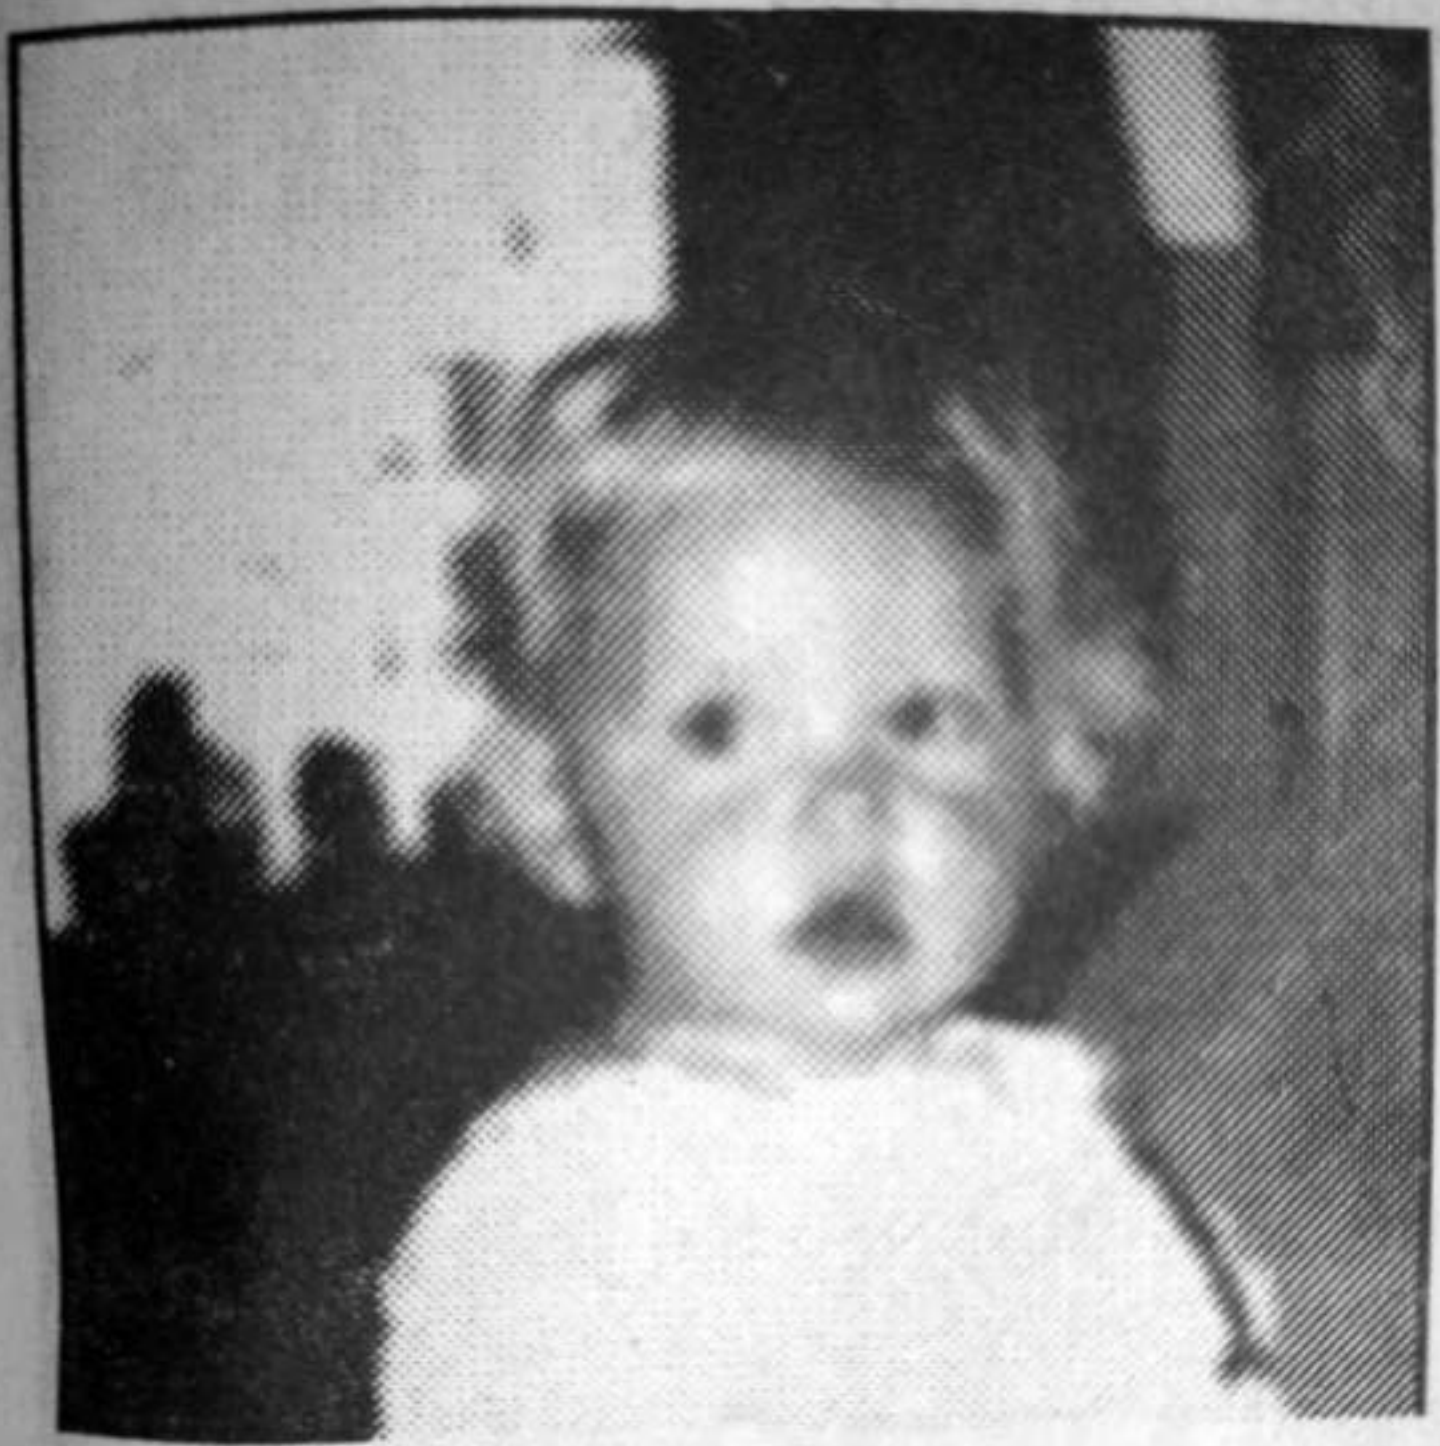
JEFFERY TETER, King for three-year old age group

JEREMIAH OBER was second runner-up in the three-year old boy competition.

KENYA BURNER, Queen, 7 - 11 month age group

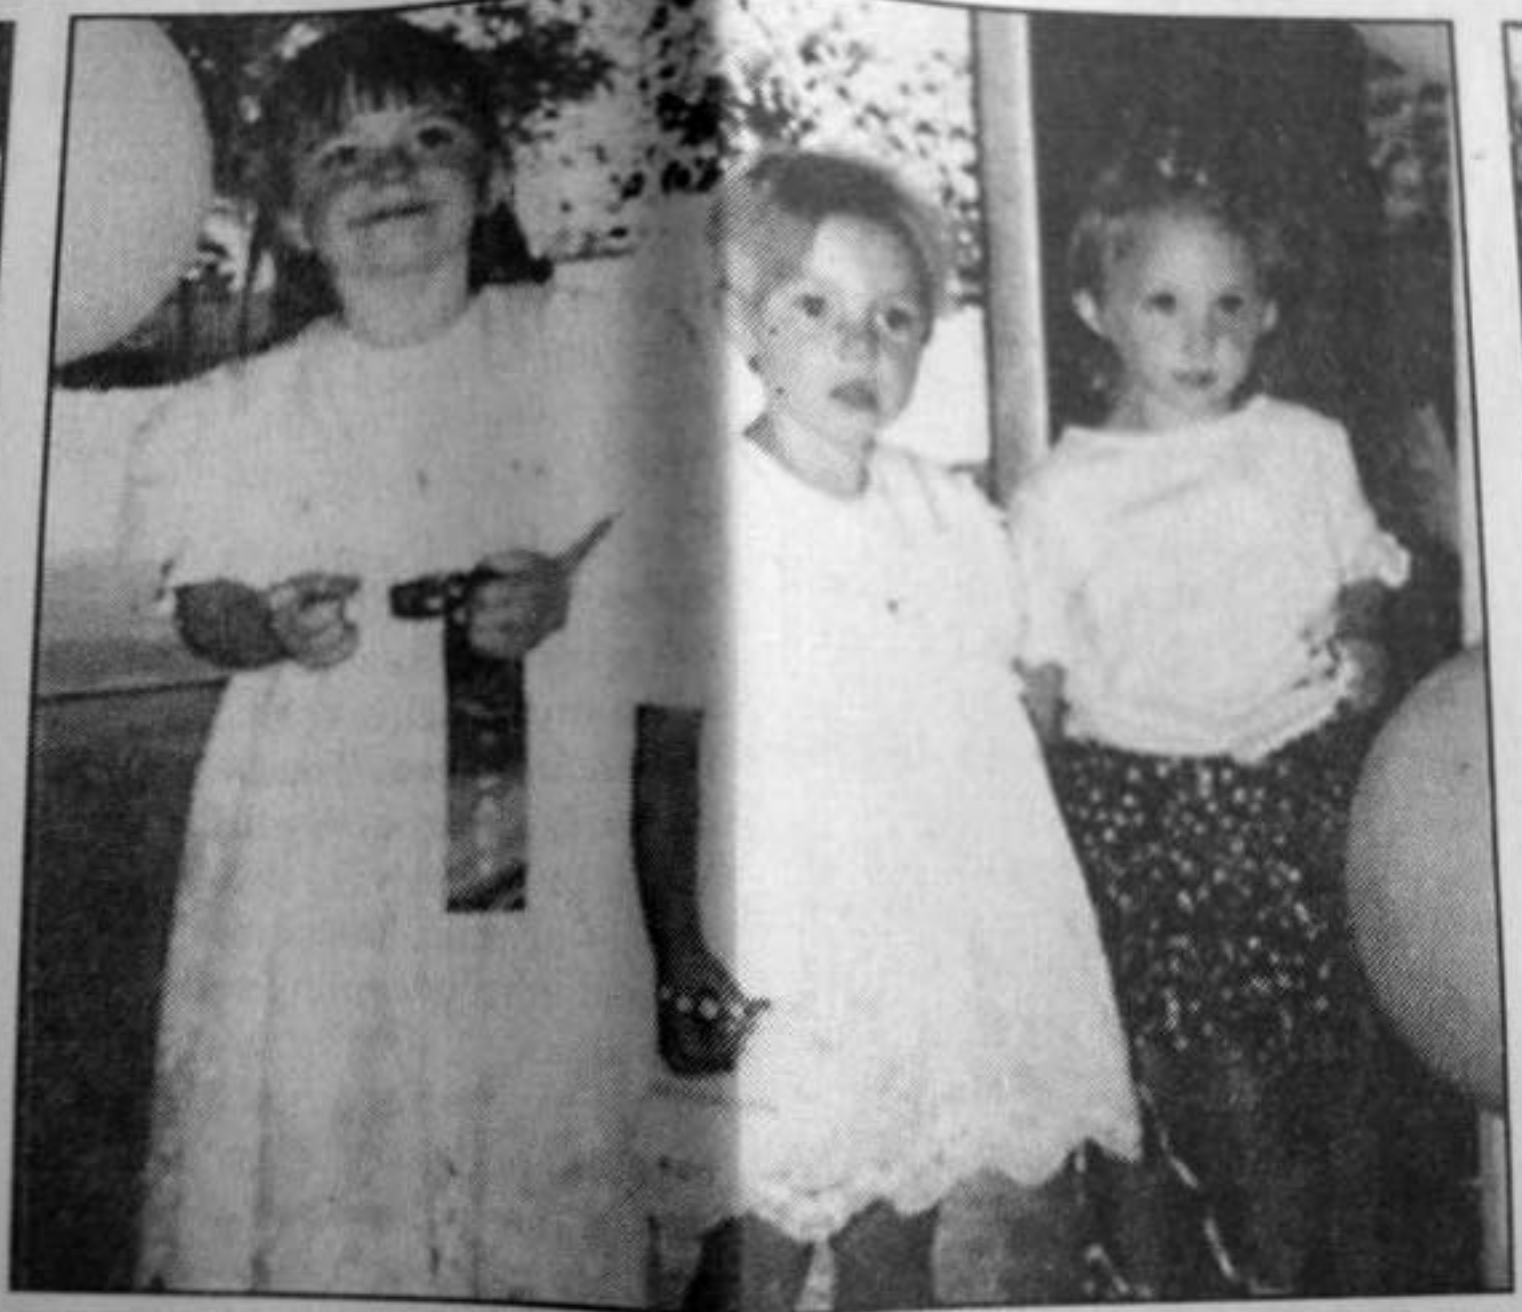
HARLIE NELSON, First Runner-up, 7 - 11 months, girls

Runner-up, 7 - 11 months, girls



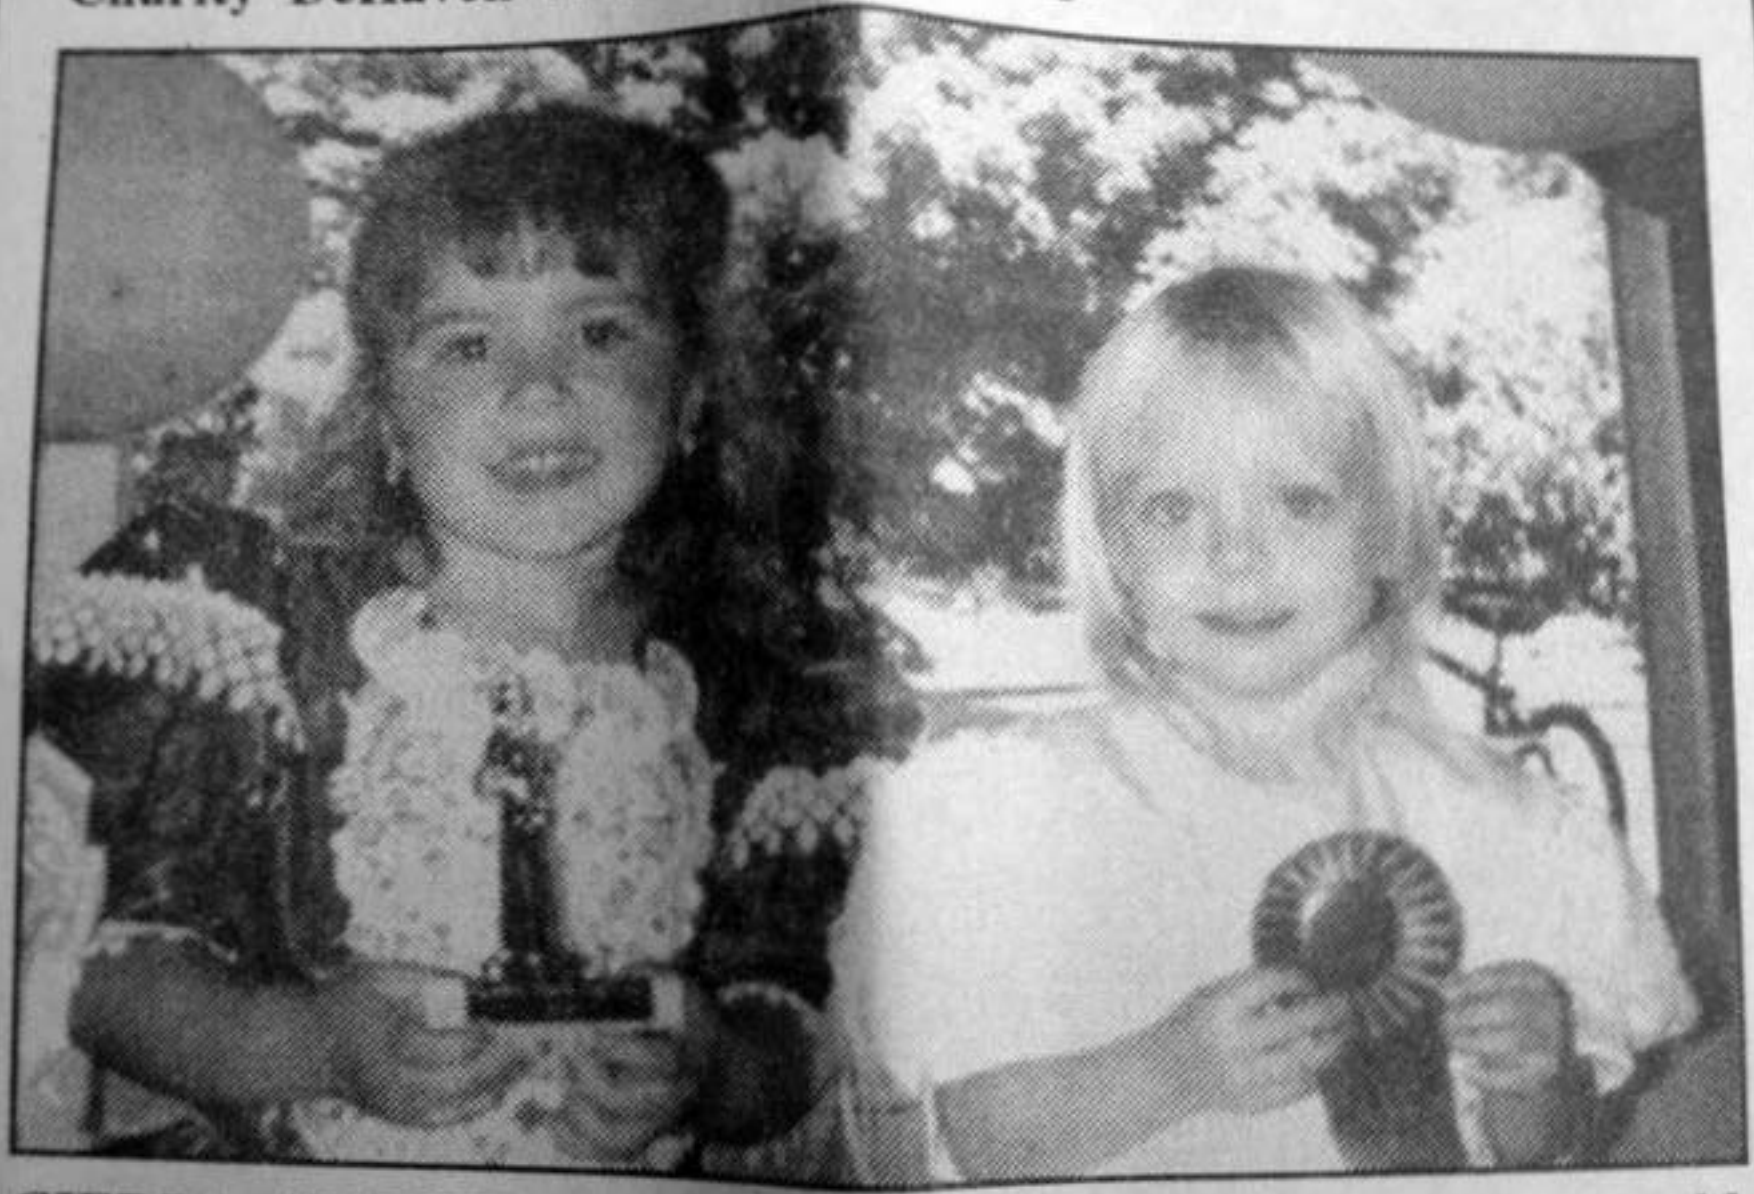
TARA WARNER, Queen for one-year old girls

Durbin Days Pageant 2001

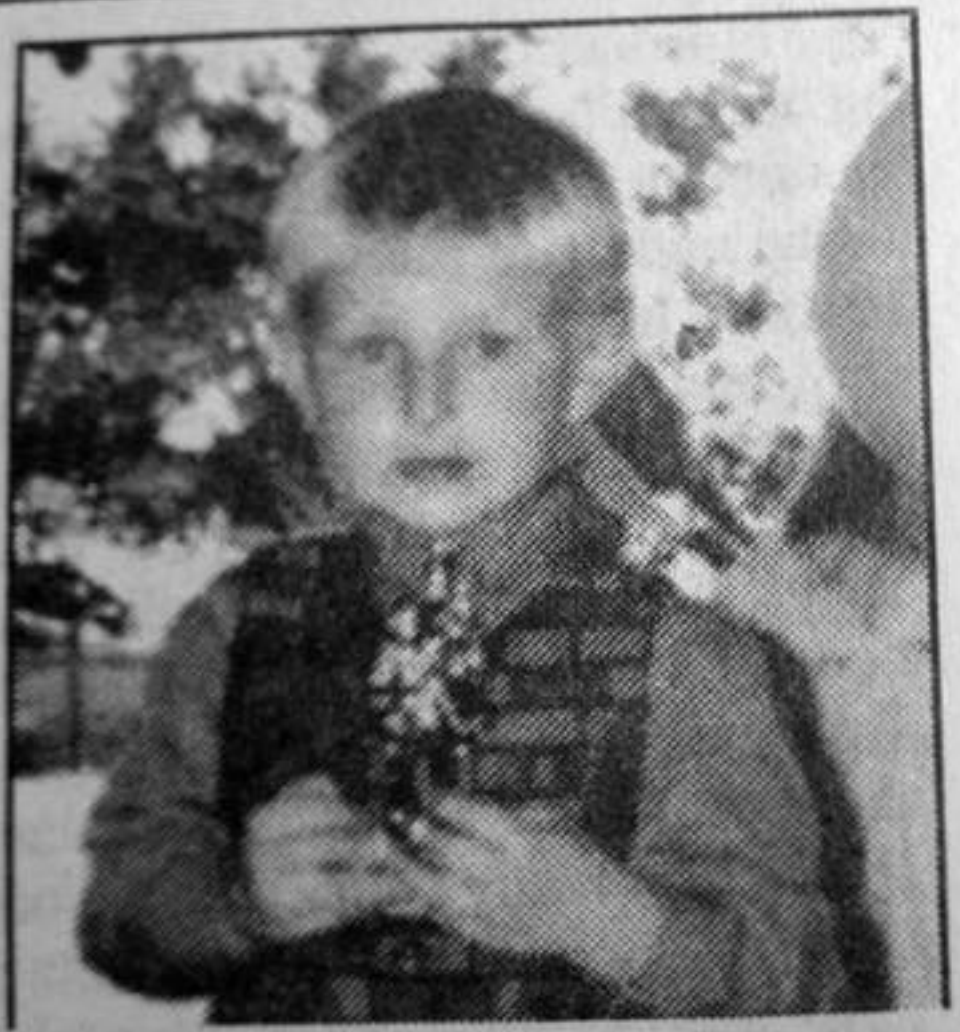


TIFFANY HOOVER, CENTER, was Queen for the two-year old age group, with Andra Stull, left, as First Runner-up and Charity DeHaven as Second Runner-up.

TIFFANY HOOVER, [illegible] Queen for the two-year old age group, with Andra Stull, left, as First Runner-up and Charity DeHaven as Second Runner-up.

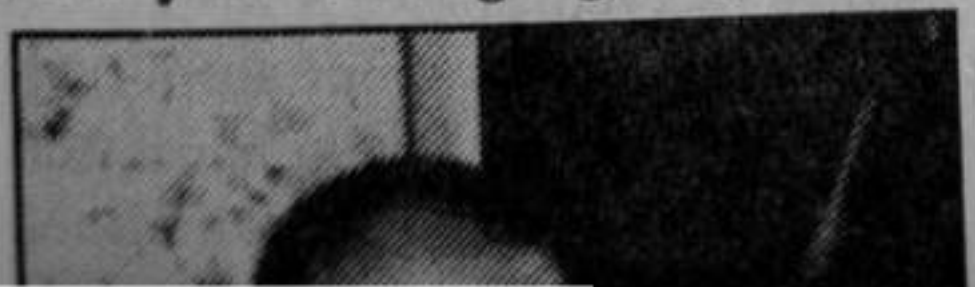


CIERRA WARNER, LEFT, was Queen for the three-year old age group and Kaila Peck was First Runner-up.

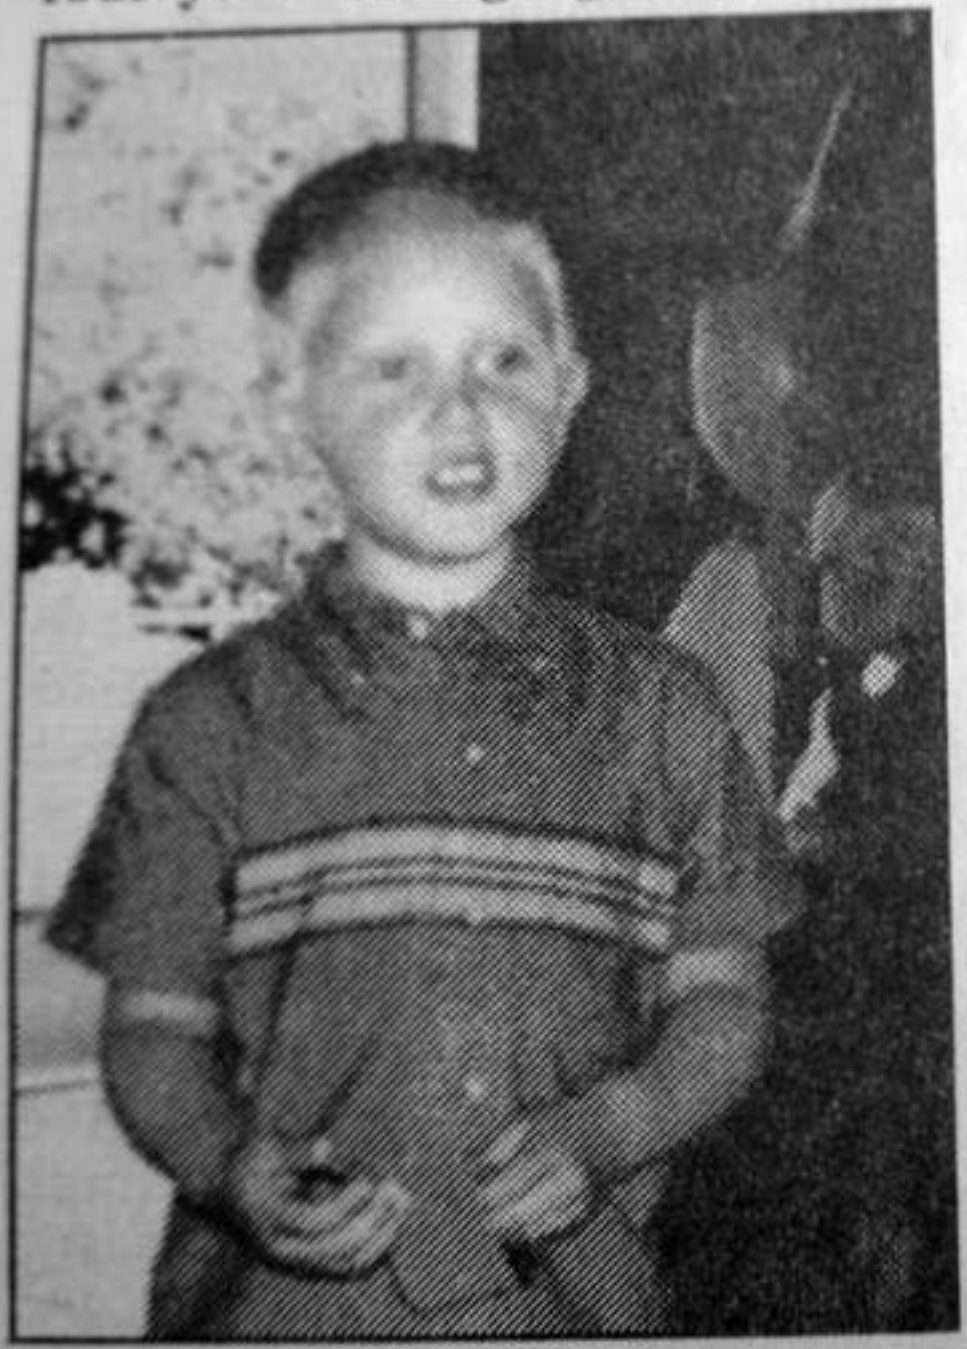


RYAN DOUGLAS, King for four-year old age group

COURTNEY REXRODE, Queen for four-year old girls



four-year old age group

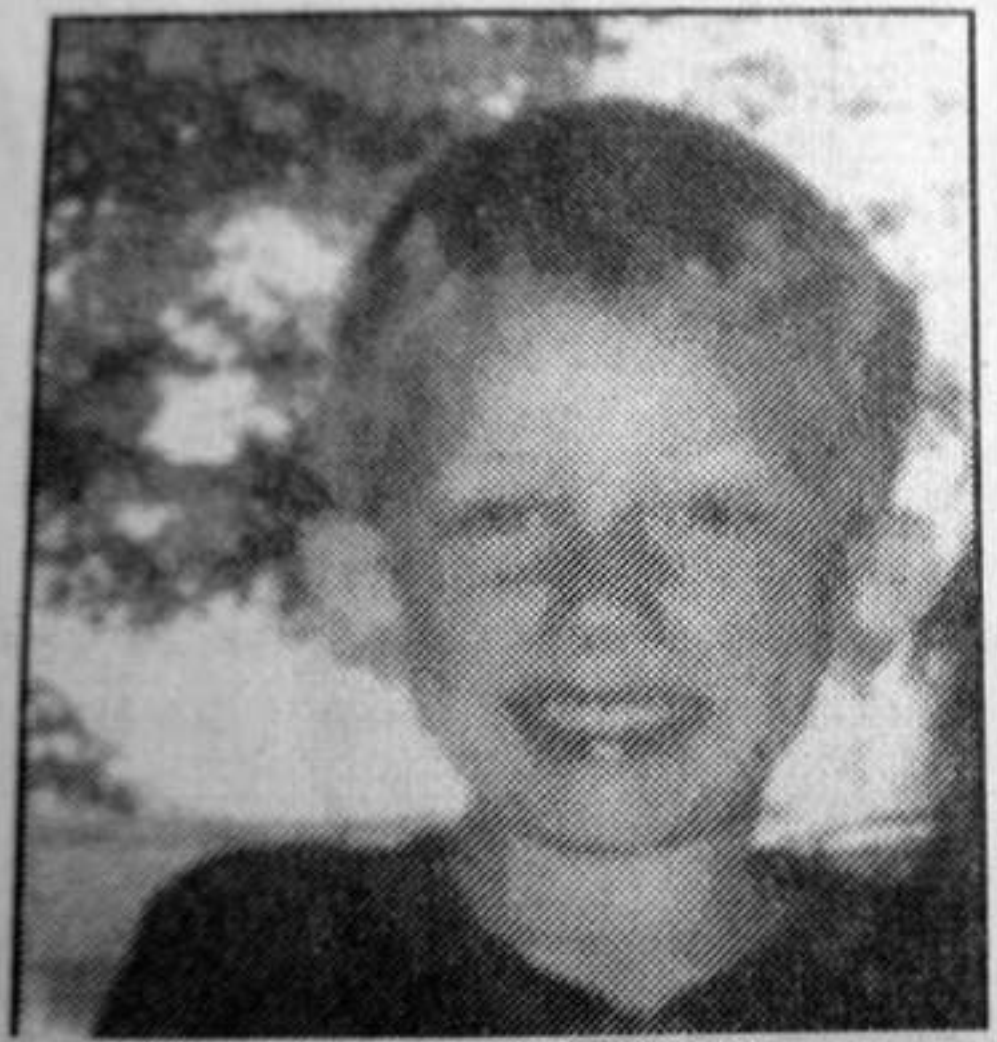


FIRST RUNNER-UP for four-year old boys was Austin DeHaven

Queen for four-year old girls

VANESSA VARNER, First Runner-up, four-year old girls

tin DeHaven



DEVIN SHEETS, Second Runner-up, four-year old boys

ALISHA TURNER, Second Runner-up, four-year old girls

Times

unty—The Birthplace of Rive

AUGUST 2, 2001 VOL.11

William Pritt

V. Pritt, age 66, of irginia, died Friday,

Fall

...County—The Birthplace of Rivers
... WEST VIRGINIA 24954 AUGUST 2, 2001 VOL.119 - N

DEATHS

...ll
...ll, age 80, of
...day, July 28,
...s Memorial

...ember of the
... Lady Shrin-

...el, she was
...0, the daugh-
...and Ida Sue

...n Bell, pre-

... five sons,
... Lester, and
... Marlinton,
...t, Michigan,
...nassas, Vir-
...: White, of ...: grandchil-
...children.
... were held
...VanReenen
...Rev. Jerry

...e made to
...n's Fund.

...will meet
...the Scout
...lcome.

...ns To

Harrell William Pritt

Harrell W. Pritt, age 66, of Annandale, Virginia, died Friday, June 29, 2001, at his residence.

Born October 7, 1934, in Orange County, Virginia, he was the son of the late Lee W. and Hulda Marie Horner Pritt.

Mr. Pritt was an Army veteran and retired from Aircraft Owners & Pilots Association in Frederick, Maryland.

Survivors include his wife, Ellen, of Annandale; a daughter, Pamela E. McAteer, of Annapolis, Maryland; three sons, Gregory H. Pritt, of Springfield, Virginia, Bryan N. Pritt, of Annandale, and Kevin W. Pritt, of Springfield; three brothers, Lee Pritt, Jr., Earl Pritt, and Clarence Pritt, all of Culpeper, Virginia.

He was preceded in death by a sister, Charlene Ford.

A memorial service was held at the National Funeral Home Chapel in Falls Church, Virginia, on Monday, July 2, with a private graveside service on Friday, July 13, in the Culpeper National Cemetery with the Rev. Bill Ponn officiating.

POCAHONTAS MEMORIAL HOSPITAL

Admissions

Fallin Prices

Original Boss upright •Powerful motor
•6-position carpet height adjustment
•Triple filter bag system
$69.99
SAVE $10
Model 1934

in jail in

of Mar-Magistrate
nday and e of bat-75 with e charge
Tpr. D.

stivals

, and neet on 0 a.m.

in the esday, any cation, 52.

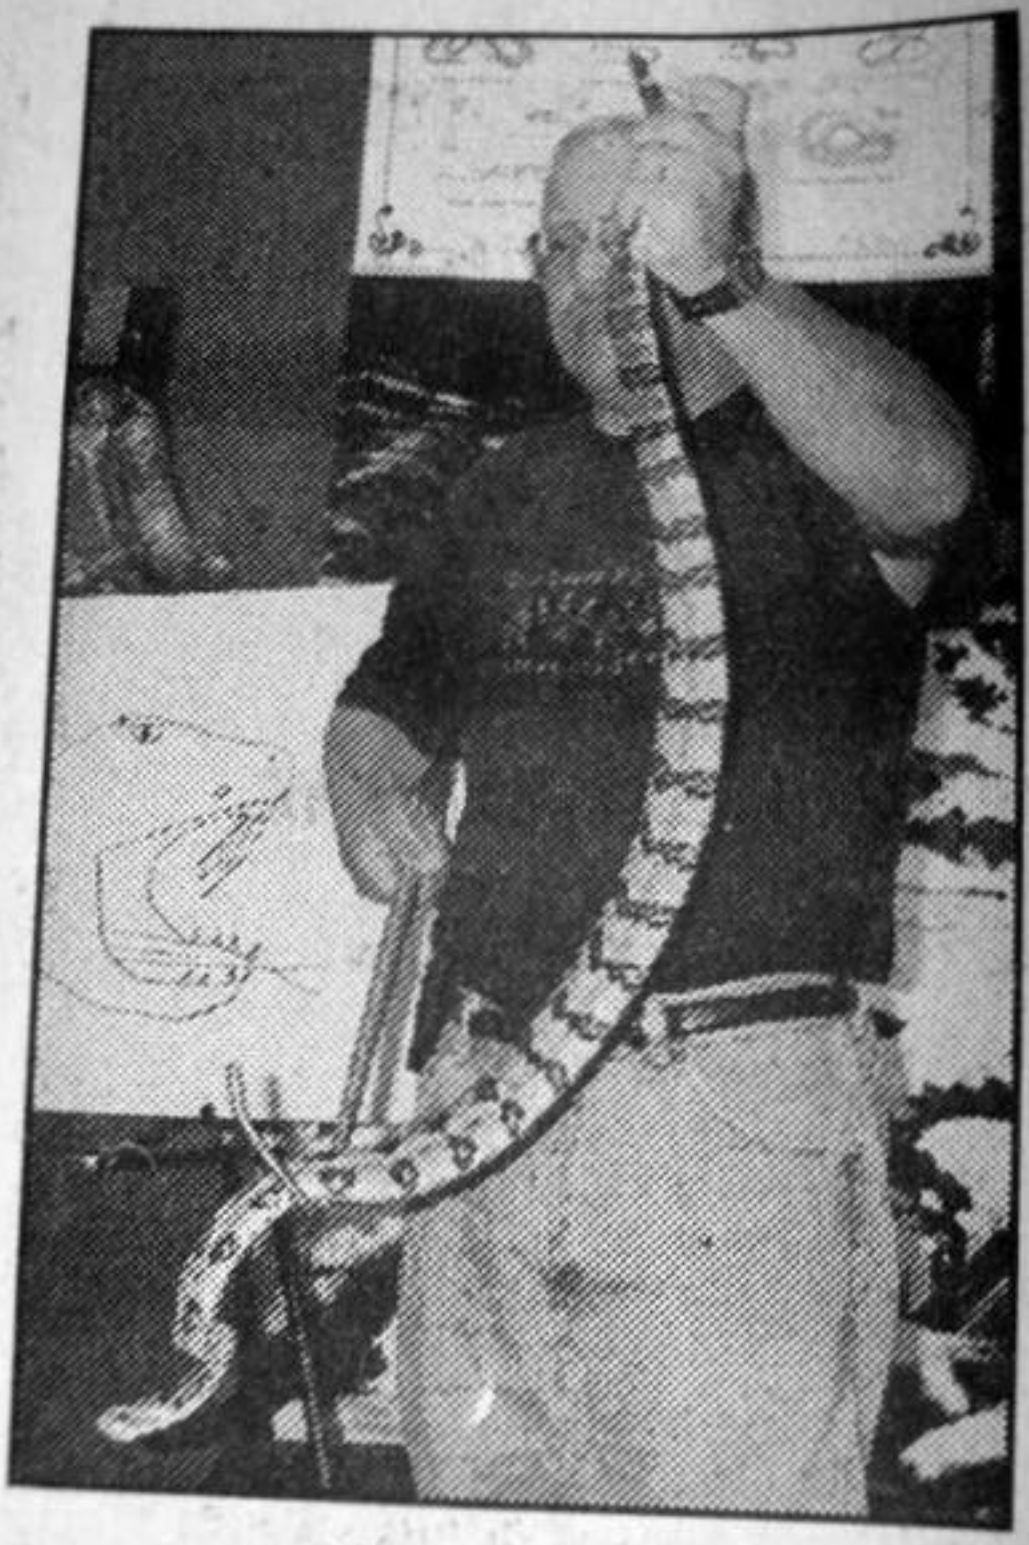
ar!

salamanders, frogs and toads.



ROY MOOSE shows the full length of one of his rattle snakes.

get their children essful school year.
nia Healthy Kids couraging parents re not covered by o put enrolling for D at the top of ol checklist.
r, parents prepare school by buying upplies," said the Wilson, Chairperalthy Kids Coalie Director of the Churches. "We ure that getting age is a priority coverage helps s healthy, and etter prepared to s may not be ldren may qualin fact, eligibility to include many amilies. A fame up to $32,000

for CHIP. Eli-family size and lies with higher be eligible for re coverage

time and the West Virginia Youth Symphony will perform at some free at [illegible] or go on-line at snowshoemtn.com.

CHILDREN GATHER AROUND Roy Moose and one of his snakes during the Kid's Night program at the Cranberry Mountain Nature Center on Saturday.

Creepy Crawlies take over sound acoustics, and lig comfort and usability; co seating; and importantly ambience that exudes a warm atmosphere.

Hillsboro's spacious meeting room is used for ray of community purpo
ing blood drives, Girl Sc ing clubs, and civic small kitchen is availabl

Well over 30 differe tees, groups, clubs an have already used the n tic Library in its first y ence. Two meeting roo able, a smaller educati a larger multipurpose and chairs can be whatever combinatio purpose of a meeting.

The Green Bank Lib room continues to ha even though its siz adaptability is limited for the new buildi opening next sprin much larger and more

Circu

April 27

CHILDREN GATHER AROUND Roy Moose and one of his snakes during the Kid's Night program at the Cranberry Mountain Nature Center on Saturday.

Creepy Crawlies take over Cranberry Nature Center

by Beth Henry
Marshall Intern

Children touched a black snake and held sleeping frogs Saturday night when over 230 people gathered at the Cranberry Mountain Nature Center to learn about animals.

"It's always been a very successful program for us ... because animals can reach kids like nothing else can," said Jo Santiago, director of the nature center.

The three programs at Kid's Night gave children a chance to learn about snakes, amphibians and raptors.

Roy Moose, of Richwood, taught kids about poisonous and non-poisonous snakes of West Virginia.

Moose said he hoped that people "will learn about snakes and be more tolerant of snakes."

He showed showed a black rat snake, the largest snake in West Virginia. He also held up three timber rattlers.

He described the characteristics of poisonous snakes, such as cat-like eyes, arrow-shaped heads and narrow necks.

"Stand away or run away," he warned, noting that most often, people are bitten when they try to kill the reptiles.

Afterwards, kids were allowed to touch the black rat snake, which was more than five feet long.

Makinsey Cochran, of Dunmore, wore an "I touched a snake today" sticker.

Meads taught six frog and toad calls, which sounded like snores, foghorns and chicks.

He demonstrated how to lower a frog's blood pressure and put it to sleep, by carefully turning it over and rubbing its stomach.

Meads also showed a large hellbender salamander and two hissing cockroaches from Madagascar.

Mike Book, of the West Virginia Raptor Rehabilitation Center in Morgantown, brought Thunder the Eagle and a great horned owl.

Book explained how the center helps injured birds, and he talked about the differences between diurnal and nocturnal animals.

Although Kid's Night is held only once a year, Moose gives the snake show at 1 p.m. every Saturday and Sunday of the summer at the nature center. He will continue through September.

Moose also takes his snakes on the road, giving free presentations to schools and non-profit groups.

This was the sixth annual Kid's Night at the nature center.

A guided tour of the Cranberry Glades is offered each Saturday and Sunday of the summer at 2 p.m., after the snake show.

The annual Cranberry Mountain Shindig will be September 30 at the nature center.

For more information about the Cranberry Mountain Nature Center events, call (304) 653-4826.

director of the nature center.

The three programs at Kid's Night gave children a chance to learn about snakes, amphibians and raptors.

Roy Moose, of Richwood, taught kids about poisonous and non-poisonous snakes of West Virginia.

Moose said he hoped that people "will learn about snakes and be more tolerant of snakes."

He showed showed a black rat snake, the largest snake in West Virginia. He also held up three timber rattlers.

He described the characteristics of poisonous snakes, such as cat-like eyes, arrow-shaped heads and narrow necks.

"Stand away or run away," he warned, noting that most often, people are bitten when they try to kill the reptiles.

Afterwards, kids were allowed to touch the black rat snake, which was more than five feet long.

Makinsey Cochran, of Dunmore, wore an "I touched a snake today" sticker.

"I touched it and I didn't want to anymore. It was creepy," Cochran said. Her favorite part of Kid's Night was Smokey the Bear.

Jim Meads, a herpetologist at Glenville State College, presented "West Virginia Slimies"—salamanders, frogs and toads.

Virginia Raptor Rehabilitation Center in Morgantown, brought Thunder the Eagle and a great horned owl.

Book explained how the center helps injured birds, and he talked about the differences between diurnal and nocturnal animals.

Although Kid's Night is held only once a year, Moose gives the snake show at 1 p.m. every Saturday and Sunday of the summer at the nature center. He will continue through September.

Moose also takes his snakes on the road, giving free presentations to schools and non-profit groups.

This was the sixth annual Kid's Night at the nature center.

A guided tour of the Cranberry Glades is offered each Saturday and Sunday of the summer at 2 p.m., after the snake show.

The annual Cranberry Mountain Shindig will be September 30 at the nature center.

For more information about the Cranberry Mountain Nature Center events, call (304) 653-4826.

- - -

Armadillos, opossums and sloths spend an average of 80 percent of their lives sleeping.

In Th Financia
Just A Sho

COUNTY BASKETBALL PLAYERS attending the basketball camp at Glenville State College were, front row, l-r, Christin Shinaberry, Morgan Taylor, Kelsey Beverage, Amy Coleman; middle row, Brooke Dickenson, Emily Bland, Erin Coleman, Brittany Burner; back row, Kelly Hickson, Cressie Shears, Carline McKean, Rachel Wayne.

County students attend summer sports camp

CATEGORY Best Of Show

OIL
1st. place
2nd. place
Honorable Me

ACRYLIC 1st. place
2nd. place
Honorable M

WATER CO 1st. place (G
2nd. place
Honorable M

PEN & INK
1st. place
2nd. place Honorable

MIXED M 1st. place
2nd. place
Honorable

ITS COUNCIL, INC.
NAL ARTIST SHOW

OHIBIT
4

TITLE
Puerto Rico Parrot

The Plate
Locust Creek Bridge Day is Done

Diner Bleeding Hearts Purple Sage

Farmhouse View Psalm 50:12
Black Neck Stilt

Owl Country Home Peace

Conspiracy Untitled
Beartown Cool

Stone Cottage Stark Trickle

PICTURED L TO R: First row: Casey Alderman, Derek Kiner, Casey Withers, Kendall Beverage, Nicole Barlow, Aaron Totten. Second row: Raymond Ford, Steven Burns, Mikey Callison, Dexter Skidmore, Mark Williamson, Joel Galford, Dan Richardson.

Pocahontas County 9-10 year old All Stars place third in District 8 tournament

The Pocahontas County 9-10 year old All Star Team came in third place in the recent District 8

Stars again faced Tygarts Valley who lost to the Elkins Blue and was forced to the losers bracket.

Wedding

Ray -:- Roy

Jason Michael Ray and Susan Lynn Roy were united in marriage on June 9, 2001, at the New Hope Church of the Brethren in Dunmore. The Reverend Julian Rittenhouse performed the service.

Jason is the son of James and Kathy Ray, of Arbovale.

Susan is the daughter of John and Debra Roy, of Marlinton.

Engagement

Visi

Col. Robert Moore, of Melbo spending some ti renting a house Avenue.

Visiting with during Pioneer
Cutlip Clendenin
Sue, of Pennsylva

Annabelle M
Mrs. Blix McNe
Mr. and Mrs. Br sons, Adam and C ton, attended the w belle's granddaug Ronald Crook, at wedding was held football field at W lege, where "Ro Coach.

Annabelle sta with her daughter Larry and Cheryl Grantsville. Blix a ited her brother, Mar in Pennsylvania be home.

Roy and Annette roe, Texas, along w

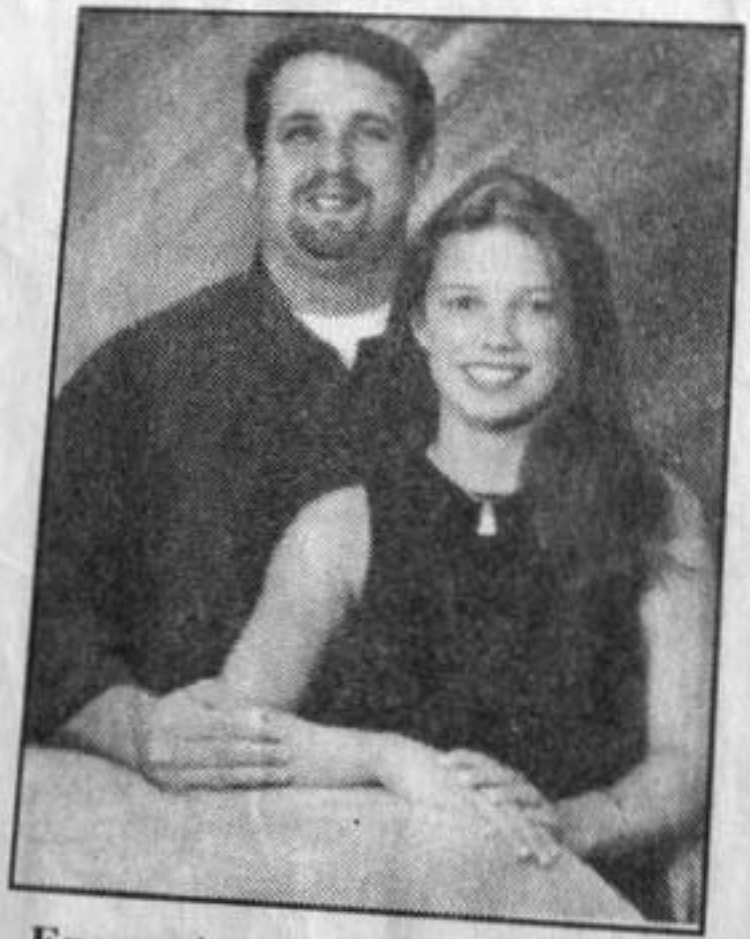
Jason is the son of James and Kathy Ray, of Arbovale.

Susan is the daughter of John and Debra Roy, of Marlinton.

Engagement



Engagement Announcement

Robert and Patricia Keller, of Minnehaha Springs, announce the engagement of their daughter, Katherine Keller, to Eric Barrie, the son of George and Catherine Barrie, of Fenton, Michigan.

A May wedding is being planned.

Anniversaries

Ronald and Martha Plaugher

Ronald and Martha Plaugher, of Durbin, celebrated 21 years of

with her daughter a Larry and Cheryl Grantsville. Blix a ited her brother, Mar in Pennsylvania be home.

Roy and Annett roe, Texas, along Roy E., and daugh
tine Elza, and childr ley, Brittany and Le ington, Ohio, were few days to visit fr
tives and attended The Elzas really enj tains and nice cool
visiting.

Recent out-of-t the home of Lott were: Hubert and M Curtis and Joanne M ren, Ohio; Randy Denver, Colorado;
Lugoff, South Caro
Terra and James Mal
North Carolina; No
penter, Woodbridge, nie, Carolyn, and J Warm Springs, Virg returned to their hom Meyer off to the N
two weeks.

Visiting at the h Johnson, Edray, for were her daughter ar Harriet and Richard Seal Beach, Califor daughter-in-law, Marsh lis Johnson, of Balti daughter and granddau garet and Martha B

STATE STAR FARMER Timothy VanReenen with FFA Advisor Joe Riley.

ATTENDING THE FFA Con Advisor Joe Riley, Jason Ge Wikins, Nicole Wilfong, Ti
Gardner Not pictured, Bla
er.

PCHS FFA in spotlight at state convention

On July 11, eight members of the PCHS FFA traveled to Cedar Lakes in Ripley to attend and com-was one of 129 applicants from 30 different schools across the state. Timothy was also chosen as an

STATE STAR FARMER Timothy VanReenen with FFA Advisor Joe Riley.

PCHS FFA in spotlight at state convention

On July 11, eight members of the PCHS FFA traveled to Cedar Lakes in Ripley to attend and compete at the annual state convention.

Attending the convention were a Parliamentary Procedure Team, an Extemporaneous Speaker, and a Prepared Public Speaker. After winning their way out of the regional contest, the team and the speakers now had to face a tougher state competition with the best in West Virginia.

The Parliamentary Procedure Team, consisting of David Gardner, Jason Goldizen, Marshall Shearer, Timothy VanReenen, Blair Polhamus, and Daniel Simmons placed third in the state and for the first time PCHS FFA was in the top three in Parliamentary Procedure.

Blair Polhamus competed in Extemporaneous Speaking. She also placed in the top three, and came home second in the state.

Timothy VanReenen competed in the Prepared Public Speaking contest and he was third best in the state.

PCHS FFA didn't stop there because they also had some outstanding individuals who attended. Timothy VanReenen and Susan Wilkins both received their State Farmer degrees at the convention, a degree achieved only by earning $1,000 through a Supervised Agricultural Experience Program.

VanReenen was also chosen as Star State Farmer, making him the top young farmer in the state. He was one of 129 applicants from 30 different schools across the state. Timothy was also chosen as an FFA ambassador to the State Fair in August and received the second place beef production award.

Susan Wilkins was also an outstanding member at the convention as she received the second place award with her SAEP record book which is based on neatness, amount of information, etc., and was also elected Southeastern Region Vice President to the State FFA Association.

Blair Polhamus won first place in an essay contest on Advisor Appreciation.

Charles Wilfong was also chosen winner of the Honorary State FFA Degree at this year's convention.

Others from around the county who were at the convention were Jack and Shirley Wilkins, Charles Wilfong, Nicole Wilfong, Tommy and Linda VanReenen, and Heather and Chuck Niday.

"I am so proud of what the members of the PCHS FFA have been able to achieve this year. They have all worked so hard," said FFA advisor Joe Riley, who also attended the convention. The PCHS FFA concluded its most successful convention ever on July 14, but the members are already looking forward to next year's convention.

PCHS FFA Reporter, Marshall Shearer

PARLIAMEN
mus, Secreta President, J Vice-president mons, Report

FFA STATE F enen, center, an at the left.

BEAGLES FOU
Hillsboro, was mad

Farm News

Farm Service Agency News
130 Years of Service

The staff at the Pocahontas County Farm Service Agency [illegible] years of service. Throughout the years their titles have changed, office equipment has changed, as well as the office [illegible]

ATTENDING THE FFA Convention from PCHS were, l-f, Advisor Joe Riley, Jason Goldizen, Daniel Simmons, Susan Wikins, Nicole Wilfong, Timothy VanReenen, and David Gardner Not pictured, Blair Polhamus and Marshall Shearer.

I wat (Sayornis two week so fast. O the tops o
the nest. nestlings of the nes

East observed under the under ot When p buildings found in caves, n have a song

Gardner Not pictured, Blair Polhamus and Marshall Shearer.

eenen with FFA

tlight

n pplicants from 30

across the state.
so chosen as an
to the State Fair eived the second on award.
was also an outt the convention
e second place EP record book eatness, amount and was also n Region Vice FFA Associa-

PARLIAMENTARY PROCEDURE TEAM; l-r, Blair Polhamus, Secretary, Jason Goldizen, Sentinel, David Gardner, President, Joe Riley, FFA Advisor, Timothy VanReenen, Vice-president, Marshall Shearer, Treasurer, and Daniel Simmons, Reporter.

When phoe buildings or found in roc caves, near have a disti song. The emphaticall

Easter tyrant fly kingbirds members their te predators,
That e Flycatche insects or sit on a catch an same pe flies by. wears m the brig flycatche and mar move ar purposes flat bill, small we

The head ba

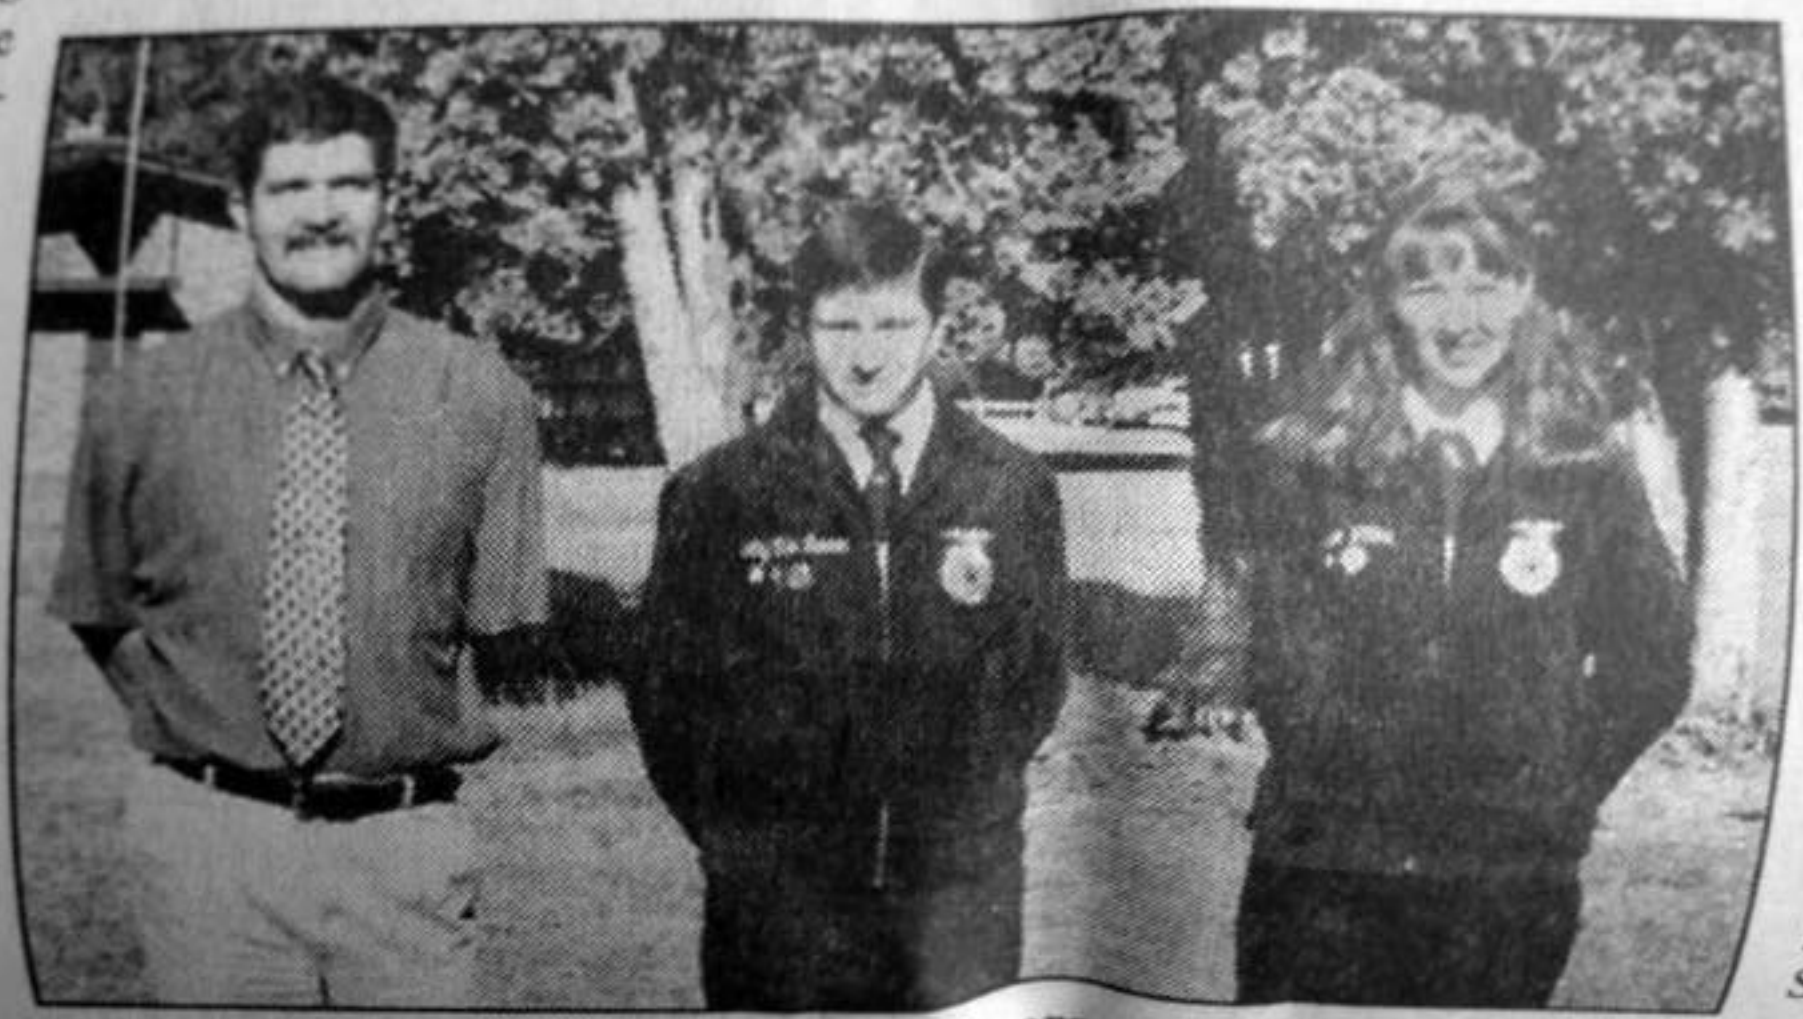
Vice-president, Marshall Shearer, Treasurer, and Daniel Simmons, Reporter.



FFA STATE FARMER Degree winners were Timothy VanReenen, center, and Susan Wilkins. FFA Advisor Joe Riley is at the left.

Humane Society

Pets For Adoption

Kittens:

People

Post-Baccalaureate rogram. The McNair am is a federal TRIO ed to prepare particoral studies through h research and other ities. The program ration students who financial need, or f groups that are d in certain acade-
s. Scholars are plete graduate level
r field of interest
. In return for their s receive a mone-
,800, assistance in duate school, and rs to some institubenefits include greements with ity and West Vir-Graduate Schools.
ed to present their onal conferences.
ts have presented iversity of Mary-ity of Tennessee

one of nine ing in the sum-ship at Concord of her McNair assisted Therapy Michelle is curk major at Con-plans to pursue in gerontology.
daughter of Bill of Hillsboro.

scholarship has announced Young, of Mararded the Concholarship. She liver and Donna

applications for all funds are the Admissions
-5246 for more

Sharp Selected as princess in Mountain State Forest Festival

Andrea Lynn Sharp, age 21, of Beverly, has been selected as a princess in the 65th annual Mountain State Forest Festival.

The princess is the daughter of Thomas and Connie Sharp. She received the appointment to the court from festival Director General Karen Bialek.

A 1998 graduate of Tygarts Valley High School, Sharp was selected to National Honor Society. She was high school field commander and earned the Girl Scout Silver Award. A member of the choir, she earned selection to the West Virginia All-State Chorus.

Sharp is a competitor in scholarship pageants. She was first runner-up in the Miss Appalachia, Miss North Central, and Ms. Petite West Virginia International pageants. Currently, she holds the title of Ms. Petite Virginia International.

A 2000 graduate of the Pennsylvania Culinary School, she now attends Davis and Elkins College. She plans to earn a master's degree in business operations and to operate a resort for Mirage Corporation.

- - -

Lacasse graduates Summa Cum Laude

Kathleen Lacasse graduated Summa Cum Laude from Hiram College on May 12, 2001, with a Bachelor of Arts Degree in Biology and Music Performance. During her time at Hiram, she enjoyed participating in several music ensembles including the Flute Choir, Madrigals Recorder Ensemble, Jazz Band, and Concert Band. Kathleen served as 2000-2001 president of the Hiram Chapter of the American Institute for Biological Sciences and Vice President of the Hiram Students for Environmental Action Coalition. She completed courses in New Zealand and Costa Rica through Hiram's Study Abroad Program. In April, she was inducted into Phi Beta Kappa.

Kathleen plans to pursue a Ph.D. in ecology at the University of Minnesota this fall. She is a 1997 graduate of Pocahontas County High School and is the daughter of Richard and Jane Lacasse, of Green Bank.

- - -

Auction

r

nade a hasty exit from the bed-oom, followed closely by a huge wild cat. After the dog disappeared hrough the front door, the animal ransferred its attention to Mrs. Vilson and came toward her, bris-ing and growling. Mrs. Wilson ook one hefty swing at the cat, atching it across the head and nocking it senseless. She then inished it off with several addi-onal blows.

Mrs. Wilson told her unusual xperience when she reported for ork at French's Diner, where she employed as a waitress on the vening shift. She stated that she ad not really become frightened ntil after the cat was dead. She dded that the animal presented a rrifying appearance as it charged ward her, the fur around its neck xtended and its fangs bared.

Those who viewed the animal escribed it as a mountain wild cat, ative to the West Virginia hills. s weight was estimated at 35 ounds. It appeared in good condi-on; it was sleek and apparently ell fed. If it had been afflicted ith rabies, no symptoms were vis-le.

This is not the first time that rs. Wilson has faced an emer-ncy at her home. Two years ago r daughter, Mrs. Betty Lou oot, 18, who now resides in Cal-rnia, was bitten by a copperhead ake. Mrs. Wilson's prompt and ficient first-aid treatment was cred-d with saving her daughter from rious illness and great pain.

Mrs. Wilson's home was the res-nce of her great-great-grandfather, late Rev. Benjamin Wilfong, a neer circuit-riding preacher, and located in a heavily wooded and ther isolated section of Pocahon-s County.

* The report on the incident in he Pocahontas Times

BILL KELLEY was one of the campers at the Governor's annual Youth Opportunity Camp.

Pocahontas County Youth Opportunity Camp

Pocahontas County youth joined more than 100 other children at the Governor's annual Youth Opportunity Camp at Horseshoe on July 1-7. The four weeks of YOC will serve almost 600 children from at least thirty-five counties this summer.

According to Horseshoe Program Director, David Cooper, "YOC builds confidence as well as social, mental and physical skills." "YOC offers a full range of activities including art, music, swimming, sports, nature, dance, hiking and special events," Cooper concluded.

YMCA Camp Horseshoe located near St. George in Tucker County is operated by the Ohio, West Virginia YMCA. For information, call 304-478-2481.

Wimer accepted to Participate in McNair Program

Michelle Wimer, a senior at Concord College, was recently accepted as a participant in the Ronald E. McNair Post-Baccalaureate Achievement Program. The McNair Scholars Program is a federal TRIO program designed to prepare participants for doctoral studies through involvement with research and other scholarly activities. The program targets first generation students who exhibit signs of financial need, or are members of groups that are under-represented in certain academic disciplines. Scholars are required to complete graduate level research in their field of interest before graduating. In return for their research, scholars receive a monetary stipend of $2,800, assistance in applying for graduate school, and application waivers to some institutions. Additional benefits include scholarship agreements with Marshall University and West Virginia University Graduate Schools. Scholars are required to present their research at professional conferences. In the past, students have presented at Penn State, University of Maryland, and University of Tennessee McNair Seminars.

Michelle is one of nine students participating in the summer research internship at Concord College. The topic of her McNair research is Animal-assisted Therapy in nursing homes. Michelle is currently a social work major at Concord College. She plans to pursue her doctorate degree in gerontology.

Michelle is the daughter of Bill and Susan Wimer, of Hillsboro.

Young receives scholarship

Concord College has announced that Elizabeth A. Young, of Marlinton, has been awarded the Concord Book Award Scholarship. She is the daughter of Oliver and Donna Young.

Concord accepts applications for scholarships until all funds are expended. Call the Admissions Office at 888 384-5249 for more information.

S
as pr State Andre Beverly, princess Mountain

The p Thomas received court from Karen Bial

A 19 Valley H selected t
She wa command Scout Silv
the choir
the We Chorus.

Shar scholarsh runner-up Miss Nor West V pageants.
title of Internatio

A 2 Pennsylva now atte College, master's operations

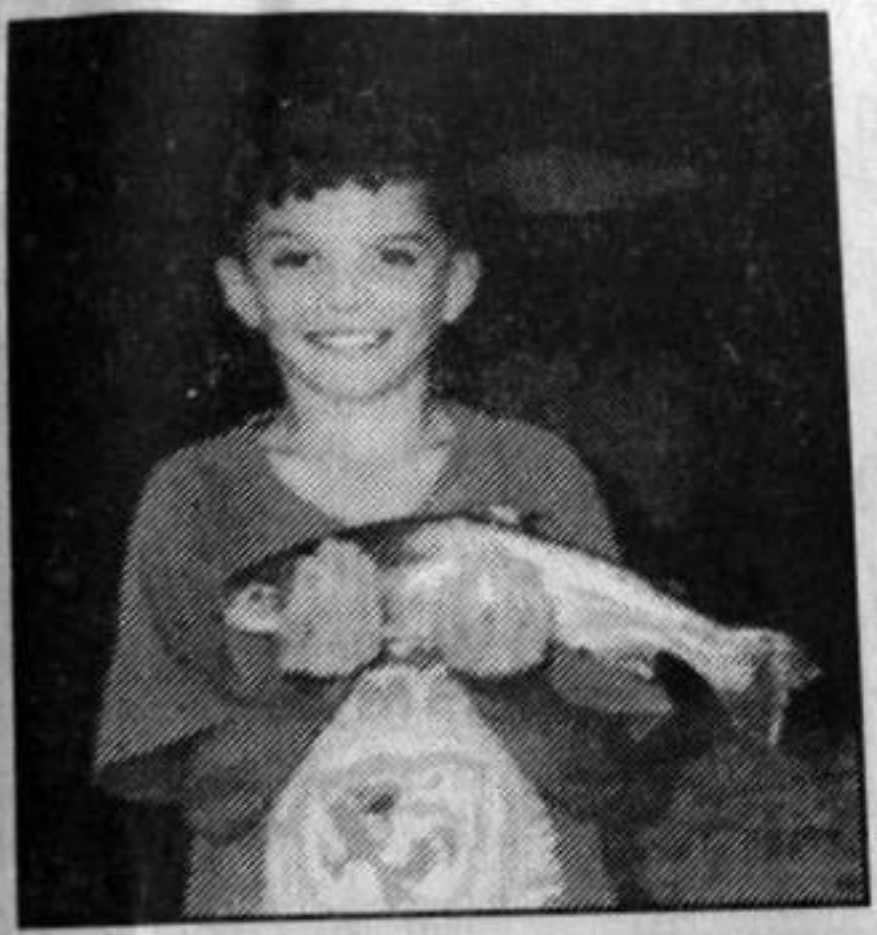
Outdoor Notes



While nine-year-old Josh Wooten, from Alabama, was here visiting his grandfather, Charlie Wooten, they went camping at Spruce Knob Lake. Josh caught a 14 1/2 inch trout. He was here for six weeks with Charlie and his wife, Jean, and they all had a real good time.

- - -

Wildcat tale from 1956

The following article was written by Jane Kincaid and appeared in The

made a hasty room, followed wild cat. After through the fr transferred its Wilson and ca
tling and grov took one heft catching it a knocking it s finished it of tional blows.

Mrs. Wilso experience w work at Frenc is employed evening shift had not reall until after th added that th terrifying ap toward her, t extended and

Those wh described it native to th Its weight pounds. It a ddress changes to as Times rlinton WV 24954 ax (304) 799-6466

mes.com imes.com
the last week of the year.
ton. West Virginia 24954 0738-8373
ARGES (including tax)
32 • Out-of-State $25
NG RATES lassified—20¢ word
E. PRITT, Managing Editor
tor Emerita
6, 2001

5 million grant eived for Edray hnology Park

S. Senator Jay Rockefeller ep. Nick Rahall announced eek that the Greenbrier Valley mic Development Corpora- ill receive $1,600,000 in fed

Three enter guilty pleas to drug related charges

by Pamela Pritt

Three out of county residents entered guilty pleas to drug related charges Friday in Pocahontas County Circuit Court.

Quentin Funk, 21, of Morgantown, pleaded guilty to conspiracy to deliver LSD. A delivery of a controlled substance charge was dismissed.

Wyatt Carol Levenson, 21, of Huttonsville, pled guilty to possession of a controlled substance with intent to deliver. Charges of conspiracy to deliver marijuana and delivery of marijuana were dismissed.

Mill Creek resident Timothy Boggs, 27, pleaded guilty to delivery of a controlled substance in exchange for the dismissal of conspiracy to deliver a controlled substance charge.

Funk, Levenson and Boggs will be sentenced August 24.

In other court action:

Brian D. Thompson, 39, of Hillsboro, was determined unsuitable for probation for a petit larceny charge and was sentenced to one-to-15 years in prison.

Jonathan Wilder, also of Hillsboro, was deemed unfit for Anthony Correctional Center. Wilder exercised his right to an evidentiary hearing scheduled for August 24. His age was unavailable.

Chief Judge James Rowe revoked probation for Karis P. Rataiczak, 21, of Marlinton, because of a domestic assault charge. Rataiczak asked for an evidentiary hearing scheduled for August 10.

A misdemeanor charge of accessory after the fact against Aaron Baughman, 19, of Webster Springs, was dismissed.

The grand jury will meet August 7, beginning a new term of court.

One woman seriously hurt in Saturday accident

DUSTIN CU
P. Pritt photo

I love to w something they something I do self.

So when I wa

nology Park

Senator Jay Rockefeller
. Nick Rahall announced that the Greenbrier Valley
ic Development Corporareceive $1,600,000 in fed-ling for project within the chnology Park. The grant oved by the U. S. Depart-Commerce as part of its Works and Development grant program.
been working closely VEDC and the Economic ent Administration to approval of this grant,"
id. "This project is o create about 200 jobs in at least $1,500,000 in estment."
ray Technology Park has s potential for the area
new funds will help move ct along." Rockefeller ocahontas County has so offer prospective busi-I'm really excited about rtunities for economic
ere. It is clear that Pocaunty is growing and I'm see this kind of funding ilable to help."

In other court action:

7, beginning a new term of court.

One woman seriously hurt in Saturday accident

by Pamela Pritt

A Milton woman was seriously injured in a one car accident on U. S. Rt. 219 near Slaty Fork Saturday night.

Sherle Chapman, 22, was flown to Charleston Area Medical Center where she is in critical but stable condition, according to Lieutenant Troy McCoy, of the Pocahontas County Sheriff's Department.

Chapman was traveling south about a mile and a half past Rt. 66, McCoy said.

"For whatever reason she lost control, crossed the north bound lane and hit a tree," he continued.

Two passengers were transported to another hospital by ambulance, while another passenger was not hurt.

"Speed was definitely a factor," McCoy commented. He noted that the accident is still under investigation.

The car was a total loss, the lieutenant said.

McCoy also investigated an accident last week that claimed the lives of nine cows belonging to Robert Conley, of Greenbrier County.

According to McCoy, Marvin Spicer was driving a 1989 Frieghtliner headed south on U. S. Rt. 219 near the Greenbrier County the truck dropped off the pavement into a ditch and flipped on its side.

Spicer was not hurt, McCoy said.

Damages were not available. The accident is still under investigation.

Council gets flood project status report

I love to something something self.

So when Raven Golf had but o Cutlip to g

Dustin ha fore he c bought pla and he wa down a set

At 13 a age, Dusti a great ga mie spend teaching h serious ab

So Golf was delig along.

William tive him leave Pin the Mou

After climes c of Flori to come last mo

Managing Editor's Notebook

by Pamela E. Pritt

DUSTIN CUTLIP TEES off on the Raven Golf Course. P. Pritt photo

I love to watch people doing something they enjoy, even if it's something I don't enjoy doing myself.

So when I was invited to golf at Raven Golf Course at Snowshoe, I had but one choice—get Dustin Cutlip to go along.

Dustin has been golfing since before he can remember. His dad bought plastic clubs for him at two and he was four when Jimmie cut down a set of clubs to fit him.

At 13 and slightly small for his age, Dustin's got the right stuff for a great game, largely because Jimportive. Williams was, too. Frankly, my dear, I thought I was terrible.

But I really enjoyed the course because it's been laid out to the contour of the mountain, respecting the territory, indulging it, even, playing on its strengths for hazards.

Not only water hazards and sand traps, but ravines between the tee and the flag are a good place to lose golf balls. I managed to lose two.

Williams is a great addition to the Snowshoe staff. He's personable and a good teacher. He showed had but one choice—get Dustin Cutlip to go along.

Dustin has been golfing since before he can remember. His dad bought plastic clubs for him at two and he was four when Jimmie cut down a set of clubs to fit him.

At 13 and slightly small for his age, Dustin's got the right stuff for a great game, largely because Jimmie spends a great deal of time teaching him and because Dustin is serious about learning it.

So Golf Director Gary Williams was delighted that I brought Dustin along.

Williams is a West Virginia native himself and one who had to leave Pineville to find a job outside the Mountain State.

After seven years in the colder climes of New Jersey and the heat of Florida, Williams got a chance to come home when he interviewed last month at Snowshoe.

"I have always loved this course," he said.

And it shows. He points out subtleties and distinctions in the course and he enjoys not only playing the game, but talking about it and teaching it, as well.

The course is challenging for people who actually play golf, let alone someone like me who's never held a club.

Did I try? Yup.

Did I like it? Oh, yeah.

I played about four holes, all badly.

Dustin was encouraging and supplaying on its strengths for hazards.

Not only water hazards and sand traps, but ravines between the tee and the flag are a good place to lose golf balls. I managed to lose two.

Williams is a great addition to the Snowshoe staff. He's personable and a good teacher. He showed Dustin a new grip and he taught me to actually hit the ball, although I never made it go where I wanted it to.

But I did learn why people are drawn to the game. It's good for you and it's fun. Computerized golf carts that tell you how far you are from the hole make it more enjoyable, too. You can also order food and beverages through the computer system and a cart will bring your order to the course. Quite a luxury.

Golf is a lot like life. You have to know when to hit hard and you have to know when a tap will suffice. You have to judge the lay of the land and you have to know what club to use.

Dustin is smart; he can do all those things and do them well in the game. Someday, I'll bet he'll do well in life, too.

If you ask him, he'll tell you he had a bad game. He shot a 91 in 18 holes. Williams thought he was good. I might be partial to the kid; I thought he was great.

I thought the day was great, too.

Anyone who likes golf at all should spend a day at Raven.

Water Plant clean-up is progressing, sandblasting is complete; painting and different lighting system are needs when finances become available.

The possibility of a "Farmers Market" or "Tailgate Market" for Marlinton was discussed and all members agreed it was a good idea. Anyone interested who might have produce to sell should contact the USDA office, 799-4317. Council voted to support this project and the market possibly could be set up on First Avenue.

Building permits for June: Nancy Curry, 8th Street, sign; Pocahontas County Board of Education, renovations; J&P Furniture, 621 First Avenue, deck.

THE MCCLINTIC LIBRARY Playgroup closed their year with a family style picnic followed by a graduation ceremony at Watoga State Park. Members of the group graduating are shown here with their helper Mrs. Cookie Doss. They are from left to right: Lyndsee Gay, Andrew Morrison, Laura Schiffer, Lorena Rose, Amanda Gibson, Amber Beverage, Morgan Jackson, and Dustin Dilley. After the ceremony was concluded the class celebrated with a swim in the pool.

Library Lines

After speaking w ents, I have disc summer Gear Up mentioned in last w a new topic for ma

Information abo permission forms the beginning of J ginning to conclu them got lost in th
tle of end of the y

Any student w Project Gear
2000/2001 schoo for the summer five-day event be and runs through will run from th county that mor up students at pu along the way.
be at Hillsboro S

The students to High Rocks A

CAMPERS GATHER AROUND Counselor of the day Jeremy Hayes, from Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, who holds a stuffed fish. B. Henry photo

She

When yard an tional c express more th in traffi

Clear are one we take Traffic numbe

That County
Marlin

Twin Creeks takes over Camp Mi

CAMPERS GATHER AROUND Counselor of the day Jeremy Hayes, from Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, who holds a stuffed fish. B. Henry photo

Twin Creeks takes over Camp Minnehaha

by Beth Henry
Marshall Intern

The children's camp in Minnehaha Springs is full of laughter, fun and games, just as it has been for decades.

But camp is different this year. New owners have changed the name, renovated the buildings, and, for the first time in the camp's history, admitted girls.

Other changes include a new pool and a fish hatchery. The catfish and white perch live in the old pool, which is fed from the natural spring water of Minnehaha Springs, a constant 72° year-round.

The counselors and campers who went to Camp Minnehaha in previous years are still adjusting to the many changes, but they all seem to be enjoying Twin Creeks.

Matthew Dix, of Melbourne Australia, has been a counselor at the camp for four years. Dix, better known as "Captain Color" said that he could "never have imagined" all the changes.

"It's amazing—I'm still coming to grips with it," he said.

Dix said that a few old Camp Minnehaha traditions are still alive, and he tells campers about the history.

"Camp Minnehaha is gone but not forgotten; It's always going to be talked about," he said.

Owners/Directors Gorden and Fran Josey said, "We want [the campers] to come here, be safe and have fun. It's very simple."

While continuing a few traditions, Josey said he and the staff are creating new traditions as well.

The "Counselor of the Day" must carry around a large stuffed fish.

Polar Bear Club campers dive into the pool early each morning, swim to the shallow end, get a cup of hot chocolate and then get ready for flag raising.

"The Creek," the online camp newspaper, is updated every day, to give parents a look at the daily activities.

James, a 5th grade camper from Maryland, who attended Camp Minnehaha, said he liked the changes.

"[Twin Creeks is] a lot different from Camp Minnehaha; it's a lot better," he said.

Are girls a good addition to the camp?

A grin and a blush are his only answers.

Norm "Chief" Riggs, of Wetzel County, another returning counselor, said that for the most part, new and old campers love the camp.

"A lot of improvements have been made, which makes it fun for the kids. And that's what it's all about," he said.

With 160 campers, this is the largest session so far. Sessions last for two weeks, and most children stay for only one session.

Campers come from many states and a few foreign countries, such as Spain, Japan and Venezuela.

The more than 60 counselors also come from all over the United States and the world. The camp director and a few counselors come from Scotland to spend their summers here, and a few staff members also come from Australia and Russia.

Twin Creeks offers a variety of activities, including web site design, horse back riding, theater, and a favorite of many campers, waterskiing at Lake Moomaw.

Minnehaha Springs was the site of a two-story, 24-room hotel, which was completed in 1914. It burned in 1945.

The boys' summer camp was established in 1944.

Pocahontas County WVU

County Sheriff Department a Marlinton Detachment of the

PC

Varsity football, boys an soccer, and cheerleader practic begin at PCHS on Monday 30. (8th/9th football will be August 6 and volleyball on 13).

Football and both socce begin at 8 a.m. Activity bus leave Hillsboro and Durbin a.m. each day. Girls socce practice 8 to 10 a.m. and soccer 8 a.m. to noon. Fo will practice 8 a.m. to 3:30 at which time the activity will return to Durbin and Hill
As much transportation is provided as possible, but impossible to cover all frames; therefore, soccer pl will need to arrange transpor home. Soccer players need to both running shoes and cleat extra soccer balls if you have t

Cheerleader candidates have clinics on July 30 and 31
tryouts on August 1, 5 to 8

Two win State

The State Fair of West Vir has announced the recipients o 2001 Equine, Junior Show
H/FFA Youth Exhibit, and D Scholarships.

David M. Simmons, of boro, and Benjamin M. Wilfo

This

the day holds a chaha get ready ine camp ry day, to daily ac-per from ed Camp the chang-different

Sheriff's Department, State Police crack down on drivers who endanger lives

When violence hits the schoolyard and children die, we hear a national outcry. It's time our nation express similar outrage about the more than 2,000 children who die in traffic crashes each year.

Clearly, our nation's roadways are one of the most deadly places we take ourselves and our children. Traffic crashes, in fact, remain the number one killer of kids.

That is why the Pocahontas County Sheriff Department and the Marlinton Detachment of the West Virginia State Police have been declaring zero tolerance on drivers who don't buckle up and don't buckle up children. For the past several months our officers have sharply intensified enforcement of adult seat belt and child passenger laws. Officers have conducted checkpoints and saturation patrols to look for drivers who knowingly violate seat belt laws. We have found that the compliance rate of seat belt use in Pocahontas County is 63 per cent.

Most adults know that seat belts save lives. The facts speak for themselves. But the strong risk of serious injury or death is not enough to persuade some adults to do the right thing. The only proven way to motivate these people is to increase the possibility that they'll get a ticket and be fined. That's why we are cracking down and it is either "click it or ticket."

In West Virginia in 1999, 15 of 25 children who died in crashes were unrestrained and 186 of 295 adults died unrestrained. Nearly half of the children and adults who die unrestrained in crashes would be alive today if they had been buckled in. Their deaths are totally preventable.

Seat belt laws were enacted to save lives and should be strictly enforced. During the months to come, if you ignore the law and put innocent lives at risk, look for us in your rearview mirror.

Pocahontas County
Sheriff's Department
Marlinton Detachment
WV State Police

PCHS Athletes

Varsity football, boys and girls soccer, and cheerleader practices will begin at PCHS on Monday, July 30. (8th/9th football will begin on August 6 and volleyball on August 13).

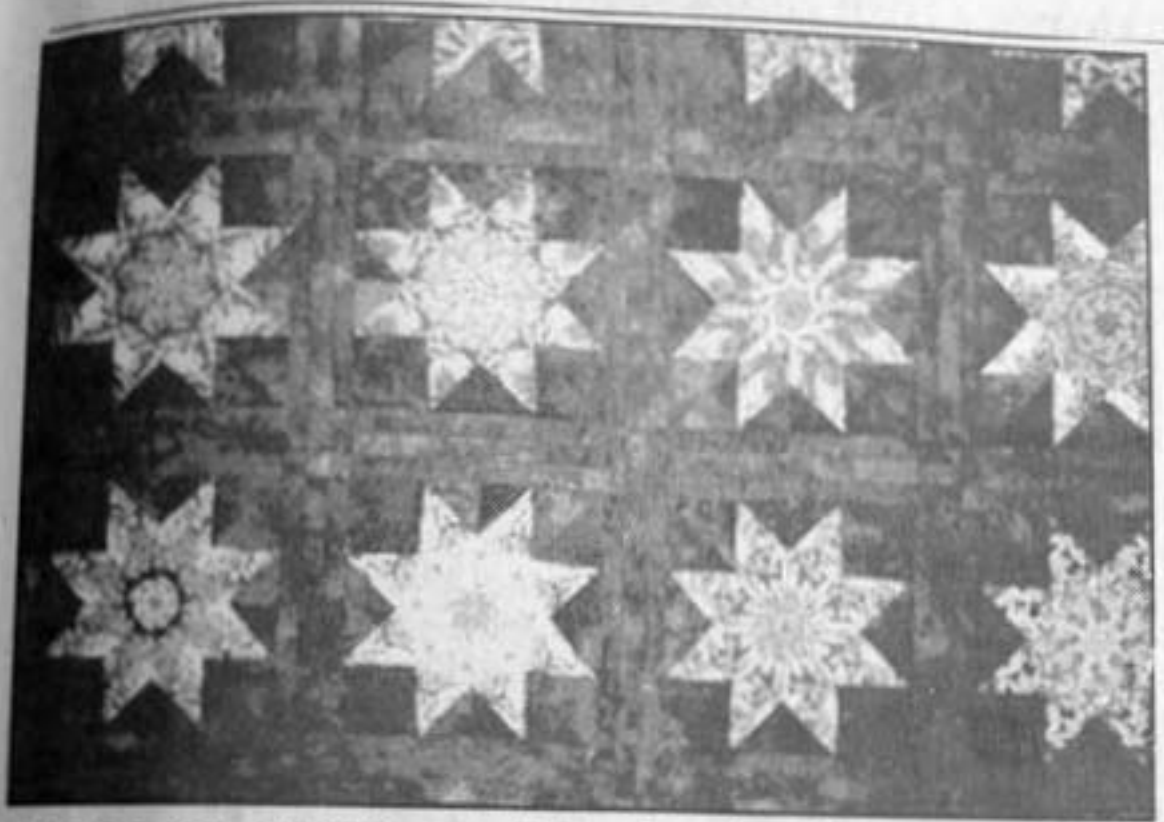
Football and both soccers will begin at 8 a.m. Activity buses will leave Hillsboro and Durbin at 7 a.m. each day. Girls soccer will practice 8 to 10 a.m. and boys soccer 8 a.m. to noon. Football will practice 8 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. each day. The remaining practice schedule will be distributed at clinics. Cheerleaders will need to provide their own transportation those three days only.

The plan for the following week (August 6-10) is to continue the daytime activity bus run and to add another run, to accommodate 5 to 8 p.m. practices for 8th and 9th football and cheerleading, leaving Durbin and Hillsboro at 4 p.m. The

Kukendall to speak at Pocahontas County Teacher's Academy

Crystal Kuykendall will be the keynote speaker at the Pocahontas County Teacher's Academy, held in the Snowshoe Conference Center Monday, August 13, at 8 a.m.

Kuykendall's speeches reflect her unique background. A former school teacher, University Instruc-



QUEEN OF SHOW was Moonglow by Mary Simmons, of Clifton Forge, Virginia

Pioneer Days Quilt Show

Queen of Show — Mary Simmons

Machine Pieced and Machine Quilted — 1st Mary Simmons

Hand Embroidered, Hand Quilted (1980) — 1st Mary (Tootles) Nottingham

Hand Embroidered, Hand Quilted — 1st Mary (Tootles) Nottingham, 2nd Ann Walker, 3rd Mary (Tootles) Nottingham

Machine Pieced, Hand Tied — 1st Linda Adams

Machine Pieced, Hand Quilted — 1st Mary Simmons

Machine Pieced and Quilted — 1st Brenda Peacock

Old Quilts — 1st Diana Barton

Display Only — Family Album Quilt, Louise Barnisky

Bicentennial Quilt, made by Jo Wooddell's sixth grade social studies class (Marlinton Elementary School) in 1976.

Baby Quilts — Tied, 1st Helen Carr; Quilted, 1st Ann Walker, 2nd, Sara Peacock-Clark

Quilted Wall Hanging — 1st, Linda Adams

Cross Stitch — 1st Pamela Hoover, 2nd Sherry Hudson, 3rd Shelda Weimer

Afghans —

Queen of Show, Doris Weatherholt

1st Carolyn Baxter, 2nd Bonnie Sharp, 3rd Bonnie Sharp

Past Queen of Show, Carolyn Baxter

Miscellaneous, Billy Crites

Truck, Warm Sp
Louis Mur
Malibu, Warm S Jason Riner
gra, Bacova, Vi Jerry Green linton
Kevin King
Marlinton
John Mall
GTO, Durbin; Ted Schud Charleston;
Burns Mc
Mack, Marlinto
Gene Surf Charleston;
Ben Beal Springs, Virg Jeff and Chev. Coupe, Mick Ak Montrose;
Randy Sw Monte Carlo, Junior Sw
Dart, Huttons
Don Tay Fury, Fenwic
Ernie W Richwood;
Roger M
Hillsboro;

Du Field Frisbee Throw
5 & u Gillenwater,
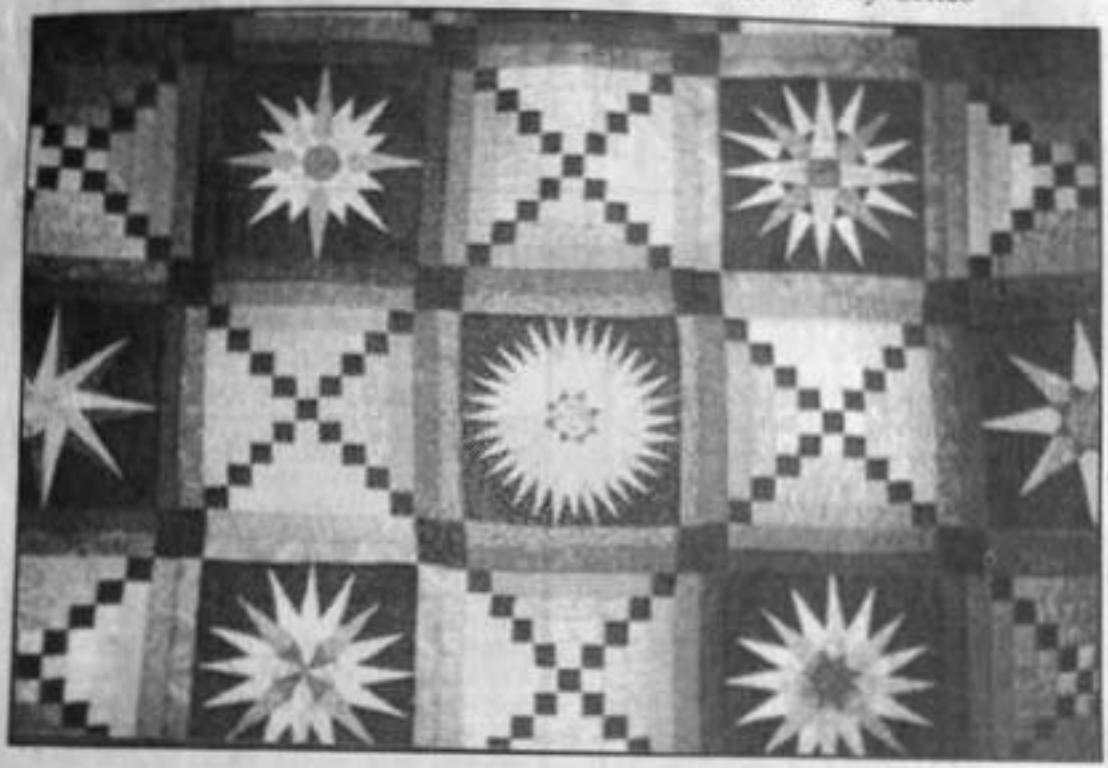
2nd, Stevie M
5 & un
Hoselton, 1st,

— 1st Mary Simmons
Machine Pieced and Quilted — 1st Brenda Peacock
Old Quilts — 1st Diana Barton
Display Only — Family Album Quilt, Louise Barnisky

Queen of Show, Doris Weatherholt
1st Carolyn Baxter, 2nd Bonnie Sharp, 3rd Bonnie Sharp
Past Queen of Show, Carolyn Baxter
Miscellaneous, Billy Crites



LEMOYONE STAR, FIRST Place, by Mary Simmons

Pioneer Days Flower Show

BEST OF SHOW — Cactus Red, Charlotte Ratliff

Petunias, 1st Louise Barnisky, 2nd Debbie Johnson

Marigolds, 1st and 2nd Connie Sharp, 3rd, Wayne Burgess

Lilies, 1st Frances McKenney, 2nd Lena Weatherholt, 3rd, Goldie Burgess

Pansy, 1st Lena Weatherholt, 2nd Connie Sharp, 3rd Louise Barnisky

Zinnia, 1st Louise Barnisky, 2nd, Debbie Johnson, 3rd, Shannon McClure

Snapdragons, 1st Louise Barnisky, 2nd and 3rd, Connie Sharp

Miscellaneous, Daisies, Glads, 1st Louise Barnisky, 2nd and 3rd, Connie Sharp

Hybrid Tea Roses — 1st, Louise Barnisky, 2nd Marietta Stemple, 3rd Goldie Burgess

Miniature Spray Rose — 1st Marietta Stemple, 2nd Louise Barnisky

Floribunda Rose — 1st Frances McKenney, 2nd Debbie Johnson,

Dried and/or Silk — 1st Patty McClure, 2nd Jeanne Dunham, 3rd Sherry Hudson

Youth Show

Domestic Cut — 1st, 2nd, 3rd, Amy Sharp

Roses — 1st Amy Sharp

Flower Arrangement — Amy Sharp

Little Gardeners (Under 6)

Potted Plants — 1st and 2nd Cheyenne McClung

Wildflowers — 1st Shannon McClure

Pioneer Days - Jimmy McLaughlin Memorial Antique Car Show

Bob Burns, 1974 Chev. Nova, White Sulphur

Boyd Thompson, 1970 Ford Truck, Hillsboro

Irene Thompson, 1975 Lincoln Mack IV, Hillsboro

James C. Long, 1957 Chev., Green Bank

Jerry McLaughlin, 1972 Mustang, Mt. Sidney, Virginia;

Loy Burgess, 1930 Ford

Durbin D

Field Events

Frisbee Throw:

5 & under bo
Gillenwater, 1st, Cal
2nd, Stevie Mick, 3rd

5 & under girls
Hoselton, 1st, Ciera W

6 to 7 boys - Curt

6 to 7 girls
Clevinger, 1st, Brooke

8 to 10 boys - 1st, Cory Rexrode, Dunbrack, 3rd.

8 to 10 girls - Kr
1st.

11 to 13 boys
Dunbrack, 1st, Coty R

11 to 13 girls -
1st, Brittany Judy Hoselton, 3rd.

Soccer Dribble:

5 & under bo
Arbogast, 1st, Austin
2nd, Stevie Mick, 3rd

5 & under girls -
1st, Colleen Hoselton

6 to 7 boys - Cu

6 to 7 girls - Br

8 to 10 boys

1st, Vince Mi

8 to 10 girls

1st, Jessica Varne

11 to 13 b

Dunbrack, 1st, Cot

11 to 13 girls

1st, Brittany Jud

Rooper, 3rd.

Bean Bag Toss:

5 & under b
Gillenwater, 1st, C
2nd, Stevie Mick, 3r

Rust

925 10th Ave. Ap
Marlinton, WV 2

Sharp, 3rd, Wayne Burgess

Lilies, 1st Frances McKenney, 2nd Lena Weatherholt, 3rd, Goldie Burgess

Pansy, 1st Lena Weatherholt, 2nd Connie Sharp, 3rd Louise Barnisky

Zinnia, 1st Louise Barnisky, 2nd, Debbie Johnson, 3rd, Shannon McClure

Snapdragons, 1st Louise Barnisky, 2nd and 3rd, Connie Sharp

Miscellaneous, Daisies, Glads, 1st Louise Barnisky, 2nd and 3rd, Connie Sharp

Hybrid Tea Roses — 1st, Louise Barnisky, 2nd Marietta Stemple, 3rd Goldie Burgess

Miniature Spray Rose — 1st Marietta Stemple, 2nd Louise Barnisky

Floribunda Rose — 1st Frances McKenney, 2nd Debbie Johnson, 3rd Goldie Burgess

Single Bloom African Violet — 1st Mary Davis, 2nd Goldie Burgess

Double Bloom African Violet — 1st Goldie Burgess

Blooming Potted Plants — 1st and 3rd Lena Weatherholt, 2nd Sue Conley

Non-Blooming Potted Plants - 1st Mary Davis, 2nd Goldie Burgess

Blooming Hanging Baskets — 1st Hazel Wilfong, 2nd Louise Barnisky, 3rd, Lena Weatherholt

Mixed Pot Planter or Hanging Basket — 1st Goldie Burgess

Cactus and Succulent, Blooming — 1st Charlotte Ratliff

Non-Blooming — 1st and 3rd Goldie Burgess, 2nd Debbie Johnson

Flower Arrangements — 1st Louise Barnisky, 2nd Connie Sharp

Wild Flowers — 1st Patty McClure, 2nd Goldie Burgess, 3rd, Frances McKenney

Roses — 1st Amy Sharp

Flower Arrangement — Amy Sharp

Little Gardeners (Under 6)

Potted Plants — 1st and 2nd Cheyenne McClung

Wildflowers — 1st Shannon McClure

Pioneer Days - Jimmy McLaughlin Memorial Antique Car Show

Bob Burns, 1974 Chev. Nova, White Sulphur

Boyd Thompson, 1970 Ford Truck, Hillsboro

Irene Thompson, 1975 Lincoln Mack IV, Hillsboro

James C. Long, 1957 Chev., Green Bank

Jerry McLaughlin, 1972 Mustang, Mt. Sidney, Virginia;

Loy Burgess, 1930 Ford Coupe, Marlinton;

Jerry and Dot Burks, 1948 Buick, Covington, Virginia;

Lindsay and Connie Sharp, 1931 Ford Model A, Marlinton;

Calvin Butler, 1937 Chev. Coupe, Marlinton

Mike Daniels, 1979 Chev. Corvette, Marlinton;

James Church, 1952 Ford Truck, Cass;

Cathy Cash, 1979 Mercedes-B, Warm Springs, Virginia;

Oliver Young, 1968 Chev. Camaro, Marlinton;

Roger E. Murray, 1970 Chev.

Fish Remodelin
Decks • G Siding • W Dependab (304)
WV0

Shenandoah Sat
"Area's Largest Authoriz
Locally Owned & Operated. Ask Toll Free 1-8
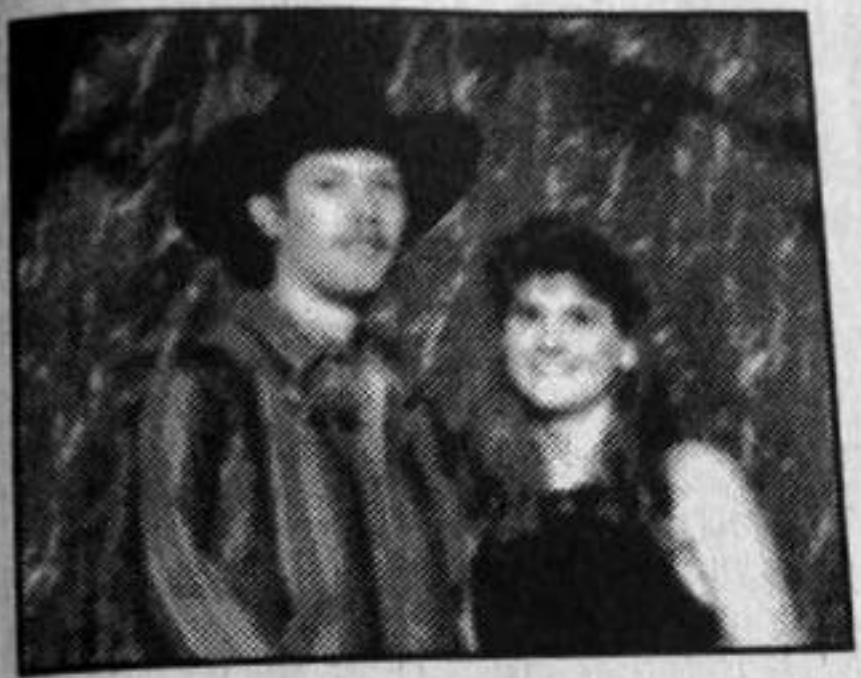
2 Receive

Weddings



Wedding Announcement

Emily Kay Mitchell and Kory Ray Sharp are happy to announce their marriage on Saturday, July 28, at the Marlinton Presbyterian Church at 1 p.m. Reception will follow in the church Fellowship Hall. (Please note the change of the reception).

Kory is the son of Debbie Sharp, of Hillsboro, and Keith Sharp, of Woodrow.

Emily is the daughter of Anita Anderson, of Marlinton, and William Mitchell, of Brookville, Ohio.

- - -

Three Weddings

Mike McGee
brother Greg Mc Front Royal, Virg Visiting wi
during Pioneer grandson, Gavin Tim and Shell
Springfield, Vir
Brent, of Woodb

Doug and Sus
mond, Virginia, with his parent
White, of Minne Rex White, spent three day
Max White, wh
Pat Keller att Volunteer Outr ference in Park was sponsored University Ext

Dr. Denise Friel have re
where they cru St. Petersburg

Senio

Monday: Co
Tuesday: Ca

MARLINTON ELEMENTARY SCHOOL received the Superintendent's Award 2001 for the improvement of student performance in the state testing program. Christine Campbell, MES Faculty Senate President holds the award. Also in the photo are, l-r, Board of Education member Diane Buzzard, School Superintendent James Phares, Fred Burns, and MES Principal Wilma Dale.

MES PRIN
dent of Bu with a certi
the school.
the left.

2000-2001
Presidental Fitness Awards

son, James McComb, Rosie Perkins, Zachary Pritt, Matthew Alder-

MES Awards Day

received the Superement of student per-Christine Campbell, award. Also in the mber Diane Buzzard, red Burns, and MES

s McComb, Rosie Perk-ary Pritt, Matthew Aldermmer Chestnut, Ashley

MES PRINCIPAL WILMA Dale presents Fred Burns, President of Burns Motor Freight, the school's business partner, with a certificate of appreciation for all the company does for the school. Board of Education member Diane Buzzard is at the left.

Legal Adv

estate of any su who has any ber may appear bef Commission at an after first public request reference missioner or obje accounting. In th or objection, the proved by the Co Given under of July, 2001.
P Pocal
7/26/2c

NOTICE OF ACCOUNTS O SE

I have before of final settlem ministrator of t deceased perso AR
Any person estate of any who has any b may appear b Commission at after first publ request referen missioner or ob accounting. In or objection, t proved by the C Given under of July, 2001.
Poc
7/26/2c

the left.

MES FIRST GRADE students Lucas Ryder, Jacob Friel, Chasten Taylor, Summer Chestnut, Michaela Tuttle, and Seth Morgan (not pictured) received T-shirts and certificates for reading the most books in the Read at Home program. Behind the students are Board member Diane Buzzard, MES Reading Teacher Kathy Snyder, and Principal Wilma Dale.

Legal Advertisements

Legal Advertisements

or objection, the acco proved by the County C Given under my han
of July, 2001.
Patricia
Pocahontas
7/26/2c By:

NOTICE OF P UNADMINISTE
Notice is hereby g
of the estate of OPA proceed without refe commissioner unles days from the first p tice such reference is in interest or an un claim and good cause reference to a fiduci
Dated this the 16

Clerk of th
of Pocahontas 7/19/2c By

NOTICE OF UNADMINIST Notice is hereby of the estate of NEI proceed without re commissioner unle days from the first

Moun
"Your full-Commercial

James Phares and Taylor re-enact the Monday's meeting.

new Board oath taking of Education member Ruth that occurred at the start of Mistrial ends drug case

by Pamela Pritt

A man on trial for delivery of a controlled substance gets a one month reprieve from the court room after Chief Judge James Rowe declared a mistrial last week.

Rowe granted defense attorney Martin Saffer's motion because Saffer successfully argued he had ethical concerns about his defense of Joseph "Bunker" Tawney.

"It's just impossible," Saffer told the court.

After a West Virginia State Trooper testified for two-and-a-half hours the previous day, most of which was cross-examination, Saffer told the jury he was prepared to play a tape of the alleged exchange of drugs for money because, he said, there was nothing on the tape but "dogs barking."

However, when Trooper D. M. McMillan presented two original tapes, Saffer asked to hear both outside the presence of the jury.

"The tapes adduce evidence in much greater detail," Saffer told the court Wednesday morning. "Had I had these tapes, I would not have gone forward in the manner I did."

"The tapes are not totally different," Weiford argued. "His tape is not a good reproduction."

Weiford said he would resist a motion to exclude the tapes as evidence.

Tawney, 47, was accused of delivering Loracet® a form of Hydrocodone, and a Schedule III controlled substance.

His trial is now set for August 14, after a new jury pool is selected.

Plea made on drug charge

by Pamela Pritt

involvement with prescription

ted to ation

on Technology, ble Use of Tech-
e Acceptable Use d Attendance. policy provides a ystem employees al leave days to ees who have to work to care for her family memonditions).
loyee technology
d by minor addie county school is a new section concerning the protect against sites that are child pornograminors. Also evelop a proceonline activities
Phares said the

FOLLOWING THE BOARD meeting, School Superintendent James Phares and new Board of Education member Ruth Taylor re-enact the oath taking that occurred at the start of Monday's meeting.

Mistrial ends drug case

by Pamela Pritt

A man on trial for delivery of a

However, when Trooper D. M. McMillan presented two original

Legal

dfill on Tue
m. Attendan prerequisite Contract docu Potesta & A Corkle Avenu
ginia, 25304, refundable fe Pocahonta
thority reserv all bids.

F

FOR SALE Chevrolet, 4-653-8884

FOR SALE
799-6887

HAY FOR Sharp, 799-7

HAY FOR about 850 lb you haul. Cal

FOR SALE 2903 nges to ues

VV 24954
799-6466

ek of the year.
Virginia 24954

cluding tax)
State $25
S
0¢ word
Managing Editor

Taylor appointed to Board of Education

At the Board of Education meeting on Monday Ruth Taylor, of Hillsboro, was appointed to fill the vacant position on the board. The vacancy was created by the resignation of Bruce McKean in May.

School Superintendent James Phares administered the oath of office to Ms. Taylor and she immediately began her service as a board member. Monday was the deadline for filling the vacancy.

Although at first it seemed like there was little interest in the position from the public, by the time the process was over on Monday, 13 people had submitted their names to fill the vacancy. Residents of the Northern and Southern Districts were eligible for the seat.

One candidate, Michael Holstine, had to withdraw when it was found his home is in the Central District.

On June 19 the Board interviewed Steven McCoy, Richard Thompson, and Scott Madron and selected Mr. McCoy. However, he had to withdraw when was determined that as an employee of the Division of Highways, he cannot serve on a board of education.

At a special meeting on July 11, the Board interviewed James McCoy, Jr., Debra Schoolcraft, Ms. Taylor, Steven White, Christine Rebinski, Douglas Morrison, Thomas VanReenen (by phone), Blix McNeill, and Dean Jones.

Pocahontas County High School Principal Tom Sanders gave the Board a staffing report for his

to the policies on Technology, Student Acceptable Use of Technology, Employee Acceptable Use of Technology, and Attendance.

The caregiver policy provides a way for school system employees to donate personal leave days to help other employees who have to take time from work to care for their child or another family member (under certain conditions).

The student/employee technology policies are revised by minor additions. Added to the county school technology policy is a new section on Internet Safety concerning the use of methods to protect against Internet access to sites that are obscene, involve child pornography, or harmful to minors. Also each school is to develop a procedure to monitor the online activities of students. Dr. Phares said the necessary protection software will be purchased by the state and not be a cost to the county.

The proposed change in the attendance policy is more significant. Eliminated is the requirement that students must have no more then eight absences in order to receive credit for a course. In place of this requirement, the revised policy will will add attendance and participation as part of the overall grade assessment of students in their classes.

In response to a comment from a Board member, Mr. Sanders agreed there could be more absences at the high school, but noted that the

FOLLOWIN
James Phar Taylor re-e Monday's

Mis

by

A man on controlled month repri after Chief clared a mis

Rowe gra
Martin Saf Saffer succ ethical conc of Joseph "B

"It's just i the court.

After a Trooper testi hours the p which was c er told the ju play a tape o

nty
s die ent

63, and his Moyers, three tow, died of ar accident on ehicle wreck about three lle.
ccounts, Mr.
at when his went off of 0 p.m. and he accident

Barbara, 54, They were al Hospital by's moth-was treated

his home is in the Central District.

On June 19 the Board interviewed Steven McCoy, Richard Thompson, and Scott Madron and selected Mr. McCoy. However, he had to withdraw when was determined that as an employee of the Division of Highways, he cannot serve on a board of education.

At a special meeting on July 11, the Board interviewed James McCoy, Jr., Debra Schoolcraft, Ms. Taylor, Steven White, Christine Rebinski, Douglas Morrison, Thomas VanReenen (by phone), Blix McNeill, and Dean Jones.

Pocahontas County High School Principal Tom Sanders gave the Board a staffing report for his school for the upcoming school year. His report recommended the abolishing of the English and the social studies teaching positions that are presently vacant due to resignations and replace them with a single combined English/social studies position.

Mr. Sanders said the continuing decline in enrollment at PCHS makes this step necessary.

He also recommended the creation of a half-time special education teaching position. This position is needed because of regulations restricting class size in special education classes to no more than ten.

Mr. Sanders noted that one result of the staff reduction will be the elimination of two elective classes with small enrollment. These are II-IV and Government, and one section of Physical Education. He said the school is not able to continue to offer all the electives it has in the past. Dr. Phares and Mr. Sanders discussed how it is getting more difficult to meet all the courses offerings required by state regulations, some of which tend to conflict. (The Government elective is an required one and will have to be offered at some other time.)

Board member Kenneth Vance

of students. Dr. Phares said the necessary protection software will be purchased by the state and not be a cost to the county.

The proposed change in the attendance policy is more significant. Eliminated is the requirement that students must have no more then eight absences in order to receive credit for a course. In place of this requirement, the revised policy will will add attendance and participation as part of the overall grade assessment of students in their classes.

In response to a comment from a Board member, Mr. Sanders agreed there could be more absences at the high school, but noted that the present system has proved very difficult to administer.

Under personnel items the Board approved the following:

Resignations

* Lois Burdette as teacher as Green Bank Elementary/Middle
* Patricia Keller as teacher at PCHS, due to retirement
* Louise Flegel as teacher at PCHS
* Delmos Barb as assistant football coach at PCHS

Employments

* Karen Goldizen as special education/bus aid at Marlinton Elementary
* Renee Hill as cook at Hillsboro, half-time
* Carl Walker as assistant football coach at PCHS

Positions Eliminated

* Social studies teacher at PCHS
* English teacher at PCHS

Positions Created

* English/social studies teacher at PCHS
* Special education teacher at PCHS, half-time
* Dean of students at Marlinton Middle, half-time
* Dean of students at Green Bank, half-time
* Physical education teacher at Green Bank, half-time

Mr. Sanders said the continuing decline in enrollment at PCHS makes this step necessary.

He also recommended the creation of a half-time special education teaching position. This position is needed because of regulations restricting class size in special education classes to no more than ten.

Mr. Sanders noted that one result of the staff reduction will be the elimination of two elective classes with small enrollment. Theater II-IV and Government, and one section of Physical Education. He said the school is not able to continue to offer all the electives it has in the past. Dr. Phares and Mr. Sanders discussed how it is getting more difficult to meet all the courses offerings required by state regulations, some of which tend to conflict. (The Government elective is an required one and will have to be offered at some other time.)

Board member Kenneth Vance expressed his concern about the proposal, saying this is the wrong way to go. Mr. Sanders replied that with the enrollment at PCHS, about 400 for the coming school, the opportunities to reduce staff must be taken, "not that I enjoy" this sort of thing.

Mr. Sanders reviewed some other staffing needs, including the lack, so far, of finding an EMT to work with the football team. Practice cannot begin until this position is filled, he noted.

In another matter concerning PCHS, Board member Bernard King asked for a cost analysis of the present "block" scheduling system compared with traditional scheduling. A decision on this request was postponed to a later meeting.

Dr. Phares gave the report on the situation on the construction of the auditorium/fine arts facility at the high school. He said the attorneys for the architect and the Board are negotiating a letter for the termin-

* Louise Flegel as teacher at PCHS

* Delmos Barb as assistant football coach at PCHS

Employments

* Karen Goldizen as special education/bus aid at Marlinton Elementary

* Renee Hill as cook at Hillsboro, half-time

* Carl Walker as assistant football coach at PCHS

Positions Eliminated

* Social studies teacher at PCHS

* English teacher at PCHS

Positions Created

* English/social studies teacher at PCHS

* Special education teacher at PCHS, half-time

* Dean of students at Marlinton Middle, half-time

* Dean of students at Green Bank, half-time

* Physical education teacher at Green Bank, half-time

Other

* transfer of Christine Campbell from teacher at Marlinton Elementary to teacher of English/language arts at Marlinton Middle

* rescinded transfer of Carrie Hickman from half-time custodian at Hillsboro to special education/bus aid at Marlinton Elementary * permission given for the Superintendent to fill positions through September.

Dr. Phares reported that an information packet is being prepared for teachers about the National Board Certification program. Teachers who gain this certification receive a $2500 annual pay raise from the state and Dr. Phares said he may recommend a local $2000 increase.

Barbara Lewis explained the lengthy process a teacher has to go through in order to gain the national certification.

pared with traditional scheduling. A decision on this request was postponed to a later meeting.

Dr. Phares gave the report on the situation on the construction of the auditorium/fine arts facility at the high school. He said the attorneys for the architect and the Board are negotiating a letter for the termination of the contract for the facility with Lowe Brothers for cause due to lack of compliance of the terms of the general contract.

Dr. Phares said the bonding company for the contractor will be notified of the termination and will have three options: seek arbitration; hire a general contractor to complete the project; or authorize the architect or Board to hire a contractor.

Chad Jones and Ewen Hewitt gave the Board an overview of a new program to help prevent truancy. Mr. Hewitt will be the Truancy Diversion Social Worker in the county and work with the schools on the problem. Mr. Jones said the program is voluntary and will emphasize working with the students's family. He said the program is aimed at the lower grade levels, in hopes of catching a truancy problem before it becomes serious.

Mr. Hewitt said he has met with staff at each school and has opened five cases so far.

The Board approved placing on 30-day comment a new policy on Caregiver Leave Bank and revisions $2500 annual pay raise from the state and Dr. Phares said he may recommend a local $2000 increase.

Barbara Lewis explained the lengthy process a teacher has to go through in order to gain the national certification.

fir

be dismissed should Judge Frank Jolliffe accept her plea.

Prosecuting Attorney Walt Weiford has asked for restitution of approximately $4000 and that Beverage speak to civic groups about her

John Harvey Smith, 27, of Mill Creek, pled guilty to delivery of a controlled substance last Thursday in Greenbrier County.

Carl Eddie Mullenax, 28, of Arbovale, plead guilty Tuesday to third offense DUI.

County Commission deals with various items at Tuesday's meeting

Only matters of routine business were on the agenda at the County Commission meeting on Tuesday.

A budget revision was approved to increase the budget by $22,000 for the Emergency Medical Services Board, from Legislative Budget Digest Funds. Although part of the 2000 Budget Digest, the money has only been received by the county.

It was reported that the county has been approved for a $17,000 grant for court security improvements.

Louise McNeel, Douglas Friel, and Jason Hamrick were appointed to the Drama, Fairs and Festivals Committee. It was noted that one more person is needed to fill a position on the committee, from the north central part of the county.

Approval was given to a policy that no one is an employee of the county until their employment is approved by the Commission.

C. J. Dunbrack was approved a full-time deputy county clerk.

The name East Cass Community Park was approved as the official name of the park located in this section of Cass.

Approval was given to a law enforcement mutual aid agreement with Barbour County.

The Greenbrier Valley Economic Development Corporation was approved as the lead economic development agency for this county.

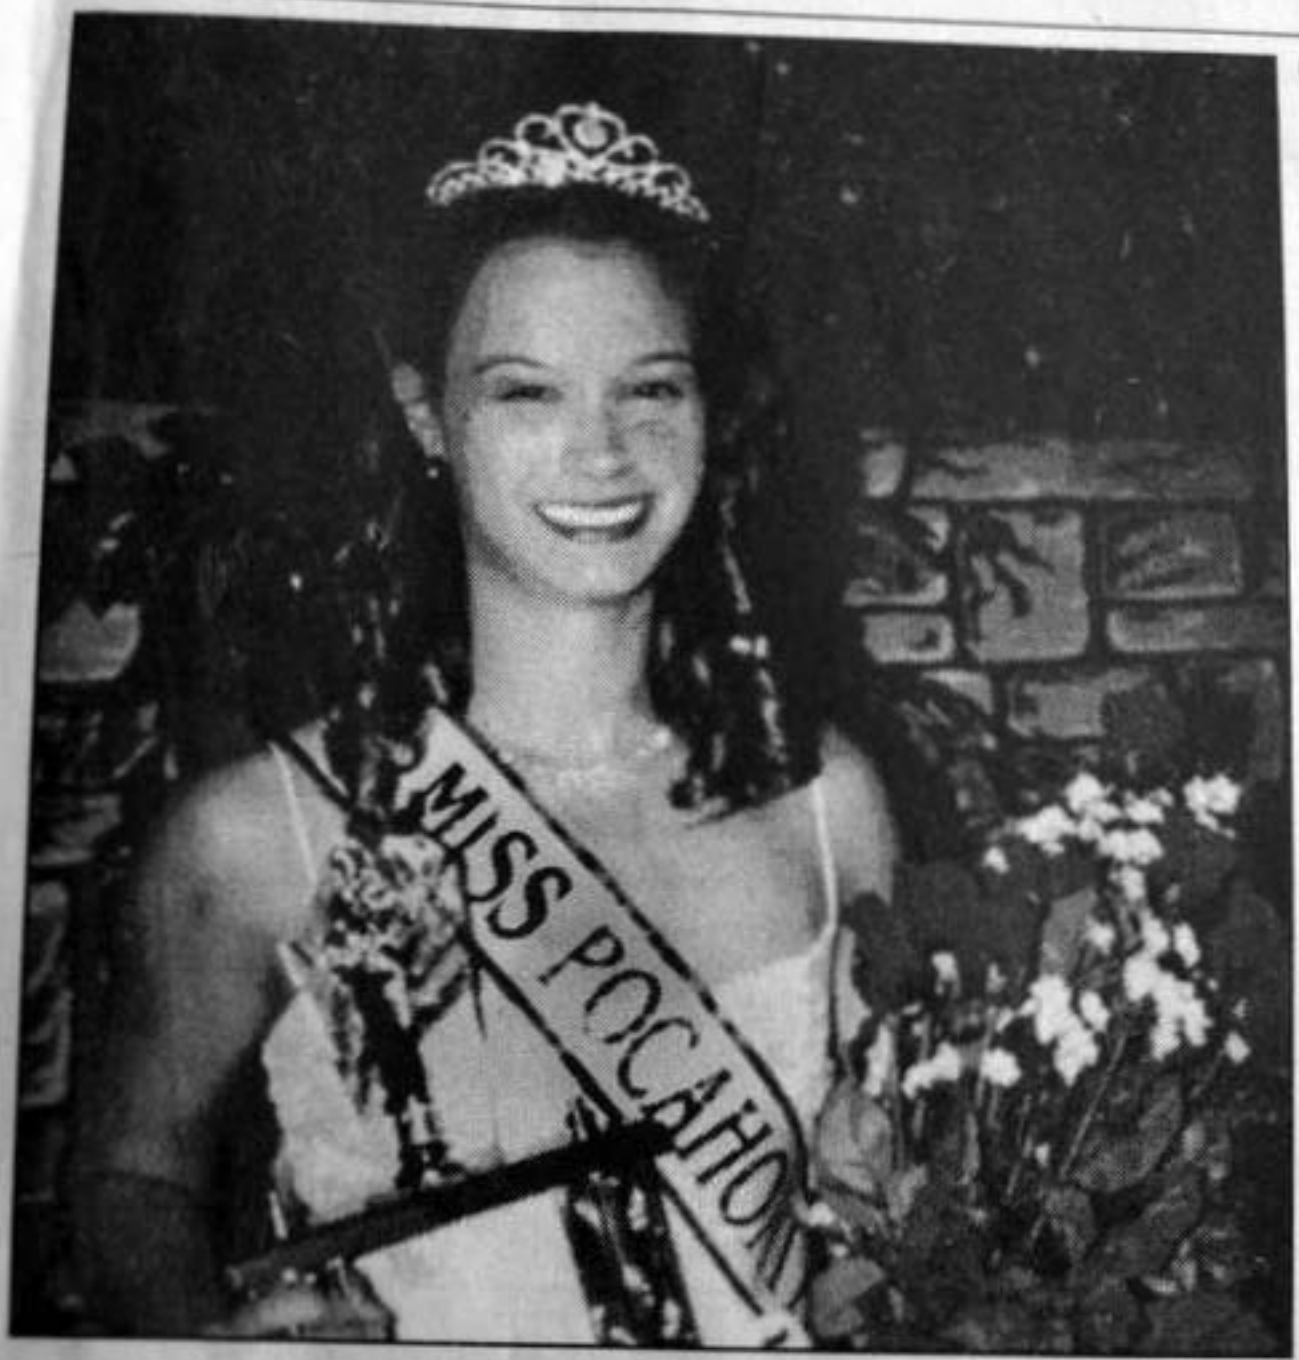
Approval was given to make an application for a Community Partnership Grant for repairs to the county owned building occupied by Gardner Shoe Company.

The Sheriff Department Law Enforcement Policy and Procedure Manual was approved to be placed on public comment for a thirty-day period. A copy of the manual can be found at the County Clerk's office.

Action on the bid for the imaging equipment for the County Clerk's office was tabled. County Clerk Pat Dunbrack reported that she has another company interested in, bidding.

Snakes coming to library

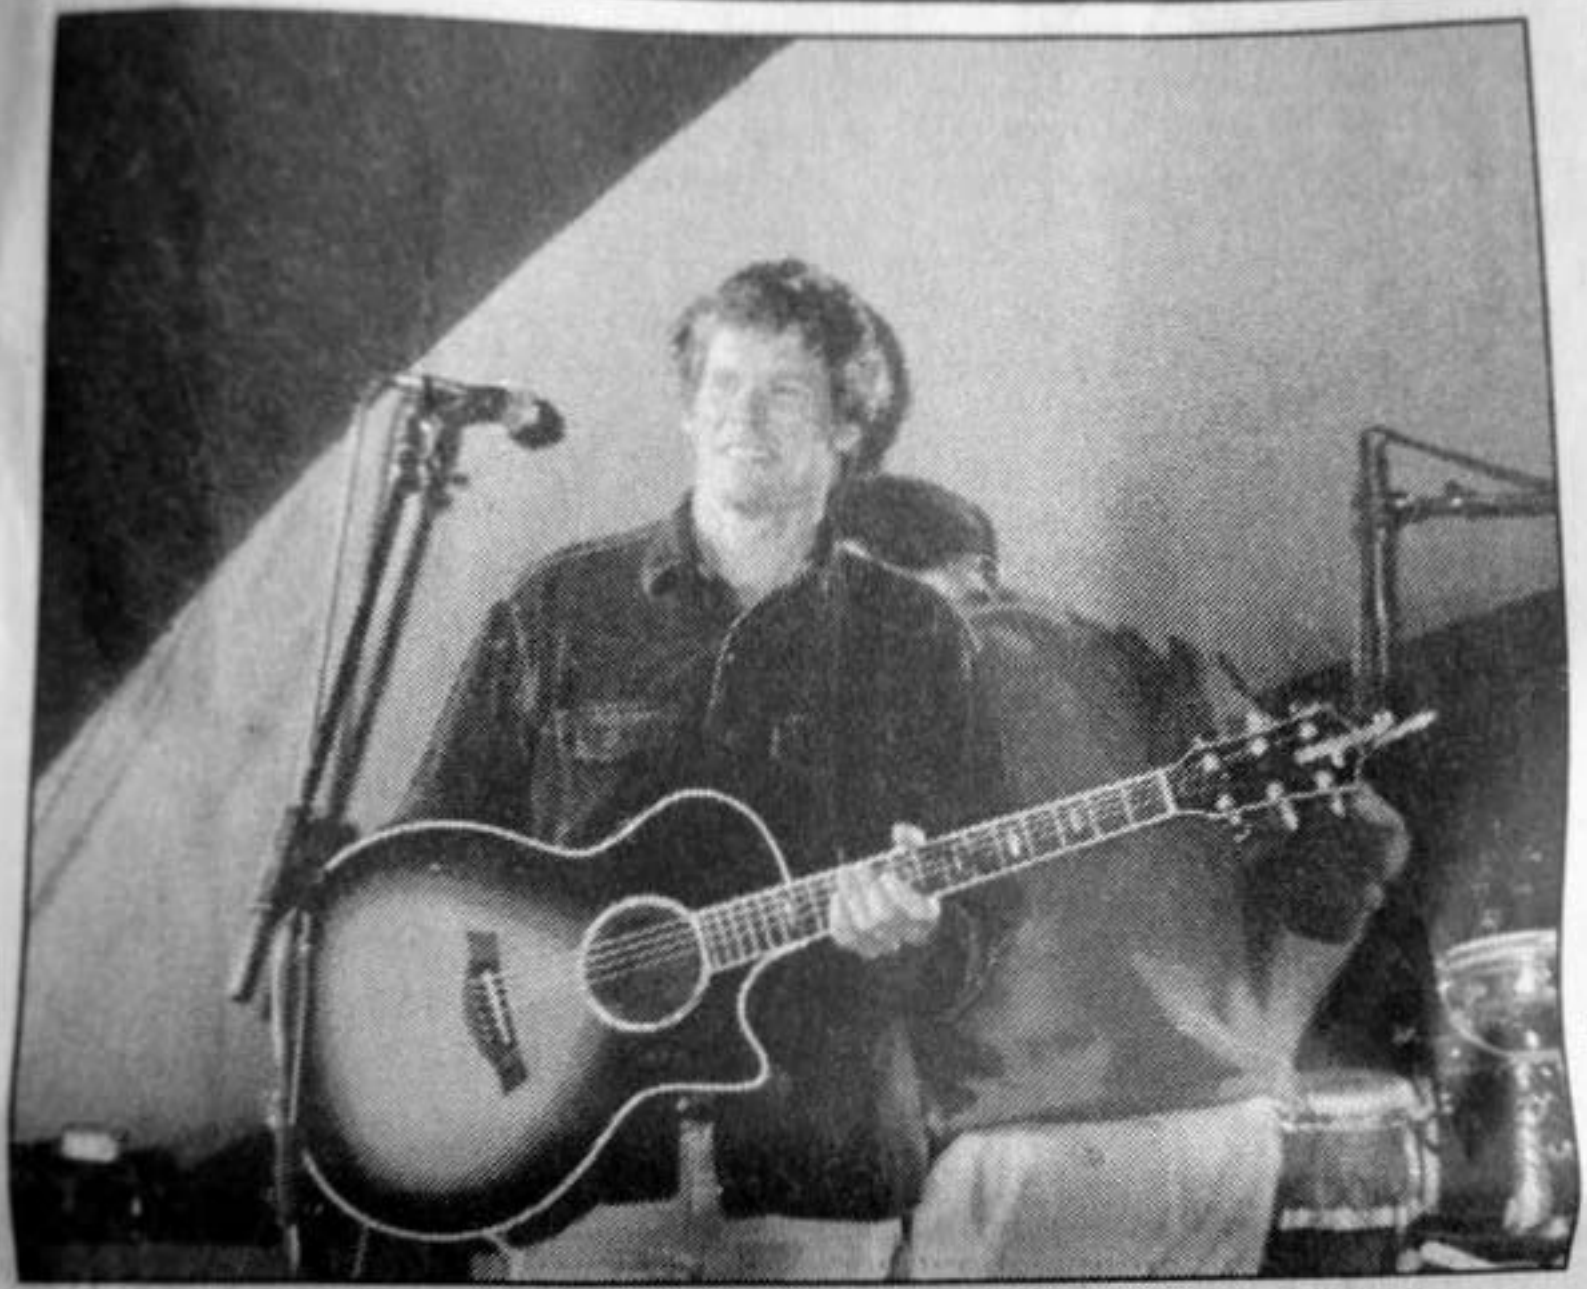
Snakes will visit the McClintic Library Saturday, July 28, at 10 a.m. for a demonstration by herpetologist Roy Moose. The public is invited to experience the many types of snakes that inhabit our state.



MISS POCAHONTAS 2001 - Queen Jessica Dunbrack, 1st Runner Up, Chasity Simmons, 2nd Runner Up, Cassandra Channell, Miss Photogenic & Miss Congeniality, Jennifer Gum. Dunbrack is the first woman to hold all three titles, She was Little Miss Pocahontas in 1990 and Miss Teen Pocahontas in 1997.

Managing Editor's Notebook

by Pamela E. Pritt



KEVIN BACON PERFORMS at Mountain Stage on Snowshoe Mountain Friday night. Pam Pritt photo

Bringing home the Bacons

charges of pu disorderly co
State Police
He pled guil was fined $100.25 in c

A number in Magistra Friday.

Elizabeth was found maintain co

Amanda Head, enter DUI. She hours in jai and court co

Thomas M
was found

Dear Editor:

I am writ letter I read weeks ago. Th readers to kno ence they hac room at Pocah

KEVIN BACON PERFORMS at Mountain Stage on Snowshoe Mountain Friday night. Pam Pritt photo

Bringing home the Bacons

I didn't think I'd be starstruck so easily.

Yet, it happened. I didn't think I was ever Six Degrees from Kevin Bacon, like the game was supposed to go. I thought I was more like 10, 15, 20 degrees from any movie star.

So when I got the opportunity to meet Kevin Bacon, a star of some magnitude, I took it, thinking I could be cool about it all, nonchalant, even.

After all, I remember him when he was a fresh kid in the 1970s on the Guiding Light. After that, Footloose and JFK and Skip the Dog and some other movies too scary for my tastes, it's like I know the guy, right?

Maybe I could have lived up to my expectations of cool detachment if I'd met him before he performed at Mountain Stage at Snowshoe Friday night.

But after watching him I all of a sudden understood what those black and white clips of teenage girls fainting and crying over the Beatles was all about.

His talents aren't confined to acting. He and his brother, Michael, are dynamite performers on stage and I could listen to them sing for a lot longer than they performed.

So by the time I got behind the tape at Mountain Stage, I was fascinated, to say the least. And for about a minute-and-a-half I had a conversation and got a picture, just for proof. No longer six degrees from Kevin Bacon, not even a step away. I didn't faint or cry, thank goodness. But I could've jumped up and down a little. Maybe a squeal or two.

The music was great, the mountain air was chilly and the crowd of about 1000 was cranked up; it made for a great evening.

Thanks to the kind people at Snowshoe I got to feel like a teenager again, even if it was only for 90 seconds. And it was in living color.

Dear Editor:

I am wri letter I read weeks ago. T readers to kn ence they h room at Poca pital. I want about our exp Memorial Ho

Our daug three o'clock had to take room.

When we room, somec away to help room. The nu find out wh promptly had us. The docto and conscient

New pl Bridge

Thomas B displayed a sha that will be vis tas County area
ey's submissio munications "T photo contest h appear on th company's 2 County telephon Bailey sub

Dog days continues until August 15

Dee's Flower Patch

MorningStar FolkArts

Lots of Books, Old-time & Bluegrass Music

New things

MISS TEEN POCAHONTAS 2001 - Queen Vanessa Malcomb, 1st Runner Up, Brandy Sharp, 2nd Runner Up, Caitlin Sharp, Miss Teen Spirit, Kristin Pollard, Miss Teen Photogenic, Vanessa Malcomb

DRY Gibson F Softba Gi Caitlin Bo Austin
nett, 3r Gi anda M Bo Darrell 2nd pla Brady P er.

Girl gan Wil Brown, lion.

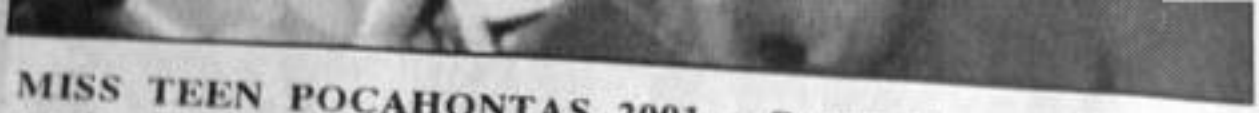
Boy



MISS TEEN POCAHONTAS 2001 - Queen Vanessa Malcomb, 1st Runner Up, Brandy Sharp, 2nd Runner Up, Caitlin Sharp, Miss Teen Spirit, Kristin Pollard, Miss Teen Photogenic, Vanessa Malcomb

LITTLE MISS POCAHONTAS 2001 - Queen Elizabeth Liptrap, 1st Runner Up, Ashley Peacock, 2nd Runner Up, Jordan Mann, Little Miss Photogenic, Chantella Lewis, Little Miss Personality, Elizabeth Liptrap

Personality, Elizabeth Liptrap

ADULT SPELLING WINNERS - Bee Gladwell, who has directed the Spelling and History Contests for many years, Ann Jacek New York, first, Julia Hefner, Mill Point, second, and Mary Geiger, Cass, third.

TATIANA MYNUK, OF Marlinton, won first place in the History contest. Mary Crowell, of Stony Bottom, placed second and Mark Roofer, of Scott Depot, won third. Jane Sharp photo

PIONEER DAYS YOUTH

1st - Sugar and Spice (13 girls)

Barrett, 2nd place, W welder, 3rd place, C liams.

Pioneer Relay:

Girls - 5 & Un
Emily Smith.

Boys - 5 & Un
Alex Halterman, 2n Gragg.

Girls - 6 to 7:
nee Underwood, 2
Mosesso, 3rd place,

Boys - 6 to 7:
Haskett.

Girls - 8 to 10:
gan Williamson Adreanna McMil
Jayna Hutto.

Boys - 8 to 10
Barrett, 2nd place
liams, 3rd place welder.

Boys - 11 t
David Mitchell,
Brown.

Hula Hoop:

Girls - 8 to Adreanna McMil
Morgan William Emily Brown.

DRY TURTLES: 1ST DUSTIN Morrison, 2nd, Kailey Gibson, 3rd, Amy Sharp Carol Moore photo

Field Events Results

Softball Throw:

Girls - 5 & under: 1st place, Kristen Irvine, 2nd, Angel Auldridge, 3rd

13-15: Lucy Mosesso, 1st

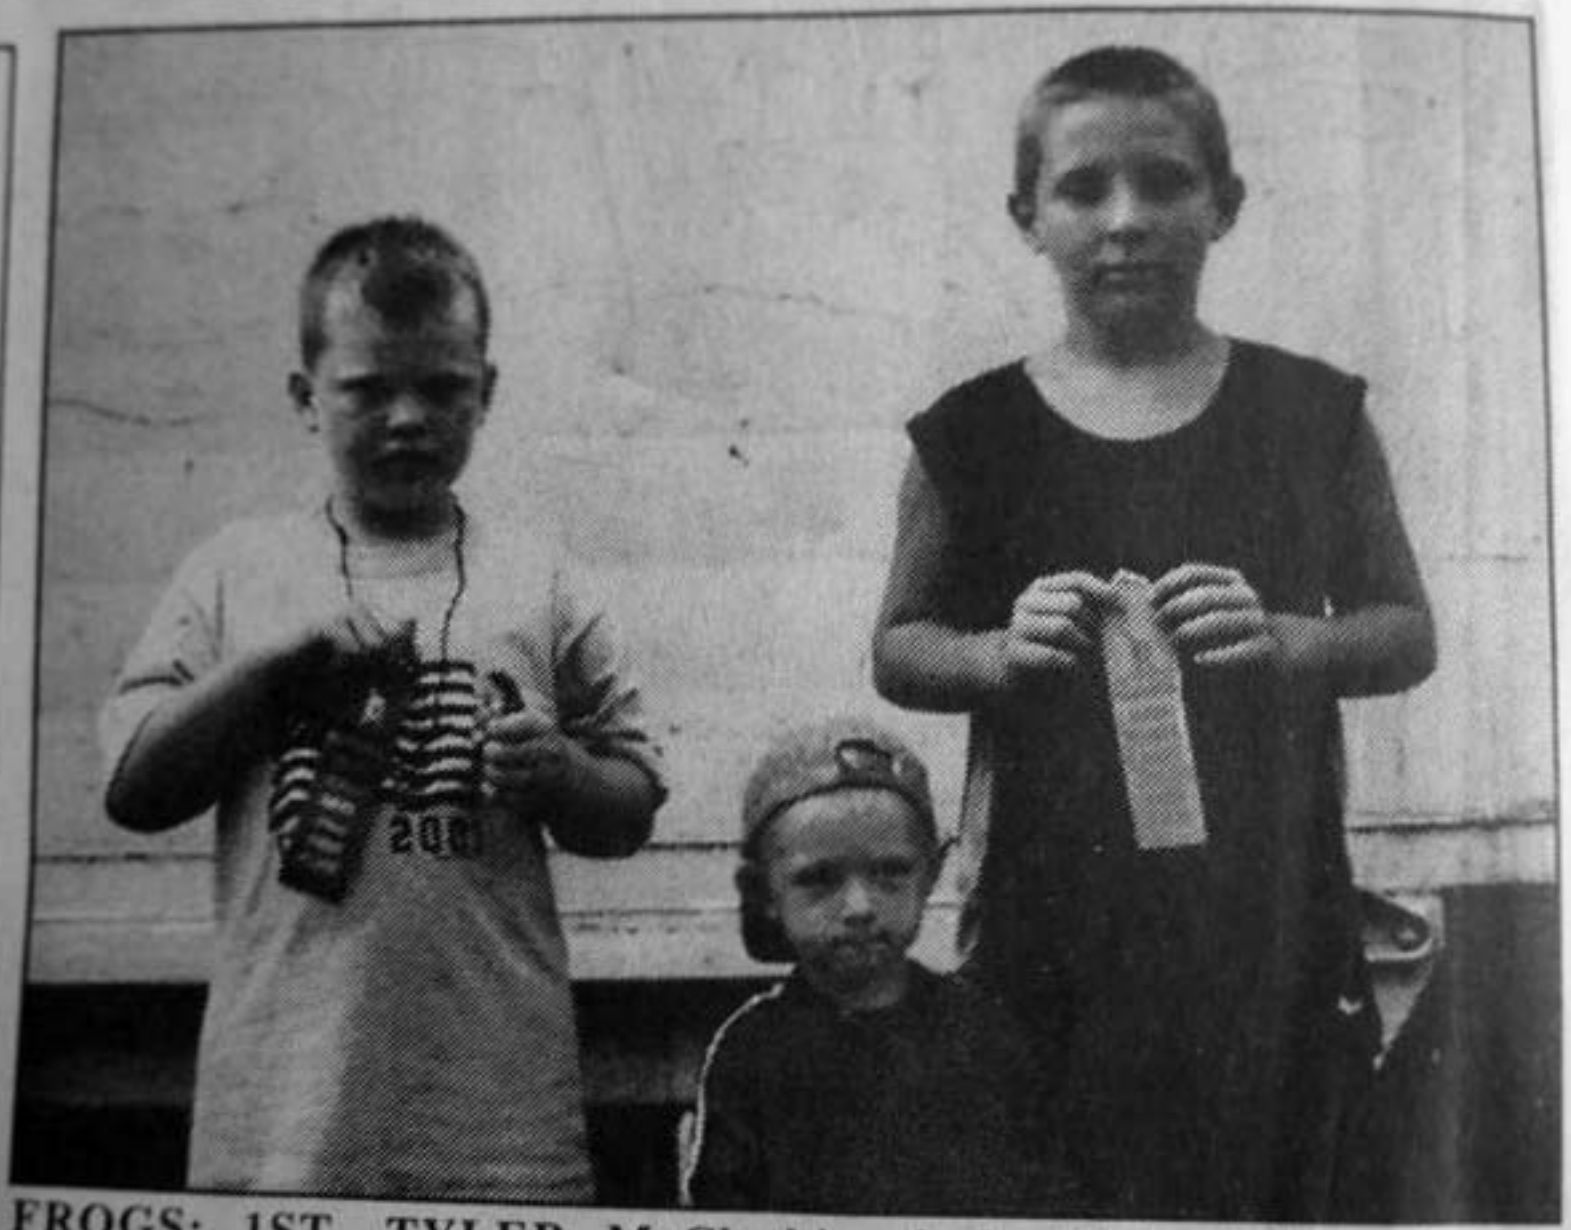
FROGS:
3rd, Ada

d, Kailey

nd, Angel

osesso, 1st,
emiah Friel,

Beverage



FROGS: 1ST, TYLER McClaskie, 2nd, Michael Morrison, 3rd, Adam Adkins Carol Moore photo

INSI Poca by t tors mad in s brea

clos

3rd, Adam Adkins Carol Moore photo

osesso, 1st.
cmiah Friel.

Beverage,
Adam Sew-entries) arks, 1st; Benjamin
h Curry, an Smith.

age, 1st;
y Gibson,

cabaugh.

Winners
d Daniel

d Donnie aft and

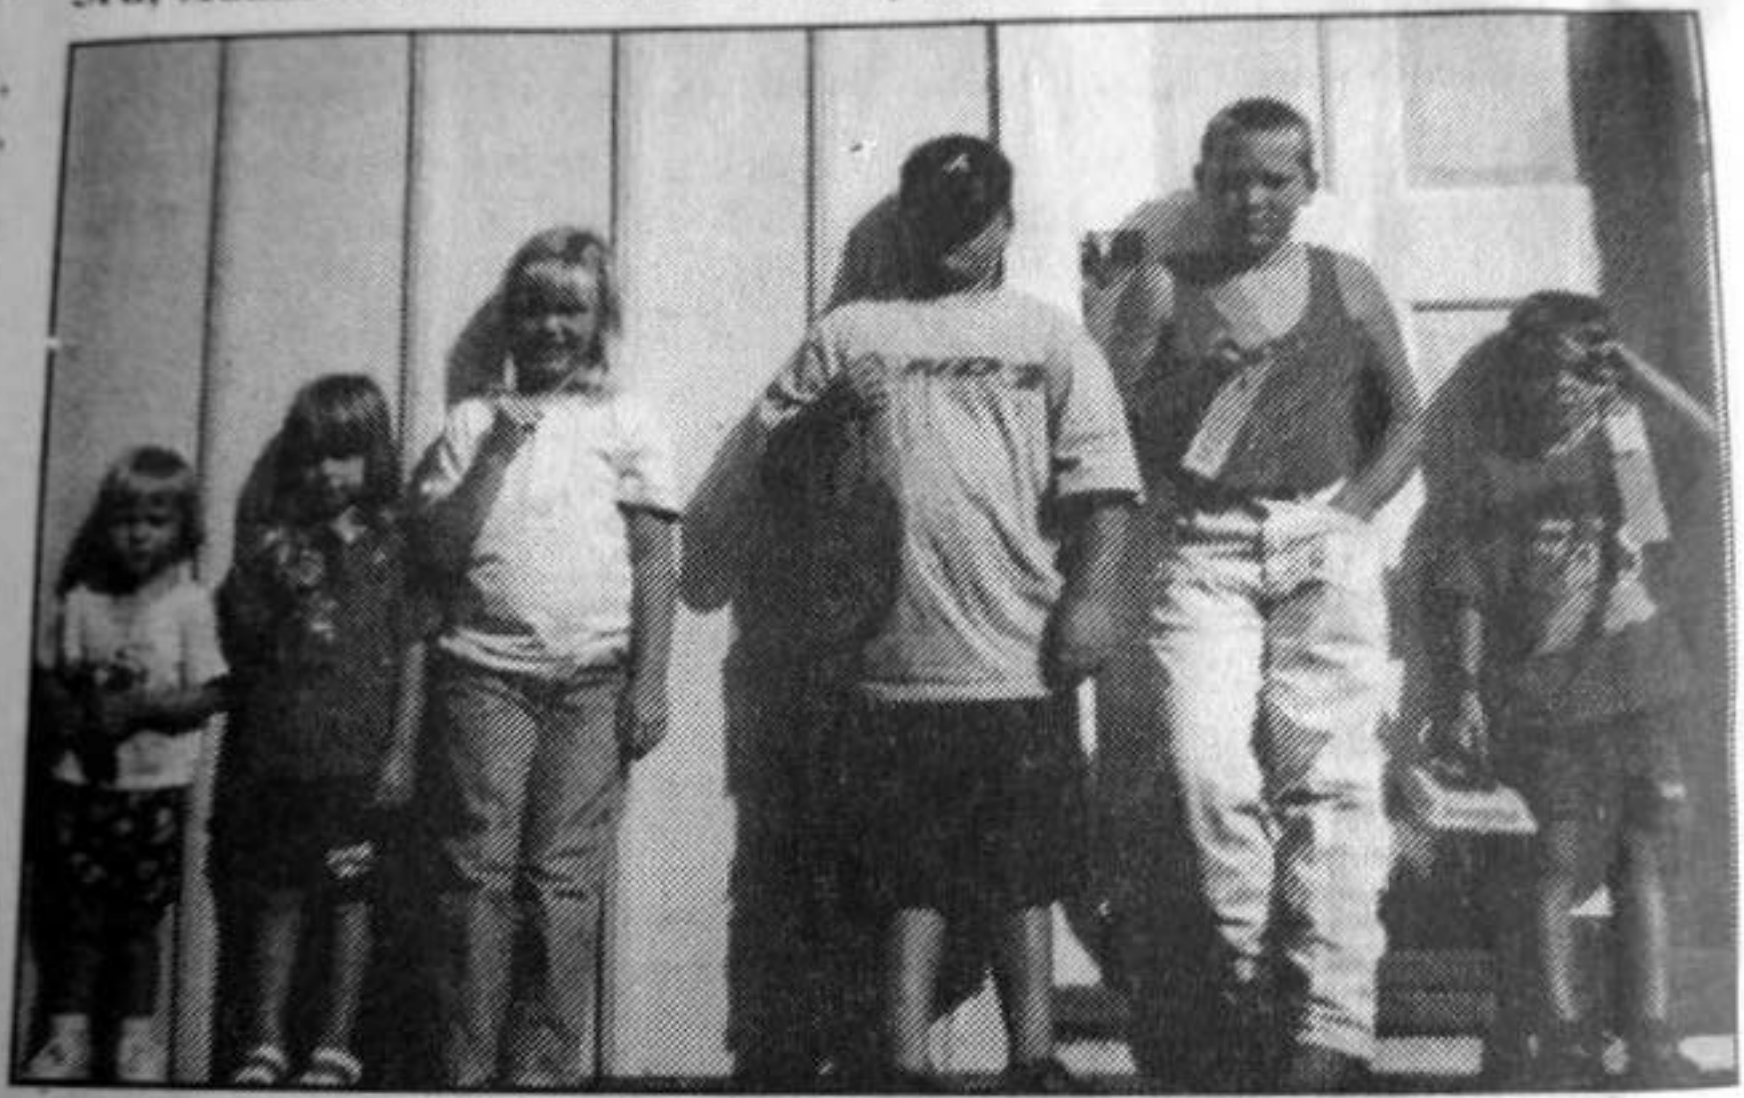
d Rod-



TOADS: 1ST, NATALIE Wade, 2nd, Rachel Adkins, 3rd, Andrew Morrison, Justin Roberson, Josh Smith, Jayna Hutto Carol Moore photo

Howell, $10 gas from M&M Mart #3; Tom Long, $10 gas from McNeill's Country Mart; Kenneth Hill, 3 subs from Subway; Kay certificate from Johnson's Dariland; Cathy Mosseso, $25 gift certificate from Flower House & Gifts; Elaine Alkire, 10 tanning

DRY TURTLES: 1ST DUSTIN Morrison, 2nd, Kailey Gibson, 3rd, Amy Sharp Carol Moore photo

Field Events Results

Softball Throw:

Girls - 5 & under: 1st place, Caitlin Kelly.

Boys - 5 & under: 1st place, Austin Friel, 2nd place, Mason Bennett, 3rd place, Wesley Brown.

Girls - 6 to 7: 3rd place, Miranda McNabb.

Boys - 6 to 7: 1st place tie, Darrell Kimber and Phillip Horton, 2nd place tie, Taylor Haskett and Brady Potvin, 3rd place, Levi Hefner.

Girls - 8 to 10: 1st place, Morgan Williamson, 2nd place, Emily Brown, 3rd place, Adreanna McMillion.

Boys - 1st place, Zack Barrett, 2nd place, Winston Blackwelder, 3rd place, Ethan Shields.

Girls - 11 to 13: 1st place, Nebraska Beverage.

Beanbag Toss:

Girls - 5 & Under: 1st place, Ally Dunbrack.

Boys - 5 & Under: 1st place, Austin Friel, 2nd place, Mason Bennett, 3rd place, Michael Morrison.

Girls - 6 to 7: 1st place, Tristan Akers, 2nd place, Miranda McNabb, 3rd place, Clair Mosesso.

Boys - 6 to 7: 1st place, Brady Potvin, 2nd place, Joey Friel, 3rd place, Dustin Morrison.

Girls - 8 to 10: 1st place, Adreanna McMillion, 2nd place, Kristen Irvine, 2nd, Angel Auldridge, 3rd

13-15: Lucy Mosesso, 1st, Corey Bryant, 2nd, Jeremiah Friel, 3rd; Natasha Halterman

10-12: Katherine Beverage, 1st; Abby Dilley, 2nd; Adam Sewell, Brittney L. Pritt (late entries)

8-9: Felicia Sparks, 1st; Katherine Beverage, 2nd; Benjamin Martin, 3rd; Elizabeth Curry, Cheyenne Martin, Kristian Smith, Taylor McCoy

6-7: Kristen Beverage, 1st; Kearah Baker, 2nd; Emily Gibson, 3rd

3-5: Kristi Lynn Lucabaugh, 1st, 2nd, 3rd

Demolition Derby Winners

Heat I - Mary Zysk and Daniel Givens.

Heat II - Frankie Barker and Donnie Fisher.

Heat III - Jerry Schoolcraft and Henry Dawson.

Heat IIII - Brent Baldwin and Rodney Honaker.

Main Event - 1st Frankie Barker, 2nd Daniel Givens.

Grudge Match - Tony Hill and Frankie Barker.

Powder Puff - Karen Hoylman.

Wet Turtles

1st - Andrew Morrison

2nd - Tyler McClaskie

3rd - Jayna Hutto

FROGS 3rd, Ad

TOA
And Hutt

How
#3: Neil Hill Bev Glac certi Terr cate
Dan Fam
Dear Hous

Nebraska Beverage.

Beanbag Toss:

Girls - 5 & Under: 1st place, Ally Dunbrack.

Boys - 5 & Under: 1st place, Austin Friel, 2nd place, Mason Bennett, 3rd place, Michael Morrison.

Girls - 6 to 7: 1st place, Tristan Akers, 2nd place, Miranda McNabb, 3rd place, Clair Mosesso.

Boys - 6 to 7: 1st place, Brady Potvin, 2nd place, Joey Friel, 3rd place, Dustin Morrison.

Girls - 8 to 10: 1st place, Adreanna McMillion, 2nd place, Morgan Williamson.

Boys - 8 to 10: 1st place, Christian Williams, 2nd place, Zack Barrett, 3rd place, Winston Blackwelder.

Girls - 11 to 13: 1st place, Nebraska Beverage.

Soccer Dribble:

Boys - 5 & Under: 1st place, Caleb Gragg.

Boys - 6 to 7: 1st place, Taylor Haskett.

Girls - 8 to 10: 1st place, Adreanna McMillion.

Boys - 8 to 10: 1st place, Zack Barrett, 2nd place, Winston Blackwelder, 3rd place, Christian Williams.

Pioneer Relay:

Girls - 5 & Under: 1st place, Emily Smith.

Boys - 5 & Under: 1st place, Alex Halterman, 2nd place, Caleb Gragg.

Girls - 6 to 7: 1st place, Britnee Underwood, 2nd place, Clair Mosesso, 3rd place, Amy Bennett.

Boys - 6 to 7: 1st place, Taylor Haskett.

Girls - 8 to 10: 1st place, Morgan Williamson, 2nd place, Adreanna McMillion, 3rd place, Jayna Hutto.

Boys - 8 to 10: 1st place, Zack Barrett, 2nd place, Christian Williams, 3rd place, Winston Fisher.

Heat III - Jerry Schoolcraft and Henry Dawson.

Heat IIII - Brent Baldwin and Rodney Honaker.

Main Event - 1st Frankie Barker, 2nd Daniel Givens.

Grudge Match - Tony Hill and Frankie Barker.

Powder Puff - Karen Hoylman.

Wet Turtles

1st - Andrew Morrison

2nd - Tyler McClaskie

3rd - Jayna Hutto

WVMR Winners

The WVMR 20th Anniversary Raffle winners from Saturday of Pioneer Days are:

Scott Duncan, Oil lamp from CJ Richardsons; Charles & Alice

Howell, #3; Tor Neill's Hill, 3 Bevera Glades certific Terry cate fr Danny Family Dean, House

Neal Nationa steak kn Bank; H and a ca General;

Gosp

Ambassador

Huntersvi

July 22

The C

from

Local Singers &

Come join us fo

Boys - 6 to 7: 1st place, Taylor Haskett.

Girls - 8 to 10: 1st place, Adreanna McMillion.

Boys - 8 to 10: 1st place, Zack Barrett, 2nd place, Winston Blackwelder, 3rd place, Christian Williams.

Pioneer Relay:

Girls - 5 & Under: 1st place, Emily Smith.

Boys - 5 & Under: 1st place, Alex Halterman, 2nd place, Caleb Gragg.

Girls - 6 to 7: 1st place, Britnee Underwood, 2nd place, Clair Mosesso, 3rd place, Amy Bennett.

Boys - 6 to 7: 1st place, Taylor Haskett.

Girls - 8 to 10: 1st place, Morgan Williamson, 2nd place, Adreanna McMillion, 3rd place, Jayna Hutto.

Boys - 8 to 10: 1st place, Zack Barrett, 2nd place, Christian Williams, 3rd place Winston Blackwelder.

Boys - 11 to 13: 1st place, David Mitchell, 2nd place, Lee Brown.

Hula Hoop:

Girls - 8 to 10: 1st place, Adreanna McMillion, 2nd place, Morgan Williamson, 3rd place, Emily Brown.

Boys - 8 to 10: 1st place, Christian Williams, 2nd place, Winston Blackwelder, 3rd place, A. J. Vaughn.

Pioneer Days Winners

Pam Billings, of Hillsboro, won the quilt given away by the Marlinton Rescue Squad

Employees at the Pocahonts

Ambassado Huntersvi
July 2
The
from Local Singers Come join us fashioned AFC snack Ambas 31st Anni
July
Main Speake

Girls - 8 to 10: 1st place, Adreanna McMillion, 2nd place, Morgan Williamson, 3rd place, Emily Brown.

Boys - 8 to 10: 1st place, Christian Williams, 2nd place, Winston Blackwelder, 3rd place, A. J. Vaughn.

Pioneer Days Winners

Pam Billings, of Hillsboro, won the quilt given away by the Marlinton Rescue Squad

Employees at the Pocahontas County Convention and Visitors Bureau walked away with every Best Dressed Store Clerk Prize during Pioneer Days: Linda Adams, Authentic, Nancy Smithson, Reproduction, Gail Lowry, Pioneer Theme.

Flower Garden won Best Window Display with Candles Crafts and Creations, second, and Neal Kellison's Building, third.

Youth Art Show

The Pioneer Days Youth Art Show was judged Tuesday. Pocahontas County Arts Council helped sponsor the contest and show this year. Several of the youth had multiple entries.

Best in Show Award - Brandy Sharp (13)

16 - 18: Andrew LaCasse, 1st,

Am 31st Ar
Ju Main Spe
Bible Te Youth Children's 1 7:30 p.
Great Preachi Every

FROGS: 1ST, TYLER McClaskie, 2nd, Michael Morrison, 3rd, Adam Adkins Carol Moore photo

TOADS: 1ST, NATALIE Wade, 2nd, Rachel Adkins, 3rd, Andrew Morrison, Justin Roberson, Josh Smith, Jayna Hutto Carol Moore photo

Howell, $10 gas from M&M Mart #3; Tom Long, $10 gas from McNeill's Country Mart; Kenneth Hill, 3 subs from Subway; Kay Beverage, 2 camp chairs from Glades; Mary Sue Burns, $20 gift certificate from Edray Kwick Stop; Terry Richardson, $50 gift certificate from Pocahontas Foodland; Danny Burks, camping chair from Family Dollar employees; Bradley Dean, $10 gift certificate from House of Style;

Neal Kellison, coin set from City National Bank; Diana Sparks, set of steak knives from First Citizens Bank; Helen Friel, 2 large pizzas and a case of Pepsi from Little General; Zack Richardson, $10 gift certificate from Johnson's Dariland; Cathy Mosseso, $25 gift certificate from Flower House & Gifts; Elaine Alkire, 10 tanning session from The Hair Design; Mary Mullins, $15 gift certificate from Candles, Crafts, & Creations;

Doug Bernier, $25 gift certificate from the Carriage House & Gift Shop; Fran McLaughlin; table top grill from Fas Chek; Denise Sharp, two daily specials from French's Diner; David Cain, 1/2 hour massage from Naturally You; Ruth Doyle, 1/2 hour massage from Naturally You.

People who have not yet collected their prizes should contact WVMR.

spel Sing

Kailey

Angel

esso, 1st, iah Friel,

FROGS: 1ST, TYLER McClaskie, 2nd, Michael Morrison, 3rd, Adam Adkins Carol Moore photo

an, left, along Denny Franks, he competitions unity Leaders ring to light the f vocational edu-

d Wagner agree gma attached to ses at a vo-tech re sometimes aping grounds" is group went a g some unfair

e did enlighten e skill and tal- have," Neyman able to high- a very prestig-was not per- ngton because rt of the plan- e very begin- blic speaking thing she had s project and ins did a tre- y putting the

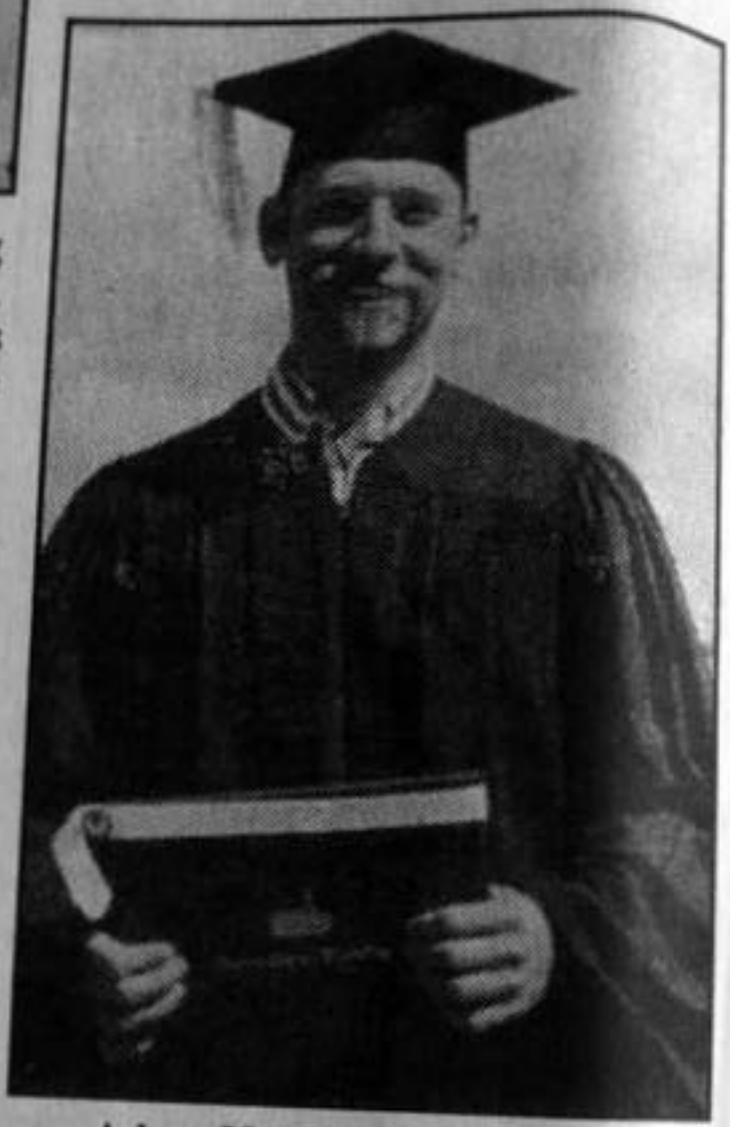
of Pocahontas County High School, Dunmore.



Adam Hunter Dale graduated on Saturday, May 12, from the University of Wyoming with a Bachelor of Science degree in Wildlife and Fisheries Biology and Management (Professional). He is employed as a fisheries technician by the US Forest Service, Pinedale Ranger District of the Bridger-Teton National Forest, Wyoming. Adam currently lives in Pinedale, Wyoming, and plans a fisheries biology career in the U. S. Northwest region. Prior to moving to Wyoming, Adam majored in bology at Glenville State College.

time.

Totten is a 1998 gra Pocahontas County High She joined the Navy in S 1999.

Carpenter to stu at Oxford Univer

Josh Carpenter, a 199 of Pocahontas County Hi and a Yeager Scholar at University, flew to Madr on June 10, 2001, to tou and study at Oxford Univ addition to touring Spain, tour Italy, Switzerland, Holland, France and Engla his study program at Ox versity, England. While he will tour Scotland.

Josh will return to M a junior, majoring in E and Political Science, pre his future in law school.

For his first two Marshall, Josh has remai Dean's List, maintaining age.

Josh is the son of J Peggy Carpenter, of Dunn

Lacasse receiv Graduate Fellows the University of M

Kathleen Lacasse, Bank, has been awarded a School Fellowship from versity of Minnesota, a hi petitive award that is used the most outstanding stude University of Minnesota'

Ranger District of the Bridger-Teton National Forest, Wyoming. Adam currently lives in Pinedale, Wyoming, and plans a fisheries biology career in the U. S. Northwest region. Prior to moving to Wyoming, Adam majored in bology at Glenville State College.

Adam completed his degree in the University of Wyoming's College of Arts and Sciences in Laramie, Wyoming. The required curriculum stressed problem-solving and research work as well as in-depth studies specific to his fields and academic cluster. His education included active participation in research, planning, policy, and management in the Wildlife and Fisheries fields.

The University of Wyoming is a land-grant university established in 1886. Located in Laramie, Wyoming, students have the advantage of a "small-town" feel with miles of mountains and high prairies nearby for study and recreation. Since 1886, the University of Wyoming has been a leader in edutage of a "small-town" feel with miles of mountains and high prairies nearby for study and recreation. Since 1886, the University of Wyoming has been a leader in education and research on using natural resources while protecting the environment. Wyoming is often called a 98,000 square-mile environmental field laboratory (www.uwyo.edu)

Adam is the son of Tom and Sue Dale of Pocahontas County. His paternal grandparents are Richard and Verna Dale, Mill Creek, formerly of Watoga State Park and Cass Railroad State Park. Adam's maternal grandfather, Edgar R. Williams, formerly of Charleston, is a resident of Colonial Place, Elkins.

- - -

County students graduate from Davis and Elkins College

The following Pocahontas County residents were graduated from Davis and Elkins College this

Engagement

Jennings ~ Kershner Engagement

Dr. and Mrs. John Christopher Jennings, of Amarillo, Texas, wish to announce the engagement of their daughter, Amy Catherine, to Curtis Rylan Kershner, of San Marcos, Texas. He is the son of Mr. Henry Lewis Kershner, of Droop, and Mrs. Josephine Kershner, of Green Mountain, North Carolina.

Miss Jennings is a 1995 graduate of Clear Creek High School in League City, Texas. She received her Bachelor of Science degree in Interdisciplinary Studies from Southwest Texas State University. She will complete her Master's degree in Curriculum and Instruction in August 2001, from Southwest Texas State University.

Mr. Kershner is a 1993 graduate of Central High School in San Angelo, Texas. He received his Bachelor of Science degree in Biology from Southwest Texas State University.

The couple will be married at 7 p.m. on August 25, at First Methodist Church in Austin, Texas.

Senior Calendar
July 23-27

Monday: Pocahontas Seniors will go to Durbin to ride the Durbin Train. Suggested donations for the van is $3. If 20 people sign up the railroad will let us ride for $5.50, less than 20 tickets they will be $7.50. Sack lunches will be provided by the Green Bank center for a donation. Call Sharon for more information, or if you need transportation call 456-5370.

Tuesday: Sharon is planning a bowling trip. Call the Green Bank Center to ask Sharon for details. Shirley will plan quiet games to rest up after our exciting train trip.

Wednesday: Harry will bring the Hillsboro Seniors to Marlinton, call if you wish to come, 456-5370. Sharon will make cool treats in Green Bank as an activity. Shirley will take anyone interested to play billiards at 1 p.m.

Thursday: Shirley will have another Senior Social Night from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. Let her know if you wish these nights to continue. We will have a cake walk/wiener roast. Music and fun for all. Come and bring a friend. Transportation provided. AARP will now meet on Thursday at 1 p.m. at the Marlinton Center. This group will meet on the 4th Thursday each month for lunch and their meeting at PCSC. This will be more convenient for those of you who do not drive. Have lunch with us.

Friday: Upper Pocahontas will come to Marlinton. Call Harry to add your name to the list. 456-5370. Becky will check out Green Bank area to see if there are any yard sales left. Shirley will have Fun Bingo in Marlinton.

Mary Andringa, president and chief operating officer of Vermeer, neighbor, prepared the afternoon lunch.

COUNTY 4-H MEMBERS taking part in the Livestock Judging Field Day were, front row, l-r, Jesse Walker, Kurt Mothes, Damon Brock, Evan Rose, Kelsey Beverage, Cole Beverage, Eric Rose, Joel Galford; back row, Martin Macqueen (coach), Steven Beard, Jennifer Rose, Jill Rose, Jonathan Wilkins, Jarrett McLaughlin, Susan Wilkins, Sarah Wilkins.

4-H'ers attend Livestock Judging Field Day

Fifteen Pocahontas County 4-

2nd place senior team - Jennifer realize. We ju they are, ho how to lear

Many hard-volunteers ar trying to m profit that t time to rese source. And rural areas there are ma with resour all intereste are. We can grant source dents and a ing the Sust on Friday, of West Vi in Buckhan culture is t for day one 2001: the through Sunda Margaret Wisconsin, who about grantsmans entitled Building
ties, will present

STANDING IN FRONT of the new Vermeer round baler are, from left to right, Joel Callison, Mary Andringa, Reta Griffith, Brent Moore and John Simmons. B. Henry photo

Brent Moore wins round baler in

A friend salamander ( today. It has that a lot of p learn that a species. "A slimy?" Yes, through the aids in the g salamander even we hu sticky and skin. This mucus me serves as a predators.
body that m

Like a are amphib

Griffith, Brent Moore and John [illegible]

Brent Moore wins round baler in contest

by Beth Henry
Marshall Intern

After nearly hanging up on what he thought was a telemarketer, Brent Moore learned he had won a Vermeer Round Baler.

Moore, a farmer from Dunmore, said, "I'm real excited about this; it's a nice gift."

The round baler was a prize in the Progressive Farming Magazine online contest.

Mary Andringa, president and chief operating officer of Vermeer, traveled from Iowa to Dunmore to present Moore's gift on Tuesday, July 3.

The contest's "purpose is to raise awareness about Vermeer being the round baler inventor..." Andringa said.

Also attending the presentation were Pocahontas County Commissioners, Vermeer employees, and extension agents.

Madeline Galford, Moore's neighbor, prepared the afternoon lunch.

predators body that Like are amph with liza tives tha

Agric Work Agr
Th of func farm g ties w realize they a how t Many volunt trying profit fibers of the cactus. Even was raining all the mbed the Pyramid of the is the 3rd largest pyra-world.

t day was Easter Sunday to start the rest of our veled by bus to Morelia, g tour and lunch in this After lunch, we went on where we spent two beautiful hotel with wers blooming every-we enjoyed a boat ride itzio to the Island of w the famous butterfly and climbed to the top os statue (similar to our erty) for a breathtaking area. We visited the ta Clara del Cobre, per town. Our students some participated in a of how they make d vases over a hot fire
by hand. ed for lunch in our

Mali Minter and Autumn Carden stand, soaking wet, on top of the Pyramid of the Sun.

* Pocahontas C fixed costs/equi provements, $59,
* Green Bank
$15,000
* Pocahonta $27,500
* Pocahontas ries, $25,000
* Pocahontas
izens, $25,000

Treeing W

The Pocahon Club will be licensed Treei on Saturday, J at 5 p.m. and The site of t Mountain, off Country Peddl signs. For mo Ray Ellison, 30

his Is The Calling Plan You HALFta

Pocahontas County High School students tra

On April 13, Good Friday, ven Pocahontas County High hool students, Autumn Carden, di Starr, Carla Johnson, Ben rton, Ryan Groves, Jason Long, d Robert Alonso; and 3 aperones, Mrs. Karen Friel, their anish teacher, Mr. Kermit Friel Mrs. Mali Minter, left Pitts- gh International Airport bound Mexico. Some of the students not flown before and were very vous about flying. We left our el at 4:30 a.m., left Pittsburgh :30 a.m. and arrived in Hous- Texas, at 8:30 a.m., changed es and arrived in Mexico City 1:30 a.m., which would be 0 a.m. our time.

Our guides, Jose Luis and ando, our Interact Travel repre- atives, met us after we went gh customs. We met another school group who would be ling with us on our whole They were a group of 13 from born, Michigan, nine teenage and 4 adults. A bus was wait- take us to the Gran Hotel in town Mexico City. On our we saw Easter processions in reets depicting Christ carrying oss.

After we were assigned our and rested a bit, we went for king tour of the area. We vis- he La Ideal pastry shop

STANDING IN FRONT of Ttaloc, the Aztec Rain God in Mexico City, were, l-r, Karen Friel, Ben Morton, Jodi Starr, Carla Johnson, Autumn Carden, Mali Minter, Jason Long, Robert Alonso, and Ryan Groves.

Mayor.

On the second day we visited the Museum of Anthropology, saw the Aztec Calendar and many Aztec and Mayan artifacts that have been found. Next, we went to the Plaza of Three Cultures. The three cultures are represented by the Az-

out of the fibers of the cactus. Even though it was raining all the students climbed the Pyramid of the Sun, which is the 3rd largest pyramid in the world.

The next day was Easter Sunday and we left to start the rest of our next city, Guadalajara, at ald's Restaurant; since e was in Spanish the stude good time ordering thei foods in Spanish. After went to an exclusive shop tion called Tlaquepaque. good time window shopp afternoon we toured city saw some of Jose Clem co's murals and paintin the mammoth La Lib largest craft and produ under roof in Mexico. Th some of the students movie and others visite Michigan group and w ping.

On our 6th day we ha buffet breakfast and were by 8:30 a.m. bound for P larta via the new toll roa way we saw big basket strawberries, pineapples tropical fruits for sale in side stands. Also we drov

BEN MORTON, ROBERT Alonso, Jason Long, Ryan Groves, Jodi Starr, Carla Johnson, Autumn Carden stand in front of the Chac (Mayan Rain God) fountain.

High school students take copper pots and va

and pound them by We stopped

Thi

Pocahontas County High Sch

On April 13, Good Friday, seven Pocahontas County High School students, Autumn Carden, Jodi Starr, Carla Johnson, Ben Morton, Ryan Groves, Jason Long, and Robert Alonso; and 3 chaperones, Mrs. Karen Friel, their Spanish teacher, Mr. Kermit Friel and Mrs. Mali Minter, left Pittsburgh International Airport bound for Mexico. Some of the students had not flown before and were very nervous about flying. We left our hotel at 4:30 a.m., left Pittsburgh at 6:30 a.m. and arrived in Houston, Texas, at 8:30 a.m., changed planes and arrived in Mexico City at 11:30 a.m., which would be 12:30 a.m. our time.

Our guides, Jose Luis and Armando, our Interact Travel representatives, met us after we went through customs. We met another high school group who would be traveling with us on our whole tour. They were a group of 13 from Dearborn, Michigan, nine teenage girls and 4 adults. A bus was waiting to take us to the Gran Hotel in downtown Mexico City. On our way we saw Easter processions in the streets depicting Christ carrying the cross.

After we were assigned our rooms and rested a bit, we went for a walking tour of the area. We visited the La Ideal pastry shop, which has rooms of huge cakes for special occasions, the Palace of Fine Arts, the Latin American Tower, the House of Blue Tiles. We had lunch in a beautiful Mexican restaurant, the Leonesa. Here we had a typical Mexican comida-chicken tacos, rice, salsas, and ice cream or flan for dessert. After lunch we visited the Zocalo, the 3rd largest square in the world; here they saw the famous Diego Rivera murals in the National Palace, the beautiful chapels in the National Cathedral and the remains of the Aztec temples in the Templo Mayor.

STANDING IN FRONT of Ttaloc, the Azte Mexico City, were, l-r, Karen Friel, Ben Mor Carla Johnson, Autumn Carden, Mali Mint Robert Alonso, and Ryan Groves.

On the second day we visited the Museum of Anthropology, saw the Aztec Calendar and many Aztec and Mayan artifacts that have been found. Next, we went to the Plaza of Three Cultures. The three cultures are represented by the Aztec ball court—pre-Columbian culture, a Spanish church—colonial culture, and skyscrapers in the background for the modern culture. Then, we traveled on the bus to the Shrine of Guadalupe, where we saw the over 400 year old portrait of Virgin Mary, who is their patron saint, and seven churches built for her. Later we went to the Pyramids where we had another typical Mexican lunch with cactus on the buffet this time. After lunch we saw a demonstration of the uses of a Maguey cactus, cutting of obsidian (volcanic rock) and a weaving loom making blankets out of the fibers though it was students climbed Sun, which is th mid in the world.

The next day
and we left to s tour. We traveled had a walking to quaint city. After to Patzcuaro wh nights in a bea tropical flowers where. Here we on Lake Janitzio Janitizio, saw th
net fisherman and of the Morelos st Statue of Liberty! view of that are town of Santa Mexico's copper watched and som demonstration of copper pots and va

ounty High School students travel to Mexico

N FRONT of Ttaloc, the Aztec Rain God in ere, l-r, Karen Friel, Ben Morton, Jodi Starr, , Autumn Carden, Mali Minter, Jason Long, and Ryan Groves.

d day we visited nthropology, saw and many Aztec s that have been ent to the Plaza The three cul- d by the Aztec umbian culture, olonial culture, he background ure. Then, we the Shrine of saw the over it of Virgin ron saint, and or her. Later ds where we exican lunch et this time. monstration cactus, cut- ic rock) and ng blankets out of the fibers of the cactus. Even though it was raining all the students climbed the Pyramid of the Sun, which is the 3rd largest pyramid in the world.

The next day was Easter Sunday and we left to start the rest of our tour. We traveled by bus to Morelia, had a walking tour and lunch in this quaint city. After lunch, we went on to Patzcuaro where we spent two nights in a beautiful hotel with tropical flowers blooming everywhere. Here we enjoyed a boat ride on Lake Janitzio to the Island of Janitizio, saw the famous butterfly net fisherman and climbed to the top of the Morelos statue (similar to our Statue of Liberty) for a breathtaking view of that area. We visited the town of Santa Clara del Cobre, Mexico's copper town. Our students watched and some participated in a demonstration of how they make copper pots and vases over a hot fire and pound them by hand.

We stopped for lunch in our next city, Guadalajara, at a McDonald's Restaurant; since everything was in Spanish the students had a good time ordering their favorite foods in Spanish. After lunch we went to an exclusive shopping section called Tlaquepaque. We had a good time window shopping. That afternoon we toured city hall and saw some of Jose Clemente Orozco's murals and paintings, visited the mammoth La Libertad, the largest craft and produce market under roof in Mexico. That evening some of the students went to a movie and others visited with the Michigan group and went shopping.

On our 6th day we had an early buffet breakfast and were on the bus by 8:30 a.m. bound for Puerta Vallarta via the new toll roads. On the way we saw big baskets of fresh strawberries, pineapples and other tropical fruits for sale in little roadside stands. Also we drove by fields and fields of the maguey cac tequila country. Finally in the af noon we reached Puerta Vall We hurried to our rooms changed into bathing suits headed for the beach. Our h Vista Playa de Oro, was loc beside the Marina where c ships were docked for the day. the students went snorkelin skiing, relaxed and enjoyed th and water for two days.

On April 20, we said Ad Mexico and our new friends Michigan, boarded a Boeing 7 Continental Airlines, went th customs in Houston and return Pittsburgh by 10:30 p.m. and home to Pocahontas County a 5 a.m. This was truly a great tional school trip and our he gratitude goes to all who h make it possible for these st Mrs. Friel made a video of t If any group or organization like to see it, call her at 572-

Mali Minter and Autumn Carden stand, soaking wet, of the Pyramid of the Sun.

hool students travel to Mexico

Rain God in , Jodi Starr, Jason Long,

next city, Guadalajara, at a McDonald's Restaurant; since everything was in Spanish the students had a good time ordering their favorite foods in Spanish. After lunch we went to an exclusive shopping section called Tlaquepaque. We had a good time window shopping. That afternoon we toured city hall and saw some of Jose Clemente Orozco's murals and paintings, visited the mammoth La Libertad, the largest craft and produce market under roof in Mexico. That evening some of the students went to a movie and others visited with the Michigan group and went shopping.

On our 6th day we had an early buffet breakfast and were on the bus by 8:30 a.m. bound for Puerta Vallarta via the new toll roads. On the way we saw big baskets of fresh strawberries, pineapples and other tropical fruits for sale in little roadside stands. Also we drove by fields and fields of the maguey cactus, tequila country. Finally in the afternoon we reached Puerta Vallarta. We hurried to our rooms and changed into bathing suits and headed for the beach. Our hotel, Vista Playa de Oro, was located beside the Marina where cruise ships were docked for the day. Here the students went snorkeling, jet skiing, relaxed and enjoyed the sun and water for two days.

On April 20, we said Adios to Mexico and our new friends from Michigan, boarded a Boeing 757 on Continental Airlines, went through customs in Houston and returned to Pittsburgh by 10:30 p.m. and back home to Pocahontas County around 5 a.m. This was truly a great educational school trip and our heartfelt gratitude goes to all who helped make it possible for these students. Mrs. Friel made a video of the trip. If any group or organization would like to see it, call her at 572-0598.

Mali Minter and Autumn Carden stand, soaking wet, on top

Budget Digest Funds for Pocahontas County proje

The following proj included in the list of Bud allocations by the Legis
the 2001-02 fiscal year.
cations are referred to th
"conference committe mendations" and the dig cally does not have the fo However, agency heads follow the recommendati must appear before the l next year with their own

* Little Levels Heritag $2000
* Durbin Days, $2000
* Pocahontas Coun
Days, $1500
* Cass Homecoming,
* Allegheny Echoes,
* continued assi Allegheny Mountai
WVMR, no amount giv
* Pocahontas Cou $15,000
* Pocahontas County
fixed costs/equipmen provements, $59,090
* Green Bank Eleme $15,000
* Pocahontas Op $27,500
* Pocahontas Coun
ries, $25,000
* Pocahontas Cou tizens, $25,000

Not

Treeing Walk

The Pocahontas
Club will be ho licensed Treeing on Saturday, July at 5 p.m. and nigh
The site of the e Mountain, off of Country Peddler s signs. For more

BEN MORTON, ROBERT Alonso, Jason Long, Ryan Groves, Jodi Starr, Carla Johnson, Autumn Carden stand in front of the Chac (Mayan Rain God) fountain.

High school students take college classes in early entrance

High school juniors and seniors in the area served by Greenbrier Community College Center can take up to six college hours of classes at GCCC each semester as a part of one phase of the Early Entrance program. Mrs. Lizabeth Rogers, instructor of Profession Office System Technology, coordinates the Early Entrance program at GCCC and notes, "There are three ways of taking classes while still in high school under our Early Entrance program."

Students can enroll in classes offered on the campus at GCCC if they are a high school junior or senior, have parent permission, have their high school principal's permission and maintain a 3.0 average in a college preparatory curriculum, Rogers said. "These students who are interested in taking classes this fall need to be making contact and starting the admissions process now," she adds.

A second method of earning college credit is the dual credit phase of the Early Entrance program. "A high school student can enroll in certain courses at the school they attend and also, through the high school, enroll at GCCC for both high school and college credit for the same course."

Over 175 area high school students got a head start in this program this year in the area served by GCCC.

"We offered dual enrollment courses at Monroe County Vocational-Technical School, James Monroe High School, Greenbrier West High School, Greenbrier East High School, Pocahontas County High School, Denmar Correctional Center School and Anthony Correctional Center School during 2000-2001 and we hope to add courses at these schools as well as introducing the program at Summers County High School," she said.

Rising high school juniors and seniors interested in dual credit classes need to check with their high school guidance or principal's office this summer or at the very opening of school, she adds.

A third phase of the program has been introduced at Pocahontas County High School and that is the Distance Learning program where the students at PCHS enrolled in and took college classes as a part of the school day. Rogers notes that this year, "We will be offering Political Science at PCHS through Distance Learning." Students interested need to check with the officials at PCHS before the high school starts this fall.

Teachers involved with the dual enrollment courses in Pocahontas County are Sue Shupe, instructor of computers at Denmar Correctional Center, and Pocahontas County High School teachers Linda Stewart, instructor of Professional Office Systems Technology and PC Applications; Linda VanReenen, instructor of Hospitality Lodging and Food Service Industry and Hospitality Supervision; Glenda VanReenen, instructor of Theatre, and Margaret Baker, instructor of Theatre.

Information on the Early Entrance and other programs offered by GCCC/BSC can be obtained by writing or visiting 101 Church Street, Lewisburg, 24901 or telephoning 647-7513. "We hope to be adding programs at these schools and possibly adding other schools soon," Rogers concludes.

Ho
new H plan. Y next ye Get a FREE agreem this is a FREE Activ
800-649-4

INSIDE THESE JARS are some of the finest creations of Pocahontas County cooks, as proven by the ribbons awarded by the judges for the Pioneer Days Food Competition.

2001 Food Exhibit

This year there were 21 exhibitors with 73 entries. The cookies made by Mary Broce were the best in show exhibit with the banana bread made by Patty McClure as a close second. The judges had an extremely hard decision between the cookies, quick breads, rolls, non-iced cakes, iced-cakes, and dill pickles.

The following are the awards by section and class:

Section I Breads: Class 1 Biscuits - 1st Goldie Burgess, 2nd Julia Hefner, 3rd Frances McKenney.

Section I Breads: Class 2 - Loaf White Bread - 1st Rene White, 2nd Frances Buzzard, 3rd Goldie Burgess.

Section I Breads: Class 4 - Salt Rising Bread - 2nd Mary Broce.

Section I Breads: Class 5 - Muffins - 1st Julia Hefner. 2nd Frances McKenney.

Section I Breads: Class 6 - Corn

Pone - 1 Section Bread - Julia He

Section Rolls -

Rachel Section Yeast Frances ess.
Section shape - Barnisk
Section
- Cup McKenn
Section

- Cooki Show), Frances Section
12a - Mann.
Section
- No-i Barnisk
3rd Gol Section
- Iced
2nd Fra Dickens Section Meringu Frances Barnisky
Section

PMH to raise rates

The West Virginia Health Care

in the hospital.

Alleging malicious prosecution

Beard sues county officials, investigators

By Pamela Pratt

In an 11-count suit alleging, among other things, malicious prosecution, civil rights violations and civil conspiracy, the man acquitted last year of the locally infamous Rainbow Murders is asking for compensatory damages, punitive damages, attorneys' fees and costs and other relief from the Pocahontas County Prosecuting Attorney, Pocahontas County Sheriff and the Pocahontas County Commission, as well as from the West Virginia Department of Public Safety and nine former investigators on the case.

A Braxton County jury last year found Jacob Wilson Beard not guilty of the 1980 homicides of Nancy Santomero, 19, and Vicki Durian, 26. Santomero was from New York. Durian from Iowa.

The women had been hitchhiking to a Rainbow Family Gathering held that year on the Monongahela National Forest. They were found shot to death at close range on Briery Knob in southern Pocahontas County.

Twelve years later, two witnesses for the state said Beard was the triggerman and in 1993 he was convicted of the crimes, then sentenced to two life terms without mercy, however, Senior Status Judge Charles Lobban ended that sentence at five-and-a-half years when he granted Beard a new trial in 1995.

Lobban did so because in addition to a convicted serial killer's confession to the crimes, Beard's former co-defendant Arnold Cullip came forward with an affidavit that discredited a key witness for the State.

While Lobban granted the defense motion for a new trial, he also stated openly that neither man had any credibility.

Beard, 35, has maintained his innocence since his April, 1992, arrest in Florida.

In the suit, his longtime attorney, Stephen Farmer, theorized that the murders were either committed by Beard's former co-defendant, Gerald Brown, now deceased, or convicted serial killer Joseph Paul Franklin.

Brown was arrested for the murders in 1983 when Bobby Lee Morrison told investigators that he was with Brown when he killed the women, however Morrison later recanted that statement, but a jury found Brown guilty of murdering him and sentenced him to life in prison.

Brown died in 1985 shortly after he was indicted.

Franklin is on death row in Missouri for a 1984 shooting spree in Wisconsin. Although West Virginia investigators traveled there to interview him, he refused to repeat the confession. He later told a female investigator that he had committed the murders. Since that time, he has confessed to the crimes, mostly to female attorneys and reporters.

Franklin claimed he shot the women because one of them said she had dated a black man, and the other said she was not adverse to the idea.

He drew a map of the area which Beard's defense attorneys called detailed, and prosecutors called "vague."

An avowed white supremacist, Franklin has been convicted of killing two black youths in Cincinnati, Ohio, and a Jewish man outside a synagogue in Missouri. He is on death row there, awaiting lethal injection.

The suit alleges that notwithstanding the evidence against both Brown and Franklin, then-State Police Sergeant Robert Alkire, now Pocahontas County Sheriff, former Sheriff Jerry Dale and Prosecuting Attorney Walt Weiford engaged in a conspiracy to manufacture evidence, and suborn perjury, commit perjury, omit evidence exculpatory to Beard and "physically assaulting, threatening, harassing and incarcerating potential witnesses to provide knowingly false and fraudulent testimony to wrongfully incarcerate Mr. Beard."

Two state's witnesses testified that they were threatened and abused by an investigator, a polygraph examiner, prior to giving their accounts of the murders. That examiner, Robert Estepp, is also named in the suit.

"We stand behind the allegations in the suit and believe very strongly in our case," Farmer continued. "Mr. Beard suffered damages he should not have had to suffer. Immeasurable damages as a direct result of purposeful and outrageous conduct on behalf of public officials."

"Bob Alkire put me in prison for five and a half years for something I didn't do," Beard said Monday. "I lost everything I had. My family suffered."

Beard's wife, Linda, and daughters, Teresa and Tamara, are plaintiffs in the suit, as well, claiming loss of spousal and parental consortium.

Now living in Greenbrier County, Beard is employed at Andy Adkins Tractor Sales.

"If he felt there wasn't a good case, he wouldn't have filed it," Beard said of his attorney, noting that the two largest discussions of a possible civil suit last summer. "If the people of Pocahontas County want somebody to blame, they can blame Bob Alkire."

Beard said he believed Alkire, who had investigated the case since the night Santomero and Durian were killed, became obsessed.

"The sad thing about this is there is no closure for the girls' families," he concluded.

"I don't know who killed those girls," Farmer said. "I know Jake Beard didn't."

Farmer said that although normally the Board of Public Risk assumes a $1 million liability in such cases, he plans to seek twice that amount.

"We believe insurance amounts to be two million dollars (in this case)," he said.

Other counts in the suit are failure to supervise, intentional infliction of emotional distress, failure to maintain evidence, abuse of process, false imprisonment and prima facie tort.

Sergeant Terry Lavenski, Sergeant Scott VanMeter, Trooper First Class Steven R. Dawson, Trooper First Class J. C. Chambers, Trooper J. S. Tincher, John Doe and Jack Doe are named in the suit, as well.

The Pocahontas County Commission funded Beard's 2000 prosecution.

Each of the investigators and Weiford are sued in their official capacities as well as individually.

Farmer said he expected the case to be heard in Kanawha County Circuit Court in the next nine months to one year.

In his letter to the defendants' insurance company, the attorney states that he is willing to discuss an early resolution of the case.

THIS STRUCTURE WAS erected last week in the shop area of the Cass Scenic Railroad. It joins the railroad's car shop and it will provide space for the restoration of historic railroad equipment. The new restoration shop is a project of the Mountain State Railroad and Logging Historical Association. A volunteer, non-profit organization, MSR&LA works to preserve the history of the logging and railroad industries in West Virginia, with a special emphasis on Cass. One of the group's projects is the logging equipment display at Whittaker Station on the Cass Railroad.

MEMBERS OF THE Mountain State Railroad and Logging Historical Association worked as trioclors over the weekend installing the track in the new restoration shop building.

al for ed substance rate Court

THIS STRUCTURE WAS erected last week in the shop area of the Cass Scenic Railroad. It joins the railroad's car shop and it will provide space for the restoration of historic railroad equipment. The new restoration shop is a project of the Mountain State Railroad and Logging Historical Association, A volunteer, non-profit organization, MSR&LHA works to preserve the history of the logging and railroad industries in West Virginia, with a special emphasis on Cass. One of the group's projects is the logging equipment display at Whittaker Station on the Cass Railroad.

MEMBERS OF THE Mountain State Railroad and Logging Historical Association worked as tricolors over the weekend installing the track in the new restoration shop building.

THE FIRST MAJOR restoration project planned by the MSR&LHA for the new building is this Climax geared steam locomotive. This engine was used on the Middle Fork Railroad. Ironically, this engine was scheduled for restoration in 1972 and had been placed in the shop just before the building was destroyed by fire in July 1972.

appeared before Magistrate Beverage on Friday and pled guilty to petit larceny. He was fined $50, ordered to pay $204 in restitution, assessed $67 in court costs, and given 18 hours in jail.

Cherie M. Hall and Robert R. Hall, of Hillsboro, were arrested on Friday and charged with cultivation of marijuana. Cherie Hall was also charged with delivery of marijuana. The arresting officer was State Police Tpr. F. M. Barlow. Cherie Hall was released on $50,000 and Robert Hall on $15,000 bond. The offenses are felonies.

Elwood Whitlock, of Buckeye, appeared in court on Friday on two charges of battery. He was released on $1000 bond. The charges were filed by State Police Tpr. D. A. Evans.

Jeffrey A. Hill, of Buckeye, was arrested by Tpr. D. M. McMillion on Friday and charged with battery. He was released on $500 bond.

Joseph Neely, of Hillsboro, was arrested on Saturday by Officer Tim Berry and Deputy Sheriff J. L. Clifton on charges of battery, destruction of property, obstructing an officer, public intoxication, disorderly conduct and domestic assault. He was released on $1200 bond on Monday.

Michael Neely, of Hillsboro, was arrested by Officer Timmy on Saturday and charged with public intoxication, disorderly conduct, and

A Preston County jury last year found Jacob Wilson Beard not guilty of the 1980 homicides of Nancy Santomero, 19, and Vicki Durian, 20. Santomero was from New York. Durian from Iowa.

The women had been hitchhiking to a Rainbow Family Gathering held that year on the Monongahela National Forest. They were found shot to death at close range on Briery Knob in southern Pocahontas County.

Twelve years later, two witnesses for the state said Beard was the triggerman and in 1993 he was convicted of the crimes, then sentenced to two life terms without mercy; however, Senior Status Judge Charles Lobban ended that sentence at five-and-a-half years when he granted Beard a new trial in 1999.

Lobban did so because in addition to a convicted serial killer's confession to the crimes, Beard's former co-defendant Arnold Cuffip came forward with an affidavit that discredited a key witness for the State.

While Lobban granted the defense motion for a new trial, he also stated openly that neither man had any credibility.

Beard, 55, has maintained his innocence since his April, 1992, arrest in Florida.

In the suit, his longtime attorney, Stephen Farmer, theorized that the murders were either committed by Beard's former co-defendant, Gerald Brown, now deceased, or convicted serial killer Joseph Paul Franklin.

Brown was arrested for the murders in 1983 when Bobby Lee Morrison told investigators that he was with Brown when he killed the women; however, Morrison later recanted that statement and accused Beard of threatening him and telling him what to say to incriminate Brown.

Brown died in 1993 shortly after he was indicted.

Franklin's on-again-off-again confessions to the crimes began in 1984 when he was arrested for a

"We believe insurance amounts to be two million dollars (in this case)," he said.

Other counts in the suit are failure to supervise, intentional infliction of emotional distress,

Farmer said he expected [illegible] to be heard in Kanawha County Circuit Court in [illegible] months to one year.

In his letter to [illegible] insurance companies, the attorney states that he is willing to discuss an early resolution of the case.

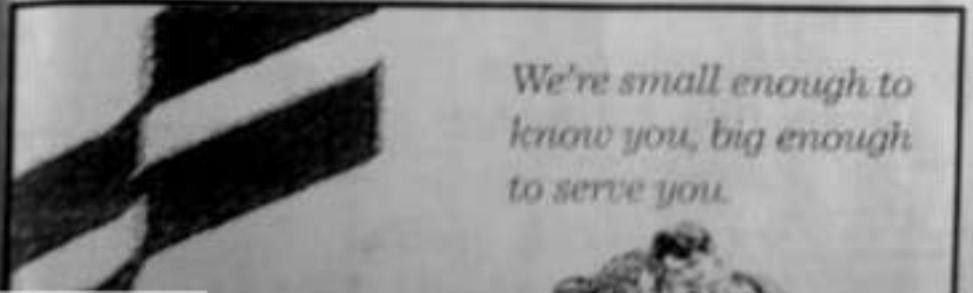
Times Office Open House

The Pocahontas Times will have an open house on Friday, July 13, from 1 to 4 p.m. to celebrate the 100 years in the present building. Refreshments and door prizes.

Representative to be at WVU Extension Office

A Representative of the West Virginia University Institute of Technology Small Business Development Center will be at the WVU Extension Office located in the Pocahontas County Courthouse on Tuesday, July 24, between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. for the purpose of assisting small business owners or those who may be interested in starting a small business. The counseling provided is free and confidential.

To make an appointment, please contact the Extension Office at 799-4852.



Joseph Paul Franklin.

Brown was arrested for the murders in 1983 when Bobby Lee Morrison told investigators that he was with Brown when he killed the women; however, Morrison later recanted that statement and accused Beard of threatening him and telling him what to say to investigators. Brown died in 1993 shortly after he was indicted.

Franklin's on-again-off-again confessions to the crimes began in 1984 when he was arrested for a lost everything I had. My family suffered."

Beard's wife, Linda, and daughters, Teresa and Tamara, are plaintiffs in the suit, as well, claiming loss of spousal and parental consortium.

The living in December Beard is employed at Arby Atkins Tractor Sales.

"If he felt there wasn't a good cause, he wouldn't have filed it," Beard said of his attorney, noting that the two began discussions of a possible civil suit last summer. "If

MEMBERS OF THE Mountain State Railroad and Logging Historical Association worked as tricolors over the weekend installing the track in the new restoration shop building.

THE FIRST MAJOR restoration project planned by the MSR&LHA for the new building is this Climax geared steam locomotive. This engine was used on the Middle Fork Railroad. Ironically, this engine was scheduled for restoration in 1972 and had been placed in the shop just before the building was destroyed by fire in July 1972.

appeared before Magistrate Beverage on Friday and pled guilty to petit larceny. He was fined $50, ordered to pay $204 in restitution, assessed $67 in court costs, and given 18 hours in jail.

Cherie M. Hall and Robert R. Hall, of Hillsboro, were arrested on Friday and charged with cultivation of marijuana. Cherie Hall was also charged with delivery of marijuana. The arresting officer was State Police Tpr. F. H. Barlow. Cherie Hall was released on $30,000 and Robert Hall on $15,000 bond. The offenses are felonies.

Elwood Whitlock, of Buckeye, appeared in court on Friday on two charges of battery. He was released on $1000 bond. The charges were filed by State Police Tpr. D. A. Evans.

Jeffrey A. Hill, of Buckeye, was arrested by Tpr. D. M. McMillan on Friday and charged with battery. He was released on $500 bond.

Joseph Neely, of Hillsboro, was arrested on Saturday by Officer Tinsey and Deputy Sheriff J. L. Clifton on charges of battery, destruction of property, obstructing an officer, public intoxication, disorderly conduct, and domestic assault. He was released on $2200 bond on Monday.

Michael Neely, of Hillsboro, was arrested by Officer Tinsey on Saturday and charged with public intoxication, disorderly conduct, and trespassing. He was released the next day on $300 bond.

Kenneth R. Holbrook, of Dover, Delaware, was arrested on a DUI charge by State Police Tpr. W. A. Pendleton on Saturday. He was released on Sunday and $1000 bond was posted.

Penny S. Gardner, of Dover, Delaware, was charged with permitting DUI and giving false information to a police officer by Tpr. McMillan on Sunday. She was released on $600 bond on Sunday.

Durbin Days
July 15 - 22

Times Office Open House

The Pocahontas Times will have an open house on Friday, July 13, from 1 to 4 p.m. to celebrate the 100 years in the present building. Refreshments and door prizes.

Representative to be at WVU Extension Office

A Representative of the West Virginia University Institute of Technology Small Business Development Center will be at the WVU Extension Office located in the Pocahontas County Courthouse on Tuesday, July 24, between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. for the purpose of assisting small business owners or those who may be interested in starting a small business. The counseling provided is free and confidential.

To make an appointment, please contact the Extension Office at 799-4852.

He is on death row there, awaiting lethal injection.

The suit alleges that notwithstanding the evidence against both Brown and Franklin, then-State Police Sergeant Robert Alkire, now Pocahontas County Sheriff, former Sheriff Jerry Dale and Prosecuting Attorney Walt Veiford engaged in a conspiracy to manufacture evidence, and suborn perjury, commit perjury, omit evidence exculpatory to Beard and physically assaulting, threatening, harassing and incarcerating potential witnesses to provide knowingly false and fraudulent testimony to wrongfully incarcerate Mr. Beard."

Two state's witnesses testified they were threatened and abused by an investigator, a polygraph examiner, prior to giving their accounts of the murders. That examiner, Robert Estepp, is also named in the suit.

"We stand behind the allegations in the suit and believe very strongly in our case," Farmer continued. "Mr. Beard suffered damages he should not have had to suffer. He has measurable damages as a direct result of purposeful and outrageous misconduct on behalf of public officials."

"Bob Alkire put me in prison for seven and a half years for something I didn't do," Beard said Monday. "I lost everything I had. My family and infliction of emotional distress, states that he is willing to discuss an early resolution of the case.

THIS STRUCTURE WAS erected last week in the shop area of the Cass Scenic Railroad. It joins the railroad's car shop and it will provide space for the restoration of historic railroad equipment. The new restoration shop is a project of the Mountain State Railroad and Logging Historical Association. A volunteer, non-profit organization, MSR&LA works to preserve the history of the logging and railroad industries in West Virginia, with a special emphasis on Cass. One of the group's projects is the logging equipment display at Whittaker Station on the Cass Railroad.

Farmer continued.
ffered damages he ve had to suffer.
lamages as a direct ful and outrageous ehalf of public

ut me in prison for ars for something I d said Monday. "I l had. My family fe, Linda, and sa and Tamara, are he suit, as well,

of spousal and tium.
g in Greenbrier is employed at ctor Sales.
re wasn't a good
't have filed it," attorney, noting discussions of a last summer. "If

Open House
Times will have Friday, July 13,
to celebrate the present building.
door prizes.

works to preserve the history of the logging and railroad industries in West Virginia, with a special emphasis on Cass. One of the group's projects is the logging equipment display at Whittaker Station on the Cass Railroad.

MEMBERS OF THE Mountain State Railroad and Logging Historical Association worked as tricolors over the weekend installing the track in the new restoration shop building.

Open House

Times will have Friday, July 13,
to celebrate the resent building.
loor prizes.

ive to be nsion Office

ive of the West
ity Institute of Business Devel-be at the WVU
located in the Courthouse on between 9 a.m. urpose of assist-owners or those sted in starting a counseling proafidential.
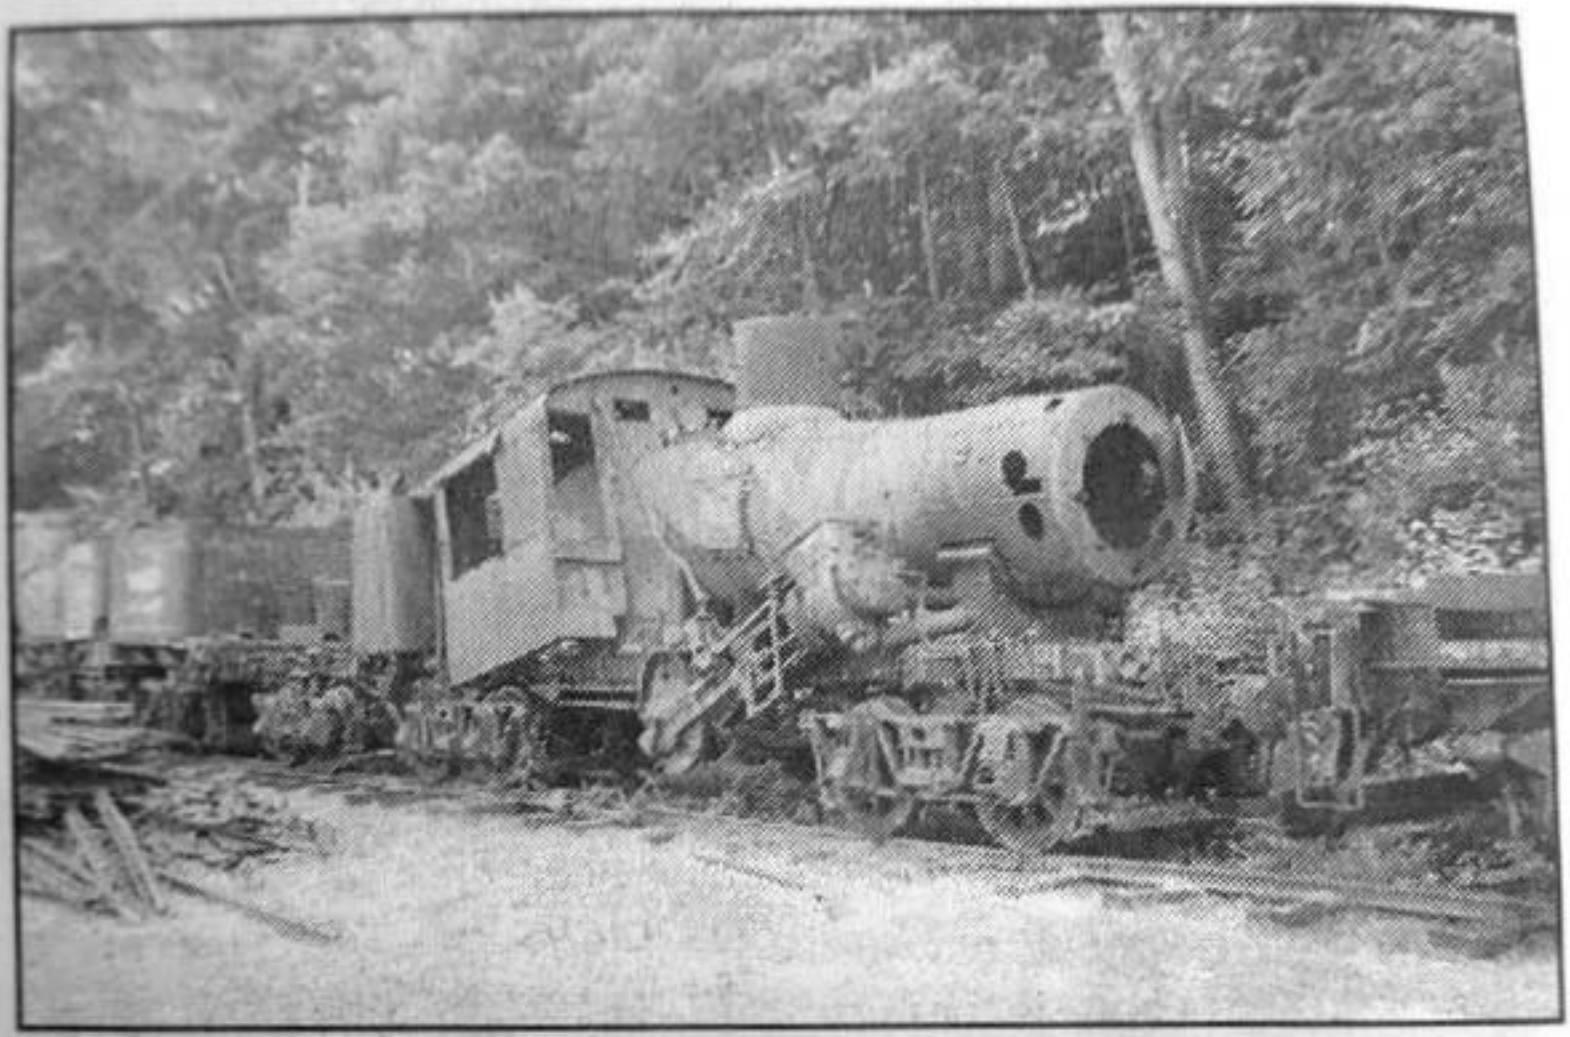
appointment,
Extension Office



THE FIRST MAJOR restoration project planned by the MSR&LHA for the new building is this Climax geared steam locomotive. This engine was used on the Middle Fork Railroad. Ironically, this engine was scheduled for restoration in 1972 and had been placed in the shop just before the building was destroyed by fire in July 1972.

WILLIAM P. McNEEL, Editor • PAMELA E. PRITT, Managing Editor
JANE PRICE SHARP, Editor Emerita

THURSDAY, JULY 12, 2001

Buckeye man on trial for delivery of controlled substance

by Pamela Pritt

A State Trooper was on the witness stand for two-and-one-half hours Tuesday to begin the trial of a Buckeye man accused of delivering a Schedule III controlled substance.

Trooper D. M. McMillan testified that he used Renick resident Cathy Fogus to purchase Loracet, the commercial name for Hydrocodone, from Joseph "Bunker" Tawney, then of Hillsboro. Tawney is 46.

McMillan said Fogus arrived at the Marlinton Detachment of the West Virginia State Police in the late morning of January 3, 2000, offering to buy drugs from Tawney.

"She said she could make a drug buy from Bunker Tawney," he testified.

The trooper said he was "extremely familiar" with Tawney since his name had been mentioned by Fogus, as well as members of the community.

McMillan said he and Fogus planned to meet at Beartown State Park at 9 p.m.; however, he later clarified that they actually met in the parking lot of Mt. Olivet United Methodist Church on Droop Mountain.

There, the trooper searched Fogus, her husband and granddaughter before searching their [illegible] place.

Mellinger, who was also indicted, was supposed to stand trial Tuesday, as well; however, her attorney, Tony Tatano successfully argued to sever the defendants prior to trial.

Weiford said the defense could not have it both ways.

"I don't have to prove Mary Mellinger guilty today," he said. The jury can believe Mary Mellinger was not there and that does not lessen the burden of proving [Tawney] guilty," the prosecutor said. "Half the defense witnesses are called to establish an alibi for Mary Mellinger, not Joseph Tawney. [The jury] can believe she wasn't there so he's not guilty. That suggestion is prejudicial to the State.

As in all criminal cases, the burden of proof falls on the prosecution. No defendant is required to take the witness stand in his own defense.

Tawney could serve one-to-five years in prison or be fined up to $15,000 or both.

With a dozen more witnesses to go, the trial is expected to end Wednesday.

Magistrate Court

Jamie M. Spence, of Fairmont, was arrested in Marion County on June 28 on a warrant from this

"She said she could make a drug buy from Bunker Tawney," he testified.

The trooper said he was "extremely familiar" with Tawney since his name had been mentioned by Fogus, as well as members of the community.

McMillan said he and Fogus planned to meet at Beartown State Park at 9 p.m.; however, he later clarified that they actually met in the parking lot of Mt. Olivet United Methodist Church on Droop Mountain.

There, the trooper searched Fogus, her husband and granddaughter before searching their 1993 Dodge diesel pickup truck to determine that they had no contraband, he testified. He also wired Fogus with a transmitter so that her conversations could be recorded; however, that attempt failed, he said.

"I satisfied myself there were no narcotics in the vehicle," he said.

Fogus told him she was prepared to attempt the drug buy.

"She said she was going to purchase Loracet pills, as many as he would sell her for $160," McMillan said.

He followed the truck to Hillsboro in an unmarked cruiser, he testified, and parked near Ralph H. Burns and Son, Inc. to await Fogus' return trip, he continued.

Meanwhile Sergeant J. P. Barlow and Trooper F. H. Barlow were observing the Tawney household from Hillsboro Elementary School, McMillan testified.

When Fogus' vehicle passed by, McMillan said he followed to the intersection of U. S. Rt. 219 and Locust Creek Road where she hand-

As in all criminal cases, the burden of proof falls on the prosecution. No defendant is required to take the witness stand in his own defense.

Tawney could serve one-to-five years in prison or be fined up to $15,000 or both.

With a dozen more witnesses to go, the trial is expected to end Wednesday.

Magistrate Court

Jamie M. Spence, of Fairmont, was arrested in Marion County on June 28 on a warrant from this county charging him with battery and destruction of property. He was released on $1000 bond. The warrant was obtained by State Police Tpr. F. H. Barlow.

Linda Palko, of Marlinton, was arrested on Tuesday of last week by Deputy Sheriff T. A. McCoy on a charge of domestic battery. She was released on $1000 bond.

Karis Rataiczak, of Buckeye, was arrested on a charge of intimidation by threat of violence, a felony by Deputy Sheriff M. C. Doss on Tuesday. He was also arrested on two counts of battery. Rataiczak was released on Thursday after $11,000 bond was posted.

David H. Walker, of Morgantown, was arrested Tuesday by State Police Sgt. J. P. Barlow on charges of driving with his license suspended, second offense, and failure to wear a seat belt. He appeared before Magistrate Kathy Beverage and entered a plea of guilty to both offenses. For the license offense Walker was sentenced to ten days in jail with a fine of $

I satisfied myself there were no narcotics in the vehicle," he said.

Fogus told him she was prepared to attempt the drug buy.

"She said she was going to purchase Loracet pills, as many as he would sell her for $160," McMillan said.

He followed the truck to Hillsboro in an unmarked cruiser, he testified, and parked near Ralph H. Burns and Son, Inc. to await Fogus' return trip, he continued.

Meanwhile Sergeant J. P. Barlow and Trooper F. H. Barlow were observing the Tawney household from Hillsboro Elementary School, McMillan testified.

When Fogus' vehicle passed by, McMillan said he followed to the intersection of U. S. Rt. 219 and Locust Creek Road where she handed him 15 Loracet pills and $40 in cash. He again searched the vehicle and its occupants, he said.

McMillan could not explain why Fogus still had money in her possession.

The trooper also testified that Fogus cooperated in the alleged drug buy in exchange for an uttering charge to be reduced.

Defense attorney Martin Saffer made much of Fogus' original charges, since he said uttering is a charge involving honesty.

"She's been truthful to me and followed through with her end of the deal," the trooper said, noting that she had made a previous drug purchase that was prosecuted.

Under cross examination, McMillan said Fogus did not discuss her own drug use; however, she did tell him that she had been to rehab and the "problem had been taken

Deputy Sheriff T. A. McCoy on a charge of domestic battery. She was released on $1000 bond.

Karis Rataiczak, of Buckeye, was arrested on a charge of intimidation by threat of violence, a felony by Deputy Sheriff M. C. Doss on Tuesday. He was also arrested on two counts of battery. Rataiczak was released on Thursday after $11,000 bond was posted.

David H. Walker, of Morgantown, was arrested Tuesday by State Police Sgt. J. P. Barlow on charges of driving with his license suspended, second offense, and failure to wear a seat belt. He appeared before Magistrate Kathy Beverage and entered a plea of guilty to both offenses. For the license offense Walker was sentenced to ten days in jail with a fine of $100 and $67 in court costs. He was fined $10 on the other charge.

Shirley C. Sabota, of Marlinton, was arrested on Wednesday by Marlinton Police Chief E. L. Tinney and charged with destruction of property. She was released on $250 bond.

A number of hearings were held in Magistrate Beverage's court on Thursday.

Brian Withers, of Marlinton, was found guilty of obstructing an officer, disorderly conduct, and public intoxication. He was sentenced to 30 days in jail on the obstruction charge. Fines totaled $310 with $241 in court costs.

Darrell Small, of St. Helena, South Carolina, entered a plea of guilty to DUI. He was sentenced to 24 hours in jail with a fine of $100 and court costs of $87. Charges of left of center and improper session.

The trooper also testified that Fogus cooperated in the alleged drug buy in exchange for an uttering charge to be reduced.

Defense attorney Martin Saffer made much of Fogus' original charges, since he said uttering is a charge involving honesty.

"She's been truthful to me and followed through with her end of the deal," the trooper said, noting that she had made a previous drug purchase that was prosecuted.

Under cross examination, McMillan said Fogus did not discuss her own drug use; however, she did tell him that she had been to rehab and the "problem had been taken care of," he said.

"She said she was familiar with drugs and what they cost," he related.

McMillan was still on the stand at the end of the day.

Jury selection took two hours. Saffer asked for individual voir dire of potential jurors since some of the panel had served on another case in which McMillan and Fogus were the State's primary witnesses.

Tawney is expected to offer an alibi defense.

Prosecuting Attorney Walt Weiford interrupted Saffer's opening argument because the defense attorney referred at length to Tawney's companion, Mary Mellinger, and her whereabouts at the time the transaction was supposed to have taken and charged with destruction of property. She was released on $250 bond.

A number of hearings were held in Magistrate Beverage's court on Thursday.

Brian Withers, of Marlinton, was found guilty of obstructing an officer, disorderly conduct, and public intoxication. He was sentenced to 30 days in jail on the obstruction charge. Fines totaled $310 with $241 in court costs.

Darrell Small, of St. Helena, South Carolina, entered a plea of guilty to DUI. He was sentenced to 24 hours in jail with a fine of $100 and court costs of $87. Charges of left of center and improper registration were dismissed.

Larry A. Turner, of Cass, entered a guilty plea to battery. He was fined $50 with $67 in court costs and six hours in jail.

Jeremiah B. Powell, of Marlinton, also entered a plea of guilty to battery. He was fined $50 plus $67 in court costs and five hours in jail.

Charges of petit larceny and providing false information against Danny D. Lambert, of Bartow, were dismissed due to lack of prosecution within 120 days.

Justin P. Short, of Valley Head, was arrested on Thursday by State Police Tpr. D. M. McMillan and charged with attempted grand larceny, a felony. He was released on $5000 bond.

James Richards, of Marlinton,

Bosley returns to mayor's desk after absence

By Jason Bauserman

New Mayor John Bosley returned to the mayor's desk after a four year absence. In a short meeting all terrain vehicles received the most discussion. Mayor Bosley did receive a five-page ordinance from the City of Buckhannon. He passed it out for council members to review. Buster Varner commented, "I hate to see everybody suffer because of a couple of people." Council was thankful that the problem has subsided for now.

Recorder Treasurer Renee Downing announced that the special meeting on June 18 to canvass the town election votes had three challenged ballots. Two, with Bartow addresses, were accepted since the voters lived in town. One vote was dismissed since the voter did not live within town limits.

It was noted by several council members that past due town bills are now being paid in a timely fashion. It was also stated that court costs in the Magistrate's Office have risen from $65 to $110.

Other business items included:

* The culvert at Patti Nottingham's is open all the way through.

* So far this summer there has been no duckweed problem on the lagoon.

* Bosley did mention some expensive work has occurred at the sewage plant. Councilman Bill Rexrode noted that was for pumps and relay switches.

*Bosley volunteered to take the bank deposits to City National Bank in Marlinton. Councilman Tom Kinder said he could do this also.

*It was agreed that Roger Mick had done a good job of cutting grass and sweeping the streets. His town bill is now paid in full.

* Council decided to pay the highest rate of $497 on $16,000 worth of building contents at the sewage treatment plant to the National Flood Insurance Program.

* The mayor ended the meeting by saying, "Thank you. It's been a pleasure."

Notices from NCCA

NCCA will be having a clothing sale on Friday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at its office, 614 Third Ave-

NCCA has money available to send young people, ages 6- 14, to the Salvation Army Camp. Any chambers of commerce throughout the country who have sponsored her programs in the past.

provided by a grant from the Small Business Work Force Program.

---

p.m. at i nue in Ma
ing.

Letters to the E

Dear Editor:

This is an amazing community in which we live. The Marlinton Middle School community has gone out of its way to make me feel welcome. Sue Hollandsworth has provided outstanding service to Marlinton Middle School and has done a tremendous job in making my transition into this position so smooth.

The entire staff should be recognized and commended for their attention, care, and strength of will. They have continued, without a consistent leader for many years, to provide a quality education to our kids. It is obvious to me a wonderful unity exists between the staff, parents and students. My greatest challenge will be gaining the faith and trust of each group and becoming a part of that unity. I look forward to that challenge.

Marlinton Middle was once recognized as a National School of Excellence. That excellence still exists—it just needs consistent leadership. I am excited about providing that leadership.

Before the beginning of school, I will be contacting each staff member and several committee members with general questions. My plan will be to gather information and begin any improvements that need to be addressed. I will be available beginning August 7 at the school, 799-6773, between 8 a.m and 4 p.m. If any community member, parent or staff has questions or concerns before that time, I will be "in and out" of the school; please call.

I appreciate the kindness, support, and words of greeting and encouragement from the parents, staff and community members I have already met.

Fran McLaughlin
Principal, Marlinton Middle School

Dear Editor:

A government body is considering regulating how you use your property, invading it to snoop anyway. Once everyone else has gotten used to the County boot on his neck, then it will be time for the farmers to feel it, too. But there will be none to help them fight it then.

Incidentally, this political technique is called, "divide and conquer," and it goes back at least to the Roman Empire, when it was used to keep the so-called barbarians (our ancestors) from uniting against the invading legions. Nowadays, our own elected government uses it against us.

Such an ordinance is also completely unnecessary, outside the limits of densely built-up, incorporated towns. It is one of the oldest and best established principles of law that a property owner's right to use and enjoy his property as he sees fit ends at the boundary line; and that he is liable for any injury his action or inaction within it does to anyone without.

This proposed ordinance, or any other that seeks to give government such invasive, abusive, and capriciously enforceable powers is an intolerable, indeed an outrageous attack on the right of private property, and on the tradition of individual freedom upon and for which this county was founded.

That's what I think. Joel, John, and Reta need to hear what you think.

John Leyzorek
Indian Dra

Dear Editor:

The Humane Society of Poc hontas County is almost three yea old. Due to the generosity of people in the county, we have ceeded in raising thousands of lars to spay and neuter pets
have begun an adoption progra well. Also, the Pocahontas T has enabled us to educa inform the public as to ou grams and adoptable pets.

Now, we are ready to a bigger project, one for will have to call on

Our firs donate the shel were ce neighbo by nois tax exe would bution. donatin shelter.

I appreciate the kindness, support, and words of greeting and encouragement from the parents, staff and community members I have already met.

Fran McLaughlin
Principal, Marlinton Middle School

Dear Editor:

A government body is considering regulating how you use your property, invading it to snoop around, and charging you, or putting a lien on it, to pay some contractor to come in and red it up to their standards, if you can't or won't dance to their tune.

This is not some scary story about Nazi Germany or snooty Connecticut, this is our own County Commission planning a so-called "Abandoned and Dilapidated Property Ordinance," right here in Pocahontas County.

They want to tell you how often to mow your lawn, how many windows your house should have, what minerals you may or may not collect or store, even how quickly you repair storm damage to a building.

They have forms prepared on which neighbors can turn each other in. The proposed ordinance says that you can have a "hearing," but it does not say that they will listen, or consider your lifestyles or values, or finances or how you make a living, nor do they have to prove that your property really is any sort of hazard to anyone; an appointed committee will make the final judgment for you.

Farm buildings are supposedly exempt from this little experiment in tyranny. But the ordinance is written that way for now only so that farmers will not join in fighting against it. Such an exemption would be illegally discriminatory, hontas County is almost three y

old. Due to the generosity of people in the county, we have ceeded in raising thousands of lars to spay and neuter pets
have begun an adoption progra
well. Also, the Pocahontas T has enabled us to educate inform the public as to our grams and adoptable pets.

Now, we are ready to unde
a bigger project, one for whic will have to call on all resources and even find new We are ready to build a shelter know the support is here i community, and we know w find grant money to help us,
There is strong support in county for controlling the pet p lation and for treating ani humanely.

We are convinced that we be able to build and staff a sh

MILL STEAK & TR
(304) 799
RESERVATIONS APPRECIA

The seminar, "Optimizing Customer Service," will be offered at no cost on Tuesday, July 24, at the McClintic Public Library.

The presenter will be Penny Walk, a motivational speaker and professional trainer. She comes highly recommended by numerous chambers of commerce throughout the country who have sponsored her programs in the past.

a.m. on the 24th. The seminar will begin at 8:30 and continue to noon. Space is limited Small business owners, managers, and employees and government employees in similar positions are encouraged to attend.

Funds for the seminar are being provided by a grant from the Small Business Work Force Program.

- - -

ion. It was also stated that court costs in the Magistrate's Office have risen from $65 to $110.

Notices fro

NCCA will be having a clothing sale on Friday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at its office, 614 Third Avenue in Marlinton. Good used clothing.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

This is an amazing community in which we live. The Marlinton Middle School community has gone out of its way to make me feel welcome. Sue Hollandsworth has provided outstanding service to Marlinton Middle School and has done a tremendous job in making my transition into this position so smooth.

The entire staff should be recognized and commended for their attention, care, and strength of will. They have continued, without a consistent leader for many years, to provide a quality education to our kids. It is obvious to me a wonderful unity exists between the staff, parents and students. My greatest challenge will be gaining the faith and trust of each group and becoming a part of that unity. I look forward to that challenge.

Marlinton Middle was once recognized as a National School of Excellence. That excellence still exists—it just needs consistent leadership. I am excited about providing that leadership.

Before the beginning of school, I will be contacting each staff member and several committee members with general questions. My plan will be to gather information and begin any improvements that need to be addressed. I will be available beginning August 7 at the school, 799-6773, between 8 a.m and 4 p.m. If any community member, parent or staff has questions or concerns before that time, I will be "in and out" of the school, please call.

I appreciate the kindness, support, and words of greeting and anyway. Once everyone else has gotten used to the County boot on his neck, then it will be time for the farmers to feel it, too. But there will be none to help them fight it then.

Incidentally, this political technique is called, "divide and conquer," and it goes back at least to the Roman Empire, when it was used to keep the so-called barbarians (our ancestors) from uniting against the invading legions. Nowadays, our own elected government uses it against us.

Such an ordinance is also completely unnecessary, outside the limits of densely built-up, incorporated towns. It is one of the oldest and best established principles of law that a property owner's right to use and enjoy his property as he sees fit ends at the boundary line; and that he is liable for any injury his action or inaction within it does to anyone without.

This proposed ordinance, or any other that seeks to give government such invasive, abusive, and capriciously enforceable powers is an intolerable, indeed an outrageous attack on the right of private property, and on the tradition of individual freedom upon and for which this county was founded.

That's what I think. Joel, John, and Reta need to hear what you think.

John Leyzorek
Indian Draft

- - -

Dear Editor:

The Humane Society of Pocahontas County is almost three years old. Due to the generosity of the people in the county, we have suc-

Our first need is for someone t donate about two acres of land fo the shelter. It would be great if were centrally located and not ne neighbors who might be bother by noise. Because we are a federal tax exempt group, such a donati would qualify as a charitable cont bution. If anyone is interested donating a piece of land for the n shelter, they should contact El

The Pocal
Oper
Help us cel Refreshmen

Nationally
"The Mount

I am excited about pro-leadership.
the beginning of school,
ntacting each staff memeral committee members al questions. My plan gather information and mprovements that need ssed. I will be available August 7 at the school, between 8 a.m and 4
y community member,
ff has questions or conthat time, I will be "in the school; please call.
iate the kindness, sup-ords of greeting and ent from the parents, ommunity members I met.

Fran McLaughlin
arlinton Middle School

- - -

ament body is consider-g how you use your vading it to snoop harging you, or putting o pay some contractor and red it up to their you can't or won't tune.
not some scary story
ermany or snooty Con-is our own County planning a so-called and Dilapidated Prop-e," right here in Poca-
y. nt to tell you how your lawn, how many r house should have,
you may or may not re, even how quickly
m damage to a buildcapriciously enforceable powers is an intolerable, indeed an outrageous attack on the right of private property, and on the tradition of individual freedom upon and for which this county was founded.

That's what I think. Joel, John, and Reta need to hear what you think.

John Leyzorek
Indian Draft

- - -

Dear Editor:

The Humane Society of Pocahontas County is almost three years old. Due to the generosity of the people in the county, we have succeeded in raising thousands of dollars to spay and neuter pets and have begun an adoption program as well. Also, the Pocahontas Times has enabled us to educate and inform the public as to our programs and adoptable pets.

Now, we are ready to undertake a bigger project, one for which we will have to call on all our resources and even find new ones. We are ready to build a shelter. We know the support is here in our community, and we know we can find grant money to help us, also. There is strong support in our county for controlling the pet population and for treating animals humanely.

We are convinced that we will be able to build and staff a shelter.

National
"The will appear a on Saturd
This tandem tea Suzi Whaples specialize in st fast-paced progra and heart-warmi audiences all numerous aw Storytellin
The fun begins a grab the y

MILL RUN STEAK & TROUT

members that past due town bills are now being paid in a timely fashion. It was also stated that court costs in the Magistrate's Office have risen from $65 to $110.

* The mayor ended the meeting by saying, "Thank you. It's been a pleasure."

Notices from NCCA

NCCA will be having a clothing sale on Friday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at its office, 614 Third Avenue in Marlinton. Good used clothing.

NCCA has money available to send young people, ages 6- 14, to the Salvation Army Camp. Any parent interested in sending their child, boy or girl, call the NCCA office, 799-4082.

etters to the Editor

Our first need is for someone to donate about two acres of land for the shelter. It would be great if it were centrally located and not near neighbors who might be bothered by noise. Because we are a federally tax exempt group, such a donation would qualify as a charitable contribution. If anyone is interested in donating a piece of land for the new shelter, they should contact Ellen Galford 799-4614. Together we are making a difference.

Leslee McCarty
Hillsboro

TANNING
Open 7 Days a Week
24 Hours a Day
653-4994

The Pocahontas Times
Open House
Help us celebrate 100 years [illegible] building!
[illegible] p.m.
Refreshments • Door Prizes

DELAWARE TRIBE: Sitting, l-r, Ethan Lash, Cole Beverage, Nicholas Irvine, Ryan Taylor, Abby Dilley, Robert Nelson, Will Pennington, Toni Dilley; second row, Justin Madron, Damon Brock, Renae Burks, Robin Nelson, Kelly Starr, Hallie Herold, Nebraska Beverage, Felica Pennington, Jennifer Morrison; standing, Joey Wright (VCA), Sarah Wilkins, Anne Stemple, Brittany McMann, Ginger Henry, Adam Irvine, Amy Henry (Sagamore), Rachel Barb (Chief), Jarrett Mclaughlin, Ben Richardson, Timothy VanReenen, Alison Brandon (VCA).

CHEROKE row, Rebe Burns (Sa
Joey Wrig
Wiley, Mi
(VCA)

CHEROKEE TRIBE: Sitting, l-r, Randall Thompson, Dan Richardson, Gus Willis; second row, Rebecca Dilley, Jodi Starr, Allison Norrod, Jake Bing, Billy Herold (Chief), Jesse Burns (Sagamore), Josh Morgan (across), Courtney Cochran, Travis Juergens; standing, Joey Wright (VCA), Natasha McMann, Chris Woods, Sarah Beard, Kelsey Beverage, Amanda Wiley, Michelle Holstine, Joel Galford, Michael Ferrell, Danielle Holstine, Alison Brandon (VCA)

MINGO TRIBE: Sitting, l-r, Jeremy Moore, Clay Baxter, Joseph Thompson, Michael Calhoun, Christina Holstime (Sagamore), Derrick Irvine (Chief), Leroy Boyce, Derek Kiner, Annie Richardson; second row, Joey Wright (VCA), Grace Ferrell, Stacy McPaters, Natasha Trainer, Nicole Rose, David Moore, Britney Barlow, Adrienne Juergens, Alison Brandon (VCA); back row, Crystal Wilfong, Robbie Calhoun, Ryan Ware, Chris Halterman, Jonathan Moore, Kristen Irvine.

Cherokees champion tribe, Burns is

Joey Wright (VCA), Natasha McMann, Chris Woods, Sarah Beard, Kelsey Beverage, Amanda Wiley, Michelle Holstine, Joel Galford, Michael Ferrell, Danielle Holstine, Alison Brandon (VCA)

SENECA TRIBE: Sitting, l-r, Kristy Madron, Coy Beverage, Kendall Beverage, K Beverage, Brittany Hoke, Erica Beverage, Justin Dilley, Pamela Jordan, Angela Jor second row, Mikey Callison, Kayla Jordan, Ashley Irvine, Dana Combs, Jonathon B Jillian Rose, Lucy Mosesso, Seth Nelson; standing, Joey Wright (VCA), Mathias Call Abby McCoy, Katie Workman, Jessica Dean (Sagamore), Daniel Simmons (Chief), Mosesso, Zach Graham, Heidi Beverage, Brenda Bolyard, Alison Brandon (VCA).

s camp spirit

Welcome to Pioneer Days 20

Trainer, Nicole Rose, David Moore, Brittney Burton, Allison Brandon (VCA's); back row, Crystal Wilfong, Robbie Calhoun, Ryan Ware, Chris Halterman, Jonathan Moore, Kristen Irvine.

Jillian Rose, Lucy Mosesso, Seth S... Abby McCoy, Katie Workman, J... Mosesso, Zach Graham, Heidi Bever...

Cherokees champion tribe, Burns is camp spirit

"4-H Will Survive" was the theme of this year's Pocahontas County 4-H Camp held at Camp Thornwood June 10-14.

Chiefs and Sagamores of the tribes were as follows: Cherokee Tribe — Billy Herold, Jesse Burns; Delaware Tribe — Rachel Barb, Amy Henry; Mingo Tribe — Derrick Irvine, Christina Holstine; Seneca Tribe—Daniel Simmons, Jessica Dean; Big Feet—J. L. Clifton, Jennifer Beverage.

The 96 campers participated in classes in archery, basketball, baskets, camp newspaper, camp songs, candle dipping, DC painting, charting, craft-a-day, dance, decoupage boxes, defense tactics, fishing, 4-H traditions, fly tying, outdoor cooking, painted t-shirts, pottery, Save-Our-Streams, shotgun, sock monkeys, softball, stepping stones, tile trivets, trash-to-treasures, vagabond cooking, video making, volleyball, wildflower hike, wooden boxes, and woven stool bottoms.

The campers participated in afternoon assembly presentations related to the "4-H Will Survive" theme. "Wilderness Survival" activities were led by Doshia Webb on Mooday. On Tuesday afternoon, the 4-H'ers were given the opportunity to learn about the "Survival of Heritage Skills" as they visited each of the following demonstations in the camp's heritage fair: Cider Making (Bill Young), Wheat Grinding) Dave and Laura Jean Rittenhouse), ...

Scholarship. Challenge Scholarships were given to six campers who have never attended a state summer camp. This year's scholarships were given to Justin Madron, Danielle Holstine, Heidi Beverage, Abby Dilley, Cole Beverage, and Kelsey Beverage.

First year campers receiving "lucky penny" awards were Toni Dilley, Sarah Wilkins, Coy Beverage, Joseph Thompson, Stacy McPaters, Josh Morgan, Derek Kiner, Erica Beverage, Dan Richardson, Gus Willis, Leroy Boyce, and Jillian Rose. Second year campers awarded the "lucky nickel" certificates were Kendall Beverage, Kevin Beverage, Zachary Graham, Randall Thompson, Felicia Pennington, Joel Galford, Kristy Madron, Mikey Callison, Robert Nelson, Ryan Taylor, Ethan Lash, Angela Jordan, Brittany Hoke, and Jennifer Morrison.

Tribes competed for points throughout the week in various activities and the Cherokee tribe was selected as the winning tribe this year.

This year's Volunteer Camping Assistants (VCA's) were Joey Wright from Glenville and Alison Brandon from Shanks. Adults helping with camp this year were: Shirley Wilkins, Lisa Friel, Kathy and Randy Irvine, Lois Ann Beverage, Kathy Henry, Barb Dilley, Regina Woods, Cheryl Beverage, Jennifer Beverage, Arlene and J. W... Cheek, J. L. Clifton, Bill Jordan, David Simmons, Jan Starr, Pat Keller, Doshia Webb, Marvina Irvine, Dave and Brenda Williams, Linda VanReenen, Trisha Fox, Brema Sharp, Ruth Taylor, Lauren Bennett, Connie Burns, Jeff Crompton, Mike and Mary Sue Burr, Kathy [illegible], Laura Jean Rittenhouse, Bill Young, Susan Triplett, Stephanie Grimes, Jan Nelson, Donald McNeel, Lake Vaughan, Ed White, Irene Varner, Susie Taylor, and Dottie Hedrick.

Presenting....

Sparkle Plenty Jewelry

exclusively at

The Rock House

Custom designed hand-made necklaces, bracelets and earrings in semi-precious stones with sterling silver or 14kt. gold-filled accents

Custom orders available

The Rock House
Antiques • Books • Crafts

Main Street, Marlinton
(304)799-6959
Most Days 10 a.m. - 5 p.m.

...IN THIS CAR!

Cider Making (Bill Young), Wheat Grinding) Dave and Laura Jean Rittenhouse). Square Dancing (Randolph-Pocahontas 4-H Dance Team), Heritage Foods (Ruth Taylor), Candle Dipping (Lauren Bennett), Pottery (Trisha Fox), Baskets (Cheryl Beverage), Black Powder Shooting (Dave Williams), and Dulcimer Music (Kathy Henry). On Thursday afternoon, Mike and Mary Sue Burns entertained the campers with an interactive assembly on "Survival of Mountain Music."

Camp awards were presented to campers during the final council circle on Thursday night. Jesse Burns was selected as this year's "Spirit of Camp" and was presented the spirit stick, which was carved and painted by each of the tribes during camp. The following campers were chosen as those best representing the four H's of 4-H at camp: Head H—Billy Herold; Heart—Rachel Barb; Hands H — Christina Holstine; Health H — Amy Henry.

Five 4-H'ers completed the charting program and received their 4-H Pins. These charters were Billy Herold, Allison Norrod, Rebecca Dilley, Courtney Cochran, and Natasha McMann.

Outstanding first year camper scholarships were presented to Coy Beverage and Toni Dilley. The Cool Camper Award was presented to Adrienne Juergens. Adam Irvine received the Harold Carpenter

WIN T

1996 MONTE CARLO 'LS' Donated by MITCHELL CHEVROLET

During Pioneer Days, 20 More Chances to Win!!!

Any car raffle ticket that you purchase in the Marlinton area during Pioneer Days, July 8-14, will also be entered in Saturday night drawings for gift certificates and prizes donated by the following businesses to celebrate WVMR's 20th Anniversary.

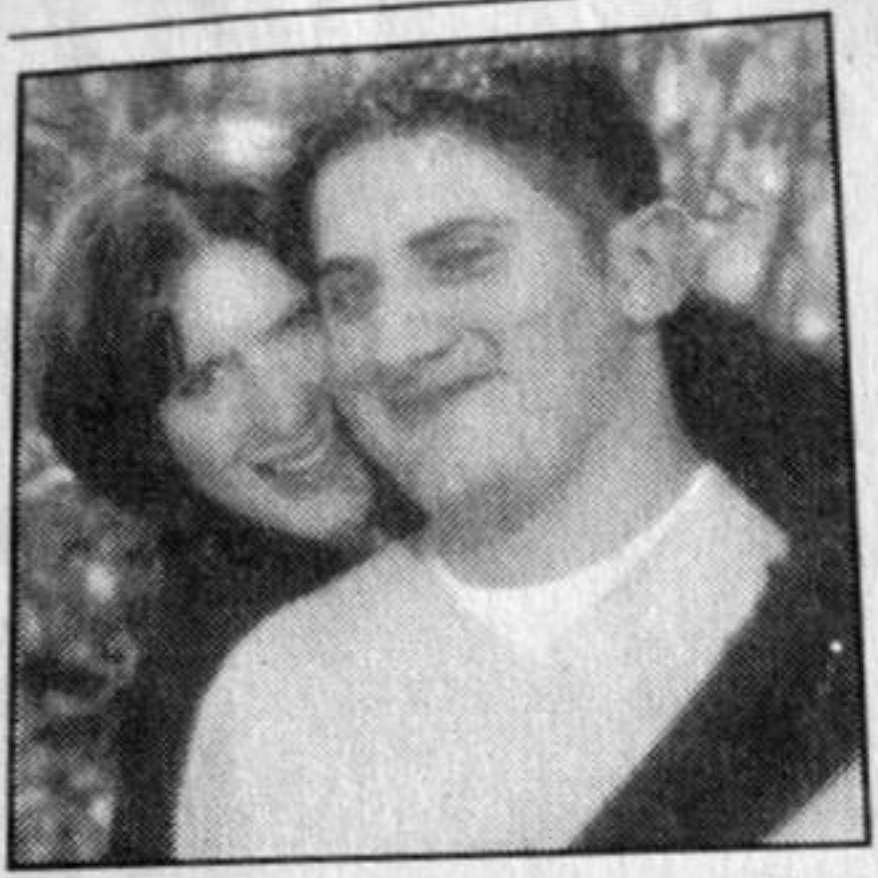
Allegeny Mountain Radio	Glades Building Supply
Candles, Crafts, & Creations	Hair Design
Carriage House Gift/Christmas Corner	House of Style
City National Bank	Johnson's Dari-Land
CJ Richardson	Little General
Edray Kwik Stop	M & M Mart #3
Family Dollar Employees	McNeill's Country Mart
Fas Chek	Naturally You
First Citizens Bank	Pocahontas Foodland
French's Diner	Subway

Tickets $5 Each —3 for $10

Car to be given away at the Highland County Fair September 1 2001

Live Broadcast from the First Citizens Bank Porch
Friday Noon - 5 p.m. & Saturday 10 a.m. - 1 p.m.
Live Parade Coverage at 2 p.m.
Stop by and say Hello!

Engagements



Engagement Announced

Bob and Debbie Miller and Mike and Tammy Broce, all of Marlinton, are pleased to announce the engagement of their daughter, Aleisha Broce, to Joseph Arbogast, of Valley Head.

Joseph is the son of Joe and Diane Arbogast.

Both Aleisha and Joseph are currently completing degrees at Fairmont State College.

A wedding date has not been set.

from off Beav tell him the n tailed animal order of a field cuts stacked h riddles corn fo thing, even a at the Under these creature
rats, mice, mo

The answ shrew. The st bits by mice shrews came i eat these mice fodder, it cou riddle the stall
as they are ins

Though match for any addition to in almost any a come, in fai small birds
The shrew h book says the less than half

The sh known to be just beneath ground in s snow in win

AMERICORPS MEMBERS TAKING part in the Energy Express program this summer are, front row, l-r, Danny Sharp, Susan Riley-Bhatti, Jessica Dunbrack, Jeni Weatherholt, Kristy Wilfong, second row, l-r, Terri Beck, Robert Soriano, Chris Simmons, Samantha Shaw, Krissy Keller, and Angela Warner

AmeriCorps members

AmeriCorps members pledge to get things done

Energy Express kicked off its eighth summer with training taking place on June 17-19 at West Virginia Wesleyan College in Buckhannon. Almost 600 AmeriCorps members and VISTA's pledged to "get things done" in communities throughout West Virginia. They will be serving 87 sites in 43 counties while enriching the lives of more than 4,000 children.

Participating from Green Bank and Marlinton include: Terrie Beck, Jessica Dunbrack, Rebekah Hannah, Krissy Keller, Emily Morton, Susan Riley-Bhatti, Danny Sharp, Samantha Shaw, Chris Simmons, Kathy Snyder, Robert Soriano, Louise Starke, Angela Warner, Jeni Weatherholt, and Kristy Wilfong.

Energy Express is an award-winning six-week program under the leadership of the WVU Extension Service that provides nutritious meals and reading-focused educational programming to children who have attended kindergarten through sixth grade. The program has demonstrated that most children enrolled maintain reading competency, with more than 60% even improving their scores.

College students and community members have been recruited to serve as AmeriCorps members and VISTAs for the program. During training, they attended classes on creating a print-rich environment, providing noncompetitive recreation, guiding children's behavior and developing community service MEMBERS FROM THE Cornerstone Presbyterian Church, of Brighton, Michigan, recently built a wheel chair ramp for Bill and Edith Barrett at their home in Marlinton.

Ourbin Da

Gospel Sing

Ambassadors For Christ Camp
Huntersville, WV · 799-4677

July 22, 2001 · 6 p.m.

Featuring

The Cornwell's

from Lewisburg, WV

Local Singers & Congregational Singing

Come join us for an evening of good old fashioned music and fellowship

AFC snack bar open after the sing!

Ambassadors For Christ 31st Annual Camp Meeting

July 23 - 29, 2001

Main Speaker: Rev. Bob Mussmon
Bible Teacher: Rev. Larry Jones
Youth Leader: Bill Harmon
Children's Leader: Jennifer Ryder

Daily Schedule
10 a.m. Bible Study
7:30 p.m. Evangelistic Service

Great Preaching & Teaching · Lively Singing

Everyone is welcome!

a still er

he position.
he has not been chard Thompson town, but would ble to find out if le said he talked nd Mr. Madron
r. Phares know
e considered.
deadline of the on July 10 for ress their wil-the Board. A ll be held on at 6 p.m. to . Mr. Thomphave already it was decided of being inter-members must Southern or Districts. into executive

POCAHONTAS COUNTY EDUCATOR Cheryl Nelson, of Arbovale, receives a $25,000 Milken National Educator Award from Foundation Co-founder and Chairman Lowell at the 2001 Milken Family Foundation Education conference in Los Angles, California, last week.

Nelson one of three WV teachers to receive $25,000 national e on the Board. A g will be held on ning at 6 p.m. to dates. Mr. Thompadron have already l and it was decided ice of being inter-

m. ard members must the Southern or rial Districts.
ved into executive sonnel issue asso-onstruction of the ine arts center at Dr. Phares indime serious prob-project that this truck ship

George "Mike" om" Kimberlin ves in Buckeye,
r B.M.F. for 22
rlin has driven ars and lives in
a. Burns Motor ed a WV Fleet for traveling West Virginia
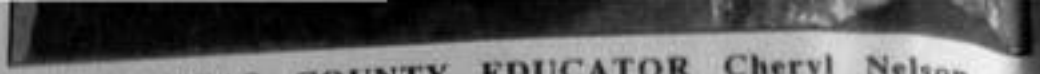
only two DOT



POCAHONTAS COUNTY EDUCATOR Cheryl Nelson, of Arbovale, receives a $25,000 Milken National Educator Award from Foundation Co-founder and Chairman Lowell at the 2001 Milken Family Foundation Education conference in Los Angles, California, last week.

Nelson one of three WV teachers to receive $25,000 national teaching award

Cheryl Nelson, of Arbovale, is one of three outstanding educators who have returned to West Virginia $25,000 richer, and armed with a wealth of ideas to improve their teaching. Ms. Nelson is a teacher at Hillsboro Elementary School.

They were among hundreds of distinguished educators, policymakers and business leaders from across the nation attending the Milken Family Foundation National Education Conference in Los Angeles, which concluded on Tuesday, June 26.

They were also among 155 educators from 43 states to be presented with the Milken Educator Award, a prestigious honor that includes a financial award of $25,000, as well as public recognition for their exemplary work and membership in a nationwide network of over 1,650 high-caliber educators.

"High quality educators are critical because they are not only the building blocks of better schools, but the essential ingredient of student success and achievement," said Lowell Milken, chairman and co-founder of the Milken Family Foundation. "We applaud and celebrate the important role our Award recipients and the great educators throughout the nation are playing in our society."

The other recipients from West Virginia are: Rosemary Basham, Teacher, Midland Trail Elementary School, Diamond, and Paulette Phillips, Teacher, Cass Elementary School, Fairview.

Highlights at this year's conference included an address by Florida Governor Jeb Bush. Florida's state legislature recently approved funding for the implementation of the Mentor Teacher Schools Pilot Program—a teacher quality initiative based on the Milken Family Foundation's Teacher Advancement Program—in select Florida schools beginning this fall.

Considered one of the premier seminars in K-12 education, the 2001 Milken National Education Conference brought together key legislators and state superintendents, hundreds of past and present Milken Award-winning educators and other distinguished experts to discuss issues of teacher quality, from policy to practice. The two-day conference, themed "Teacher Quality: Building on Excellence," engaged educators in intensive workshops featuring the latest tools and techniques for effective classroom instruction and professional development opportunities designed to propel actions to combat the U.S. teacher quality crisis.

This year's session featured:

* a debate about critical national public policies intended to promote and enhance teacher quality between Betty Castor, President, National Board for Professional Teaching Standards, and Dr. Michael

Continued to page

ay first full day of activities at NYSC

the National and purple-fringed orchid

ges to es V 24954
799-6466

k of the year.
Virginia 24954

cluding tax)
State $25
S 0e word Managing Editor

l against r servrdinance filed in Circuit temporary and ons that prohibit ion from enfor-acted ordinance
pal service fee. d by Marlinton nesman James

r his suit, Mr.
the Town was tion to put the t voters of the claims that the ent to avoid the ction by annual-it was improper or public notifi-

Board of Education still seeking new member

The Board of Education held a special meeting on Monday to decide how to proceed it its search for a new member to replace Bruce McKean. The process must be completed by July 16 or the law requires the state Superintendent of Schools to make the selection.

At a special meeting on June 19 the Board interviewed three people and selected Steven V. McCoy for the position. However, it was found that Mr. McCoy's employment with the Division of Highways would not allow him to accept a public office.

As its first action Monday, the Board accepted Mr. McCoy's withdrawal as a member of the Board.

Board President Kermit Friel suggested that that the process be opened back up to see who might be interested in joining the Board and the other members agree with doing this.

Superintendent James Phares reported a letter has been received from James McCoy, Jr., of Hillsboro, expressing a desire to be on the Board. He also had a letter from Debra Schoolcraft saying she is still interested in the position.

Dr. Phares said he has not been able to contact Richard Thompson yet, as he is out of town, but would do so soon as possible to find out if is still interested. He said he talked with Scott Madron and Mr. Madron said he would let Dr. Phares know if he still wants to be considered.

The Board set a deadline of the close of business on July 10 for anyone else to express their willingness to serve on the Board. A special meeting will be held on July 11, beginning at 6 p.m. to interview candidates. Mr. Thompson and Mr. Madron have already been interviewed and it was decided to leave the choice of being interviewed up to them.

Prospective Board members must be from either the Southern or Northern Magisterial Districts.

The Board moved into executive session for a personnel issue associated with the construction of the auditorium and fine arts center at the high school. Dr. Phares indicated there are some serious problems with the project that this time.

POCAHON Arbovale, Award fro the 2001 N
Los Angles

Nelso ers to teach

Cheryl one of thre who have r $25,000 ri wealth of teaching. M Hillsboro E

They w distinguish ers and bus the nation Family Fou
tion Confe which conc 26.

They w

Miller wins state truck driving championship

The West Virginia Motor Truck Association recently held its annual truck driving championships and Safety Banquet in Charleston on

URBAN OSBORNE, OF Clintonville, won Best of Show in the Heritage Fair parade.

THE BLACK MOUNTAIN Bluegrass Boys performed on Saturday night at the Heritage Fair.

sic English and crowd was en-se racers who ld. The high-as the first lassic Mule made a run
The rider of Tim Wil-concluded ranged by e McNeel

le Levels ne 28, 29
will fea-nd local has lived he Little story of e includ-This his-blication e contin-

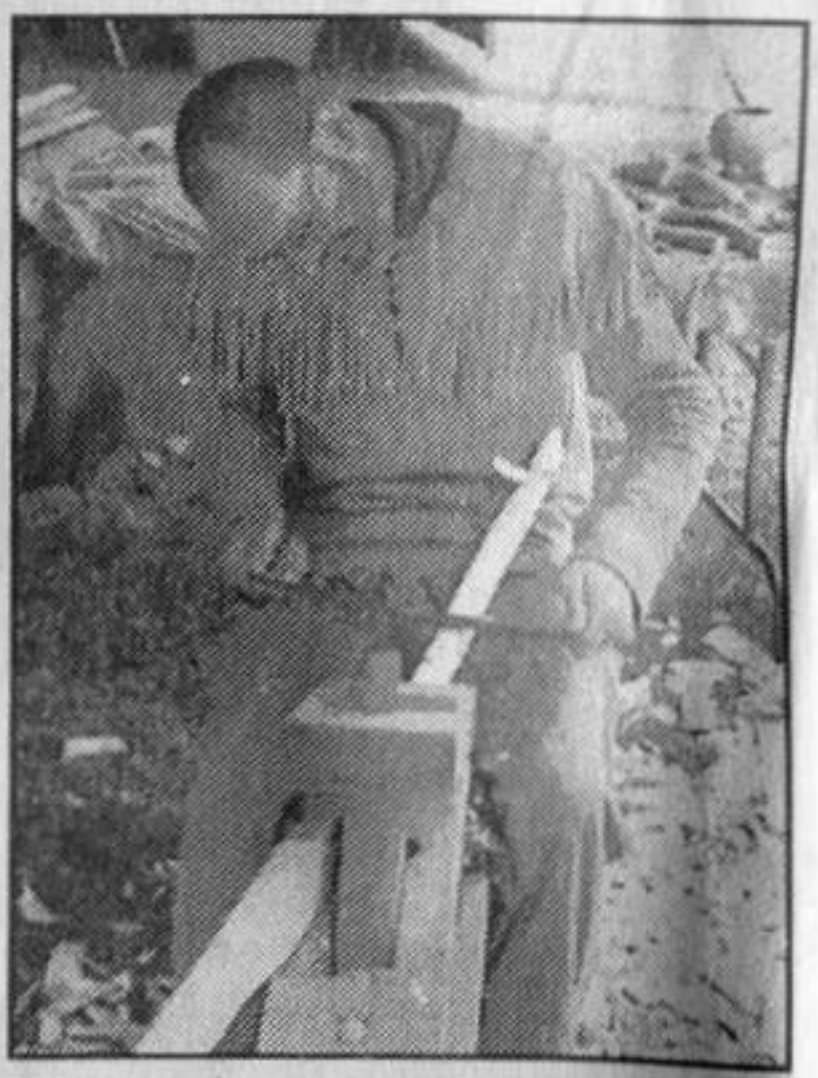
om

THE BLACK MOUNTAIN Bluegrass Boys performed on Saturday night at the Heritage Fair.

KATHY HENRY read Pearl Buck stories at the Pearl Buck Birthday celebration

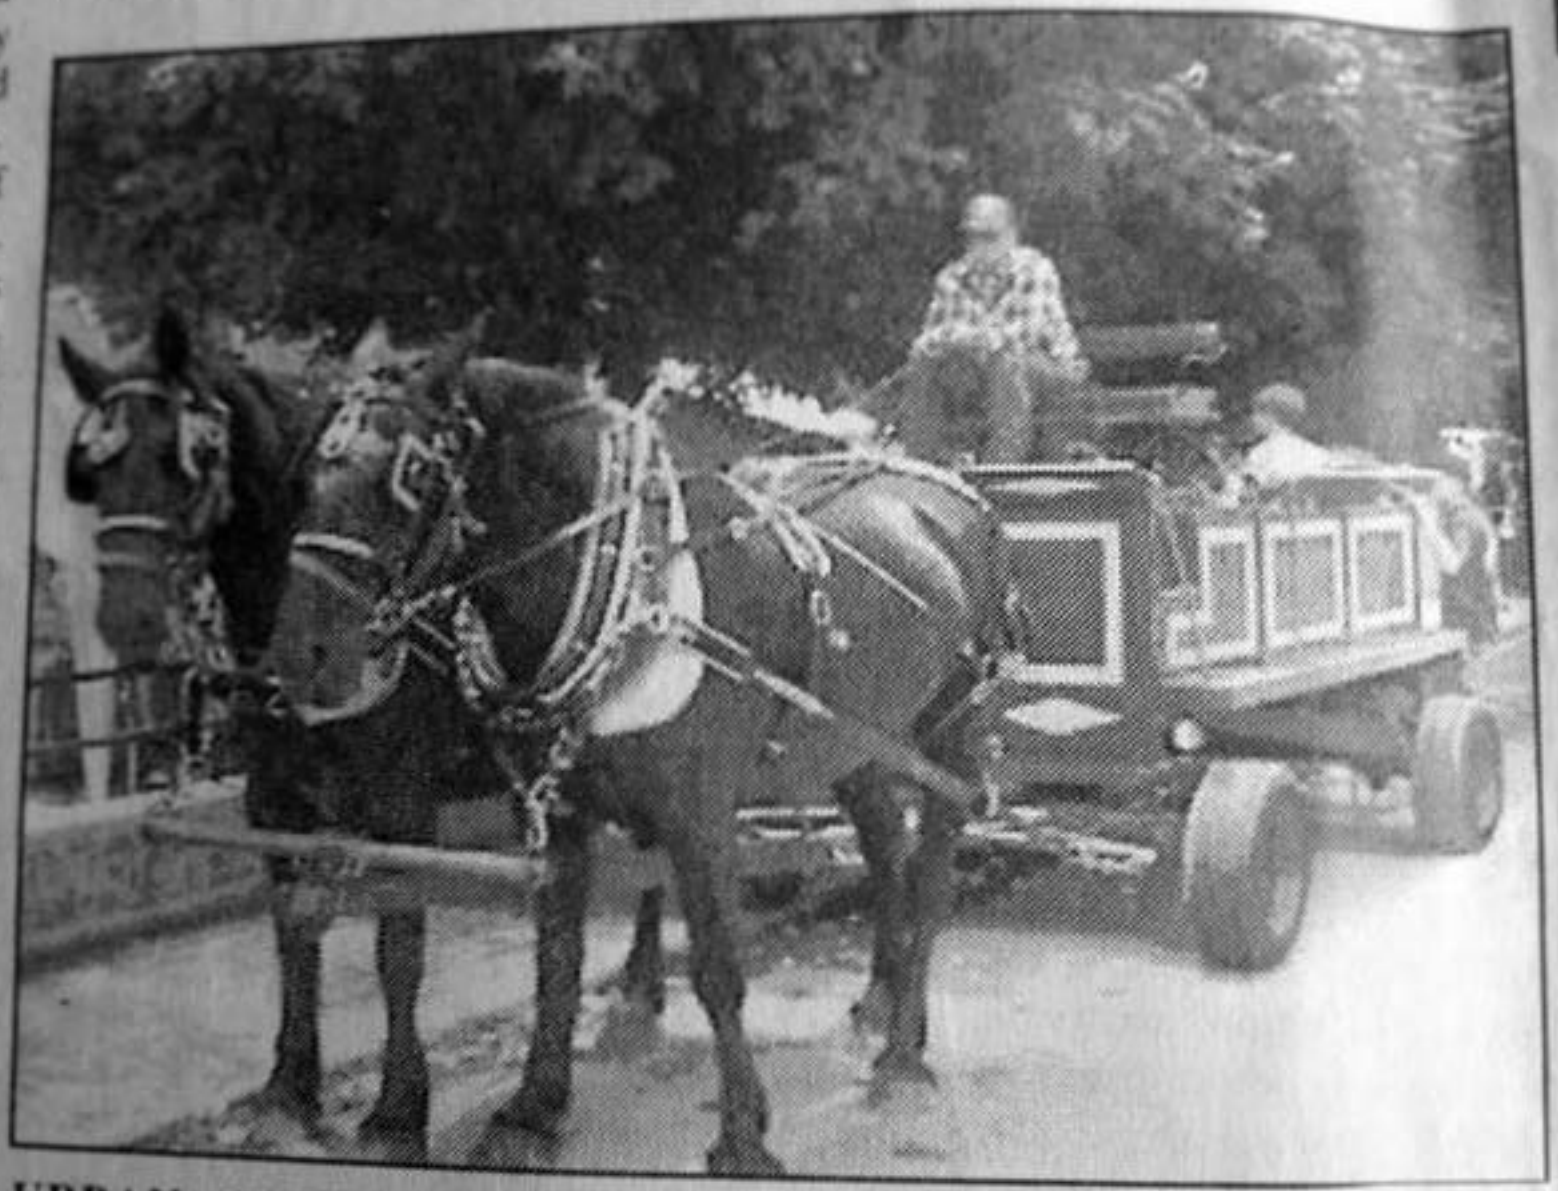


MIKE SMITH demonstrated bow making during the Heritage Fair.

3-Legged Race:

MARK GILLENWATER, OF [illegible] with his horse team

Photos by Mike Condon



URBAN OSBORNE, OF Clintonville, won Best of Show in the Heritage Fair parade.

of Show was a ckup owned by Craigsville, and Pyles and family.
er employees of Parade Marshals.
Louise McNeel's ia Hayes, Edith ret Forren and board. Our palo not include and Teen Miss ey and Britney rfectly by dress-s, bonnets and aby carriage.
he antique mano politicians ernational tracis grandfather, owned Shafer 1937- 1956.
won the tractor
n Deere. afternoon with nd, Bill Hefner dy Carr. Evenuded The Her-hurch had a

WWW.SNO

WINNERS held at Sn efforts.

Moun event

Two form bike racers weekend of Off Road (NORBA) Series ever tain, held o

Roland competed took top ho Cross-Cou Short Trac day, while lia also an 1996 and Cross-Cou Grigson's

ttle Levels Heritage Fair

Little Levels Heritage Fair
t many new visitors to the ro Community. The outdoor e was a sell out, not damp-the rain. We will lower the d add to the menu next year.
ymnasium and lawn were th crafts, antiques, quilting rations and candle making.
le foods sold well in every drawn farming demonstraedle in the Haystack, goat nd a petting zoo were the surrounding the birthday

n at the Pearl S. Buck
e Museum. One Nanny ered two kids in the aftersborns Draft Horses pro-ttle service after winning Show Award in the pa-

Best of Show was a vy Pickup owned by ier, of Craigsville, and immy Pyles and family.
former employees of rved as Parade Marshals.
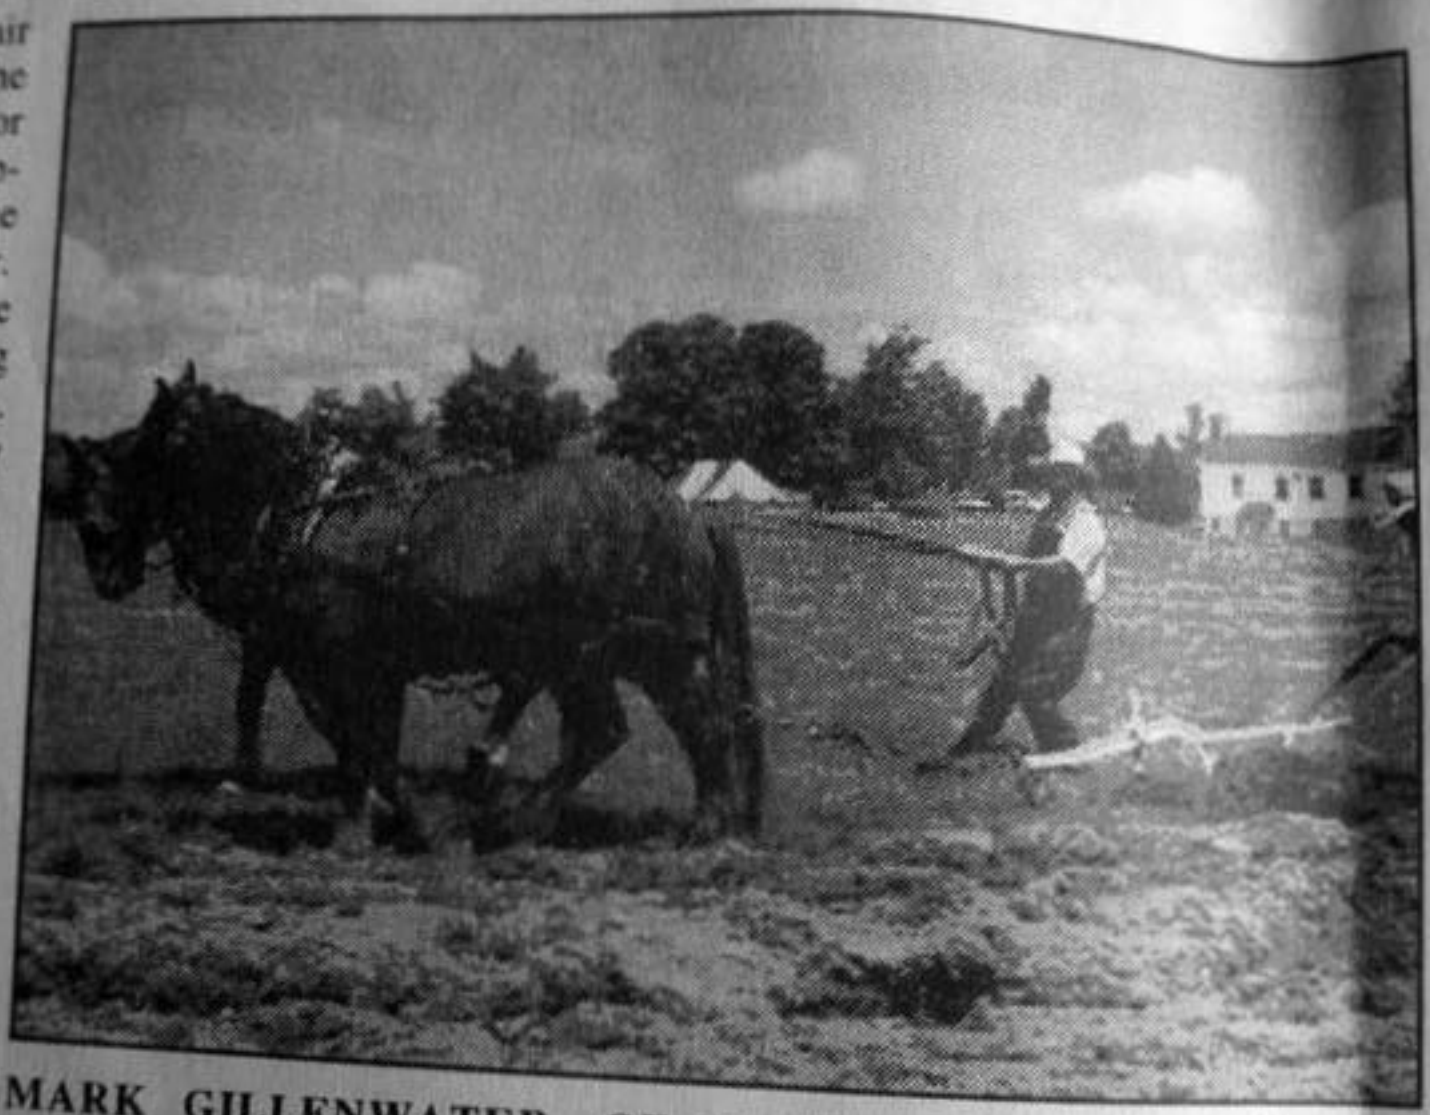
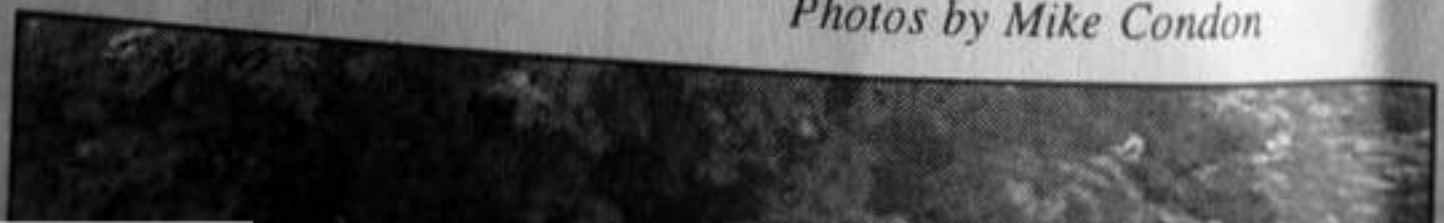
n led Louise McNeel



MARK GILLENWATER, OF Renick, demonstrates plowing with his horse team

Photos by Mike Condon



WINNER

WINNERS AT THE NORBA National Mountain Bike Series, held at Snowshoe last month, celebrate the results of their efforts.

Mountain bikers enjoy successful event at Snowshoe Mountain

Two former Olympic mountain bike racers enjoyed a successful weekend of racing at the National

Today reigning national downhill champion Missy Giove of Durango, Colorado won her first race of

Snowshoe Moun-20 -23. of Canada, who 2000 Olympics, both the Men's Friday and the tition on Satur-igson of Austra-c competitor in n the Women's nt. This was aight NORBA tory, only the series' 13-year
sh the feat.
of Canada fin-Women's Short Women's Dual ion, former Na-Leigh Donavan of California took ades Bootes of he men's divi-

vertical drop course which took

A GROUP OF bikers get underway for one of the events at the National Mountain Bike Series at Snowshoe.

MOUNTAIN
www.snowshoemtn.com
Wild and Wonderful
1-800-CALL WVA
www.callwva.com

WINNERS AT THE NORBA National Mountain Bike Series, held at Snowshoe last month, celebrate the results of their efforts.

Mountain bikers enjoy successful event at Snowshoe Mountain

Two former Olympic mountain bike racers enjoyed a successful weekend of racing at the National Off Road Bicycling Association (NORBA) National Mountain Bike Series event at Snowshoe Mountain, held on June 20 -23.

Roland Green of Canada, who competed in the 2000 Olympics, took top honors in both the Men's Cross-Country on Friday and the Short Track competition on Saturday, while Mary Grigson of Australia also an Olympic competitor in 1996 and 2000 won the Women's Cross-Country event. This was Grigson's fifth straight NORBA Cross-Country victory, only the second female in the series' 13-year history to accomplish the feat.

Chrissy Redden of Canada finished first in the Women's Short Track race. In the Women's Dual Slalom competition, former National Champion Leigh Donavan of Capistrano Beach, California took top honors and Wades Bootes of Australia captured the men's division.

Today reigning national downhill champion Missy Giove of Durango, Colorado won her first race of the season, capturing the Women's Downhill Hill crown on the 1,500 vertical drop course which took

A GROUP OF bikers get underway t the National Mountain Bike Series a 5,000 specta

low West V finish of the

The two pelled Hayv in the Na points race the Nationa

The four Mountain a ers and ano the Pocaho came on th of Snowsh that attrac
June 9 - 1

Are you

West Virginia
Wild and Wonderful
1-800-CALL WVA
www.callwva.com

al Mountain Bike Series, rate the results of their oy successful Mountain

y reigning national downhill ion Missy Giove of Dura- olorado won her first race of ason, capturing the Women's hill Hill crown on the 1,500 l dirt course which took place on the western ridge of Snowshoe Mountain. Taking first place in the Men's Downhill Division was Steve Peat of Great Britain.

Two West Virginia mountain bike racers also enjoyed a successful weekend of racing at the National Mountain Bike Series event.

Nick Waite of Davis won the Junior Cross Country race on Friday, covering the two-lap 15-mile race in 1:36:24 at the state's largest resort.

Sue Haywood, also of Davis, finished fifth in the Women's Professional Cross Country race, covering the three-lap 16.5-mile race in 1:49:17. Three of the four finishers in front of Haywood were former Olympians from Australia, Canada and the United States.

On Saturday the 29-year old Haywood finished third in the Short Track competition with about 3,000 spectators cheering their fellow West Virginian onto her best finish of the season.

The two top five finishes propelled Haywood into seventh place in the National Cross-Country points race and into third place in the National Short Track standings.

The four day event at Snowshoe Mountain attracted nearly 2000 racers and another 12,000 spectators to the Pocahontas Country facility and came on the heels of the 24 Hours of Snowshoe mountain bike race that attracted similar numbers on June 9 - 10.

Edray

Fred N. Henley t
Bullock and Terri L.
2.11 acres, Big Spring

'T.

A Green Marlinton s honors in th Radio "TV contest, whic Bath and F Corwin Law on the fifth Alexis Rose mentary was nington, of third place ho
Sarah W Middle Scho
the sixth gr Colaw, of Va
ished second, of Marlinton, County l were: Fifth G berg, of Valle Hepler, of V Brandon Sirc place; Sixth Colaw, of Val
Altizer, of Mi
Jamie Vestal,

of the West Virginia Division of Culture and History.

- - -

MARSHA WEAVER, of Marlinton, was baptized by immersion on May 12, joining the Seventh-Day Adventist Church in Lewisburg.

- - -

Johnson Family Selected as Hosts for YFU International Student

Allen and Debora Johnson, of 20 per cent or masters' nly by the School of ıost recent nember of ty College, Chapter of honor soembership ıents who s each se-year and rade point student at ıas a part-chool. She sociate of Studies in achelor of nizational ent in May nty ce Roll College olishments nts from fied them ice Presi-

ing in physics, son of Charles and Carole Young, of Dunmore.

Dilley attends WV Hugh O'Brian Youth Leadership Seminar

Rebecca Dilley recently attended the West Virginia Hugh O'Brian Youth Leadership (HOBY) Seminar in Charleston. Rebecca joined more than 130 other young leaders representing as many high schools throughout West Virginia from May 18-21.

Representing Pocahontas County High School, Rebecca Dilley is the daughter of Jim and Barb

HOBY activities opportunities is ava Hugh O'Brian You (301) 474-4370 or site at www.hoby.

Honor Lists Bluefield Honor student Community Co
pus of Bluefield been named to Dean's Lists ha

Named to t was Sheri Turl

Those earnin ognition were of Buckeye; I min Moore, a Hillsboro; Da Gilmore, Bro and Denise S

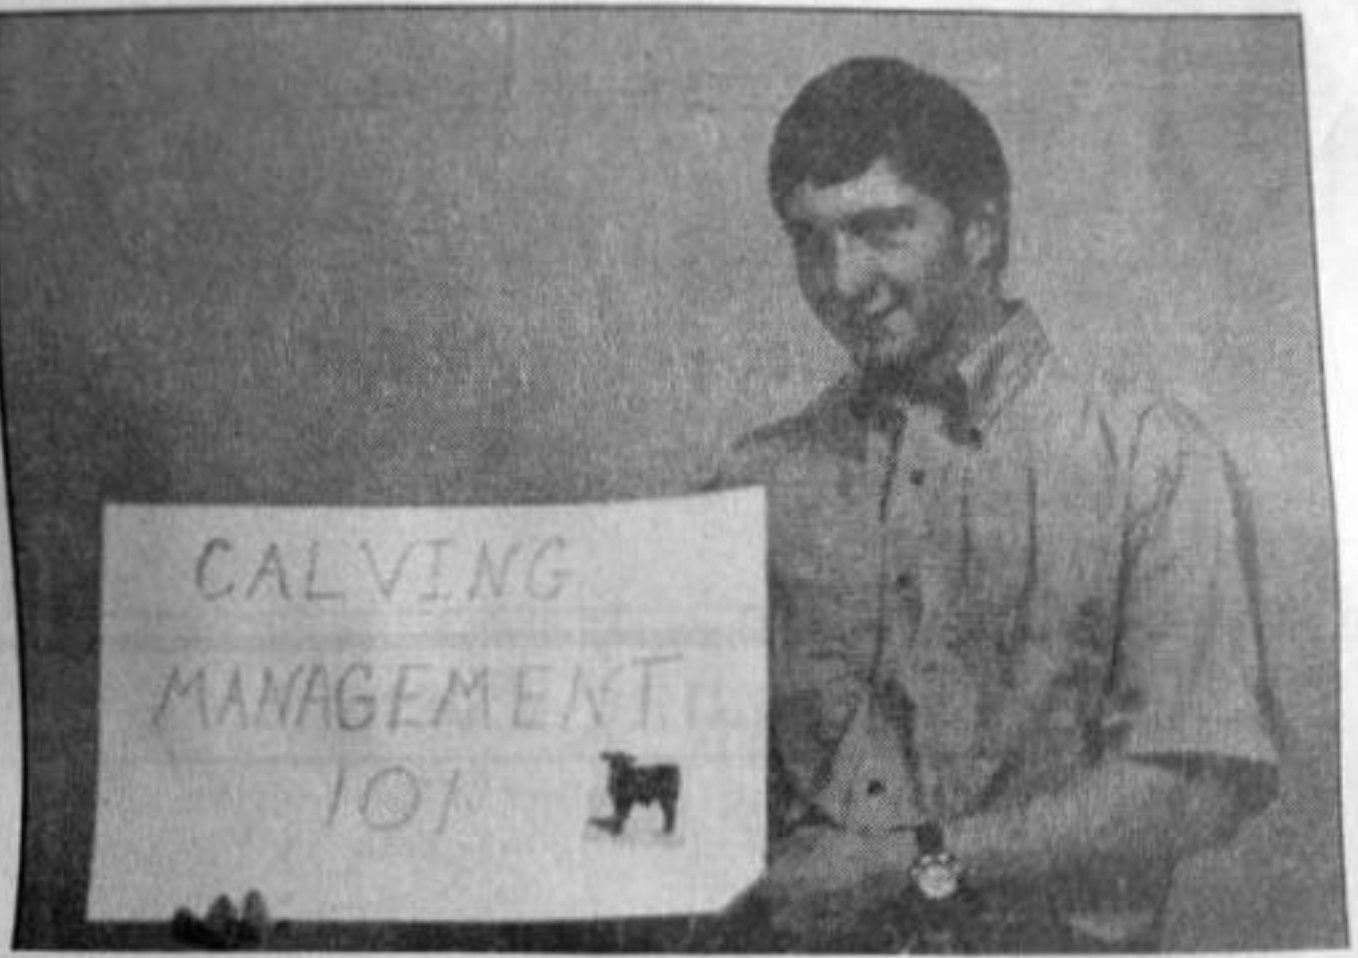
first week of August. Activities will include singing, playing music, fishing, and enjoying each other.



AFTER ALL THE presentations were judged, the 2001 gold ribbon went to Timothy VanReenen, of Hillsboro, in the Senior Individual Division of the Veterinary Science 4-H Visual Presentation Contest during the State 4-H Day competitions. His first place demonstration on "Calving Problem 101" was among more than 200 illustrated talks presented. Parents, friends and 4-H members from 34 counties viewed the competition, held at Jackson's Mill.

Watch the night time sky on Thursday, July 5, for

EYE GLASSES
or HEARING AIDS

...ent, and society. said Lit-
...BY helped me to see the
...p potential in myself and
...tand that goals and dreams
...ortant regardless of what
...n I choose to pursue later

...BY was established by
...actor Hugh O'Brian follow-
...sit to Africa where he was
...d by a meeting with Dr.
...Schweitzer.
...One of the things Schweitzer
...o me was the most important
... in education was to teach
...g people to think for
...selves," O'Brian said. "From
...nspiration, and with the sup-
...of others who believed in ... and the American dream, I
...l HOBY to seek out, recog-
...nd develop outstanding lead-
... potential among our nation's
...

...uring the seminar, Hugh
...an came and told the HOBY
...n person to the ambassadors
...01. This was only about the
...d time that Mr. O'Brian had
...o the West Virginia HOBY
...ar, and many of the staff
...ers in attendance had never
... the story in person and some
...ever seen Mr. O'Brian in per-...fore either.

ley, of Clover Lick.

HOBY Leadership Seminars ing together a select group of gh school sophomores to interact ith distinguished leaders in busi- ss, government, education and the ofessions to discuss the present d future issues. The goal is to ovide the ambassadors with a mulating forum for learning out the American incentive sys- n and the democratic process, ile broadening their understand- of their leadership potential and st for self-development. HOBY bassadors are also challenged to rn to their communities to per- m at least 100 hours of com- aity service within 12 months owing the seminar.

"The HOBY seminar chal- ged me to think about the many es affecting the world around and helped me to understand that leader, I have the power to e a positive impact in business, rnment, and society," said Dil- "HOBY helped me to see the ership potential in myself and derstand that goals and dreams important regardless of what fession I choose to pursue later ife."

COOK FAMILY REUNION

The Cook Family gathered for a cookout at the home of Gail Cook in May. Among those attending were, sitting, l-r, Mr. and Mrs. Gail Cook, Hampton Wade Cook, holding his son Jacob Wade Cook, Dollie Cook, Nathan, Jessica, Mark Cook, Bubby, and Frank Cook; standing are Juanita Cook Price, Tonda Cook, Henly Cook, Loucille Cook McDuffie, Sylvia Harvey Cook, Sam Cook, Mary Ann Cook, Weslie and Valorie Cook. Others were in attendance but had left before the photo was taken.

The next family gathering will be a week-long event the first week of August. Activities will include singing, playing music, fishing, and enjoying each other.

LARK and Nathan graduated from ank Library play-June 22. Their brothers attend-
am. Pizza, fruit, ur cake were

- - -

ater College n's List List for the Spring idgewater College
ced.
the Dean's List
.2 or better quality

Dilley, of Clover Lick.

HOBY Leadership Seminars bring together a select group of high school sophomores to interact with distinguished leaders in business, government, education and the professions to discuss the present and future issues. The goal is to provide the ambassadors with a stimulating forum for learning about the American incentive system and the democratic process, while broadening their understanding of their leadership potential and quest for self-development. HOBY Ambassadors are also challenged to return to their communities to perform at least 100 hours of community service within 12 months following the seminar.

"The HOBY seminar challenged me to think about the many issues affecting the world around me and helped me to understand that as a leader, I have the power to make a positive impact in business, government, and society," said Dilley. "HOBY helped me to see the leadership potential in myself and to understand that goals and dreams are important regardless of what profession I choose to pursue later

The Cook Gail Cook in r, Mr. and M his son Jaco
Mark Cook,
Cook Price, McDuffie, Syl Weslie and Va left before the

The next first week playing music,

government, and society," said Dilley. "HOBY helped me to see the leadership potential in myself and to understand that goals and dreams are important regardless of what profession I choose to pursue later in life."

HOBY was established by veteran actor Hugh O'Brian following a visit to Africa where he was inspired by a meeting with Dr. Albert Schweitzer.

"One of the things Schweitzer said to me was the most important thing in education was to teach young people to think for themselves," O'Brian said. "From that inspiration, and with the support of others who believed in youth and the American dream, I started HOBY to seek out, recognize, and develop outstanding leadership potential among our nation's youth."

During the seminar, Hugh O'Brian came and told the HOBY story in person to the ambassadors of 2001. This was only about the second time that Mr. O'Brian had been to the West Virginia HOBY Seminar, and many of the staff members in attendance had never heard the story in person and some had never seen Mr. O'Brian in person before either.

The next
first week playing musi

AFT ribb Seni Visu
comp Probl prese counti

Wat on T a p

of 2001. This was only about the second time that Mr. O'Brian had been to the West Virginia HOBY Seminar, and many of the staff members in attendance had never heard the story in person and some had never seen Mr. O'Brian in person before either.

Further information about HOBY activities and sponsorship opportunities is available by calling Hugh O'Brian Youth Leadership at (301) 474-4370 or visiting our Web site at www.hoby.org.

- - -

Honor Lists announced at Bluefield State College

Honor students at the Greenbrier Community College Center campus of Bluefield State College have been named to the President's and Dean's Lists have been announced.

Named to the President's List was Sheri Turley, of Dunmore.

Those earning a Dean's List recognition were Sharon J. Robinson, of Buckeye; Laura Hefner, Benjamin Moore, and Lori Perkins, all of Hillsboro; Daniel Carpenter, Janelle

POSTMASTER: Send address changes to
The Pocahontas Times
810 Second Avenue, Marlinton WV 24954
Phone (304) 799-4973 • Fax (304) 799-6466 www.pocahontastimes.com
editor@pocahontastimes.com
Published every Thursday except the last week of the year. Entered at the Post Office at Marlinton, West Virginia 24954 as periodicals. ISSN 0736-8771
YEARLY SUBSCRIPTION CHARGES (including tax)
In-County $23.76 • In-State $23.32 • Out-of-State $25
WEEKLY ADVERTISING RATES
Display—$4.50/column inch—Classified—20¢ word
WILLIAM P. McNEEL, Editor • PAMELA E. PRITT, Managing Editor
JANE PRICE SHARP, Editor Emerita

THURSDAY, JUNE 28, 2001

PRINTING EARLY

Due to the Fourth of July following on a Wednesday this year, our normal printing day, next week's paper will have to be printed on Tuesday. The DEADLINE for advertising and articles will be MONDAY, NOON. (Friday will be appreciated if possible.)

Home Program announced by Community Action

North Central West Virginia Community Action announces the Home Program 2001 which makes available affordable mortgages. They are paid at a percentage of the household income for 20 years at 8% interest.

Interested individuals should come to the NCWVCA office, 614 Third Avenue, Marlinton, to complete a survey form, beginning on July 6. Closing date is July 23.

Survey forms will also be available at the Hillsboro Library on July 6, noon to 4 p.m., and Durbin Library on July 23, noon to 4 p.m.

For more information call 799-4982.

Notice

Trash pickup for the Town of Durbin will be Tuesday, July 3, and Thursday, July 5.

Small Business Help

A representative of the W. Va. University Institute of Technology Small Business Development Center will be at the Extension Office in the Court House on Friday, June 29, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. for the purpose of assisting small business owners, or those who may be interested in starting a small business. The counseling is free and confidential.

McCoy unable to serve on Board of Education

Newly appointed Board of Education member Steven V. McCoy has found he has to withdraw from the position due to a legal conflict with his employment by the Division of Highways.

School Superintendent James Pharo reported Tuesday that a little known section of state law, 17-2A-1, states that a person cannot be an employee of the highway department if the employee is "a candidate for or holds any public office or is a member of any political party committee ..."

Dr. Pharo said the legal advice he has received as well as opinions sought by Mr. McCoy agree that he cannot remain a DOH employee if he becomes a member of the board.

The Board of Education will meet for an emergency session on Monday, July 2, at 4:15 p.m. to discuss how to proceed in the matter.

Mr. McCoy was appointed at a special Board meeting last week and was one of three applicants to appear for interview. The others were Richard Thompson and Scott Madera.

Magistrate Court

George R. Hurley, of Snowshoe, appeared before Magistrate William Hevener on Monday of last week and entered a plea of guilty to driving with license suspended. He was sentenced to six months in jail, to be served on home confinement, and fined $100 with $67 in court costs. Charges of no operators, no [illegible] and [illegible] were dismissed.

Tourism drives Durbin's growth

by Beth Henry
Marshall Intern

Two railroads once kept Durbin booming, with seven restaurants and a hotel with no vacancy.

Though the town is much quieter now, a railroad is once again attracting a growing number of visitors to the small historical town.

"Slowly but surely, something's happening here and it's positive," said Durbin & Greenbrier Valley Scenic Railroad owner, John Smith. "It's given people in town some pride, something to feel good about."

"People are now stopping to see what's here, when normally they'd just drive through," he said.

Smith and his wife Kathy opened the Scenic Railroad in July 1997, and they now run three trains and employ 14 people.

The Smiths also run the Rail and Trail Store, where train schedule information, souvenirs and ice cream are available.

Next door, Frank Proud is opening the Greenbrier Inn, Bed & Breakfast. He also runs the Durbin Route Outfitters store and is Durbin's certified public accountant.

"We have a lot going on," Proud, a Durbin resident said. "The train, the [West Fork] trail, and the river [are] important components."

"These people in town realize that no one will make it on our own, we all work together."

Proud said everyone cooperates, he doesn't sell the same merchandise as Mark Kane in the DMC, he sends his B&B guests to the Old Pike Grill, and the Rail and Trail Store employees send customers to the Outfitters store.

"Frank's right," Kane said. "We don't want to steer [customers] to Elkins; we have a market and businesses right here."

In fact, two new gift shops recently opened on Main Street.

Don and Pat Jennings run The Cubby Hole, selling crafts and special gifts, and eventually antiques.

"I like to think of it as Durbin's best kept secret," Pat said.

FRANK PROUD GAZES at the scenic railroad over the balcony of his Bed & Breakfast in Durbin. B. Henry photo

Bill and Cathy Grimes opened the W.C. Enterprises gift shop, with a computer and appliance repair shop upstairs.

"I want it to be year 'round gifts, with different West Virginia made products," Cathy said.

The grand opening will be this weekend.

As more tourists visit the area, the Old Pike Grill employees are "trying to keep pace with changes in the clientele," Mark Smith said. His wife, Thelma, owns the grill.

He agreed that cooperation is important.

"If someone calls in, we tell them as much as we can about the shops and the train, and the other attractions in the area," he said.

Across the road, the East Fork Campground is growing. Mark and Marsha Kane started a small campground a few years ago, which has grown to more than 40 sites.

About 30 sites have full electricity and water hookup. The campground also has 12 primitive sites, a small bathhouse and horse stables. The Kanes plan to add a children's play area.

Mark also owns a museum in Durbin. He has restored a buggy and a sleigh and plans to showcase a 1941 car.

The museum is open whenever possible, especially "when people are waiting for the train," according to Mark.

NASCAR collections, a model train and pictures from Durbin's past are on display, as well as a variety of other interesting items.

The Kanes also operate the Durbin Mercantile Company, which has been in their family for 25 years.

The DMC sells a wide variety of merchandise, from glassware to appliances, and magazines to mattresses. Marsha's Consignment Shop is located upstairs.

"We cater to the local people, but you also have to have something for the tourists," Marsha said.

Hoping tourism will grow strong, Proud moved to Durbin a few years ago with big plans.

He's tearing down the old Greenbrier Hotel building, which cannot be saved due to structural damage, and will build a deck around his B&B building. After complete restoration, the B&B will have four bedrooms and three bathrooms.

Proud said that the hotel used to be full every night, when the Western Maryland and C&O railroads still ran through town. Now, he hopes the scenic railroad will attract guests to his B&B and his outfitters store.

"The atmosphere that I'm trying to create...is what it would be like if you're part of the family here...sit on the porch and watch the train," he said.

Proud added that the Durbin Outfitters Store offers a "novel camping idea— rail camping." Guests ride the scenic railroad five miles down the track and camp in primitive sites.

The store also provides tubing, bike and camping equipment rentals, and sells camping equipment and supplies.

Proud plans to promote the Staunton-Parkersburg Turnpike, which winds through town along the back of his property, and also the nearby West Fork Trail.

"It's gorgeous, [and in] fairly good shape," he said of the trail.

The trail, open to mountain bikers and hikers, is 26 miles long and is part of the Monongahela National Forest.

Visitors to the area may want to check out Durbin's website, at www.destinationdurbin.com.

JOYCE FINDLEY WORKS at the Rail and Trail Store in Durbin. B. Henry photo

Commission given information on farmland protection plan

The County Commission met for a regular meeting on Tuesday of last week.

Craig Yoho, Extension Agent for [illegible] gave a description of the Voluntary Farmland Protection Act [illegible] that farm land where the development rights have been purchased to always be classified as agricultural for tax purposes.

[illegible] programs to that land adjoining it "protected" from [illegible]

[illegible] ever, at this time the persons filling the half-time and one full-time positions are off on medical leave, giving only six employees to cover the jail and answer 911 calls.

Mr. McLaughlin pointed out that [illegible] viding a low cost immunization service will help citizens follow the law on having rabies shots for their pets and provide income to support housing stray animals.

Commissioners responded that

Wow! What a great [illegible] tourism season.

The Great Greenbrier R[illegible] started the event season [illegible] 70 teams, the largest [illegible] Then the Durbin & Green[illegible] ley Railroad and Cass Sc[illegible] road. State Park operat[illegible] been running a full sched[illegible]

The wet weather has c[illegible] spring fishing season [illegible] water for boating and ca[illegible]

Local events, such a[illegible] Laurels Heritage Fair, [illegible] coming. Durbin Days [illegible] Days and the Autum[illegible] Festival/Roadkill Co[illegible] cause the local history a[illegible] community groups, a[illegible]

July Sha[illegible]

NCWV[illegible]

1 - Regular: 1 p[illegible] ham steak, 2 1/2 po[illegible] ing quarters, 1 po[illegible] chicken nuggets, 1 po[illegible] brook ground turkey, [illegible] mix, potatoes, fruits [illegible] bits, dessert item, fr[illegible] bread stuffing.

2 - Grill package: [illegible] IQF split chicken bre[illegible] center cut pork, cho[illegible] RG's all beef patties [illegible] sage, 2 1/2 pounds o[illegible]

Volunte[illegible]

childre[illegible]

Energy Expres[illegible] program for children [illegible] country promoting [illegible] nutrition. The progr[illegible] day through Friday [illegible] noon, beginning Ju[illegible] August 3. There [illegible] schools, Green Ban[illegible] and Marlinton Elemen[illegible]

Energy Express [illegible] on community or [illegible] operate. We need v[illegible] ages for the followin[illegible]

*Reading to children[illegible]
*Listening to childr[illegible]
*Helping with fun [illegible] (preparing, setting [illegible] up afterwards) *Recreation [illegible] games)

Magistrate Court

George R. Hurley, of Snowshoe, appeared before Magistrate William Hevener on Monday of last week and entered a plea of guilty to driving with license suspended. He was sentenced to six months in jail, to be served on home confinement, and fined $100 with $67 in court costs. Charges of no operators, no vehicle insurance, and improper registration were dismissed.

Terry W. Sheets, of Marlinton, appeared in court on Tuesday on a charge of providing beer to a minor. He was released on $250 bond. State Police Tpr. W. A. Pendleton cited Sheets on the offense.

Herman Warner, of Green Bank, Aric B. Warner, of Bartow, and Lacie Warner, also of Bartow, were arrested on Wednesday by Sheriff R. R. Alkire and Deputy Sheriff D. A. Walton and charged with wanton endangerment involving a firearm. Michael H. Warner, of Cleveland, Ohio, was also arrested and charged with accessory to wanton endangerment. All charges are felonies. Herman and Warner were released on $25,000 cash bond each on Wednesday. The other two were released on $25,000 bond on Friday.

Jason T. Lane, of Marlinton, was arrested on Sunday on charges of DUI, third offense, a felony, and possession of marijuana, less than 15 grams, by Deputy Sheriff B. C. Totten. He was released on $2600 bond.

Tommy L. Dickenson, of Dunmore, was arrested Sunday by Deputy Totten and charged with destruction of property and reckless driving. He was released on $1000 bond.

Robin D. Price, of Bartow, was arrested on charges of domestic battery and public intoxication by State Police Tpr. F. H. Barlow on Sunday. Price was released after $2600 bond was posted.

Several hearings were held before Magistrate William Hevener on Monday

In fact, two new gift shops recently opened on Main Street.

Don and Pat Jennings run The Cubby Hole, selling crafts and special gifts, and eventually antiques.

"I like to think of it as Durbin's best kept secret," Pat said.

Mark also owns a museum in Durbin. He has restored a buggy rier Hotel building, which cannot be saved due to structural damage, and will build a deck around his B&B building. After complete restoration, the B&B will have four bedrooms and three bathrooms.

Proud said that the hotel used to

JOYCE FINDLEY WORKS at the Rail and Trail Store in Durbin. B. Henry photo

Commission given information on farmland protection plan

The County Commission met for a regular meeting on Tuesday of last week.

Craig Yahn, Extension Agent for Jefferson County, gave the Commission a description of the Voluntary Farmland Protection Act passed by the Legislature in 2000. Mr. Yahn noted that in his county, the pressure for farmland preservation goes back into the 1980s due to growing population in the state's eastern panhandle.

Mr. Yahn said the intent of the law is to provide landowners an opportunity to voluntarily protect agricultural land and woodland to:

• assist in sustaining the farming community • control the urban expansion that is consuming the state's farm land • protect agricultural land and woodland as open space • enhance tourism • protect worthwhile community values, institutions, and landscapes.

He said the new act provides for the creation of a state Agricultural Land Protection Authority and allows county commissions to adopt a farmland protection program and create county farmland protection boards. The local boards are made up of seven members, including both farmers and non-farmers, and administers the farmland protection program. Consultation with the local soil conservation district is required.

Part of the local farmland protection program is standards and guidelines for determining the eligibility of properties for the program. For eligible property, the owners may sell or donate conservation or preservation easement to the local boards. Once an easement is recorded, the land can continued to be used as a farm; businesses directly related to retail sale of farm products; religious, charitable or educational purposes; tourism; and that farm land where the development rights have been purchased to always be classifies as agricultural for tax purposes.

One negative aspect of protection programs is that land adjoining a "protected" farm may be more likely to have increased value for development.

Jim Gibb discussed the possibility of a clean-air act for the county. He noted that Pocahontas County is one of only 11 counties in the state not to have some form of clean-air act, which controls smoking in public places. Some counties prohibit all smoking while others have various levels of restrictions. Adjoining Pendleton County recently passed an act that prohibits all indoor smoking, he said.

Mr. Gibb said he has discussed the matter with Bruce Pettit, the general manager at Snowshoe. He said Mr. Pettit is willing to work with him on developing an ordinance for the county, but would be opposed to a rule that would ban smoking in bars. Mr. Gibb said he would be meeting with the Health Board in July to discuss the issue.

He asked the commissioners to review the material on indoor clean air acts that he provided them.

Sheriff R. R. Alkire and Chief Correctional Officer Bill McLaughlin met with the Commission to discuss staffing needs at the jail. They said that at the present time there are 7 full-time and one half-time correctional officer/911 dispatcher positions authorized. However, at this time the persons filling the half-time and one full-time positions are off on medical leave, giving only six employees to cover the jail and answer 911 calls.

Mr. McLaughlin pointed out that even at full staffing there are not enough employees to provide coverage without a great deal of overtime. He noted that the night shift is often covered by only one employee but this presents safety concerns. (Filling three shifts each day with two officers takes a minimum of 8.5 employees with no allowance for vacation time and sickness.)

The Sheriff asked for an additional full-time position. Mr. McLaughlin said he will ask the 911 Board to cover half of the salary. (911 funds presently pay for 3.5 positions.)

The Commission approved hiring Brian Hill on a temporary basis, full-time, to meet the immediate staff needs at the jail. The new position will be advertised.

Several members of the Humane Society of Pocahontas County met with the Commission to discuss several topics of concern to the group. Leslee McCarty served as spokesperson.

She said the Humane Society urges that county dog warden Sandy Mallow be empowered to give rabies shots to cats and dogs. Ms. McCarty noted that there have been a number of rabies cases in the county recently and this presents a public health hazard. She said providing a low cost immunization service will help citizens follow the law on having rabies shots for their pets and provide income to support housing stray animals.

Commissioners responded that the Health Department has to agree to supervise the giving of the rabies shots and there is a concern about liability.

Ms. McCarthy said the Society believes that Ms. Mallow should be made humane officer as well as dog warden, with a well-defined contract to provide these services. Having her as an employee of the Sheriff's Department would seem to be ideal, Ms. McCarty said, since the problem of inhumane treatment of animals is a law enforcement matter.

Several of the Humane Society members noted that at times it is hard to get the Sheriff's Department to respond to animal cruelty complaints, due to lack of interest, training, and the press of other duties.

The third topic discussed with the Commission was the building of a county animal shelter. Ms. McCarty said the Humane Society would like to begin raising funds for the project but feels a formal working arrangement is needed with the Commission.

Commission President Joel Callison noted that there had been an offer of donated land, but it has been withdrawn. He said the Commission is willing to consider a part of the land the county owns at

Continued to page 5

"Without moral and intellectual independence, adopt a farmland protection program and create county farmland protection boards. The local boards are made up of seven members, including both farmers and non-farmers and administers the farmland protection program. Consultation with the local soil conservation district is required.

Part of the local farmland protection program is standards and guidelines for determining the eligibility of properties for the program. For eligible property, the owners may sell or donate conservation or preservation easement to the local boards. Once an easement is recorded, the land can continued to be used as a farm; businesses directly related to retail sale of farm products; religious, charitable or educational purposes; tourism; and small home-based businesses.

Mr. Yahn noted that under the W. Va. law the purchase of the development rights is forever, while other states have programs with time limits. Besides Jefferson, he said Putnam, Greenbrier, Morgan, and Berkeley Counties are working on farmland protection plans.

He said at this time the state has not allocated any money for the purpose of buying preservation easements and he does not expect the state to do so, as farmland protection is not an issue in many counties. Local boards will have to seek money from local, federal, and private sources, Mr. Yahn feels.

He discussed the "point" system used in other state to evaluate land being considered for preservation, how such land is valued, and tax aspects of farmland protection programs. The W. Va. law requires

He asked the commissioners to review the material on indoor clean air acts that he provided them.

Sheriff R. R. Alkire and Chief Correctional Officer Bill McLaughlin met with the Commission to discuss staffing needs at the jail. They said that at the present time there are 7 full-time and one half-time correctional officer/911 dispatcher positions authorized. How-

Society of Pocahontas County met with the Commission to discuss several topics of concern to the group. Leslee McCarty served as spokesperson.

She said the Humane Society urges that county dog warden Sandy Mallow be empowered to give rabies shots to cats and dogs. Ms. McCarty noted that there have been a number of rabies cases in the county recently and this presents a public health hazard. She said pro-county animal shelter. Ms. McCarty said the Humane Society would like to begin raising funds for the project but feels a formal working arrangement is needed with the Commission.

Commission President Joel Callison noted that there had been an offer of donated land, but it has been withdrawn. He said the Commission is willing to consider a part of the land the county owns at

Continued to page 5

"Without moral and intellectual independence, there is no anchor for national independence."

— David Ben-Gurion

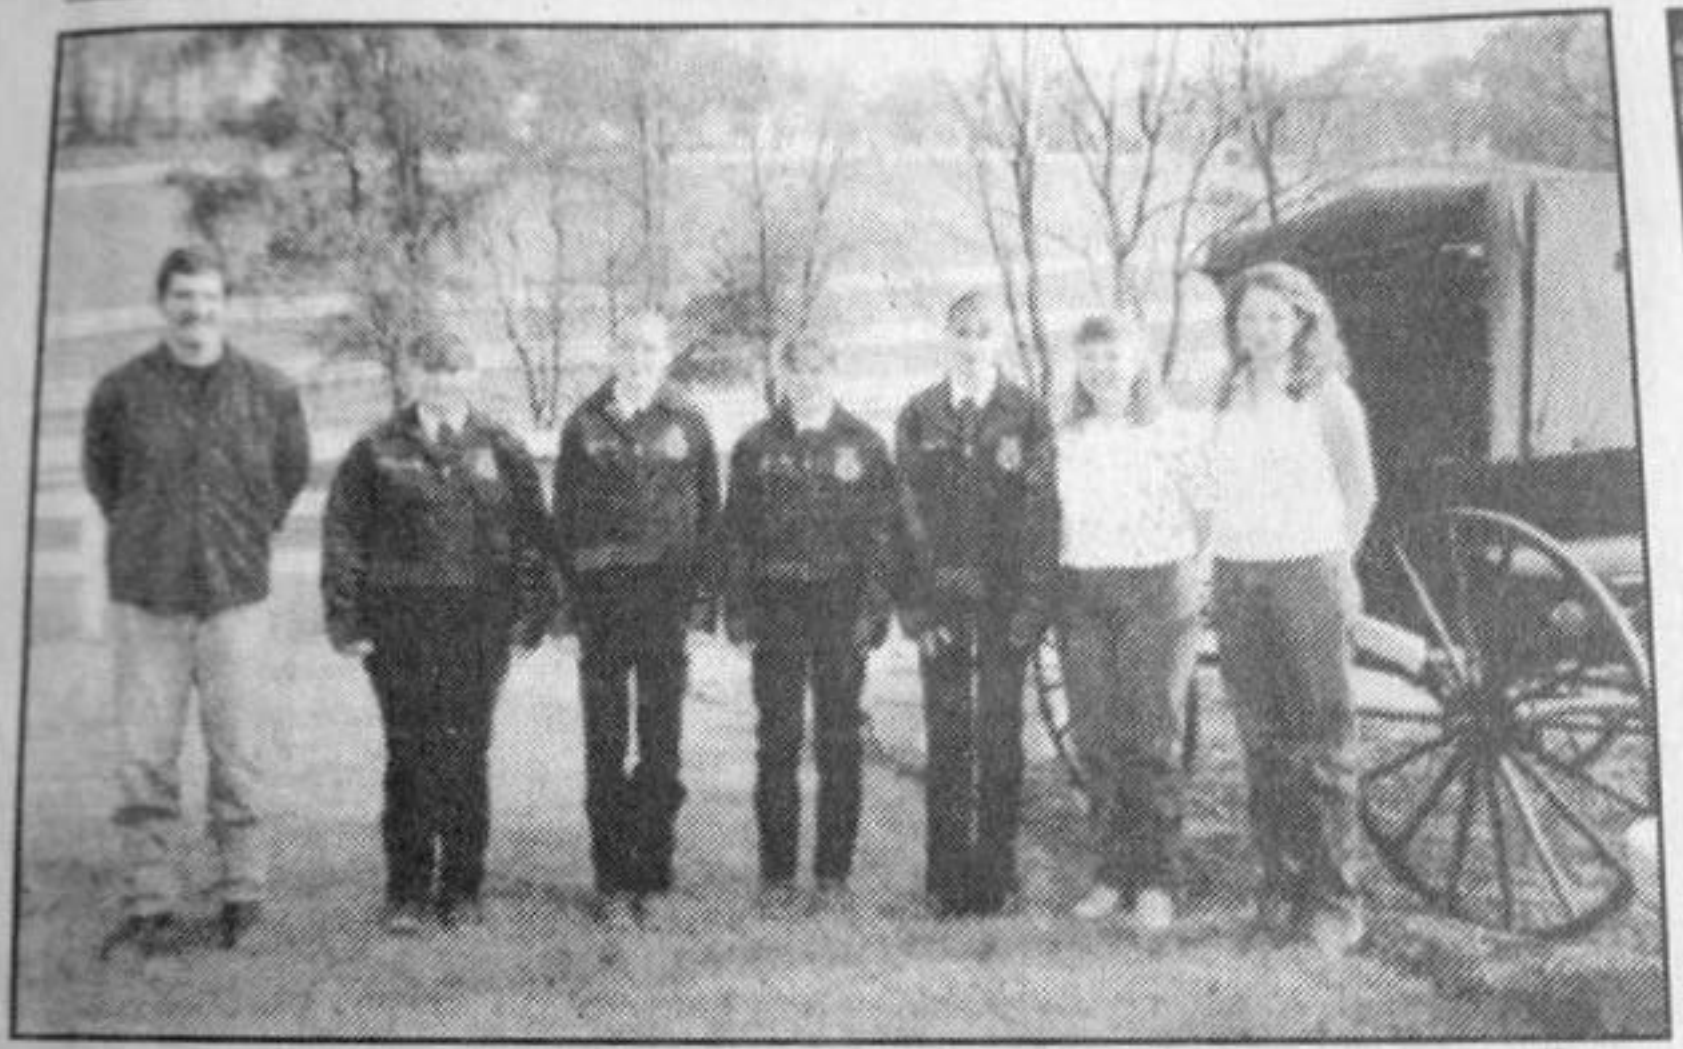
CELEBRATING 100 YEARS

FIRST CITIZENS BANK

Established 1898

Member FDIC



FFA HORSE JUDGING Team from left to right: FFA Advisor Joe Riley, Tiffany Schaffner, Shannon Foe, Rebecca Dilley, Angie Foe, Coaches Susan Davis and Terrell McSweeney.

THE POC judging te learned ab see Walki owner, Le Schaffner, Shannon

4-H JUNIOR HORSE Judging Team from left to right: Coach Terrell McSweeney, Abby Dilley, Stacy McPaters, Natasha Trainer and Susan Davis, Coach.

First annual Gardner Shoe

see Wal owner, Schaffn
Shannon

Lo
Ho

On County and the Team Judgin hosted Horses
Co correct which ers, Q Paso and Re

A Advi-cca Dil-Terrell

THE POCAHONTAS COUNTY FFA and Junior 4-H horse judging teams recently visited Cedar Farm in Alderson. They learned about Belgian Horses, Miniature horses and Tennessee Walking Horses. Pictured from l to r: Wayne Johnson, owner, Lewis McCormick, Susan Davis, Angie Foe, Tiffany Schaffner, Stacy McPaters, Rebecca Dilley, Natasha Trainer,

Dovie L. Ho

Dovie Lillian age 95, of Elkin
June 21, 2001,
had been in declin

She was bor
Faulkner, a daug
liam M. Howell
"Lilly" Brubake stepmother, the ford Howell.

On May 2
she was marrie
ers, who prece
December 11,
Slaty Fork year

She atten Bowden, had w schools, the Boarding Hous
was a housel families. She w

Schaffner, Stacy McPaters, Rebecca Dilley, Natasha Trainer, Shannon Foe and Abby Dilley.

Local teams compete in Horse Judging Contest

On June 13 the Pocahontas County FFA Horse Judging Team and the Junior 4-H Horse Judging Team competed in the state Horse Judging Contest. The contest was hosted by Seneca Way Performance Horses Inc. in Bruceton Mills.

Contestants were required to correctly place six classes of horses, which included Conformation Hunters, Quarter Horses, Percherons, Paso Finos, Hunter Under Saddle and Reining. The FFA Team placed first out of 16 teams and consisted of Tiffany Schaffner, Angie Foe, Rebecca Dilley, and Shannon Foe.

Tiffany Schaffner was first place and Shannon Foe was second place individually. The Junior 4-H team placed 11th out of 12 teams.

The FFA Team will compete on the national level this fall at the All-American Quarter Horse Congress and the National FFA Convention.

- - -

Art students recognized

ted as special or the Environentives Program vation Reserve
r the Wetland RP).

other related natural resou gible practices include manure m agement facilities, fencing livestock from streams and woodlands, providing alternate water sources if needed, converting critically eroding

/c0dindex.htm

ing pharynge on the last g arch that s nows often in the food and anima food for a

The g silvery-go to its nam be over shiners h they are down to down on quite s decurve is a dist side of lateral than st have upturn this begin

Upcoming Events

h Wednesday.

e will be held
, starting at derful caval-
, antique cars, valking units el throughout on. Parade d at the stage tic Field at 1

ies will be way 101 on
. m., admisowed by the ial at 9:15.. mation on e Day Cele-
r 445-7730.

all cations rs Profes-Show w available on of Colnsored by burg. The of Colors
h Novem-n exhibit artists,

Artists 18 years and older may submit up to three works. A $20 fee is required (covers all three).

To request an application, call 304 645-7917.

* works must be original and created within the last year. Images or very slight variations of images previously shown in Season of Color will not be accepted. Works copied from another person's painting, photograph, published image or work completed under an instructor are not eligible.

* entries must be framed and wired to hang. Works larger than 32x36 must be covered with plexiglass rather than glass. Maximum size is 40x40.

* all work accepted for the exhibit must remain on display for the duration of the show.

County Commission

From page 2

Green Bank, but would have to confer with the Board of Education, the original public owner of the land. He suggested the Society ask for a land donation. It this is not successful, Mr. Callison assured the group the Commission will consult with the Board of Education and do any needed environmental studies on the land.

It was reported that the installation of the liner on one of the ponds at the old tannery site was underway and should be completed within the week.

The liner is part of the project to complete the environmental clean-up at the site. However, the other part of the project, removing the sludge, drying it, and placing the material into the lined pond and covering it, has not been completed for yet. The initial bids for this work came in too high and will be rebid as soon as approval is received on the changes being made in the project to bring the cost down.

to the Historic Landmarks Commission for a five-year term. A request from the Landmarks Commission for a $10,000 donation was tabled for consideration when the amount of budget carry-over is known next month.

Approval was given for the employment of Lisa Workman as document imaging manager for the County Clerk's office. However, only one bid was received on the imaging system to be used to record documents and it was in excess of the estimated cost the county had received for the equipment. The bid was from Access Systems, of Charleston, and was for $32,645. The bid was tabled.

Open 7 Days a Week
24 Hours a Day
653-4994

Times

ty—The Birthplace of Riv

JUNE 21, 2001 VOL.

heavily medicated that he l the pain.
r the next two days he still pain. I did not take him this hospital because of the ings were previously han-He just lay there in pain. He ave done that at home for a money. Monday morning I ur family doctor's office to they could get him an ment with an urologist.
logist's office could not see il Wednesday at 3:00. I did t to wait this long. I took the emergency room at ier Valley. He was admitted surgery on Tuesday morn-thought that it would be a procedure, but it was not.
e urologist had examined found that he had so much from the stone that it had hole in his ureter. His s leaking into his back.
why he was having the
ain. They got the stone did not fix the hole. They oing that the hole would lf. On Wednesday he took nd ultra-sounds and it omewhat better. So on the urologist was to have t in. This was not a sim-ry either. The urologist
t get the stent up into his ecause the hole was still he urologist had to put a Mike's back and get the bring it up from the blade kidney. After about
hree hour surgery, the stent

(343-5928) is the project coordinator. I invite Mr. Smallridge, or anyone else, to call if they are interested in helping.

Ernie Nester Member Trout Unlimited
304-779-2706 seenester@ntelds.net

- - -

Dear Editor:

Must we lose the historic Cass bridge without gaining real road improvement? The people of the county need to be aware of this Department of Highways project that can damage the historic site of Cass.

The existing bridge was built in 1917 by Frank McEnteer, a West Virginia pioneer in reinforced concrete construction. It is part of the first view most tourists get of the historic lumber town, a piece of history in a place that is on the National Historic Register. The bridge remains strong. It recently carried a truck with nearly 60 tons of locomotive.

Perhaps more important, there is a growing problem with traffic movement through Cass. Rapidly increasing through traffic is a danger to families walking about in the town, where plans are afoot to develop additional interesting building restorations. Five sharp curves and a steep hill are an obstacle to growing commercial truck traffic on Route 66. For 15 years or more the Park has advocated a new bridge one-half mile down river

special evening ter, and a Meet
tion.
The schedule

6 p.m. - stre
by W. Va.
Washington St son and Lafaye
tion is Carnegi

2 p.m. - A Greenbrier Va
7 p.m. - C Workshop at 7:30 p.m.
Quintet at Ca

3 p.m. - C
Meet the M GVT
5 p.m. - A
For more 645-0105 or

Atte Ben and linton, atte their grand son Roche, see, along James and N Charlottesvi aunt, Stepha ton, Virginia from Vanderb magna cum la ence degree in Organization Vanderbilt for Pediatrics.

hole would sday he took nds and it er. So on was to have s not a sim-e urologist up into his le was still ad to put a and get the m the blad-After about y, the stent id somethhad never like this.
permanent He finally day. ce that we Memorial unexcusfor Mike's n into the
to his bed. this, how-oing more aff.
ctor's bed-be desired. here, Mike f the pain, in a very n't tell me p you."

is a growing problem with traffic movement through Cass. Rapidly increasing through traffic is a danger to families walking about in the town, where plans are afoot to develop additional interesting building restorations. Five sharp curves and a steep hill are an obstacle to growing commercial truck traffic on Route 66. For 15 years or more the Park has advocated a new bridge one-half mile down river, where a straight road and bridge would bypass the town and shorten the highway by a mile.

It appears that DOH simply saw an old bridge that might need replacement with a wider modern one. Ignoring the Park's long-standing concerns, the historic value of bridge, and consideration of traffic flow and safety, and with almost no public comment, they have planned to build a new bridge 50 feet upstream, and tear out the old one.

Historic societies have finally expressed their concern, the Park has presented its case, and now the business community that depends on trucking, as well as businesses that depend on visitors and tourism, are getting involved to convince DOH to consider the alternative route. It is unfortunate that

see, along wit
James and Nan Charlottesville aunt, Stephany ton, Virginia.
from Vanderbil magna cum laud ence degree in H Organization a Vanderbilt for Pediatrics.

pay for Mike's l him into the m into his bed.
do this, howe doing more al staff.
e doctor's bed-
to be desired.
re there, Mike se of the pain, him in a very don't tell me help you.," or would have Mike's abdoseen the hole.
er know how e leaking into

y McLaughlin Buckeye

rinted on June e complained
-Release regurk and about U). TU sup-Release propoo help protect ery that is sup-

public comment, they have p to build a new bridge 50 feet upstream, and tear out the old one.

Historic societies have finally expressed their concern, the Park has presented its case, and now the business community that depends on trucking, as well as businesses that depend on visitors and tourism, are getting involved to convince DOH to consider the alternative route. It is unfortunate that most of our citizens were not involved from the beginning. As it is, DOH faces starting over to study traffic and design a new bridge and approaches. To do something really useful at Cass, that is what they need to do. If they build a new bridge where the old one is, as planned, it will be many years before a real improvement in the roads can be considered.

George Deike
Cass

Farm Family Life & Casualty Ins. Cos.
Mosesso Insurance Ag

s pursue lied health

r. and Mrs.
ow; Susan lth science and Debra nd David

David Young

Young, a physics major, cum laude, son of Charles and Carole Young of Dunmore, were among the graduates.

The college's president, Dr. Phillip C. Stone, conferred the degrees at the May 20 ceremony before a crowd of 5,000.

nor's Hon-
ant. Know Day Partic-University
c Festival West Vir-
Award.

individualized, interdisciplinary program of study, working in close collaberation with faculty mentors.

Hampshire's national reputation for excellence rests in its distinctive, rigorous academic system, award was made a Summit Odyssey m ers and general ma

Boston, Massachuse

The owners of t Inn, a 46 room faci and Julia Elbon. M former Julia Lockr haha Springs.

To win the awa quality assurance checks into the hot and evaluates hun
The inspector is hotel professional the applicant hot within a year. Th pling of rooms ch tion, appearance, c compliance with dards.

Accidents

ing to a halt. Mr minor injuries. A him and Mr. Kell injured. Both vehi damage.

The third acciden
p.m. on the Thornw miles east of Rt. 28.
smobile driven by G Bartow, and a 19 pickup driven by a elson

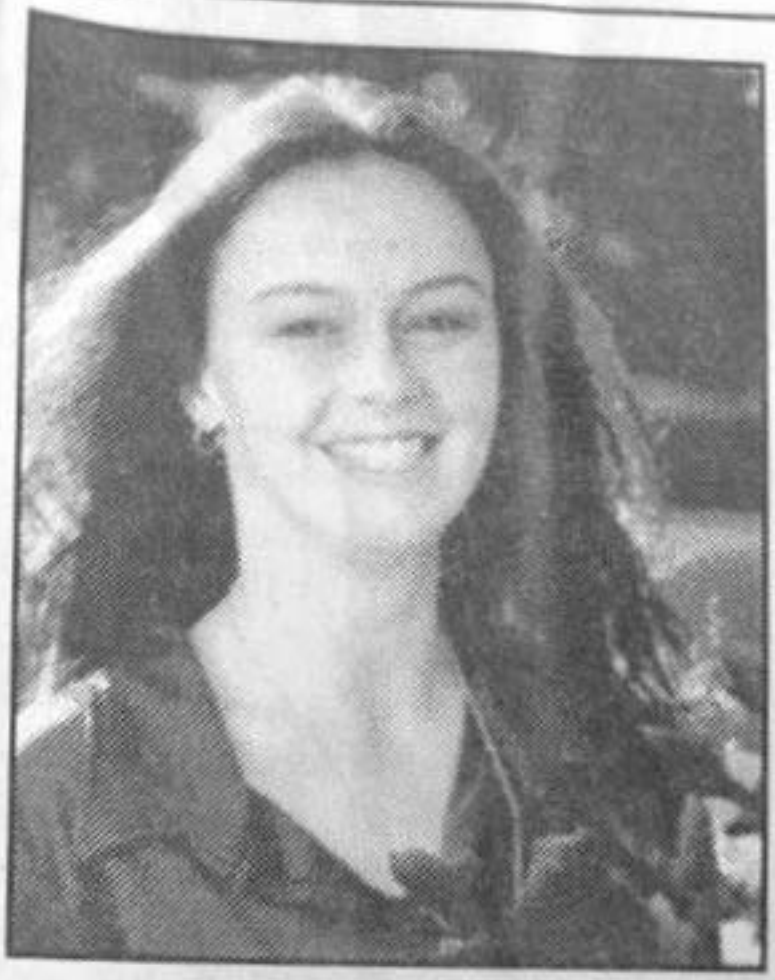
College graduates

Court Justice old Bridgewa- duates, among as County na- s finally edu- process, not a



Susan Roy

David Yo

destination. Always pursue learning."

Trevor Nelson, an allied health science major, son of Mr. and Mrs. Danny Nelson, of Bartow; Susan Roy, also an allied health science major, daughter of John and Debra Roy, of Marlinton; and David Young, a physics laude, son of Charl Young of Dunmore the graduates.

The college's pres lip C. Stone, confer at the May 20 cere crowd of 5,000.

book Staff, 2000 Governor's Honors Academy Participant, Know Your State Government Day Participant, Marshall University S.C.O.R.E.S Academic Festival First Place Sociology, West Virginia Golden Horseshoe Award.

Monica will be attending West individualized, interd gram of study, wor collaberation with fac

Hampshire's nati for excellence rests tive, rigorous acad with each student's p ured through narrativ cy honored on held on ceived the the son of acy student

Trevor Nelson

Bridgewater College announces local graduates

Virginia Supreme Court Justice Donald W. Lemons told Bridgewater College's 221 graduates, among them three Pocahontas County natives, that "nobody is finally educated. Education is a process, not a destination. A learning."

Susan

Trevor Nelson, science major, son Danny Nelson, of Roy, also an allied major, daughter of Roy, of Marlinto

book Staff, 2000 G ors Academy Par
State Governm

WEST VIRGINIA UNIVERSITY School of Pharmacy honored students at the Scholarship and Award Convocation held on April 6. Joseph Grimes, of Marlinton, right, received the NACDS Education Foundation Scholarship. He is the son of Evelyn E. Grimes and will be a second year pharmacy student at WVU this fall.

Trevor Ne

Bridgewater announces local

Virginia Supreme Donald W. Lemons t ter College's 221 gra them three Pocahont tives, that "nobody cated. Education is a

Education Foundation Scholarship. He is the son of . Grimes and will be a second year pharmacy student this fall.

them three Pocahontas C tives, that "nobody is fi cated. Education is a proc

o President's List
roce, of Marlinton, has to the President's List State College for the ester. To achieve this dent must complete the h a perfect 4.0 average minimum of 12 hours.
s to graduate in Decemouble major in Psycholminal Justice.
e daughter of Debbie Marlinton, and Mike
of Marlinton.

ahontas students were e named to the Dean's mont, which requires a r grade point average.
ad Corbett and Susan

to Dean's List
arb, of Marlinton, has d to the Dean's List at

ETHAN JOHNSON, son of Allen and Debora Johnson, of Dunmore, was graduated from Berea College in Kentucky on May 27. He majored in Business Administration and Economics and minored in Computer Science. Currently he is living in Indiana and plans to travel to Japan in August.

Walkup to attend Alderson-Broaddus College

Jessica R. Walkup, of Buckeye, will attend Alderson-Broaddus College in the fall of 2001.

Walkup is a 2000 graduate of Pocahontas County High School,

Department of th

The Secretary of th awarded the Navy and M Acheivement Medal to Systems Technician (M
Third Class Isaac R. Galf States Navy for pr achievement in the super mance of his duties as changeout crewmember, burton (FFG 40) from F March 2001. His excepti cation and technical co were directly responsible neering department's cont
cess through an inten overseas movement ma

"His efforts were instru
the emergent replacement turbine was a com
1 b

April 6. Joseph Grimes, of Marlinton, right, re NACDS Education Foundation Scholarship. He is Evelyn E. Grimes and will be a second year pharma at WVU this fall.

ETHAN JOHNSO
Allen and Debor of Dunmore, was from Berea Colleg tucky on May majored in Busine istration and Econ minored in Comp
ence. Currently h in Indiana and travel to Japan in Walkup to at Alderson-Broaddu

Jessica R. Walkup

Named to President's List

Aleisha Broce, of Marlinton, has been named to the President's List at Fairmont State College for the spring semester. To achieve this honor, a student must complete the semester with a perfect 4.0 average and carry a minimum of 12 hours. Aleisha plans to graduate in December with a double major in Psychology and Criminal Justice.

She is the daughter of Debbie Miller, of Marlinton, and Mike Broce, also of Marlinton.

Two Pocahontas students were among those named to the Dean's List at Fairmont, which requires a 3.4 or better grade point average. They are Chad Corbett and Susan Touten.

larship. He is the son of nd year pharmacy student

N JOHNSON, son of and Debora Johnson, more, was graduated Berea College in Ken-on May 27. He d in Business Admin-n and Economics and d in Computer Sci-Currently he is living liana and plans to o Japan in August.

- - -

alkup to attend
n-Broaddus College

a R. Walkup, of Buck-ated Alderson-Broaddus
the fall of 2001.
kup is a 2000 graduate of ins County High School.
e was a member of Fellow-
f Christian Athletes

tives, that "nobody is finally educated. Education is a process, not a

Department of the Navy

The Secretary of the Navy has awarded the Navy and Marine Corps Acheivement Medal to Gas Turbine Systems Technician (Mechanical) Third Class Isaac R. Galford, United States Navy for professional achievement in the superior performance of his duties as gas turbine changeout crewmember, USS Halyburton (FFG 40) from February to March 2001. His exceptional dedication and technical competence were directly responsible for engineering department's continued success through an intensive pre-overseas movement maintenance. "His efforts were instrumental in the emergent replacement of 1B gas turbine engine. He was an integral component of a small but effective team that removed, replaced and tested 1B gas generator in under six

also an allied health major, daughter of John and Roy, of Marlinton; and book Staff, 2000 Governo ors Academy Participant Your State Government Da ipant, Marshall Un

S.C.O.R.E.S Academic First Place Sociology. W
ginia Golden Horseshoe Av

Monica will be attend Virginia University in majoring in biology. She accepted into the West University Honors Progra

- - -

WVU Alumni A

A new West Virgini
ity Alumni Association A John F. Nicholas, Jr. A presented in its inaugu Paul C. Farmer, of Fa
ginia.

The award, to be annually, recognizes a
the Alumni Associatio
given outstanding servi
tributions to a local alu
The award is named i Colonel John F. Ni
Class of 1941, who p earlier this year. Colon was awarded the "
Alumnus Award" in received the "David Award" in 2000.

Mr. Farmer receive Mining Engineering
after service in the US of Engineers, he re Doctorate from George University and is a me bar for the State of Virg District of Columbia.

This Award recogni of the WVU Alum

INSON, son of ebora Johnson, was graduated College in Ken-May 27. He usiness Admin-Economics and Computer Sci-ly he is living nd plans to in August.

o attend ddus College lkup, of Buck-derson-Broaddus
of 2001.
2000 graduate of ty High School, ember of Fellowstian Athletes
om committee, Society, soccer,
nd band.
study nursing at the daughter of

to Dean's List
s, of Marlinton, he Dean's List at lege. Cathy is the a and Larry Burns.

t Joins

Department of the Navy

The Secretary of the Navy has awarded the Navy and Marine Corps Acheivement Medal to Gas Turbine Systems Technician (Mechanical) Third Class Isaac R. Galford, United States Navy for professional achievement in the superior performance of his duties as gas turbine changeout crewmember, USS Halyburton (FFG 40) from February to March 2001. His exceptional dedication and technical competence were directly responsible for engineering department's continued success through an intensive pre-overseas movement maintenance. His efforts were instrumental in the emergent replacement of 1B gas turbine engine. He was an integral component of a small but effective team that removed, replaced and tested 1B gas generator in under six days. Petty Officer Galford's exceptional professionalism and selfless devotion to duty reflected credit upon himself and upheld the highest traditions of the United States Naval Service.

Offutt graduates

Monica Offutt, daughter of Michael and Leah Offutt, of Mt. Zion, and granddaughter of Margaret B. Offutt, of Arbovale, graduated as one of three valedictorians of Calhoun County High School on June 1. She was awarded a West Virginia University Presidential Scholarship.

Paul C. Farmer, of Fai
ginia.

The award, to be annually, recognizes a
the Alumni Associatio
given outstanding servi
tributions to a local alu
The award is named
Colonel John F. Ni
Class of 1941, who earlier this year. Colo was awarded the Alumnus Award" i received the "Davi Award" in 2000.

Mr. Farmer recei Mining Engineerin after service in the
of Engineeers, he Doctorate from Geo University and is a bar for the State of District of Columbia

This Award reco
ber of the WVU Al given outstanding se tributions to the Ass a local Alumni Cha in the District of C
the founder and orga
the top college alum nation—the Nationa
Chapter Crab Feast, draws nearly 1,000

He and his wife
two sons.

Mr. Farmer, a lens, is a frequent hontas County and ton as his "second h

Times

y—The Birthplace of River

JUNE 14, 2001 VOL.119

n a mattress really nake your day?

THE GREEN BANK Elementary/Middle School Band, under the direction of Sharon Fowler, front row, third from right, completed a successful school year by receiving a rating of two at the Regional Band Festival in Elkins.

GBEMS Band participates in regional competition

Seni

Mo Beaver Lewisburg want to go Green on the pat enjoy time Tu Green Bingo. C prizes.
Cass in the big We Hillsb
ing at L will be Call Harr Marl National Beer Floa Green and play
Th Gree will mee speaker, on Medic erage.
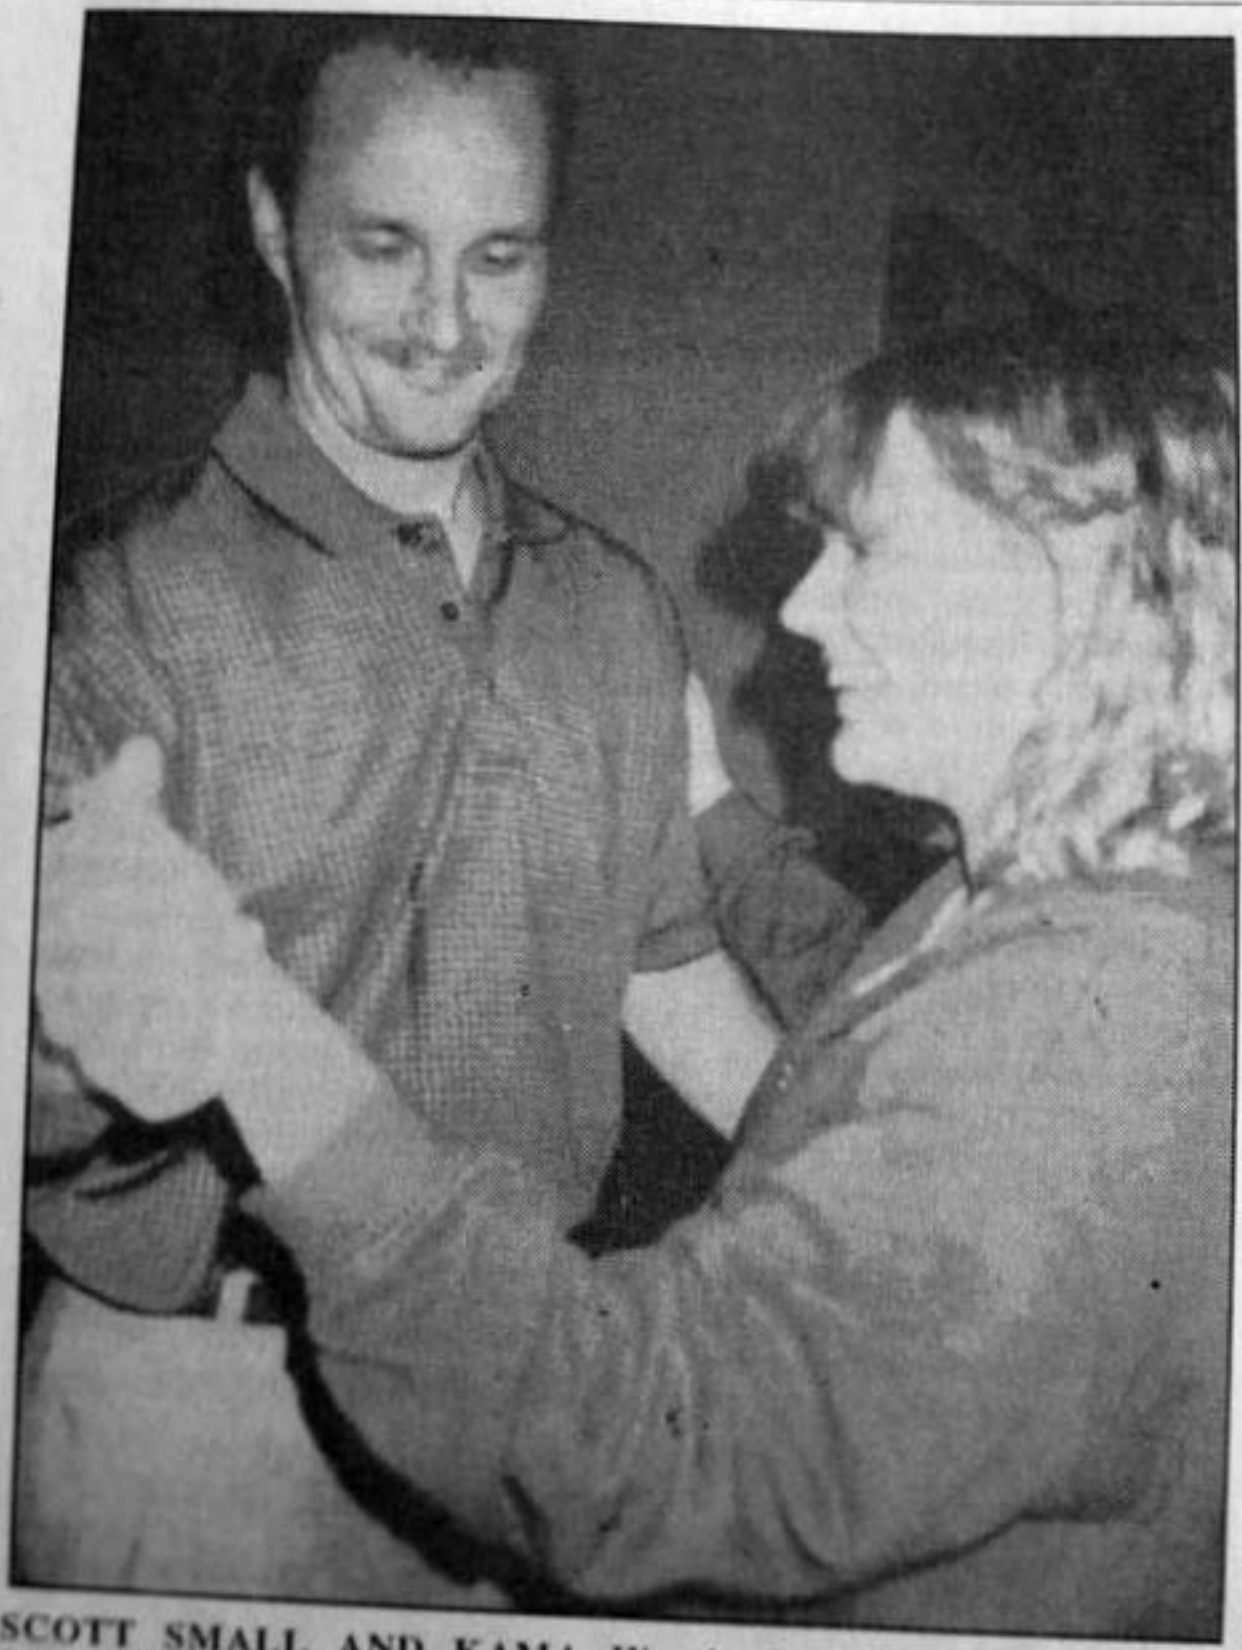
Marli
and play



SCOTT SMALL AND KAMA Weatherholt rehearse a scene from the Pocahontas County Drama Workshop's production of The Glass Menagerie. The play will be performed at the Opera House in Marlinton this Friday and Saturday, June 8 - 9, at 8 p.m. Admission is $7.00.

THE GRE front row, at the Reg

GBEM

Under th Fowler the m Bank Eleme Band have Regional Ban
High School.
our band was we received t

SCOTT SMALL AND KAMA Weatherholt rehearse from the Pocahontas County Drama Workshop's pro of The Glass Menagerie. The play will be performed Opera House in Marlinton this Friday and Saturday, J
9, at 8 p.m. Admission is $7.00.

New banners in Marlinton add a touch of beauty

by Beth Henry
Marshall Intern

The bright new banners on Marlinton's Main Street greet visitors and give the town a "friendly feel," thanks to the Marlinton Business Association.

Marlinton has never had year-round decorative banners before, so the MBA decided to buy banners for every season to improve downtown's appearance.

The summer banners display colorful flowers from many lamp posts, but the MBA hopes to eventually purchase enough for all of them.

Evening at Arts winner announced

Following are the winn
the Marlinton Woman' Evening with the Arts - A test:

Collage: 1st, Stacy T
2nd, Serena Shaw

Scratch Board: 1st, Nico
ers

Art I, Graphite: 1st, Walkup, 2nd, Emily Poore
Ben Morton

Art I, Painting: 1st, Poore, 2nd, Deitra Totten,
Emily Poore

Art I, Color Pencil: 1st, E Poore

Advanced Art, Graphite:
Ben Goehner, 2nd, Eli Sharp, Brandy Wooddell

Advanced Art, Color Pen
1st, Cole Mahaffey, 2nd, Matth
Bond, 3rd, Jesse Burns

Advanced Art, Painti
Oil/Acrylic: 1st, Serena Sha
2nd, Nicole Sauers, 3rd, James Hendrick

Advanced Art, Water Colo
1st, Stacy Tallman, 2nd, Seren
Shaw, 3rd, Nicole Sauers

Beginning Ceramics, Hand Building: 1st, Christina Holstine, 2nd, Emily Poore, 3rd, K. C. Lowe

linton's Main Street greet visitors and give the town a "friendly feel," thanks to the Marlinton Business Association.

Marlinton has never had year-round decorative banners before, so the MBA decided to buy banners for every season to improve downtown's appearance.

The summer banners display colorful flowers from many lamp posts, but the MBA hopes to eventually purchase enough for all of them.

Each banner costs $48.50. The MBA received a grant, which helped with the cost. Some of that money will also pay for more beautification projects such as new light globes and entrance signs.

"We just wanted to make the town look better," MBA member Loretta Malcomb said. She also thanked the Marlinton Woman's Club for "doing a great job with the beautiful planters and flowers."

"We were hoping more businesses would get involved and buy more banners," Malcomb said.

Gail Lowry, Executive Director of the Pocahontas County Visitor's Bureau, praised the banners and the efforts to improve Marlinton.

"I think the visitor's will like it; it gives the town a friendly feel.... It makes it seem like we're expecting company," she said.

For more information about purchasing a banner for Main Street, contact Malcomb at 799-7127.

Bond, 3rd, Jesse Burns

Advanced Art, Oil/Acrylic: 1st, Sere 2nd, Nicole Sauers, 3rd, Hendrick

Advanced Art, Wat 1st, Stacy Tallman, 2n Shaw, 3rd, Nicole Sauers

Beginning Ceramic Building: 1st, Christina 2nd, Emily Poore, 3rd, K.

Beginning Ceramics Thrown: 1st, Ben Mor Ben Goehner, 3rd, Laura W

Advanced Ceramics Thrown: 1st, Brandy Woo

Diana Nelson is P teacher; she and all of her participated in the show enjoyment of all those wh ed.

Back Allegheny Ass
Rodney Gardner, Professional Boundary, Topographic, Con Surveys
HCR 89 Box 29 Durbin, W
Local 456-4089 • 1-800-

Farm Family Life & Casualt Mosesso Insurance
Greg & Cathy Mosess
926 10th Aven
Marlinton • (304) 7

William McNeel Browning, Jr., D.O.
Family Practice Physician
HILLSBORO

Open Wedding Ceremony

Steve and Jane Jones, of Fairlea, and Gloria Hill, of Marlinton, would like to announce the marriage of their daughter, Marlene Jones, to Dennis Workman, son of Donald and Dessie Workman, of Frankford.

Marlene's paternal grandparents are Sylvia Workman, of Quinwood, and the late Richard Jones and Pat Workman.

Her maternal grandparents are Temp Hill, of Marlinton, and the late Virginia Hill and Margaret Hill, and Emmette Biggs of Marlinton and the late Opal Biggs.

Dennis's paternal grandparents are Bertha Workman, of Frankford, and the late Anzil Workman. His maternal grandparents are the late Lacy Alford and Martha Loudermilk, of Frankford.

The open wedding ceremony is planned for Saturday, July 14, 2001, at 2 p.m. at the home of the groom's parents on Vago Road in Frankford. All family and friends are invited to attend.

June 11-15

Monday: Hoagie on bun w/t works, potato chips, macaroni sala homemade dessert, milk.

Tuesday: Liver & onions, harvar beets, greens, fruit cobbler, ww bread, milk.

Wednesday: Turkey pot pie tossed salad, fruited gelatin, milk.

Thursday: Swiss steak w/grille peppers & onions, whippe potatoes, mixed vegetables, appl crisp, ww roll, milk.

Friday: Northern beans w/ham hash browned potatoes, stewe tomatoes, Birthday cake, milk.

At a Time Like this, It's an Agent Who knows Y

We're in your neighborhood — th us. Offering individual solutions to your policy. Call me... Stop by...

Marlinton
NEAL KELLISON
221 8th Street
799-4530

Nationwide Mutual Home Office:

ONE STOP SHOP

KEL

TITLES FOR BOATS • C

9:00 - 4:
Saturday
221 8th St. •

more is required weight, speed hicles. Roads vith all reasonven volume of s when traffic n number and of loads.
rst began to there was a ved road bee and Mont-ainful bottleremedied by f houses and river. I hear ver Kanawha

s the need of . Local con-are pressing the tourist etting to be This comes mproved. It olume where facilities are k has gone mp sites, and eal money in rated tourist to hear more per develop-

FIELD NOTES

At the farm home of Mrs. Sarah Alderman, near Neola, on Anthony's Creek, a disturbance was heard among the chickens one morning last week. A red fox had come from the nearby forest, caught a hen and started away with it. Then the little bantam rooster took over the situation. Flying at the fox the game little fowl beat him with wings, picked him with beak and clawed with spurs. In self protection, the fox opened his mouth to bite his tormentor and so dropped the hen. By then the family was out to witness proceedings and the fox made off. The little red rooster crowed and spurred around and strutted his stuff generally. The hen had not been hurt to amount to anything.

- - -

Randall Sharp killed a young groundhog on his farm on Browns Creek. The unusual was that his cutter teeth had grown beyond all reason, and the end from starvation

Package at

1-Regular: 1 chicken breasts, 1 loin beef tips, 1
smokies, Holly Ri
bury German choc Pillsbury coconut potatoes, onions,
and vegetables.

2 - 4th of Jul pounds IQF split c 1/2 pounds chicke
1/2 pounds chick pounds chicken pound chicken b pound chicken bre

3 - Steak pack
T-bone steaks.

The price fo
$15 in food sta
cash.

The deadlin
11. Pick-up is 1 on June 23. Chec payable to Share are accepted, but in the Community the deadline.

Martin V. Saffe
Attorney At Law
820 10th Avenue
Marlinton, WV 24954
Office
Residenc

as goal setting, planning, izing, controlling, project gement, scheduling, prioritiz- dgeting, advertising, market- ublic relations, selling, sing and running productive ts.

an is the son of Allen and Johnson.

Clark graduates Hampshire College

abeth M. Clark, daughter and Marilyn Clark, of , was graduated from e College on May 19.

's senior thesis, which re calls a "Division III" as entitled "Media Liter- dolescent Girls: Curricu- lopment and Implementa-

---

mbert graduates ry training course

Spec. James T. Lambert ted from the rough terrain ialist advanced individual AIT) course at Fort Eu- ort News, Virginia.

the course, the soldier re- tructions in terminal op- fety, rigging and stowage winch operations, and re- curing, and discharging d heavy lifts for rough rations.

nt learned to check, tal- ment cargo using manu- mated data processing g, load and unload sup- equipment from ships, hes, railheads, boxcars, , motor vehicles and air- perate maintain and han- s and sizes of rough ter- forklifts and containers.

e son of Marilyn D. Barlow, and is a 1992 f Pocahontas County .

1997 graduate of Pocahontas County High School.

Nelson named PCSC Employee of the Quarter

Pocahontas County Senior Citizens, Inc., recognizes an employee each quarter who goes above and beyond their duties to provide for the Seniors of our county.

Shirley Nelson has been selected as the employee for April, May and June. Shirley has been working for Senior Citizens for nine years. She works for PCSC in the Health Services Department.

Shirley has four clients and covers the Durbin and Bartow areas. She stays very busy making sure that her clients get the best personal care. She is always willing to help out when the agency needs substitutions.

Shirley lives in Durbin, with her son, Mikey. She likes to go for walks, play ball and watch television with her son and also enjoys talking with her friends and family. She really enjoys taking care of the elderly people in her community.

Graduate

On May 12, William G. Perkins was graduated cum laude from West Virginia University at Parkersburg

Brown named to Dean's List

Daffney M. Brown, an elementary education major from Marlinton, was named to the Dean's List for the spring semester at Alderson-Broaddus College in Philippi. She is the daughter of Cheryl Dean and Kineth Brown.

Named to Honor Lists at WVU

Michael J. Lacasse, of Green Bank, and Jaclyn N. Vaughn, of Buckeye, were both named to the President's List for the spring semester at West Virginia University. To make the President's list, a student must earn a perfect 4.0 grade point average.

David M. Simmons, of Hillsboro, was named to the Dean's list by making the required 3.5 or above grade point average.

Lacasse is computer engineering major, Simmons an accounting major, and Vaughn a major in theater.

Joel Johnson named to Dean's List

Joel Johnson, son of Allen and Debora Johnson, of Dunmore, was named to the Dean's List at Berea College for the fall 2000 term.

To be eligible, a student must maintain a 3.2 average and earn grades of B or better in at least four full-credit courses, the equivalent of 16 semester hours.

Berea is a non-denominational, liberal arts college that offers

FREE Childb Prepar

Two PCHS chers Going to Russia n March 6, two of our teach-

. Denise McNeel and Mrs.
Friel, were informed that ere selected to participate in mmer FACDIS (The West a Consortium for Faculty arse Development in Interna-tudies) 2001 Summer Insti-Teachers: Comparing the ussia to the Old Russia.
two-week study/travel tour
a. The trip dates are July 7 July 21 and they will tour and St. Petersburg on the ip M/S Litvinov.

---

nson attends SAM ahontas High School gradun Johnson, of Dunmore, a Berea College, recently the Society for Advance-Management (SAM)

neeting in Las Vegas,

a, Berea College's SAM
ident, won the National onal SAM Outstanding Award. Berea's SAM s a working model of a ess organization, offering
-on experience that help levelop a wide range of l and leadership skills goal setting, planning,
, controlling, project nt, scheduling, prioritizing, advertising, market-ic relations, selling, and running productive

is the son of Allen and nson.

---

rk graduates

Nelson graduates from Bridgewater College

Trevor Ryan Nelson graduated May 20 with the Bridgewater College Class of 2001 in Bridgewater, Virginia, earning a Bachelor of Science degree. During his senior year, he completed an internship as the strength and conditioning coach for the Eagles Sports Programs. He is employed at the RMH Wellness Center, a division of Rockingham Memorial Hospital, as a Fitness Instructor and resides in Harrisonburg, Virginia.

Trevor is the son of Danny and Doris Nelson, of Bartow, and the grandson of June and Kathleen Colaw, of Durbin, and the late Dennis and Virginia Nelson. Trevor is a 1997 graduate of Pocahontas County High School.

with an Associate Degree of Applied Science in Welding Technologies.

While at WVU at Parkersburg, Perkins was on the Dean's List five out of six semesters and was nominated to the 24th annual addition of the National Dean's List, 2000-01, a publication honoring American college students. He was also listed in Who's Who's Among Students in American Junior Colleges.

Perkins is the son of May Perkins and Darren Seldomridge, of Cass. He is a 1998 graduate of Pocahontas County High School

---

Pocahontas students graduate from Shepherd

Four Pocahontas County students were among the graduates at Shepherd College's 128th commencement, which took place this past Saturday.

James McNeel received his BA degree, Alison Sharpes a BS degree, Stacy Sharpes her BS degree summa cum laude, and Seth Shinaberry received a BA degree cum laude and a BS degree. Stacy Sharpes was also named a Joseph McMurran Scholar for maintaining a grade point average of 3.7 or higher.

Brown named to Dean's List

Daffney M. Brown, an elementary education major from Marlinton, was named to the Dean's List for the spring semester at Alderson-Broaddus College in Philippi. She is the daughter of Cheryl Dean and Kineth Brown.

Named to Honor Lists at WVU

SCOTT SMALL from the Pocaho of The Glass Men Opera House in 9, at 8 p.m. Ad

Havilland participates in Horse Show

Lisa Rose Havilland participated in the National Finals of the Intercollegiate Horse Show Association, which were held May 3-6 in Atlanta, Georgia. She qualified for the national competition by placing first in the Individual Walk-Trot-Canter class at the Zone 3 finals, which were held in Connecticut on April 7. Zone 3 covers the northeast part of the United States and consists of 53 colleges.

Lisa attends Wilson College in Chambersburg, Pennsylvania, and is majoring in equestrian studies.

She is the granddaughter of Melvin Rose, formerly of Hillsboro, and Helen Rose, of Clarksville, Maryland.

County natives receive Distinguished Alumni Awards

Pocahontas County natives were the recipients of two of the four Distinguished Alumni Awards presented by the West Virginia University Agriculture, Forestry and

Two PCHS Teachers Going to Rus

On March 6, two of our te ers, Dr. Denise McNeel and Karen Friel, were informed they were selected to participa
the Summer FACDIS (The Virginia Consortium for Fa and Course Development in Int tional Studies) 2001 Summer tute for Teachers: Comparing New Russia to the Old Ru
This is a two-week study/trave in Russia. The trip dates are J through July 21 and they will Moscow and St. Petersburg o cruise ship M/S Litvinov.

Johnson attends SAM

Pocahontas High School g ate Ethan Johnson, of Dunmo senior at Berea College, rec attended the Society for Adv ment of Management (S annual meeting in Las V Nevada.

Ethan, Berea College's Club President, won the Nat and Regional SAM Outstan Student Award. Berea's
Chapter is a working model real business organization, off real hands-on experience that students develop a wide rang managerial and leadership such as goal setting, plann organizing, controlling, pr management, scheduling, prio ing, budgeting, advertising, ma ing, public relations, sell fundraising and running produ meetings.

Ethan is the son of Allen Debora Johnson.

Clark graduates from Hampshire Colleg

Elizabeth

ever. Brown struck hird, fifth and sixth e game. Final score on strikes ses one hitter n Red Sox played sboro Braves on t Stillwell Park. struck out thirute to an 8-5 win Williamson struck

ts

he year with a 10th. finished 14th in
of 8:56.
dle team placed ith a time of

x800 team fin-x400 relay team
e. rolet provided e team to travel

Former resident of Cass attends private barbecue with President George W. Bush

Michael Thomas, formerly of Cass, and his wife Samantha, were among approximately 100 guests to attend the barbecue at President Bush's private ranch in Crawford, Texas.

Michael and Samantha, who now reside in Belton, Texas, with their two children, Hailey Nicole (4) and Ryan Austin Michael (2). Michael is the lead technician for Stroud Security System based in Waco, Texas. As the lead tech, he was responsible for installing and maintaining the security systems in all the buildings on the "Prairie Chapel Ranch." These buildings include the secret service agents home, the security Command Post, and the White House communications team. He works hand-in-hand with the agents to maintain physical security throughout the ranch.

Michael is the son of Billy and Brenda Thomas, of Cass, and the grandson of James and Audrey Jones, of Alderson. He graduated from PCHS in 1992. After graduation he enlisted into the U.S. Army and was stationed at Ft. Hood, Texas. He served four years before getting out in 1997. His last year in the military was spent serving on a 19-man E.O.D. (Explosive Ordnance Disposal) team. As a member of this team he was responsible for the rendering safe of unexploded ordnance. On several occasions after Michael was out of the military he worked with the ATF out of Dallas/Ft. Worth and several other private bomb squads.

JOHNSTON EQUIPMENT
Berlin Road • Weston, WV
WV 1-800-427-4155
304-269-5155
NEW KIOTI TRACTORS IN STOCK
3050 John Deere, 95 HP, 4WD, Cab, AC $19,900
3930 Ford, 45 HP, 4WD, Nice One! $16,500
2810 Ford, 38 HP, 4WD $11,500
2155 John Deere, 45 HP, Diesel $9,750
1050 John Deere, 37 HP, 4 WD $9,000
3020 John Deere, 70 HP, Nice! $8,500
5000 Ford, 60 HP, Diesel $7,900
4600 Ford, Super Utility, 52 HP, Diesel $7,500
4100 Ford, 45 HP, Diesel $6,900
3000 Ford, 42 HP, Diesel $5,900
TL-2300 DZ39KL 21 HP, 4WD $5,750
YM-240D Yanmar, 24 HP, Diesel 4WD $4,950
1006 Deere, 32 HP, Diesel $3,950
2000 Ford, 38 HP, Diesel $3,950
[illegible] John Deere Square Baler $3,900
35 Massey Ferguson, 35 HP, Gas $3,600
Jubilee Ford, 32 HP, Gas $3,500
10-20 Ferguson, 25 HP, Gas $2,900
New Holland Square Balers $1,900 $2,500
Monday-Friday 9-5 • Saturday by appointment • Closed Sunday
Complete Line of Service & Parts Inventory
We Have Round Balers from $3,000 to $8,500
New Lely & Vicon Disc Mowers in Stock

JEB Quality Homes
Blow Out Specials on all 2000 Model Homes in stock
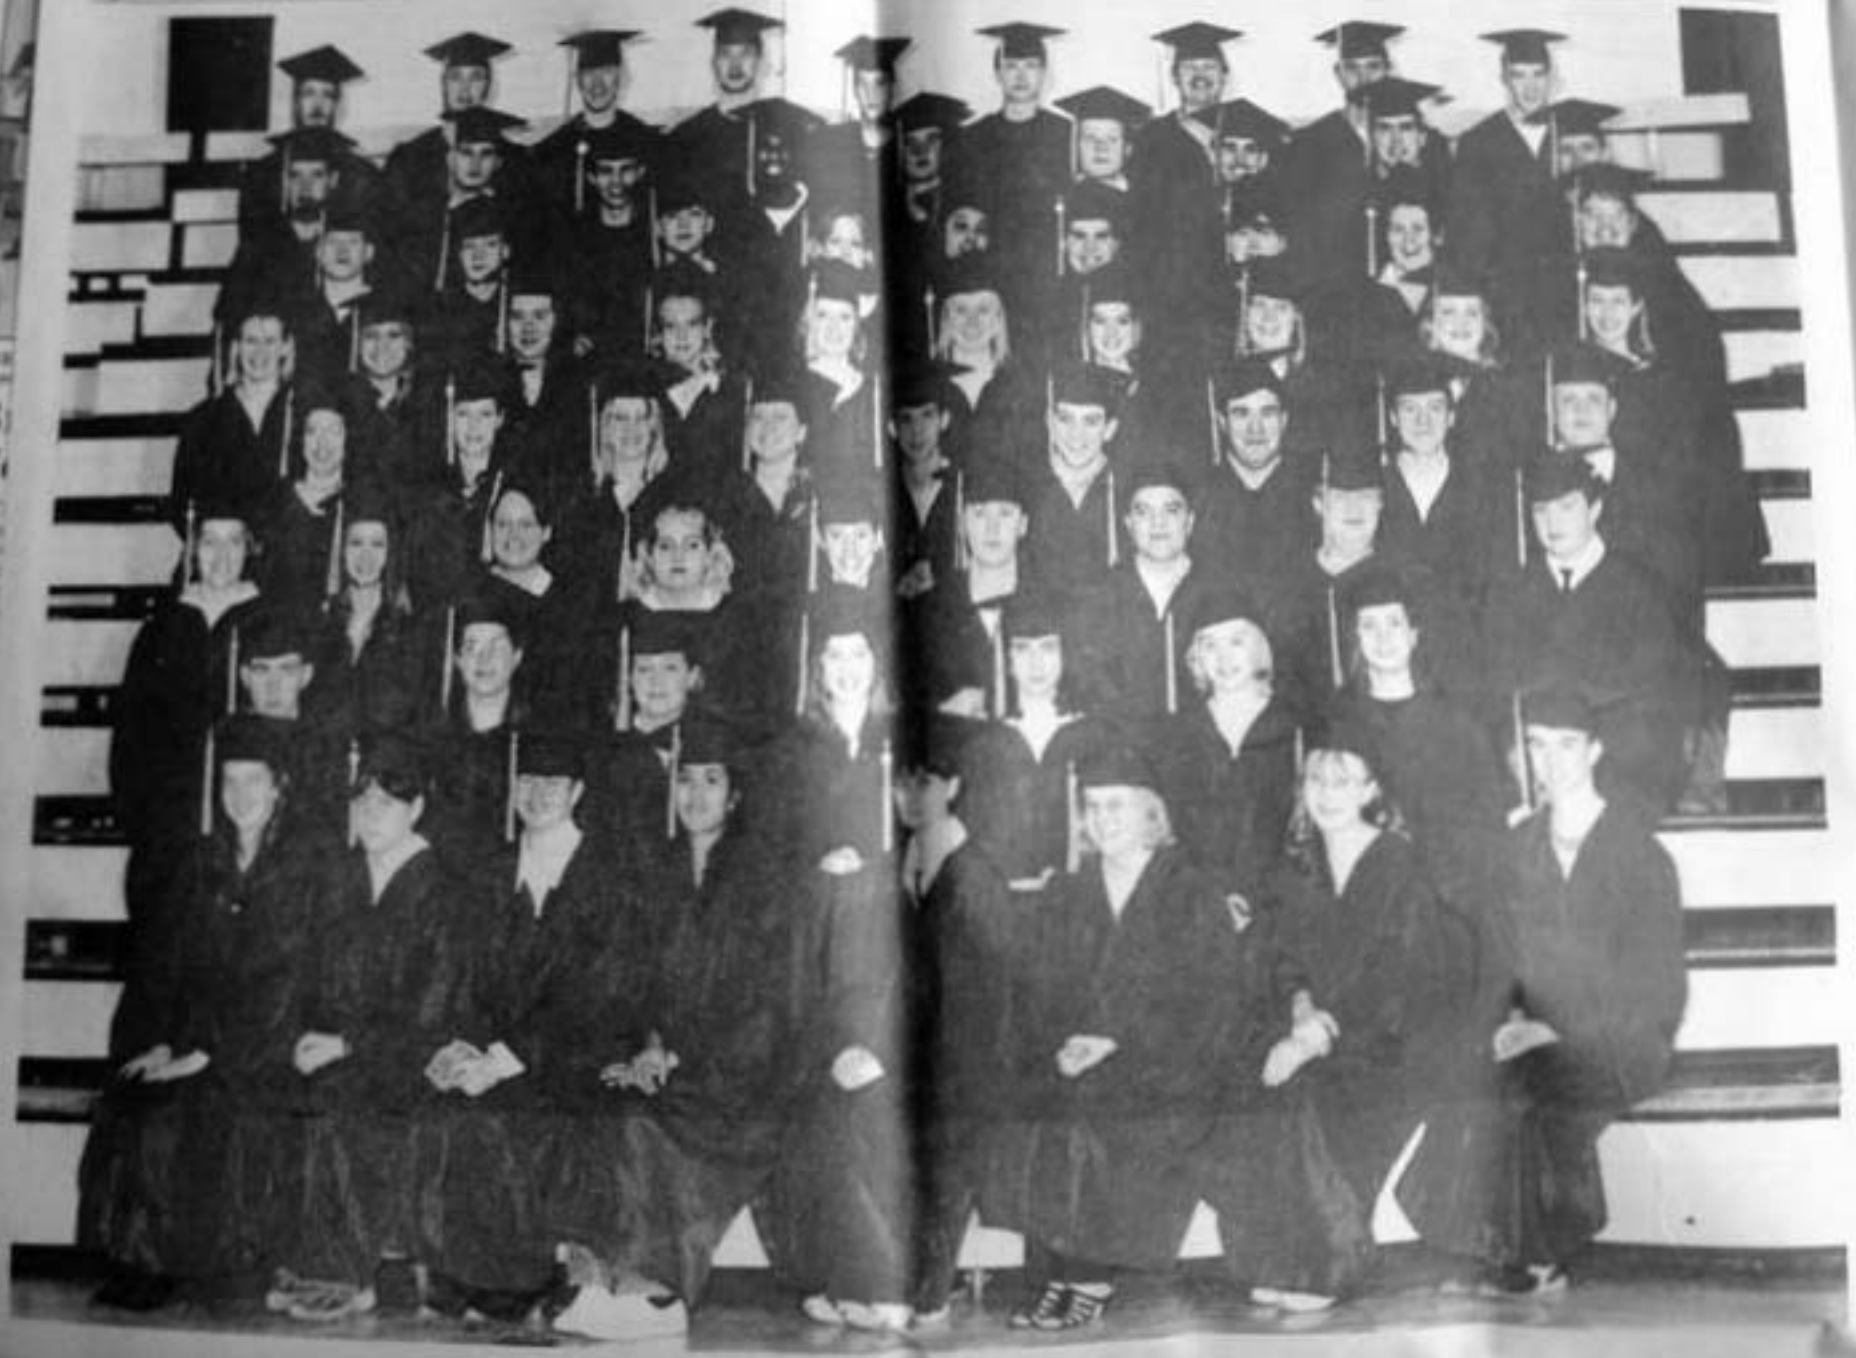
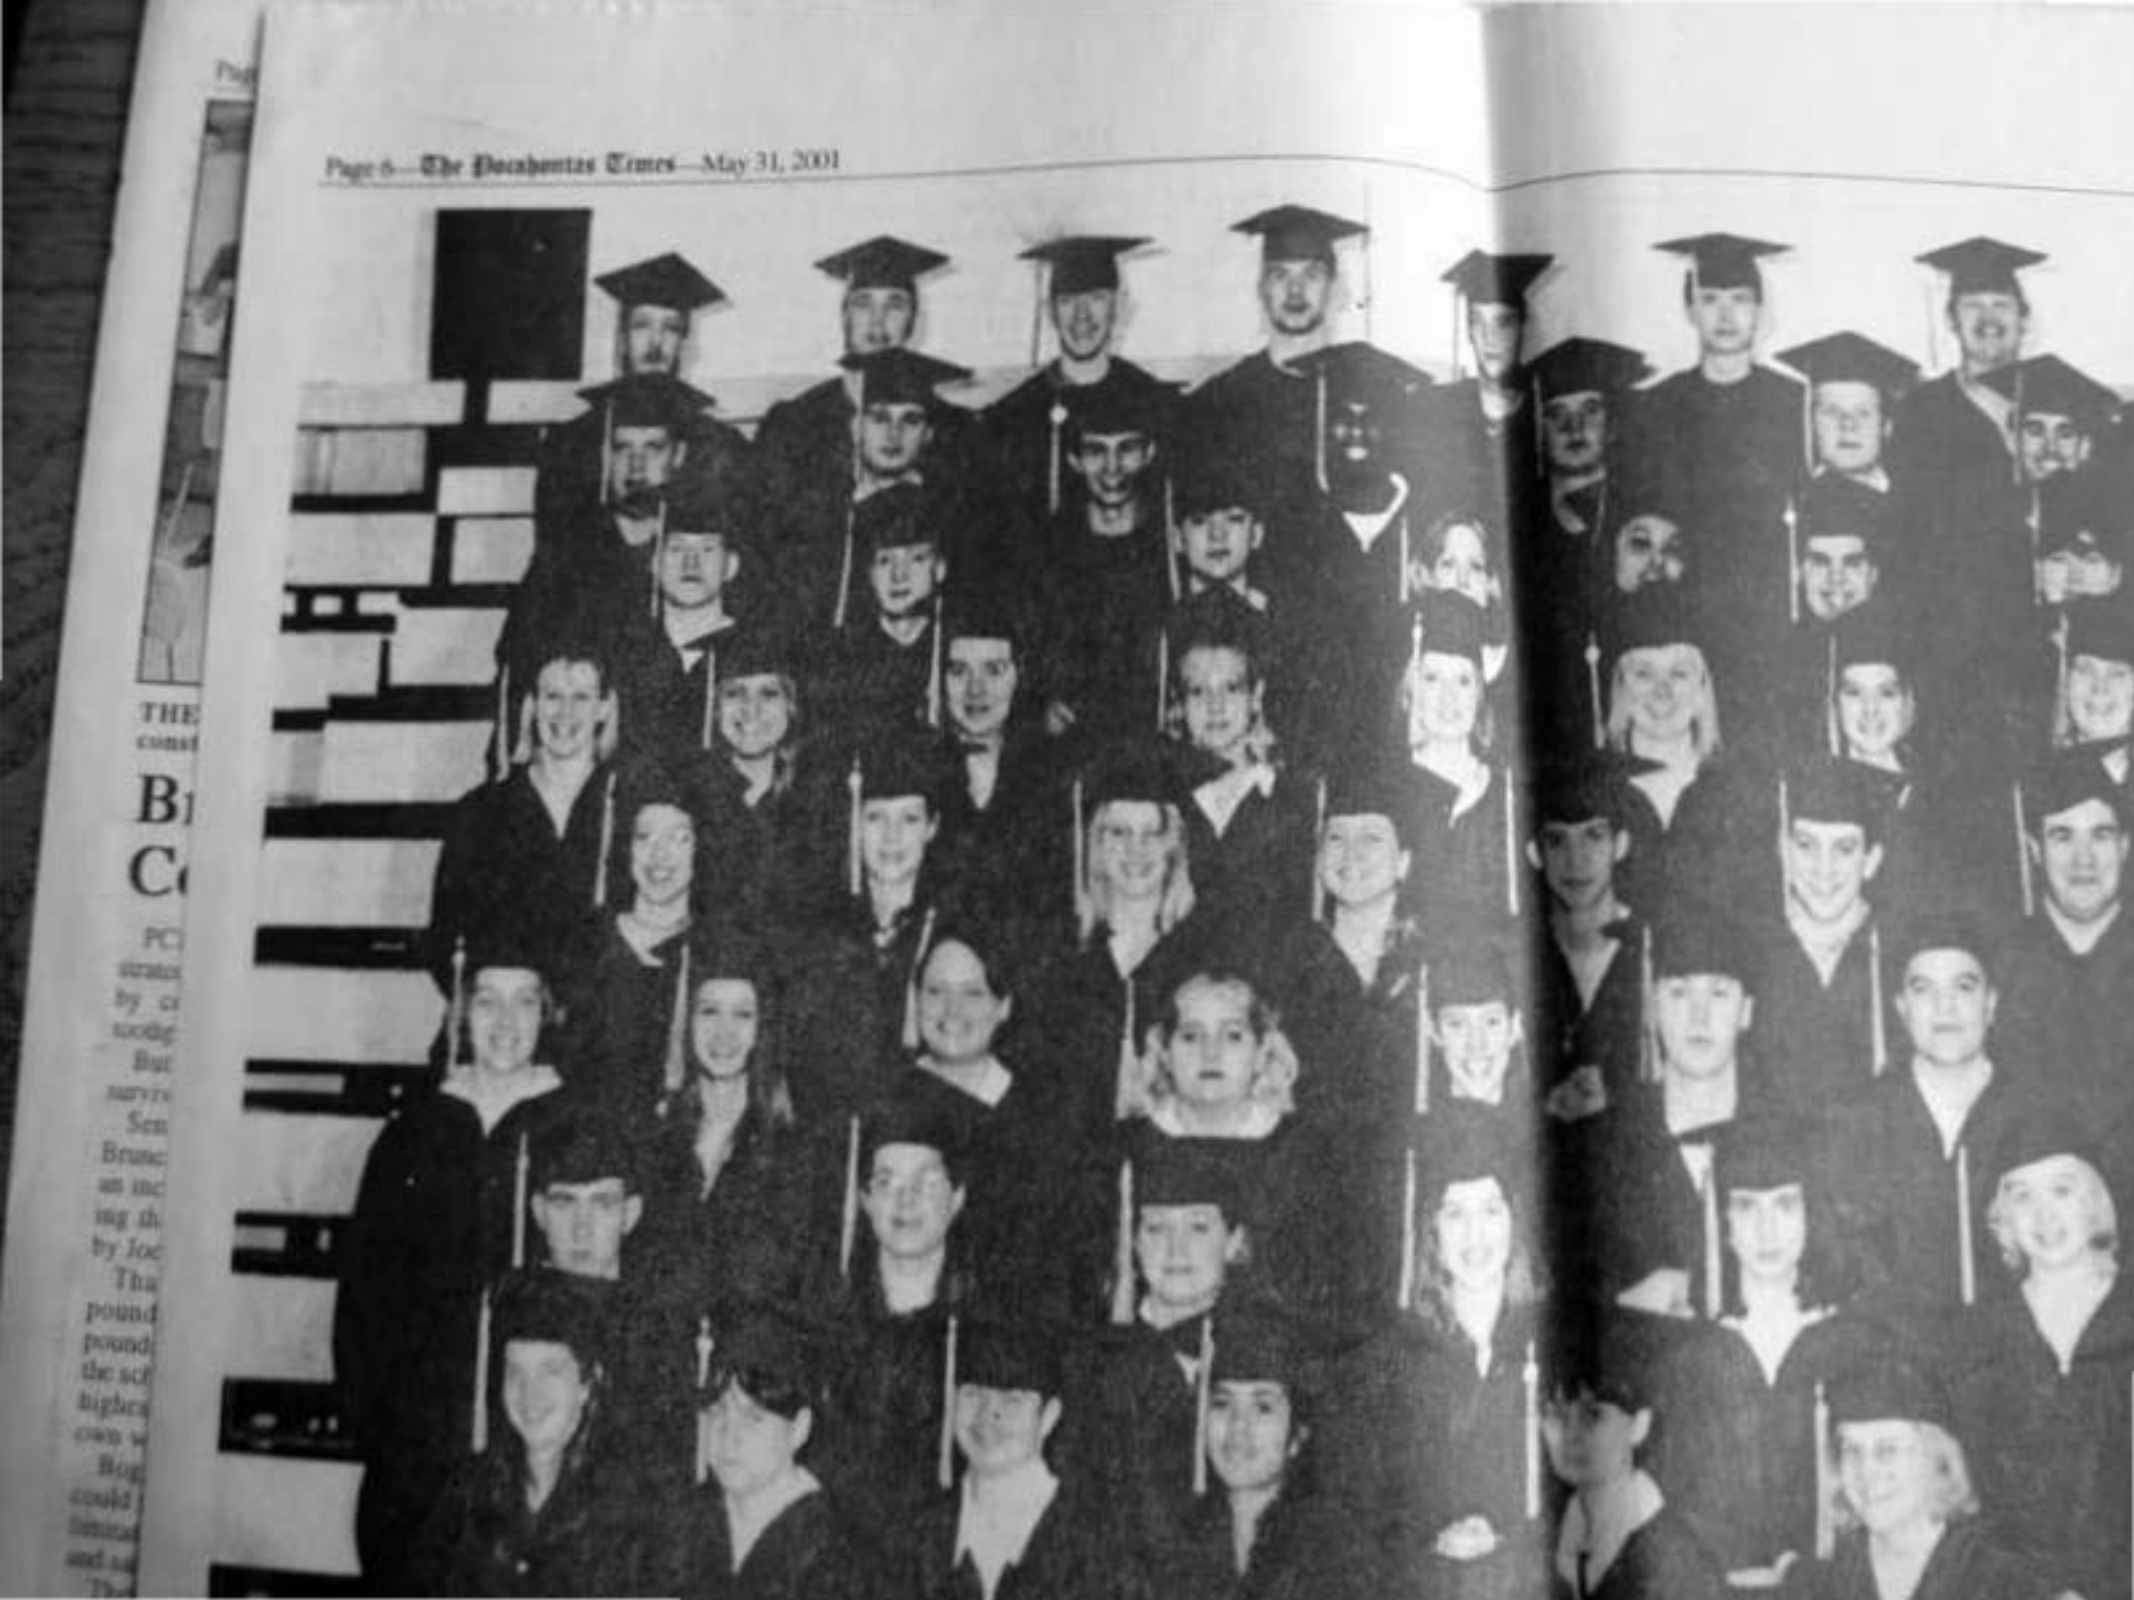
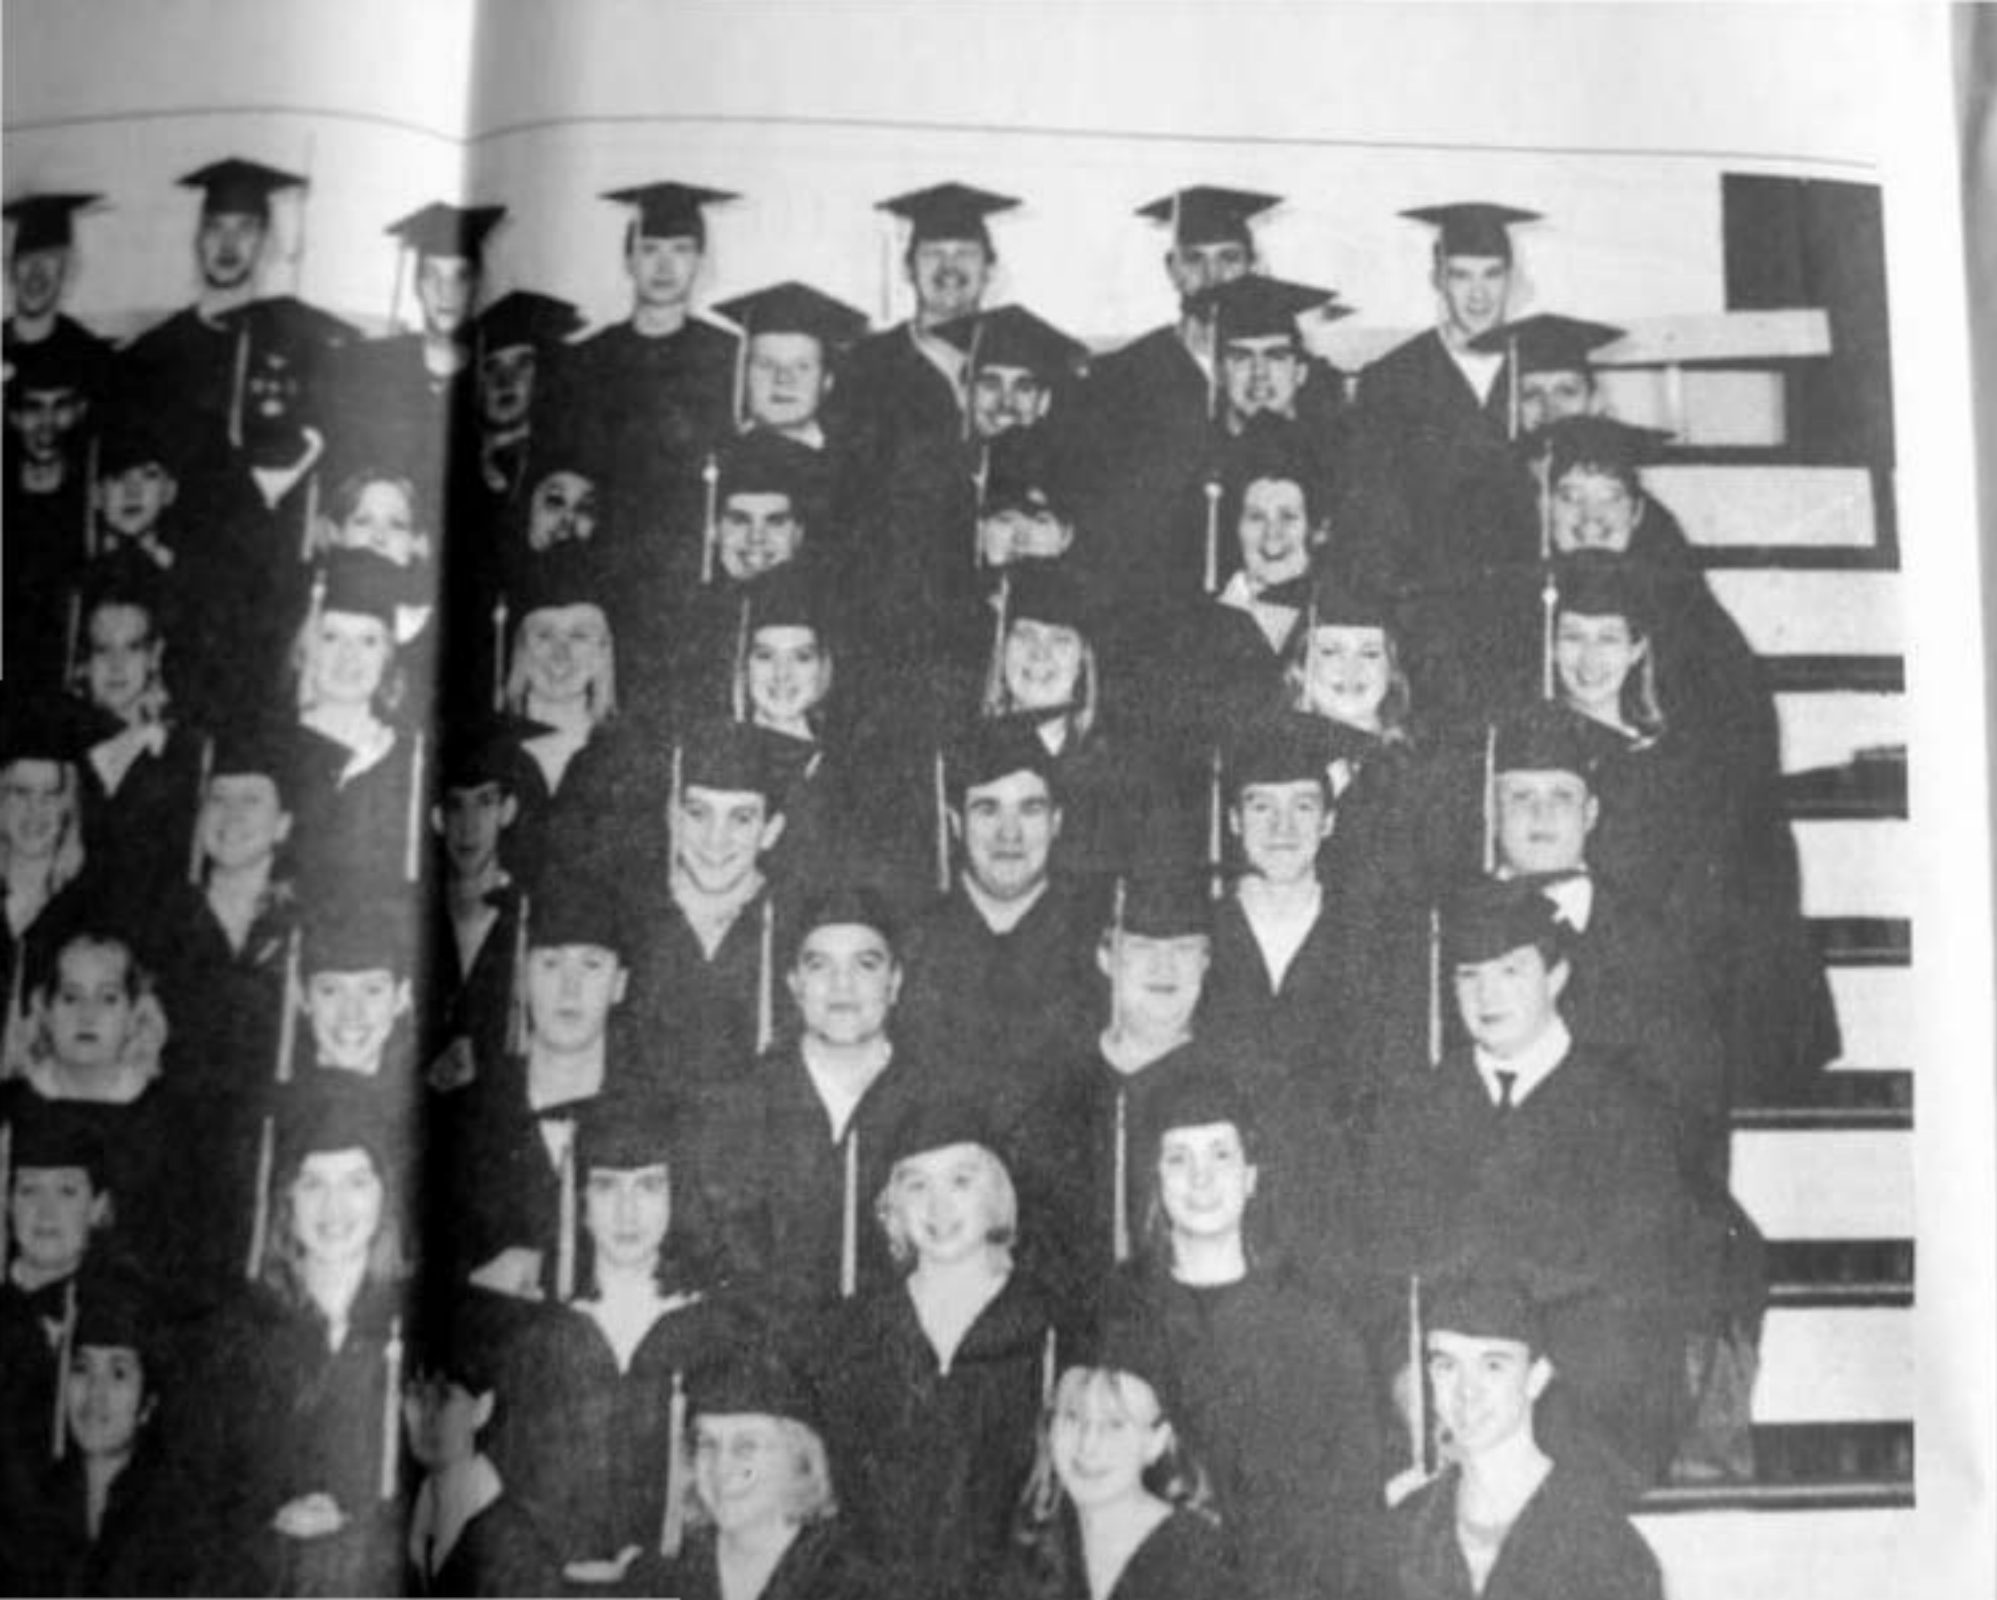
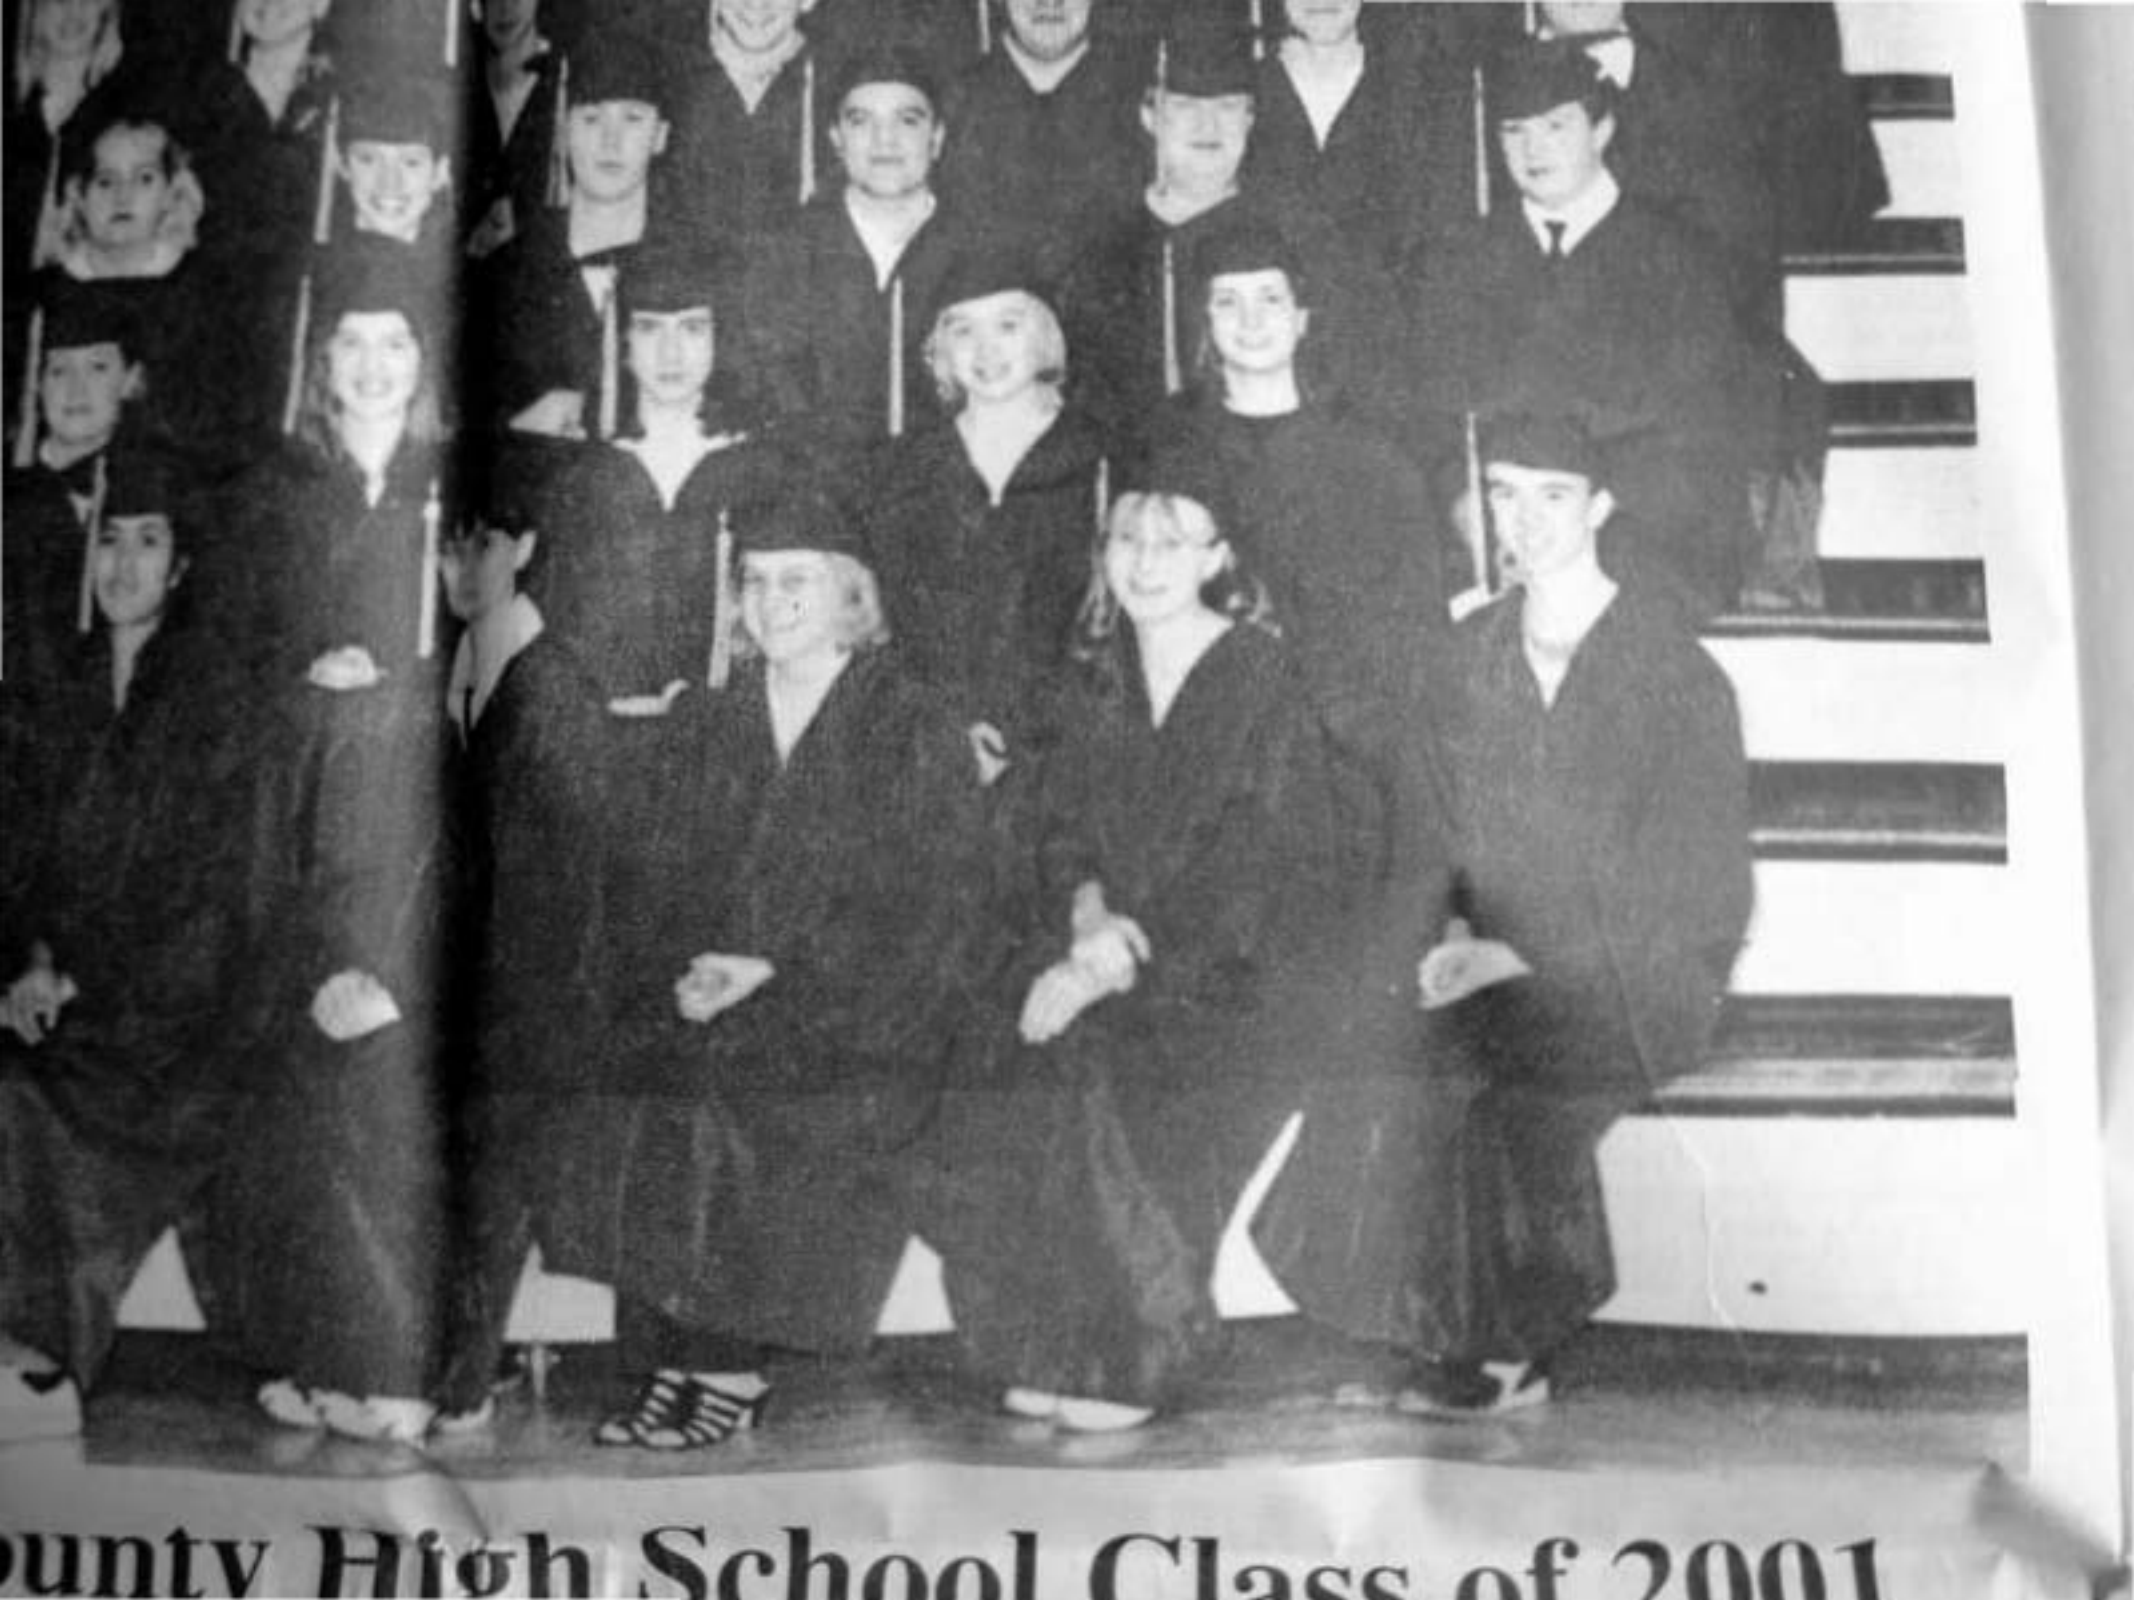
No payment for 90 days to qualified buyers
Rt. 219 N., Lewisburg



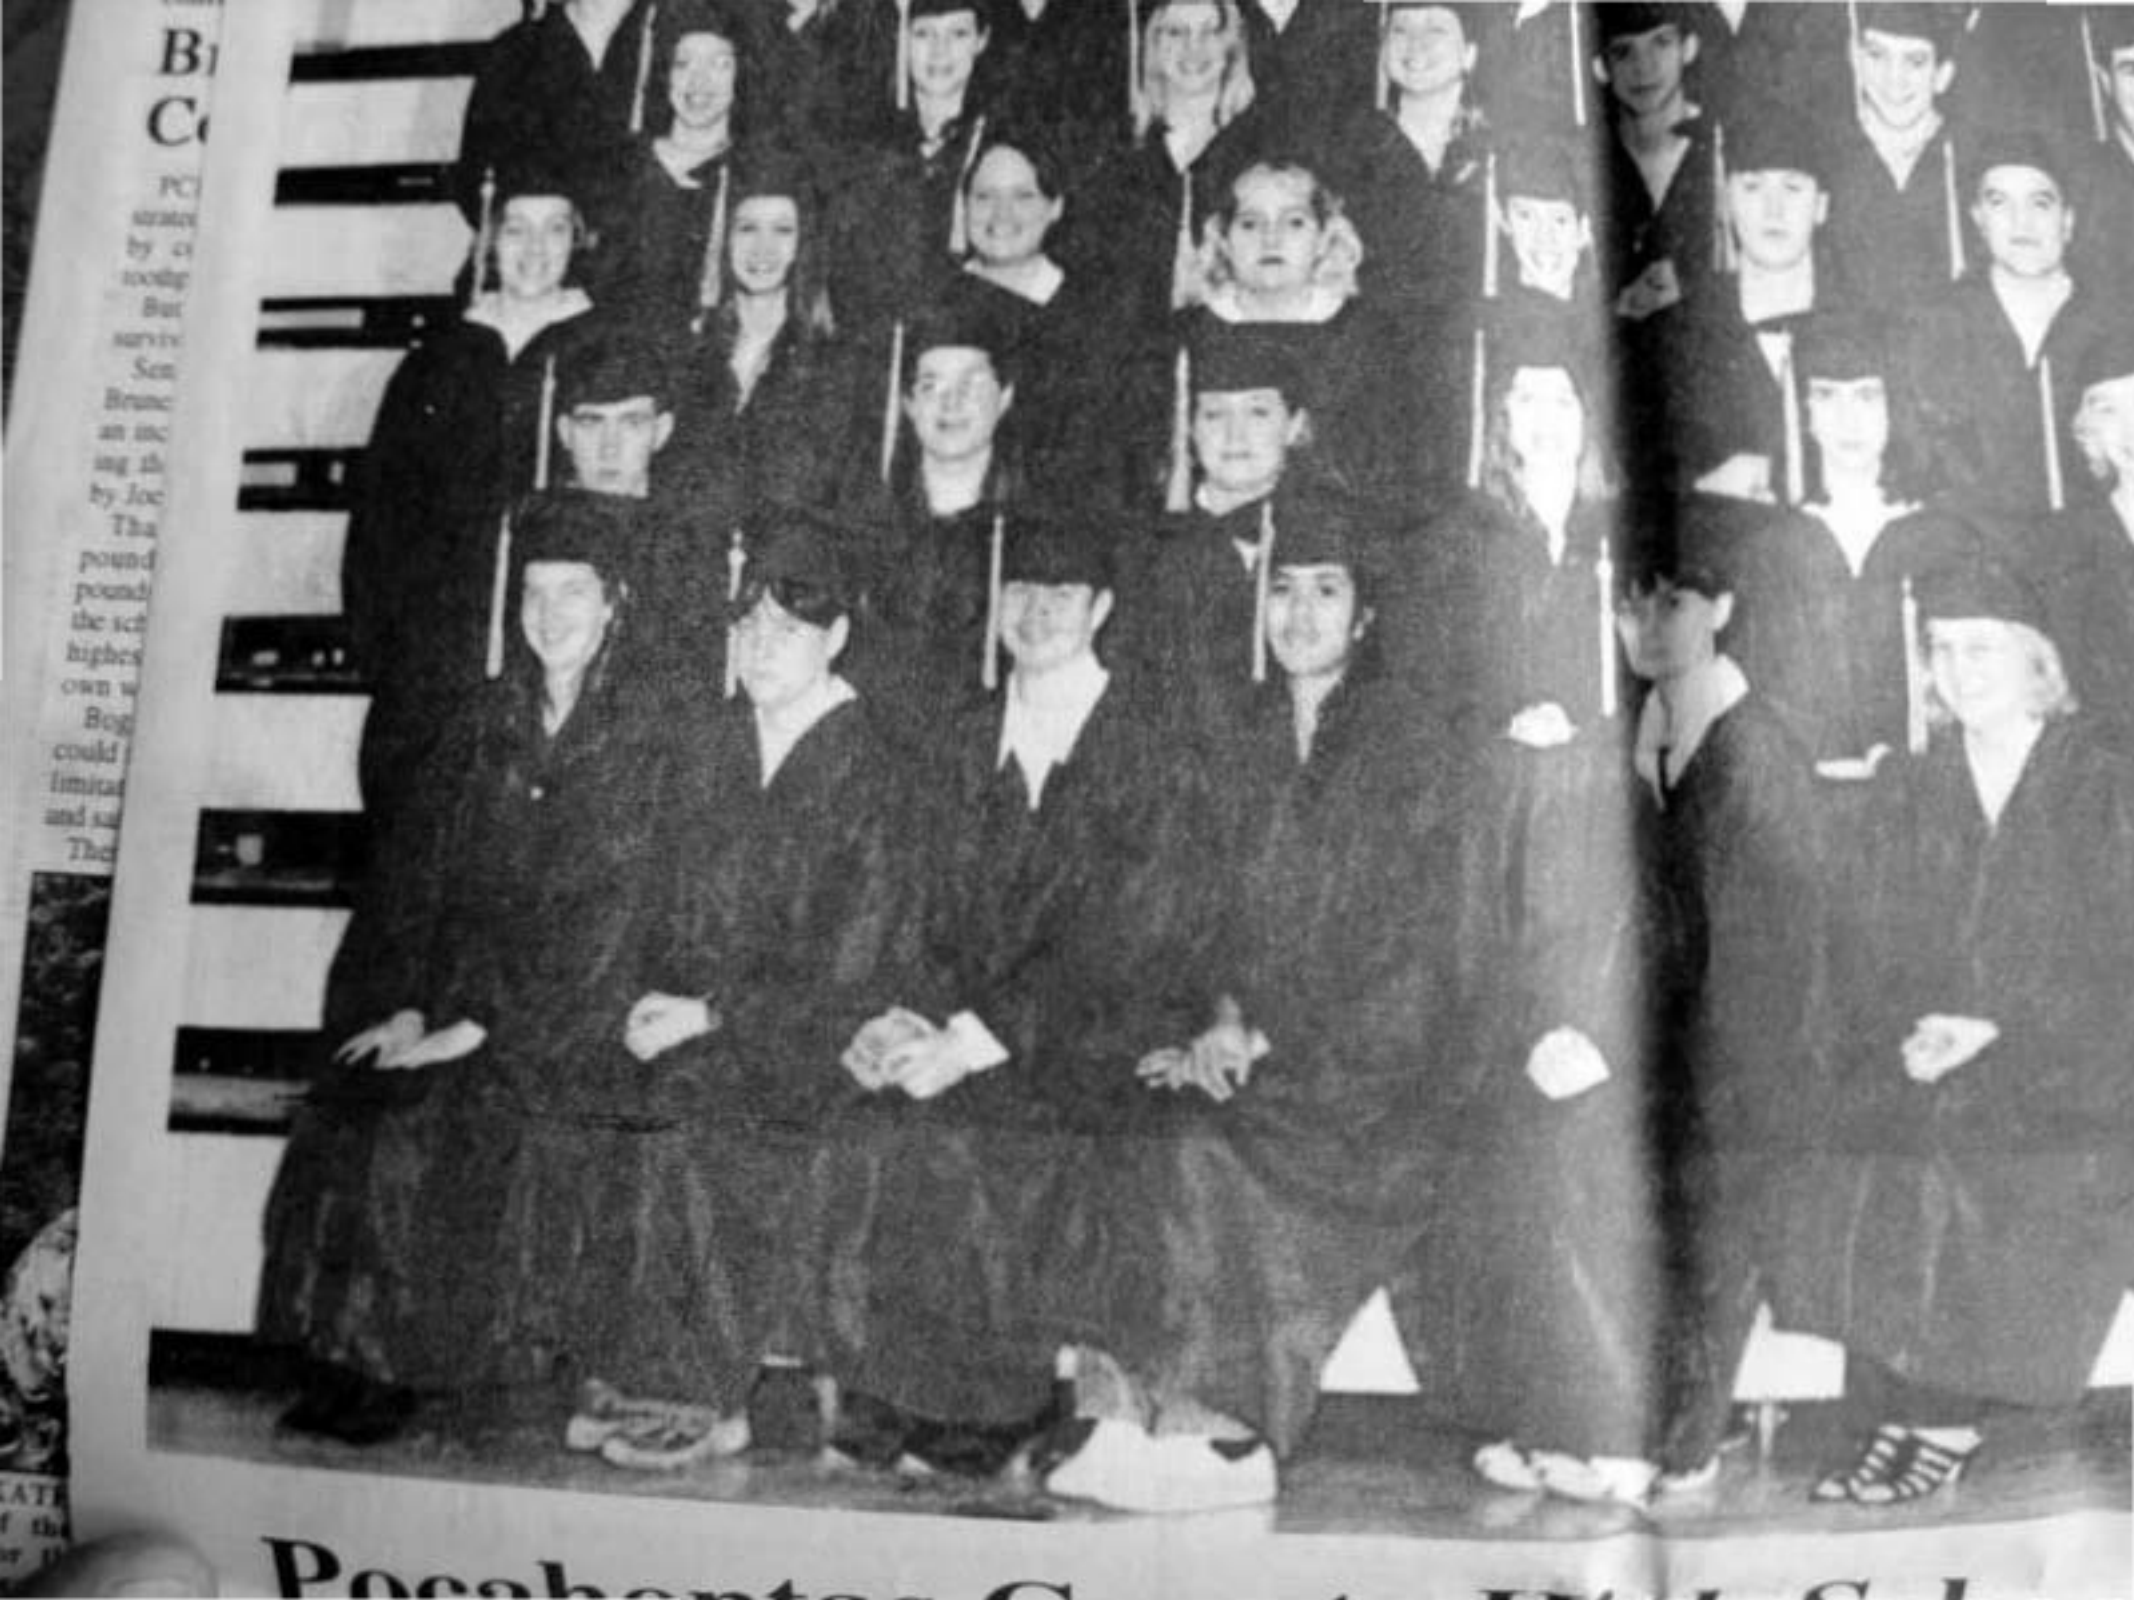
Pocahontas County High School Class of 2001







ounty High School Class of 2001



PCHS Class of 2001 Honor Graduates

Valedictorian: Kate Blackman

Honor Graduates-left to right: Travis Juergens, Stephanie Macgill, Christina Holstine, Beth Young, Tabitha Norton, Kate Blackman, Jason Goldizen, Ben Wilfong, Eli Sharp, Robert Alsop, Greg Hamons, Kirsten Hienemann, David Gardner, Brandy Wooddell, Valarie McLaughlin, and Laurinda Armstrong. Not Pictured: Sabrina Tribbett

Salutatorian: Travis Juergens

Kate Danielle Blackman, daughter of Anna and Sollie Workman, of Hillsboro, and Ken and Ruthi Blackman, of Roanoke, Virginia, plans to attend Bridgewater College and major in mathematics with a license for secondary education teaching.

Travis Juergens, son of Glen and Patricia Juergens, of Buckeye, plans to attend Indiana University School of Music as a music education major and to pursue a Master's in orchestral conducting.

Stephanie Macgill, daughter of Dan and Sybil Macgill, of Snowshoe, plans to attend Hampshire College in Massachusetts.

Laurinda Armstrong, granddaughter of Betty C. Armstrong, of Buckeye, plans to attend Glenville State College and major in music education.

Sabrina Tribbett, daughter of Cindy Tribbett, of Marlinton, and Tim Tribbett, of Woodrow, plans to attend Ferrum College and major in English education.

Benjamin Wilfong, son of Daron and Angela Wilfong, of Sunny Bottom, plans to attend Potomac State College and WVU for pre-veterinary medicine and Virginia Tech for a degree in veterinary medicine.

Valarie McLaughlin, daughter of David and Cindy McLaughlin, of Dunmore plans to attend Washington and Jefferson College.

Robert Scott Alsop, son of T. F. and Mary Ann Alsop, of Arbovale, plans to attend WVU and major in wildlife/fisheries resource and minor in petroleum land performance.

Kirsten Avery Heinemann, daughter of Jerome and Patricia Heinemann, of Green Bank, plans to attend West Virginia Wesleyan College and major in business.

Jason Goldizen, son of Paul and Ann Goldizen, of Marlinton, plans to attend WVU and major in forest resource management.

Greg Hamons, son of Rose and Joe Hamons, of Hillsboro, plans to attend WVU and receive a forest resource management degree.

Elizabeth A. Young, daughter of Oliver and Donna Young, of Marlinton, plans to attend Concord College to study psychology.

David Gardner, son of Lee and Margaret Gardner, of Clover Lick, plans to attend Potomac State College and major in pre-veterinary medicine.

Christina D. Holstine, daughter of Michael and Heather Holstine, of Frost, plans to attend WVU majoring in forensics.

Brandy Wooddell, daughter of Stanlene Wooddell, of Green Bank and Forrest Wooddell, of Green Bank, plans to attend Alderson Broaddus College and major in nursing.

Elijah N. Sharp, son of Nathan and Diane Sharp, of Marlinton, plans to attend Bluefield State College and major in architectural engineering.

Tabitha Norton, daughter of Mark and Judy Norton, of Wilmington, NC, plans to attend a community college for two years and attain a four year degree later.

Pocahontas Medical Clinics, Inc.
John C. Sharp, Ph.D., D.O.
Marlinton & Green Bank

John M. Mallow, Jr., D.D.S.
818 13th A... ...n

Congratulations, Seniors!
Sheets Oldsmobile, Inc.
Rt. 92, Green Bank
456-4484

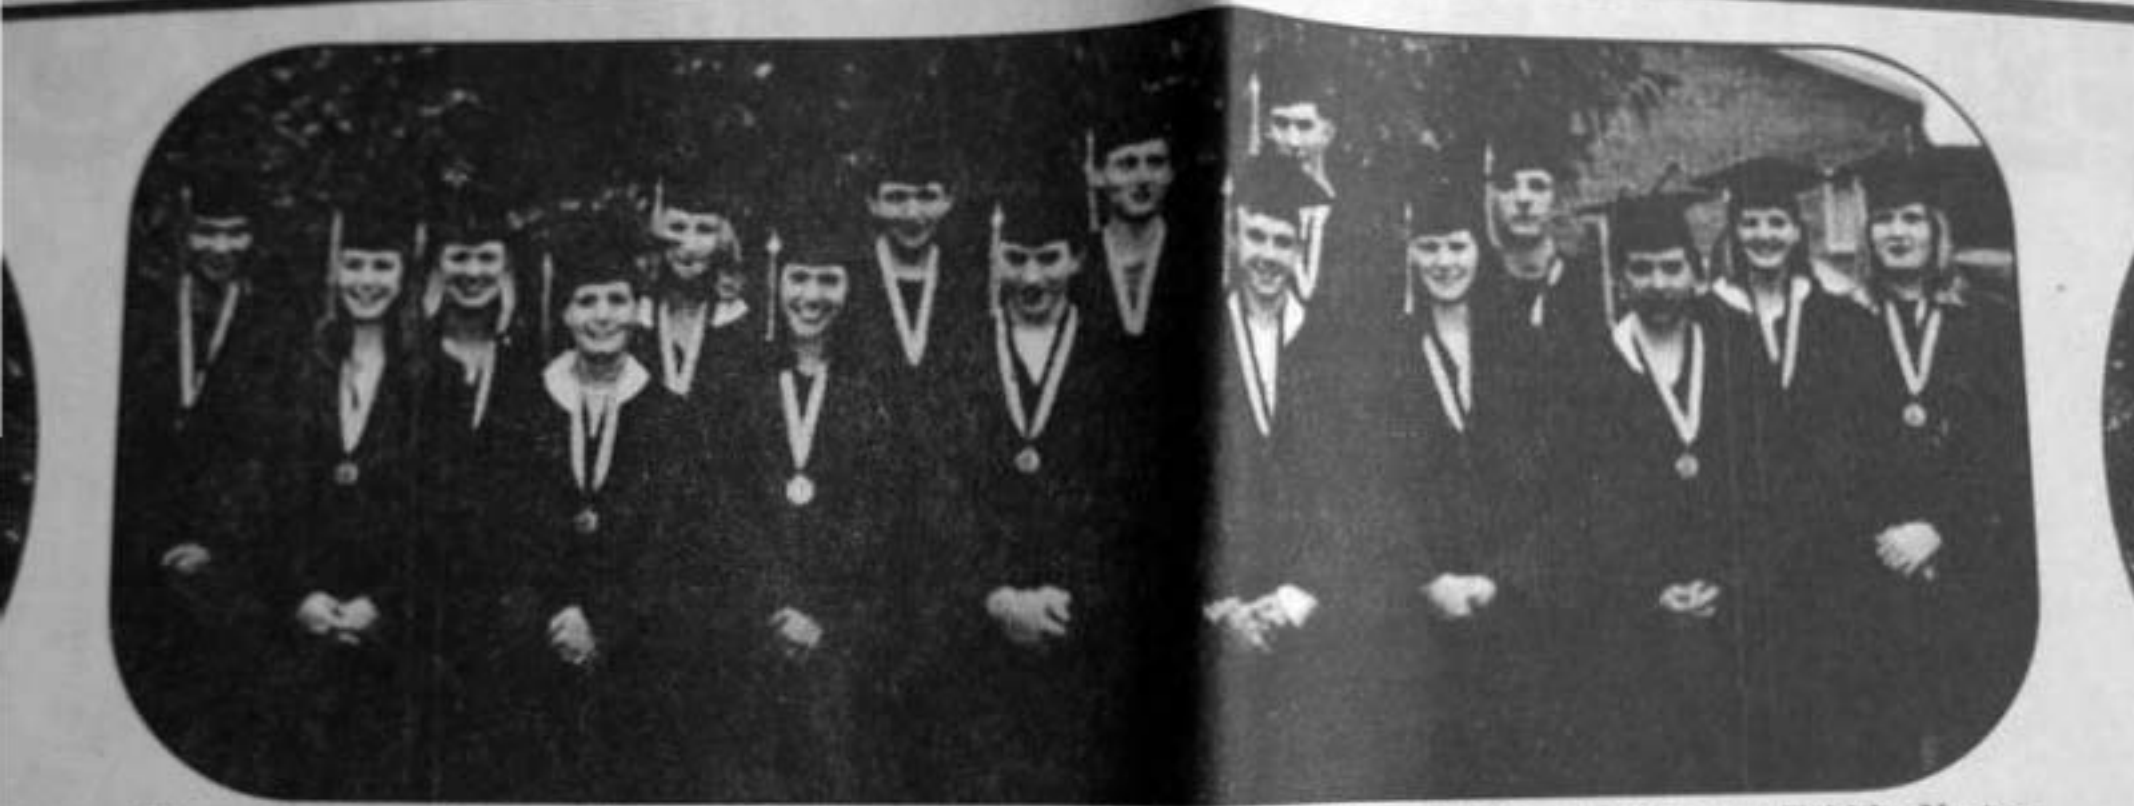
...itt's Well Drilling
HC 64 Box 22, Droop
653-4491 • 653-4900

Johnny's Garage
24-Hour Wrecker Service
Rt. 219N, Marlinton
Monday - Friday 8 a.m. - 6 p.m.•Saturday 8 a.m. - 4 p.m.
Johnny Dean, Owner•Bus. 799-6789•Home 799-6435

Congratulations on a job well done!
Moore's Ready Mix, Inc.
Green Bank • 456-4777

Best Wishes for the future!

PCHS Class of 2001 Honor Graduate



Honor Graduates-left to right: Travis Juergens, Stephanie Macgill, Christina Holstine, Beth Young, Tabitha Norton, Kate Blackman, Jason Goldizen, Ben Wilfong, Eli Sharp, Robert Alonso, Greg Hamons, Kirsten Hienemann, David Gardner, Brandy Wooddell, Valarie McLaughlin, and Laurinda Armstrong. Not Pictured: Sabrina Tribbett

ughter of Anna and Sollie Workman,
i Blackman, of Roanoke, Virginia, ge and major in mathematics with a aching.
and Patricia Juergens, of Buckeye, sity School of Music as a music laster's in orchestral conducting.
r of Dan and Sybil Macgill, of Bottom, plans to attend Potomac State College and WVU fro pre-veterinary medicine and Virginia Tech for a degree in veterinary medicine.

Valarie McLaughlin, daughter of David and Cindy McLaughlin, of Dunmore plans to attend Washington and Jefferson College.

Robert Scott Alonso, son of J. P. and Mary Ann Alonso, of

Elizabeth A. Young, da
Marlinton, plans to attend C

David Gardner, son of Lick, plans to attend Potc veterinary medicine.

Christina D. Holstine Holstine, of Frost, plans to Brandy Wooddell, da

ty—The Birthplace of R

MAY 24, 2001 VO

e up Refreshe ady for Summ

AS IS OBVIOUS by the look on the face of Jessica Sharp, one of the most popular activities at the AfterProm 2001 was the Bungee Run.

Record numbers turn

AS IS OBVIOUS by the look on the face of Jessica Sharp, one of the most popular activities at the AfterProm 2001 was the Bungee Run.

Record numbers turn out for AfterProm 2001

by Beth Henry
Marshall Intern

It's rare for a school to be full of games, prizes and laughter— especially on a Saturday night, but the AfterProm party Saturday brought students out in record numbers for a night of safe fun.

The PCHS gym was full of students playing basketball and volleyball, some people were eating in the cafeteria, and an announcement over the intercom said Matthew Bond just won $100.

That was the scene at PCHS where 117 students attended the party sponsored by the Pocahontas Community Club.

Activities at the AfterProm Party ranged from basketball and volleyball to card games; from ping pong and air hockey to video games.

Caricature artist David Brinkley, of Charleston, drew pictures of smiling faces all night in the cafeteria. Another big hit at the party was the Bungee Run, which defies brief explanation, but attracted students to the slingshot like event.

Per Indreeide, a foreign exchange student from Norway, said he went to the AfterProm Party because, "it would be more fun here than at home or at some other party... and there's free ice cream."

Tausha Cassell, a junior at PCHS, agreed it was fun, and she attended "because you have a chance to win a lot of prizes and a lot of money."

Randolph and Greenbrier Counties, the Community Club was able to spend over $5,000 on the AfterProm party this year.

Community Club member Bill Schiffer said that the club has sponsored the AfterProm party four times in the past five years, and "this year was our best yet."

"The number [of participants] has more than doubled. It's great," he continued.

More than 20 adults chaperoned the event: 10 Community Club members as well as teachers.

The club's goal is to give back to the community where it raises its funds. Members raise about $16,000 a year, not including the funds for the AfterProm Party. Thirty-40% of the money goes toward supplies, but the rest goes back to people in the area.

The club pays utility bills for those who can't afford it, provides transportation for the sick and supports school activities, among other things.

"We do anything to help... and we all work together," said Lake Vaughan, a member of the Community Club.

"You hear there's nothing in the county for kids to do, so we're here [sponsoring the AfterProm Party] to give them something fun."

Vaughan added that Junior Sponsor Jennifer Brown was a big help

Thanks to donations from 112 individuals, businesses, clubs and organizations from Pocahontas,

PCHS PRIN artist David

The PCHS t many competi Track Meet in 26, after a grea
Oak Hill Regi
Friday.

The men's t overall, taking to put in the school.

Qualifying were David Schoolcraft. P
the 200m dash, in the 100m d
ished second i

Th

Sharp, 001 was 01 ounties, able to After-

er Bill s spony four rs, and nts] has at," he eroned Club

ack to ues its about

PCHS PRINCIPAL TOM Sanders has his caricature done by artist David Brinkley Grow for P by Terrel Staff

Fresh water is County's most sources. The c place of eight ri bubbles up fro aquifers in spri gion.

But water is b commodity fo homesite lot Snowshoe Mou

New homes developments a ness around th home sites in $25,000-$30,00
es that are cau sell sites in locations—high further away fro

"What is hap developing mor that there is a pr adequate water wells that will water," said Ed County Sanitaria

There is no pub system in the S which means ho develop their own and sewage. Stat these systems pr from subdividing land.

"A limiting fact a lot of land that 25% grade. In ord system in, you ha land that is less tha

Warrior Sports

By Eric Underwood

caricature done by orts

Growth increases need for Public Water System

by Terrell McSweeny
Staff Writer

Fresh water is one of Pocahontas County's most plentiful natural resources. The county is the birthplace of eight rivers and fresh water bubbles up from rich underground aquifers in springs all over the region.

But water is becoming a valuable commodity for developers and homesite lot owners around Snowshoe Mountain Resort.

New homes and vacation home developments are a booming business around the resort. Two acre home sites in the area sell for $25,000-$30,000 dollars each, prices that are causing developers to sell sites in more removed locations—higher on ridgelines and further away from sources of water.

"What is happening as they are developing more lots in that area is that there is a problem with finding adequate water supplies, finding wells that will produce enough water," said Ed Riley, Pocahontas County Sanitarian.

There is no public water or sewer system in the Slaty Fork area—which means homeowners have to develop their own systems for water and sewage. State regulations for these systems prevent developers from subdividing some sections of land.

"A limiting factor is that we have a lot of land that is more than a 25% grade. In order to put a septic system in, you have to put it on land that is less than 25% grade and this is to keep the sewage from escaping to the surface too quickly. As we find that they are developing more and more land over there then they are wanting to get on those lots that are relatively steep," said Riley.

The Pocahontas County Public Service District and Snowshoe Mountain are working together to address the water problems in the area.

Snowshoe may agree to sell water to the Public Service District for a public water system in Big Springs and Slaty Fork.

Under the arrangement the Public Service District would buy water from Snowshoe and resell it to customers along the water line. Snowshoe's recent expansion of its reservoir makes it the most viable source of water for the area.

Snowshoe Mountain operates the only private water system in the county.

Pocahontas County has three public water systems—the towns of Hillsboro and Marlinton operate their own systems and the Public Service District, which is run by a three-member citizen board appointed by the County Commission, operates the Durbin-Frank-Bartow water system.

"What we are looking at now is for the Public Service District to apply for funding to put a water system in that area. I feel that it is something needed in that area because water is becoming a problem," said County Commissioner John Simmons.

A public water system may increase development possibilities around Snowshoe.

"What needs to be decided is how densely we want to develop the area. If we want to develop it with rather dense development then we will have to go to a central water and central sewage system. Right now what is happening is the health department is primarily the people who are keeping the lots bigger because we are having to keep them bigger in order to get both water and sewer system on the

continued to page 10

Patti's Bar & Grill
(Formerly Marlinton Motor Inn)

OxyContin abuse topic of public meeting

On Thursday, May 10, a group of concerned citizens gathered to discuss the abuse of the painkiller drug OxyContin, other drugs, and how the misuse can be prevented. The meeting was sponsored by the Family Resource Network. Represented at the meeting were many groups, including law enforcement, health providers, parents, school personnel, clergy, social agencies, and the general public.

Marjorie Howsare, from the FRN, was the facilitator for the meeting and Lynn Wallace and Paul Howell, drug abuse prevention specialists from the West Virginia Prevention Resource Center at Marshall University.

Mr. Wallace and Mr. Howell both stressed that the drugs themselves are not the problem and they are miracle drugs for many people. However, OxyContin and similar drugs are easy to abuse and have become the drug of choice for new drug abusers.

The impact that the misuse of these pain medicines can have was made very clear to those at the meeting by Stephanie Beverage. She read the following statement:

"If you were to mention the name of Stephanie Beverage a few years ago, you probably would have heard things like, 'She's a good person, she's kind to people, a hard, honest worker and nurse.' Now if you mention the name Stephanie Beverage, you will hear things like 'drug addict, thief, liar, and manipulator.'

"Why the sudden change in opinion? Drugs (pain killers), mainly OxyContin.

"I'm sure that a lot of you are wondering, how could a person steal, lie, and scheme just to get a drug? Many of you that have never taken painkillers would have trouble comprehending it. The effects of OxyContin are that strong!

"If you are abusing the drug, you will do whatever you can to get it. It started out with Lorecet and then those weren't strong enough. I went to OxyContin. Your body builds up a tolerance so that you eventually need more and more of the drug. People are overdosing on OxyContin because you don't realize how high you are and keep taking more.

"Too much of the drug can lead to respiratory failure, circulatory shutdown, and cardiac arrest, which leads to death. Even if you are an occasional user (just on the weekends) what happens when all the fun stops and you become addicted? There is no where else to go but down.

"I'm the perfect example of a person losing everything related to drugs. I started out with a good nursing job, money in the bank, I owned my car, my own horses, and had gone back to college for an RN degree.

"Then one day I turned around and it was all gone. I even blew college because I went to class everyday high and couldn't remember what I had learned that day.

"Now, I'm in debt for a college degree I never received.

"But you know that I never went a day without that 'buzz' I wanted. I hope we get a hold on this problem soon before anymore people die and no one else has to learn the hard way like I did.

"It took me two months of rehab to get over my habit of OxyContin, now I have been clean for almost three months.

"Finally, I want to apologize to everyone that I lied to or hurt in some way related to my drug problem. I am truly sorry and I hope that you all understand that it can happen to anyone of us.

"So think before you use drugs."

Mr. Howell congratulated Ms. Beverage on her progress in overcoming her addition. He noted how difficult drug addition is to conquer, with only a small percentage remaining clean 90 day after treatment. Once a person is addicted to a substance, they are an addict until they die, Mr. Howell stressed, although they may be in remission.

He said addicts are "people just like you" and estimated that 40-50% of those at the meeting probably have an addiction, with nicotine being most likely. Addiction is a chronic disease, Mr. Howell stated; no different than cancer, and kills if untreated. Misuse OxyContin three or four times and "it has got you," he said.

Mr.Howell described OxyContin as "Hillbilly heroin" for the impact its misuse is having in several areas of Appalachia. He noted six deaths per month recently in Mingo County, where the problem of painkiller abuse is particularly severe.

Mr. Howell said he is against a ban on OxyContin because it is too important for many people. Purdue Pharma, the maker of OxyContin, is working on a non-dangerous form of the medicine, but will not be available for some time, he said.

Hillsboro physician William Browning stressed the positive change OxyContin can make in the lives of people with chronic pain. He said that many doctors do not have much knowledge on the treatment of chronic pain and noted that when he was in medical school he was taught not to give opiates for chronic pain.

Dr. Browning said when before he gives his pain patients a prescription for OxyContin or a similar drug, they sign a contract on the proper use of the drug. Included is the use of only one pharmacy to obtain the medicine, so the quantity can be monitored.

There was a general discussion on steps that can be taken to avoid painkiller abuse in this community. Mr. Wallace said Purdue Pharma is willing to provide assistance in fighting abuse. Mr. Howell noted that having a meeting like the one being held was the first step. A number of programs to help keep students away from drugs were described and local resources mentioned.

In a recent survey of students at PCHS, 24% of those taking part said they had snorted OxyContin or another painkiller at least once.

PCHS Principal Tom Sanders urged parents to talk with their children and get them to tell who is misusing drugs. "Then let us know and trust that we will not tell our sources of information" he said. Mr. Sanders noted that it is easier to catch students using marijuana than pills.

Mr. Howell warned of the two critical period of time when young people are most likely to begin to abuse drugs - before the ninth grade and the first years of college.

Ms. Howsare stressed the need for young people to be given positive reinforcement.

Mr. Howell issued a warning to parents, saying "kids are who they hang with." He stressed the need for parents to get involved with their children, noting that it is not the job of teachers to raise children but to teach them.

Commission accepts on bid; rejects others on tannery clean-up

The County Commission has met twice in special meetings concerning the bids for the final environmental clean-up at the tannery site at Frank.

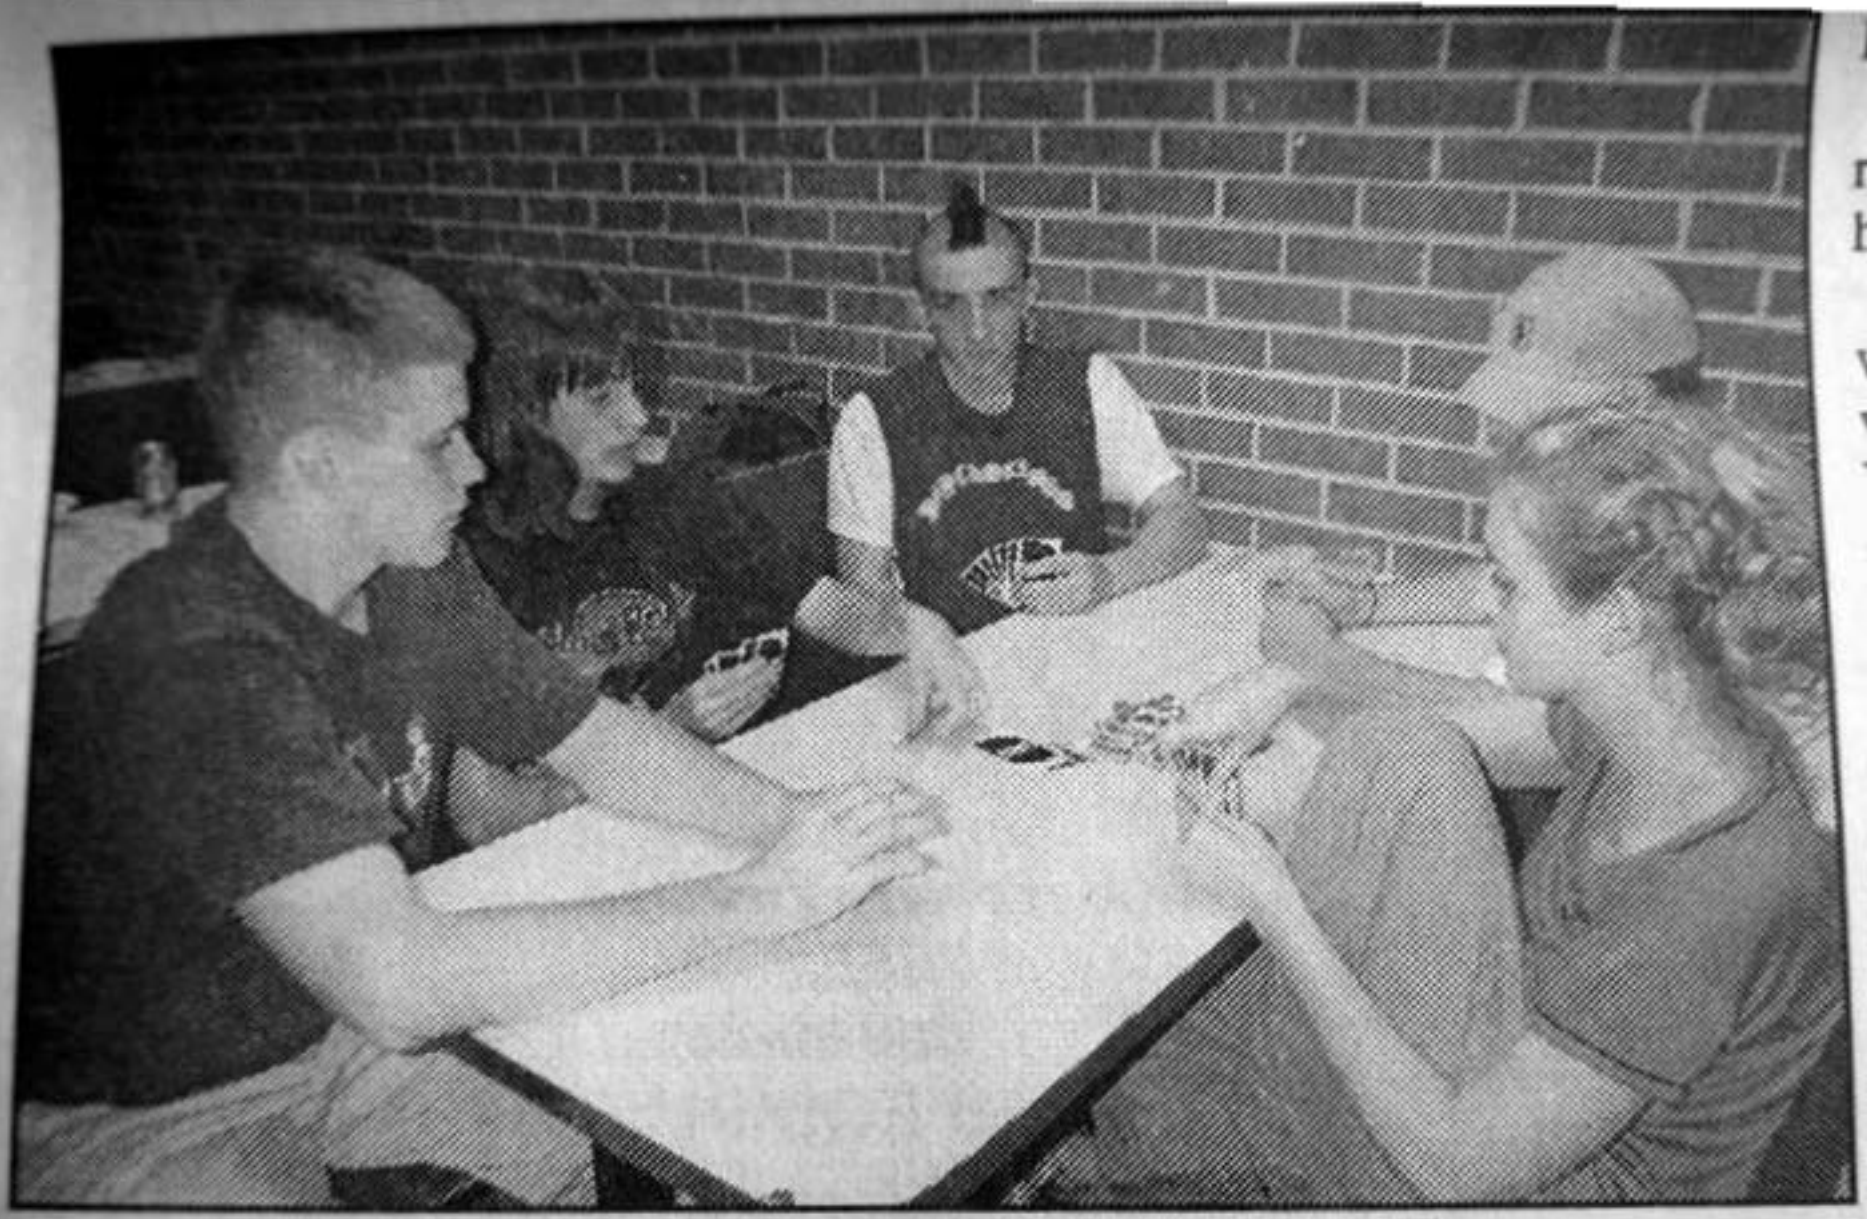
The project was bid in two parts and bids were opened on May 7. Contract I was for a polyethylene liner to be added to the existing lined pond at the site. Contract II is for the handling of of the sludge material remaining at the tannery. The sludge is to be removed from four existing ponds, dried, placed in the lined pond, and covered.

On Thursday of last week the bid of Environmental Consulting, Inc., of Scott Depot for the liner in the amount of $88,609.77, with the option to buy the material for the final cover for $55,016.70 was accepted.

However, the bid for Contract II from Shamrock Environmental Corporation for $744,903 was rejected as it was over-budget. Don Bailey, engineer for the project, told the commissioners that he had been unable to negotiate a lower price for

Continued to page 5

Zero Closing Costs



PAUL EVANS, KATE Blackman, Matt Bond, Cole Mahaffey, and Jenny Reese play a game of cards during the night.

Parent We recent hol-rela
You wrong work Your
of all Prom great positi On work

M
Er

PCHS STUDENTS AT Level 4D with state rankings were, front row, Azlan Jesselli, 4th, Rachel Garringer, 1st, Kristen Irvine, 7th, Adrienne Juergens, 4th, Natasha McMann, 3rd; back row, Jesse Burns, 2nd, Andrew Must, 5th, Sarah Eilers, 6th, and Andrew Wooddell, 2nd.

SERENA SHAW, CARLA Johnson, Jeff Butler, and Molly Must, ranked 4th, 1st, 3rd, and 2nd in the state at Level 3E.

GREEN BANK MIDDLE School student Danielle Holstine (center) placed third in the the state and Erin Wooddell and Amanda Wiley both ranked ninth.

MARLINTON MIDDDLE School French students Lucia Mosessa and Kayla Jordan were fifth and fourth in state rankings.

County Students excel at National French Contest

On March 16 some sixty county students joined students throughout the U.S.A. to take "Le Grand Concours" or National guished (public and private) schools in the state.

At level 1A, Danielle Holstine (GBMS) was 3rd, Kayla

Wooddell were second, Natasha McMann third, Azlan Jesselli fourth, Adrienne Juergens and

Librar

"Distance Learning way for anybody with fa responsibilities to furthe cation." Sharon Moore her young family and w when she embarked on degree program in administration through ship Program of Davi College. Taking a ful load, she studied at h courses, traveling from ton home to Elkins weeks to meet with her

Moore is now en accredited master's deg in Counseling through versity. She utilizes lectures and books to core knowledge, take tests locally, mails w to the university, and h local internship. "One exercise self-discipline time management to su tance learning," says M really like the freedo
my own pace and sche mend distance program who wants to impro possibilities or who learning."

The Pocahontas
Libraries support lifel for all persons, whethe a new hobby, strength just increases knowl
our important service books, videos, and co for folks who want libraries also advoc opportunities for for such as college course that an informed, edu

N MIDDDLE School French students Lucia Kayla Jordan were fifth and fourth in state

Contest

second, Natasha Azlan Jesselli
e Juergens and
th, Sarah Eilers Irvine seventh in tudents were the state to take on spite the intimition which cov-ass is only just arringer's score

ks in the class
ge score of stud-in Level 4 for these students
bb!
the top ten of mpeting in West
rench 2 students Emily Malcom in the state. Joe nd in the County.

DEREKA BROWN was 10th in her level in state rankings

Caroline McKean third, and Rachel Wayne fourth, all with good scores.

Depot

hese rocks will abels/markers in ds.
y native flowers

Once upon a tim ago, anyone who live tas County who want college degree or upgr cation faced limited conventional route, of to relocate to a colle still the option of choic recent high school grad muting was another op

H & C Automotive
Exhaust • Tires • 24 Hr. Towing Standard & Modified Inspections
Hillsboro • 653-4562
Evenings 653-4467

Shenando Area's Larg LO
ASK FOR

BRYAN GAY, Pharmacist at Pocahontas Memorial Hospital holds an unclaimed property check for PMH.

State holding millions

America Offers F

The A tion of W announce stop-smok Virginians
the habit.

The F Self Help modificati smoking.
ers commi step metho and quittii gram uses native beh motivate t addition th tions for weight con

Marrinton, Charles Boyer and Kate Collins, of Cass; Lennie Varner and Bertha Withers, of Durbin.

Juergens to play at Carnegie Hall

Fran Belin is proud to announce the senior piano recital of her student, Travis Juergens, on Sunday, May 27, at 3 p. m., at Carnegie Hall in Lewisburg. He is the son of Glen and Patricia Juergens at Buckeye. Travis will be attending Indiana University School of Music in the fall as a Music Education major and plans to pursue a Master's degree in Orchestral Conducting. Travis will play works by J. S. Bach, Handel, Beethoven, Brahms, Schumann, Chopin, Rachmaninoff, and Debussy.

Please join us for an afternoon of beautiful music followed by a reception and refreshments. There is no charge, but a donation to help defray the cost of the hall would be greatly appreciated.

The office of ting smoking during a brief phone consultation.

These materials are available on a first-come-first-serve basis and are made available thanks to a grant from the Bureau For Public Health, West Virginia Tobacco Prevention Program.

Pregnancy Associated Mortality

Pregnant or recently pregna women are more likely to be t victims of homicide than to from any other cause, finds a study published in the "Journa the American Medical Associat (Vol. 285, No. 11). The stu "Enhanced Surveillance for Pregna cy-Associated Mortality, Maryla

Don

Memorial Donations to Frost Volunteer Fire Department

In Memory of Craig Sharp—by Roland Sharp

In Memory of Wanda Kelley—by Kristian Kerr, Maxine Harper, Roland Sharp, Eleanor McLaughlin, Betty Burford, Kathleen Kelley

In Memory of Grady Green—by

Senio

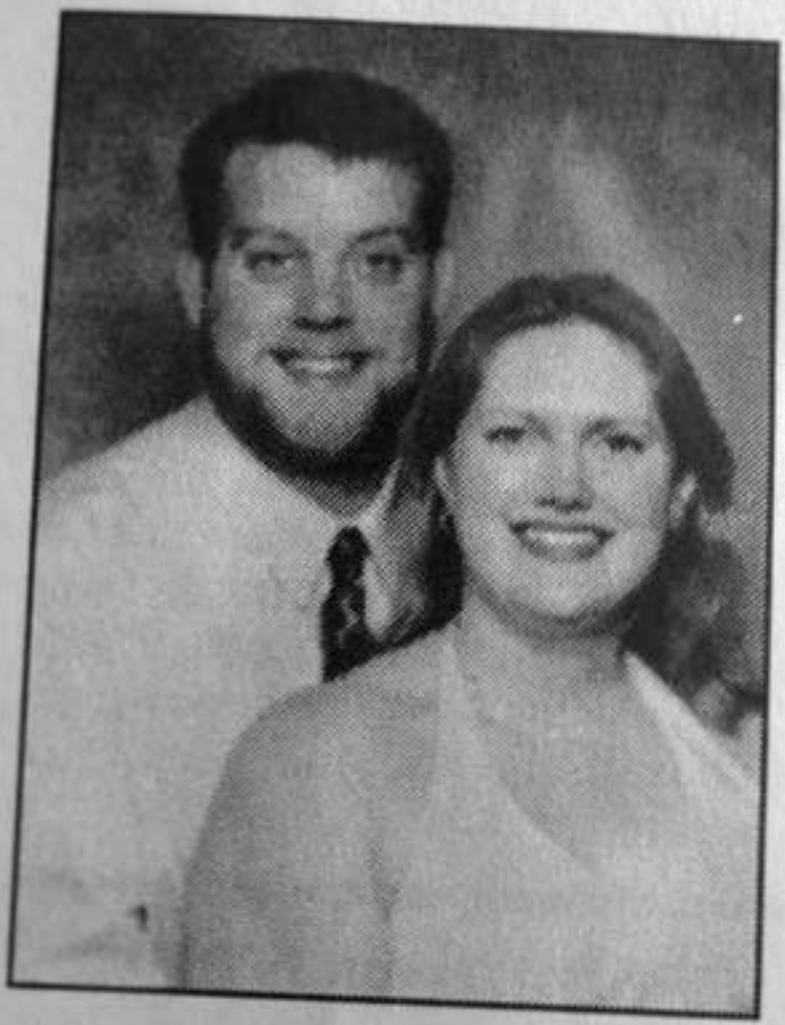
May 28-31

Monday: Center closed for Memorial Day. Home-delivered meals delivered on May 25

Tuesday: Hot ham & cheese on bun w/lettuce, tomato and pickle, potato soup w/crackers, fresh fruit

COLONIA

Wedding



Peacock ~ Clark

Ronald and Brenda Peacock request the honour of your presence at the marriage of their daughter, Sara Dawn, to Richard Tanner Clark, son of Richard and Carol Clark, on Saturday, the twenty-third of June, two thousand and one, at two o'clock in the afternoon at the Marlinton United Methodist Church, 806 Sixth Avenue Marlinton.

- - -

Open Church Wedding

Visit

Mescal Morris
her daughter, Jane, home on Tenth Av ton and moved her News, Virginia.

Jim Smith was by the death of h man.

Mrs. Kaye Mil
North Carolina, Rose, of Crestview in New Port Riche with Mrs. Ruth C death of her son, laghan. Mrs. Calla at Oakview Terra 7220 Baille Dr
Richey, Florida 34

Daniel and Ing Inge's brother, J friend from Germa Dan's uncle, Ivar Woodrow.

Visiting Mary sister, Rosie Wh
Harry Wheeler and Girard, Ohio. Mar with them. Mary from Pittsburgh, P Orlando, Florida, visit with their brot and sister, Ann families. They did
ing. They had a ge wonderful visit. Th e of Katheryn Wooddell are her annah Katherine s wife, Kelly.

Cassell chosen to participate in Wider-Opportunity

Tausha Cassell, Senior Girl Scout of Troop #2105, has been chosen to participate in a Wider-Opportunity with The Girl Scouts of America. Tausha will attend "The Great Northwest Adventure" in Lake Oswego, Oregon to be held July 14-31. Tausha was one of 67 participants nationwide, chosen to attend this event. The girls will have the opportunity to visit Mt. St. Helens, Multnomah Falls, the Columbia River Gorge, the Oregon State Capitol, the Oregon Coast Aquarium, Mt. Hood, Native American Museum and The Oregon Trail. They will participate in activities such as windsurfing, hiking, biking, camping, rafting, desert geology, and will have a sandcastle contest on the coast.

Tausha is the daughter of Greg and Brenda Cochran, of Dunmore, and Jeff and Abby Cassell, of Bartow.

was nominated for this national award by Mr. Ron Hall, a teacher at the school.

Natasha will appear in the United States Achievement Academy Official Yearbook, which is published nationally.

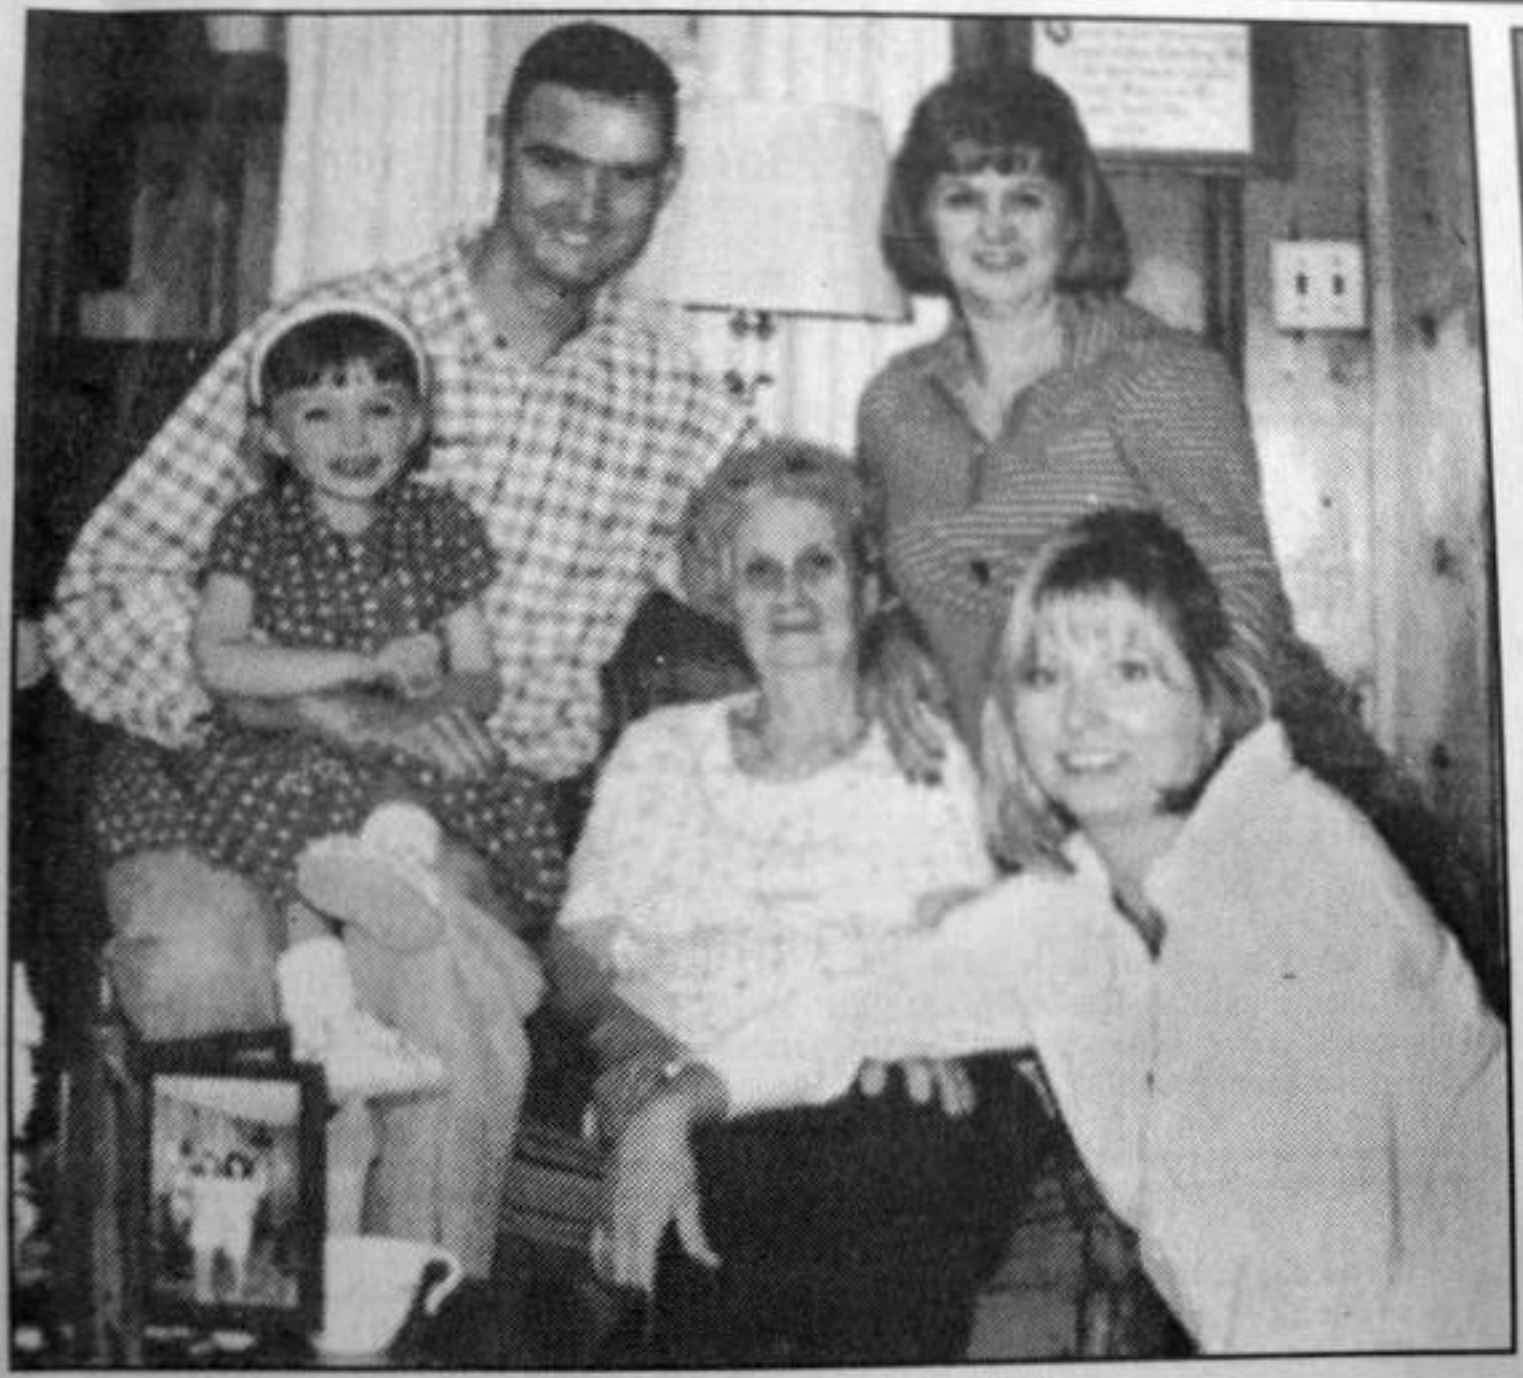
"Recognizing and supporting our youth is more important than ever before in America's history. Certainly, United States Achievement Academy winners should be congratulated and appreciated for their dedication to excellence and achievement," said Dr. George Stevens, Executive Director of the United States Achievement Academy.

The Academy selects USAA winners upon the exclusive recommendation of teachers, coaches, counselors, and other qualified sponsors and upon the Standards of Selection set forth by the Academy. The criteria for selection are a student's academic performance, interest and aptitude, leadership qualities, responsibility, enthusiasm, motivation to learn and improve, citizenship, attitude and cooperative spirit, dependability, and recommendation from a teacher or director

Natasha is the daughter of Bill and Susie McMann, of Marlinton. The grandparents are Henson and Yvonne Gross, of Belington, and Lee and Helen McMann, of Marlinton.

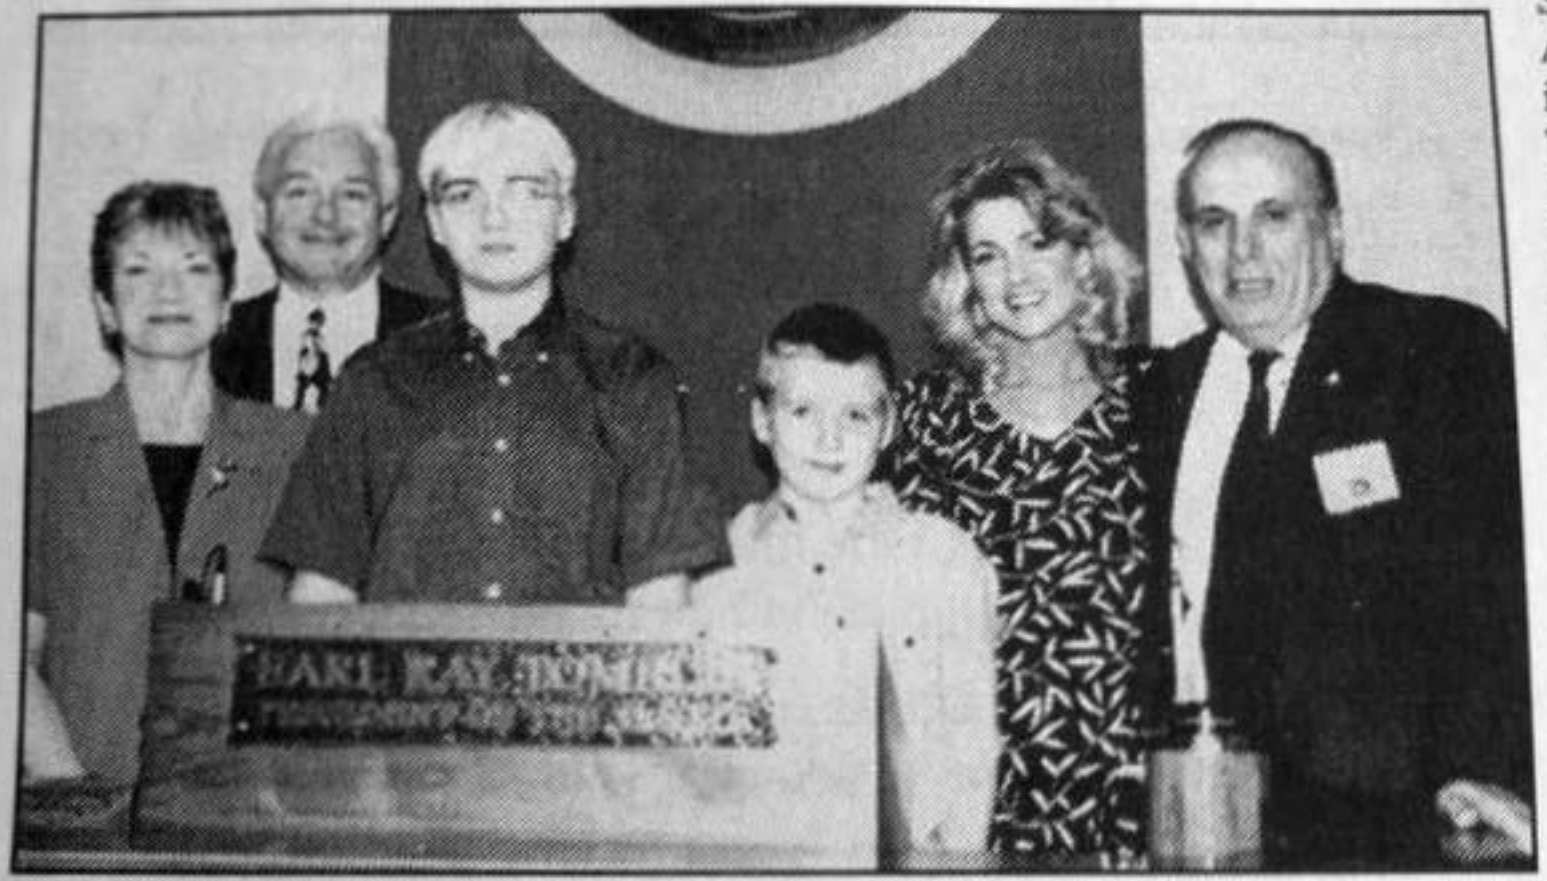
Area Native Honored at Wheeling Jesuit

Mollie Keller, of Marlinton, was inducted into Wheeling Jesuit University's Psi Chi Honor Society, or the National Honor Society in History, at this year's Spring Honors Convocation. The formal



FOUR GENERATIONS

Four generations gathered at the home of Katheryn Wooddell for Easter. From left around Mrs. Wooddell are her grandson Todd Wingo holding his daughter Hannah Katherine Wingo, her daugher, Linda Wingo, and Todd's wife, Kelly.



NICHOLAS AND CAMRON Tenney, of Buckhannon, are pictured with Senator Walt Helmick, left, and Senator Mike Ross, right, as they served as Pages in the Senate at the West Virginia Legislature. Attending also at the session, tour and luncheon were their mother, Kim Malcomb Thorpe, of Buckhannon, and their grandmother, Loretta Malcomb, of Marlinton.

State Capit Aquarium, M ican Muse Trail. They ities such biking, ca geology, a contest on

Taush and Brend and Jeff a tow.

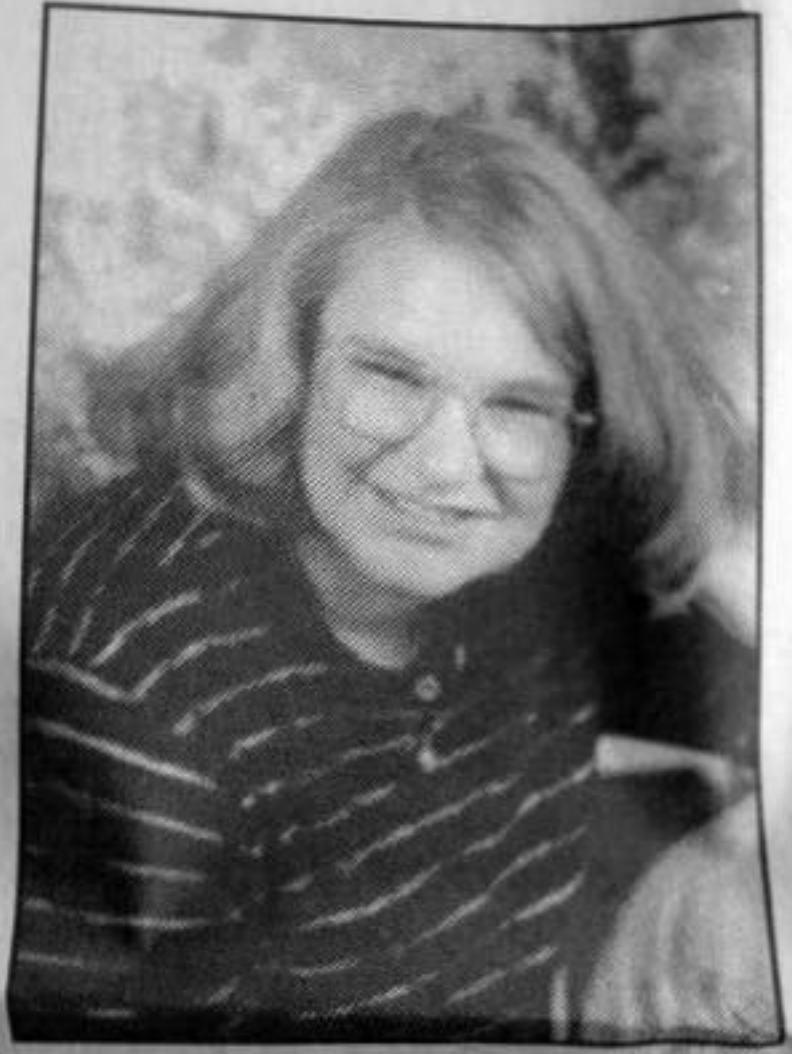
SHERI TURLEY, OF Dunmore, second from right, was among the students at Greenbrier Community College Center honored during the recent Commencement Awards Program. She was by the GCCC Student Education Association as the outstanding member of the year. Others in the photo are, l-r, Heather Fogus, Karen Poe, Ella Dorsey, Debra Ramsey, Mary Smith, and Michelle Shafer.

Tausha is the daughter of Greg and Brenda Cochran, of Dunmore, and Jeff and Abby Cassell, of Bartow.



McMann named United States National Award Winner

The United States Achievement Academy announced today that Natasha McMann, of Marlinton, has been named a United States National Award Winner in Band.

This award is a prestigious honor very few students can ever hope to attain. In fact, the Academy recognizes fewer than 10% of all American high school students.

Natasha, who attends PCHS, on, are picnator Mike ate at the ne session,

mb Thorpe, Malcomb, of right, was llege Center ds Program.

Area Native Honor
at Wheeling Jesu

Mollie Keller, of M was inducted into Wheelin University's Psi Chi Hono ty, or the National Honor in History, at this year' Honors Convocation. Th ceremony for student scho place at Wheeling Jesu Theater on the morning
10. Guest speaker and curr intendent of Ohio County
H. Lawrence Jones, Ph. with students some words Inductions and awards include: honor societies, of the Year Awards, Awards and the St. Fran Award.

Fox Promoted to

Marine Corps Sg
Fox, son of Janet Snowshoe, and Geor
Tioga, recently was pr current rank while s Headquarters and Servi Marine Corps Base, Qu
ginia.

Fox was promoted sustained superior job p and proficiency in his speciality.

Fox is a 1997 gr Pocahontas County Hi and joined the Marine
June 1997.

Martin V. Saffer

hosen to participate ider-Opportunity

a Cassell, Senior Girl Troop #2105, has been participate in a Wider-y with The Girl Scouts
a. Tausha will attend Northwest Adventure" vego, Oregon to be held Tausha was one of 67 nationwide, chosen to event. The girls will pportunity to visit Mt.
Multnomah Falls, the iver Gorge, the Oregon ol, the Oregon Coast Mt. Hood, Native Amerum and The Oregon will participate in activ-
s windsurfing, hiking, aping, rafting, desert
l will have a sandcastle
e coast.
is the daughter of Greg Cochran, of Dum

was nominated for this national award by Mr. Ron Hall, a teacher at the school.

Natasha will appear in the United States Achievement Academy Official Yearbook, which is published nationally.

"Recognizing and supporting our youth is more important than ever before in America's history. Certainly, United States Achievement Academy winners should be congratulated and appreciated for their dedication to excellence and achievement," said Dr. George Stevens, Executive Director of the United States Achievement Academy.

The Academy selects USAA winners upon the exclusive recommendation of teachers, coaches, counselors, and other qualified sponsors and upon the Standards of Selection set forth by the Academy. The criteria for selection are a student's academic performance, interest and aptitude, leadership qualities, responsibility, enthusiasm, motivation to learn and improve, citizenship, attitude and cooperative spirit, dependability, and recommendation from a teacher or director

Natasha is the daughter of Bill and Susie McMann, of Marlinton. The grandparents are Henson and Yvonne Gross, of Belington, and Lee and Helen McMann, of Marlinton.

Area Native Honored at Wheeling Jesuit

Gamba Beta Phi holds GCCC Initiation

Seventeen students at Gre brier Community College Ce were initiated into Gamba Beta honorary during ceremonies hel Hollowell Auditorium in Greenb Hall. Michael Palm, director student services and advisor to group, conducted the cerem before a near capacity crowd.

Denise Sharp, of Marlint was among those to becom member of the honorary group.
others were: Jennifer McClu Pickaway; Marlene Sanford, Le Heather Workman, Renick; An Wellman, Frankford; Laura Hefner, Frankford; Candance Ki Meadow Bridge; Kathreen Fe Gap Mills; Angela Osborne,
nelle; Amanda Quick, Ronceve
Patricia Cooper, Maxwelton; C Crookshanks, Lewisburg; Li Pennington, Maxwelton; Jossi
Spencer, Caldwell; Joni Har
Green Sulphur Springs; Je Truex, Ronceverte; and Edw
Mann, White Sulphur Springs.

New officers were also ele following the initiation with Pa cia Cooper, president; Den Sharp, vice president; An Osborne, secretary/treasurer
Amanda Lee Morgan Quck, ritu ist.

A reception honoring the n members was held following ceremony and meeting in Student Lounge at GCCC.

Evans honored at WVU

CAST OF THE Magic Trash Can are, l-r, Andrew Lacasse, Susanna Diller, Serena Shaw, Molly Must, Carla Johnson, and Adrienne Juergans. Not pictured is Cassandra Channell.

POCAHONT Tribbett, R college credi

PCHS college

Three stu
bett, Rachael

Andrew Lacasse, Carla Johnson,
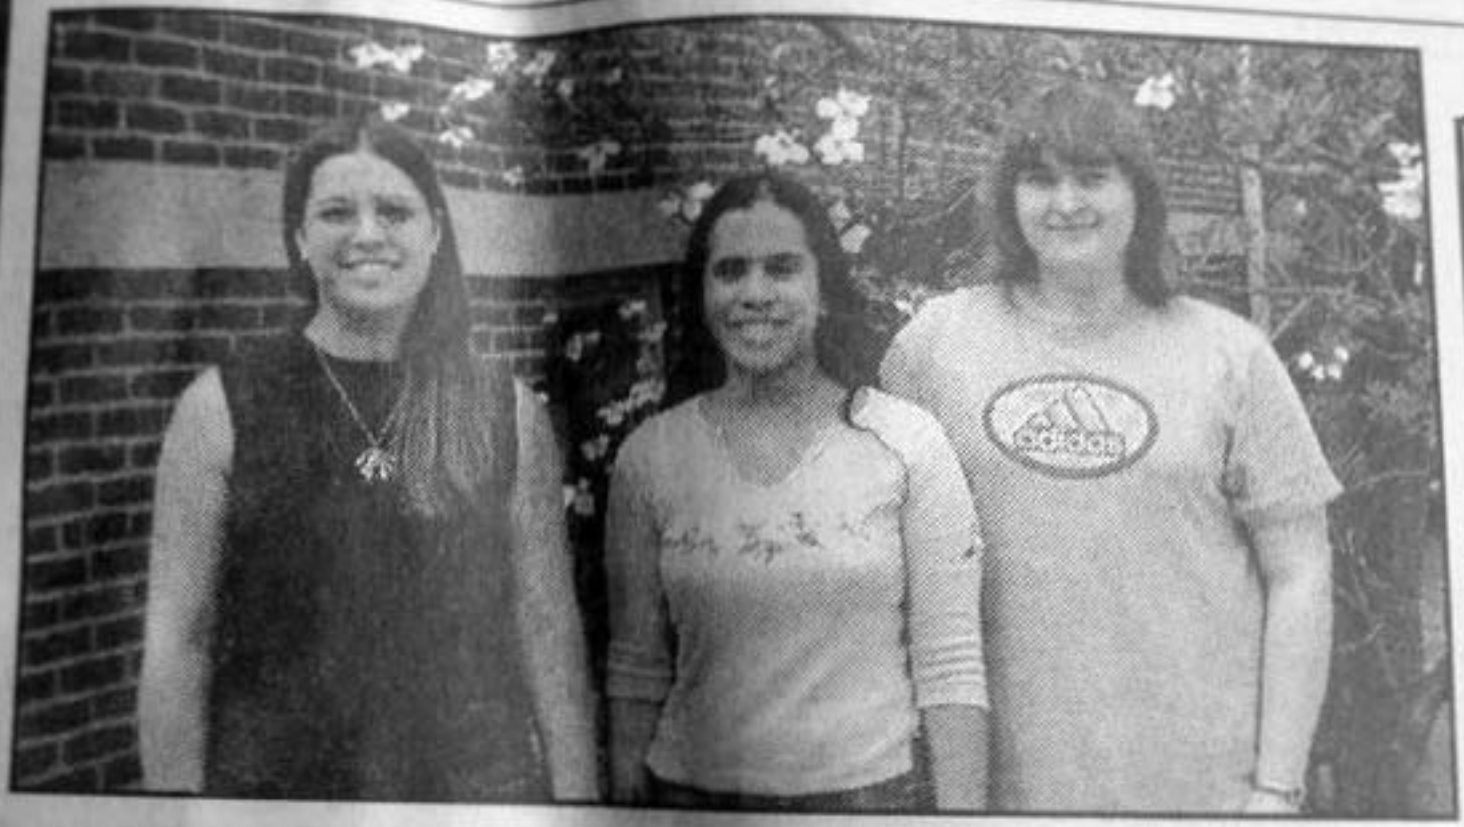
andra Channell.



POCAHONTAS COUNTY HIGH School students Sabrina Tribbett, Rachel Soriano, and Jessica Dean are earning college credit with their drama class.

PCHS students take drama class for college credit

Three students, Sabrina Tribbett, Rachael Soriano, and Jessica Dean, are taking a college level

Workshop's production of The Glass Menagerie. They will serve

We appre
visiting, by or w

We would cards and exp
Rev. Bob Ma
CEOS, and th

Thanks t ramp to my Mann, Layto
don, Bob Va
Also tha women's of May God ble

IN THE cast of Small Time Crime are, back row, Zachary Graham, Seth Mitchell, Hannah Goodings, Katie Workman, Amy Mitchell, Sam Long, Emily Friel; front row, Destiny Vela, Angel Vela, Jennifer Morrison, and Haley Cutlip.

Pocahontas Playhouse will present two plays on May 30

Three bett, Racha Dean, are drama class
The course field State and is taugh and Margar

In add work, the with the Po

Dran theat

Each County Dra newcomers year the D Kama Weat to its upcom Glass Menag
garet Bake thoughts on Drama Wor
was very st

IN THE cast of Small Time Crime are, back row, Zachary Graham, Seth Mitchell, Hannah Goodings, Katie Workman, Amy Mitchell, Sam Long, Emily Friel; front row, Destiny Vela, Angel Vela, Jennifer Morrison, and Haley Cutlip.

Pocahontas Playhouse will present two plays on May 30

The stage at the Opera House will again be alive with drama as Pocahontas Playhouse presents their original plays, "Small Time Crime" and "The Magic Trash Can."

Pocahontas Playhouse is an after-school drama program for middle and high school students. The students have met once a week since the end of February, learning about all aspects of theater. Under the direction of Margaret Baker, the students have written a story, developing characters and plot and transforming it to dialog. They have created their costumes, set and props and have worked on developing their facial and vocal expression to perform on stage.

The middle school group will present "Small Time Crime," in which two petty thieves decide to kidnap the twin daughters of the President of the United States.

The high school group has created "The Magic Trash Can," a play geared towards children. When mice begin to overtake Paradise Island, mild-mannered blacksmith, Eggberta Hawkins, becomes the dynamic Hawk Woman to save the day!

The program is sponsored by Pocahontas County Parks and Recreation and the Pocahontas County Opera House Foundation, with financial assistance from Dramas, Fairs and Festivals and the West Virginia Commission on the Arts.

The public is invited to enjoy these performances on Wednesday, May 30 at 5 p.m. at the Opera House in Marlinton. Refreshments will be served. For more information, call the Parks and Recreation office at 799-7386.

Each y County Dram newcomers year the Dr Kama Weath
to its upcom Glass Menag
garet Bake thoughts on Drama Wor was very st very intense Scott was a said that he excited tha Workshop, h ing a core many more

Kama h performance school caree acted in "Ac grade she w club's produ Man," which performance.
she was in "
which she th Scott Small credits along done pretty

Growth from pg.3

lots," said Riley.

Creating a public water system in Slaty Fork won't eliminate the septic requirements that are limiting some subdivision in the area. Homes that have public water will still have to have individual septic systems. They must be on at least a two-acre lot and have an area where slope is less than 25% grade in order to build a septic system. The

West
will be
May 2
of M meer.n

INTERNET ACCES

Three students, Sabrina Tribbett, Rachael Soriano, and Jessica Dean, are taking a college level drama class while attending PCHS. The course is offered through Bluefield State College in Lewisburg and is taught by Glenda VanReenan and Margaret Baker.

In addition to their classroom work, the girls will be working with the Pocahontas County Drama Workshop's production of The Glass Menagerie. They will serve as stage managers, lighting crew and costume designers. They will also help build the set and are writing news articles about the show.

The Glass Menagerie will be performed on June 8 and 9 at the Pocahontas Opera House in Marlinton.

Drama group welcomes local theatre veterans to stage

Each year the Pocahontas County Drama Workshop has a few newcomers to its program. This year the Drama group welcomes Kama Weatherholt and Scott Small to its upcoming performance of "A Glass Menagerie," directed by Margaret Baker. When asked her thoughts on performing with the Drama Workshop, Kama said "It was very stressful, but fun. It is very intense and hard work." When Scott was asked the same thing he said that he was surprised, but very excited that there was a Drama Workshop, he thinks they are starting a core group that will lead to many more productions.

Kama has been doing theatre performances throughout her high school career. In ninth grade she acted in "Act 3 Scene 5." In tenth grade she was in the PCHS drama club's production of "Never Trust a Man," which she felt was her best performance. And earlier this year she was in "A Book of Murder," which she thought was lots of fun. Scott Small has well over 40 stage credits along with a few films. He's done pretty much every genre of performances from classics to Neil Simon to Mammet. His favorite performance was a play called "The Ruling Class" by Peter Barnes. He remembers one performance of "Talk Radio" where he played a punk rocker and got to dye his hair blond; he had fun painting funny designs in his hair and the Hi on the top of his head. In her free time Kama likes to read, write, walk, play basketball, swim, listen to music, and DJ at WVMR. She's a member of the National Honor Society, and also she's very involved with the Drama Club at PCHS. Scott is very busy taking care of his two sons, Dylan and Roman, who are 12 and 8. Scott went to school in Pittsburgh at Point Park College where he worked in theatre. Scott is 35 years old and is currently selling resort property at Snowshoe. He enjoys basically everything Snowshoe has to offer.

The "Glass Menagerie" will be performed June 8 and 9 at 8 p.m. at the Marlinton Opera House.

May God bless you all.

The daughters of N done during Mom's sur Connie Waybright for h
you.

I would like to s at PMH: the whole st friends and family wh thanks to you all.

, Zachary Workman,
, Destiny
tlip.

sent decide to ers of the tates.

group has sh Can," a dren. When Paradise
lacksmith, omes the o save the nsored by arks and ocahontas oundation.

nce from als and the on on the to enjoy nesday, Opera hments formaration

Southern West Virginia Asphalt will be closed Monday, May 28, in observance of Memorial Day

ADDITIONAL $500 CASH BACK ON FORD TRUCKS!

Times

unty—The Birthplace of Riv

MAY 17, 2001 VOL.

load

General Electric

'Thousand Ponds' idea making waves among flood control plans

by Terrell McSweeny
Staff Writer

The title of the one-page summary reads, "The Thousand Ponds: A Dream, A Practical Plan, An Organization."

Since it was formally proposed in a letter to the editor of The Pocahontas Times, John Leyzorek's "Thousand Ponds" flood control idea has steadily gained momentum in Pocahontas County.

Public interest in the idea encouraged Leyzorek and others to establish The Thousand Ponds organization which has plans to incorporate as 501c3 non-profit.

"We are an unorganized organization with a small but growing number of interested people," said Leyzorek.

The Thousand Ponds plan is ambitious but simple. It calls for the construction of hundreds of small ponds to control the release of water into the Greenbrier River watershed. "At every convenient point on every possible branch, draw, or creek, or wherever water could be collected, build a pond," reads the Thousand Ponds pamphlet.

The ponds suggested in the plan would be constructed using the same engineering principles that are used to build many small-to-medium sized farm ponds. Each pond would contain an outflow device or spillway that would allow normal flow of water through the pond.

During a storm event water would continue to be released from the pond but the spillway or outflow would only be big enough to allow it to be released at two to five times its normal rate. A dam or embankment at the downstream end of the pond would hold as much as two or three inches of rainfall before water would flow out through an emergency spillway.

Emergency spillways prevent dams or embankments from being washed away when water levels rise too high for the structures.

The exact amount of water individual ponds would release under storm conditions would depend on the size of the pond and the size of the storm event. Ponds would be designed to hold back a 25-year storm event that lasts for six hours and dumps three-to-four inches of rain on Pocahontas County, according to National Weather Service estimates.

"In my experience I wouldn't think that you could store enough water to prevent a downstream flood because each pond would control a very small drainage area," said Paul Dunn, a Pocahontas County native who is the Natural Resources Conservation Service Assistant State Conservationist.

The Thousand Ponds organization hasn't calculated exactly how many ponds are needed to reduce flooding along the river. Small ponds can handle drainage from a 10-acre area—which means controlling drainage from every acre in the county would take over a thousand ponds.

"Generally farm ponds only store a small amount of water, probably not enough to provide much flood protection even with a thousand," said Dunn.

"This is not a program that will provide immediate flood control. This is a long-term process—the flood reduction benefit comes further downstream. One pond provides a small benefit. Several years worth of pond building will provide a much greater benefit," said Leyzorek.

Several years of pond building will take immense countywide cooperation.

The Thousand Ponds organization hopes to raise money and recruit volunteers to help with construction and maintenance of the ponds.

"I think people can work together because it is a project which clearly offers a benefit for many people which doesn't benefit one group and hurt another," said Leyzorek.

Which is why "The Thousand Ponds" is as much a plan as it is a dream.

"If a significant percentage of people get the idea that we can help ourselves then that would be worth it. I want this to grow because people demand it. It is not a plan that is imposed from the top down—it is demanded from the bottom up," said Leyzorek.

For more information contact The Thousand Ponds PO Box 118, Marlinton, WV 24954 or email thousandponds@yahoo.com.

The article was originally published in a letter to the editor of The Pocahontas Times. John Leyzorek's "Thousand Ponds" flood control idea has steadily gained momentum in Pocahontas County.

Public interest in the idea encouraged Leyzorek and others to establish The Thousand Ponds organization which has plans to incorporate as 501c3 non-profit.

"We are an unorganized organization with a small but growing number of interested people," said Leyzorek.

The Thousand Ponds plan is ambitious but simple. It calls for the construction of hundreds of small ponds to control the release of water into the Greenbrier River watershed. "At every convenient point on every possible branch, draw, or creek, or wherever water could be collected, build a pond," reads the Thousand Ponds pamphlet.

The ponds suggested in the plan would be constructed using the same engineering principles that are used to build many small-to-medium sized farm ponds. Each pond would contain an outflow device or spillway that would allow normal flow of water through the pond.

During a storm event water would continue to be released from the pond but the spillway or outflow would only be big enough to allow it to be released at two to five times its normal rate. A dam or embankment at the downstream end of the pond would hold as much as two or three inches of rainfall before water would flow out through an emergency spillway.

Emergency spillways prevent dams or embankments from being washed away when water levels rise too high for the structures.

The exact amount of water individual ponds would release under storm conditions would depend on the size of the pond and the size of the storm event. Ponds would be designed to hold back a 25-year storm event that lasts for six hours and dumps three-to-four inches of rain on Pocahontas County, according to National Weather Service estimates.

"In my experience I wouldn't think that you could store enough water to prevent a downstream flood because each pond would control a very small drainage area," said Paul Dunn, a Pocahontas County native who is the Natural Resources Conservation Service Assistant State Conservationist.

The Thousand Ponds organization hasn't calculated exactly how many ponds are needed to reduce flooding along the river. Small ponds can handle drainage from a 10-acre area—which means controlling drainage from every acre in the county would take over a thousand ponds.

"Generally farm ponds only store a small amount of water, probably not enough to provide much flood protection even with a thousand," said Dunn.

"This is not a program that will provide immediate flood control. This is a long-term process—the flood reduction benefit comes further downstream. One pond provides a small benefit. Several years worth of pond building will provide a much greater benefit," said Leyzorek.

Several years of pond building will take immense countywide cooperation.

The Thousand Ponds organization hopes to raise money and recruit volunteers to help with construction and maintenance of the ponds.

"I think people can work together because it is a project which clearly offers a benefit for many people which doesn't benefit one group and hurt another," said Leyzorek.

Which is why "The Thousand Ponds" is as much a plan as it is a dream.

"If a significant percentage of people get the idea that we can help ourselves then that would be worth it. I want this to grow because people demand it. It is not a plan that is imposed from the top down—it is demanded from the bottom up," said Leyzorek.

For more information contact The Thousand Ponds PO Box 118, Marlinton, WV 24954 or email thousandponds@yahoo.com.

Road contract awarded

The Division of Highways has announced that RBR Drilling Company of Belmont, Ohio, has been awarded a $177,668 contract for piling to correct a slide on Price Hill on Rt. 219/39, south of Marlinton.

MMS Honor Rolls

Marlinton Middle School is proud to announce its Principal List (4.0), Honor Roll (3.75 - 3.99 with no grade below a C), and Merit Roll (3.5 - 3.749 with no grade below a D) for the 5th 6-week grading term.

7th grade: Pam Jordan, Cammie Wade, Rebekah Friel, Amie Fowler, Chelsea Shears.

5th grade: Cami Conner, Zach Groves, Katherine Beverage, Jamie Hip, Britney Barlow, Ashley Holland, Jarod Minighini, Katie Moore.

6th grade: Pam Jordan, Cammie Wade, Rebekah Friel, Amie Fowler, Chelsea Shears.

Tom's Garage
Batteries • Tires • Exhaust
Diagnostic Equipment
304-456-5104

Cake Walk at the BFD Firehouse
May 26 • 7 p.m.

Spaghetti Dinner
Friday, May18
Durbin United Methodist Church
4 p.m. - 7 p.m.
Adults - $5 Children ages 6-12 - $3
Under 6 - Free

Hillsboro Alumni Banquet
Saturday, May 26

The ponds suggested in the plan would be constructed using the same engineering principles that are used to build many small-to-medium sized farm ponds. Each pond would contain an outflow device or spillway that would allow normal flow of water through the pond.

During a storm event water would continue to be released from the pond but the spillway or outflow would only be big enough to allow it to be released at two to five times its normal rate. A dam or embankment at the downstream end of the pond would hold as much as two or three inches of rainfall before water would flow out through an emergency spillway.

Emergency spillways prevent dams or embankments from being washed away when water levels rise too high for the structures.

The exact amount of water individual ponds would release under normal circumstances or hold during storms must be calculated on a case-by-case basis. The Thousand Ponds organization plans to help landowners design their ponds to meet the needed specifications.

"The major purpose of the organization is to provide assistance in building the ponds—in engineering, site selection, and maybe financial support," said Leyzorek.

Constructing ponds and small dams to meet the specifications the Thousand Ponds group is suggesting isn't difficult. Many local contractors are capable of doing the excavation work. If the ponds are small, they won't require permits from state agencies or much outside involvement.

The West Virginia Dam Control and Safety Act (WV Code 22-14-3) requires permitting and inspections for dams that are greater than 25 feet in height from the streambed and have less than a 15-acre feet capacity or are six feet in height from the streambed and have less than a 25 acre feet capacity.

The WV Code also appears to provide an exception to the dam rules for farm ponds larger than that size that pose no threat if dams fail.

However property owners are liable if problems arise from structures on their property.

"Land owners are liable for damage downstream for failure of a dam so it is very important to have may limit access and maintenance of ponds. town 65% of land in Pocahontas County.

"There is no absolute obstacle for doing it. The community can demand that it take place and should not be balked by merely bureaucratic obstacles," said Leyzorek.

Still, support or opposition from elected officials could make or break the plan. In the 1960s and 1990s the federal government studied similar watershed protection measures—which led to the con-is never more than full"—full but not exceeding banks.

The Army Corps of Engineers studied building several similar dam structures on other major Greenbrier River tributaries in a 1993-1994 river corridor management plan but lack of Congressional support and an unbalanced benefit-to-cost ratio killed the project.

A 1996 Congressional authorization limited the Army Corps to considering local flood control pro-enough small storage areas and you will see some benefits—but the viability of doing it is where you run into trouble. When we talk about a flood event like 1985, a 350 year event, I don't think you could build enough storage to contain that," said Sean Smith, an Army Corps of Engineers hydrologist.

A 25-year storm event that lasts for six hours dumps three-to-four inches of rain on Pocahontas Coun-years worth of pond building will provide a much greater benefit," said Leyzorek.

Several years of pond building will take immense countywide cooperation.

The Thousand Ponds organization hopes to raise money and recruit

MMS Honor Rolls

Marlinton Middle School is proud to announce its Principal List (4.0), Honor Roll (3.75 - 3.99 with no grade below a C), and Merit Roll (3.5 - 3.749 with no grade below a D) for the 5th 6-week grading term.

Principal's List:

8th grade: Kayla Jordan, Jonathon Burns, Clay Bell, Lucia Mosesso.

7th grade: Dustin Cutlip, Lynn Jordan, Harley Squires, Lauren Trozzi, Rurik Tywoniw, Renae Burks, Curtis Dunbrack, Hallie Herold, Billy Owens, Brandy Sharp.

6th grade: Samantha Bailey, Heidi Beverage, Ross Morgan, Jenny Rose, Sarah Wilkins, Justin Dilley, Brittany McMann, Ann Stemple, Tyler Wylie, Priscilla Young.

5th grade: Justin Beverage, Hannah Giddings, Ethan Lash, Katie Workman, David Mitchell, Amy Sharp.

Honor Roll:

8th grade: Sam Parker, Jillian Weiford, Steven Beard, Adam Irvine, Jillian Rose, Hannah Hollandsworth.

7th grade: Grant Dale, Miranda Sharp, Karis Carpenter, Ashli Cutlip, Britney Barlow, Ashley Holland, Jarod Minighini, Katie Moore.

6th grade: Pam Jordan, Cammie Wade, Rebekah Friel, Amie Fowler, Chelsea Shears.

5th grade: Cami Cosner, Zach Grimes, Katherine Beverage, Jaenna Burns, Zack Graham, Kristen Pollard, Haley Cutlip, Caitlyn Sharp, Cyndi Dunz.

Merit Roll:

8th grade: Seth Nelson, Kenny Janz.

7th grade: Joey Gooding, Tiffany Hudson, Scarlett Matheny, Tabitha May, Jennifer Morrison, Dessery Vela, Steven Boggs, Samantha Long, Kristen Nicholas, Valerie Pritt, Collin Butler, Jeremy Moore, Josh VanReenan.

6th grade: Dylan Small, Leslie Crookshanks, Jennifer Cutlip, Candace Hensler, Muranda Howt, Jaclyn Crane, Brittany Finley, Alexa Furboe, Nebraska Beverage.

5th grade: Amber Johnson, Vanessa Malcomb, Kesha Workman, Ira Lee Brown, Patricia Cochran, Staci Kelley, Abby McCoy, Janessa Sharp, Sheena Turbin.

Cake Walk at the BPD Firehouse
May 26 • 7 p.m.

Proceeds benefit Durbin Days

Spaghetti
Friday, Ma
Durbin United Met
4 p.m. - 7
Adults - $5 Childr
Under 6

Hillsboro
Saturd
Ca
Price $9 (7.50 for Banquet, open to single alumni ma Reservations m Make checks pa c/o Ruth Cum 24954

The Rock House
Antiques • Books • Crafts
"Mountain Measures - A Second Serving" recipes compiled & tested by The Junior League of Charleston
"Fur Appalachia - Following the New River North" by Noah Adams
"The Apalachian Forest" by Chris Bolgiano
Hillsboro High School Yearbooks for 1954, 1957, 1959, 1960, 1963, 1964, and 1967
Main Street, Marlinton
(304)799-6959
10 am - 5 pm
Most Days

Pro
The R Satu
2 - Inc Ch

Saturday, May 26
5 p.m. - ?

Ham & Chicken Supper

Mt. Grove Fire Department

Proceeds benefit
Durbin Days

7th grade: Dustin Cutlip, Lyndon Hanley Squires, Lauren Foster, Rorik Tyree, Renee Burks, Cutie Dunbeck, Hallie Herold, Billy Owens, Brandy Sharp.

8th grade: Amanda Bailey, Heath Rose, Sarah Wilkins, Justin Dilley, Brittany McMann, Ann Stemple, Tyler Wylie, Priscilla Young.

5th grade: Justin Beverage, Hannah Giddings, Ethan Lash, Katie Workman, David Mitchell, Amy Sharp.

Honor Roll:

8th grade: Sam Parker, Jillian Welford, Steven Beard, Adam Irvine, Jillian Rose, Hannah Hollandsworth.

7th grade: Grant Dale, Miranda Sharp, Karis Carpenter, Ashli Cut-

Merit Roll:

8th grade: Seth Nelson, Kenny Jane.

7th grade: Joey Gooding, Tiffany Hudson, Scarlet Mayberry, Tabatha May, Jennifer Montgomery, Vela, Steven Boggs, Samantha Long, Kristen Nicholas, Valerie Pritt, Collin Butler, Jeremy Moore, Josh VanReenan.

6th grade: Dylan Small, Leslie Crookshanks, Jennifer Cutlip, Candace Hensler, Muranda Howe, Jaclyn Crane, Brittany Finley, Alexa Furbee, Nebraska Beverage.

5th grade: Amber Johnson, Vanessa Malcomb, Kesha Workman, Ira Le Brown, Patricia Cochran, Staci Kelley, Abby McCoy, Janessa Sharp, Sheena Turbin.

Construction ponds and small dams to meet the specifications the Thousand Ponds group is suggesting isn't difficult. Many local contractors are capable of doing the excavation work. If the ponds are small, they won't require permits from state agencies or much outside involvement.

The West Virginia Dam Control and Safety Act (WV Code 22-14-3) requires permitting and inspections for dams that are greater than 25 feet in height from the streambed and have less than a 15-acre feet capacity or are six feet in height from the streambed and have less than a 25 acre feet capacity.

The WV Code also appears to provide an exception to the dam rules for farm ponds larger than that size that pose no threat if dams fail.

However property owners are liable if problems arise from structures on their property.

"Land owners are liable for damage downstream for failure of a dam so it is very important to have proper engineering," said Norris Long, a Natural Resources Conservation Service technician who helps farmers build ponds.

Finding suitable materials to build ponds and level places to put them may prove more of a challenge than constructing them.

Ponds on sloping ground require downstream dams and embankments taller than those on level ground, which increases the chance they

Saturday,
May 26
5 p.m. - ?

Ham & Chicken Supper

Mt. Grove Fire Department
Mt. Grove, VA

$8 Adults
$4 Children

The Rock House
Antiques • Books • Crafts

"Mountain Measures - A Second Serving" recipes compiled & tested by The Junior League of Charleston

"Far Appalachia - Following the New River North" by Noah Adams

"The Apalachian Forest" by Chris Bolgiano

Hillsboro High School Yearbooks for 1954, 1957, 1959, 1960, 1963, 1964, and 1967

Main Street, Marlinton
(304)799-6959
10 am - 5 pm
Most Days

Summer Special

Buy One, Get One FREE on any regular priced pizza, any day and any time.

MILL RUN
STEAK & TROUT HOUSE
(304) 799-6247

Open Thursday, Friday, Saturday
12 noon - 9 p.m.
Sunday 12 noon - 5 p.m.
After Church Buffet 12 noon - 4 p.m.

"Friday Special"
Seafood Platter
Shrimp, Scallops, Oysters, Fish,

THE PARADISE TEEPEE on Slatyfork Farm will be raised for the summer season on May 26 as part of High Rocks Academy fundraiser.

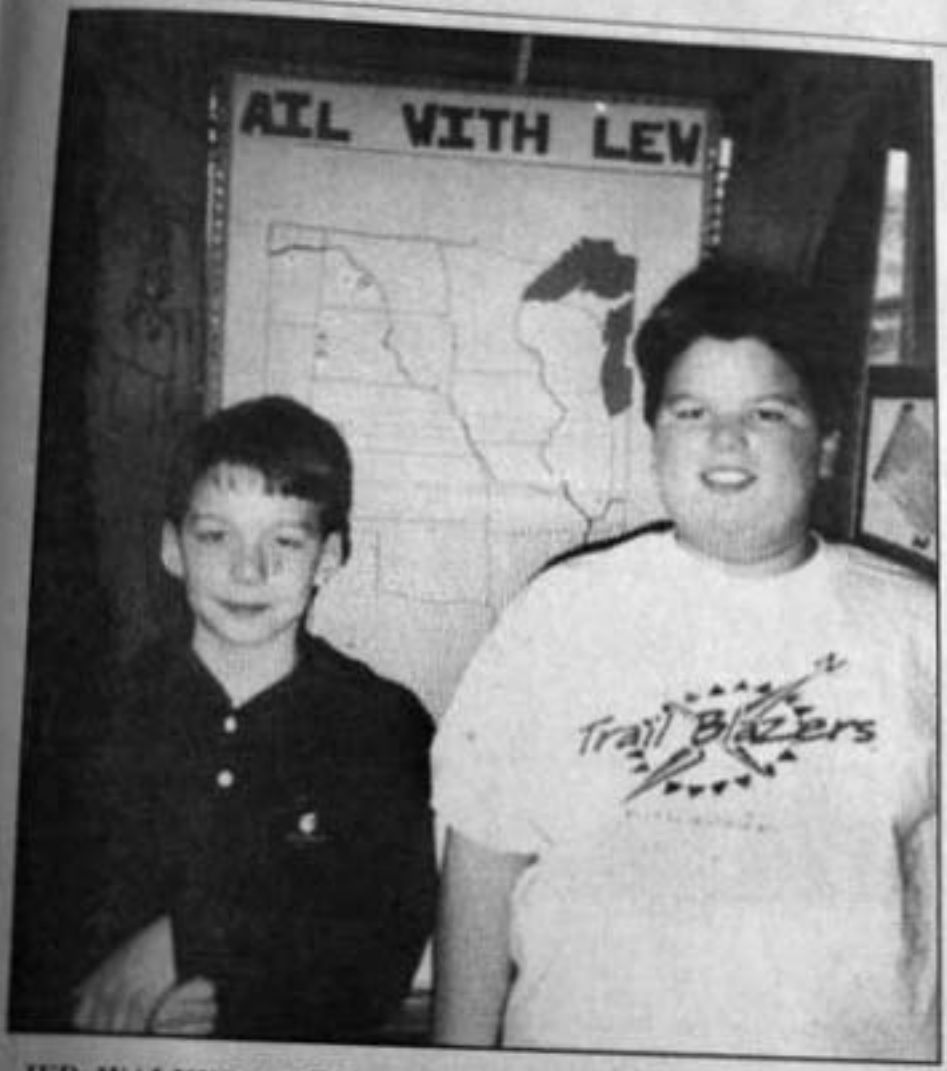
High Rocks Academy to benefit from fundraiser at Paradise Teepee

Paradise Teepee will kick off its fourth season this summer with a community wide fundraising on Saturday, May 26, from 5:30 to 9:30 p.m. with proceeds to benefit High Rocks Academy.

High Rocks Academy is a tuition-free, year-round program that helps West Virginia teenage girls become leaders. They build academic skills and self-esteem through summer camps, after-school tutoring, community service projects, and reunions.

The event, being catered by Trails End Catering, will begin with the raising of the Teepee in the afternoon, followed by an old-fashioned barbecue and live entertainment by local musicians, singing and strumming. Come join in the fun and festivities for this com-

Antiques & Collectibles



JED WALKUP AND Luke Walkup were first place winners in the State Social Studies Fair.

Pocahontas students win at State Social Studies Fair

Pocahontas County students came away from the State Social Studies Fair with thirteen winners. Luke and Jed Walkup were the big winners by placing first in the Geography category. The two students from Bride of Christ Academy not only won the contest trophy but also were awarded the West Virginia Geography Alliance prize.

All of the eight PCHS participants placed in the top groups. Holly and Robin Nelson came in second in sociology. Timothy VanReenen, Serena Shaw and Adrienne Juergens placed third in their categories. Honorable mention went to Micah Johnson, Mathias Callison, and Tracy Mamak.

Among middle school students, honorable mentions went to Katie Workman and Katherine Beverage from Marlinton Middle and Corey Lawrence from Green Bank School.

Thirty-six Pocahontas students participated in the contest along with over forty parents. Over one thousand projects were exhibited from all over West Virginia.

PCHS Warrior Athletic Banquet to be held

DON FLEGEL
PLANNING UTILIZATION PROTECTION
P.O. BOX 188
(304) 456-4812

Warr

By

The PCHS track team tr
Lewisburg May 8 to comp
Greenbriar East track meet.

David Palmer finished 100m dash (11.6),
Schoolcraft grabbed 1
400m run (53.9).

Palmer also took 2nd pl 200m dash (23.2) and 400m run (54.1). Eric U finished 4th in the 800m time of 2:19.

Once again the boys 4
lay team emerged victori time of 3:48. The 4x8 placed 2nd. Both the shu team and the 4x100m te 3rd.

Caroline McKean pla
the 1600m race with 6:20. Laura Walkup fini the 800m run in 3 minut

People

Durbin resident at Shepherd Co Student Recogniti

Durbin resident S
berry was among appro Shepherd College stude at the college's 52 Student Recognition Da
day, May 3.

Shinaberry was a
the Community Service
is a 1996 graduate of County High School an Howard Shinaberry a Starke. He is a senior mathematics major and of Student Government Executive Board, Shephe Services, and Leadership Committee.

CB RADIOS
Stop in at NAPA, Ma Bartow for all of Radio needs. If we d it we will get it! Call

Building Fund:
and Pearl Clarkson, Odell, Charles and Car-Citizens Communica-

ilding Fund:
Linda Gibb, James and Eril H. Sharp, D.O., Julia Jessee, Harry
y Lowe, Max Gum, nal Bank, Marvin and n memory of Eleanor enny Sharp), Gibbs
Robin Mutscheller, ean Sharp (in mem-r" Mrs. Ora Bell
p), Sylvia Orndorff, unications, Virginia
ackson, Luis Soriaeanor Stewart:

Bernice Patton, Mary M. Lacy.
n Eakridge:
bby Shaw, Martha McMann and Bill s, Mildred Brill, Emery, Sam and Rexrode, Rachel

mon Withers: up.

001 available at all ahontas County

Visitors Bureau.
lace and several

t funded in part ary Fairs, Festienen Home en, Owner Manager

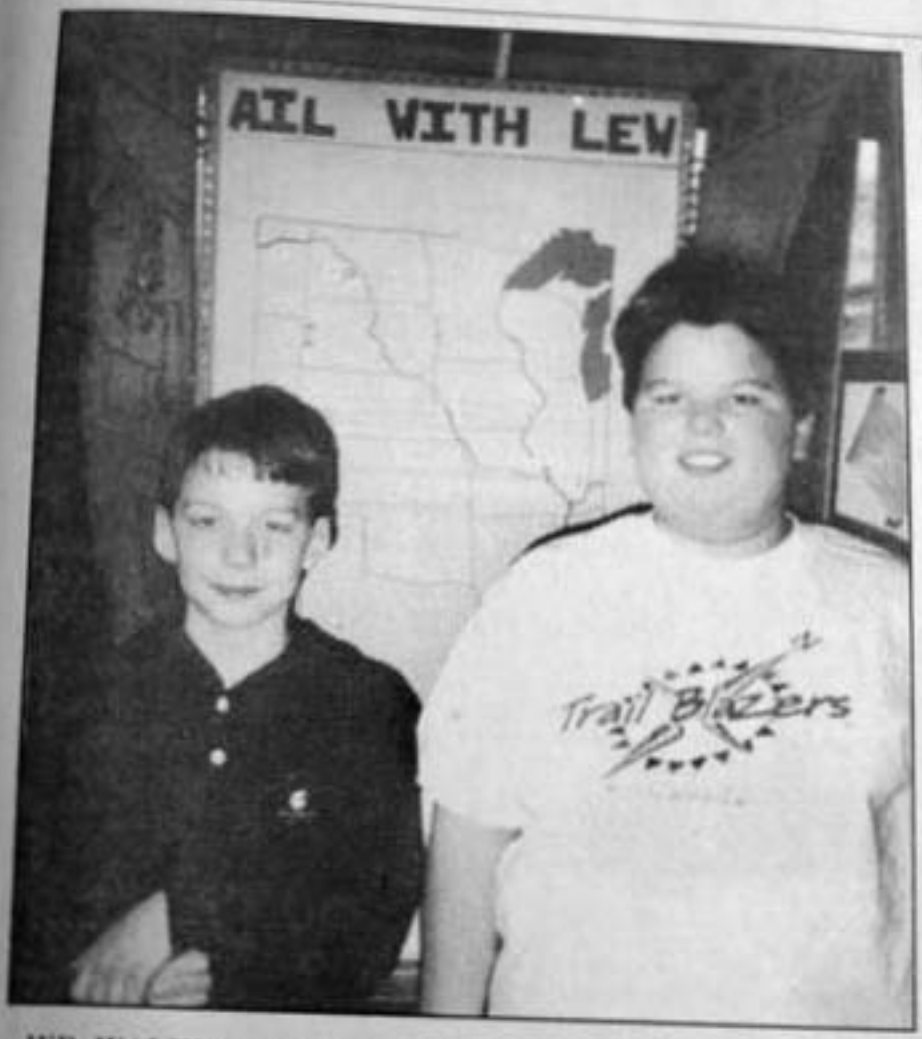
V 24954
9-4553
9-4074

HP



JED WALKUP AND Luke Walkup were first place winners in the State Social Studies Fair.

Pocahontas students win at State Social Studies Fair

Pocahontas County students came away from the State Social Studies Fair with thirteen winners. Luke and Jed Walkup were the big winners by placing first in the Geography category. The two students from Bride of Christ Academy not only won the contest trophy but also were awarded the West Virginia Geography Alliance prize.

All of the eight PCHS participants placed in the top groups. Holly and Robin Nelson came in second in sociology; Timothy VanReenen, Serena Shaw and Adrienne Juergens placed third in their categories. Honorable mention went to Micah Johnson, Mathias Callison, and Tracy Mamak.

Among middle school students, honorable mentions went to Katie Workman and Katherine Beverage from Marlinton Middle and Corey Lawrence from Green Bank School.

Thirty-six Pocahontas students participated in the contest along with over forty parents. Over one thousand projects were exhibited from all over West Virginia.

DON FLEGEL
CONSULTING FORESTER PLANNING UTILIZATION PROTECTION
P.O. BOX 130
GREEN BANK, WV 24944
(304) 456-4812

PCHS Warrior Athletic Banquet to be held

The annual PCHS Athletic

Warr

By

The PCHS track team tr
Lewisburg May 8 to comp
Greenbriar East track meet
David Palmer finished
100m dash (11.6),
Schoolcraft grabbed 400m run (53.9).
Palmer also took 2nd p 200m dash (23.2) and 400m run (54.1). Eric U
finished 4th in the 800m
time of 2:19.
Once again the boys
lay team emerged victor
time of 3:48. The 4x placed 2nd. Both the sh team and the 4x100m
3rd.
Caroline McKean pl
the 1600m race with 6:20. Laura Walkup fin the 800m run in 3 minu

Peopl

Durbin resident at Shepherd C Student Recogni

Durbin resident berry was among appr Shepherd College stud at the college's 52 Student Recognition D day, May 3.

Shinaberry was a the Community Servic is a 1996 graduate of County High School a Howard Shinaberry Starke. He is a senior mathematics major an of Student Government Executive Board, Shep Services, and Leadership Committee.

CB RADIO
Stop in at NAPA, M Bartow for all o Radio needs. If we it we will get it! Ca or 456-4432

MCCLINTIC LIBRARY PRESENTS

HISTORY ALIVE!

Friday, May 25 • 1 p.m.

"DEVIL ANSE" HATFIELD

Devil Anse Hatfield, feuding patriarch and entrepreneur, will be portrayed by Paul Lutz, Marshall University History Professor. Often portrayed as the stereotypical feuding mountaineer, William Anderson Hatfield was far from primitive or uncivilized. He was a successful timberman and businessman.

This is the fourth installment in McClintic's heritage series. Come and see this colorful West Virginian come to life in a historical reenactment. "Hatfield" will answer questions from the audience following his performance. The event is free to the public.

WEST VIRGINIA LIBRARY COMMISSION

This project is supported in whole or in part by the US Institute of Museum and Library Services under the provisions of the Library Services and Technology Act, administered in West Virginia by the State Librarian.

Wife, Violet

In Loving Memory
of Jimmie A. Ryder, Sr. who left us – May 22, 2000
God saw him getting tired and a cure was not to be,
So He put His arms around him and whispered, "Come with Me."
With tearful eyes we watched him suffer and fade away, Although we loved him dearly
we could not make him stay.
A golden heart stopped beating hard working hands to rest,
God broke our hearts to promise us
He only takes the best.
Big Guy, we will always love and miss you.
Frank and Susie Murphy
Michael, Karen, Michelle, and Melissa Murphy
Jerry, Julie & James Nelson

Jerry, Julie & James Nelson

In Loving Memory
of Gary Stephen Warner
December 27, 1957
February 6, 2001

Today, May 17, is our 21st wedding anniversary. Gary, I miss hearing your truck coming up the driveway in the evenings; I miss your wonderful smile; I miss your voice in the morning; I miss when you would wake up and tell me you love me and give me a kiss. When I turn over at night and you are not there, tears roll down my face. I think of you every minute of the day. I cry myself to sleep every night. I miss and love you so much. I will never forget you. I will always love you with all my heart.

So my love, Happy Anniversary
Your Wife,
Sara L. Warner

Dad, we love and miss you so much.

Happy Anniversary
Your Sons, Aric, Justin, Gary (Punky)

the smile he usand things ut him while ne with him

d deep in nd watered to keep them rough all the ur keepsake er part, God g, we have re each day.

len,
indy,
rtis, lo

ory urgess 953

ed so much,

ur heart ir renly Father

our sorrow above ear it s love eet

ed

o heartache, pain

A Look Fift

Ha Birt Robe

Lo Shan Me

CIN

"SHRE
Mat. Sat., Sun., Nightly

"ANGEL
Mat. Sat., Sun., Nightly 6

"THE MUMMY R
Mat. Sat., Sun.,
Nightly 6

"BRIDGET JON
Mat. Sat., Sun., Nightly 7

"OH BROTH
ART TH
Mat. Sat., Sun., Nightly 6:

"CROCODILE DUN
Mat. Sat., Sun.,

In Memoriam

In Loving Memory
of Jimmie Ryder, Sr. passed away
May 22, 2000

Jim,

I thought of you with love today, but that is nothing new, I thought about you yesterday, and days before that too. I think of you in silence, I often speak your name, now all I have are memories, and your picture in a frame. Your memory is my keepsake, with which I'll never part, God has you in his keeping, I have you in my heart.

Sadly Missed by — Wife, Violet

taking care of Memorial Hosp me there. I als thanks to Conn made to me. Th

May 17, 2
belongings. W ciate Helen's less. The gen churches has b
We are a Your offers to We now helped to mak

The fami
ers, and prayer Memorial Hos care. Thanks t

The fami
Methodist Chu es, VanReenen sympathy at a

Pioneer
July

Steve and Grandchildren

In Loving Memory
of a very special sister Jennie M. Cutlip
May 16, 1936 - March 9, 2000
In our Hearts

We thought of you with love today, but that is nothing new.

We thought about you yesterday, and days before that too.

We think of you in silence, we often speak your name,

Now all we have are memories and your picture in a frame.

Your memory is our keepsake, with which we will never part.

God has you in His keeping, we have you in our hearts.

Sadly missed and loved.
Nancy, Ray and Families have are picture memory which I you in h in my he Sa

In Ji who l God
and So He p and whi
With tea su Althou
we co
A golde hard God brok
He Big G

In Loving Memory
of Curtis G. Dunbrack, Jr.
May 22, 1950
October 23, 1981

The way he talked, the smile he wore, and all the thousand things so dear; we loved about him while he lived, haven't gone with him from here.

They are planted deep in memory's garden, and watered daily with our tears, to keep them ever fresh and vivid through all the coming years.

Your memory is our keepsake with which we will never part, God has you in His keeping, we have you in our hearts.

Love and Miss you more each day.

Mom, Dad, Helen,
Russell, Alice, Cindy, Teresa, Little Curtis, Jessica, Camillo

Jessica, Camillo

In Loving Memory
of our son, Frank Burgess
September 28, 1953
May 21, 2000

One year ago today,
the twenty- first of May A precious one we loved so much, suddenly passed away
There was a hole left in our heart
The pain too much to bear but our precious Heavenly Father took us in His care
He looked down upon our sorrow from His heavenly home above and gave us strength to bear it and sustained us with His love
We know that we shall meet again in a better world Where the roses you loved will forever bloom
Where there will be no heartache, sadness or gloom
No more sorrow, tears, or pain
No more death - but life to gain
We will walk hand in hand with our Savior,
never to part again.

Loved, missed and never forgotten
Mom and Dad,
Goldie and Ed Burgess

you woul
you love When I you are n
my face.
minute of sleep ever you so m
you. I wi all my hea
So my lo

Dad, u much.
Ha

Aric,

The Dr. Jo will May

What kind for yoursel entreprene

In Loving Memory

Times

—The Birthplace of Ri

MAY 10, 2001 VOL

ST?

Let MacCLEA

Treatment S

changes to Times
n WV 24954
04) 799-6466
week of the year.
est Virginia 24954
373 (including tax)
-of-State $25
ATES
d—20¢ word
TT, Managing Editor
rrita

Editor's ok Print flowers

this beautiful place?
ficent by Nature and at about Pocahontas of weeks ago or the so much better, I've

what's good when what I thought was cadomias Memorial the town a prettier

ck approached the property, with the past few years and each man's group mile edge as sitting rail over the lodge

y often, or talk to gossiping as both family, picking the ntly building, and to see that people to a quarrel about the lunches

the two of them.
PMH property
y can do if they ather, but I think Pinehurst [illegible] party—but after to ll sit up when how each other ters and the old from each other of their natures to k, I'd like see a ion

Flood plan

by Terrell McSweeny
Staff Writer

Editors' Note: This story is the last in a series dealing with Marlinton residents' reaction to floodwalls and levees for protection.

The final decision whether to build floodwalls and levees around Marlinton will rest in the hands of the mayor and the five members of the town council.

For two years this group has attended meetings with the Army Corps of Engineers, reviewed plans, read hydrology studies, and heard concerns and objections to the project from their constituents.

They are unanimously in favor of the levees and flood walls.

The economic future of downtown Marlinton is the council's primary reason for supporting the flood control project. Without flood protection council members see little hope of creating jobs or stabilizing property values in the downtown flood zone.

"I have been flooded three times. We won't get anybody to move in town until we get some kind of flood control," said Jim Kellison.

"If there is no flood control the town will show signs of deterioration and it will take forever to get property values back to where they should be. We won't see new investments and no new jobs," said Mayor Doug Dunbrack.

"I don't want any more floods so I deem flood control to be a necessary thing," said Dotty Kellison.

In the last 15 years most new development in and around Marlinton has been limited to high ground in Edray, Beard Heights, and Price Hill. The town council hopes to contain this development trend with flood control.

"If there is no flood control you will see everything leave down town--Marlinton will move up on the hill if nothing happens," said Jim Gibb.

The council is united in support of the levees and floodwalls—but most members are begrudgingly so.

"The project is really the number two thing—I really would prefer a dam. I think that is the way to go but our representatives in Charleston and Washington have said that they won't support that. We have to accept the hand we were dealt with—the levees and the floodwalls is the next best alternative," said Gibb.

"We won't ever get a dam," said Jim Kellison.

Their support of the project may be half-hearted, but council members believe that it is the only option to preserve the town.

"It's the only alternative of flood protection that we have so we have to stay together on this if this project would fail due to public comments in my opinion is that we will never have any type of flood control in the future," said Dunbrack.

"Read the story about the potids and everything—but I am afraid we will get into another twenty years of study and the town will be washed away. I think that the quickest way is to stay on track and stay focused," said Gibb.

"We need to do something and this is the time," said Jim Kellison. The town council doesn't seem dissuaded by its divided constituency—no clear majority in Marlinton supports the project.

"I think that there are more people in favor of the project," said Dotty Kellison.

Mayor Dunbrack hopes to bring people together by meeting with them.

"I would definately encourage the town council to speak to people in the community. I plan to continue going into neighborhoods to talk to people about flood control," said Dunbrack.

Garnering support for the project may prove difficult for the mayor without help from the town council, at least one member of which shies away from publicity.

Council member Loretta Malcomb declined comment for this story. Council member Robin Minichiller could not be reached for comment.

In addition to bringing the community together in support of the project the town council will also be saddled with figuring out how to pay for the $60 million flood control project. If Marlinton chooses to build the levees and floodwalls the state will likely help come up with $8.2 million local match. But the town must raise the $60,000 a year in Operation and Maintenance costs.

"I can't see where its going to cost that much money—when that day comes that is something that we will have to take a look at—but I don't have any magic answers about where money is going to come from," said Gibb.

Dunbrack's plan to raise the money for the Operation and Maintenance costs hinges on implementing a $2 per $100 B & O tax on contractors.

"My thoughts have always been that the B & O tax on the construction of the levees will create the town around million dollars. The interest from that will be able to pay for O and M costs for years," said Dunbrack.

The town council dismisses concerns that the levees and floodwalls will be over-topped or fail during a large flood event.

"The Corps of Engineers are the experts on flood control so we have to take their advice that this system will work and we shouldn't second guess their professional opinion. It's the last resort," said Dunbrack.

"We can't please everybody," said Jim Kellison.

'buck' stops with town council

Magistrate Court

Daniel L. Smith, of Coalton, was arrested on April 26 by State Police Sgt. J. P. Barlow on charges of domestic battery and battery. He was released the next day on $1000 bond.

Randall S. Lambert, of Dunmore, was arrested on Thursday of last week by State Police Tpr. D. A. Evans on a charge of domestic battery. He was released the next day on $500 bond.

Jeffrey A. Hinchings, of Ferrum, Virginia, was arrested Friday by Deputy Sheriff T. A. McCoy and charged with DUI. He appeared before Magistrate William Hevener and pled guilty to the offense. He was sentenced to 30 days in jail and fined $150 with $117 in court costs.

Donald R. Snyder, of Marlinton, appeared before Magistrate Hevener on Friday and entered pleas of guilty to destruction of property and possession of less than 15 grams of marijuana. On the first offense he was sentenced to four days in jail, fined $50 and assessed $87 in court costs and $405 in restitution. For the drug charge, Snyder was placed on probation for six months. Charges of battery, disorderly conduct, and possession of less than 15 grams of marijuana, second offense, were dismissed.

Douglas J. Tutwiler, of Snowshoe, was arrested Saturday by Deputy Sheriff B. C. Totten on charges of domestic assault and domestic battery. He was released on $1000 bond.

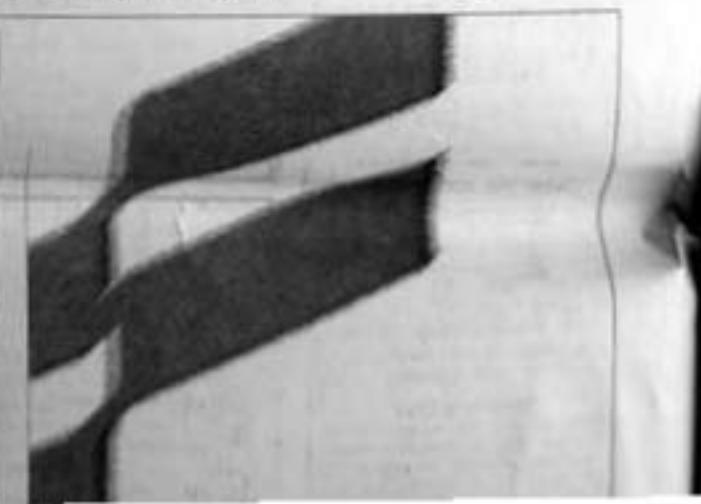
Randall A. Grimes, of Marlinton, was arrested by Deputy McCoy on Saturday and charged with child abuse (a felony) and domestic battery. He was placed in jail in lieu of $5000 bond.

Jason A. Sharp, of Marlinton, was arrested Saturday on a charge of driving with his license revoked due to DUI by State Police Tpr. W. A. Pendleton. He was released on $500 bond.

Charles E. Simmons, of Hot Springs, Virginia, was arrested on Monday by State Police D. M. McMillan on a charge of third offense DUI, a felony. He was placed in jail in lieu $2,500 bond.

Orchids...

To Sheets Oldsmobile of Green Bank, for hosting the Brethren Youth Car Wash.



as periodicals ISSN 0738-8373
YEARLY SUBSCRIPTION CHARGES (including tax)
In-County $13.78 • In-State $23.32 • Out-of-State $25
WEEKLY ADVERTISING RATES
Display—$4.50 column inch—Classified—20¢ word
WILLIAM P. McNEEL, Editor • PAMELA E. PRITT, Managing Editor
JANE PRICE SHARP, Editor Emerita

THURSDAY, MAY 10, 2001

Managing Editor's Notebook

by Pamela E. Pritt

Counting blessings, planting flowers

Has anyone thought lately how good it is to live in this beautiful place?

I've been working diligently on this year's Magnificent by Nature and whether it's forcing myself to think about what's great about Pocahontas County, the ramps my mother-in-law fed me a couple of weeks ago or the fact my father, who has been seriously ill, is doing so much better, I've been feeling good and counting blessings.

Sometimes, though, it's hard to think about what's good when confronted regularly about what is not.

A few years ago, newcomer Jay Perry came up with what I thought was a marvelous idea—building a gazebo on the old Pocahontas Memorial Hospital property and planting flowers there to give the town a prettier entrance from the west side.

A few weeks ago, Marlinton Mayor Doug Dunbrack approached the Pocahontas County Commission, which owns the property, with the same idea. And got some money to do it with.

Now the two haven't gotten along very well in the past few years and have, it seems to me, built up factions of support from each man's group of friends and acquaintances. Dunbrack does have a little edge as sitting mayor, but Perry has prevailed in court with the quarrel over the lodge building on Main Street.

If you attend Marlinton Town Council meetings very often, or talk to someone who does, you probably know that the quarrel continues as both sides pick at each other back and forth, twisting the knife, picking the scab.

I'm glad Perry won the fight about the lodge. It's a lovely building, and it looks good with a coat of green paint. It's also good to see that people are interested in keeping the town as original as possible.

However, the quarrel over a building has blossomed into a quarrel about flowers and town improvements.

It's got to stop and now's as good a time as any to bury the hatchet.

I think Perry and Dunbrack should work together, just the two of them, to come up with a plan for the gazebo and flowers. Let the PMH property be their common ground to build from. It's the least they can do if they truly have Marlinton's best interest at heart.

I don't expect them to like each other or break bread together, but I think I should be able to expect, as should all the citizens and business owners in Marlinton, that our leadership—and that includes Perry—be able to make peace over some petunias.

The animosity isn't just hurting them, it's hurting all of us who live and work in Marlinton.

We can't expect to grow here until we show respect for each other.

We have so many blessings here, including newcomers and the old guard. Surely, we all have something we can learn from each other.

Surely, Dunbrack and Perry can call on the better angels of their natures to plant some flowers.

I'd like to see the PMH property be improved as park, I'd like see a hatchet burying ceremony when it's dedicated.

And all of Marlinton will have another blessing to count.

...

Notice

The tax office only in the Courthouse will be closed Friday, May 18.

...

Representative to be at WVU Extension Office

A representative of the West

Commission receives bids for tannery project

The County Commission met for Marlinton will rest in the hands of the mayor and the five members of the town council.

For two years this group has attended meetings with the Army Corps of Engineers, reviewed plans, read hydrology studies, and heard concerns and objections to the project from their constituents.

They are unanimously in favor of the levees and flood walls.

The economic future of downtown Marlinton is the council's primary reason for supporting the flood control project. Without flood protection council members see little hope of creating jobs or stabilizing property values in the downtown flood zone.

"I have been flooded three times. We won't get anybody to move to town until we get some kind of flood control," said Jim Kellison.

"If there is no flood control the town will show signs of deterioration and it will take forever to get property values back to where they should be. We won't see new investments and no new jobs," said Mayor Doug Dunbrack.

"I don't want any more floods so I deem flood control to be a necessary thing," said Dotty Kellison.

In the last 15 years most new development in and around Marlinton has been limited to high ground in Edray, Beard Heights, and Price Hill. The town council hopes to contain this development trend with flood control.

"If there is no flood control you will see everything leave down town–Marlinton will move up on the hill if nothing happens," said Jim Gibb.

The council is united in support of the levees and floodwalls—but most members are begrudgingly so.

"The project is really the number two thing—I really would in Marlinton, that our leadership—and that includes Perry—be able to make peace over some petunias.

The animosity isn't just hurting them; it's hurting all of us who live and work in Marlinton.

We can't expect to grow here until we show respect for each other.

We have so many blessings here, including newcomers and the old guard. Surely, we all have something we can learn from each other.

Surely, Dunbrack and Perry can call on the better angels of their natures to plant some flowers.

I'd like to see the PMH property be improved as park, I'd like see a burying ceremony when it's dedicated.

And all of Marlinton will have another blessing to count.

Notice

The tax office only in the Courthouse will be closed Friday, May 18.

Representative to be at WVU Extension Office

A Representative of the West Virginia University Institute of Technology Small Business Development Center will be at the WVU Extension Office located in the Pocahontas County Courthouse on Tuesday, May 22, between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. for the purpose of assisting small business owners or those who may be interested in starting a small business. The counseling provided is free and confidential.

To make an appointment, please contact the Extension Office at 799-4852.

Correctional Officer Test to be offered

A Video Test for Correctional Officer I will be offered at Denmar Correctional Center on Friday, May 25. Test will be given at 9 a.m. and again at 1 p.m. Call Denmar Correctional Center at 304-653-4201 for an appointment. Limit of 25 per testing.

Openings on Dramas, Fairs, and Festivals Board

If you are interested in serving on the Pocahontas County Dramas, Fairs, and Festivals Board, please submit a letter of interest before June 1. The letter should clearly state why you are interested in serving on the board, and should emphasize your qualifications for the position. Each board member is selected to serve a three year term, and the board meets to approve grants four times a year. All letters of interest should be sent to the Pocahontas County Extension Office, 900 E. Tenth Avenue, Marlinton, WV 24954. If you have any questions, please feel free to call the Extension Office at 799-4852.

Commission receives bids for tannery project

The County Commission met for a special meeting on Monday to open bids for the project to complete the environmental clean-up at the former Howes Leather Company tannery site at Frank. Eight bids were opened with a ninth coming after the 1 p.m. deadline to receive bids.

The bid package is made up of two parts. Contract I was for a polyethylene liner to be added to the existing lined pond at the site. Contract II was for the handling of the sludge material remaining at the tannery. The contract calls for the material to be removed from four existing ponds, dried, placed in the lined pond, and covered.

Attending the meeting was Don Bailey, the engineer for the project.

The apparent low bidder for Contract I is Environmental Construction, Inc., with a bid of $88,610.

For Contract II, the apparent low bidder is Shamrock Environmental Corporation, which bid $744,903.

The other bidders were Geo Synthetic, Inc., $188,365 for Contract I; Ryan Environmental, Inc., $1,068,871 for Contract II; S&D Contractors, $998,700 for Contract II; Orders Construction Company, Inc., $1,889,500 for Contract II; In-Line Plastics LLC, $186,664 for Contract I; and GSE Lining Technology, $131,476 for Contract I.

The bid of Active Environmental Technology, Inc., came after the deadline and was not opened.

Mr. Bailey told the commissioners he will review the bids and come to the Commission meeting on May 15 with a recommendation on which bids to accept.

Although the apparent low bids are above the amount the county has committed for the project, Mr. Bailey felt certain he could work with the contractors to bring the costs in-line with available funds.

Leasing vehicles and equipme be the best financing alternative many businesses. For others, ter make more sense.

At First Citizens, we'll work t understand your business so that can help you make the right deci

So come talk to us about your needs, whether to buy or not to bu
You can count on us for the right answers and the support you nee help your business grow.

Working for your business every day.

Government agencies looking for local input on flood control

By Pamela Prim

They came from the government and they said they came to help.

State and federal agencies are now working together to help West Virginia's communities come up with flood protection plans.

At the kickoff of 10 meetings to be held across the state, the multi-agency task force met in Lewisburg's Byrer Inn to hear from residents in the Greenbrier Watershed.

The sessions will update a 1993 report with current estimates and will eventually be used as a "basis for the formulation of the strategic planning portions of the West Virginia Statewide Flood Protection Plan."

"We have to be daring enough to step out there," said John Pack, West Virginia Soil Conservation Service.

Pack said the original 1993 plan expired when major floods hit West Virginia in the mid-1990s.

The Greenbrier Valley experienced its second and third major floods in 1996.

Pack invited audience members to speak while two other task force members took notes.

Marlinton's current plan became the first topic of discussion.

"We've been offered a plan for floodwalls and levees," said Marlinton resident Jay Perry. "The benefit factor is not as great as we'd like to see."

Perry mentioned Thousand Ponds ideas-man John Leyzorek, whose plan that every landowner on the watershed build ponds to reduce flooding and maintain flow in the river all year long.

"The problems are not only flood problems, but lack of water problems," Leyzorek said. "The system we have is not working properly."

Leyzorek said he'd been following Marlinton's floodwall and levee plan "from a safe distance."

The project being "grouped at projects very isolated areas," he said. Leyzorek said he hoped "the money they plan to heap up on one small place" would be spread over the watershed.

His plan would build a pond on every tributary of the river, regulating flow during high water and drought alike.

High water...

According to a flyer published by The Thousand Ponds organization, the plan is simple. "At every convenient spot on every possible branch, draw or creek, or wherever water could be collected, build a pond with a normal discharge pipe or notch able to pass no more than some small multiple of normal flow and build dams above this normal discharge level to hold two-to-three inches of rainfall.

Then, the flyer said, outflow from the ponds will increase when it rains, but only up to the maximum discharge rate built into the ponds' dams.

The ponds would hold back several inches of rainfall for release at the same "steady, safe rate," the flyer said, reducing flash floods to "several days of harmless high water, rather than a few hours of destruction."

But, Leyzorek said, benefits from 1,000 ponds only begin with flood protection.

...Low water

Leyzorek said landowners should be happy to have such an improvement on their property, plus the project would mean no loss of private land and no condemnation of anyone's property.

"We need to stabilize and regulate flow," Leyzorek said.

He said the ponds will hold water for livestock, for fire-fighting, fishing and fish farming, swimming and even for domestic and industrial use.

And some of the water will go into the ground instead of running off. The groundwater will soak into the ground and springs which will help maintain flow in the streams further down.

"Every pond we build provides a little aquifer recharge," he said.

"This plan leaves nobody," he said.

These ponds require little maintenance and no chemicals, the flyer said.

Leyzorek said every landowner could participate, but the program would be strictly voluntary.

The plan would cost taxpayers nothing, conversely "all other taxpayers in the state receive no benefits from local protection projects."

"The great advantage of a thousand ponds is it helps every stream. A monster dam would do nothing for small streams," Leyzorek noted. "A dam would drown some of the farmland we have left in Pocahontas County."

Dam it

Joe Holt, Greenbrier Valley Improvement Association, keeps hopes for a dam alive, in spite of evidence that Congress will not fund a mainstem structure.

Holt said the Army Corps "knew how to build dams."

And, according to Holt, a river study prior to 1969 said damming the river was the only thing that made any sense.

"We don't need flood walls and levees," Holt said. "We need the dam."

At a cost of $60 million for floodwalls and levees, each Marlinton resident could receive $100,000.

"If I had a family of four in Marlinton, I'd take the money," he said.

Holt said the Army Corps "knew how to build dams."

And, according to Holt, a river study prior to 1969 said damming the river was the only thing that made any sense.

"We don't need flood walls and levees," Holt said. "We need the dam."

At a cost of $60 million for floodwalls and levees, each Marlinton resident could receive $100,000.

"If I had a family of four in Marlinton, I'd take the money," he said.

The best thing for Marlinton is to get FEMA to buy it out, Holt said.

Marlinton must come up with $4.2 million in matching money for the federally funded project.

"The town isn't worth ten million dollars," Holt said, noting that real estate values are down.

The benefits of this project don't end with flood control, either, Holt maintained.

"In addition to flood protection and flood control, we'd have a beautiful recreational lake to provide jobs and economic development for the part which country," he said.

"Washington says we ain't gonna get a dam," he continued. "The Sierra Club and the American Rivers Group have done a real good job in Marlinton."

Holt also noted that lack of water is going to become a real problem in this country."

According to material Holt made available at the meeting, water release in the summer will "guarantee the necessary water levels and flow to sustain and provide for water and sewage treatment—again, leading the way to additional economic growth.

Help us

Other speakers related their flooding problems and asked that streams be dredged to help localized flooding.

Vonda Thacker, of Renick, reminded the task force that people out in towns have concerns and interest in flood control, as well.

The "Z" word

One woman asked if land use planning and zoning would be in the area's future.

"Is one of the things we have to look at statewide zoning?" asked Grace Boswell.

Pack answered in the negative, but noted the task force will make recommendations for "best" practices.

Zoning, not an ordinance looked upon favorably by most area residents, is an issue that spikes fear in most elected officials, particularly those seeking their posts for additional terms.

However, Pack said, the task force could not harbor such apprehensions.

"We can't be afraid to tackle anything," he said. "Anything that contributes to flooding will be looked at, including lack of storm water management."

Wrap up

A copy of the plan will be available in about a year, according to Pack.

During that time, the task force will conclude the public input process and update the 1993 report.

According to its mission statement, "The Statewide Flood Protection Plan will be a guidance document which provides a strategic plan and implementation strategy for reducing flood damages throughout West Virginia. Extensive involvement by stakeholders throughout the state is essential and will be the foundation for development of the plan. Once completed, the plan will provide a comprehensive assessment of the state's flood protection problems and needs, identify potential solutions to the state's many flooding problems and recommend mechanisms for coordination of implementation of the plan."

Citizens may submit their comments to the Task Force by email to: Hudson@wvsca.org or floodplaincomments@wvsca.org or by mail to Jim Hudson, RPC, WV Soil Conservation Agency, 1900 Kanawha Boulevard East Charleston WV 25305-0191.

Horse Club to hold show on Sunday

Springtime means show-time for many horse-enthusiasts.

The Tri-County Riding Club held its first horse show at the Crazy Horse Corrals in Hillsboro last week.

"We are really excited about getting our season off to a good start. We have some great shows planned for the summer and fall here in Pocahontas County and in Webster County," said club president Marshall Shearer.

The show included western and English classes and barrel racing.

The Tri-County Riding Club will hold its next show Sunday, May 13, at the fairgrounds at Marlinton. It will return to Crazy Horse Corrals in Hillsboro for the Little Levels Heritage Fair horse show June 24.

Tanning Salon
now open at Whitaker Campground
from 9 a.m. until 9 p.m.
456-3218 for appointment

TANNING
2 Beds • New bulbs
Open 7 Days a Week
24 Hours a Day
653-4994

Spaghetti Dinner
Friday, May18
Durbin United Methodist Church
4 p.m. - 7 p.m.
Adults • $5 Children ages 6-12 • $3
Under 6 • Free

Taylor's Grocery
Hillsboro
Mother's Day Gifts and Gift Baskets
New gift and souvenir items arriving daily.

Cake Walk at the BFD Firehouse
May 26 • 7 p.m.

Proceeds benefit Days

Suzie's Chic Inn Restaurant
Mother's Day, May 13
11 a.m. - 4 p.m.
Charbroiled Steak, 3 Fantail Shrimp, Baked Potato, Tossed Salad, Drink & Cake $12.95
Also Turkey & Trimmings w/Dessert & Drink included $9
Located one mile south of Marlinton on Rt. 219
We do not serve alcoholic beverages

May 6 - 12

repeals acts

an amendment to d to repeal the pal Service Fee

pproved on first Municipal Serv-year, or $2 per ces; rental resi-nts $24 per year
month per unit;
, commercial,
ental, manufacbuildings, and $240 per year.
*If a building of above, the
ly. Example: uilding has a e $240 yearly the rental unit overs all vacroved on first to B&O bill add tax of 4¢ manufacturllars on busi-le property.

ric 1%, out-%, service ly named 4¢ f furnishing er hundred.
or produc-
. Example, 0 at 4¢ per million dol-0 per year.
those ordi-Tuesday,

for April 10th Ave-Roll, 50

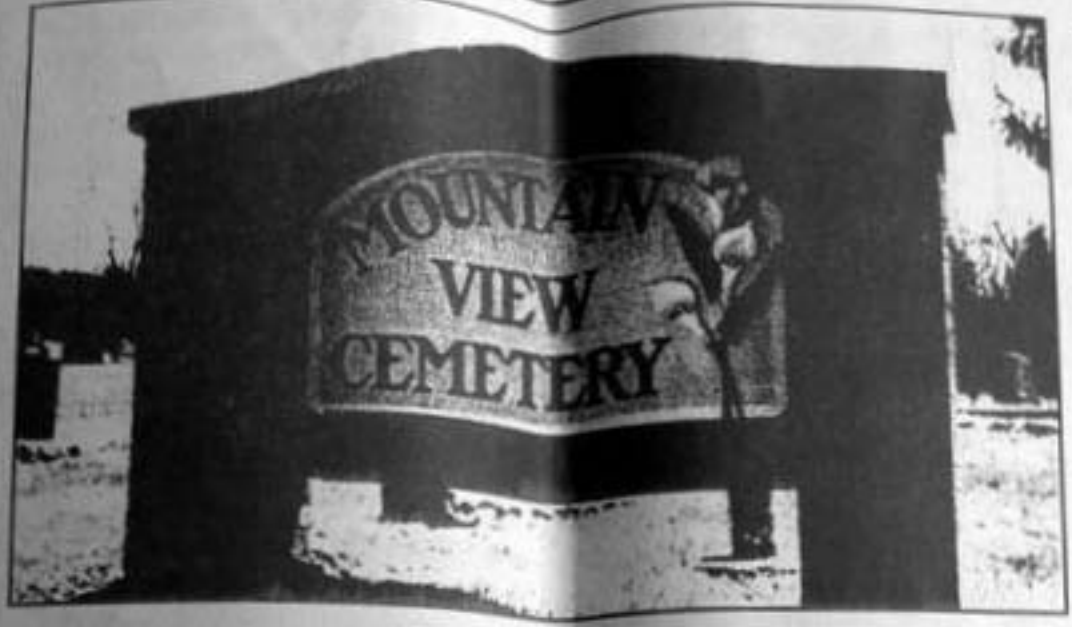
Letters



FUNDRAISING EFFORTS ARE underway to provide a sign on Rt. 39 showing the way to the Mountain View Cemetery.

Dear Editor,

Back in January I appeared before the regular monthly meeting of the town council and suggested that a nice sign, similar to the one at the cemetery, but two-sided, be placed at the Route 39 entrance to the cemetery.

(Photo above, with arrow added.)

Their response was in favor, but the cost of $3500.00 was not in their budget at this time for the full amount.

I have several members of my family buried there. I prepared a letter to the living relatives for a donation to this much needed cause.

Now I am asking those who would like to also make a donation to this two-way sign, please send it to Town of Marlinton, 709 Second Avenue, Marlinton, WV 24954, making note it is for the sign project.

Kenneth Faulknier
Marlinton

- - -

Dear Editor:

In your report of the Pocahontas County Commission meeting of April 17, 2001, you left out a very pertinent fact, thus giving a wrong impression of the discussion. That pertinent fact is there was no reflection on Sue Schultz but rather I highly complimented her in the meeting for all her timeless work with the beautiful flowers on Marlinton streets last year.

Sue Schultz deserves your apology—and so do I for this lack of complete information regarding the issue that was before the Commission.

Ruth Morgan
Marlinton

Durbin ATV no

Jason Bas
Staff W

All-terrain vehic middle of the night Durbin residents,
them not only disc
lem, but taking th own hands to stop

Mayor Paula noise was particul night.

In fact, Dilley shots she presume one ATV rider and in a pickup truck down another ATV

The mayor said calls about the no incidents and has rider.

"ATVs are still to the town of Du tolerate destructio harassment to any of Durbin," Dille ment to the press working people in early who don't horns and spinni long. We would a would show resp working people."

In other busin proved after sec lease of the bun
West Virginia Sta

Greenb Center

Sponsored by 911 Center and er Community
Bluefield State International 40

Employment Opportunities

The Greenbrier Valley Job Serv-

* Cook - must have some cook-

CITIZEN NOTICE

THE TOWN OF MARLINTON IS WORKING ON TWO ORDINANCES

1. MUNICIPAL SERVICE FEE ORDINANCE This fee will be $24 per year ($2 per month for all residential houses in Marlinton. $240 per year ($20 per month) for all business locations.
2. BUSINESS & OCCUPATION TAX This tax when passed will be 4 cents per hundred dollars, or .40¢ per thousand - for businesses to pay upon their gross income. This will in no way affect the citizen's water bills from the Town of Marlinton

If you have any questions about these ordinances, please stop by City Hall or call 799-4315 instead of listening to other people's version of what they want you to hear. Copies of both ordinances are at City Hall for your review.

en presently ahontas sses and sought.

oard is Shoe on and will on pro-trained He said to train atch the running ark. She he Rick County

lowever, nent for park is months.

could be y office r John on this.
r faucet prevent ion, of a d a suproved.

John cahontas mission

JASON AND JULIA BAUSERMAN presented their protrayal of Elder John Kline and his wife at the dedication program for the McClintic Library on April 1.

the Pocahontas Memorial Hospital Board of Trustees about locating a storage facility on hospital land for use by the Red Cross. It was explained that the agency has received a grant for the construction

Tanning Salon
now open at Whitaker Campground
from 9 a.m. until 9 p.m.

Marlinton

...he Rimel Grazing Allot-
...ated at the intersection of
...t Rt. 39 in eastern Poca-
...unty.
...95, NRCS and the Forest
...tablished the Rimel Graz-
...ment as a demonstration
...stream-side protection.
...Creek and a small buffer ... fenced (creating two
...and ponds were built for ...urces for cattle. This ... area now contains mul-
..., which is pushing out
... and shrubs.
...roposal includes spray-
...ual rose plants with the ...lly (Metsulfuron Meth-
...oliage in early summer.
...ill only occur on calm
...winds 5 mph or less to
...ift of the herbicide, and ... will be directed away
...eam. All manufacturer
...will be followed during

...have any questions or ...concerning this propo-
...ontact Lynette Otto by
...9-4334.

...cidents

...as investigated three
...ident works.
...the accident took place
... April 10 at 1:15 p.m.
...s a 1991 Ford pickup
...me Gaillard, of Dun-
...1994 Madza driven by
...ames, of Cass. The
...rved as Mr. Gaillard
...om the Hevener Road
...Ms. Varner was com-
...Rt. 92, observed the
...pplied her brakes. This
... to slide and it hit the ... times before going
...ition. Richard Via, of ...., passenger in the County Commission given report on job programs

The County Commission met for a regular meeting on Tuesday.

Bill Loop, Carol Morgan, and Rick Fiscel, representing the Region I Workforce Investment Board, met with the Commission to explain the the Board's responsibilities to administer employment and job skill training programs. Commissioner Reta Griffith serves on the Local Elected Officials Board that works with the Investment Board.

Mr. Loop explained that a network of comprehensive centers for the employment/training programs will be established in the five of Region I's 11 counties. These will be located in the Beckley, Bluefield/Princeton, Summersville, Lewisburg, and Welch areas. A satellite office will be placed in each of the other six counties.

This county's office will be linked to the comprehensive center in Lewisburg. The office will have one full-time employee and one itinerant worker, as needed. It is planned to have computer/Internet service available for those who do not have them at home.

After meeting with the Commission, the group was going to the Board of Education office to look at space in the board building that might be suitable for the office. The target date for opening the county office is July 1, Mr. Loop said.

Ms. Morgan said the program for youth under the Workforce Investment Board will be year-round, rather than just during the summer as now. However, due to the change over, there will not be a summer youth work program this year.

Mr. Loop said there are presently eight people from Pocahontas County taking training classes and additional people are being sought. Also, the Investment Board is working with Gardner Shoe on training for its employees and will be talking with Snowshoe on programs to develop a pool of trained employees for the resort. He said the long-term objective is to train people for skills that match the local industries.

Lauren Bennett discussed running a water line to Widney Park. She said she had talked with the Rick Barkley of the Pocahontas County PSD about water service. However, the PSD will require payment for the entire year, while the park is used for only about four months, Ms. Bennett said.

She asked if a water line could be run from the former tannery office building. Commissioner John Simmons said he check on this. The need to keep the water faucet locked was stressed, to prevent waste and misuse.

The sale, by public auction, of a 1979 Dodge ambulance and a supply of scrap copper was approved.

The resignation of John Mutscheller from the Pocahontas County Landmarks Commission was accepted.

A letter of support was approved for the application of the Cranberry Visitor Center for a federal grant for improvements at the center. Included will be an amphitheater and trail upgrading.

Approval was given for a letter of support for the education and loan programs of the Lightstone Foundation in the county.

Mr. Simmons said he would ask

JASON AND JULIA BAU... of Elder John Kline and ... for the McClintic Library

the Pocahontas Memorial Hos... Board of Trustees about locati... storage facility on hospital lan... use by the Red Cross. It ... explained that the agency ... received a grant for the construc... of buildings to store flood re... supplies.

Pocahontas Co...
Rec...

Saturday, May 5 • 2 p.m. - 5 p... dining hall located on Rt. 2...

Adults - $8 Ages

Proceeds go to juni... and c...

Menu: Ham, brown beans, cole slaw, corn ...

Hillsboro Alumni Banquet
Saturday, May 26
Cafeteria - 7 p.m.

nodeled a blue halter top ns and black pants with e front and black high were seventy girls of all surrounding counties.

as the only one from County. So come on, et in the upcoming fall your Fashion Bug store for more details. It's is the daughter of Terry Schoolcraft, of Buckeye, nddaughter of Carlos and the late Leona

Ceremony held at Phi Theta Kappa

Four students at Greenbrier Community College Center of Bluefield State College were inducted into the Beta Zeta Delta chapter of Phi Theta Kappa International Honor Society during ceremonies held on campus.

Refsland, professor of nd advisor of the local comed the inductees, and friends to the for-y held in Hollowell n the Greenbrier Hall campus.
Palm, director of es and co-advisor, pre-story and introduced ith adjunct faculty CCC, who spoke to n the need to continue cellence.
[illegible] in the cere[illegible] W. Tinsley who he induction ceremony, aroney Donelon who torch; Adam K. Lane rose emblem; Karen key emblem, and Laura the pledge.
into this two year colt to Phi Beta Kappa

Totten is a 1998 graduate of Pocahontas County High School and joined the Navy in September 1999.

Jonese honored during Spirit Assembly for winning essay

On March 29, Kachine Jonese was honored during a Spirit Assembly at her Piney Point Elementary School in St. Mary's County, Maryland, for her winning essay entitled "Freedom Is A Gift: Why I Thank Veterans For My Freedom." Kachine was awarded a certificate and monetary prize by the contest sponsor, the American Legion Auxiliary Unit number 255.

Kachine is the daughter of David and Cheryl Jonese, of Valley Lee, Maryland, and granddaughter of Joseph and June Jonese, of Arbovale. Kachine said she thought about her father and her grandfather while writing the essay. Kachine's

Freedom is truly a gift that has been given to us in this country. It is free to all citizens, but it has cost veterans a great deal. I thank veterans for my freedom. I thank them for plenty of reasons. I thank the frightened, yet brave, young soldiers for being strong enough to fight in wars to protect us and the way we live. I thank the sons, brothers and fathers for their patriotism that caused them to spend years away from their families so that I can live close to mine. I thank intelligent, capable people for choosing the military service for their career to keep our country strong and ready to go to battle if we have to. I thank veterans for all the countless sacrifices they have made and will make for my country. Every time I think about how good I have it, I will remember those who put their lives on the line for my freedom. I will remember them, and, in my heart, thank them for my freedom.

Cutlip to be Toastmaster at Hillsboro Banquet

Randall C. Cutlip will be the Toastmaster at the annual Hillsboro Alumni Banquet on May 26.

Mr. Cutlip graduated from Hillsboro High School fifty years ago, in 1951. He attended Mt Lebanon Elementary School a Lobelia. After graduation from high school, he went to West Virginia University for pre-veterinary study, then four years at Veterinary School of Ohio State University, Columbus. In 1965 he received a Master's Degree in Veterinary Pathology from Iowa State University in Ames, Iowa, and then

Fisher's Home Construction
Remodeling • Home Repairs • Additions
Decks • Garages • Plumbing • Roofing

Totten is one of more than 10,000 Pacific Fleet Sailors and Marines deploying aboard the ships of the USS Constellation Carrier Battle Group and USS Boxer Amphibious Ready Group. The groups are comprised of nine surface combatants, two submarines, nine aircraft squadrons and one Marine expeditionary unit.

During the deployment, Totten's ship will defend U.S. policy and support international interests in the Middle East.

Totten's ship, an Arleigh Burke-class destroyer, is one of the most powerful warships ever put to sea. The computer-based Aegis weapons system is the heart of the ship's war-fighting capability. It centers around a powerful radar that enables the crew to detect, track and engage on more than 100 targets at a time.

Totten is a 1998 graduate of Pocahontas County High School and joined the Navy in September 1999.

dad is a Major in the United States Marine Corps and her grandfather fought in the Korean War and World War II, and retired from the United States Army. Here is her outstanding essay:

In our nation, we have just ended a season filled with special celebrations and thanksgivings. As we sat around our dinner tables and Christmas trees, or gave praises and said prayers in our churches, I wonder what we were thankful for? Some of us surely gave thanks for good health, good family and friends and for a nice place to live. I wonder how many of us gave thanks for the very foundation of everything good in our lives? I am talking about freedom, of course. When you think about it, freedom is really what allows us to have all the rest.

Freedom is truly a gift that has been given to us in this country. It is free to all citizens, but it has cost veterans a great deal. I thank veterans for my freedom. I thank them for plenty of reasons. I thank the frightened, yet brave, young soldiers for being strong enough to fight in wars to protect us and the way we live. I thank the sons, brothers and fathers for their patriotism that caused them to spend years away from their families so that I can live close to mine. I thank intelligent, capable people for choosing the military service for their career to keep our country strong and ready to go to battle if we have to. I thank veterans for all the countless sacrifices they have made and will make for my country. Every time I think about how 1971, he received his Ph.D in Veterinary Pathology from Iowa State. In 1974 he received Accreditation from the American College of Veterinary Pathologists.

He was born at Lobelia September 30, 1934, to the late Cameron C. and Ruth Curry Cutlip. He married Margaret Ann "Peggy" Stowers, of Sod, on September 7, 1957, and they have a son, Michael Curry, born 1962, now a bank executive in Chicago, Illinois, and a daughter, Meikka Ann, born 1966, now an attorney in Washington, D. C. They have three grandchildren, Maggie, Laura, and Cole.

From 1961 to 2000, Dr. Cutlip was involved in research with the United States Department of Agriculture, Agriculture Research Service, National Animal Disease Center, Ames, Iowa. This work has included studies of bovine pulmonary adenomatosis, ovine chlamydial polyarthritis, ovine and bovine respiratory diseases and transmissible spongiform encephalopathies of animals. From 1986 to the time of his retirement January 1, 2000, he was leader of the Respiratory and Neurologic Disease Research Unit at NADC. This Unit conducted basic and applied research on infectious diseases of the respiratory tract and brain of cattle, sheep, and goats. The Unit was composed of twenty to forty personnel including eight to ten full-time scientists, one to three visiting scientists, ten to twelve technicians, and four to eight part-time student helpers. I was responsible for providing administrative and research leader-stem is the heart of the fighting capability. It nd a powerful radar that rew to detect, track and than 100 targets at a s a 1998 graduate of County High School

ie Navy in September

---

red during Spirit or winning essay

29. Kachine Jonese
uring a Spirit Assem-ey Point Elementary
t. Mary's County,
r her winning essay
dom Is A Gift: Why I s For My Freedom." awarded a certificate prize by the contest merican Legion Aux-
ber 255.
s the daughter of d Jonese, of Valley

thanks for the very foundation everything good in our lives? I am talking about freedom, of course.
When you think about it, freedom is really what allows us to have all the rest.

Freedom is truly a gift that has been given to us in this country. It is free to all citizens, but it has cost veterans a great deal. I thank veterans for my freedom. I thank them for plenty of reasons. I thank the frightened, yet brave, young soldiers for being strong enough to fight in wars to protect us and the way we live. I thank the sons, brothers and fathers for their patriotism that caused them to spend years away from their families so that I can live close to mine. I thank intelligent, capable people for choosing the military service for their career to keep our country strong and ready to go to battle if we have to. I thank veterans for all the countless sacrifices they have made and will make for my country. Every time I think about how good I have it, I will remember those who put their lives on the line for my freedom. I will remember them, and, in my heart, thank them for my freedom.

Cutlip to be Toastmaster at Hillsboro Banquet

Randall C. Cutlip will be the Toastmaster at the annual Hillsboro Alumni Banquet on May 26.

Mr. Cutlip graduated from Hillsboro High School fifty years ago, in 1951. He attended Mt. Lebanon Elementary School at Lobelia. After graduation from high school, he went to West Virginia University for pre-veterinary

Maggie, Laura, and

From 1961 to 2000, Dr. Cutlip was involved in research with the United States Department of Agri culture, Agriculture Research Serv ice, National Animal Disease Cen ter, Ames, Iowa. This work ha included studies of bovine pulmo nary adenomatosis, ovine chlamyd ial polyarthritis, ovine and bovi respiratory diseases and transmiss ble spongiform encephalopathies animals. From 1986 to the time his retirement January 1, 2000, was leader of the Respiratory a Neurologic Disease Research U at NADC. This Unit conduct basic and applied research on inf tious diseases of the respirat tract and brain of cattle, sheep, goats. The Unit was composed twenty to forty personnel includ eight to ten full-time scientists, to three visiting scientists, ten twelve technicians, and four eight part-time student helpers was responsible for provid administrative and research lead ship, including hiring, evaluat and firing personnel; enhancing ensuring proper interpretation reporting of research; manag facilities, equipment and the bud and conducting personal resea During the last year of my ca he acted for eight months as Di tor of the laboratory. He authored or co-authored over papers for publication in refe journals, written approximately abstracts and other scientific pa and presented over 100 pape scientific meetings. He has wo with scientists from more twenty countries and visited of those countries., A very r ing but demanding experien

Road 5K contest
e number with their Designs submitted roperty of the Durbin prize will be awarded o created the selected pencil or pen and nt! For more infore flyer announcing vailable at county
s county businesses,
ntas Times Office.
FLEGEL NG FORGETTER
ZATION PROTECTION
P.O. BOX 133
N BANK, WV 24944
4) 456-4812
Fire & Rescue Service NGO all - Durbin y, May 5
p.m.
1,400.00!!
number of players Available Equipment!!!
er Bingo Cards Environment EQUIPMENT Weston, WV
-427-4155
9-5155
CTORS IN STOCK
WD, Cab, AC $19,900
WD, Cab, AC $16,900
ice One! $16,900
$8,900
$8,900
$8,900
$7,950
$7,900

Schoolcraft participates in Fashion Show

Teressa Schoolcraft, of Buckeye, participated in the Fashion Show at Fashion Bug on March 31, in Elkins. This is Teressa's second shoe. She modeled a blue halter top with sequins and black pants with slits up the front and black high heel shoes.

There were seventy girls of all ages from surrounding counties. Teressa was the only one from Pocahontas County. So come on, girls, and get in the upcoming fall show. Call your Fashion Bug store nearest you for more details. It's fun!

Teressa is the daughter of Terry and Debbie Schoolcraft, of Buckeye, and the granddaughter of Carlos Schoolcraft and the late Leona Schoolcraft.

- - -

Induction Ceremony held at GCCC by Phi Theta Kappa

Twenty-four students at Greenbrier Community College Center of Bluefield State College were inducted into the Beta Zeta Delta Chapter of Phi Theta Kappa International Honor Society during ceremo-

Totten is one of more than 10,000 Pacific Fleet Sailors and Marines deploying aboard the ships of the USS Constellation Carrier Battle Group and USS Boxer Amphibious Ready Group. The groups are comprised of nine surface combatants, two submarines, nine aircraft squadrons and one Marine expeditionary unit.

During the deployment, Totten's ship will defend U.S. policy and support international interests in the Middle East.

Totten's ship, an Arleigh Burke-class destroyer, is one of the most powerful warships ever put to sea. The computer-based Aegis weapons system is the heart of the ship's war-fighting capability. It centers around a powerful radar that enables the crew to detect, track and fire on more than 100 targets at a time.

Totten is a 1998 graduate of Pocahontas County High School and joined the Navy in September 1999.

- - -

Jonese honored during Spirit Assembly for winning essay

ER: Send address changes to ocahontas Times
enue, Marlinton WV 24954
-4973 • Fax (304) 799-6466
pocahontastimes.com
/pocahontastimes.com
lay except the last week of the year.
e at Marlinton, West Virginia 24954
cals ISSN 0738-8373
TION CHARGES (including tax)
-State $23.32 • Out-of-State $25
DVERTISING RATES
m inch—Classified—20¢ word
r • PAMELA E. PRITT, Managing Editor
SHARP, Editor Emerita

7, APRIL 26, 2001

Escape indictment against Marlinton doctor dismissed

by Pamela Pritt

An indictment for felony escape was dismissed Monday against the Marlinton doctor convicted in January of second degree arson and related charges in connection with the June, 2000, blaze that gutted a Lewisburg attorney's office.

Greenbrier County Prosecuting Attorney Kevin Hanson said Tuesday he dismissed without prejudice the attempted escape charges against Dr. Harry Walkup, 54, because of a typographical error in the original indictment.

Walkup faces a determinate eight years in prison for arson, another eight years for arson causing injury, both terms to be served concurrently. Also, he will serve indeterminate consecutive sentences of one-to-10 years for both breaking and entering and retaliation.

Attorney Barry Bruce, whose office was damaged in the fire, had represented Walkup's former wife in divorce and child support proceedings.

The doctor was charged with escape after he allegedly showed two correctional officers in Greenbrier County's holding cell and ran for about four days. According to a police report, Walkup had a handcuff key in his possession when he returned to the Southern Regional Jail.

Hanson said he would present the case to Greenbrier County's grand jury [illegible] Walkup, 42, is also charged with felony attempted escape. She is free on $100 bond.

Hanson said he would consider presenting that case to the grand jury next week.

[illegible] Assessment moved back

Petitions contain sufficent names to require vote on municipal fee

Marlinton Town Council met April 17 to lay the 2001-2002 tax levy, 12 1/2 cents per hundred in Class I, 25 cents per hundred in Class II, and 50 cents per hundred in Class IV, for an income of about $106,000 to be raised from the County property assessment, as advertised. This was approved.

Council approved the renewal of authorization to Corps of Engineers for right of entry easement to city property for testing, drilling, etc.

David Cain asked permission to speak and gave his qualifications to be a council member and asked for consideration. He also said there was a trash dump at the end of 11th street on the river bank that needed attention. Mayor said a "no dumping" sign would be posted.

The Mayor announced petitions were out with two different wordings against the Municipal Fee Ordinance; they got the needed numbers to go to vote with 254 signatures, with 209 needed. Ordinance is inactive until voted on by citizens.

Mr. Gibb said he had jotted down his thoughts, that it is a shame to have to come down to this; he had worked with merchants and thought this was the solution—they didn't want the B&O and would take this fee. And another group had come on the scene and asked for a reduction to 10¢ a square ft. and $24 a year for residential property; he thought everyone was working together. Then came the petition and he was disappointed. Now it has to go on ballot and it will cost at least a couple of thousand of dollars, ballots, hiring workers, etc. He would like to vote on options; the concensus was that this wasn't feasible. Alternatives he thought of were to pass B&O tax, repeal and pass Municipal fee at 12 1/2¢ per sq. ft., or get petition repealed.

Discussion followed about cost of election, options to pass B&O tax if Municipal Service Fee is defeated, repeal first act and re-enact at 12 1/2¢

It was suggested and all agreed that to the election the Board of Equalization should be held [illegible] when and what will be considered.

Council recessed to ask Attorney Sattes about time of election, etc. which had to be looked up.

Meeting was continued until Friday at 7 p. m., to consider only what to vote on.

On Friday night Council convened in a continued meeting, presided over by Recorder Dotty Kellison in the absence of Mayor Dunbrack, who was out of town on business. Present were all members of Council, including Jim Kellison, who said he had been contacted by so many people asking him to continue that he withdrew his resignation. The only items on the agenda were the B&O Tax Ordinance and Municipal Service Fee discussion.

Mrs. Kellison announced the petition to submit the Municipal Fee to vote had the required number of signatures but persons may withdraw their signatures at any time before vote is taken to set the election at the next meeting. She said a number of people had said they were misled in information about the fee and they can have their names removed.

Council agreed to wait to vote at next meeting.

Mr. Gibb suggested sending out a letter to citizens telling them that the Town is suffering from a lack of revenue, as are numerous small towns in West Virginia. The Town has passed a limited B&O Tax plus a Municipal Service Fee. The B&O Tax was on contractors and amusement operators only. The Municipal Service Fee will add $4 to residential bi-monthly water, sewer and garbage invoices, or $24 per year, on residential property. It will also place a charge on all structures that are non-residential of ten cents per square foot per year. These figures were the result of a compromise between your elected officials and the responsible town business community. This MAY not generate the revenue necessary to continue all the services you are currently accustomed to. He would ask citizens to name what they would curtail. . . He asked comments to be returned to Council.

Council voted not to send a survey and not to vote on anything until next meeting.

Council adjourned at 7:35 on May 4.

Reported by Jane Price Sharp

BOE given results from student tobacco/alcohol/ drug survey

CONNIE BURNS, IN charge of recycling f[illegible] County Solid Waste Authority and Marli[illegible] students, l-r, Logan Frum, Dakota Gainer, and Cassidy Rao prepare to place some re[illegible] one of the recycling trailers the SWA has county school.

April is Make it Shine

Earlier this year, the Pocahontas County Solid Waste Authority (PCSWA) was awarded a grant from the Division of Natural Resources for a recycling project. The grant allowed the PCSWA to purchase a 15 foot cage trailer with roof for each of the five schools in the county. The trailers were placed at each school last month.

Recyclables from the schools are placed in the trailers and Pocahontas Recycling empties the trailers as needed. The items are then processed and shipped to be made into new products. Some of the items being recycled by the schools include cardboard, metal cans, plastics, aluminum and paper. Finding space to keep the recyclables until they could be picked up was an obstacle the schools faced in their recycling efforts. The durable trailers provide the schools with the much needed storage space for their recyclables.

The school staff and students were excited to receive the trailers. Many already study and participate in recycling as part of their curriculum. Research at the National Environmental Education & Training Foundation has proven that students perform better when the environment is studied and is included in their curriculum. Recycling is the process by wh[illegible] otherwise con[illegible] are collected [illegible] reducing waste, conserves [illegible] reduces litter, [illegible] creates jobs, a[illegible] environmental [illegible]

What can [illegible] glass, magazin[illegible] cans and plast[illegible] and #2 (deterge[illegible] milk jugs, etc. [illegible] Green Box Sit[illegible] currently no rec[illegible] cans at the Hu[illegible] Mountain Sites[illegible] tics at Caesar [illegible] plans to have re[illegible] Caesar Mountai[illegible] available.

Appliances[illegible] accepted free o[illegible] fill. Used moto[illegible] recycling at ma[illegible] tions and repa[illegible] wastes (grass c[illegible] some kitchen w[illegible] posted and used[illegible] vegetable garden[illegible]

More inform[illegible] is available a[illegible] Office located [illegible] Please contact [illegible] cling for a li[illegible] accepted for recy[illegible]

abuse taking place during school hours. However, a much smaller number admitted that they had done so themselves.

Board member Bruce McKean warned that the small number of students involved in the survey make it difficult to be sure of trends in substance abuse from 1998 to 2001.

School Superintendent James Phares expressed concern about the [illegible] ture gave profess[illegible] employees a pay i[illegible] that just ended. Th[illegible] enough [illegible] revenue/cost figure[illegible] from Charleston.

Dr. Phares went [illegible] posed budget, mo[illegible] based on employee[illegible] fixed expenditures.

SUBSCRIPTION CHARGES (including tax)
In-County $13.78 • In-State $23.32 • Out-of-State $25
WEEKLY ADVERTISING RATES
Display—$4.50 column inch—Classified—20¢ word
WILLIAM P. McNEEL, Editor • PAMELA E. PRITT, Managing Editor
JANE PRICE SHARP, Editor Emerita

THURSDAY, APRIL 26, 2001

Statewide Flood Protection Task Force to host Public Meeting in Lewisburg

The West Virginia Statewide Flood Protection Task Force is sponsoring a Public Meeting to collect information on the flooding problems of the region. The public meeting will start at 7 p.m. on Tuesday, May 1, at the Brier Inn in Lewisburg.

This meeting will provide an opportunity for public officials and citizens to voice their concerns about flooding. "Although numerous state and federal agencies will be in attendance, we will just be collecting information at this time," said Jim Hudson, coordinator for the Statewide Flood Protection Plan. "We are utilizing the knowledge we gain from the people to aid in construction of the Statewide Flood Protection Plan."

About twenty federal, state and local agencies are working together to develop a comprehensive assessment of West Virginia's flood protection problems and needs. Potential solutions to the flood problems will then be developed and prioritized. This information will be used to develop a dynamic flood protection plan that will guide the state's implementation of flood mitigation projects and improve our resistance to flood damages.

"The information we get from local officials and the public is invaluable to the success of the Statewide Flood Protection Plan," Hudson. "We want the people to know that they are going to make a difference and that through their comments they will be helping [illegible] plan."

For more information or to submit comments without attending the meeting, contact Jim Hudson, West Virginia Soil Conservation [illegible], at (304) 558-2204 or [illegible]@wvca.org.

...

Community Meeting

[illegible] use and abuse

[illegible] Pocahontas County Family Resource Network is sponsoring a community meeting on Thursday, [illegible] at the Pocahontas County [illegible] School Cafeteria at 7 p.m. [illegible] meeting concerns the use of [illegible] abuse of Oxycontin, a [illegible]

Escape indictment against Marlinton doctor dismissed

by Pamela Pritt

An indictment for felony escape was dismissed Monday against the Marlinton doctor convicted in January of second degree arson and related charges in connection with the June, 2000, blaze that gutted a Lewisburg attorney's office.

Greenbrier County Prosecuting Attorney Kevin Hanson said Tuesday he dismissed without prejudice the attempted escape charges against Dr. Harry Walkup, 54, because of a typographical error in the original indictment.

Walkup faces a determinate eight years in prison for arson, another eight years for arson causing injury, both terms to be served concurrently. Also, he will serve indeterminate consecutive sentences of one-to-10 years for both breaking and entering and retaliation.

Attorney Barry Bruce, whose office was damaged in the fire, had represented Walkup's former wife in divorce and child support proceedings.

The doctor was charged with escape after he allegedly shoved two correctional officers in Greenbrier County's holding cell and ran for the door last July. According to a police report, Walkup had a handcuff key in his possession when he was returned to the Southern Regional Jail.

Hanson said he would present the case to Greenbrier County's June Grand Jury.

Christine Sue Walkup, 42, is also charged with felony attempted aiding escape. She is free on $10,000 bond.

Hanson said he would consider presenting that case to the grand jury, as well.

Bruce and Associates moved back into its Randolph Street offices in February.

...

Durbin over run by ATVs

by Jason Basserman

$106,000 to be raised from the County property assessment, as advertised. This was approved.

Council approved the renewal of authorization to Corps of Engineers for right of entry easement to city property for testing, drilling, etc.

David Cain asked permission to speak and gave his qualifications to be a council member and asked for consideration. He also said there was a trash dump at the end of 11th street on the river bank that needed attention. Mayor said a "no dumping" sign would be posted.

The Mayor announced petitions were out with two different wordings against the Municipal Fee Ordinance; they got the needed numbers to go to vote with 254 signatures, with 209 needed. Ordinance is inactive until voted on by citizens.

Mr. Gibb said he had jotted down his thoughts, that it is a shame to have to come down to this; he had worked with merchants and thought this was the solution—they didn't want the B&O and would take this fee. And another group had come on the scene and asked for a reduction to 10¢ a square ft. and $24 a year for residential property; he thought everyone was working together. Then came the petition and he was disappointed. Now it has to go on ballot and it will cost at least a couple of thousand of dollars, ballots, hiring workers, etc. He would like to vote on options; the concensus was that this wasn't feasible. Alternatives he thought of were to pass B&O tax, repeal and pass Municipal fee at 12 1/2¢ per sq. ft., or get petition repealed.

Discussion followed about cost of election, options to pass B&O tax if Municipal Service Fee is defeated, repeal first act and re-enact at 12 1/2¢.

It was suggested and all agreed that in the election the board of equalization should be better defined, who and what will be exempted.

Council recessed to ask Attorney Saffer about time of election.

vened in a continued meet presided over by Recorder J Kellison in the absence of M Dunbrack, who was out of tow business. Present were all t bers of Council, including Jim ison, who said he had been tacted by so many people a him to continue that he with his resignation. The only on the agenda were the B&O Ordinance and Municipal Se Fee discussion.

Mrs. Kellison announced petition to submit the Mun Fee to vote had the required nu of signatures but persons withdraw their signatures a time before vote is taken to s election at the next meeting. said a number of people had they were misled in inform about the fee and they can their names removed.

Council agreed to wait to at next meeting.

Mr. Gibb suggested sendin a letter to citizens telling them the Town is suffering from a of revenue, as are numerous s towns in West Virginia. The T has passed a limited B&O Tax a Municipal Service Fee. B&O Tax was on contractors amusement operators only. Municipal Service Fee will ad to residential bi-monthly w sewer and garbage invoices, o per year, on residential proper will also place a charge on all tures that are non-residential cents per square foot per These figures were the resu compromise between your o officials and the responsibl business community. This not generate the revenue nec to continue all the services y currently accustomed to. He ask citizens to name what would curtail. . . He asked ments to be returned to Counc

Council voted not to send [illegible] vey and not to vote on any [illegible] until next meeting.

Council adjourned at 7:3 [illegible] May 8.

Reported by Jane Price Sha

BOE given results from studen tobacco/alcohol/ drug survey

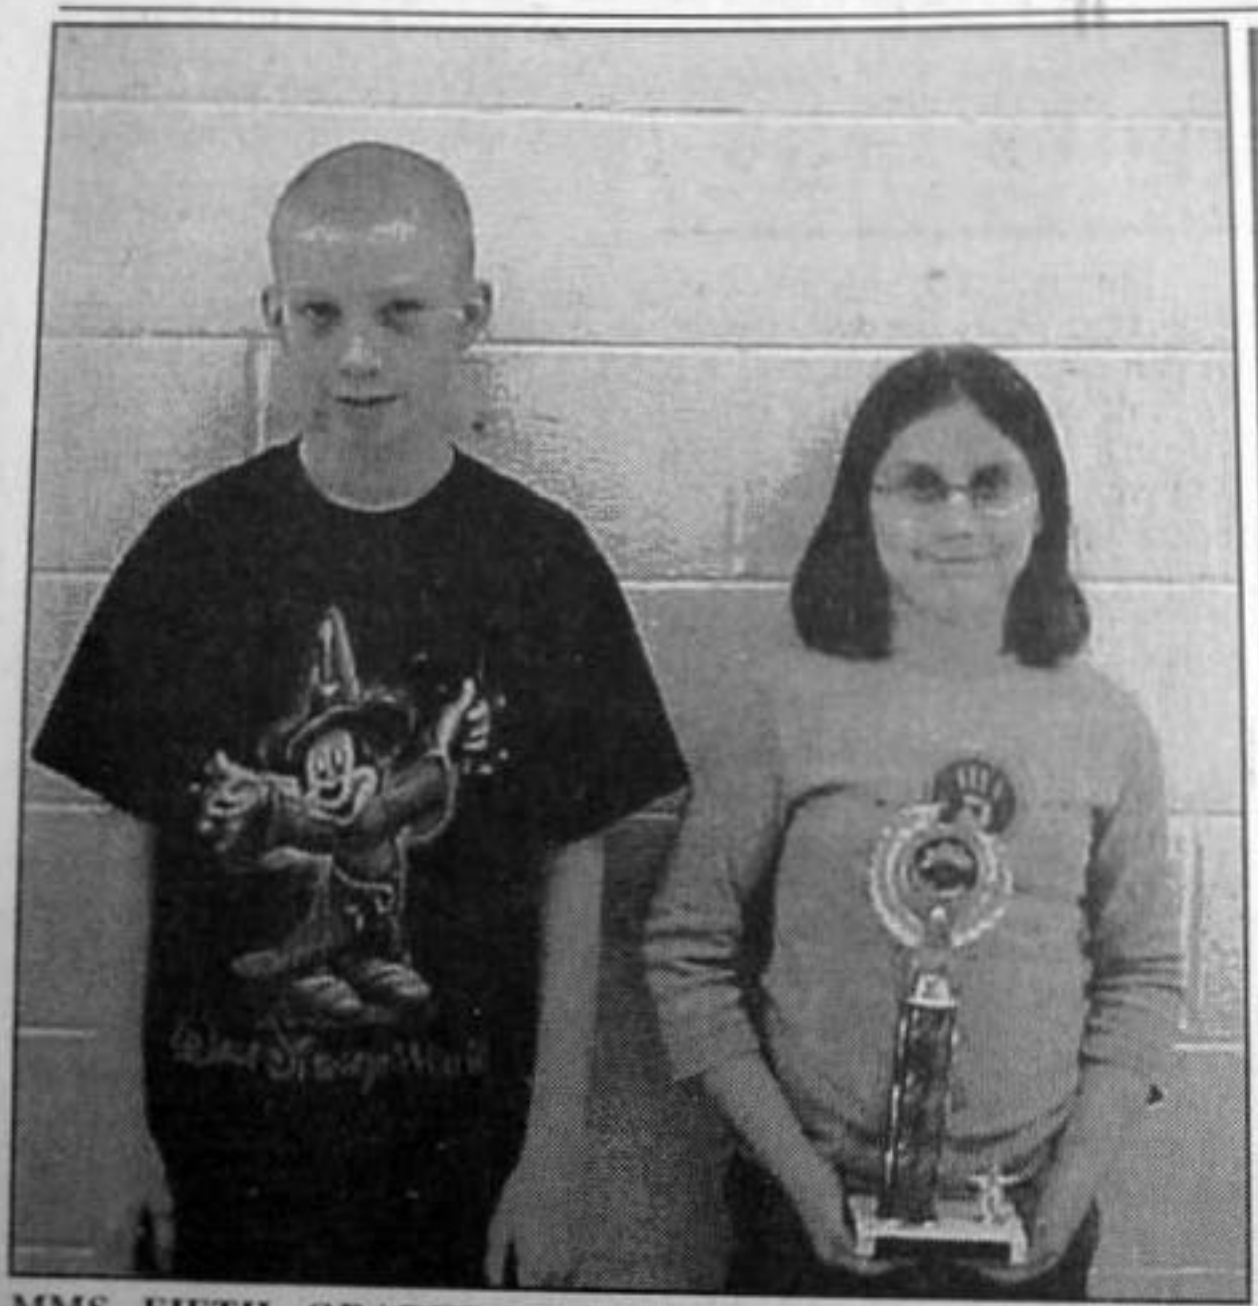
The Board of Education met for a regular meeting on Monday.

Ed Riley, from the county Hea Department, and Pocaho County High School student Willong reported to the Board the recently conducted PC Health Survey, which contai questions on the use of tobac alcohol, and drugs by students

wanted - 55% (51%)

* Have used cocaine, acid, or h on - 17% (12%)
* Can obtain cocaine, acid, heroin, if I want - 34% (38%)
* Used someone else's prescri on drugs to get high at least on - 21% (25%)
* Snorted ritalin at least once (7% (20%)

MMS News

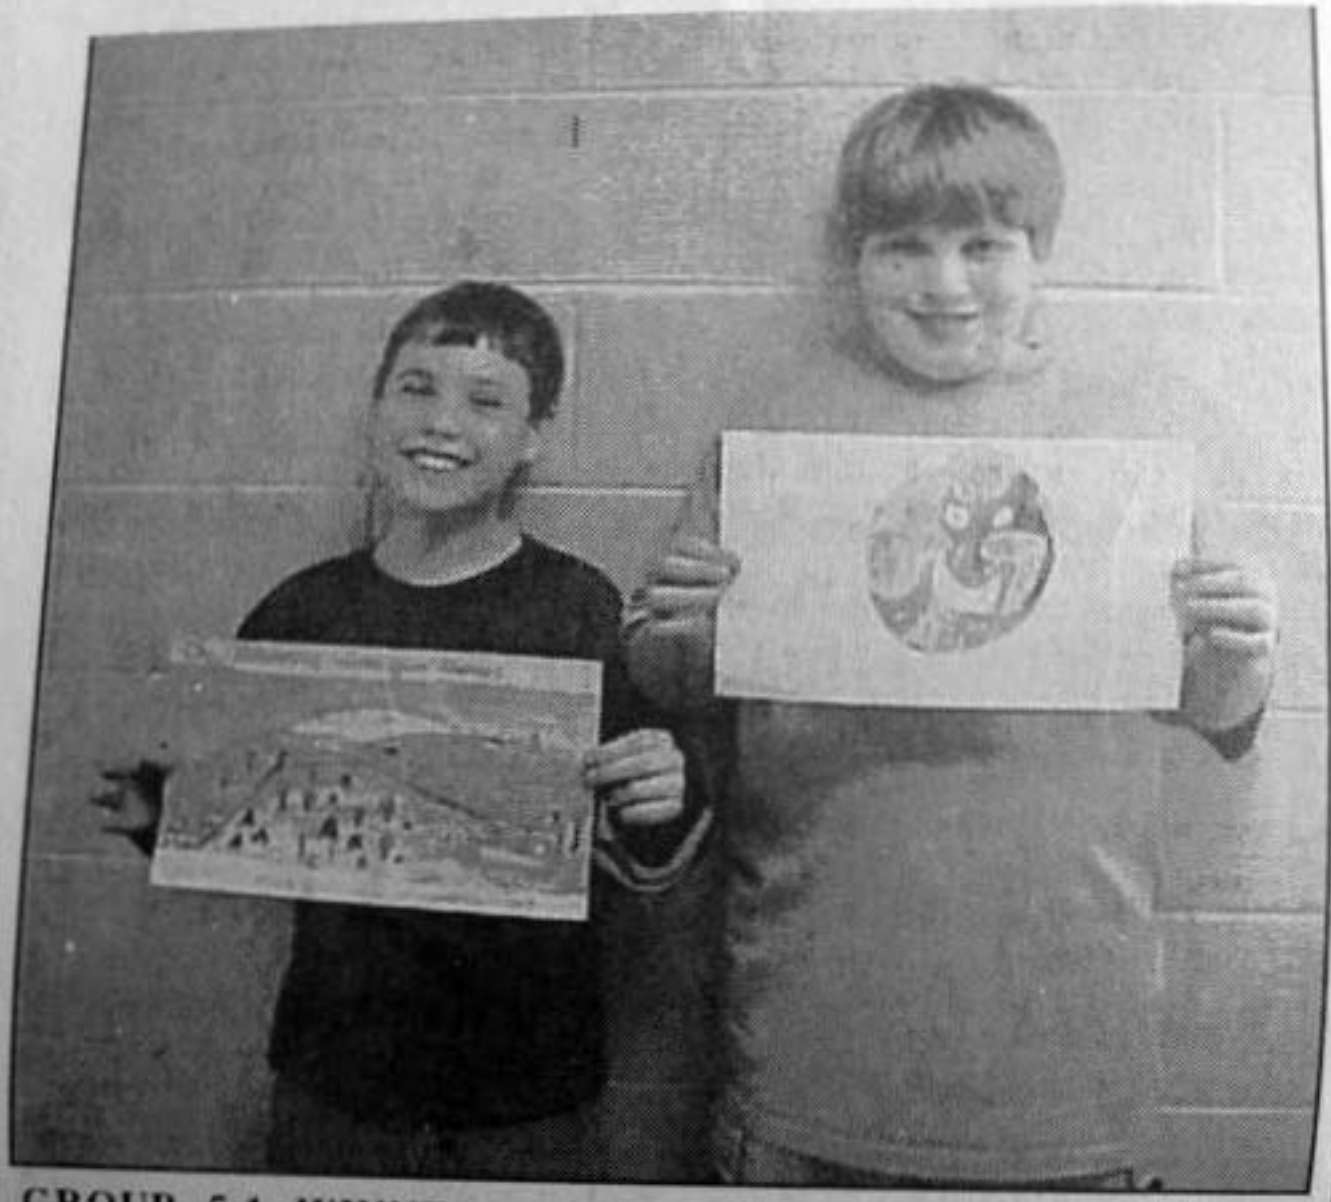


MMS FIFTH GRADERS DAVID Mitchell and Katherine Beverage recently competed at the RESA 4 Regional Math Field Day. Beverage placed second and will participate in the State Math Field Day April 28 at WVU. Mitchell placed fifth and is an alternate for the state competition.

- - -

GROUP 5-2
Grimes, secon

Beverage recently competed at the RESA 4 Regional Math Field Day. Beverage placed second and will participate in the State Math Field Day April 28 at WVU. Mitchell placed fifth and is an alternate for the state competition.



GROUP 5-1 WINNERS in the Tar Wars poster competition were Casey Horton, first, and Zack Graham, third. Second place winner Jaenna Burns is not pictured.

RESA IV Spelling Bee held at Marlinton Middle

This year the nineteenth annual RESA IV Spelling Bee was held on March 27th at Marlinton Middle School in Pocahontas County. The work of Sue Hollandsworth, Principal of Marlinton Middle School and the staff, and the cafeteria staff, who provided the refreshments, is much appreciated. Participants from dents from Braxton, Fayette, Greenbrier, Nicholas, Pocahontas, and Webster Counties. The Pocahontas County Coordinator was Sue Hollandsworth and the pronouncer was David Coccari, RESA IV in Nicholas County. The Spelling Bee Coordinator was Kathy Walker and the judges were: Carleen Penix, Kim Young, and Paula Hamilton.

GROU second,

Tar

Fift cently Wars Wars short

W
The Wa the first g ers durin first the J and then t landers.

The firs but PCHS
2-0 for its season. Th second gam

Freshma
"Our pitch pitched a gr big help in c nd Katherine Regional Math participate in Mitchell placed on.

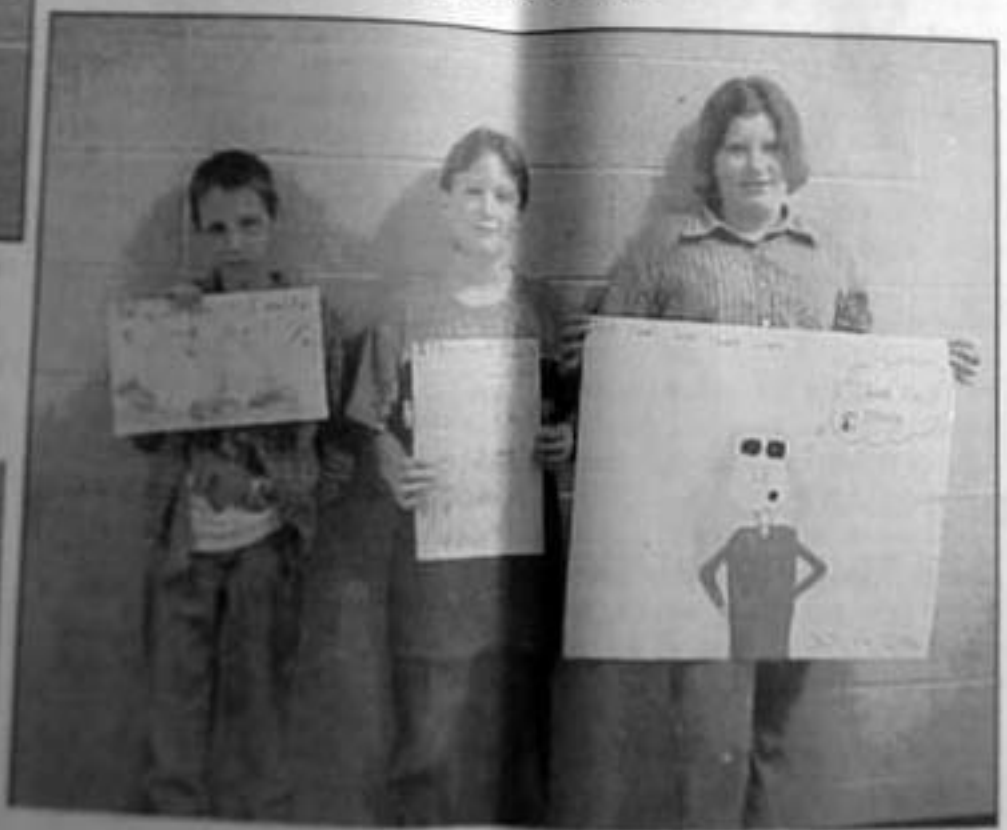
GROUP 5-2 WINNERS were Katie Workman, first, Zack Grimes, second, and Ethan Lash, third.



GROUP 5-3 WINNERS Jimmy Goldizen, first, Lee Brown, second, and Janessa Sharp, third, show their posters.

Tar Wars at Marlinton Middle

Fifth grade students at MMS recently created posters for the Tar Wars poster competition. The Tar Wars program teaches about the and encourages students to consider the positive aspects of not using tobacco. The first place poster from each fifth grade class was entered in

Gypsy Mo efforts to

Aerial spraying to prevent def liation by Gypsy Moth caterpill is set to occur on National For lands in Pocahontas and Randol Counties and at Lake Sherwo beginning around May 1. Tre ment areas in Pocahontas Cou are about 7800 acres alo Allegheny 55 north of Ri (Lockridge Mt.); 3000 acres in Brushy Mt. area near Minneh Springs; 1000 acres on Tho
Creek Mt. northwest of Dill Mill; and 120 acres near Grinds Knob. About 600 acres in Becky Creek area of Rand County south of Huttonsville be treated. Areas to be sprayed posted at roads and trails ente the spray areas. About 2200 at Lake Sherwood will be spra including the campground and use areas, which will be close several hours during each treat

The biological insecticide

Sch

May 1-4

Tuesday: Grilled mozzarel
Texas toast or cereal, juice, Macaroni & cheese, sausag cuit, green beans, vegetable red apple sauce, milk.

Wednesday: Breakfast pi cereal, juice, milk. Meat mashed potatoes, coleslaw, pe ww rolls, milk.

Thursday: Sausage & pa
on-a-stick w/syrup or cereal, milk. Chicken nuggets, sca potatoes, broccoli, jello w ww rolls, milk.

Friday: Breakfast burrito or

Senior Menu

May 1-4

Tuesday: Hot dog w/ch onion, coleslaw, pine w/cottage cheese, baked milk.

Wednesday: Tuna noodle

Greenbrier Race this ay
nual Great Greenbri-will be held in Mar-
, April 28.
nue is the Greenbrier RT), West Virginia's gacy Trail. s a 77-mile long by the West Virgiof Natural Resource-ginia State Park.
eam event featuring ng, biking and run-m all over the re-this family oriente categories range
o family. All leve challenged.
ill begin at 8:30
n. The fee is $25
eam or $30 for a e includes a sound a hot lunch at ed by local busiclude trips to ain, Cass Train
hing, bike racks,
re. Prizes will be econd and third ch category.
e race help fund
er Trail Associa-rganization that long the GRT.
brier River Race for the mountain
t Virginia. Vol-ver Pocahontas ize and man the ation on the race olunteer for the ahontas County
-7080 or check
www.greenbrier

Former Cass resident gets published

Wanda Copen Branham, formerly of Cass and a 1979 graduate of Pocahontas County High School, recently had her first novel published.

Her book is titled Black Hawke's Woman and is an historical romance. The book's heroine, one of three daughters of a wealthy Maine ship owner, dreams of being on the high seas and seeks more adventure in her life than the future expected of women of the time - finding a local husband and settling into married life. However, she gets more than she may have wanted when kidnapped by the well-known pirate, Black Hawke. Both have brain and brawn but neither is counting on the great adventure of love.

Ms. Branham currently lives in Blythewood, South Carolina, with her husband Troy and step-children, Brent and Kristen, as well as a host of animal friends. She is the third daughter of former Cass resident Amy Copen and the late Clarence Copen.

For information on the book, log onto www.greatunpublished.com and look for the either her name or the book title, email the author

Columbus, Montana, formerly of Minnehaha Springs, was one of the undergraduate students of Montana State University to earn a 4.0 for the fall semester.

Cindy is the daughter of Betty Mullens, of Neola, and the late Grady Mullens, and the special daughter of Barbara Kelley.

Young receives honor at Bridgewater College

Bridgewater College senior David Young was one of two students at the Virginia school to receive a Student Leadership Award. The award was presented at the College's annual Founder's Day Convocation, held on April 4.

Young is a physics major with a minor in English and history. He is the son of Charles and Carole Young, of Dunmore.

Football player recognized

Nathan W. Hiner, an honor student at Falling Branch Elementary School in Christiannsburg, Virginia, was recently selected as All-Star Quarterback for his football team, the Titans, and won second place in the punt, pass and kick contest.

He is the son of Stephen and Tammy Hiner and the grandson of Julian and Mary Jane Hiner, of Warm Springs, Virginia.

Rinaldi retires from Forest Service

Tony Rinaldi, of Rhinelander, Wisconsin, recently retired from the USDA Forest Service after 34 years of service.

Tony began his Forest Service career on the White Mountain National Forest, New Hampshire, in 1971 after serving two years in the Army. In 1973 he was transferred to the Monongahela National Forest biking and run-all over the re-family orientategories range amily. All levhallenged.

begin at 8:30
he fee is $25 or $30 for a icludes a soua hot lunch at

by local busie trips to Cass Train
, bike racks, rizes will be nd and third ategory.
ce help fund rail Associa-ization that the GRT.
River Race
he mountain rginia. Vol-Pocahontas
nd man the

on the race teer for the ntas County 0 or check greenbrier

s year!

dlands day!
lp You... naging

Former Cass resident gets published

Wanda Copen Branham, formerly of Cass and a 1979 graduate of Pocahontas County High School, recently had her first novel published.

Her book is titled Black Hawke's Woman and is an historical romance. The book's heroine, one of three daughters of a wealthy Maine ship owner, dreams of being on the high seas and seeks more adventure in her life than the future expected of women of the time - finding a local husband and settling into married life. However, she gets more than she may have wanted when kidnapped by the well-known pirate, Black Hawke. Both have brain and brawn but neither is counting on the great adventure of love.

Ms. Branham currently lives in Blythewood, South Carolina, with her husband Troy and step-children, Brent and Kristen, as well as a host of animal friends. She is the third daughter of former Cass resident Amy Copen and the late Clarence Copen.

For information on the book, log onto www.greatunpublished.com and look for the either her name or the book title, email the author directly at nannysue1@faith.com, or call Sarah Foe, 572-5475.

- - -

Army and Air Force Hometown News

Army Reserve PFC Tosha D. Combs has graduated from basic combat training at Fort Jackson, Columbia, South Carolina.

During the training, the soldier received instruction and practice in drill and ceremony, marching, rifle marksmanship, armed and unarmed combat, map reading, field tactics, military courtesy, military justice, physical fitness, first aid, and Army history and traditions.

She is the daughter of Richard Combs, Marlinton.

the Virginia school to receive a Student Leadership Award. The award was presented at the College's annual Founder's Day Convocation, held on April 4.

Young is a physics major with a minor in English and history. He is the son of Charles and Carole Young, of Dunmore.

- - -

Football player recognized

Nathan W. Hiner, an honor student at Falling Branch Elementary School in Christiansburg, Virginia, was recently selected as All-Star Quarterback for his football team, the Titans, and won second place in the punt, pass and kick contest.

He is the son of Stephen and Tammy Hiner and the grandson of Julian and Mary Jane Hiner, of Warm Springs, Virginia.

- - -

Rinaldi retires from Forest Service

Tony Rinaldi, of Rhinelander, Wisconsin, recently retired from the USDA Forest Service after 34 years of service.

Tony began his Forest Service career on the White Mountain National Forest, New Hampshire, in 1971 after serving two years in the Army. In 1973 he was transferred to the Monongahela National Forest where he worked for four years. In 1976, Tony married Debbie Faulknier and in 1977, they moved to Rhinelander, where Tony worked as a Wildlife Biologist and Resource Analyst for the Nicolet and Chequamegon National Forest.

Tony and Debbie have two children, Michael, a sophomore at UW-Wisconsin, Platteville, and Emily, a junior at Rhinelander High School. Debbie works for Rhinelander Regional Medical Group as an Administrative, Marketing & Physician Recruitment Coordinator.

- - -

Cheerleading Award Winners
The United State Achievement

Their United demy C publish The A ners u menda counse sponso Selecti
The cr dent's est an ties, motiv citize spirit mend tor.

Ho
linto Amer Hors prog AQH with in a show drivi

is it men cati enr rece to n ing Part hon acc Qua

ogr 50 fie aw ho el

Dedication held for new McClintic Public Library

A crowd of over 150 people were at the McClintic Public Library on April 1 for the dedication of the new facility.

The ceremonies began with a concert by the Providence County High School jazz band under the direction of Ron Hall. Former Marlinton High School Band Director Sam Brill was guest director for part of the concert.

Mr. Brill noted that it was 51 years ago when he began as band director at MHS.

McClintic Library Head Librarian Charlene Beverage welcomed everyone to the ceremonies, followed by the Pledge of Allegiance led by the honor guard and flag corps from the Marlinton Girl Scout troop.

The Rev. Basil Sharp gave the invocation and Library Board of Trustees President Gibbs Kinderman made a number of introductions.

The McClintic Playgroup sang "It's a Small World" and "This Land is Your Land." Later in the program, singer/songwriter Kate Long performed her song, "Who Will Watch the Home Place."

Three students at Marlinton Elementary School, Seth Mitchell, Tanner Graham, and Ashley Lewis, told the group "What the Library Means to Me." Their statements are at the end of the article.

Mr. Kinderman thanked his parents, Ed and Peggy Kinderman, who took him "to the library when I was little and I discovered how much fun it was." He also expressed appreciation to the late John Q. Geiger, a former Library Board president, for getting him involved in the library system, and McClintic Library fundraising chairman Jane Price Sharp, who "kept me going on this project when I would get discouraged."

Two groups of people were given special recognition during the program. Mr. Kinderman and Library Board Vice-president Sue Ann Heatherly read lists of various contributors to the library building project.

The many volunteers that enable the McClintic Library to provide some of its services to the public were acknowledged by Linda Gibbs, Mr. Gibbs is the coordinator of the volunteers at the library.

Mr. Kinderman recognized the various people who have served on the Library Board during the effort to build the new library. John Geiger, Sue Ann Heatherly, Elizabeth Little, Jennie McNeel, Henry Sheets, Jane Price Sharp, Gibbs Kinderman, Jr., Peggy Kinderman, Ed Kinderman, Jr., Jeanne Hamrick, Jeanne Hamrick, Jr., Jeanne Hamrick, Jr., Jeanne Hamrick, Jr.,

RACHEL TOMPKINS, who grew up in this county, spoke on the importance of books in her life.

Mr. Kinderman pointed out that the McClintic Library serves not only the public but is also the library for Marlinton Elementary School. He said that the partnership with the school system is to be expanded under the 21st Century Learning Grant recently received by the Board of Education. Money from the grant will be used to make the county libraries a center for community based learning for youth and adults throughout the year.

School Superintendent James Phares commended all who worked to make the new library a reality. He also discussed the upcoming community learning program.

It was hoped to have plaques listing the names of the groups, businesses, and individuals making donations to the McClintic Library project ready for unveiling on the dedication day, Mr. Kinderman said. However, they are still at the manufacturer, he said, but a plastic sample of two were sent to show how they will look.

As the County Commission was on one of the plaques, Senator Walt Helmick, who was to have done the unveiling, made a presentation of it to Commission President Joel Calhoun.

Delegate Bill Proudfoot also attended the dedication.

Mr. Kinderman then introduced Jane Price Sharp to make the formal dedication of the McClintic

FORMER MARLINTON HIGH School Band Director Sam Brill, right, joined PCHS Band Director Ron Hall in directing the PCHS Jazz Band at the dedication.

LIBRARY BOARD CHAIRMAN and McClintic Building project chairman Gibbs Kinderman, right, listens while Ken Sullivan, Executive Director of the W. Va. Humanities Council brings congratulations from his group to the county for the new library.

MARLINTON Elementary School students, Ivy, Ashely Lewis, Tanner Graham, and Seth Mitchell spoke on "What the Library Means to Me."

JANE PRICE SHARP made the formal dedication of the new McClintic Library facility.

Following a reception presided over by members of the Marlinton Woman's Club, Mr. and Mrs. Jason Bauserman gave their presentation on Elder John Klute and his wife. Elder Klute was a Dunkard minister who visited the Greenbrier Valley in the years before the Civil War.

Statements from Marlinton Elementary School students:

"I like the McClintic Library. I like to do a lot of stuff here like use the computers, check out books, or just read.

"The computers are very fun and helpful. They have a lot of games

We can go across the street. Today another egg hatched. That would make the number 2. We also come to the library for stories and we have a good time."

Tanner Graham

"Hello, my name is Ashley Lewis. I'm nine years old and in Mrs. Kaetz's third grade class.

"I have many reasons why I like to go to the library.

"My favorite reason is because I like to read books. Some of the books I've read this year are Swiss Family Robinson by Johann Wyss, Mystery at Lilac Inn by Carolyn Keene, Honey I Blowed the Kids, by R. B. Heller, and Uncle Daddy's Story of Lafayette, A Light in the Attic, and Where the Sidewalk Ends, all by Shel Silverstein.

"Right now I'm reading The Mount St. Helens Disaster by Thomas and Virginia Aylesworth.

"I also like to play games on the computers. These are some of my favorite reasons for coming to the library.

"Thank you very much."

Ashley Lewis

McClintic Library staff, Charlene Beverage, Cookie Doss, and Sunny Green, express their appreciation to everyone who took part and all who attended the dedication.

Anyone who has not yet visited the new library and found all it has to offer, should do that as soon as possible.

Library hours are 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Friday.

The many volunteers that enable the McClintic Library to provide some of its services to the public were acknowledged by Linda Gibb. Ms. Gibb is the coordinator of the volunteers at the library.

Mr. Kinderman recognized the various people who have served on the Library Board during the effort to build the new library: John Geiger, Sue Ann Heatherly, Elizabeth Little, Denise McNeel, Henry Shumbery, and Michael Stinnett, with special note of Marvin Perry for his nine years of dedicated service on the board.

Ms. Little pointed out the importance of all the efforts made by Mr. Kinderman in the construction of the new library.

Mr. Kinderman recognized Clayton Carter, the architect for the new building, and Bob Woolridge, the contractor.

Ken Sullivan, former editor of Golden Seal magazine and now Executive Director of the W. Va. Humanities Council, read from "The First Campfire," the first chapter in G. D. McNeill's book, The Last Forest. Mr. Sullivan noted that the removal of the virgin timber from the county had a major impact on people in Mr. McNeill's generation and was the theme of his book.

Two stories from The Last Forest are being made into radio stories with the help of Michael Gross from the Mountain Stage show on National Public Radio.

The Director of the W. Va. Library Commission, David Price, said "what a wonderful day" the dedication is for the community and assured the group of the support

Spring Tire Sale

LIBRARY BOARD CHAIRMAN and McClintic Building project chairman Gibbs Kinderman, right, listens while Ken Sullivan, Executive Director of the W. Va. Humanities Council brings congratulations from his group to the county for the new library.

MARLINTON Elementary School students, Ivr, Ashely Lewis, Tanner Graham, and Seth Mitchell spoke on "What the Library Means to Me."

Statements from Marlinton Elementary School students.

"I like the McClintic Library. I like to do a lot of stuff here like use the computers, check out books, or just read.

"The computers are very fun and helpful. They have a lot of games

Anyone who has not yet visited the new library and found all it has to offer, should do that as soon as possible.

Library hours are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Friday.

School Superintendent James Phares commended all who worked to make the new library a reality. He also discussed the upcoming community learning program.

It was hoped to have plaques listing the names of the groups, businesses, and individuals making donations to the McClintic Library project ready for unveiling on the dedication day. Mr. Kinderman said. However, they are still at the manufacturer, he said, but a plastic sample of two were sent to show how they will look.

As the County Commission was on one of the plaques, Senator Walt Helmick, who was to have done the unveiling, made a presentation of it to Commission President Joel Callison.

Delegate Bill Proudfoot also attended the dedication.

Mr. Kinderman then introduced Jane Price Sharp to make the formal dedication of the McClintic

The many volunteers that staffs the McClintic Library to provide some of its services to the public, were acknowledged by Linda Gibb. Ms. Gibb is the coordinator of the volunteers at the library.

Mr. Kinderman recognized the various people who have served on the Library Board during the effort to open the new library. Jane Gregg, Jane Jane Woodward, Elizabeth Little, Delmas McNeel, Henry Shumaker, and Michael Sommer, with special note of Marvin Perry for his nine years of dedicated service on the board.

Ms. Little pointed out the importance of all the efforts made by Mr. Kinderman in the construction of the new library.

Mr. Kinderman recognized Clayton Carte, the architect for the new building, and Bob Wooldridge, the contractor.

Ken Sullivan, former editor of Golden Seal magazine and now Executive Director of the W. Va. Humanities Council, read from "The First Campfire," the first chapter in O. D. McNeill's book, The Last Forest. Mr. Sullivan noted that the removal of the virgin timber from the county had a major impact on people in Mr. McNeill's generation and was the theme of his book.

Five stories from The Last Forest are being made into radio stories with the help of Michael Gross from the Mountain Stage show on National Public Radio.

The Director of the W. Va. Library Commission, David Price, said "what a wonderful day" the dedication is for the community and assured the group of the support from the Library Commission. As an example of the importance of books, Mr. Price noted that it was a book on rocketry, in addition to their own drive and a dedicated teacher, that allowed Homer Hickman and the other "Rocket Boys" to finally be successful in shooting their rockets.

STATE LIBRARY Commission Director David Price noted the importance of

Kee Cemetery

Dear Folks,

I am writing this hoping that it might bring attention to problems many of us have in trying to maintain and preserve the resting place of our loved ones.

We have had a very good response in the last two or three years in donations for the repair and upkeep of the Kee Cemetery on Buckeye Run Road.

In response to the call over the last year, we have also received contributions to construct a chain link fence around the perimeter of this cemetery. At this time we have about 50% of the cost of the fence and are very proud of the donations.

In order to make this a permanent plot, within the boundaries of the owners of the surrounding property, the surrounding owners have agreed and already approved a deed to the plot.

We wish to thank the Gay Family for its interest, cooperation, and help in assuring that this cemetery is preserved as long as possible for the surviving relatives of our forebears.

We did receive, however, a call on March 16, 2001, from a visitor of the cemetery. Someone who had visited the cemetery had unfortunately left the gate open. The cows had entered the graveyard. You can imagine the devastation. Some tombstones had been overturned. (Not as many as I expected, thank goodness.) Relatives should inspect their plots soon.

I want to make it clear that even if we had a new chain link fence, visitors who leave the gates open are ignoring the security of the cemetery.

We are again requesting donations for the care and upkeep of the Kee Cemetery on Buckeye Run. We are also asking for donations for the purchase of hickory fence posts to extend the chain link fence around the cemetery.

Spring Tire Sale

ONE DAY ONLY

Saturday, April 28 • 9 a.m. - 4 p.m.

Ryder's Chevron, Boyer

456-4308

- Passenger & 4-wheel drive vehicle tires
- tires studded
- all season • winter tread

Goodyear, Pirelli, Sidewinder, Cooper, Dunlop,

chapter in G. D. McNeill's book, The Last Forest. Mr. Sullivan noted that the removal of the virgin timber from the country had a major impact on people in Mr. McNeill's generation and was the theme of his book.

Five stories from The Last Forest are being made into radio stories with the help of Michael Gross from the Mountain Stage show on National Public Radio.

The Director of the W. Va. Library Commission, David Price, said "what a wonderful day" the dedication is for the community and assured the group of the support from the Library Commission. As an example of the importance of books, Mr. Price noted that it was a book on rocketry, in addition to their own drive and a dedicated teacher, that allowed Homer Hickman and the other "Rocket Boys" to finally be successful in shooting their rockets.

STATE LIBRARY Commission Director David Price noted the importance of books in the life of "Rocket Boy" Homer Hickman.

Kee Cemetery

Dear Folks,

I am writing this hoping that it might bring attention to problems many of us have in trying to maintain and preserve the resting place of our loved ones.

We have had a very good response in the last two or three years in donations for the repair and upkeep of the Kee Cemetery on Bucks Run Road.

In response to the call over the last year, we have also received contributions to construct a chain link fence around the perimeter of this cemetery. At this time we have about 50% of the cost of the fence and are very proud of the donations.

In order to make this a permanent plot, within the boundaries of the owners of the surrounding property, the surrounding owners have agreed and already approved a deed to the plot.

We wish to thank the Gay Family for its interest, cooperation, and help in assuring that this cemetery is preserved as long as possible for the surviving relatives of our forebears.

We did receive, however, a call on March 16, 2001, from a visitor of the cemetery. Someone who had visited the cemetery had undoubtedly left the gate open. The cows had entered the graveyard. You can imagine the devastation. Some tombstones had been overturned. (Not as many as I expected, thank goodness.) Relatives should inspect their plots soon.

I want to make it clear that even if we had a new chain link fence, visitors who leave the gates open are ignoring the security of the cemetery.

We are again requesting donations for the care and upkeep of the Kee Cemetery on Bucks Run. We are also asking for donations for the purchase of a chain link fence around the cemetery.

Thank you,
B. Sue Hollandsworth HC 69 Box 19
Mary Fork, WV 26291

ONE DAY ONLY
Saturday, April 28 • 9 a.m. - 4 p.m.

Ryder's Chevron, Bo
456-4308
• Passenger & 4-wheel drive vehic
• tires studded
• all season • winter tread

Goodyear, Pirelli, Sidewinder, Cooper, Kumbo and Mud King

Commission told that planting flowers is a suspect activity

At the County Commission meeting on Tuesday, a group of Marlinton citizens told the commissioners that there might be something suspect in the request made by Marlinton Mayor Doug Dunbrack for permission to do some beautification work on the county-owned lot in town that was the site of the hospital.

At the Commission's last meeting Mr. Dunbrack asked for permission to plant flowers, install a small gazebo, and place some benches on the lot, to make it a more attractive entrance to the main part of town. He said Sue Schultz, who works on the flower boxes on Main Street, would oversee the plantings.

Attending this week's meeting in response to the Mayor's request were Dean Jones, Jay Perry, Jean Hite, Mike Hudson, Ruth Morgan, David Cain, and John Leyzorek. Several of them indicated they did not trust the mayor's motives in making this request.

Mr. Dean reminded the Commission that a similar request for the lot had been made about two years ago. He said the proposal then was for more than just beautification, but included activities, such as "music in the park" programs, to bring people to town and develop community spirit. He noted that the proposal was also made then in hopes of saving the site from having a HUD housing project located on it and keeping it as "green space."

Mr. Jones said he is flattered that the mayor now thinks beautification is a good idea. He said the plan presented before would use private labor and money rather than tax funds for the project. (At the previous meeting, Mr. Dunbrack said he would use money from the town's Hotel/Motel tax for the project.)

A Town Council member recently told him that "a building will be be built on that lot," Mr. Jones said. He asked the Commission to consider three possibilities for the lot:

- let the original proposal be carried out
- deed the land to the Parks and Recreation Board for a park
- or deed it to the town with a conservation easement, with restrictions on use.

He and several other members of the group noted the value of green space in the town's entrance. Mr. Jones suggested the Chamber of Commerce would be a logical group to help with this project and asked the Commission to give him time to approach the Chamber.

Mr. Perry said the agreed with the comments of Mr. Jones. He said the land should remain in county ownership. Mr. Perry reviewed the problems he has had with the town as he has been trying to restore the Lodge Building, located next to the hospital lot. He said he is "nervous about the town's intent" for the property. "Our fear is the track record where the mayor is concerned in terms of recreation," Mr. Perry stated.

Mr. Perry expressed opposition to commercial use of the lot. He claimed Mr. Dunbrack has not lived up to the by-laws of the Pioneer Days group and is concerned if the mayor is in charge of the lot.

Ms. Hite suggested that a beautification committee be appointed, with members from several groups and the public and allegiance only to the Commission.

Ms. Morgan agreed with appointing a committee and stressed the value of green space. She said the mayor's proposal is "highly suspect to me."

Mr. Hudson asked what is the rush in the matter and why not leave the lot as it is.

From the look on the faces of the commissioners, it was obvious that they could not believe a request to plant flowers can have such hidden meaning. An incredulous commissioner Reta Griffith asked the group, "do you think we have deeded the lot to the town? We are only allowing them to plant flowers." She noted that it was a temporary use with no activities permitted without further permission of the Commission.

Commissioner John Simmons noted that the request by the mayor is basicly the same as members of the group had made previously.

Commission President Joel Callison said that when the previous request was made for beautification, there was another requested use of the land and the Commission decided then not to take sides. He stressed that the county owns the land and any decision on its future will be made by the Commission in open session.

The commissioners all stated that things are being read into the mayor's request that are not there. All that is allowed is for the town to plant flowers and place benches and a small gazebo, they stressed.

As the town's request to beautify was not an agenda item at the last meeting, the Commission voted to reaffirm giving permission for the work to be done.

The Commission voted to lay the county tax levy for the coming fiscal year. The tax rates for the coming year are lower than those for the present fiscal year, by 0.96¢ per $100 valuation for Class I property, 1.92¢ per $100 for Class II, and 3.84¢ per $100 for Classes III/IV.

The commissioners suggested to the reporters present that they might want to headline their news stories, "Commissioners Cut Taxes." However, the cuts in the levy rates are required by law. The law allows total tax revenue to increase by only a certain amount each fiscal year and due to the increase in assessed valuation of property in the county for 2001-02, the revenue increase would have exceeded the amount allowed without the tax rate cut.

Even with the levy rate reduction, the Commission will receive an estimated $1,464,576 for 2001-02, compared to this year's estimate of $1,281,182.

Mr. Simmons reported that eight contractors and two suppliers for the liner for environmental cleanup project at the tannery site attended the pre-bid conference on Friday. Bids for the project are to be opened on May 7.

Magistrate Court

Magistrate Court

A charge of battery against Troy L. Walker, of Hillsboro, was dismissed on Tuesday of last week.

Kenneth W. Cutlip, of Marlinton, appeared in court on Friday on a warrant charging him with domestic battery. He was released on $500 bond. The charge against him was filed by Deputy Sheriff T. A. McCoy.

Julia A. Hale, of Frank, was arrested on Friday by Deputy Sheriffs B. C. Totten and T. L. Clifton on charges of domestic battery and battery. She was released on bond.

Franklin L. Burgess, of Marlinton, came to court on Friday on a citation charging him with possession of less than 15 grams of marijuana. He pled guilty and was placed on probation for six months by Magistrate Kathy Beverage.

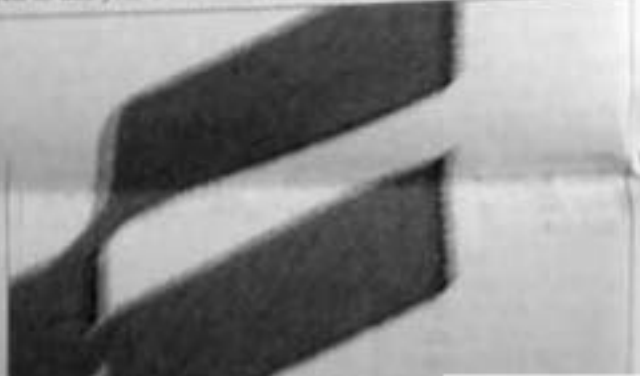
Charges of domestic battery against Robert Jordan, of Slaty Fork, and Carrie L. Wilder, of Austin, Texas, were dismissed on Friday.

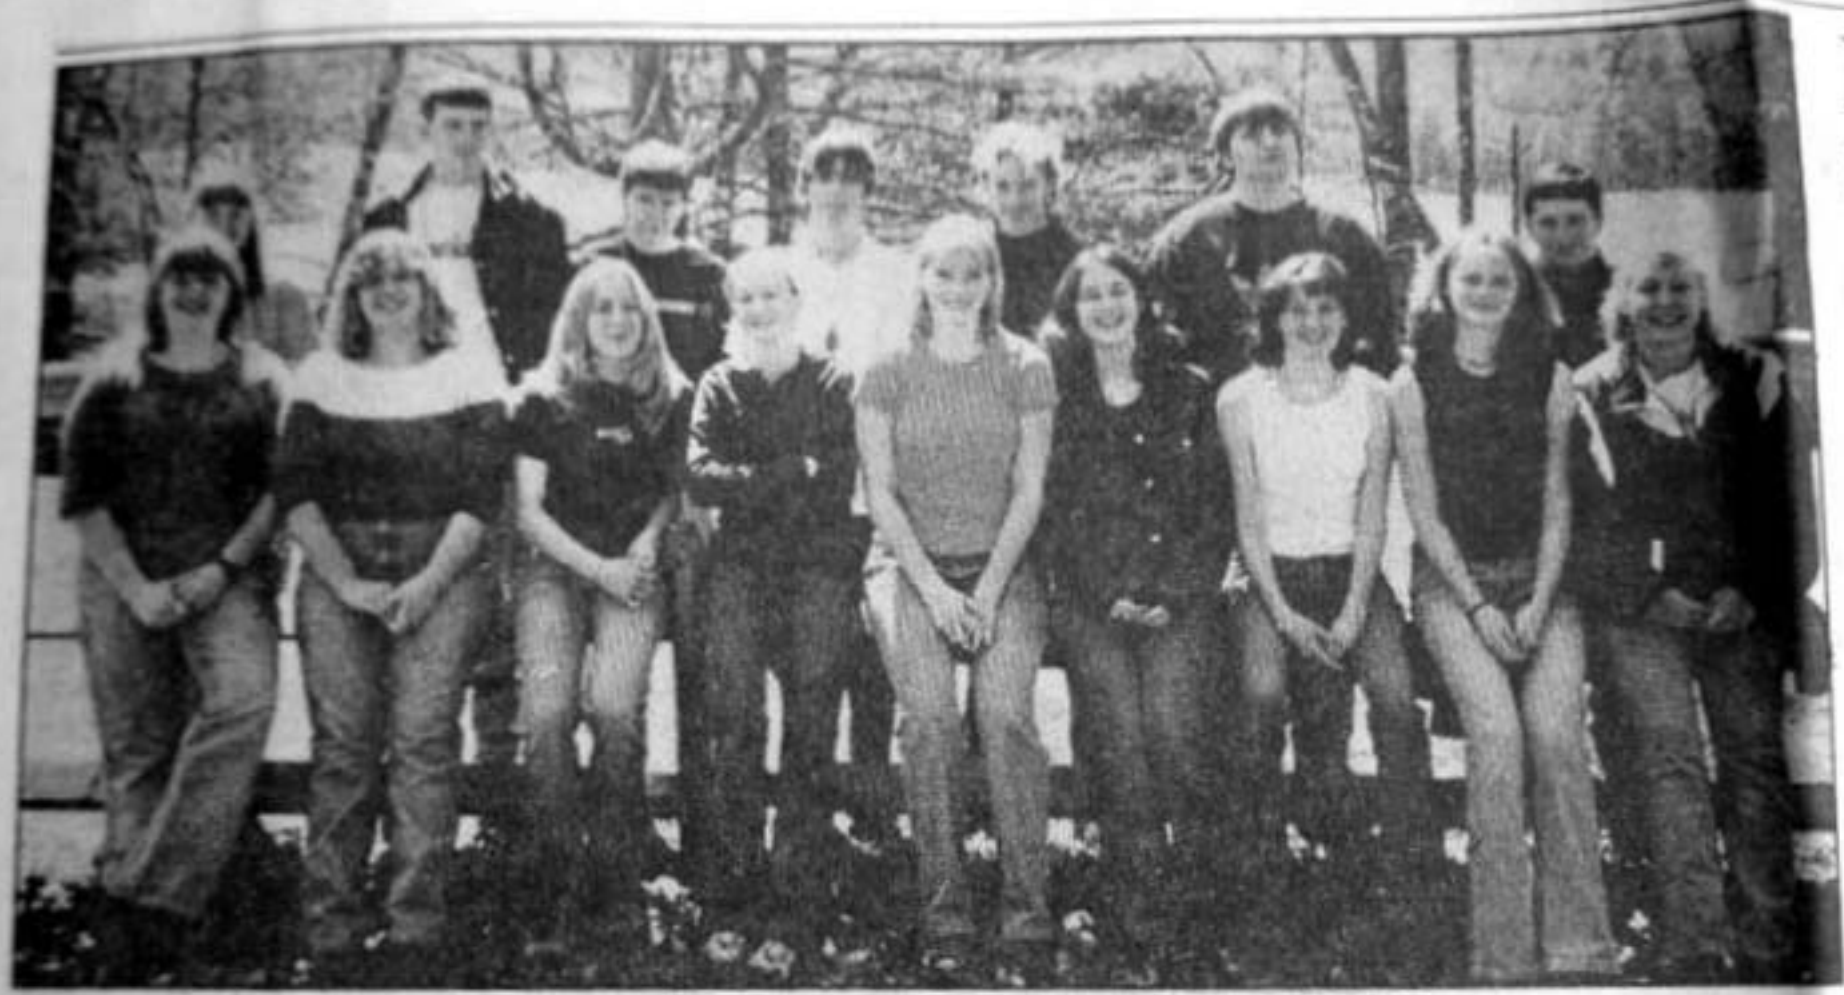
Michael J. Neely, of Marlinton, was arrested on Saturday by State Police Tpr. D. A. Evans on a charge of domestic battery. He was released on $1500 bond.

Danny Akers, of Marlinton, appeared in Magistrate Beverage's court on Monday and entered a plea of guilty to assault. He was fined $50 with $67 in court costs. A charge of battery was dismissed.

A domestic battery charge against Mary A. Mulligan, of Hillsboro, was dismissed on Monday.

On Tuesday the Solid Waste Authority received judgement in the amount of $1,335.15 against Lee Junior Wolfe, of Dunmore, for back solid waste fees and interest in Magistrate William Hevener's court. Court costs were $65.





NEW NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY MEMBERS

The Pocahontas County High School chapter of the National Honor Society inducted new members on March 25. The new members are, back row, l-r, Susan Wilkins, Greg Hamons, Andrew Lacasse, Jesse Burns, Andrew Must, Ben Goehner, Timothy VanReenen; front row, l-r, Jessica Dean, Kama Weatherholt, Laura Walkup, Carla Johnson, Tausha Cassell, Amanda Pritt, Brandy Wayne, Melissa Hill, Katie Smith. New members not pictured are Abby Hannah, Robert Mann, and Sarah Eilers.

People

Alonso is NADC Graduate

On March 22, Christopher Alonso, of Arbovale, graduated

Cassidy Hamilton Pitt, Brandy Wayne, Melissa Hill, Katie Smith. New member are Abby Hannah, Robert Mann, and Sarah Eilers.

MAX NORMAND AND Kate Blackman will represent PCHS at the State Mathematics Field Day.

State Mathematics Field Day to be held at WVU

The 27th Annual State Mathematics Field Day will be held this year at West Virginia University April 27 and 28. The event is for students in grades 4-12 with schools in each of the eight include a test, mental math activities, relays, and estimation activities which are both computational and physical in nature. The 10-12 activities are prepared by the mathe-

Peo

Alonso is NAI

On March 2 Alonso, of Arbo
from the Nashvi College with hi received an Honor man Award for Diesel course and Seal and Master for the advanced Engines course. T Master Craftsman highest awards giv will continue his Mercedes-Benz
Technician Trai
Allentown, Penns

Alonso is also East Coast Bicycl sonburg, Virginia.

He is the son Ann Alonso, of grandson of Wi Clarksburg.

W

Business owners fear levees will cost Marlinton too much

by Terrell McSweeny
Staff Writer

Editors' Note: This story is the sixth in a series dealing with Marlinton residents' reaction to floodwalls and levees for protection.

'Who is going to pay for it?'

Operation and maintenance of Marlinton's levee and floodwall system will cost the town $80,000 a year, according to Army Corps of Engineers preliminary estimates.

The $80,000 figure is based on the standard needs associated with the upkeep of levees and floodwalls.

"It will cover maintenance of pumps, gates, mowing, weed killing, and the levees themselves," said Karen Miller, an Army Corps of Engineers spokeswoman.

It also pays for four inspections a year by the Army Corps of Engineers and routine patching of holes in the levees and floodwalls.

Business owners on Marlinton's Main Street and in the Riverside commercial zone, both of which are protected by the walls and levees, are worried they will have to bear an unfair amount of the levee operation and maintenance costs.

"Marlinton needs some type of flood control, but I am concerned with who is going to pay for it," said Mike Hudson, owner of Hudson's Variety.

Fees, taxes and petitions

Marlinton businesses are already facing large municipal tax increases this year. Last month the town council passed a municipal service fee and business and operators tax to offset its $138,000 deficit.

Businesses and government offices will pay $.10 per square foot under the ordinance— quite a bit more than the service fee's cost to homeowners which is only $2 a month. An average size small business will pay $1000 a year whereas a homeowner will pay just $24.

The town council also adopted a Business and Operators tax or B & O tax on contractors and entertainment. Contractors will pay $2 per $100 and entertainment venders will pay .$50 per $100 of gross income.

The projected service fee revenue from Marlinton's 380 homeowners is between $8,000 and $9,200 a year. The projected revenue from businesses and government offices is between $60,000 and $80,000, according to Jim Gibb, a town council member who also serves on the Municipal Board of Appeal and Review.

Last week a petition circulated in Marlinton that gained enough signatures to put the municipal service fee to a vote.

If the municipal fee is voted down, Marlinton will likely have to cut some of its services.

"We've met with some business people. They are in favor of getting rid of the policeman and the judge and the building inspector and getting rid of garbage collection. But most people I have talked to would like to preserve those services-- on the other hand, many of them have signed the petition," said Gibb.

The municipal service fee won't eliminate Marlinton's financial problems. Even if the fee generates $80,000 a year in revenue the town will still have a $58,000 deficit—which leaves many businesses owners wondering who will pay for the costs associated with Marlinton's levee project.

"The town can't pay its debt right now—and they keep going after the businesses to make up the difference. There is already a low population that makes it tough on retail businesses, most of us can't afford more taxes," said Dean Jones, owner of Napa Auto Parts.

"Where does it end? We can't pass the increases on to the consumer--they already think we are higher than Wal-Mart or K-Mart," said Hudson. "There aren't any businesses that are flourishing in this town right now and we aren't going to see them moving back into town with all the taxes and flood insurance."

Marlinton Mayor Doug Dunbrack hopes that the town can benefit from the B & O tax on contractors if the floodwalls and levees are constructed.

"That tax will create a million dollars for the town and help forego having to assess the citizens for the O&M for a long period of time," Dunbrack said.

Last chance for 'free' flood control

Fred Burns, owner of Burns Motor Freight, sees the levee and floodwall system as Marlinton's last, best chance for federally subsidized flood control.

"They have put us in a corner. I don't think we should give them an excuse to provide us with no flood control. If we say we don't want flood walls they won't bother with us," said Burns.

Burns, like many Marlinton business owners, doesn't think the floodwalls and levees are the best flood control project.

"I think they should look for a better alternative. I am concerned with destroying 35% of the town. But I have been fighting for flood control for forty years. I have seen three generations of Corps retire and never seen a solution. I am not opposed to the flood walls because I think they are looking for us to give them excuse not to do anything," said Burns.

The town of Marlinton will have to raise at least $8.2 million dollars to make the required local match for the $60 million project. At least $3 million must be cash. The $80,000 operation and maintenance fees are not included in the local match.

Spaghetti Dinner
Friday, April 27
4:30 p.m. - 7 p.m.
Marlinton Middle School Cafeteria

Scout News

RS

pictured l Barb, Nathay Gibb, Wolves,

DOWN THE SLIDE — Garrett Clark starts his car as Greg Lash looks on, and Ryan Jackson, at right, has completed his run.

Cub Scouts Do Service Project

The following Cub Scouts and leaders from Pack 33 participated in the Greenbrier River Trail Clean-up on Saturday, April 7. From the Wolf Den, Tim Gibb. Three of the

People

Fitzgerald Joins United States Army

Joshua S. Fitzgerald has joined the United States Army under the NERS

Senior Center to Parade. Categories ost expensive, and Beulah Johnson,
lley, Polly Moore,
r of the event was at the Marlinton month with pro-

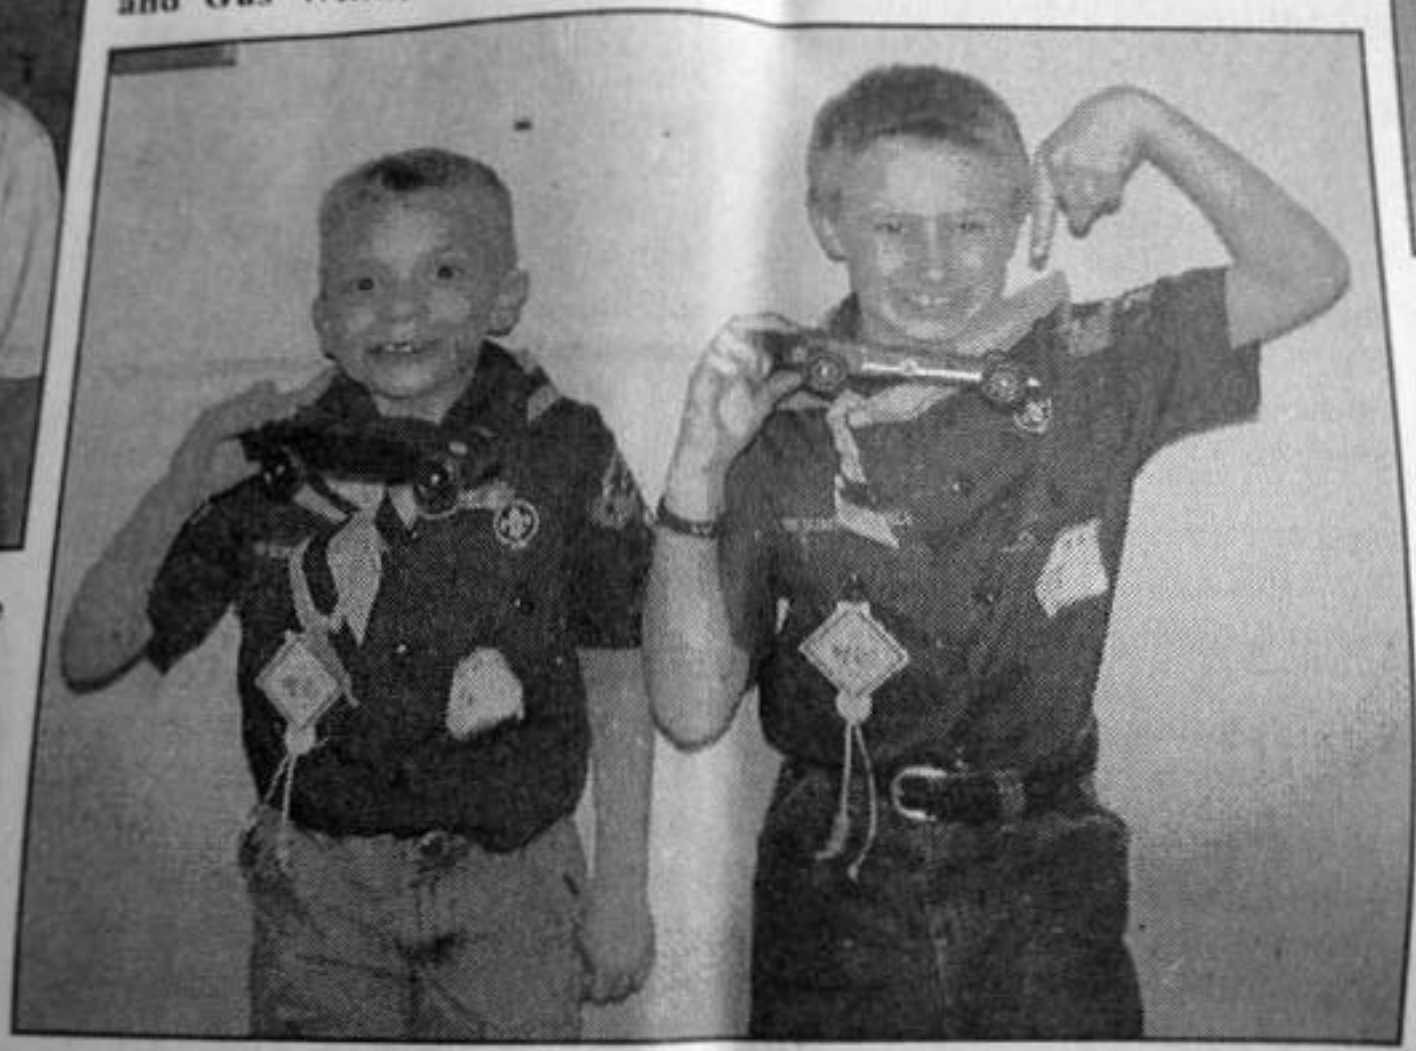
PINEWOOD DERBY WINNERS

WINNERS IN THE LOCAL Pinewood Derby are pictured above: Sean Pennington, first in Tigers group, David Barb, second in Tigers, David Barb, second in Bears group, Nathaniel Lash, first place Bears and overall winner, Timmy Gibb, first place in Wolves, Seth Doss, second place in Wolves, and Gus Willis, second place Bears.

niel Lash, first place Bears and overall winner, Timmy Gibb, first place in Wolves, Seth Doss, second place in Wolves, and Gus Willis, second place Bears.

on behalf of the Moose Lodge.



Cub Scouts Kristian Smith, left, and Ryan Jackson are pictured with their entries in the Pinewood Derby

DOWN THE S Greg Lash looks
pleted his run.

se Lodge

naberry - Red Fox
rtis - Flower House April Gragg - Hudaster basket. Joanne lower & Gift flow-y - Flower Garden harp - Bunny cake
ne Wheeler - Why
se.

ald like to donate to the Humane mail your dona-ox 8, Hillsboro,
ll 799-4614, 653-

Local Cub Scout brings home the silver

Tiger Cub, Sean Pennington, entered his Pinewood Derby car in the Wilderness District Pinewood Derby. Sean just recently won first trict derby against Tiger Cubs from Nicholas, Greenbrier, Braxton, Clay and Webster counties and won second place in the Tiger division. Way to go, Sean. Sean is the son of Jerry and Ina Pennington. He will now go

Cub Sc Do Service

The following leaders from Pack 3
the Greenbrier Rive on Saturday, Apr Wolf Den, Tim Gi
four Bear Scouts di Nathaniel Lash, G
rett Trozzi. Leade were: Mrs. Mary W
Mr. Greg Lash, C ber, and Mrs. Linda
ter. Pack #112 at G represented also by Scout, John Gibb.

John and Robin owners and operators enan House Bed a located on Second Av to treat the cub scou party at the River Place

Senior Center the first Thursday of each month with programs and activities of interest to seniors.

THE EASTER BUNNY accepts a donation on behalf of the Humane Society from Lonnie Ratliff of the Moose Lodge.

Easter Bunny visits Moose Lodge

The Easter Bunny visited the Moose Lodge on Saturday afternoon. He received a nice donation from Lonnie Ratliff of the Moose Lodge. The money was given to the Pocahontas County

Linda Shinaberry - Red Fox basket, Bet Curtis - Flower House & Gifts flowers, April Gragg - Hudson's Variety Easter basket, Joanne Ervine - Judi's Flower & Gift

PIN

WINNE

above: Se

second in

niel Lash,

first place and Gus

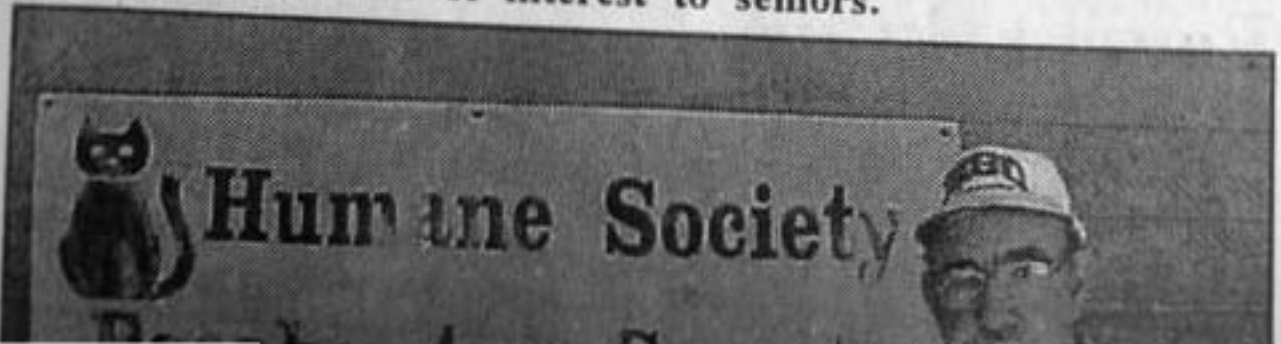
EASTER BONNET WINNERS

Prizes were awarded at the Marlinton Senior Center to winners of the 1st Annual Easter Bonnet Parade. Categories included most original, oldest, prettiest, most expensive, and biggest brim. Winners included (l to r) Beulah Johnson, Treva Wilson, Catherine Sharp, Lucille Kelley, Polly Moore, Gladys Tibbs, and Mary Alderman. Sponsor of the event was the Marlinton Satellite Seniors. They meet at the Marlinton Senior Center the first Thursday of each month with programs and activities of interest to seniors.

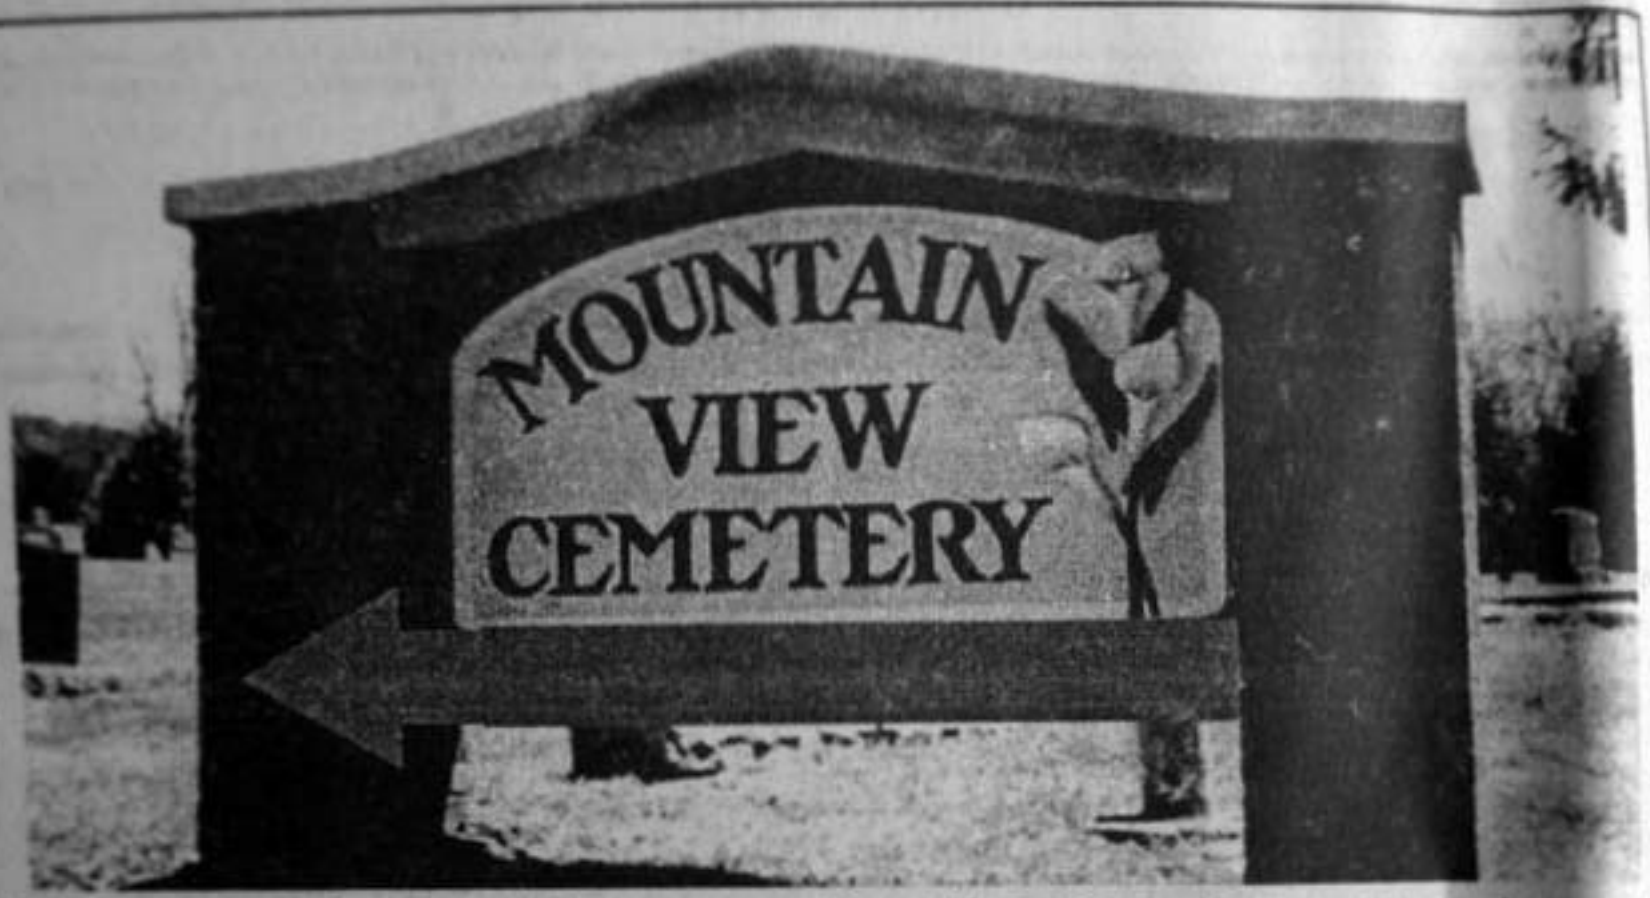


PINEWO

WINNERS IN T

above: Sean Penn second in Tigers, D niel Lash, first pla first place in Wol and Gus Willis, se

Marlinton, WV 24954 Residence - 653-4418



There have been citizens wanting the town to erect a sign at the Cemetery Road and Route 39 similar to this photo. The cost estimate is $3500, and the town is asking for donations towards this project as the cemetery fund is not in a position to fully fund this sign. All donations will be appreciated. Make your checks to: Town of Marlinton, 709 Second Avenue, Marlinton, WV 24954. Memo check to sign project. Thanks for your support.

Kellison headers resignation

Council pays sewage penalty, Perry can continue work on lodge building

Special Note: Jim Kellison announced he had submitted his resignation as a member of Council on Monday, April 9, but it is not official until acted on by Council.

Karen Miller, of the Corps of Engineers, was the first to be heard at the April 3 meeting of the Marlinton Town Council. She reported the progress in the various limbs of the program. The Fish and Wildlife Service and DNR representatives walked the affected areas. Discussion date of April 10 on the old tannery site, real estate planning is being completed, Corps representatives have been in touch with Governor Wise and the Colonel will meet with congressmen and senators—continued support is there. In answer to a previous question, she said $9.7 million had been spent on field studies since 1938. Greenbrier was included at first, then Summit, Bluestone, etc. were built. From 1964 to 1998, the study included all Kanawha tributaries, and started addressing the Greenbrier. Plans were in place for flood prevention on the Greenbrier until the overwhelming flood of 1985. The 1997 evaluation report cost under $500,000, first looking at 13 headwater reservoirs. She said Petty was a new analysis on the River Plan, hoping to leave it in place and providing protection slats to be put in place in case of flood. Rosecrans is beginning talks about flood protection. The Corps report should be ready by July 15, with review and public comments in September.

Ellen Gulford submitted her report for meetings with business and town representatives for record.

Brian Treadway questioned exclusions in the Municipal Service Fee and the Mayor said that will be the job of the Board of Review.

Jay Petty was next on the agenda. He had many sheets of information for Council and outlined his acquisition, examinations, consultant reports, etc., of the Lodge Building, his claims of opposition through a letter from the Mayor and Building Inspector; a letter of support from Dr. Barton Grimes, son of former owner. He said the building is now on the National Register of Historic Places. He claims harassment concerning a building permit, and claimed he had not yet done anything to the building to need a permit. He said when he got to the electrical and sewage work he would submit plans and get permit. He showed pictures of buildings around town that needed paint and repair, etc., He claimed there had been discrimination against him and asked for the resignation of Building Inspector, also of the Mayor, and the Council if they didn't act.

Mutscheller said she definitely thinks the building should be restored but she personally thought he needed a permit and she needed time to study the papers. Council voted to take time to study papers and meet at 7:30 p. m. Thursday to decide if a building permit is needed at this time.

In regard to the Campbelltown project, there has been a resolution of payment and Council approved, engineer $690.40, construction $50,820.92, Region IV 2,427.84, Town of Marlinton $2,879.89, total $56,763.85. EDA will repay the whole amount but it can't be done this month so the Mayor asked Council to approve a resolution for renewal of line of credit from Citizens National Bank until repayment is received. Resolution was accepted and approved.

Resolution was approved to file an application to Small Cities Redevelopment Program for a Fair Housing Program grant, with citizens' participation.

The Mayor reported a public hearing that afternoon concerning extending sewer to Campbelltown and part of Edray, with no citizens appearing.

Half the sewage penalty—$30,750— was paid last week. The money came out of water construction account and out of sewer reserve fund. It is the Town's understanding that the other half of the penalty will be forgiven by compliance with DEP requirements.

Mayor reported on the nice McClintic Library dedication, declaring the new Library a real asset to the town.

Council will meet April 17 at 7:30 to lay levy.

Request of church group to march from bank corner to Pocahontas Center was approved.

MTA request for $120 for the year was approved.

April 16-20 will be Clean Up Week. Please call the town office 799-4315 between April 16 and 19 to be put on the list for pick-up of large items. Mayor will see if tipping fee can be waived for hauling clean up items.

Jim Gibb and Loretta Malcomb were appointed to the Board of Appeal and Review for the Municipal Fee.

An executive session was requested on personnel matters. At the conclusion, the Mayor said no action was taken.

Building permits for March: Harriet Stone, 1112 10th Avenue, renovations; Melanie Shafer, 903 9th Street, renovations; Gail Cooke, 1022 2nd Avenue, mechanical work.

At Thursday night's meeting, Attorney Martin Sutler was present, also Bryan Treadway, accompanied by another gentleman, and Linda McLaughlin, Treasurer.

After discussion of the ordinance and all material, Council decided to hold permit order in abeyance until further work is done. Perry can proceed with cleaning and fix-up. The siding now being applied was ruled cosmetic to enable painting. Electric meter needs to be raised for flood plain requirements, etc., but these will be addressed later.

Elk River Valley economy experiencing rapid growth

by Terrell McSweeny
Staff Writer

The Elk River Valley has changed dramatically in the last 50 years.

Then, most people in the Elk River Valley made their living off the land, farming or timbering. But now many people make a living from the land, by buying and selling it.

"From Elk Mountain to the county line there used to be about 1,500 sheep and 800-900 cattle. Now there is a small fraction of that—we are down to probably three or four farmers," said Ralph Beckwith, who has lived in Slaty Fork for 40 years.

The Elk River Valley economy is in transition from an agricultural, resource-based economy to a tourist economy.

The most dramatic development in the valley has occurred in the last five years, since Intrawest's massive investment in new development at Snowshoe Mountain Resort. Farms are being replaced with vacation-home developments. New lodges and [illegible] and breakfasts native people find out that it is more valuable to unload the land and move somewhere else," said Rothman.

In the last three years property values in Slaty Fork and Snowshoe have increased between 50% and 100%—good news for Pocahontas County's bottom line.

But such rapid jumps in property values and taxes increase pressure on farmers and landowners to sell their land or subdivide it.

Last year Pauline Gulford decided to develop home sites on a small section of her family's farm, which adjoins Snowshoe Mountain. She found that lots on her land sold quickly.

"I thought maybe we would sell three or four lots and we ended up selling 25. There is a big demand for the land," said Gulford.

The value of property in the Elk River is likely to continue to increase in the next 10 years. Eventually the value of the land will far exceed the value of the products that can be raised on it, making it much more valuable to sell than to farm.

[illegible] is happening is that people [illegible]ford to farm the land so

Utah to Vermont are facing similar development pressures. They manage the growth with varying degrees of success.

Aspen, Colorado, is often cited as an example of a community that didn't manage its tourism growth well—primarily because the people who work in and around Aspen can't afford to live there. The local community has been scattered.

"The thing the local people had in Aspen was land and what they did was they sold it early and cheaply so that over time even people that owned businesses couldn't afford to live there anymore because the property taxes were too high," said Rothman.

Other communities, like Stowe, Vermont, have managed the growth from tourism more successfully.

Mark Sinclair, from the Conservation Law Foundation, helped the community of Stowe plan for the growth from a nearby ski resort.

The key elements in managing the transformation from an agricultural to a tourist economy are collaboration and planning, according to Sinclair.

"Communities need to require developers to sit down with local leaders and use a collaborative approach to planning development and growth," said Sinclair.

Rothman concurs that the biggest mistake a community can make is failing to plan.

"Tourism isn't just a panacea for a local economy—it's an economic strategy. The tourists aren't going to stay home and send a check. They are going to come and when they come they will change you. The biggest mistake communities make is not planning for that change. In order to preserve the things that are important a community needs to work together," said Rothman.

Notes from Bill Proudfoot

We are now in the last week of the 75th Legislative session. At midnight on Saturday, April 7, we took action on all House bills pending in the House of Delegates. Any [illegible] tribe in the State of West Virginia.

Committees are meeting two times a day to meet deadlines for bills. Meetings often last late into the night in an attempt to work out

THE LAST FRONTIER RESTAURANT
Rt. 2[illegible] • Durbin, WV

...ion

...s sewage penalty, Perry can continue work on lodge building

Ellen Gafford submitted her report for meetings with business and town representatives for record.

Brian Treadway questioned exclusions in the Municipal Service Fee and the Mayor said that will be the job of the Board of Review.

Jay Perry was next on the agenda. He had many sheets of information for Council and outlined his opposition, examinations, consultant reports, etc., of the Lodge building, his claims of opposition through a letter from the Mayor and building Inspector, a letter of support from Dr. Barton Grimes, and former owner. He said the building is now on the National Register of Historic Places. He claims harassment concerning a building permit, and claimed he had not yet seen anything to the building to get a permit. He said when he got the electrical and sewage work he will submit plans and get permit. He showed pictures of buildings and town that needed paint and repair, etc.. He claimed there had been discrimination against him and called for the resignation of Building Inspector, also of the Mayor. The Council if they didn't act. Councilor Mutschiller said she definitely likes the building should be saved but she personally thought he needed a permit and she needed time to study the papers. Council agreed to take time to study papers and meet at 7:30 p. m. Thursday to decide if a building permit is needed at this time.

In regard to the Campbelltown project, there has been a resolution of agreement and Council approved.

...rom
...roudfoot

...the State of West Virginia ... amendments are ... a day to meet deadlines for ... drainage ... last fair into ... fill in an attempt to work out ... issues that surround issues. ... are now having two floor ... each day, therefore, I apolo... ... not being able to get back ... of you who have written ... bill messages in regards to ... legislation concerning 2001 legis...

...and part of Edray, with no citizens objecting.

Half the sewage penalty—$10,750— was paid last week. The money came out of water construction accounts and out of sewer reserve fund. It is the Town's understanding that the other half of the penalty will be forgiven by compliance with DEP requirements.

Mayor reported on the new McClintic Library dedication, declaring the new Library a real asset to the town.

Council will meet April 17 at 7:30 to lay levy.

Request of church group to march from bank corner to Pocahontas Center was approved.

MTA request for $120 for the year was approved.

April 16-20 will be Clean Up Week. Please call the town office 799-4315 between April 16 and 19 to be put on the list for pick-up of large items. Mayor will see if tipping fee can be waived for hauling clean up items.

Jim Gibb and Loretta Malcomb were appointed to the Board of Appeal and Review for the Municipal Fee.

An executive session was requested on personnel matters. At the conclusion, the Mayor said no action was taken.

Building permits for March: Harriet Stone, 1112 10th Avenue, renovations; Melanie Shafer, 903 8th Street, renovations; Gail Cooke, 1022 2nd Avenue, mechanical work.

At Thursday night's meeting, Attorney Marion Sutlic was present, also Bryan Treadway, accompanied by another gentleman, and Linda McLaughlin, Treasurer.

After discussion of the ordinance and all material, Council decided to hold permit order in abeyance until further work is done. Perry can proceed with cleaning and fix-up. The siding now being applied was ruled cosmetic to enable painting. Electric meter needs to be raised for flood plain requirements, etc., but these will be addressed later.

Elk River Valley economy experiencing rapid growth

By Terrell McSweeny
Staff Writer

The Elk River Valley has changed dramatically in the last 50 years.

Then, most people in the Elk River Valley made their living off the land, farming or ranching. But now many people make a living from the land, by buying and selling it.

"From Elk Mountain to the county line there used to be about 1,500 sheep and 800-900 cattle. Now there is a small fraction of that—we are down to probably three or four farmers," said Ralph Beckwith, who has lived in Slaty Fork for 40 years.

The Elk River Valley economy is in transition from an agricultural, resource-based economy to a tourist economy.

The most dramatic development in the valley has occurred in the last five years, since Intrawest's massive investment in new development at Snowshoe Mountain Resort. Farms are being replaced with vacation home developments. New lodges and bed and breakfasts spring up over the summer like the newest cash crop.

The loss of farmland and agricultural heritage is a by-product of the successful growth of the tourism industry in many communities statewide, according to Professor Hal Rothman, an expert on tourism and their future prospects.

native people find out that it is more valuable to unload the land and move somewhere else," said Rothman.

In the last three years property values in Slaty Fork and Snowshoe have increased between 50% and 100%—good news for Pocahontas County's bottom line.

But such rapid jumps in property values and taxes increase pressure on farmers and landowners to sell their land or subdivide it.

Last year Pauline Gafford decided to develop home sites on a small section of her family's farm, which adjoins Snowshoe Mountain. She found that lots on her land sold quickly.

"I thought maybe we would sell three or four lots and we ended up selling 25. There is a big demand for the land," said Gafford.

The value of property in the Elk River is likely to continue to increase in the next 10 years. Eventually the value of the land will far exceed the value of the products that can be raised on it, making it much more valuable to sell than to farm.

"What is happening is that people can't afford to farm the land so they take that higher price they can get for it now. What it comes to is whether people want to preserve a way of life or do they want the money and hunt for another place," said Beckwith.

Mountain communities from Utah to Vermont are facing similar development pressures. They manage the growth with varying degrees of success.

Aspen, Colorado, is often used as an example of a community that didn't manage its tourism growth well—primarily because the people who work in and around Aspen can't afford to live there. The local community has been scattered.

"The thing the local people had in Aspen was land and what they did was they sold it early and cheaply so that over time even people that owned businesses couldn't afford to live there anymore because the property taxes were too high," said Rothman.

Other communities, like Stowe, Vermont, have managed the growth from tourism more successfully.

Mark Sinclair, from the Conservation Law Foundation, helped the community of Stowe plan for the growth from a nearby ski resort.

The key elements in managing the transformation from an agricultural to a tourist economy are collaboration and planning, according to Sinclair.

"Communities need to require developers to sit down with local leaders and use a collaborative approach to planning development and growth," said Sinclair.

Rothman concurs that the biggest mistake a community can make is failing to plan.

"Tourism isn't just a panacea for a local economy—it's an economic strategy. The tourists aren't going to stay home and send a check. They are going to come and when they come they will change you. The biggest mistake communities make is not planning for that change. In order to preserve the things that are important a community needs to work together," said Rothman.

THE LAST FRONTIER RESTAURANT
Rt. 250 • Cheat Mt. • Durbin, WV
Reopening Saturday, April 14
Regular hours:
Wednesday - Sunday
7 a.m. - 9 p.m.
Breakfast, Lunch & Dinner
Just 1 mile from the Cheat Mt. Salamander

Dee's Flower Patch
Fresh Flowers for any Occasion
Birthdays, Weddings, Anniversaries, Funerals
Woodwork and Handquilted Placemats and Pillows
Dee Hill, Owner
653-4303 or 653-4331
Toll Free 1-888-742-5368
Major Credit Cards
We Deliver & Wire Telefloras

Old Time String Music every first & third Wednesday at THE RIVER PLACE from 7 -9 p.m.

Pocahontas Community Club Annual Great Easter Egg Race
Easter Sunday • April 15, 2001
on Knapp's Creek 1st Place Prize - $500

ne Month

awards are based on the recycling, litter control, beautification, and environmental education efforts displayed by a county.

Your efforts do make a ifference. Several of the county's outh participate in cleanup pro- cts each year. Their efforts are to commended. This is not only a rty job, it can be dangerous. ease do not litter and if you see a anup taking place this month, ve cautiously and be courteous to volunteers who are doing their to keep Pocahontas County n and green!

Lasting litter...It doesn't just ppear.

Glass bottle - 1,000 years, alu- um can - 200 to 400 years, rub- ole - 50-80 years, hard plastic iner - 20 - 30 years, cigarette - 2 to 5 years, wool sock - 1 banana peel - 3 to 5 weeks, c 6-pack holder - 450 to 500 tin can - 80 to 100 years, r belt - 40 to 50 years, en stick - 10 to 15 years, rope - 10 to 14 months, cot- g - 1 to 5 months, paper - 2 eeks.

---

e Opera House

d Theater classes at PCHS 5 and 6. On the 19th, the hool will use the Opera as the site of the Junior- Prom.

Opera House Foundation ke to report to the many o the Chair Drive that the e arrived.

and see this facility for ll, of these events.

People

Johnson named library director

At its meeting on Tuesday, the Pocahontas County Free Libraries Board of Trustees named Allen Johnson, of Dunmore, as the new Director for the county library system. In this position he will oversee the four libraries that make up the system, Durbin, Green Bank, Hillsboro, and McClintic (Marlinton).

Obviously pleased at being named as the Director, Mr. Johnson said one of his main goals will be to make the "libraries a place for everyone."

Mr. Johnson will assume his duties with the library system the first of May.

The parents of four boys, Mr. Johnson and his wife Debora, have been in Pocahontas County for 25 years. He is presently employed by Timberline Health Group, but has also taught school, worked at the Bath County power project, and at Pocahontas Continuous Care Center since living here.

New facility pla along D&GV R

Following the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Durbin and Greenbrier Railroad on April 14, there will be a ground breaking for a new restaurant and lodging complex along the railroad at Bowden.

Revelle's River Retreat will feature the 50-seat Bowden Station Restaurant and Whistle Stop Tavern, providing family dining and after hours entertainment overlooking the Shavers Fork River, with lodging available in the 30-unit Salamander Lodge. A Rail and Trail Store will also be part of the complex.

A 600-foot railroad siding is to be installed at Bowden for use by the trains of the D&GV Railroad. Train operation for 2001 will begin in late April or May.

D&GV Railroad President John Smith said "this is an unique partnership venture between the railroad and Revelle's River Retreat formed for the purpose of promoting the many recreational opportunities being developed by these two companies."

The two companies are planning for the opening of the 44-mile section of rail line that will connect Elkins with the upper Shavers Fork area. This section passes under Cheat Mountain on an unusual "S" curve tunnel and passes by the High Falls of Cheat River. Two of the D&GV Railroad's three excursion trains, The Cheat Mountain Salamander and The New Tygart Flyer, will be mak at Bowden e

The railr numerous t originate at new statio Many diffe ages of rail door activit

For more free, 1-877
websites, or www.rev

Kell

Donati upkeep of Jacox. Ple
Claude Sir Craigsville,

Hunte

Anyon friends bur Cemetery upkeep shou

Faye Sh
urer, HC 8
WV 24954.
be appreciat

Seni

Monday: E rice, dill ca
jello w/fruit, Tuesday: L garlic bread, Wednesday
whipped pota jello w/whipp
milk.
Thursday:

Local group receives Humanities Council funding

Allegheny Echoes, Inc., has received a $1475 grant from the West Virginia Humanities Council to help fund the "Allegheny Echoes Snowshoe Workshops Masters Program" this coming summer. The money was made at the meeting of the Council's Board of Directors on March. A total of $96,000 in grants were approved at this meeting.

For information on the Humani

hnson named rary director

meeting on Tuesday, the ...n County Free Libraries ...d Trustees named Allen ...of Dunmore, as the new ...r the county library sys... this position he will ...the four libraries that make ...system, Durbin, Green ...sboro, and McClintic ...

...ly pleased at being ...the Director, Mr. Johnson ...of his main goals will be ...be "libraries a place for ...

...nson will assume his ...the library system the ...

...ns of four boys, Mr. ...and his wife Debora, have ...Pocahontas County for 25 ...presently employed by ...Health Group, but has ...school, worked at the ...power project, and at ...Continuous Care Cen... here. ...

New facility planned along D&GV Railroad

Following the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Durbin and Greenbrier Railroad on April 14, there will be a ground breaking for a new restaurant and lodging complex along the railroad at Bowden.

Revelle's River Retreat will feature the 50-seat Bowden Station Restaurant and Whistle Stop Tavern, providing family dining and after hours entertainment overlooking the Shavers Fork River, with lodging available in the 30-unit Salamander Lodge. A Rail and Trail Store will also be part of the complex.

A 600-foot railroad siding is to be installed at Bowden for use by the trains of the D&GV Railroad. Train operation for 2001 will begin in late April or May.

D&GV Railroad President John Smith said "this is an unique partnership venture between the railroad and Revelle's River Retreat formed for the purpose of promoting the many recreational opportunities being developed by these two companies."

The two companies are planning for the opening of the 44-mile section of rail line that will connect Elkins with the upper Shavers Fork area. This section passes under Cheat Mountain on an unusual "S" curve tunnel and passes by the High Falls of Cheat River. Two of the D&GV Railroad's three excursion trains, The Cheat Mountain Salamander and The New Tygart Flyer, will be making several daily stops at Bowden each operating day.

The railroad will be offering numerous trip options that either originate at Bowden or include the new station as the destination. Many different combination packages of railroading and other outdoor activities will be available.

For more information call, toll-free, 1-877-686-7245, or go to the websites, www.mountainrail.com or www.revelles.com.

Notices

Kellison Cemetery

Donations are needed for the upkeep of Kellison Cemetery at Jacox. Please send donations to: Claude Simmons, P.O. Box 568, Craigsville, WV 26205.

Huntersville Cemetery

Anyone who has relatives and friends buried in the Huntersville Cemetery and is interested in its upkeep should send donations to:

Faye Sheets, Trustee and Treasurer, HC 82 Box 54, Marlinton, WV 24954. Any donations would be appreciated.

Senior Menus

April 16-20

Monday: Baked fish on bed of rice, dill carrots, applesauce, roll, jello w/fruit, milk

Tuesday: Lasagna, green salad, garlic bread, peach half, milk

Wednesday: Barbecued chicken, whipped potatoes, green beans, red jello w/whipped topping, ww roll, milk

Thursday: Chili bean soup, peanut butter & jelly sandwich, coleslaw, apricots, milk

...up receives Humanities Council funding

... Echoes, Inc., has ...$1,475 grant from the ... Humanities Council ... the "Allegheny Echoes ...workshops Masters Pro... ...coming summer. The ...ge towards feminists ...ssues for the mus... ...

... was made at the meeting of the Council's Board of Directors on March. A total of $96,000 in grants were approved at this meeting.

For information on the Humanities Council grant programs, contact Patti LeRose, Grants Administrator, ...

Outdoor Notes

...ng
...foot sprang
...e tempera-
...l spring is

...s that last
...he saw a
... flat tail
...er than a
... the ani-
...ne other

...son

... Spring
...ril 23,
...sion of
...ting a
...eason,
...rector
...source
...in the

...ction
...abun-
... this
... pro-
... was
...year,
...year
...mile
... the

... of
...vin-
...ers
...this

...ary
...ion
... a
...ay
...ly
...ng
...he
...e
...

...ation leading to the arrest and ...ction of persons who illegally ...ll or possess a wild turkey. The ...ublic is urged to contact their local ...onservation officer or telephone 1-...Not Game if they see someone ...legally killing a turkey or know ...of a person possessing an illegal ...key. The informant's identity ...will remain confidential. By report-...ing poaching, the public can make ...a significant contribution to West ...Virginia's wild turkey management ...program.

...Killing wild turkeys is also ...illegal in West Virginia. The West ...Virginia Chapter of the National ...Wild Turkey Federation pays a cash ...reward of $100 for information that ...leads to the arrest and conviction of ...a person(s) attempting to kill wild ...turkeys through the use of bait dur-...ing the months of April and May or ...willfully destroying the nest or ...eggs of a wild turkey.

..."Taking can lead to an overhar-...vest of our wild turkey resource," ...Hamrick said. "Illegal hunting of ...wild turkeys is a serious problem ...and I hope this cooperative effort is ...a step toward reducing illegal activi-...ties."

...

Trout Fishing at WV State Parks

...Experience the challenge of ...trout fishing in some of the most ...picturesque and tranquil lakes and ...rivers of West Virginia State Parks ...and Forests. More than 20 areas ...offer some of the best fishing sites, ...including Anjea, Babcock, Blackwa-...ter Falls, Cacapon, Camp Creek, ...Canaan Valley, Carnifex Ferry Bat-...tlefield, Cedar Creek, Chief Logan, ...Holly River, Little Beaver, Mos-...cove Lake, Pinnacle Rock, ...Pipestem, Tomlinson Run, Tygart ...Lake and Watoga State Parks; Cab-...aylings, Calvin Price, Coopers ...Rock, Panne, and Seneca State ...Forests; and Berwind Lake, Blue-...stone and Summersville Lakes Wildlife ...Management areas.

...Rules and regulations governing ...fishing are detailed in the WV ...Fishing Regulations available at all ...Division of Natural Resources dis-...trict offices and all fishing license ...agents. A fishing license is required ...

...

Upcoming

Lincoln Presenters to Emerge in Historic Lewisburg April 22

On Sunday, April 22, Lewisburg will have the illusion of stepping back in history as several dozen Abraham Lincolns and Mary Todd Lincolns in full costume emerge from the Old Stone Church and stroll through the historic district. All are members of the Association of Lincoln Presenters and are coming to West Virginia for their Seventh Annual Convention.

The visit to Lewisburg comes on the final day of the three-day convention, April 20-22. Participants will attend a special worship service at the Old Stone Presbyterian Church (1796) from 9:30 to 10:30 a.m. A sermon by Chaplain Chet Dameron will examine the depth of Lincoln's faith through excerpts from the President's letters, speeches, and other writings. The special service is open to the public and will be complete with other Civil War reenactors in full uniform.

After the service, Presenters will have the opportunity to continue on a walking tour throughout the Historic District or visit the North House Museum. The Museum is noted for a gown that was worn during the Inauguration of Lincoln and a sideboard that was from the office of Lincoln's law partner. Rounding out the day will be a luncheon at the Washington Street Inn and a bunker tour for all Presenters.

In Beckley, the Presenters will participate in a Civil War weekend, attending a performance of "Civil War Theme" at Tamarack, a "History Alive" encampment, and a 19th Century Theme Parade, as part of the convention. The focus of this year's convention is "The Making of the State of West Virginia."

"Without Abraham Lincoln's action, we would likely still be a part of Virginia," said Jim Rubin, himself a Lincoln Presenter. He and his wife, Edna, both residents of Prosperity, are hosts to the annual convention.

Hanno Kirk, PhD, also a Lincoln Presenter, is a resident of Lewisburg and host to the Lewisburg portion of the convention. According to Kirk, Lincoln Presenters have as their mission the opportunity to make history come alive surrounding America's beloved 16th President. Under their motto, "Would I Might Rouse the Lincoln in You All," Lincoln Presenters give performances on stage, screen and in classrooms all over the United States.

For more information on how to participate in the celebrations in Lewisburg or Beckley, contact Hanno Kirk at 304-645-7615 or the Greenbrier County CVB at 304-645-1000.

...

Greenbrier County Community Easter Egg Hunt

Greenbrier County Community Easter Egg Hunt, Saturday, April 14, at Greenbrier State Forest Picnic Area. Event begins at 2 p.m. and ends at 3 p.m. for children ages infant to six years and seven to 12 years. Each age group will hunt in separate areas.

Don't forget your cameras. The Easter Bunny and Smokey Bear will be present for pictures and they'll have Easter surprises for all children.

Register upon arrival at the shelter for a Smokey Bear tote bag for carrying your Easter eggs and for a chance at the Grand Prize to be given away at 3 p.m.

This event is hosted by Greenbrier State Forest and The High Rocks Academy. For more information, call the forest office at 304-536-1944.

...

Tom's Garage
Batteries • Tires • Exhaust
Diagnostic Equipment
304-456-5104

Eye exams and treatment for cataracts, diabetes and glaucoma

...Agency
...Wandap II
...Applications due Ap...
...Payments will be ...
...who produced wo...
...or mohair during ...
...marketing year. You coul...
...as much as 40¢ a pound ...
...wool.

...Applications have be...
...growers who sold wool ...
...Pocahontas Producers ...
...These must be returned ...
...If you did not sell y...
...your wool, you are still e...
...sign-up for payment. If y...
...questions, please call 799-...

...

Crop Reports D...

...Spring has finally ar...
...the grass is starting to gro...
...the haymaking time bef...
...know it.

...Producers are reminde...
...which fields they intend ...
...hay before it's cut. May ...
...deadline for filing a repor...
...2001 hay crop. If you ...
...plant corn or oats and kn...
...fields you will plant, th...
...should also be reported b...
...deadline.

...A very important part...
...farming operation include...
...on records. Please bring a...
...the amount of hay you m...
...year when you are mak...
...year's report. If you have a...
...questions on what information i...
...please contact the Farm ...
...Agency at 799-4317.

...

...Hepatica is one of those ...
...has the same common ...
...scientific name. There ar...
...two species of Hepatica ...
...West Virginia, roundlobe ...
...(Hepatica americana) ...
...lobe hepatica (Hepatica ...

...The good news is that ...
...are common in forested ...
...across the state.

...Hepatica is in the cro...
..., Ranunculaceae, with b...
...goldthread, and...of c...
...include mostly herbac...
...with alternately arra...
...These plants prod...
...ses, follicles, or berries ...
...Achenes contain indivi...

Board of Education

From page 2

PREPARING TO BREAK ground are, l-r, Auditorium Planning Committee member Mark Clark, Board of Education members Bruce McKean, Kermit Friel, Diane Buzzard, County Commission President Joel Callison, and Board members Bernard King and Kenneth Vance.

nimous vote expect for the creation of the Green Bank/PCHS multi-school position. It was approved on a 3-2 vote with Mr. McKean and Kenneth Vance casting the no votes.

members on the location of the "out of school environment days" in the proposed calendar. All but one of the six are in the first half of the school year, before it is likely according to Ed Hamric of the Division of Natur es. The kill will likel 11,000 to 14,000 range

"Due to outstandin in 1999, there should dance of 2-year-old g spring," Hamrick said. duction last summer, h not as good as the pr and the count was belo average. This means f gobblers (jakes) will bag this spring."

Because of the mast (food) this past ter, both jakes and a will be heavier than spring.

"Hunters have th to enjoy a wild turk in every county of t long, 4-week season 19," Hamrick said. bler season provides opportunity to hunt morning and fish in t

The Division see spring gobbler huntin the wild turkey resou hunting recreation,

: changes to
Times
on WV 24954
(304) 799-6466 em oem
t week of the year.
West Virginia 24954
5373
S (including tax)
ut-of-State $25
ATES
ed—20¢ word ITT, Managing Editor
perita
01

Jury indicts n Tuesday

Jury met on Tuesday indictments against Several indictments
e than on count.
M. Paughman was cessory after the fact of a controlled submance.
ey Smith and Wyatt e were each indicted a, all felonies, contribute marijuana, hedule I controlled possession with inta Schedule I con-
.
Nicholas Boggs and Funk were each
o felonies counts, eliver a controlled livery of a Schedule
ance.
ynn Beverage was t counts, daytime breaking, petit larsion of Schedule II ance. The first is a her two are misde-

Mullenax was rving under the nd, third or subse-dony.
ws presided at the ipiumnis will be day

Future of Greenbrier River Trail topic of meeting

Saturday an informational meeting was held at the Marlinton Municipal Building by the West Virginia River Trails Coalition in regard to the future of the Greenbrier Hiking and Bike Trail, a Millenium Legacy Trail. Lou Schrader, President of the Coalition, and Dr. Raymond Busbee, of Marshall University, brought a report to update business people and those interested in hiking and biking trails regarding an economic study that is being made by the Mountain Transportation Foundation at Marshall University.

Shrader emphasized that the Greenbrier River Trail should not remain an 'island' unto itself. The trail should extend north from Cass to Durbin, where it would connect to the West Fork Trail and would permit the trail visitor to reach the Glady-Bemis area. The trail could then extend on an old railroad bed converted to a county road to the Dry Fork area, near Canaan Valley State Park and the American Discovery Trail, which stretches from Cape Henlopen, Delaware, to Point Reyes, California. The Trail should also extend south through Ronceverte, Alderson, and on to Hinton, then possibly combine with the proposed Mary Draper Ingles Trail and a New River Trail south to meet the New River Rail Trail and the TransAmerica Trail which connects Port-land, Oregon, and Virginia Beach. When adding the Blue Ridge Parkway, the East Coast Greenway or a possible route through the Shenandoah Valley, the Greenbrier would become a vital segment of several east coast loop trails.

Shrader also revealed that WVTC is working with the National Park Service in an effort to designate the Greenbrier Trail as a National Recreation Trail.

Comprehensive marketing was also discussed.

Dr. Busbee gave a detailed report on unofficial surveys done by two graduate workers of people on the trail in October. These statistics were quite extensive but showed 63% of visitors came from out-of-state, most users came from Virginia, Pennsylvania second, Maryland third, and Ohio fourth, (two from Hawaii); 34% came for one day, 27% overnight, 39% multiple days. They ranked the quality of the trail, the scenic quality and service high. They spent money on food, lodging, souvenirs, clothing, but not on equipment purchase or rent. As to spending, 27% spent less than $100, 58% spent $100 to $500, 15% spent over $500 (as much as $2700). Two spent over $7,000—the remark was that they probably stayed at The Greenbrier. Anticipated expenditures by out-of-state visitors were $82,315 and in-state $11,185.

Leslee McCarty represented the Pocahontas County Convention and Visitors Bureau. There were fifteen or twenty persons representing businesses and interest agencies.

Information from Mr. Shrader can be obtained at 304/755-4878.

Energy Express

Anyone interested in a summer volunteer coordinator position with the Energy Express Program can obtain information or get an application from the West Virginia University Extension Service office at the Court House, 799-4852.

The coordinators will work for eight weeks, June 11 - August 3, as a member of a site team to support the reading and nutrition program for youth in grades K-6. They will recruit and train volunteers and organize literacy enrichment events in their local communities.

Bloodmobile

The Bloodmobile held last Friday at the Marlinton Municipal Building was a great success. There was a total of 53 donors presenting, 5 donors deferred, 48 units collected, and 7 first-time donors.

We appreciate the community support and the Presbyterian Church Women as sponsors.

Magistrat

Jeremiah B. Powell, of Marlinton, was arrested on Tuesday of last week on a charge of possession of less than 15 grams of marijuana by Deputy Sheriff J. L. Clifton. He was released on $100 bond.

Magistrate Kathy Beverage had several hearings in her court on Thursday.

Christopher S. Smith, of Huntington, entered a plea of no contest to a charge of spotlighting with a firearm in his possession. He was sentenced to ten days in jail, with five days suspended, and fined $500 plus $87 in court costs.

David M. Smith, of Ceredo, pled guilty to spotlighting. He was sentenced to ten days in jail, with all ten days suspended, fined $500, and assessed $87 in court costs.

Steven S. Halterman, of Cass, entered a plea bargain plea of guilty to first offense DUI. He had originally been charge with second offense DUI. He was sentenced to four days in jail with a fine of $500 and court costs of $227. He pled guilty to speeding and was fined $10 with $67 in court costs. A charge of not using a seatbelt was dismissed.

Allen Johnson, of Dunmore, was found guilty of unauthorized use of a vehicle on national forest land. He was fined $50 with $127 in court costs.

Eugene P. Wimer, of Durbin, was arrested on a charge of possession of less than 15 grams of marijuana by Deputy Sheriff B. C. Totten on Friday. He pled guilty before Magistrate Beverage and was placed on probation for six months.

Sharon Long, of Marlinton, appeared in court on a complaint filed by School Attendance Officer John Snyder charging her with failure to send a child to school. She was released on $100 bond.

Galen L. Biggs, of Marlinton, was arrested Friday by State Police Tpr. D. M. McMillan on charges of violating a protective order, destruction of property, and trespassing. He was placed in jail until $7000 bond was posted on Sunday.

i. Measurable precipitation orded on 17 days, with total tion equalling 3.05 inches.
ufficient but actually 1.05"
ormal.
six straight months now ion has been below aver-deficit for that period now 8.15 inches.
one should now be ready
!.

March Weather
ion Water Plant, Dale McKenney

mperature, 56° on 3/13;
°
mperature, 9° on 3/28;

33" 5" ays, 11; snow days, 3;
; cloudy days, 9.
000 (Year ago) — High 75°, average 53.1°; low 13°; average 25°; rain, snow 1.0 inches.

---

wn of Durbin Special Meeting

wn of Durbin will meet pril 17, at 7 p.m. for a ting to lay the levy.

---

ntas Emergency Center Notice

e April 1, the Pocahonncy Food Center will n on the 2nd and 4th ch month. Assistance is o more than once every s and must be based on needs. Clients must own boxes.

Does your need housing?

or anyone in your fam-

indicted for driving under the influence of alcohol, third or subsequent offense, a felony.

Judge James Rowe presided at the Grand Jury. Arraignments will be on Thursday and Friday.

Marlinton Council approves municipal fee

The public meeting for the last reading of the proposed Municipal Service Fee and limited B&O Tax for Marlinton was held Friday night. The fee is for $24 per year for each residence and 10c per sq. ft. for business, commercial, and government buildings. The B&O tax is $2 per $100 gross income for contractors and 50¢ per $100 for amusements such as carnivals, circuses, theaters, skating rinks, etc.

About a dozen citizens were present in addition to the Council. One business man reaffirmed his support, another supported it if a tax is necessary, another said he didn't see any estimated expansion for benefits as was given for the reason the tax was needed and recommended several ways to reduce expenses. Councilman Gibb answered the Council has been working on reducing costs not on services.

Council approved the ordinance.

NOTICES

Marlinton Chapter #97 OES Grand Visitation

All members are invited to join us for the visitation of Sister Carolyn Davis, Worthy Grand Matron, and Brother Donald Lawrence, Wor-also discussed.

Dr. Busbee gave a detail report on unofficial surveys done two graduate workers of people

Second Avenue folks half-hearted about protection

By Terrell McSweeny
Staff Writer

Editors' Note: This story is the fifth in a series dealing with Marlinton residents' reaction to floodwalls and levees for protection. Every effort was made to contact as many residents in this neighborhood as possible.

The lower end of Second Avenue, between Eighth Street and the confluence of the Greenbrier River and Knapps Creek, is a mix of stately old homes, small businesses, and rental properties.

At one time the homes of Second Avenue, with their ample yards, well-kept gardens, and river views, were among the most sought-after addresses in Marlinton.

Now they are part of Marlinton's downtown flood zone.

Prior to 1985 the neighborhood didn't have a flooding problem.

Some homes on Second Avenue suffered minimal basement flooding—but significant amounts of water were not recorded in the living quarters of the homes.

In November of 1985 everything changed. Second Avenue was one of Marlinton's hardest hit neighborhoods in that massive flood— most residents had between five and seven feet of water in their living rooms.

The 1985 flood changed the upper end of Second Avenue. Many of the old homes became rental properties or were left vacant to slowly decay.

But many of the residents of Second Avenue hung on to their homes—fixing them after the floods of 1985 and 1996 and keeping them as beautiful monuments to a more prosperous past.

They live, like many residents of Marlinton, in constant watch of the river.

"Every time you get a hard rain you are on pins and needles," said Lee McMann.

In spite of constant worry about flooding, the people of upper Second Avenue are divided over Marlinton's proposed flood control project. Many don't support it at all—about that do, do so reluctantly.

"I think Marlinton ought to be saved. It's the county seat. The banks, the buildings, the school, the churches, the courthouse are worth saving. We've gone through over the years and can't get a dam. There just aren't other alternatives," said Jane Price Sharp.

A levee in the garden

Some residents of Second Avenue, like Sharp, will lose their gardens to the proposed levee and floodwall system. Few will lose their homes.

The southern end of Marlinton will be protected from the Greenbrier River and Knapps Creek by an 11-17 feet high floodwall that will run from the Eighth Street bridge to the intersection of First Avenue and Ninth Street, and an earthen levee 12-16 feet high and 40-60 feet wide at the base that will run from Tenth Street to the end of Second Avenue, according to the Army Corps of Engineers' proposal.

The River Place Restaurant, First Avenue houses, and a few homes at the end of Second Avenue will be demolished to make way for the levees and floodwalls.

"We're going to see if we can make adjustments that might allow some of the Second Avenue houses to stay, but we can't say for sure right now. As it is laid out during the feasibility study it will affect those houses. But we may be able to make slight modifications to the alignment of the levees," said Ellis Brown, an engineer for the Army Corps.

First Avenue residents Tom and Janice Miller will definitely lose their home of 19 years. But they support the flood control project, in spite of its cost to them.

"It's just the uncertainty of things right now that worries us—it's not knowing how much we will get offered for our property and when we will be able to move. But we're not opposed to the levee," said Janice Miller.

River Place Restaurant owner Melanie Shafer won't fight the floodwalls either.

"I can't stand in the way of anyone getting protection," said Shafer.

But Shafer worries about what will happen to her 30 employees if her restaurant is closed.

"I want to make sure that those people that have given so much to me and this business receive training and unemployment compensation so they can get another good job," said Shafer, who isn't sure if she will relocate in town.

'I don't think we'll have it'

Many of the older residents of Second Avenue are skeptical that the floodwalls and levees will be constructed at all. It seems to them that the Army Corps has spent more than a lifetime studying the river without fixing Marlinton's flooding problem.

"I think the young people need to be more involved in this because I doubt it will happen in our lifetime. It seems to me the Army Corps has spent a lot of money and time studying this river," said Ed Wagner.

"I'm in favor of flood walls, but I don't think we'll have it," said Lee McMann. "But there is a better chance now than there was."

TOM AND JANICE Miller's home sits on First Avenue, directly in the path of floods and now, floodwalls. The Millers are not opposed to the Army Corps' proposal.

The Army Corps of Engineers has worked on-again-off again studies of the Greenbrier River watershed since the 1930s. In 1938 the Army Corps was authorized to study the watershed, but the study was focused down stream closer to Alderson, according to Army Corps spokeswoman Karen Miller.

In 1940s and 1950s the Army Corps didn't spend much time studying the Greenbrier. But in the 1960s the Corps began a comprehensive study of the Kanawha River basin, which included the Greenbrier river.

"There was in the later '70s and early '80s some specific work done for Marlinton," said Miller.

A flood plain study was complete by the mid-1970s and a small "local protection project" was proposed for Marlinton. The project was a levee designed to protect against a small 20-25 year flood event. The preliminary work on the small levee was complete in September of 1985. In November of that year a wall of water rushed through town—a flood now referred to as the flood of record, a 350-year flood event. The Army Corps of Engineers threw out plans for the small levee.

"The focus changed again after the '85 flood. The Army Corps started looking at protection of entire basin," said Miller.

Between 1986 and 1988 the Army Corps drafted a feasibility study for mainstem dam on the Greenbrier River, but lack of funding caused that project to be suspended in 1989.

In 1993 the Army Corps resumed study of the Greenbrier River basin and concluded that a dry dam was the most cost effective means of controlling flooding from Marlinton to Alderson.

But the dry dam project lacked, and still lacks, Congressional support. So the Army Corps again changed the scope of its study. In 1996 they began to evaluate local protection projects—levees and floodwalls—for Marlinton, Rosenvere, and Alderson.

Marlinton is the only one of the three communities to express local support for moving forward with a local protection project.

But on Second Avenue, as in many Marlinton neighborhoods, local support is half-hearted.

"Build a dam and forget about floodwalls," said Ed Wagner.

TAYLOR'S GROCERY, HILLSBORO
CLEARANCE SALE
BEGINNING, SATURDAY, APRIL 7 • 9 AM
All backroom and yard sale items discounted.
Restaurant supplies and uniforms below wholesale.
Discontinued store items.
See next weeks paper for new merchandise arriving at Taylors' Gifts, Souvenirs for Southern Pocahontas County and a Wedding, Prom and Pageant Consignment Shop

The River Place
Restaurant & Lodging
$7.95 Sunday Buffet
All You Can Eat
This Sunday's feature -
Chicken & Dumplings and Meatloaf

J&P
Furniture Co., Inc.
•Furniture •Appliances
•Tile •Vinyl •Carpet •Bedding
106 8th Street, Marlinton, WV
304-799-6235

said Jane Price Sharp.

A levee in the garden

Some residents of Second Avenue, like Sharp, will lose their gardens to the proposed levee and floodwall system. Few will lose their homes.

The southern end of Marlinton will be protected from the Greenbrier River and Knapps Creek by an 11-17 feet high floodwall that will run from the Eighth Street bridge to the intersection of First Avenue and Ninth Street, and an earthen levee 12 -16 feet high and 40-60 feet wide at the base that will run from Tenth Street to the end of Second Avenue, according to the Army Corps of Engineers' proposal.

The River Place Restaurant, First Avenue houses, and a few homes at the end of Second Avenue will be demolished to make way for the levees and floodwalls.

"We're going to see if we can make adjustments that might allow some of the Second Avenue houses to stay, but we can't say for sure right now. As it is laid out during the feasibility study it will affect those houses. But we may be able to make slight modifications to the alignment of the levees," said Ellis Brown, an engineer for the Army Corps.

First Avenue residents Tom and Janice Miller will definitely lose their home of 19 years. But they support the flood control project, in spite of its cost to them.

"It's just the uncertainty of things right now that worries us—it's not knowing how much we will get offered for our property and where we will be able to move. But we're not opposed to the levee," said Janice Miller.

River Place Restaurant owner Melanie Shafer won't fight the floodwalls either.

"I can't stand in the way of anyone getting protection," said Shafer.

But Shafer worries about what will happen to her 30 employees if her restaurant is closed.

"I want to make sure that these people that have given so much to me and this business receive training and unemployment compensation so they can get another good job," said Shafer, who isn't sure if she will relocate in town.

'I don't think we'll have it'

Many of the older residents of Second Avenue are skeptical that the floodwalls and levees will be constructed at all. It seems to them that the Army Corps has spent more than a lifetime studying the river without fixing Marlinton's flooding problem.

"I think the young people need to be more involved in this because I doubt it will happen in our lifetime. It seems to me the Army Corps has spent a lot of money and time studying this river," said Ed Wagner.

"I'm in favor of flood walls, but I don't think we'll have it," said Lee McMann. "But there is a better chance now than there was."

The Army Corps of Engineers has worked on-again-off again studies of the Greenbrier River watershed since the 1930s. In 1938 the Army Corps was authorized to study the watershed, but the study was focused down stream closer to Alderson, according to Army Corps spokeswoman Karen Miller.

In 1940s and 1950s the Army Corps didn't spend much time studying the Greenbrier. But in the 1960s the Corps began a comprehensive study of the Kanawha River Basin, which included the Greenbrier River.

"There was in the later '70s and early '80s some specific work done for Marlinton," said Miller.

A flood plain study was complete by the mid-1970s and a small "local protection project" was proposed for Marlinton's proposed flood control project. Many don't support it at all—those that do so reluctantly.

"I think Marlinton ought to be wall of water roared through town—a flood now referred to as the flood of record, a 350-year flood event. The Army Corps of Engineers threw out plans for the small levee.

TOM AND JANICE Miller's home sits on First Avenue, directly in the path of floods and now, floodwalls. The Millers are not opposed to the Army Corps' proposal.

"The focus changed again after the '85 flood. The Army Corps started looking at protection of entire basin," said Miller.

Between 1986 and 1988 the Army Corps drafted a feasibility study for mainstem dam on the Greenbrier River, but lack of funding caused that project to be suspended in 1989.

In 1993 the Army Corps resumed its work in Marlinton, and still lacks, Congressional support. So the Army Corps again changed the scope of its study. In 1996 they began to evaluate local protection projects—levees and floodwalls—for Marlinton, Ronceverte, and Alderson.

Marlinton is the only one of the three communities to express local support for moving forward with a local protection project.

But on Second Avenue, as in many Marlinton neighborhoods, local support is half-hearted.

"Build a dam and forget about floodwalls," said Ed Wagner.

TAYLOR'S GROCERY, HILLSBORO
CLEARANCE SALE
BEGINNING, SATURDAY, APRIL 7 • 9 AM
All backroom and yard sale items discounted.
Restaurant supplies and uniforms below wholesale.
Discontinued store items.
See next weeks paper for new merchandise arriving at Taylors' Gifts, Souvenirs for Southern Pocahontas County and a Wedding, Prom and Pageant Consignment Shop.

J&P Furniture Co., Inc.
•Furniture •Appliances
•Tile •Vinyl •Carpet •Bedding
106 8th Street, Marlinton, WV
304-799-6235

The River Place
Restaurant & Lodging
$7.95 Sunday Buffet
All You Can Eat
This Sunday's feature -
Chicken & Dumplings and Meatloaf

"Trigger Happy" Playing at the Lewisburg Moose Lodge
April 7

50% OFF Package Price

HUMANE SOCIETY OF POCAHONTAS COUNTY
and MARLINTON
MOOSE LODGE Invite You & Your Family
For An Easter Egg Hunt &
Free Photo Badges
Saturday, April

ED WAGNER LIVES in this two-story home on Second Avenue. Wagner believes a mainstem dam would solve Marlinton's flooding problems.

The

"MorningStar"

FolkArts

Hillsboro (304)-653-4397

nue folks half-hearted abo county seat. The lings, the school, e courthouse are e've gone through d can't get a dam. ther alternatives."

arp.

the garden

of Second Ave-will lose their gar-posed levee and
. Few will lose nd of Marlinton om the Greenbri-pps Creek by an oodwall that will h Street bridge to First Avenue and an earthen levee

d 40-60 feet wide l run from Tenth Second Avenue, Army Corps of l.

Restaurant, First
t a few homes at

TOM AND JANICE Miller's home sits on First Avenue, directly in the path of floods and now, floodwalls. The Millers are not opposed to the Army Corps' proposal.

people that have given so much to me and this business receive training and unemployment compensa-

McMann. "But there is a better chance now than there was."

The Army Corps of Engineers

Marlinton. Th designed to p 20-25 year f liminary wo was comple 1985. In No wall of w town—a flo the flood of event. The gineers thr small levee.

"The foc the '85 flo started look tire basin,"

Betwee
Army Co study for Greenbrie
ing cause pended in

In 1993

Mountain Chorus

by Karen McClure

White eye rings and wing bars, a greenish patch on the back plete the outfit. Male northern las have a dark stripe, or neck- across the chest. The song of warbler is a buzz which ascends cale, and then the song bursts he last note. Sometimes they the last note out. Northern las breed in all counties of the ntain state. Their preferred hab- wet woodlands. Northern par- eat a lot of insects, especially pillars, and also many spiders. Up north, northern parulas nest d man's beard, a lichen that s from trees. Down south they the southern equivalent, Span- moss. In between, where we neither, northern parulas nest emlocks or spruces, building a ging cluster of twigs. The 3 to gs are laid in the late spring to y summer. The white to cream s have brown spots on the large . After about 2 weeks, the tiny ds hatch, ready to eat and grow.

I hear the word "parula" pro- nced 2 ways. Some say "pa- O-la," and some say "PARE- -la." This may depend on which e of the mountains you are from. y to pronounce "parula" the way people I'm with say it. Other

Sexual Assault Awareness Month Believe, Talk, Act

To increase public awareness about the problem of sexual assault and to encourage citizen involvement, the Family Refuge Center as a Sexual Assault Crisis Center is asking our community to believe that sexual assault is occurring at epidemic proportions, to talk about the issue with friends and family, and to take action to stop this horrific crime.

Sexual assault has long been held a secret—in our families, in our church, in our schools, and in our community. Believing, talking, and acting are the first steps in supporting sexual assault survivors, holding perpetrators accountable, and preventing sexual assault from continuing.

The Family Refuge Center in Greenbrier, Monroe and Pocahontas Counties offers services to sexual assault survivors, their significant others, friends and family. Whether the assault happened last night or 30 years ago; whether the perpetrator was a stranger, an acquaintance or a family member; whether it happened in the victim's home or in some unfamiliar place; whatever the circumstance, help is available.

"Until we are able to believe survivors, talk about the issues surrounding sexual assault, and come together to take action against this crime, we will be unable to continue to change the attitudes that have made this crime acceptable to so many," says Danette Condon, Community Educator for the Family Refuge Center.

We ask that you take time this month to talk about this issue in your family, talk about prevention with your family and friends and contact the Family Refuge Center for further information or check out our web site at familyrefugecenter.com.

55 Alive Mature Driving Course to be offered

The Greenbrier Valley Medical Center Senior Friends program will co-sponsor the AARP 55 Alive Nothem, director of Senior Friends at Greenbrier Valley Medical Center, at 304-647-6096.

Conservation C scholarships av

The Greenbrier Valley Soil Conservation District would like to inform students and teachers of several camp opportunities available this summer. The GVSCD is offering a limited number of scholarships to the 2001 Senior Conservation Camp, which will be held June 11-16 at Camp Caesar on State Route 20 between Webster Springs and Cowen. The camp is open to anyone from age 14-19 years of age. Applications must be received at the GVSCD before the May 1 deadline. Scholarships will be awarded on a first come, first serve basis.

The GVSCD has information on the DNR Junior Conservation Camp for students ages 11-14. This camp is held at Cedar Lakes, Ripley, on July 16-20. Campers must be 11 by July 16, 2001, and must not have reached age 15 before July 20. This camp enables students to become knowledgeable about conservation and the environment, to gain experience in sound conservation management practices and to become good stewards of our natural resources. Deadline is May 1.

The West Virginia Forestry Association and other interested individuals are furnishing scholarships to Industrie gon ne County offers fi ing. Eve ball, vo Inform availab is June

Th "Hand will be Mabon 12. Sp vation provid to bec menta impro Some caves geolo raphy aquat endan 15.

I these Gree tion office son S

rs, George Galford,
. Maryland, Andy
nlin, and Ray Gal-eake, Virginia, four and two great-

ices were held Sun-the Bethel United rch by the Revs.
David Rittenhouse, rry. Burial with was in the Arbo-

its may be made to ethodist Church or cue Squads.

F. Keeler

Keeler, age 87, of ednesday, March 7, ier Valley Medical

d from the United rvice and was a rved in the United World War II and of the American Moose Lodge.
Chester A. and Keeler, he was gton, Delaware, adopted mother, aywood, preceded are his wife, ler; a daugh-Buckeye; a of El Paso, ughters, two and eleven held at Van-

Wallace & Wallace Funeral Home, Arbovale, by Pastors Lauri Aho and Samuel E. Turner, with burial in Arbovale Cemetery Annex.

Evelyn Mae Roberts

Evelyn Mae Roberts, age 47, of Renick, died Sunday, March 11, 2001, at Greenbrier Valley Medical Center in Fairlea.

Born April 24, 1953, in Marlinton, she was a daughter of the late Everette McCoy and Verda McCoy Williams.

She was a homemaker and a member of Mount Herman United Methodist Church in Renick, where she was a member of the United Methodist Women.

A sister, Mary Ann McMillion, and a brother, Freddie McCoy, preceded her in death.

Survivors include her husband, Jerry Roberts, of Renick; a daughter, Teressa Hamner, of Springfield, Virginia; five sons, Michael, Patrick and Jason Roberts, all of Renick; Stuart Roberts, of Ronceverte, and Kevin McCoy, of Renick; one sister, Patricia Clutter, of Renick; three brothers, Harper and Bruce McCoy, both of Hillsboro, and Charles McCoy, of Droop; and seven grandchildren.

Services were Wednesday afternoon at Mount Herman United Methodist Church by the Rev. Dan Arbogast and Emory Hanna. Burial was in Morningside Cemetery at Renick.

Willard A. Addleman

Willard A. Addleman, age 86, of Hurricane, died March 6, 2001, extended through March 19.

Arthur and Sylvia Addleman.

He was a graduate of Mar University and a World W veteran. He was retired from DuPont Company at Belle.

Surviving him are his Helen Nunley Addleman; step dren, Glen Nunley and Sh
Guest, both of Charleston, Jea Infanger, of Victoria, Texas;
step-grandchildren.

Services were held Satur
Tyler Mountain Funeral H
Cross Lanes, by the Rev.
Wood. Burial was in Tyler M tain Memory Gardens, Cross

Marvin Gray Jacks

Marvin Gray Jackson, of Chesterfield, Virginia, fo of Marlinton, died March 10

He was born in Marlint son of the late Oley and Hes fong Jackson.

Surviving him are hi JoAnn Rexrode Jackson; tw Walter Jackson, of Summe and William Jackson, of A Virginia; daughter, Janice D Chester, Virginia; four gr dren; two sisters, R McLaughlin, of St. Pete Florida, and Hazel McPeak, linton.

Funeral services we Tuesday at St. Luke's Unite
odist Church and on Wedn VanReenen Funeral Home
linton. Burial was in the Cemetery.

More Deaths on pa

to 24954

-6466

the year. nia 24954

ng tax) $25 ord

ing Editor

Court

s, of Rich-ured before verage on arging him
s than 15 pled guilty tion for six was issued Totten. of Akron, March 3 by rged with 5 grams of a plea of probation rate Bev-of Martine 5th on is license ension of possess-of mari-He was follow-ion was

.

of Goose arrested ation on DUI and released field, of rt on the ving. He

ual. The obtained McMilrewhite, fish on a less than The plea probation

ree Bev-

THE FIRE AT ST. John's Episcopal Church on Wednesday morning of last week left a gapping hole in the back wall of the sanctuary and destroyed the stain glass window. The fire destroyed the church's Sunday School addition and damaged the roof structure in the main portion of the church.

Marlinton's oldest church building burns

by Dr. Denise McNeel

Due to the quick reactions of a Denmar employee on the way to work who spotted and reported a fire at the Episcopal Church at 6 a.m. on Wednesday of last week and the effective response of the Marlinton Fire Department, the 94 year-old building was not burned to the ground.

Damage, however, is extensive, with total loss of the kitchen and Sunday School room, as well as most of the rear wall with its magnificent stained glass window.

Glass in the center of the window, which was restored three years ago, dated back to before the Civil War. The altar, fancel chairs and kneelers were [illegible] and time in 17 years carried out [illegible] back, but, this time, were [illegible] and was added in 1981 and outreach services at Snowshoe started by Canon TenBrink in 1980.

For 11 years, the church was used by the Sacred Heart Mission of the Roman Catholic Church until the completion of the St. John Neumann Church in 1979. In the 1980s a Baptist church also met in the building. Currently St. John's is a member of the Greenbrier River Cluster, with the Rev. Dan Macgill, also chaplain of Snowshoe's Chapel-on-the-Mount, as the county's resident priest.

The parishioners received many generous offers of a meeting place. They will continue to worship at 11 a.m. on Sundays at St. John Neumann Roman Catholic Church until a decision about the church's future has been made.

SHERIFF DEPUTIES SEIZED a over $2000 in variety of drugs worth over $3000 and drug para recent arrests. Shown in the photo are the c packets of marijuana, Talacen pain pills, devic smoke marijuana, beepers, and a small vail enough LSD for 300 hits.

Sheriff's Departm makes drug arrest

Over the past two months the Pocahontas County Sheriff's Department has made arrests of several individuals in connection with the delivery of controlled substances in this county.

On February 16 Timothy Nicholas Boggs, 19, was arrested for the delivery of a Schedule I controlled substance. In connection with the arrest of Boggs, Quinton Wade Funk, 21, and Aaron M. Baughman, 19, were arrested for conspiracy to deliver a Schedule I controlled substance. Also, Samantha R. Cochran, 19, and Christopher Paul Boyd, 22, were possession of less tha marijuana.

Boggs, Funk, Ba Cochran are from W and Boyd is from Mo nia.

The Schedule I c stance in this arrest w commonly known as "

Cochran and Boy appeared in Magistra entered pleas of guilt session charge. The placed on probation f The others have been bond.

On March 7, John and Wyatt C. Levens arrested for delivery o controlled substance a with intent to deliver controlled substance. also charged with po Schedule IV controlle Both of these individ Randolph County. Th released on bond.

The Schedule I co stance in the arrest o Levenson was mariju Schedule IV was Tal scription pain medicine

In connection with t almost 1 1/2 pounds of 300 "hits" of LSD, ov cash, as well as numerou drug paraphernalia were s

Sheriff Robert Alkire s his officers are concern increasing number of pe

THE FIRE AT ST. John's Episcopal Church on Wednesday morning of last week left a gapping hole in the back wall of the sanctuary and destroyed the stain glass window. The fire destroyed the church's Sunday School addition and damaged the roof structure in the main portion of the church.

Marlinton's oldest church building burns

by Dr. Denise McNeel

Due to the quick reactions of a Denmar employee on the way to work who spotted and reported a fire at the Episcopal Church at 6 a.m. on Wednesday of last week and the effective response of the Marlinton Fire Department, the 94 year-old building was not burned to the ground.

Damage, however, is extensive, with total loss of the kitchen and Sunday School room, as well as most of the rear wall with its magnificent stained glass window.

Glass in the center of the window, which was restored three years ago, dated back to before the Civil War. The altar, chancel chairs and font were for the third time in 15 years carried out intact, but, this time, were smoke damaged and singed, instead of watery flooding.

Because of the two major floods St John's has survived, members had lovingly restored the church and, in an effort to combat future floods, had installed lofts at the back of the church for the organ, vestments and hangings and church records. The fire is believed to have started in the furnace area, and, having destroyed the church addition, entered the sanctuary via the roof. There was considerable smoke damage and intense heat destroyed the organ, hangings, fans and the original light fixtures, furniture and books in the main church building.

Shortly after its settlement, Episcopal clergy held services in what is now Pocahontas County. From before 1866 until 1877, the minister in charge of Bath County served this area. In 1874, the diocese of Virginia created Malden Parish whose boundaries were those of Pocahontas County. Malden Parish was one of the founding parishes of the Episcopal Diocese of West Virginia. Services were mainly held in Clover Lick and Huntersville, the county seat. A lot was obtained in 1884 and Pocahontas County's first Episcopal Church was built between 1885 and 1886 in Clover Lick and consecrated as Emanuel Church. This church, though moved to be closer to the Seneca Trail and renamed Grace Church, remained in seasonal use [illegible] was added in 1981 and outreach services at Snowshoe started by Canon TenBrink in 1980.

For 11 years, the church was used by the Sacred Heart Mission of the Roman Catholic Church until the completion of the St. John Neumann Church in 1979. In the 1980s a Baptist church also met in the building. Currently St. John's is a member of the Greenbrier River Cluster, with the Rev. Dan Macgill, also chaplain of Snowshoe's Chapel-on-the-Mount, as the county's resident priest.

The parishioners received many generous offers of a meeting place. They will continue to worship at 11 a.m. on Sundays at St. John Neumann Roman Catholic Church until a decision about the church's future has been made.

MARLINTON VOLUNTEER FIREMEN fight the fire from the roof of the Sunday School addition at the church and the fire department's aerial truck.

HEAT FROM THE fire above the ceiling melted the keys on the organ.

with the delivery of controlled substances in this county.

On February 16 Timothy Nicholas Boggs, 19, was arrested for the delivery of a Schedule I controlled substance. In connection with the arrest of Boggs, Quinton Wade Funk, 21, and Aaron M. Baughman, 19, were arrested for conspiracy to deliver a Schedule I controlled substance. Also, Samantha R. Cochran, 19, and Christopher Cochran are from Webste and Boyd is from Montcla nia.

The Schedule I contro stance in this arrest was L commonly known as "Acid

Cochran and Boyd h appeared in Magistrate entered pleas of guilty t session charge. They placed on probation for s The others have been r bond.

On March 7, John H. and Wyatt C. Levenson arrested for delivery of a controlled substance and with intent to deliver a controlled substance. also charged with poss Schedule IV controlled Both of these individu Randolph County. The released on bond.

The Schedule I con stance in the arrest o Levenson was mariju Schedule IV was Tal scription pain medicine.

In connection with t almost 1 1/2 pounds o 300 "hits" of LSD, o cash, as well as numero drug paraphernalia were

Sheriff Robert Alkire his officers are conce increasing number of County are buying, us ing illegal drugs. He bontas County She ment is committed drug problems that area. "People caug ing, or selling illegal prosecuted to the ful the law," Sheriff Alki

The public is aske the availability of children in our comm or someone you kno drugs, seek help", the "Be a part of the so part of the problem."

Anyone with inform gal drug activity is u on to any member o ment, Sheriff Alkire s

"The Sheriff's Dep ciates the help of loc doctors, pharmacists, es, and Pocahontas M pital for their support to combat the drug p face," the Sheriff state

Highland M Festiva
March 17

Business Online Banking

and, in an effort to combat future floods, had installed louvers at the back of the church for the organ, vestments and hangings and church records. The fire is believed to have started in the furnace area, and, having destroyed the church addition, entered the sanctuary via the roof. There was considerable smoke damage and intense heat destroyed the organ, hangings, fans and the original light fixtures, furniture and books in the main church building.

Shortly after its settlement, Episcopal clergy held services in what is now Pocahontas County. From before 1866 until 1877, the minister in charge of Bath County served this area. In 1874, the diocese of Virginia created Madison Parish whose boundaries were those of Pocahontas County. Madison Parish was one of the founding parishes of the Episcopal Diocese of West Virginia. Services were mainly held in Clover Lick and Huntersville, the county seat. A lot was obtained in 1884 and Pocahontas County's first Episcopal Church was built between 1885 and 1886 in Clover Lick and consecrated as Immanuel Church. This church, though moved to be closer to the population and renamed Grace Church, remained in seasonal use until it was tragically burned to the ground in 1990.

Since Marlinton was now the county seat, in April, 1908, the Mission of St. John's was formed. John T. McGraw, of the Pocahontas Development Company, donated a lot for the building of an Episcopal Church that September and ground was broken in December. The church was built for the cost of $3,000. Bishop Peterkin preached there in 1910 and the church was consecrated by Bishop Gravatt in 1911.

The original rectory, also costing $3,000, was built beside the church, passed into private hands and was demolished after flood damage in January, 1996. In 1911, there were some 45 communicants and 60 baptized members at St. John's mission. After several lean years, St. John's achieved organized mission status in 1977, shortly after the arrival of its first resident priest in 30 years, the Rev. Gene Trollbrink. A Sunday School was MARLINTON VOLUNTEER FIREMEN fight the fire from the roof of the Sunday School addition at the church and the fire department's aerial truck.

HEAT FROM THE fire above the ceiling melted the keys on the organ.

drug problems that exi area. "People caught us ing, or selling illegal dru prosecuted to the fullest the law," Sheriff Alkire st

The public is asked to the availability of drug children in our communit or someone you know i drugs, seek help", the She
"Be a part of the soluti part of the problem."

Anyone with informatio gal drug activity is urged on to any member of th
ment, Sheriff Alkire said.

"The Sheriff's Departm ciates the help of local b doctors, pharmacists, den es, and Pocahontas Memo pital for their support in o to combat the drug proble face," the Sheriff stated.

Highland Ma Festival
March 17 &

Business Online Banking

Brings The Branch To You

Who can get your books neat and tidy, without so much as a paper trail? BOB, of course. Use BOB for wire transfer, to transfer funds, manage your checking account and more. BOB is business banking without the branch. Get BOB today and get ready for more efficiency, productivity and spare time.

firstcitizens.com

Business Online Banking

BALANCE REPORTING | WIRE TRANSFERS | ACH | TAX PAYMENTS | TRANSFER FU

Membe

954
-466

ne year.
a 24954

g tax) 25 rd g Editor

Court

, of Rich-ed before verage on arging him
s than 15
pled guilty tion for six was issued Totten. of Akron, larch 3 by rged with 5 grams of a plea of probation trate Bevf Martine 5th on is license ession of l possesof mari-He was follow-

THE FIRE AT ST. John's Episcopal Church on Wednesday morning of last week left a gapping hole in the back wall of the sanctuary and destroyed the stain glass window. The fire destroyed the church's Sunday School addition and damaged the roof structure in the main portion of the church.

SHERIFF DEPU variety of drugs
recent arrests.
packets of mar smoke marijua enough LSD for

Sheri make

Over the past Pocahontas C Department has several individu with the delivery stances in this co

On February 1
las Boggs, 19, w delivery of a Sch substance. In co arrest of Boggs Funk, 21, and man, 19, were ar
acy to deliver a trolled substance
R. Cochran, 19

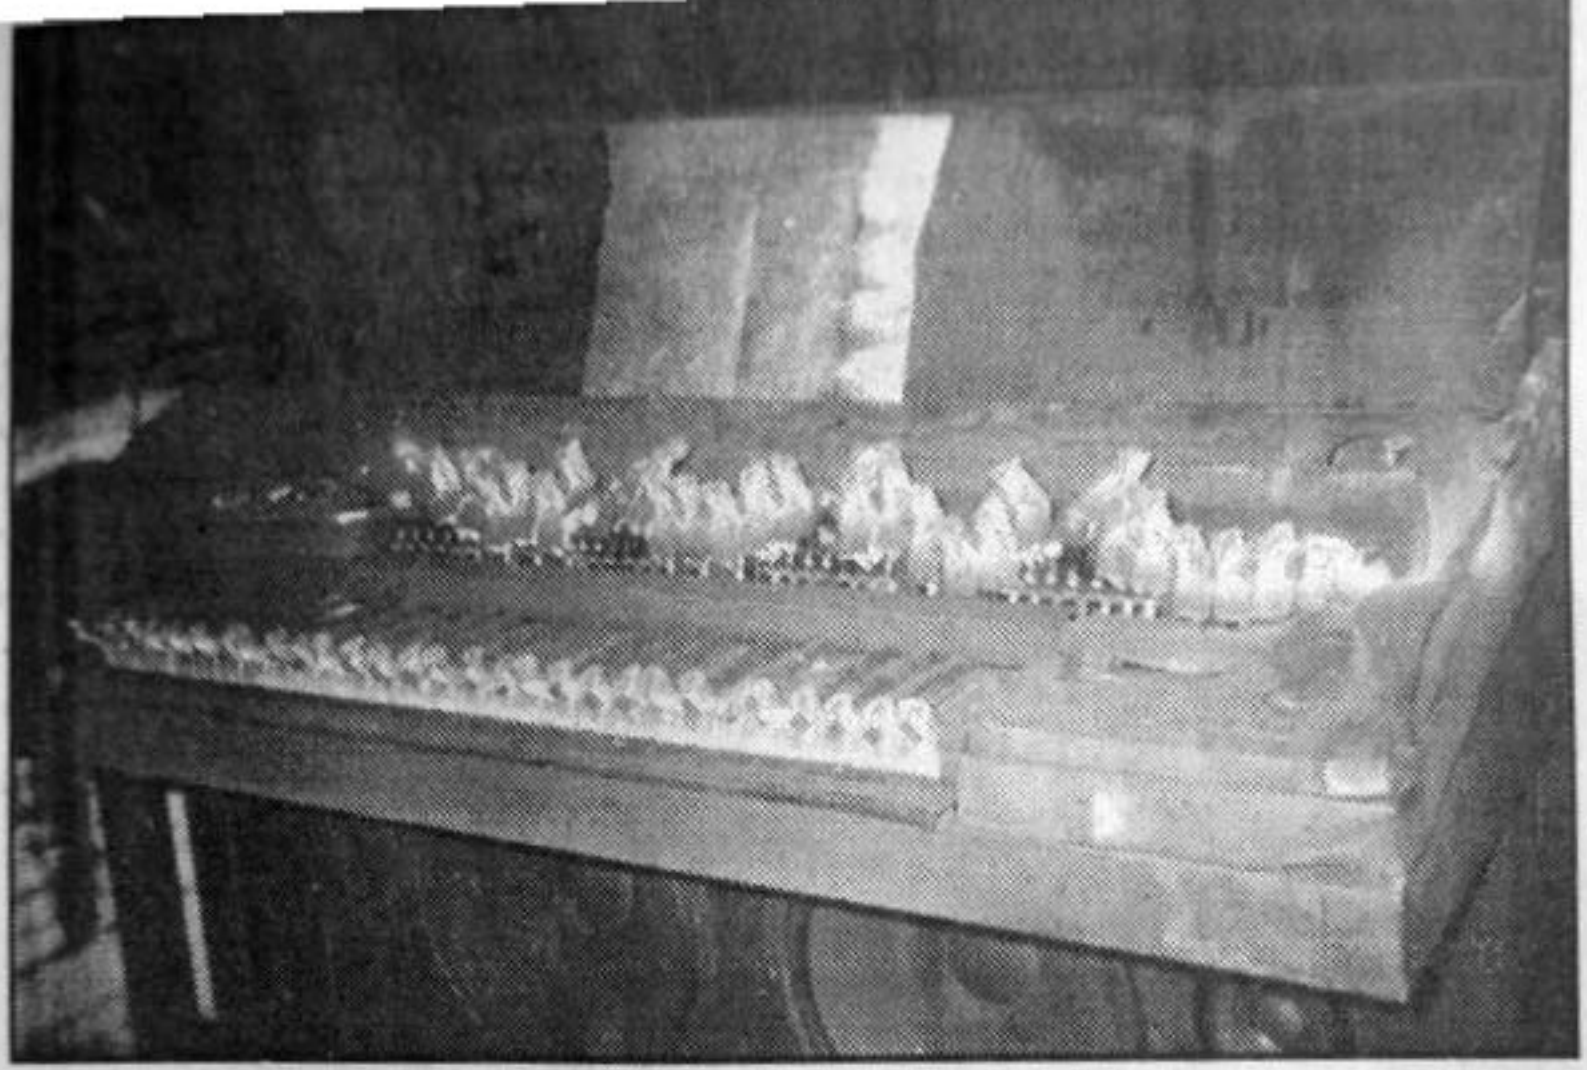
Marlinton's oldest church building

by Dr. Denise McNeel

was added in 1981 and outreach

Cluster, with the

MARLINTON VOLUNTEER FIREMEN fight the fire from the roof of the Sunday School addition at the church and the fire department's aerial truck.



HEAT FROM THE fire above the ceiling melted the keys on the organ.

Business Online Banking

Brings The Branch To You

SHERIFF DEPUTIES SEIZED a over $2000 in cash and a variety of drugs worth over $3000 and drug paraphernalia in recent arrests. Shown in the photo are the cash, several packets of marijuana, Talacen pain pills, devices used to smoke marijuana, beepers, and a small vail containing enough LSD for 300 hits.

Sheriff's Department makes drug arrests

Over the past two months the Pocahontas County Sheriff's Department has made arrests of several individuals in connection with the delivery of controlled substances in this county.

On February 16 Timothy Nicholas Boggs, 19, was arrested for the delivery of a Schedule I controlled substance. In connection with the arrest of Boggs, Quinton Wade Funk, 21, and Aaron M. Baughman, 19, were arrested for conspiracy to deliver a Schedule I controlled substance. Also, Samantha R. Cochran, 19, and Christopher Paul Boyd, 22, were arrested for possession of less than 15 grams of marijuana.

Boggs, Funk, Baughman, and Cochran are from Webster County and Boyd is from Montclair, Virginia.

The Schedule I controlled substance in this arrest was LSD, more commonly known as "Acid."

Cochran and Boyd have both appeared in Magistrate Court and entered pleas of guilty to the possession charge. They were both placed on probation for six months. The others have been released on bond.

On March 7, John H. Smith, 26, and Wyatt C. Levenson, 21, were arrested for delivery of a Schedule I controlled substance and possession with intent to deliver a Schedule I controlled substance. Smith was also charged with possession of a Schedule IV controlled substance. Both of these individuals are from Randolph County. They have been released on bond.

The Schedule I controlled substance in the arrest of Smith and Levenson was marijuana and the Schedule IV was Talacen, a prescription pain medicine.

In connection with these arrests, almost 1 1/2 pounds of marijuana, 300 "hits" of LSD, over $2,000 cash, as well as numerous items of drug paraphernalia were seized.

Sheriff Robert Alkire said he was

Wednesday
k wall of The fire damaged

ch building burns outreach arted by was used n of the until the n Neue 1980s in the 's is a River

Cluster, with the Rev. Dan Macgill, also chaplain of Snowshoe's Chapel-on-the-Mount, as the county's resident priest.

The parishioners received many generous offers of a meeting place. They will continue to worship at 11 a.m. on Sundays at St. John Neumann Roman Catholic Church until a decision about the church's future has been made.

Mission of the urch until the St. John Neu-
9. In the 1980s
o met in the t. John's is a enbrier River

The parishioners received many generous offers of a meeting place. They will continue to worship at 11 a.m. on Sundays at St. John Neumann Roman Catholic Church until a decision about the church's future has been made.

UNTEER FIREMEN fight the fire from day School addition at the church and the rial truck.

fire above the ceiling melted the keys on also charged with possession of a Schedule IV controlled substance. Both of these individuals are from Randolph County. They have been released on bond.

The Schedule I controlled substance in the arrest of Smith and Levenson was marijuana and the Schedule IV was Talacen, a prescription pain medicine.

In connection with these arrests, almost 1 1/2 pounds of marijuana, 300 "hits" of LSD, over $2,000 cash, as well as numerous items of drug paraphernalia were seized.

Sheriff Robert Alkire said he and his officers are concerned that an increasing number of people in the County are buying, using, and selling illegal drugs. He said the Pocahontas County Sheriff's Department is committed to combating drug problems that exist in our area. "People caught using, buying, or selling illegal drugs will be prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law," Sheriff Alkire stated.

The public is asked to help limit the availability of drugs for the children in our community. "If you or someone you know is abusing drugs, seek help", the Sheriff urged. "Be a part of the solution, not a part of the problem."

Anyone with information on illegal drug activity is urged to past it on to any member of the department, Sheriff Alkire said.

"The Sheriff's Department appreciates the help of local businesses, doctors, pharmacists, dentist, nurses, and Pocahontas Memorial Hospital for their support in our efforts to combat the drug problem we all face," the Sheriff stated.

Highland Maple Festival
March 17 & 18

Online Banking

Business owners, residents worry about their future west of the river

by Farrell McEvoney
Staff Writer

Editors' Note: This story is the third in a series dealing with Marlinton residents' reaction to floodwalls and levees for protection. Every effort was made to contact as many residents in this neighborhood as possible.

The Intersection

The intersection of US 219 and Route 39 hums. Hundreds of cars pass through it each day. It is the busiest crossroads in Pocahontas County.

Not surprisingly, four of Marlinton's most successful businesses are located there: Mitchell's Exxon, Little General Convenience Store—which also houses a Subway and Godfather's Pizza—Appalachian Sport, and Red Oak Realty.

These businesses and the houses on the US 219 side of the Greenbrier River won't be protected by Marlinton's proposed flood control project. In fact, since floodwaters will be blocked by walls and levees across the river the intersection will be negatively impacted by the project.

A flood event at the '85 level will cover the intersection, and the businesses in it, in around 7 feet of water, according to preliminary estimates from the Army Corps of Engineers.

The houses downstream of Mitchell's Exxon will be submerged in 10.4 feet of water.

The Army Corps and the federal government will buy out the businesses and the homes that are flooded because of the project but they won't know exactly which properties will be affected until the Detail Project Report is finished at the end of September.

The buyout of the intersection businesses may mean the loss of at least 40 jobs for Marlinton because some of those businesses plan to relocate in town.

Cory Beasley, who owns Little General, thinks that it would be difficult to find a location that has the same volume of traffic.

"We aren't sure what we will do. Right now we don't see another viable alternative in town," said Beasley.

The Little General company owns another lot in Marlinton, but doesn't plan to relocate there.

"We're kind of hoping it doesn't happen, but of course we understand why the town wants flood control," said Beasley.

Chuck Workman moved his business, Appalachian Sport, out of the flood plain in downtown Marlinton to its present location next to Little General in 1997. The intersection is a good commercial area, according to Workman.

But the uncertainty surrounding its future has made growing a business there difficult.

"Its difficult to manage a business that may not be here in 5 years," said Workman.

Workman recently took a job out of town since he is unsure what the future will hold for his business and his home, which is above his shop.

He worries that he won't be able to sell his business for what it is worth because of the Army Corps' plans.

The Army Corps says they will offer the business owners, "fair market value," for their property.

Still Workman, unlike other business owners, doesn't oppose the floodwalls and levees.

"I am not going to fight something that is going to help someone," said Workman.

Reid Mitchell, owner of Mitchell's Exxon, has also expressed support for the flood control project.

The Other Side

The houses on the US 219 side of the Greenbrier River have beautiful views of the river and the town.

At night the lights of Marlinton reflect on the Greenbrier River. Sue Richardson enjoys this view from her house.

Richardson opposes the floodwalls and levees, like almost all of her neighbors on this side of the river. She worries that they will damage the natural beauty of the town.

"I can't see that much good will come from it. It will take away the beauty. I live here in Marlinton because of the river and the mountains—because it is beautiful. I would kind of like the next generation to enjoy some of the things I have enjoyed," said Richardson.

THE INTERSECTION OF US Rt. 219 and Rt. 39 is a busy place that sees hundreds of vehicles pass through it daily.

SUE RICHARDSON AND Vickie Farrell live in these stone homes on the west side of the Greenbrier River. Their homes will not be protected by floodwalls.

Her daughter, Vickie Farrell, lives in the house next door. She returned to Marlinton after living in Huntington, where she experienced the impact of floodwalls on a community first-hand.

"People who lived there before the flood wall left because the reason that they wanted to live there was gone. They didn't want to live behind walls," said Farrell.

Farrell worries that destroying the scenic character of Marlinton will also hurt the budding tourism business in the town.

"No one wants to come and look at a floodwall," said Farrell.

Richardson worries about the long-term economic impact of losing the businesses at the intersection of US 219 and Route 39.

"The town is dying for lack of businesses already. What will happen if they take those too?" said Richardson.

Richardson's neighbors, Curtis and Evelene Curry, don't believe floodwall will protect Marlinton from a major flood event.

"When Mother Nature decides to do something man can't control her," said Evelene Curry.

Like most of their neighbors Farrell and Richardson feel like they have been left out of the planning process for the project.

Most of the homeowners on the US 219 side of the river have been told, either by the Army Corps of Engineers or the town, what the impact of the project will be on their unprotected homes.

"The decision has been made and [the Army Corps of Engineers] isn't going to listen to anyone," said Richardson, who added that she hasn't attended many of the public meetings with the Army Corps of Engineers.

Farrell is concerned that Marlinton will be torn a part by the flood control project.

"The Army Corps doesn't care about communities. They don't care about what is best for people here.

"I think that this community has a better chance of surviving a flood than a floodwall," said Farrell.

1753 First official St. Patrick's Day celebrated in the U.S.

B&B ROADHOUSE & INN
HWY 219N • Marlinton
Lounge Open 7 Days a Week • 3 p.m.
Sunday & Monday (Grill closed)
"All You Can Eat Soup, Salad, Sandwich Buffet" $4.99
4 p.m. - 10 p.m.
Tuesday "Shrimp Night"
$5.95 1/2 lb. $10.95 1 lb.
Wednesday
8oz. Sirloin Filet $7.99
Thursday Free Pool
Weekend Special
Seafood Platter $16.95
(Shrimp, Oysters, Scallops, Fish, Clams, Crab Legs, Crawfish)
No Cover Charge With This Ad Expires 3/18/01
Friday & Saturday
March 16 & 17
"One Eye Gypsy"
Saturday, March 17
$1 Drinks in our lounge for "March Birthdays"
Must be 21 w/ proper ID

Town Council discusses flood plan, revenues

Marlinton Town Council met on March 6 with all members present.

Due to the snowy weather Karen Miller, of the Corps of

The '91 Ford police car needs to be sold. Council gave permission to the Mayor to advertise through the Municipal League.

One of the discussion items was unpaid water bills. Mel Coghan reported at present of a house is empty and so we very little water is being used. No charge, but have

continued to page 8

Project Report is finished at the end of September.

The buyout of the intersection businesses may mean the loss of at least 40 jobs for Marlinton because some of those businesses plan to relocate in town.

Cory Beasley, who owns Little General, thinks that it would be dif-

The houses on the US 219 side of the Greenbrier River have beautiful views of the river and the town.

At night the lights of Marlinton reflect on the Greenbrier River. Sue Richardson enjoys this view from her house.

Richardson opposes the floodwalls and levees, like almost all of town.

"I can't see that much good will come from it. It will take away the beauty. I live here in Marlinton because of the river and the mountains—because it is beautiful. I would kind of like the next generation to enjoy some of the things I have enjoyed," said Richardson.

the impact of floodwalls on a community first-hand.

"People who lived there before the flood wall left because the ruin that they wanted to live there was gone. They didn't want to live behind walls," said Farrell.

Farrell worries that destroying the Town Council discusses flood plan, revenues

Marlinton Town Council met on March 6 with all members present.

Due to the snowy weather Karen Miller, of the Corps of Engineers, was unable to be present. Her report showed all areas of sampling for hazardous and toxic waste were within allowable levels with the exception of some slightly elevated levels of arsenic and TPH levels (petroleum) in the tannery property area, geotech investigations drilling is complete, borrow area samples have been sent for testing, contractor for hydrology has made a field visit, real estate plan is being put together, engineering technical appendix will be complete by end of March, Baseline Cost Estimate is being prepared. Miller, Coy Miller and Larry Workman, of the Corps, met with Senators Helmick and Ross and Delegates Proudfoot and Fox, at the Helmick's request, to discuss the proposed project and overall funding.

The mayor reported he had met with Congressman Rahall's representative and he has received a copy of Rahall's letter to Governor Wise.

This month is budget time. Figures from the Assessor's office show a drop in assessments and $1575 less tax money estimated.

Robin Mutscheller will meet with Main Street representatives at 7 p. m. Tuesday, March 20.

Honda group will be at Marlinton Motor Inn June 18-24 and are interested in a parade, etc., in town on Friday or Saturday of that week.

The '91 Ford police car needs to be sold. Council gave permission to the Mayor to advertise through the Municipal League.

On the agenda was discussion of ways to raise money for the town. As part of this the Mayor reported that the assessed valuation of property is down and less tax money estimated.

The Mayor reported Jim Gibb, Loretta Malcomb, Treasurer Linda McLaughlin, the accountant, and others have been meeting with business people in regard to raising and saving money for the Town.

One of the discussion items was unpaid water bills. McLaughlin reported at present if a house is empty and no or very little water is being used no charge has been made. The discussion group supported and Council approved a proposal that the flat minimum charge should be made even if the house is empty, and, if the meter is removed, a re-deposit fee be charged; if trash is present it should be billed.

In regard to the problem of past due water accounts, McLaughlin said she follows the Public Service

continued to page 8

This ... Expires 3/18/01
Thursday Free Pool
Weekend Special
Seafood Platter $16.95
(Shrimp, Oysters, Scallops, Fi
Clams, Crab Legs, Crawfish
Friday & Saturday
March 16 & 17
"One Eyed Gypsy"
Saturday, March 17
$1 Drinks in our lounge for "March Birthday
Must be 21 w/ proper ID

Jack Horner's Corner
Groceries & Snacks
Cold Drinks - Ice - Legal Beverages
Gifts - Crafts - Camping & Fishing Supplies
Bike Rentals & Accessories
NOW SERVING
Fresh Homemade Pizza
16 inch $8.99 Toppings 75¢
12 inch $5.99 Toppings 50¢
7 inch $2.99 Toppings
Ham • Pepperoni • Sausage • Hamburger • Black & Green Olive Pineapple • Banana Peppers • Green Peppers • Onions • Mushroo
Call and Place Your Order – Pizza Served 12 - 8 p.m.
653-4515
HC 64, Box 521 - Seebert, WV 24946
STORE HOURS: 12 Noon - 8:00 p.m. Everyday

J&P Furniture Co., Inc.
•Furniture •Appliances
•Tile •Vinyl •Carpet •Bedding
106 8th Street, Marlinton, WV
304-799-6235

INCOME TAX SA
All Furniture on sale

Steak Biscuit 99¢ meet me at bookkeep-Chris Cal Wright,

LADY COPPERHEADS 2001: (kneeling) Alyssa Hall, Jill Rose, Kayla Jordan, Hannah Hollandsworth, Coach Chris Burns, Ashli Cutlip. Standing: Asst. Coach Sheila Cutlip, Ashley Holland, Britney Barlow, Brandy Sharp, Nebraska Beverage, Mindy Sharp, Heidi Beverage, Kristen Nicholas, Jennifer Morrison.

Eagles sweep

Warr
Spor

By Eric Und

Valley Wetze

The PCHS W Wetzel last Th gional Champi Charleston to Tournament.

The Warriors in the last seco VW eked out a

The game w
the duration wi at 28-25, VW. out in the thir
11 points to PCHS in the le

But Valley s stayed with PC exciting finish.
maining, Jon pointer to put one, but Valley
PCHS had the

2001 CHAMPIONS GREEN BANK Middle School: kneeling, Ben Rittenhouse, bookkeeper, Nathan Rittenhouse, Trevor Caplinger, manager, John Feldes, Brandon Kerr, Chris Caplinger, bookkeeper. Standing: Assistant Coach Jesse Peck, Jesse Stull, Darrell Wright, Andy Wayne, Ryan Ware, Brian Norrod, Ben Jewell, Cory Heinemann, Dustin Reynolds, Coach Dave Caplinger.

2001 CHAMPIONS GREEN BANK Middle School: kneeling, Ben Rittenhouse, bookkeeper, Nathan Rittenhouse, Trevor Caplinger, manager, John Feldes, Brandon Kerr, Chris Caplinger, bookkeeper. Standing: Assistant Coach Jesse Peck, Jesse Stull, Darrell Wright, Andy Wayne, Ryan Ware, Brian Norrod, Ben Jewell, Cory Heinemann, Dustin Reynolds, Coach Dave Caplinger.

2001 CHAMPIONS LADY EAGLES: Kneeling, Misty Vandevender, Kelli Hickson, Felicia Pennington, Casey Grogg, Ashley Woodell, Brooke Dickenson, Whitney Curry, Erin Wooddell, Bookkeeper. Standing: Coach Ben Campbell, Amanda Wiley, bookkeeper, Emily Bland, Danielle Holstine, Natasha Lambert, Virginia Hoover, Jessica Lawson, Cressie Shears, JoAutumn Hill.

Eagl
coun

The Green B sweep of the Middle School ments, both te Marlinton Copp tories.

Green Bank
third time they heads this year.

Eagles team
All-Tournamen Ware, Darrell ell.

L

Dear Editor:

I am an Washington in San Lea currently do entails plann lovely state.
ciate any in lia that your send me. I activities, sights and make your for your tim

Shears, JoAutumn Hill.

MARLINTON COPPERHEADS 2001 were: (kneeling) Zach Warner, Jonathon Burns, Justin Sharp, Thurston Willis, Troy McLaughlin, Adam Withers, Billy Owens. Standing: Joey Bland, Dustin Cutlip, Clay Baxter, Grant Dale, Adam Irvine, Seth Nelson, Curtis Dunbrack, Ben Richardson.

ALL-TOURNAMENT TEAM BOY'S Team: Justin Sharp, Troy McLaughlin, MMS; Darrell Wright, Ryan Ware, Ben Jewell, GBMS.

ALL-TOURNAMENT LADY'S Team: Jill Rose, Brandy

Eagles sweep county tournaments

The Green Bank Eagles made a sweep of the Pocahontas County Middle School Basketball Tournaments, both teams edging out the Marlinton Copperheads in easy victories.

Green Bank Boys won 49-36, the third time they defeated the Copperheads this year.

Eagles team members picked for All-Tournament Team were Ryan Ware, Darrell Wright and Ben Jewell.

Justin Sharp and Troy McLaughlin represented MMS on the All Tournament Squad.

The Eagles' Girls won 39-16. Emily Bland, Cressie Shears and Brooke Dickenson were chosen for the All-Tournament Team for GBMS. Jill Rose and Brandy Sharp represented MMS.

Green Bank Eagles Boys team also won the Academic Trophy, while the Lady Copperheads carried the Academic Trophy home.

Letter

Dear Editor:

I am an eighth grade student at

maining, Jon
pointer to put one, but Valle PCHS had the not capitalize

Parker led points and 1 finished with mons scored and Mike Ma

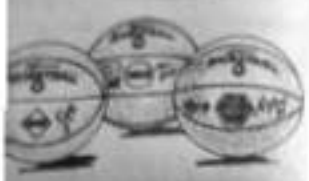
Warrior fa
tor to the sea

Please com
baseball sea

Marli
Annu

Sugar 'N Spi



activities, interesting historical sights and unique artifacts that make your state special. Thank you for your time and consideration.

Lewis Sweeney
c/o John McLeni 1170 Fargo Ave.
San Leandro, CA 94579

Courthouse conference room in basement
Parents must be present at sign-up
This years directors are C.J. Dunbrack · 799-6973 and Sandy Friel · 799-6748

COME ONE, COME ALL!!!
TO THE GRAND DEDICATION CEREMONY OF THE MCCLINTIC LIBRARY
SUNDAY, APRIL 1 · 2 P.M.

BEFORE THE CEREMONY, ENJOY A HALF HOUR CONCERT BY THE POCAHONTAS COUNTY HIGH SCHOOL JAZZ BAND
RON HALL, DIRECTOR

GUEST CONDUCTOR
PROFESSOR SAM BRILL
THE MOST CELEBRATED BANDMASTER SINCE PROFESSOR HAROLD HILL!!

RECEPTION AT 3 P.M.
AND AT 3:30

DEVIL ANSE HATFIELD
RETURNS FROM BEYOND THE GRAVE!!
TO EDUCATE AND ENTERTAIN YOU WITH TALES TALL AND TRUE ABOUT THE WILD TUG RIVER COUNTRY
100 YEARS AGO!!!

BEST PRICES IN TOWN Call David J. Cain 799-6800

DON'T BE A VICTIM

Protect yourself by attending a Concealed Weapons Class
The classes are taught by a WV Police Officer.
(Since 1970) A Licensed, Certified NRA Firearms Instructor.(Since 1972) Classes last for 5 1/2 hours. Cost $50 per person and come with a MONEY-BACK GUARANTEE.
Some of the topics covered are: The Fighting Mindset, Equipment Selection, Holsters, Take-Away Tactics, Reactionary Gap, Action vs. Reaction and Find out which is the quickest - the hand or the eye.
LADIES WELCOME!
Sunday, March 11 • 1:00 p.m.
Marlinton Municipal Building

For more information, call:
Rich Robertson - (304)847-5006 or Doshia Webb - (304)799-7414

n a style that is both urprising, using live niment by the five

mer will perform a ntitled "Faces of the m her full-length dha's Wife." Nine this visually stunch employs large inal sound score.
ntinues his focus his new work Drawing on his Dell'arte, a five Italian theatrical eloped this new tion with Beth vis.
on, please call

Syrup Festi-

Virginia Maple be held on Sat-March 17-18, at ancake feed, 9 days; ham and

; square dance,
d craftspeople;
free entertain-contest and n. Saturday;
tion, noon - 3
how and sale; m., Sunday.

GLENNA HAYES, LEFT, and other members of the Swago CEO Club are in their Pioneer Days finery several years ago. Also in the photo are, l-r, Marguerite Gay, Ruth Ruckman, Madeline McNeill, Annabelle McNeill, and Ina Montgomery.

Swago CEOS Club salutes Glenna Hayes

Glenna Hayes, a charter member of the Swago CEOS Club

She has been a member of the our County and their future."

Town C

From

directions in reg etc., and Coun take bills throug and follow up o to collect past what is necess
then follow th procedures.

David Cai
ings with bus they went accounts; the DEP is not i depreciation i ments and not ble; they gave cut expenses; against only t
it is on gross take into acco ness is operat loss. Reid Mit gested ways expenditures.

Gibb loo report and $134,100 in th of $57,300 to needed to be d been a lot of d some good, a that, effective

(1) B&O
0 on products manufacturin property 0, p

Also in the photo are, l-r, Marguerite Gay, Ruth Ruckman, Madeline McNeill, Annabelle McNeill, and Ina Montgomery.

Swago CEOS Club salutes Glenna Hayes

Glenna Hayes, a charter member of the Swago CEOS Club which was organized June 10, 1930, by the name of Farm Women's Club, then Swago Extension Homemakers Club and now Community Education Outreach Service. She is now a 71 year member, very active, taking her turn as hostess at her home, takes an active part in any and all club activities. She is the first member of the County, joining this county, State and National organization 71 years ago.

She was born February 10, 1906, the daughter of the late Dave and Eleoise Barnes, of Buckeye, on Buck's Run. She attended Swago School grades 1 through 8 with Gary Man, of Edray, as teacher. Her education consists of attending Concord College and a graduate of West Virginia University with a teacher's degree. She taught school for 40 years at various places: Buck's Run, Edray, Brushy Flats, Clover Lick, and Campbelltown. Many days she walked from Buck's Run, rode a horse and finally obtained a car to drive to school. She has been a member of the Swago Church from childhood.

Traveling extensively both at home and abroad, she shared her experience in community programs and with those she taught. Many students upon entry exams to college, had to name their favorite and most influential teacher in their lives and her name was the one spoken.

In her later years after retirement when word from the Pocahontas Commission and the Board of Education announced the possibility of the need of an additional school and they were looking for the proper land, Glenna came forward and offered to sell them the present land at a very low price, one that neither could refuse. Now by her generous offer we have not only a beautiful school, but a hospital, 2 doctor offices, a drug store, WV State Police office and a Home Health Supply store. Asking Glenna why she gave such a generous gift to the County, her reply was "they gave me a living for forty years and that's the least I can do for the County and the youth of our County and their future."

Several years ago while attending a County Council meeting of the CEOS she was asked to attend the WV County Belle activities at Glenville College, representing Pocahontas County. The requirement for this title was being 70 years of age. Glenna responded "I don't want to be with all those old people." Glenna was 75 at the time.

Glenna lives on Beard Heights and still has the philosophy of life as being young at heart and life. She looks forward to Pioneer Days when she alway's is one of the volunteers at the registration booth, sponsored by the Retired Teachers Association.

The Swago Club is proud to have Glenna as one of their members by making life more meaningful by her "zest" for achieving the inspiration in our lives and for the opportunity of tomorrow.

Her pattern of life is love, laughter, faith and life—I choose everyone. They carry us along the road, that leads from sun to sun.

Annabelle McNeill Member of Swago Club

...Saturday; square dance, ...; antiques and craftspeople; ...and photo show; free entertain...; muzzleloading contest and ...hibition, 10 a.m. Saturday; ...skdopping exhibition, noon - 3 ...Saturday; quilt show and sale; ...un and walk, 1 p.m., Sunday. ...r more information call 924-...

...

State Majorette Festival

The 2nd Annual "WV State ...rette Festival" will be held on ...day, March 31, in the Rocke... Center Gymnasium at the ...Wesleyan College in Buckhan... Groups competing will be ... School Majorettes, Baton ..., Colorguard, Pom, Dance ...nd Flag Corps. Competition ... at noon. Admission is ...ts and $4 for students. If you ...any more information call ...72-4141 daytime or ...2-1206 evenings. Or email ...wvstatemajorettefestival ...o.com.

Donation

...) Volunteer Fire ...Rescue Squad ... of Louise Roda Col... ...n Wilfong and Edna

...n 20 - First Day of Spring
Spring is on the way!

2 - DAY AUCTION
FRIDAY, MARCH 16 &

...some good, and ...that, effective J...
(1) B&O t... 0 on products ... manufacturing ... property 0, p... tracting (just ... amusements ... ness not other... for hire 0, ban... Services Fee, ... year; rental p... per year, b... stores, 20¢ pe... a board of e... of the mayo... council mem... and Decemb... Estimate of ... year. Govern... be included.

Council ... prepare ordi... for a meetin... for vote by C... ing for publi...

Gibb re... being done ... plant; now t... sandblast old...

LATE N...

March 13, C... Reading ordin... but set 10c pe... and business ... nances will be...

members of the Swago finery several years ago.
ite Gay, Ruth Ruckman,
, and Ina Montgomery.

tes Glenna Hayes

of the od.
both at ed her ograms Many to col-ge and their e spo-

our County and their future."

Several years ago while attending a County Council meeting of the CEOS she was asked to attend the WV County Belle activities at Glenville College, representing Pocahontas County. The requirement for this title was being 70 years of age. Glenna respooded "I don't want to be with all those old people." Glenna was 75 at the time.

Glenna lives on Beard Heights and still has the philosophy of life as being young at heart and life. She looks forward to Pioneer Days when she alway's is one of the volunteers at the registration booth, sponsored by the Retired Teachers Association.

The Swago Club is proud to have Glenna as one of their members by making life more meaningful by her "zest" for achieving the importance in our lives and for the opportunity of tomorrow.

Her pattern of life is love, laughter, faith and life—I choose everyone. They carry us along the road, that leads from sun to sun.

Town Council

From page 2

directions in regard to notification, etc., and Council directed her to take bills through Magistrate Court and follow up on writ of execution to collect past due bills—to do what is necessary to collect and then follow through on all legal procedures.

David Cain reported on meetings with business people: that they went over summary of accounts; the $75,000 fine from DEP is not in financial reports; depreciation is included in statements and not totally comprehensible; they gave list of suggestions to cut expenses; business people are against only the B&O tax, because it is on gross income and doesn't take into account whether a business is operating at low profit or loss. Reid Mitchell said he had suggested ways to save by cutting expenditures.

Gibb looked at his financial report and said the town was $134,100 in the red, with a net loss of $57,300 to date, and something needed to be done; he said there had been a lot of discussions, some bad, some good, and he made a motion that, effective June 1,

(1) B&O tax be approved with 0 on products of natural resources, manufacturing 0, selling tangible property 0, public utility 0, contracting (just in Marlinton) 2%, amusements 20¢ per $100, business not otherwise taxed 0, property for hire 0, banking 0. (2) Municipal Services Fee, $24 per residence per year; rental property 20¢ per sq. ft. per year, business property and stores, 20¢ per sq. ft. per year; with a board of equalization, consisting of the mayor, treasurer, and two council members, to meet in June and December to settle disputes. Estimate of income $100,000 per year. Government buildings would be included.

Council directed the Mayor to prepare ordinances and come back for a meeting Tuesday, March 13, for vote by Council before advertising for public hearings.

Gibb reported a good job is being done cleaning up the water plant; now they need to chip and sandblast old paint.

LATE NEWS: Tuesday night, March 13, Council adopted on First Reading ordinances described above but set 16¢ per square foot for rental and business property. The ordi-

Note Bill

Proudfoot Notes

As of the 23rd day of the 75th Legislature, 789 bills have been introduced into the House of Delegates. Thirteen bills have been passed by the House since Thursday, March 1.

A sampling of bills introduced House Bill 2597 would extend Medicaid coverage to low-income women who have been diagnosed with breast or cervical cancer. House bill 2757 would allow for an exemption of state income taxes for retired federal law-enforcement officers and firefighters. House Bill 2598 also deals with income taxes. This bill would exempt military pensions from income tax. Senate Bill 412 would require 911 centers to keep all information received from 911 calls confidential. Senate Bill 425 would increase the penalties for use or possession of tobacco or tobacco products by a person under 18 years of age.

The First Lady, Sandy W... gave a tea for legislators' wives ... week. It is my understanding tha... was most enjoyable and wa... rewarding experience for all w... attended.

Anyone who is interested ... having their child serve as a pag... the State Capitol should conta... legislator from their district ... can make the arrangements. It ... great opportunity for students t... an over-all view of the legisla... process.

Many children and adults a... from almost every county ac... the State, came to the State Ca... in support of the bill that perta... to Home Schoolers. The balcon... the House chambers was pa... with this group. The floor de... went on for two hours, yet, ... Legislators were extrem... impressed with the good con... the students demonstrated. Thi... for Home Schoolers passed ... floor without amendment, and ... is on the way to the Senate.

The Association of Cou... gathered this week in Charle... looking at various bills that w... interest to them and meeting ... legislators. There was an ...

Last seen on Hamilton Hill
If found, please call 799-7462 or 799-6250

Pete Tallman--Aug. 5, 1916--Mar. 8, 2001
Christian and Public Servant

He loved farming and working outdoors, his church, family, country, county and community, all of which he served his entire life. We are all of us better for having known him.

God's mansion is a finer place now that the Lord has taken Pete home.

In loving memory by the family, friends and neighbors of Harlan George "Pistol Pete" Tallman

H. G. "Pete" Tallman

Harlan G. "Pistol Pete" Tallman, of Durbin, passed away on Thursday, March 8, of heart failure following a protracted illness.

Surviving him in his immediate family are Inez Catherine (Mullenax) Tallman, his wife of 63 years; a daughter, Bonnie Plyler, Bartow; two sons and their wives, H. Roger Tallman and Donna Jean (McCutcheon) Tallman, Troy, OH, and Edward W. Tallman and Sue Ann Heatherly, Franklin and Arbovale; three brothers, George Galford, Catonsville, MD, Andy Galford, Hamlin, WV and Ray Galford, Chesapeake, VA; four grandchildren, Mark and Linda Tracy, Beverly, Anita Dawn Tracy, Nichalosville, KY, Melanie Vaughn, Asheville, NC, and Julie Tallman, Oak Harbor, WA; and two great-grandchildren, Lauren and Ashleigh Vaughn.

He was born on August 5, 1916, the son of Flora Tallman Galford, and was reared on Back Mountain, near Durbin, by his grandparents, Enos and Marietta Tallman. A humble man with a dry wit and wry sense of humor, Pete Tallman was a merchant, farmer, school-bus driver, two-term county commissioner, as well as president of that body, member and at one time chairman of the Pocahontas County Democratic Party Executive Committee, and member of the Durbin Town Council.

Above all, Mr. Tallman was a devout Christian and lifelong active member of the Bethel United Methodist Church on Back Mountain.

In World War II, he was captured in October 1944 and marched from Nancy, France, to a German prisoner of war camp. During the forced march, a wounded GI fell and faced death by abandonment or execution. Private Tallman, although beginning to suffer the effects of severe frostbite in his feet and legs, carried the endangered soldier to their destination in East Prussia. The incident was unknown until that rescued soldier recounted the event to members of the Tallman family many years later. Liberated in April 1945, he was awarded the Purple Heart.

Mr. Tallman was a longtime officeholder in the local chapters of the Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW) and the American Legion.

In 1970, after selling the general store in Durbin he had owned and operated with his wife since 1938, he went to work as a guard for the National Radio Astronomy Observatory (NRAO) at Green Bank. He retired in 1981 but stayed active with his wife as managers of the grounds at the 4-H/National Youth Science Camp near Thornwood.

Viewing was held at Wallace & Wallace Funeral Home, Arbovale, on the evening of Saturday, March 10.

A joyous funeral service evoking the true essence and spirit of "Pistol Pete" Tallman was held the following afternoon at the Bethel Church. It was officiated by the Revs. Donald Curry, David Rittenhouse and Gary Gordon.

As sunset approached and shadows lengthened, he was interred following a military honor guard service at the Arbovale Cemetery, where his body faces the NRAO, which he dearly loved.

Memorial contributions may be made either to the Bethel Methodist Church or the BFD Rescue Squad.

AUCTION

KNIFE AUCTION: 6 p.m., F
March 23 & 10 a.m., Sa
March 24 •Over 3800 K
•Raddison Hotel, 1001 3r Huntington, WV • Resourc
keting, Inc. Al Thompso
Lic# 438 • 1-800-528-1246

Manufacturers Surplus A 10 a.m., Saturday, March Tubs & Saunas, •Renick, W
source Marketing, Inc. Al son, WV #438 •1-800-528-

BUSINESS OPPORTUN

AMERICAN'S #1 GRE
Card Route. 40 Proven Lo
All Local. Dependable i National Company. Cal
Open 24 Hours. Free In 529-9407.

STAY AT HOME MOMS earn extra money? Call t more information. 1-8 9010.

FINANCIAL

CREDIT CARD DEBT?
BANKRUPTCY. Stop C
Calls. Cut Finance Charg Payments up to 50% De solidation. FAST APPRO Credit Check. 800-270-98

IMPROVE YOUR FAMI
NANCES! We're here
Immediate- Confidentia Profina Debt Solutions, Profit Organization. Toll 888-968-9291. No loans.

FOR SALE

Sawmill $3795.00. NEW LUMBERMATE 2000. L
pacities, more option. M
turer of sawmills, edge skidders. Norwood Sawn Sonwil Drive. Buffalo, NY
1-800-578-1363 ext. 300-

New and Used HEATING
24 Hours a day. Weathe
1-800-287-0465. Clarksbu
Can Ship Anywhere. No o

Two-story forty-by-eigh wood frame school house the 1920's to be sold for tion and removal. Contac Hill at 304-329-26
hwhill@access.k132.wv.us

HELP WANTED

TEACHER JOB FAIR, County Public Schools, March 23, 2001, Board of tion, 2017 W. Vernon A Kinston, NC 28502. To r
call the Personnel Office, 527-6487.

bool—10 a.m.

---

aptist Church rn Baptist th of Buckeye
Phone 799-7
ool—9:45 a.m.
ip—11 a.m. &
.m. urch—11 a.m. y Services
ction—7 p.m. ing—7 p.m.

---

ptist Chapel Baptist sar Mountain
p—9:15 a.m.
Study—7 p.m.

---

t Huntersville
Baptist
—9:45 a.m. e—11 a.m. p Time—For 9 ng—5:45 p.m. orship—7 p.m. lay
—7 p.m.
Meet—7 p.m.

---

ch of God ghts
—10 a.m. p—11 a.m.
ce—7 p.m.

Burial was in Mountain View Cemetery.

Memorial gifts may be made to the American Red Cross.

John James Rexrode

John James Rexrode, age 65, of Durbin, died at his home in Durbin on Monday, February 19, 2001.

He was retired from the U. S. Army and was a member of the V.F.W. in Elkins.

Born May 12, 1935, at Arbovale, he was the son of the late Charlie W. and Joanna Washburn Rexrode.

A sister, Anna Mae Woods, is deceased.

Surviving him are two daughters, Bronda Hurst, of Alabaster, Alabama, and Peggy Rittenhouse, of Elkins; three sisters, Leona Daniels, of Durbin, Goldie Daniels, of Beverly, and Jackie Hudak, of Herndon, Virginia; three brothers, William C. Rexrode, Franklin Rexrode, and Allen Rexrode, all of Durbin; and four grandchildren.

Services were held Saturday afternoon at the Arbovale Community Center by the Rev. David Rittenhouse, with burial in the Arbovale Cemetery.

Georgia Lee Sharp

pril 12.

Do you want to graft fruit trees but drive to Moyers a John Leyzorek at learn for free!

Frost, she was the late Aaron A. and Sharp.

She was also p by her husband, N 1978.

Mrs. Sharp w Frost United Meth also a member o Brethren in Charlo

Survivors incl Jean Burnette, o ginia; son, Ralph noke, Virginia; br P. Sharp, of Rt. 2 grandchildren a grandchildren.

Funeral servic urday afternoon Funeral Home b Mann. Burial fol tain View Cemeter

---

Corre

In the obituary in last week's pa name should have Also, she has eig

ER: Send address changes to ocahontas Times
nue, Marlinton WV 24954
-4973 • Fax (304) 799-6466
ocahontastimes.com
pocahontastimes.com
ay except the last week of the year.
e at Marlinton, West Virginia 24954
ails ISSN 0738-8373
TION CHARGES (including tax)
-State $23.32 • Out-of-State $25
DVERTISING RATES
an inch—Classified—20¢ word
• PAMELA E. PRITT, Managing Editor
SHARP, Editor Emerita

MARCH 1, 2001

Governor selects Fox for House of Delegates

Governor Bob Wise appointed James R. Fox, of Elkins, to the West Virginia House of Delegates to take the 37th District seat vacated earlier by Joe Martin. Martin resigned from the Legislature when Wise appointed him to the post of secretary of Military Affairs and Public Safety.

"We had an excellent set of candidates for this position, and it was a difficult decision," said Wise. "I believe Mr. Fox will be an excellent legislator, and I look forward to working with him as the Legislature tackles the hard issues facing West Virginia. We have a lot of opportunities before us and a lot of challenges."

Fox, of Mill Creek, is an attorney with the firm of Jory & Smith in Elkins. A lifelong resident of Randolph County, his family is in the lumber business. He is a magna cum laude graduate of West Virginia University and a 1991 honor graduate of West Virginia University School of Law and has an active trial practice in both federal and state courts.

He and his wife, Michelle, are the parents of two children, Alexa and Isabella.

Fire Calls

Marlinton Volunteer Fire Department was called Tuesday to grass fires. One was near the top at the mill at Hunterville; about two acres burned. The other was on the Beaver Creek at Ivan Kinney's, where about 1/4 acre burned.

Last Tuesday they were called to assist the Frost Volunteer Fire Department at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Sharp, and to the home of Tommy Cor[illegible] where there was

Walkup sentenced up to 10 years on arson charges

Dr. Harry Walkup told a circuit judge Monday that he wanted to go home, live with the wife he loves and mend relationships with his nine children.

Circuit Judge Frank Jolliffe instead sentenced Walkup to up to 10 years in prison for the four felonies the doctor was convicted of last month.

Walkup faces a determinate eight years in prison for arson, another eight years for arson causing injury, both terms to be served concurrently. Also, Walkup will serve indeterminate sentences of one-to-10 years for both breaking and entering and retaliation. Those sentences will be served consecutively.

The charges stemmed from a June, 2000, fire which gutted the law offices of Barry Bruce, Walkup's former wife's attorney.

Walkup beseeched the court to release him from prison, the first time he had spoken in court.

"I'm innocent of these charges," he told Jolliffe. "Have mercy on me. I want to go home.

"I live to love my wife, Sue," he continued. "And she lives to love me."

He told the court he "loved every one of his children."

"I want to support my children and mend those relationships."

Walkup likened being in jail to living in hell because of being separated from love.

The doctor also addressed the pretrial testimony of David Jeffrey, a prisoner at the Southern Regional Jail, who said Walkup and his current wife, Sue, had plans to "take care" of Walkup's former wife and that Sue Walkup had passed her husband a handcuff key after a hearing in July.

"That statement is one of the most malicious and evil things I've ever read," Walkup said.

The doctor said Jeffrey had gone through his discovery papers and then used information from them to "fabricate this lie" against him and get Jeffrey's own sentence reduced.

"Sue was falsely arrested and falsely charged," Walkup said.

Walkup said he was not a violent person and had never threatened anyone. He said that although he was angry in the taped proceeding that was played for the jury, he had been prepared to proceed with divorce and child support hearings and had prepared a 77-page document in support of his petition.

"I know you aren't God, but you [illegible] the place of God as a judge," Walkup said to Jolliffe. "I prayed God would show you my heart. There is no violence [illegible] anyone else."

"I'm asking you to send me home. I'll accept any restraint, make any restitution, give up any property so I can go home," he concluded.

Walkup did not testify on his own behalf during his four-day trial.

Greenbrier County Prosecuting Attorney Kevin Hanson made it clear that he felt the crimes Walkup was convicted of warranted more punishment than those the doctor said he would accept.

"We're lucky there are not several grieving widows here in the audience today," he said. "The evidence shows Dr. Walkup planted a bomb in Barry Bruce's office and he did it maliciously."

One firefighter was taken ill from heat exhaustion during the fire. Other firefighters testified that they found a 20-pound propane tank and over a dozen metal cans filled with gasoline aside from a five-gallon drum partly filled with gasoline in Bruce's office.

Hanson said Bruce's insurance company had submitted figures amounting to over $340,000. Bruce himself had incurred $85,000 in expenses, the prosecutor said.

He asked for the maximum sentence on each charge and that Walkup serve each sentence consecutively, meaning the doctor could have spent 40 years behind bars.

The prosecutor said Walkup's lack of remorse was telling.

"Even today he has accepted no responsibility for what he did," Hanson said.

Jolliffe said he found that troubling, as well.

"We're lucky Dr. Walkup was a much better physician than an arsonist," Jolliffe said. "Had the fire taken its course, the explosion would have been and could have been a catastrophe."

Jolliffe noted that much of historic downtown Lewisburg could have been destroyed had the fire progressed to its potential.

The judge denied Walkup probation, saying it would "unduly depreciate the seriousness of this defendant's crimes."

Jolliffe did not rule on the issue of restitution, but said that it could be introduced in a civil proceeding.

The doctor will receive credit for the time he has already served, the [illegible] ordered.

Walkup still faces a charge of [illegible] attempted escape. Jolliffe set a trial date on that charge for April 24.

Sue Walkup is charged with felo[illegible] attempted aiding escape. She is AN ARTIST'S SKETCH of the new development at Snowshoe Mountain, scheduled to open in 2002.

Allegheny Springs purch[illegible] Snowshoe set sales reco[illegible]

This weekend's launch of the Allegheny Springs, the resort's residential development project of Intrawest Corporation's mountaintop village at Snowshoe Mountain, was an overwhelming success. The group of preferred purchasers visiting the resort acquired 46 mountain properties in the newest mountain resort lodging and retail facility in the eastern United States. Project officials believe the launch of Allegheny Springs represented the largest one-day real estate sale in the history of West Virginia.

Construction of Allegheny Springs' first phase will commence later this spring with a scheduled opening the summer of 2002. Purchasers of the mountain top condominiums began meeting with resort development personnel early Saturday morning. "Snowshoe's growth is the reason we are excited about being part of this new phase of the village and why we bought this property in addition to the property we already own in Highland House," says Sherri Haskell of Richmond, Virginia. "The village gives you that feeling of being at a really nice place that you want to visit over and over."

Allegheny Springs will feature 63 units in the first phase and 83 in the project's second phase.

Allegheny Springs will complete the southern end of the Village at Snowshoe between Rimfire Lodge and Highland House, the village's first two projects. "The village is progressing as we anticipated when the first plans were drawn up four years ago," says Tom Wallington, Vice President for Resort Development at Snowshoe that Intrawest [illegible] ing Snowsh[illegible] season res[illegible] Allegheny [illegible] amenities i[illegible] private co[illegible] valet parkin[illegible]

In addi[illegible] mountain p[illegible] Highland [illegible] mountainto[illegible] pleted, will [illegible] owned pr[illegible] square feet [illegible] cialty shop[illegible] also begin [illegible] lage's mul[illegible] family Aq[illegible] include a w[illegible] and swimm[illegible] new water [illegible] opening in [illegible]

The bu[illegible] Springs pro[illegible] the mid-A[illegible] regions. [illegible] from Virgi[illegible] North Car[illegible] from Wes[illegible] remaining [illegible] nessee, Geo[illegible]

Snowsh[illegible] within a da[illegible] people. "T[illegible] has become [illegible] attraction," [illegible] Snowshoe M[illegible] dent and [illegible] "Rimfire Lo[illegible] and now All[illegible] sent key part[illegible] the village." [illegible] will be locate[illegible] of the Ballhoo[illegible] lage's main e[illegible] Intrawest up to charges

g you to send me
cept any restraint, itution, give up any can go home," he not testify on his ng his four-day trial.

ounty Prosecuting Hanson made it the crimes Walkup of warranted more those the doctor
ept.
ere are not several here in the audi-
aid. "The evidence p planted a bomb ffice and he did it was taken ill from during the fire.

testified that they propane tank and l cans filled with m a five-gallon

AN ARTIST'S SKETCH of the newest condominium development at Snowshoe Mountain, Allegheny Springs, scheduled to open in 2002.

Allegheny Springs purchases at Snowshoe set sales records

This weekend's launch of the that Intrawest is committed to mak-

AN ARTIST'S SKETCH of the newest condominium development at Snowshoe Mountain, Allegheny Springs, scheduled to open in 2002.

Allegheny Springs purchases at Snowshoe set sales records

This weekend's launch of the Allegheny Springs, the resort's residential development project of Intrawest Corporation's mountaintop village at Snowshoe Mountain, was an overwhelming success. The group of preferred purchasers visiting the resort acquired 46 mountain properties in the newest mountain resort lodging and retail facility in the eastern United States. Project officials believe the launch of Allegheny Springs represented the largest one-day real estate sale in the history of West Virginia.

Construction of Allegheny Springs' first phase will commence later this spring with a scheduled opening the summer of 2002. Purchasers of the mountain top condominiums began meeting with resort development personnel early Saturday morning. "Snowshoe's growth is the reason we are excited about being part of this new phase of the village and why we bought this property in addition to the property we already own in Highland House," says Sherri Haskell of Richmond, Virginia. "The village gives you that feeling of being at a really nice place that you want to visit over and over."

Allegheny Springs will feature 63 units in the first phase and 83 in the project's second phase.

Allegheny Springs will complete the southern end of the Village at Snowshoe between Rimfire Lodge and Highland House, the village's first two projects. "The village is progressing as we anticipated when the first plans were drawn up four years ago," says Tom Wallington, Vice President for that Intrawest is committed to making Snowshoe the premier four-season resort in the region." Allegheny Springs will feature amenities including a health club, private courtyard, thermal pool, valet parking, and concierge.

In addition to the existing 219 mountain properties in Rimfire and Highland House, Snowshoe's mountaintop village, when completed, will have over 600 privately owned properties and 100,000 square feet of restaurants and specialty shops. Construction will also begin this spring on the village's multi-million dollar new family Aqua Center, which will include a water slide, jacuzzis spa and swimming areas. The resort's new water facility is scheduled to be opening in the fall.

The buyers of the Allegheny Springs properties were from across the mid-Atlantic and southeast regions. Forty-two percent were from Virginia, 33 percent from North Carolina, and 16 percent from West Virginia, with the remaining nine percent from Tennessee, Georgia and Kentucky.

Snowshoe Mountain is located within a day's drive of 75 million people. "The mountaintop village has become the resort's year-round attraction," says Bruce Pittet, Snowshoe Mountain's Vice President and General Manager. "Rimfire Lodge, Highland House, and now Allegheny Springs represent key parts to the completion of the village." Allegheny Springs will be located adjacent to the top of the Ballbooter lift and on the village's main events plaza.

Intrawest is the leading devel-

"...Sue was falsely arrested and falsely charged," Walkup said.

Walkup said he was not a violent person and had never threatened anyone. He said that although he was angry in the taped proceedings that was played for the jury, he had been prepared to proceed with divorce and child support hearings and had prepared a 77-page document in support of his petition.

"I know you aren't God, but you stand in the place of God as a judge," Walkup said to Judge [illegible] prayed God would show you my heart. There is no violence in my heart.

"I'm no threat to Barry Bruce or

...on $10,000 bond.

...ge stemmed from a plea on that charge for April

...The judge denied Walkup probation, saying it would "unduly depreciate the seriousness of this defendant's crimes."

Judith did not rule on the issue of restitution, but said that it could be introduced in a civil proceeding.

The doctor will receive credit for the time he has already served, the judge ordered.

Walkup still faces a charge of ...attempted escape. Judith set ...date on that charge for April

...given you that feeling of being at a really nice place that you want to visit over and over."

Allegheny Springs will feature 63 units in the first phase and 83 in the project's second phase.

Allegheny Springs will complete the southern end of the Village at Snowshoe between Rimrock Lodge and Highland House, the village's first two projects. "The village is progressing as we anticipated when the first plans were drawn up four years ago," says Tom ...Resort Development at Snowshoe Mountain.

With the success of Rimrock and Highland House, buyers are seeing ...

...Snowshoe Mountain is located within a day's drive of 75 million people. "The mountaintop village has become the resort's year-round attraction," says Bruce Post, Snowshoe Mountain's Vice President and General Manager. "Rimrock Lodge, Highland House, and now Allegheny Springs represent key parts to the completion of the village." Allegheny Springs will be located adjacent to the top of the Ballhooter lift and on the village's ...

Superintendent given new contract

Board of Education facing budget decisions

At its meeting on Monday the Board of Education was given a summary of the decisions that will be need to be may before the 2001-02 school system budget can be completed. Also, the Board approved a four-year contract continuing James Phares as county superintendent of schools.

As its first action on the 2001-02 budget, the Board voted to request that the County Commission select the "stabilized" payments for the county's share of the money coming from resource sales on National Forest land. This action was taken because of the Board receiving $212,000 less from the Forest Service than was planned for in the 2000-01 budget.

Under the new stabilized payment law, passed by the Congress last year, the amount the school system will receive will be at least $411,000 annually. (It could be slightly more, depending upon how the Commission makes the choices allowed by the new law.)

At the last meeting the Board had been given a very preliminary budget with estimated revenue of $8,981,666 and estimated expenses of $9,071,241. The expenses were based on staff at current levels with none of the presently vacant positions filled.

The revenue included only $200,000 in Forest Service money, so adding the additional $211,000 from the stabilized payment, leaves a balance of $121,345. However, Dr. Phares estimated that $56,600 will be needed for various items including increased fuel costs and various personnel costs, leaving only $64,645 for all the requests received from the schools at the budget input meetings.

Dr. Phares warned the Board that "if we cut anymore at the high school, we are no longer going to have a comprehensive high school." He said the budget situation has gotten to the point, due to decreased enrollment, where the Board is going to have to decide whether the county can continue to support the goal of having small classes at the elementary set by the Board several years ago. The choice is between the small elementary classes or a complete program for the high school students, he suggested.

Dr. Phares told the Board that if the staff levels in the elementary schools were reduced to the number supported by the state school aid formula, the reduction would be about equal to the requests for new or full-time staff made by the schools.

Staff requests included the county technology coordinator, dean of students at MMS, school computer lab managers, and additional music, band, counseling, librarian and alternate education services at various schools.

Dr. Phares stated his belief that at the end of the personnel decisions by the Board, all current staff members will be employed, but there will have to be transfers to new positions, with the inconvenience and upset that goes with this.

It was noted that federal "classroom size reduction" grant money could help maintain some elementary positions that would be lost if the Board decides to reduce staff to state funding levels.

Although he said personnel decisions could be made in a way that would have a minimal impact on the budget, in the areas of materials and supplies, maintenance and facilities, technology, transportation, and support of non-school agencies, maintaining existing services and adding those requested by the schools could add additional expenses of over $1 million.

Included among the many items the superintendent told Board members they would have make budget decisions on are: introducing students fees for materials; continued financial support of college courses; how to offer distance learning courses; meeting the various facility needs requested by the schools, including additional classrooms at MMS, gym at MES, and furniture/technology/phone system replacements; reinstate technology coordinator position; maintenance shop and truck; purchase of various equipment for the buses; limiting out-of-county field trips; money for bus replacement; support of public

Continued to page 7

Tenth Avenue talks about flood protection

GREG MOSESSO, WHO both lives and owns a business on 10th Avenue, marks the line where floodwaters reached their height in 1996.

"high ground" that she hasn't had water in the living quarters of her house during floods. She has a long yard that slopes down to the creek near where the diversion cut was proposed.

"I was in favor of the diversion, but I am not in favor of putting a wall out there. I don't understand how it would help," said Hiser.

Hiser's next-door neighbor, Terry Richardson, is worried that floodwalls will be unsafe.

"I think it's a dangerous situation to channel that much water through a small space. I guess I would feel less protected by a wall," said Richardson.

Mosesso agrees with his neighbors that walls won't bring his family peace of mind.

"If we have flood protection and we still have to start up our cars, if we are still worried, what have we gained? What are we spending all the money on?" said Mosesso.

Mosesso's next-door neighbor, Hazel Brown, is in her 80s. In the flood of '96 Brown, who lives alone, had more than a foot of water in her first floor. She had to replace her furniture.

"There is mud still in the walls and floor—it's impossible to get it all up," said Brown.

Brown, like many of her neighbors seems torn between avoiding flood mud and loyalty to her home.

"We need to do something. But I'm not scared of floods," said Brown. "I'll just go upstairs if one comes again."

The 11th Street Gap

Mosesso, Brown and others who live near the intersection of 11th street and 10th Avenue worry that a floodwall along Knapp's Creek may create new flooding problems from the so-called "11th Street Gap," a spot across the street from their homes where Knapp's Creek sometimes pools into a lake when it is in flood stage.

Just above the intersection of 11th Street and 10th Avenue the high ground that naturally blocks water from the end of 10th Avenue to the base of Hamilton Hill is broken just enough to make a potential channel for water from the creek. Even in the flood of record water never crested the hill there—but it came very close.

Close enough that the Army Corps of Engineers believes that if the floodwalls and levees are built along Knapp's Creek they could cause water to back up and pour over the top of the hill—a scary two-foot high "stop log structure" to protect against possible overflow. When the creek is near flood stage aluminum "logs" would be placed in a frame to block the water at the gap.

That structure, like the rest of Marlinton's flood control project is only designed to keep out water at the level of the '85 flood, the largest flood on record. Some on 10th Avenue are concerned that the walls would cause more water to back up if there were a larger flood event.

"It worries me because it is hard to predict what Mother Nature will do," said Melissa Thomas Van Gundy who lives just below the 11th Street Gap.

Smith admits that water would likely overtop the "stop log structure" on 11th street if there were a larger flood.

"If you have an event that is larger than the '85 flood then there

Avenue the insecurity about future of the neighborhood has become too much. Between 10th Street and the end of 10th Avenue, three houses are for sale.

And there could be more. Terry Nelson says that he has thought of putting his house on the market.

"We would put our house on the market now if it would sell," said Nelson.

At least one of his neighbors was unwilling to wait. He put his house on the market for significantly less than the house was purchased.

Others who haven't sold out have delayed improvements to their property indefinitely.

"We wanted to put on an addition. But for the last few years we have just been doing basic maintenance on the house," said Jan Nelson.

"We're always in limbo. It is hard to know what the future will bring. We need to think about what these floodwalls going to protect—this town has larger problems than just the water," said Mosesso. "Mayberry is gone."

In spite of the uncertainties some on 10th avenue are hopeful that the flood control project will revitalize the town even if it tears their neighborhood a part.

Reid Mitchell will have a 20-foot-high concrete wall within 30 feet of his back porch. He will also lose his Exxon station on US 219 if the project is built. But he thinks the walls are necessary for the future of the town.

"If it was just me I would say, 'Go away,' and do nothing. But its not just me, many others are affected and I feel responsible for not opposing something that will benefit a lot of other people," said Mitchell.

"This [flood control] is a necessity for protecting the town. No one is going to maintain buying and building in the flooded part of Marlinton. If the flood project goes through it will put areas back into a higher value and make them more marketable," said Mitchell.

Still Mitchell wrestles with the same conflict shared by most of his neighbors—floodwalls that may help protect the value of their houses will also diminish the natural beauty that makes them valuable.

"The reason I live there is because that is where I want to be. I am not scared. But if they build a wall out there it will probably eliminate my reason for living there," said Mitchell.

"The value of the property to me is the creek. If there is a wall out there the value for me will be gone," said Richardson.

Mitchell sees a potential bright side to the project for the town that he believes out-weighs the concerns of his neighbors.

"A 60 million dollar, 5-year project is going to put our economy back in good shape. We will have jobs building this project and replacement housing. If half or 2/3 of the people that lost their houses would move into some of the empty houses in town and fix them up it will revitalize this place," said Mitchell.

But Mosesso and many on 10th Avenue worry that people won't want to stay behind the walls and that there won't be much left to protect if the town loses neighborhoods like theirs.

"We have to ask ourselves, is this the right project for the town's future? Are we building a levee around a memory?" said Mosesso. "A wall is static. It doesn't fix any of the other problems."

Marlinton Rotary Pancake Dinner

Saturday, March 10 - 4 p.m. - 7:30 p.m.
Marlinton Middle School Cafeteria

Featuring Pancakes, Buckwheat Cakes, Sausage, Iced Tea, Coffee & Sassafras Tea

GREG MONRAD, WHO built Brown and owns a business on 10th Avenue, marks the line where floodwaters reached their height in 1996.

who live near the intersection of 11th street and 10th Avenue worry that a floodwall along Knapp's Creek may create new flooding problems from the so-called "11th Street Gap," a spot across the street from their homes where Knapp's Creek sometimes pools into a lake when it is in flood stage.

Just above the intersection of 11th Street and 10th Avenue the high ground that naturally blocks water from the end of 10th Avenue to the base of Hamilton Hill is broken just enough to create a potential channel for water from the creek. Even in the flood of record water never crested the hill there—but it came very close.

Close enough that the Army Corps of Engineers believes that if the floodwalls and levees are built along Knapp's Creek they could cause water to back up and pour over the top of the hill—a scary proposition for Brown and her neighbors whose roofs would be nearly even with the water level.

"I think they should do something but it isn't the end of the world to put a wall out there. The water will back up behind it. I was told the water it came about four inches from the top across the street," said Brown.

"They are correct. If you put in a wall and shove [the water] into the channel it will increase the water at 11th street. Because of that we looked at the 11th street gap in particular," said Sean Smith, the Army Corps hydrologist who has studied the flow of Knapp's Creek.

The Army Corps has designed a two-foot high "stop log structure" to protect against possible overflow. When the creek is near flood stage aluminum "logs" would be placed in a frame to block the water at the gap.

That structure, like the rest of Marlinton's flood control project is only designed to keep out water at the level of the '85 flood, the largest flood on record. Some on 10th Avenue are concerned that the walls would cause more water to back up if there were a larger flood event.

"It worries me because it is hard to predict what Mother Nature will do," said Melissa Thomas Van Gundy who lives just below the 11th Street Gap.

Smith admits that water would likely overtop the "stop log structure" on 11th street if there were a larger flood.

"If you have an event that is larger than the '85 flood then there is always that possibility. But the probability of a flood of that size is very low," said Smith.

A Neighborhood Disappearing

For some residents of 10th

"We're always in limbo. It is hard to know what the future will bring. We need to think about what these floodwalls going to protect—this town has larger problems than just the water," said Monroe. "Mayberry is gone."

In spite of the uncertainties some on 10th avenue are hopeful that the flood control project will revitalize the town even if it tears their neighborhood a part.

Reid Mitchell will have a 20-foot-high concrete wall within 30 feet of his back porch. He will also lose his Exxon station on US 219 if the project is built. But he thinks the walls are necessary for the future of the town.

"If it was just me I would say, 'Go away,' and do nothing. But its not just me, many others are affected and I feel responsible for not opposing something that will benefit a lot of other people," said Mitchell.

"This [flood control] is a negative, but I think the positive will outweigh the negative. I'm willing to take a chance," said Richardson.

Mitchell sees a potential bright side to the project for the town that he believes outweighs the concerns of his neighbors.

"A 60 million dollar, 5-year project is going to put our economy back in good shape. We will have jobs building this project and replacement housing. If half or 2/3 of the people that lose their houses would move into some of the empty houses in town and fix them up it will revitalize this place," said Mitchell.

But Monroe and many on 10th Avenue worry that people won't want to stay behind the walls and that there won't be much left to protect if the town loses neighborhoods like theirs.

"We have to ask ourselves, is this the right project for the town's future? Are we building a levee around a memory?" said Monroe. "A wall is static. It doesn't fix any of the other problems."

THE 11TH STREET Gap is this hillside in the background. In 1985, Knapps Creek nearly breached the natural floodwall.

Marlinton Rotary Pancake Dinner

Saturday, March 10 • 4 p.m. - 7:30 p.m.
Marlinton Middle School Cafeteria

Featuring Pancakes, Buckwheat Cakes, Sausage, Iced Tea, Coffee & Sassafras Tea

Tickets may be purchased at the door or from Marlinton Rotary Club Members

Admission: $5.50 Adults • $3 for Children under 12

Dee's Flower Patch

Fresh Flowers for any Occasion
Birthdays, Weddings, Anniversaries, Funerals

Woodwork and Handcrafted Placemats and Pillows

Dee Hill, Owner

McCLINTIC LIBRARY PRESENTS

HISTORY ALIVE:
Ilene Evans as HARRIET TUBMAN FRIDAY
MARCH 2 • 1PM

Harriet Tubman, Heroine of Freedom, was born in 1820, a field slave who escaped in her early twenties to return to the south many times to rescue and free fellow slaves.

Many other performances are a means of exploring history by singing with historical figures portrayed by humanities scholars who have carefully researched the characters they represent. Audiences have opportunity to question these women and shapers of our past.

Don't miss this exciting performance!

WEST VIRGINIA APPRECIATION MONTH AT SNOWSHOE MOUNTAIN

March at Snowshoe means great snow, sunny skies, plenty of family fun and great deals for our fellow West Virginians. We would like to personally invite all West Virginia residents to Snowshoe Mountain to experience the best West Virginia has to offer for winter fun at unbelievable savings.

FROM MARCH 4 - APRIL 1
WHEN YOU SHOW YOUR WEST VIRGINIA ID YOU'LL RECEIVE:

$15.00 MIDWEEK LIFT TICKET

The Army Corps has designed a

McCLINTIC LIBRARY PRESENTS

HISTORY ALIVE:

Ilene Evans as HARRIET TUBMAN

FRIDAY MARCH 2 • 1PM

Harriet Tubman, Heroine of Freedom, was born in 1820, a field slave who escaped in her early twenties to return to the south many times to rescue and free fellow slaves.

History Alive! performances are a means of exploring history by hobnobbing with historical figures portrayed by humanities scholars who have carefully researched the characters they reenact. Audiences have the opportunity to question these movers and shakers of our past.

Don't miss this exciting performance!

West Virginia Humanities Council

West Virginia Library Commission

This project is supported in whole or in part by the US Institute of Museum and Library Services under the provisions of the Library Services and technology Act, administered in West Virginia by the State Librarian. This West Virginia Humanities Council program is being hosted by McClintic Public Library and is supported with additional financial assistance from the Office of the Secretary, West Virginia Department of Education and the Arts.

500 8th St. • Mon. - Thurs. 10 - 8, Fri. 10 - 6 • 799-6000

Tigers 43 to were Darrell
e 13. grade Eagles Rams 34 to and Daniel points.
night the 8th against High-
'op scorer on arrell Wright
he game.

rvival of the stry.
ce Saturday
10-11 and o the High-tour maple ve the prog from tree he finished specialties wheat cakes, thnuts and omegrown include a d live enestival is a o enjoy a in a small nore inforland Coun-

e.

of a chapel oted to do to make a loved one augh, P.O.
4924.

— headquarters, and here he was met by hunters and trappers who brought him their pelts, venison and other products of the forest, to exchange for goods. From this the place was eventually known as Huntersville. It was established as a town by the legislature, December 18, 1822.

- - -

When the Rebellion broke out in 1861, William Curry was county and circuit clerk. Finding that the Federals were liable to invade the county, he took the records to a place of supposed safety—the residence of Joel Hill, on the Little Levels; here they remained until January 1862, when Mr. Curry became alarmed for their safety and removed the same to Covington, Virginia, where for a short time they were in the Alleghany county court house. From there they were taken to the storehouse of Captain William Scott. In September, 1863, General Averill's command reached Covington, and Mr. Curry again removed the records, first to the home of William Clark then to a stack of buckwheat straw in which they lay concealed for three weeks, and were then conveyed into the mountains and stored away in the house of a Baptist minister, where they remained until the surrender at Appomattox. The war having ended Mr. Curry in June 1865, returned the records and deposited them at the house of Joel Hill. A month later they were taken to a vacant house belonging to Rev. Mitchell Dunlap, and there left until September 1865, when the first court after the war convened, November 1865, in the Methodist

Farm Family Life & Casualty Ins. Cos.
Mosesso Insurance Agency
Greg & Cathy Mosesso, Agents
926 10th Avenue
Marlinton • (304) 799-6303

News comes of an otter bein seen in the fields near the Bea post office. Monk Small, of th same neighborhood, has had trapp muskrats eaten up by an otter otters. Inquiring of a trapper as his luck in taking minks this w ter, he said there were no minks his trapping section of Greenbr River; that he had seen otter s and no mink will stay where ott range.

This is the first report of o on the Greenbrier River that come in for several years. These interesting and valuable fur bear However, I have been backw about suggesting to the Conse
tion Commission that they bu few pairs and turn them loose watersheds in these parts.

- - -

We all had been out of bea for about forty years, unti number of pairs were turned l nearly twenty years since.
their dams to stagnate streams, cutting trees, and e green corn, the beaver is pr considerable headache.
Nine dollar skins for co

VanReenen
Funeral Home
Ivan VanReenen, Owner
James Smith, Manager
Marlinton, WV 24954
Office—799-4553
Home—799-4074

EYE GLASSES
or HEARING AIDS
Dr. William H. Perrine

Fifty Years Ago

in The Pocahontas Times

rch 1, 1951 desk of ice, Editor

Huntersville om books. The s written some r the Pocahonof Hardesty's
ginia.
agraph is from Her People" by omas C. Mill-

t is Hunters-among the e, and beautiwas made the 1. It was here built his rude her the people onstructed a Warm Springs
ains to his church at Hillsboro. From that time they were kept in the old Academy building until June 1866, when they were taken back to the county seat and deposited at the house of John B. Garey. More than five years had elapsed since their first removal for safety, and strange to relate, through all these various changes not a book or a paper was missing save one record book which was of no value to the county.

FIELD NOTES

Fred D. Sharp, of Stony Creek, at last report had killed three gray and seven red foxes. He is now ready to regain operations against the foxes. Early in February, there began to be too many visiting dog foxes from the Black Forest. These would take the hounds for a chase clear out of the overcoats helped t supply of raccoon.

that our woods be coons. That, with 5 so over stocked th wonder that the ne or turkey escapes d present over p prowlers—coons, sums.

--

Talking about son on these fur was not productiv weather, with ice c and too many fresh

--

The panther comes from Ai prowler was hear and the hunting
After a short ch was back to the h

At the home
bor the family c her stall. Someth badly, she broke out of the stable fied, the family h ting her back int

These home the Pocahont Grounds, where recent weeks a ection of Hardesty's

st Virginia.
nd paragraph is from a and Her People" by nd Thomas C. Mill-

---

ty seat is Hunters-down among the pine like, and beauti-
n. This was made the in 1821. It was here shaw built his rude soon after the people nty constructed a n the Warm Springs mountains to his an named John Har-auling goods from hese mountains for rading with the set-Bradshaw's house s, and here he was and trappers who heir pelts, venison cts of the forest, to oods. From this the ntually known as was established as a islature, December

--

ebellion broke out Curry was county
. Finding that the able to invade the
the records to a l safety—the resill, on the Little remained until hen Mr. Curry their safety and

removal for safety, and strange to relate, through all these various changes not a book or a paper was missing save one record book which was of no value to the county.

FIELD NOTES

Fred D. Sharp, of Stony Creek, at last report had killed three gray and seven red foxes. He is now ready to regain operations against the foxes. Early in February, there began to be too many visiting dog foxes from the Black Forest. These would take the hounds for a chase clear out of the neighborhood—twenty or more miles from home. In March Mr. Sharp expects to work on resident foxes again.

News comes of an otter being seen in the fields near the Beard post office. Monk Small, of the same neighborhood, has had trapped muskrats eaten up by an otter or otters. Inquiring of a trapper as to his luck in taking minks this winter, he said there were no minks on his trapping section of Greenbrier River; that he had seen otter sign and no mink will stay where otters range.

This is the first report of otter on the Greenbrier River that has come in for several years. These are interesting and valuable fur bearers. However, I have been backward about suggesting to the Conservation Commission that they buy a

The panther
comes from Airpo prowler was heard ab and the hunting do After a short chase, was back to the house

At the home of bor the family cow her stall. Something badly, she broke the out of the stable. Sh fied, the family had a ting her back into the

These homes ar
the Pocahontas
Grounds, where on t recent weeks a pan
Also, the unmistak panther were seen in varment was messi small herd of deer
nights on the Fai horses which range
are locked in the bar

Then, too, Gile
year or more has about a panther wh
port Flat.

Along in the summer George panthers on nearby

--

As to panther
snow let it be said
third to fifth step,
long tail has brush
at the Fair grou
showed up regularl However, it looked hauling goods from these mountains for f trading with the set-ie Bradshaw's house

ers, and here he was rs and trappers who their pelts, venison ucts of the forest, to oods. From this the entually known as was established as a gislature, December

Rebellion broke out n Curry was county
t. Finding that the able to invade the
the records to a d safety—the resifill, on the Little y remained until when Mr. Curry
r their safety and e to Covington, or a short time lleghany county there they were use of Captain
September,
ill's command
nd Mr. Curry cords, first to miles from home. Mr. Sharp expects to work on resident foxes again.

News comes of an otter being seen in the fields near the Beard post office. Monk Small, of the same neighborhood, has had trapped muskrats eaten up by an otter or otters. Inquiring of a trapper as to his luck in taking minks this winter, he said there were no minks on his trapping section of Greenbrier River; that he had seen otter sign and no mink will stay where otters range.

This is the first report of otter on the Greenbrier River that has come in for several years. These are interesting and valuable fur bearers. However, I have been backward about suggesting to the Conservation Commission that they buy a few pairs and turn them loose on watersheds in these parts.

We all had been out of beaver for about forty years, until a number of pairs were turned loose nearly twenty years since. With their dams to stagnate trout streams, cutting trees, and eating green corn, the beaver is proving varment was small herd of deer nights on the Fair

horses which range
are locked in the bar

Then, too, Gile
year or more has
about a panther wh
port Flat.

Along in the summer George panthers on nearby

--

As to panther
snow let it be said
third to fifth step
long tail has brush
at the Fair gro showed up regular However, it looked

Luis I D Ne Mo FOR

VanReenen
Funeral Home
Ivan VanReenen, Owner
James Smith, Manager

Home Health C Helmick, has a f branch location (typing, filing, phot closely with seventy years ago, for the Pocahontas County section of Hardesty's History of West Virginia.

The second paragraph is from "West Virginia and Her People" by Hu Maxwell and Thomas C. Miller.

The county seat is Huntersville, nestled down among the mountains, Alpine like, and beautiful for situation. This was made the seat of justice in 1821. It was here that John Bradshaw built his rude log cabin, and soon after the people of Bath County constructed a wagon road from the Warm Springs through the mountains to his house, and a man named John Harness began hauling goods from Staunton into these mountains for the purpose of trading with the settlers. He made Bradshaw's house his headquarters, and here he was met by hunters and trappers who brought him their pelts, venison and other products of the forest, to exchange for goods. From this the place was eventually known as Huntersville. It was established as a town by the legislature, December 18, 1822.

When the Rebellion broke out in 1861, William Curry was county

John B. Garey. N years had elapsed removal for safety relate, through a changes not a boo missing save o which was of no ty.

FIELD

Fred D. Shar at last report had and seven red f ready to regain the foxes. Early began to be too foxes from the E would take the clear ou neighborhood—miles from ho Sharp expects t foxes again.

•

News com seen in the fie post office. M same neighborh muskrats eaten otters. Inquirin his luck in tak ter, he said the his trapping se River; that he and no mink w range.

Fifty Years Ago

in The Pocahontas Times

Thursday, March 1, 1951
From the desk of
Calvin W. Price, Editor

This weeks Huntersville chapter is taken from books. The first paragraph was written some seventy years ago, for the Pocahontas County section of Hardesty's History of West Virginia.

The second paragraph is from "West Virginia and Her People" by Hu Maxwell and Thomas C. Millchurch at Hillsboro. From that time they were kept in the old Academy building until June 1866, when they were taken back to the county seat and deposited at the house of John B. Garey. More than five years had elapsed since their first removal for safety, and strange to relate, through all these various changes not a book or a paper was missing save one record book which was of no value to the coun-overcoats h supply of r that our w coons. Th so over s wonder t or turkey present prowler sums.

Ta son o was n weath and t

com pro
and Af
wa

Donna Curry and Jimmie Warner, of Durbin. Danny is the son of Linda and Daniel Arbogast, of Durbin.

Nicely – Marsh

Amy Beth Nicely, formerly of Boyer, and James Malcolm Marsh, Jr., of Centreville, Virginia, were married September 16, 2000, at Vienna Presbyterian Church in Vienna, Virginia. The Rev. Robert Griffin performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Don and Donna Nicely, of Boyer, and the granddaughter of Mike and Dora Nicely, of Boyer, and Frances Bennett, of Elkins.

The groom is the son of James and Joyce Marsh, of Fairfax Station, Virginia, and the grandson of Pauline Howard, of Clinton, Tennessee.

Music was provided by organist Terry Sisk, and soloist, Karen Haas, of Herndon, Virginia, sang "The Wedding Song" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride was escorted by her father and given in marriage by her parents. Her gown was an off-the-shoulder sequined and beaded gown with a cathedral-length train, designed by Mori-Lee. Her floor-

Sandra Sisler, of Bruceton Mills, cousins of the bride, and Debra Engle, of Centreville, friend of the bride. The bridesmaids wore lavender gowns and carried mixed bouquets of lavender and white roses.

Flower girls were Sophia Clark, of Carlsbad, California, cousin of the groom and Karlee Nicely, of Stephen City, Virginia, niece of the bride. Ringbearer was Travis Allen Taylor, of Durbin, cousin of the bride.

Best man was Micah Marsh, brother of the groom. Groomsmen were Dan Breda, of Fairfax, Virginia, Chris Kramer, of Round Rock, Texas, Scott Phillips, of Crimea, Virginia, and Billy Seiler, of Centreville, all friends of the groom.

Readings were presented by Brandy Schmidt, of Gainesville, Virginia, friend of the bride and Richard Hunter, of Alexandria, Virginia, cousin of the groom.

Donna Gragg, of Boyer, attended the guest book. Following the ceremony an outdoor reception was held at the Marsh home in Fairfax Station, Virginia. Lloyd Nicely, of Alexandria, Virginia, uncle of the bride, asked the blessing prior to the meal being served.

Pre-nuptial entertainment included a bridal shower luncheon hosted by Madge Bledsoe and Donna Gragg at the Bledsoe home in Bartow, a bridal shower brunch hosted by Ann Foster and Gail Maclin at the Foster home in Fairfax Station, and a rehearsal dinner hosted by the groom's parents at Seasons Restaurant in Fairfax.

The bride is a graduate of PCHS and is employed in the accounting department at J. Koons Pontiac GMC in Tyson's Corner, Virginia. The groom attended Robinson High School and Ferrum College and is employed as a fiber optics technician by Qwest Communications in Chantilly, Virginia.

Following a honeymoon in Antigua, the couple will reside in Centreville.

Senior Calendar

March 1-9

has been decided take up the PEL bills first and p Senate, and th with the contin cent gas tax a send these bills are four key bil Governor's pla be dealt with.

The mino House is lining no help when i on revenue bil tobacco tax a which the Gov run his budget.

All major tees have met motions, such mittee Chairs few bills have mittees to the mittee Chairs a bills to run fi bills that will n

Fred Van Commissioner o

Ma
Thursday: T w/lemon, corn bread, pudding Friday: Bake dumplings, m beans, ww r
milk.
Monday: Br
cheese, chef sa Tuesday: T biscuit, gree pears, milk.
Wednesday:
sauce, tossed sa down cake, Ital Thursday: H broccoli w/che choice), corn m Friday: Baked

PCHS BASKETBALL COACH Bob Sheets is joined by his daughter, Rachel, son, Jed, wife, Elaine, and PCHS Principal Tom Sanders to celebration his 250th win as a basketball coach on Friday.

Sheets earns 250 wins

Pocahontas County High School honor of the occasion

Presc

We ar Providers with childr garten age make sure gram that team is m
Three, Se NCWVCA School Pr Programs.

We a Find Pro
many ch County n looking f and young

B clubs a at ball and oth

PCHS BASKETBALL COACH Bob Sheets is joined by his daughter, Rachel, son, Jed, wife, Elaine, and PCHS Principal Tom Sanders to celebration his 250th win as a basketball coach on Friday.

Sheets earns 250 wins

Pocahontas County High School Basketball Coach Bob Sheets won his 250th career victory Friday night when the Warriors handily defeated the Webster County Highlanders, 79-47.

Coach Sheets' wife, Elaine, daughter, Rachel, son, Jed, and PCHS Principal Tom Sanders presented him with a basketball in honor of the occasion.

Sheets has coached the PCHS Warriors for 23 seasons and has had 11 of those to be winning seasons. He was PCHS athletic director for seven years, has also coached the Lady Warriors basketball team, and been a teacher for 28 years, all except four at Pocahontas County High School.

Warrior Sports

By Eric Underwood

SIXTH GRADE WINNERS, l-r, Samantha Bailey, Brittany McMann, Katie Ford, Ross Morgan, Sarah Wilkins

NINTH GRADE WINNERS, l-r, Erin Coleman, Caroline McKean, Rachel Wayne, Tim Weadon, Joe Mosesso

County students participate in Math Field Day

The annual Pocahontas County Math Field Day was held on Thursday of last week at the high school. Students in grades 4 through 9 from each school in the county took part.

The top three winners at each grade level are eligible to participate in the Regional Math Field Day, which will be held on March 23 at Summersville. Winners at the region go to W. Va. University on April 23 for the state competition.

Grade 4

1st - Robert Nelson, MES
2nd - Stacy McPaters, MES
3rd - Trevor Caplinger, GBES
Alternates - Anna Whitehouse, GBES, and Angela Jordan, MES

Grade 5

1st - Aaron Moore, MMS
2nd - Katherine Beverage, MMS
3rd - David Mitchell, MMS
Alternates - Amy Sharp, MMS, and Brenda Balyard, GBMS

Grade 6

1st - Sarah Wilkins, MMS
2nd - Ross Morgan, MMS
3rd - Katie Ford, GBMS
Alternates - Brittany McMann, MMS, and Samantha Bailey, MMS

Grade 7

1st - Dustin Cutlip, MMS
2nd - Rurik Tywoniw, MMS
3rd - Daniel Lacasse, GBMS
Alternates - Josh VanReenen, MMS, and Lauren Trozzi, MMS

Grade 8

1st - Danielle Holstine, GBMS
2nd - Ben Jewell, GBMS
3rd - Clay Bell, MMS
Alternates - Kenneth Janz, MMS, and Jonathon Burns, MMS

Grade 9

1st - Joe Mosesso
2nd - Erin Coleman
3rd - Rachel Wayne
Alternates - Caroline McKean and Tim Weadon

Notices

Home Funds for Low Income Families

North Central Community Action Weatherization has funds available to help with home improvements which will reduce heating and cooling expenses for low income families with elderly, disabilities or children. Call 799-4082 for more information.

Rural Development, based in Lewisburg, has several programs available to assist low income families with home repairs and in purchasing a home. Priorities are elderly, handicapped, and families with children. Anyone interested in this program should call North Central Community Action at 799-4082 to see if they qualify.

MTA

The Mountain Transit Authority will be closed on Monday, February 19, for Presidents' Day. Regular operations will resume on Tuesday, February 20. Schedule information can be obtained by calling 872-5872.

John's Paving
Driveways, Parking Lots, Patchwork, etc.
Free Estimates
All Work Guaranteed
473-1011 WV#030269

HUMMINGBIRD STORAGE
Customers please pay rent by the first of each month as agreed to in your lease. Please mail to:
P.O. Box 3, Slaty Fork WV 26291
Thank you for your cooperation,
Nanette Beckwith

Use Visa or Mastercard to pay for advertisments, subscriptions, business cards, and wedding invitations at The Pocahontas Times.

Nurses, you are invited to a job fair at Greenbrier Manor Nursing Home,

FOURTH GRADE WINNERS, l-r, Trevor Caplinger, Robert Nelson, Stacy McPaters, Anna Whitehouse, Angela Jordan

SEVEN Reene

, Robert
ordan

SEVENTH GRADE WINNERS, l-r, Lauren Trozzi, Josh Van-Reenen, Daniel Lacasse, Rurik Tywoniw, Dustin Cutlip

Tw Mo

Two ex pening a the next February premiere mentary Story."

The d Filmmak duced b Center in describi says: "Fo Ralph St powerful the wealt can be fo Appalach

The Ra the creati

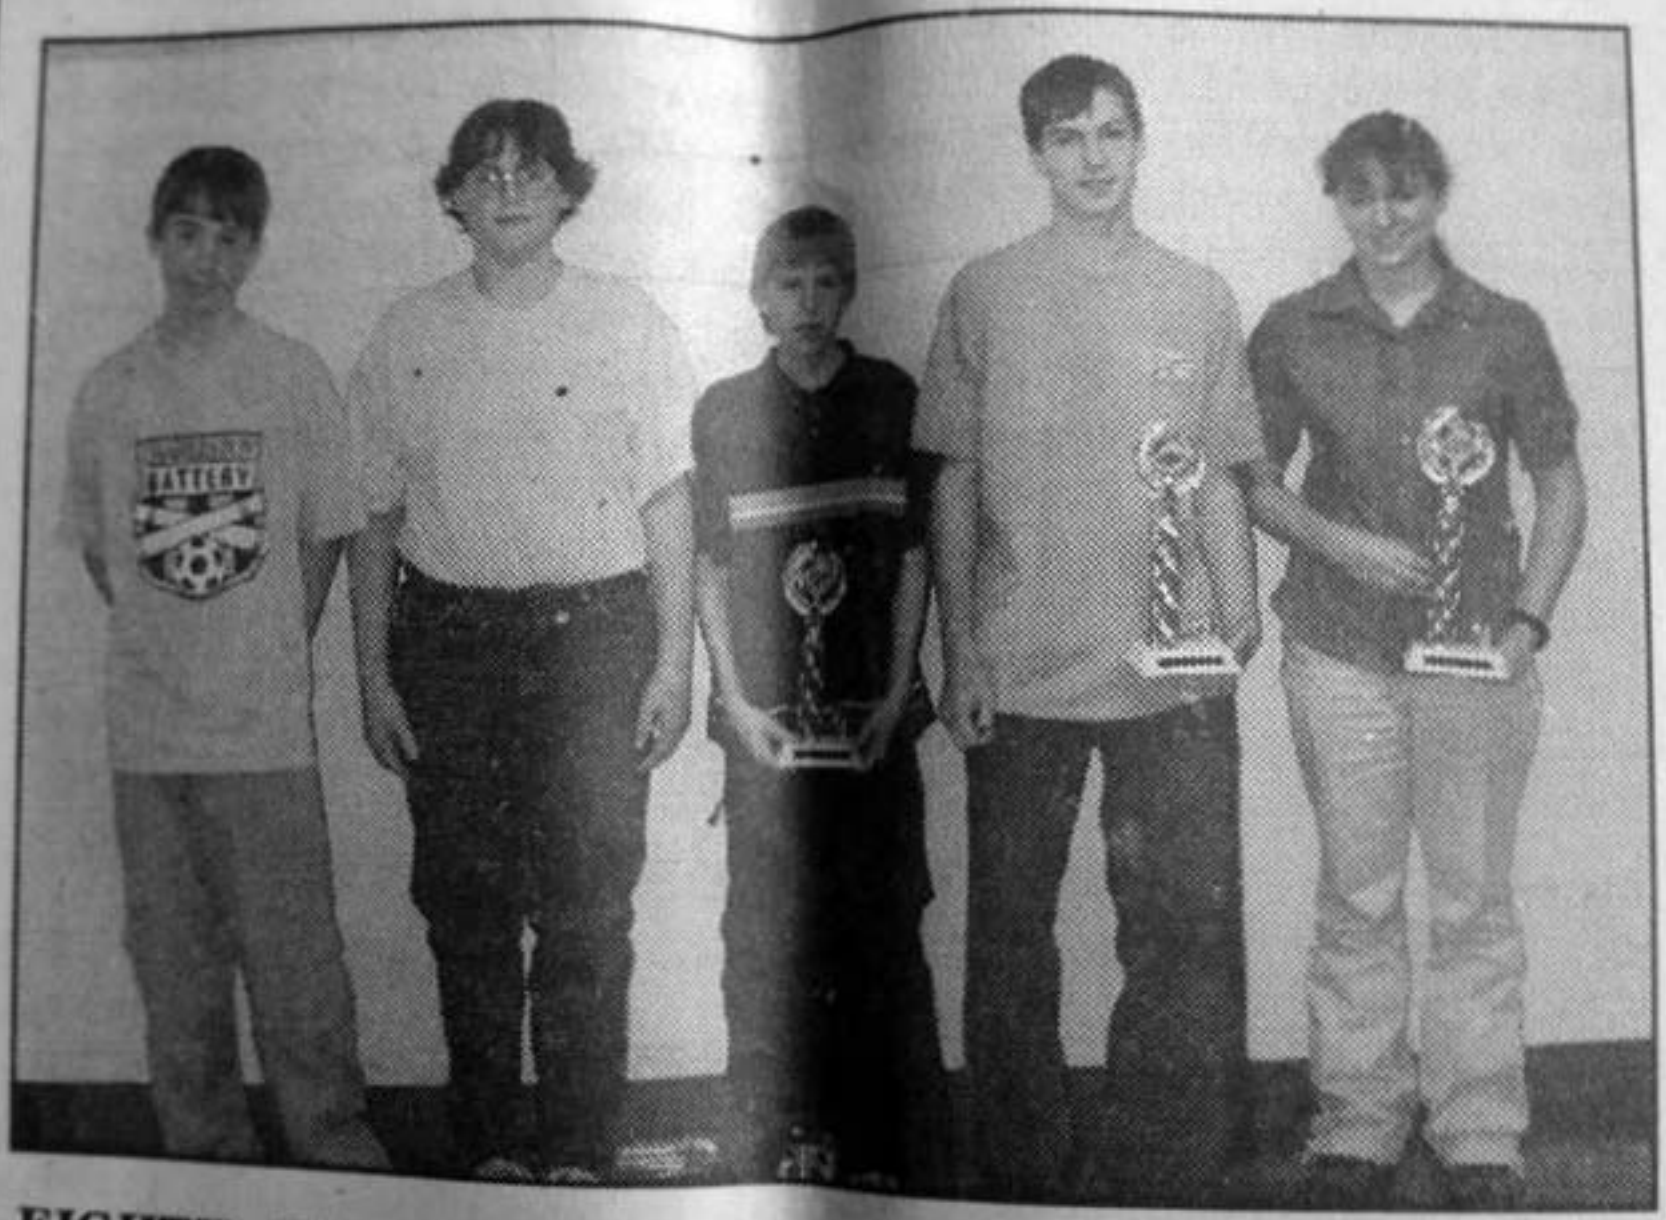
FIFTH GRADE WINNERS, l-r, Brenda Balyard, Amy Sharp, David Mitchell, Katherine Beverage, Aaron Moore

Reenen, Daniel Lacasse, Rurik Tywoniw, Dustin Cutlip



Sharp,

EIGHTH GRADE WINNERS, l-r, Jonathan Burns, Kenneth Janz, Clay Bell, Ben Jewell, Danielle Holstine

can be foun
Appalachia

The Ralp
the creation can form o
"bluegrass" and Carte who grew southwest McClure.

"The R cludes int ley, Patty and mem country m with prese bers. Liv Ralph and and the
and perf
1995, '96 Bluegrass Yoakam, Sparks, others."

Bobby
Virginia

SIXTH GRADE WINNERS, l-r, Samantha Bailey, Brittany McMann, Katie Ford, Ross Morgan, Sarah Wilkins

NINTH McKea

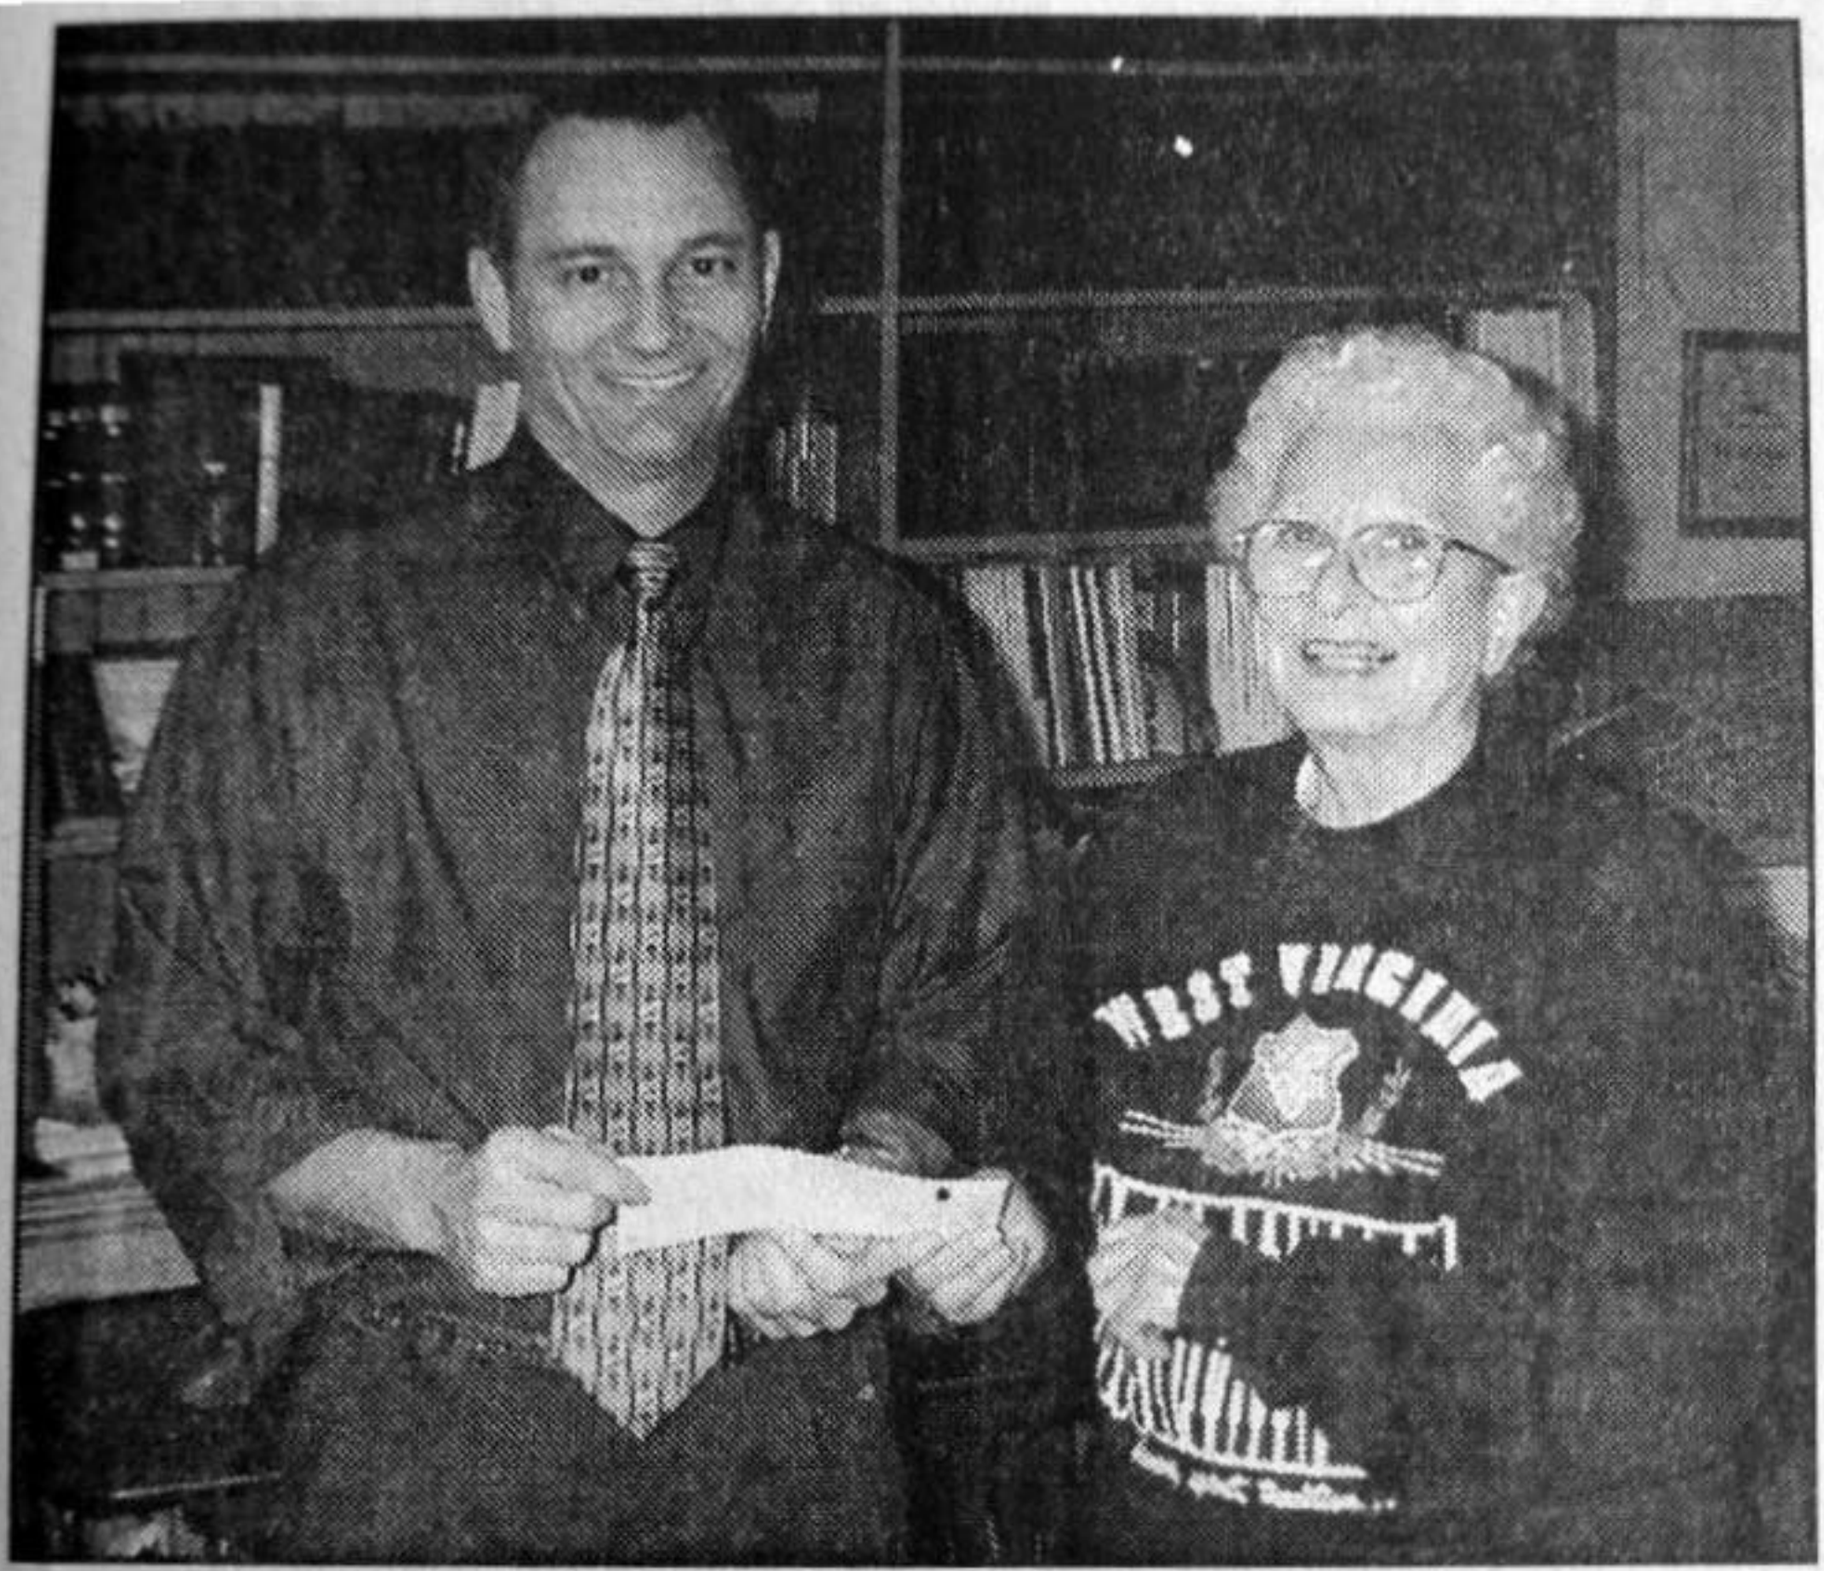
County students partici

rittany NINTH GRADE WINNERS, l-r, Erin Coleman, Caroline McKean, Rachel Wayne, Tim Weadon, Joe Mosesso

cipate in



JIMMY CUTLIP, MANAGER of the Citizens National Bank's branch at Snowshoe, presents a $1000 check to Jane Price Sharp for the McClintic Library Fund.

Fifty Years Ago

in The Pocahontas Times

Thursday, February 8, 1951
From the desk of
Calvin W. Price, Editor

Here is another try at a chapter on Huntersville—

The stone jail house at Huntersville remains. It is built of the hardest of sandstones. White Medina, I believe, is the book name. It cost the notorious General Ben Butler—("Spoon thief") a bit of money.

To begin with, land on the Western Waters—Mississippi drainage—was Indian territory by solemn treaty from 1722 to 1777. That year the colony of Virginia became a Commonwealth. She did not recognize the validity of a British treaty made with the six Civilized Indian Tribes at the Long House in Albany, New York, 1722.

As soon as the Revolution was about over, this Valley was over run with land grabbers. The Wilson Survey, the Gallagher Survey and Phillips Survey were among great land grants of tens of thousands of acres each. To circumvent such things some peculiar laws had to be made. For instance, if taxes were not paid such holdings were sold for school funds. These tax sales were made to stick too. Then the possession law was taken from the Indians—the best title being ten years of undisputed possession under fence.

Philadelphia lawyers could never get the idea that such a tax sale title could be held good. They did recognize as valid possession ownership.

Such old land surveys found ale among thieving suckers up north. General Ben Butler was one such. He bit on the Wilson Survey of about 50,000 acres. It called for the Mill, where the concrete bridge and beaver dam are now. I have always understood they were running the line backward to the beginning corner.

Early on Monday morning, the surveying crew was gathered around for a good day of retracking the then century old lines. The head surveyor was adjusting his compass on its Jacob Staff. The sharp report of a rifle rang out from a wooded hillside. The instrument just blew in pieces—glass shattered and metal torn by the leaden bullet—as the man was adjusting his plumb bob.

The men did not stand on their going for there was a lot more shooting from the mountain side. They ran through the creek—no foot log for persons in a hurry. Rifle bullets splashed water on either side of the fleeing men. I never was told for sure, but was given to understand the honor for the shot at the compass went to preacher Wellington Hogsett or the then young Jasper Dilley.

The surveyor got in his buggy, whipped his horses to a run, and kept going until he crossed the State Line at Rider Gap. He never did come back to this side of the Alleghanies.

Now here is where the notorious General Ben Butler comes into the scene. Owners of those old land grant titles much preferred to work under cover in checking public records, to get the lay of the land and the owners and acreages of tracts under fence on the boundary. So, when the County Court of Pocahontas County advertised for contractors to bid on a new jail, General Butler had men to come with bids low enough to get the silverware. Whether name stuck.

After the war,
was elected Massachusetts.

Finally agitatio land grants was q court decision in Case. This was an down Kanawha C survey embraced p of thousands of acr which are now
millions of dollars.

As for the har
Stone in the old favorite tale is t Carolina road hand days he and his b drill a hole for bla maintained that at second day the dr
blister on the rock

The carpet
Huntersville was th
Harrison. He belon
New England fam way. He gave outstanding caree century ago next ye prominence as a defense in the last the high seas. Afte and county gov reestablished here Harrison on the Ci of Confederate themselves indicte
the Judge's Court that any were ever intimations of blac Dayton, of Phili services for the de native of New Eng
man. He was a tow a distressed people
His son was the Congressman A. G

The late Capt of the Confederate the Stovers of Virginia, was an standing. He, to rescue of our oppr attempting to qu practice in the Po Court. He took t

As soon as the Revolution was about over, this Valley was over run with land grabbers. The Wilson Survey, the Gallagher Survey and Phillips Survey were among great land grants of tens of thousands of acres each. To circumvent such things some peculiar laws had to be made. For instance, if taxes were not paid such holdings were sold for school funds. These tax sales were made to stick too. Then the possession law was taken from the Indians—the best title being ten years of undisputed possession under fence.

Philadelphia lawyers could never get the idea that such a tax sale title could be held good. They did recognize as valid possession ownership.

Such old land surveys found ale among thieving suckers up north. General Ben Butler was one such. He bit on the Wilson Survey of about 50,000 acres. It called for the Corner Oak, near the Marlinton depot. From thence it went to the Hill Country, out toward Dunmore, over to and across Greenbrier River and back to the point of beginning.

The first step was to rerun the lines of the old survey. Local surveyors refused to connive in the steal. Deeds were offered to land owners for their holdings under fence on the old grant. No one accepted such deeds.

One land owner up in the Hills got a bit over anxious. He cut down a big oak he knew to be a corner tree on the Wilson Survey, burned the wood, grubbed up the stump and built a pig pen over the hole.

This was a clue to the brought on surveyor. He took the pig pen for a starting place. Then there was night riding from Marlins Bottom to Dunmore and intermediate points and from Browns and Michael Mountains to Greenbrier River.

The survey got started and satisfactory progress was made. The end of the day's run was at the fording of Thorny Creek at Dilleys either side of the fleeing men. I never was told for sure, but was given to understand the honor for the shot at the compass went to preacher Wellington Hogsett or the then young Jasper Dilley.

The surveyor got in his buggy, whipped his horses to a run, and kept going until he crossed the State Line at Rider Gap. He never did come back to this side of the Alleghanies.

Now here is where the notorious General Ben Butler comes into the scene. Owners of those old land grant titles much preferred to work under cover in checking public records, to get the lay of the land and the owners and acreages of tracts under fence on the boundary. So, when the County Court of Pocahontas County advertised for contractors to bid on a new jail, General Butler had men to come with bids low enough to get the contract. He put up the bond for faithful compliance. The contractors appeared to be more interested in land title research than in building the jail. The outcome was that as bondsman, General Butler had to complete the jail house. I guess he did it at a considerable loss. However, that was an item to be considered in the gamble for a fifty thousand acre tract of timber land.

The General was given the name of "spoon thief" at New Orleans. As commanding officer of that captured Confederate City he was accused of spoiling homes of

Wallace & Wallace

Chapel in Arbovale
Phone 456-4277

Lewisburg • Ronceverte
E. Rainelle • Ansted

William McNeel Browning, Jr., D.O.
Family Practice Physician HILLSBO

the high seas. A and county reestablished h Harrison on the of Confederat themselves ind
the Judge's Co that any were e intimations of Dayton, of P services for th native of New man. He was a a distressed pe
His son was Congressman

The late of the Confede the Stovers Virginia, was standing. He rescue of our attempting t practice in th Court. He to which he sol had not aid Southern Con
He thus got perjury and wh against him. H

Van Fune
Ivan Va
James S Marlinto Office Home

Ryan Monday

silverware. Whether true or not, the name stuck.

After the war, General Butler was elected Governor of Massachusetts.

Finally agitation over those old land grants was quieted by high court decision in the King Land Case. This was an immense grant down Kanawha County way. The survey embraced possibly hundreds of thousands of acres of coal lands, which are now worth untold millions of dollars.

As for the hard White Medina Stone in the old jail house, a favorite tale is that of a North Carolina road hand. For two whole days he and his buddy worked to drill a hole for blasting. He always maintained that at the end of the second day the drill had raised a blister on the rock as big as his fist!

The carpet bag Judge at Huntersville was the late Judge Nat Harrison. He belonged to a fine old New England family, up Vermont way. He gave promise of an outstanding career in the law. A century ago next year, he came into prominence as attorney for the defense in the last trial for piracy on the high seas. After the war, courts and county government were reestablished here with Judge Nat Harrison on the Circuit Court. A lot of Confederate veterans found themselves indicted for murder in the Judge's Court. I do not know that any were ever tried. There were intimations of black mail. Attorney Dayton, of Philippi, offered his services for the defense. He was a soldier, a veteran of the Mexican War. So, he helped to raise, train and take a whole company to the Confederate army. Incidentally, he got three or more minie balls in his body at the battle of Winchester.

As I now recall off hand, the case against Captain Stover went to the superior court at Clarksburg. There it was continued from term to term until the test oath was done away with.

Attorney Stover was known and beloved as County Stover by reason of never failing courtesy and courtly manner to rich and poor, young and old, black and white. I have ever intended taking this subject up with the Eisenhower boys to see if they have any family tradition of this their great-great uncle or something. He was, indeed, a doughty warrior in his own right.

To get back to a less pleasant subject, the carpet bagger judge. A lynching party was once in all readiness at Greenbrier Bridge to wait on Judge Harrison. He was expected to come by Marlins Bottom on his return from a court term at Huntersville. Somehow or other, he changed his route of travel and went to his home in Union by way of Beaver Creek, Little Creek and White Sulphur Springs. Thus our County was saved from the sin and disgrace of lynching.

About that time the Clerk of the Court at Lewisburg threw the Presiding Judge through a court house window. Soon after this the Valley knew Judge Nat Harrison no more. About the turn of the drill a hole for blasting. He maintained that at the end of the second day the drill had raised a blister on the rock as big as his fist!

The carpet bag Judge at Huntersville was the late Judge Nat Harrison. He belonged to a fine old New England family, up Vermont way. He gave promise of an outstanding career in the law. A century ago next year, he came into prominence as attorney for the defense in the last trial for piracy on the high seas. After the war, courts and county government were reestablished here with Judge Nat Harrison on the Circuit Court. A lot of Confederate veterans found themselves indicted for murder in the Judge's Court. I do not know that any were ever tried. There were intimations of black mail. Attorney Dayton, of Philippi, offered his services for the defense. He was a native of New England and a Union man. He was a tower of strength for a distressed people in a trying time. His son was the late Judge and Congressman A. G. Dayton.

The late Captain D. A. Stover, of the Confederate States Army, of the Stovers of Stovers Shop, Virginia, was an attorney of high standing. He, too, came to the rescue of our oppressed people by attempting to qualify to again practice in the Pocahontas Circuit Court. He took the test oath, in which he solemnly swore that he had not aided nor abetted the Southern Confederacy in any way. He thus got himself indicted for perjury and what all. The record was against him. He was an experienced [illegible] family tradition of this their great-great uncle or something. He was, indeed, a doughty warrior in his own right.

To get back to a less pleasant subject, the carpet bagger judge. A lynching party was once in all readiness at Greenbrier Bridge to wait on Judge Harrison. He was expected to come by Marlins Bottom on his return from a court term at Huntersville. Somehow or other, he changed his route of travel and went to his home in Union by way of Beaver Creek, Little Creek and White Sulphur Springs. Thus our County was saved from the sin and disgrace of lynching.

About that time the Clerk of the Court at Lewisburg threw the Presiding Judge through a court house window. Soon after this the Valley knew Judge Nat Harrison no more. About the turn of the century, word came that he had died at a poor house out in Colorado.

- - -

FIELD NOTES

No one has reported seeing a ground hog on February 2. However, there are a number of reports of flocks of wild geese being seen on Greenbrier River last week.

- - -

The panther was again seen at the Pocahontas Fair Grounds on Monday night. This time there was snow on the ground and his tracks were plain the next day. Without the proof of sight of the varment, anyone who can tell a cat track from a dog track would easily recognize the over size foot prints as those of a panther.

Bartow—On Tuesday night the family of Olet Mullenax, at their farm home, was disturbed by the terrific screaming of a big varment, a panther. The cattle in the barn responded with bellowing and bawling. The hunting dogs refused to chase the animal.

Friend Fred Galford, of Williams River, writes in that a young man named Steve Hill, of Beckley, came to do some trapping on Tea Creek. He set traps for wild cats and he caught a wild cat. He got within 12 or 15 feet of the varment. He had a 22 rifle and aimed to shoot it in the neck. He only skimmed it in the neck. This caused the cat to double exertions and it tore the trap from the drag. The cat then jumped on the boy before he could reload his rifle. He was knocked down in the laurel on steep ground, with the wild cat trying to get hold of the boy's neck. The boy tried to get the cat by the neck and the forefoot not in the trap. Before he could grasp the free foot, the cat had scratched him in the face and on the hand. It once got its nose against the boy's nose. Finally he broke the cat's leg and it gave up. Getting to his feet he shot it in the head.

Though the fight was strenuous while it lasted, the varment proved to be a female of medium size. Had it been a big bob cat it might have killed the young man.

After his trying experience, the young man left Tea Creek and returned to his home in Beckley.

—

A hunter, trader and trapper of my acquaintance has gone modern to the extent of investing several dollars of good hard earned money in a bottle of synthetic mink scent. This friend of mine had in mind to catch if possible a big old mink, which for several years has made his rounds of about nine days duration on Williams River. The varment traveled on schedule time, and the route taken varied hardly any. He can read, write and cipher, and knows all the tricks of the trapper's craft. Thus he has been able to save his precious hide until it would top the present high market by reason of size.

The catalog description of the high priced, high power scent as sure to attract the biggest and best of the minks. My friend fell for it and bought himself a bottle. He now feels he has been skinned. On arrival he took a cautious whiff and it put him in a daze. It beat anything he had smelled since his regiment encountered a mustard gas attack in the trenches of the first World War.

The directions were carefully reread. Nothing was said about killing minks with gas; it was merely to attract the animals to the trap from a wide, wide range. Our trapper figured such distance would be great—about three miles straight around and further with the wind.

A trap was set at a regular crossing place and the remedy applied. In a day or two, in running his trap line, he came upon the well known sign of the big mink in the snow. He had come across the big divide from Hell for Sartin, down Big Rough. He was making tracks right down the river toward his regular crossing where the trap was scented and set.

Rounding Little Elbow, where the point juts square into the draft, the sign showed the big mink had stopped, stepped around a bit and then made off point blank up the mountain side and him a running.

Well, the big mink flanked that scented trap at the crossing by a full half mile all the way around.

Coming back to the river, he headed Hellward without pause by the way of Hateful Creek.

DEATHS

Robert Bratton, of Marlinton.

Miss Mary P. Hevener, 52, of Clover Lick.

George Newton Hedrick, 64, of Palm City, Florida.

Albert N. Pleasants, 50.

Mary Ellen Alderman Butterbaugh, 82, of Dunmore.

PCHS WARRIORS CHEERLEADERS are: La'Nay Dilley, Kelly Caswell, Patti Kelly, Jer-[illegible] Curry, Jessica Roberts, Rebecca Stull, Amber Barker, Janet Bitts, Michelle Simmons, [illegible]manda Burgess, head, and Angel Auldridge

THE WARRIORS BASKETBALL Team is: Frosty McNabb, assistant coach, Ryan Groves, student assistant, Travis Waybright, Olin Heinemann, Joey Schoolcraft, Josh Kelley, Devin McCoy, Ricky Tyson, Evan Dale, Josh Waugh, Robert Clavier, Evan Dale, Bob Sheets, coach, Derek Taylor, David Palmer, Michael May, Jamie Long, Marcus Sharp, Jonathan Parker, Jeremy Moore, Greg Hamons, Corey McNabb, Eli Sharp, Justin Taylor, Eric Underwood

LEE SMITH, RIGHT, should have been a member of the Marlinton High School Class of 1945. However, a war intervened and he did not receive his high school diploma until last week. Pocahontas County School Superintendent James Phares presented the MHS diploma to Mr. Smith at a brief ceremony at the Board office on Thursday. A new state law provides for high school diplomas to be issued to veterans from World War II to Vietnam who did not receive them because of war service. Mr. Smith's high school years were part of the six he served in the U. S. Navy.

Joining him for his "graduation" were his wife, Jerry, and son, Bernard. Veterans interested in the diploma program can contact the Board office.

Marlinton doctor on trial in Lewisburg

by Pamela Pritt

The trial of a Marlinton doctor charged with incinerating a Lewisburg attorney's office began in Greenbrier County Tuesday.

Dr. Harry Walkup, 54, is charged with second degree arson, breaking and entering, retaliation, arson causing injury and escape in connection with the June blaze that gutted Barry Bruce's Randolph Street office.

Bruce represented Walkup's former wife during divorce and child support proceedings.

Greenbrier County Prosecuting Attorney Kevin Hanson presented five witnesses, all investigators or firefighters.

Hanson also played a video-tape of a Family Lawmaster hearing in which Walkup represented himself. The doctor had been served with a petition for civil contempt.

In answer to Family Law Master Joseph Pomponio's statement that he must pay Bruce's attorney fees, Walkup exploded.

"Attorney fees. I asked for a no fault divorce four years ago and got hit with this contested divorce that has destroyed my children, destroyed my business and my reputation, practically destroyed me emotionally, put my life in physical jeopardy because she talks every day to a man who's tried to kill me on several occasions," Walkup exclaimed.

"And, and I'm supposed to pay legal fees for these people that's trying to destroy my life and my children and that are guilty of, of abuse to my children, physical and emotional abuse, they have damaged my children, and I'm not paying this guy's legal fees.

"He, he might put me in jail, or he might take every damn thing I have, but, by God, it'll be a cold day in hell when I pay anything to him. He, he's got a payment coming, but it ain't gonna be legal fees."

The jury was given transcripts of the hearing, but were instructed to rely on their own hearing of the tape.

Lewisburg City Police Chief Tim Stover testified that a 20-pound propane tank purchased at C. J. Richardson's Hardware and Furniture Store in Marlinton, 14 one gallon metal cans containing gasoline and one five gallon container half-filled with kerosene were found in the office.

Lewisburg Volunteer Fire Department Chief Wayne Pennington testified that he arrived at the fire shortly after 3 p.m. on June 16. He said he could see smoke and fire coming from the building.

"It was a major fire," Pennington said.

The fire chief said he conducted a preliminary size-up of the engulfed building and radioed off-duty personnel to come out, as well as Fairlea Volunteer Fire Department to be on standby.

"I opted to go with a defensive attack," he commented.

However, Pennington said when he and two other firefighters entered the building after the fire was "knocked down," the chief said he observed multiple metal cans he deemed to be out of place in an attorney's office.

Pennington said he called the other firefighters to leave the building by tugging on the rope connecting them.

"We had a very suspicious fire," he stated. "I felt it had the potential to be a criminal scene."

At that point, firefighters did not "go after the fire as aggressively," he said, so that no further evidence would be disturbed.

Pennington said a firefighter who had entered the building was injured and sent to the hospital via ambulance.

That firefighter, Lieutenant Doug Williamson took the stand and described what happened to him after he entered the burning building.

Williamson said he was wearing full firefighting gear, including an air pack when he entered the building to continue extinguishing the blaze. He exited the building, however, when Pennington ordered him to, he said.

When he made his second entrance, Williamson said he checked the third floor of the building where the fire was "very hot."

"It seemed to me like it was too hot," he said. "There was minimal fire for the amount of heat."

Williamson said he started feeling "weak, numb and tingly" just before he left the building for the last time. The firefighter said someone helped him away from the fire and eventually into an air-conditioned police cruiser.

He was later taken to the emergency room at Greenbrier Valley Hospital where he remained for the next two-and-a-half-hours, he said.

Williamson said he required a few days bed rest before returning to a normal schedule.

Although his medical records were accepted into evidence, the nature of his injury and what he was treated for was not revealed during his testimony.

The former Lewisburg City police officer who arrested Walkup also took the stand.

David "Scott" Teubert said he went to Walkup's home on Rt. 92 in the early morning hours of June 18, accompanied by two Pocahontas County deputies and two West Virginia State Police troopers.

Teubert said he had found out that Walkup had purchased a propane cylinder in Marlinton. But the doctor denied recently buying the tank, he continued, and did not answer the officer when he was asked about the metal cans.

Teubert said he also seized a shirt, a pair of pants, a bandana, a pair of socks and underwear from the washing machine in Walkup's home.

Later that month, Teubert said police also seized a 1977 Ford truck with a wooden bed at Walkup's office in Buckeye.

A cardboard box on the truck bed carried a shipping label to C. J. Richardson's, and had indentations on the bottom that matched the cans found in Bruce's office.

Richard Casto, an investigator who deals with fires and explosions, testified about his analysis of Bruce's damaged office.

Casto said he observed "pour patterns," or evidence of flammable liquid on the second floor of the office. No evidence of an accidental fire existed, he said.

The fuel found in the office did not reach full potential, he said.

Two quarts of gasoline has the explosive potential of 49 sticks of dynamite, he testified. In addition, gasoline in a container could have become a BLEVE (pronounced blehvee) which stands for boiling liquid expanding vapor explosion, an event that occurs when the flammable liquid in a container is heated and expands so fast it exceeds the capacity of the container.

A propane tank has a melting disk inside to prevent the cylinder from BLEVEing, Casto said.

However, Casto said, that event precipitates gas escaping the cylinder, which creates the possibility of an explosion on its own.

Casto testified that too much fuel for the fire produced a situation that the fire could not advance because the fuel used the oxygen in the air. This fire could have burned for as long as two hours or a little as a few minutes before it was reported, he continued.

Nearly 45 witnesses are on the list to testify.

The trial is expected to last three days.

Bride & Groom

Wedding Stationery & Accessories, Reception Items, Graduation Stationery and Social Stationery. Beautiful invitations and accessories for a personal expression of your love.

The Pocahontas Times
810 Second Avenue
Marlinton, WV 24954

Marlinton doctor on trial in L

by Pamela Pritt

The trial of a Marlinton doctor charged with incinerating a Lewisburg attorney's office began in Greenbrier County Tuesday.

Dr. Harry Walkup, 54, is charged with second degree arson, breaking and entering, retaliation, arson causing injury and escape in connection with the June blaze that gutted Barry Bruce's Randolph Street office.

Bruce represented Walkup's former wife during divorce and child support proceedings.

Greenbrier County Prosecuting Attorney Kevin Hanson presented five witnesses, all investigators or firefighters.

Hanson also played a video-tape of a Family Lawmaster hearing in which Walkup represented himself. The doctor had been served with a petition for civil contempt.

In answer to Family Law Master Joseph Pomponio's statement that he must pay Bruce's attorney fees, Walkup exploded.

"Attorney fees. I asked for a no fault divorce four years ago and got hit with this contested divorce that has destroyed my children, destroyed my business and my reputation, practically destroyed me emotionally, put my life in physical jeopardy because she talks every day to a man who's tried to kill me on several occasions," Walkup exclaimed.

"And, and I'm supposed to pay legal fees for these people that's trying to destroy my life and my children and that are guilty of, of abuse to my children, physical and emotional abuse, they have damaged my children, and I'm not paying this guy's legal fees.

"He, he might put me in jail, or he might take every damn thing I have, but, by God, it'll be a cold day in hell when I pay anything to him. He, he's got a payment coming, but it ain't gonna be legal fees."

The jury was given transcripts of the hearing, but were instructed to rely on their own hearing of the tape.

Lewisburg City Police Chief Tim Stover testified that a 20-pound propane tank purchased at C. J. Richardson's Hardware and Furniture Store in Marlinton, 14 one gallon metal cans containing gasoline and one five gallon container half-filled with kerosene were found in the office.

Lewisburg Volunteer Fire Department Chief Wayne Pennington testified that he arrived at the fire shortly after 3 p.m. on June 16. He said he could see smoke and fire coming from the building.

"It was a major fire," Pennington said.

The fire chief said he conducted a preliminary size-up of the engulfed building and radioed off-duty personnel to come out, as well as Fairlea Volunteer Fire Department to be on standby.

"I opted to go with a defensive attack," he commented.

However, Pennington said when he and two other firefighters entered the building after the fire was "knocked down," the chief said he observed multiple metal cans he deemed to be out of place in an attorney's office.

Pennington said he called the other firefighters to leave the building by tugging on the rope connecting them.

"We had a very suspicious fire," he stated. "I felt it had the potential to be a criminal scene."

At that point, firefighters did not "go after the fire as aggressively," he said, so that no further evidence would be disturbed.

Pennington said a firefighter who had entered the building was injured and sent to the hospital via ambulance.

That firefighter, Lieutenant Doug Williamson took the stand and described what happened to him after he entered the burning building.

Williamson said he was wearing full firefighting gear, including an air pack when he entered the building to continue extinguishing the blaze. He exited the building, however, when Pennington ordered him to, he said.

When he made his second entrance, Williamson said he checked the third floor of the building where the fire was "very hot."

"It seemed to me like it was too hot," he said. "There was minimal fire for the amount of heat."

Williamson said he started feeling "weak, numb and tingly" just before he left the building for the last time. The firefighter said someone helped him away from the fire and eventually into an air-conditioned police cruiser.

He was later taken to the emergency room at Greenbrier Valley Hospital where he remained for the next two-and-a-half-hours, he said.

Williamson said he required a few days bed rest before returning to a normal schedule.

Although his medical records were accepted into evidence, the nature of his injury and what he was treated for was not revealed during his testimony.

The former Lewisburg City police officer who arrested Walkup also took the stand.

David "Scott" Teubert said he went to Walkup's home on Rt. 92 in the early morning hours of June 18, accompanied by two Pocahontas County deputies and two West Virginia State Police troopers.

Teubert said he had found out that Walkup had purchased a propane cylinder in Marlinton. But the doctor denied recently buying the tank, he continued, and did not answer the officer when he was asked about the metal cans.

Teubert said he also seized a shirt, a pair of pants, a bandana, a pair of socks and underwear from the washing machine in Walkup's home.

Later that month, Teubert said police also seized a 1977 Ford truck with a wooden bed at Walkup's office in Buckeye.

A cardboard box on the truck bed carried a shipping label to C. J. Richardson's, and had indentations on the bottom that matched the ever, when Pennington ordered him to, he said.

When he made his second entrance, Williamson said he checked the third floor of the building where the fire was "very hot."

"It seemed to me like it was too hot," he said. "There was minimal fire for the amount of heat."

Williamson said he started feeling "weak, numb and tingly" just before he left the building for the last time. The firefighter said someone helped him away from the fire and eventually into an air-conditioned police cruiser.

He was later taken to the emergency room at Greenbrier Valley Hospital where he remained for the next two-and-a-half-hours, he said.

Williamson said he required a few days bed rest before returning to a normal schedule.

Although his medical records were accepted into evidence, the nature of his injury and what he was treated for was not revealed during his testimony.

The former Lewisburg City police officer who arrested Walkup also took the stand.

David "Scott" Teubert said he went to Walkup's home on Rt. 92 in the early morning hours of June 18, accompanied by two Pocahontas County deputies and two West Virginia State Police troopers.

Teubert said he had found out that Walkup had purchased a propane cylinder in Marlinton. But the doctor denied recently buying the tank, he continued, and did not answer the officer when he was asked about the metal cans.

Teubert said he also seized a shirt, a pair of pants, a bandana, a pair of socks and underwear from the washing machine in Walkup's home.

Later that month, Teubert said police also seized a 1977 Ford truck with a wooden bed at Walkup's office in Buckeye.

A cardboard box on the truck bed carried a shipping label to C. J. Richardson's, and had indentations on the bottom that matched the cans found in Bruce's office.

Richard Casto, an investigator who deals with fires and explosions, testified about his analysis of Bruce's damaged office.

Casto said he observed "pour patterns," or evidence of flammable liquid on the second floor of the office. No evidence of an accidental fire existed, he said.

The fuel found in the office did not reach full potential, he said.

Two quarts of gasoline has the explosive potential of 49 sticks of dynamite, he testified. In addition, gasoline in a container could have become a BLEVE (pronounced blehvee) which stands for boiling liquid expanding vapor explosion, an event that occurs when the flammable liquid in a container is heated and expands so fast it exceeds the capacity of the container.

A propane tank has a melting disk inside to prevent the cylinder from BLEVEing, Casto said.

However, Casto said, that event precipitates gas escaping the cylinder, which creates the possibility of an explosion on its own.

Casto testified that too much fuel for the fire produced a situation that the fire could not advance because the fuel used the oxygen in the air. This fire could have burned for as long as two hours or a little as a few minutes before it was reported, he continued.

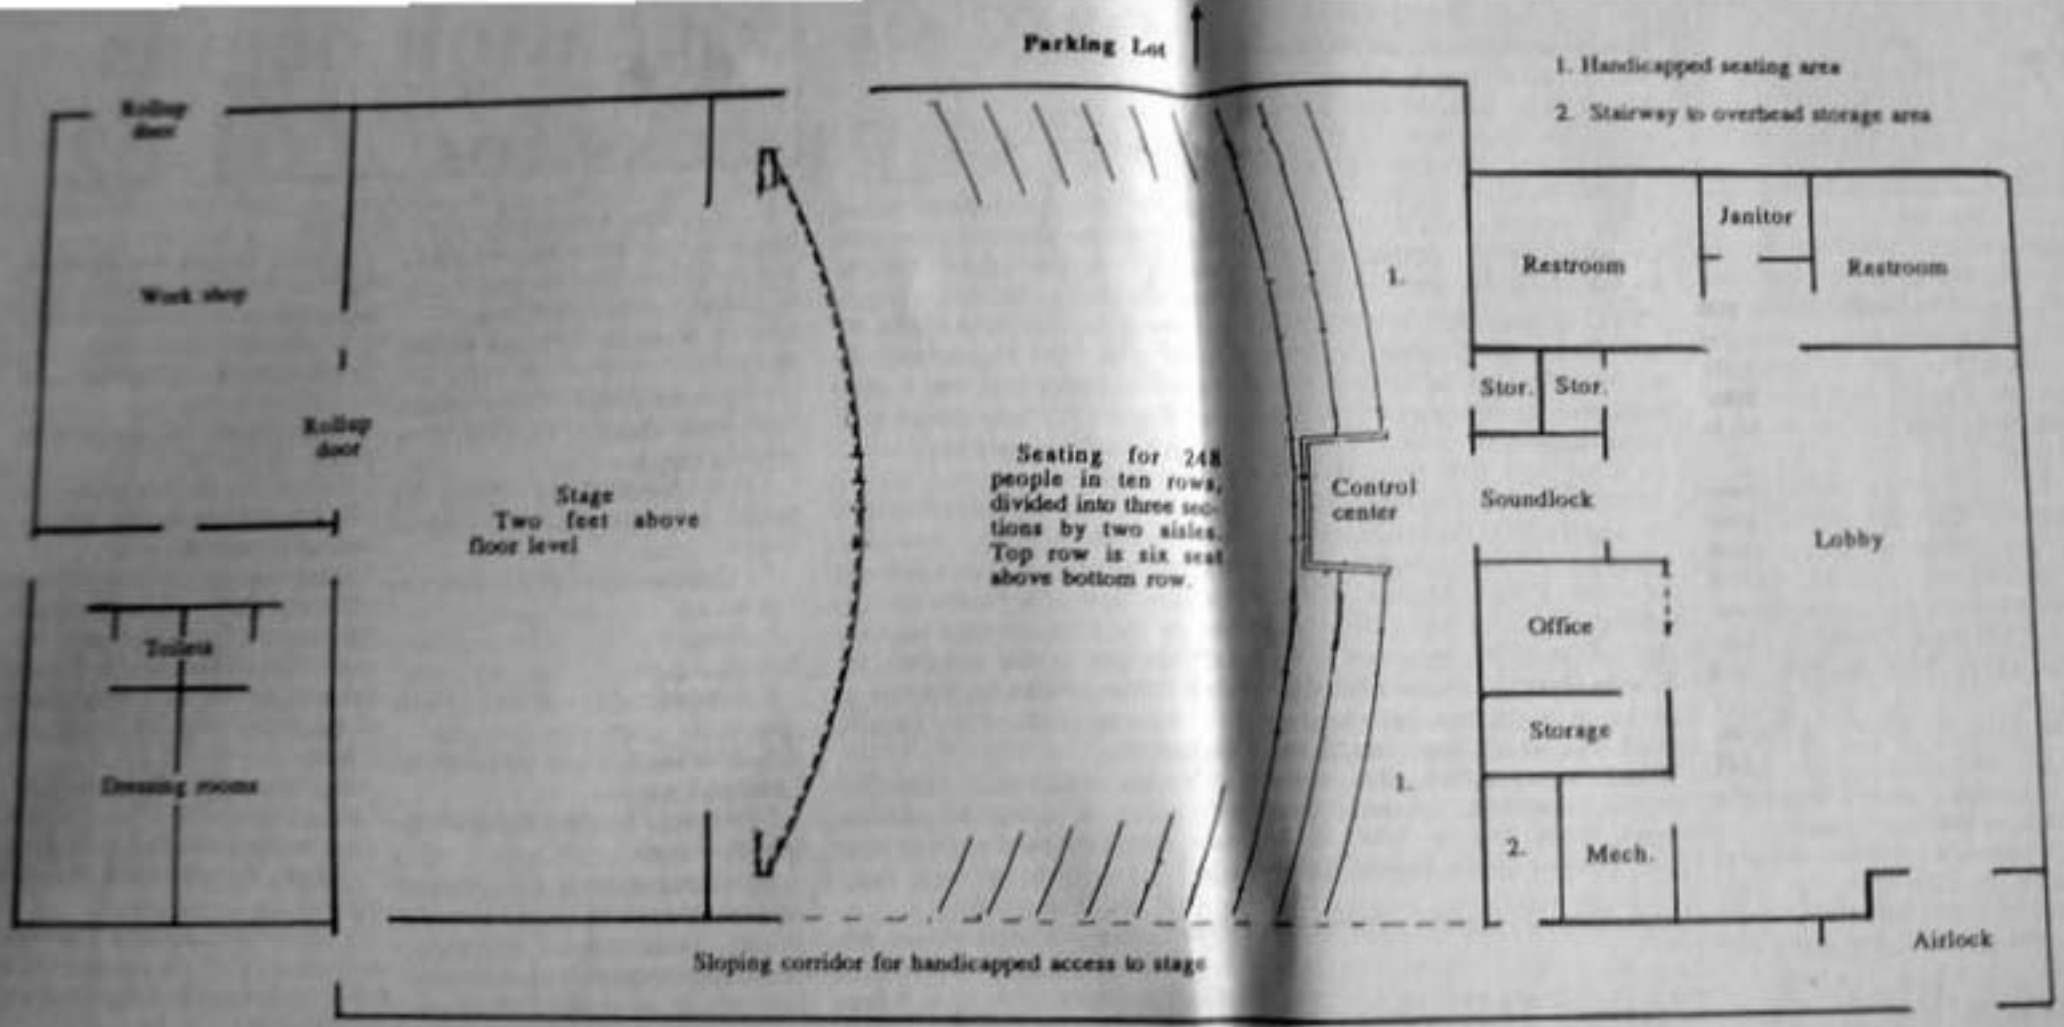
Nearly 45 witnesses are on the list to testify.

The trial is expected to last three days.

Bride & Groom

Wedding Stationery & Accessories. Reception Items, Graduation Stationery and Social Stationery. Beautiful invitations and accessories for a personal expression of your love.

The Pocahontas Times
810 Second Avenue
Marlinton, WV 24954



FLOOR PLAN FOR the Pocahontas County High School auditorium/fine arts center to be constructed this year. The $1.2 million project is being funded by grants from the state School Building Authority. The construction contract has been awarded to Lowe Brothers Electric Company, of Beckley, and work is to begin as soon as weather allows, to be completed in 120 days. The facility will be located in the area between the school's main building and the parking lot. Overall building dimensions are 137 feet by 83 feet.

Deaths in 2000

December, 1999

22 - Opal Ryder Simpson, 91

January

2 - Loyal K. Briggs, 86
6 - Lucille Underwood Bennett, 79
7 - Wesley E. Coleman, 73
8 - John Irvine, 83
8 - Rhoda Lambert Arbogast, 85
9 - Grace Biggs Broyles, 96
9 - Marvin D. Grogg, 57
10 - Josephine Browning Jones, 91
11 - Violet Pugh Mackemull, 79
11 - Mabel Rhea Beale, 85
11 - Doris Sanders Lambert, 57
12 - Blanche Alderman Hotsinpiller, 76
12 - Robert W. Dunz, 56
15 - Charles E. Wimer, 64
16 - Sarah McCarty Dilley, 76
16 - Geraldine Buckley Dilley, 85
17 - Stanley A. Mullenax, 80
18 - Hilma Barkley Sheets, 85
19 - Rebecca Slaven Wenger, 89
20 - Annie Johnston Shears, 89
20 - Donovan Shrader, Jr., 59
21 - Dyer M. Burr
22 - Irvin L. White, 73
24 - Judith Ritchie Shorter, 52
24 - Mary McComb Cochran, 86
25 - Ota Lewis Hefner, 103
27 - Waldo N. Buzzard, 88
28 - Mattie Wheeler Higgins, 89
30 - Edna May Bear, 92
30 - Clara Kramer Miller, 78
30 - Wallace W. Bussard, 69
30 - Betty Liptrap Long, 66

February

1 - Lanty W. Rose, 70
2 - Margaret Lawrence Harless, 81
3 - Winters Hefner, 79
3 - Grover W. Taylor, 90
7 - Emery K. Wyatt, 86
7 - Betty Dumire Gibson, 73
8 - Laurie Arbuckle Haynes, 89
11 - Norman Jack, 72
12 - Ella Shields Simonds, 61
14 - Virgil J. Sheets, 72
19 - Randall L. Aliff, 36
19 - Rayburn D. Doyle, 65
20 - Shirley Cooper Underwood, 43
20 - Donald C. Buzzard, 37
21 - Tony Workman, 77
21 - Dorothy Kelley Loudermilk, 67
21 - Gracie Reynolds Ober, 54

March

6 - John F. Dunn, 85
7 - Blanche Hicks Bussard, 90
8 - Jerry M. Bays, 43

May

1 - Shirley Teter Rexrode, 83
1 - Clyde Rose
3 - Leanna Elizabeth Friel, 78
3 - Carol Hayslett Callaghan, 61
2 - Burl E. Dumire, 51
4 - Evelyn Dill Lightner, 84
6 - Clyde Lewis, 63
6 - Woodrow W. Sharp, 88
7 - Georgene Grimes Cutlip, 78
7 - Ina Curry Hill, 86
7 - Margie Simmons Wheeler, 83
9 - Mildred Cunningham Wolfe, 88
12 - Phyllis Sheets Robeck
15 - Andrew W. Brock, 82
18 - James H. Shiffler, 77
21 - Glen D. Bonnell, 78
21 - Frank B. Crigger, 80
21 - Eula Dilley Gibson, 89
21 - Franklin L. Burgess, I, 46
22 - Jimmie A. Ryder, Sr., 64
25 - Myrtle Barrett Helms, 78
26 - Anna Ray Gum, 92
30 - Vernon C. Dean, 87
30 - Henry L. Scott, 68

June

1 - Austin M. Sharp, 80
3 - Frances Jordan Trader, 80
4 - Ronald R. Simmons, 36
4 - Tom D. Morrison, 69
5 - Sherman G. Hill, 85
6 - Rachel Alpert Bryant, 32
10 - Manyon M. Millican, 73
10 - Glenna Cloonan Grotz, 83
12 - Allen D. Mahaffey, 60
12 - Michael F. Shane, 51
13 - Mary Campbell Garber, 83
17 - Donald R. Cutlip, Jr., 39
18 - Betty Underwood Brown, 69
20 - Robert Lovelace, 61
25 - Alfred Collins, 82

July

2 - Alice Blackburn McComb, 96
3 - Anna Fitzwater Hamrick, 60
4 - Betty Pritchard Cochran, 80
4 - Clara Kellison, 88
4 - Virginia Meeks Bayne, 74

20 - Donovan Shrader, Jr., 59
21 - Dyer M. Burr
22 - Irvin L. White, 73
24 - Judith Ritchie Shorter, 52
24 - Mary McComb Cochran, 86
25 - Ota Lewis Hefner, 103
27 - Waldo N. Buzzard, 88
28 - Mattie Wheeler Higgins, 89
30 - Edna May Bear, 92
30 - Clara Kramer Miller, 78
30 - Wallace W. Bussard, 69
30 - Betty Liptrap Long, 66

February

1 - Lanty W. Rose, 70
2 - Margaret Lawrence Harless, 81
3 - Winters Hefner, 79
3 - Grover W. Taylor, 90
7 - Emery K. Wyatt, 86
7 - Betty Dumire Gibson, 73
8 - Laurie Arbuckle Haynes, 89
11 - Norman Jack, 72
12 - Ella Shields Simonds, 61
14 - Virgil J. Sheets, 72
19 - Randall L. Aliff, 36
19 - Rayburn D. Doyle, 65
20 - Shirley Cooper Underwood, 43
20 - Donald C. Buzzard, 37
21 - Troy Workman, 77
21 - Dorothy Kelley Loudermilk, 67
21 - Gracie Rexrode Ober, 54

March

6 - John F. Doss, 85
7 - Blanche Rider Bussard, 90
8 - Jarry M. Borg, 43
9 - Jennie Sharp Cutlip, 63
10 - Columbus O. Hale, 43
10 - William L. McNeel, 82
14 - Matthew D. McNeill, 71
15 - Grace Harper Nelson, 93
16 - Hazel Irvine Price, 55
19 - Benny M. Vigilanti, 76
21 - Louie Vandevender Ware, 92
21 - Leonard G. Underwood 69
22 - Wilma Dilley Gilmore, 89
24 - Flora Skaggs Armstrong, 78
24 - James R. Shrader, 69
29 - Alice Loan Rudd, 86
29 - Samuel L. Seabolt, 61
30 - Virginia Gallaher Shafer, 56
31 - Grace Rose McKeage, 74

April

3 - Ruth Sparks Perrin, 79
4 - Elizabeth Clark Beard, 91
10 - Hazel White McKeever, 83
11 - Everette E. Carr, 70
13 - Ivan A. Wilfong, 70
15 - Gladys Bruffey Fristoe, 91
16 - Wilson C. Biggs, 92
16 - Kathleen Kidd Toney, 85
17 - John L. Galford, 94
18 - Pearl Stone Rexrode, 89
18 - Helen Hayslett Marsh, 54
20 - Samuel H. Jennings, 79
21 - Ruth Racker Gainer, 88
21 - Leah Grimes McLaughlin, 94
22 - Suel U. Sharp, 85
22 - Ralph Cornell, 70
24 - Lee Childers, 56
1 - Austin M. Sharp, 80
3 - Frances Jordan Trader, 80
4 - Ronald R. Simmons, 36
4 - Tom D. Morrison, 69
5 - Sherman G. Hill, 85
6 - Rachel Alpert Bryant, 32
10 - Manyon M. Millican, 73
10 - Glenna Cloonan Grotz, 83
12 - Allen D. Mahaffey, 60
12 - Michael F. Shane, 51
13 - Mary Campbell Garber, 83
17 - Donald R. Cutlip, Jr., 39
18 - Betty Underwood Brown, 69
20 - Robert Lovelace, 61
25 - Alfred Collins, 82

July

2 - Alice Blackburn McComb, 96
3 - Anna Fitzwater Hamrick, 60
4 - Betty Pritchard Cochran, 80
4 - Clara Kellison, 88
4 - Virginia Meeks Bayne, 74

Calling a Do you h make yo communit
a bet Enter the 2nd Annual
I HAVE A SPEECH C
IN HONOR OF DR. M HISTORIC "I HAV

7 - Blanche Rider Bussard, 90
8 - Jarry M. Borg, 43
9 - Jennie Sharp Cutlip, 63
10 - Columbus O. Hale, 43
10 - William L. McNeel, 82
14 - Matthew D. McNeill, 71
15 - Grace Harper Nelson, 93
16 - Hazel Irvine Price, 55
19 - Benny M. Vigilanti, 76
21 - Louie Vandevender Ware, 92
21 - Leonard G. Underwood 69
22 - Wilma Dilley Gilmore, 89
24 - Flora Skaggs Armstrong, 78
24 - James R. Shrader, 69
29 - Alice Loan Rudd, 86
29 - Samuel L. Seabolt, 61
30 - Virginia Gallaher Shafer, 56
31 - Grace Rose McKeage, 74

April

3 - Ruth Sparks Perrin, 79
4 - Elizabeth Clark Beard, 91
10 - Hazel White McKeever, 83
11 - Everette E. Carr, 70
13 - Ivan A. Wilfong, 70
15 - Gladys Bruffey Fristoe, 91
16 - Wilson C. Biggs, 92
16 - Kathleen Kidd Toney, 85
17 - John L. Galford, 94
18 - Pearl Stone Rexrode, 89
18 - Helen Hayslett Marsh, 54
20 - Samuel H. Jennings, 79
21 - Ruth Rucker Gainer, 88
21 - Leah Grimes McLaughlin, 94
22 - Sterl U. Sharp, 85
22 - Ralph Cornell, 70
24 - Lee Childers, 56
30 - Hermann E. Schank, 71

2000 In Review

8 - Roy W. Gary, 73
9 - Lucy Friel Foe, 86
11 - Jessie Simmons Ano, 73
10 - Celeste Walker Jones, 92
14 - Okey B. Moore, 86
15 - Ethel Marshall Miller, 94
21 - Pinnie Cloonan Land, 89
22 - Charles L. Rexrode, 88
22 - Nellie R. Byers, 79
25 - Harold E. Byrd, 77
27 - James A. Wiley, Sr., 38
29 - Watson A. Combs, 85
29 - Alice Robinson Rhodes, 57
31 - David W. Arbogast, 58

August

1 - Howard W. Tharp, 89
1 - Veva Grimes Ware, 88
2 - Pauline Smith Young, 85
4 - Jewell E. Boggs, 67
4 - Jack D. Morrison, stillborn
5 - Edna Wanless Hiner, 58
6 - James G. Rucker, 86
6 - Frances Brown Robinson, 67
8 - Neven L. Summerfield, 73
10 - Lee I. Torrey, 71
11 - Herold D. Campbell, 73
14 - David G. F. Sheibley, 81
22 - Bertie Tacy Cassell, 87
23 - Frances Smith McComb, 86
24 - Otis J. Waugh, 92
25 - Clyde W. Anderson, 85
26 - Joel M. Hill, 86
26 - Blanche Young Wimer, 82
28 - Hazel Hise Shifflett, 71
28 - Charles H. Brown, 79
30 - Alfred B. Ryder, 84
31 - Julian Fawcett, 85
31 - Iola V. Bebout, 72

September

3 - Lewis J. Brewer, 49
4 - Bernice Sutton Hummel, 82
7 - James W. Howard, 80
7 - Ethel Cunningham Wamsley, 91
7 - Betty Livesay Lightner, 74
7 - Lowell E. Copeland, 86
10 - Hulda Sharp Friel, 94
11 - Samuel E. Harper, 66
13 - Gladys Curry Simmons, 80
21 - Goldie Phillips Rader, 91
23 - Mildred M. Kennison, 74
25 - Ruth E. Sutton, 92
29 - Lora Landis McCoy, 95

October

2 - Juanita Moore McLaughlin, 74
4 - Virginia Liptrap Garten, 72
5 - Luther J. Bright, 86
6 - Dorothy Buzzard Davis, 70
6 - Anna Snyder Phillips, 62
6 - Gray Grimes Hiner, 94
8 - Evelyn B. Williams, 77
12 - Olive Friel Moore, 78
13 - Daniel L. Tuttle, 38
15 - Nelia E. McLaughlin, 100
17 - Hazel Weatherholt Powell, 91
17 - Marie Herold Taylor, 86
17 - Robert L. Camisa, 55
18 - James E. Gladden, 90
20 - Ada Dilley Schumaker, 94
21 - Edith Beverage Davis, 93
23 - Esther Clendenen Wilmoth, 89
29 - Willard A. Eskridge, 87

November

1 - Junior W. Miller, 75
4 - Letha Smith Long, 78
7 - Jerry O. Sharp, 55
10 - Edna Wright Tharp, 77
13 - Samuel P. Ervin, 52
14 - Brady L. Spencer, 90
16 - William K. Blackhurst, 74
17 - Rachel Orr Craig, 80
17 - George W. Clendenen, Jr., 82
17 - George F. Brewster, 56
20 - Virgil C. Mullenax, 93
20 - Catherine Wilfong Rimel, 74
20 - Virgil C. Mullenax, 93
22 - Delbert H. Reed, Jr., 53
26 - Jewell V. Wooten, 80
29 - Terry W. Sheets, Jr., 3

December

1 - Ezra Bennett, 86
2 - Bruce Nelson, 82
2 - Clarence G. Beale, 85
4 - Guy A. Bennett, 73

January 27, 1880 - Thomas Edison patents electric

August

1 - Howard W. Tharp, 89
1 - Veva Grimes Ware, 88
2 - Pauline Smith Young, 85
4 - Jewell E. Boggs, 67
4 - Jack D. Morrison, stillborn
5 - Edna Wanless Hiner, 58
6 - James G. Rucker, 86
6 - Frances Brown Robinson, 67
8 - Neven L. Summerfield, 73
10 - Lee I. Torrey, 71
11 - Herold D. Campbell, 73
14 - David G. F. Sheibley, 81
22 - Bertie Tacy Cassell, 87
23 - Frances Smith McComb, 86
24 - Otis J. Waugh, 92
25 - Clyde W. Anderson, 85
26 - Joel M. Hill, 86
26 - Blanche Young Wimer, 82
28 - Hazel Hise Shifflett, 71
28 - Charles H. Brown, 79
30 - Alfred B. Ryder, 84
31 - Julian Fawcett, 85
31 - Iola V. Bebout, 72

September

3 - Lewis J. Brewer, 49
4 - Bernice Sutton Hummel, 82
7 - James W. Howard, 80
7 - Ethel Cunningham Wamsley, 91
7 - Betty Livesay Lightner, 74
7 - Lowell E. Copeland, 86
10 - Hulda Sharp Friel, 94
13 - Olive Friel Moore, 78
15 - Daniel L. Tuttle, 38
17 - Nelia E. McLaughlin, 100
17 - Hazel Weatherholt Powell, 91
17 - Marie Herold Taylor, 86
18 - Robert L. Camisa, 55
20 - James E. Gladden, 90
21 - Ada Dilley Schumaker, 94
23 - Edith Beverage Davis, 93
29 - Esther Clendenen Wilmoth, 89
29 - Willard A. Eskridge, 87

November

1 - Junior W. Miller, 75
4 - Letha Smith Long, 78
7 - Jerry O. Sharp, 55
10 - Edna Wright Tharp, 77
13 - Samuel P. Ervin, 52
14 - Brady L. Spencer, 90
16 - William K. Blackhurst, 74
17 - Rachel Orr Craig, 80
17 - George W. Clendenen, Jr., 82
17 - George F. Brewster, 56
20 - Virgil C. Mullenax, 93
20 - Catherine Wilfong Rimel, 74
20 - Virgil C. Mullenax, 93
22 - Delbert H. Reed, Jr., 53
26 - Jewell V. Wooten, 80
29 - Terry W. Sheets, Jr., 3

December

1 - Ezra Bennett, 86
2 - Bruce Nelson, 82
2 - Clarence G. Beale, 85
4 - Guy A. Bennett, 73

January 27, 1880 - Thomas

22 - Delmas E. Bussard, 57
22 - Betty Rexrode Schuhmann, 63
23 - Robert M. McNabb, Sr., 59
24 - Fred A. Hefner, 91
25 - Debra Oliver Winn, 43
25 - James J. Howard, 57
26 - Floyd B. Shrader, 89
28 - Walker Sharp, 81
28 - Zoe Blackhurst Barlow, 72
31 - Jamie L. Abdella, 71
31 - Russell O. Ruckman, Jr., 80

6 - Nola Nelson Tingler, 74
6 - Bonnie Nicholas Hill, 85
11 - Buanna Nelson Mauzy, 99
13 - Donald A. Hollandsworth, 65
15 - Thelma Alderman Brinkley, 85
16 - Edgar V. Triplett, 72
17 - Kyle L. Hudson, 90
17 - Virginia Varner Nelson, 84
18 - Billie Ratcliff Kinnison, 53
18 - Sarah P. Long, 75
20 - Johnnie D. Riser, 50

PUBLIC MEETING

January 25, 2001

7:30 p.m.

Marlinton Town Hall

The US Army Corps of Engineers will hold a public meeting concerning the proposed flood protection project for the Town of Marlinton at 7:30 p.m. on January 25, 2001, in the Marlinton Town Hall. The purpose of the meeting is to inform the public and solicit comments on two relocation proposals currently being evaluated as part of the Marlinton Local Protection Project study. All concerned citizens are encouraged to attend. For more information please call (304) 529-5452

Wilfong re-elected Farm Bureau president

Charles Wilfong of Dunmore was re-elected president of the West Virginia Farm Bureau at the organization's 81st Annual Meeting Nov. 17-19 at the Flatwoods Days Inn. As president, Wilfong represents more than 15,000 member families throughout the state.

Wilfong has served on the WVFB Board of Directors since 1983, and was vice president for six years before taking over the top spot in WVFB. He was president of the Pocahontas County Farm Bureau for a number of years.

He also serves on the Farm Family Insurance Co. Board of Directors, is a board member of the West Virginia Cattleman's Association, Southern States Co-op, and Pocahontas Producers Livestock Market. He is a past state Future Farmers of America president, and has received the Master Farmer Award and the FFA Star Farmer of West Virginia award. He is a member of New Hope Church of the Brethren in Dunmore.

He and his wife, Linda, a kindergarten teacher at Green Bank Elementary, have three children, Nicole, Kristine and Charles II. In partnership with his father, Albert, Wilfong farms 4,100 acres, raising roughly 1,200 head of beef cattle and 800 head of sheep annually.

The farm also produces 400 acres of hay, 100 acres of corn and 2,000 acres of pasture. WVFB is a private, non-profit organization open to farmers and non-farmers alike that works to preserve and improve the lives of the state's farmers, landowners, taxpayers and rural citizens through membership services and an active legislative involvement program. WVFB has nearly 15,000 member families throughout the state. WVFB is part of the American Farm Bureau Federation, which represents more than 5 million members nationwide. For more information, call 1-800-398-4630.

FFA Star Farmer of West Virginia award. He is a member of New

The announcement has been made of the engagement of Beth Ann Roach, of Montoursville, Pennsylvania, daughter of Dorhal and Shirley Roach, of Boyer, to Robert Baylor, Jr., of Montoursville, son of Robert Sr., and JoAnn Baylor, also of Montoursville.

An October 13, 2001, wedding is being planned.

The bride-elect graduated from Pocahontas County High School in 1989 and is currently employed at the Lycoming County 911 Center in Montoursville.

Robert graduated from Muncy High School in 1986 and from Williamsport Area Community College in 1988. He is currently employed as a Maintenance Specialist at Primus Technologies in Williamsport, Pennsylvania.

PCHS PRINCIPAL TOM Sanders accepts a donation from Lonnie Ratliff of the Marlinton Moose Lodge on behalf of the PCHS Cheerleaders. The continued support of the Moose is greatly appreciated.

THE MARLINTON MOOSE Lodge sponsored a visit by Santa Claus to the Pocahontas Center. Santa brought gifts for all the residents at the home.

SANTA VISITS WITH Inez Horner, age 102, the oldest resident at the Pocahontas Center.

Allegheny Mountain Radio to hold board election

It's election time at Allegheny Mountain Radio. The Pocahontas Communications Cooperative, the organization that sponsors AMR, is conducting elections for its Board of Directors this month.

The Board includes nine members: three are elected each year. Each year one is voted in by the volunteers who have contributed at least 50 hours of service in the preceding year; one is elected by all the people, regardless of their place of residence, who made financial donations of at least $5 in the preceding year; one is elected by the financial supporters in one of the three counties we serve. This year the "Highland County Friends of the Radio" seat is up for election.

The Board provides guidance to the AMR staff and represents the interests of the communities served by the radio stations. Board meetings are held once a month, usually on the third Monday. All persons who made contributions in support of Allegheny Mountain Radio during the past year are encouraged to consider serving the community by helping guide the growth of Allegheny Mountain Radio as a member of the Board. If interested, please contact Board President Jason Bauserman (304-456-4915), General Manager Gibbs Kinderman (1-800-297-2346), or any Board member. The deadline to file as a candidate is January 31; the new terms begin in March.

January is National Book Month
National Book Foundation
212-685-0261
www.nationalbook.org

Increased natural

Ronald R. Simmons II

Ronald Ray "Bud" Simmons, II, age 13, of Zanesville, Ohio, formerly of Lobelia, died Sunday, January 7, in Columbus Childrens Hospital following a short illness.

He was preceded in death by his father, Ronald Simmons.

He is survived by his mother, Debbie Simmons, sisters, Michelle and Hilary, of Zanesville; paternal grandparents, Claude and Sandy Simmons, of Craigsville, and Clara and Winston Cottrell, of Moore Haven, Florida; maternal grandparents, Mary and Jim Johnson, of Hillsboro, and Joe and Lucy Smith, of Laurinburg, North Carolina; also surviving are paternal great-grandmother, Irene Cain, of Huntersville, and maternal great-grandparents, Rev. and Mrs. Owen Lee, of Buckhannon.

Services will be Thursday, January 11, 1 p.m. at the United Methodist Church in Hillsboro, with the Rev. Julian Rittenhouse and the Rev. Phyllis Cox. Burial will be in the Sunset Cemetery at Jacox. Friends may call from 6 to 9 p.m. on Wednesday at the VanReenen Funeral Home in Marlinton.

- - -

by Jason Bassetman

The weather for the year 2000 was full of surprises. Temperatures added up close to normal, but they were abnormal. Precipitation appeared to be plentiful, but it was below average.

The first six months of the year had above average temperatures. In fact, January through May were the warmest on record. Five out of the last six months had below average temperatures. According to the National Weather Service, November and December together were the coldest on record nationwide.

The average mean temperature of 46.6° was 0.3° below normal. The highest temperature was 84° on three different days. The lowest temperature was 6° below zero on December 26.

Five record highs were set. January 2nd had 59°, January 3rd had 61°, February 25th had 66°, February 26th had 69°, and March 8th had 75°. There were no record lows.

Fortunately, positive precipitation occurred during the growing season. Negative precipitation was prevelant during the colder months. Yearly precipitation totaled 38.68". That is 6.17" below average.

Last years precipitation was only 32.10". For the past two years, precipitation is now 18.92" below normal. That is very serious.

Snowfall amounted to 55.1" which is below average.

Fog was recorded on 48 days and that would be on the low side. There were 40 thunderstorms, even though September, October and the first 29 days of November had none.

On three occasions thunder came at rare times. There was thunder with sun on July 16. There was thunder with snow on November 30. There was thunder with rising temperatures on December 16.

Starting in July about two Canadian cold fronts a week have spread over this area. The trend continues in the new year, but for how long is the big question?

* * *

Marlinton Water Plant Report for December 2000

December 2000 — High temperature - 49° on December 17, with average of 30.6°; low temperature - minus 4° on December 23, 24, 26, and 27, average of 11.5°; rain - 1.93"; snow - 5.0"; cloudy

have rebuttal witness

Defense counsel for Dr. Harry Walkup announced Monday that he wants to depose a witness to rebut the testimony of a Southern Regional Jail inmate who told the court in December that Walkup has plans to "take care" of his ex-wife.

"I'm alerted there is a rebuttal witness," defense attorney James Keenan said. However, the witness is not in West Virginia, but is now a resident of Richmond, Virginia, Keenan said.

This witness, who was not named, is to contradict the testimony of David Dale Jeffrey, who testified in December that Walkup prayed for "vengeance on the judge and the prosecutors who put us here," but never for his nine children.

Jeffrey also said that Walkup has mentioned his current wife, Sue, would "put something in the coffee to take care"of his ex-wife.

The doctor is accused of setting the fire which gutted Lewisburg attorney Barry Bruce's office in June.

He was also indicted on charges of arson causing injury, retaliation and breaking and entering.

Harry Walkup was later charged with attempted escape after he allegedly broke free from correctional officers in a holding cell near the Greenbrier County Courthouse. A handcuff key was found in his possession at the Southern Regional Jail.

Jeffrey and Walkup occupied the same pod at the regional jail for a time. Jeffrey testified he attended prayer meetings led by the Marlinton doctor.

Sue Walkup has been charged with felony attempted aiding escape. She is free on $10,000 bond.

The lone witness of the hearing was David Scott Teubert, formerly a Lewisburg City Police officer.

Teubert said he advised Dr. Walkup of his rights and then asked about the 20-pound propane tank and 14 metal cans found in Bruce's office after the blaze was extinguished, as well as Walkup's whereabouts on June 16, 2000.

"His response was he had no idea what I was talking about," Teubert

NOTE OF THANKS

The family of Jamie Lee Abdella would like to thank all of our friends, neighbors and family for all their love, support and prayers shown us during the death of my husband, our father and our grandfather. Words can never begin to express our appreciation for all of your thoughtfulness and kindness. Thank you for all the food, flowers, visits, calls, cards and donations. A special thank you to Don and Barbara Nordstrom and Ambassadors for Christ Camp, Howard and Shelby Lowe, Danny and Billy Fisher and the Marlinton Rescue Squad. Also special thank you to the doctors in the ER for trying so hard to save Jamie. We would also like to thank VanReenen Funeral Home and Rev. Randy White, for the beautiful service and words of comfort, thank you to the pallbearers and the flower girls. Also a big thank you to Dennis Doss and Loretta DeRossett. May God richly bless you for all you have done to share with us in our time of sorrow.

Wife, Leota, children, Vickie, Donna, Butch, Greg and grandchildren

NOTE OF THANKS

The Humane Society of Pocahontas County would like to thank all those who sent in photos and donations for the Christmas Tree at Foodland.

Many thanks to those who gave donations and supported our fundraisers and including the memorial donations throughout the year.

THANKS

The family of Walker Sharp would like to express their appreciation to all our friends and relatives who sent flowers, food and cards and all those who helped in our time of sorrow.

Special thanks go out to the following; Pastor Jack Burks for his wonderful service, Richard Hefner and Rick Carpenter for their very nice music, VFW Post 4595, Pocahontas Memorial Hospital and Dr. Soriano, the rescue squads that came to his aid, and VanReenen Funeral Home.

This special thanks is for two very special people and they are Jo Ann Sharp and Nancy McClain for their love, support, kindness and helping during this period of sorrow. God bless you all.

The Walker Sharp Family

THANK YOU

I would like to thank Larry Taylor for helping to get an ambulance to me during my recent heart attack. Also I would like to thank Herbie Barlow for kneeling beside me during my attack. Also Mrs. Barnett and Dessie Defibaugh for being with me. Dr. Browning for getting me to Roanoke and for being the person he is. Thank you so very much.

Cheryl Brown

THANK YOU

The Town of Durbin, mayor, treasurer/recorder, and the the town council would like to thank those special people who came out caroling in a blizzard to brighten up the Christmas season. Thanks to Renee Downing for supplying the cookies and hot chocolate for the carolers.

Thanks to all the people who donated to the Children's Christmas Fund, which was a great success. We greatly appreciate Donald "Bunny" Vance for enlightening the Christmas spirit with Santa and to the Lions Club for allowing us to use the attire. Special thanks to Paul and Jolene Bennett for their outstanding support each and every year for the Children's Christmas Fund.

Thanks to Bill and Dreama Skidmore of Charleston, for judging the Christmas Lighting contest. Winners were: 1st - Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lambert; 2nd - Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Schuhmann; 3rd - Mr. and Mrs. George Hipes.

Thanks to Mike Johnson and Adam Bosley for putting the Christmas decorations up in the town.

Over the past four years I have enjoyed sharing the Christmas spirit with each and every person in Durbin and I hope that these Christmas events will continue in the future. It has been my pleasure to spread the Christmas Spirit. Thanks!

Mayor, Paula Dilley

MARLINTON MAIN STREET RENOVATION
DeETTA HUNTER
PROJECT CO-ORDINATOR
1988

MARLINTON MAIN STREET
RENOVATION
DeETTA HUNTER
PROJECT CO-ORDINATOR 1988 will be on Wednesday, April 20.

Rainbow

COWAN — Members of the Rainbow Family have applied for a Forest Service permit to hold a spring gathering May 6-8 at Three Forks of the Williams River in Webster County.

Jack Johnson of Cowen issued a general invitation this week for a spring gathering at the site of the 1980 Rainbow Family Healing Gathering which drew about 6,000 free spirits — and a large number of tourists and curious onlookers — to a secluded campsite deep in the Monongahela National Forest.

Forest Service officials say this spring's gathering won't be as large as the 1980 festivities. "They say it will be just for local folks," says Dail Lantz, assistant ranger at Richwood. "This isn't the main gathering — just a pre-gathering."

The Rainbow Family — a loose-knit group of people who meet every year to renew friendships, pray, sing, meditate and exchange information — have attracted up to 15,000 adherents to meetings in Western states.

to 15,000 adherents to meetings in Western states.

Johnson applied for a special-use permit several weeks ago, in which he estimated that 500 people would attend.

The family has set up a remote parking area at Glade View, near Cowan, and will run a shuttle service to the campsite. The only vehicles permitted at Three Forks will be those dropping off supplies, Johnson said.

Despite the pall cast over the gathering by the murders and the predictions of conflict between the Rainbows and Webster County residents, the 1980 event was peaceful and ended with Forest Service officials commending the family's cleanup efforts.

"I don't really look forward to it," acknowleged Lantz. "We had a hassle with the public before, and it was a headache during it," he said. "These are a hard bunch of people to get together on anything.

"But all in all it went fairly well."

---

the Bank's claim was not properly filed. Mr. Curry county birth certificate ns given by the Public private physician on the rades. Bikes are subject to e same driving guidenes that apply to vehicle perators in any traffic tuation, he remarked.

This means stopping at d lights and yielding the ght of way to any pedes-ians in the crosswalk."
David Carmichael em-asized the dual role the cycle has in a child's
e. "Kids use bikes for mes and fun riding as ell as for transportation rposes. Instilling a responsible attitude toward cycling at all times will lp them steer clear of tential dangers."

for either early childhood or first grade, please contact the principal of the school in your area.

Student

Coach Marvin Williams released the names of four additional freshmen prospects who will be joining the Mountain Lion program for the 1983-84 season. Included is Shawn Gilmore, a 6' 4", 208 pound offensive tackle from Pocahontas County High School who played for Coach Elmer Friel. Shawn is the son of William and Saundra Gilmore and they reside in Marlinton.

Coach Williams expressed his satisfaction with the signing of the above and stated, "We believe that all four have the potential to

SPECIAL PRO
SUNDAY, APRIL
2:00

Marlin Marlinton, W
MOV TILL Ap
Friday, April
REGIST

AR
in Prizes!
For Complete Rules.

ing Memory of le Glenn Waugh

parted this life
e year ago

ril 8, 1982

ved by Daughter, Harriet

l of Thanks

of Vernie B. Wil-thank their friends for the food, flower expressions of wn them. Special
v. David Ritten-Wallace & Wal-Home. Your kind-loss more bear-

The Wilson Family
n, Doyle and Ethis Alpha and Tidmey

---

of Thanks

thank my family,
hbors, and friends visits, cards, gifts, ones who helped in red to help, while I in the hospitals at d Marlinton, and me. Special thanks
ds Dora, Newkirk, Jarrell for their

In Loving Memory
of RUTH YOUNG
"Gone but not forgotten"

Wanted

Green log moss. Must be clean and dry, 40 cents per pound.

Appalachian Root & Herb Co.
37 Center St.
Rainelle, W. Va. 25962
Ph 304-438-5211

tfn

Housekeeper Wanted

Seriously in need of a light housekeeper for the summer months. Senior citizen desired.

799-4797 — Guy Bambrick
Beaver Creek

4-7-2c

Wanted to Buy

Wild native Ginseng, $1 $145 per lb. If interested in call 257-4441 after 6 p. m.

Notice

Have welding rig. Will w hour or job. Also, firewo dumptruck load. Call 456-4 456-4560.
4-7-6

Notice

Larry Sharp will shear sh
$1.25 per head. 799-4550
4-7-3

Sheep Shearing

Will be shearing sheep thi
3-31-4 653-4659 or 65

Will Babysit

Experienced baby sitter;
home.
3-31-2 799

PLOWING

Will be doing plowing in vale — Bartow area.
456-4161 or 45
4-7-1c

SHEEP SHEARING

I will be shearing shee year after May 9.
David Carr — 45
4-7-2c

Stud Service

Raymond Cook

tas Tim

A 24934, APRIL 14, 1983

eets, 82, 7, 1983,

C. J. Rich to start th

ARRESTS MADE IN RAINBOW MURDERS

Almost three years of investigation by state and local authorities into the murders of two young women in June 1980 finally achieved results with the arrest of two men last week.

Arrested were Gerald Lee Brown, 42, a former resident of Droop Mountain, now living in Renick, and Bobby Lee Morrison, 20, of Hillsboro. Brown is charged with two counts of first degree murder and is in the Pocahontas County jail in lieu of $100,000 bond. Morrison is charged with one count of aiding and abetting first degree murder and is in jail in lieu of $50,000 bond.

The victims were Nancy Santomero, 19, of Huntington, New York, and Victoria Ann Durian, 26, of Wellman, Iowa. Their bodies were found on June 25, 1980, on the Briery Knob Road. Death was apparently caused by gunshot

Sewer System G

Last Wednesday Robert Byrd called that the Enviro Protection Agency proved a grant incr
a sewer system of
for the Town of H
The previous gr $56,470. The ad money is to rest plans and spec and to evauluate t bility of innovative tive technology.

— — — —

Board of Educ

The Board m regular meeting M Superintendent
ley commented th
ed certain "ifs", s extended cold spe up heating costs o maintenance prol school system should end the fis
the black.

The Board ap contract to serve agent to handle st tional funds to instructors of EM at Hillsboro and D

of $50,000 bond.

The victims were Nancy Santomero, 19, of Huntington, New York, and Victoria Ann Durian, 26, of Wellman, Iowa. Their bodies were found on June 25, 1980, on the Briery Knob Road. Death was apparently caused by gunshot wounds. It was believed that the two were on their way to the Rainbow Festival which was being held at Three Forks of Williams River. Identification of the victims was not made until about two weeks after they were murdered. Their backpacks were found by deer hunters in December, 1980, in Fayette County near Clifftop.

Morrison was picked up by State Police for questioning on Wednesday afternoon, April 6, and placed under arrest that evening. Brown was arrested near Renick by Greenbrier County authorities on Thursday morning and transported to Pocahontas County later that day.

At the time of his arrest, Morrison was working as a farmhand. Brown is be-maintenance probl school system

should end the fisca
the black.

The Board app contract to serve agent to handle stu
tional funds to instructors of EMT at Hillsboro and D

A contract with lege of Graduate S offer a computer c spring was approv

Mr. Bailey repo
the Town of Marli install a drain line off the water that Ninth Street in fro Middle School if t will buy the pipe a
The cost will be $ Board told Mr. proceed. Mr. Ba reported that he would be possible the sidewalk o
Street this summe

Mr. Bailey infor
Board that a surp has been obtained Department of Hig be used to haul tr
the High School.
enable the school
using the incinera is located close to vocational buildin

ED
IE-ED
nds.
bors.
g here
s.
00 to 3:00
5:00 to 7:00
oon arlinton
Insurance Corp.
000 are insured.
FACILITIES
ing Beauty
ks of last fall's tion efforts in arrington

Insurance Corp.
,000 are insured.
G FACILITIES

ing Beauty
ults of last fall's ation efforts in are starting to oom. Some red n bloom in a bed post office and f other tulips are the blooming ne tulips at the use are growing w after a few with the weather.

---

eather k was "misty ather but everyankful we lived tains instead of areas of Louisilississippi. Our me on Saturday
2 inches of rain
n the weekend.
nd creeks were y but there was afternoon was rested near Renick by Greenbrier County authorities on Thursday morning and transported to Pocahontas County later that day.

At the time of his arrest, Morrison was working as a farmhand. Brown is believed to be unemployed at the present time, but has worked as a logging contractor and ran a small store at the overlook on Droop Mountain.

The break in the case that led to the arrests came in the form of information provided to Greenbrier County authorities two weeks ago. Follow up work on this information by Pocahontas County officers led to the arrests last week.

According to Prosecuting Attorney Steve Hunter, further arrests are not expected but the possibility cannot be ruled out at this time as the investigation into the case continues. He indicated that neither Brown nor Morrison had been a serious suspect in the case before this time.

Mr. Bailey in Board that a su has been obtain Department of H be used to haul
the High Schoo enable the sch
using the incin is located close vocational buil

The Board
salary overpa board employ on leave and t
The Board
superintender the employee either repay perform serv school system.

A report was Board on the gram at PCHS informed that year the En would be o grade level in ing classes students fro levels. Teach rotate each among the cl student will ha tunity to h teachers each there will be s

ankful we lived
tains instead of
areas of Louisiississippi. Our ne on Saturday inches of rain
the weekend.
d creeks were but there was fternoon was by Monday e mountains ith snow.

—

ooper nothy D. Mc-assigned to State Police Tpr. Mc-tive of Buck-a five year
e State Pos to Marlin-
ns. Tpr Mcried and the ee children.
eir home at

—

rders Ottis Louk vs.

According to Prosecuting Attorney Steve Hunter, further arrests are not expected but the possibility cannot be ruled out at this time as the investigation into the case continues. He indicated that neither Brown nor Morrison had been a serious suspect in the case before this time.

Mr. Hunter expects to seek indictments against the two at the June Grand Jury. Morrison was a juvenile at the time of the murders, but Mr. Hunter said that in all probability he would seek to try him as an adult.

Morrison has given State Police a statement about the slayings, but Mr. Hunter said he could not make any comments on its contents at this time. Likewise, authorities would not comment on a possible motive for the murders, on the weapons used, or whether the murders took place at the site where the bodies were found or else-

would be o
grade level in ing classes
students fro levels. Teach rotate each among the c student will h tunity to h teachers eac
there will be s
by achieveme

The college was discussed bers expresse port for the students who have indicate help to them i careers. The that the extra
by the teache
from Shepher effect double period the cl although the require extra general feeli eventually should move ing a college English pr

a five year
he State Po-es to Marlin-ins. Tpr Mc-rried and the ee children. eir home at

—

rders
)ttis Louk vs.
s, Ivan Burrbert Dean, missed.
Jenny M. d L. Pritt,

Broce vs.
ce, divorce

Cheryl L.
tch A. Simranted.
William C. ert J. Gil-ruled that ore has no
a case inoner and is interfering

Police a statement about the slayings, but Mr. Hunter said he could not make any comments on its contents at this time. Likewise, authorities would not comment on a possible motive for the murders, on the weapons used, or whether the murders took place at the site where the bodies were found or elsewhere.

Over the past three years the investigation by State Police and Sheriff's Deputies has involved the interviewing of probably hundreds of people and the chasing down of numerous leads. The investigation intensified last summer when the State Police assigned several men from its Criminal Investigation Section to the County to work on this case and several other unsolved murder cases. Since then arrests have been made in several cases and one trial held.

that the extra
by the teache
from Shepher effect double period the cl although th require extra general feel eventually should move ing a colleg English pr would elimin for the specia
The next meeting will April 19. This by law to give al for the bu levy for next

—

Marlinto
The Board
Marlinton Ra Inc., met at Tuesday nigh plans to have open to the pu
A report was the address f and the sugge

smissed.
- Jenny M. id L. Pritt,
d.
Broce vs.
ce, divorce

Cheryl L. itch A. Simranted.
William C. ert J. Gil-ruled that ore has no
a case inoner and is interfering

Va. ex rel vs. David sed.
oper, Sim-n vs. Jesse and dis-

Va. ex rel
nland vs.
d, Sr. disncaid vs.

the investigation by State Police and Sheriff's Deputies has involved the interviewing of probably hundreds of people and the chasing down of numerous leads. The investigation intensified last summer when the State Police assigned several men from its Criminal Investigation Section to the County to work on this case and several other unsolved murder cases. Since then arrests have been made in several cases and one trial held. The CIS officers are remaining in the County to continue the investigation into the Rainbow case as well as some other murders

— — —

Accident

The Sheriff's office reports one accident investigated by deputies in the past week. It was a two vehicle accident on Rt. 28/92 in Dunmore on the

The next meeting wil
April 19. Thi by law to giv al for the b levy for nex

—

Marlin

The Boar
Marlinton
Inc., met Tuesday ni plans to ha open to the

A report the address and the sug is "One Sta Board wou public opini posal, pro have a co send it to road Depot
Neel, 810 S Marlinton.

—

Moorefield. were traveli the accident

Doyle -:- Hatcher Christian Missionary ce Church in Elkins
e candlelight setting arch 26, 1983, 6:00 for the wedding of P. Hatcher, daughter late Mr. and Mrs.
d B. Pennington and
S. Doyle, son of the
r. and Mrs. Harvey of Mace.
double ring cere-as performed by the ary Thompson be-altar decorated rysanthemums and rnations.
in marriage by the on, Jeffrey L. Pen-of Cass, the bride lilac full length sheer polyester ied a bouquet of id baby's breath with pink and eamers.
itron of honor was White, of Cass, of the bride. She full length pink sheer polyester
ed a bouquet of es and baby's h pink and white

Doyle, son of the
ved as best man.
Doyle, grand-f the groom, was f the guest book.
as provided by Mrs. Gary

Layke and Edna Beard
Golden Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Layke Beard will celebrate their Golden Wedding Anniversary this Sunday, April 17, 1983. Their friends and relatives are invited by their three children to join in the observance at the Durbin Methodist Church from two to four o'clock in the afternoon.

Layke Beard, son of Leslie O. and Ruby R. Beard, and Edna, daughter of Elmer W. and Blanche T. Malcomb, were married on February 22, 1933.

They have three children: Dixie B. McClung of Charleston, James (John) M. Beard, Marlinton, and Bonnie Kaye Brown, of Mansfield, Massachusetts; twelve grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Danny Thomas, Founder

ST. JUDE CHILDREN'S RESEARCH HOSPITAL

Wheels for Life

Riders for the Sunday,

BIRTHS

Hi! My name is Jaclyn Nicole Hollandsworth. I arrived on April 7, 1983, at the Pocahontas Memorial Hospital and weighed in at .6 lbs., 10 ozs. My proud parents are Evelyn and

De
Daisy D Daisy Dell native of Po and a former ins, died S 1983, in Balt
at the home
Mrs. Violet had been rea ing a stroke
She was 1903, at Du the late Fre na Virginia On June she was m E. Simmons in death Au Surviving Fredrick G.
O. Simmons mons, all of E. Simmon daughters, ian) Arbo Virginia, M Carnes, Bal
and Mrs.
Crickard, brother, Mi sing, Michi Mrs. John Baltimore, Simmons, Kenneth Pittsburgh, grandchildr children an grandchildr Preceding four daught Pauline and Services w at 11 a. m Church of d there had ced orders.

ratitude to d ordered ded to try, ossible, to ese before k out for ral public.
l possibly teer group WVMR to onsibility.
rst weathst winter, volunteers ced their a highly
b. These

Johnny Waugh,
er, Mrs.
nold Dil-Million, Mildred Kersh-Higgins, an, Sr., Everette lderman,

bus Air Force Base.

Letter

Dear Editor,

In regard to the writer's remarks in last week's Times of the WVMR Cookbook. I wasn't born in Pocahontas County, neither was I born in West Virginia. If I were I'd be proud of the fact, but my father and my ancestors were born and raised there - so I'm proud of the WVMR Cookbook from the radio station. If I didn't like the book I'd certainly send money back, like the person with all that heritage, and sponsor a cookbook of how Pocahontas County really cooks, to keep the station going. I really enjoyed the gospel part of the radio when I was back there visiting and was proud to hear that the survey showed they wanted more gospel - probably something you don't hear about in

McMillion, ell, Mildred row Kershb Higgins, erman, Sr., d, Everette Alderman, er, Judy Mullenax, Sarah Sim-Shaw, Ella
Gray Hiner,
Virginia
Gray, Dotty
White, Pat Armstrong, Ernestine Jo Sharp, n, Glenda

ts have al-since the sale to the hese mer-

nts Store, s & Oil, Inn, Bevple Leaf yle Rite ders Ash-

gospel part of the radio when I was back there visiting and was proud to hear that the survey showed they wanted more gospel - probably something you don't hear about in Pennsylvania, and very little here, so I'm proud.

I'm leaving today to go back to Ohio for my work is there. Most of my relatives live in the Clover Lick territory. The only criticism I have and, I thought it very bad, and I'm sure the Pocahontas citizens are not proud of it either. I am sure the people outside the County are just as responsible for it. It was litter along the highways. Why can't it be stopped? Those beautiful hills-and the roadsides made me sick. Please stop it. Some suggestions would be have those who sell the beer, pop and takeout lunches furnish litter bags for what they sell. Encourage them each can't it be stopped? Those beautiful hills-and the roadsides made me sick. Please stop it. Some suggestions would be have those who sell the beer, pop and takeout lunches furnish litter bags for what they sell. Encourage them each time to please not litter. I traveled into Marlinton by way of Airport Road, it's terrible, also the Brownsburg Road and the road by Edray, and to see all the junk along the Edray - Clover Lick road. One yard was so full of junk cars you couldn't whip a cat - no room. On US 219 it was pitiful. I took a picture of this one yard where it was junked - it looked like a city dump. The reason I took the picture was to see if it would be improved by the time I make it back this reasures, Store at on is ex-erchants e many ve help-nded to live for rections ting of County ow Valley Antique Ameri-Seventh r Show Satur-

3. The
at the e Fair-a; adh class by an room. On US 219 it was pitiful. I took a picture of this one yard where it was junked - it looked like a city dump. The reason I took the picture was to see if it would be improved by the time I make it back this summer. We have it here in Ohio too, and I'm not proud of it, but those beautiful Pocahontas County hills make me want to go back and help clean them up. I'll probably take some time and do just that. If I don't, I'll hire a youth or someone to work a day clearing the highway for me. Oh yes, back to the cookbook, I would like to put the first recipe in it: "How Pocahontas Really Cooks" - No littering - 1st - Don't put it there; 2nd - Take a little energy and clean it up - 3rd - Encourage others not to litter and its Seventh ue Car Show ket on Satur-1983. The held at the State Fair-Fairlea; ad-

. Each class ored by an will be from Noon, with tion fee for must be on in order to radiator iven to the

There will s awarded classes, in al trophies the Show 3rd place)

limited to car parts, ts, will be n with the ale will be car corral

clearing the highway for me. Oh yes, back to the cookbook, I would like to put the first recipe in it: "How Pocahontas Really Cooks" - No littering - 1st - Don't put it there; 2nd - Take a little energy and clean it up - 3rd - Encourage others not to litter and report those who do; 4th - If you are too busy, hire someone out of work to clean the highway for a day, maybe your own farm; 5th Call a neighbor to join in and clean along his roadside frontage. Mix the ingredients - money, energy and lots of will power and you'll have one of the best places to live in the world.

When I was there I heard Gabby Gibbs and Nurse Jane, (I never met them) telling on the radio of the littering. Maybe at station break, as a public service, they will say, "WVMR - Radio, Frost, W. Va. - Let's

MI SALA
$
G JUM EVA CHU TEA BAT AME
MAC

special trophies of the Show and 3rd place) Car.

rket, limited to tique car parts, crafts, will be nction with the or sale will be a car corral

is planned ea and Lewis-
p. m. and be awarded parade.

nformation is arding the how and flea contact Roy kely, WV, uth Turner, 645-3144.

and lots of will power and you'll have one of the best places to live in the world.

When I was there I heard Gabby Gibbs and Nurse Jane, (I never met them) telling on the radio of the littering. Maybe at station break, as a public service, they will say, "WVMR - Radio, Frost, W. Va. - Let's clean up Pocahontas County." Tell them to keep giving suggestions and pointing out ways to make Pocahontas hills the land I love, more beautiful.

In respect to Pocahontas County, I remain

Mrs. Sherry Barker
Warren, Ohio

---

eral cost-sharing available for pasture improvemen from the ASCS, he said.

CHUN TEA BATH AME
MAC

child in the fall.

Please bring a state or county birth c and proof of immunizations given by th Health Department or any private physici

Jane Kelley

Conn

Award Winners

g was held 29, at the st Church those inorming a area. Dr. rovided in-the Hoso several teers. The vorking to n this area icers at its pril 18, at Lewisburg
t Church. hospice'' unity for ce of re-Hospices olished in eval times rs to care wounded.
s Hospice ounded by ers in 1967 el for the nt in the rders to care nd wounded.

er's Hospice s founded by ders in 1967 del for the ment in the The Hospice provide a pport serv-g and their than con-onal mediif such longer of e generally spice team ns, nurses, clergy and rs and they dying paner family.
e are sev-spice pro-re to pad for such ural areas o medical e is often nt.

Jane Kelley

Con

Award Winners

Four county students have been named 1983 United States National Award winners by the United States Achievement Academy.

Jane Kelley, a student at PCHS, received her award in the field of Journalism and was nominated by Mrs. Grace Jane Wigal, Journalism Teacher at the school. Jane is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. K. G. Kelley, of Huntersville.

Connie Sue Campbell was nominated by her French teacher at Marlinton Middle School, Dr. Denise K. McNeel, for a Foreign Language award. Connie is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tommy

Tamm

Denise K. McNeel, for a Foreign Language award. Connie is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Campbell, of Marlinton.

Mrs. Wigal also nominated Tammie Lynn Alderman for a Journalism award. Tammie is the daughter of Walter and Joyce Alderman of Minnehaha Springs.

Alizabeth Schmidt, a student at Marlinton Middle School, received awards in History and Foreign Language. She was nominated by Miss Patsy Triplett and Dr. Denise McNeel for the awards. She is the daughter of Naomi Schmidt.

The girls will appear in the United States Achievement Academy official Yearbook, a national publication.

The Academy selects

Tammi

Alizal for six nce policy l be affectvith mostly ms. You is? Check nce agent rprise you t another vernment life. You ates, who wake up - e conseong later sign on gs Ran-Senate will deal

You can known to oil filter now - or

School, received awards in History and Foreign Language. She was nominated by Miss Patsy Triplett and Dr. Denise McNeel for the awards. She is the daughter of Naomi Schmidt.

The girls will appear in the United States Achievement Academy official Yearbook, a national publication.

The Academy selects USAA winners upon the exclusive recommendation of teachers, coaches, counselors or other school sponsors and upon the Standards of Selection set forth by the Academy. The criteria for selection are a student's academic perform tude resp moti impr tude depe men or di

A

Write your

Connie Sue Campbell

Tammie Alderman

ool, Dr.
l, for a award.
ghter of Tommy nton.

o nomi-n Alderrnalism is the ter and Minne-

dt, a stu-Middle wards in gn Lanminated blett and l for the daughidt.

pear in Achieve-official al publi-selects pon the

Tammie Alderman

Alizabeth Schmidt

formance, interest and aptitude, leadership qualities,

Minnehaha S
Mrs. Myrtle Princeton.

No Reg Isn't it good at the day
To look up to able to say
"Dear Lord, I someone to But isn't it sa you must s
"Dear Lord, I today"
I drove the n deeper And forgot brother's

Isn't it bette is done To know yo no one From the waking
'Til you lie Remember that we mpbell

AWARD WINNER — Lisa Sharp, a student at Princeton Junior High School, has been named a 1983 United States National Award winner in the field of foreign language by the United States Achievement Academy. Her name will appear in the official USAA Yearbook which is distributed nationally. The Academy selects USAA winners upon the recommendations of teachers,

Internal Reven

Paying or re mony means rules.

Divorced or persons paying ing alimony aware of tax affect them.

According t on, manager service for Revenue Serv Virginia, "A arate mainter lar periodic taxable to th receives th ductible by t pays them certain requ

The req met if the —Required
cree or writ —Based on ily relations —Paid afte

Yearbook which is distributed nationally. The Academy selects USAA winners upon the recommendations of teachers, coaches, counselors and other school sponsors. The criteria for selections are a student's academic performance, interest and apitude, leadership qualities, enthusiasm, motivation to learn and improve, citizenship, attitude and cooperative spirit and dependability. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Sharp.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Sharp, of Minnehaha Springs, and Mrs. Myrtle Bailey, of Princeton.

— — —

No Regrets

Isn't it good at the end of

—Required
cree or wri —Based or ily relation —Paid aft separation —Periodi lump sum
"The p payments stated, " expense fr without it tions." Separat making p written s ment can tion for t they file turn. Pro do not qu treatment ment is payments In add port paym

Main Street Marlinton 1947

This picture was in The Atlantic Monthly for January 1983 as part of an article of photographs from the 1940's.

Pilgrim Wayne R. Boggs

MOOSE LODGE AWARD

Wayne R. Boggs ... arms by Bethany Wilson, young daughter of Mr. and

Pilgrim Wayne R. Boggs

MOOSE LODGE AWARD

Wayne R. Boggs, of Marlinton and formerly of Franklin, was honored here March 27 at Pilgrim Robing Ceremony at the Franklin Moose Lodge in recognition of his elevation to the highest degree conferred by the Loyal Order of Moose.

The robing ceremony was under the direction of Acting Pilgrim Governor Wayne Smallwood of Charleston who explained that the Pilgrim Degree was conferred upon Boggs, not because of the length of his membership in the Lodge, but because of his unselfishness of purpose and devotion to the Loyal Order of Moose.

The Pilgrim Degree was awarded to Boggs last June by the Consistory and the Elders of the Pilgrim Degree in the House of God at Mooseheart, Ill.

The ceremony Sunday at the Franklin Moose Lodge was a public presentation of arms by Bethany Wilson, young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wilson, and the tah was carried by Jonathan Wayne Boggs, young son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Boggs.

Others participating in the ceremony were Pilgrim Prelate Ed Miller of Keyser, Pilgrim Past Governor Medford Grubb of Martinsburg, Pilgrim Junior Governor Phil Dawson of Berkeley Springs, and Pilgrims Leo Smith, John Dawson and John R. Dauso, Mrs. Leo Smith of Moorefield, Mrs. Ruby Crown of Franklin, Mrs. Wayne (Jean) Boggs of Marlinton and Franklin Lodge Governor Roger Hott.

Boggs has been a member of the Moose Lodge since joining Harrisonburg Lodge No. 1686 in May, 1968. He transferred his membership to the Franklin Lodge in May, 1969 and was elected governor of the Franklin Lodge in 1970. He served a year as Junior Past Governor in 1971 and was elected secretary of devotion to the Loyal Order of Moose.

The Pilgrim Degree was awarded to Boggs last June by the Consistory and the Elders of the Pilgrim Degree in the House of God at Mooseheart, Ill.

The ceremony Sunday at the Franklin Moose Lodge was a public presentation of the official Pilgrim cape and head gear, officially known as the Pilgrim Robe and the Pilgrim Tah.

In presenting the robe and tah to Boggs, Pilgrim Sergeant-at-arms Leonard Hess of Martinsburg said the tah, with its gold tassel represents the many degrees of service Boggs has rendered to the Order. Hess said the cloak of black and gold has a meaning understood only by holders of the Pilgrim Degree, but to those attending the ceremony, it represents all that is good, true and best in the Fraternity.

The robe was carried and presented to the sergeant-at-

of the Moose Lodge since joining Harrisonburg Lodge No. 1686 in May, 1968. He transferred his membership to the Franklin Lodge in May, 1969 and was elected governor of the Franklin Lodge in 1970. He served a year as Junior Past Governor in 1971 and was elected secretary of the Franklin Lodge in 1972, an office he has held continuously to the present.

Boggs enrolled in Potomac Highland Legion No. 110 in June, 1973, and made the 25 Club, Division 300 in 1973. He received the Fellowship Degree at Clarksburg Lodge No. 52 in August, 1978.

Boggs maintains active membership and attendance in the Franklin Lodge although he resides in Marlinton where he is employed by The Hanover Shoe, Inc. He and his wife have two children, Jonathan Wayne and Jean, and he has three step-children, Donnie, Dee Dee and Lisa.

Fetus May Suffer From Mother's Drinking Habits

By Betty Skeens

It now appears that one in every 350 to 500 in-that four of them had th same malformations, whic were identified as the FAS

"The defects were strik ing. The four had smal burros usually are ed simply as pets, but can be used as animals.

ters, who may pick many as four wild or burros in a year, have adequate facilir their care. For the year following the on, each animal rethe property of the Government. After the animal has been for humanely, the may apply to rele from BLM.
nation on the adopgram and applica-ms may be ob-by contacting the
f Public Affairs, tern States Office,
ckett Street, Alex-
Virginia 22304;
(703) 235-2840, ntacting Doris or odlander at (717)

cavating ro and Spread OE SERVICE
— FOOTERS
IG se — 653-4357

nds of TVs
y-Wide TV LINE OF:
's Tape Players sters ivers Lay-away Plan rlinton 0

WOODS AND WATERS

Skip Johnson

Joe Roy retiring

Joe Roy, a living legend on Williams River, has retired after 31 years at the Handley Public Hunting and Fishing Area in Pocahontas County, and the place won't be quite the same.

Roy has tramped every inch of the 777.82-acre state-owned land, planting pine and spruce trees for wildlife cover, and apple, holly, honeysuckle, autumn olive, oak and hazlenuts for food.

His orders, given many years ago by the late Charley Handley, former chief of the DNR wildlife division, were to create good deer hunting, particularly bowhunting, on Williams River, and he has done precisely that.

Hunters who have come there over the years have included Howard Hill, perhaps the nation's best known bowhunter. In the past five years, 56 deer have been killed on Handley, including 27 by bowhunters. This may not seem like a lot, but the deer population is not high on Williams River. Handley is a wildlife oasis in the desert.

"I've seen it grow and mature," Roy said of the Handley area. "It will be hard to leave it."

But he and his wife, Bonnie, have bought a place on Brownsburg Road near Marlinton, and will be moving there next month.

As much as anything, they will miss the peace and quiet of the area. "When I wanted to be away from people," Roy said, "I just went to work. Another thing, we can't see a single light from here, and we like that."

Bonnie, a former nurse's aide at the Marlinton hospital, has been with Roy all 31 years on Williams, and she will miss the place too. In the past five years, she has accompanied her husband quite a bit on his rounds.

Roy, a Bedford County, Pa., native, is one of the state's best deer and turkey hunters. He has killed 45 deer and one bear with bow and arrow, and 82 turkeys with gun, although not entirely in West Virginia. He has hunted extensively in Pennsylvania, Virginia and Maryland.

But squirrel hunting is his favorite. "I love to hunt squirrels and I love to eat them," he said.

The Roys' three sons, Joe Jr., Ronnie and Johnny, grew up on the Handley area and all of them still live in Pocahontas County. Joe Jr. works for Monongahela Power Company, Ronnie is a surface mine superintendent and Johnny is a deep miner.

One thing the Roys won't miss is bowhunters stopping by their home at 4 o'clock in the morning wanting Joe to go hunting with them. "I usually told them I'd love to go," he said, "but I just couldn't. I tried to be diplomatic."

THE SUNDAY GAZETTE-MAIL, APRIL 10, 1983

OUTDOORS

Answers From Your Power Company

ntas Tim

RGINIA 24954, APRIL 21, 1983

lths

W. Scott

n Scott, 63, died
l 14, 1983, at ttack.

BRACES—BITS—LEVELS—AXES—NAIL SETS—HAMMERS—CLAMPS—SPADES—NUTS—S-PYREX SH CORD AKERS ANS AX 190

...csimilies of the ballots
...ublished this week.
...arlinton has an ordi-
...e added to its ballot.
...ermitted by state law,
...eople of the Town may
...to change the term of
...als from two to four
... If approved, the
... so elected this year
...erve the longer term;
... passed, the term will
...in at two years.

Clean Up

...is week marks the
...ning of Clean Up
... Take a look around
...ee what you can do to
... your home, your com-
...ty, your county, your
... a cleaner and more
...iful place. Plan to
... some flowers.
...ase do not litter. Help ... children not to lit-
... it isn't thrown down,
...sn't have to be pick-
...

...p Pocahontas Clean
...reen.

Turkey Season

... Spring Turkey Gob-
...eason opens next
...y, April 25, and goes
...s Saturday, May 14.
...g ends at 11 a. m.
...y, and you must be
...he woods by noon.

A Grateful-Proud Citizen

Circuit Court

Friday was sentencing day for this term of court. The following were sentenced by Judge Frank Jolliffe:

Lou Earnest Tinnel — sentenced to 5 to 18 years in the state penitentiary. He had entered a plea of guilty to second degree murder in the death of Hilda Wheeler in May, 1982.

Charles Lee Pinkston — probation denied, sentenced to six months in the county jail, and fined $100 plus costs. He was found guilty of assault in a jury trial in March.

Bobby Carl Sponaugle — sentenced to twelve months in the county jail, with eleven months suspended, and placed on a year's probation. He had entered a plea of guilty to petty larceny.

Lester David Goode — sentenced to twelve months in the county jail. He had entered a plea of guilty to attempted forgery.

Ricky Mayse — he was appealing his conviction in Magistrate Court of making obscene phone calls. His

...structed by Mower Lumb...
Company in the ear...
1960's to gain access to i... property on the mounta...
after logging by railro... was discontinued.

The case arises out of t...
plans of the proposed S... ver Creek ski area ...
velopers to use a portion...
the Black Run Road ... access to their land wh... was purchased from Mo... last fall and adjoins Sn... shoe lands.

Snowshoe claims that ...
deed and agreement w...
Mower restrict the use ...
the road to only itself ...
Mower. The defenda... claim, of course, that ... such restriction exists.

Attorney for Snowsho...
Michael Plaska. Represe... ing the defendant is J...
Tinney for Mower, Tho...
Potter for Jackson ...
Kruse, and John Busch ...
Mace.

Testimony was finis...
Wednesday morning ... then a trip was made to...
mountain to view the ...
in question. After the...
torneys have had tim...
file written briefs. ...
judge will make his ru...

Liquor Store

The Alcohol Beve...
Control Commission

of Pocahontas, ss:
ore me this 14th day of April, 1983, and I officer or director of this bank.
1989 MONDA L. MASON, Notary Public

Orchids

Dean Gorby . . .
his unfailing dedicahis cause—to build a usic building for the ts at the Marlinton
e School.
his belief in the s and people of Poca-County and in him-accomplish this job.
er before, to my dge, has a project of magnitude been aken in Pocahontas
by an individual,
g on our citizens to hrough!
they did! — many ountless hours of d others with great ity (at a time when enny counted).
ecial thank you to rby who had to live an during this tres task!
teful-Proud Citizen

Circuit Court

sentence of ninety days in the county jail was upheld by the Court but sixty days were suspended and he was placed on probation for six months.

In the case of Ralph Dunbrack vs. the Town of Marlinton, tried last week, the jury awarded Mr. Dunbrack $4500 plus his attorney costs.

—

The case of Snowshoe Company vs. Mower Lumber Company, Mace Knob Land Company, Leonard K. Jackson, and John J. Kruse was heard by Judge Jolliffe in a non-jury trial Monday through Wednesday. The trial involves the use of the Black Run Road which runs from the state road on Thorny Flats, through the Snowshoe land to Old Spruce. The road was constructed by Mower Lumber Company in the early 1960's to gain access to its sponse to a questi whether there w other requests for that were denied the one from WV Helmick listed th shoe Firehouse, ed workshop for th

regional facility fo ics, and the Tow
linton and Durbi

There were qu
the Commission
they decide the money to allocate and to what e must follow up groups spend they receive. In the financial p WVMR and ambulance serv county was di some length.

Towards the hearing Mr. He ed that the veloping a lan annual operatin mated to be $1
the increasing ating the cour fice, particular forcement, wi most, if not surplus fund th had available.
well mean that

cuit Court was sentencing
s term of court.
ving were sen-Judge Frank

nest Tinnel — to 5 to 18 years
e penitentiary.
tered a plea of second degree the death of eeler in May,

ee Pinkston — enied, sentencmonths in the and fined $100
He was found sault in a jury
ch.

rl Sponaugle — twelve months nty jail, with hs suspended, on a year's le had entered uilty to petty vid Goode — welve months jail. He had a of guilty to gery.

se — he was conviction in urt of making e calls. His Company in the early 1960's to gain access to its property on the mountain after logging by railroad was discontinued.

The case arises out of the plans of the proposed Silver Creek ski area developers to use a portion of the Black Run Road as access to their land which was purchased from Mower last fall and adjoins Snowshoe lands.

Snowshoe claims that its deed and agreement with Mower restrict the use of the road to only itself and Mower. The defendants claim, of course, that no such restriction exists.

Attorney for Snowshoe is Michael Plaska. Representing the defendant is John Tinney for Mower, Thomas Potter for Jackson and Kruse, and John Busch for Mace.

Testimony was finished Wednesday morning and then a trip was made to the mountain to view the road in question. After the attorneys have had time to file written briefs, the judge will make his ruling.

— — —

Liquor Store

The Alcohol Beverage Control Commission has had available. This well mean that in the 84 budget many groups receiving support may all or part of their fu

ing from the county.

The Commission m no changes in the 8 budget following the h
ing.

Notary public app
tions by Oleta Payne Dotty Kellison were proved.

A hearing was held who should be adminis
trix of the Hal Wan estate. The Commis ruled in favor of Mrs. P Kincaid.

Sheriff Kellison met the Commission concer their order at the meeting that cars no l er be washed on the C House parking lot.
Commission stayed wit ruling.

The resignation of D
Stack and Victor Co from the Board of D tors of the Upper Gr brier Valley Public Se
District were accep
Alan Begg and C Shinaberry were appoir

— — —

decided not to move
Marlinton liquor sto

Douglas Friel

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Friel

BART

FRI.-S APRI

For

Ma

Sus Hutto name Natio busin U.
Acade Mi ninth garts was award busin at the

Douglas Friel
Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Friel

Robert Eister
Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Simkins

Robert Eister
Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Simkins

Albert Beverage
Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Beverage

Albert Beverage
Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Beverage

Jeffrey Barlow
Mr. and Mrs. Robert Barlow

FAMILY

$75,000

4-H'ers at county round-up next year.

— — —

Camp Available

As most everyone knows by now, the National Youth Science Camp has been cancelled for 1983. The Science Camp has long been the best customer for using the Pocahontas County 4-H Camp near Thornwood, and now that it is gone we have a space of six weeks in July and August to fill in the camp calendar for 1983. We offer a beautiful location, great food, and probably the lowest prices anywhere.

If you know of any potential camps for Camp Pocahontas, please contact Bill Stewart at the Pocahontas County Extension office, 799-4841, as soon as possible.

— — —

Pocahontas County 4-H

Green Bank High School Homecoming July 2, 1983

A second planning meeting was held on Wednesday, April 13, at the Green Bank Library. The turnout was much better than the first meeting in March, and many ideas were discussed. The group elected a treasurer to take care of do-

Student

David Lee Michael, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl D. Michael, Marlinton, has been accepted for admission to West Virginia Wesleyan College for the 1983 fall term. He plans to major in Computer Science.

David will graduate from Pocahontas County High

Harold Armstrong, of Parkman, Ohio.

Bank High School
oming July 2, 1983
nd planning meet-held on Wednes-il 13, at the Green rary. The turnout
h better than the ing in March, and as were discussed.
o elected a treasake care of dod expense for the
ng. Anna Virves will be the and any dona-be sent to her at ank Elementary
reen Bank, W.

s will be our first g to organize a ol Homecoming, ided to keep it will be a picnic inning at noon,
d dish lunch at
. It will be held
he old ball field.
ing everyone to r own plates, nife, spoon and h, and perhaps
r. There will be he oldest grad-oldest teacher, o traveled the ance to be presing for a gate

Student

David Lee Michael, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl D. Michael, Marlinton, has been accepted for admission to West Virginia Wesleyan College for the 1983 fall term. He plans to major in Computer Science.

David will graduate from Pocahontas County High School on May 27, where he has been vice-president of the senior class, football co-captain in his freshman year, and a Hugh O'Brien Youth Foundation winner. He received a National Achievement Academy Merit Award for Science in his senior year.

Wesleyan, an excellent opportunity in higher education, offers over thirty majors and five degrees including: The Bachelor of Arts, The Bachelor of Science. The Bachelor of Music Education, The Associate of Arts, and The Master of Arts in Teaching.

Elected to Medical Board of Trustees

The Ohio Valley Medical Center of Wheeling, recently elected Board of

Libby Oliver McCutcheon [after May 5] 2 Holly Drive
Gaithersburg, MD 20877
Phone [301] 948-5742

Please contact anyone you know who was in this class.

CANCELED

RAMP DINNER

CANCELED

Arbovale Community Center

Saturday, April 23 3:00 to 7:00

Fars Tim

24954, APRIL 28, 1983

ck Weather-in a car

Up, Fix Up

E YOUR NITY!

IP!

IMPROVE-ROJECT . . .
ER IS FUN.

Marlinton

osit Insurance Corp.
p To $100,000
s This Bank

Fatal Fire

Earl B. Dever, 84, died shortly after arrival at the Pocahontas Memorial Hospital last Thursday morning from injuries received at a fire at his home on Beard Heights near Marlinton. His wife, Zella, suffered burns on her arms and face and a broken wrist. After treatment locally Mrs. Dever was transported to a Roanoke Hospital by Marlinton and Clifton Forge ambulance.

A portable kerosene heater is the suspected cause of the fire. Both Mr. and Mrs. Dever were in the house when the fire started. They attempted to remove the heater from the house but were unable to do so. Mrs. Dever was able to get out of the house on her own but her husband was overcome.

Steve Jack and Edgie Woods entered the house to rescue Mr. Dever but were forced back. Mr. Jack went into the house again and was able to bring him out. Mr. Jack was admitted to the Pocahontas Memorial Hospital for treatment of smoke inhalation.

The Marlinton Fire Department received the call at 9 a. m. and the fire, although intense, was

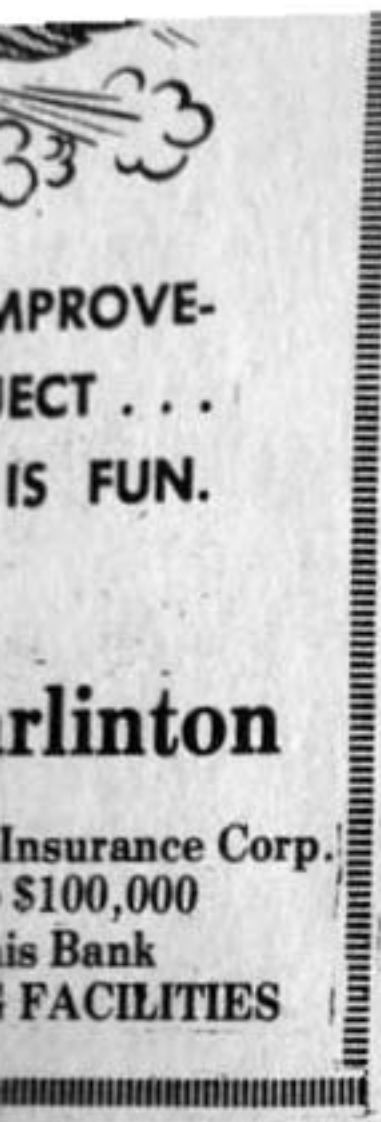
Snowshoe

Snowshoe Mountain Resort officials have outlined a comprehensive, voluntary program for controlling sediment to area streams caused by construction of a major ski slope and 18-hole championship golf course.

S. Franklin Burford, president of the Pocahontas County resort, detailed the program in a recent letter to David Callaghan, director of the West Virginia Department of Natural Resources. Burford was served several DNR warrants last month for contributing to the sediment of West Virginia streams.

"Snowshoe is selling the environment," Burford said in the letter. "Once we complete our construction, Snowshoe will be the most beautiful environment in our county. Our goal has always been to give the Greenbrier a run for its money."

Construction of Snowshoe's Hawthorne ski slope was not completed until December of last year and no seeding on it was accomplished. However, diversion ditches were created to take run-off from the cleared land into the forest. "The new slope



Grant
ior Jay Rockefeller ed last Friday ants for sewage facilities. Includgrant of $48,000
ro for the design treatment facil-

her two grants ublic service disaleigh and Mon-
es.
er Resources Di-he state Depart-Natural Resourcadministrative the grants, house but were unable to do so. Mrs. Dever was able to get out of the house on her own but her husband was overcome.

Steve Jack and Edgie Woods entered the house to rescue Mr. Dever but were forced back. Mr. Jack went into the house again and was able to bring him out. Mr. Jack was admitted to the Pocahontas Memorial Hospital for treatment of smoke inhalation.

The Marlinton Fire Department received the call at 9 a. m. and the fire, although intense, was quickly brought under control. The house was badly damaged.

A deputy fire marshal was at the site on Thursday but his report has not been received yet.

Mrs. Dever was released from the hospital on Monday and is at the home of her son, Dharl, near Mill Point.

WVMR

At its regular monthly meeting last Thursday, the WVMR Board of Directors voted to reduce expenditures from the current average of $3,500 per month to $2,300 per month, and to environment," Bur said in the letter. "Onc complete our construct Snowshoe will be the beautiful environmen our county. Our goal always been to give Greenbrier a run fo money."

Construction of S shoe's Hawthorne ski was not completed
December of last yea
no seeding on it wa complished. However version ditches were ated to take run-off the cleared land int forest. "The new s will be mulched and se this year just as soon snow melts and we permits," Burford sai

Approximately 5 cubic yards of topso be placed on the firs holes of the golf cour summer. Once the to in place, it will be diately graded and s
"Once that seed
nates and grows, th be no siltation runo
lem. However, unt happens, there w some siltation that be stopped," said B

According to S architect Ronald son, construction

Seated Left to Right: Jane Kelley, Teresa Workman, Carla Hefner, Sara Riley, Teresa Alderman, Brenda Curry

PCHS Schedule

Friday, April 29 — Representative from ring company 11 a.m.
8 p. m., Junior-Senior Prom.
Saturday, April 30 — County Special Olympics, 9 to 3

Pocahontas County High School Top Ten Percent

Fifteen seniors will be honored as the Top Ten

Dog Who?

Dog Hollow, that Dog Hollow is bluegrass band. D low is two years ol

Soc
The
for the Soccer printed

S Schedule

ril 29 — Representag company 11 a.m.
nior-Senior Prom.
April 30 — County
pics, 9 to 3.
, May 3 - Sen-and Gown pic-d to be paid for n.
rs will be taken.
oil Conservation Lewisburg.
ay, May 4 - quet.
, May 5 - For-Day re-sched-

---

on, Hillsboro reen Bank fast Menu May 2—Cereal,
May 3—Saus-
, Apple Sauce,
ay, May 4 —
uice, Milk

Pocahontas County High School Top Ten Percent

Fifteen seniors will be honored as the Top Ten Percent of the Pocahontas County High School Class of 1983 at Graduation Ceremonies on May 27, 1983. This selection was made by the grade point average at the end of the third quarter of the senior year. These fifteen students will participate in the graduation program.

The 1983 members of the Top Ten Percent in alphabetical order are: Teresa Alderman, James Burks, Virginia Coleman, Brenda Curry, Cara Hefner, Carla Hefner, Christopher Jessee, Jane Kelley, David Michael, Paul Murphy, Perry Murphy, Wayne Peery, Sara Riley, Chuck Workman, Teresa Workman.

Seated Lef
Jane Kelley, man, Carla Riley, Teres
Brenda Curry Standing
Cara Hefne
chael, Chuc Christopher Burks, Wayn Murphy, Pau
ginia Colem

—

linton. He h Alumni Sch University where he physics.
Jane is Mr. and Kelley of plans to University journalism lications.
David is
and Mrs.
Marlinton

Apple Sauce,

y, May 4 —
ice, Milk
May 5 — Cin-Juice, Milk
ay 6 — Hot na, Milk
- —
nd Hillsboro Menu
ay 2 — Hot hili, French w, Milk
ay 3 — Pizza-Salad, Apple Butter, Milk
May 4 — Soup, Grill-wich, Cher-

y 5 — Fish een Beans, ith Cheese, Made Bread,

6 —Baked eners, But-Celery Sticks
Corn Muf-ilk Bank
y 2 —Sloppy

Perry Murphy, Wayne Peery, Sara Riley, Chuck Workman, Teresa Workman.

Teresa is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elijah Combs of Mill Point. She plans to attend Salem College and study computer programming.

James is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Burks, of Buckeye. He will be attending West Virginia Tech and study computer science.

Virginia is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Coleman of Green Bank. She is planning to attend West Virginia Wesleyan College and major in computer science.

Brenda is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Curry of Neola. She plans to attend West Virginia University majoring in Aerospace Engineering.

Cara is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Hefner of Minnehaha Springs. She is planning to enter lications.

David is th
and Mrs. Ea Marlinton. attend West leyan Colleg computer sci

Paul is the Mrs. James Buckeye. He attend West tute of Te major in com ment and da

Perry is and Mrs. Ja Buckeye. H attend Wes tute of Te ing in ele
ing.

Wayne
and Mrs.
Arbovale. future are

Sara is
Mr. and of Mill Poi ning to College an counting.

Chuck is
and Mrs.

puter science.

Brenda is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Curry of Neola. She plans to attend West Virginia University majoring in Aerospace Engineering.

Cara is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Hefner of Minnehaha Springs. She is planning to enter Salem College and major in marketing.

Carla is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Hefner of Minnehaha Springs. Carla has received a scholarship to Salem College and will major in computer science.

Christopher is the son of Jane S. Jessee of Mar-

Graduates

Five Pocahontas County residents will receive

Seated Left to Right: Jane Kelley, Teresa Workman, Carla Hefner, Sara Riley, Teresa Alderman, Brenda Curry.

Standing Left to Right: Cara Hefner, David Michael, Chuck Workman, Christopher Jessee, James Burks, Wayne Peery, Perry Murphy, Paul Murphy, Virginia Coleman.

———

linton. He has received an Alumni Scholarship to the University of Georgia where he will major in physics.

Jane is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Kelley of Marlinton. She plans to attend Marshall University and major in journalism - magazine publications.

David is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Michael of Jane is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Kelley of Marlinton. She plans to attend Marshall University and major in journalism - magazine publications.

David is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Michael of Marlinton. He plans to attend West Virginia Wesleyan College majoring in computer science.

Paul is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Murphy of Buckeye. He is planning to attend West Virginia Institute of Technology and major in computer management and data processing.

Perry is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Murphy of Buckeye. His plans are to attend West Virginia Institute of Technology majoring in electrical engineering.

Wayne is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Peery, of Arbovale. His plans for the Wayne is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Peery, of Arbovale. His plans for the future are incomplete.

Sara is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Riley, of Mill Point. She is planning to attend Concord College and major in accounting.

Chuck is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Workman of Hillsboro. He will attend either Virginia Tech or Fairmont State College and major in industrial engineering.

Teresa is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Workman of Hillsboro. She plans to attend West Virginia University majoring in animal science.

Special Education are Bonita Curry, of Marlinton, Susan Peck, of Bartow, Frances Taylor, of Dun-

Forthcoming Marriage

Mr. and Mrs. William Shank, of Green Bank, proudly announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Cynthia, to Johnny Allan Pritt, son of Mrs. Mary Lou Pritt, of Marlinton.

Cindy is a 1982 graduate of Pocahontas County High School, and a student at Fairmont State College.

John is also a graduate of Pocahontas County High School, class of 1982, and is presently serving with the Untied States Marine Corps, at Parris Island, South Carolina.

An early summer wedding is being planned.

———

Health Fair

The Pocahontas County Unit of The American Cancer Society will be showing a film on Colorectal Cancer at this years Health Fair. The film will be shown periodically during the hours of the fair on May 1.

Following the film, volunteers for the Cancer Society will distribute free Hemoccult II screening slides which is to be taken home and returned at a later date to the person's personal doctor or the hospital lab. The slides were donated by the Smith - Kline Diagnostics Company. A nurse will be present to answer questions and inform participants concerning the film and slides. The public is cordially invited to take advantage of this free screening opportunity.

———

Day Treatment Programs

Pocahontas Mental Health sponsors two Day Treatment programs. One program meets in Marlinton two days a week; the other one day a week in the upper part of the county.

These programs are designed to prevent crisis and to help people with every day problems.

Day Treatment people

...ser
...raising event for the Marshall Music Building. Mr. Burns chose to take cash instead of a car.

Students

Ten students and one faculty member have been inducted into Marshall University's Beta Lambda Circle of Omicron Delta Kappa (ODK), national leadership honorary.

The organization recognizes achievement in academics, athletics, social and religious activities, mass communication and the creative and performing arts. It stresses exemplary character, responsible leadership and dedication to democratic ideals.

New student members are: Colette Fraley, Huntington; Sherry Harrison, Gallipolis, Ohio; Brentley Keith Archer, Middlebourne; Gregory B. Friel, Marlinton; Robert Jarvis, St. Albans; Mia Claire Moran, Charleston; Martha Caroline Tucci, South Charleston; Vaughn Gibson Rhudy, Beckley; Charles Russell Webb, Madison, and Sherri Genung, Norwich, New York.

Also initiated was Diana C. Waldron, Assistant professor of English. John H. Miller, MU assistant professor of modern languages, is faculty advisor for the organization.

Greg Friel

FAS ✓ CHEK MEAT PRICES ARE LOWER

er
raising event for the Mar-linton Music Building. Mr.
Burns chose to take cash
instead of a car.

Students

Ten students and one faculty member have been inducted into Marshall University's Beta Lambda Circle of Omicron Delta Kappa (ODK), national leadership honorary.

The organization recognizes achievement in academics, athletics, social and religious activities, mass communication and the creative and performing arts. It stresses exemplary character, responsible leadership and dedication to democratic ideals.

New student members are: Colette Fraley, Huntington; Sherry Harrison, Gallipolis, Ohio; Brentley Keith Archer, Middlebourne; Gregory B. Friel, Marlinton; Robert Jarvis, St. Albans; Mia Claire Moran, Charleston; Martha Caroline Tucci, South Charleston; Vaughn Gibson Rhudy, Beckley; Charles Russell Webb, Madison, and Sherri Genung, Norwich, New York.

Also initiated was Diana C. Waldron, Assistant professor of English. John H. Miller, MU assistant professor of modern languages, is faculty advisor for the organization.

Greg Friel

FAS ✓ CHEK MEAT

Mrs. Butcher's third grade class at Green Bank Elementary School recently completed a very exciting science project. They hatched baby chicks in an incubator. Afterward, children were able to take the baby chicks home. At last report all were doing well.

FBLA To Huntington

The Pocahontas County High School Future Business Leaders of America attended the State Leader-

Soil Conservation Service

A majority of the pastures in West Virginia are producing forages at rates far below their production potential, according to State Conservationist Rollin in 1958, decreasing to 1,837,000 in 1967, but expanding again in the next 10 years to 2,037,000 acres in 1977, the figure currently used.

The 1977 studies also show that 1,764,000 of the acres in pasture need conservation treatment of some kind, ranging from fertilization to reseeding. That represents 86 percent of all the land in pas-state data. That is, about 41% of the total pasture for Pocahontas County will have an erosion rate of more than 5 tons per acre per year," Crickenberger said.

Swank also said, "there are no better soil stabilizers than strong, healthy grasses and legumes. Close-growing vegetation cushions the impact of falling raindrops and reduc-

DNR

Antlerless Deer Applications Available

The Wildlife Resources Division announced today that applications for West Virginia's 1983 antlerless deer hunting permits are now available at all hunting and fishing license dealers; DNR Charleston, Elkins, and District Offices; and County Clerk Offices.

A total of 74,242 licenses will be issued for the December 9 - 10 season. Antlerless deer hunting will be permitted in the following counties or parts of counties: Barbour, Braxton, Brooke, Calhoun, Doddridge, Gilmer, Grant, Greenbrier, Hampshire, Hardy, Harrison, Jackson, Lewis, Marshall, Mineral, Monongalia, Monroe, Morgan, Ohio, Pendleton, Pleasants, Pocahontas, Preston, Randolph, Ritchie, Roane, Taylor, Tucker, Tyler, Upshur, Webster, Wetzel, Wirt, and Wood.

All applications for Class N antlerless deer licenses must be received by the DNR Application Section in Elkins by June 30, 1983. Only West Virginia residents 12 years of age or older on or before December 9, 1983, are eligible. All hunters are eligible to receive an antlerless deer hunting permit this year regardless of whether they purchased an antlerless deer hunting li-

Left to right: Cora Lee Wyatt, Bradley Harper, Kevin Irvine, Pat Burns, Terry Workman.

Left to right: Shawn Gilmore, Jeff Baxter, Henry Oscar, Kelly Pyles, Keith Shoemaker, Karen McKenney.

Left to right: Kenny Mullenax, Chawna Carr, Jim Pritchard, Gary Wyatt, Joyce McKenney, Joe Riley, Chuck Mullens.

Terry Workman, left, Chapter Queen, and Kelly Pyles, right, Chapter Sweetheart.

The annual Parents and Members Banquet of PCHS Future Farmers of America was held last Friday, April 22, in the cafeteria at the high school. Over 300 members, families, and guests enjoyed the good dinner and the wide variety

Karen McKenney received Honorary Chapter Farmer Degrees for their helpfulness to the Chapter.

Kelly Pyles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Pyles, Hillsboro, was elected Chapter Sweetheart.

Terry Workman, daugh-

Swine Production — Kevin Irvine

Poultry Products—Kevin Irvine (He exhibited eggs selected in the top ten in the state, bringing $160).

Fish and Wildlife Management—Henry Oscar

Public Speaking —

mended for the State Farmer Degree.

Former Chapter Star Farmers who were present were recognized, as follows: Troy Moore, Timothy Hevener, Kenneth Kelley, Charles A. Wilfong, Wil-

84
NOW THRU SUNDAY, MA
FREE DECK PLANS DIPPED LA TIES CONCRETE

Left to right: Kenny Mullenax, Chawna Carr, Jim Pritchard, Gary Wyatt, Joyce McKenney, Joe Riley, Chuck Mullens.

The annual Parents and Members Banquet of PCHS Future Farmers of America was held last Friday, April 22, in the cafeteria at the high school. Over 300 members, families, and guests enjoyed the good dinner and the wide variety of desserts brought by the mothers.

Kevin Irvine, president, presided over the opening ceremonies by the Chapter officers and the banquet program. Joyce McKenney, secretary, gave the address of welcome and introduced the guests. The members introduced their families. Tim Wilfong gave the FFA creed and Chawna Carr gave her speech, "Disappearing Farmlands," which she had given in the District Soil Conservation competition. She and Joe Crickenberger placed second.

Cora Lee Wyatt and Karen McKenney received Honorary Chapter Farmer Degrees for their helpfulness to the Chapter.

Kelly Pyles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Pyles, Hillsboro, was elected Chapter Sweetheart.

Terry Workman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Workman, Hillsboro, was named Chapter Queen.

Proficiency Awards were made by Vo-Ag teachers Steve Bland and Robert Reel as follows:

Diversified Livestock — Jeff Baxter

Beef Production—Chuck Mullens

Home Farmstead Improvement—Pat Burns

Horse Proficiency — Keith Shoemaker

Crop Products — Joyce McKenney

Sheep Production—Gary Wyatt and Joe Riley

Ag Mechanics—Bradley Harper

Cranberry Wilderness

On January 15, 1983, with a stroke of his pen, wilderness says Bob Bodine, District Ranger for the Forest Service at Rich-

Terry Workman, left, Chapter Queen, and Kelly Pyles, right, Chapter Sweetheart.

Swine Production — Kevin Irvine

Poultry Products—Kevin Irvine (He exhibited eggs selected in the top ten in the state, bringing $160).

Fish and Wildlife Management—Henry Oscar

Public Speaking — Chawna Carr

Shawn Gilmore was recognized for winning the Sub-Division extemporaneous speaking contest.

Honored for their special service to FFA were Mrs. Linda Beverage, Kenneth Vance, and Reon Lambert.

Jim Pritchard received the Star Greenhand (first year) Award.

Joyce McKenney was named Chapter Star Farmer, the outstanding award of the evening. She also received the Dekalb award for Outstanding Senior in Vo-Ag.

It was announced Jeff Baxter has been recommended for the State Farmer Degree.

Former Chapter Star Farmers who were present were recognized, as follows: Troy Moore, Timothy Hevener, Kenneth Kelley, Charles A. Wilfong, William Dilley, Don Kiner, James Baxter, Dolan Irvine, Lanty F. McNeel.

Chris Rapp, the Southeastern District FFA president, was a special guest, along with her mother.

Bradley Harper won the door prize of a prize ham purchased and donated by Dolan Irvine, and J. L. Shriner won a cake.

Chapter officers are:
Kevin Irvine, president Joe Riley, vice-president Gary Wyatt, security Pat Burns, treasurer
Mike Burns, reporter
Jeff Barlow, sentinel
Robbie Ramsey, parliamentarian.

District's management of the wilderness for this sea-

Much of the work

this to leave their itinerary, party size and comments. This information

Tim

A 24954, MAY 5, 1983

TH

The Pocahontas Memorial Hospital Auxiliary had food available

Dr. John Sharp did cardiac screening

---

times, you should contact either Dennis C. Alt, County Supervisor, or Matthew B. Price, Assistant County Supervisor in the Elkins County Office, located in the Forestry Building, Sycamore Street, (P. O. box 709) Elkins, West Virginia - telephone number 636-6785

Mrs. Brooks Barnett reports a cub bear was in her front yard on Monday, May 2. It ran off before she could get a picture.

Notice
Driver Tests & License Photos
Second and Fourth Mondays
10 a.m. - 6 p.m.
State Police Office

Vision testing was provided by the Pocahontas County School System.

Pocahontas Home Health Agency took blood pressures.

The Pocahontas Memorial Hospital Auxiliary had food available stem.

lealth pres-

Mary Lou Dilley, Extension Homemakers, serving as guides, and Betty Rae Weiford, Extension Home Economist, serving as coordinator of the Fair.

———

Anemic screening was performed by the Hillsboro Clinic

Hearing testing was provided by the Pocahontas County School System and Greenbrier Physicians not to offend anyone. you are offended, then yo should visit the dispos area on Saturday. Rather am merely soliciting y cooperation and respect a public right-of-way belongs to us all and u primarily by a few.

Respectfully yo
Mrs. Fairy D. Sh
Green

———

The Silver Haired Legi

The first session o second West Virginia Haired Legislature w held Tuesday, Octobe through Friday, Oc 21, 1983, in Charlesto

The Silver Haired lature is a model le ture, composed of sentatives 60 years and older, who are e from throughout the by their peers. Th this program, older learn about the legi process and identify tions to common pro not only of senior c but all West Virgini

All 134 seats in the Haired Legislature elected this year. are eligible if they years of age or old are registered to West Virginia. Can must reside in the Hearing testing was provided by the Pocahontas County School System and Greenbrier Physicians

Blood screening was offered by the Pocahontas Memorial Hospital.

— — —

Telephone Loan

U. S. Senator Robert C. Byrd announced last Thursday the award of a $224,000 federal loan for the Spruce

but all We

All 134 Haired Le elected th are eligib years of are regis West Virg must resi from whic and may any elect state.

To beco senior ci nominatin (50) sign dents of years or for a cand nominatio nating p than the seats, an held to d ners. filing nom is Friday.

For fu

Little Miss Pocahontas Pageant
Marlinton Municipal Auditorium
Friday, May 6— 7:30 p.m.
"Return to Oz"

:HS SCHEDULE
sday, May 5—For-Field Day reed.
aday and Friday,
h and 6th—PCHS ill go to Clarksburg Festival
, May 7th—Senior-Game
ay, May 10th—Vo-Evaluation organimeeting, 7 p.m.
esday, May 11 —
n., School Service
l meeting lay, May 12 —
lide Show, Year-ew Society Picnic
ay and Friday, and 13 — West Employment Serv-eening applicants Summer Youth

---

ton, Hillsboro, Bank May Menus
reakfast Menus
ay, May 9—
uice, Milk.
ay, May 10—
Egg on Biscuit, lk.
sday, May 11—
n Bun, Fruit, Milk
day, May 12—
ice, Milk.
, May 13—
uice, Milk.

—

Breakfast Menus
day, May 5—
, Juice Milk.
y, May 6—
Juice Milk.

Contestants For Little Miss Pocahontas Pageant 1983

Stephanie Lynn Anderson, age 5, daughter of Bud and Shelley Anderson, Minnehaha Springs.

Melissa Dawn Cain, age 5, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Cain, Marlinton.

Phoebe Lynn Auldridge, age 6, daughter of Hazel Auldridge, Marlinton.

Serena Rene Cain, age 5, daughter of Sugar Cain, Marlinton.

Little Mis
Marlinton
Friday

Breakfast Menus
day, May 5—
, Juice Milk.
, May 6—
, Juice, Milk.
y, May 9—
uice, Milk.
y, May 10—
ast, Pears, Milk
sday, May 11—
Biscuit, Juice,
ay, May 12—
, Juice, Milk
May 13—
Apple Sauce,

---

een Bank unch Menus
, May 9—am & Cheese, Green Beans,
aches, Milk.
, May 10—
ni, Pineapple
ole Slaw, Rolls,
k. ay, May 11—
lanket, French n Crackers w/ter, Jello w/
late Milk.
, May 12—
wn Chicken, tatoes, Green
ed Fruit, Rolls,
k.
May 13—
Peanut Butter
Celery & Carrot eanut Butter anana, Milk.

---

n & Hillsboro
unch Menus
, May 9—& Cheese, Spin-atoes, Purple Peanut Butter
k.
, May 10—Pattie on Bun,
ries, Peaches,

Phoebe Lynn Auldridge, age 6, daughter of Hazel Auldridge, Marlinton.

Terri Renae Auldridge, age 5, daughter of Hazel Auldridge, Marlinton.

Lorraine Marie Baxter, age 5, daughter of James E. Baxter, Mill Point.

Serena Rene Cain, age 5, daughter of Sugar Cain, Marlinton.

Bethany Ann Clutter, age, 5, daughter of Marshall and Jackie Clutter, Hillsboro.

Kelley Leigh Cohenour, age 5, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Cohenour, Marlinton.

Mandy Maire Fr
5, daughter of De Friel, Marlinton.

Corey Elizabe
Gladwell, 5, da George and San well, Buckeye.

...May 11—
...Crackers w/
...er, Jello w/
...ate Milk.
..., May 12—
...vn Chicken,
...tatoes, Green
...d Fruit, Rolls,

May 13—
Peanut Butter
...elery & Carrot
...anut Butter
...nana, Milk.

—
...& Hillsboro
...ch Menus
May 9—Cheese, Spin-
...toes, Purple
...anut Butter

May 10—
...tie on Bun,
...es, Peaches,

..., May 11—
...ossed Salad,
..., Rolls, But-

..., May 12—
...n Bun, Green
...d Jello, Milk.
May 13—
Peanut Butter
...heese Sticks,
...arrot Sticks,
...Milk.
...Lunch Menus
..., May 5—
...w/Meat &
...rden Salad,
...utter, Milk.
...May 6—
...on Bun,
..., Cookie,
...9—

Lorraine Marie Baxter, age 5, daughter of James E. Baxter, Mill Point.

Kelley Leigh Cohenour, age 5, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Cohenour, Marlinton.

Corey Gladwell, George
well, Buc

Danielle Lee Brown, age 6, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brown, Marlinton.

Tabitha Ann Cutlip, age 6, daughter of Geraldine Blackshire, Marlinton.

Holly age 5, ald and Green Ba

Mrs. Charles Brown, Marlinton.

Sharon Jane Burgess, age 5, daughter of Wayne and Charlotte Burgess, Hillsboro.

Mandy Renae Burks, age 6, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Burks, Buckeye

Tabitha Ann Cutlip, age 6, daughter of Geraldine Blackshire, Marlinton.

Rachel Grace Doss, age 5, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Randy Doss, Hillsboro

Audrey age 6, dau Mrs. Gary linton.

Andrea S age 5, daug and Billie Green Bank

Audrey Lynn Kramer, age 6, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Kramer, Marlinton.

Andrea Sheri Kinnison, age 5, daughter of Glenn and Billie Jo Kinnison, Green Bank.

Ruthana Elaine McNeel, 5, daughter of Donald and Karen McNeel, Hillsboro.

Sara Dawn Peacock, age 6, daughter of Ronnie and Brenda Peacock, Marlinton

nour,
and nour,

Holly Michele Gordon, age 5, daughter of Ronald and Jane Gordon, Green Bank.

Jennifer Jade McLaughlin, age 6, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard McLaughlin, Marlinton.

Victoria age 5, daugh Mrs. Lester
more.

, age ldine

Audrey Lynn Kramer, age 6, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Kramer, Marlinton.

Ruthana Elaine McNeel, age 5, daughter of Donald and Karen McNeel, Hillsboro.

nn Clutter, ter of Marrie Clutter, ohenour,

Mr. and
ohenour,

Corey Elizabeth Wade Gladwell, 5, daughter of George and Sandy Gladwell, Buckeye.

Holly Michele Gordon, age 5, daughter of Ronald and Jane Gordon, Green Bank.

Martha Leigh McComb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James F. McComb, Hillsboro.

Jennifer Jade McLaughlin, age 6, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard McLaughlin, Marlinton.

Marc age 5, and Shi boro.

Vict age 5, Mrs.
more.

Little Mi

Rene Cain, age
er of Sugar Cain,

Ann Clutter, ghter of Mar-ackie Clutter,

Mandy Maire Friel, age
5, daughter of Debbie E.
Friel, Marlinton.

Corey Elizabeth Wade Gladwell, 5, daughter of George and Sandy Gladwell, Buckeye.

Sharon Kay Morgan, age
5, daughter of Arlie and Maggie Morgan, Arbovale.

ha Leigh McComb,
daughter of Mr. and Mrs.
James F. McComb, Hillsboro.

Ronda Lou Sheets, daughter of Ronni Linda Sheets, Cass

Amy Lee Smit
daughter of Mr.
Joe Smith, Jr., H

Marcella A age 5, daught and Shirley W
boro.

Little Miss eant 1983

ssa Dawn Cain, age ghter of Mr. and ennis Cain, Marlin-

Rene Cain, age
r of Sugar Cain,

Little Miss Pocahon[illegible] Pageant
Marlinton Municipal [illegible] Auditorium
Friday, May 6— 7:30 p.m.
"Return to O[illegible]"

Shenda Sm[illegible]
Little Miss Pocah[illegible] 1982

Lora Daniel
5, daughter o
Jeanie Sharp,

Ronda Lou daughter of Linda Sheets

as Pageant Auditorium
30 p.m.
2''

Lora Danielle Sharp, age 5, daughter of Roger and Jeanie Sharp, Buckeye.

BUCKEY DRIV THEATR

THURSDAY - FRIDAY
MAY 5-6
Jekyll and Hyde Together Again
Mark Blankfield Bess Armstrong
R—Comedy

SPECIAL PROGRA
SUNDAY, MAY 8th—M
Willis Cornelius
8:30—Live Gospel M
Church of God Qu
2:00—Frost City Lir
Mahal'' (record)
4:30—Monthly Jazz

BARTOW DRIVE-I THEATRE

FRI.-SAT.
MAY 6-7
Best Little Whor House In Texas

ith ntas 1982

Lora Danielle Sharp, age 5, daughter of Roger and Jeanie Sharp, Buckeye.

Ronda Lou Sheets, age 5, daughter of Ronnie and Linda Sheets, Cass

Kay Morgan, age ghter of Arlie and e Morgan, Arbovale.

Amy Lee Smith, age 5, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Smith, Jr., Hillsboro.

Bess Armstrong
R—Comedy

Son
PG-

SPECIAL PROGRAMMING ON SUNDAY, MAY 8th—Morning Ser
Willis Cornelius
8:30—Live Gospel Music with t
Church of God Quartet
2:00—Frost City Limits—Musi
Mahal" (record)
4:30—Monthly Jazz with Sara

BARTOW DRIVE-IN THEATRE

FRI.-SAT.
MAY 6-7

Best Little Whore House In Texas
Dolly Parton
Burt Reynolds
PG

Also

Past Times At Richmont High
R

Le

Wh pi

Lo

Su

Mc

Fri
A

Award

At its meeting on May 2, 1983, the Marlinton Rotary Club presented Herbert G. McClure with a Scoutmaster's Desk Set. This award was given in recognition of the invaluable service he has given to Troop #33, Boy Scouts of America. His constant attention to the duties of Scoutmaster over a period of more than ten years is an example that others may follow. Thanks "Herb" for a job well done.

— — —

Sharon Kay Morgan, age daughter of Arlie and ggie Morgan, Arbovale.

Ronda Lou Sheets, age 5, daughter of Ronnie and Linda Sheets, Cass

Amy Lee Smith, age 5, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Smith, Jr., Hillsboro.

ha Leigh McComb, ter of Mr. and Mrs. e F. McComb, Hills-ro.

Marcella Ann Walker, age 5, daughter of Curtis and Shirley Walker, Hills-

Best Little Whore House In Texas
Dolly Parton
Burt Reynolds
PG

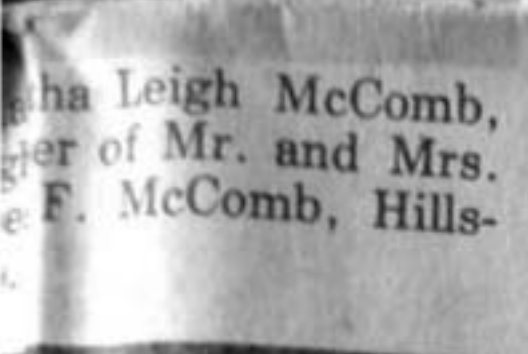
Also

Past Times At Richmont High
R

Award

At its meeting on May 2, 1983, the Marlinton Rotary Club presented Herbert G. McClure with a Scoutmaster's Desk Set. This award was given in recognition of the invaluable service he has given to Troop #33, Boy Scouts of America. His constant attention to the duties of Scoutmaster over a period of more than ten years is an example that others may follow. Thanks "Herb" for a job well done.

— — —



ha Leigh McComb,
ter of Mr. and Mrs.
F. McComb, Hills-

fer Jade McLaugh-6, daughter of Mr.
Mrs. Howard Mc-n, Marlinton.

Marcella Ann Walker, age 5, daughter of Curtis and Shirley Walker, Hillsboro.

Victoria Evon Waugh, age 5, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Waugh, Dunmore.

Amy Danette age 6, daughter of Mrs. Eugene Si Hillsboro and Doug
ney, of Fairmont.

Krista Yvonne

follow. Thanks Herb for a job well done.

— — —

nn Walker, ter of Curtis Walker, Hills-

Amy Danette Widney, age 6, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Simmons, Hillsboro and Douglas Widney, of Fairmont.

Nights—7:0
Sat. Matine
Sun. Mat.—2
636-3555
Elkins Twin LONE Mc —START Nights—
Sat. Mat
Sun. Mat.

Grace Church

The A. C. vention, held Mill on the 11t
April, was att students from tist Church students atte Jeff Hefner,
port, David T
Cloud, Meli
Teresa Friel.
entered in dif
tition events,
music, ches
table tennis, Jeff Hefner
in the 100
Gordon Cloud

Hillsboro and Douglas Widney, of Fairmont.

Waugh,
Mr. and gh, Dun-

Krista Yvonne Willis, age 6, daughter of Kenneth and Judy Willis, Marlinton.

students atte
Jeff Hefner, V
port, David T
Cloud, Meli
Teresa Friel.
entered in dif
tition events,
music, ches
table tennis, Jeff Hefner
in the 100
Gordon Clou place in pian place in ora
The adult went with were Mr. an Feldman an Mrs. Kenne at Grace Ba of all our stu

Don't Lit

Men's Sh

Texas Tim

IA 24954, MAY 19, 1983

d
d, 56,
, May

again on Wednesday morning most places, but fog protected areas along the river.

— — —

Trial Set

The trial of Barbara Combs for her part in the death of Ralph Combs, Jr., has been set for June 8 in Monroe County Circuit Court. Mrs. Combs has been charged with being an accessory before the fact.

— — —

Hunting Accident

Christopher J. Stuart, 31, of Snowshoe, was accidentally shot on the morning of May 11 when he was mistaken for a turkey. He was shot by Jack D. Mearns, 48, of Punta Gorda, Florida, while they were hunting near Snowshoe.

20,000 skie compared year. "E weather p shoe was eastern s even mat year skier Joe Burf General M eastern sl percent b did last ye

The ma project for completion holes and 18-hole ch course bein Hawthorne base of S tain.

Snowsho began on A continue u son begins

— — —

Hunting Accident

Christopher J. Stuart, 31, of Snowshoe, was accidentally shot on the morning of May 11 when he was mistaken for a turkey. He was shot by Jack D. Mearns, 48, of Punta Gorda, Florida, while they were hunting near Snowshoe.

Stuart was admitted to the Davis Memorial Hospital with numerous pellet wounds over his body. He was discharged Friday.

Mearns was charged with the negligent shooting of a human being while hunting by Conservation Officer Richard Morris. He appeared before Magistrate Sue Hollandsworth on Thursday and entered a plea of guilty. He was fined $300 and costs.

— — —

The major project for 198 completion of t holes and club 18-hole champ course being c Hawthorne V base of Snow tain.

Snowshoe's began on Apr continue until son begins
November. M are schedule Season, inclu clinics; the W Grand Prix
June 24-26; t ginia Junior Championshi Annual West billy Chili C Swap, Aug
Mountain Ch Race, August Mid-Atlantic Years and Tournament

er Cent lonor Society

ite, of Minne-s, was graduat-airmont State Saturday with e of Science gal Secretarial will be workinton for Ate Hunter and rd.

ts, Mr. and White, Jr., her win, his wife s, Corey and nd Craig and and daughter,
ded the gradu-nies.

— —

ng, of Marlin-completed her ceived a Certifi-in Secretarial Fairmont State

e daughter of
s. Robert Wil-working tempo-he Pocahontas t House.

— —

ggs, of Hills-receive her ociate Degree eenbrier Com-ege in Lewis-

Student

Graduating in the one hundred ninth Glenville State College Commencement Sunday, May 15, was Susan Elaine Kelley, of Marlinton, with associate in arts degrees in administrative science and secretarial science. Susan Elaine is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. K. G. Kelley.

— — —

Attending the Com-

Knit Summer Fashion Tops

Woven blouses and shirt with turn back collars, short or cap sleeves, pockets and button deta Mesh and terry knit top crop and tank styles.
Plaids, stripes or solids
Regular and extra sizes

$1 Ea.

Health And Beauty Aids

•8.2 Oz. Close-Up

1983 Pocahontas County High School Seniors

Tammie Lynn Alderman •Teresa Lynn Alderman Jerry Ray Almaroad
Leah L. Arbogast
Tammy Lynn Armstrong
Martha Ann Barlow
Jeffrey W. Baxter
Ronald Dale Beckwith Marvin Gray Beverage, Jr.
Kimberly Dawn Brock
Charles W. Brown, Jr.
Sandra Maxine Brown
Jesse Buchanan
Byron W. Burgess
•James Ray Burks Christopher Thomas Burns
John Barlow Burns
Dottie Lou Buzzard
William David Campbell
Linda Ann Carpenter
Lisa Francene Carpenter
Warrick Wade Carpenter
Chawna B. Carr
Harry Lynn Chocklett
Mary Margaret Coberly
•Virginia Louise Coleman Laura Ann Combs
Leo Lamar Conner, Jr.
Michael Wayne Cook
Woodrow Lynn Cromer
•Brenda S. Curry Rebecca Lynn Davis
Matthew Glen Dean
Richard Allen Dickenson
David Lee Mace
Karen Marie Maddy
Lisa Marie Mann
•David Lee Michael Helen Louise Miller
•Sean Edward Milliner
Gregory A. Monk
Amber Lee Mullenax
•Paul D. Murphy
•Perry L. Murphy
Arnold L. Nelson
John A. Nicely
Pauline Marie Oref
Henry L. Oscar
* Dennis Wayne Peery
Donald L. Pinkerton
Antoni Edward Pondexter
Gertrude Ione Pritt
Glenda Irene Pyles
Marsha Kay Ramsey Brenda Kay Ricottilli •Sara E. Riley
Susan Marie Riley
Samuel W. Rittenhouse
Darrell Dwayne Roach Travis Lee Roach Ronald L. Rose
Kenneth D. Schoolcraft
Kenneth A. Schubeck
Gary Alan Scott
Kimberley Faye Scott
Lisa Elaine Scott
Thomas David Shafer
Anthony Todd Sharp
Duane H. Sharp

Richard Allen Dickenson
Edna F. Doss
David Leon Eary
Rosie Marie Ellison
Russell Emery
Shawn Kelley Ervine
Lora Lea Friel
Bobbie Jean Galford
William Shawn Gilmore
David Price Grogg
Donna Marie Gum
William Russel Hamons
Terri Denise Hanna
Ray Houston Hanshew, III
••Cara Lynelle Hefner
••Carla Lynn Hefner
Shelley Renee Helmick
Anita Dell Hively
Leonard Scott Howell
•Anne Stanfield Howsare •Rhonda Hunt
••Christopher Mark Jessee
Chris Allen Jordan
Farrell Gene Kelley
••Jane Gay Kelley
Merle Gene Kerr, Jr.
Emily Hope Kinder
Brenda S. Kiner
Kenneth Ira Lantz
Robbie Jo Lawson
Alston James Lewis
Robert Price Lipscomb
David C. Liptak
Kathleen Hope Little Sabrina Joyce Long Sandra Jean Long
Debra Louise McCarty Mary Kay McCarty
Carolyn E. McKenney
Joyce Ann McKenney
Cheryl Ann McLaughlin

Duane H. Sharp
Marvin Lee Sharp
Harold Chester Shifflett
Sheila Jane Shinaberry
Keith E. Shoemaker
Todd Jonah Shreve
Cynthia J. Simmons
Debra Kay Smith
Sherry Lynn Stanley •Bonita Kay Starks
Herman Thomas Taylor, Jr.
Steven L. Tenney
Lillian E. Thompson
Sadie Lou Turley
Clarissa Lynn Tyree
Everette Wayne Underwood
John Eugene Vandevander
Pamela Sue VanReenen
Connie Marie Varner
John C. Varner
Lyndon B. Varner
Sheila Sue Stull Varner
Benjamin P. Vrable
Sara Alice Wagner
Norman E. Walker
Cindy Louise Warner
Donna Lynn Warner
Robert Lee Waugh, Jr.
Lori Waybright Wayne
Sandra Marie Weatherholt
Harry L. Wiley
Daron M. Wilfong
Sheila Ann Wilfong
Melinda Lea Wilson
Troy G. Wilson
Cheryl Shinaberry Woollard
••Charles P. Workman ••Teresa Kay Workman

*Top Ten Per Cent •National Honor Society

Irene White, of Minnehaha Springs, was graduated from Fairmont State College on Saturday with

CCC's

Tempest Hill, of Marlinton, was at Camp Seneca 21 Months.

Shannon Withers, of Marlinton, was at Camp Watoga, 3 years.

—

Robert Hanlin, who now lives in Elkins, was in the CCC's but we don't know the camp yet.

—

Robert McCormick, of Marlinton, started at Camp Black Mountain, working on a timber survey, then he was moved to Watoga, then to Ohio. He wondered why he didn't get moved back to West Virginia, close to home as the other boys were. Later, an officer commented, "Weren't you glad you were kept here, closer to home?" They thought he was from Indiana.

—

William S. Smith, formerly of Clover Lick, was a member of Company 1522 CCC, Camp Sp-3 at Clifftop, West Virginia. He served under Captain John H. Enlow, Inf. Res. 400th Inf. from October 1935 until March of 1937. We would appreciate your sending his name and address to the proper party so that he might receive any information concerning the 50th reunion of CCC during Pioneer Days.

— — —

Bill Barrett, of Marlinton was in Camp Watoga and at Dailey.

— — —

Boys and Girls in Service

Specialist 4P Timothy D. Stewart arrived home May 12, after serving four years in the 13th Engineer Battalion at Fort Ord, California. While serving he received the Army Achievement Medal, Good Conduct Medal, 3 Letters of Achievement, 2 Certificates of Commendation, 1 Certificate of Training and 3 Letters of Congratulation from Major General "Thomas Ayers". Stewart also spent 2 separate short tours in Alaska for a total of 74 days and one short tour of 33 days in Panama.

— — —

Jeffrey Barb, of Parkersburg and a '79 graduate of Pocahontas County High School, was in Washington, D. C., over the weekend of May 14 and 15 to try out as a punter for the Washing-

Spring Round Up

An International Tasting lunch was the highlight of the Extension Homemakers Spring Round Up. Homemakers from throughout Pocahontas County gathered in Marlinton May 4 to share food and receive a booklet of international recipes.

Linda Simmons, chairman of the EH International Committee, along with Jan Martin and Virginia Lou Young, presented a brief program on Canada and described the Canadian tour being planned by the committee.

There was an exhibit of crafts and the following exhibits were selected to represent the county at the Area Meeting: Ceramics, Hazel Vandevender; Quilting, Isabel Wenger; Braided rug and woven placemat, Noriene Gottschalk; stuffed mallard, Madge Bledsoe; Creative Writing, Mildred McLaughlin; Crocheted afghan, Gayle Mullenax; a hand stitched picture by Ruth Beale and a painting by Beryle Elliott.

Millie Campbell, who attended the Spring Conference at Jackson's Mill in April explained the new Certified Volunteer Unit CVU program and distributed books.

Betty Rae Weiford, extension home economist, reported that twenty-one homemakers had reservations for the Area meeting to be held at Camp Caesar, May 18.

The Past 100 Ye

MURDERED.

BY FRENZIED FOREIGNERS

WALTER ALVIS CLUBBED TO DEATH BY ITALIANS. WHO ATTACK AND WRECK COMPANY'S OFFICE.

A band of nine Italians attacked the office of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company at Spruce Sunday afternoon, and in the fright which ensued Walter Alvis, aged about 24 years, of Greenbrier County, was killed and Joe Hannah, the superintendent of the West Virginia Spruce Lumber Company's mill, was badly hurt. A number of the Italians had been discharged, and for some reason had not drawn as much money as they thought they deserved. They attacked the office and broke out the windows. Mr. Hannah went out to quiet them. They immediately made for him, striking him on the head with a club and cutting at him. He saved his head by warding off the blow with his hand. He retreated inside and one of the Italians followed him, trying to draw a gun. This he was unable to do, and Mr. Hannah and another threw him down, took his gun and tied him up. It was an automatic gun and Mr. Hannah being unfamiliar with it could not use it.

While this was going on one of the Italians knocked Alvis down with a blow from a shotgun, and four or five of them beat his head into a pulp with clubs. The Italians had been drinking and They were frothing at the mouth like mad animals. It seems the object of their fury was a young man named Long, who is the bookkeeper for the Company. He was in the office at the time, and had a gun, but a cartridge got caught, rendering it useless.

Three or four of the Italians were taken into custody immediately but the others escaped. On Monday three were captured at Mingo, and that evening another near Boyer. Eight are now in jail and the ninth has eluded arrest but is lost in the woods east of the Greenbrier River above Cass. A large posse is following him and his arrest is expected every hour. He has been followed continuously since the murder was committed.

On Wednesday five of the foreigners were arraigned in court but would not or could not talk English. An interpreter was secured T. S. McNeel and Andrew Price were appointed by Judge Bennett counsel to defend the prisoners.

The murderd man is a native of Greenbrier county, and has been working for the West Virginia Spruce Lumber Company about three years. He was not over 23 years old and was a sober industrious young man. His remains were taken to North

MILLION DOLLARS FIRE.

Big Wood Working Plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company at Cass destroyed last Friday morning.

The big mill, storage house, planing mill and dry kiln of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company at Cass, was burned last Friday morning, February 24. The loss entailed will perhaps be a million dollars. There is some insurance.

The fire originated in the planing mill, spreading to the big band saw mill to the big storage house and then to the drying plant. After a time the pumps were put out of commission by the fire, and the lumber in the immense yard was saved by hard and effective fighting. The cause of the fire is not known.

This plant was the largest industry of the Greenbrier Valley, and perhaps the biggest and best equipped wood working plant in the State of West Virginia. Around it the town and prosperous town of Cass has grown. The mill has been in operation day and night, but was not running at the time of the fire on account of a temporary shortage of logs.

In the storage house was about a hundred carloads of the finest kind of finished hardwood lumber, mostly flooring. This was one of the largest items of the loss.

The planing mill was equipped with modern woodworking machinery, all new, and a great deal of it only installed in the past few months. Some of it was put in just the day before the fire.

The dry kiln was a new building of steel and concrete construction and filled with the best of hard wood lumber. It was an immense structure, and had been but recently completed.

A more disastrous fire to Greenbrier Valley could not well be imagined. It was the biggest of our industrial plants and running full time and extra time. It was the permanent lumber operation of the Valley, and the past year or two had been equipped throughout with up-to-date machinery. For over twenty years the mill has run steadily.

The company has not made public its plans for future as regarding the rebuilding.

The West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company owns about two hundred thousand acres of timber and coal lands in Pocahontas, Randolph, Webster counties. They operate a railroad system, the Greenbrier, Cheat and Elk Railroad; a number of coal mines, and supply the big paper mills at Covington with pulp wood from their holdings in Pocahontas and adjoining counties.

March 2.

The Past 100 Years from The Pocahonta

RED.

REIGNERS

DEATH BY ITALIANS.
OMPANY'S OFFICE.

...re frothing at the mouth
...d animals. It seems the
...f their fury was a young
...ed Long, who is the book
...r the Company. He was
...Dce at the time, and had
...t a cartridge got caught,
...; it useless.
...er four of the Italians
...n into custody immedi-
...the others escaped. O
...three were captured at
...d that evening another
...r. Eight are now in
...alath has eluded arrest
...in the woods east of
...ster River above Cass.
...ase is following him
...rest is expected every
...has been followed con-
...ince the murder was

...nesday five of the
...ere arraigned in court
...ot or could not talk
...is interpreter was
S. McNeel and
...s were appointed by
...t counsel to defend

...d man is a native of
...ny, and has been
...the West Virginia
...er Company about
...He was not over 21
...and was a sober
...oving man. His
...s taken to North
...burial. June 4, 1908.

...K OF MARLINTON
...k of Marlinton will
...r business this week
...ker, late teller of the ...resident, to the position
...ed of Cashier in the

MILLION DOLLARS FIRE

Big Wood Working Plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company at Cass destroyed last Friday morning.

The big mill, storage house, planing mill and dry kiln of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company at Cass, was burned last Friday morning, February 24. The loss entailed will perhaps be a million dollars. There is some insurance.

The fire originated in the planing mill, spreading to the big band saw mill to the big storage house and then to the drying plant. After a time the pumps were put out of commission by the fire, and the lumber in the immense yard was saved by hard and effective fighting. The cause of the fire is not known.

This plant was the largest industry of the Greenbrier Valley, and perhaps the biggest and best equipped wood working plant in the State of West Virginia. Around it the big and prosperous town of Cass has grown. The mill has been in operation day and night, but was not running at the time of the fire on account of a temporary shortage of logs.

In the storage house was about a hundred carloads of the finest kind of finished hardwood lumber, mostly flooring. This was one of the largest items of the loss.

The planing mill was equipped with modern woodworking machinery, all new, and a great deal of it only installed in the past few months. Some of it was put in just the day before the fire.

The dry kiln was a new building of steel and concrete construction and filled with the best of hard wood lumber. It was an immense structure, and had been but recently completed.

A more disastrous fire to Greenbrier Valley could not well be imagined. It was the biggest of our industrial plants and running full time and extra time. It was the permanent lumber operation of the Valley, and in the past year or two had been equipped throughout with up-to-date machinery. For over twenty years the mill has run steadily.

The company has not made public its plans for future as regarding the rebuilding.

The West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company owns about two hundred thousand acres of timber and coal lands in Pocahontas, Randolph and Webster counties. They operate a railroad system, the Greenbrier, Cheat and Elk Railroad, a number of coal mines, and supply the big paper mills at Covington with pulp wood from their holdings in Pocahontas and adjoining counties.

March 2, 1

MARLINTON BRIDGE A-COMING DOWN

The old state bridge is being taken down to be replaced by a modern concrete structure. Daniel Lint, foreman for the Luten Bridge Company, started in Friday morning with a force of men to dismantle the old structure and it is now pretty well down. A ford was picked across the river and at no time was foot passengers interrupted. A strong temporary bridge immediately below the old bridge was completed Wednesday afternoon.

The old bridge has been the point of interest of the town this week. Among the spectators was the venerable Ewing Johnson who says he sawed the boards used in floor of the bridge on a sawmill owned by the late James A. Price, located at what is now Riverside addition of Marlinto. This mill was run by water power, and by working early and late Mr. Johnson could manage to saw three hundred feet a day.

The old was certainly built from the ground up, with the best of material and the best of workmanship. The nails and bolts were hand forged, and wooden pins were used whenever possible. The timber, Mr. Johnson tells us, was gotten mainly on the nearby ridges, the white pine on Knapps Creek and the oak on Jericho Flats but the largest and best white pine was floated from Harter and cut in the ravine above Paul Sharp's house.

This bridge was built before bridge engineering had become the exact science it is today, and all parts were made equally strong, with no attention paid to the fact that certain parts and portions of the structure would have greater stress and strain to bear than other parts.

June 17, 1915

One of the interested spectators at the bridge job last week was the venerable George McKeever, who recalled very vividly recollections of the building of the old wooden bridge more than sixty years ago. At the time Eli Chenowith, of Beverly, was building the bridge, his neighbor, Nelson Fitzwater had the contract for the building of the Marlins Bottom and Lewisburg turnpike. As a boy of twelve or thirteen years, Mr. McKeever was employed by Fitzwater as an errand boy. One of his jobs was to carry tools to [illegible] the blacksmith shop [illegible] with maintained somewhere near the present site of The Times office. When all the timbers were prepared for the bridge, Chenowith sent word to Fitzwater to bring his force of road men and assist in the bridge raising and for several days the road force assisted the bridge force. As a boy

A Spring will help yo

Have you clogged up yo Winter? Have you lost y everybody needs medicine cleanse and tone up the sys working order. Our fresh brace you up. After you se

KEE & M DRUGG
Marlinton
THE SAN--TO

A Growing Community, with its Stave Factory, Sawmills and Live Stock Interests

November 27, 1902

In enumerating the improvements along the Greenbrier Railway in Pocahontas county, we must not leave out Clover Lick, which is not only one of the prettiest localities along the line, but is also one of the busiest.

In the comparative statement of passengers, freight, tonnage and revenue, put out by the C. & O. Company for the year ending June 30, 1902, Clover Lick is the fourth depot on the line from Whitcomb to Durbin for revenue, being exceeded only by Cass, Marlinton and Beulick. The revenue for October 1902 exceeded $3,000 with a blow from a shotgun, and four or five of them beat his head into a pulp with clubs. The Italians had been drinking and their fury was something fearful.

years old and was a sober ndustrious young man. His remains were taken to North Caldwell for burial. June 4, 1908

DISASTROUS FIRE

Old Temporary Court House Building Burned Tuesday morning. Marlinton Journal Office Greatly Damaged.

About three o'clock Tuesday morning, February 21, 1928, the big building at the corner of Court Street and Fourth Avenue, known as the Temporary Court House, was discovered to be on fire. An alarm was made, and the firemen turned out promptly for a stubborn fight of a couple of hours. The building was pretty well destroyed, though the four wall still stand. The fire is thought to have started from a flue.

The property is owned by L. S Cochran of Cass. His loss is several thousand dollars, partially covered by insurance.

This was a large double building One of the first floor rooms was rented by the board of Education for a school room and was used for the first grade pupils. The seats and other furniture and equipment was damaged by water.

The other large room was the office of the Marlinton Journal, owned by Editor W. G Lancaster. Great damage was done to this well equipped plant by fire, water and falling bricks This loss is partially covered by insurance. Fortunately the very expensive linotype machine was so placed that it could be protected, and it suffered little or no damage. A large stock of paper and stationery was a complete loss. Mr. Lancaster has secured quarters in the Greer building, and the Journal will appear as usual this week, though a day or two late.

The second story was cut up into living rooms. Mrs. E. C. Cochran had an apartment there, as did Ira H. Irvine and Eza Irvine. The loss of the Irvine Brothers is something like $2,000 with $500 insurance.

The building burned Tuesday morning was one of the first to be

THE BANK OF MARLINTON.

The Bank of Marlintnn will be open for business this week. F. R. Hunter, late teller of the Bank of Greenbrier, is the cashier. M. J. McNeel of Academy is the president of the bank. He is known as one of the safest and most conservative business men of the county. The company bought a lot near the east end of the bridge and erected a building thereon. A fine safe with a time lock has been put in and the rooms neatly furnished.

The stock is all held by Greenbrier and Pocahontas people, some of the wealthiest men of both counties being identified with the enterprise. One-half the stock is placed in Greenbrier and the rest in Pocahontas. The expected railroad development is the cause of the bank being established here, but its continuance does not depend upon a railroad by any means. While it will not be so convenient doing a banking business this distance from a railroad, the company considers it a good field in either event. It is reported in banking circles that no less than eight companies in Virginia, West Virginia, and Ohio were contemplating starting a bank at this place. A bank here has been badly needed in this county for years, and it will be a great convenience to the people generally. Pocahontas welcomes the new enterprise and hopes that it is but the first of many investments of capital in to We Use POCAHON

Give
J. M.
Ma

February 28, 1868

Stockholders Meeting.

The regular annual meeting of the stockholders of the Madison & Virginia Mutual Telephone Co. hereby notified will be held at the office of said Company, Warrenton, Va., on Saturday, the 11th day of January, 1873, at 10 o'clock A. M., for the purpose of electing a Board of Directors for the ensuing year and for the transaction of such other business as may properly come before said meeting.

C. A. Warren, Sec.

January 1, 1873

June 18, 1868

August 1, 1868

Valley could not well be imagined was the biggest of our industrial nts and running full time and ex time. It was the permanent ope operation of the Valley, and in past year or two had been equip throughout with up-to date mac
ery. For over twenty years the has run steadily.
he company has not made publ lans for future as regarding ... ilding.
e West Virginia Pulp and Pa pany owns about two hundred hand acres of timber and ... in Pocahontas, Randolph and ter counties. They operate a ad system, the Greenbrier and Elk Railroad; a number mines, and supply the big pu at Covington with pulp wo their holdings in Pocahon adjoining counties.

March 2, 19

POCAHONTAS TELEPHONE CO.
J. M. DEAN, MANAGER
Marlinton, W. Va.

parts were made equally strong, with no attention paid to the fact that certain parts and portions of the structure would have greater stress and strain to bear than other parts.

June 17, 1915

One of the interested spectators at the bridge job last week was the venerable George McKeever, who recalled very vividly recollections of the building of the old wooden bridge more than sixty years ago. At the time Eli Chenowith, of Beverly, was building the bridge, his neighbor, Nelson Fitzwater had the contract for the building of the Marlins Bottom and Lewisburg turnpike. As a boy of twelve or thirteen years, Mr. McKeever was employed by Fitzwater as an errand boy. One of his jobs was to carry tools to and from the blacksmith shop Chenowith maintained somewhere near the present site of The Times office. When all the timbers were prepared for the bridge, Chenowith sent word to Fitzwater to bring his force of road men and assist in the bridge raising and for several days the road force assisted the bridge force. As a boy Mr. McKeever saw the bridge go up and as a man of seventy-five saw it down. He recalls the wonder he felt when he saw the pin driver, a man named Sargent, walk with no concern the timbers on top of the structure when a misstep would have put him to the river fifty feet below. He says that both the bridge and the road were superinteded by Captain William Cochran, of Stony Creek. Larry McCollam, William and Absolom Morrison were employed as expert hewers of wood. Much of the fine white pine timber was cut and prepared on Douthards Creek and floated down Knapps Creek.

July 1, 1915

DRU Marlinton
THE SAN

A Growing Community, with its Stave Factory, Sawmills and Live Stock Interests

November 27, 19

In enumerating the improvements along the Greenbrier Railway in Pocahontas county, we must not leave out Clover Lick which is not only one of the prettiest localities along the line, but is also one of the busiest.

In the comparative statement of passengers, freight, tonnage and revenue, put out by the C. O. Company for the year ending June 30, 1902, Clover Lick is the fourth depot on the line from Whitcomb to Durbin for revenue being exceeded only by Cass, Marlinton and Renick. The revenue for October 1902 exceeded $3,000.

This C. & O. statement, by the way, is a very instructive document, and can be examined by anyone at the various depots.

Clover Lick has a large hotel with a capacity for 75 people, residences, all nicely finished, painted and painted. A commodious section house. A large mercantile establishment; A large stave factory with a capacity of 10,000 daily. Two sawmills at the place and two mills near by shipping from this port. Capacity of sawmills 60,000 feet.

It is also one of the largest live stock shipping points along the line, and when the large orchards which are being planted come in an immense amount of fruit will be shipped.

made equally strong, ntion paid to the fact parts and portions of would have greater strain to bear than

June 17, 1915

...interested specta-
...idge job last week
...rable George Mc-
...ecalled very vividly
... the building of the
...dge more than sixty
... the time Eli Chen-
...erly, was building
...is neighbor, Nelson
...the contract for the
...e Marlins Bottom
...g turnpike. As a
... or thirteen years,
... was employed by
...n errand boy. One
...s to carry tools to
...e blacksmith shop
...intained somewhere
...t site of The Times
...all the timbers were
...the bridge. Cheno-
...d to Fitzwater to
...e of road men and
...bridge raising and
...s the road force as-
...te force. As a boy
... saw the bridge go
...man of seventy-five
...He recalls the won-
...hen he saw the pin
...n named Sargent.
...oncern the timbers
... structure when a
...d have put him to
...y feet below. He
... the bridge and the
...perintoded by Cap-
... Cochran, of Stony
...y McCollam. Wil-

Marlinton

THE SAN-TOX STORE

A Growing Community, with its Stave Factory, Sawmills and Live Stock Interests

November 27, 1902

In enumerating the improvements along the Greenbrier Railway in Pocahontas county, we must not leave out Clover Lick, which is not only one of the prettiest localities along the line, but is also one of the busiest.

In the comparative statement of passengers, freight, tonnage and revenue, put out by the C. & O. Company for the year ending June 30, 1902, Clover Lick is the fourth depot on the line from Whitecomb to Durbin for revenue, being exceeded only by Cass, Marlinton and Renick. The revenue for October 1902 exceeded $3,000.

This C. & O. statement, by the way, is a very instructive document, and can be examined by anyone at the various depots.

Clover Lick has a large hotel with a capacity for 75 people. Six residences, all nicely finished, enclosed and painted. A commodious section house. A large mer-

HOME

—The first t... Lee pitched in ... tersville when ...

—Last Frid... reached its gre... summer it bein...

—Squirrels ... this year and ... shooting to the...

—Our town ... blessed in that ... single case of ... long continued...

—Mr. N. C. M... last fish" last ... three pounds ... ing a meal tha...

—Capt. Wm ... appointed by ... honorary dele... Farmer's Con... ty. This bod... burg, Oct. 3, ...

—It is repo... that so large ... sons, have the... istry in view t... will be left to ... in the future.

—The publi... will be taught ... and Wm. Wy... McLaughlin ... years and a gr... and Mr. Wyse...

O. Company for the year ending June 30, 1902, Clover Lick is the fourth depot on the line from Whitcomb to Durbin for revenue, being exceeded only by Cass, Marliuton and Renick. The revenue for October 1902 exceeded $3,000.

This C. & O. statement, by the way, is a very instructive document, and can be examined by anyone at the various depots.

Clover Lick has a large hotel with a capacity for 75 people. Six residences, all nicely finished, enclosed and painted. A commodious section house. A large mercantile establishment; A large stave factory with a capacity of 10,000 daily. Two sawmills at the place and two mills nearby, shipping from this port. Capacity of sawmills 60,000 feet.

It is also one of the largest live stock shipping points along the line, and when the large orchards which are being planted come in, an immense amount of fruit will be shipped.

And the prospects for future development are bright. The loca-blacksmith shop ained somewhere

ite of The Times
the timbers were bridge. Chenoo Fitzwater to road men and ge raising and ie road force asorce. As a boy the bridge go of seventy-five recalls the won-he saw the pin
amed Sergent.
ern the timbers ructure when a ave put him to eet below. He bridge and the nteded by Capchran, of Stony IcCollam, Wil-Morrison were pert hewers of the fine white t and prepared eek and floated ek.

July 1, 1915

long contin
—Mr. N. last fish" l three poun ing a meal
—Capt. appointed honorary Farmer's ty. This burg, Oct
—It is that so la sons, have istry in vi will be le in the fut
—The will be ta and Wm.
McLaugh years and
and Mr. promisin den Sydn
—Mr. prospecti month a vey on W found by of heavil molested accompa who wish lands wit he will s Russian on a larg been cle
At least preferable recently

It is also one of the largest live stock shipping points along the line, and when the large orchards which are being planted come in, an immense amount of fruit will be shipped.

And the prospects for future development are bright. The location here of a $75,000 plant imbracing a band saw, only awaiting the securing a right of way up the creek to some timber estimated to be 30 or 40 million feet.

And the Wabash too is looking this way for a route down James river for its immense western traffic, which is not to be wondered at when a distance of 12 or 15 miles will encompass all the mountain ranges at this point.

Men Wanted

We are preparing to open our Cloverlick operation, and will need a lot of good men right away in the woods

munity, with its Sawmills and Interests
vember 27, 1902
the improve-Greenbrier Rail-as county, we Clover Lick, ne of the pretthe line, but usiest.
tive statement eight, tonnage nt by the C. & e year ending over Lick is the
the line from n for revenue, nly by Cass,
ck. The rev-902 exceeded

tement, by the tructive docuexamined by us depots.
a large hotel 75 people. Six

HOME NEWS
GOSSIP CHAS

—The first tent that Gen. R. E. Lee pitched in the war was at Huntersville when he was Col. Lee.

—Last Friday the themometer reached its greatest height of the summer it being 94° in the shade.

—Squirrels are very plentiful this this year and afford a lot of good shooting to the local hunters.

—Our town has been particularly blessed in that we have not had a siugle case of sickness during this long continued dry spell.

—Mr. N. C. McNeill took his "long last fish" last week, it being over three pounds in weight and affording a meal that fed an entire family.

—Capt. Wm L. McNeel has been appointed by Gov. McCorkle as the honorary delegate to the National Farmer's Congress from this county. This body meets in Parkersburg, Oct. 3, 1894.

—It is reported from Highland that so large a number of young persons, have the law, medicine or ministry in view that the wonder is who will be left to care for the fine farms in the future.

—The public school at this place single case of sickness during this long continued dry spell.

—Mr. N. C. McNeill took his "long last fish" last week, it being over three pounds in weight and affording a meal that fed an entire family.

—Capt. Wm L. McNeel has been appointed by Gov. McCorkle as the honorary delegate to the National Farmer's Congress from this county. This body meets in Parkersburg, Oct. 3, 1894.

—It is reported from Highland that so large a number of young persons, have the law, medicine or ministry in view that the wonder is who will be left to care for the fine farms in the future.

—The public school at this place will be taught by J. A. McLaughlin and Wm. Wysong of Academy. Mr. McLaughlin is a teacher of some years and a graduate of Dunsmore, and Mr. Wysong one of the most promising undergraduates of Hampden Sydney.

—Mr. Frank M. Null Jr. who was prospecting in this county a month ago looking up an old survey on William's River, which was found by him to be a valuable tract of heavily timbered land as yet unmolested. He will presently return accompanied by a wealthy stockman who wishes to look at our grass lands with a view of investing also he will act as agent for a colony of Russian Poles who wish to locate on a large tract of land, which has been cleared or partly cleared.

and Mr. Wysong one of the most promising undergraduates of Hampden Sydney.

—Mr. Frank M. Null Jr. who was prospecting in this county a month ago looking up an old survey on William's River, which was found by him to be a valuable tract of heavily timbered land as yet unmolested. He will presently return accompanied by a wealthy stockman who wishes to look at our grass lands with a view of investing also he will act as agent for a colony of Russian Poles who wish to locate on a large tract of land, which has been cleared or partly cleared. At least this sort of land would be preferable. a block of timbered land recently cut would do. Any one wishing to correspond with Mr. Null concerning such land will address him at Ruffsdale, Pa. Box 33.

—The fact seems it be pretty well established that the Lewisburg Fair would have been a flat affair had it not been for the life imparted by the Englishemn of Pocahontas and Randolph counties. They made up the races, formed new ones, ran hounds on the track and added life and enthusiasm to the whole programme. Taking this into consideration along with the fact that Mr. A. M. McLaughlin, late of this county, swept every thing before him in the line of stock exhibits re-well established that the Lewisburg Fair would have been a flat affair had it not been for the life imparted by the Englishemn of Pocahontas and Randolph counties. They made up the races, formed new ones, ran hounds on the track and added life and enthusiasm to the whole programme. Taking this into consideration along with the fact that Mr. A. M. McLaughlin, late of this county, swept every thing before him in the line of stock exhibits receiving the blue ribbon, the Lewisburg people must have had some sort of inkling that the people of this county do things besides drive white covered wagons to Ronceverte for supplies, an idea too deeply rooted in the minds of most Lewisburg people to be wholly eradicated.

September 14, 1894

Dr. E. G. HEROLD
DENTIST
X-ray Equipment
MARLINTON, W. VA
Offices in Marlinton Electric Co. Bld

DR. CHAS. S. KRAMER
DENTIST
X-ray work done
Hours 8 to 12 and 1 to 6

The Past 100 Years

ARMY AVIATOR LOST SOMEWHERE IN POCAHONTAS COUNTY

LIEUTENANT BOBBITT LAST SEEN ON CHRISTMAS DAY, STARTING TO CROSS OVER CHEAT MOUNTAIN

Was Flying from Detroit to Hot Springs, to Spend Christmas with Parents; his Mother was Miss Jessie Renick, formerly of Hillsboro.

STILL MISSING AS THIS PAPER IS PRINTED, WEDNESDAY NIGHT December 31, 1931

On Christmas morning, Lieutenant E. H. Bobbitt, Jr., aged 24 years, left Selfridge Flying Field, at Detroit, Michigan, to fly to visit his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Bobbitt at Hot Springs, Virginia.

Along about dinner time he reached Uniontown, Pennsylvania. He made a landing, refueled, and proceeded on his way. Home folks were awaiting him at the landing field on top of the Mountain, to the east of Hot Springs. The young flyer failed to arrive.

The alarm was spread. Army officers traced the plane from Uniontown to Mace, Pocahontas County. Residents there had seen the plane disappear over Cheat Mountain about two o'clock Friday afternoon. It was stormy and snow was falling. That is the last positive trace of the young flyer and his machine. He could not have disappeared more completely had the ground opened up and swallowed him.

On Sunday, a half dozen army planes flew continuously over the territory from Marlinton to the Randolph County line and beyond, searching every spot of ground that might hide the missing flyer and his plane.

Covington about a decade ago, occupying the residence in North Lexington Street, now owned by Mr. William Doran.

"E. H. Bobbitt, Jr., and his younger brother, Paul, attended school here for several years. "E. H., Jr., also attended Greenbrier Military School before entering V. P. I., where he graduated. He also graduated with high honors at Langley Field. He was regarded by his friends as an admirable young man and a gloom is cast over the entire community at his disappearance. He made many friends in Covington.

"E. H. Bobbit, Sr., is one of the most popular agents on the C. & O. His friends all along the line deeply sympathize with him.

FLYER FOUND

The body of Lt. E. H. Bobbitt, Jr., was found in his wrecked plane on Crazy or Fool's Knob on Cheat Mountain last Wednesday noon by M. S. Simmons and Carl Reaser, both of Valley Head. The body was terribly

GAME AN

AND HU

To be Es

hu

Hunters' Among deals whic sumated a near Drisc public int comment week whe Warden, chief dep purchased farm adja purpose o fish preser of the gen some and on this la for both They hav over for for a clu have deci of Alleg best grou ing in streams limit wi forests kinds of below th
"Barkle
by H. M ed into dam ne the fur the sp these g prise w our sect men fro to those air at a well as

On Christmas morning, Lieutenant E. H. Bobbitt, Jr., aged 24 years, left Selfridge Flying Field, at Detroit, Michigan, to fly to visit his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Bobbitt at Hot Springs, Virginia.

Along about dinner time he reached Uniontown, Pennsylvania. He made a landing, refueled, and proceeded on his way. Home folks were awaiting him at the landing field on top of the Mountain, to the east of Hot Springs. The young flyer failed to arrive.

The alarm was spread. Army officers traced the plane from Uniontown to Mace, Pocahontas County. Residents there had seen the plane disappear over Cheat Mountain about two o'clock Friday afternoon. It was stormy and snow was falling. That is the last positive trace of the young flyer and his machine. He could not have disappeared more completely had the ground opened up and swallowed him.

On Sunday, a half dozen army planes flew continuously over the territory from Marlinton to the Randolph County line and beyond, searching every spot of ground that might hide the missing flyer and his plane. Men tramped the woods. Nothing came of it.

Sunday night another snow storm came, and on Monday this high country was enveloped in cloud and fog and the flying machines could not operate.

Tuesday, the big flying machines, some six or eight in number, again coursed the country, though the visibility was poor. This day they worked over the wooded country to the south of Marlinton, between Greenbrier River and the Alleghanies.

The Cheat wilderness, over which the young man disappeared in the last positive evidence of the identity of the machine, is a wooded country several hundred square miles in scope. It is covered with a dense forest of second growth spruce.

Other planes crossed Cheat that day, but it has been impossible to positively identify any of them as the plane flown by young Bobbitt. One that would naturally be pursued by him about the time he would be due to pass here. This plane did not report either at White Sulphur or Hot Springs, the two nearest landing occupying the residence in North Lexington Street, now owned by Mr. William Doran.

"E. H. Bobbitt, Jr., and his younger brother, Paul, attended school here for several years. "E. H., Jr., also attended Greenbrier Military School before entering V. P. I., where he graduated. He also graduated with high honors at Langley Field. He was regarded by his friends as an admirable young man and a gloom is cast over the entire community at his disappearance. He made many friends in Covington.

"E. H. Bobbit, Sr., is one of the most popular agents on the C. & O. His friends all along the line deeply sympathize with him.

FLYER FOUND

The body of Lt. E. H. Bobbitt, Jr., was found in his wrecked plane on Crazy or Fool's Knob on Cheat Mountain last Wednesday noon by M. S. Simmons and Carl Reaser, both of Valley Head. The body was terribly burned by the fire which consumed the inflammable parts of the plane and melted some of the metal. The machine had struck a tree, and investigation disclosed that the young flyer's skull had been fractured by the shock.

Thursday morning the body was taken to Elkins for preparation by undertakers, and that afternoon to the home of the young man's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Bobbitt, at Hot Springs. On Saturday, interment was made in the National Cemetery, Arlington, near Washington. On Christmas day Lt. Bobbitt started from Selfridge Flying Field to fly to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Bobbitt, at Hot Springs. At Uniontown, Pennsylvania, he stopped for fuel. From there his course was traced to the Crouch farm on the west slope of Cheat Mountain, about three miles from Valley Head. Here his plane was seen to disappear in a snow cloud on Cheat Mountain about one o'clock in the afternoon of Christmas day. Failing to arrive at Hot Springs, the army officers were notified. A wide spread search was begun, from the air and on the earth, and continued for twelve days. Only two or three dolph County line and beyond, searching every spot of ground that might hide the missing flyer and his plane. Men tramped the woods. Nothing came of it.

Sunday night another snow storm came, and on Monday this high country was enveloped in cloud and fog and the flying machines could not operate.

Tuesday, the big flying machines, some six or eight in number, again coursed the country, though the visibility was poor. This day they worked over the wooded country to the south of Marlinton, between Greenbrier River and the Alleghanies.

The Cheat wilderness, over which the young man disappeared in the last positive evidence of the identity of the machine, is a wooded country several hundred square miles in scope. It is covered with a dense forest of second growth spruce.

Other planes crossed Cheat that day, but it has been impossible to positively identify any of them as the one flown by young Bobbitt. One plane passed Marlinton on the course that would naturally be pursued by him about the time he would be due to pass here. This plane did not report either at White Sulphur or Hot Springs, the two nearest landing fields.

Lt. Bobbitt is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Bobbitt, of Hot Springs. His father is the railway station agent at that place. His mother will be remembered as Miss Jessie Renick, daughter of the late Frank Renick, of Hillsboro. Young Bobbitt has been flying about eighteen months. On Thanksgiving day he flew over from Detroit to visit his home folks. On that trip he came to Uniontown, thence to Elkins, through the Greenbrier Valley, and across to Hot Spgs.

On Christmas day, two planes left Selfridge Field with young men headed for Virginia to spend Christmas at home—Lt. Bobbitt for Hot Springs and Lt. Franklin for Richmond. The last word Franklin had of Bobbitt was at Uniontown, where he was told that Bobbitt had refueled and left a short time before. Franklin was back in Detroit before he heard of his companion's failure to make port.

Wednesday—there are still clouds and much haze and the visibility is bad. Flying machines are out, both pursuit and observation planes. Every foot of ground is being searched with high power glasses. Men are in

Valley Head. The body was terribly burned by the fire which consumed the inflammable parts of the plane and melted some of the metal. The machine had struck a tree, and investigation disclosed that the young flyer's skull had been fractured by the shock.

Thursday morning the body was taken to Elkins for preparation by undertakers, and that afternoon to the home of the young man's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Bobbitt, at Hot Springs. On Saturday, interment was made in the National Cemetery, Arlington, near Washington. On Christmas day Lt. Bobbitt started from Selfridge Flying Field to fly to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Bobbitt, at Hot Springs. At Uniontown, Pennsylvania, he stopped for fuel. From there his course was traced to the Crouch farm on the west slope of Cheat Mountain, about three miles from Valley Head. Here his plane was seen to disappear in a snow cloud on Cheat Mountain about one o'clock in the afternoon of Christmas day. Failing to arrive at Hot Springs, the army officers were notified. A wide spread search was begun, from the air and on the earth, and continued for twelve days. Only two or three days of this time was the high country free from clouds to allow the use of flying machines.

Fool's Knob is in the Cheat wilderness. Its elevation is around 4700 feet. From its western slope the waters flow into the head streams of Tygarts Valley River. On its eastern sides, Rock Run and Black Run drain into Cheat. It is on the Randolph and Pocahontas line. The place the plane was wrecked was on the eastern slope, on the head of Rock Run. The place is within two miles of the site of old camp 2, of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, at the head of a skidding road.

A reasonable deduction is that the young flyer kept under the clouds as he came up Tygarts Valley River. At Valley Head he knew he must gain elevation to get over the high mountain ridges then confronting him. He began to circle, and in one sweep around he passed near the house of Jacob Ware. About four miles from this house his plane was wrecked. He had all butcleared the mountain top. The top of a tall spruce was broken out, possibly being hit by a wing. The plane seemed to turn and a six inch birch tree was cut off, then into a

Mrs. E. H. Bobbitt, of Hot Springs. His father is the railway station agent at that place. His mother will be remembered as Miss Jessie Renick, daughter of the late Frank Renick, of Hillsboro. Young Bobbitt has been flying about eighteen months. On Thanksgiving day he flew over from Detroit to visit his home folks. On that trip he came to Uniontown, thence to Elkins, through the Greenbrier Valley, and across to Hot Spgs.

On Christmas day, two planes left Selfridge Field with young men headed for Virginia to spend Christmas at home—Lt. Bobbitt for Hot Springs and Lt. Franklin for Richmond. The last word Franklin had of Bobbitt was at Uniontown, where he was told that Bobbitt had refueled and left a short time before. Franklin was back in Detroit before he heard of his companion's failure to make port.

Wednesday--there are still clouds and much haze and the visibility is bad. Flying machines are out, both pursuit and observation planes. Every foot of ground is being searched with high power glasses. Men are in all parts of this wooded country on foot, searching. As this is written, no word has come of the finding of the missing man.

The following is from the Monday issue of the Covington, Virginian:

"Lieutenant Bobbitt, 24 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Bobbitt, prominent citizens of Hot Springs, was known as one of the most popular young men of this section of the State, where he grew to manhood, and his disappearance has caused widespread anxiety among the great host of friends of the family. Many inquiries have been coming to The Virginian from anxious friends of this popular family. The deepest sympathy is felt for them in this time of anxiety and distress.

"Lieutenant Bobbitt attended Virginia Polytechnic Institute, Blacksburg, and has been in the air service for about two years.

"It will be recalled that he and Lieutenant Mustoe, also a product of Bath County, took part in the air of flying machines.

Fool's Knob is in the Cheat wilderness. Its elevation is around 4700 feet. From its western slope the waters flow into the head streams of Tygarts Valley River. On its eastern sides, Rock Run and Black Run drain into Cheat. It is on the Randolph and Pocahontas line. The place the plane was wrecked was on the eastern slope, on the head of Rock Run. The place is within two miles of the site of old camp 2, of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, at the head of a skidding road.

A reasonable deduction is that the young flyer kept under the clouds as he came up Tygarts Valley River. At Valley Head he knew he must gain elevation to get over the high mountain ridges then confronting him. He began to circle, and in one sweep around he passed near the house of Jacob Ware. About four miles from this house his plane was wrecked. He had all butcleared the mountain top. The top of a tall spruce was broken out, possibly being hit by a wing. The plane seemed to turn and a six inch birch tree was cut off, then into a twenty inch birch tree with such great force as to split the tree. Then the plane went to the ground in an upright position. The throttle was open, and the gallons of fuel gas became ignited and made a fearful fire. It is reasonably certain that the young flyer was killed in the fall.

The place where the plane fell is covered with a thick growth of spruce. Searchers had passed within fifty feet of where it lay without seeing it.

Hundreds of people have visited the place since last Wednesday, and they have carried away almost all the plane as souveniers.

Some thirty-five years ago a youug Englishman by the name of Grews perished from cold and exposure on Crazy Knob. He had been bear hunting, and on his way home sat down to rest, telling his companions to go on. He never got up. The next day the neighbors found him, frozen to death.

There is a tradition that in early parts of this wooded country on t, searching. As this is written, word has come of the finding of missing man.

The following is from the Monday
ue of the Covington, Virginian:

"Lieutenant Bobbitt, 24 years old,
of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Bobbitt, minent citizens of Hot Springs,
s known as one of the most popu-young men of this section of the te, where he grew to manhood, d his disappearance has caused despread anxiety among the great st of friends of the family. Many uiries have been coming to The rginian from anxious friends of is popular family. The deepest mpathy is felt for them in this time anxiety and distress.

"Lieutenant Bobbitt attended Vir-ia Polytechnic Institute, Blacksrg, and has been in the air service about two years.

"It will be recalled that he and eutenant Mustoe, also a product of th County, took part in the air nervals that were featured over e Middle West and East by the my last year.

"Word came today that the father
the young flier, who is the C. & O.
ent at Hot Springs, had offered a ward of $500 for information lead-g to the discovery of the missing ane.

"The Bobbitt family resided in twenty inch birch tree with such great force as to split the tree. Then the plane went to the ground in an upright position. The throttle was open, and the gallons of fuel gas became ignited and made a fearful fire. It is reasonably certain that the young flyer was killed in the fall.

The place where the plane fell is covered with a thick growth of spruce. Searchers had passed within fifty feet of where it lay without seeing it.

Hundreds of people have visited the place since last Wednesday, and they have carried away almost all the plane as souveniers.

Some thirty-five years ago a youug Englishman by the name of Grews perished from cold and exposure on Crazy Knob. He had been bear hunting, and on his way home sat down to rest, telling his companions to go on. He never got up. The next day the neighbors found him, frozen to death.

There is a tradition that in early settler days two hunters got bewilderedon Crazy Knob, and froze to death.

Lt. Bobbitt was 24 years of age. He is the son of Elmer H. Bobbitt and Jessie Renick Bobbitt, of Hot Springs. He was a graduate of the Virginia Polytechnic Institute, and he had been flying for nearly two years. His mother was a native of Pocahontas County, a daughter of the late Frank Renick, of Hillsboro. His father is the railway station agent at the Virginia Hot Springs. On both sides, he has wide family connections in the Greenbrier Valley.

——— January 14, 1932

PATTERSON SIMMONS
MARLINTON, W. VA.
Plasterer ... Contractor.
Work done on short notice.
March 27, 1896

...00 Years Ago

...OMEWHERE IN ...UNTY

... CHRISTMAS DAY, ...AT MOUNTAIN

...Springs, to Spend ...Mother was Miss ...lsboro.

... PRINTED, WED-

... December 31, 1931

...out a decade ago, occu-...idence in North Lexing-...ow owned by Mr. Wil-

...bbitt, Jr., and his young-...aul, attended school here ...ears. "E. H., Jr., also ...enbrier Military School ...ing V. P. I., where he ...He also graduated with ...at Langley Field. He ... by his friends as an ad-...g man and a gloom is ...entire community at his ... He made many ...vington.

...bit, Sr., is one of the ...agents on the C. & O. ...l along the line deeply ...ith him.

...ER FOUND

...of Lt. E. H. Bobbitt, Jr., ...his wrecked plane on ...'s Knob on Cheat Moun-...dnesday noon by M. S. ...d Carl Besser, both of ... The body was terribly ...he fire which consumed ...able parts of the plane ...some of the metal. The ...struck a tree, and is ...disclosed that the young ...had been instantly ...

GAME AND FIST PRESERVE

AND HUNTING LODGE

To be Established at Minnehaha Springs

Huntersville, West Virginia.—Among the many real estate deals which have been lately consumated at Minnehaha Springs near Driscol, none has caused such public interest and widespread comment as the one closed last week when State Game and Fish Warden, J. A. Viquesney and chief deputy H. M. Lockridge purchased the D. B. McElwee farm adjacent the springs for the purpose of establishing a game and fish preserve. It is the intention of the gentlemen to erect a handsome and commodious club house on this land and make it a resort for both hunters and fishermen. They have been looking the State over for a suitable headquarters for a club of this character and have decided that this great range of Alleghany Mountains is the best grounds for hunting and fishing in the whole State. The streams will be stocked to their limit with bass and trout and the forests with deer and all other kinds of game. The farm just below the property known as the "Barkley mill property" owned by H. M. Lockridge will be formed into a large lake by building a dam near the lower end of it for the further use and pleasure of the sportsmen. We commend these gentlemen for such an enterprise which is bound to bring into our section numbers of moneyed men from year to year in addition to those who come for the bracing air at an altitude of 2,800 feet as well as to try the virtues of the Minnehaha Springs now being developed by Dr. J. B. Lockridge.

August 17, 1911

Qualitative Examination of Mineral

...e Pocahonta...

Spruce News.

...s are having magnificent ... to perform the hazardous ... of the American logger for ... Pulp.

...West Virginia Spruce Lum-...Company owns and opper-...one of the most gigantic lum-...industry's in the thriving ...of West Virginia. The puf-...fing and hissing engines are con-...tinually hauling logs to the Rail-...road Junction at Spruce, a small ...lumbering hamlet consisting of a ...store, postoffice and a number of ...dwellings.

...Jack Cruikshanks is train mas-...ter. The logs are conveyed to ... by the mountain engines and ...manufactured by the Company's ...gigantic mill. The capacity of ...this big mill aggregate 11000 feet ...per day. Can any one but mar-...vel at the thrilling industries of ...West Virginia the leading lum-...bering State in the Union.

...Fred Tabor is superintendent ...of the woods. He resides at ...Spruce and has been in the con-...stant employ of the company for ...over two years energetically per-...forming his duty assigned him.

...Grant Dickson one of the com-...pany's most skilled and sagacious ...Captain has charge of Camp 5 ...and is the champion foreman on ...the Cheat mountain line. Grant ...has about 80 men under his coun-...sel and command.

...J. L. Bloom is cooking at ...Camp 5 and is one of the most ...energetic and artistic ...the pride of the lumber ...Shorty Allman and Bur-...formerly cooks are

s from The Pocahontas Tim

ND FIST PRESERVE

UNTING LODGE

tablished at Minne

ha Springs

lle, West Virginia.— ne many real estate have been lately con-Minnehaha Springs
, done has caused such est and widespread the one closed last State Game and Fish
A. Viquesney and
H. M. Lockridge
e D. B. McElwee
t the springs for the tablishing a game and It is the intention men to erect a handmmodious club house nd make it a resort
nters and fishermen.
en looking the State uitable headquarters
f this character and that this great range Mountains is the for hunting and fish-whole State. The be stocked to their ss and trout and the deer and all other me. The farm just operty known as the ll property" owned ckridge will be form-e lake by building

Spruce News.

We are having magnificent weather to perform the hazardous duty of the American logger for Johnny Pulp.

The West Virginia Spruce Lumber Company owns and opperates one of the most gigantic lumber industry's in the thriving State of West Virginia. The puffing and hissing engines are continually hauling logs to the Railroad Junction at Spruce, a small lumbering hamlet consisting of a store, postoffice and a number of dwellings.

Jack Cruikshanks is train master. The logs are conveyed to Cars by the mountain engines and manufactured by the Company's gigantic mill. The capacity of the big mill aggregate 11000 feet per day. Can any one but marvel at the thrilling industries of West Virginia the leading lumbering State in the Union.

Fred Tabor is superintendent of the woods. He resides at Spruce and has been in the constant employ of the company for the two years energetically per-

The F

nt the springs for the stablishing a game and
. It is the intention
emen to erect a hand-ommodious club house and make it a resort unters and fishermen.
seen looking the State suitable headquarters of this character and d that this great range ny Mountains is the s for hunting and fish-whole State. The ll be stocked to their bass and trout and the n deer and all other ame. The farm just roperty known as the mill property" owned ockridge will be form-ge lake by building a he lower end of it for use and pleasure of men. We commend men for such an enter-is bound to bring into numbers of moneyed ear to year in addition o come for the bracing itude of 2,800 feet as try the virtues of the Springs now being de-
Dr. J. B. Lockridge.

August 17, 1911

Examination of Mineral
r Dr J. B. Lockridge, riscol, W. Va.

y Prof. J. W. Mallet, of y of Virginia.)

as of a faint greenish early the color of very perfectly clear.

—no taste, or perhaps calcareous and saline.

ings.

Jack Cruikshanks is train master. The logs are conveyed to Cass by the mountain engines and manufactured by the Company's gigantic mill. The capacity of the big mill aggregate 11000 feet per day. Can any one but marvel at the thrilling industries of West Virginia the leading lumbering State in the Union.

Fred Tabor is superintendent of the woods. He resides at Spruce and has been in the constant employ of the company for over two years energetically performing his duty assigned him.

Grant Dickson one of the company's most skilled and sagacious Captain has charge of Camp 5 and is the champion foreman on the Cheat mountain line. Grant has about 80 men under his counsel and command.

H. I. Bloom is cooking at Camp 5 and is one of the most skilled, energetic and artistic cooks the pride of the lumber woods. Shorty Allman and Burlin Cutshall formerly cooks are cook-eing for him and are under his command early and late.

Jack McDonel has charge of the improvement crew. James Carpenter is the saw filer, James ... the diamond point on to ... to date perfection, he

The

SCHOOL

STOP THIEF! ... presents, money, ... trumpets, and int... ter two thieves. T... father and the de... complicating the ... laughter for the ev...

Cast of C...

Joan Carr
Mrs. Carr
Caroline Carr
Madge Carr
Nell
William Carr
James Cluny
Mr. Jameson
Dr. Willoughly
Rev. Spelvin
Jack Doogan
Joe Thompson
Sergeant of Police
Police officer O'...

s bound to bring umbers of moneyed
r to year in addition come for the bracing ude of 2,800 feet as y the virtues of the prings now being de-
r. J. B. Lockridge.

August 17, 1911

---

mination of Mineral Dr J. B. Lockridge,
col, W. Va.
Prof. J. W. Mallet, of f Virginia.) of a faint greenish y the color of very rfectly clear.
o taste, or perhaps lcareous and saline.
aline to litmus paper nctly alkaline on conevaporation. constituents, about million.
found, chlorine, the phuric, carbonic and arbonates most abuns next, chlorides in ount) —traces of flue phosphoric acid ra distinct) of nitrates, on (ferrous), alumi, magnesium (calcium m in relatively considt; very little iron)— ganese and strontium—ium (in smaller pro-es of lithium and very minute amount dissolved gases
n, oxygen, nitrogen.
hallowed in character

the champion foreman on the Cheat mountain line. Grant has about 80 men under his counsel and command.

H. I. Bloom is cooking at Camp 5 and is one of the most skilled, energetic and artistic cooks the pride of the lumber woods. Shorty Allman and Burlin Cutshall formerly cooks are cook-eeing for him and are under his command early and late.

Jack McDonel has charge of the improvement crew. James Carpenter is the saw filer, James can put the diamond point on to the most up to date perfection, he can catch more fish the speckle beauties of Cheat Mountain than any other man on the American continent James Moore, a hobo bean sizzler and member of a noted pot gang disappeared from Camp 4 one day last week, enrouting for Caktow to boil beans for a hobo gang, James has been a member of the lodge for a number of years and is extensively recoghized.

Ward Hudson is at Camp 4 after spending his honeymoon in the Green Bank vicinity.

George Blackman has charge of Camp 2, successor to Jack Mc-

SCHOOL

STOP THIEF!
presents, money, trumpets, and in ter two thieves. T father and the de complicating the laughter for the e

Cast of

Joan Carr
Mrs. Carr
Caroline Carr
Madge Carr
Nell
William Carr
James Cluny
Mr. Jameson
Dr. Willoughly
Rev. Spelvin
Jack Doogan
Joe Thompson
Sergeant of Poli
Police officer O

Polece officer O

Tickets for sale. Admissi
The play w
Saturday May
"An evening eats." That the Junior-Sen
the Marlin-Sew
May 5th. The tistically dec white, the Jun McNeil, the w
the evening, a several membe faculty. Musi other amuseme
Mr. McNeil Story" talk in On account
the Track Meet urday, was ca
difficulty. Gre
ner of the day
came out a cha State Track Me

lorine, the bonic and most abundorades in aces of flu-ric acid ra-f nitrates, is), alumim (calcium ely consid-le iron)— strontium—maller prohium and te amount olved gases:
nitrogen. character ot Springs.
th that of esha, Wis-

y 21, 1901

RISING Greenbrier Company.
the Harmon Forks of Elk, in their em-ix Sardinians rom a large rranean, and the place im-

cutenant James Moore, a hobo bean sizzler and member of a noted pot gang disappeared from Camp 4 one day last week, enrouting for Caktor to boil beans for a hobo gang, James has been a member of the lodge for a number of years and is extensively recognized.

Ward Hudson is at Camp 4 after spending his honeymoon in the Green Bank vicinity.

George Blackman has charge of Camp 2, successor to Jack McDonell.

Jake McLaughlin has arrived at Camp 4 driving team but has got his eye on a "Birdie" which he will soon have in a cage.

November 5, 1903

See the breeziest, funniest fastest, most tuneful talkie of the year.

"Love In The Rough"

With Robert Montgomery, Benny Rubin, Dorothy Jordan

Saturday May
"An evening eats." That w
the Junior-Sen
the Marlin-Sew
May 5th. The tistically deco white, the Juni McNeil, the wi
the evening, a several membe faculty. Music other amuseme
Mr. McNeil Story" talk in On account
the Track Meet
urday, was ca
difficulty. Gre
ner of the day
came out a clos State Track Me at Concord, wa
There will Alumni Associa 18th, at the Hi members please

May 14, 192

At a meeti
the Town of May 4th, 19
order was pas Ordered th directed to ing notices in Marlinton, W. Va.

Marlinton Academy,

Begins its Second Term of Twelve Weeks Feb. 18, 1901.

Three courses are offered—Academic, Teacher's and Free School.

Tuition varies with advancement of student,—$2 to $2.50 per month.

Boarding in good families at very reasonable rates.

For further information address the Principal.

W. S. MORRIS, B. A.
Marlinton, W. Va.

February 2, 1901

Ordinance no. 4.

If any person shall act as works. These teamsters are Slavs, the Italians not being skilled in the control of horses. The were met with a lot of Italians with clubs and staves and beat a retreat to the stables. It is charged that some of the Sardinians carried revolvers. Some of the hostiles were discharged but they refused to leave. About this time the strong arm of the law in the shape of Sheriff Cochran reached out and captured fifteen of the discontents and brought them into Marlinton for a hearing before Judge Smith. The whole turnout made a right imposing procession. If they are all added to the number already in jail, we will be able to say that they are packed like sardines in the county bastile.

Later: Justice Smith fined three of the prisoners and restored the others to freedom.

September 11, 1913

Tim

954, JUNE 2, 1983

uck'' Carpenter.

—

to the Pocahon-from Pocahontas SDA agencies for
's fine coopera-oducing the Land plement.

— — —

y Wilderness oney

tor Robert C. day, was suc-
uring adoption te Appropria-tee of his provide Pocahonster Counties in compensa-ues lost as a e Cranberry signation.
ision was in-fiscal 1983 l appropria-h will now go nate for con-of Represen-also act on on, and the agree to the e it can be w.

I am that candidate."

— — —

Attempted Murder Charge

James E. Biggs, Jr., of Marlinton, is in the Pocahontas County Jail charged with attempted murder following a shooting incident late Saturday night.

The Sheriff's Department received a call at 11:11 p.m. that a gun was being discharged in the Riverside area near Marlinton. Deputies James Baxter and Robert Gibson responded and found Biggs standing outside his small trailer in Riverside. Biggs fired several shots and two hit Deputy Baxter's car. One went through the blue light and the other three the back door and into the seat.

Assistance in the form of State Police Trooper Timothy McDaniel and Marlinton Police Chief James Shorter arrived on the scene and Biggs was arrested by the officers. Police did not return the

Patricia B. Puffen

Eugene C. Carden,
Clarence P. Meadov
Mary Ann Beverage

—

The followi persons have moned to appea Judge of the C of Pocahontas
the 23rd day of at 9:00 o'clock, serve as Petit J JUNE Term:

Janet L. Arbogast,
Billy R. Bailey, Ma
Mary Louise Barnis
Michael W. Brock,
Leona G. Brown, G
Thomas W. Burns,
Sharol V. Campbell
Patrick W. Coleman
Lura June Fauber,
Wayne E. Galford, Vicki Lynn Gaul, Hi
Betty Gum, Green
Richard L. Hefner.
Mildred V. Hocken

Harry E. Holsopple, Carolyn Irvine, Mar
Pamela J. Jackson,
Samuel H. Jennings
Mabel L. Johnson,
Patricia A. Keller,

Merle G. Kerr, Dun

e of Represen t also act on ision, and the ıst agree to the ore it can be law.
ad that the
the Senate
s Committee need to com-wo West Vir-for the rev-ill lose as a e Cranberry esignation,"

full Senate, of Represen-o agree that ion is just,"

ation for the ebster and unties was amendment l to legisla-gnated the country as a ted wilder-s approved nd enacted mber, 1982.

ton Police Chief James Shorter arrived on the scene and Biggs was arrested by the officers. Police did not return the gunfire.

The weapon was a 3.06 rifle with scope.

In addition to attempted murder, Biggs is charged with public intoxication. He is under $25,100 bond. Trooper McDaniel is in charge of the investigation.

The incident with Biggs was the end of a busy day for Sheriff's deputies. A call was received from Miss Kitty's tavern near Marlinton shortly after midnight that a patron had a pistol. However, when officers arrived the man was gone. At about 2 a.m. reports were received from Cass that a man was in the area with a gun. Deputies Baxter and Gibson went to Cass and found Herbert Allen, of Gauley Bridge, in his car. He was arrested at 3 p.m.

Pamela J. Jacks
Samuel H. Jenn
Mabel L. Johns
Patricia A. K

Merle G. Kerr,
Betty L. Kershn
Edith I. Kisner
Samuel W. Lan
George C. Lipt
Mildred M. Lo
Peggy J. Lusk,
Mary M. Morg
Fred C. Morris
Marjorie McCa
Margaret B. C
Randall H. Pri
Charles E. Rex
William Charl
Virginia Joyce
Donald B. Sac
Carman E. Sh
Guy A. Sharp,
Martin A. Sha
Harold L. Shif
James H. Shif
Vicki Shinabe
Judith A. Sim
Neil H. Snyde
Quentin R. S

Mary M. Ston
Larry C. Ta

Jerry A. Turn
Joyce E. Und

Gibson went to Cass and found Herbert Allen, of Gauley Bridge, in his car. He was arrested at 3 p.m. charged with brandishing a weapon. He pled guilty in magistrate court and paid his fine. He had purchased the gun, a .44 caliber pistol, only the day before.

Reports were made to the Sheriff's Department early Saturday evening that a man had a gun at Rose's Trailer Park on Droop Mountain near Hillsboro. Chief Deputy Bill Hall went to the trailer park and arrested Kenneth Lovelace. However, no weapon was found. Lovelace was charged with public intoxication and battery. He is out of jail after posting bond.

The Past 100

FATAL FIGHT WITH PISTOLS.

February 12, 1903

Granville Messer, Special Constable, Killed while Trying to Arrest William J. Colley, who Dies with Ten Bullets in His Body.

A Battle Without Parallel in our History.—Both Dead Men Kentuckians. Nineteen Shots Fired, Fifteen of Which Take Effect.—Both Men Shoot After being Mortally Wounded.

Granville Messer, as special constable attempted to arrest Wm. J. Colley; the two men engaged in a desperate fight with pistols and both were killed.

For about ten years Colley, a Kentuckian, has lived in this county. He has had a bad reputation. Has always had plenty to eat and has never been known to do any work. He was of a quarrelsome and overbearing disposition and was greatly feared and disliked.

Last week he had an altercation with Ed. Lange and George McComb, two neighbors, about the possession of a piece of ground. Colley was armed with a winchester rifle. He suddenly drew it on Lange and threatened to take his life.

He was accustomed to over ride his neighbors in this way and after due deliberation Lange came to Buckeye add swore out a warrant against Colley before Justice Rodgers.

Colley in past years has been an inmate of the county jail on several occasions but since his last incarceration he has always calmly declared that he would die before he would submit to another arrest.

He always had an idea that conspiracies were on foot directed

May and returned to the house. Sharp had been posted at the rear of the building.

Messer and May walked up to the door and asked for a drink of water. A woman who was living with Colley gave them a tin cup and the two men walked down to the spring and drank and came back. Colley met them in the door and for a third time prevented their entering the house. They had failed at every attempt to get inside of the fortified house and while there was nothing said it was evident from after events that both sides were nerving themselves for a struggle.

A table stood by the door and a shelf to one side. Under Colley's left arm hung a Colt revolver with a bore as big as a shot gun. In his right trousers pocket was a bowie knife in a sheath.

Colley took the contract and proceeded to read it standing in the doorway holding the paper in his left hand. The contract which he had prepared was as follows:

"Memorandum of agreement between Granville Messer of the first part and John May of the second part. Granville Messer this 7th day of February agrees to rent to John May a house on the mouth of Beaver Creek at Dan was picked which was ed of the following: L holt, Joseph Simmons, row, W. W. Tyree, Joh and Luther Kellison, and functory duties of the in performed. Drs McCli Neel and Yeager were

The jury rendered a verd
cordance with the facts.

There was some talk o
the woman, Mattie W answer an inquiry of t jury, but it was evident had been armed by C with a weapon in her not attempted to use it.

Granville Messer, t was a native of Kentu lived three miles from ton and leaves a wife children. He came to y about the time of field-McCoy feud a rumored that he ted to some of the that feud. He was a v ous man, a splendid sh
very successful hunter.
forty-five years old.

The man Colley bo marks of a fugitive fro
He talked and wrote l of education. It is sai was college bred. His appearance was quite re
He was low and heavy bullet like head and nose. He had been a s some said that he had b Naval Academy at An

On the mantel-piece o was a rude design of a carved with his knife.

A few years ago he from ambush while sta the door-way of his c young man by the name

Last week he had an altercation with Ed. Lange and George McComb, two neighbors, about the possession of a piece of ground. Colley was armed with a winchester rifle. He suddenly drew it on Lange and threatened to take his life.

He was accustomed to over ride his neighbors in this way and after due deliberation Lange came to Buckeye and swore out a warrant against Colley before Justice Rodgers.

Colley in past years has been an inmate of the county jail on several occasions but since his last incarceration he has always calmly declared that he would die before he would submit to another arrest.

He always had an idea that conspiracies were on foot directed against him.

There was enough in this declaration and in the general character of the man to put the officers on their guard. He had become such a nuisance in his neighborhood however that it was deemed time to bring him to book. The only question was who would bell the cat.

In discussing this matter at Marlinton the other day when the arrest was decided upon, Granville Messer, a man of great personal courage, remarked that he would want no better fun than to arrest Colley. He was immediately appointed a special constable for the purpose.

On Saturday morning, February 7th, he took two assistants, John May and John Sharp and went to Colley's house, at the station known as Dan, seven miles below Marlinton. Messer owned a house at the station at present unoccupied which is known as the Pig's Ear. It is a rough board shanty where the illicit sale of intoxicants was evident from after events that both sides were nerving themselves for a struggle.

A table stood by the door and a shelf to one side. Under Colley's left arm hung a Colt revolver with a bore as big as a shot gun. In his right trousers pocket was a bowie knife in a sheath.

Colley took the contract and proceeded to read it standing in the doorway holding the paper in his left hand. The contract which he had prepared was as follows:

"Memorandum of agreement between Granville Messer of the first part and John May of the second part. Granville Messer this 7th day of February agrees to rent to John May a house on the mouth of Beaver Creek at Dan in Pocahontas County, W. Va. Said house for six months at five dollars a month, payment to be made each month."

Before the reading was finished Messer drew a pistol and told Colley to consider himself under arrest. Colley's right arm darted back to the table or across to the shelf and grasped a .38 Smith & Wesson revolver and Messer fired and advanced on Colley.

Colley returned the fire almost instantly. Mattie Williams, the woman who was living with Colley, appeared a revolver in her hand. May darted past the men who were firing at each other and grappled the women and held her with one hand and fired four shots at Colley with the other.

While struggling with the woman a ball grazed his shoulder. Messer emptied one pistol, retreated a step or two, drew another and returned to the attack.

Colley emptied his pistol and drew the big Colt's from the case at his side but it dropped from his ous man, a splendid very successful hunte forty-five years old.

The man Colley marks of a fugitive f He talked and wrote of education. It is was college bred. appearance was quite He was low and heav bullet like head an nose. He had been some said that he ha Naval Academy at

On the mantel-piec was a rude design of carved with his knife.

A few years ago from ambush while the door-way of his young man by the na was under arrest a lo cused with the crime.

Among his effects number of tools suc breakers use.

It was thought by s had considerable mone the sum of $1.62 was his person. He wa the expense of the c was 43 years old.

There is a feeling the neighborhood in w ed as he was apt to g angry and make thre his neighbors near a was rarely ever seen a places and he has not linton since the railway

The struggle that the death of both part peahrps without parall county, and it is hard an encounter more desp nature.

Insyde Tyr

Are not ordinary reliner a

May and John Sharp and went to Colley's house, at the station known as Dan, seven miles below Marlinton. Messer owned a house at the station at present unoccupied which is known as the Pig's Ear. It is a rough board shanty where the illicit sale of intoxicants has been carried on by different men.

The only other house at that place is a square log cabin on a bluff overlooking the railroad where Colley had squatted.

He had fortified this place by chinking the cracks, putting heavy bars on the doors and arranging loopholes. He had weapons enough to supply a squad of men, and plenty of ammunition.

The officers recoinoitered the the place and decided to draw him out if possible.

Colley was a man of some education and had written contracts for Messer who was a man of considerable property and illiterate.

Messer went to the house and called to Colley to come out. Colley evidently suspected that there was some trick, and refused to let Messer come in, and would not leave the house. He came to the door and Messer explained to him that he had rented his property to John May and wanted a contract drawn up to that effect and asked Colley to walk down to the station where May was. Colley flatly refused to do this so Messer told him the nature of the contract.

Colley said he would write it and hand it out to him. Messer went down to the railway and got man a ball grazed his shoulder. Messer emptied one pistol, retreated a step or two, drew another, and returned to the attack.

Colley emptied his pistol and drew the big Colt's from the case at his side but it dropped from his nerveless fingers on the floor. Colley sank on a bed and said: "I'll surrender!" Messer replied: "I know you will, Colley!" Colley then expired.

Messer walked from the house and seated himself on a block of wood near the door. May asked him if he was hurt. Messer's reply was: "I am killed." He had been shot through the heart and died in a few moments.

Four balls had taken effect in his body but only the one shot was very serious.

Ten bullet holes were found in Colley's body. Most of them had taken effect in his arms and legs, but there were three bullet holes in his chest, one of them over his heart.

Word was received at Marlinton in a short time and Prosecuting Attorney McNeel and Justice Rodgers went down to hold an inquest.

The place presented a sanguinary scene. Imagine a log cabin with a low doorway looking out on a woodpile.

Right in front of the door lay Messer, covered by a blanket, with a ghastly face turned towards the sky. A few steps away was the body of a low, squat, misshapen, ape-like man, Colley.

A number of men gathered on the scene and from them a jury county, and it is an encounter mo nature.

Insyde

Are not ordinary suppose but are fi sabric vulcanized double the mileag out proof and 90-1
All sizes, 30x3 $4.
I can have Ins
C. O. D. to any on postage 15 cents p furnish 6000 mile ty $18 to $22 00, Inertubes all si ble Inertubes for

Insyde
May 13, 1920

THE THOROUGH
ED FRENCH CO

DAPLON

Will make the Sea
emy an

Daplon is a rich imported by Powe land. Is a rich hands, weighs 14 less and showy any place he is hi transmits these e

R. M.
June 29, 1899

February 10, 1910 No

All persons prisoners in the so on Tuesdays
each week betw
8 and 10 in the f
4 in the after apply to every Christmas holida cuit court is in visitors will be a

J. H. Bu
By R. H. McElw

...e Past 100 Years from T...

...PISTOLS.

...Trying to Arrest
...His Body.

...Men Kentuckians
...—Both Men Shoot

...d to the house.
...osted at the rear

...y walked up to
...ed for a drink of
... who was living
...them a tin cup
...walked down to
...ank and came
... them in the
...d time preven-
...the house. They
...ed house and
...thing said it
...fter events that
...ving themselves

...the door and a
...nder Colley's
... revolver with
...hot gun. In
...ocket was a
...ath.

...ontract and
...standing in
... the paper in
...ontract which was picked which was composed of the following: Lee Overholt, Joseph Simmons, F. T. Larew, W. W. Tyree, John Butler and Luther Kellison, and the prefunctory duties of the inquest were performed. Drs McClintic, McNeel and Yeager were present. The jury rendered a verdict in accordance with the facts.

There was some talk of holding the woman, Mattie Williams to answer an inquiry of the grand jury, but it was evident that she had been armed by Colley, but with a weapen in her hand had not attempted to use it.

Granville Messer, the officer, was a native of Kentucky. He lived three miles from Marlinton and leaves a wife and seven children. He came to this county about the time of the Hatfield-McCoy feud and it is rumored that he was related to some of the people of that feud. He was a very courageous man, a splendid shot and a very successful hunter. He was forty-five years old.

The man Colley bore all the marks of a fugitive from justice. He talked and wrote like a man of education. It is said that he was college bred. His personal appearance was quite remarkable. He was low and heavy set, with bullet like head and prominent nose. He had been a sailor and

April 2, 1931

HIGH POWER ARRIVES

On Monday night, March 30, 1931, high power electric energy came to Marlinton over the recently completed lines of the West Penn Monongahela Company. Vice-President Howard Hardesty, head of the executive department, turned on the switch at a fine dinner given to mark the occasion at the Methodist Church to as many citizens of Marlinton as could be crowded into the large dining room. At the turn of the switch, the local generating plant was turned off and the power was on from the big plant at Rivesville, Marion county about 150 miles distant.

Frank R. Hill was master of ceremonies, and he introduced C. H. Hardesty, vice-president of the Monongahela system, in charge of the Electrical Department, who in turn introduced the officers and other members of the organization present as follows:

Captain G. M. Alexander, President

O. P. Lough, vice-President, Accounting and Finance.

W. V. Drake, Manager of Power and Generation.

Judge J. A. Meredith, Chief Counsellor.

R. T. Cunningham, Assistant Treasurer.

H. A. Holmes, Chief Engineer.

H. O. Sprinkle, General Superintendent.

E. B. Smith, Manager Industrial Department.

Charles Snyder, Manager Rating and Inspection.

Miss Agness Greaser, Home Service Director.

Miss Meriam Rowland, Home Service Representative of Elkins Division.

Grady Whitman, Manager Elkins Division.

John Martin, Sales Manager of Elkins Division.

J. R. Glancy, Representative of Public Relations Department.

Frank King, local representative;

...TH...

...BICKF...

...J. I. C...

...And e...
...of. h...
...needs...

...SASH...

...Rang...
...Bridl...

...Nov...

...C...
...The...
...Acade...
...the pr...
...tunste...
...good s...
...He has...

was a native of Kentucky. He lived three miles from Marlinton and leaves a wife and seven children. He came to this county about the time of the Hatfield-McCoy feud and it is rumored that he was related to some of the people of that feud. He was a very courageous man, a splendid shot and a very successful hunter. He was forty-five years old.

The man Colley bore all the marks of a fugitive from justice. He talked and wrote like a man of education. It is said that he was college bred. His personal appearance was quite remarkable. He was low and heavy set, with bullet like head and prominent nose. He had been a sailor, and some said that he had been at the Naval Academy at Annapolis.

On the mantel-piece of his home was a rude design of a battleship carved with his knife.

A few years ago he was shot from ambush while standing in the door-way of his cabin. A young man by the name of Milam was under arrest a long time, accused with the crime.

Among his effects were found a number of tools such as house breakers use.

It was thought by some that he had considerable money, but only the sum of $1.52 was found on his person. He was buried at the expense of the county. He was 43 years old.

There is a feeling of relief in the neighborhood in which he lived as he was apt to get insanely angry and make threats against

as follows:

Captain G. M. Alexander, President

O. P. Lough, vice-President, Accounting and Finance.

W. V. Drake, Manager of Power and Generation.

Judge J. A. Meredith, Chief Counsellor.

R. T. Cunningham, Assistant Treasurer.

H. A. Holmes, Chief Engineer.

H. O. Sprinkle, General Superintendent.

E. B. Smith, Manager Industrial Department.

Charles Snyder, Manager Rating and Inspection.

Miss Agness Greaser, Home Service Director.

Miss Meriam Rowland, Home Service Representative of Elkins Division.

Grady Whitman, Manager Elkins Division.

John Martin, Sales Manager of Elkins Division.

J. R. Glancy, Representative of Public Relations Department.

Frank King, local representative; Carlisle Wade, local sales supervision, and Miss Fannie Hill, of the local office.

Among the speakers were Captain Alexander, Mr. Hardesty, Judge Meredith, Judge Sharp, Mr. Holmes, Mr. Smith, and Mayor Allen. The keynote sounded was cooperation, and it was a sweet sound on our ears. This great utility company is now part and parcel of our county; as the community prospers its business increases; what helps us helps them; whatever hurts them is our loss too.

Just about a year ago West Penn representatives came here and said their program of development included Pocahontas county, and they would consider the purchase of the municipally owned power plant. There was free, frank and fair dealings on both sides, and the company was asked to make an offer. This was submitted to the popular vote, and it carried almost unanimously. The first of July the West Penn took over the business, their state wide low rate for service began immediately, and their promise was out that a high power line would be completed into the town by April 1, 1931.

This promise was fulfilled ahead of time, for on March 21 the line was complete.

As token of appreciation and wel

A few years ago he was shot from ambush while standing in the door-way of his cabin. A young man by the name of Milam was under arrest a long time, accused with the crime.

Among his effects were found a number of tools such as house-breakers use.

It was thought by some that he had considerable money, but only the sum of $1.02 was found on his person. He was buried at the expense of the county. He was 43 years old.

There is a feeling of relief in the neighborhood in which he lived as he was apt to get insanely angry and make threats against his neighbors near and far. He was rarely ever seen about public places and he has not visited Marlinton since the railway was built.

The struggle that resulted in the death of both participants is peahrps without parallel in this county, and it is hard to imagine an encounter more desperate in its nature.

Insyde Tyres

Are not ordinary reliner as some may suppose but are made of regular tyre fabric vulcanized. Guaranteed to double the mileage. Absolutely blow-out proof and 90-100 puncture proof. All sizes, 30x3 $4.00 each.

I can have Insyde Tyres shipped C. O. D. to any one writing enclosing postage 15 cents per tyre. I can also furnish 6000 mile casings first quality $18 to $22.00, 30x3-30x3 1-2 and it was a sweet sound on our ears. This great utility company is now part and parcel of our county; as the community prospers its business increases; what helps us helps them; whatever hurts them is our loss too.

Just about a year ago West Penn representatives came here and said their program of development included Pocahontas county, and they would consider the purchase of the municipally owned power plant. There was free, frank and fair dealings on both sides, and the company was asked to make an offer This and it carried almost unanimously. was submitted to the popular vote, The first of July the West Penn took over the business, their state wide low rate for service began immediately, and their promise was out that a high power line would be completed into the town by April 1, 1931.

This promise was fulfilled ahead of time, for on March 21 the line was complete.

As token of appreciation and welcome the local Kiwanis club extended an invitation to representatives of the Monongahela System to be their guests at a good will dinner. This well intentioned invitation was respectfully declined. They insisted the treat was on them, and they would give the good will dinner to as many of the citizens of Marlinton as the biggest dining hall in town would hold. These gentlemen make good promises and then make their promises good. The fine dinner at the Methodist Church, with a feast of reason and flow of soul, was the fulfillment.

Here are some facts and figures: The purchase price of the local plant was $65,000; another unit was added last fall; the distributing system in the town is being revamped all over; the high power line from Marlinton to Webster Springs, a distance of 25 miles completed before schedule time at cost of $110,000; there were 45 tons of aluminum wire used, 38,800 feet long; 428 poles locally bought for $3100 used in 247 stations; 1350 insulators; average distance between poles 320 feet; longest stretch be-

was rarely ever seen about public places and he has not visited Marlinton since the railway was built.

The struggle that resulted in the death of both participants is peahrps without parallel in this county, and it is hard to imagine an encounter more desperate in its nature.

Insyde Tyres

Are not ordinary reliner as some may suppose but are made of regular tyre sabric vulcanized. Guaranteed to double the mileage. Absolutely blow-out proof and 90-100 puncture proof. All sizes, 30x3 $4.00 each.

I can have Insyde Tyres shipped C. O. D. to any one writing enclosing postage 15 cents per tyre. I can also furnish 6000 mile caseings first quality $18 to $22 00, 30x3-30x3 1-3.

Inertubes all sizes. Interchangeable inertubes for Ford $3.50 each.

L. C. IRVIN,
Insyde Tyre Distributor,
May 13, 1920 Warwick, W. Va.

THE THOROUGHBRED IMPORTED FRENCH COACH STALLION,

DAPLON NO. 88

Will make the Season of 1899 at Academy and Jacox.

Daplon is a richly bred coacher imported by Powell Bros. of Shadeland. Is a rich mahogany bay, 16¼ hands, weighs 1400 lbs., is a fearless and showy driver, will work any place he is hitched and as a sire transmits these essential qualities.

S. E. McNEEL,
R. M. & J. W. BEARD,
June 29, 1899 Owners.

February 10

vitation to representatives of the Monongahela System to be their guests at a good will dinner. This well intentioned invitation was respectfully declined. They insisted the treat was on them, and they would give the good will dinner to as many of the citizens of Marlinton as the biggest dining hall in town would hold. These gentlemen make good promises and then make their promises good. The fine dinner at the Methodist Church, with a feast of reason and flow of soul, was the fulfillment.

Here are some facts and figures: The purchase price of the local plant was $65,000; another unit was added last fall; the distributing system in the town is being revamped all over; the high power line from Marlinton to Webster Springs, a distance of 25 miles completed before schedule time at cost of $110,000; there were 45 tons of aluminum wire used, 38,800 feet long; 428 poles locally bought for $3100 used in 247 stations; 1350 insulators; average distance between stations 520 feet; longest stretch between station 2100 feet; amount spent for labor $27,600, of which $23,000 was paid to local laborers between Webster Springs and Marlinton; cost of maintenance of camp in wilderness between Laurel Bank and Bergoo, $1800; lowest elevation 1900 feet; highest altitude 4535 feet.

Work was commenced on the line the first Day of December, 1930, and completed on March 21, 1931, an elapsed time of four months and 24 days; an average of about six miles per month.

That does not tell the whole story by any means. The building of such a line over the highest mountains of the State through woods in such a winter as the past one is some undertaking. Snow up to three and four feet was encountered. The men had to dig for the stakes to find where to set poles. On part of the distance boarding places were so far apart that it would require eleven hours to go and return from work. A camp was loaned by the West ble inertubes for Ford $3.50 each.

L. C. IRVIN,
Insyde Tyre Distributor,
Warwick, W. Va.

May 13, 1920

THE THOROUGHBRED IMPORTED FRENCH COACH STALLION,

DAPLON NO. 88

Will make the Season of 1899 at Academy and Jacox.

Daplon is a richly bred coacher imported by Powell Bros. of Shadeland. Is a rich mahogany bay, 16½ hands, weighs 1400 lbs., is a fearless and showy driver, will work any place he is hitched and as a sire transmits these essential qualities.

S. E. McNEEL,
R. M. & J. W. BEARD, Owners.

June 29, 1899

February 10, 1910

Notice.

All persons desiring to visit prisoners in the county jail can do so on Tuesdays and Fridays of each week between the hours of 8 and 10 in the forenoon and 3 and 4 in the afternoon. These days apply to every week except the Christmas holidays and when circuit court is in session when no visitors will be admitted.

J. H. BUZZARD, S. P. C.
By R. H. McElwee, Jailor.

paid to local laborers between Webster Springs and Marlinton; cost of maintenance of camp in wilderness between Laurel Bank and Bergoo, $1800; lowest elevation 1900 feet; highest altitude 4535 feet.

Work was commenced on the line the first Day of December, 1930, and completed on March 21, 1931, an elapsed time of four months and 24 days; an average of about six miles per month.

That does not tell the whole story by any means. The building of such a line over the highest mountains of the State through woods in such a winter as the past one is some undertaking. Snow up to three and four feet was encountered. The men had to dig for the stakes to find where to set poles. On part of the distance boarding places were so far apart that it would require eleven hours to go to and return from work. A lumber camp was loaned by the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, through the superindendent, Mr. Shafer, to shelter and board the men for this part of the construction. One payday the paymaster was snow bound on Point Mountain with the payroll. With aid of horses, he got to the hard road some six hours late. He brought out with him a snow plow which was snow bound on the mountain.

The coming of the big power line into a county as a unit of development and convenience comparable in importance only to the building of railroads and modern highways. The turning of the current through the

CHURCH DEDICATED

The new Presbyterian church at Academy was dedicated Sunday in the presence of a congregation estimated at 1500 people. The sermon was delivered by the Rev Dr Hudson, of Monroe county. Other ministers taking part in the services were the Rev Dr Sydenstricker, the Rev R. Neel, of the M. E. Church South, the Rev A. S. Rachal and the pastor, the Rev J. C. Johnson. The people were served with a fine dinner in the old school building.

The new church is a fine, modern brick structure, built at about $12,000, and would make a creditable showing as a city church.

The entire cost of the building was covered by subscription and donation. However the collection on Sunday amounted to nearly $500. This will be expended in furnishing.

The new church is on the site of the former building, in the centre of the village of Academy. The lot has been well graded and with the fine sugar trees, planted thirty or forty years ago by men then prominent in the church and county, make it indeed a pleasant acre.

able showing as a city church.

The entire cost of the building was covered by subscription and donation. However the collection on Sunday amounted to nearly $500. This will be expended in furnishing.

The new church is on the site of the former building, in the centre of the village of Academy. The lot has been well graded and with the fine sugar trees, planted thirty or forty years ago by men then prominent in the church and county, make it indeed a pleasant acre.

Oak Grove Presbyterian Church was first organized in 1793. In 1830 a brick church building was erected at the graveyard near what is now the T. A. Sydenstricker place. About thirty-five years ago this was replaced by a frame building in the village of Academy on the site of the edifice dedicated Sundry.

August 31, 1911

---

line connecting us with sources of unlimited electrical energy marks an important epoch in the annals of Pocahontas County.

The West Penn has now a department to look after the industrial development of the communities it serves. In this way any advantage this region has to offer to industries seeking location will be properly presented. In addition, the system has recently added a geologist to its gen-

m The Pocahontas Time

C. J. RICHARDSON,

THE HARDWARE MAN.

WANTS TO INTEREST YOU IN

BICKFORD & HUFFMAN GRAIN DRILLS, DEEPING HARVESTING MACHINERY,
J. I. CHASE THESHING MACHINES & ENGINES.
STUDEBAKER WAGONS.

And especially in PAINTS of which we keep a large stock on hand and which we can honestly recommend. If your house needs painting you cannot make a better investment than to paint it.

Remember us for

SASH and DOORS. Nails, Roofing and Building Material Generally Wagon Repairs, Spokes, Rims, Hubs and Tire. Sewing Machines. Wheeler & Wilson and Blue Ribbon Lines.

We can save you money on these also on anything in Stoves and Ranges. Leather Goods—Log Harness, Buggy Harness, Saddles, Bridles Etc.

November 5, 1903 COME TO SEE US,

C. J. RICHARDSON.

CHURCH DEDICATED

The new Presbyterian church at Academy was dedicated Sunday [illegible]

Captain Sampson, one of the oldest of the C. & O. locomotive drivers, has had two bad [illegible]

MARL yea side

The rati was reprin top 10 roa Driver res

"It was for the Ar got togeth lar criteri lot."

The edi ment fro the little Neither w owner.

"Sure I native wh the diner

Mrs. Va
Marlinton speculate dessert, o

ago this was replaced by a frame building in the village of Academy on the site of the edifice dedicated

Sundry. August 31, 1911

line connecting us with sources of unlimited electrical energy marks an important epoch in the annals of Pocahontas County.

The West Penn has now a department to look after the industrial development of the communities it serves. In this way any advantage this region has to offer to industries seeking location will be properly presented In addition, the system has recently added a geologist to its general staff. and I hazard the guess that our own county will receive much of the time and attention of the new member.

I know that the Monongahela System will be a help and a credit, aside from purely business relation of furnishing the now necessary commodity of unlimited electrical energy at low cost, and I feel that our people will cooperate and reciprocate in kind. They came to us fairly, and squarely and above board, and our people have attempted to deal with them on the same high plane.

RICHARDSON.

Captain Sampson, one of t oldest of the C. & O. locomoti drivers has had two bad Friday lately. He has had the run of Ronceverte to Winterbur every week day for something like twelve years. He makes the round trip of 214 miles in daylight and has no Sunday work which suits him exactly, as he is a most strict observer of the Sabbath. He had made the runs in perfect safety until the 2nd day of August, on a Friday, when for no apparent cause his engine left the rails and plunged over the bank into the river. He escaped prac tically unhurt, and his fireman was slightly injured. On the next Friday, the 9th, at the same time of day and near the same place

into the river. He escaped prac tically unhurt, and his fireman wa slightly injured. On the nex Friday, the 9th, at the same tim
of day and near the same place
his engine rgain went into th river and this time turned turtl
He went with it and again escape serious injury. Firdman McNu ly jumped and suffered a broke ankle. The cause of the engi leaving the track the second tim was a cow which came plungi out of the brush immediately front of the engine and gave hi no time to stop. The same cow had gotten on the track in th morning as the train went up, an the train had to be stopped an the cow driven away. On th down trip the cow apparently la for the train and darted in ahe of it with the result of derailin the engine. Superstition attach to Friday, especially to Frid
the 13th, on which day

the engine. Superstition attach to Friday, especially to Frida the 13th, on which day some pe ple are almost afraid to draw long breath. Personally we hav never been able to ligue out whet er either Friday or the 13th is an unlucky day for us or our adver saries. As long ago as 1726, the Friday superstition was recogni zed in an old English poem by John Gay:

"Alas you know the cause too well;
The salt is spilt, to me it fell.
Then to contribute to my loss,
My knife and fork were laid across;
On FRIDAY too! the day I dread:
Would I were safe at home in bed!"

August 15 1912

August 27, 1907

Diner owner Amy Van Reenan (left) talks with customers during lunch hour at the Marlinton restaurant.

MARLINTON — French's Diner, a fixture in Marlinton for 33 years, is No. 4 in Car and Driver magazine's ratings of roadside restaurants and No. 1 in the hearts of its customers.

The rating appeared in the magazine's January 1983 issue and was reprinted last week on Page 1 of USA Today. In a listing of the top 10 roadside restaurants in the country, the editors of Car and Driver reserved a table for French's in the No. 4 position.

"It was a meeting of the minds," said Cheryl Ritchey, spokesman for the Ann Arbor, Mich.-based magazine. "Several of our editors got together and suggestions were made. There wasn't any particular criteria, just the opinions of our editors, who, of course, travel a lot."

The editor or editors who voted for French's will get no argument from skiers, hunters, fishermen and others who have made the little green and white diner a regular stopping place for years. But will they get an argument from Amy Van Reenan, the owner?

"Sure I'm pleased," said Mrs. Van Reenan, a Pocahontas County native whose first husband, French Johnson, was a co-founder of the diner in 1950. "I guess they liked our food."

Mrs. Van Reenan doesn't know when Car and Driver wheeled into Marlinton, or what the editor or editors had to eat, but one can speculate it may have been brown beans and corn bread, and for dessert, one of the three different kinds of home-baked cobbler that are available daily.

On the other hand, it could have been biscuits with sausage gravy, a breakfast feature along with traditional breakfast fare such as ham, sausage, bacon and home-fried potatoes.

There's no secret to French's No. 1 rating in the hearts of its customers, according to Wilbur Curry, whose supermarket has been a Marlinton fixture even longer than the diner. "It's their homecooked food," said Curry, "especially their breakfasts. The working people throw pretty hard."

The present architect of the home cooking is Leanna Friel, a Marlinton resident who is one of the diner's six employees. Mrs. Friel makes the cobblers, biscuits, rolls, corn bread, brown and green beans and other vegetables. She arrives at 4:30 a.m., long before the chickens have thought about coming off the roost.

The first order of business for Mrs. Friel is whipping up the sausage gravy, followed by the biscuits, beans, corn bread and cobbler. Of such stuff is national ranking made.

Other employees of French's are Barbara Cook of Hillsboro, Debbie Long, Bonnie Garretson and Pat McLaughlin, all of Marlinton, and Janice Gibson of Buckeye. Mrs. Van Reenan and her husband, Guy, operate the diner.

There aren't many people around town who have been here long enough to remember that the diner displaced a World War II bowling roll, or that it was assembled, not built. "My husband ordered it and put it together," Mrs. Van Reenan said.

Through the years, some pretty prominent people have stopped at French's, including Sen. Ted Kennedy (he had a cheeseburger), Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. (he had chicken) and Governor Rockefeller.

The above three, certainly, and almost anybody else, can afford French's prices, which include $1.35 for a large bowl of beans and corn bread, or 75 cents for a small bowl. Cobbler is $1 plain and $1.50 with ice cream. A hearty breakfast of sausage, eggs, home fries and biscuits costs $2.85.

You can come early — alarmingly early — and stay late at French's. The doors are open from 5 a.m. to 8:30 p.m., six days a week, and 6 a.m. to noon on Sundays.

But Mrs. Van Reenan isn't thinking about escaping into retirement. "I'll be like O.B. Curry (Wilbur's father)," she said. "He worked Saturday night and died either Sunday or Monday."

For the record, here are Car and Driver's top 10 "roadfood" restaurants in the USA: (1) Big Ern's Taco Palace, San Antonio, Texas; (2) Dutch Mill, East Liberty, Ohio; (3) Esau's Coffee Shop, Cafeteria, Calif.; (4) French's Diner, Marlinton; (5) Hamilton House, Hot Springs, Ark.; (6) Hunter House, Birmingham, Mich.; (7) The Red Onion, West Concord, Mass.; (8) Snoqualmie Falls Lodge, Snoqualmie Pass, Wash.; (9) Tenth Avenue Bar, New York, N.Y.; (10) The Bean Pot, Tecumseh, Mich.

The Charleston Gazette, Wednesday, May 25, 19

Story by Skip Johnson

Photos by William Tiernan

Camp Tygart

Monongahela Power Company

Monongahela Power

"In a related project, the Durbin substation was upgraded in 1982," Patton

Letter

How would you like to have pay raises in terms of ntas Ti

24954, AUGUST 4, 1983

On S

Vednes-

visions were included in the 1984 Treasury/Postal Service appropriations bill, which now must be considered by the full Senate.

He also had a provision included to maintain taxpayer assistance tax programs.

ning meeting on a landfill.

The Assessor reported the Sheriff had said the dog tax could not be put on the tax tickets this year. The Assessor will try to collect when assessment is made, then the Dog Catcher will be asked to collect, then the

CCC Boys niversary. incorrect
t Zelein-

Ave.

Times mor is t of us ckslidbelief ended thing gress
the l that vas it I am

eron ttom ken-ling with ded lren lin-ago last ng-om

icles on the Trail, bu also said Director

By K Mary Shirl favorite hym is "The Lo Way Somet has been traveling.

The 58-mother lef
West Virgi
Saturday. S ington yest

Not bad she made pedaling a with four g dog in tow.

One-year two-year-o their grand of the a Mary bo Stephanie, ing up the wheeled w the rig.

Yo Yo, a uncertain enclosed b can ripped bowl.

An umb this rolling defiance o of conden pump, a Bismol and fill the cycl

L. L. Bea among thi equipment Saturday

ns.

be asked to collect, then fantasy is reality—or was it the other way 'round? I am sometimes forgetful.

Lawrence Cameron Stony Bottom

— — —

Mary Shirley Blankenship has been traveling lately. Her big tricycle with a two-wheeled trailer added for her four grandchildren is a familiar sight in Marlinton. About three weeks ago she went to Elkins and last week she went to Covington. Here is the story from the Covington Virginian:

...tas Tim...

...RGINIA 24954, JULY 28, 1983

...erry, of
...ly 24,
...me at

Enterprise

HO

OOTBALL

ootball Coach announced that all practice will day, Aug. 1,
p.m. ith encourages rested to at-want anyone er desired to to come out," Ve don't care if played before, ved and quit or en cut from a we want is for man to like want to be part good. We will hance and find lue on the team practice be-8, 1983, and

GBHS
Class Reunions

As an adjunct to the first-ever Green Bank High School Graduates Reunion, the classes of 1946 and 1947 held a dinner the evening of June 2, at Camp Pocahontas, Thornwood. It was the first time many of us had seen one another since our graduation and a great deal of pleasure was experienced by the socializing and reminiscing. Masters of ceremony were Al Smith McCutcheon, '46, and George Harris, '47, who led the festivities after dinner. Several of the class of '47 met later at the summer home of Doris Simmons Gillispie at Green Bank for more socializing until late in the night.

4-H P

The 4-H
August 12 i bers only. I pets at the tween 3 an as judgin promptly a There w for dogs, c miscellane hamsters birds, etc.
Ribbons to pets categories
If ther tions, pl Brundag
Nancy Co

4-H Judg

The Pe Livestock

ıen are weland observe ce the first d be a good erience for and his staff Barb, Jeff ob Sheets are ting the start d have high at season.

—

xhibition

ts Exhibition nnual Stone-leritage Arts ıilee will be tion with the
t. 2, 3, 4 and s Mill, near ested in ex-paintings, sculpture either Linda Box J, Jane 84-7956, or 426 Center

on, (304)

were, Class of '46: Al McCutcheon, Joel and Mary Hannah, Ernie and Margarie Dill, Moody Galford, Jeanne Cover Kane, Joanne Cover Rader, Melvina Shinaberry, Emma Galford Griffin, Naomi June Sutton Hoyet, Peggy Wagner Collins; Class of '47: George Harris, Doris Gillispie, Eula Taylor Curzon, Alice Sutton Guire, Monna Bell Vandevander Judy, Sam and Mary Barlow, Hubert and Arlene Rexrode, Samuel R. Wagner, Lewis Shinaberry, Russell Cassell, Bob and Bubbles Eades, Lee E. Campbell, Blanche Hamed Sheets, Kenneth Duskey. Teachers included Virgil and Mrs. Harris, Buck Harper, and Evelyn Barlow Williams. Others included Frank Noel, Maggie Maupin, Gilbert Sheets, Bob Gillispie, Ralph Rader, "Red" Kane, John Williams, Leon Judy.

captured the senior team sheep classes 4-H Livestock test held la Huttonsville.
the team w McNeel, Joh Shawn Gilm enberger, a McNeel.

The overa senior conte County with County te tenth out teams.

Competin Contest fr County wer ker, Tom Jeff Weber man. The was won County tea

Members Bank High
'47. Left t
Harris, Le Doris Sim Eula Taylo

om The Pocahontas Times

War.

leal of wireahontas now lephone corer territory re is plenty the interest.
and to say take your in spite of -tise middle the situa-

e it seems be two sets e road from le, and that ainly markible for the his way. If -ne poles e the fact the several at strained.
Marlinton
ners of the Homeworth by sever-line from and, while for it, they ne to Rose Beverly ness from railway tend their they have he stretch

Marlinton hour with the Ohio

Letcher Oscar Simmons, long time printer for The Pocahontas Times, standing at the job press which is still being used today. Photo taken in 1905.

THE H. T. SCHOOL

The P

DENMAR COLORED SANITARIUM

May 29, 1919

Dr. B. A. Crichlow, Superintendent.

The act creating this institution was passed by the legislature on the 16th day of February, 1917, and went into effect ninety days after its passage. The sanitarium belongs to that class of institutions mentioned in section three of chapter fifty-eight of the acts of 1909, and is under the management, direction, control and government of the State board of control. The superintendent is chief executive officer and is appointed by the governor. He is required to have at least six years' experience in the practice of medicine.

A suitable site for the institution was left to the selection of the State board of control and a committee of three colored physicians—citizens of West Virginia—to be named by the chief executive. The committee appointed by Governor Cornwell consisted of Dr. B. A. Crichlow, of Charleston, Dr. R. C. Harrison, of Kimball, and Dr. S. F. Clay, of Lewisburg. After due consideration by the board and committee, and the viewing of a number of other sites, the institution was finally located at modern electric light pla complete, up-to-date bat entire basement is bel contain the new heatin for other puposes.

The superintendent's home, is a nine-room ished in hardwood and hot and cold water and

The remaining str
five and six-room bui weatherboarded and with little expense can able for the reception patients. A church is property; a two stor with large barn; a st offices above; a war house; and a cold st for meats, farm proc
the buildings are lo fog line. On the fa orchard of one hundre in full bearing, whic best of fruit.

The village of Den constitutes the State culosis plant—is loca brier river on the Chesapeake & Ohio I from Ronceverte to tains protect it on a harsh blasts of wint

not far from the Virginia line, the locality takes on a climate similar to that of Virginia. The altitude is 2,200 feet, giving the rarity and purity of atmosphere so desirable in the treatment of tuberculosis; and the sunshine furnished by so many cloudless days make it an ideal place for tubercular convalescents.

The property acquired by the State for the location of the colored tuberculosis sanitarium was formerly the site of the plant of the Maryland Lumber Company. It cost $22,700 and consists of one hundred and eighty-five acres of land, eighty-six of which are the most fertile bottom land, on which all kinds of vegetables —early and late—can be raised for the use of the institution. Aside from its natural fertility this bottom has been reinforced in richness by the application of manure from the lumber company's stables, and ashes —by hundreds of tons—produced by the burning of sawdust and slabs. The bottom does not overflow. In addition to the bottom land there are about sixty acres of blue grass pasturage. The remainder of the tract is wooded.

There are about thirty buildings on the property. The main structure - which will be used as an administration building and hospital - contains about twenty rooms. It is being fitted up for immediate use, as a receiving building, by the installation of a new system of steam heating, a which develops a ver of water. Adequate nect this tank with and buildings in the merous hydrants are hose. Drilled wells tion supply of water one well being allot cottages. All the wired and can even by electricity.

The institution i with a railroad sidi beyond an artificial mill company. Th for the production for the propagatic which the Greenb abounds.

At a low and con
the buildings on chased, as herein could not be repla seventy-five thous making any allow hundred and eighty

Since the origin made, the State bo taken over the large brick boiler house Lumber company, ny expected to re disposed of the price paid for the house was six h
These two buildin replaced for less twelve thousand d building can be large dairy ba

The Past 10

ED SANITARIUM

Superintendent.

his institution islature on the 1917, and went after its pas-m belongs to ons mentioned ter fifty-eight is under the , control and ate board of ndent is chief appointed by uired to have rience in the e institution of the State committee of —citizens of med by the mmittee ap-rnwell con-low, of Char-on, of Kim-of Lewis-deration by ee, and the modern electric light plant, and three complete, up-to-date bath rooms. An entire basement is being made, to contain the new heating system and for other puposes.

The superintendent's quarters, or home, is a nine-room bungalow, finished in hardwood and supplied with hot and cold water and bath.

The remaining structures—four, five and six-room buildings—are all weatherboarded and plastered, and with little expense can be made available for the reception of tubercular patients. A church is located on the property; a two story farm house, with large barn; a store room with offices above; a warehouse; an ice house; and a cold storage building for meats, farm products, etc. All the buildings are located above the fog line. On the farm there is an orchard of one hundred and fifty trees, in full bearing, which produces the best of fruit.

The village of Denmar, which now constitutes the State colored tuberculosis plant—is located on the Green brier river on the branch of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad running from Ronceverte to Elkins. Mountains protect storage of hay a client for a large h brick boiler hous

the installation and general electr
the institution be to require it.

There are adm
rium persons of t
dents of the Stat with tuberculos
classes:

First—Those penses of their c

Second—Thos
and shall pay th

The reasonab persons admitte the authorities
poration or cou such municipal Regulations ma persons who are
are not able to their treatment to be paid by p by the State b institution will ception of patie
the present yea

election of the State and a committee of ysicians—citizens of o be named by the
The committee ap-nor Cornwell con-Crichlow, of Char-
Harrison, of Kim-
. Clay, of Lewis-consideration by mmittee, and the ber of other sites, finally located at s county. Being of the State, and Virginia line, the climate similar to The altitude is e rarity and pur-desirable in the ulosis; and the y so many cloud-ideal place for nts.

red by the State
e colored tuber-as formerly the the Maryland
It cost $22,700
hundred and d, eighty-six of fertile bottom ls of vegetables be raised for tution. Aside ty this bottom richness by ure from orchard of one hundred and fifty trees, in full bearing, which produces the best of fruit.

The village of Denmar, which now constitutes the State colored tuberculosis plant—is located on the Greenbrier river on the branch of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad running from Ronceverte to Elkins. Mountains protect it on all sides from the harsh blasts of winter. The village is regularly laid off in streets, and is provided with fire protection from a reservoir tank located on the farm which develops a very strong presure of water. Adequate pipe lines connect this tank with all the streets and buildings in the village aud numerous hydrants are connected with hose. Drilled wells furnish an addition supply of water for domestic use, one well being allotted to every two cottages. All these buildings are wired and can eventually be lighted by electricity.

The institution is already provided with a railroad siding which extends beyond an artificial lake made by the mill company. This lake can used for the production of ice, as well as for the propagation of fish, with which the Greenbrier river notably abounds.

At a low and conservative estimate the buildings on the property purchased, as herein before described,

persons who are
are not able to their treatmen to be paid by by the State institution w ception of pat
the present ye

Marlint off to do which ha place. As had given Beverly n Company wire to August.
ed in its shipped t Beverly,
ing of the ray with a very menced t time, and wire at th with a r was stret man walk arrived office, abo The th
this comp Crickard
A. Barlow

for the production [illegible]
